POLICE BREAK TRIESTE RIOT WITH GUNFIRE

U. S. And Allied Military Police Act As Reds Sponsor Demonstration

Trieste, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Armed U. S. and allied military police patrolled the streets of troubled Trieste today following an outbreak of violence yesterday during which they opened fire to disperse a pro-Yugoslav demonstration held in defiance of a military government ban. Seven Americans and one Briton were injured during the melee.

Trieste was declared off limits to all allied military personnel not on duty in the disputed city. All shore leave was cancelled for men of the U. S. cruiser Huntington and of several smaller British ships in the harbor. Police also patrolled Gorizia, 25 miles north of here, where American troops broke up a similar demonstration yesterday. The crowds scattered without serious incident.

The Trieste demonstration, staged in defiance of AMG refusal to grant a permit, was scheduled to coincide with the anniversary of the Venezia Giulia partisan uprising on Sept. 8, 1943—and incidentally with the anniversary of Italian surrender. For several days prior to the incident, the Communist press had openly declared an intention to defy the prohibition.

The seven Americans—six soldiers and Associated Press Photographer Daniel Jacino of New York—were wounded when a hand grenade was tossed from a window in the San Giacomo district. A British officer was also reported to have been injured. Jacino suffered a leg wound from a steel fragment. Three soldiers were hospitalized.

A company of American military police ransacked the house from which the grenade was thrown and arrested two suspects.

The American soldiers who received hospital treatment were Pfc. Edward Kastrensko, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Cpl. Clark B. McMahon, Hickory, N. C., and Pfc. Frank Mortimer, Brookville, Pa. All three are members of the 88th division.

It was also reported that at least 12 civilians were injured in the milling crowd as police moved to break up the demonstration. Most of the injuries reported to the police were gunshot wounds.

U. S. military police had been under orders not to use their guns. (Continued on Page Four)

California Girl Is Miss America

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Marilyn Buford of Los Angeles "Miss California," who failed to win any of the preliminary competitions here, held the title today of Miss America, 1946.

An eight weeks movie contract at $500 a week awaited her in California, beauty pageant officials said, and she held the pageant's top award of a $5,000 scholarship.

The 21-year-old, blue-eyed, brown haired girl winner Saturday night of the annual beauty pageant, was advised by R. Guy E. Snavely of Washington, D. C., executive director of the Association of American Colleges, to leave the University of California at Los Angeles where she is a student and use her scholarship for dramatic training. She said she would enroll for a three-month course in a New York dramatic school.

The new Miss America weighs 123 pounds, and has these other measurements: bust—35 1-2 inches; waist—25 1-2 inches; hips—36 inches.

Jane McCall, 18-year-old "Miss Arkansas" drew second place in the contest and a $3,000 scholarship and Janey Miller, 18, "Miss Atlanta" was third, winning a $2,500 scholarship.

The Balkan Trouble

Recent Developments in Greece and Surrounding Areas Point Up The Explosive Situation in This "Whelping Ground Of Wars"; Analysis Of Latest Events by DEWITT MACKENZIE

A highly explosive situation exists in the Balkans—whelping ground of wars—as the result of the exceedingly strained relations between Greece and Yugoslavia, coupled with continued Greek disorders attributed by the Athens government to Communists and other extreme Leftists.

The weekend saw an extraordinary and highly significant string of developments. First came Yugoslavia's open hint at the Paris peace conference that it believed Greek Macedonia—one of the most cherished possessions of Greece—should be in the Yugoslav federation. This drew from Greek acting Premier Gonatas in Athens the declaration that it supported "our suspicions that the trouble and disorder in Greece are not exclusively an internal matter."

Gonatas didn't pin down any closer what was clearly a strong suggestion that an outside nation was inspiring the Leftists troubles with-

Big Four Ask For Delay In UN Meet

Foreign Ministers Ask General Assembly To Postpone Sept. 23 Session; Top Diplomats May Come To New York

Geneva, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The foreign ministers, agreeing to a proposal by Soviet Russia, asked the United Nations General Assembly today to postpone for one month its scheduled Sept. 23 meeting in New York to avoid conflict with the Paris peace conference.

