Optimism Felt For OPA In The Senate

Administration Is Counting On Gentler OPA Treatment From Senate; Porter Warns House Bill Would Lift Price Control From Half Of Living Cost Items

Washington, April 19—(AP)—Administration chiefs expressed confidence today that the Senate will treat OPA far more gently than the House did, but trouble was stacking up for them just the same.

Their guarded optimism was tempered by the fact that even if the Senate rolls up a thumping majority for continued price control without major changes, its decision will have to be compromised with the contrary action of the House on many key provisions.

OPA Chief Paul Porter claims the bill the House passed yesterday will require the elimination immediately after July 1 of price ceilings on at least 50 per cent of all commodities which make up the cost of living.

On this list the price chief placed such foods as meat, milk and all other dairy products except butter. High on it, too, were coal, shoes, rayon and woolen textiles, and many clothing items made from these fabrics.

Porter, in a statement last night said also that the House bill would "blow sky-high" the ceilings of almost household appliances.

Keynote of the administration's cautious optimism in the midst of these inflation predictions was sounded by Chairman Wagner (D-NY) of the Senate Banking Committee.

"I am sure," Wagner told reporters, "that my committee will come out with a very sensible bill. I believe the Senate will be reflective thoughtful of the consequences."

Wagner's committee is considering a bill which as it stands, would extend price controls year beyond June 30 without change.

This contrasts with the House action in voting a nine months extension minus food subsidies and with sections requiring ceiling prices that will guarantee reasonable profits to all manufacturers and distributors on every item handled.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), a leading senatorial critic of OPA, disputed the statement of Chester Bowles, economic stabilizer, that the House measure is a start on a "joride toward economic disaster." Taft told reporters he sees nothing particularly wrong with the House version except that he thinks subsidies now holding down retail (Continued on Page Eight)

Winchell Cleared Of Libel County By Jury

Philadelphia, April 19—(AP)—Walter Winchell, newspaper columnist and radio commentator, was acquitted of libel and defamation of character yesterday by a federal jury.

Winchell and Triangle Publications, Inc., publishers of the Philadelphia Inquirer, were sued for $500,000 damages by Dr. George W. Hartmann, professor of educational psychology at Columbia University.

Hartmann, once chairman of the defense "peace now" movement and former teacher at Harvard University and Pennsylvania State College, charged Winchell libeled him in a column published in the Inquirer in 1944.

LEWIS CALLS ATTENTION TO MINE TRAGEDY

Refers To Explosion As "Object Lesson" For Mine Operators

Washington, April 19—(AP)—John L. Lewis extended sympathy today to the families of the 12 victims of the explosion at the McCoy, Va., anticrime mine yesterday.

"The death of these brave men should form another object lesson to the coal operators of the country and to the public at large as demonstrating the justice and the imperative necessity of the coal industry agreeing in a new joint agreement to improving the safety standards and the health and welfare practices of our hazardous occupation," Lewis wired President John F. Roosevelt.

The 12 men were killed in a mine explosion Thursday and 48 others injured.

Inter-Allied Agency Opposing MacArthur

Political Row Flaring On General's Tactics Of Administration; Food Policy Especially Under Fire

By GRAHAM HOVEY

Washington, April 19—(AP)—A first-class political row appears today to be shaping up between Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command and the two inter-allied agencies dealing with Japanese policy and administration.

In Washington, a committee of the Far Eastern Commission, 11-nation policy-making agency, scheduled a meeting to discuss the recent United States decision to send more than half a million tons of food to Japan during the first six months of this year. And in Tokyo, the four-nation advisory council, whose Russian and British members have voiced objections to certain tactics of MacArthur and some of his officers, adjourned until April 30 without agreeing whether MacArthur should present requested information in writing or by sending a spokesman to deliver it orally.

When New Zealand, Indian and Philippine members of the Far Eastern commission expressed some concern at a meeting yesterday over American intentions—at MacArthur's request—to send food to Japan, it marked the second time that body had questioned policies of the supreme commander.

Previously, the commission expressed "apprehension" over the plan to hold Japanese national elections April 10, and asked MacArthur if he would consider postponing them.

To date, however, the commission (Continued on Page Four)

TRUMAN ASKS FOR SPEED-UP IN FOOD PLAN

Grave Character Of World's Food Shortage Is Stressed By President

Washington, April 19—(AP)—The urgent need for quick American-Canadian agreement on an accelerated famine relief program was underscored today by President Truman's statement that the global food crisis is "worse than it has been printed."

The accord, expected to be reached before nightfall, calls for the two nations to reduce home use of wheat and wheat products by the same percentage to increase and speed up shipments to needy nations overseas.

If it comes, the agreement will be followed shortly by an order from Secretary of Agriculture Anderson cutting domestic distribution of flour 25 per cent for the duration of the current world food emergency.

Mr. Truman dwelt on the grave character of the food situation yesterday when he spoke to nearly 200 members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors in an off-the-record situation at the White House. Later his comments on food were (Continued on Page Five)

SHIDEHARA TO STAY ON JOB

Jap Premier Refuses Demands For His Resignation

Tokyo, April 19—(AP)—Premier Shidehara flatly refused tonight to accede to demands of four political parties that he resign.

He gave his answer only a few hours after Welfare Minister Totsu Shida turned in his portfolio in support of the Liberal party's move to oust the Shidehara government. Shida is a Liberal.

The Liberal party demand for the cabinet's resignation was supported by the Social Democrats and two minor parties, the Cooperative and Communist. Although the Liberals led in the number of seats won with 139, no party obtained a majority of the 466-seat Diet at the recent election.

Shidehara said he would increase his efforts to form a coalition government for the Way Diet session.

No other cabinet resignations for party reasons were anticipated. All other members are Independents. The premier, however, two days ago joined the Progressive party after a lifetime of free lance.

U. S. Army teams which conducted a post-election survey of last week's nation-wide balloting reported: The Japanese thought there were too many candidates and a confusing number with the same platform.

Of 35 farmers, housewives, storekeepers and clerks interviewed by 45 teams in Tokyo prefecture, 186 were convinced that women (balloting for the first time), could vote intelligently. Doubt was expressed by 141.

The majority of those interviewed said women office holders could (Continued on page two)

"Wild Girl" Held For Questioning

Seattle, April 19—(AP)—A self-styled "wild girl of the woods" who had lived in a wooded area south of the city limits nearly a month with her only shelter a bedroll, was held for questioning today.

Sheriff Harlan C. Callahan said she was held on an open charge, and was booked as Joan Ellen Baker, 26, who had been missing from her West Seattle home since March 22. Her father, C. C. Baker, reported her disappearance 10 days ago.

County Detectives Adam W. Liskoski and William Freeman said they arrested her when they found her yesterday sitting on a log and holding a small caliber pistol near a cache of stolen goods. In the cache were more than $1,000 worth of pistols, rifles and shotguns, a number of radios, jewelry, cameras, clothing and an expensive accordion.

"I could have shot you, you know," they quoted her as saying. "But I thought maybe you had children at home, and I did not want to hurt them."

The girl denied stealing the articles recovered, Sheriff Callahan said. She had been living on eggs and chickens, she said.

Ottawa, Ont., April 19—(AP)—Canadian defense headquarters said today that Brig. J. F. Lister, chief of staff of the Canadian forces in the Netherlands, is being held in Amsterdam by military authorities as a result of the recent inquiry into the administration of the Canadian army in northwest Europe.

Washington, April 19—(AP)—President Truman agreed today that Herbert Hoover should complete his famine survey in foreign countries before returning to the United States.

The White House announced that the President reached this decision in a telephone conversation with the former president, who spoke from Cairo, where he will join the President in a world-wide radio broadcast tonight.

Tokyo, April 19—(AP)—General Eisenhower has awarded a second oak leaf cluster to the Distinguished Service Cross of General MacArthur "for extraordinary heroism in action" against the Japanese on Luzon.

New York, April 19—(AP)—Alma Ross, 27, chased a purse snatcher three blocks today, screaming for help as she ran. The handbag contained a $2,000 payroll.

