Paris Conferees Set To Adjourn

Four-Power Foreign Ministers Council Prepares To Adjourn Until June 15; Byrnes Reported As Discouraged Over Failure Of Meeting To Secure Any Basic Agreements

Paris, May 16—(AP)—The four-power foreign ministers council spent three hours in almost fruitless discussion of Germany today and prepared to adjourn later in the evening until June 15, when they again will attack the unsettled problems of peace.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov agreed to an American proposal to send a four-power commission to all four zones of Germany to investigate the state of German disarmament, an American informant said.

But this proposal was thrown out by U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes several days ago to counter a Soviet objection to Byrnes' offer of a 25-year four-power mutual assistance pact to guarantee the continued disarmament of Germany.

Today British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin registered London's approval of the pact proposal.

France already has accepted the proposal. But Molotov's attitude toward the pact remained unchanged. An American source said Molotov declared there was no hurry about such a pact, since it would not take effect until after the occupying armies had withdrawn from Germany.

Molotov was said to have repeated his statement yesterday that Russia wanted to know what was going on in the Ruhr. He said he had heard of a scheme to nationalize the Ruhr coal mines.

Molotov also asked Byrnes what connection there was between the proposed 25-year pact and the Secretary of State's proposal for a peace conference on Germany Nov. 12. He asked if the plan for a peace conference was designed to change the Potsdam agreement on Germany. Byrnes replied there was no question of changing the Potsdam agreement, but that he merely wanted the Allies to agree on general long-range goals in Germany.

Big Four-Engine Bomber In Wreck

Fairfax, Calif., May 16—(AP)—A four-engine army bombing plane with eight men aboard crashed three miles west of here early today, critically injuring at least three, one of whom was trapped with five others in the wreckage.

The pilot and co-pilot crawled out of the control cabin, and a rescue party cutting with torches through the fuselage of the big B-17 to learn the fate of the others extricated one other soldier. The three survivors were taken to the nearby Hamilton Field hospital in a critical condition.

Fourth all force headquarters reported the plane, bound from Los Angeles to Hamilton Field, ran out of gas and placed the time of the crash at about 1:30 a. m. Pacific Time.

The pilot and co-pilot were taken to the Hamilton Field Hospital and a public relations officer said they were too severely injured to give a coherent account of the crash. He said one had a fractured skull and the other a broken jaw among other injuries.

Husband Appeals For Permission To Join Wife In Louisiana Leprosarium

San Francisco, May 16—(AP)—A tall, ruddy army officer, determined to spend the remaining years of his life by the side of his wife in a Cerylle, La., leprosarium, was undaunted today by unofficial word from Carville that his request probably would be denied.

This possible set-back came as friends of 65-year-old Maj. Hans George Hornbostel, a veteran of 2 wars, pushed his petition in Washington. Surgeon General Thomas Parran was among those with whom the probably unprecedented request was taken up.

Mrs. Hornbostel, who is 52, developed skin trouble while she and her husband, an army engineer, were prisoners of the Japanese at Santa Tomas in Manila. However, physicians at San Francisco hospital where she is in isolation believe she contracted the disease long before, probably while doing research with her husband among Polynesian peoples. They point out that leprosy usually does not manifest itself until from five to 20 years after exposure. Although she suspected leprosy while at Santa Tomas, the confirmation was obtained here only a week ago.

"I don't consider myself any martyr by asking to be with her as long as we both shall live," he said. "I'd be unhappy without her and she'd be unhappy without me, and that's all there is to it."

He envisioned his own future at Carville: "I've done a lot of things in my life. I've written stories; I've been a mine superintendent; I've been an explorer and a department head; and I've served in the army and the marine corps; I've been a forester and a chief of police—and I see no reason why I shouldn't be damned good at kitchen police or even a missionary."

The blue-eyed wife he married 33 years ago feels the same way. (Continued on page four)

High Death Toll In Crash Of Airliner

Richmond, Va., May 16—(AP)—Twenty-six persons were killed today in the crash of a southbound chartered airliner which ran into trouble a few minutes after its take-off from Byrd Airport near Richmond and plunged into a rain-drenched stand of pine woods in a vain attempt to return to the field.

The twin-engine Viking airliner came to grief in the heavy overcast about 1:10 a. m., plowed through the trees and burned on the soggy banks of Doran Creek only a few thousand yards from the airport.

The airliner left Newark, N. J., early last night for Atlanta. It put into Richmond and took off again about 12:30 a. m. in heavy weather. The ceiling at the airport was fluctuating between zero and 200 feet and visibility was one mile when she took off.

The OCA said the plane carried 24 passengers and a crew of two. A farmer, William Walton who lives (Continued on Page Four)

GERMAN FOOD RATIONS CUT

Stuttgart, Germany, May 16—(AP)—Eighteen million Germans in the American occupation zone were officially notified today that their "hunger" food ration would be cut more than seven per cent to 1,180 calories daily May 27.

The German council of ministers, exercising its newly granted authority to make independent decisions, announced a 95-calorie reduction from the previous average scale of 1,275 calories in three stages.

British military food administrators warned at Herford that 9,000,000 persons in the British occupation zone might be placed on starvation rations of 500 calories or less unless there were substantial grain imports in the next few weeks. (Continued on Page Eight)

ROYALL TELLS M-DAY PLANS

Columbia, S. C., May 16—(AP)—Under Secretary of War Royall said today the army has decided it will be necessary to mobilize 4,500,000 in a year if a future war emergency occurs.

Royall estimated that expanded peacetime reserve units would supply 1,800,000 of the total, with another 767,000 coming from the National Guard. The remainder presumably would come from the Regular Army, which aims at a strength of 1,070,000 by mid-1947, and from a future draft.

The Under Secretary spoke of the requirements of a possible future Mobilization Day—or M-Day—in the course of a speech prepared for the reserve officers convention in (Continued on page eight)

Rate Increase On June 1

Because of greater production costs we find it necessary to increase subscription prices of The Reflector effective June 1. There have been several increases in the cost of paper since our subscription rates were raised to their present level several years ago. The last such increase was 37 per cent on paper, and indications now are that another increase may be put into effect by July 1. In addition to the cost of paper there have been increases in labor costs and a 12 per cent increase in the OPA ceiling on all printing equipment and some supplies since January 1.

Our new subscription rates effective June 1 will be: One Week 50¢ (by carrier only). Three Months $2.00. Six Months $3.75. One Year $7.00. Renewals of the old rates will be accepted until June 1 at which time all subscriptions not paid in advance will be discontinued.

Or take the same plant where the CIO men strike. The AFL could go on with their work but, being union men, refuse to cross the picket lines which the CIO workers throw up around the plant.

In those two examples you have men made idle through no fault of their own or made idle because they are following union principles in refusing to cross picket lines.

