Molotov Ties Up Procedure Issue

Balks At U. S.-British Compromise Proposal To Permit Consideration Of Simple "Majorities" As Well As Agr. Upon Two - Third Majority Decisions

Paris, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Soviet Russia balked today at a British-American proposal to compromise the peace conference dispute over voting procedure. Foreign Minister Molotov told the Rules Committee that the proposal was objectionable because it was calculated to upset the decision of the council of foreign ministers and replace it with a new one.

The council had decided to make a two-thirds majority necessary for action in the peace conference. Small nations, paced by Australia, sought simple majority rule. The British then proposed to let the conference speak for itself, with two-thirds votes to be regarded as a firm recommendation and simple majorities to carry less weight.

The U. S., through Secretary of State Byrnes, joined China, Canada and Norway today in supporting the British compromise.

Molotov's rejection of the plan followed a similar stand by White Russia. Secretary Byrnes promised to support in the foreign ministers council any decision voted by two-thirds of the conference, even though he had voted the other way in the conference.

The Rules Committee, after hearing Byrnes and the Chinese delegate, adjourned until later in the day.

As delegation leaders from 21 nations assembled for the second week of deliberations, there were indications that the issue might be settled today, thus permitting the committee and the conference to get on with the rest of its work.

Baron Van Staerckenborgh Van Staehouwer of the Netherlands declared that he was not satisfied with a British amendment providing that recommendations of the peace conference to the council of foreign ministers in drafting treaties for five losers of World War II be of two kinds—those passed by a two-thirds vote and those passed by a simple majority.

NEW VIOLENCE IS WHISPERED IN HOLY LAND

Attack On British Naval Base By Out-law Band Is Said Possible

Jerusalem, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The British clamped a security blackout today on Haifa, where 2,250 Jews without immigration certificates were held aboard ships. The British also were reported sending large numbers of troops toward the north Palestine port.

Jewish circles buzzed with widespread talk that the outlawed Hagana Jewish organization might attempt to disembark the Jews by direct action. One Jewish spokesman, reminded that Haifa is a British naval base and guarded by large numbers of police and troops, asserted:

"They (the Hagana) have the men and they have the arms. If they decide to unload those ships, they'll unload them."

Four or five other ships, crammed with 5,000 more illegal Jewish immigrants, were reported heading for Haifa. The British took 1,000 old women, young girls, pregnant women and ill persons from the docked immigration ships but resolutely refused to allow the others to disembark.

The Irgun Zvai Leumi was outspoken. A spokesman for the illegal resistance group, broadcasting over the organization's radio for the first time since June 22, declared last night that the next time the British imposed a curfew such as the recent one in Tel Aviv "the (Continued on Page Two)

Guns Blaze In Tennessee's Election Violence

Three youthful exservicemen (left), one using his shirt as camouflage jungle style, fire shotguns at Minn county jail at Athens, Tenn., in which some 50 deputized officers had barricaded themselves during an outbreak of violence over seizure of ballot boxes in Thursday's primary election. At the right, three other McMinn county war veterans, one barely out of his teens, stand behind a tree and pump shotgun and rifle fire at the jail. At least six persons were seriously wounded in the outbreak. Six hours after the fighting started, the barricaded deputies surrendered to the war veterans who are supporting a bi-partisan all-GI ticket which challenges the county's incumbent Democratic organization. Couldn't Win!

LONDON, Aug. 5.—(AP)—An Exchange Telegraph Agency dispatch from Calcutta said Remandra Nazaryan Roy, rajah of Bhowal, who won a 25-year fight in the courts last week to prove he was legally alive, died Saturday in Calcutta while waiting for King George VI to sign an order restoring his vast domain.

The Privy Council, highest judicial authority in the British empire, yesterday recognized the rajah's claim by dismissing the case of Lance Sibalabail, widow of the rajah, who said Roy died at Darjeeling in 1909 and was cremated.

The rajah maintained that as his funeral pyre was burning, a heavy downpour drove his mourners to shelter. The rain rescued him, he said, and he was rescued by passing beggars with whom he lived for 12 years while suffering loss of memory.

BABY BONUSES FOR BRITISH

Start First Phase Of Immense Security Plan

London, Aug. 5.—(AP)—More than 2,000,000 mothers are expected to queue up at postoffices throughout the United Kingdom tomorrow to receive initial payments averaging 10 shillings ($2) each under Britain's $4,000,000 a week baby bonus.

The grants, made under the family allowance act passed in June 1945, before the British Labor government came into power, provides that five shillings a week be paid by the government to the parents of each child under 16 except the eldest.

The bonuses constitute the first phase of a comprehensive government program for social security which will include insurance benefits for sickness, unemployment, retirement, maternity, widowhood and health benefits.

The family allowances act inaugurates a program similar to one which has been in effect in Canada since last summer. The dominion has been contributing $20,000,000 monthly to aid parents at the average rate of $6 for each child under 16 years of age. Some 3,300,000 children, more than a fourth of Canada's 12,000,000 population, are benefited by the payments.

James Griffiths, minister of national insurance, said that Britain has 2,250,000 applications for the baby bonuses and only two per cent have been rejected. Applications still are coming in at the rate of 2,000 a day, and government sources estimated that a total of 2,900,000 claimants might be reached. (Continued on Page Two)

President Still Hoping For A Balanced Budget

Unanticipated Outlays Hamper Efforts; Disagrees With GOP That Taxes Can Be Cut In January; Budget To Be Issue In Elections

New Budget At A Glance
Outlay: $41,500,000,000, up $5,500,000,000
Income: $39,000,000,000, up $8,100,000,000
Deficit: $1,200,000,000, down $2,000,000,000

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Washington, Aug. 5.—(AP)—President Truman is still hopeful he can balance the federal budget for this fiscal year despite a big jump in unanticipated outlays. But he disagrees with some Republicans that taxes can be cut again next January.

