

NEW EVIDENCE FOUND IN WAR PROFITS HUNT

Find Congressmen Used Influence To Help Profiteering Group

Washington, July 3—(AP)—Congressional search for the secret behind the swift wartime development of an Illinois munitions combine produced evidence today that its promoters got a helping hand from Rep. May (D-Ky.), chairman of the powerful House Military Committee.

The Senate War Investigating Committee disclosed a three-year old telephone conversation transcript quoting May as pressing the army to give more war orders to his "old friends"—a group of Illinois operators criticized by Chairman McNamara (D-Ind.) for what he called "profiteering."

"These fellows are good friends of mine and have been very kind to me in the past about some things and I want to help them if I could," May was quoted as saying.

"I'm not asking any favors for them. I just want them to get equal treatment."

With this surprise material spread on the record, the War Investigating Committee today summoned new witnesses for questioning on the affairs of the Illinois munitions group.

May, leaving for Kentucky last night to keep a July 4th speaking engagement, declined to discuss the evidence which the committee heard yesterday. He confined himself to saying he would "comment at the appropriate time," without indicating when that might be.

However, a responsible congressional official who would not be quoted directly reported there was a strong possibility that May will be invited to testify. He said the committee already has been in touch with the Kentuckian regarding the evidence.

The transcript, purported to be a telephone conversation on May 1, 1943, between May, who steers War Department legislation through the House as head of the Military Committee, and Maj. Gen. J. H. Campbell, then chief of army ordnance.

It centered around a suggestion that the army increase its use of the Batavia metal products and the Erie Basin Metal Products Co., engaged in manufacture of shell casings and fuses, two of the 19 corporations whose complicated operations, tangled financial framework and high profits are under investigation.

Peace Conference Seen Near Future

Foreign Ministers Near Agreement On All Important Phases Of Italian Peace Treaty; Meeting Of 21-Nation Conference Expected Within Few Weeks

Paris, July 3—(AP)—The possibility that a 21-nation peace conference might be convened here in a matter of weeks was forecast by competent observers today amid indications that the foreign ministers council was near agreement on all important phases of the Italian peace treaty.

Chief point still to be resolved by the four foreign ministers was the question of how the city of Trieste should be administered under a French proposal for internationalization of the disputed port—a proposal on which the council agreed in principle yesterday.

There was widespread belief, however, that this issue would not prove too difficult and that U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes might realize his desire that a general peace conference be convened before the end of the month.

Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov himself was quoted by a British spokesman as saying after yesterday's council meeting that the four powers had come so close to settling the Trieste problem that a few more talks should produce a concrete proposal which would be taken before a peace conference.

The meeting yesterday ended with the United States and Great Britain. Continued on Page Four

New Aldermen Are Sworn In

Aldermen who were elected at the recent city primary election were sworn in yesterday by Superior Court Clerk David Thurston House. They are L. M. Buchanan, Dr. M. B. Massey, Berry Bette and C. B. Mayo. Mayo succeeded J. A. Watson, who had served 12 years on the board and made a creditable record. Watson announced last year that he would not run for the office again, because growth of the hardware business requires more of his time.

The hold-over aldermen who do not come up for election until next year when the mayor is elected are N. G. Raynor, W. H. Smith, N. C. Brooks, C. A. Bowen and Rufus Keel.

Keel recently tendered his resignation to Mayor Jack Boyd. The Board of Aldermen appointed W. Z. Morton, tobacco warehouseman to succeed him. Morton was sworn in today.

Warehousemen Hold Meeting

The Greenville Warehouse Association at its second meeting, held Tuesday morning at the Greenville Tobacco Company's offices, decided to adopt the same selling system last year for marketing the 1946 tobacco crop. President Guy Smith presided.

The association went on record as favoring continuing crop control. Sales Supervisor William L. Whedbee was instructed to arrange with R. Fluke Shaw, secretary of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation, to speak on "Crop Control" during the WGTG and the other four Tobacco Network stations on Monday, July 8, at 12:15.

