September Party Race Important

Coming Month's Political Arena To Include Leaders Whose Names May Figure In 1948 And 1952 Presidential Races; Division In Democratic Party Ranks

By JACK BELL Washington, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Political leaders who may figure in the 1948 and 1952 presidential races are cast in leading roles for September's windup of major primaries and party conventions.

A Republican party meeting to adopt a state platform in Nebraska today and a Congress race runoff for the Democratic nomination in the Seventh Mississippi district tomorrow are the only political events scheduled this week.

Nebraska Republicans had listed as their keynoter Senator Chapman Revercomb, 62, W.Va., but illness and death of his mother forced him to cancel the trip. Revercomb is mentioned as a possible vice presidential candidate. In his absence the state's six congressmen, all Republicans, will speak.

Last week's political bill tossed with Texas Democrats picking Beauvoir T. Jesier as the state's next governor in a runoff primary with Homer P. Rainey, former University of Texas president.

Next month, New York and Connecticut conventions share interest with Maine's customary advance general election in the last whirlwind of party preparations for the final showdown November 5.

In New York, the Republicans meet at Saratoga September 3 and 4 to pick a ticket headed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey as a candidate for reelection. At present Lt. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, head of the New York State Guard and Maj. Gen. William J. Donovan, former OSS chief, top a list of several possibilities for the senatorial nomination.

A Dewey bid for the 1948 GOP presidential nomination is expected if the governor wins in November.

Meeting the same dates in Albany, the Democrats will pick a ticket which Sen. James M. Mead may top as the gubernatorial candidate, with talk of UNRRA Director La Guardia fading, former Gov. Herbert H. Lehman is being mentioned most often as the likely Senate nominee.

If Mead, whose term expires this year, makes the jump into the race for governor, most politicians think it will be with an eye on White House possibilities in 1952.

The announcement by former National Chairman James A. Farley that he won't attend the convention, the first he has missed since 1918, spotlights a division in Democratic ranks.

Some politicians think the long standing friendship between Stassen and Baldwin may flower openly as a political alliance. Baldwin, who carried Connecticut by 26,000 votes in 1944 when the late President Roosevelt was winning it by 44,000, looks like a vice presidential pick.

Five-Day Holiday Is Planned For Markets

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Because of congestion in redrying plants, five-day holiday markets will take a five-day holiday beginning Thursday morning and ending on the morning of September 5.

Decision to close the markets in order to give the redrying plants time to catch up with their work was decided upon by a 15-man committee—five growers, five buyers and five warehousemen—following a meeting here Saturday.

The sales holiday will cause opening of midget belt markets to be postponed to September 16 and the old belt markets to September 23.

Diplomats in both Washington and London are viewing the "release" of Maxim Litvinoff from his position as Soviet deputy foreign minister as having a special significance in the present strained situation between the Russian bloc and the western allies.

American diplomatic circles in Washington interpret this development as a blow at Russian cooperation with the United States and Britain. London, also apparently viewing the change through dark glasses, notes that Litvinoff long has been an advocate of collective security and close relations with England and America. In the past his resignations and appointments sometimes have foreshadowed changes in Soviet foreign policy.

Perhaps it's possible to exaggerate the importance of the old revolutionary's release. He is seventy years old, and I happen to know

PARIS PARLEY SCENE OF NEW SOVIET DRIVE

Bloc's Campaign For Influence In Mediterranean Shaping Up

Paris, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Eighteen more words of the preamble of the proposed Italian peace treaty were accepted today by the Italian political and territorial commission of the Paris peace conference, thus bringing the total number of words approved to 153 in four weeks of deliberation.

More than 55,000 words in five treaties remain to be considered. No progress has been made on any of the other four treaties.

The amendment, as finally approved, fead that "whereas after the said armistice the Italian armed forces, both of the government and of the resistance movement took an active part in the war against Germany."

It was supported by Russia, as well as all other members of the commission except Yugoslavia.

A concerted campaign by Russia and her satellites against countries separating the Soviet bloc from the Mediterranean seemed in the opinion of some observers here to be taking shape.

In general, western countries are opposing the Russian bloc in every move against the three Mediterranean countries. U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes has been one of the principal defenders of British-occupied Greece; Britain, France and the U. S. have opposed granting big sections of Venezia Giulia to Yugoslavia; and Britain, France and the U. S. have gone on record as against control of the Dardanelles.

Differences between eastern and western powers seemingly were re-

WAC CAPT. TO TELL 'TRUTH'

Offers To Testify On Theft After Lie Detector Test

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Leonard Keeler, Chicago criminologist, testified today that WAC Capt. Kathleen Nash Durant offered to tell the entire truth about the $1,500,000 Kronberg castle jewel theft after she was subjected to a lie detector test.

Earlier the court heard, elderly Prince August Wilhelm of Prussia son of the late German Kaiser Wilhelm II, identify a dozen or more items of the glittering fortune on display as gifts of various European potentates.

Keeler, a polygraph expert, told a court martial that army officers brought the greying WAC captain to him last June after she and her husband, Col. Jack W. Durant, were arrested. Durant faces trial here in the theft as does Maj. David Watson of Burlington, Calif.

The policeman said Mrs. Durant asserted she had nothing to hide. He said he asked a score of questions about such crimes as jewel thefts and places such as the old Hesse castle at Kronberg. Then he told her the results. Keeler testified:

"She said to me then: 'What will happen to me if I tell the entire truth about the gem theft?' I told

World Court Has U. S. Acceptance

Lake Success, N. Y., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Herschel V. Johnson, acting United States representative to the United Nations, today deposited with the U. N. a declaration of adherence to compulsory jurisdiction of the International Court of Justice.

This was the first time the United States has accepted compulsory jurisdiction by the World Court. The declaration, signed by President Truman Aug. 14, was handed by Johnson to Trygve Lie, U. N. Secretary-General, at a brief ceremony in Lie's office at the new U. N. headquarters here.

