Curran Predicts Prolonged Strike

Operators Say Maritime Unions Reject New Compromise Bid; Charge Unions Insincere In Stated Strike Objectives; Bill Of Rights For Maritime Workers Mentioned

Washington, June 12.—(AP)—Frank J. Taylor, a spokesman for the ship operators in the threatened maritime strike, reported today that the unions involved have rejected a new compromise offer on the work week for seamen.

Almost simultaneously, Joseph Curran, president of the CIO National Maritime Union, said "a long and bitter strike" will begin Friday night, as scheduled, unless the seamen's work-week is cut or their pay boosted.

Both appeared before a House labor subcommittee. Taylor, chairman of the negotiating committee for the Atlantic and Gulf Coast Shippers, said the operators proposed to give the seamen a day off with pay for each week worked at sea.

"Yet this new offer was turned down by the NMU," Taylor testified.

"It is thus quite apparent that the union's plea that the present work-week of 56 hours generally is 'inhumanly long and should be shortened lacks sincerity,' he continued. 'The union is perfectly willing for its men to continue working these hours if they receive extra compensation.'

Taylor added that "perhaps Uncle Sam may be able to afford these new costs (proposed by the union) but private industry finds them prohibitive."

He also declared that the operators still are willing to submit the entire controversy to arbitration but the unions won't agree.

"There is no use kidding ourselves," Curran told a House labor subcommittee.

"We are going to have to fight to get protection for the seamen and by God, we will fight."

Curran was critical of both President Truman and navy officials for statements that the navy would run the ships if the Maritime Workers refuse to do so, in a strike set to begin Friday night.

"The President's position was not helpful to negotiations," Curran declared. He made a similar reference to navy officials.

The labor chief also said the seamen were not hopeful of getting any better settlement in the controversy from the government than from the ship operators.

Curran said repeatedly that all (Continued on Page Six)

INTERVENTION UNLIKELY IN COURT FIGHT

Congressmen Disinclined to Take Part; Await Justice Jackson's Return

Washington, June 12.—(AP)—The sizzling Supreme Court feud appeared likely today to simmer along through the hot summer months without congressional intervention. Chairman Hatton W. Summers (D-Tex.) said today he will place Justice Jackson's cabled blast against Justice Black before his House judiciary committee tomorrow but that he personally is disinclined toward any immediate action.

Summers told a reporter he prefers to wait until Jackson returns from Nuernberg, where he is serving as chief American prosecutor of Nazi war criminals. The complaining justice, he added, probably would be the chief witness if any investigation were decided upon.

The chairman said he favors a cautious approach because of the unprecedented nature of the explosion.

Rep. Michener (R-Mich.) indicated sympathy with Sumner's view that Jackson should be present at any investigation, asserting "of course, you can't have a wedding without a bride and groom."

Rep. Walter (D-Pa.) commented: "I don't think we should approach it from the standpoint of an outside investigation, but rather as a basis for determining whether any legislation is necessary to apply to members of the courts."

Rep. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) agreed that an "airing" of Jackson's criticism over Black's action is not disqualifying himself from the portal mine wage case in which his former law partner was one of the attorneys might point up the (Continued on page five)

Health Department Spraying DDT For Mosquitoes, Flies

Through the Pitt County Health Department, the U. S. Public Health Service is now doing a limited amount of DDT spraying in Pitt county in an effort to prevent mosquito and fly breeding.

The work has just been concluded in Bethel. Today the spraying crew began work in Greenville where they will reach special points like the Pre-Conditioning Center for the Blind, livery stables, the abattoir, or slaughter house, and dairies immediately adjacent to the city.

The work in Greenville is being done as a special concession. The next place to be visited will be at Grimesland, then Winterville.

The Grifton area was sprayed during April.

No residences will be sprayed without the approval of the household but as the use of DDT in the control of mosquitoes and flies has proved the experimental stage the health officer, Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, expressed the hope that everyone approached will give the (Continued on Page 5)

Advocates Of Labor Bill Await Reaction

"Do-Nothing" Attitude Gaining Favor; Truman Veto Splits Majority Party Still Further, Republicans Vote In Bloc

Washington, June 12.—(AP)—The drive for a broad new labor law ran out of gas today.

Advocates parked themselves to await either (1) public clamor or (2) another major strike crisis before renewing their efforts to get a long-range bill on the statute books.

Leaders of the campaign reported they are hopeful that a "wave of public reaction" may develop against President Truman's veto of the Case bill and the House's refusal to override him.

They said that apparently only if such a demand develops, or if a new big tie-up occurs, can they muster the votes to guarantee enactment of a permanent regulatory measure this year.

These views were expressed to newsmen by both Democratic and Republican spokesmen for the bipartisan bloc which supported the Case bill and wants it or some similar legislation enacted soon. They asked that their names not be used.

Some of these legislators still favor tying in the Case proposal (Continued on Page Five)

ITALY'S KING HOLDS THRONE

Cabinet Considers Calling Up Constituent Assembly

Rome, June 12.—(AP)—The wary Italian cabinet, unable to persuade King Umberto II to leave his throne and alarmed by bloody monarchist demonstrations in Naples which left seven dead last night, pondered today a proposal to convoke the newly elected constituent assembly immediately.

The assembly—which is empowered to draft a new constitution for Italy—is not scheduled to meet until June 24, but the cabinet, unable to agree after five meetings in 30 hours whether the country is a republic or a monarchy, considered convening at once to work on the problem.

Seven persons were slain and more than 50 wounded in yesterday's violent bomb and gun fighting in Naples and cabinet members regarded as very serious in their implications reports that police had begun to take sides, with the Royalist Carabinieri clashing with other police reportedly favoring the republic.

A new worry also confronted Naples municipal officials—a pro-republic demonstration scheduled for 3 p. m. GMT (10 a. m. EST) to demand cabinet action to force Umberto into exile as a result of the recent plebiscite which favored the republic by a margin of nearly 2,000,000 votes. Umberto claims the result "indefinite."

A similar republican demonstration in Rome ended peacefully yesterday as 100,000 pro-republicans dispersed without violence after marching on the Vittoriano Palace to voice their demands that the cabinet end Umberto's reign and proclaim the republic.

In Naples, however, a pitched battle raged for hours, with a surging crowd of 10,000 to 20,000 monarchists besieging the six-story Communist headquarters and bombarding it with Molotov cocktails—bottles of gasoline with flaming wicks—in a determined effort to destroy it.