The association passed a resolution authorizing warehousemen to rent unused parts of their warehouses to tobacco redrying plants for storage of leaf tobacco, subject to approval of the committee composed of Guy V. Smith, Floyd McGowan and Rufus V. Keel.

The following members were at yesterday's meeting: Noah G. Raynor, R. V. Keel, M. Dow Lassiter, Harold Forbes, Gus Forbes, B. B. Spig, H. R. Rogers, C. Hugh McGowan, Guy V. Smith, W. Z. Morton, Floyd McGowan, Biggs Cannon, Harvey Ward and James T. Keel and W. L. Whedbee, sales supervisor.

Cattle Prices Soar In Post-OPA Trading Rush

Record High Prices In Livestock Markets; Other Commodities Hold Fairly Firm; Rental Complaints Mounting

By the Associated Press
The U. S. consumer had only scattered pieces of a jigsaw puzzle today to indicate his future financial picture but he glimpsed his better prospects in a few of them.

While it was too early to determine over-all trends in the costs of everyday necessities, the consumer took note of record high prices yesterday for cattle, above-calling payments for hogs and varying increases in some places in what he pays for butter, poultry, milk, flour, cheese and a few other items, particularly rent.

Offsetting these advances, however, were steady price levels in many another commodity, plus pleasures from business and industry to keep them that way wherever possible.

The Senate, divided as to the necessity for a restoration of price controls, was studying a possible compromise measure.

From around the nation came a crescendo of complaints from tenants who told of extra high rents imposed by landlords, but there were indications that most renters had received no notice of increases. Several states and cities acted to put ceilings on rentals, while others studied the matter.

MANY CHARGES FACE STUDENT

Degnan Suspect Held For Hearings On 25 Charges

Chicago, July 3—(AP)—William G. Helrens, 17-year-old student questioned about the kidnaping and slaying last winter of Suzanne Degnan, was ordered held for the grand jury today on four charges of assault and 21 of burglary.

Judge Matthew D. Martigan of Felony Court set the youth's bond at $700,000—$10,000 on each of the 21 burglary charges, and $15,000 on each of the four assault charges.

The University of Chicago student was arrested Wednesday night on one of the burglary charges. The Federal Bureau of Investigation reported that one of his palm and finger prints were "identical" with prints found on a note demanding $200,000 ransom from the Degnan family.

Counsel for Helrens waived preliminary examination at the arraignment on the assault and burglary charges.

After the youth's attorney had lost a court fight to obtain his release on a writ of habeas corpus yesterday, Helrens was formally charged with assault with intent to murder, three charges of assault with intent to kill and 21 burglaries. None of the charges involve the Degnan crime, said State's Attorney William T. Tuohy.

O'Daniels Quits Blocking Senate

HOUSING GOAL HIT BY LACK OF FUNTURE

Two Measures To Revive OPA Given Senate Banking Committee; Bills Are Identical In Extending Controls To July 20 Pending New Legislation; Truman's Views Gain Strength

Washington, July 3—(AP)—Two measures to revive price controls reached the Senate Banking Committee for consideration today after Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex.) abandoned the blocking tactics that had stalled them for three days.

O'Daniel gave up after making a jocular motion to refer the bills to the Committee on Pensions.

He said that seemed the logical place for them as 65,000 former employees of OPA now have nothing to do.

Majority Leader Barkley suggested O'Daniel's motion was out of order, and Senator Maybank (D-SC) acting president pro tempore, upheld Barkley.

The two bills—one already passed by the House, the other introduced in the Senate by Banking Committee Chairman Wagner (D-NY)—are identical.

Each would grant OPA a temporary extension of life, until July 20, to give Congress time to work out permanent legislation if possible.

There appeared, meanwhile, several signs that the coalition which molded the presidentially-voiced OPA extender might be falling apart.

Senator Murdock (D-Utah) said that as a member of the Banking Committee he has received concrete indications that some Democrats who joined in whittling down OPA have had a change of heart.