Johnson said his action was "further testimony of the determination of my government to do all in its power to assure that the United Nations will fulfill the role assigned to it, which is nothing less than the preservation of world peace."

GERMAN POW'S SEEK FREEDOM

Many Escape British Prisons Trying To Get Home

London, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Increasing numbers of the 400,000 German prisoners of war in Great Britain are escaping and trying to get back to Germany by underground channels.

Seventy-three escapes have been reported in three weeks. Fifteen fugitives are still at large.

Army authorities say the escaped men are helped in some cases by sympathetic British, influenced by a "send the POWs home" campaign. A petition signed by 875 churchmen, members of Parliament and others urged Prime Minister Attlee last week to speed the prisoners' release.

Most spectacular of the escapes was that of former Panzer Grenadier Alexander Todt, captured after he reached the French coast in a yacht which his English companion, attractive Mrs. Doris Blake, is accused of stealing.

Todt has been quoted in the British press as saying he knew how to get from France to the Russian zone of Germany. British newspapermen who interviewed Mrs. Blake at Calais reported that she told them:

Guns Loaded, Bomber Flies Disputed Route

Udine, Italy, Aug. 26.—(AP)—With machine-guns loaded and uncovered, an American Flying Fortress arrived here from Vienna today with a cargo of mail and freight—the first American plane to fly the normal route from Vienna since the Yugoslavs shot down two transports earlier this month.

The pilot of the Fort, Lt. William E. Hutchins of Los Angeles, Calif., said he had orders to fly to Udine and back.

It was reported here that a Flying Fortress would henceforth make the run daily.

Hutchins said he flew at 10,000 feet "along the prescribed corridor, avoiding Yugoslav territory."

The bomber carried a nine man crew, but no passengers. It was understood here that passengers will not be allowed on these flights.

Place Ukraine Changes On UN Council's Agenda

New York, Aug. 26.—(AP)—At early hearing by the United Nations Security Council on the charge by the Soviet Ukraine that the Greek government is a threat to the peace of the Balkans appeared assured today.

Acting swiftly in answer to the Ukraine's request for speed, the United Nations secretary and Dr. Oscar Lange of Poland, president of the Security Council, put the new case on the council's agenda for Wednesday, immediately after consideration of applications by nine nations for admission to the United Nations.

Because of the lengthy discussion of new members expected in the council when it convenes for the first meeting at its new Lake Success, New York, headquarters, it was believed in United Nations circles that the Greek case would be heard late in the week.

The case materialized Saturday when Dmitri Manuisky, foreign minister of the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, sent from Paris where he is attending the peace conference, to Trygve Lie, secretary-

APPROVE GIFT DISPOSALS ON WAA SURPLUS

Transfers To Non-Profit Institutions Wins Justice Dept. Ruling

Washington, August 26.—(AP)—The Justice Department in an opinion today approved the gift of surplus property by the war assets administration to non-profit educational institutions.

The ruling was prepared by acting Attorney General J. Howard McGrath following a request by Robert M. Littlejohn, war assets administrator.

McGrath also said that newly-organized non-profit institutions were eligible to receive gifts of surplus property under the surplus property act.

The announcement said the opinion was in answer to two questions submitted in general terms to the department of justice in connection with the disposition of surplus property to states and non-profit educational institutions.

The War Assets Administration last Thursday reported the proposed transfer of 53 surplus camps and war plants to educational institutions, pending a congressional inquiry into such gifts. At that time WAA administrator Littlejohn consulted with the Justice Department and requested the opinion as to WAA's authority to make such transfers for health or educational use.

The freeze order in effect blocked the sales and leases of the property to schools, institutions and local governments until late next month at the earliest, since the House committee investigating surplus property will not resume hearings until mid-September.

WAA's stop order came after the committee questioned the "sale" at 100 per cent discount—of the $497,000 Thunderbird airplane in Arizona to the newly organized non-profit American Institute for Belgrade, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The bodies of American fliers who perished Aug. 19 when a second United States transport was shot down were brought from the Julian Alps mountains to Ljubljana today under an honor guard escort of the Yugoslav fourth army.

Four coffins draped with American flags were placed aboard a United States-made weapons carrier after the remains of the airmen were re-examined today at the village of Koprivnik, scene of their mass burial by Yugoslav peasants.

An exhaustive examination by United States grave registration representatives and two Yugoslav doctors ascertained that it is "almost certain" the remains of four bodies were "disinterred from the grave in tiny Holy Cross Cemetery, said Lt. Col. Chester M. Stratton, U. S. assistant military attaché.

Previously it had been reported that only three Americans were buried there.

A guard of honor will remain with the bodies at a mortuary in Ljubljana until they are placed aboard the plane of U. S. Ambassador Richard C. Patterson for the flight, possibly tomorrow, to Belgrade.

A Yugoslav fighter squadron will circle Ljubljana and escort the ambassador's plane to the Yugoslav capital.

It was not clear whether the four would be buried in Belgrade or the United States. A Belgrade dispatch Saturday said they would be buried in the U. S. military cemetery on the outskirts of the Yugoslav city. However, a Paris dispatch said that U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes had asked the army to bring the bodies to the United States for interment.

Lt. Col. Chester M. Stratton, assistant U. S. military attaché, announced Marshal Tito's compliance with the American request for highest military honors.

The embassy also said that the fourth army would send out new searching parties through the region.

CHEAP ATOMIC POWER FOUND

Train May Go From Coast-To-Coast For Less Than Dollar

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 26.—(AP)—The Buffalo Machinery Company has developed a device which it says produces an atomic gas eventually expected to be capable of driving locomotives from coast to coast at a cost of less than one dollar.

