REFUGEES ARE DETAINED ON TWO VESSELS

Ships Crowded With European Zionists Are Problem For British

Jerusalem, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Two ships crowded with approximately 1,200 Jewish refugees from Europe anchored just outside the Haifa breakwater today, providing a new problem for British authorities striving to halt illegal immigration to a restless Palestine.

Arrival of the two vessels brought to almost 2,700 the number of Jewish refugees detained aboard ships at Haifa because of lack of proper immigration certificates.

Still another vessel loaded with illegal immigrants was reported en route to Haifa under escort of a British destroyer after being sighted off the coast by a RAF plane and at least one more was believed at sea.

The newest arrivals were identified as the Yagur, carrying 700 refugees, and the Henrietta Szold, a one-masted sailing craft loaded down with 500 passengers—half of them children and 30 of these babies in arms.

The Szold, named for the American Jewess who devoted her life to aiding child immigrants in the U. S., was towed the last few miles of this journey by a police launch, her engine having broken down at sea.

The Yagur, named for the Jewish settlement of Mesheg Yagur near Haifa, was manned by a Turkish crew, which was arrested by the British navy and taken ashore. The passengers had slept in bunks on deck throughout the voyage.

Both ships were well stocked with water and food, some of which bore UNRRA labels. The refugees said they sailed from a French port on June 29, but refused to say where they had obtained their supplies.

The Szold apparently was manned by the refugees themselves, for no trace of a crew was found.

The appearance of the two ships caused a stir among the 1,400 men and women still detained in the harbor aboard the refugee ships Hagana and Jewish warrior. When dawn broke and they saw the Yagur lying at anchor they began to sing Hatikvah—the Jewish national anthem. Loud cheers later greeted the appearance of the Szold.

The refugees aboard the Yagur on a 30-ton auxiliary schooner, said they had asked the Turkish crew to take them to Bevrein (Beirut) Lebanon, but when off the coast had demanded that they be taken instead to Haifa. Most of the Yagur's passengers—a third of whom were women, came from Hungary, Poland, Yugoslavia or Germany.

Hearing Set For Bankruptcy Plea

Chicago, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Refugees in bankruptcy Wallace Streeter today set Aug. 21 for examination of witnesses concerned in the liquidation of six creditor companies and the government to have the Batavia Metal Products Company and its subsidiary, the Challenge Co., declared bankrupt.

Attorneys for the creditors will question principals as to the assets, operation, management and financial status of the companies.

Attorney William S. Collen, counsel for the creditors, said he had not decided whom he would subpoena. However, he questioned John P. Lullinski, assistant U. S. attorney, as to legal possibilities on having Murray Garsson brought back from Cuba, where he is vacationing.

Garsson was one of the heads of a midwest munitions empire now under Senate investigation. His brother, Dr. Henry Garsson, formerly was president of the Batavia company.

Marshall-Stuart Report Failure; Reds And Kai-Shek Party Are Poles Apart; Coalition Gov't Called Futile Hope; Selfish Interests Hamper Peace

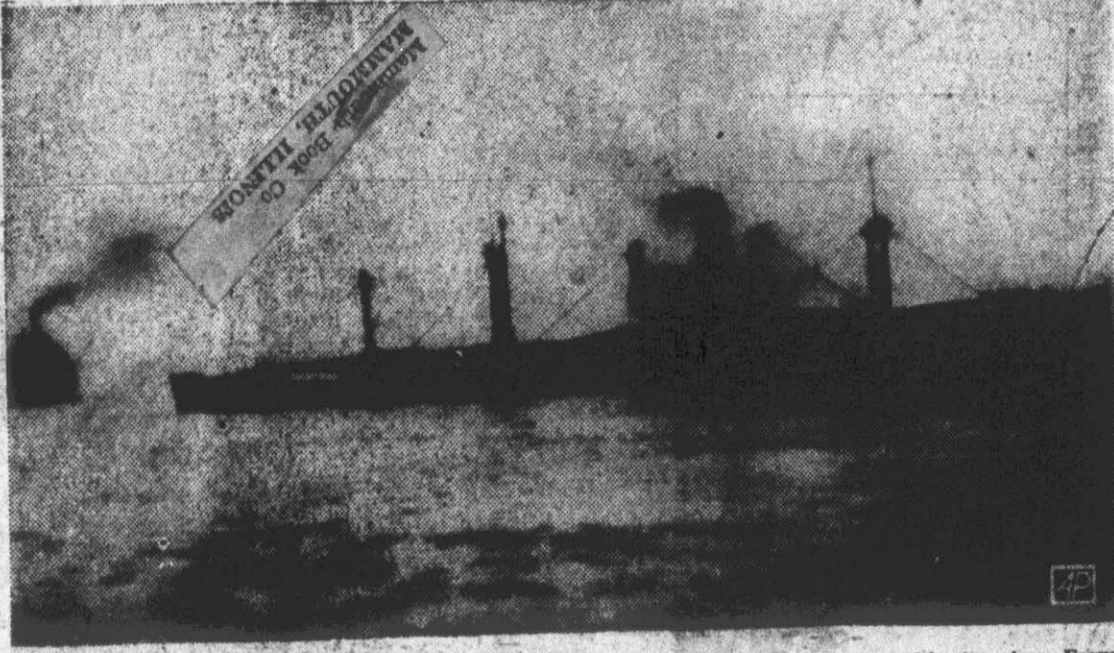

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

That's a grim and alarming picture drawn by presidential envoy General George G. Marshall and U. S. Ambassador John Leighton Stuart in their week-end statement at Nanking that peaceful settlement of China's growing civil war appears impossible.