"I think the President has soured his party behind his position on the price control question as it never was solidified before," Murdock told a reporter.

He added that the 237 to 61 House vote Monday for 30-day stop-gap controls, with Rep. Roe of Maryland as the sole Democrat opposing, indicated a trend that may provide good news for OPA in the Senate.

The Republicans declared, however, they will not agree to restore price controls without sharp restrictions in OPA authority.

Chairman Tamm (Ohio) of the minority steering committee said he personally is willing to compromise some of the provisions of an extension measure. But he added that many of his colleagues want to renege without material change the bill Mr. Truman vetoed.

There is some Republican sentiment, too, to let OPA lie dormant until the full effects of the agency's death can be assessed.

Senator Moore (Okla.) put this sentiment into words in a radio address last night in which he said he had heard nothing in the first two days without price control to indicate a national collapse—or uncontrolled inflation.

Ex-Chauffeur Claims He Saw Hitler Dead

Nuernberg, Germany, July 3—(AP)—Hitlers former chauffeur, Hans Kempka, testified today that he saw the German leader lying dead in the Reichschancellery the afternoon of April 30, 1945, and also helped carry Eva Braun's body outside for cremation.

Kempka also told the international military tribunal he saw Martin Bormann, missing aide of the fuhrer who is on trial in absentia, blasted by a bazooka shell with such force that it was impossible for him to be alive either.

Playwright Returns To Work On Picture

Manteo, July 3—(AP)—Paul Green, Chapel Hill playwright who wrote the Lost Colony symphonic drama now playing its sixth season on Roanoke Island, has returned to Hollywood where he will complete work on a moving picture.

He planned a stop at Williamsburg, Va., where he will confer with officials of the Jamestown Drama Corporation on plans for a Jamestown drama, which he will write during the next few months.

State Road Program Is Biggest In South

Raleigh, July 3—(AP)—North Carolina today had under way what was described as the South's biggest road improvement program—the rehabilitation of over 62,000 miles of state and local roads.

The program was outlined to a civic club here yesterday by James S. Burch, State Highway Commission planning engineer, who said $25,000,000 worth of contracts were let during the past nine months, exclusive of a $10,000,000 project for stabilization of unpaved rural roads.

Addressing the Raleigh Junior Chamber of Commerce, Burch said the greatest obstacles to the highway program were shortages of labor, materials and equipment.

Reuther Warns Union May Break Contracts

Detroit, July 3—(AP)—The powerful CIO United Auto Workers Union today threatened to break its contracts and reopen wage negotiations if prices climb.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW-CIO president, delivered the warning at a union rally last night which called for a one-day nationwide labor holiday to protest the end of OPA controls. He declared:

"I serve notice on industry that if prices go up and Congress fails to reenact the OPA law, we will open our wage contracts whether provisions to do are in them or not."

The delegates pledged themselves to buy only "the most urgent necessities of life," and called for organization of extended buyers strikes.

THE WORLD TODAY

An Analysis Of The News

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR. For DeWitt MacKenzie

A six-nation submarine alliance to draw up a charter for control of the atomic bomb has begun its work with the United States agreeing in principle to ultimate surrender of its superiority in this field.

On August 11, 1921, the former allies being then as now in search of peace, President Harding advised them that armaments were "a constant menace to the peace of the world, rather than an assurance of preservation," and invited them to meet in Washington to discuss disarmament. They came, and among other agreements reached was a five-power treaty limiting naval strength for 15 years.

Japan signed, but soon there were indications that she was interpreting the complicated limitations on tonnage, gunpower and armament to suit herself. Britain and the United States, on the other hand, were anxious to avoid naval building expense.

The United States actually scrapped real ships, as well as her ship-building program.

In 1930 the powers further agreed to withhold construction of some ships which would have been permitted between 1931 and 1936, and the Japanese were later suspected of some circumvention on this score too, but the issue was never brought to a head. (It was only learned later, too late, that this circumvention was to play an important role in 1941-45.)