F. Alden Miller, vice president of the machine and tools and steam turbine firms, says the concern has applied for a patent on a rectifier which he said produces a combustible gas from a commercial type of atomic "C" uranium.

Miller described the experimental model as about 24 inches high, tubular in shape and built of inch-thick high inelastic steel to withstand a pressure of 5,000 pounds per square inch.

The device, he said, contained a chamber for a six ounce charge consisting of 1-640 of a grain of atomic "C" dispersed into six ounces of inert material (wood ash). Saturated with water the charge produces a gas for which no name has yet been chosen, he added. "The substance emerges a drop at a time in the form of a gooey mass. Which when it reaches the air is dried by the 170-180 degree (fahrenheit) temperature produced in the rectifier," Miller said. "As it dries the released gas burns just like ordi-

By rooting around long enough, it's possible the FBI men in Georgia may find evidence that the lynching at Monroe did violate a federal law which does not specifically say anything about lynching. They'd have to find that the lynching violated the Negroes' civil rights under the constitution. Here is how.

Under the U. S. Constitution citizens are guaranteed certain civil rights against interference by the federal or state governments. For example:

The federal government can not deny you religious freedom, free speech, free press or free assembly. No state can deprive you of the Honor Guard Escort From Yugoslavian Fourth Army Accompany Bodies Of Killed Americans; Searching Parties To Seek Terrain For Missing Flier

Inhaling Of DDT Blamed In Death

Collingswood, N. J., Aug. 26.—(AP) One of the first deaths attributed to DDT, a powerful insecticide, was reported here today by Camden County Coroner Joseph Kytetes, who said Houseman M. Kille, 53, died from "accidental inhalation of concentrated fumes of DDT."

Kytetes said Kille's physician, Dr. P. Gordon Reed of Collingswood, told him Kille who died yesterday, was under treatment for a heart condition. The physician said Kille, a purchasing agent for a pharmaceutical laboratory, went to his summer lodge in the Pocono Mountains near Stroudsburg, Pa., last Thursday and used a highly concentrated solution of DDT to rid the place of some spiders.

"There is not the slightest question," Dr. Reed told reporters, "that Kille's death was attributable to inhaling the DDT vapor and that alone—his heart condition had nothing to do with the case."

Dr. Rufus S. Reeves, director of health in Philadelphia, said no death from DDT had ever occurred in Philadelphia and he could not recall reading of a death from DDT in any medical journals.

The death will be investigated by scientists of the Industrial Hygiene Research Laboratory of the National Health Institute, Dr. Paul Neal, research director, said.

Rights And Lynchings

Lynching Is Murder; Southern Congressmen Block Anti-Lynching Bill; FBI Unable To Act In Monroe Case Unless Violation Of Federal Law Found

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The recent lynching of four Negroes in Monroe, La., once again called attention to the problem of civil rights in this country.

The Department of Justice is busy now preparing suggestions on how the civil rights of Americans can be broadened and better protected.

It's too soon to say what form these suggestions will take. They will be offered to Congress when it returns in 1947. It will be up to Congress to reject them or write them into law.

FBI men—sent into Georgia by the Justice Department to investigate the lynching—so far have made no arrests. They can't, unless they find the lynching in some way violated federal law.

There is no federal law against lynching. An anti-lynching bill has been pending in Congress several years. But southern congress-

Dolge-Tucker

On Friday afternoon at four o'clock the eighth street Christian Church was the scene of a beautiful wedding when Miss Jane Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Tucker, became the bride of Mr. David Dolge of Hazardville, Conn. Dr. Haney, pastor of the church officiated.

The church was beautifully decorated in white and green with palms, ferns, white gladioli, white asters and dahlias. Five candelabra of tall white cathedral candles were most effectively used.

Mrs. Paul Davenport of Pactolus at the organ furnished the wedding music and played "Clair de Lune" by Debussy and Schubert's "Serenade" prior to the ceremony. Miss Elizabeth Bridges sang, "Through the Years" and "Because" and as a benediction at the end of the wedding ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer." During the ceremony, Mrs. Davenport played, "To a Wild Rose" by McDowell. The traditional wedding march, that of Mendelssohn and the "Wedding March" by Wagner were used.

The bride wore a wedding dress of white satin fashioned with heart neck line embroidered in seed pearls, long sleeves with points over the hands, tight bodice, skirt shirred on at waistline and ending in full circular train. Her veil of illusion was finger tip length and fell from a coronet of seed pearls. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, gift of the groom.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses centered with a white orchid and showered with white ribbons and tulle. She entered on the arm of her father, Mr. L. B. Tucker, by whom she was given in marriage.

The maid of honor was Miss Sara Jones of Greenville, N. C. She wore a dress of blue nylon net, fashioned with off-shoulder neck line, tight waist and full skirt. Her headress was of the same material and she carried an arm bouquet of better time roses.

Two of the bridesmaids, Misses Myrtle Ruth Collins of Ayden, N. C., and Miss Frances Tucker Andrews of Bethel, N. C., wore identical dresses of vivid green nylon net over white. They were fashioned exactly as that of the maid of honor and they wore headresses of the same material as their gowns. The other two bridesmaids, Mrs. Hiram Mayo of Oxford, N. C., and Mrs. Ralph Heidenreich of Greenville wore dresses of the same style, made of Fuchsia colored nylon net with headresses of the same material.

All of them carried arm bouquets of yellow Jonina Hill roses.

Mr. David Dolge, the groom, had as his best man his brother, Mr. Kendall Dolge, of Hazardville, Conn.

The groomsmen were Mr. John Collins, Jr., of Greenville; Mr. Fred Carter of Millburg, Mass., cousin of the groom; Mr. Roy Gaddy of Ayden, N. C.; and Mr. Tommy Tyson of Snow Hill, N. C.