The race ended when two police gentlemen stopped and returned the purse which, they said, they had wrested from the thief.

They accepted Miss Ross' thanks, tipped their hats and disappeared. Then she beeped inside and learned the $2,000 was there.

Police are looking for the original purse snatcher—and his gallant interceptors.

LARGE CROWDS IN HOLY CITY

Pilgrims Commemorate Events Leading To Crucifixion

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON

Jerusalem, April 19—(AP)—Vast throngs of pilgrims, some carrying crosses, walked along the VIA Dolorosa from Pilate's Palace to Mount Calvary today as the Holy Land held Good Friday services commemorating the last hours and crucifixion of Christ.

Despite tension caused by a paralyzing strike of 50,000 civil workers and the prolonged conflict between Jews and Arabs, one of the largest crowds in recent years pressed through the dingy, cobblestoned streets of Jerusalem's old city.

Pilate's Palace, where the pilgrimages began, now is a Roman Catholic convent. The Church of the Holy Sepulcher stands at the other end of the Via Dolorosa, on Golgotha, where Christ died on the cross.

The Passion services began last night, with rites in the Garden of Gethsemane commemorating the three hours of prayer by Jesus and his betrayal of Judas.

Earlier, the ancient rites of Maundy Thursday were held, with various scenes reenacting their interpretation of the events of "The Last Supper."

Meanwhile, Jews celebrated the Passover and Moslems observed Nebi Musa. Authorities were alert for possible outbreaks of violence. Arab legionnaires armed with rifles patrolled among the celebrants.

FALL OF CITY OF CHANGCHUN IS EXPECTED

Communists Led By Officers And Tanks From "Certain Country"

Chungking, April 19—(AP)—China's government expected word momentarily today of the fall of Changchun—with heavy casualties—before the overwhelming Chinese Communists' attack. Seven Americans were in Changchun but no reports had been received concerning their safety.

One official Central News Agency dispatch from Mukden asserted—without confirmation—that four or five medium tanks driven and gunned by "officers of a certain country" led the attack on the Manchurian capital. "It is obvious," the dispatch added, "that these tanks were furnished by that certain country."

Government dispatches from Chihnsien pictured the outnumbered, isolated national garrison as holding, only two buildings in artillery-battered Changchun yesterday, and unable to hold out longer than morning today.

An official dispatch received in Peiping from Changchun said the government defenders held three buildings—the central bank of (Continued on Page Four)

Special Program Is Marked For Action

Administration Trims "Must" Measures To Five In Order To Get Rebellious Congress Out Of Town By July

By JACK BELL

Washington, April 19—(AP)—Administration leaders reportedly trimmed their legislative sails today to five "must" subjects in an effort to get an irritated and often rebellious Congress out of Washington by early July.

The unofficial decision appeared likely to direct major efforts toward salvaging OPA and the draft, passing regular appropriations bills and getting approval for the $3,750,000 British loan and a long-range housing program.

If this program is followed, legislation to merge the armed services, increase the minimum wage rate, broaden Social Security, curtail labor disputes, set up a permanent labor employment practice commission, and abolish state poll taxes would go by the boards until the next session in January.

Of these only the minimum wage and anti-poll tax bills have approval of either house. The Senate loaded the wage measure with a farm price boosting amendment the administration opposes. The House-approved poll tax bill faces a Senate filibuster any time it is called up.

Also marked for death under the program would be many relatively less important measures on a wide variety of subjects ranging from public works to presidential succession.

LABOR STRIFE KEEPING MANY WORKERS IDLE

Disputes Keep 740,000 Men From Jobs; Immediate Settlements Doubtful

By The Associated Press

No hope of immediate settlement of the dispute involving 400,000 soft coal miners and a threat of a nationwide railroad strike darkened the nation's labor picture today.

A strike by more than 200,000 engineers and trainmen, originally called for March 11 but postponed pending a study of union demands for wage increases, is barred, by terms of the Railway Labor Act, until May 18.

The threat of a walkout hinged on acceptance or rejection of a government fact-finding board's recommendations for a 16-cent hourly (Continued on Page Five)

Delegates Adjourn For Easter Holiday; Australian Compromise On Franco Stands Chance For Approval; On Return To Session, Iranian Question Will Be Taken Up

By MAX HARRELSON

New York, April 19—(AP)—a compromise proposal by Australia gained support among delegates of the United Nations Security Council today as a possible solution to the controversial Spanish question.

The proposal, submitted by Australian delegates W. R. Hodgson shortly before the council adjourned yesterday for the Easter holidays calls for the appointment of a five-man sub-committee which would investigate the Spanish situation and report back by May 17.

Most of the delegates were reluctant to commit themselves on the Australian suggestion immediately, but they generally expressed interest and it was conceded by some that there was a good chance of being approved.

Before the council resumes its discussions of the Spanish question, however, it will tackle again the Iranian case, which was interrupted Tuesday after Secretary General Trygve Lie submitted a surprise opinion that there was some doubt as to whether the Iranian case could legally be kept on the agenda.

This will be the first thing on the council's calendar when it reconvenes Tuesday.

The way was opened for a new floor fight on the Iranian question when the council's committee of experts on rules and procedure reported last night that it had split 4 to 3, with the majority believing that the council has full authority to keep a case on the agenda as long as it thinks necessary.

The council, which previously had been divided eight to three on the question of keeping jurisdiction of the case, was expected to accept the opinion of the majority and then vote to keep the question on the agenda until May 6, the date on which the Russians have promised to have all Red army troops out of Iran.

The three members of the committee of experts voting in the minority were the representatives of Russia, France and Poland, the three powers which had favored dropping the Iranian case.

The council was expected to come back to the Spanish case by Wednesday. (Continued on Page Eight)

Hoover To Talk With President About Tour

Cairo, April 19—(AP)—Herbert Hoover told a press conference that he expected to talk with President Truman by radio telephone today before deciding whether he would return to the United States to tell the American people of the world food situation.

The President cabled Hoover last night suggesting that he return at once from Cairo so that he could present the facts about conditions in Europe forcibly to the nation.

Hoover said he would prefer to continue on to India as originally planned, complete his work there and return to America two weeks (Continued on Page Four)

The NATION TODAY

By James Marlow

(Editors note: This is the first of two stories on what the House vote on OPA means to citizens and the things they buy.)

Washington, April 19—(AP)—What does the House vote on OPA mean to anyone who has to go to the store to buy things? Plenty.

If it becomes law, price control becomes a joke. Prices will go up. Make no mistake about that. There'd still be an OPA, but in name only.

The knockout blow to OPA came from a change suggested by Rep. Gossett, Texas Democrat, and approved by the House. But, first here's the background.

Under the law OPA automatically would die June 30, unless continued by Congress.

There's been big public demand to continue OPA. President Truman and his administration wanted it continued until June 30, 1947.

The House voted to continue OPA only until March 31, 1947. But the administration wanted OPA continued practically as it is, so it could stay strong.

The House ignored this and shoved through a bunch of changes—called amendments—which would leave OPA paralyzed.

Those changes would leave OPA helpless in this way; they would rip off so many controls and scramble others so badly that OPA in effect would be a dead duck.

OPA officials, examining all the amendments, picked out the one offered by Gossett as the one which would "ring down the curtain on OPA."

But what the House did can't become law unless:

1. The Senate which still has to act on continuing OPA, approves what the House did. (It may not, but no one can be sure. One way or the other.)

2. If the Senate and House agree, the President must sign their act into law. He might veto it.

This is what the Gossett amendment would do.

All price controls would have to be removed from a commodity whenever the production of it, over a 12-month period was as great as the production of that commodity was between July 1, 1940 and June 30, 1941.

That year, 1940-1941, was a pretty good year in all kinds of production although American production went far beyond that during the war.

Some things—like farm products—go into the food you eat—didn't suffer any production loss as a result of reconversion after the war.

OPA officials say with the utmost emphasis that this Gossett amendment would be finish for OPA and this is why:

They say it would rip price controls off more than half the things which go into the government's living cost index, the chart of goods which Americans buy, like food, clothes, and so on.