Then, in 1934, came renegotiation of the treaty. But it failed, and by 1937 the whole theory of naval limitation had fallen apart. The nations began to build. Japan at breakneck speed, scouring the world including the United States, for materials. The U. S. building lag however, was such that, when a new war broke out, she had few capital ships capable of operating with the recently-conceived aircraft carriers.

THE NATION TODAY

By James Marlow

Washington, July 3—(AP)—In the weekend hour of Bikini's atomic bomb and the feverish finish of OPA you may have overlooked the end of an experiment in human relations.

It was the FEPC, the Fair Employment Practice Committee. It died Sunday at midnight death that was neither sudden nor unexpected. It was a temporary wartime agency.

But the death of this temporary agency does not mean that the idea is dead or that the people who want Congress to set up a permanent FEPC will relax their fight. It is a fight likely to go on for years.

President Roosevelt created FEPC five years ago in an effort to prevent wartime discrimination against workers—in government jobs or war plants—because of color, race or religious belief.

It had some good success, it had some failures. But since war's end the struggle it set out to do has become largely undone and discrimination is back again.

WILSON TAKES TWIN VICTORY OVER LOCALS

Greenies Defense Breaks In 13th Frame; Lose 8-2 In Second Game

The league leading Wilson Tobaccoists collected two more games over the Greenies in last night's double-header. The Greenville nine played a rousing ball in the evening's first game and used four pitchers and had the Wilsonites to a 9-0 dead-end at the close of the ninth inning.

In the ninth, Wilson overcame the Greenies' three-run advantage when Eddie Bauer opened the frame with a home run. The next two batters walked, and Manager Dickens doubled both home to send the game into the extra innings.

The tenth, eleventh and twelfth innings were "sweated out" with neither side able to score. In the thirteenth, Bissette, pitching for the Tobaccoists, hit a double off the left, centerfield fence to score Stuart who had walked.

Ray Carlson and V. Blackwell led the Greenies at bat with three hits apiece. Manager Payne, and M. Blackwell were each credited with two.

The box-score for the second game was not immediately available, but Wilson walked off with the honors with an 8-2 victory, lowering the Greenies to a tie in league standings with New Bern.

The local club will have their opportunity for retaliation as the Wilson nine plays a return match here tonight at Guy Smith Stadium.

Rich British Colony Borneo Kingdom Now

London, July 1—(AP)—Sarawak, rich and romantic Borneo kingdom of the White Rajahs, became a British Crown colony today.

An order in council put into effect legislation approved by the British parliament and Sarawak's supreme council.

WATCH OUT

Memphis, July 1—(AP)—A 60-year-old youngster, Mrs. Mattie Driver, bought a motor scooter, and invited Mrs. Ida L. Frisby, 82, for a ride.

But the scooter—with Mrs. Driver at the helm—got out of control. The ladies landed in the hospital, Mrs. Frisby with a possible fracture of the shoulder and Mrs. Driver with a head cut.

Piped Mrs. Frisby: "I have no regrets. I was doing something I'd always wanted to do."

Bragged Mrs. Driver: "This won't stop me—I intend to ride my scooter to Chattanooga just as soon as I get up."

Homeless Youth Has Turned Cave-Dweller

Pittsburgh, July 2—(AP)—With an old bed spring and other cast-off items as "furnishings," 20-year-old Chester Gillette, married and jobless, has become a cliff-dweller in a hillside cave at nearby Heidelberg because he can't beat the housing shortage.

Gillette took up a hermit's existence—interrupted only by daily visits from his 19-year-old wife and their infant daughter—because the small home of his wife's father in Carnegie became overcrowded with ten persons.

He found the cave home while doing odd jobs around the neighborhood. He had had to give up his war-time job as a mechanic to a returning serviceman.

His attractive wife, who prepares his meals over an open fire, said: "It isn't weren't for the baby, I'd be here with Chester all the time."

Traffic Increases South East Airline

Traffic demands on South East Airlines DC-3 Skyliners have reached the point where it is necessary to require reservations for passengers on all flights, it was announced from Charlotte, N. C. today by Douglas Blythe, general traffic manager of South East Airlines.