At the same time informed quarters reported that the foreign ministers had decided to meet in New York next month to present to the assembly the peace treaties which the conference is now drafting for Italy, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Finland. The ministers also would begin drafting treaties for Germany and Austria at that time, these quarters said.

The United States did not join in the request for postponement of the General Assembly meeting, but did not offer any objection. Britain associated herself provisionally with the request, reserving final decision pending a telephonic conference today between A. V. Alexander, who attended the foreign ministers meeting, and foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, who has returned to London for discussions of Palestine.

France joined with Russia in supporting the move, also favored by China and Belgium, who were invited to sit in with the Big Four. The ministers decision was taken at a five-hour meeting which began last night after U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes' return from Germany, and continued into the early morning.

Immediately after the meeting Foreign Minister Paul Henri Spaak of Belgium, president of the United Nations, said: (Continued on Page Two)

Jewish Underground Open New Campaign

Blow Up Palestine Railway; Disrupt Oil Line; Terroristic Demonstration Occurs During Arab Meeting In London

Jerusalem, Sept. 9.—(AP)—A British information officer announced today the Palestine railway had been cut in 50 places, the flow of oil to the port of Haifa disrupted and two persons killed in a series of outbreaks coinciding with the opening of British-Arab talks in London.

Explosions and gunshots broke out in various sections of the Holy Land. The information officer said these incidents were "apparently part of a larger Jewish terror campaign which partially failed because of a break in timing."

The officer said he believed the campaign was planned by either Hagana or Irgun Zvai Leumi (Jewish underground groups), probably Irgun, as a demonstration of strength to coincide with the opening of the London conference, which the Jews so far have shunned.

"We believe this morning's blastings of the railway at several points was planned to coincide with yesterday's explosions at the Haifa port area," he said, "but something went wrong."

"An authoritative source in London said Britain 'might soon have to invite the Jewish Agency to participate in the Palestine talks' on its own terms—'statehood within an adequate area'—to prevent failure of the conference. He added that the British would not make such a move, however, before making every attempt to persuade more moderate anti-agency Jews to attend."

Official reports said the series of incidents included: Damage to railway lines in three areas between Jerusalem and Jaffa. In one zone 30 miles north of Jerusalem the line was cut in "20 or 30 places."

Breaking and firing of port oil lines from the Haifa refinery. Destruction of a railway signal tower at Haifa and damaging of other signal facilities. An Arab boy was said to have been killed in the tower explosion.

The fatal poisoning of a British police corporal, who was shot in Haifa.

Injury to "several workmen" when a mine blew a street car from the tracks.

An exchange of fire between a military patrol and armed men in the edge of Jerusalem near the scene of a railway blast.

Gov't To Check Coal Mine Areas

Washington, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Government specialists will begin Tuesday a first-hand investigation of health, housing and welfare conditions in the soft coal communities of central Pennsylvania and parts of Maryland and West Virginia.

This was announced today by Vice Admiral Ben Moreell, Federal Coal Mines Administrator. The inspection, similar to those being carried out in other coal mining sections of the nation, stems from the May 29 agreement between Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug and the United Mine Workers.

The inspection team, which has just concluded an assignment in the west, is composed of these four men:

Comdr. J. M. Amberson, Medical Corps, Corpus Christi, Texas; Lt. Comdr. Glen S. Bule, Civil Engineer Corps, Patrick, S. C.; Lt. Comdr. Charles J. O'Neill, welfare and recreational specialist, Rye, N. Y., and Chief Jeoman C. B. Cook, Columbia, Miss., who is serving as clerical assistant.

The investigation will be under the direction of Capt. O. L. Carlson, in charge of coal mines administration for Area I, whose headquarters are in Pittsburgh.

Will Resign

Washington, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Senator Mead (D-NY) today announced he will resign soon as chairman of the Senate investigating committee and suggested Senator Kilgore (D-W. Va.) as his successor.