This means that if worse comes to worst China's five hundred millions will be subjected to a hell more terrible than that in which they have been tortured during the nine years since Japan's invasion in '37. It means not only wholesale deaths by violence, but millions must perish of starvation, for famine already has a fierce grip on the war-stricken country.

The visitation of such affliction upon a fifth of the world's population would in all conscience be awful enough, but that's only half the story. All-out civil war in China would produce a staggering threat

British, U. S. Ships Parted In Salvage 'Battle'

The 2,600-ton British steamer Eliza beta (left) crosses the bow of the U. S. merchant ship American Farmer several hundred miles off the English coast after her tow lines to the crippled American vessel, abandoned after a collision, had been cut by a boarding crew from the U. S. ship. The British ship was attempting to salvage the Farmer and claim her rich cargo. The stricken ship later reached Falmouth, England, under her own power with American seamen in control. Ex-GI's Organize In Secret Caucus

Form Political Organization To Operate Through Existing North Carolina Democratic Organization; Adopt Program; Will Participate In Future Elections

Pinehurst, Aug. 12.—(AP)—World War II veterans have formed a political organization North Carolina GI Democrats, which its leaders say will not be an independent party but will operate through the existing state Democratic organization.

The organization was formed at a secret caucus here yesterday of about 50 former servicemen from the state's 14 congressional districts. Frank Parker of Asheville was elected chairman and Mayne Albright of Raleigh, secretary.

The GI Democrats adopted a 14-point program and announced their intention to participate actively in future elections. One point in the organization's platform said: "We favor a personnel analysis of all state departments to promote and improve more economical utilization of personnel."

When permanent groups are organized in the state's 100 counties a statewide convention will be held to map plans for future activity. The group pledged itself to "orderly achievement of progressive aims through out Democratic government and stressed its determination to place its responsibilities above any group interest."

The group worked over the platform Saturday night and Sunday. The organizers headed back to their districts to organize for active participation in the affairs of government "from the precinct level to the highest office." Some of the former GIs here were among the victors.

Family's Growth Is Bewildering To Papa

Philadelphia, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Raymond Macatee, a 33-year-old trolley motorman, had his hands full today, replacing diapers on his 14-month-old girl triplets.

At Lankenau hospital, Mrs. Elizabeth Macatee, 31, was reported "doing nicely." She gave birth to twins, both girls, Saturday. "If we don't go crazy now we never will," commented the mother. "Well in a way it is and in a way it's not. It was a big surprise and some shock, I think we've got enough diapers around here already," he said.

Monk To Reveal Fascist Secret

monk of Saint Angelo Dei Minori monastery has offered to tell Benito Mussolini was buried after thieves stole the body April 22.

The monk, Father Alberto, told police he learned of the location when one of the thieves told him on confession. The monk said the man, now held by police as a self-confessed accomplice, had authorized him to disclose the secret.

He said he still must obtain permission from certain fugitives and would have to make "perhaps a plane trip" to accomplish this. Rumors spread in Milan several days ago that Mussolini's body had been buried in the monastery cemetery, and that another monk named father Zucca knew of its location. Police questioned him yesterday but said he knew nothing of the burial. Subsequently, Father Alberto requested permission to talk with three men who were said by police to have confessed participating in the grave robbery. After conferring privately with them, Father Alberto said he was in position to tell where the body had been buried, but must still get permission from others.

Stockpile

Washington, Aug. 12.—(AP)—The army and navy plan to ask the next Congress for $625,000,000 to speed efforts to build a national war reserve of critical materials.

Under Secretary of War Kenneth C. Royall said today funds will be sought both for a full second-year's purchases under the $1,800,000,000 five-year program and to make up for arrears in current outlays. Describing the stockpile as "a matter of highest importance," Royall told a reporter that "of course none of us wants another war and we all hope we won't have one, but we want to be prepared for any emergency."

RIOT LEADERS TO GET TRIAL

Grand Jury Will Be Asked To Indict Mob Members

Athens, Ala., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Declaring "I will not tolerate mob rule in Limestone County," Circuit Solicitor George C. Johnston today called a special session of the grand jury next Monday to investigate Saturday's rioting in which an undetermined number of Negroes were beaten.

