U.S. MOVES IN BLOCKING NEW SOVIET GRABS

Offer Puts Russia's Austrian Seizures In Unfavorable Light

Vienna, July 10.—(AP)—The United States government announced today it would not recognize the Russian confiscation of German properties in the Soviet zone of Austria which fell into the category of forced transfers as defined at the London conference of January, 1945.

At the conference, the Allies agreed that they would not recognize the transfer of properties to German ownership in German-occupied areas if such transfers were made forcibly, even if there was apparent willingness on the part of former owners.

Gen. Mark W. Clark, U. S. commander in Austria, announced at the same time that the United States was prepared to turn over to Austrian trusteeship all German assets in the American zone pending negotiations of the allied powers on the U. S. proposal to renounce the American share in German assets in Austria.

Clark presented the Austrian government the communication only three hours after Chancellor Figl had appeared before an extraordinary session of the Austrian parliament to announce his government was not prepared to accept the Russian interpretation of German assets in the Russian zone.

The United States pronouncement was certain to have the heaviest reverberations in Austria, where the Red Army's sudden order transferring a large share of Austria's industrial potential to the Soviet Union had caused consternation.

The pronouncement concluded with these words: "The United States government also wishes to make clear that it will recognize no physical transfer of property as conforming to the terms of the Potsdam agreement which does not also conform to the terms of the United Nations declaration on forced transfer of January 1945, and which does not leave to Austria the sovereign controls of an independent country over the resources within its borders, which was envisioned in the Moscow declaration of 1943.

There was no immediate reaction to the United States note from the Russians, but Austrian government sources expressed great satisfaction. Properties claimed by the Russians represent a large proportion of Austrian industrial capacity and their loss at this time would be a severe blow to the Austrian economy.

Twin Giants Of Labor

After Ten Years Of Growth, The CIO Takes Its Place Beside The AFL As The Main Rallying Points Of Unionism; Roughly 12,000,000 Members

Washington, July 10.—(AP)—The AFL and the CIO are the giants of organized labor. The CIO is 10 years old. The AFL is 60.

For 50 of those 60 years the AFL was the main rallying point of American unionism. Now the CIO stands beside it. Between them they have perhaps 12,000,000 members, or, roughly, 6,000,000 each.

Back in the 1880's, after a long history of struggle and mistakes unions felt the need for a strong central national organization. So the AFL—the American Federation of Labor—was created in 1886. The president was Samuel Gompers who came here as an immigrant from England in 1863 and worked as a cigarmaker.

With the exception of one year, 1894, Gompers remained president from 1886 until his death at the age of 74 in 1924. He had been the head of American labor all those years. William Green succeeded him as president in 1924 and still is president of the AFL.

TWENTY-FIVE DIE IN CRASH

All Aboard Killed As B-17 Plunges Into Mountain

Holyoke, Mass. July 10.—(AP)—An army B-17 bomber flying from Goose Bay, Labrador, to Westover Field, Chicopee, Mass., ploughed into a 1,200-foot Mt. Tom in a light rain and haze last night, killing 25 persons—the entire crew and all passengers.

The Westover Field Public Relations office said the dead included four army crew members and 21 passengers, comprising army and navy personnel and coast guard personnel. Their names were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The Public Relations officer said some of the bodies were mangled beyond recognition. The leg of one was found in a tree and pieces of other bodies were scattered over a wide area.

Parachutes found near the scene indicated some attempted to jump. The bomber exploded upon impact and a second blast apparently blew the big craft apart. The explosions set fires to trees in the area, but rain averted a forest fire, the officer reported.

The plane was overdue at Westover when it crashed. The public relations office said it would be impossible to determine immediately what caused the craft to hit the mountain.

Westover reported that the plane radioed ten minutes before it hit that everything was fine and that it would be in within 10 minutes. Nothing was heard from it again until the army received word of the crash.

Aided by crews from Westover police and firemen labored through the night to extricate bodies. A mile-long walk up the steep rise from the nearest point accessible by vehicles doubled the task of reaching the scene.

Heart Attack Is Fatal For Labor's Sidney Hillman

Point Lookout, N. Y., July 10.—(AP)—Sidney Hillman, 59, labor leader and national chairman of the CIO Political Action Committee, died today.

Death came at 8:40 a. m. (EDT) at the Hillman summer home at 107 Glenwood Avenue here.

Hillman was pronounced dead of a heart condition by Dr. John Cahill, a neighbor.

Offers Extending Former Disarmament Treaty To Forty Years, To Meet Molotov Claim That Original Plan Was Inadequate

Paris, July 10.—(AP)—The United States is willing to extend its proposed disarmament treaty for Germany from 25 to 40 years in meeting Russian assertions that the original plan is inadequate. It was officially disclosed today.

The disclosure came as U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes and Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov aired their dispute over the American proposal by publishing the texts of their statements to the four-power foreign ministers' council yesterday.

Meanwhile, the American delegation also released the text of a second U. S. proposal, first presented to the council June 15. This proposal calls for the appointment of special deputy foreign ministers to outline allied policy toward Germany for the time when a peace treaty can be written.

It further provided that the special deputies initiate at once an intensive study of the problems involved in the German settlement and to prepare a draft of a proposed settlement for Germany.

OPA RECORDS MUST BE KEPT

Order Affects Businesses Formerly Under Controls

Raleigh, July 10.—Manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, and all other persons required under price control regulations to have kept records must preserve them until July 1, 1947, the Office of Price Administration announced today.

The action, supplementary order 9745 signed by President Truman on June 30, 1946, is effective as of June 30, 1946.

The executive order authorized OPA to continue all the functions, powers and duties vested in it by the emergency price control act of 1942, as amended, and the stabilization act of 1942, as amended, which did not terminate by expiration of those acts on June 30, 1946.

OPA retained out that section (B) of the emergency price control act of 1942, as amended, provided that all regulations, orders, price schedules and requirements shall expire on June 30, 1946.

Tougher Program Is Given OCS Hopefuls

Washington, July 19.—(AP)—Longer and tougher training for officer candidates was ordered today by Gen. Jacob L. Devers, chief of the army ground forces.

Instead of the present 17 weeks enlisted men seeking a second lieutenant's commission must undergo 18 weeks training at Fort Benning, Ga., and "only the most promising ones" will be retained after the first eight weeks, Devers announced.

After graduation, the successful men will undergo two additional months training at one of 14 special branch schools.

More Damage Expected In Second A-Bomb Test

By ELTON C. FAY
Aboard USS McKimley, July 10.—(AP)—One million tons of water— a column nearly a half mile in diameter and 8,000 to 10,000 feet high—will be blown into the air by the underwater atomic bomb. Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy estimated today.

The Task Force Commander said ships within the column area "will get an awful, working over" and "those near the center are likely to be tossed into the air in pieces if not together."