In a new budget estimate placing both income and outgo well above January predictions but trimming earlier deficit forecasts from $4,500,000,000 to $1,900,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1947, the President said:

"In view of action the Congress has taken on price controls, I must repeat—with added emphasis—my recommendation of last January that no tax reduction be made until the inflationary situation has passed."

Rep. Knutson (Minn.), ranking Republican on the House Ways and Means Committee, declared last month that if his party wins control of the House in the November elections it would cut taxes by 20 per cent. Knutson would become chairman of that tax-levying committee if the Republicans organize the (Continued on Page Two)

Senators Await May's Testimony

Peaceful Postscript To Bitter Campaign Climaxed By Gun Battle

Athens, Tenn., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The McMinn County election commission, with member George Woods attending under protection of guards furnished by the ex-GIs whose candidates swept members of his organization from office, today formally certified the servicemen's victory at the polls.

The commission action wrote a peaceful postscript to a bitter local election climaxed by a bloody gun battle between supporters of opposing states last Thursday in which a score were wounded.

Speaker of the Tennessee House of Representatives as well as McMinn county purchasing agent Woods was high in the councils of the deposed Paul Cantrell administration which the veterans unseated.

Six of the county's 12 voting boxes were thrown out in today's vote canvass on grounds that the qualified GI election judge was not present at the polling place. In each case the motion to void the boxes was made by Woods.

The big Athens election box, the one which normally is the largest in the county, was not among those counted.

The veterans' candidate for sheriff, Knox Henry, polled 2,250 votes to 1,244 for Paul Cantrell, who as leader of the local Democratic organization was bitterly opposed by the bi-partisan ex-GI ticket. Henry's success shatters the tradition.

QUARREL OVER PRIZE MONEY

Legal Battle Shapes Up Over Salvaging Of Freighter

London, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The derelict American freighter American Farmer limped toward England today under her own power and in escort of a U. S. destroyer, while the British loudly claiming her as perhaps a $1,500,000 salvage prize.

A maritime legal battle was shaping up in the din of British newspaper headlines which complained American ships had taken over the collision battered freighter after a misgirt British vessel had her in tow.

The $350 ton American farmer, the freighter William J. Riddle (colored 73) miles west of lands end Wednesday.

The American Farmer is operated by the United States Line. The William J. Riddle is operated by the Moore-McCormack Lines and belongs to the War Shipping Administration. A passing ship took off the crew of 50 and six passengers and the British freighter Elbeth of 2,039 tons came alongside, attached towlines and started putting and heaving away toward Wales. Soon afterwards the U. S. Line destroyer Perry, the U. S. Line. (Continued on Page Two)

Railroad Men's Gain

New Law Just Signed Increases Benefits Received By 1,500,000 Railroad Workers In Pensions, Life Insurance, Unemployment Insurance And Sick Pay

By MAX HALL
(Substituting for James Marlow)
Washington, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Railroad labor leaders are celebrating what they consider a momentous victory over the railroads.

President Truman has just signed a bill which increases the benefits received by the 1,500,000 railroad workers in the form of pensions, life insurance, unemployment insurance, and sick pay.

It also raises the taxes of railroad workers and the railroads themselves, effective next Jan. 1. The bill became law after a long struggle in Congress, during which the rail unions worked for its passage and the association of American railroads opposed it.

Danger Of National Scandal In Program

Physician Says Congressman May Suffering From "General Collapse"; Board Proposes Check On Railroad "Overcharges" In Serving Armed Forces During War

Milwaukee, Aug. 5.—(AP)—General Omar N. Bradley, administrator of veterans affairs, said today that "unless preventive action is taken in on-the-job training by both state and federal governments, there is danger that a national scandal may be in the making involving millions in federal funds."

In a speech prepared for delivery before the 48th annual convention of the United Spanish War Veterans and broadcast over a nationwide (CBS) network, Gen. Bradley declared:

"The Veterans Administration has reached the point where it must consider the objectives of its program.

"Even without recent reports on job-placement training, it is apparent that something is wrong. Something is wrong when an on-the-job trainee can collect a $400 monthly wage in addition to subsistence—while a college student with wife and child must forfeit his $90 a month to take a full-time job for family support. Something is wrong when it takes three years to learn (Continued on Page 3)

Shanghai, Aug. 5.—(AP)—American Marines in North China are remaining there at their full current strength and when we are attacked we are going to shoot back. Adm. Charles M. Cooke, Jr., commander of the U. S. Seventh Fleet, told a news conference today as he discussed the July 29 ambushing of a Marine convoy near Peking.

He identified the attackers, who killed four Marines, as Chinese Communists. It was the first official identification of them.

In making the pro-government newspaper Tu Kang Pao said yesterday that the hottest rumor here is that President Truman has instructed General Marshall to prepare plans for withdrawal of U. S. forces from China to avoid another such incident.

Washington sources said they knew of no basis for such a report; and in Independence, Mo., where President Truman was vacationing, Presidential Secretary Charles G. (Continued on Page 5)

Indonesian Gunners Down Strafing Plane

Batavia Java, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Indonesian anti-aircraft gunners downed a strafing Dutch Mitchell plane during a native attack on the Semarang airfield, the Netherlands East Indies army said today.

Six members of the crew were killed. The report said the attacking Indonesians suffered heavy losses, and that the Dutch airport garrison was keeping the situation "fully in hand."

Requests Probe Of Missouri Campaign

Washington, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) received without comment today a telegraphed request for a congressional investigation of campaign spending in the Democratic primary in the fifth Missouri district.