This will go into effect on July 5. "Requests for passage have been constantly increasing all over the state," Blythe said, "and load factors have gone up to such a point that passengers on South East Airlines are breaking all past records for air miles flown, and it is felt that by requiring reservations on all flights, we will be better serving the needs of the North Carolina flying public."

To further increase public service, each station on the SEA Skyliner routes will be given generous space allotments, so that passengers in each city thus served will be able in most cases, to obtain immediate confirmation of reservations. This breakdown of space control will allow business men at all intermediate cities to obtain reservations at virtually the last minute, when those rush or emergency trips come up. Doctors and patients will also be benefited by being able to obtain quick reservations for emergency and mercy trips.

This is something which has been virtually unheard of since the advent of the war, and the institution of this policy is indicative of South East Airlines policy of serving com-

Whedbee Issues Tobacco Report

W. L. Whedbee, supervisor of sales for the Greenville tobacco market has issued the following report of the condition of the tobacco crop:

"It is our pleasure to report that the last two weeks of good weather conditions over the entire Eastern Bright Belt have produced the expected results. While stands of tobacco have been very good over almost this entire section from the very beginning and while rain has been almost too plentiful, yet, up until the last two weeks in June, the growth of the 1946 crop had been retarded, to some extent, by weather which was exceptionally cool for that time of year.

"A survey which has just been thoroughly and accurately made by over 400 substantial farmers and County Agents, located over this entire section reveals the following facts with respect to the 1946 crop: That during the last two weeks tobacco has had an unusually rapid growth; that a large number of farmers have had many fields which have buttoned out unusually low; that while the prospects are still good for this year's crop, with normal-weather conditions, yet many of our substantial growers think that it is reasonable to expect the number of leaves per stalk to be slightly less than last year's crop and that the yield per acre will be approximately 100 pounds or more light as compared with last year's crop."

"At the time of the writing of this report some tobacco has been banded in almost every County in the East, and the next ten days will see curing become general over the entire Eastern Bright Belt.

"We wish to take this opportunity to urge the thousands of growers, farm owners and business men who regularly receive and read this report to give more attention to the careful grading and handling of this year's crop, particularly if the price ceiling is definitely removed as, in this event, it is our opinion that proper grading and handling will materially affect the price that you will receive for your crop."

Briley and Wilkenson with two hits were the leaders for the Giants Milton Foley with a home run and Tucker with a double led the Cardinals.

Good defensive play by the Tigers enabled them to keep the Yankees from scoring and they registered an 11 to 0 victory over the Eastenders. The game which was played at the stadium Tuesday morning was rained out after five innings.

Bobby Flye not only pitched well but also came up with two hits for the Tigers. Bobby Williams and Stoneham got two hits apiece for the winners. Joe Sawyer was the only Yankee to get two hits.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

ARE WE REALLY FREE?

Every American ought to sit down on the Fourth of July and ask himself what it's all about. Why did our forefathers adopt this mighty instrument? Why were they willing to put their heads into a noose, and all this for a great ideal?

They were willing to do this because they had made a great decision. They had decided that they would rather be dead than be in servitude. If freedom demanded the ultimate price of death, they were willing to pay it.

Was their sacrifice worthwhile? The answer is Yes. But that answer does not nullify the fact that we live in a day when men are free from free. In great sections of the world people are still held in bondage. In our own country, pressure groups get their way and the interests of the average citizen are forgotten. Almost a year has passed since the war came to an end, yet we have had nothing but industrial strife during that time. And this nation of ours, with all its vast resources and great need for manufactured goods has had to live on a pittance while warring groups in the nation struggle with one another.

Let us get out the Declaration of Independence and read it again. Let us ask ourselves what's the matter with us and with the world in which we live.

HOLDING THE LINE

Realizing the danger of uncontrolled prices and the inflation which could develop with the expiration of the OPA, the automobile dealers of Greenville met Monday noon and resolved to take the lead in this community in holding the price line and forestalling any unwarranted inflation.