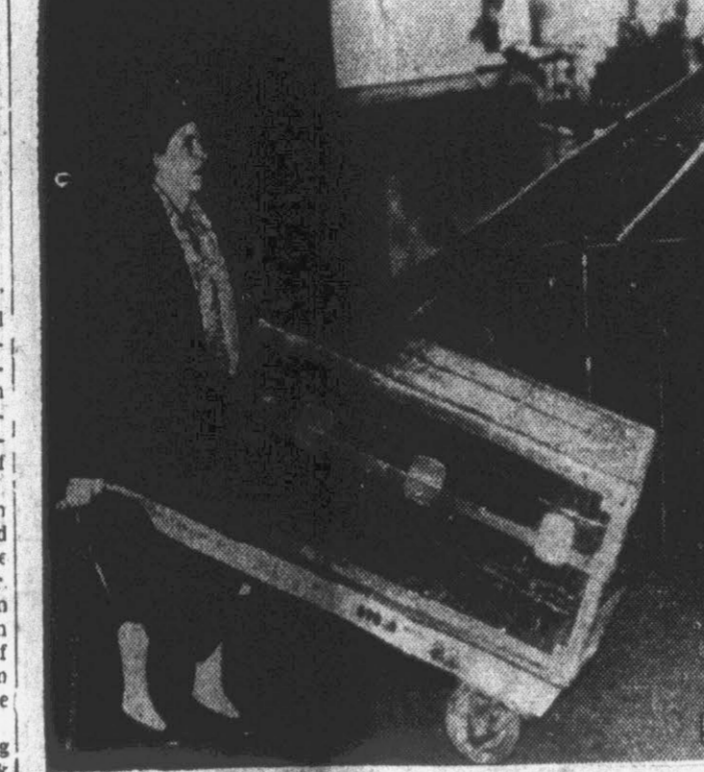

Mead told a news conference his decision was based on his recent nomination as democratic candidate for governor of New York. President Truman, original chairman of the committee, set a precedent for Mead's action when he quit the post upon his nomination as vice president in 1944.

Byrnes' Speech Starts Debate On Its Effects

Washington, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Diplomatic officials hooked up in sharp debate today over whether Secretary of State Byrnes' speech at Stuttgart will help establish one world or two.

The lineup generally is the same as it was when the big argument was whether the allies should impose a "hard" or "soft" peace on Germany.

SENATOR HITS U. S. SHIPMENT TO YUGOSLAVS

Accused Of Killing UNRRA Relief Goods Will Be Shipped To Other Peoples; Labor Department Mediator Gives Up Hope For Maritime Truce; WSB To Reconsider Ruling Limiting Wage Hikes

New York, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association (AFL), said today longshoremen would not load any relief supplies for Yugoslavia "until proper action is taken against those who were responsible for shooting down our planes" in that country.

Ryan asserted that even if the strike of AFL seamen were to end today, there still would be no loading of any vessel with cargoes bound for Yugoslavia.

P. H. LaGuardia, General Director of UNRRA, said yesterday that Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union (NIO), had agreed to order his men to sail UNRRA relief ships to any country provided they were fully loaded.

LaGuardia said there were 37 UNRRA ships now in the nation's ports, some of them partly loaded. It was not disclosed how many were destined for Yugoslavia.

And from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The great truth in the science of being, that the real man was, and ever shall be perfect, is incontrovertible; for if man is the image, reflection of God, he is neither inverted nor subverted, but upright and Godlike." To the general public, whom I shall call my friend,
An expressive message
I would like to send.
For consideration thought that was given from this,
A blessing from heaven was what it meant to me.
My room was a florist
My bed and table a store,
And when I would think it was over,
The nurses would bring in more.
There were "cheerle hellos"
From Tom, Harry and Dick and Numerous cards and letters saying "Get well quick."
The doctors and nurses, I do wish to thank.

From the pastors of the churches to the janitor of the bank.
It has given me a feeling of how little I've done,
In cheering mankind and helping battles to be won.
There's nothing on earth
Nor in the heavens above
More pleasing than knowing
You have wonderful friends
And God's people to love.