TODAY IN CONGRESS

A Review Of Your Government In Action

Washington, April 19—(AP)—Senate approval today completed congressional action on legislation to strengthen priority rights of veterans to purchase war surplus.

The measure, sent to President Truman, puts veterans just behind federal agencies in the order of preference, advancing them ahead of state and local governments and the small business corporation.

The war assets corporation also is directed to set aside certain goods in adequate quantities for exclusive purchase by veterans.

The Senate scheduled further debate on the proposed $1,750,000,000 loan to Britain after disposal of several other bills.

This included completion of congressional action on the $625,000,000 Philippines rehabilitation bill. Action was deferred until Tuesday on a $500,000,000 program of federal aid for airport construction.

Secretary of State Byrnes reviewed world affairs and discussed the approaching meeting of foreign ministers in Paris at a closed meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

James E. Kilday, a Justice Department attorney, told the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee that the so-called Bulwinkle bill to exempt railroads from the anti-trust laws in fixing freight rates by agreements, "is almost but not quite a private government of the industries."

In the House members crossed their fingers and headed homeward today for a short Easter recess that could change the picture of the ultimate fate of draft and OPA legislation.

A number of departing lawmakers intimated they are not exactly sure whether they voted right on the two burning issues but that they hope to find out when they get back among the grass roots of their home district.

The OPA and draft measures were the last major items to pass the House before it quit until April 30. It voted to extend both for another nine months, but with sweeping restrictions.

These two bills are almost certain to return to the House for further action, for the Senate has shown no inclination to accept either one in its present form and the administration, snarling from the House reverses, hopes to turn the tide in the Senate.

The Senate laid aside earlier plans for an Easter holiday and decided to stay here in the hope of getting its entire legislative program out of the way so Congress can quit for keeps some time in July.

The WORLD TODAY

An Analysis Of The News

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The case of Generalissimo Franco, who is now being tried in absentia by the U. N. Security Council, may establish a precedent determining how far the jurisdiction of our new peace organization shall extend over the internal affairs of any country.

Since this concerns sovereignty, it is a matter of life-or-death importance to every nation. Thus it behooves us to examine the situation carefully to find out just what is involved.

Our difficulty in arriving at conclusions is increased by the fact that the case cuts a lot deeper than the actual charges which have been laid before the Security Council. On the books, the accusation which Poland has made is that the Franco regime is endangering international peace. In substantiation Poland asserts that the Spanish government is giving refuge to war criminals and Nazi leaders, is aiding German scientists who are in Spain inventing new methods of warfare, and has concentrated a large force of troops near the French frontier.

On the strength of these charges Poland—backed by Russia, France and Mexico—demands that the United Nations break off diplomatic relations with Spain. The United States, Britain and Holland, among others, while turning thumbs down on the Franco regime, hold that it doesn't threaten international peace and that they want the Spanish people themselves to get rid of the Falangist government, and do it without precipitating another civil war.

That's the case on the books. Underlying it, however, is a political issue which had its birth when Franco began his successful rebellion against the leftist Republican government of Madrid back in 1936, thereby creating one of the most terrible civil wars of history.

There is sitting in France the Spanish Republican government in exile under the premiership of Jose Giral, waiting for the opening which will bring it to power in Madrid. When I crossed the French-Spanish frontier ten weeks ago I was told by a French source that a great number of Spanish revolutionary elements were collected along the border in France waiting for the signal to strike.

Well now, the Soviet Union and the other states which are calling for the breaking of relations with Franco are anxious to see the Giral government placed in power. Russia thus is staunchly consistent with the stand which she has taken all along, for she gave moral and material support to the leftist Madrid government during the civil war while Germany and Italy were sending aid to Franco.

England hasn't concealed her dislike, and even fear, of any development which would result in the establishment of a Communist government in Spain. This would mean, of course, the extension of Russian (Continued on Page Four)

During a round table discussion, Mr. Brown related some of his own experiences as a reporter with The New York Times. He gave interesting sidelights on how publications set a definite editorial policy; on how critics review plays; on how authors write short stories and books; and how book reviews are written.

During the social hour, Mrs. Higgs assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Kirkpatrick and Mrs. H. H. Duncan, served a delicious salad course with aniced drink.

Presbyterian Easter Service
Next Sunday at both morning and evening services, Dr. Boyd will speak on a subject relating to Easter and special music will be rendered by the chorus choir. At the morning service Dr. Boyd will use as his subject "Rolling Away the Stone," and for the evening sermon he speaks of the subject, "The Resurrection of Jesus Christ." The public is invited to attend Sunday school at Twin Oaks at p. m. after which the small children will enjoy an Easter Egg hunt in the church yard. Mothers are asked to bring a half dozen colored eggs to be used. Next week: mid-week prayer service at 7:30 p. m. at First church, studying Isaiah; and Thursday night at 8 o'clock at Twin Oaks. There will be a council meeting of officers and teachers of the Bible school of this church on Friday night, next week, at the church, at 8 p. m. It is an important meeting.

Christian Church Announcements
The volunteer choir of the Eighth Street Christian Church under the direction of Mrs. Paul Davenport will present interesting numbers appropriate to the Easter season on Sunday morning when they sing two Easter traditional carols, "Christ Is Risen" and "Easter Joy." Also at this service Miss Geraldine Allgood, talented young singer of Greenville, and now a student at Salem College, will sing a solo, "Hosanna," by Grainger. The pastor, Dr. H. G. Haney, will address his Easter message to the thought of the difference that the resurrection of the Man of Galilee has made to the peoples of the world.

The troop of the Boy Scouts sponsored by the Eighth Street Christian Church will be guests at the service on Sunday, April 22 when the annual charter will be presented to the troop and received by the church. Mr. Richard R. Forrest and Mr. R. T. Cartwright are scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster respectively.

A lively and new organization has been born in the church, its name is The Young Matrons. Mrs. Paul T. Hicks, is councillor; Mrs. L. W. Edwards, president; Mrs. W. L. Wheeler, vice president; Mrs. Herman Evans, secretary; and Mrs. Ernest Lee Clark treasurer.

The Sunday school council will meet on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the church. The council is composed of the executive officers of the school, the pastor, and the departmental superintendents. Every one is urged to attend this meeting for the decision of some important matters.

ABOUT HUMBER.

ROBERT LEE HUMBER

A Native Son of Pitt County
His Background and Qualifications Unfolded
Excerpts From Greenville Daily Reflector

Robert Lee Humber, Greenville native, today announced his candidacy for Congress from the First District of North Carolina. For several weeks Mr. Humber's friends in this community have urged him to make a race and reports from other sections of the district indicated that his candidacy would be welcomed. The Pitt County Bar Association, in its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night, officially approved Mr. Humber's candidacy for the office, now held by Herbert C. Bonner of Washington.

The last Pitt Countian to represent the First District in Congress was the late Harry Skinner who served a single term ending in 1898.

The welfare and problems of the farmer have been a subject of special concern to Mr. Humber. He has frequently made speeches emphasizing the necessity of stabilizing the income of farmers and of keeping their revenue on a par with industrial changes, indicating that he is not only a student but a champion of the farmers' interest. Farm income, he says, must be sustained on a high level, if the prosperity of this nation is to continue, or else half of the population of this country will cease to be customers and the industrial fabric of the nation will crumble. He has repeatedly stressed the enormous potentialities embedded in the soil and climate of Eastern North Carolina which have scarcely been touched or developed. Through the maintenance of a just equilibrium between farm and industrial income, the diversification of agriculture and the establishment of more small businesses, the growth of Eastern North Carolina can, he said be made more secure.

In 1940, believing that if the peace, following World War II, was to be won, the people of America, themselves, would have to win it, he organized among the people of Eastern North Carolina a movement for World Federation, which seeks to establish law as the means of maintaining world order by punishing individuals who commit international crime, instead of the present method of fighting nations and destroying through war the innocent as well as the guilty. The movement has spread throughout the nation. Fourteen legislatures have endorsed the resolution of which he is the author: North Carolina, New Jersey, Maryland, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Alabama, Virginia, Louisiana, Tennessee, Utah, Oklahoma, New Hampshire, Florida and Georgia, representing all geographical areas of the United States; eight other states have taken modified action, making 22 states that have reached favorably to his leadership. Fifteen additional states are now considering the resolution that is destined to be introduced in Congress, which must ultimately decide in the name of the American people whether the United States shall stand hereafter for world order based on law, or world chaos based on war.