The initiative taken by the automobile dealers of Greenville in this connection is to be commended by all; and it is to be hoped that the great majority of the business men of this county, state and nation will resolve to follow such progressive lines of business thinking.

Although there were some inequalities suffered under the OPA as previously administered, the motive and purpose of its price controls were unquestionably sound, and worked to the great advantage of the people.

The citizens of this country can still demand that they receive fair value for their dollar by exercising great care in making their purchases. They can patronize the dependable merchants who are trying to offer the best merchandise they can secure at a reasonable profit.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By MORRIS M. CLEAVINGER

Washington—It hasn't received much notice in recent weeks, but there is a silver shortage.

Manufacturers are feeling keenly. Congress is aware of the situation and for several weeks has been trying to find a solution to the problem. But as often happens, the House and Senate so far have come up with different ideas about what should be done.

The shortage has come about while Treasury coffers bulge with 225,000,000 ounces of unrefined silver. The catch is that there is no law on the books right now that says the Treasury can sell any of it.

The Treasury stockpile is the main hope of the silver manufacturers. Experts estimate that since 1940 there has been a 200 percent increase in the industrial use of the metal, while domestic production has dropped 57 percent. Mint reports show that during the past five years not enough silver was mined in this country even to meet coinage demands.

During the war years, processors were permitted to buy Treasury silver at 71.11 cents an ounce. The act authorizing this expired last December, however, and the western silver bloc in Congress so far has prevented its renewal.

The tug-of-war now going on, which has kept the Treasury doors firmly closed to buyers, is over price. Senators and representatives from the silver mining states want silver bought and sold at the full monetary value, $1.29 an ounce. Manufacturers have sought a smaller figure.

The House attached a rider to the Treasury Appropriations bill authorizing sale of the metal at 71.11 cents an ounce, but so far that legislation has stayed in a Senate committee.

Meanwhile, the Senate Banking and Currency Committee has come forth with a compromise plan which would set the Treasury silver price at 90.3 cents an ounce for two years and then boost it to $1.29.

Judson C. Travis, representing Handy and Harman, silver semi-fabricators of New York City, told the Senate committee during hearings that industry would require about 125,000,000 ounces of silver in 1946.

"Since the end of 1945 . . . industry has had to depend upon the relatively meager quantities of silver available from domestic mining and imports from abroad," he said.

"Supplies from these sources amounted to about 30 percent of industrial needs in January, 15 percent in February and are now running well under 10 percent of the average rate of requirement."

So miners and manufacturers are waiting for Congress to act. In the meantime they keep an anxious eye on that Treasury stockpile.

Japan, though, had been building both capital ships and carriers, and converting cruisers into fast carriers. She had developed the art of sea-air warfare considerably beyond the point attained by the United States, which originated the idea but had let it lie comparatively dormant during the years when she observed both the letter and spirit of disarmament.

The London naval conference broke up on December 19, 1934, with a defy from Japan that she was well able to take care of herself.

On December 7, 1941, Japanese carrier-based planes sank eight U. S. battleships at Pearl Harbor.

The full atomic energy control committee meets today to consider rules of procedure.

The Nation . . . New Evidence . . .

quity. May said, according to the transcript, that he had inspected one of the plans, and that "it looked to me like they had an awfully pretty setup and are doing an awful pretty job."

He suggested that Campbell get in touch with Maj. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, chief of the Chicago Ordnance District, and "jump" on him for it.

Peace . . .

holding out for United Nations supervision of an internationalized Trieste while Russia and France favored placing the administration under the Big Four.

Byrnes was said to have told the other foreign ministers that the United States could only agree to the internationalization proposal if the United Nations were given responsibility for the integrity and administration of the zone. He held that the governor of the area should be appointed by the United Nations and argued that U. N. prestige would add greatly to the zone's trade and commerce.

Molotov countered with the argument that the United Nations charter did not provide for the U. N. taking over any territory except under a trusteeship and that there had been no proposal to create a trusteeship over Trieste.