Judge Charles E. Moylan as saying that "children who attend Sunday schools regularly and become active in the wholesome social life and constructive youth programs provided, seldom get into brushes with the law." This is in line with the testimony of many children's court justices, and with the assertion that very rarely does a Boy Scout or a Girl Scout get into a juvenile court. Mr. Kavash points out, however, that there are 17,000,000 boys and girls in America who do not attend Sunday schools, while juvenile delinquency has increased by 100 per cent in recent years. He is urging that Sunday school children themselves become "missionaries" to bring others to Sunday school.

CIMADE, relief agency of the French Protestant church youth, has established a number of refugee homes for German girls and their Franco-German offspring, according to Dr. Adolf Freudenburg, of the World Council of Churches. The fathers of the babies were French "slave laborers" or prisoners of war in Germany; the unmarried mothers followed the fathers to France. The babies are generally considered French because of their father's nationality; many of the mothers are estranged from their own German families, and are not accepted by the families of the babies' fathers. In their plight, both mothers and babies are being cared for in these refugee homes.

Local conferences of the Methodist Church in Great Britain are reported voting approval of the plan to ordain women to the Methodist ministry and to appoint them pastors of charges and "travelling ministers." Under the plan, only single women would be so ordained, and upon marriage they would surrender their credentials. It will be another year before all conferences have voted, and the matter is finally determined. Somewhat similar plans have been proposed within the Methodist Church in the United States, but they have never met approval by the general conferences—a step necessary before annual conferences vote upon the measure. It will probably be again before the general conference in 1948.

NEW AMENDMENTS TO SOCIAL SECURITY AFFECT ROCKY MOUNT AREA

Congress, during its last session passed amendments to the Social Security Act which should affect three hundred families of veterans in the Rocky Mount service area. Survivors of veterans who die within three years of discharge from the Armed Service of the United States will be eligible for survivors insurance benefits under this amendment.

The veteran must have been in active military or naval service on or after September 16, 1940. He must have had at least 90 days of service, or, if less, such service must have been terminated as a result of service-incurred or service-aggravated disability. The law applies only to veterans who die or have died within three years after their discharge and who were discharged within four years and one day after the termination of the war as determined by Presidential proclama-

"I'M GOING ON A DIET"

★ Perhaps overeating is the most common dietary indiscretion. The natural result of overeating is obesity. It has been said that we in America eat ourselves into a premature grave. The pendulum then frequently swings back to the other extreme. We go on a diet. Many self-imposed reducing diets wouldn't keep a bird alive, and often serious vitamin, mineral, and protein deficiencies result.

In recent years great strides have been made in our knowledge of nutrition. For the maintenance of optimal health one must be assured that proper balance of various foods is maintained. For dietary advice of any kind see your physician. You can then be certain that all bodily needs are being adequately met. Bring your prescriptions to us.

Chapter 10
Lillie didn't see the baby until he was six weeks old, and then Violet brought him down to the Washington House. Lillie looked at the fat, blond baby in Violet's arms and her arms ached to hold him, for he was a part of Violet.

Violet was hurt that Lillie hadn't come to see either her or the baby and Lillie tried explaining that she couldn't leave Pud. He was so upset about Prohibition and what he was going to do, but Violet wasn't accepting that explanation. So finally Lillie said gently, "We don't belong together any more, baby. You have a new way of life and you can't have me hanging around, messing it up. I'm Lillie O'Dell of East Bradford and you're Violet Bradford of Bradford City. We're far apart now and it has to be like that. We lived in New York and San Francisco. You've chosen your way, just as I did mine, and you've got to stick with it and not try to mix the old and the new. If you do, you won't have anything. And I want a good life for you, baby. More than I want anything else."

Lillie had a problem that summer with Pud. "Look, Lillie, he would say, 'the only business I know except prize fighting is gone, and I'm too old to go back to the ring.'"

So William found the answer. Together he and Pud started a striking business and when the doors of the Washington House closed in 1920, they were well started and Lillie was making plans to turn the old bar into a parlor. She had always wanted one downstairs.

But she didn't get it. For in a short time, Pud decided to open up the Washington House again. Near-beer was legal, and Pud said, "Why shouldn't the little guy be able to get a drink on his way home from the mill? All the places where the big-shots go are runnin' wide open." His eyes shifted. It was hard for him to look at Lillie. "Bill's got a good proposition for carrying the stuff for them and the way I figure it, it's not right for the government to take an honest living away from a man."