The request was made by Jerome Walsh, who is seeking nomination as U. S. representative along with Enos Axtell, who has President Truman's backing against Roger Slaughter, incumbent, whom the President wants defeated.

United States Moving To Curb Big-Five Veto

By SIGRID ARNE
Washington, Aug. 5.—The United States has taken two steps that look as though it would support a move to whittle down the "veto" power in the United Nations.

That question is due to come up, perhaps explosively, before the UN General Assembly of 51 nations in September. It will be brought up by the dramatic Herbert V. Ewart of Australia, a consistent fighter against the veto since the UN charter was written at San Francisco.

The "veto" is a voting formula. On all votes to take important action in the security council the Big Five—the U. S., the United Kingdom, Russia, France and China—must agree. If one of them votes "No" there can be no action. Russia has voted "No" several times already, to the obvious irritation of other nations.

All the 46 little nations in UN could favor an action, but if one of the big powers said "No" the little nations could just bite their finger-nails. It is for that reason that Ewart, representing a small nation, has battled so valiantly.

At San Francisco Russia insisted on the veto. The U. S., U. K., China and France supported the idea, but it was never known just how en- (Continued on Page Two)

United Church Action

Protestant Churchmen Favor Joint Action With Catholics To Form Christian Viewpoint Of Peace For Statesmen; Faiths Joined Politically In Germany

There is before the world conference of churches now meeting in Cambridge, England, a project favored by Protestant leaders of eight nations for joint action on global problems by Protestants and Roman Catholics.

Under this plan collaboration would be sought with the Roman Catholic Church in putting a Christian viewpoint on peace questions before the statesmen of the world. Joint action would be based upon "some kind of satisfactory understanding at the highest level, presumably between the world council of churches and the Vatican," John Foster Dulles of New York, chairman of the Federal Council of Churches Commission on a Just and Durable Peace, yesterday urged the conference to discuss the "extremely urgent matter" of tension between the Soviet Union and the (Continued on Page 5)

Festival Is Big Event On Coast

Morehead City, N. C., August 5.—Morehead's City's fifth coastal festival will open August 8 for three eventful days. The festival will feature beauty contests, water parades, street parades, dances, sailboat and motor boat races.

Twenty-five girls from as many cities in the state have accepted invitations to participate in the beauty contest for the title of Miss Coastal Festival of 1946.

Sailboat races will be held Thursday and Friday. A water parade is scheduled for Friday evening with many barges and floats and special lighting effects. Following the water parade, a street dance will be held on the water front.

On Saturday, the finals in the sailboat races will be run and a street parade will be featured, and at 8:00 o'clock, the beauty queen will be chosen on Atlantic Beach, with a Coronation ball at the Surf Club winding up the festivities. (Continued on Page 5)

Red Oak News

The Red Oak community picnic will be held Wednesday afternoon, August 7th, at the Farmville swimming pool.

This picnic is sponsored by the Red Oak Sunday school and the Red Oak Home Demonstration Club and a special invitation is extended to the whole community to attend. The boys and girls who are members of the Youthful Workers club are urged to go.

If our plans are carried out, there will be a large truck at the church Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock which will carry about sixty or seventy and any one who wishes to do so may go on this truck. Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Tyson will go on this truck and they will see that all children are taken care of. The Sunday school will pay the expenses of the truck.

Everybody is asked to take a picnic supper and some sweetened tea. Drinking cups will be provided.

It is hoped that everybody will join in and let's celebrate the end of a busy season of harvesting tobacco and the approach of the fall season. Come one, come all! Please watch Tuesday's paper for further notice. If it is raining or stormy it will be postponed.

When Mary Louise Everett (now Mrs. Bernard Wright of Greensboro), having been crowned "queen" by Governor Cameron Morrison, led the grand march on his arm, a precedent was set which was not broken until the war.

With Mrs. Adelaide Boylston (now Mrs. R. H. Sykes of Durham) in charge of arrangements, 23 young ladies were presented to society on that evening in the old city auditorium.

The ball grew steadily, with 30 debutantes in 1921; 45 in 1922, when music was furnished by Hal Kemp and his orchestra, and 100 in 1927, when Julia Andrews (now Mrs. John A. Park, Jr.) led the figure.

In 1928 the merchants turned the ball sponsorship over to the young men of Raleigh's Terpsichorean Cotillion Club. Emily Storr (Mrs. Alan Chapman) led the 1928 ball, assisted by Annette Tucker (Mrs. Arch T. Allen), and 100 young ladies were presented.

Mary Johnson Mrs. Deryl Hart of Durham) was leader in 1929; Sarah White (Mrs. William Barnes) in 1930; and Dorothy Dillon (Mrs. Graham McLeod of Rocky Mount) in 1931.

The traditional debutante figure was originated by Sarah Busbee of Raleigh, now Mrs. John Phillips.

In 1932, Elizabeth Park (Mrs. Mark Lynch of Connecticut) led the ball. She was followed in 1933 by Sadie Root (Mrs. Paul Tillery); in 1934 by Katherine Harris (Mrs. Alexander Badger); and in 1935 by Shirley Hayward (Mrs. Tom Alexander).

In 1936 when Vass Stimpert was president of the Terpsichorean club, a plan was formed whereby the debutantes would actually give the ball themselves with the financial assistance and sponsorship of the club. Since then each girl has contributed a pro rata share of the expense and, instead of one escort, invites a chief marshal and four assistants. Now, too, instead of just one ball, the debutantes are honored at a series of entertainments beginning with a luncheon on Friday and ending with a dance Saturday night.