STASSEN HOPE DEFEATED IN NEB. PRIMARY

Possible GOP Presidential Candidate Given Setback In Elections

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
AP Political Reporter

Senator Hugh A. Butler won re-nomination handily over Governor Dwight Griswold in Nebraska yesterday to cloud Harold E. Stassen's prospects for the state's Republican convention votes in 1948.

In another primary contest Senator Charles C. Gossett (D-Idaho) was unseated by State Senator George E. Donat, supported by Gossett's Democratic colleague, Senator Glen Taylor.

Stassen, who helped write the San Francisco charter, backed Griswold because he liked the three-term governor's demand that America play a strong international role, and what he called Griswold "progressive" views on domestic issues.

Butler is a first term who voted against lend-lease, the British loan, draft act extension, UNRRA and the Bretton Woods financial agreements. Griswold said Butler wanted to "sidetrack internationalism."

Stassen has a chance to regain in Minnesota's July 8 senatorial primary whatever prestige he lost in Nebraska yesterday. But it's rather clear now that he cannot count on Nebraska's 15 votes in the presidential nominating convention.

He is supporting Gov. Edward J. Thye against Senator Henrik Shipstead in the Minnesota contest.

How much Butler's victory was due to the international issue and how much to the fact that Stassen was an outsider intervening in the primary cannot be measured.

However, Senator Brooks (R-Ill.) himself a Conservative in international dealings, said: "This is another outside interference in the election of their representatives in the U. S. Congress."

Griswold conceded defeat when only about 8 percent of the 2,032 precincts had reported. Butler's margin remained about 2 to 1 as counting proceeded.

On the Democratic senatorial ticket State Senator John Mekoita, endorsed by his party's state convention, won over George Olsen, former bus boy who was nominated for governor in 1942.

The Idaho Democratic senatorial contest was enlivened by the raising of a "self-appointment" issue against incumbent Gossett, who resigned the governorship last November and took the appointment to succeed the late Senator John Thomas, a Republican.

OPA Authorizes New Bread Price

Washington, June 12.—(AP)—The price of that elusive loaf of bread advanced a penny today with OPA approval.

The increase is effective immediately, along with a price boost of one cent a dozen for bread rolls.

The higher prices apply to all kinds of bread except rye, which went up two cents a loaf April 30.

Prices are being raised, OPA said, because bakers' production costs have climbed as a result of a 25 per cent cut in the amount of flour they may use. The reduction was ordered to help meet famine relief requirements.

On bread, producers are permitted to put today's one-cent increase into effect by raising the price, reducing the weight further, or by a combination of both. On rolls, only a price increase is authorized.

Excluded from the one-cent increase are bakers who have increased the weight of their loaves and correspondingly increased prices since last March 15.

Paper Magnate's Slayer Believed Traced To Blasted Apartment

Earlier at Boston, two employees of the Great Northern Paper Company had identified a newspaper picture of Hardy as a visitor to Whitcomb's office Monday morning just before he was shot to death. (Continued on Page 5)

FREIGHT RATE BLAME DENIED

Southern Freight Association Says Lines Determine Rates

New York, June 12.—(AP)—Joseph G. Kerr of Atlanta, Ga., chairman of the Southern Freight Association, said today that lines of the association were free to decide rate matters for themselves.

Although the Association of American railroads and the Southern Association cooperate, Kerr added, the latter is not a part of the AAR, does not report to it and has a number of members which do not belong to the AAR.

Kerr spoke for the second day before a Supreme Court special master, Lloyd K. Garrison, who is hearing testimony of the railroads in the suit of the state of Georgia against southern carriers on a charge of freight discrimination.

Kerr reiterated his charge made during Tuesday's hearing that the state had edited evidence in such a way as to distort the meaning of material when viewed as a whole.

He said the state had inferred that restrictions had been placed upon railroads by other carriers on filings proposed rates or rate adjustments with the Interstate Commerce Commission. This was an erroneous inference, Kerr declared, drawn by Georgia from a resolution adopted by the directors of the AAR in 1935.

"The whole purpose and intent of the resolution," he stated, "is clearly expressed by its language.

"It is to make certain that the position of each party to a rate controversy was made known to the other parties before taking it to (Continued on Page Six)

Tax Increase

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee voted today to increase the Social Security tax against employees' pay and employers' payrolls from 1 per cent to 1.5 per cent, effective January 1.

In the House and Senate follow the committee's recommendation the annual collection for Social Security insurance will be increased from the present one billion, 300 million dollars to two billion dollars.

The committee stipulated that the tax shall be 1.5 against employees' pay and employers' payroll for a five-year period beginning next January.

Army And Navy Approve Civilian Commission For Domestic Control

Washington, June 12.—(AP)—The Navy joined the Army today in endorsing Senate legislation to create a five-member civilian commission for domestic control of atomic energy.

W. John Kenney, assistant Secretary of the Navy, told the House Military Committee the Senate bill is "satisfactory in most respects."

Earlier, Secretary of War Patterson had approved the legislation, which differs from the committee's proposal for a nine-member commission which could have military membership.

The Senate provision giving the military advisory powers to the civilian commission, Kenney said, adequately protects the interests of the armed services and "achieves the same objective as would have been achieved if the Army and the Navy each had one representative on the commission," as proposed in the House bill.

Secretary of State Byrnes announced yesterday that the government has decided on the plans it will lay before the United Nations for international control of atomic energy.

Byrnes declined to outline them now, but other persons familiar with the plans said they follow the Acheson-Lilienthal program announced March 28. This provides (Continued on Page Six)

Would Sign Separate Peace Treaties With Defeated Axis If Pending Peace Talks Are Bogged Down By Big Four; Refuses To Apply Economic Sanctions To Spain

By GLENN WILLIAMS
Bournemouth, Eng., June 12.—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin declared in an address today that he would reject the immediate immigration of 100,000 Jews to Palestine, and would sign separate peace treaties with defeated European nations if pending peace negotiations continued bogged down among the four principal powers.

He declared, moreover, that he would refuse to apply economic sanctions to Spain.

Bevin's stand was taken in an appearance before the dominant labor party's annual conference. He won an overwhelming conference endorsement of his policies.

In a fighting mood and speaking extemporaneously, the round foreign secretary won adoption of a party conference resolution endorsing his administration of foreign affairs. Five other resolutions, all critical, were withdrawn or defeated.