So the bar was opened again, only now the door between the bar and the back room which had always stood open, was closed, and most of the customers came to the side door and said, "Joe sent me," and there was a real Joe stationed there who looked them over carefully. The customers were different, too. There were no more sweaty workmen stopping to cool off in summer or warm up in winter after their eight hours in the mill. The customers now came from the Hill and the North End, and a lot of them by their own automobiles, big Maxwells and Tempes and Overlands.

Lillie wasn't too unhappy about not getting the parlor. After all, Pud was happy, back in the business he knew. She wouldn't have been able to put her most precious possessions in her parlor anyway—the pictures she had of Violet and the baby. Violet had given Lillie a big picture of herself holding the baby—it was the same one as appeared in the Society Section of the Bradford City Times on Christmas Sunday, along with a half dozen other similar ones, under the caption, "Bradford City's Young Matrons." Violet's picture was often in the paper now. "Mrs. Laurence Bradford, who will pour at the tea given by Mrs. Stuart Keim." "Mrs. Laurence Bradford, a member of the Hospital Committee of which Mrs. August Bradford is chairman." Lillie's pleasure was complete when the Times carried a picture of Violet being matron-of-honor at the wedding of one of the Bradford cousins.

Violet still came to see Lillie, and even though Lillie had asked her not to come to the Washington House, she was glad to see her, not just because it was Violet, her sister, but because it was a happy, Gay Violet. A smart, young matron, safe in a good home and in the love of a husband and a child. "Maybe things will work out," Lillie would think.

She persisted with such thoughts even though by late 1922 she was hearing disquieting bits of talk in the back room and from the bar, and Lillie knew that women's gossip was often vicious and untrue, but that men's gossip was always vicious and true.

Laurence Bradford had stayed on in his father's mills, although he spent most of his time on the new golf course, but then everybody was saying more business was being done on the golf course than anywhere else. Then the Bradfords had become the best customers of the man for whom Sweet William toted liquor from Jersey between legitimate loads of furniture, and Laurie—so the back room said—consumed the most of it.

Next Lillie was hearing about a certain red-haired girl—a flat-chested, hipless debutante of 1922. But she found no trace of it in Violet's demeanor when she saw her. Violet was still dewy-eyed, happy with and about everything and everybody. Once Lillie had the disloyal thought that Violet might be too sweet; that sweetness might be a distasteful daily diet for a high-spirited youth.

"Drunk?" Pud asked.
"Dead," Bill answered.

Chapter 11
Pud jumped up, spilling money in all directions. "Good God, Bill, what are you trying to do? Pull the cops down on us?"
Lillie shut her eyes, and then realizing that this was no time to miss anything, opened them quickly. "You mean—dead, Bill. You mean, maybe, in a fight you—hit him too hard?"

"What ails you two?" Bill asked.
"I found him. Over on the Bensalem Highway. And there's nothin' in the truck but a load of furniture for Van Aistine's and—him."
Pud started to speak, but Lillie shook her head. "Let him tell it his own way, Pud."
So Bill told them. He had been bringing his load in and he had seen his car smashed up, here was little traffic, being a rainy Monday, and he had stopped the truck and gotten out. They were both dead.

"They?" Lillie asked.
"Ye-ah," Bill answered. "Him and that Fitzmorris girl. The one with the red hair. She's real pretty. I can remember her when she was a little girl when I was walkin' a beat. I hated to set fire to that car of hers. It was that sporty convertible she drove."

Pud groaned and dropped his head in his hands. "Of all the dumb—"
Bill snapped, "Wait a minute. Wait a minute. Don't get excited. The car had smashed and they were both thrown. Bradford was clear of the car in the field, and this girl tumbled half out of the driver's seat. Both dead as a door nail. I folded Laurie up and put him in the truck and then I pulled the girl clear and cracked the carburetor and put a match to it. Picking Laurie up if I left something of his behind wouldn't be of much help to Violet, so I thought the best thing was to get rid of the car quick."