The 1936 ball was led by Lucile Aycock (now Mrs. James McKee, Jr.). She was followed by Barbara Thompson (Mrs. Carol Church of Houston) in 1937; Sue Joyner in 1938; Betty Winborne (Mrs. William K. Woltz of Mt. Airy) in 1939; and Bettie Hill in 1940.

During these years, the ball increased in size and social prominence. In 1941 when the figure was led by Emily Cheshire (Mrs. Walter Townsend) 125 debutantes were presented and the dance was attended by people from all over the state.

Then with the coming of the war, travel difficulties and the man shortage, the ball was postponed, as were debutante balls throughout the country, for the "duration."

But this year the North Carolina tradition will once more be carried on. Plans for a ball which will live up to expectations that have been pending for the past four years, are now being made.

The present president of the Terpsichorean club is Alexander Badger. Frances McKee is chairman of the girl's committee for the ball and James H. Pou Bailey is chairman of the boy's committee.

Curbing Veto

On the vote on adoption of the veto, the Big Powers refused to vote. Had they voted against the idea the tally would have been 30 to 17. The measure would have failed because it took two-thirds approval to win. This two-thirds vote obtains also in the UN general assembly, and that 29 to 17 line-up could occur in the September session. Some of the 30 could even switch, experts here admit.

The second vote at San Francisco that revealed feeling about the veto was on the general idea Evatt may propose now as an amendment: that the Big Five should exercise the veto only when voting on punitive action. It would not apply when the United Nations were discussing "peaceful arrangements."

On this vote at San Francisco the big powers got even less support. The vote was 20 to 10, and again 15 nations abstained. If the 15 had voted with the 10, the big powers would have been swamped.

The oncoming argument will likely prove inviolable.

If the general assembly votes to amend or to kill the veto, the debate itself could run into the veto. To write amendments, two-thirds of the assembly of 51 nations must vote "yes," including all the Big Five. That could mean that Russia, the champion of the veto, could vote "no," and the whole argument would be out the window.

Experts on international negotiating say there is only one hope in such a deadlock: That the debates in the assembly might keep up such a storm of public opinion around the world that Russia would back down.

The shock was so severe that it put out of commission seismographs at the U. S. Naval Station in Puerto Rico at 1:49 p. m. (EDT), at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, at 1:53-30 p. m. (EDT), and in Trinidad at 1:55-46 p. m. (EDT).

Pan American Airways' installation at San Juan reported that the shock could be felt for three minutes while the walls shook, but that no damage was apparent. A brief power failure occurred in San Juan.

Balancing Budget

Rep. Taber of New York, who would head the appropriations committee under a Republican majority, has promised a balanced budget with a reduced tax rate if the Republicans take over the House next January.

In his revised budget made public Saturday night, Mr. Truman estimated expenditures this fiscal year at $5,500,000,000, a net increase of $5,500,000,000 over the January estimate, and receipts at $3,900,000,000, an increase of $8,100,000,000 compared with January.

With the anticipated deficit less than half what his financial experts figured six months ago, the President said he was working not only toward a balanced budget, but a "substantial budget surplus" in the 1947-48 fiscal year.

The increase in estimated receipts was due primarily to a jump of $5,500,000,000 in individual income tax receipts which in turn reflect expectations of a higher national income. Budget officials said the revised estimates are based on an anticipated national income of $165,000,000,000 instead of the $140,000,000,000 looked for six months ago.

With the new budget figures, the White House made public letters the President wrote to department and agency heads ordering them to cut down contemplated expenditures in order to meet the revised federal budget.

Most of the cuts will be effected in the military and maritime services. Army funds were ordered cut by $1,000,000,000, navy by $850,000,000 and the maritime commission by $600,000,000. Chiefly involved are construction items the President said he believes can easily be deferred.

Mr. Truman listed $4,400,000,000 in new outlays as the result of legislation enacted since January, including $2,400,000,000 for GI terminal leave pay. Much of this will be in government bonds to be redeemed over the next five years, but the item is being counted in this year's obligations.

Christian Science Services

"Love" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science Churches and Societies on Sunday, August 4.

The Golden Text was from II Corinthians 13:11: "Be perfect, be of good comfort, be of one mind, live in peace, and the God of love and peace shall be with you."

Among the citations comprising the lesson-sermon were the following: The Bible—"Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God: and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. He that loveth not knoweth not God: for God is love." (I John 4:7,8). And from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Love, the divine Principle, is the Father and Mother of the universe, including man. No form nor physical comeliness is adequate to represent infinite Love." (Page 256).

JIGGER MORAN

by JOHN ROBERT

Chapter 15

Jigger walked-ran out of the door, down the short hall. He retrieved the Gladstone, ran down the stairs, unlatched the double bolts, reached the sidewalk.

Around the corner, Red was drowsing in the back of the Imperial. Jigger tossed the Gladstone on his lap and got into the driver's seat. Red started up with the starter: "What's with the bag, Jigger?"

The Imperial streaked forward, snaking through groups of kids playing shenanigan in the gutter. "I snatched it, Red. It belonged to Birdie."

"What's in it?"

"Break it open and find out."

Red lolled, raising a sweat. "No can do, Jigger. Samson couldn't force this lock even if he had hair down to his knees."

Jigger held a lug-wrench over his shoulder: "Here. Go to town!"

Red threw himself into the chow with much ughing and a fearful gutter. His breathing labored over the din of the motor.

"Red, you better cut down on the jokes. You've got the wheeze of an octogenarian. Haven't you opened it yet?"

Red ughed mightily and said yes finally.

"What's inside?"

Red dug into the bowels of the Gladstone. After a pause he whistled.

"Find anything, Red?"

"Birdie carried a satchel full of reason."