The issue of the council of foreign ministers in Paris next week, he said, will be whether Europe is to be split into eastern and western blocs.

"Next week that is the issue that is to be settled, if it ever is," Bevin said.

"I am not going to be a party to any design in strategy against Russia," Bevin went on. "Neither will we give one moment's consideration to expansion. But this division of Europe, this awful business of drawing a line from Stettin (Germany) to Albania and behind that, which God forbid, you will have two camps in Europe and that will be the road (Continued on Page Four)

U. S. Press Make Protest In Paris

New York, June 12.—(AP)—The New York Times said today in a dispatch from Paris that all news sent by wireless from the French capital by American correspondents is recorded by a French intelligence agency and circulated immediately—supposedly "among high officials only."

Actually, the dispatch said, "It is known that access to (the) contents is by no means confined to high officials or even to officials in at least one case an article sent by radio to an American publication appeared in a French newspaper. In other cases, too, these American-owned dispatches get into private individuals' hands here as a result of their recording by the intelligence agency."

The writer of the dispatch, Harold Callender, said he had complained against the practice to President Felix Goutin, the minister of war and the foreign ministry calling attention "to this infringement of the freedom of the press" and emphasizing the "question of property rights." He said he had asked that the practice be stopped.

He said Loren Corroll, chief of the Paris bureau of Newsweek, had made a similar complaint and requested but that nothing had been done thus far to terminate the practice.

The dispatch said the American news dispatches were recorded translated, mimeographed and circulated within a few hours—sometimes before being published by the American newspapers whose property they are.

THE NATION TODAY

By James Marlow

Washington, June 12.—(AP)—If President Truman's veto of the Case bill has you scrambled—on the problem of the President, Congress and labor—here's the story.

Only a few weeks ago it seemed that organized labor, after a year of crippling strikes might suffer its greatest setback in history through tough laws Congress was ready to pass to curb unions.

The threat of that setback is not gone, even though Mr. Truman has vetoed the Case bill. We'll know the answer in a couple of weeks at the outside.

Start at the beginning. Months ago, when the country was suffering badly from strikes, Rep. Case (R-SD) offered a bill in the House to put some blocks on labor. The bill has borne Case's name ever since.

The House members changed and patched the bill until it was the most restrictive labor legislation ever passed.

It went over to the Senate and might have died there if the con-and railroad strikes had not scrounged Congress. The senators hauled out the case bill and began to patch and change it some more.

Right in the middle of the patching came the rail strike. Mr. Truman marched up to the Capitol and asked Congress to do two things:

1. Pass, immediately, an emergency law to prevent strikes in industries seized by the government. This would be a temporary law to end six months after the present wartime emergency ends. We're still technically at war.

As noted, he wanted this tough law only for the emergency period.

2. But he said he thought, a good long-range law that would help to solve labor disputes in peacetime was badly needed. He figured this kind of permanent law would require plenty of thought.

So, in order to do a good job on the long-range, peacetime law, Mr. Truman asked Congress to start now to study the whole labor problem.

GUN FIGHT IN POLICE OFFICE

One Killed As Union Leader Tries Taking Over Station

Massillon, O., June 12.—(AP)—A local AFL leader, who said he had been ordered by the FBI to "take over," killed a patrolman in police headquarters early today and then was wounded seriously himself, Police Chief Stanley W. Switzer said.

Killed in the battle was Patrolman Myron Henderson, 42. Switzer said he was killed by Lester Martin, 26, a navy veteran and head of the Federal Labor Union (AFL) at the Tyson Bearing Corp.

The police chief reported Martin entered the station while Henderson was alone with two civilians said he had been ordered by the FBI to take over and then declared he wanted a long distance call placed.

Martin then drew a pistol and pointed it at Henderson, the chief added. Henderson ordered the man to drop the pistol and reached for his own gun in the drawer. Switzer said Martin then shot the patrolman in the arm; then fired two more shots that entered his body, one in the heart.

Sons Of Brooklyn Hold Birthday Celebrations

New York, June 12.—(AP)—From Greenpoint to the Gowanus, from Gravesend Bay to Ebbets Field, and along all points on the BMT subway through Flatbush to Coney Island, Brooklyn was in festive mood today.

No—"The Bums" had not clinched the National League pennant. (A mere formality, Bub. We're leading the pack, ain't we?)

But today's day when Mottie and Joe put on the glad rags to celebrate the borough's tercentenary—parram me, 300th birthday, that is. No fireworks or parades, mind you, but a nice dignified observance, with buildings decked out in flags and bunting—and plenty of speech making.

It all started back in 1636 with a half barrel of beer and three containers of brandy. For with these spirits a group of Dutch settlers bought the village of Flatbush from the Rockaway Indians and planted stakes along Gowanus Bay.

Ten years later, June 12, 1646, Bruckelen (meaning broken or marshy land) was recognized by the Dutch as a self-governing city.

From then on the settlement grew and grew until now it is the largest of New York's boroughs with 2,783,000 citizens—only a few of them

Giant rosters.

In the interim, in Brooklyn, George Washington's troops fought the battle of Long Island against British troops landed at Gravesend Bay; a guy named Brodie did a high dive from a bridge; a bearded dramer named Walt Whitman sang of the glories of America and edited the Brooklyn Eagle; Coney Island became the playground of the East; the Monitor, USS Missouri, the Iowa and the Franklin D. Roosevelt began their careers in the world's greatest Navy yards. . . .

And a team called the "Trolley Dodgers" back in the Gay Nineties grew into the beloved daffiness boys. (Like I was saying, Bub, quite a town, quite a town.)

The borough was absorbed into New York City 48 years ago over heated opposition.

Brooklyn newspapers ran such editorial slogans as: "Brooklyn is a city of homes and churches. New York City is a city of crime government."

And the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, perhaps the most famous preacher Brooklyn ever produced, thundered from his pulpit: "Who owns New York? Satan."

(Oh, well, Mottie. That is all in the past. Come, leave us celebrate.)

An Analysis Of The News

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Word that the powerful Grand Mufti of Jerusalem—who is anti everything that is British or Jewish—has evaded surveillance in France and again is at large somewhere among the Moslems of the Middle East, isn't calculated to ease the crisis which has arisen in Palestine over the fiery problem of Jewish immigration.