Lillie looked at Bill with admiration. He had been thinking of Violet. Violet's husband dead was one thing. Violet's husband killed with another woman was another.

"It's that long, deserted stretch. Bill was saying, 'so I could make sure it leave. Nobody'll know that Laurie was in it.'"
"No. Nobody'll know," Pud's voice was heavy with sarcasm. "Nobody'll know he was in a wrecked car, so what are you going to tell them? You ran over him?"
"There was nothin' in the truck," Bill began, but Lillie silenced them both. "I'm going to call August Bradford," she said. Both men looked at her in amazement. "Between us we'll fix the thing up."

Lillie thanked heaven that the butler who answered the phone was groggy with sleep. Otherwise she might not have gotten August Bradford so easily. When he did reach the phone, she thanked heaven again that he apparently had not been sleeping, for his voice lacked the fuzzy blanket of sleep.

"This is Lillie O'Dell," she began, and she knew from his answering yes that he was alert to something being wrong. "Laurie's here," she continued, "and he's had an accident. Will you come right down? You better drive yourself, if you can, and bring his car. You know, where we live?"

His answering "yes" covered the entire situation, and Lillie knew he would be there quickly.
Bill said, "He'll think we're tryin' to pull something."
Lillie shook her head. "No he won't. He knows me."
She saw Pud stiffen. "How?"
"You forget," she said, "that I'm his daughter-in-law's sister."

Pud relaxed and they just sat and waited.
Things moved fast after that. Lillie and August Bradford working for different cases, could still work as a team. Their objective in the end was the same. "A dead husband," Lillie said to him, "is one thing. You can mourn for him and find comfort in it. But a husband found dead with another woman is only going to make you so sickening mad that your own anguish will eat you up, because you will be mourning for yourself and what he did to you."

August Bradford said, "My son has a son, you know. He has to grow up."
So they worked hard and fast and shortly before daylight, Bill and Pud ran Laurie Bradford's car off the Dublin Pike, the farthest road from the Bensalem Highway, and sent it crashing, with Laurie's body behind the wheel, into the quarry that skirted the road.

They stood there for a moment, silently, after the crash. August Bradford was the first to speak.
"He wasn't home for dinner. I'll have to say he had gone to New York for some papers for me and must have been on his way home. His mother will never forgive me, but that doesn't really matter."
He turned and shook hands with the three of them, and then they all got in Pud's car and went back. On ly once did anyone speak and that was when August Bradford asked, "Do you think they'll find him soon?"

Lillie said to herself, "I had forgotten it was his son."
Bill answered, "They still work that quarry. The men will be there by seven."
Later that morning Lillie paid her second visit to the Bradford mansion, and this time it was August Bradford who called her. It hadn't taken long for Laurie's body to be found. She sat on the side of the bed in a darkened room and held a slim figure close to her, soothing the weeping girl as a mother would have soothed a frightened child. Soothing, then skillfully building up courage to face the thing of which Violet was afraid, a life with the Bradfords without Laurie.

At the end she said, "You have a son to raise, Violet. He must be a credit to the Bradfords and to you. You'll have to go on for him. Live for him."

It takes a lot of planning to hit a target... even more to achieve a goal

There are two kinds of young men. One knows what he wants to do and goes after it. The other is still looking for his niche. The new Regular Army can help both of them.

Suppose, for example, that you're the first kind. You want to go to college but don't have the money. If you enlist in the new Regular Army, you'll have a chance to earn while you learn. Honorably discharged at the end of a three-year enlistment, you are eligible for 48 months of education at any college, trade, or business school for which you can qualify. The U. S. Government will pay your tuition, laboratory fees, etc., up to $500 per ordinary school year, and you'll get $65 a month living allowance—$90 a month if you have dependents.

Or maybe you're the man who hasn't found his spot. An enlistment in the Army will put you in touch with the widest selection of jobs. ## Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

WHAT IS PREDESTINATION?

The doctrine of predestination, or election, has caused more distress of mind than any other Biblical truth. Some have worried all their lives for fear at the last day it be discovered that they are not among the elect. It has even been taught by some as orthodox truth that God has chosen certain persons to be saved and others to be damned, and that there is nothing one can do to make this situation different. This is known as the doctrine of double election.