The solicitor said the disturbance was "a disgrace to a town that has for more than 150 years had no race disturbance." Solicitor Johnston said Circuit Judge James F. Crow, Jr., of Decatur will arrive here tomorrow or Wednesday to start forming the jury.

"The grand jury will be asked to indict all those connected with this disgraceful affair for riot and robbing, which carries a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment in the state penitentiary," Johnston said. "I will ask the circuit judge to set the cases for immediate hearing and will push them to the limit."

"We must insure that such a disgraceful occurrence that happened in Athens Saturday afternoon never again happens in this county or circuit." Solicitor Johnston said Circuit Judge James H. Crow, Jr., of Decatur will arrive here tomorrow or Wednesday to start forming the jury.

The disturbance flared in mid-afternoon following a fight between an ex-GI and a Negro, and all Negroes were subsequently driven from the streets by mobs of white men estimated by county judge D.

Charge Housekeeper In Series Strange Deaths

Madison, Ind., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Jefferson county authorities today planned to exhume four more bodies after finding mercury poisoning in the viscera of a woman who died in 1945 while under the care of Mrs. Lottie (Tot) Lockman, 62-year-old housekeeper, who has been charged with murder.

Mrs. Lockman was arrested on the murder charge last night after State Toxicologist Dr. R. N. Harger reported finding the mercury in the remains of Mrs. Minnie McConnell. The woman had already been charged with attempting to murder a daughter-in-law of Mrs. McConnell, and had been free on bond.

Prosecutor Donald Bear said today he would ask Circuit Judge Harry E. Nichols to impel a grand jury some time this week to investigate the case. Mrs. Lockman has repeatedly denied any wrongdoing. "I never harmed anybody," Mrs. Lockman told newsmen several days ago, "I only helped them."

Coroner Sidney E. Haigh said that he planned to exhume the bodies of the following persons, all of whom had been under the care of Mrs. Lockman in the last years of their lives: "Uncle Fred" Giddings, a retired farmer who died at the age of 90; Mrs. Hattie Calhoun a slave; Frank Lockman, blacksmith husband of the housekeeper

Decontrol Board Opens Four Days Of Hearing

Will Decide Whether To Restore Lifted Price Lids With 99 Witnesses Demanding Their Testimony Be Heard

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON Washington, Aug. 12.—(AP)—With 99 witnesses demanding to be heard, the all powerful decontrol board today opened four days of hearings on whether to clamp back scores of lifted price lids.

Speaking for the congressionally created board, Chairman Roy L. Thompson promised a fresh, unbiased viewpoint that will result in decisions free from the influence of any other government agency. Specifically at issue today is the future of OPA ceilings on grain, and even before the hearing got normally under way, spokesmen for farmers and the grain trade raised a cry of impending black markets if controls are restored.

Twenty witnesses were on tap for today. Tomorrow 23 others will take up the issue of price ceilings on livestock and meat. Wednesday will be devoted to soybeans and cotton seed with another 20 slated to testify. Thirty-six have already been heard on the subject of dairy products before the hearings are closed Thursday night.

In agreeing finally last month to revive OPA until next June, Congress specified that those products were to remain free of price ceilings at least until August 20. Unless the decontrol board directs otherwise, the ceilings that were last in effect will be reimposed on August 21.

In a statement prepared for the board's initial session, Thompson gray-haired New Orleans land banker and former economics professor told the assembled witnesses that not even the lawmakers could decide the issue. So, he said, the board was created.

First witness on the crowded calendar was President Edward O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation, who was allotted 30 minutes to tell why farmers want a speedy end to price controls.

O'Neal, as he had before congressional committees, offered a mass of data and charts showing estimates for bumper feed and food crops during the present season. One claim organization leader said the free market is the pace to fix prices for gains and all other agricultural products.

WIRE SERVICE NEWS HALTED

Foreign Press Messages Tied Up In Sympathy Strike

New York, Aug. 12.—(AP)—An embargo on all international press messages, voted by the American Communications Association (ACA) today, became effective at 2 p. m. (EDT) today. Officials of Western Union Mackay Radio and RCA Communications, Inc., said their wires had moved no press dispatches since that hour.

Movement of foreign press messages, both incoming and outgoing was halted as 2,000 members of the ACA joined in a sympathy move with 300 striking employes of Press Wireless, Inc.

RCA said hundreds of operators stopped sending and receiving messages as the deadline for the embargo arrived. Government business, personal messages and ordinary commercial traffic were not to be affected, Lawrence Kelly, international vice-president of ACA's radio and cable said earlier today.

In effect, he said, the only way remaining for newspaper and press writers overseas to send their copy to the U. S. would be by telegraph.

The major companies to be hit by ACA's embargo, Kelly said, were: Western Union Cable, RCA Communications, Inc.; Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company, Inc.; Commercial Cable Company; Globe Wireless, Ltd.; French Cable Company; Tropical Radio Telegraph Company and Commercial Pacific Cable Company, in addition to Press Wireless.