"Don't editorialize, Red. Give me an itemized statement."

"Well, from the looks of it, there's at least six different subversive publications—mostly pamphlets, and about a short ton of leaflets. From the kaleidoscopic look-see I'm getting of heads and ears, it seems everything is attacked, slandered, boo-hoohed." One of these leaflets has a recent date on it and is addressed to "my fellow-workers of parts factory 9 of Aero Aircraft."

"Anything else, Red?"

"More of the same, generally. Oh yes, a couple of rolls of film—miniature stuff."

Jigger pulled to the curb.

Red caught a view of the same archins he had fought a pitched battle with thirty minutes earlier. "What're we doing back in the same place, Jigger?"

Jigger pacified: "It must be pretty obvious to you that there's a job to be done, Red."

Red snuffed suspiciously. "What're you softening me up for?"

Jigger said brightly: "You're going to play lookout."

"Lookout for what?"

"There's a gent upstairs with Birdie's woman. He sounded like he was climbing into his clothes in order to poke her one and whizz out the door. I want you to trail him."

Red argued against the project

warily: "What's the point?"

"I heard Blossom Nevers, or whatever her real name is, say that Birdie got his lumps because of new ideas this gent you're to trail put in Birdie's head."

Red preferred to be one-cylinder about it all. Crimebusting might be fun but shadowing was a form of spade-work that added up prosaically to fallen metatarsals, hot dogs on the run, and practically no applause.

Red said drearily: "So I trail him. So what?"

Jigger dripped drama to give the project magnitude: "This guy is a key figure—I've got a strong hunch. By now it must be as obvious Red, that Birdie had a pile of dough he never could have gotten working for peanuts for Little Joey. Jigger ended strongly: "The case might pivot on what you find, Red. Tag this gent, identify him and the rest of it. I'll see you later."

Red envied Jigger his prerogatives. "Where you going, brain?"

"First, I'm going to get these films developed. Then I'm going to mail a sample kit of these leaflets back to Birdie's missus with an apocryphal ha-ha-I-caught-you signature appended."

Red looked blank and asked what for.

"With Joey in cold storage, I'm trying to egg whomever we're after, if anybody, into an improvisation. It's an arrow in the air, but who can tell? I might be the world's most formidable unconscious archer."

Red squirmed some more. "And then what, schib? So far, your job doesn't sound like work."

"Then I'm going to see Little Joey. He needs cheering up."

Red swore under his breath. "Still doesn't sound like work. Why don't we swap assignments?"

Jigger was bland. "You've got all the subtlety and talent that make an A-1 shadow. Red, I'd probably absently walk up to the guy and ask for a match. Besides, I'm Little Joey's special agent. You're just another guy that hates him."

Jigger started the cab and Red went to take up his vigil.

Chapter 16

It was lunch hour at Childs. Jigger slid into a seat at one of the six tables tended by Irene.

Jigger said, "Coffee-and, sweet. Where you been keeping yourself?"

Irene looked inquiringly, passing the ball right back.

Jigger tried to look wornout. "I been running myself ragged on this case. The fog hasn't lifted yet."

Irene set the coffee in front of Jigger.

"You're going at this case all wrong."

Jigger sipped, gurgled. "How would you know?"

"Joey's being framed from the inside. It's as simple as that."

Jigger said inquisitively, "How did you arrive at that?"

Irene turned to leave. "It's my womanly intuition. Ring me up tonight."

Jigger wangled his way in to see Joey with A'hearn verging on an apoplectic fit.

Joey was pettish: "You're not doing so good, Jigger." His hand labored a circle at his cramped surroundings in proof.

Jigger repressed a desire to laugh in Joey's face. "You didn't hire me to create miracles, Joey. The cops didn't take you as an afterthought. You were slated for the can thirty seconds after the cops saw the condition Herz was in."

"They can't hold me. My lawyer's arguing bail. There's nothing tying me to the killing—no evidence."

"So there's half a handcuff. But how about Birdie, Joey? That's the other half."

"I had nothing to do with Birdie croaking."

"He was one of your boys, Joey. The cops know he's the guy that started the rumor. There's your motive for erasing Birdie—to boot."

Joey spat the words. "Birdie wasn't one of my boys. I gave that rat the bounce months ago. When he was up for peddling reefer."

Jigger studied his fingernails minutely. "Just who are your boys, Joey?"

Joey's eyes darted. "Are you kidding?"

"No. Who are they? I don't keep your personnel records."

"Rocky, Munsey, the Perrotti brothers, Big Joe, Bill Lederer, and a dozen runners—young punks."

"What does Rocky do?"

"He's a controller—like Munsey. Good kid. I gave him his first buck."

"I know the Perrotti brothers' act. Who is Big Joe and how did he look up with you?"

"He hit me up for a job when I was in Miami two years ago. Big Joe made his in alky during Prohibition. Made a deal and paid a million bucks in income taxes to escape a federal rap. Lost the rest of his bundle in Florida real estate just about the time I hired him."

"How about Bill Lederer? The name is vaguely familiar."

Joey wore his dislike in a slung. "You might've heard of him as 'Toughie' about ten years ago, Jigger. He had the North Side of Chicago sewed up. Even Capone kept plenty of space between them. Bill did ten years in the pen for shooting up an assistant D. A."

"Do you believe that Munsey paid off, Joey?"

"Yeh. Unless the guy was raised on beatings and they don't mean nothing."

"That was no beating, Joey. It was scientific torture. Who took the bet from the Doc?"

"Big Joe. Our Yorkville runner was drafted and Big Joe was pinching hitting until we broke a new man could have been gunning for Birdie—for a hundred different reasons—if you add up the enterprises Birdie found time for."