The highly educated Grand Mufti is a dangerous man to those against whom he conspires. For many years he has been leader of the Arab campaign for an independent Palestine and against the establishment of a Jewish national home as promised by the British. Aid it is an ironic circumstance that it was Sir Herbert Samuel, first British High Commissioner of Palestine under the League of Nations mandate, who appointed him Mufti.

The fifty-three year old Haj Amin El Hussein—to give him his name—not only is spiritual head of Palestine's some 1,000,000 Moslem Arabs but is political leader as well. Moreover his influence extends into Trans-Jordan, Iraq, Arabia, Iran, Egypt and Syria. For he is gifted with leadership, has a strong personality and is as crafty as a fox. Most of his life, Hussein has made war on the Jews in Palestine. Indeed in 1920, when his brother was Grand Mufti, he fled to Trans-Jordan after being sentenced to 10 years imprisonment for his part in anti-Jewish riots. Next year the brother died and Haj Amin was granted amnesty, after which High Commissioner Samuel appointed him Grand Mufti, it being the custom for this high office to remain in the same family.

Finally in 1937 the British banished the Grand Mufti from Palestine. He took refuge first in Syria, and then in Iran and finally in Italy, keeping just ahead of the British forces as they occupied the Middle East in 1941. Of course the Grand Mufti was welcomed by Mussolini with open (Continued on Page Four)

Women's Club Annual Report
The Woman's Club held its last meeting of the club year on Friday, June 7, at 3:30 p. m. at the club house.
The meeting was opened by the reading of the collect. The president, Mrs. Humber, called on Mrs. Jack Foley Jr. to give a report of the Junior Woman's Club. She gave a very interesting report on Watson Memorial, which is the chief project of the Junior club. She announced that two prizes were awarded the club for this project and one for a scrap book at the state convention.
Mrs. Humber then called for reports from all committees and chairmen of the departments.
At the conclusion she read her report which is a summary of the year's activities.

The activities of the Woman's Club of Greenville this year have been diversified. Its membership has been substantially increased; so has the attendance at its meetings, due to the fact that each department and special committee provided outstanding programs.
The club decided to continue to extend the facilities of the club house to the USO for another period of six months, pledged to pay $150 to the endowment fund with a yearly contribution of $50, formed a youth conservation committee, a foreign and territorial clubs committee which sent a free will offering to the Manila fund, organized a department to function next fall, also a legislative committee.
The club sponsored a Christmas party at the county home, prepared 150 Christmas stockings for the veterans in a military hospital and decorated their wards, sponsored the national clothing drive, the cancer control drive, the Red Cross drive and the 8th and 7th victory bond drives. Birthday presents were sent to one boy and two girls in reformatory schools. The club was instrumental in getting health questionnaires filled in by the local hospital as requested by headquarters.
Letters were written to congressmen asking them to take action to stop the strikes throughout the nation. Dogwood trees were bought and planted in several public places by the Garden club in observance of Dogwood Week. Outstanding work has been done in assuming leadership toward the foundation of a mental hygiene clinic in Greenville, through forums and panel discussions.

The International Relations committee brought to the club a review of the most pressing problems confronting our international life.
Nine members attended the district meeting and four members attended the General Federation of Women's Clubs convention at Greensboro, after which the club contributed cloth for the children of Greece.
The club scored 117 points on the rating sheet which makes it a 100 percent plus club.
After Mrs. Humber's report the new officers were installed as follows: Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, honorary president; Mrs. Robert Lee Humber, president; Mrs. W. H. Woodard, first vice president; Mrs. D. H. Conley, second vice president; Mrs. Lee Moore, recording secretary; Mrs. W. J. Still, corresponding secretary; Mr. Harvey Ward, treasurer; Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, reporter; Mrs. Wiley Brown, historian; Mrs. Vance Perry, Garden Club chairman; Mrs. Jack Foley, junior club; Mrs. James Little, president sponsor; Mrs. J. E. Phelps, American Home; Mrs. Dink Jones, music department and Mrs. H. H. Little, Literature Department.

Enroute To States

Alabang, P. I.—Technician Fifth Grade Bryan Harris, son of Mrs. Sarah D. Harris of 1116 Green St., Greenville, N. C. is now enroute to the States from the Replacement Command Disposition Center near Manila for his discharge from the Army under current readjustment regulations.

Entering the Army in March 1944, T-5 Harris arrived overseas at Le Havre, France, in January 1945 to serve with the 793rd Engineer Depot Company. For his Army service he is authorized to wear the Europe-Africa-Middle East Theatre ribbon, Asiatic-Pacific Theatre ribbon, Good Conduct Medal ribbon and the World War 2 victory medal ribbon.

W. C. T. U.

The local WCTU met June 6 at the home of Mrs. J. L. Williams. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. W. T. C. Briggs.

The devotionals were led by Miss Mollie Heath Opening with "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." Followed by all repeating the Lord's Prayer. She then read nine verses from the twelfth chapter of Proverbs. Comments were read from chapter 19 of Proverbs. A special song, "When I've Gone the Last Mile of the Way," was rendered by Miss Ethlyn Conway and Mrs. J. L. Williams.

The organization of Loyal Temperance League was stressed. This is a league for children from ages 6 to 12. Plans are in the making for this work. An appeal is made to the parents of this city to cooperate with us, because we know the children of today are the parents of tomorrow. It is the desire of this union to put before the youth the evils of the liquor traffic.

It was voted to frame a petition to our congressmen to conserve our grain for food instead of liquors. This we did and it was signed by all members present.
Mrs. W. B. Pelee was our "lady of the month." She read two articles, "Twenty-one Saloons in Five Blocks," "The Best Way" and concluded with a true story. Mrs. Hutch Ward read "Deep Wells."

New members for the month were Mrs. Hayes Clark, Mrs. Harvey Moore. Two honorary members, Mr. Harvey Moore and James H. Ward, Jr.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. B. Pelee.

We were dismissed with a prayer by Mrs. Briggs.—Reported.

To Speak Over WGTC

Rev. W. M. Howard, Jr., Methodist minister of Bethel, will make a temperance talk over WGTC Thursday at 5 p. m.

Entertain For Miss Duval

Mrs. Alex Blow and Mrs. Walter C. Hargrove, Jr. entertained informally on Tuesday morning in compliment to Miss Doris Duval, bride-elect of Saturday.

The home on Biltmore street was decorated with varied arrangements of summer flowers with white flowers predominating.
Upon arrival the callers were invited to the dining room where cocoa colas with sandwiches, cookies, nuts and minis were served.