Such problems mean the various state officials have tough decisions to make: Whether to let those AFL men (used as an example here) have unemployment pay, or not. It's different in the five states which permit unemployment pay for strikers. In all five of those states a striker is disqualified from receiving the money for a specified number of weeks.

In Pennsylvania a striker must be idle six weeks before he can receive unemployment pay. In Rhode (Continued on Page Four)

CPA Administrator Says UMW Head Responsible For "Chaos"

Washington, May 16—(AP)—Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small asserted today John L. Lewis has thrown industry into chaos and called for legislation outlawing strikes for at least six months.

Small said in a statement that Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, "pulled the switch on American industry."

"Lacking any sign that labor will now agree voluntarily to a holiday from strikes... or that management will agree voluntarily to a holiday from strikes... or that management will agree to voluntary arbitration, I am forced, as a private citizen, to the reluctant conclusions that legislation is urgently required," Small said.

He added, however, that hasty legislation written and debated in the heat and rancor of an emergency is almost always apt to be bad legislation.

Small suggested that at this critical juncture it seems to me the sensible thing to do would be to pass emergency and temporary legislation outlawing strikes for at least six months ahead, meanwhile permitting collective bargaining to go forward within the present wage pattern but imposing compulsory arbitration in those cases where collective bargaining fails."

Termed the coal strike "a glaring example that has aroused the country," Small added: "I for one am convinced that the coal miners need and should have relief, better living and working conditions. But until a few days ago in spite of the damage being inflicted on our country by the (Continued on Page Eight)

WASHINGTON, May 16—(AP)—Union representatives announced today that the railroad operators had rejected a modified union wage increase proposal. They said both sides would report to President Truman today.

A. P. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said the nationwide railroad strike of engineers and trainmen still is set for 4 p. m. (EST) Saturday.

Whitney and Alvanley Johnston, head of the Engineers Brotherhood, told reporters they offered a modified proposal for a minimum wage increase of 18 per cent or $1.44 a day as compared with their original demand of $2.50 a day.

Whitney said the operators' representatives would offer nothing more than the $1.28 a day recommended by a presidential fact-finding board.

There still was speculation on whether federal seizure of the railroads might forestall the strike of 250,000 trainmen and engineers.

President Truman has said he will not hesitate to take over the lines if that action becomes necessary.

U. S. Appetite Said Going To New High

WASHINGTON, May 16—(AP)—The United States today is eating itself into a new record for per capita food consumption, despite shortages in grains and fats at home, and a hungry world abroad.

That is the gist of a report from the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, which bases its forecast of record-breaking domestic food consumption in 1946 on the year's statistics to date and the prospects for the coming months.

The bureau, a branch of the Agriculture Department, said bumper quantities of most foods are expected to be available to meet the nation's unprecedented appetite.

But it predicted nevertheless that consumer demands will outrun supplies. It estimated the per capita volume of food consumed will be 14 per cent greater than the average for the pre-war period of 1935-39.

Supplies during the next several months are expected, however, to drop below the yearly average level because of seasonally small quantities of some cereal products, potatoes, sweet potatoes, meats, fats (Continued on Page Eight)

Schwellenbach And Conciliator Present At White House Meeting; New Session Called For 5:30 This Afternoon; Lewis Says "The Whole Situation Gives One Furiously To Think"; Only Eight Working Days Before Truce Ends

NEW PREMIER FOR JAPANESE

Washington, May 16—(AP)—President Truman today conferred for 10 minutes with John L. Lewis and a representative of the soft coal operators and asked them to return at 5:30 p. m. EST for a third White House conference on the coal dispute in two days.

The United Mine Workers' chief and Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the operators, left the White House without commenting on the nature of their discussion with Mr. Truman.

Also attending the morning conference were Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach and Edward P. McGrady, the special government conciliator who yesterday recessed the contract negotiations indefinitely after the operators flatly rejected Lewis' No. 1 demand—for a seven per cent payroll levy to finance a miners' welfare fund. Operators calculate the levy would net the union $70,000,000 annually on the basis of last year's payroll.

O'Neill told reporters only that he would return at 5:30 p. m. and make his way out of the White House offices.

Lewis trailed along a moment later and said, "The magic numerals are 5:30."

Pressed for a statement on what he would do until the hour for returning to the White House, Lewis stared long and hard at his questioner and then said:

"The whole situation gives one furiously to think."

He would say nothing more. It was understood that the 250-man UMW policy committee which Lewis assembled in Washington a week ago and which had authorized a two week strike truce has returned home.

With the present strike truce due to expire May 25, only eight working days remain before the menace of another shutdown—after 42 days of idleness.

Much depended today on O'Neill's explanation of the operators' rejection of seven percent payroll levy Lewis demanded to create the welfare fund.

After an earlier conference between O'Neill and Lewis at the executive mansion last week, the White House announced that the operators had endorsed the principle of such a fund.

Word from Prague that the Slavic nations of central and eastern Europe are coalescing into a formal bloc about the Soviet Union is a potent reminder that Russia has organized this huge territory and oriented it toward Moscow in the remarkably short time of the one year which has passed since V-E Day.

That's fast work. No wonder the western democracies are showing concern, especially as to how far the Muscovites intend to try to extend this zone of influence westward.

Of course Russia already has taken over control of this area, bloc or no bloc, but the development of political affiliations among the numerous Slavic nations is of vast importance. It's of special significance that the influential President Benes of Czechoslovakia is active in supporting the formation of the bloc and has declared that it "will be a political and cultural reality" despite the fact that hitherto Slavic unity has been largely theoretically.

Washington, May 16—(AP)—If the coal miners in Pennsylvania strike again—they're back at work on a 12-day truce after a 42-day strike—they'll get unemployment pay while idle.

That's a ruling by the state of Pennsylvania. Only four other states—New York, Rhode Island, Louisiana and Tennessee—give unemployment pay to strikers.

All 48 states have unemployment compensation systems. Because each state has its own laws and rules the way in which unemployment pay is handed out varies.

But all the states, with the exception of the five mentioned above, refuse unemployment pay to people made idle by a labor dispute. That phrase, "labor dispute," is important.

While the 43 states bar the pay to strikers, it is a little more difficult sometimes to decide not only who is made idle by a labor dispute but why and who's to blame. For example:

Suppose in a plant which has CIO and AFL workers, the CIO

The first six months he did office work in the Staging Center at Pearl Harbor, after which he was assigned to LST 945 which made regular trips to Hilo, Hawaii. This ship, with its crew, narrowly escaped the recent tidal wave which destroyed the city. He also spent a short time at Shanghai and Chungking, China, the round trip being made by naval plane. Enroute home he flew from San Francisco to Norfolk.