The Bible teaches no such thing. Anyone who reads it carefully sees plainly that from beginning to end the Bible teaches that everyone is saved who sincerely wants to be saved. "Whosoever will, let him take of the water of life freely." God sent his only begotten Son into the world "that whosoever believeth on him might not perish but have everlasting life." The Bible does emphasize the sovereignty of God and repeatedly declares that God chooses some and rejects others but always the choice is on the basis of a man's desires and never an arbitrary matter. As Henry Ward Beecher used to say: "The elect are the whosoever-will; the non-elect are the whosoever-won't." Or, as a shrewd old saint once described the problem with a twinkle in his eye: "The Lord's always casting his vote for you, and the devil's always casting his vote against you. It depends on the way you vote as to which way the election goes."

WASHINGTON LETTER

LADY WAITS FOR A BATH

Washington—Freedom, the lady in bronze who looks off to the east from the Capitol dome, will have to wait until 1948 to get cleaned up. She had her first bath in five years in 1944. David Lynn, Capitol architect, says she isn't entitled to another until next year after next. In normal times she gets a going-over every four years.

Freedom is 19 feet six inches high and weighs a hefty 14,985 pounds. She cost $23,796.82, and this didn't include putting her in her place. Most folks who've seen a replica of her at the Smithsonian Institution or glimpsed her outline against the sky don't think she's very attractive. She is sort of awkward and her headgear would give even a mad hatter the willies.

The lady holds a wreath and a shield in her left hand. Her right rests on the hilt of a sheathed sword. She wears flowing draperies with a brooch at the waist bearing the letters "U. S." holding the draperies in place. On her head a helmet is encircled with stars and surmounted by a crest composed of an eagle's head and what Mr. Lynn describes as a "bold arrangement of feathers, suggested by the costume of our Indian tribes."

As a protection from lightning, 10 bronze points, tipped with platinum, are placed one on the head, six on the feathers in the headdress, one on each shoulder and one on the shield in her left hand.

Thomas Crawford the father of P. Marlon Crawford, the novelist, designed her in his studio in Rome. He received $3,000 for the plaster model which was shipped to this country on April 19, 1888, on the bark "Emily Taylor."

The bark sprang a leak and put in for repairs at Gibraltar. Starting forth again, it sprung more leaks. Some of the cargo was tossed overboard. The bark put in at Bermuda, where it was condemned and sold. Freedom began to arrive from Bermuda in pieces. Part of her came in December 1888. Along about March 1889 the last piece arrived. Then the Civil War delayed the casting of the statue in bronze by Clark Mills, of Washington.

Killing Themselves

which was the shoulders and head. A special War Department order, No. 248, provided that at the moment the lady found her head and a flag was unfurled from the statue a national salute of 35 guns should be fired from a field battery on Capitol Hill.

When the last gun was fired it was answered by a similar salute from 12 forts surrounding the city of Washington.

Civil Rights . . .

The first Congress, fearing interference by the federal government with basic rights, passed and submitted to the states the first 10 amendments.

These now are known as the Bill of Rights. But the Bill of Rights did not afford protection to the individual against other individuals or the states. It was directed against oppressive acts by the federal government.

After the Civil War the 13th, 14th and 15th amendments to the Constitution were adopted. The reason was that certain states would not or could not protect the liberties of all persons.

Five laws were passed providing penalties for state officers and individuals who violated the rights set out in these amendments. The rights included due process of law by the state. This means you cannot be deprived of life, liberty or property without a fair trial.

Congress later repealed most of these civil rights laws. Two sections are left. They constitute the sole authority under which the Justice Department can act in the civil rights field.

They deal with conspiring to harm citizens in the exercise of federally secured rights (section 51) and with depriving persons of civil rights (section 52).

Section 51 does not protect you against mobs. It affords protection only against official—that is, federal or state—abuse. Yet most civil rights complaints are against an act of one person against another person, or of a group of persons (like a mob) against one person.