"Talk straight, Jigger."

"Okay. A good 50 per cent of what you've told me are lies. And there's a lot more you haven't told me. You're too old a hand to let yourself get maneuvered on a spot where two killings lead directly to you. You see, Joey, there's the whole lay in your routine to date. Your record makes you out to be no chump. The fact that you're still alive and operating proves it."

"You're talking through your hat, Jigger."

"Am I? Why are you passing out big hints that you're being framed and maybe from the inside? You even planted one with Irene."

Joey looked frightened. "You're outa your head, Jigger."

Jigger looked amused. "Don't look so scared, Joey. I don't begrudge you Irene. It was obvious that you had the hook out for her—and Irene is susceptible to promises. Relax. Jealousy won't be the reason I drop your case."

"You're not going to pack me in, are you, Jigger?"

"That depends on how you deal. If you keep on from under the deck, I won't play."

Joey was a harassed guy. "I told you all I can."

Little Joey wanted to cry and make a friend out of Jigger but Little Joey got in the way.

Jigger said laconically, "Be seeing you, Joey. Send out for the fannies and take your mind off your problems. You're looking a little pale around the gills."

It was the only time Joey could remember that he wanted to shake hands.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

TIDES OF THE SOUL

Yesterday we passed a little lagoon miles from the sea, yet there was evidence of the rise and fall of the tide. Far from the broad and mighty sea but still connected with the sea. Hence the tides.

As long as even the most slender connection with the sea is maintained the tides will rise and fall. The body of water may be only a few feet wide and located many miles inland, but the tides will rise and fall there as they do along the far-away, sandy beaches.

The tides of the ocean and the tides of the soul operate in the same fashion. Distance makes no difference provided we keep connected with the vast ocean of spiritual power. We feel ourselves very insignificant. Who are we, little unknown, inconsequential people in a vast world where big things are being done? Does the Almighty, enthroned in power behind the curtain of the firmament, think of us and concern Himself with our problems?

Yes; little as we appear to ourselves, we do not appear little to God. Far away as we may seem to be, we are not too far away for the tides of his mighty power and love to reach us. The only thing of importance is that we maintain connection with the sea.

A bit of sand swept across the mouth of the lagoon would end immediately the movement of the tides. The sand of worldly interests—indifference, and above all perverse and wrong living—will keep the tides of the divine life from operating in our souls.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By JANE EADS

Washington—There are complaints from various departments about town that the government often expects its hired help to do things a private boss would never expect of his employes.

This is especially true in the matter of expenses. For example: U. S. labor conciliators, trying to keep negotiators in the maritime strike talks together through the wee hours, dug into their own pockets to buy food to sustain them.

A conciliator's job is to keep the boys banging their heads together until they soften up. If the men get the notion to go out for a cup of coffee, or to catch up on their beauty sleep, they're likely to cool off and begin being stubborn all over again.

Uncle Sam doesn't provide an expense account for feeding outsiders. This means that about four conciliators were footing the bills for representatives of six unions and three employer groups... about 36 men.

Among the after-midnight snackerers was Joe Curran, boss of the CIO National Maritime Union. Six-foot-three, with 217 pounds of tattooed brawn, he required more than a tea-time snack to keep him satisfied.

Often to talk, the conciliators had to go to the hotel rooms of the negotiators. This usually called for some sort of outlay for which the government boys divided up from notoriously meager salaries.

Private concerns often allow $4 a day or more for meals alone when an employe is traveling afield on business. In addition, they sometimes allow unlimited expenses for entertaining prospective clients and such.

The government allows its employees a hard $6 a day for all expenses, excluding transportation.

The State Department's Foreign Service Division is one of the outfits setting up the biggest howl.

Foreign Service officials must spend a lot of money to make the essential contacts, it argues. Treaties, important trade negotiations and other big deals are frequently dependent on how hospitable you are.

Foreign Service recommended that "at least $2,000,000" be provided by Congress for the fiscal year of 1945-46, although the total for 1944-45 was only $439,000. Congress voted $585,000.

Officials of the service, in their reports, pointed to the fact that the British ambassador at Washington spent $35,000 on official entertaining in 1944. This was more than six times the $5,400 allowed our ambassador at London. The British ambassador at Cairo had $17,500, while our envoy had only $5,400. The British ambassador had $13,000 at Buenos Aires, ours $5,000.

Railroad Men . . .

May 18 issue said under an eight-column headline:

"Labor has been informed by a gentleman who knows what is going on that more than 300 railroad lawyers and probably as many prominent railroad officials have already registered at Washington Hotels and are interviewing members of Congress."

On the other hand, the rail unions themselves were called "pressure groups" during the fight. Rep. Clarence Lea D-Calif., chairman of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, said in a statement he thought it inconceivable that the House would have passed the Crosser bill without amendment "had there been no pressure groups involved."

In a speech opposing the measure on July 27, Lea said, "this is a 60-page bill, virtually written by a special group, and in its own interest."

Here are the main things the law does:

1. It raises taxes in 1947. Railroad workers at present pay a 3.1-2 per cent retirement tax, matched by another 3.1-2 per cent paid by the railroads. On January 1 this tax will go up to 5.3-4 per cent on each party; in 1949 to 6 per cent; and in 1952, to 8.1-4 per cent.
2. Employees in other industries pay only 1 per cent social security tax but their benefits are not as large as those of railroad workers. Railroad workers are not under the social security act; they are under the railroad unemployment insurance act.
3. It will pay regular pensions to widows of railroad workers, starting Jan. 1. Very few of these widows get pensions now, because the only way a worker had been able to assure his widow a pension was to accept a reduced retirement pension for himself.
4. It will immediately increase the benefits for total disability, and starting Jan. 1 it will raise the pensions for many retired workers in the lowest wage groups.
5. The unemployment insurance tax lays the same .13 per cent of the payroll, paid entirely by the railroads). But unemployment benefits are raised. Starting immediately, an unemployed worker can get benefits 26 weeks in a year, instead of 20. And the maximum payment is raised from $20 a week to $25.