Blandy also made these points at a press conference: "There will be high waves, as much as 100 feet, flung out from the column but their height will fall off rapidly and probably will not exceed 10 feet by the time they hit the shore of Bikini Island.

Some ships may be capsized by the wave. "I think there will be considerable damage from the wave action as well as the shock of the bomb."

OVERPAYMENT TO MUNITIONS FIRM IS TOLD

Royal Testifies In Probe; Doubts Government Could Get Money Back

Washington, July 10.—(AP)—Undersecretary of War Kenneth C. Royal expressed belief today that the government paid $1,000,000 too much to a munitions firm and now stands a dim chance of getting it back.

His view was in a letter in which he asked a Justice Department investigation of what he called an overpayment to the Batavia Metals Products Company. Royal said the government originally made advance payments of $4,500,000 to Batavia for war contracts.

After mentioning the sum now due at $1,000,000, Royal commented: "There is doubt as to whether the company is in such financial condition as to enable the government to recover this amount."

Royal told the Senate War Investigating Committee that he also had asked Attorney General Tom Clark to inquire into the earnings and costs of the Erie Basin Metals Products Co. This is an affiliate of Batavia; the two are part of an Illinois munitions combine the committee is investigating.

Royal later testified that Batavia had offered to make good on the overpayment, at a rate of $140,000 down on agreement was reached and $50,000 a month thereafter. He said it was a tentative agreement. (Continued on Page Eight)

Sixth Veto

New York, July 10.—(AP)—Soviet Russia invoked the veto today for the sixth time in Security Council history in an effort to block a move for Canada to participate in council discussions on atomic energy.

The council became involved in a dispute today over the resolution of the Australian Dr. Herbert V. Evatt of Australia offered a resolution to permit Canada, a member of the atomic energy commission, to sit in on council discussions of atomic energy.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, immediately objected, saying this proposal raised new questions and suggested postponement.

However, the council voted 9 to 1—with Russia casting the dissenting vote to admit Canada to the discussions on atomic questions. Poland abstained.

Gromyko then said his negative vote was a veto.

Meat Shortages Still Lie Ahead

Washington, July 10.—(AP)—Now hear this, meat-eaters: The Republican congressional food study committee says meat will be "plentiful" by this weekend, but the Agriculture Department says supplies will continue insufficient to meet demands all summer.

The Department reported that demand also will run ahead of supplies in fats, cheese, butter, evaporated milk, canned and dried fruits, sugar and many cereal products.

Most other foods should be relatively plentiful, it said, particularly fluid milk, eggs, poultry, fresh fruits and vegetables, frozen foods, fish and canned vegetables. As to meat, the Department said that if "uncertainties over price ceilings are cleared up, marketings of livestock and meats will be restored to a more nearly normal pattern," but the supplies will still be much less than demand.

If price ceilings are not restored, the report said, prices should settle down to an average of 15 to 20 per cent above former OPA levels.

UNRRA Supplies For Chinese Are Cut Off

Washington, July 10.—(AP)—Diplomatic authorities predicted today the ambassadorial assignment given 70-year-old John Leighton Stuart, a Presbyterian missionary and U. S. member of the atomic energy commission, to sit in on council discussions of atomic energy.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, immediately objected, saying this proposal raised new questions and suggested postponement.

However, the council voted 9 to 1—with Russia casting the dissenting vote to admit Canada to the discussions on atomic questions. Poland abstained.

Gromyko then said his negative vote was a veto.

PRICE LID IS OFF CLOTHING

CPA Will Depend On Rivalry To Keep Prices Down

Washington, July 10.—(AP)—Snipping the last price control threat on clothing, the government today pinned its inexpensive garment hopes on industry competition.

In cutting the threat, Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small expressed the belief that rivalry among clothing manufacturers will serve to hold their prices in line.

The only clothing price curb left after OPA died July 1 was knocked out last night when Small announced that CPA will continue to allocate a big supply of cloth for garments that should sell at low or moderate prices—but the agency no longer will see that they do.

CPA announced no reason for this, but officials who asked to remain anonymous attributed the action to the Moore amendment to the second war powers act, a law which 10 days ago was continued until next March 31.

CPA's authority to allocate fabric for low-cost clothing stems from the act. The Moore amendment, tacked on the renewal measure, prohibits any price fixing under that legislation.

In sponsoring the amendment, Senator Moore (R-Ore.) sought to make sure that OPA could not fix ceilings under any law except the price control act, which later expired.

OPA Extension Measure Handed More Restrictions; Shadow Of Second Veto Falls Across Bill; Barkley Plans Night Session To Bring Possible Vote Tomorrow

Washington, July 10.—(AP)—The Senate voted 42 to 34 today to forbid price controls on cottonseed and soy beans and their products in any revival of OPA. It wrote this restriction into an OPA extension bill already carrying exemptions for meat and poultry from price ceilings.

An amendment to decontrol dairy products immediately was placed before the chamber.

The ballot-to-forbid restrictions on cottonseed and soy beans also rode a plea from Senate majority leader (D-Ky.) to stop reading the bill with amendments that would make it ridiculous.

Earlier, Barkley had told his colleagues he would call a night session tonight if there seemed any chance the legislation to restore OPA and some of its powers would be shoved to a final vote tomorrow.

On the 10th day of no OPA operations, Barkley argued that speed is important in any price and rent controls are to be restored.

The Senate worked in the shadow of a possible second veto of an OPA extension. A bi-partisan majority was set to ban any future price ceilings on milk, butter and cheese.

Top-heavy with Republicans, this majority primed the dairy products exemption as a fresh onslaught against the administration's price control revival.

Democratic leader (D-Ky.) loomily conceded to newsmen that there was no chance of preventing the adoption of dairy products control-free list that appeared likely to inspire a presidential veto finally approved by Congress.

He added he couldn't be sure, either, of fending off amendments to put cottonseed, petroleum, wool, and possibly some other products in the same classification.

Cottonseed was first up as the Senate began the third day of debate on a measure Barkley and other sponsors had forecast the President would sign if he could prevent its major provisions as it came from the Banking Committee.

The meat and poultry—carried by 11 Republicans and 18 Southern and Western Democrats—came on an amendment offered by Senator Wherry (R-Neb). The 25 Democrats and one Progressive who opposed it expected further setbacks.

But Barkley said he still is confident the trend will be reversed when the Senate gets to what he regards as the even more important pricing provisions of the bill.

The meeting was opened by reciting the W. C. T. U. pledge in unison. Mrs. Luella Stencil had charge of the program, reading part of the 17th chapter of John and leading in prayer.

The union is planning to have an early meeting in the city schools next year.

The encampment at Mars Hill was truly a great success. The friendship of kindred spirits there was wonderful. Everyone left with great enthusiasm to "press ever onward" with this worthy cause.