Lawrence Kammet, public relations director of ACA, said: "The embargo will last until the strike is settled."

He conceded that officials of the communications companies might move press messages through use of supervisors, as has been done at Press Wireless, Inc., but he added that "might create difficulties." He did not elaborate.

The names of the Warners were issued through the army's Berlin district press relations office by Ray Carlucci, chief of the army criminal investigation office here. Carlucci estimated that "if the business had gone on for one year the profit would have been $2,000,000."

The criminal investigation departments announcement stated that the Warners operated an export and import business several months with the three sons in Paris, Berlin and Shanghai as outlets.

The department alleged that the Warners operated an import-export business in Paris, Berlin and Shanghai as outlets. The Warners were issued through the army's Berlin district press relations office by Ray Carlucci, chief of the army criminal investigation office here. Carlucci estimated that "if the business had gone on for one year the profit would have been $2,000,000."

BLOCKADE OF PALESTINE IS ALMOST READY

British To Announce Program Tomorrow; Acheson Offers New Compromise

London, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Britain is expected to announce for publication tomorrow morning her immediate program on Palestine. A statement will come from the colonial office.

Informed sources said previously the statement would cover intensification of land and sea action to stop illegal immigration to Palestine, including the stoppage of immigrant ships on the high seas and detention of illegal immigrants on the British island fortress of Cyprus.

The foreign office said today Britain had not received any communication from the United States on the Palestinian question.

Washington, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Suggestions for compromising Britain's plan to partition Palestine are being prepared by Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson and probably will reach President Truman's desk early this week.

Authorities predict that if Mr. Truman okay's the suggestions early reaction from all sides—British, Jewish, and Arab—will not be favorable.

But they say that in the long run something may be worked out along the lines on which Acheson's proposals are being prepared. (Continued on Page Four)

LaFollette Staking Career In Primary

Backed By Senator Taft, LaFollette Faces Strong Opposition In Candidate Endorsed By State GOP Convention

Washington, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr. takes his politically famous name and 20-year Senate record into Wisconsin's primary tomorrow against a bitterly opposing Republican organization. The race has strong overtones of national import.

LaFollette is seeking the GOP senatorial nomination in a battle with Circuit Judge Joseph R. McCarthy, former Marine Corps captain, who carries the party's state convention endorsement.

Counted by all observers as a very close one, the Wisconsin contest heads a week's political blitting that includes another Republican senatorial battle in Vermont, a Democratic governorship race in South Carolina and a GOP state convention and a Democratic primary in Delaware.

LaFollette's efforts to bludgeon his way back into the Republican ranks he left in the now dissolved Progressive Party is being watched especially for any signs it may cast ahead in the 1948 battle for the GOP presidential nomination.

Senator Taft of Ohio, who says he wouldn't duck if the Republicans want him to run against President Truman two years from now, tried to help LaFollette with a letter before the GOP state convention. (Continued on Page Five)

Three Man Board Has Nine Days To Reach A Decision As To Whether Price Controls On Numerous Food Items Should Be Restored; Congress Sets Standards

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH (For Marlow) Washington, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Three men tackle today what one of them termed "a mountainous job."

The new price decontrol board has four days to hear testimony, and then five more days to decide the issue. Should price controls be restored on meats, dairy products, grains, cottonseed, soybeans and hundreds of products made from these commodities?

That's the task Congress assigned the three-man board, which is set up independently of OPA and with higher authority. Congress itself debated on and off for five months the tough question of whether prices on these items should be restored.

No clear cut decision could be reached and opposing factions in Congress finally worked out a compromise. Ceilings were removed for a trial period. In no event, Congress stipulated, could controls be re-imposed until after August 20.

The board was authorized to restore ceilings after that date, to order against recontrol. If it does neither, ceilings automatically go back into effect August 21. But the board members have made it clear to friends that they expect to make a decision on all five categories of commodities. The board is beginning its 9-day job today with public hearings that will continue through Thursday. At the hearings, which are required under the new price control law, representatives of industry, agriculture, labor and consumer groups will present their views on what the board should do. Nearly 100 persons are scheduled to appear. (Continued on Page Four)

Soviet Delegation Immediately Challenges One Of His Rules Of Procedure; Albania, Mexico, Cuba And Egypt To Appear For Hearings On Italian Treaty Terms

By WILLIAM B. KING Paris, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes took over today as chairman of the Peace Conference, and the Soviet delegation quickly challenged one of his rules of procedure.

Byrnes said he would recognize Yugoslavia today to answer the Italian plea for softened treaty terms—and only Yugoslavia in view of a previous conference decision that general debate on the cases of the former enemy countries would be reserved to a later date.

The right to speak had been given to Yugoslavia Saturday, during chairmanship of France's Georges Bidault.

Byrnes' ruling immediately drew fire from Soviet Delegate A. Y. Vishinsky. He said the Soviet wanted debate to open immediately on the Italian declaration, and that each delegation had the right to speak.