5. In addition to unemployment insurance, the government will do something brand-new, starting July 1, 1947. It will pay railroad workers for time lost on account of sickness, accident or maternity. Such benefits will be the same amount and duration as those for unemployment.

On the other hand, the rail unions themselves were called "pressure groups" during the fight. Rep. Clarence Lea D-Calif., chairman of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, said in a statement he thought it inconceivable that the House would have passed the Crosser bill without amendment "had there been no pressure groups involved."

DOGGY ASSEMBLAGE

Dear Editor,

It was in the early morning hours when sleep is sweetest that the dogs began to assemble. With yelps of joy, howls of disappointment and just plain old barks. Male dogs, female dogs, fat and lean dogs, hound dogs and fire, they seem to come from everywhere bringing their grievances and discussing them with gusto.

Those who could not attend the meetings seem to stay at home, yap and mourn. The object of all meetings held to date seem three-fold. First, to wake everybody up within a radius of one mile. Second, to demand cooler and more comfortable places to sleep and third, requesting larger garbage cans with tops that are easier to remove.

All the stay-at-home dogs seem to be allowed to vote by yaps and howls with some voting several times, some times continuously while the main convention is in session. My dog was not there, was yours?

IS HELD FOR INFANTICIDE

Police Charge Negro Woman With Murder New-Born Baby

By CHESTER WALSH
Sunday night police arrested Alberta Moore, Negro, of the Barna community on a charge of murdering her new-born infant. She was given a preliminary hearing in Police Court today and Judge Jimmy Roberts found her over to Superior Court without bond.

The baby, born August 1, was found Saturday in the pit of a sanitary privy in the yard. Police Chief Jim Tanner said the mother, in a signed confession, stated that the baby weighed 10 pounds when born and that it was normal.

Police had a tip on August 1 that the woman had given birth to a baby and that it was missing. After a conference with the Suppt. of Welfare, K. T. Putrelle, and Detective Corbett visited the mother, but she denied having a baby. Later on Patrolman J. B. Mills received a tip as to the infant's whereabouts and it was found dead in the box under the backyard toilet.

In her signed confession the woman stated that Bruce Hawkins, Negro, 507 15th street was the child's father. Police said he had nothing to do with the death of the baby.

After a conference with Coroner Griffen H. Rouse, he decided not to have an inquest. Chief Tanner swore out a warrant for the woman and charged her with murder. The chief, Detective Corbett and Patrolman Mills made the arrest.

Church Action . . .

found that followers of the two faiths had combined politically, not under the designation of Protestants and Catholics but as a Christian party.

This slough of despond was, of course, in large degree the work of Hitler himself. Right from the beginning of his assumption of power in 1933 he set out to destroy all Christianity in the Reich and substitute a pagan religion in which he himself played the part of a messiah. His campaign was thoroughly organized and provided not only for the crippling of the churches but for the taking over of children and youths for training in the iniquitous Nazi doctrines.

By the time of the fateful Munich conference of '38 when I spent much time in Germany, the Fuehrer had made tremendous progress in changing the nature of his people, especially the young and more susceptible. While it was obvious that he was waging this drive then against Christianity, it wasn't clear why he was doing it, unless to satisfy his mountainous egotism.

His purpose did become apparent a year later when he launched his barbaric war to enslave Europe—maybe the world. In order to get his people to follow him in savagery which had no parallel in modern annals he had to deprive as many as he could of their Christianity and substitute paganism, because no Christian could brook what he contemplated doing.

When I was in England not long ago I saw official Nazi confirmation that Hitler did try to destroy Christianity. This was a copy of a document taken from the secret archives in Berlin after the capitulation. It asserted in effect that Christianity was a bulwark of democracy and that "the cross of the Swastika seeks to destroy the Cross of Christ."

Naturally Hitler couldn't destroy Christianity in Germany, but he did enough damage with his evil tactics that I was told by occupation authorities that Germans between the ages of 14 and 34 were regarded as more or less lost to Allied influence. Then, too, this Allied-Christian Nazism spread into many surrounding countries to replace the code of the sermon on the Mount with barbarism. In addition there are many people who have subscribed to political isms which teach that religion is the opiate of the masses.

So there is a vast field for combined Christian efforts if it is decided to undertake them.

Greenies Grab Second Game From Wilsonites

By DAVE CLARK

Wilson came, they saw, but they were conquered, as manager Virgil Payne's Greenville Greenies made their way in a row over the League-leading Tots yesterday in Guy Smith Stadium by taking a 6-1 verdict in the daylight contest.

The Greenies rocked veteran Wilson tosser Kelly Kee for six hits and five runs in the first frame to clinch the contest early. The runs came after Tommy Lee had made the first out by popping to Irv Dickens at second base. Merle Blackwell stropped up and straightaway smacked a single to start the trouble for Kee. After Blackwell's single, Ray Carlson worked Kee for a base on balls, and Verne Blackwell singled to fill the bases. This set the stage for Manager Payne's single that got away from left-fielder Johnny Alusk and scored both Carlson and M. Blackwell.

Earl Smith, handling the catching chores yesterday, immediately punched another single to send Payne and Verne Blackwell home, then scored himself when, after Parise filed to Wolfe for the second out, Milt Narron and Joe Alamo cracked consecutive singles. This ended the Greenie scoring party although lead-off man Tommy Lee walked to fill the sacks again before Merle Blackwell filed out to Eason in right.