A new petition was framed and signed to our congressmen about the shortage of grain and sugar. We can't understand how the distilleries can secure so much grain and sugar when these items are so scarce with the housewife. We are hoping our congressmen will do something about it.

Mrs. Luella Stencil was also our lady of the month. She told and also read several interesting facts on the liquor question, especially the comments of brewers on the last week end.

The August meeting will be with Mrs. Wiley Brown.

Greenville Vs. Robersonville

A baseball team should not be judged by the size of a town because Robersonville has one of the best teams in Eastern Carolina. They played Tarboro a shut out game a few days ago, 9 to 0, in their favor. Greenville is strong too, so you may look for a good game.

The boys are practicing daily for this game and a good one may be expected. Game called 2 p. m. Admission 25c.

Frances Mae Rives honored Miss Earle Proctor Andrews at a bridge party Wednesday evening at their home.

Bouquets of summer flowers were artistically arranged throughout the house. The bride-elect's place was marked with a bridal nosegay of gardenias, snapdragons, daisies and love o'mist entwined in satin ribbons showering from the bouquet. The place of each guest was marked with miniature nosegays of rose buds, daisies, feverfew, ragged robins, and baby's breath. In the dining room, the table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a lovely arrangement of white dahlias and snapdragons flanked with burning white tapers.

Mrs. J. C. Wynne, Jr., and Mrs. James Cradell received the bridge prizes. The hostesses presented Miss Andrews a gift in her pattern of china.

A delicious ice course of wedding molds, cake, mints and nuts was served to 20 guests and to Miss Andrews, the maid of the bride and groom was given.

Christian Science Service
"God" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science Churches and Societies on Sunday, July 7.

The Golden Text was from Habakkuk 2:14. "The earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea."

Among the citations comprising the lesson-sermon were the following: The Bible—"I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, saith the Lord, which is, and which was, and which is to come, the Almighty" (Rev. 1:8). And from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "God is the divine Principle of all that represents Him and of all that really exists. No wisdom is wise but His wisdom; no truth is true, no love is lovely, no life is Life but the divine; no good is, but the good God bestows" (pages 272, 275).

Reedy Branch News
Members of Reedy Branch Sunday School had a very enjoyable trip to Shady Banks where they had a picnic supper on Wednesday, June 26. A large crowd met at the church that afternoon and left for the beach about 3:30. Those that wished could go swimming and late in the afternoon the good things packed in the picnic baskets were spread and everyone gathered around to feast.

Class No. 6 held its picnic at the Red Oak Community Building on Tuesday evening, July 2. The officers and teachers of the Sunday School were invited and it was reported that everyone really had a good time, and want to go again. It seems that Rev. Phillip Woodard and Mr. Thurman Vincent put the crowd in a mood for laughing. It was said also that the food was plentiful and good.

The Free Will Baptist Sunday School Convention was held at the Winterville Free Will Baptist Church on Sunday, July 30. Delegates from Reedy Branch were Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Vincent.

Notice:—Everyone interested in going on the Craigmont trip are urged to get in touch with Rev. Phillip Woodard, Mrs. Thurman Vincent or Mrs. Viola Davenport at once. JIGGER MORAN

Chapter 1

Jigger raised his hat and peered at the taximeter, his brow a knotty tangle of addition and subtraction. The meter read two dollars and forty cents. Jigger threw the flag up, eased up on the accelerator, and loafed toward the One Hundred Sixth Street West Side exit of the park. A red light froze him on Central Park West.

Throwing his own two-dollar-and-forty-cent hoard into receipts might soften Monk the dispatcher's blitz on low bookings, but what about Irene? This was their regular Wednesday night out. They were slated to do some hoofing when her four o'clock to midnight rotating shift at Childs was done.

Jigger switched on the key, jammed at the starter, threw the cab into gear, and careened a U-turn, heading back downtown in one flowing motion. A cab pulled abreast of him, the driver leaning toward him with the weight of conspiracy.

"Listen, Jigger. Little Joey wants to see you at the Metropole at midnight."

"Not if I see that two-bit racketeer first," he replied, nosing toward Broadway. The Imperial stopped in front of Number 235 and Jig-ger sprinted up the brownstone stoop, key in hand. He threw open the door of his parlor floor studio.

The room was a litter of late-Victorian marble, cherubs, brocades. An open copy of George Moore's Impressions and Opinions made a still life with a crumpled pack of cigarettes on the floor beside the three-quarter bed.

Three documents in narrow black frames were stepped up on the wall opposite a gilt, floor-to-ceiling rococo mirror. They bore individual legends commemorating J. Howard Moran. One conferred a De Juris degree; another confirmed the award of Ph.D.; the one atop the other two announced a dismissal of charges of criminal extortion by the Grand Jury of the State of Illinois against J. Howard Moran.

Jigger hit the street sleek and natty in a draped herringbone suit, climbed into the Imperial, and pulled up across the street from Childs Spanish Gardens where a tight bundle with a thin red line of lip and false lashes stood tapping a tom-tom on the pavement.

Jigger sang out across ten feet. "Hello, you beautiful doll!" Irene narrowed the gap. "Jigger, I've been standing here for fifteen minutes."

"Couldn't help it, Irene."

The hack leaped forward toward Madison Avenue. "Where you going, Jigger?"

"Cafe Society. There's a hundred belly laughs in Jack Gilford, the M. C."

Irene said "I want to go to the Metropole tonight."

"What, you, too?" snorted Jigger. "Little Joey wants to see you at midnight. He's been pestering me all day. I swore I'd bring you."

The Cafe Metropole was a gaudy sweatbox as a short man with a lumpy nose in an evening cutaway threaded his way through the packed dancing floor and fell moltenly on a chair at Jigger's table.

"Where do you keep yourself, Jigger?"

Jigger found refuge from Little Joey in a double mouthful of porthouse.

Joey fluttered an eyelid and Irene went to powder her nose. Joey leaned close.

"I got a job for you to do, Jigger."

Jigger said, "I'm not working for you, Joey," and kept on wolfing the French fries.

"I don't mean that. This is strictly the kind of stuff that got you a rep as a troubleshooter."

Jigger said modestly, "You must be mistaken. I'm still behind the wheel of a hack. Let your pistoleros solve it for you, Joey. I give the rackets a wide berth."

"I just want you to run down some facts for me."

Jigger said, "You're crazy as a peebog if you think you can trust me."

Joey said it matter-of-fact.

Jigger nodded his first agreement.

"I'd say you're quite at home with rats, Joey."

Joey said, "Quit it, will ya, and listen."

"Fire away."

"Remember. This is confidential. I'm not promising, Joey. Whatever you spill is at your own risk. With me it's a policy to use whatever I know—whenever I need to."

"I'll take that chance, wise guy. I'd hate to wind up fitting you into a cement sleeping suit." Joey concluded in as is-it-yes-or-no: "Will you come to my office where we can talk?"