Byrnes was occupying the chairmanship under a rotation system which will give the chair in turn to representatives of China, Britain, France and Russia. He assured the conference it could control its own business and its own time, but said he would recognize only Edward Kardelj of Yugoslavia on the Italian treaty today unless the conference reversed his ruling.

Earlier the conference voted unanimously to invite Albania, Mexico, Cuba and Egypt to appear for hearings on the Italian treaty. It also agreed on the method of handling each day conference agenda. This will be prepared by the conference secretary, approved by the conference president and presented in plenary session for minor changes.

The question of inviting the four nations to appear drew no objection from the floor, but hours were spent in discussing whether the general secretariat or the general commission of the conference may arrange details for the hearings.

A group of six nations, with Soviet Delegate A. Y. Vishinsky as their spokesman, opposed a British proposal to refer the problem to the general commission. This opposition was maintained even when an alternative proposal was offered by British Delegate A. V. Alexander that the matter should go to the general commission only in the event of a disagreement in the general secretariat.

Although the simple invitation was accorded a unanimous vote, a roll call vote of 13 to 3, with three absentions—Czechoslovakia, Ukraine and Yugoslavia—approved the invitation. (Continued on Page Five)

Youth Loses Life In 'Russian Poker' Deal

St. Peters, Pa., Aug. 12.—(AP)—A 19-year-old Merchant Marine staked his life in a game of Russian poker yesterday and drew a losing hand.

The victim was John D. Baldwin of Pottsville, Pa. In "Russian poker" a single bullet is placed in the chamber of a pistol. The "player" spins the chamber, points the gun at his head and pulls the trigger. The weight of the bullet is supposed to carry it past the hammer of the gun as the chamber revolves.

Chester County Deputy Coroner Jack Mahanip issued a certificate of accidental death. He said the youth was sitting on the porch of his grandmother's home, here showing friends how the game was played.

They were short of buttons, and asked the Mack-Moulding Company of Paterson, for a few boxes of buttons for repair purposes. How Would You Like to Live in the "Good Old Days"?

★ Back in grandfather's time, during the final quarter of the last century, things were quite different. There were no movies, no airplanes, no automobiles, few bathrooms, practically no efficient electrical appliances. If you contracted diabetes or pernicious anemia, your days were numbered. Your blood just "changed to sugar" in the former, "to water" in the latter.

There was little protection against virulent epidemics. Smallpox vaccine was the only biological on the market. When diphtheria or typhoid ravaged a community, there was nothing to do but wait it out in hope and dread.

Yes, a return to the "good old days" would mean, among other things, the sacrifice of the major portion of the contribution of medicine and pharmacy to your health and well-being.

JIGGER MORAN

by JOHN ROEBURT

Chapter 19
The boys were shaping up at the Imperial garage on Tenth Avenue. Grease monkeys were currying a line-up of hacks on the lower ramp. Monk the dispatcher was delivering a pep talk on bookings, but only the greenhorns listened. The case-hardened oldtimers were clustered here and there, chewing the fat, whining, bragging.

The bulletin board next to the dispatcher's window was out of breath with exhortations: don't waste gas. Don't ride a flat. Don't follow close: avoid accidents. Keep the garage average up.

Jigger loitered, waiting for his cab to be serviced. Pop Lynch stuck close by, talking a blue streak.

Kornbloom sidled up and asked Pop, "How's the street? Tips, gypps, and overcharges?"

Kornbloom wore a police medal for valor. Two gunmen running from a payroll job had commandeered his cab. Fright or recklessness had made Kornbloom run his cab through the plateglass window of a Fifty-ninth Street drug store. Kornbloom survived twenty blood transfusions.

Pop was complacent. "Not bad, Kornbloom. The whole town's cab crazy. I been clocking four pounds and better a night for over a month steady. Hacking's big business."

Jigger kept mum. Fares had become an irrelevance since the night Little Joey caught his attention by talking big dough.

Kornbloom had nothing better to say so he said it. He said it ostensibly to Pop, looking sideways at Jigger: "What stumps me is why Jigger hacks. The way things are picking up Jigger could be rolling in dough. I gotta nephew flush out a high school already doing better than seventy-five bucks in an advertising house."

Jigger watched a Negro hammer out a dent in the rear fender of 068. Cab 068 had been his steady boat for over a year. Jigger read his wrist watch.

"How much longer on 068?"

"About fifteen minutes."

"Can't it wait? I'm in a hurry to pull out."

The hammering slowed down, stopped. Look, hack, I'm followin' orders. All you guys is the same. Why don't you ever think of the next man?"

Jigger held out four-bits. "Now will you rush 068?"

The Negro went amuck with the hammer.

Monk the dispatcher yelled Jigger's name. Jigger sauntered up to the dispatcher's window. Monk had been a third-rate boxer in his youth and talked like a man anxious to pick a fight.