The Soviet foreign minister had accepted the French-proposed internationalization plan yesterday, yielding on his insistence that the disputed city should go to Yugoslavia. The western powers originally had insisted that it go to Italy.

Byrnes and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin also were reported to have taken the stand yesterday that the foreign ministers should not attempt to draft a future constitution for the international zone but should leave this to the peace conference, where others, including both Italy and Yugoslavia, could be heard.

FEPC can end employment discrimination.

The Republicans, but not the Democrats, in their 1944 party platform said they favored a permanent FEPC. A bill to set up one was offered in Congress in 1945.

It finally was called up in January, 1946, but Southern Democrats put on a long filibuster to block it. It won't, except by miracle, come up again in this Congress.

But a new bill is a cinch to be offered in the next Congress which starts in 1947. Southern Democrats will certainly fight it again.

The opposition of Southern Democrats in the Senate is one of the main reasons—probably the outstanding reason—why it may take years to get a permanent FEPC through Congress.

Here in Washington there is an organization called the National Council for a permanent FEPC. It claims 100 local councils in 34 states. Its name tells its purpose.

Its co-chairmen are A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, and Dr. Allen Knight Chalmers, pastor of New York's Broadway Tabernacle Church.

Meanwhile, several states—among them New York—have set up laws against job discrimination because of race, creed or color.

will be "as bad, or at least any worse, than the black market under which we have suffered so long," Moore added.

"Congress is always available for emergency legislation."

In a later broadcast, Stabilization Director Chester Bowles, who has resigned effective July 10, cautioned that living costs would double within 30 days if the present upward trend of commodity prices continued.

Homecoming Day Aug. 14

Will Honor War Veterans With Big Celebration And Feast

August 14 has been set aside as a celebration day for all veterans of World War I and World War II. The American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars with the cooperation of other organizations of Pitt County is sponsoring this day to honor the veterans of the county.

Tentative plans have been made for an all-day celebration to be held in Greenville.

The committee in charge has arranged a parade of veterans led by one or more bands. One of these bands will be from a military post near here. The Merchants Association is cooperating by having all the business establishments except cafes and drug stores close before the parade and remain closed during the day.

A big barbecue dinner will be served to all veterans and their immediate families free of charge. Since the dinner committee will have to know how many to prepare for, the Women's Auxiliary of the Legion will set up registration booths from July 15 to August 1 in places over the county to be later designated.

Veterans must register in these places to receive their tickets to the barbecue.

A ball game will be arranged for the afternoon program and the recreation committee is investigating the possibilities for a dance in the evening.

This day is one of the most important days to all citizens of Pitt County. Without the veterans whom we are honoring no one knows what would have happened to our country. All citizens are urged to come to Greenville for the celebration. Keep in touch with your newspaper and radio for the latest developments the committee in charge suggests.

New Assistant Home Demonstration Agent

Miss Verna Belle Lowery, daughter of Mrs. J. R. Lowery of Trenton, began her duties as assistant home demonstration agent in Pitt County July 1. She is a graduate of East Carolina Teachers College. She taught vocational home economics in Craven County schools prior to going to Williamston, where she was critic teacher for East Carolina Teachers College in home economic education.

Miss Lowery succeeded Miss Ruth Bizzell, who recently resigned and was married last Saturday.

Celebrate July Fourth Quietly

July Fourth—Independence Day—will be generally observed here as a holiday. The banks, postoffice city, county and federal government offices will be closed. Business places, except cafes and some drug stores, will be closed. No local celebration is planned. Many are planning to spend the day at the seashore and other resorts.

Authorities today warned everybody to help make this a safe July Fourth by driving carefully to avoid accidents. State Highway Patrol Lt. Lester Jones, Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson and Police Chief James E. Tanner joined in the warning to motorists, picknickers, vacationists and others to guard against accidents.

Following the usual custom, there will be no edition of the Daily Reflector Thursday—a legal holiday.