Following the refreshment, hour the hostesses presented their honor guest a gaily decorated parasol containing gifts of linen from the friends of Miss Duval who were present.

Mrs. Harold Forbes of Greenville and Mrs. Curtis Martin of Bethel, both recent brides, were remembered with gifts.

Humber Speaks In Maryland College

Robert Lee Humber, prominent Greenville attorney has just returned from addressing the faculty and student body of St. John's College at Annapolis, Maryland. This was the second time Mr. Humber has been invited to speak before the students and instructors of one of the oldest colleges in the country.

Mrs. Eugene Kelloway Williams, who before her marriage on Saturday, June 8, in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church was Miss Edla Norflist Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Taylor of Greenville, of Wilmington, N. C., and Midland, Mich., is the son of Mrs. Cadwell A. Williams and the late Mr. Williams, of Wilmington, N. C.

It was at St. John's College, in 1942, that Mr. Humber delivered his first speech in Maryland, for world federation Stringfellow Barr, president of the college, introduced the world federation plan to the Maryland State Legislature; and this led to Mr. Humber's being asked to address a joint session of the Legislature of Maryland at the state capital in Annapolis.

The Legislature of Maryland subsequently passed the resolution by overwhelming majorities in both houses, making it the third state endorsing Mr. Humber's plan for the organization of the world on the principles of law.
The Baltimore Sun printed the entire text of the Pitt Countian's speech, totaling three and a half columns, and called it the longest address ever printed in the paper, that had been made by a man who was not in public office.
Robert Lee Humber will speak in Fayetteville Friday, June 14.

A POSTMAN'S LIFE

Inglewood, Calif., June 12—(AP)—Postmen here have organized against the dogs.

Morris E. Winkelman, president of Branch 2980 of the National Association of Letter Carriers, reports that an average of three postmen are bitten weekly in Inglewood.
He announced his organization had hired an attorney—and if this nip, nip, nipping doesn't stop, bitten postmen are going to sue.

Backfire by Rufus Heed

Chapter 22 good-natured, homely face.

Whitney did not wait until evening to talk to Senator Field. After very one but the Senator had left the office late that afternoon she went in to find him wearily stacking up papers to take home with him.

"I know you are tired—and I haven't any business bothering you with my troubles at the end of a hectic day," Whitney hesitated in the doorway, reluctant to keep him after hours on matters which had nothing to do with office routine. The Senator settled back in his desk chair with a wide smile on his wondered how she was going to work out a situation as old as the story of Helen of Troy—or older, Whitney lost no time in coming directly to the question uppermost in her mind.

"Senator Field, there is something back of the accusation Gregory made against Paul at baccarat. I think you know that. There is more than slander involved in this case. Will you tell me what it is?"

For a moment the Senator hesitated. Then he pushed his brief case, stuffed with papers, to one side and leaned his folded arms on the desk. He looked directly at Whitney as he said slowly:

"Yes, I think I will, my dear. Paul does not want you to know until the case comes to trial. He has some idea that nothing should be said about the other incident until we are sure the paper is no longer in existence. And," he added quietly, "he does not want anything to unduly influence your opinion until all the facts are collected and ready for proper presentation at the trial."

"Thank you, Senator," Whitney said evenly. "I think I can be trusted with the facts and I really need them now for my own peace of mind."

"Four years ago, just before Paul graduated from Yale, he was playing cards one night in his club near the campus. I think it was a special card club a few men had formed. At any rate the Count was a member of the same club as Paul was, and a chap called Armstrong."

"Jack Armstrong," Whitney repeated his name in a low voice. "I know him very well."

The Senator nodded. "That's the man. It seems the Count was an excellent player—unusually good at bridge and the men had asked him to join their club just that year. He was doing special work at the University in international law and was about ready to graduate and come to Washington."

"Well, to get on with the story, one night near graduation time, Paul became suspicious of the presence of Armstrong and other members and showed the marked cards. Both Armstrong and Paul have sworn affidavits that this was clearly shown and that the marked cards were seen by every man there that night.

Among a discussion among the members as to what should be done about exposing the Count's cheating at cards, Paul finally made this suggestion. Realizing what such a charge would mean to a man just starting a diplomatic career in a new country he asked the men present if they would never mention the episode to anyone in the future, provided the Count would sign a statement that he would never play cards again.

"On the face of it, considering that the Count was then a man well over thirty, there was small chance of his ever living up to such an agreement, but the boys had a quixotic idea that this would have a salutary effect on him. So they prepared a statement which the Count did sign that night; Paul, Armstrong and a man named White were witnesses to his signature."

"Where is that paper?" Whitney asked in a stifled little voice.

"It seems to have disappeared. But if it could be found I think I could settle this affair out of court. It would certainly help the embassy lawyer make a mighty quick decision!"

"Who took the paper that night, Paul?"

"No, Jack Armstrong took it. And it seems to have disappeared while the men were in the navy. Paul and Armstrong have searched everywhere for it. I'm afraid it's lost. And I think the Count figured on that, too. I very much doubt that he would ever have made this charge against Paul if he thought for one moment that signed confession of his would ever show up again."

"Does Gregory's embassy know about his—his gambling?"

"I think his gambling propensities are a matter of record. But that might be overlooked. Plenty of men like to back the horses or play poker. It is just that this college episode and a libel suit against him make a combination that will not please his superiors. Embassies do not want men with reputations for that kind of cheating representing them in other countries. The Count's charge against Paul may backfire very seriously—for him."

"Paul will win this libel action," the Senator added quietly. "Every day only makes that more certain. But I still hope it will never come to trial, for all your sakes."

Suddenly Whitney stood up, listening. In the outer office she heard the slight sound of a door being softly closed. She turned quickly to the Senator who was standing behind his desk, once more gathering up his papers and the over-packed brief case.

"I think someone has just come into the office," Whitney said in a low voice. "I'm going now—I'll look up for the night and I want to thank you—for—for everything. You've been a perfect darling—all the way through." She came around to the Senator and whispered in his ear.

"Give me two days' leave, sir. I'm going to find that paper!"

"Good hunting, girl!" he smiled down at her. "I guess everything depends on you now. Best of luck—and for heaven's sake, keep me posted! Where you going, anyway?"

"Will telephone you tonight—before midnight," she called back as she disappeared into the outer office.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By KARL L. DOUGLAS

PARABLE ON WAYS OF EVIL

In his story of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, Robert Louis Stevenson set forth one of the most solemn facts of life, namely, the irrevocable character of every act we perform.