Chatham Book Club
Mrs. Bryan Brown delightfully entertained the Chatham Book Club on Tuesday afternoon. The members gathered at the Science building on the college campus where the program was given by Mrs. Rig of the college faculty. She first made a short talk on "Synthetics." She told of the number of significant developments in the textile field in the 1930-1940 decade. She stated that in these last ten years new fibers and finishes have been created, the effects of which are so momentous that they may be said to have brought about a second industrial revolution. She spoke of three man-made fibers, rayon, the first textile fiber made by man, and nylon, which has been called "the most significant textile discovery of the age." Plastic coated yarns are one of the outstanding developments in the yard and fabric field.

After this very informative talk a picture "The Part Chemistry Plays in a Changing World" illustrated the making of these man-made fibers.

The club members then went to Mrs. Brown's home on Ninth Street where they were served a delightful sweet course with coffee and salted nuts. After a short business meeting during which plans were made for the annual picnic to be held at the home of the president, Mrs. Carl Adams, May 23th, books were exchanged. Mrs. R. M. Curran of Oxford was a guest of the club.

Clio Book Club
Tuesday afternoon the Clio Book Club met with Mrs. Robert Arthur at her home on Fourth Street. After a short business meeting presided over by Mrs. Will Whedbee, club president, Mrs. Agnes Barrett read the play, "Pygmalion" by George Bernard Shaw. The name of this play is taken from the poem of the Latin poet Ovid, who told of a sculptor named Pygmalion who created an ivory statue so beautiful he begged Aphrodite to endow it with life. She did. In modern literature the maiden is called Galatea.
When this comedy was recorded for posterity through the talking picture medium a few years ago, its creator spoke a genial word to his new public the vast film audience. "I wrote this play thirty years ago," said the bearded sage of English letters who is now in his ninetieth year, "and it was fifty years ahead of its time. You are just beginning to catch up with me."

Conceived as the witty Irishmen's criticism of the way the English people mistreat their own language and a first-rate poke at nouveau-riche snobbery the play was written in 1912 and first produced in Berlin in 1913, long before the guns of World War I were primed for combat. Mrs. Barrett had seen Gertrude Lawrence and Raymond Massey in the current production of this play. Therefore she made it seem very vivid and real to the club.

After Mrs. Barrett's reading the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Ficklen Arthur, and Mrs. Katherine Cosby, served a delicious salad course. Guests for the meeting were Mrs. Ficklen Arthur, Mrs. George Starling, Mrs. John Clark, Mrs. W. W. Spruill, and Mrs. Garrett Stanfield.—Reported.

MAY GERMAN LAST NIGHT

Was Outstanding Social Event; Thornhill Popular Here

By CHESTER WALSH

The Twenty-Five Club's May German at the armory last night with Claude Thornhill's famous 18-piece band providing the music, was a brilliant affair and the outstanding social event of the spring season. The music was sparkling and enchanting; the feature artists, Thorahill himself and his piano, and Buddy Hughes, Betty Bennett and Ted Goddard, were delightfully entertaining and the musicians made a distinctive hit in Greenville. Several hundred persons from Eastern Carolina towns attended, Kingston being well represented.

Thornhill plays the kind of music people like to hear. He was gracious in responding to calls for special numbers by dancers and spectators. The May German was much more than a dance, it was a mingling of the younger social set of the eastern part of the state which marked the revival of these events in Greenville.

Dick Stokes III, president of the Twenty-Five Club, was gratified over the brilliant success of the May German. Secretary Bruce Baker deserves lots of credit for his part in arranging the dance, and Herman Norris, who booked Thornhill's band for the event, said the distinguished band leader made the biggest hit of any band leader to play in Greenville in many years. Walter L. Patrick, who had charge of the door, said the May German was a great credit to the Twenty-Five Club and that perfect order prevailed.

The dances will be given from time to time. Admittance is by bid from club members. No tickets are sold. Bids are extended to out-of-town men. Greenville men must be members of the Twenty-Five Club to be admitted.

Varied Program To Be Given By Singer

Donald Dickson's program of songs for the recital to be given in the Wright Auditorium at East Carolina Teachers College this evening at 8 o'clock indicates that the popular baritone will sing numbers of great variety and with considerable audience appeal.
Assisting Mr. Dickson will be William Hughes, pianist-accompanist, who will play as solos three Brahms selections.

Dickson's program will begin with a group of sixteenth and seventeenth century English poems set to music. A group German leader will follow, including several favorites of concert goers. The aria "Nemico Della Patria" from "Andrea Chenier," which will conclude the first part of the program, will exhibit Dickson's artistry as an opera singer.

Songs following the intermission will be in English and will include a group of negro spirituals. Dickson is famous as an interpreter of these beautiful songs.

Dickson, famous star of opera, concert, and radio, is brought to the college by the Entertainment Committee. The program tonight will be the last of a series of seven presented during 1945-1946.

Dr. Cooke's article points out that the success of a school depends to a large extent on mutual support between the administrative and instructional staffs; these, he indicates, may be maintained by cordial and sympathetic relationships between administration, faculty and patrons, and result from free discussions, decisions democratically arrived at, and a respect for the opinions of others.

FRANCO GIVEN BIG OVATION

Spanish Parliament Cheers Dictator's Defense Of His Regime

Madrid, May 15.—(AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco, defending his regime before a cheering Cortes (Parliament) last night, asserted that Spain's problems were her own and not that of other states.

"I deny that there are any political problems in Spain to be solved," Franco said. "We have solved our political problems with our blood and our effort."

(The United Nations Security Council in New York, through a special subcommittee, is now collecting evidence on a charge by Poland that Franco Spain is a threat to world peace. Poland is seeking to have all the United Nations sever diplomatic relations with the Franco government.)

"Great political problems are still being debated in many countries which took part in the great conflict and whose regimes are incapable of solving the urgent difficulties accumulated," Franco added.

"Spain and arranged her difficulties seven years ago and is developing through successive stages with rigorous exactitude."

Franco made a veiled reference to the monarchy question when he said his government, like a building, was erected from the foundation up and that we will finish this building when we are not pushed from the outside.

Franco's speech was broadcast throughout Spain.

Red Oak News

Following is the program of worship to be held at Red Oak next Sunday, May 19th. At ten o'clock Sunday school will begin followed by church services at 11 o'clock with Rev. Howard James preaching.

On Sunday evening at 7:45 o'clock an ordination and baptismal service will be held.

Red Oak celebrated this year its 75th anniversary. We have never had a baptism in our church during the past we have used the baptistry in the Greenville, Ayden, Farmville and Wilson churches, but we are grateful that our baptistry is now complete and it will be used for the first time next Sunday night.

This should be a great occasion in the history of our church and we invite our friends from neighboring churches to worship with us on this glad day. Three of our young men, who have recently been discharged from the armed services will be ordained as Junior deacons at the evening hour. They are Lenwood Heath, son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Heath; Claude Manning, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Manning; Joseph Tyson, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Tyson.

A new class for young married couples was organized at Red Oak last Sunday with Mrs. Travis Crawford as teacher. The class will be called the "Martha Jolly" class in memory of one of our most faithful young women who passed away a few years ago.