"Jigger, your week's average smells. You booked under fifty and the garage average is over seventy. You sure you're puttin' all the dough on the meter?"

Jigger took the last bite of his sandwich and Monk went on, "Low dough—plenty mileage. What do you do anyhow? Take your leavings to the beach free on the company?"

Monk had stuck his neck out and the assembled boys were witness. Monk went the whole hog as a strictly climactic improvisation he had compelled upon himself: "Why don't you take a couple of days off, Jigger, and get your bearings? We're runnin' a business here. Not a home for the crippled."

Jigger sought enlightenment, matter-of-fact: "You knocking me off, Monk?"

"That's the size of it. Maybe a rest will put the lead back in your pencil. You can pull out again Friday."

Monk bellowed, "Pop Lynch!" Pop ambled up to the window. "You can pull 068 out today. I'm sending your cab upstairs for a carburi and valve job."

Pop looked sheepishly over to Jigger and went to get into 068.

Jigger went to get his topcoat out of the steel locker. Monk went on dispatching.

Jigger shouted across the garage to Pop, "Will you drop me at Times Square?"

Pop yelled back, "Sure!" and stepped on the starter. The starter whirred and the motor started up with Pop racing it to warm it up fast.

A loud explosion tore the air, filling it with flame and smoke. Pop was blown through the door of 068.

Jigger went to Pop while Monk yelled into the mouthpiece of the telephone for an ambulance.

Pop had been instantly killed, a look of tortured shock frozen on his face.

The ambulance came and with it a staccato procession of police cars. The next two hours were a bedlam of inquiries, notes, laments, questions, speculation. The Bomb Squad went to work with machines. The Alien Squad hung around and looked foxy.

Monk kept saying vengefully, "This is Chowderhead Cohen's work. Cohen's been comin' in to tie a kite to this garage for two years now. Ever since he tried to buy in but got turned down."

Jigger knew differently, but kept discreetly silent. Someone with a sense of the dramatic had tried to dispatch him once and for all. The 068 had been as much a part of his daily itinerary as his toothbrush.

The bomb touched off by the starter cable was gangland at its most facetious—and innovation begun in the Chicago newspaper wars of two decades ago, the roistering days when Pop Lynch was young and lean of cheek and just starting out on a hack.

It was two hours before Jigger struck out for Times Square on foot. The last act was furnished by Mrs. Pop Lynch, violently thrashing with two relatives flanking her and pinning both of her arms. Mrs. Pop Lynch was condemning Pop for his death.

"I told Pop to give up cabbins. All the old pop had to do was sit on a rocker and read his paper. The old fool! The old fool! He had no right to come to such an end!"

Chapter 20
A'Hearn held his cigar like a club. His composure hung loosely like a man about to blow his top.

A decade of tabloid headlines about cops who went berserk with their service guns flooded Jigger's mind. He keyed his reflexes for a commando lead just in case.

"That cab blow-up that killed Pop Lynch, Jigger. Whaddaya know about it?"

"Not much. Hardly anything."

"That set-up was meant for you. It was your cab."

"It's possible."

"Did it have to do with the Herz case?"

"Search me."

"Why are you laying dumb?"

"Because I don't know anything for sure. It could have been a plant to eliminate me. A moth-eaten stunt but effective. Time bomb hooked on to the starter cable."

"Moth-eaten, my eye! I read the Bomb Squad's report. The gadget was up to the minute."

"You serious?"

Jigger's ineffable propriety of manner and tone lulled the savage beast. Some of the pomp of a guy with behind-the-scenes savvy crept into A'hearn's voice.

"Someone stuck a brand new sabotage device in your cab. It's called a 'cracker.' Looks like an ordinary spark plug and screws into the motor. Heat explodes it."

Jigger whistled thoughtfully.

A'hearn brandished the cigar. "I would light candles if it'd been you and not Pop Lynch in that cab."

Jigger grinned appreciatively. "Maybe next time, A'hearn."

"There won't be a next time. Jigger, I'm serving notice on you that you're on your own from here on. The report on the 'cracker' is going to the FBI."

"You really think there's a federal angle in this business, A'hearn?"

"I'm not letting you pump me, Jigger. All I can say is that according to Halloran of the Bomb Squad this same gadget has been used to sabotage planes during the war."

Jigger kept his eyes glued to A'hearn's gun hand. "I need your help, A'hearn, to tie up some loose ends in this case."

There was a deadly silence. "It's probably the last demand I'll make on you, A'hearn. I'll either solve this jig-saw or uit and spend my spare time as a volunteer apple-picker." A'hearn shifted his weight and Jigger's heart jumped crazily. "I'll cut you in on the applause if I connect with the right answers." Jigger kept

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER ACT — Heles Hayes (right) helps her daughter, Mary MacArthur, make up for a play in which they appear as mother and daughter in a summer theatre at Suffern, N. Y., in a performance for wounded veterans. Miss Hayes said she and other stage folk were starting a campaign to give plays throughout the nation for convalescing service men.

his eye on A'hearn's gun hand. It would be too, too bad if A'hearn's sanity was really in delicate balance.