Jigger said with a yawn. "Maybe later, Joey. Much later. I'm out for a good time."

Joey stuck a round thumb up into the air and a waiter came running.

"I'll sign the tab for my friends. Give them anything they want—anything at all."

Joey fought to his feet and skirted along the edge of the dance floor.

Irene sat down.

"What did Joey want, Jigger?"

"I'm not sure. Probably a fall guy."

"Nice of Joey to blow us."

"He has a reason."

Irene said dreamily. "He's an important man."

"Don't be so impressed with Joey."

Irene said, "You're bitter, Jigger, bitter about everybody."

"About Joey I'm realistic. His big take in the numbers racket will end any day now—and suddenlike."

"You're just being bitter, Jigger. You said that before, honey-girl. You must learn to run more risks with vocabulary."

Joey was tight, wonderfully in love, and glassy-eyed.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

GO EASY ON ACCUSATION
What is a hypocrite? The dictionary defines such a person as "one who pretends to be other or better than he is, a false pretender to virtue or piety."

The present writer would say without hesitation that the number is small. In fact, after presiding over congregations for thirty years he can recall just two hypocrites. He has known many people including himself—who have made a pretty lame attempt to live up to their religious pretensions. But as for people who have definitely used the mask of piety and respectability to hide the devices of a wicked life—these have been scarce indeed.

People are often very free in the way they fling out the word "hypocrite." Anyone who confesses religious faith and then doesn't live up perfectly to all he pretends to believe is commonly called a hypocrite. But if such are hypocrites, then all the patriarchs, sages, prophets, and saints have been hypocrites.

Give nobody humanly a little leeway. Nobody but the Lord of all good life himself was perfect. Perhaps some people are moral failures because we have hammered them so hard. Let up. "If any man be overladen in a fault, restore such a one in a spirit of meekness; considering thyself lest thou also be tempted."

THE INTERIM

Seldom, if ever before, has the fear of inflation been brought more closely to the attention of the man in the street. Even the most pessimistic forecasters during the war years did not appreciate the way this shadow would react on the average American citizen.

With the passing of the OPA, prices on a great many commodities rose sharply. We could expect some fluctuation because of the sudden absence of government subsidies and the over-eager attitude of a few to capitalize on the lack of controls.

The local situation is good. True, we see some changes, but the John Does and Jane Does have in the back of their minds the fear of rising costs; and when a price increase is announced, that big family of Does immediately ask "Why?" As long as this attitude prevails we need have no immediate fears for our economic stability.

Truce Is Stranger—

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

(Second of Three Articles)
By KARL R. BAUMAN
Washington—An Army major sitting next to me at a luncheon in St. Croix chuckled.

"You know," he said, "the people back in the States think the Virgin Islands are some far-away foreign place. My friends keep writing to me for Virgin Island money."

The major, like others who visit the islands for business or pleasure, simply can't fill any requests for native money. The money is the same as used on Main St., U. S. A., the flags the people wave with such apparent pride are the same and the language is the same.

But some things are different. The people on the average are much poorer. Life is more leisurely. There are beautiful Caribbean Islands whites and blacks live in apparent harmony. A visitor—one who stays for only a few days at least—gets the impression there is no racial discrimination, particularly on St. Thomas. Secretary of the Interior Krug, who went to the islands for the recent inauguration of William H. Hastie as the first Negro governor, obviously was impressed.

Charlotte Amalie is the seat of government and the principal city on St. Thomas Island. There many of the festivities were held. The Negro and the white sat side by side, went to the same parties. Both races ate at the same hotels, mixing at the tables.

O. S. Croix, the largest of the three inhabited Virgin Islands (25 miles long, 5 miles wide, population about 15,000), race relations appeared to be somewhat less cordial. Lacking St. Thomas' income from shipping, tourist trade and government payrolls, St. Croix's poor seemed poorer, the economic spread broader, the social levels farther apart.

plained that the Negroes all wanted to live in the two cities, Christiansted and Frederiksted. There are unemployment in the cities, unutilized jobs on the estates. St. Croix still has "royal families," as the big landowners have been called since Danish days.

Principal activities are grazing, the cultivation of sugar cane and production of rum. Too little rainfall, poorly distributed, handicaps cultivation.

The third island, St. John's, about the size of St. Thomas (14 miles long, 2 miles wide), has a population of only 700. Agriculture and fishing are the chief activities, both conducted on a primitive basis.

Gandhi's ...

Mahatma—bare save for his loincloth—sat cross-legged on a couch upon the speaker's platform, searching through his great silver-rimmed spectacles, waiting for the opportunity to explain the meaning of the call to action. Finally he launched his appeal for a non-violent campaign of civil disobedience—and the die was cast.

The "non-violent" crusade almost immediately got out of hand, as was to be expected, and there were fierce clashes between the authorities and the natives. There was bloodshed and destruction on a wide scale, and the hundreds of Indians were thrown into prison. This was the unhappy position when I arrived in India some three months later. It was indeed a gloomy time, but even then one could see the possibilities which finally have borne fruit as the result of the new British proposals and the concessions which have been made by the Indian political parties.

Despite the chaos of 1942-43 I was so sure the makings of peace were there that I wrote a book which I called to entitle "India's Problem Can Be Solved." Well, it hasn't been completely solved yet, but it seems to be off to a good start, and your columnist is still optimistic.

If peace really has come to mighty

India it will be a godsend to the world at large, for there is nothing more certain than that she will occupy a key position in the Far East once she gets her new government firmly established. For that reason she will be entitled to the help and encouragement of the western world. She should have her place in the United Nations Organization at the earliest feasible moment.

Twin Giants ...

Under President Roosevelt's urging Congress passed laws—principally the Wagner Act—more helpful to labor than any ever passed before.

The Wagner Act recognized the right of unions to bargain collectively. It said unions had the right to represent workers and that a boss had to bargain with the union his workers chose.

This was a tremendous help to union organizers. It also was a time of growing discontent within the AFL that wasn't doing enough about organizing the new mass industries like rubber, steel, automobiles, and was thinking too much in terms of craft unions.

A craft union is made up of skilled workers within an industry. For example, Carpenters are skilled in the building trade. They'd have a union but perhaps wouldn't bestir themselves unless they were unskilled men who were not organized.

An industrial union would be like this: All the workers in a rubber factory, no matter what their job or their skill, would be organized into a union of rubber workers.

In 1935 a group of AFL unions set up the committee for industrial organization. This young CIO outfit started its organizing campaign and had extraordinary success. But the AFL expelled the unions which set up the CIO, so in 1936 they organized themselves permanently as the Congress of Industrial Organizations. The CIO organizes rubber, steel, autos, seamen, electrical workers and others.

The CIO drive was led by John L. Lewis who then was, and still is head of the United Mine Workers. But he became angry with President Roosevelt in 1940 and said that if Mr. Roosevelt were re-elected he'd resign the CIO presidency.