Mr. Milton May left for Washington, D. C. on a sight-seeing trip and to New York to visit friends last Sunday.

Miss Joy Tyson spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perea Tyson. She had as her guests Carlo and Penny Hyman of Tarboro.

Orphaned Robins Are Adopted By Terrier

Chicago, May 15.—(AP)—When Tad Katzmark, 10, found three orphaned baby robins he went into a huddle with his younger sister and twin brothers and decided that they should be mothered by their dog, Pal.

Pal, a nine year old fox terrier, has adopted the baby robins, zealously protecting them and awakens the Katzmarks at 6 a. m. when the birds get hungry.

Mrs. Paul Katzmark said the "robins are all right during the day, but at 6 in the morning they're a terrible nuisance."

Tad, sister Jennie, 6, and twins Peter and Paul, 3, do not agree. They said Pal is wonderful. And so are the baby robins.

Navigation, its principles and its applications was the program topic for the weekly meeting of the Greenville Sea Scout Ship.

Skipper James B. Hawes served as instructor. The meeting was held in the hut behind the Memorial Baptist Church.

Navigation is one of the most important marine skills the Sea Scouts must master. In introducing the program topic Skipper Hawes stated that before the Sea Scouts could participate in any sailing, they must have an elementary knowledge of marine navigation. The nucleus of the program was based upon a short lecture and a blackboard drill.

The business portion of the program consisted of a discussion of a permanent meeting place and a collection of dues.

Consolidated School System Gets Support

Raleigh, N. C., May 16.—(AP)—North Carolina high schools with less than three teachers next year should not be consolidated with nearby units, according to a resolution adopted yesterday by the State Board of Education.

A. McLean Graham of Clinton who introduced the resolution, and controller Paul A. Reid told the board members that state law not only permits closing of one-teacher and two-teacher high schools, but requires such action except in face of unusual circumstances.

The board approved an administrative budget for the textbook division, calling for expenditures of $630,410.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

TRUE CHRISTIANITY CONTAGIOUS

Many years ago a merchant's son in this country went out to teach in a missionary college in Turkey. He spent his entire life there, completing more than fifty years of service among the Turkish people. Through his class rooms during those years went most of the men who in the past generation have been prominent in the affairs of that country. A few years ago when he was a very old man, he decided to go back and visit the people among whom he had spent most of his life. Among others, he called on a certain high-ranking official of the Turkish government. This official met his former teacher at the door, assisted him into the house, helped him to remove his coat. Then after a conversation he held the old gentleman's coat and led him to his waiting automobile. Someone who saw all this said that for a high-ranking Turkish official to hold anyone's coat and especially to hold the coat of a Christian was an act of deference utterly unprecedented. This Turk had gone through a Christian college and never, probably, entertained the least thought of giving up his Mohammedan faith. But he had caught something in his contact with Christianity as set forth in the life of certain true disciples which made him willing to play the part of a servant for a man he greatly respected.

Christian service commends itself even to people who have little or no regard for Christian doctrine.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—Those who expect any great domestic or foreign issues to be debated on a national scale during the Congressional campaigns now getting under way are likely to be disappointed.

Similarly, it probably will be only an accident if the will of the voters as a whole, on any of these issues, can be read into the results of the November elections.

The main and almost only objectives of the two parties national strategy boards are:

1. Republicans—to capture control of the House of Representatives and make deeper inroads into the Senate majority.

2. Democrats—to prevent just that.

Once the candidates are nominated, what they think about national issues won't make a whit of difference to the party generals and their staffs. The only thing that will concern them is this: Has the candidate a ghost of a chance of being elected? If he has, he'll get help from the national committees.

Much was made of the fact recently that E. Carroll Reece, new Republican National Committee chairman, was the candidate of the Old Guard. With his election all four top GOP congressional strategists are conservatives. In 1946, that may be important. It isn't in this year's elections.

Similarly, the commentators make much of the recent conservative, or anti-administration, threat to oust Democratic National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan. So far as the 1946 elections are concerned this isn't important either.

When the campaigns really get under way this summer, we will see Reece and his staff throwing their weight behind the most radical Republican candidates, if there is a possibility that those candidates can oust Democrats.

Also, Truman-minded Hannegan and his boys will be backing even those Democratic candidates who are cold to administration policies, if it means possibly grabbing off a GOP district.

Illinois is an excellent example of what is likely to happen, since it already has held its primary. The present alignment of representatives in Illinois is 11 Democrats and 15 Republicans. All 26 of the 26 incumbents who are running for re-election were re-nominated by their parties. (Four-term Republican Congressman Jessie Sumner was not a candidate for the nomination in her district.) These incumbents represent several shades of political thought, but regardless of that they will get any help they need from the national committees.

Outcome of the congressional elections may have greater bearing on our national policies than at any time since the Democrats captured the House in the off-election year of 1930. But the campaigns in each district where the voting is likely to be at all close will be waged on local issues.

has said he wants to get the matter out of the way, enact a replacement for the sup-gap draft legislation, and clear the way for action on OPA in the week beginning May 7.

The Nation...

Island it's eight weeks; in New York seven; in Louisiana, three; in Tennessee, four.

The theory behind those weeks of disqualification is this: That most strikes last only a short time and therefore few strikers ever will be idle long enough to collect unemployment pay.

The 42-day coal strike is, of course, an exception to the rule. By being idle 42 days through last Sunday, the Pennsylvania miners have been out of work for the six weeks required by the state.

Now although the miners have gone back to work on the 12-day truce, the state has ruled that if they quit again at the end of that time they don't have to wait another six weeks before getting unemployment pay.

In other words: They've waited the six-week period required by the state and, if they resume the strike, they can collect unemployment pay.

The amount of money a jobless person can collect depends upon how much he earned when he was working, and how long he worked.

But there is a maximum amount of unemployment pay he can get and a limit of the number of weeks he'll get it. Here again the rules vary by state.

In Pennsylvania a jobless person depending on his previous work and length of work can draw up to $20 a week for 23 weeks.

In all states employees—usually eight people or more—contribute 2.7 per cent or less of their payroll to the state unemployment fund.

Employers in only four states—Alabama, California, New Jersey and Rhode Island—contribute to the fund about one per cent of their earnings, or less.

The World Today...

of influence which is mainly Slavic. Austria falls outside that designation and actually the western portion of that country is the only continental territory marked down by the Russians and not already within their zone of influence.

Is all this pure coincidence or has it a special significance? We naturally won't know the answer to that until the Russians signify whether they intend to push their area of domination further westward towards the English Channel. There is small doubt that Moscow intends to control all Austria in due course. The Soviet will be content to rest its claims, having brought into the fold all the territory she originally designated.

That, as already indicated, is the big question of the moment. Is there a limit to Russian ambitions or does she intend to keep right on pushing? And it should be noted that there are various ways of pushing. One method is to work for the introduction of Communism into new countries in the hope that Soviet governments may result.