Questions involving war and peace are now becoming the supreme issues of our generation. Either we win the peace and preserve civilization or lose the peace and become the victims of atomic bombs. Mr. Humber's long and successful efforts in dealing with over half of the legislatures of this country, many of which he addressed in joint sessions, have not only brought him a nation-wide circle of friends and collaborators but qualified him for leadership and accomplishment in the halls of Congress.

Mr. Humber, who has now been back in Greenville for six years established his permanent residence in his home, where he was born on May 30, 1898. It was the same spot where his father was born 82 years ago and where his grandfather made his home in 1847. He is the son of R. L. Humber, one of the oldest native residents and business men of this community, and of the late Lena Davis Humber, whose forebears were intimately connected with the early history of the First Congressional District; one having settled in Currituck County in 1666 and another having represented Perquimans County in the Colonial Legislature in 1708, and having served as clerk of Court of Common Pleas and Quarter Sessions of that county for a number of years.

After attending the public schools of Greenville, Mr. Humber graduated from the Winterville High School, completing his high school course in two years, and entered Wake Forest College. During his four years at Wake Forest, he fulfilled the requirements for the B. A. and LL.B. degrees and participated prominently in college activities. He was president of the Senior Class, commencement speaker, intercollegiate debater, vice president of the YMCA, editor of the college monthly magazine, "The Student," and editor of the college weekly paper, "Old Gold and Black." He took an active interest in athletics, playing left-end on the Varsity football team and managing the Varsity baseball team. In recent years, his Alma Mater honored him signally by naming him the first alumnus of Wake Forest College to be elected a member of the Phi Beta Kappa, which is the highest collegiate scholarship society in the United States.

Immediately after his graduation from Wake Forest, he volunteered in World War I and served as second lieutenant in the Field Artillery.

At the conclusion of the war he continued his studies at Harvard University, receiving the degree of M. A. and serving on its faculty as tutor in the Department of Government, History and Economics. He was licensed to practice law and was sworn in as a member of the Pitt County Bar in September, 1920.

In the autumn of that same year he was appointed Rhodes Scholar from North Carolina to Oxford University, England, and represented his native State in that capacity for three years. During his tenure of the scholarship he traveled extensively on the Continent and made a trip around the world.

After studying at the University of Paris, where he was American Field Service Fellow for two years, he located in Paris as an attorney and later became a business executive. His interest has always been in the welfare of the common man and in small enterprises. He was the European head of the Gilcrease Oil Company, a small independent oil producing company of Oklahoma and privately owned by three stockholders, whose President recently donated his fortune to a Foundation which he created for the purpose of establishing an orphanage home for children, a public library and museum at Tulsa, Okla.

During the latter years of his residence in Paris, Mr. Humber was chairman of the Board of Trustees of the American Church in Paris, which is the oldest American church on foreign soil and which served as the religious center for as many as 5,000 American students annually in France. Upon his return to his home in Greenville in 1940, he was elected chairman of the Board of Deacons of Memorial Baptist Church, and is now a trustee of that church. In Paris, where the American Legion was born in 1919, he was a member and officer of Paris Post No. 1, having previously been a charter member of the American Legion Post at Harvard University. He is now a member of Pitt County Post No. 39.

"MAKE CONGRESS BETTER" So Says Senator Fulbright

Washington, April 15—(AP)—The theme of this story is: What are you doing—actively—to make Congress a better Congress?

The entire House of Representatives and one-third of the Senate comes up for election this year. Some primaries start pretty soon. Senator Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat, said recently in an address at the University of Chicago:

"I hope that x x x I may to some degree arouse your interest in participating actively in politics."

Fulbright, Rhodes scholar and former president of the University of Arkansas and now serving his first Senate term. Then said: "Americans complain of the ineptness of their government but at the same time they are suspicious, if not contemptuous, toward those who devote their energies to its service. x x x

"Improvement in the quality of our legislative bodies is primarily the function of the voter, not the legislator."

In other words: If you want better government, get in and pitch yourself; don't sit back and hold your nose.

Do you—through disdain or lack of interest—let a politician or a political machine pick candidates for you without any say so by you?

Or do you—even though it means starting in your own voting precinct—try to take an active hand in what is done?

And—when your congressman is elected—do you let him go to Washington and there try to guess how you, back home, want him to vote?

A good example of congressional confusion over what the people want came last week in debate over extending the draft law nine months more.

There was an argument on the floor of the House over this:

Should the House try to decide now whether to extend the law or should it wait till members got home at Easter to learn what voters wanted?

CAROLINIANS ORGANIZE TO PUSH "HUMBER" PLAN

Dr. Frank P. Graham, President Of University Of North Carolina And Charles Phillips Of Greensboro Active In Movement

Greensboro, March 28—A North Carolina division of World Federalists, U. S. A., was organized here Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, was elected chairman of its advisory board, and Charles Phillips of Greensboro, head of its executive council.

The program of the new group will be to advocate immediate leadership by the United States government in the formation of a genuine world federal government, either by proposing drastic amendments to the U. N. charter, or by calling a new world constitutional convention.

The group plans to encourage the formation of local chapters throughout the state of those who concur in its aims and wish to work together to secure appropriate political action. Interested persons in Charlotte, Winston-Salem, Durham, Raleigh, and Chapel Hill have already indicated their desire to organize chapters in those cities.

Dr. Vernon Nash, national director of field work of World Federalists, was present at the organizational meeting for the North Carolina division. He stated that the General Assembly of North Carolina was the first of what by now number fourteen state legislatures to pass the "Humber Resolution" calling for a world federal government. That was in 1941, long before U. N. O. The sponsor of the resolution was Robert Lee Humber of Greenville, N. C.

Strength FOR THE DAY
By EARL L. DOUGLAS

GOOD FRIDAY
The cross that stood on Golgotha Hill 2,000 years ago was in new and brutal instrument of torture. Who would have thought that centuries later loving hands would have delighted to fashion wood and stone and precious metals into the form of the cross in order that church steeples and altars might be adorned and that men and women might wear or carry about with them relics of the cross that they would prize with great devotion?

It was strange what the cross did. The Pharisees, and the Roman executioners who carried out the Pharisees' will, believed they had used the cross to torture and kill a young Galilean rebel. If they had had more capable of catching the glory of the celestial, they would have seen that from that bloody cross was issuing spiritual energy which would heal a broken world and lift it into newness of life.

Christians to this day call the occasion of our Lord's crucifixion Good Friday. Out of murder came life; out of darkness, light; out of malice, love; out of rejection, cruelty, and wickedness came salvation.

It was the wickedest day on humanity's calendar, but we call it a good day because on that day God made even the wickedness of man serve the advancement of His most righteous purpose.

Crying Need For Democratic Leadership

Complacency is not a part of the Democratic Party's policy in casting about for capable men to carry their standard before the nation's governing bodies.

To deny that the Republican Party has made important gains over the country in the past year is sheer folly; and so it has become doubly important that Democratic leaders now being chosen to run for Congress are more than ever, carefully assessed as to their reflecting only the highest qualities of leadership and ability. In this, we can clearly see the greatest blessing of two-party system of government. The rivalry engendered, spurs the search for the best candidates to be found, and the Public is given its choice.

Recent events in the nation's capital are demonstrating differences in opinion among the members of the Democratic Party. Whether these differences will culminate in the loss of leadership for the Party, only time will tell. It is already evident that one feature of the President's legislative program has been badly mauled because of a break in the solid front. We are referring, of course, to the OPA extension measure which yesterday passed through the House.

Capable leaders are needed to strengthen the position of the Democratic Party; and there are many citizens who are convinced that Robert Lee Humber is the answer to the Party's crying need for powerful influence in the halls on Capitol Hill.