Mr. Roosevelt was re-elected. Lewis quit and eventually took his miners out of the CIO and back into the AFL. Philip Murray succeeded him as CIO president.

The AFL and CIO have remained rivals and right now are competing against each other in trying to organize workers in the South. A number of unions do not belong to either AFL or CIO. The biggest are the railroad brotherhoods—engineers, firemen, trainmen and conductors—whose own unions date back into the 1860's. They have about 500,000 members. BOYS LEAGUE BASEBALL

The weather cleared once yesterday for the Boys League to get a game in, and the Cardinals from the Training School came from behind in the last two innings to overcome the Giants from Third Street by the score of 6 to 5. It was a close game all the way and the winner was in doubt until the very last. The Giants started fast, scoring five times in the first two innings but after that they were kept away from the plate. The Cards fought an uphill battle all through the game and managed to score twice in the sixth to tie the game at 5-5 then put over the winning run in their last turn at bat. Both teams had numerous scoring opportunities but double plays pulled the defensive team out of the hole. Gardner with three hits and White with two led the hitting for the Giants. Rowland, Foley, Karnak and Charles White got the hits for the Cardinals.

Cardinals	0 1 1 0 2 1

Schedule for Thursday—
 Giants Vs. Cardinals at 10 a. m. at Training School.
 Tigers Vs. Yankees at 2:30 p. m. at Training School.

BASEBALL SCHOOLS

Phoenix, Ariz., July 10—(AP)—A super-system of baseball colleges is Larry McPhail's newest idea for dredging up prospective players for the New York Yankees. The far-sighted Yankees president, who brought the farm club system to its greatest developments, envisions a nation-wide chain of baseball schools of higher learning into which the best amateur players could be siphoned for intensive instruction and scrutiny. First of these colleges of diamond knowledge, McPhail indicated during a visit here with Del Webb, co-owner of the Yankees, would be established at Arizona State College at Tempe. The plan, which he said he had had in mind since before the war would send promising young players to the college for a 30-day, expense-paid summer session. They would be housed in campus dormitories and would eat in the dining hall.

League All Stars

Four big names from the roster of the Greenville Baseball Club are included in the selection of the all-star team of the Coastal Plain League's northern division. They are: Shortstop Ray Carlson, Center Felix Vern Blackwell, Pitcher Rex Benton, and Milt Narvon—the man behind the plate.

Their fellow-travelers will be Harry Soufas (manager), Bill Kennedy, Dave Fowler and Quentin Martin—all of Rocky Mount. Irv Dickens, Johnny Wolfe, Fern Bissette and Eddie Bauer of Wilson; Vorell, Tony Polnk, Caldwell and Lucas of Tarboro.

The opposing team of the southern division, under the management of Bill Herring, are: DeCamp, Lingle, Collins of Goldsboro; DeAngelus, Anderson, Helms and Owles, of Fayetteville; and Cohen, McDowell, Tomasic and Tepedino of Kinston; Lowry, Shetter, Doak, and Dorda of New Bern.

The all-star game will be played in Wilson Monday, July 15. Umpires will be Greene, Lynn, Hudson and Gibson.

Bikini Bombers Back In U. S. After Flight

Fairfield, Calif., July 10—(AP)—The B-29 "Dave's Dream" is back in the United States from a A-bombing the Bikini crossroads fleet and two of its crew members now are in a race with the stork.

The big ship, carrying its original target and ground crews, touched down at the Fairfield-Suisun army airbase late yesterday, completing the Honolulu-California leg of its flight in 8 hours 57 minutes. The flight group goes to Roswell, N.M., today to break up and go home.

Maj. Woodrow P. Swancutt of Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., and crew member Robert Glenn of Anderson, S. C., are racing home in an effort to get there before the birth of babies "any minute now."

Ervin Says Messages Favor Death To OPA

Washington, July 10—(AP)—Sixty per cent of communications from North Carolinians to Rep. Ervin (D-NC) say let "OPA be buried forever," and forty per cent "pray that OPA be given a second birth," he told Congress today.

"Whatever we do we should do quickly," he said. "The state of uncertainty should speedily end." "Existing shortages make it at least hazardous to refuse to re-establish any price and rent controls," he said, adding, however, "past performances of the policymakers of OPA render it unwise to revive OPA without change."

Ervin declared "it seems to me our national economy will be best promoted by reviving OPA for not exceeding one year under a statute which will encourage the speedy production of goods and housing accommodations in sufficient quantities to satisfy the needs of our

Mass Deportation In Austria Said Halted

Vienna, July 10—(AP)—Russian authorities were reported today to have halted their announced deportation of native Germans and other non-Austrians from the Soviet occupation zone of Vienna.

No reason was given by the Russians for the abrupt cessation, which was said to have occurred yesterday afternoon when deportees waiting in a railroad station were told to return to their homes.

There was some speculation that the halt was merely temporary and was called because the camp at Melk, where the refugees are housed pending shipment to Germany, was full.

The Russians announced the deportation—estimated to affect 30,000 to 50,000 persons—Sunday night, and the movement had been going forward slowly since then.

Volunteers For Army Increase in Numbers

Washington, July 10—(AP)—An upturn in the number of army volunteers has reversed a two-month downward trend.

Reports to the war department today showed that 13,094 recruits, the largest number since April, signed up during the week ending June 21. This brought the number of volunteers since the army's intensive recruiting campaign started last fall up to 821,884.

Asserting the upswing may be only temporary, army officials withheld judgment on whether it will have any bearing on the continuing need for the draft. During July and August the war department is relying entirely on recruiting for replacement, and has made no calls on selective service for manpower.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, July 10—(AP)—The stock market dawdled through another waiting session today with liquors rising several points on a flurry of demand to provide the only feature. Selected industrials climbed fractions to more than a point at times but a number of them failed to hold their gains and several rails and other leaders stayed in lower ground throughout the day. The list was well mixed near the close. Transfers approximated 900,000 shares.

Look - Think Tobacco Farmers

LOOK back on those years when tobacco prices were so low you could hardly meet the expense of your crop.

THINK about the tobacco market holidays because of prices so low you couldn't afford to sell.

THINK about the future of yourself and family and those who depend on tobacco growing for a living, and —

Then you and all who grow tobacco, go to the polls on Friday, July 12 and vote for quotas for three years, to assure fair prices for your crop.

Rotarians Hear Of Crop Control

By WYATT BROWN

The importance of the tobacco farmers' voting in the crop control referendum was presented as the most important subject before the whole citizenry of Pitt County Monday night by President Judson H. Blount at the weekly supper meeting of the Rotary Club. He called upon Haywood Dail to give his views on the matter.

Mr. Dail gave fair warning to everyone in Pitt County that they were involved in the outcome of the referendum to be held on July 12th. He said he knew how busy farmers were right at this time due to the turn of the weather and that it was going to be hard for them to get to the voting places, but if everyone in the Club and all other interested people would urge the farmers to realize the importance of the vote, it could be done.