That's another point which is worrying the western democracies.

Russia still seeks entrance into the Mediterranean theatre. And there are some very big problems to be solved in the Far East. However, unless Russia's ambitions have no limit, we must be approaching the time when her demands will be satisfied in Europe.

"I am so certain that I'll be well again," she declared. "There's this new drug, streptomycin. Who can tell what it will do for me?" She suffers considerable pain now—the doctors told her that would come before numbness set in. But she bears that well, too.

Americans pull together

Alarmists who predict crime waves, and a return to post-1918 gangsterism involving World War II veterans, seem to have forgotten this simple fact about human nature: Happy men... men with good jobs, decent housing, and opportunities in a free country... don't go wrong. That's what the V. F. W. is striving for—to bring all Americans together in comradeship, understanding, and mutual effort for a better America in a better united world.

Ivanhoe

Chapter 27

When the Black Knight left the trying-tree of the generous outlaw, he held his way straight to a neighboring religious house, to which the wounded Ivanhoe had been removed when the castle was taken, under the guidance of the faithful Gurth and the magnanimous Wamba.

Before taking leave of him, he said, "We will meet at Coningsburgh. I would see your Saxon kindred together, Sir Wilfred, and become better acquainted with them than heretofore. Thou also wilt meet me; and it shall be my task to reconcile thee to thy father."

"So saying, he took an affectionate farewell of Ivanhoe, who expressed an anxious desire to attend upon his deliverer. But the Black Knight would not listen to the proposal.

Ivanhoe followed him with his eyes, until he was lost in the shades of the surrounding forest, and then returned into the convent.

But shortly after matins-song, he requested to see the Prior. The old man came in haste, and enquired anxiously after the state of his health.

"It is better," he said, "than my fondest hope could have anticipated; either my wound has been slighter than the effusion of blood led me to suppose, or this balsam bath wrought a wonderful cure upon it. I feel already as if I could bear my corslet; and so much the better, for thoughts pass in my mind which render me unwilling to remain here longer in inactivity."

"And what can have urged you to so sudden a departure?" said the Prior.

"Have you never, holy father," answered the knight, "felt an apprehension of approaching evil, for which you in vain attempted to assign a cause? And thinkest thou not that such impulses are deserving of attention, as being the hints of our guardian spirits that danger is impending?"

"I may not deny," said the Prior crossing himself, "that such things have been, and have been of Heaven."

"I pray you, reverend father," said Ivanhoe, "let mine horse be got ready instantly, and bid Gurth attend me with mine arms."

And before the worthy Prior could say more, Ivanhoe had put on his armour, set spurs to horse and gone in quest of the Black Knight. Ere long, he overtook him on the road.

"Bethink me, thou art a traitor," said Richard (for it was indeed that monarch) smiling; "a most disobedient traitor; for were not our orders positive, that thou shouldst repose thyself at Saint Botolph's until thy wound was healed?"

"It is healed," said Ivanhoe, "it is not of more consequence than the of Templestowe, about the hour when the bloody die was to be cast for the life or death of Rebecca. It was a scene of bustle and life, as if the whole vicinity had poured forth its inhabitants to a village wake, or rural feast.

On the present occasion, a throne was erected for the Grand Master at the east end, surrounded with seats of distinction for the Preceptors and Knights of the Order. Over these floated the sacred standard, called Le Beauseant, which was the ensign, as its name was the battle-cry, of the Templars.

At the opposite end of the lists was a pile of faggots, so arranged around a stake, deeply fixed in the ground, as to leave a space for the victim whom they were destined to consume, to enter within the fatal circle, in order to be chained to the stake by the fetters which hung ready for that purpose. Beside this deadly apparatus stood four black slaves, whose colour and African features, then so little known in England, appalled the multitude, who gazed on them as on demons employed about their own diabolical exercises.

At length the drawbridge fell, the gates opened, and a knight bearing the great standard of the order, saluted from the castle, preceded by six trumpets, and followed by the Knights Preceptors, two and two, the Grand Master coming last, mounted on a stately horse, whose furniture was of the simplest kind.

Behind him came Brian de Bois-Guilbert, armed cap-a-pie in bright armour, but without his lance, shield, and sword, which were borne by his two esquires behind him. His plume, though partly hidden by a long plume which floated down from his barret-cap, bore a strong and mingled expression of passion, in which pride seemed to contend with irresolution. He looked ghastly pale, as if he had not slept for several nights.

After these came a guard of warders on foot, amidst whose partisans might be seen the pale form of the accused, moving with a slow but undismayed step towards the scene of her fate. The unfortunate Rebecca was conducted to the black chair placed near the pile. On her first glance at the terrible spot where preparations were making for a death alike dismaying to the mind and painful to the body, she was observed to shudder and shut her eyes, praying internally doubtless for her lips moved through no speech as heard. In the space of a minute she opened her eyes, looked fixedly on the pile as if to familiarize her mind with the object, and then slowly and naturally turned away her head.

The Grand Master commanded the herald to stand forth and do his devoir. The trumpets then flourished, and a herald, stepping forward, proclaimed aloud, "Oyez, oyez, proclaimed aloud, "Oyez, oyez, Here standeth the good knight, Sir Brian de Bois-Guilbert, ready to do battle with any knight of free blood, who will sustain the quarrel allowed and allotted to the Jewess Rebecca, to try by champion, in respect of lawful essence of her own body; and to such champion the reverend and variorous Grand Master here present allows a fair field, and equal partition of sun and wind, and whatever else appertains to a fair combat." The trumpets again sounded, and there was a dead pause of many minutes.

"No champion appears for the appellant," said the Grand Master. "Go, herald, and ask her whether she expects any one to do battle for her in this her cause." The herald went to the chair in which Rebecca was seated, and spoke to Rebecca in these terms:—"Dame, the Honourable and Reverend the Grand Master demands of thee, if thou art prepared with a champion to do battle this day in thy behalf, or if thou dost yield thee as one justly condemned to a deserved doom?"

"Say to the Grand Master," replied Rebecca, "that I maintain my innocence, and do not yield me as one justly condemned, lest I become guilty of mine own blood. Say to him, that I challenge such delay as his forms will permit, to see if God, whose opportunity is in man's extremity, will raise me up a deliverer; and when such uttermost space is passed, may His holy will be done!" The herald retired to carry this answer to the Grand Master.

"God forbid," said Lucas Beaumanoir, "that Jew or pagan should impeach us of justice! Until the shadows be cast from the west to the eastward, will we wait to see if a champion shall appear for this unfortunate woman. When the day is so far passed, let her prepare for death."

The herald communicated the words of the Grand Master to Rebecca, who bowed her head submissively, folded her arms, and, looking upwards, seemed to expect that aid from above which she could scarce promise herself from man.