Washington—President Truman took over lock, stock and both barrels of the Roosevelt foreign and domestic policies but he was not at all sure of the things he was taking over. He made it clear that he was not at all sure of the things he was taking over. He made it clear that he was not at all sure of the things he was taking over.

There is only one cabinet member left who has been identified with the New Deal from the beginning—Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace, who presumably can and will string along as long as he wishes with the Truman administration. There is one other who was in the cabinet when Roosevelt died—Navy Secretary James Forrestal—and it's common talk that he may be retiring soon.

Wallace, all these were with the late President from first to last. There may be doubts about some aspects of this Spanish imbroglio but of one thing I am sure: I, a civil war is precipitated in Spain, it will produce a horror which will stun the world.

The price controls would have come off those things at once. There would be no delay because the production of them for the past 12 months has been as great or greater than in 1940-41. And these are the things from which, they say, the controls would have to be lifted: Meat, milk, farm products, nearly all dairy products (except butter), sheep wool and rayon goods and women's clothes made from wool and rayon, household furniture. And—the majority of basic industrial products in such fields as metal, textiles, leather, rubber, chemicals, coke, stone, glass. But you say: things like household appliances—electric irons, for instance—certainly aren't being produced in the same quantity as 1940-41. Why would OPA have to do anything about lifting ceilings on them?

Influence clear across Europe. So it's easy to see with half an eye that there's a lot more involved in the Spanish case than the elimination of the Franco regime. An equally big question is who succeeds Franco and who selects his successor. America and Britain insist that this is strictly a matter for the whole people of Spain to decide. Avoidance of creating another civil war also obviously is imperative. When I was in Spain I saw plenty of evidence that Franco was prepared militarily for eventualities. I was reliably informed that he had a standing army of some 750,000 which was fairly well equipped with light arms. He also had a number of highways which would serve for quick movement of troops, and there are many concrete roads.

respondents and two military personnel—has been lacking since the U. S. State Department reported them "safe and sound" up to Wednesday. The fighting began on Sunday.

The battle spread a fiery background for General Marshall's renewed efforts to bring peace and unity to China.

As he began a series of true conferences in Chungking, news from the north told of a barrage of incendiary and high explosive shells blasting, one by one, the few remaining strong points of Changchun's defenders.

sion's questioning has been couched in the most polite terms and members have bent over backward to emphasize that their concern over Japanese issues did not imply criticism of MacArthur.

In bringing up the food matter yesterday, for example, Sir Carl Berendsen of New Zealand said he wanted to make it "perfectly clear that I am making no criticism and no protest."

American officials expressed doubt that the food matter is within the scope of the commission. In any case, they said, the total amount shipped to Tokyo would be only about half of a "top figure" requested by MacArthur.

These officials, who asked anonymity, emphasized that no food priority is being given to Japan and that the food is being shipped only to prevent unrest and possible danger to American occupation forces from outbreaks of violence.

With such delicate subjects as disposition of Japanese war criminals, reparations and constitutional reform coming up for closer consideration by the commission, some members feel there may be more frequent occasions on which they will find it necessary to ask questions of the supreme commander.

One of the editors inquired whether the situation was as black as painted. Press Secretary Charles G. Ross reported, and Mr. Truman replied with his worse-than-painted description.

The President told the editors he thought much had been accomplished in this country by the voluntary food conservation drive launched in mid-March, but he said he was unable to give exact estimate of its success to date.

Mr. Truman spoke of the critical

KINSTON NINE TRIMS LOCALS

GHS Baseballers Lose By Lopsided Score Of 16 To 6

The Green Phantom baseballers took their second straight lopsided shellacking yesterday—this time from the Kinston Red Devils by a 16-6 score in a game played in Guy Smith Stadium. The Phantoms had previously beaten the Red Devils in their own park by a 5-3 count.

Wildness on the part of Greenville hurlers was the main cause for the team's downfall with first Roscoe Little, then "Spooky" Morgan unable to find the plate and consequently they walked home at least 8 men. In all the Phantom hurlers gave 12 free passes to first base, 11 of these coming in the first five innings.

Shortstop Will "Stump" Garrett took over the mound chores in the sixth frame with the score 14-1 and proceeded to calmly stop most of the Red Devil scoring for the next four innings with a pretty good fast ball and excellent control. He walked only one man and gave up two runs, only one of which was earned.

Mac Batchelor and Jimmy Futrell were the main offensive stars for Greenville with 3 and 2 hits respectively. Batchelor, a substitute so far this season, connected nicely three times in four trips to the plate. One of his hits was a double. One of Futrell's base knocks was a booming triple that scored Batchelor after he had singled.

The Phantoms outlived the Red Devils 12-9, but they just couldn't seem to score the men after they got on base until the last inning. They left 14 men stranded on the bases. In the last frame, the Phantoms put on a rally to score 5 runs and halfway throw a scare into the Kinston boys.

triumph. Eddie Lake, Eddie Mayo, Hank Greenberg and Barney McCosky each connected for a pair of hits to thrill a sizeable crowd of 16,469.

Led by Johnny Lindell, whose homer and double accounted for four New York runs, the Yankees walloped Philadelphia's Athletics, 8-1, to annex the series, two games to one. Allen Gettel spaced five A's hits effectively and was deprived of a shutout when Warren Rosar, an ex-Yankee, homered in the fifth inning.

Cleveland and Chicago in the American League and Boston and Philadelphia in the National League were not scheduled.

Yesterday's results:

American League
New York 8, Philadelphia 1.
Detroit 6, St. Louis 1.
Boston 3, Washington 1.
(Only games scheduled).

National League
Brooklyn 8, New York 1.
Chicago 4, Cincinnati 2.
St. Louis 6, Pittsburgh 2.
(Only games scheduled).

Tomorrow's games:
American League—Chicago at St. Louis; Detroit at Cleveland; Washington at New York; Philadelphia at Boston.
National League—New York at Brooklyn; Boston at Philadelphia; Cincinnati at Pittsburgh; St. Louis at Chicago.

Jersey City, April 19 — (AP) — Jackie Robinson waded through the puddles in the Montreal shower room, shaking hands with well wishers who were congratulating him on becoming the first Negro to break into modern organized baseball.

The 26-year-old second baseman didn't act as though he had done anything unusual. As he said just before the game he just did his best and let it go at that.

His best was a three-run homer, three singles, two stolen bases, four runs batted in and a first day 800 batting average. Robinson was the key figure in the Royals' 14-1 slaughter of the Jersey City Giants.

Salvation Army Is Doing Great Work

The Women's League of the Greenville Post of the Salvation Army is continuing to do its part in providing assistance for people of the war-devastated countries of Europe. Major W. H. Stanley, in charge of the army's activities in this area, today called attention to some of the work local women are doing. At this time members of the Women's League are using scrap and remnant materials to make dresses for women and girls in Holland. It was interesting to observe what serviceable garments they are making from cast-off clothing and scraps. It is a creditable work, he said.

Major Stanley said the garments made here will be bundled and sent to New York to be forwarded to Holland shortly.

Sports

With the major league baseball campaign only three days old today, it looked like the southpaw pitching brigade was set for its most productive season in 15 years.

Not since the early 30's when Lefty Grove, Carl Hubbell, Bill Walker, Herb Pennock, Lefty Gomez, Bill Hahlan, Larry French, Earl Whitehill and Rube Walberg hand-cuffed the batters, have so many good lefthanders blossomed out in one season.

With the return of such princely porters as Howie Pollet, Max Lanier, ohmy Vander Meer, Ken Heintzelman, Mickey Harris, Maris Russo and Clyde Shoun from the wars to join forces with holdovers Hal Newhouser, Thornton Lee, Mickey Haefner, Stubby Overmire and Harry Brecheen it might well turn out that this first post-war year will be the lefthanded lection.

Three of the lefthanded lection, Harris and Vic Lombardi, were responsible for half of the six finely pitched games in the majors yesterday, to give the lefthanders a record of eight victories against four defeats in three days.

Pollet back with the St. Louis Cardinals after three years in the Air Corps, spun a neat five-hitter to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-2.