Mrs. L. B. Tucker, mother of the bride, wore a black sheer dress trimmed in pink, a black hat with soft pink feathers and carried black accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

On Thursday evening at six-thirty Miss Jane Tucker entertained the ladies of her wedding party, the mother and grandmother of the groom and her mother at a lovely dinner at the Old Town Inn. The place cards were lovely favors made of bits of the nylon net used in the dresses of the bridesmaids. Miss Tucker presented each member of her wedding party a lovely pair of pearl ear-bobs.

At the same hour Mr. David Dolge entertained the men of the wedding party at a stag dinner at Respass's. He presented each of his attendants a pocket secretary.

Immediately following the rehearsal on Thursday night: Mrs. R. L. Abbott and Mrs. Wayland Hunsucker of Winterville and Mrs. Hal Edwards, Ayden, entertained the Dolge-Tucker wedding party and friends at a cake cutting at the home of Mrs. Abbott.

The house was beautifully decorated throughout with a variety of summer cut flowers. The dining table was centered with a beautifully decorated three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, flanked with burning candles in crystal holders. White flowers and green fern were used in this room. Miss Tucker and Mr. Dolge cut the first slice from the cake, then Mrs. L. L. Kittrell took over the responsibility of cutting the wedding cake for the many guests. Misses Annie Sue and Alice Graves Hunsucker assisted in serving mints, ice cream and salted nuts.

On Friday at 12:30 o'clock at the Proctor hotel, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Collins, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Tucker gave one of the loveliest luncheons of the season to the Dolge-Tucker wedding party, immediate family and out-of-town guests.

Mr. Mahlon Tucker, Jr., and Mr. J. A. Collins, Jr., directed the guests to the dining room which was lovely with its decorations of choice white flowers and green fern and many burning candles.

Forty guests enjoyed a delicious three course luncheon.

Christian Science Service
"Mind" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science Churches and Societies on Sunday, August 25.

The Golden Text was from Isaiah 14:24. "The Lord of hosts hath sworn, saying surely as I have thought, so shall it come to pass; and as I have purposed, so shall it stand."

Among the citations comprising the lesson-sermon were the following: The Bible—"O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! For who hath known the mind of the Lord? or who hath been his counsellor? For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things; to whom be glory for ever." (Romans 11:33,34,36). And from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The world would collapse without Mind, without the intelligence which holds the winds in its grasp. Neither philosophy nor skepticism can hinder the march of the science which reveals the supremacy of Mind." (Page 209).

Women IN THE CHURCH
by Mary Fowler

When the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church begins its sessions in Philadelphia on September 10, there will be one woman present among 150 bishops and 600 clerical and lay delegates. She is Mrs. Randolph H. Dyer, elected a lay deputy by the Diocese of Missouri. All the church, and especially its women, are watching to see if Mrs. Dyer is seated by the convention; if so, it will establish a precedent for this communion. Mrs. Dyer is a member of St. Peter's Church, St. Louis, Mo., and a granddaughter of the late Bishop Huntington of Central New York.

Aroused by the recent mass murders in Georgia, members of the Georgia Council of Church Women have passed resolutions urging "every church woman who takes her religion seriously, to speak out against all intolerance and injustice, especially when shown toward members of any minority group; and both to practice and to advocate in her community positive and constructive good will wherever there is misunderstanding, suspicion and the resulting hatreds and fears between groups, and to demand that fair play and equal justice be assured to every citizen no matter how obscure or helpless. To claim the name of Christian without positive Christian action at a time like this is sacrilege." Representatives of Methodist, Lutheran, Presbyterian, Baptist, Episcopal, Christian and Congregational Churches invited participation "of all like-minded women, either individually or in groups." Those interested were asked to communicate with the Council, 409 Henry Grady Building, Atlanta, Ga.

In recognition of distinguished service by Mrs. Fred C. Lamb to her church and community, the Institutional Neighborhood House, in Kansas City, Mo., has been renamed the "Della C. Lamb Neighborhood House." The Neighborhood House is an institution of the Woman's Society of Christian Service (national) of which Mrs. Lamb is the recording secretary. For 25 years Mrs. Lamb has been president of the institutional board. In Kansas City, Mrs. Lamb is president of the Council of Clubs, serves on the Council of Social Agencies, and is a member of several advisory boards of philanthropic agencies. She is a member of the Board of Trustees of the National College for Christian Workers, and of several other colleges in Missouri.

Reedy Branch News

The Reedy Branch Church revival began last night at 8 o'clock. Rev. R. B. Crawford of Nashville, Tenn., is doing the preaching and Rev. Howard G. James of Winterville is the song leader. We are expecting a great time as we listen to the inspiring messages by Mr. Crawford and the congregational singing and special music, directed by Mr. James. We will invite everyone to share with us, in these services of worship, inspiration and fellowship.

Jimmie L. McLawhorn Died Saturday Night

Jimmie Lee McLawhorn, 12-year-old son of John McLawhorn and Mrs. Mary McLawhorn of the Vanceboro section, died while being carried to a Washington hospital about seven o'clock Saturday night after apparent heart failure. The boy was found in an unconscious condition on the roadside near his home and was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital.

Funeral services were conducted from the home near Vanceboro at 3 o'clock this afternoon by the Rev. W. R. Crowder, Methodist minister of Vanceboro. Burial was in the Ippok family cemetery near Ernul. Jimmie attended school in Vanceboro and was a member of the Macedonia Free Will Baptist Church at Ernul.

Surviving are his parents; three brothers, William Edward McLawhorn of New Bern, Harvey McLawhorn of Vanceboro and Walter McLawhorn of the home; four sisters, Mrs. Clyde McCafferty and Mrs. James Poarch, both of near Vance-read and assigned to a committee. A delegation of the Kiwanians went to Swansboro to attend a district meeting of Kiwanis clubs. Carolinas Kiwanis District Governor Jasper Hicks of Henderson was the speaker there.