"It's got to be done. It is not a question of whether one has time," declared Mr. Dail. He called attention to the 1939 experience without crop control when the price fell to 14 cents. It was brought out that the voting places would remain open until 9 p. m. on the 12th. He explained that every person who had a share in a tobacco crop—no matter how small a share—was eligible to vote and that everyone eligible to vote who did not bother to vote, would be counted as a vote against.

Following the almost general discussion of the importance of the referendum on crop control, a travel movie was shown by Dr. Carl Adams and his trusty projector. The movie showed the life of people in Burma. Most novel was a religious ceremony involving the handling of a huge cobra snake.

Guests of the club were Jack Edwards, Jr., Sidney Johnson, Johnnie Blake, all of Greenville, and Bryce B. Brown of Schenectady, N. Y. John G. Fleming presented the Rotary Club with the charter of the Sea Scout Ship which the Rotarians sponsor. Dr. James B. Hawes is skipper of the ship and Charles Whedbee is mate. The Sea Scout Committee appointed by the Rotarians is composed of J. Knott Proctor, Bancroft Moseley and Ty Wagner. President Judson Blount presided.

Palestine Seen As Twin States

Jerusalem, July 9—(AP)—Dr. Chaim Weizmann, Jewish Agency and World Zionist President, said today that partition of Palestine into separate Jewish and Arab states "must not be rejected as a possible solution" of the Palestine problem.

The elderly, nearly blind Weizmann held a press conference for some 100 Jewish and foreign newsmen, at which he said: "Had the mandatory government (Britain) proceeded immediately to implement the positive recommendations of the (British-American committee) inquiry report, despite some of its objectionable features, peace and quiet would have reigned in this country."

Asked what he meant by "objectionable features," Weizmann mentioned recommendation No. 3 in the report which held that the final state should be neither Jewish nor Arab.

"There are many Jewish people and much public opinion everywhere favoring partition as a solution of the Palestine problem," the Zionist leader added. "Regardless of whether we agree or not, this must not be rejected as a possible solution."

In an address to the smaller actions committee of the Zionist General Council, which preceded the press conference, Dr. Weizmann described Palestine as being "in a state of siege."

Service Officer To Aid Veterans

Arthur B. Corey, Pitt County veterans service officer, issued the following statement today:

"The Pitt County Veterans Service Office is doing much and splendid work for the veterans, and the members of the veterans' families, as well as the dependents of deceased veterans. The Service Officer in charge of the local office, Arthur B. Corey, reports for the month of June 1946, over 150 veterans of World War I and World War II called at the office to discuss various angles of the G. I. Bill of Rights, and to obtain information thereon, to make application, which included accomplishment of proper forms, for reinstatement of National Life Insurance, or for the conversion of same into 20 pay, 30 pay, or ordinary life policies, for compensations, for mustering out pay, refund of allotment deducted from pay but never paid to dependents, for hospitalization both in Veterans Administration hospitals, and as out patients.

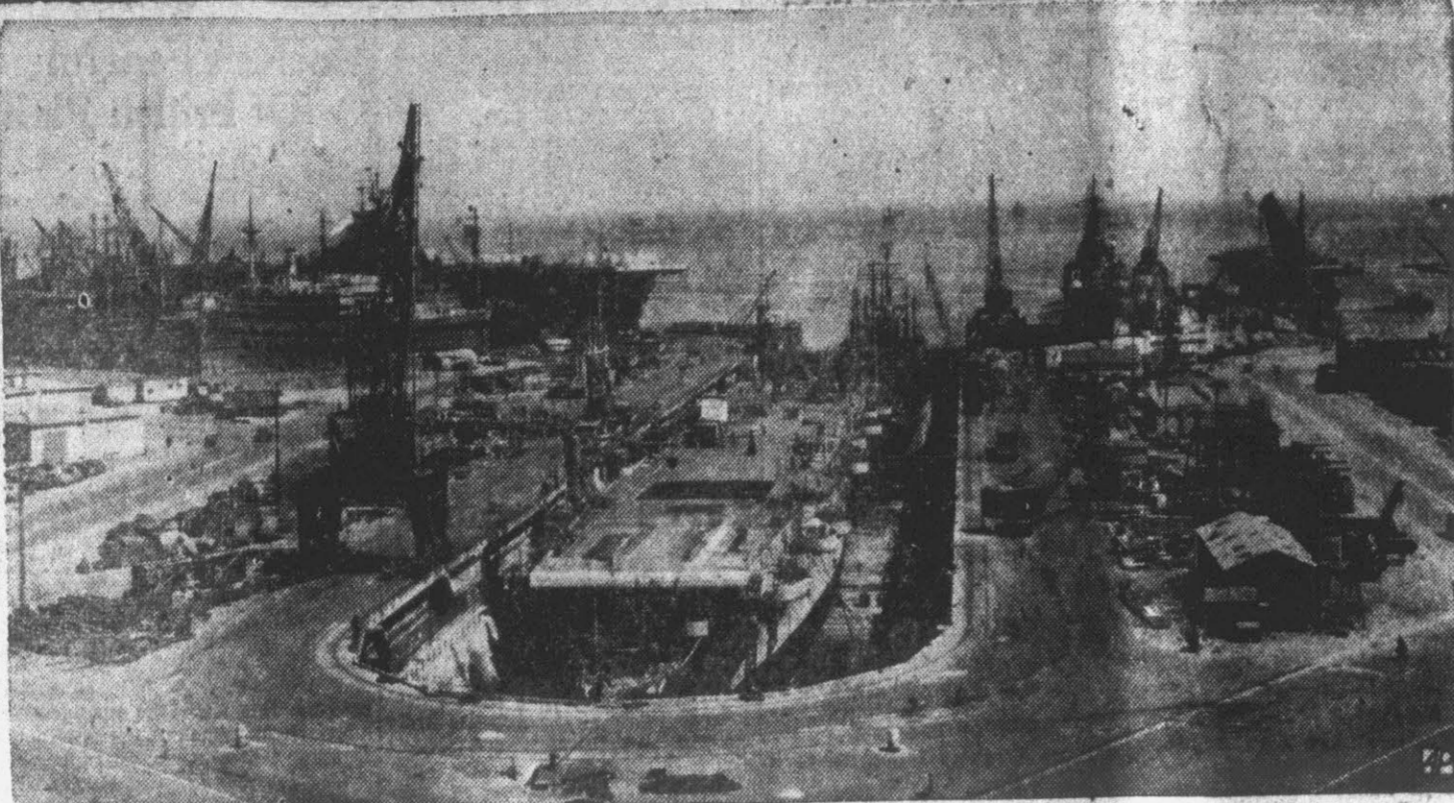

"This office is found to be of great help to the veterans in preparing and prosecuting their claims before the Veterans Administration to a conclusion, and all veterans are requested to take their service problems to Mr. Corey for his assistance."