The judges had now been two hours in the lists, awaiting in vain the appearance of a champion, and it was the general belief that no one could or would appear for a Jewess accused of sorcery; and the knights, instigated by Malvoisin, whispered to each other that it was time to declare that pledge of Rebecca forfeited. At this instant a knight, urging his horse to speed, appeared on the plain advancing towards the lists. A hundred voices exclaimed, "A champion! a champion!"

Flagrant Food Waste Said Found On Ship

Seattle, May 16 (AP)—The Time said today that more than 1,000 pounds of meat, including top grade pork and beef loins, frankfurters, sausage and other items, were thrown in garbage cans here yesterday and later recovered by federal meat inspectors.

It said the meats were discarded from the tanker New Hope owned by Selling & Jarvis of New York and operated by the War Shipping Administration, but that inspectors later graded it as "good" and not spoiled. It said W. A. Duthie, WSA food control director, termed the case "the most flagrant attempt at waste ever uncovered here." The tanker recently returned from the Pacific.

Here is what could have been bought for each U.S. family today with what the nation has spent for war since 1776. Wars took wealth (414 billion) which is more than the 300 billion existing U.S. wealth today, a U. of Illinois survey shows.

Tobacco Grading Work Commended

Washington, May 16—(AP)—Opening of new tobacco markets would be made possible with an increased appropriation for tobacco grading work recommended by the Senate Appropriations Committee.
The committee increased the House allotment of $1,119,000, by $200,000 to permit additional markets and additional graders.
Senator Barkley (D-Ky.) in supporting the increase at a committee hearing, said that in Kentucky alone there were requests for 15 new markets. The additional money, he said, will permit the opening of a number of these markets as well as some in other tobacco states.
The big buyers, Barkley explained, will not send buyers to a market seeking to operate a sufficient number of graders to the markets already established.
M. I. Dunn, tobacco inspection chief of the department, told the committee the additional money would, for instance, provide graders for the Fitzgerald, Ga., market, the latest established in that state.

FIVE-CENT GRATITUDE

Seattle, May 16—(AP)—Bartender Omar C. Bjornlie is gambling nickels to test human gratitude.
He deposits nickels in parking meters for overdue cars owners with notes pointing out: "I deposited a nickel to protect you against a police fine. If you appreciate this favor please mail it to me."
So far, says Bjornlie sadly, only one response has come from six nickels. But that grateful soul sent a quarter.

Our Farm Folks

By VERONA LEE JOYNER
Home Demonstration Agent
and
ELLA RUTH BEZZELL
Asst. Home Demonstration Agent

The members of the Red Banks Home Demonstration Club, their husbands and older children celebrated National Home Demonstration Week with a supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Brooks Tucker near Simpson; with their sons, who served with the armed forces, as guests of honor.

Other guests included three members of the Board of County Commissioners, Mr. G. H. Pittman and Mrs. Pittman from Falkland; Mr. J. N. Williams of Greenville; Mr. G. S. Porter of Simpson and his daughters Miss Louise Porter and Mrs. Marvin Porter, Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson and Mrs. Tyson who is secretary in the Home Agents' office; the Farm Agent, Mr. S. C. Winchester and Mrs. Winchester who have recently returned to Pitt County; the Assistant Farm Agent, Mr. W. H. Pruden and Mrs. Pruden; the Home Agent, Miss Verona Lee Joyner; the Assistant Home Agent, Miss Ruth Bezzell; the president of the Pitt County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs, Mrs. W. R. Bullock and Mr. Bullock from Bethel; the vice president, Mrs. D. N. Nobles, Jr. and Mr. Nobles from Stokes; the Home Demonstration County recreational leader, Mrs. B. L. Tyson and Mr. Tyson (who loyally and faithfully totes Mrs. Tyson's suitcase full of magic tricks) and their son, Joe, who has recently returned from overseas; the Reverend Sydney Matthews, rector of the Episcopal churches at Aurora and Vanceboro.

Tables were placed in the music-room, living room, dining room, hall and back porch, made a most attractive and appetizing picture with their plates of delicious and colorful food, consisting of fried chicken, boiled country ham, snap beans, potato salad and a wedge of tomato in lettuce, dishes of pickles and carrot strips, plates of rolls and glasses of iced tea. Iced cup-cakes were served by the daughters of Mrs. Charlie Hardee and Mrs. Emma Cannon, for dessert.

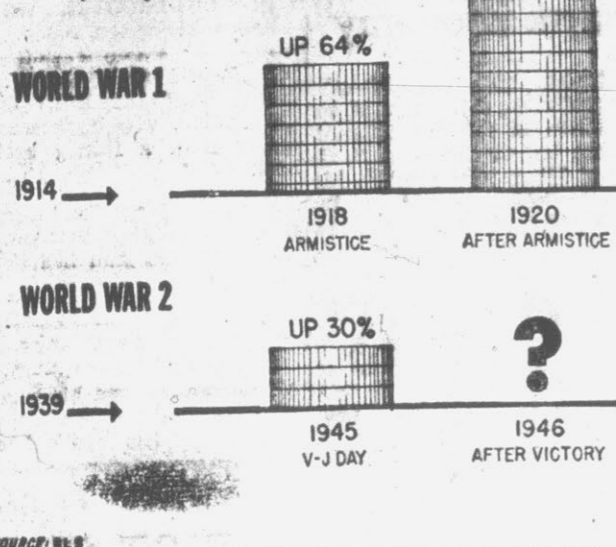

At the close of the meal the hall was cleared of tables, and chairs were arranged so that all present could enjoy the recreational program and fun to follow.

There were no formal speeches; no addresses of welcome; no response. This was a time to relax, as everyone had had a long hard day in the field transplanting or hauling water; the women pulling the plants that were set. Tired as they were they looked forward to the evening with eagerness for all knew that a good laugh cures many an ache, whether it be physical or mental.

The club president first introduced all of the guests and officers of the Red Banks Club. The veterans were asked to stand and

CONSUMER PRICES

(Living Cost Items)

After the 1918 Armistice living costs shot up more rapidly than during the war. For the first few months just after the Armistice, they dropped slightly but then rapidly rose to a peak 108.4 per cent above prewar levels. The Bureau of Labor Statistics says that since the beginning of World War II, living costs have gone up only about 33 per cent, and since the President's "Hold the Line" Order was issued in May 1943 they have increased only about 3.3 per cent. What's ahead for this cost of living this time?

given a big hand of welcome. The evening was then turned over to the county and club recreational leaders, Mrs. B. L. Tyson (Miss Leota) and Mrs. Robert Starling.