Chester (Incidentally) Walsh will have charge of the program here next Friday night.

Lions Club Plans Raise Blind Fund

The Greenville Lions Club will conduct its annual drive for funds for the Pitt County Association for the Blind on August 27-28, inclusive. These funds are spent in various ways in helping the blind and the visually handicapped. Miss Jennie Manning of Bethel is the case worker for the blind in Pitt County. She is partly paid from funds secured by the Greenville Lions Club. The remainder of her expenses are paid by the State Supplies and other needed materials are furnished by the Pitt County Association for the Blind. The recent tremendous job done in the establishment of the Pre-Conditioning Center for the Blind in Greenville was done through the financial aid and other assistance of the Pitt County Association.

Join the Pitt County Association when approached by any of its solicitors and show your willingness to help the blind to help themselves.

Aged Justice . . .

A Democrat himself—he served as attorney general under Woodrow Wilson — McReynolds nevertheless voted against every major New Deal measure and nearly all minor ones that reached the high court.

His death leaves only two members of the court which President Roosevelt said was made up of nine old men living in horse and buggy days. They are Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes and Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts, both retired.

McReynolds summed up his attitude toward the New Deal in four words spoken extemporaneously after he had started to read a formal dissent in the famous gold clause decision. That ruling upheld a Roosevelt-inspired law forbidding payment of obligations in gold.

Tossing his text aside, the justice banged his fist on the bench and shouted: "The Constitution is gone."

Away from the court, McReynolds put aside his gruffly stern manner and often entertained for close friends.

He "adopted" 33 children in Britain who were left homeless by the German blitz.

Dr. Cooke Guest Speaker Kiwanis

BY CHESTER WALSH
Dr. Dennis H. Cooke, president of East Carolina Teachers College, the guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting last Friday night, made a splendid impression on the 77 representative citizens who make up the membership of the civic club. He is a man of striking personality, is an eloquent speaker, likes people, particularly young people; has a keen sense of humor, and with it all has the culture and dignity to grace with exceptional ability the high position he holds at the college. Lee Roy Bell had charge of the program.

Vice-President Eli Bloons presided for President Ed Rawl, who was out of the city.

A report of the joint committee of the civic clubs concerning observing a day in November to honor the returned war veterans was

By JOHN ROEBUR

Chapter 25
 "Didja find anything at Herz's?" Lederer repeated. "Sure I did. Herz was working for the German government. The old lady tried to kill me. Someone had tipped her I wasn't a cop. Probably you did, Lederer. You told her I was working for Little Joe."

There was a faint humor in Lederer's face in the rearview mirror. He said sardonically, "It's a shame you weren't clipped then. You wouldn't have caused us all this trouble. What were you doing outside my joint when I picked you up this morning?"

"On my way up to see you and make a deal."

The essential machinery for rapport was now in full motion. Jigger poured oil in the joints: "What other reason would I have to get decked out in my best suit early in the morning? I was coming up to demand ten grand or a partnership or both."

Lederer's accents baptized the infant union. A guy blown up with greed was a guy he could fathom and trust. "You had a nerve. I'll say that for you."

Lederer became spidery again for a fleet instant: "Where'dja hide Leeds?"

"In a furnished room in Brooklyn."

"Where in Brooklyn?"

"Crescent Hotel. Near the Navy Yard."

"What for?"

It was evidently one thing Lederer did not know. It also increased the probability that Leeds was a complete waste of time; that Leeds supreme in his faculties couldn't shed any light on the Herz case other than his vengeful blackmailing of Herz for the surgical death of Marie Leeds.

"No particular reason. Just to be thorough in case Leeds knew something." Jigger halted: "I was a little sorry for the guy and figured if I got the bum out of the way, he wouldn't be knocked off."

Lederer laughed shortly. It was clear Leeds had been marked for slaughter. Jigger's capital stock in Leeds rose again.

Lederer lifted a judicial finger. "You had an idea there, Jigger. The first thing I want you to do is to go to the Crescent Hotel and knock Leeds off."

Jigger kneeled for benediction: "Then you're dealing me in?"

"Yeh. On probation. But you'll have to get rid of your stooge."

"You mean Red? That's easy. All I have to do is say, 'Boo, I'll sick baby roscow on you.' Red's an infant."

"How much does he know?"

"Nothing. He just knew about Birdie spreading the word about Jigger's bank. But you clipped Birdie's wings."

Another short laugh.

Jigger piled the sandbags high around Red. Lederer had a kindly off-with-his-head complex.

"Besides, Red swears up and down Joey was guilty of everything. With Joey out of the picture, Red can go back to writing books."

Lederer let the Red issue drop. Jigger was through the right door. Stretching far ahead of him the clouds were silver puffs in the sky. The macadam road was a smooth velvet carpet and Jigger spiraled in his seat and the speedometer dial dropped to twenty. Life was buried deeply in him again and his ego was chanting praises to the godhead.

Lederer leaned in and said "Turn right into that side road for a couple of minutes. I wanna stretch my legs. Then you can swing around and head back."

Jigger said jocosely. "Not bumping me off today?"

Lederer said, "I'm dealing you in because I like your style. Just take orders as I give them and don't do any more snooping around. And keep remembering; you almost cashed in—but not the way you was looking to."

Jigger stood up under this new yoke easily. "Good with me. As long as it's a fair-sized buck."

Jigger swung off the highway into a dirt road lane and stopped after a run of a hundred yards. Lederer got out like a man cramped and moved about pneumatically like a boxer limbering up.

Jigger got out to straighten up for the long ride home. He gathered a handful of small stones and pitched them with an easy side-arm toss at the trunk of a tree. They fell and pattered in the grass.