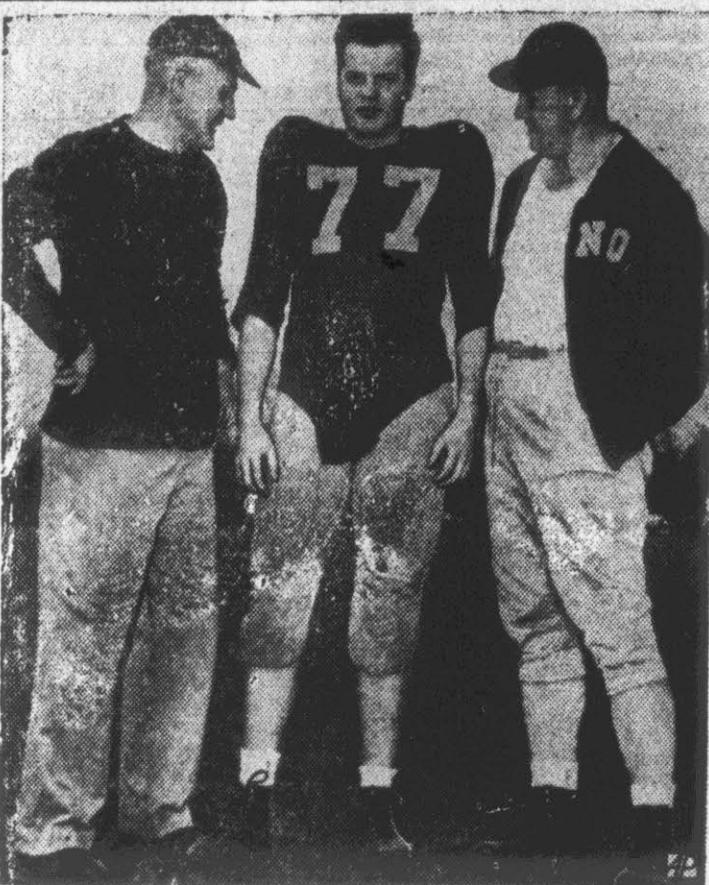

Harris, making his post-war debut with Boston's Red Sox following four years in the Canal Zone held Washington to six scattered hits as the Sox defeated the Senators, 7-1 to sweep the three-game series.

Ted Williams' run-producing triple and Johnny Pesky's three hits which drove in two runs accounted for the Boston tallies.

Lombardi helped Brooklyn's Dodgers make an auspicious home debut before 29,825 fans by taming the vaunted New York Giants' power hitters with half a dozen safeties as Leo Durocher's pony squad handed its interborough rival its first defeat of the young season, 8-1.

Aided by Rightlander Hi-Bithorn's six-hitter, the Chicago Cubs maintained their holdover-season tinx over the Reds by handing the Rhinelanders their third straight setback, 4-2 for their 24th victory over Cincinnati in their last 25 meetings. A three-run error by Outfielder Eddie Lukon spoiled a four-hit effort by Cincy's Nate Andrews.

Detroit captured its series from the Browns, two games to one, when big Al Benton fashioned a five-hitter to give the Tigers a 6-1 nicians, code and cryptography and other communications technicians are especially in demand, as well as clerk-typists and stenographers. Former enlisted women may re-enter the WAC for these duties, at which time they will be given the grade which they held at the time of their discharge. No closing date has been announced for such applications, but it is expected to be determined shortly.

In recognition of the need for a Women's Army Corps in the peace-time military establishment, the War Department will seek early legislation establishing a small permanent Women's Army Corps in the regular army. General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, chief of staff, has approved the policy. Pending such congressional action on the peacetime corps, present enlistment in the WAC is limited to former WACS.

Lewis Calls ...

Lewis has made it one of his contract demands (for which bituminous miners have been on strike since April 1), that mine safety be improved.

Lewis' telegram extended sympathy for himself, UMW Vice President John O'Leary, Secretary-Treasurer Thomas Kennedy and members of the Miners Contract Negotiating Committee.

McCoy, Va., April 19 — (AP) — Grief stunned McCoy prepared funeral rites today for 12 of its residents while state and federal mine inspectors began an investigation of the Deep Level explosion in a mine of the Great Valley Anthracite Coal Corporation.

Virtually every family in this tiny community whose main livelihood is derived from mining was affected directly or indirectly by the disaster. The twelve who died in the smoke and flame 6,000 feet from the surface were all married men and left 50 or more children among their survivors. They will be buried this evening.

Forty-six other miners were able to escape from the depths of the mine, in many instances having to fight their way through choking fumes and smoke before reaching the mine entrance. The shaft runs a half mile under the bed of New River.

Members of the rescue squad said that all but one of the 12 men were killed instantly. The twelfth man, Paul Price, died soon after reaching a hospital at nearby Radford.

Eye-witnesses to the explosion described it as "terrific."

Cloyd Martin of Radford, general superintendent of the mine, said he was halfway between the entrance and the point of the explosion when it occurred. The force of the blast, he said, knocked him from the train of mine cars on which he was riding and blew the train about 150 feet back up the steep incline.

wage hike, with certain changes in working conditions. In past disputes, most such proposals have led to settlements without strikes.

The two unions involved, the Brotherhoods of Locomotive Engineers and Trainmen, will meet next Wednesday at Cleveland to study the report. In Chicago today, the carriers wage conference committee planned to meet to consider the board's report after which members will meet with union leaders on Monday.

Resumption of coal negotiations, stalemated for more than a week after John L. Lewis, president of the AFL United Mine Workers, walked out of the conference with soft coal operators, was a major problem for Secretary of Labor Schwechenbach.

Soft coal management representatives left Washington, telling the labor secretary they would return immediately on his call that it would be "possible to negotiate a contract."

As the strike entered its 19th day, additional workers in related industries were made idle and production slumped in steel mills and automobile plants.

One of the bright spots on the labor front was the settlement of the 10-day strike of 3,500 CIO copper miners at Butte, Mont., who approved a contract calling for an hourly wage hike of 18 1-2 cents and retroactive pay of 9 1-4 cents an hour from last Oct. 1.

The same terms were agreed upon by 3,500 other copper workers at Anaconda Copper Mining Company mills and smelters at Great Falls and Anaconda.

The nation's idle because of labor disputes remained about 740,000.

Iranian Denies Censorship Act

Tehran, April 19 — (AP) — Prince Moza'far Pirnia, minister of state and director of propaganda, categorically denied today that the recent suppression of two dispatches by the London Times correspondent constituted an Iranian censorship. He denied that any censorship whatsoever has been imposed.

(An official U. S. State Department announcement Wednesday said: "The American embassy in Tehran has informed the Department of State that foreign correspondents in Iran have been notified officially by the Iranian ministry to posts and telegraphs that it henceforth will exercise censorship of dispatches filed by foreign correspondents there.")

Pirnia said the ministry of posts and telegraphs refused to transmit the telegrams to the London Times "in accordance with the provisions of Article 26 of the international posts and telegraphs convention to which both Great Britain and Persia (Iran) are signatories."

He said the telegrams contained contents against the throne and other fantastic stories and rumors, the circulation of which in this country is contrary to laws and can at any time be followed up by public prosecution."

The Red Cross helped 23 victims of disaster on an average of every hour in the United States in 1945.

BUCK STEELE, world's champion Wild Brahma Bull rider, will compete in the first annual "WILD WEST RODEO AND HOLLYWOOD THRILL CIRCUS", in the Los Angeles Coliseum—one time only—at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, March 11th.

Featuring 962 performers—fifty-two titanic events—the Super Colossal "RODEO AND CIRCUS" promises to be the greatest outdoor extravaganza ever presented to the American public. Cowboys will compete for five thousand dollars in prize money in the big rodeo events of bronc-riding, bull-dogging, and calf roping. In addition to the great Rodeo contests, America's greatest circus acts will be seen—as well as the Hollywood Daredevils in a series of spectacular stunts—with the "Super Daredevil" leaping his car over a transcontinental bus and five other cars—at the Coliseum "RODEO AND THRILL CIRCUS"—on Sunday, March 11, at 2:30 p. m. featuring "THE FALL OF TOKIO".