"I want to bait a trap for Little Joey—with your help since you're the keeper of the keys. Unfortunately as Pop Lynch's death was, it was an improvisation quite separate and apart from Joey and suggests things afoot beyond Joey's control." Jigger crooked a rhetorical arm. "A'hearn, I've been waiting for exactly just such an improvisation. It's a green light to probe some more. The racket angle was all blind alley."

There was a "the policeman's interest in A'hearn." What kind of a trap do you want to set for Joey?"

Jigger wasn't entirely sure, but he concocted one with practically no hesitancy; and as it assembled in what sounded like a plan, he accepted it with A'hearn.

"I'm going to get Joey to admit that he was the guy who put Munsey into St. Vincent's Hospital. When he admits it, I'm going to tell him that you had a telephone connected with his cell with two witnesses on the other end and that Munsey died of his injuries last night. You see, Joey doesn't share your conviction that he's going to fry for the Herz and Birdie killings. I'm still in the dark about his actual reasons for joining me, and Joey has told me practically nothing to date, even though I'm supposed to be working for him."

A'hearn asked, "What do you expect him to do when you spring the Munsey lie on him?"

"I'm hoping that with a death he's confessed guilt for, Joey might spill a few secrets he's been hoarding for what I've come to believe are some pretty desperate reasons. I'll tell him that he'll mitigate his sentence if he's of material aid in solving the other two deaths."

A'hearn scratched his head all around the neck dates from the stone age.

Sparks Circus Coming Soon Pre-War Times Return;

Here's a sure sign that America is gradually getting back to its pre-war way of life—the announcement that the famous Sparks Circus of fond memory is once more on the road and that it will exhibit at Old Fairgrounds in Greenville Tuesday, August 20.

Actually, the Sparks Circus of 1946 is a brand new show with a grand old title. In a physical sense, it is entirely new—its tents and seats, all flameproofed by the latest chemical methods; its up-to-date transportation equipment; its costumes and trappings; its brilliant program abounding in new features, innovations and importations from abroad.

What remains unchanged is the historic, memory-evoking Sparks name and, even more important, the sturdy tradition of honesty and integrity it represents.

Sensational wild-animal features make the performance particularly noteworthy.

Foremost among these are Damoo Dhotre of India and his mixed group of black and spotted leopards from Asia and Africa, black jaguars from Ecuador (the only ones in this country) and pumas from Panama.

Behaving remarkably like humans are the London Music Hall Chimps, a troupe of simian acrobats, cyclists and comedians.

Also on the program are those four-ton favorites, the elephants, fine exhibitions of advanced horsemanship, and all manner of performing domestic animals.

Performances start at 3:09 in the afternoon and 8 o'clock at night with the doors opening one hour earlier to permit a tour of the menagerie and horse fair.

Grain Market
Chicago, Aug 12—(AP)—Small offerings of cash grain by the country, plus firm prices in the spot market, created buying off corn and oats futures today. Gains ranged to more than a cent in both grains, although volume was small as traders watched Washington developments on price controls.
Corn closed 2-2 1/2 higher, January $1.28 3/4, and oats were up 2 1/2-2 3/4, August 76 1/2. Barley was bid 3/4 cent higher at $1.27 1/2 for all deliveries without attracting orders.

Hog Market
Raleigh, Aug 12—(AP)—(NCDA)—Hog markets weaker to steady, with tops of 22.50 at Rocky Mount, and Clinton-Warsaw, and 23.00 at Richmond.

Poultry and Eggs
Raleigh, Aug 12—(AP)—(NCDA)—Poultry and egg markets steady.
Raleigh—U. S. grade A, large, 48; fryers and broilers 30 to 32.
Washington—U. S. grade A, large, 46; fryers, broilers and roasters 35 to 36 1/2.

New York Cotton
New York, Aug 12—(AP)—Cotton futures opened 75 cents a bale lower to $1.40 higher.
Noon prices were $1.05 to $2.25 a bale lower. Oct. 35.80, Dec. 35.98, and March 35.80.
Futures closed 80 cents to $3.50 a bale lower.

N. Y. Stock Market
New York, Aug 12—(AP)—Assorted special stocks exhibited quiet strength in a "thin" stock market today while many leaders suffered from light selling.
Steels pushed forward at the start but most failed to follow through. Some liquors did well on small sales. Although gains of fractions to a point or more were well distributed near the close, numerous losers persisted. The ticker tape loated after a fairly active opening and transfers for the full proceedings dwindled to around 700,000 shares.

The St. Louis Cardinals once more are breathing on the necks of the National League leaders Brooklyn Dodgers, principally because of the prodigious stickwork of their great one-two punch, Stan Musial and Enos Slaughter.