Lederer slapped a mosquito off his cheek and resumed his circumambulations. Jigger watched him idly for a minute. Then a thought wandered within the compass of his mind. There was something electric in Lederer's movements—a quick, sharpening intensity in his body. An antenna drawn from Lederer to him sounded a warning. The thought grew and shaped itself grotesquely in Jigger's mind. Lederer was a truly generic brother and there had always been but one door. Lederer had accepted the ruse as an ironic overture to Jigger's exit through the only door. Lederer never intended Jigger to swing round and head back.

The passing seconds ticked urgently against Jigger. He picked a larger stone and pitched it. It bounced off the trunk of a tree and crashed into the grass. Lederer was

Booster For Greenville Market

W. B. Briley, 70-year-old farmer who lives on the Bethel highway between House Station and Bethel, who has been selling tobacco on the Greenville market for 47 years, said Greenville is the best market in the state. He has looked over other markets, but never sold a pound anywhere but in Greenville. Briley said he has always been given every courtesy and gets good prices for his leaf in Greenville.

At Keel's Warehouse the other day Briley and his son, H. L. Briley, came in with a load of tobacco which Rufus and James Keel sold him sole title to Joey's numbers graft. Ask yourself: why should Joey kill Birdie? There was no percentage in it for him."

Blossom was afraid Birdie couldn't be trusted with what he knew. He figured Birdie as a cluck, dumb without brains. You know that. I was here the day he yelled it from the bedroom. I'm giving it to you straight. Lederer's under arrest and has confessed."

Blossom said in a husky voice, sitting in a crouch, "Lederer turned Birdie's head with talk of big money. Birdie was doing all right until Lederer came along." The great heave of resistance was gone in Blossom.

Jigger said almost courteously, "Let's have it, Blossom. The stage is set for Lederer to roast in the electric chair. I'd like to know what you know."

Blossom spoke in pauses: "Lederer had Birdie going all over the country with a suitcase of stuff. Birdie carried a list of people he was to see and turn the stuff over to."

"You mean leaflets and pamphlets like the package I mailed back to you last week?"

Blossom looked up at him gloomily: "So you was the one who snatched Birdie's valise?"

Jigger nodded, shrugging a friendly what-else-could-I-do shrug. "Yeh. That was Birdie's work for me out of a register." A hearn clinched the argument: "The date was the same day you were in to frame him with the dictaphone."

It required a full minute's repose to become caustic: "I suggest you sniff around for what boys in your department believe bribes are legitimate graft. Get going and get wise, A'hearn, or you and I will be principals in a rewrite of the Becker-Rosenthal case."

Blossom Nevers greeted Jigger with a will to be young and began to light the fires in her body. Jigger decided to let her have it right from the floor. He flashed his fake police badge and watched the bubbling flame in her face and body go out at once. Blossom gurgling curses was an unclassified Blue Book of four-letter words.

Out of the gurgling emerged a temperate: "So you're a dirty rat of a policeman playing up to me? I frame me."

"This isn't a reefer pinch, Blossom. It's a murder rap. Birdie and Lederer killed a doctor named Herz before Lederer killed Birdie. We figure you as at least an accessory."

"You're lying! Why should I believe you?"

Jigger set out to convince her, her face quizzing every sound he made, every movement of his face: "Lederer killed Birdie to insure that Joey would go to the chair and leave him net him high prices. Incidentally, Briley has been selling his leaf at Keel's since the warehouse was opened in 1928. He is a progressive farmer—grows nearly everything he needs and believes in trading in Greenville. From left to right in the picture is shown James Keel Mr. Briley and Rufus V. Keel.

Chapter 26
 The Imperial cut through the heat on the road back at a sixty-mile-an-hour clip, with every mile an indelible impression on Lederer's mind. Lederer on the floor of the cab looked like a man who had only minutes left, his head and face red-lacquered with dried blood. It would be awkward explaining Lederer's condition. Jigger left the Imperial a discreet fifty yards from a roadside diner and ran for the telephone.

A'hearn's affability dwindled to minus in sixty seconds flat: "What kind of a gag is this, Jigger? I'll do nothing of the kind."

Jigger made it very plain and left the psychological burden with A'hearn: "Lederer's in one mess fifty yards off the road in the bushes. You'll find him on a direct forty-five-degree angle from roadside diner. I got it as a tip from a source I've always found reliable, and don't ask me to disclose my sources. Lederer killed Birdie and Pop Lynch. You'll have to sweat him for proof or wait until something more turns up—if Lederer lives long enough, which he won't unless you whizz up with a police ambulance pronto."

A'hearn was almost tearful: "What'ja want to go and conk him for—and as hard as you did!"

"I didn't conk him. I been in a movie all morning. You can explain it as an anonymous tip. But hurry. The way I was told he looked the whole thing is only fifteen minutes from homicide."

A'hearn's words clapped back, sentences colliding with each other: "If it is homicide, you'll burn and re-burn in the hot seat; I gotta hunch you left the razor blades that Joey cut his wrists with."

"You're crazy as a bed bug!" Jigger said, slight shivers going through him.

"Am I? It's queer how Joey got himself a pack of five brand new single-edge blades and a toothbrush with a Gimbels paper bag and a sales slip with forty-nine cents and the date printed right on it like it days there was a paid advertisement in the local paper speaking of the work done by Alcoholics Anonymous and saying that if anyone in that summer colony or vicinity felt that he or she needed the help of this organization a certain telephone number should be called and such assistance would be cheerfully rendered.

Ponder this for a moment. Here is a wealthy man away on his vacation, yet he is so grateful to the organization which redeemed him from the bondage of drink and so eager to help others to the same freedom that he loses no time in a new community to let it be known that the influence of A. A. is in that community to help anyone who needs help.

This is what we know as the missionary spirit. It is not only the type of thing that has caused A. A. to grow in membership from a handful to a multitude; it was a similar type of consecrated testimony which caused the Christian Church to spread from Jerusalem to Samaria, and to the uttermost parts of the earth.