At Guy Smith Stadium, this coming Tuesday and Wednesday, shows at 3:30 and 8 p. m.

after the colonel himself had asked that his fitness be challenged by the prosecution, the defense, or both—for cause.

The cause, in his own words, was that he had concluded "neither the defendant nor the government can get full justice" from the court as is now constituted. He said there was friction between himself and Maj. Benito Gaguine, the law member of the court.

Staff Sgt. James M. Jones of Muskogee, Okla., is the defendant on trial. He is one of 10 enlisted guards and eight officers who have been accused of mistreating or conspiring to mistreat American soldiers imprisoned at Lichfield.

Moore said that his request to be challenged had nothing to do with any evidence given or any action taken by the defense, but was a result of friction between himself and Gaguine.

The six other members of the court—four majors and two captains—voted to disqualify Moore after three minutes deliberation. The colonel left immediately and the trial of Jones was continued before the six.

Army Ground School Moves To Fort Bragg

Fort Bragg, April 19—(AP)—The Army ground forces replacement and school command will move from Birmingham, Ala., to Fort Bragg, tomorrow April 20, and will be located in the main post area.

Advance detachments have been at Fort Bragg for sometime setting up the headquarters and making other arrangements for the bulk of the command to effect its move.

This headquarters, commanded by Major General Harry F. Hazlett, controls and directs all Army ground forces replacement commands and in addition, the infantry school at Fort Benning, Georgia; the field artillery school at Fort Sill, Okla.; the armored school at Fort Knox, Kentucky; the coast artillery school at Fort Monroe, Virginia; and the armored cavalry school. These schools provide refresher courses for officers already commissioned and operate the officers' candidate schools of ground forces branches.

Eighth Fleet Leaves For Big War Games

Norfolk, Va., April 19—(AP)—Ships of the Eighth Fleet left Norfolk today for the rendezvous area off the coast, where President Truman will join them Monday to review the 29 fighting ships and auxiliaries which will take part in war games.

The President will arrive in Norfolk Monday about 6 a. m. aboard the yacht Williamsburg. The 45,000-ton carrier Roosevelt, flagship of Adm. Marc A. Mitscher, com-

RETONGA KEPT HIM ON JOB, SAYS MR. NORTON

Distress From Indigestion And Sluggish Elimination Soon Relieved. Sleep Seems To Rest Him Again.

"Except for Retonga, I don't believe I could have stayed on my job; everybody ought to know about this great medicine," is the grateful statement of Mr. R. B. Norton, 226½ E. Sycamore St., Greensboro, N. C., well-known employee of a large trucking firm.

"Retonga picked me right up," he declared. "Being on the road a lot I ate at any time I could and all kinds of food. I suffered from food souring in my stomach and severe gas pains forced me to take some sort of home remedies every day. I suffered badly from constipation, and my sleep never seemed to rest me. I could sleep 10 or 12 hours and still feel tired."

"The relief Retonga brought me beats anything I ever saw. I now eat any kind of food at any hour without discomfort and a few hours sleep seems to equal a whole night's sleep before. I have discarded harsh laxatives. I don't think I ever felt better and I give Retonga all the credit."

Retonga is a purely herbal gastric tonic combined with liberal quantities of Vitamin B-1 and is intended to relieve distress due to insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach. Vitamin B-1 deficiency and sluggish elimination. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at Blissett's Drug Store. Adv.

The "walking model" B1-6 Rototiller will be available in tilling widths of 20 and 26 inches and the company is engineering models of greater widths for production later. The machines are two-wheel units driven by two-cycle five horsepower air cooled engines. They are guided by handlebars which are adjustable to either side so that the operator does not walk on tilled soil. In high gear the new machine tills at a speed of 1¼ to 1½ miles an hour, and in low gear at 3-4 to 1 mile an hour. A 9 quart fuel tank permits a tilling range of approximately 4 hours.

Chapter 8
The new adventure was of medium height, and seemed to be rather slender than strongly built. His suit of armour was of the finest and the device on his shield was a young oak-tree pulled up by the roots, with the Spanish word Desdichado.

The champion ascended the platform, and, to the astonishment of all present, riding straight up to the central pavilion, struck with the sharp end of his spear the shield of Brian de Bois-Guilbert until it rung again. All stood astonished at his presumption, but none more the redoubtable Knight whom he had thus defied to mortal combat, and who, little expecting so rude a challenge, was standing carelessly at the door of the pavilion.

"Take your place in the lists," said Bois-Guilbert, "and look your last upon the sun, for this night thou shalt sleep in paradise."

When the two champions stood opposed to each other at the two extremities of the lists, the public expectation was strained to the highest pitch. Few augured the possibility that the encounter could terminate well for "The Disinherited Knight," yet his courage and gallantry secured the general good wishes of the spectators.

The trumpets had no sooner given the signal, than the champions vanished from their posts with the speed of lightning, and closed in the centre of the lists with the shock of a thunderbolt. The lances burst into shivers up to the very grasp, and it seemed at the moment that both knights had fallen, for the shock had made each horse recoil backwards upon its haunches. The address of the riders recovered their steeds by use of the bridle and spur, and having glared on each other for an instant with eyes which seemed to flash fire through the bars of their visors, each made a demi-volte, and, returning to the extremity of the lists, received a fresh lance from the attendants.

A loud shout from the spectators, waving of scarfs and handkerchiefs, and general acclamations, attested the interest taken by the spectators in this encounter, the most equal, as well as the best performed, which had graced the day. But no sooner had the knights resumed their station, than the clamour of applause was hushed into a silence, so deep and so dead, that it seemed the multitude were afraid even to breathe.

A few minutes' pause having been allowed, that the combatants and their horses might recover breath, Prince John with his trumpet, signed to the trumpets to sound the onset. The champions a second time sprung from their stations, and closed in the centre of the lists, with the same speed, the same dexterity, the same violence, but not the same equal fortune as before.

In this second encounter the Templar aimed at the centre of his antagonist's shield, and struck it so fair and forcibly, that his spear went to shivers, and the Disinherited Knight reeled in his saddle. On the other hand, that champion had fair and true hit the Norman on the visor, where his lance's point kept hold of the bars. Yet, even at this disadvantage, the Templar sustained his high reputation; and had not the girths of his saddle burst, he might not have been unhorsed. As it chanced, however, saddle, horse, and man, rolled on the ground under a cloud of dust.

To extricate himself from the stirrups and fallen steed, was to the Templar scarce the work of a moment; and, stung with madness, both at his disgrace and at the acclamations with which it was hailed by the spectators, he drew his sword and waved it in defiance of his conqueror. The Disinherited Knight sprung from his steed, and also unsheathed his sword. The marshals of the field, however, spurred their horses between them, and reminded them that the laws of the tournament did not, on the present occasion, permit this species of encounter.

"We shall meet again, I trust," said the Templar, casting a resentful glance at his antagonist, "and where there are none to separate us."

"If we do not," said the Disinherited Knight, "the fault shall not be mine. On foot or horseback, with spear, with axe, or with sword, I am alike ready to encounter thee." The conqueror then commanded his trumpet to sound a defiance to the challengers, and desired a herald to announce to them, that he should make no election, but was willing to encounter them in the order in which they pleased to advance against him.

The gigantic Front-de-Bœuf, armed in sable armour, was the first who took the field. Over this champion the Disinherited Knight obtained a slight but decisive advantage.

In the stranger's third encounter with Sir Philip Malvoisin, he was equally successful.

In his fourth combat with De Grantmesnil, the Disinherited Knight showed as much courtesy as he had hitherto evinced courage and dexterity. De Grantmesnil's horse, which was young and violent, reared and plunged in the course of the career so as to disturb the rider's aim, but declining to take the advantage which this accident afforded him, he wheeled his horse and rode back again to his own end of the lists, offering his antagonist by a herald, the chance of a second encounter. This De Grantmesnil declined avowing himself vanquished as much by the courtesy as by the address of his opponent.