The amiable Dr. Jekyll discovered a drug by means of which he could transform himself into a man who, without the least rebuke of conscience, was able to wallow in every loathsome kind of vice. Stevenson named this monster Mr. Hyde. When Jekyll wanted to become Hyde he could do so with a dose of the drug, and likewise when Hyde wanted to become Jekyll he could transform himself almost instantly by the same means. But the time came when the inclination to remain Hyde was so great that he could not recover himself and assume the kindly and respectable life of Jekyll. Against his will he became Hyde, and much as he wanted to return to the sphere in which Dr. Jekyll lived, he was unable to do so.

The book is a dramatic parable of the way life works itself out for those who refuse to discipline the sinister aspects of their own natures. Evil tendencies have a way of creeping up on us. Little by little they surround us, sap the vitality of our wills, and at last make us prisoner.

Compromise leads us into ways of evil, dalliance inveterates us in its practice. Jekyll becomes Hyde and remains Hyde.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT

INTRODUCING BYRNES' BOHLEN

By SIGRID ARNE

Washington — Six-foot, sandy-haired "Chip" Bohlen of the State Department comes close to being that person who doesn't exist — "the indispensable man."

His name — Charles E. Bohlen — has been showing up on diplomatic lists ever since Cordell Hull flew to Moscow in November, 1943, to help write the Moscow Pact. He's the only man in the U. S. government who has sat in on every one of the Big Power talks.

He started as a translator because he knew the Russian language so well. He has long since become adviser to Secretary of State Byrnes on Russian affairs but continues as the U. S. translator in highly hush-hush sessions.

When President Roosevelt died Bohlen's notebooks filled in the chinks on what had been discussed at Tehran and Yalta.

He's a handsome and affable six feet — but he keeps his mouth shut except under circumstances which he chooses, and with a discreet few. He reads extensively on international affairs. For the discreet few he's extremely witty. He is married, has a child and lives on his State Department pay.

He's known Russians ever since 1934 — after he had left Harvard and gone through the Russian language school in Paris run for our foreign service staff. William Bullitt, then U. S. ambassador to Moscow, heard of him and took him off for the Moscow embassy staff. He has been back for two more stretches.

He was born at Clayton, N. Y., in 1904. His mother was New Orleans French and his father descendant of a German family which came here before the American revolution. Bohlen lived much of his boyhood at Aiken, S. C.

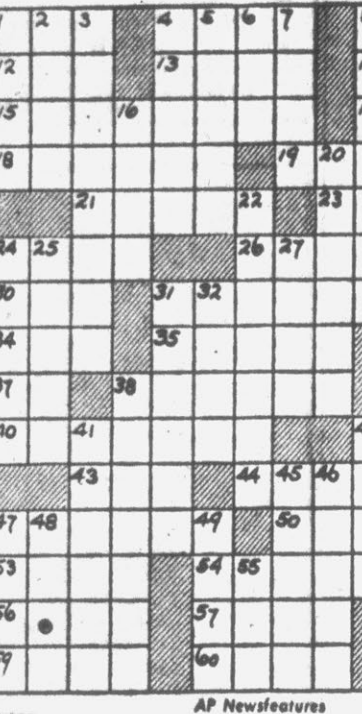

Bohlen was one of the U. S. foreign policy advisers who early counseled that the Russians had to be convinced that it's no good conducting a lot of diplomatic twosomes at the same time that 51 nations are trying to set up a United Nations.

For taking that stand he has been criticized by some as part of the "hate Russia" clique. Others remember that he's always said Russia is neither black nor white, but gray.

He maintains that Russia and the U. S. can learn to live in the same world. He admits there are wide differences, but he thinks their two philosophies can get along to-arms, for both Il Duce and Hitler were doing their utmost to inflame the Moslems of the Middle East against the Allies. He carried on his anti-British activities from Italy until he again was forced to flee this time to France where ultimately he came under allied control.

Now the Grand Mufti is loose again and is reported to have gone by air to Syria, but his whereabouts is a mystery. The general supposition is that he is taking a hand in the Arab fight against Jewish immigration into Palestine. The point of his going to Syria would be that (1) it is an old stamping ground of his and that (2) the Arab League Council is now meeting at Bludan Syria, to discuss the report of the Anglo-American committee of inquiry which recently recommended that 100,000 European Jews be admitted to Palestine at once.

The fact that the Grand Mufti has disappeared isn't strange. There are plenty of refuges for him. During his early exile in Syria in 1937 he had a hide-out in the mountains and there held high court at which plots were hatched against the Jews

The senators ignored this second request — long study for a permanent law — and rushed through their own patched up version of the Case bill. The House okayed the Senate version. The bill went to Mr. Truman.

This was the bill he vetoed yesterday and he gave a number of reasons why he thought the Case bill not only would not solve labor problems but might increase them or cause new ones.

He repeated his request, as he vetoed the Case bill, for Congress to make a thorough study of labor problems and come up with a bill which in his view might help in labor disputes.

It would seem now that the Case bill was a dead duck and labor will not have to worry about anything like that in a hurry. Not so. And here is why:

The House passed the emergency bill, just as Mr. Truman asked, on the very day he asked, May 23. The Senate got to work on it, after passing the Case bill, and toned down the emergency bill.

The only thing holding it up now is a delay in the House. Before the emergency bill goes to the White House, the House and Senate must agree on some final version of that emergency bill.

But — and this is the catch — the friends of the Case bill on the emergency bill and send the whole thing up to the President for him to sign or veto, which would be a way of saying:

"Okay, you vetoed the Case bill. We wanted it, you didn't. All right. You want the emergency bill. If you veto this because the Case bill is attached, you have to throw the whole thing out."

If that happened and the President vetoed it — and if the Congress failed to pass it over the veto — then labor would have escaped any restrictive legislation this year and for this reason:

Congress goes home pretty soon for the rest of the year. It won't have time to do much else about labor legislation.

If Congress passed just the emergency bill, without any Case bill attached, then labor will be bound by it only for the emergency.

If Congress returns next January to tackle some long-range labor legislation, it might do it in a much calmer mood provided no new labor disturbances upset the country

Kiwanis To Observe "Flag Day" Friday

The Greenville Kiwanis Club's program Friday night will feature "Flag Day." Sen. Arthur B. Corey will be the speaker. Clyde Hollowell will have charge of the program.

to another struggle."