Hazel Is Man And Has Wife, Children

College Station, Raleigh, July 9—Hazel Meacham of State College has received two proposals of marriage and seven requests for dates in recent days, all because of a story that appeared in a farm magazine. Its title was—"What's in a Name?"

Here's how the story ran. "Shakespeare's statement in Romeo and Juliet: 'that which we call a rose by any other name is just as sweet' apparently does not hold true with people north of the Mason-Dixon line who buy sweet potatoes.

"Hazel Meacham, marketing specialist of the North Carolina Extension Service, says the sweet potato becomes a 'yam' when it crosses this imaginary line. She says that the northern and eastern consumers buy yams as improved sweet potatoes."

Now this story was all right except that Hazel is 6 feet, 1 inch tall; weighs 202 pounds; and is every inch a man. He has a wife and two fine children of 6 and 15 years, and their home is in Raleigh.

Hazel says he bears no ill will towards the farm paper editor. In fact, with his bubbling disposition, he is getting as many good laughs out of the mistake of the farm paper editor as anyone.

Men May Reenlist In AAF At Former Rank

The Army Air Forces Recruiting Office at Greensboro, N. C. announced today that renewed authorization has been received from the War Department to re-enlist any man in a grade appropriate to training and experience. This provision will enable many men to re-enlist in the post war regular Army Air Force with the rank held when they were discharged.

It was also announced that a substantial pay raise for all ranks became effective July 1, making a career in the Army Air Forces one of the best opportunities offered to any young man today.

"MONEY-CONSCIOUS"

Seattle, July 8—(AP)—Mrs. Celestia Thomas, who had been slugged and robbed in her apartment recently, answered a knock at the door. It was the bandit again.

"I want to apologize for what I have done," said the bandit. "I must have been drinking. I thought you might need these keys."

"How about my $17?" asked Mrs. Thomas.

The bandit's conscience didn't stretch that far. He turned and ran.

Those you can get

with an OIL-PLATED engine

Breathes there an American who isn't checking on cars? Chief question is, "What's different for '46?" An OIL-PLATED engine brings you this swell difference: it will escape lots of carbon and sludge by escaping lots of wear. That special type of wear-defense—internal OIL-PLATING—will likewise favor your oil and gasoline mileage.

You can have an OIL-PLATED engine in any car—in the newest or oldest—just simply by making sure to use Conoco No. 1 motor oil; that's all.

The difference in Conoco No. 1 oil—patented—is its added ingredient that OIL-PLATES. This is done in a magnet-like manner—by making metals attract and hold lubricant. And that's what puts inner engine surfaces under cover of OIL-PLATING. It stands in wear's way; acts to prolong that new car feeling. . . . And it will act to prolong any older car's usefulness. So if that's your particular problem, change now to Conoco No. 1 oil—at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Company

WILL DISCUSS CROP CONTROL

Winslow, Floyd, And Schaub On Radio Thursday At 11:45

By CHESTER WALSH
A message of vital importance to tobacco growers and others will be broadcast from Greenville Radio Station WGTG on a hook-up with the four other stations of the Tobacco Network Thursday (tomorrow) from 11:45 a. m. to 12:10.

E. Winslow of Greenville, president of the N. C. Farm Bureau Federation; E. Y. Floyd, of Raleigh, director of the N. C. and Va. Plant Industry Stations, and Dean I. O. Schaub, State College Experiment Station, will discuss the importance of continuing crop control by voting in the referendum Friday, July 12. Wyatt Highsmith of Greenville will be master of ceremonies.

Every farmer white and Negro, who grow tobacco, whether he plants a fraction of an acre or 100 acres, is entitled to cast a ballot in Friday's referendum, and should vote for continuing crop control, bankers, business and professional men advised.

They urge farmers to vote for quotas for three years. They remind that in 1938 when there was no crop quota tobacco averaged 14 cents a pound; that in 1945, with a quota, tobacco averaged 43 cents a pound.

Without quotas in 1946 what would the price be? Remember 1938 and vote for quotas for three years in the referendum Friday. Crop control means higher prices for tobacco.

political ends.
LaGuardia's action was one of the most drastic even taken by UNRRA. It cut off shipments to China of farm machinery, fertilizers, fishing boats, trucks, steel rails, locomotives, clothing and textiles.
UNRRA officials expressed hope that the situation might be cleared up soon.
But some persons here suggested that LaGuardia's action might have the incidental result of putting Chiang Kai Shek in a tough spot politically, particularly if the suspension last long enough for his critics to make political capital out of it.
This would be especially true if LaGuardia carried out his threat also made public yesterday, to cut off even the food supplies unless they are distributed to UNRRA's satisfaction.
Cheng Pao Nan, representative here for the Chinese National Relief and Rehabilitation Administration expressed surprise at what he termed LaGuardia's "unilateral action." He denied that there has been an accumulation of UNRRA goods in Shanghai or other Chinese ports.
The Chinese embassy urged that no "hasty conclusion" be drawn from the UNRRA staff reports from Shanghai.
On Capitol Hill, meanwhile, Chairman McCellar (D-Tenn.) of the Senate Appropriations Committee told a reporter the Chinese dispute would come up for consideration today during LaGuardia's scheduled testimony behind closed doors on a $465,000,000 final UNRRA fund.

The ministers ordered their deputies to have ready by Saturday the final drafts of peace treaties with Italy, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland. Diplomatic sources said this meant the council might approve the treaties Saturday afternoon and adjourn either at that time or on Sunday.

The council, which yesterday heard another sharp clash between Secretary of State Byrnes and Foreign Minister Molotov—this time on the German question—was called into session this afternoon to resume discussions on the Reich.
British Foreign Secretary Bevin was expected to urge, with U. S. support, that some sort of federalization be provided for Germany which now is divided into four occupation zones. France was believed ready to back the other western powers in this proposal, but the attitude of Russia remained a big question mark.

offer, and one that has not been accepted, for payment of a total of $959,855.69.

A reference to the offer was contained in a letter to Royall from Theron L. Caville, assistant attorney general, which said that its acceptance might make prosecution of any "criminal" case against Ba-tavia more difficult.
Caville's letter, dated June 18 said the Justice Department's investigation was not sufficiently complete for it to express any opinion as to whether a criminal case will develop.

In a letter to Clark which he made public at the committee hearing, Royall said that he understood that the Justice Department even then was inquiring into the tax affair of the two companies.

Royall's disclosure came after he had testified earlier that Rep. May (D-Ky.), chairman of the House Military Committee, had attributed to him responsibility for an investigation of the Kentucky congressman's relations with Erie.

They said they may present their proposal at a meeting of the board to be held later this month.