First, there was group singing with Mrs. Tyson at the piano. What became of that back-ache from riding the transplanter or pulling tobacco plants from sun-up? It vanished into the air as all joined Bill Pruden, the Sheriff and the County Commissioners in singing "Ain't Gwine To Study War No More." "There's A Long, Long Trail" brought back nostalgic memories to the oldsters, as did "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" and "With Someone Like You." No song-fest would be complete without rounds and "Row, Row Your Boat." Following group singing Mrs. Tyson and Mrs. Starling directed games and stunts that were side-splitting, leaving everyone limp from so much laughing. Morning comes early for those who live on the farm, and "Good Night Ladies" was sung at twenty minutes to eleven.

As "Good-nights" were said faces no longer looked tired; bodies no longer drooped with weariness, but eyes sparkled and faces were alight with new life and vigor after such a wholesome evening of pleasure and fun shared with neighbors. There were eighty present including members families and guests.

The supper served a four-fold purpose: 1. It celebrated National Home Demonstration Week, and 18 years of continuous monthly meetings held by the Red Banks Home Demonstration Club. The club was organized November 1928. 2. It gave the club members an opportunity to show their appreciation to the county officials for supporting Home Demonstration work. It gave the officials an opportunity to see demonstrated how Home Demonstration Club bring families together in community comradeship; to discuss current events, home-making topics and to provide recreation. Spring Work Calls for Quickie Dinners

Housecleaning, raking the yard or getting the garden started means less time in the kitchen. On one of these busy days, plan your dinner around hamburger patties wrapped in bacon. Hamburger is likely to be more plentiful than many meats and the patties are quick and easy to prepare. Make a hit with the family, too!

Hamburger Patties . . . wrapped in bacon

Recipe: Dissolve 2 tsp. WILSON'S B-V in 3 tbsp. hot water. Mix thoroughly with 1 lb. ground beef 1/2 cup bread crumbs. Divide into six equal portions, shape into balls, place on waxed paper, allowing plenty of space between. Cover with another sheet of waxed paper and flatten each patty until it is about 1/2 inch thinner than the width of a strip of bacon. Wrap each patty loosely with a slice of WILSON'S CERTIFIED BACON and fasten with a toothpick. Place in shallow baking pan, set in moderately slow oven, 325° F., and bake 30 minutes. Serves 6.

It's a Bell Ringer

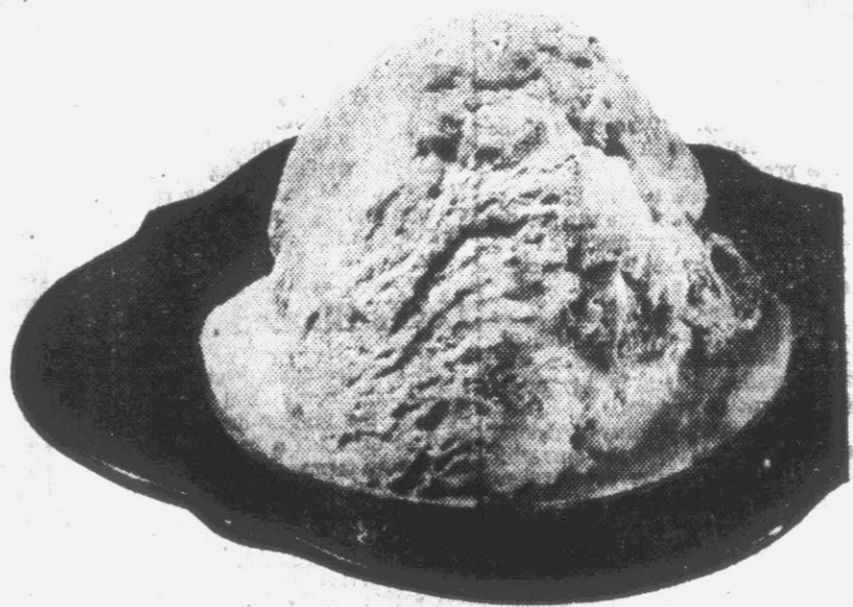

Supper with hamburgers wrapped in bacon, baked potatoes, served with Certified Margarine or Clear Brook Butter, seven-minute cabbage, fresh vegetable relish plate, and baked honey custard for dessert is a real bell ringer. Prepare food for cooking in the morning; prevents interruption of working schedule later. Save sugar and still serve sweets. How? Substitute 5 tsp. strained honey for 8 tsp. sugar in your custard recipe. Omit vanilla and nutmeg; add 1/4 tsp. cinnamon. A spoonful of whipped cream on the chilled dessert adds eye appeal. High quality Clear Brook Eggs give the custard that fresh-from-the-farm flavor.

Score peeled or unpeeled cucumber lengthwise with tines of a fork. Slice thin, crisp half an hour in ice water. Drain well before serving. Spread crisp potato chips with Wilson's Certified Deviled Ham. Peel oranges, separate into segments, and stud with whole cloves 1 hour before serving. Chill; serve as a garnish for Certified Tender Made Ham. Yours for good eating. George Rector

Keep Meat Fresh: Ground meat that isn't to be used immediately should be frozen until ready for use. Save time later on by shaping seasoned meat into patties.

New Inducements To Veteran Specialists

A new War Department pamphlet, just received by the Army Recruiting Station, City Hall, in this city, gives authority to enlist veterans in grade appropriate to their previous training and experience. First Lt. Frank J. Abbate announced today.

This pamphlet lists quite a few job titles not previously listed, and gives opportunity to higher grade in many of the specialist fields, he said. He indicated his belief that many former soldiers would be interested in joining again since a greater opportunity for retaining former grade is available.

Among the new MOS numbers are: 035—carpenter, heavy construction; 113—woodworking machine operator; 197—submarine, cable station technician; 02—carpenter, ship; 342—master mechanic, 656—submarine mine planter; 839—marine engineer; 914—artillery mechanic heavy; 923—welder armor plate, and 3766—radio operator (marine).

Veterans interested in complete details concerning new specialties listed and grades appropriate may call at the Army recruiting station.

Dr. Paul Murray of the social science department at East Carolina Teachers College has received an invitation to membership in the Historical Society of North Carolina. NEW FIRM

Raleigh, May 16—(AP)—Among charters filed today in the office of Secretary of State Thad Eure was that of the Sanitary Plumbing and Heating Company of Greenville, to deal in plumbing and heating equipment. Authorized capital stock $50,000, subscribed stock $400 by W. T. Cone, E. T. Odum, Malissa M. Odum, all of Greenville.

President Confers . . .

It also led government conciliators Edward F. McGrady and Paul W. Fuller—both well aware of the seriousness of the deadlock—to call an indefinite recess in the negotiations.

Lewis has refused to make known his wage and hour demands until the welfare and other items are accounted for.

Tobaccoists . . .

(Continued from Page One) while he would welcome the lifting of all government controls as readily as anyone else he could see the need for some restrictions for some time to come due to the complicated situation relative to export of tobacco. Export is vital to the continued growth of the market, he declared. He paid tribute to the organization's efforts in behalf of the farmers relative to price control and parity grants during war years, and appealed for continued cooperation in future for the good of each group.