Led by these thumping twins, the runner-up Cards swept both ends of a double header from the Cincinnati Reds 15-4 and 7-3 yesterday to advance within a half-game of the Dodgers, who lost twice to their erstwhile "cousins," the Philadelphia Phillies.

Musial and Slaughter, who between them lead the National League hitters in six of the eight major offensive departments, enjoyed one of their best batting days of the season, with Musial getting eight hits in 10 times at bat and Slaughter six in nine.

Musial's eight hit barrage enabled him to take over the individual batting leadership of the loop with a mark of 369. He also leads in hits (154), runs (84), doubles (31) and triples (13), and ranks third to Slaughter with 69 runs batted in.

Apparently aroused by Chicago Cubs general manager Jimmy Galagher's statement that they "faint every time the Dodgers come into their park," the Phils released all their fury on six Brooklyn pitchers and downed the Brooks twice 7-6 and 6-4. The pair of victories ended a streak of 12 straight Brooklyn wins this season and marked the first time Philadelphia had beaten the Dodgers at Shibe Park since Sept. 10, 1944.

New York's largest crowd of the season—72,320 paid—saw the Yankees and American League-leading

Chestertown Wins The Hambletonian Stake

Chestertown (right foreground), driven by Tom Berry of Lexington, Ky., leads the field to the wire to win the third and final heat of the Hambletonian Stake at Cochen, N. Y. Victory Song (left foreground), driven by Sep Palin of Indianapolis, is second. Deanna, driven by B. White (behind Chestertown), finished third. Chestertown won the 21st running of the trotting classic by taking the second and third heats. (AP Wirephoto.)

Boston Red Sox divide a double header which took five hours and 11 minutes to play. The second game was halted by darkness after six and a half innings.

Three hits by catcher Hal Wagner which drove in as many runs helped the Red Sox to a 7-5 victory in the first game while lefty Joe Page, limited the Sox to two hits in the abbreviated second game, which the Yankees won 9-1.

Hal Newhouser, 20-game winner, went down to his fifth defeat when the Chicago White Sox whipped Detroit's Tigers twice, 3-0 and 4-3, the second game lasting 12 innings. Bobby Feller was called in as a relief pitcher as Cleveland earned a split with the St. Louis Browns, winning the second game, 4-3, after the Browns had won the opener 3-2.

The cellar-dwelling Pittsburgh Pirates overcame a 3-1 Chicago lead to nose out the Cubs 10-9 in the first game of a double header. Then they came from behind with two eighth inning runs to earn a 4-4 tie in the nightcap. The second game was halted by Pennsylvania's curfew law.

After Johnny Sain registered his 13th victory for the Boston Braves with a 10-2 triumph over New York, the Giants came back to win the second game 9-8.

Bobo Newson gained his 10th victory of the season, his seventh for his new Washington team, when he defeated his former Philadelphia Athletic teammates 3-1 in the first game of a double-header. The A's came back to pound three Senator hurlers for 15 hits and a 12-5 victory in the second game.

Greenies' Rally Comes Too Late

Held scoreless for six innings, the Greenville baseball club put the lid on Fayetteville's scoring in the seventh frame, and themselves started a late rally only to lose 9-7.

The Cubs clinched the game by scoring four runs in the first inning and four in the fifth to take an early lead. They scored once again in the sixth, still holding Greenies batters scoreless. All of Greenville's seven runs were made in the last three innings.

Fayetteville collected fifteen hits off Alamo and Ranweiler, allowing but nine hits to the local club.

The Greenies play a double-header here tonight, at Guy Smith Stadium, against Fayetteville. First game starts at 6:45 p. m.

Got A Seat, But Not In Stadium

By CHESTER WALSH

Fred Atkinson, 40-year-old Negro, had an experience in mistaken identity at the baseball park Saturday night which cost him $15 in Police Court this morning for being drunk.

Police Chief Jim Tanner looks like anything but a poli-man, although he is a veteran law-enforcement officer with a fine record. The chief in beach attire, and others were standing inside one of the entrances to the ball park Saturday night when two Negro men came in, one of them staggering. Tanner told Atkinson's companion: "Take that man up to a seat in the stands—ne's staggering."

Atkinson, then, the nattily civilian attired chief was a fan swaggere boasting and said: "I don't need no —man to take me to a seat—I seats myself." Chief Tanner took him by the arms and said "I'll seat you in the police car for being drunk, and you have an en-agement with Judge Jimmy Roberts in Police Court Monday morning.

"This morning Hinzner said: 'Fred, pay the clerk $15 for being drunk at the ball park.'"

A spectator recalled that in the Sanitary Fish market, popular eating place in Morehead City, there is a fish on the wall with a sign saying: "Even a fish can get in trouble by opening his mouth." If Atkinson had kept quiet he might have gotten by Saturday night and that $15 would be in his jeans.

Incidentally, Chief Tanner, nearly always smiling, always cheerful looks more like a healthy college football player of a press agent for a Hollywood . . . Gay officials and others say the chief is doing a fine job as head of the Greenville police department.