Hillman Praised By Pres. Truman

Washington, July 10.—(AP)—President Truman said today the cause of democracy had lost "one of its most effective and devoted exponents" in the death of Sidney Hillman, head of the CIO's political Action Committee.

In a statement issued at the White House, Mr. Truman also said of the man who helped put him in the White House:

Sidney Hillman was more than a distinguished labor leader. He was a great humanitarian and an outstanding statesman in the field of labor-management relations. "That he, an immigrant youth, could rise to eminence in the land of his adoption is a tribute to once to his own ability and character and to the democratic ideals for which he fought."

House Debate On Loan Falls Flat

Washington, July 10.—(AP)—Poor attendance of House members for the $3,750,000,000 British loan debate worried administration leaders today as a showdown vote was set for Saturday on the international issue.

Evidence of inattention of those on hand yesterday, with a buzz of conversation drowning out the speakers, brought a protest from speaker Rayburn and a scolding from Rep. Charles Eaton (R-N.J.). Eaton declared this thing called debate is a most abysmal failure.
"We stand here face to face with one of the greatest problems facing the world," he said, "and we treat it as if it were a whistling schoolboy."
Rayburn, who had left the speaker's chair, arose on the floor to protest that the House was not in order, as Eaton sought to address the House in favor of the loan, over the noise of private conversations.
The New Jersey member, a former minister, said he would not argue against empty seats. I used to do it in church. But I'm not going to do it here.

A 24-hour suspension of debate on the loan came today after a flurry over Britain's policy in Palestine.

Auto Workers Renew Threat Of Pay Hikes

Detroit, July 10.—(AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers today called for all CIO unions to join in the fight for wage increases without price increases in announcing it would ask for additional wage boosts for 60,000 Chrysler Corp. employees unless OPA is reinstated with prices at the June 30 level.
Delegates to a national emergency conference representing the Chrysler workers instructed their officers to notify the corporation that in 60 days they would demand increases equal to the increase in prices unless Congress reenacts the long-time partner of Hillman in labor union and political fields, today mourned Hillman's death as "the passing of a great man."

"We of the CIO," Murray said "are shocked by his untimely death. But Sidney Hillman has provided us with a great reservoir of inspiration and a holy and noble legacy of his estimable work. We will carry on toward the fulfillment of his ideals, forever building in a spirit which permeated his life's work."
Senator Wagner (D-NY) termed Hillman's death "an irreparable loss," but said his "record of service is imperishable."

Philip Murray Keeps Clear Of CIO Revolt

Washington, July 10.—(AP)—CIO headquarters want no part of an intra-union battle over communism.
Word went out yesterday that CIO President Philip Murray will not intervene in an "anti-communist" revolt which has split the 42,000 members of the CIO. The Furniture Workers Union unless it becomes a major crisis.

George Bucher, leader of the faction which seeks to withdraw from the union on the ground "the communists have taken over top control," sought a conference with Murray, but the CIO chief's aides said it would not be granted unless both sides were represented.
Bucher's group, which wants to remain in the CIO, claims to represent more than half the total union membership.

Lower Cotton Prices Needed For Tire Use

Hershey, Pa., July 10.—(AP)—Tire manufacturers will be forced to use synthetic materials such as rayon in the manufacture of tire cord fabric unless the price of cotton is reduced by a free competitive market operating without government subsidies, says Dr. Lewis Larrick of the Institute of Textile technology.

Dr. Larrick yesterday told the National Textile Industry—sponsor by the Philadelphia Textile Institute—that "unless the cost of cotton comes down, cotton is doomed in the part it plays in the tire industry."
"No American industry is so alert to the potentialities of research and development," he asserted. "Free competition will result in the best products for the consumer market."
Dr. Larrick said tires of rayon cord and synthetic rubber equal performance of pre-war natural rubber tires in every way.

Large Peacetime Army Is Planned

Washington, July 10.—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told the House Military Committee today he could "see no possibility in the next 15 to 20 years" of reducing the Army below a strength of 800,000 officers and enlisted men.
Urging prompt approval of legislation to permit the appointment of 25,000 additional regular army officers, the Chief of Staff visualized a peacetime army of 400,000 for the Air Force and 400,000 or supporting forces.

The figure of 800,000, he said, will be reached through a gradual decline from the 1,070,000 scheduled to be in uniform on July 1, 1947.
To man such a peacetime army properly, Eisenhower said, 80,000 officers would be needed. If these 50,000 would be regulars and 30,000 temporary officers on active duty. Existing law limits regular officer appointments to 25,000.

The additional officers, Eisenhower said, would come from the ROTC, officer candidate schools, and West Point, with inducements being offered to men in enlisted grades to win promotions to officer rank.

Moslems Fearful Of British Plan

New Delhi, July 10.—(AP)—The secretary of the Moslem League indicated the league probably might withdraw its acceptance of the British cabinet mission's plan for an Indian constitution.
The secretary, Nawabzada Liaquat All Khan, declared it would be suicide for Moslems to participate as the situation now stands.

Leaders of the rival Congress Party took the view at the recent All-India Congress meeting in Bombay—when acceptance of the constituent assembly plan was ratified—that phases to which Congress objected could be remedied in the constituent assembly.
These included the cabinet mission's stipulation in its outline that Indian provinces might realign themselves only after a stated period, with the Congress leaders holding this might be changed to allow them to make such groupings as they desired at the beginning.

Liaquat All Khan declared this made the Congress acceptance "conditional." In reality they have accepted nothing, he said, having previously turned down the British plan for an interim government which the Moslem League accepted.

The league secretary took the stand that the Congress position would make the constituent assembly a sovereign body.
"If it is established as a sovereign body, we would have no place in that because we would be one against four in the assembly," he said.

In World War I, each soldier accepted by the Army had to have a minimum of 12 teeth.

A Statement of Price Policy on PURINA CHOWS

It is true that our prices on Purina Chows have increased since the end of OPA ceilings on July 1—
BUT ...

—These new higher prices are due ENTIRELY to the increase in the cost of feed ingredients. All ingredients have risen sharply, some as much as $37.50 a ton.
—This increase in the price of Purina Chows is not as large as the increase in ingredient costs. New prices reflect only a part of the out-of-pocket increase to Purina.
—The new prices on Purina Chows do not include a single cent per bag or per ton more profit for Purina. The profit margins on Purina Chows have never been up to the full amount allowed under OPA and will not be raised now to margins previously permitted.

WE ARE PROUD TO FOLLOW PURINA'S POLICY

As authorized Purina dealers we are pledging ourselves to follow the manufacturer's lead. We know that our first responsibility is to our customers—we want to keep feed prices down as much as possible. We are not increasing our margins—we will not be short-sighted and take advantage of the present situation at your expense.
True, feed prices will go up or down as prices of ingredients vary—but we promise as always to do our best to supply all the Purina Chows we can get at the best price possible.