He called for conclusion of a peace treaty with Austria and urged the clearance of occupation troops from the Danube basin.

Declaring he had been asked as to whether he would sign a separate peace treaty, Bevin said:

"I don't know what steps we may take to get these treaties, but I say no one nation is going to keep me in a state of war forever with other countries."

On Palestine, he said:

"If we put 100,000 Jews in Palestine tomorrow, I would have to put another division of British soldiers there. I am not prepared to do it."

"I must say to the Jews and Arabs: Please put your guns away. Don't blow up the British Tommy who is quite innocent in this business. You are creating another phase of the anti-Semitic feeling in the British army."

"I believe that if both sides did disarm, peace and development would be much easier."

The convention of the labor party, now in control of the British government, had before it a resolution calling for repeal of the 1939 White Paper limiting Jewish immigration to Palestine.

Minister of State Philip Noel-Baker spoke before Bevin and said British foreign policy is dedicated to the belief that we can make a world without war" and that it must be done in the next ten years.

Bevin said the financial issues involved in Palestine are tremendous — and the British chancellor of the exchequer cannot carry it. We cannot take on another 200 million Pounds ($800,000,000) expenditure on Palestine and that is really what is involved."

"We have suggested to the United States that we have experts right away to consider the implications of the report together with finances, military commitments transport and housing, and probably the most vexed problem — the land problem," Bevin said.

He ventured a thought only that:

ell will have charge of the program. Past President Claude D. Ward will preside.

If any members of the club's delegation to the Kiwanis International Convention at Atlantic City returns in time they will be permitted to make brief reports. The general report of the delegates, President Ed Rawl and Secretary David C. Moore, will be made at the meeting on June 21.

The above unit is just one of many owned and operated by Eure & Reynolds Crop Dusters. For the benefit of the farmers of this section, and in the interest of saving them many thousands of dollars, we have secured the services of Eure & Reynolds Crop Dusters for the entire season.

These men are not stunt fliers, on the contrary, they are highly skilled specialists, well trained for their job, with many thousands of hours to their credit in crop dusting from coast to coast. We hope you will take advantage of the opportunity to talk with them personally and let them tell you of the many advantages in dusting your crop by airplane, and surely you'll want to attend one of the demonstrations to be conducted within the next few days. The time and place of these demonstrations will be announced by newspaper. For further information we will be glad to have you come by, or call.

Hardy died in Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, Monday night of carbon monoxide from gas jets in the apartment, which was wrecked by an explosion.
Boston, June 12—(AP)—Two employees of the far-flung Great Northern Paper Company today identified positively a newspaper picture of a man killed in a New Jersey apartment-wrecking explosion as a visitor in the office of President William A. Whitcomb immediately before he was shot to death Monday.
Detective Matthew Egan said that Lester Smith, traffic manager of the firm, and Elizabeth Shannon, 23-year-old receptionist, identified the photographer of George E. Hardy, 49, of Westfield, N. J., as the man who walked calmly from Whitcomb's office shortly after employees heard a muffled sound. Police believe the killer used a silencer on the death weapon.
Smith said the man had a pistol in his hand. Miss Shannon, who greeted the stranger when he appeared at the office, said she was "sure" that Hardy was the man.
"The expression on his face is very familiar," Egan quoted her as saying after careful examination of the picture. "I'd say that is the man—yes."
"Are you sure," Egan asked.
"Yes," the receptionist replied.

Greenville Man Is 'M.C.' At German
By CHESTER WALSH
The June German at Rocky Mount Friday night will be an outstanding social event in North Carolina. Friday night's festivities will be somewhat in the nature of a "reunion of old friends of the German in the before-the-war days," one of the promoters said. The German is being held this year for the first time since 1941, the year in which the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor and started the war. Incidentally, James E. Tanner, Greenville police chief, will be master of ceremonies. The former Nash County deputy sheriff has filled this place of honor for 17 years. A message from the June German Committee invited Tanner to come over and preside again this year.
The important part of the program begins at 10:45, when J. D. Winstead of Rocky Mount, president of the German Club, will lead the German figure.

fullest cooperation to the spraying crew.
Dr. Ennett said he regrets that it is not possible for the spraying crew to reach all sections of the county in this extremely important sanitation program, but added that when the householder desires to do the spraying himself, the Health Department has a few of the proper kind of nozzles for use in spraying and this will be loaned to such householder as desired. He stated that the nozzle will fit any ordinary pressure sprayer like those commonly used for fruit trees and tobacco plants.

need for remedial legislation.
On the other hand, Rep. Celler (D-NY), another member of the committee, said he didn't see what Congress could do about the controversy because "it involves only a judge's judgment" of when he should disqualify himself.
Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) brought into the open the resignation whispers that have been heard from the moment the feud broke at Nuernberg.

Police Recover Car Stolen During May
By CHESTER WALSH
With the assistance of Tarboro Policeman Harry Alderman, Hank Tribble's automobile was recovered in Tarboro and Roosevelt Clarke, 29-year old Negro was arrested. The car was stolen in Greenville May 9. Recently the Tarboro officer saw Clarke in the car, but he fled. On description sent to Rocky Mount officers, Clarke was arrested there. Chief Tanner and officers Crawford and Corbett brought him back here for trial.
Incidentally, Clarke recently had a hearing before a Tarboro magistrate on a charge of stealing $350 worth of chickens and is under bond for appearance in Edgecombe Superior Court.

Although wounded in the arm Henderson was able to fire several times before receiving the fatal wound, but the shots went wild, the police chief continued.
Patrolman Joseph Slinger, summoned by a man who had heard noise of the shooting, took in the scene through a window and shot through the glass, hitting Martin.
The police chief said immediately prior to Martin's appearance at the station, Henderson had received a phone call from the Ohio Bell Telephone Exchange saying "a crazy man just tried to place a long distance call here and is on his way over here."
Chief Switzer said he would file a first degree murder charge against Martin later today. Martin who lived in Navarre, O., was taken to a hospital.

with Mr. Truman's emergency strike control measure, which is awaiting House Rules Committee action after passing both chambers in varying form. It provides for government seizure of essential strike-bound plants and would require union leaders to take affirmative action to get their members back to work.
Key Republicans are opposed to this rider strategy at present, however. They told reporters it would give the President a chance to veto both plans, and thus win favor of labor generally.
Many influential GOP law-makers said they would just as soon do nothing more this session, and then blame the President for any future labor discord which may develop.