Joe Alamo went the route on the hill for the Greenies to receive credit for his eleventh win against eight setbacks. He had one of his best days, scattering eight Wilson blows effectively. Only in the fifth, when Stuart walked, went to third on Kee's hit and scored on Dickens' grounder to Narron at first, was Wilson able to push across a run against Alamo.

After Kee weathered the first inning storm, he settled down and allowed but three more hits for the rest of the contest. The Greenies grabbed another run in the seventh, when Payne walked, went to second on Smith's sacrifice bunt, and came home on Joe Parise's Texas league single to center.

The Greenies pulled a double play in the sixth, when with one on, the next man up grounded to M. Blackwell at third, who tossed to Payne at second, who whipped the ball to

The major league's attendance figures soared to 12,788,000 today—nearly two millions more than last year's record total—following a splendid Sunday turnout featured by Cleveland's standard-shattering 75,959 crowd of which 74,592 paid.

The throng which filled Cleveland's Municipal Stadium for a glimpse of its pitching idol, blazing Bobby Feller, almost witnessed a tragedy when the speedball king was forced to leave the field in the seventh inning of the first game of a scheduled double headed with the New York Yankees when he pulled a back muscle. Feller's injury later was described as not serious and the Tribe expected him to take his regular turn next Thursday.

Yesterday's turnout was some 6,000 shy of the major league record of 81,841 set by the Yankees May 30, 1938.

Five other clubs, the Detroit Tigers, Boston Red Sox, Philadelphia Phils and two Chicago clubs set new single game record attendances this season and the Yanks established a new night game mark of more than 63,000 two months ago.

Feller's abrupt retirement spoiled a thrilling scoreless duel with Yankees' Floyd (Bill) Bevens, the Cleveland ace having fanned seven to raise his strikeout total to 246 in 239 innings. With Feller out of the way, the Yankees went on to win 2-0, getting the winning markers in the ninth inning off Bob Lemon, who had taken over for Feller. The second game was halted by rain in the top of the second inning.

Another fine crowd of 49,425 saw the American League leading Red Sox knock Detroit's Hal Newhouse from the hill for the third time this season and plaster him with his fourth defeat against 20 victories as the Sox trimmed the Tigers 3-4.

Ted Williams, Boston's great slugging outfielder, was out of uniform for the first time this season. He remained in his hotel room with a slight temperature.

Brooklyn increased its National League lead over the second place

400 meter champion in 1941 and 1942, returned to take the 100 and 200-meter free style races and lead his Hawaii University swimming club teammates to an easy victory.

Harry Holiday of Michigan, transplanted to Hawaii by the army after winning the 1943 AAU indoor backstroke crown, churned off with the 100-meter backstroke and 300-meter individual medley. And Joe Verdeur of the Philadelphia Turkeys, 1943 and 1944 outdoor breast stroke champion, won the 200-meter breast stroke.

Hawaii totaled 72 points to wait off with team honors, actually their fourth straight championship.

Player-Contract Conferees Meet

New York, Aug 5—(AP)—Major league baseballs hired hands were well on their way to first base in their quest for contract reforms as they went into a huddle with their employers here today in the second session of a series designed to improve their working conditions.

Player representatives of both circuits were to lay before a special major league policy meeting the two platforms they drew up last week—platforms which since have received the blessings of no less an authority than Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler.

The third stage in the negotiations leading to changes forced on the 107-year-old national pastime by the threat of union organizers the Mexican League will come "sometime before Labor Day" when the policy committee makes its suggestions at a joint meeting of club owners.

Chandler, who was not scheduled to sit in on today's session at the offices of the New York Yankees, said last Friday he was in sympathy with the players' demands for a minimum salary, spring training expenses, a pension fund and other improvements "to which they are entitled."

And when Chandler added that he considered the players' proposals "comparatively modest, he indicated that organized baseball is willing to do all it can to keep its athletes happy.

Mickey Vernon Sees Rival As Swat Champ

Chicago, Aug 5—(AP)—Slender James Barton "Mickey" Vernon, Washington Senators' first baseman, hopes he can win the American League batting championship, but he speaks in awe of Boston's Ted Williams, his rival for the swat championship.

"New," said Spidery Mickey, who has led the junior circuit hitting race most of the season, "there's nobody who can compare with Williams. It's just accidental that I'm right up with him."

Vernon currently is batting .357 compared with Williams' .351.

"Ted is in a class by himself," said Vernon after the Senators closed a four-game set with the Chicago White Sox. "when he hammers the ball, it's really hammered. I'm just hitting them where they ain't."

McLane Stars In Swimming Meet

San Diego, Calif., Aug. 5—(AP)—It was like old times as the former national champions came back to reclaim their prewar titles at the three-day AAU senior men's outdoor swimming meet ended yesterday. Except, that is, for Jimmy McLane, the 15-year-old Akron Ohio whizzer.

McLane won the 400, 800 and 1,500 meter free style events to win the list of triple crown winners including Johnny Weissmuller, Buster Crabbe, Jack Medica, Ralph Flanagan and Keo Nakama, who did it last in 1944.

SELECT YOUR PHYSICIAN WITH CARE AND CONFIDENCE

★ The study of medicine is a selective process in itself. Seven years of intensive study in college, plus one year of practice in a hospital, are the minimum requirements. It is wise to trust your precious health only to a conscientious physician of recognized standing. Avoid the quack, the charlatan, the "cure all" type of doctor. Almost invariably they do more harm than good. Select your physician as you should your pharmacist—with care and confidence.

When your physician writes a prescription, bring it to us to be filled. We are specialists at this work.