Blessings on such men as this wealthy adherent of A. A., and upon God's servants everywhere who remember the afflictions of their fellow men and long to relieve them.
All good causes, and especially the Christian Church, grew in influence and power only by such effort.

PLAN FORMING VFW AUXILIARY

Hold Barbecue Dinner, Appoint Auxiliary Organizers

Last Thursday night in the Armor building at 7:30 the VFW Post
No. 7032 gave a barbecue dinner in honor of its members' wives, daughters, sisters, and mothers. This was the first dinner of any kind given by the local post, and it was a great success with over 200 persons present. Many of the guests were from out of town, and live throughout Pitt county.

The guests were greeted by Commander Larry Averette, who introduced to the persons present the officers of the post, Comrade Hauser, the post chaplain, gave the invitation. Commander Averette introduced J. C. Tackles, representative of the VFW National Headquarters, who stressed the importance of the veterans organization, the value of wives and mothers to the post, and ended his talk with emphasis upon the determination of the VFW to do everything possible to promote peace throughout the world.

Two distinguished guests from out of town, Mr. E. P. Hyman, VFW district commander of the Second District, and his charming wife, Mrs.
Bessie E. Hyman, junior vice president of the VFW Ladies Auxiliary for the State of North Carolina, were present. Mrs. Hyman was introduced by Tackles, who elaborated upon the Auxiliary's accomplishments in this state. Mrs. Hyman in her talk explained the organization and functions of a ladies auxiliary, and cited other auxiliaries which had done excellent work beside their husbands in the VFW. She expressed her gratification at the growth of the local post which has close to 300 members, and emphasized the great part that the members' wives and mothers can and do play in the success of any post. Commander Averette ended the dinner shortly after asking Mrs. R. E. Hardaway of Greenville to become temporary chairman of the auxiliary organizing committee. Mrs. Hardaway accepted, and is prepared to sign up any of the members' relatives who were not present at the gathering.

Colored News

Rev. T. S. Mautsby of 1207 Factory Street has received a message that his son-in-law, the husband of his daughter, Laura Bell was taken ill during the night and passed away this morning at 6:15. She and her husband just left for New York City on August 17th after spending a week visiting their parents and sisters, Mrs. Lula Dawson and Maggie Woodard. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Robinson High School, Winterville Except a living man, there is nothing more wonderful than a book, a message to us from the dead, from human souls whom we never saw, who lived, perhaps thousands of miles away; and yet these, on those little sheets of paper, speak to us, vivify us, teach us, comfort us, open their hearts to us as brothers.

I say we ought to reverence books, to look at them as useful and mighty things. If they are good and true, whether they are about religion or politics, farming, trade or medicine, they are the message of Christ, the maker of all things, the teacher of all truth, which He has put into the heart of some man to speak, that he may tell us what is good for our spirits, for our bodies, and for our country.

With these ideas in mind, teachers, students and friends of Robinson High School went to work two school terms previous, with our librarian, Mrs. B. C. Maye, to accredit the library. Surely enough, we were quite elated when the school principal was notified by the state school library adviser, Mrs. Mary Peacock Douglas, June 11 that the Robinson High School Library was recommended for accreditation.

Dave (Boo) Ferris, the Boston Red Sox' sophomore pitching wizard, not only is the major league's biggest winner today, but appears on his way to establishing a modern record for most games won by a pitcher in his first two seasons in the big leagues.

Ferris, whose 23rd mound triumph this season helped the American League leaders sweep a double header from the Cleveland Indians yesterday and increase their margin over the second place New York Yankees to 1 game, already has registered 44 victories in his first two years, only three shy of the record of 47 set by Grover Cleveland Alexander with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1911-12.

Wes Ferrell of Cleveland holds the American League mark of 66 in 1929-30. Ferris outduelled Red Embree of the Indians 5-1, aided by Bobby Deo who smashed two home runs. The Sox won the second, 13-6.

The Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals, after a seven hour battle in St. Louis, ended up all even in their double header and remained tied for first place in the ferried National League pennant race. The Brooks came from behind to eke out a 3-2 victory in the opener, but the Cards climbed all over six Brooklyn pitchers to win the nightcap 11-8. The second game was called after eight innings because of darkness.

The New York Yankees yesterday became the first club ever to reach the two million mark in one season's attendance, but their joy was chilled by Hal Newhouser who racked up his 22nd win to give the Detroit Tigers a 7-3 victory at Yankee Stadium. A crowd of 48,908 watched the single game, sending the Yankee home attendance to 2,627,067.

Lou Fosseli, former Illinois University and semi-pro righthander from Chicago, made a successful major league pitching debut against the Cincinnati Reds, who divided a double header with the Phillies in Cincinnati. After Joe Beggs had blanked the Phils 7-0 in the opener, the 20-year-old Fosseli won a 4-1 hurling duel with Harry Gumbert in the nightcap.

The Cubs defeated the New York Giants 3-2 in Chicago. The Boston Braves made it 12 out of 15 from the Pirates by taking two games in Pittsburgh 7-5 and 10-5.

Washington rallied for two runs to tie the score in the ninth inning, then pushed across the winning run in the 12th on Sherry Robertson's triple and pinch hitter Early Wynn's single to defeat the St. Louis Browns, 5-4. At Philadelphia the White Six defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 4-2, but lost the second game 6-5.

GREENIES WIN OVER WILSON

Rally In Sixth; Carlson Steals Home For Final Run

Trailing 3-0, the Greenies rallied for four runs in the sixth, and one (for good measure) in the eighth, to defeat Wilson 5-3.

The Tobs racked up three runs in the first inning on a walk, an infield hit, an error and Carnahan's single; but Greenville's Tommy Lee held them scoreless the rest of the game.