The following resolution was adopted unanimously at the afternoon business session:

"Whereas the crop control plan established by the votes of the tobacco farmers of the flue-cured belt has resulted in notable increase in price of tobacco thus greatly improving the living conditions of our farmers, and

"Whereas the termination of acreage control would terminate in economic disaster.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved that we pledge to the farmers of the flue-cured belt our wholehearted support in the coming referendum in July for the purpose of continuing the acreage control program in full force and effect."

Copies were ordered sent to various farm organizations and to the press.

New officers elected: U. H. Cozart, Jr., of Wilson, president; Julian B. Fenner of Rocky Mount, vice president, and Bill Blackman of Wilson, secretary-treasurer.

Named to the board of directors were Lyman Wilkins of Ahoskie, Robert Adkins of Robersonville, James T. Keel of Greenville, J. Y. Monk, Jr., of Farmville, R. A. Pearce of Smithfield, H. I. Johnson of Tarboro, Herman F. Laws of Kinston, R. T. Smith of Wilson, Wayland Sermons of Washington, N. C., James Musgrove of Goldsboro, W. H. Hussey of Wallace, W. R. Edmundson of Williamston, L. R. Clark of Wendell, W. B. Faulkner of Rocky Mount, and E. L. Dudley of Clinton.

J. C. Carlton of Farmville was named to the board of governors of the Bright Belt Association, thus giving each belt representation on the board.

Other members from this belt are Joe C. Eagles and H. P. Foxhall, R. S. (Dutch) Witherington of Kinston is the retiring secretary-treasurer.

A feature of the program was a barbecue dinner for the 125 men assembled.

Rail Owners . . .

Johnston said the exemption decision was reached in conjunction with A. F. Whitner, head of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen who with the engineers have called the strike as the climax to a wage dispute.

The Illinois Central is under technical operation of the office of defense transportation as the result of a previous strike threat.

Johnston would neither affirm or deny that this was the reason for the exemption, nor would he explain what he meant by safety measure.

The Smith-Connally war labor disputes act, however, provides penalties for strike interference with the operation of any facility under government possession.

Johnston and Whitney scheduled a third meeting with the operators (10 a. m. EST) after two sessions which the union chiefs said were will-sight unseen."

fruitless.

Mr. Truman brought about the resumption of negotiations after a series of White House conferences on Tuesday.

U. S. Appetite . . .

Against relatively short spring and summer supplies in these items, the bureau said, will be record or near record per capita quantities of vegetables, poultry, eggs, fresh and frozen fish, canned fruit juices, cheese, fluid milk and cream, ice cream, and skim milk products.

The bureau said 1946 production of food crops and livestock is now estimated to be about one-third above the average for 1935-39. If this estimate proves correct, 1946 food production would about equal that of 1943 and be exceeded only slightly by the record production in 1944 and 1945.

Government limitations on supplies of flour and other consumer wheat products will have no significant effect, the bureau said, upon per capita nutritive supplies for the year as a whole.

UNRRA Director LaGuardia, however, came forward with suggestions yesterday on how he thought those limitations could be made more effective for famine relief purposes.

At a news conference he recommended farmers be "required" to market their grain, and not feed it to livestock. He also proposed still darker bread and a moratorium on pastry for all Americans.

On the darker bread, LaGuardia's idea was that millers be compelled to extract 90 percent of the wheat kernel in manufacturing flour, as against the 80 percent now required, and the 72 percent utilized before the food emergency became acute.

Lewis Blamed . . .

Royall Tells . . .

Royall used the opportunity to decry anew much of the recent criticism of the army's present setup and methods.

"A little of the criticism is just; most of it is unjust and based on untruths," he said, adding:

"This attack is eating into the military prestige—in this country. Already it has weakened that prestige abroad, so that other nations are daring to say and do what they would not have dared—and what they would not dare—if they felt that the American people were wholeheartedly behind our army and our navy and were determined to preserve their strength and integrity."

Royall did not elaborate on his reference to the mobilization blueprints readied in case of another M-Day. He said War Department experts had worked them out "after careful study," and concluded that an army of 4,500,000 "would be necessary—and possible."

New Premier . . .

Almost simultaneously, reports spread that General MacArthur was planning a new purge of members of the new House. Japanese, hastily making their own speculative lists, included Speaker Miki and prospective new cabinet minister.

Yoshida, plunging into selection of his cabinet, was expected to retain the foreign ministers portfolio. Retiring Premier Kijuro Shidehara was reported slated for one of three ministries without portfolio, along with Takao Saito, veteran Progressive leader, and Takeshige Ishiguro, who was named chief cabinet secretary.

German Food . . .

(Continued from Page One) (However, the British government announced in London today that it would send 70,000 tons of barley and 80,000 tons of potatoes to the British zone in the next five weeks in an effort to reduce the threat of starvation. This would provide an average of 17 1-2 pounds of grain and 20 pounds of potatoes for the 9,000,000.)

German food rations in the British zone are now at the near starvation level of 1,050 per day.

A military government health officer said that the present ration scale is not sufficient to maintain health over a period of time.

He said it was expected that the overall death rate, which rose sharply in April from 12 per thousand per annum to 14 per thousand per annum, would show further severe increases during the summer.

Rep. Cooley Hits "False Economy"

Washington, May 16—(AP)—Although protesting elimination of an appropriation bill to finance a U. S. Bureau of Mines pilot plant in his state, Rep. Cooley (D-NC) said he will not offer an amendment to restore the funds "because it probably would be hopeless."

Opposing the cut in a House speech, Cooley pointed out that the government has invested approximately $200,000 in a pilot plant at State College, Raleigh, N. C., but that the bill being considered now fails "to provide any amount of money whatever to carry on the work at State College."

Referring to action of the appropriation committee in whittling down budget bureau estimates for the Interior Department's 1947 fiscal year operations, Cooley declared "we are embarking upon a program of false economy when the committee arbitrarily cuts appropriations down to 25 per cent."

He pointed out that the committee cut appropriations for the plants from $2,000,000 last year to only $500,000.

Prisoner Awaits Board's Verdict

New Orleans, May 16—(AP)—An attorney explored various means today of saving an 18-year-old Negro a second trip to the electric chair, while the condemned youth "prayed harder than ever" in his death cell in the Iberia Parish jail.

The Negro, Willie Francis, who survived the throwing of the switch of the State's portable electric chair May 3, told an interviewer that "maybe God will save me again."

The failure of the chair to work was attributed to a loose wire. It has been repaired.

Bertrand De Blanc, attorney for Francis, who was temporarily blocked yesterday when the State Supreme Court ruled that it was without authority to halt the execution of the prisoner, has asked Lieut. Gov. Emile Verret to call a session of the State Pardon Board.

De Blanc already filed an application for commutation of Francis' sentence to life imprisonment. He said the board would be asked to act on it.