City Asks For Bids On Paving Project

The city of Greenville has advertised for bids on the $250,000 street paving project. The bids will be opened at the City Hall on Tuesday, July 16. Mayor Jack Boyd said. The city reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids. The entire fund will be used for unpaved streets.

Authority for issuing the bonds was granted at a recent election. The bonds will be sold in August. Work of resurfacing paved and other streets will be started in about a week, it was stated. Money for repairing streets was included in the last city budget.

PEANUT CROP IS VALUABLE

Leon Roebuck Tells Rotarians About Oily Nut

By WYATT BROWN

Peanuts do not compete with tobacco as a cash crop in Pitt County but they brought in $1,500,000 to Pitt County farmers last year, according to statistics given by Leon Roebuck in his talk on the place of the peanut in the economy of Pitt County. He also told of the numerous uses the peanut has been put to.

Mr. Roebuck told how the peanut was found in this hemisphere, taken back to Europe and Africa and then reintroduced by the early colonists. They were brought here also by the slave ships which used them for feeding the slaves enroute from Africa. One pound of the goobers provides enough calories for a day's food, though not a balanced diet.

It seems the peanut has many names. Mr. Roebuck said as he listed many of the appellations applied to the pender—manilla nut, grass nut, besides pender, gober, and peanut. The uses of the peanut run from use on the farm to commercial and food uses. Forty per cent of the peanut crop is used to produce oil and 90 percent of the oil is used for food—the balance has industrial and other uses. The speaker said there were 200 ways peanuts are used.

Over two and one-half billion pounds of peanuts were produced in 1945. Georgia is the leading state in their production. North Carolina rates second, along with Alabama and Texas. But Mr. Roebuck declared that North Carolina has the highest yield per acre—1,100 pounds to the acre. North Carolina produced a quarter billion pounds peanuts last year and it was the third in importance as a cash crop in the state. One acre in every 10 is used to raise peanuts in Pitt County. They average $108 per acre.

The price has ranged from less than one cent per pound to 11 cents. "The lowly peanut will continue to play its part in the economy of Pitt County in the future," declared Mr. Roebuck in concluding his remarks.

Visiting Rotarians last night were H. J. Landauer and Jimmie Tyler of Kinston. Guests of the club were: Dr. Murray, Dr. E. R. Browning, Joe Gaston, and W. C. Shriver of Arlington, Va.; Bryce B. Brown of Schenectady, N. Y.; James V. Keel presented the speaker of the eve-

Army's High Pay Is Unparalleled Offer

With the passage of the pay increase bill, the U. S. Army now offers unparalleled wages for those men in the armed forces. The measure provides for an immediate 50 per cent increase in the lowest enlisted rank to ten per cent in the highest commissioned grade. As a consequence, upon your enlistment you will begin your Army career with $75.00 a month, which is relatively clear earnings, due to the fact that you will receive the best of food, clothing, and quarters under the peacetime system, all at Army expense.

As a further inducement, greater opportunities for keen, alert young men with an eye to the future are now opening for the participation in the rapidly advancing research and development projects being conducted throughout the world.

Therefore, men who wish to get in on an era of unequalled opportunities and on the ground floor of developments to come, further safeguarding their future, should contact their local recruiting office or the army air force recruiting office stationed at Greensboro' ORD in Greensboro, N. C., where all information will gladly be given upon request.

Asheville, N. C., July 3.—(AP)—Loretta Brozek, 20, left Asheville today for the Alderson, W. Va., federal prison to begin serving a seven-year sentence for kidnapping four-year-old Terry Taylor of Charlotte.

Miss Brozek, a Nebraska farm girl, entered a plea of nolo contendere to the federal charge and sentence was passed by Judge E. Yates Webb, in the U. S. District Court here yesterday.

Miss Brozek and the child were found three days after their disappearance in Annapolis, Md.

Later released, she said she ran away from home again.

She was employed as a nursemaid under the name of "Rosemary Johnson" in the Taylor home a few days before she and the child disappeared.