After holding Greenville scoreless for five innings, Fern Bissette was hit for five singles and gave up a walk in the sixth for four runs. Peace and quiet returned to the field until the eighth inning when Carlson singled, was advanced to third on two sacrifices and finally stole home for the fifth and final run of the game.

Wilson plays their return match here at Greenville tonight at 7:45.

Moving Fat Man Big Job For Attendants

Pittsburgh, Aug. 26—(AP)—It took 18 men to complete the task of moving John Porter of Dauphin, Pa., to Allegheny General Hospital last night after he became suddenly ill on a train.

Porter, 54, weighs 721 pounds and has been playing the role of the "Fat Man" in circuses for years. He suffered a recurrence of a heart attack which forced him to return last weekend from the Midwest, where he was appearing with Hennes Bros. Circus, at Union Station here, nine men removed him from train to ambulance, and at the hospital nine employes carried him to the elevator. As one bed wasn't big enough hospital attendants fastened two together to accommodate his bulk. He was reported resting comfortably today.

Sweden Wins In European Events

Oso, Norway, Aug. 26—(AP)—Sweden stands as the strongest track and field power on the continent today off its record of 11 championships in the 24 events of the first post war European championships.

Although no records fell, Sweden piled up a succession of brilliant victories, particularly in the field events where its athletes registered firsts in the high jump, broad jump, hammer throw, javelin throw and pole vault. Other championships were won in the 118-meter hurdles, 50 kilometer walk, 10,000 meter walk, 200-meter run, 1,500-meter run and 400-meter relay.

Finland, with four titles in the 400-meter hurdles, marathon, 10,000 meter run and hop step and jump, ranked second, with Great Britain and France each capturing two crowns.

While Sweden was dominating the men's championships, the Russian women were capturing five titles to three for Holland and one for France.

It was the first time the championships had been held since 1938 and many of the competing athletes had been battlefield enemies.

Kennedy Passes Old Strike-Out Records

Rocky Mount, N. C., Aug. 26—(AP)—A new organized baseball strikeout record in his pocket, southpaw Bill Kennedy of Rocky Mount's Coastal Plain League club today had his sights set on further record-cracking in his two remaining starts before the season's close next Monday. Kennedy, who is slated to report to the Boston Red Sox after the season ends here, whiffed 12 Kinston batters in gaining a three-hit 5-1 decision here Saturday night to bring his total for the year to 429. The old mark was 418 by Detroit's Virgil Trucks when with Andalusia Ala. of the Alabama-Florida League in 1938. He has won 28 of 29 decisions.

Lynchings . . .

And the 14th Amendment to the constitution says no state can deprive you of your life, liberty or property without due process of law. Which means: Court action and a fair trial.

But this 14th Amendment also says: No state shall "deny any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

After looking over all the civil rights guaranteed the Georgia Negroes under the constitution, the only way in which the FBI could make arrests would be this: If they found that some Georgia official conspired in some way with the lynch mob in the killing of the four Negroes.

In that case the official would have violated the 14th amendment by not giving the Negroes the protection guaranteed by the constitution. This may seem a round about way for the government to have to clear up a crime which shocked the nation. But the states have always jealously guarded themselves against too much interference in their affairs by the federal government.

Dark Glasses . . .

Daily diplomatic warfare has been growing fiercer until it exploded into actual gun-play in the Yugoslav incident. The deliberate shooting down of unarmed American transport planes with loss of life came mighty close to being an act of war. But there are other pots ready to boil over.

The Paris peace conference has been in an uproar ever since it started.

There is the crisis growing out of Russia's demand to share military control of the strategic Dardanelles Straits with Turkey. The Turks have rejected the proposal, and both the United States and Britain have registered their objection to the Soviet plan. This is one of the most dangerous of the disagreements.

The Moscow-backed Polish government is in high dudgeon because Washington and London have charged that there were serious irregularities in the recent referendum.

Britain and Russia are growling at each other across the rich oil fields of Iran.

So it goes. And there's trouble in irregularities in the recent referendum in Asia too.

Fundamentally this critical situation revolves about the reassignment of power in Europe, with Britain battling against Russian inroads into the old order of things. Moscow is bent on establishing its dominance. This isn't necessarily a prelude to another world war—but it is atomic in its potentialities.

Party Races . . .

Chief figure in the Democratic convention is ex-OPA chieftain Chester Bowles, who apparently desires to run for governor but is encountering suggestions from the organization headed by Senator Brien McMahon that he run for the Senate seat Thomas O. Hart (R) is vacating.

A success race by Bowles in either contest might make him an outstanding possibility for the vice-presidential nomination in 1942. wov/hm.yc abbtm/fm

HEAVY DOCKET FACES JURIST

Judge Nimmock Of Fayetteville Presiding Superior Court

By CHESTER WALSH
Judge Quincy T. Nimmock of Fayetteville is presiding over a criminal term of Superior Court here this week. An unusually heavy docket confronts the Cumberland County jurist.

Judge Nimmock, riding the Fifth Judicial Circuit the last half of the year, after eight new grandjurors has been selected today, charged the grand jury as to its duties. Under the permanent grand jury system eight members of the grand jury are always held over.

There are about 90 cases on the docket calendared for trial this week. They range from appeals for being drunk through assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, burglary, incest, infanticide, manslaughter, highway robbery, and enticing servants or workers to desert an employer, and so forth. Solicitor Dave M. Clark has a busy week ahead of him.

POOL TO CLOSE

It was announced today that the municipal swimming pool will close on Friday, August 30, for the 1946 season.

Fliers Honored . . .

(The U. S. State Department, in a statement issued Saturday night, indicated that whether the United States would hie Yugoslavia before the United Nations Security Council for shooting down two U. S. transport planes depended on "the efforts of the Yugoslav government to right the wrong done.")