Ralph de Vipont summed up the list of the stranger's triumphs, being hurled to the ground with such force that the blood gushed from his nose and his mouth, and he was borne senseless from the lists.

The acclamations of thousands applauded the unanimous award of the Prince and marshals, announcing that day's honours to the Disinherited Knight.

National Firm Has Pension Plan Now

Rudy Spears, local sales manager of National Biscuit Company announced today that all employees of the company in Greenville, N. C., will share in the benefits of a comprehensive pension plan, which will be put into operation May 1, 1946. Nabisco employees here are eligible to participate in the plan along with more than 28,000 employees and officers of the company and its Canadian subsidiaries.

Since its infancy, National Biscuit Company has had in effect an informal pension arrangement, through which the company was currently paying annual benefits amounting to more than $400,000. Under the new plan, an actuarial study reveals, benefits to workers by the year 1965 will reach more than $1,600,000 annually.

FAMED BRAIN SURGEON DIES

Internationally Known Specialist Dies At John Hopkins

Baltimore, April 19.—(AP)—Dr. Walter E. Dandy, internationally known brain surgeon, died this morning at Johns Hopkins Hospital where he had performed his greatest work. He was 60.

Dr. Dandy entered Johns Hopkins Hospital last night and died at 10:45 a. m. today from a coronary occlusion, the hospital announced.

He was professor of neurological surgery at Hopkins University. As the chief neurological surgeon at the hospital, he had treated patients from all over the world.

Dr. Dandy's brain surgery as founded the world of medicine and brought him international honors.

In 1918 he announced the discovery and development of a method of locating and operating on brain tumors and other intracranial lesions. This method, fellow surgeons said at the time, reduced that difficult surgical task to almost an exact science.

Among his many contributions to the field of neuro-surgery was perfection of the operation for the relief of a brain malady known as

Monday Is Holiday For College Students

Students at East Carolina Teachers College will have Monday, April 22, as a holiday. Classes will come to a halt at noon on the previous Saturday and will be resumed on the following Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock. The holiday, granted by the administrative officers of the college and announced to the students by Mary Cameron Dixon, president of the Student Cooperative Association, is not listed in the spring schedule at the college.

Meniere's disease which in the past had afflicted such persons as Dr. Martin Luther and Jonathan Swift, the satirist. Dr. Dandy cut the auditory nerve in half, effecting a permanent cure with almost no risk and no after effects.

In 1940 Dr. Dandy reported 401 operations with this technique, and there were 400 cures and one death. Known as a daring and skillful man with a scalpel, Dr. Dandy frequently brushed aside long cherished notions on operative technique.

In 1930 he said that almost two thirds of a man's brain might be cut away without damaging the intellectual powers.

Proving his point, he removed both frontal lobes of one patient's brain. The patient recovered completely.

In 1940 Dr. Dandy's fame was such that when Leon Trotsky lay dying in Mexico City of an assassin's hammer blows, the Hopkins surgeon was flown to Mexico in a chartered plane in a last desperate attempt to save Trotsky's life.

TERRORISM IN COLONIZATION POLISH AREAS PROGRAM SEEN

Strongly Armed Bands Rove At Night, Wreaking Destruction

Warsaw, Poland, April 19.—(AP)—Strongly armed bands of Ukrainian Nationalists are terrorizing southeastern Poland, crossing the demarcation line from the Russian side of the frontier and burning villages carrying off livestock and leaving thousands of Polish peasants homeless.

Bands whose strength sometimes numbers upwards of 1,000 men are estimated to have burned 700 villages within the last few months sacking peasants' homes and then flinging torches onto the straw-thatched roofs.

The wave of terror, extending southeast of Rzeszow along the San River, is being fought by several divisions of Polish militiamen and security corps men.

The bands sweeping across the frontier, usually about midnight, are believed to be acting in retaliation for their transfer from Poland to the Russian zone under the Polish-Soviet agreement. These Ukrainians have insisted upon their right to remain on Polish soil and also have demanded that the Ukraine be made an independent state. Many of the Poles attacked are living in homes once occupied by Ukrainians.

The destruction of a dozen villages along the San is an almost nightly occurrence. The terror has struck so deeply that the peasants no longer undress when they go to bed at night. The villages have improvised alarm systems.

The bands also attack trains and highway caravans carrying Poles being returned to Polish territory from Lwow and elsewhere in what now is Soviet territory. It is estimated that between 500 and 1,000 Polish settlers have been slain the last three months by Ukrainians engaged in blowing up bridges and tracks, and wrecking trains.

Big Crowd Hears Tucker Program

Tommy Tucker and his orchestra put on a novel program in the Wright Auditorium at the college on Thursday evening, April 18—a combination of band concert and dance. About 1,800 people were present to hear the genial Tommy and his orchestra present "Tommy Tucker Time" and to enjoy the dance.

Many of the popular favorites of the day were included on the program, including "I Love You," the Tucker theme song; "My Heart Sings," and "O What It Seemed To Be." Received with enthusiastic applause by the audience were the singing of Kerwin Somerville, an exhibition on the drum by Bud Kimmer, and the antics of Billy Dee.

For the dance about 1,000 people remained either as dancers or spectators. Chaperons for the occasion were members of the college faculty. Next number on the college Entertainment Series will be a recital by Donald D. Dickson, famous baritone of opera, concert, and radio. Dickson, who appeared here in 1939, under the auspices of the Entertainment Committee, will give his second song recital in Greenville on May 16.

Committee Backs Prison Changes

Washington, April 19.—(AP)—Reorganization of the District of Columbia prison system was recommended today by a House committee after hearing tales of drinking bouts and parties in jail cells.

The report also recommended that criminal prosecution be started by the district attorney if examination of evidence shows violations of law. The committee's investigation was prompted by escape of two convicted murderers—Earl McFarland and Joseph Medley.

The two, since captured, got out of the jail's fourth floor death row after overpowering two special police guards who had been playing cards with them. The prisoners fled in the guards' uniforms, after using a can opener to cut through a metal ventilator.

Testimony heard during six days of committee sessions included assertions that at one time prisoners directed operations of a safecracking ring from their cells, sending written instructions to confederates on the outside. It also was testified that on at least one occasion models were brought into the jail

New System By USSR To Back Demand For Territory

By JACK QUINN

Budapest, April 18.—(AP)—(Delayed)—American economic experts said today Russia had about completed a program of colonizing a strip of northwestern Hungary with Ukrainian farmers.

The informants, who may not be identified by name, said this settlement program apparently was the outgrowth of a Soviet demand for a land corridor running from Yugoslavia to Czechoslovakia.

Ukrainian farmers have been trickling into the area west of the Vag River about the town of Magyarovar, in the extreme northwestern tip of Hungary, for some months. Americans who have been in the area said a train carrying about 600 was seen last week.

Hungarian-speaking Americans said they stopped at a small village to ask directions and discovered that no one present understood Hungarian.

Estimates varied, but the average guess was that there were approximately 800 Ukrainians in the area. The strip includes the villages of Casacaret and Ronafo, both within 10 miles of Magyarovar.

The informants said the entire Hungarian economic and communications system, including the Hungarian information service which distributes all foreign news to the local press, were now under either Russian or pro-Russian political control.

These include the national bank, which issues currency, the national credit bank, which owns about 33 per cent of all Hungarian industry, all oil resources not owned by Americans, bauxite deposits, civil aircraft, Danube river shipping, posts and telegraph and the Budapest radio.

City Is Building Big Storm Sewer

Construction was started Monday on a 42-inch storm sewer from a point on Albemarle Avenue to the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad and thence to the river. The project was for a party.

Dismissal of both Howard B. Gill, suspended penal superintendent, and Claude O. Botkin, district jail superintendent was recommended by the committee.

Funds for the project were derived from the sale of $53,000 of city bonds. The balance of the money will be used to defray cost of widening some city streets, Mayor Jack Boyd said.

Construction of this storm sewer will relieve other drainage sewers of the overload which causes flooding on streets in the vicinity of Tenth and Evans streets during heavy rainstorms.