"We gave the President a bill which would do a great deal to curb industrial strife and he killed it, so what more can we do?" Rep. Allen (R-Ill.) asserted in a typical comment.
Republicans obviously enjoyed one phase of the fight—the reopening of the breach between the Northern and Southern wings of the democratic party.
Yesterday's roll call clearly showed the divergent democratic views. Republicans voted almost as a unit to override the Chief Executive, only 15 taking the other side. But the Democrats were split with 118 voting to sustain the President and 96 against him.
The total vote was 255 to override and 115 against. A switch of five votes for overriding would have provided the required two-thirds majority.

London, June 12—(AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell will use a boat powered by a jet engine in an attempt to break his own speedboat record in England sometime in the fall. It will be the first time a jet engine ever has been fitted to a boat, the 60-year-old Campbell declared.

Pompton Lakes, N. J., June 12—(AP)—You'd imagine a fighter would think twice before criticizing Joe Louis' fighting skill, especially when he's a sparring partner his coffee and cakes letting Joe pommel-shot at him, thereby giving the Bomber a daily chance to ram his words right back where they came from.

Yet, Al Hossman, a lean string-bean kind of walloper out of Waterloo, Iowa, not only speaks his piece, but actually takes his life in his hands going into the ring with Joe—and then deliberately proves what he says. Maybe it's the influence of the late Jimmy Johnston, who managed Al and who was never known to use two words when a thousand would do.

Anyway, Al's observations about what is wrong with Joe at the moment—largely that he's making mistakes in the ring, among them that he tips an opponent off when he's ready to let go his big punch—were more or less borne out by a New York State Athletic Commission physician yesterday.

Dr. Vincent Nardello examined Joe before what was the worst workout of his training drill for Billy Conn June 19 and said Louis was ready to fight today. Then he gave Joe the double-o again, after the work, and did an about face. This is what he said the second time around:

"Joe's blood pressure went too high during the workout, indicating he might tire at 15 rounds. He was not sharp, particularly with his counter-punching. Frankly, he was not as good as I expected him to be. Of course, all this could be overcome with a few days more training. And he has until next Wednesday."

Coming from behind in the last inning, the Third Street Tigers defeated the Training School Yankees yesterday at Third St. park, by the score of 12-11.

Bobby Flye pitching for the winners led his team at bat, getting five hits in six tries. Bobby Watson, also of the winners, had three doubles in six attempts.

Lewis Clark, of the losers, besides leading his team in the field also led at the bat with three doubles. Joe Clark was next, with a double and a triple. These same two teams meet again today at the Training School field.

day at the Training School.

The Third Street Tigers kept their slate clean by defeating the Training School Yankees this morning by a score of 10-1. Hallet Clark, Bobby Watson and Bobby Flye led a powerful hitting attack for the winners. Lewis Clark, Ayers and Lupton with two hits each were the only Eastenders able to solve the offerings of Flye to any extent.

The Third Street Giants defeated the Training School Wildcats this morning by the score of 15-4. Sydnee Briley with five hits and Zack Tart with four led the winners at bat. Wooten, Rowland and Umphlett with three hits each led the losers.

ECTC Preparing Football Season
Baseball weather doesn't keep "Big Jim" Johnson of Raleigh, head coach at East Carolina Teachers College, from thinking in terms of football. Coach Johnson has announced early fall practices for the Pirates would begin on September 1. In discussing the preliminary fall standing, Coach Johnson explained that he would use the T-formation that Don Faurat, now head coach at the University of Missouri, used so effectively when he coached the Iowa Sea Hawks in 1943. Johnson played tackle for the Sea Hawks in that year.

When the Pirate squad turns out for the practices, among the candidates will be Charles Brown of Portsmouth, Va., former all-southern high school football star, and Slade Phillips, also of Portsmouth, former all-state high school football star.

Coach Johnson today announced a nine-game grid schedule for the Pirates this fall.

The schedule:
Sept. 28—Open.
Oct. 5—Atlantic Christian College here.
Oct. 12—Elon there.
Oct. 19—Erskine here.
Oct. 25—Naval Apprentice (Newport News) there.
Nov. 2—Open.
Nov. 9—Atlantic Christian there.
Nov. 16—West Carolina Teachers College here.
Nov. 23—Lenoir-Rhyne there.

for an international development authority, to which the United States and all other nations would turn over their knowledge of atomic developments in years to come.

The U. S. proposals will be presented by Bernard M. Baruch, President Truman's special representative on the UN atomic commission. The commission meets Friday.

Baruch was called before the Senate's special committee on atomic energy today for a progress report.

When he emerged from the closed-door meeting, Baruch declined to discuss his plan for international control of the new power source in advance of its presentation to the UN commission Friday.

in the "portal to portal" coal mine pay dispute was widely regarded among lawmakers of both parties as a smudge on the sedate reputation of the high court.

The President's veto of the Case bill and the subsequent House vote to sustain was accepted by the Republicans as giving them the opportunity to put the responsibility on the Democrats for any future labor controversies that disturb the nation's economy.

It is generally believed on Capitol Hill that even if the vetoed Case bill is attached to the revised version of Mr. Truman's emergency labor legislation the President would veto the whole thing.

That would add up to no labor legislation. There was democratic criticism meanwhile, of Mr. Truman's veto action. It came from the group of Southerners who had been first to cheer and support his request for extraordinary powers to deal with labor disputes at the climax of the rail strike.

On the other hand, praise of the veto came from those who had been most severe in criticizing Mr. Truman for ever proposing that workers who strike against the government be drafted into uniform.

the Maritime Workers want is "the same consideration as any other citizen" in wages and hours matters. He said that at present seamen are exempted from federal wage and hour provisions.

He also spoke out bitterly against what he called a lack of protection for Maritime Workers during the war.

He said that such workers who were injured received none of the benefits accorded members of the armed forces. At this point, Rep. Buck (R-NY) interposed to say that the House Merchant Marine Committee will approve soon a "GI Bill of Rights for Maritime Workers."

Curran commented that "we have been working for this bill for years and I hope you are right."

More details of the latest government compromise came into the open, and it seemed to be gaining in favor. For two days the Labor Department has been fighting hard for this plan behind the scenes and keeping mum on its chances, while optimism sprouted little by little. The plan calls for paying extra cash to seamen as a reward for continuing the present 5-hour week at sea.