Section 51 does protect you against private individuals as well as public officials in these rights: To be free from involuntary servitude; to be a witness in federal courts; to be protected in carrying out federal court decrees; to run for and hold federal office; to be protected from violence while in the custody of federal authorities; to have access to the federal courts, and to vote for a federal officer and to have that vote counted as cast.

Section 52 empowers the federal government to prosecute a state or federal officer who willfully misuses his office or power to deprive a person of the rights guaranteed by the Bill of Rights and the 14th amendment.

Congress on several occasions has been asked to pass anti-lynching legislation. But a bill of this type has never been enacted. Such a bill says the Civil Rights Section, would be a new civil rights statute. The section says all anti-lynching bills were aimed at enforcing the 14th amendment, which says an individual cannot be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law, which means a fair trial.

Balkan Troubles . . .

was withdrawn. Also in the offing was Bulgaria's demand, for Western Thrace from Greece—a claim that more than incidentally has the support of Russia and the Slav group.

When you add to these grave complications the fact that England is standing squarely behind Greece as guardian, you really have something. Greece, of course, is Britain's only foothold on the Balkan peninsula and consequently is a priceless base in view of the clash of interests in the Balkans and Middle East between the Soviet Union and England.

George II, King of the Hellenes, is girding his loins in England for the return to his homeland. This is the second time the 56-year-old monarch has been recalled by pleb-scite. He first mounted the throne in 1922 on the abdication of his father, King Constantine. He was deposed in 1924 and a Republic was established. Then in 1935 his crown was restored and he managed to hang onto it until the Germans occupied his country and he fled.

George faces a tremendous crisis, involving not only his own country but the badly muddled relations between the Russian bloc and the western democracies.

It is a position which calls for a strong man, and it is given to wonder how well he will measure up to it. He was on his throne less than a year after his last recall when his premier, General (Little John) Metaxas, established a dictatorship which Little John ruled with an iron hand until he died suddenly just as the Nazi storm was breaking about Greece.

The way things now look, George may well encounter a rebellion at the outset of his new reign. The Greek Communists are pursuing the well-tried Red policy of divide and rule—causing strife and then seizing power. Moreover the present instance is complicated by the danger of strife between Greece and one of its neighbors—maybe more than one. His Majesty has work cut out for him.

but apparently thought shots fired by civilian police had been from the demonstrators.

Senator Hits . . .

LaGuardia ordered a halt to shipments of all except necessary foodstuffs to China, but Bridges said he does not believe this move lay behind the diversion of the rail to Yugoslavia.

Bridges said he was informed that the diversion was ordered by a Yugoslav representative in UNRRA's Industrial Rehabilitation Division.

Because of the maritime strike the New Hampshire senator said it is possible that some of the rails still are on the docks at Hoboken. He added that if this is true, he hopes the shipments will be stopped by State Department or UNRRA action.

N. Y. Stock Market
New York, Sept. 9—(AP)—Heavy selling waves today put the stock market at a new low for more than a year with declines ranging from 1 to 11 points generally.
The break was another one of the sharpest since 1930. Offerings became so pressing after the opening that the ticker tape fell as much as three minutes late during much of the first hour. Dealings then quieted. There was another sharp dip around midday and a subsequent tapering of activity. Extreme setbacks were reduced moderately in most cases near the close. Transfers were reduced moderately in most cases near the close. Transfers of around 2,800,000 shares were among the largest of 1946.

Butchered Body Found in Alleys
San Francisco, Sept. 9—(AP)—The butchered parts of a man's body, wrapped in cotton and brown paper and tossed out in the alleys behind a downtown theater, were discovered here last night by a group of teen age youths.
Police reported the gruesome packages containing all of the thus far unidentified butcher victim to the head and hands. Those parts still were missing today despite careful search of the vicinity where the other dismembered pieces were found.
So precise were the cuts by which the body had been cut up that police speculated the job might have been done with surgical instruments or at least by some one with a good knowledge of anatomy. The missing head and hands, they speculated, probably were disposed of in some other location to prevent identification.
The coroner's office said the body apparently had been dissected about 16 hours before the segments were found.

Polio Quarantine Rescinded Today
Raleigh, Sept. 9—(AP)—The State Board of Health has rescinded its order of June 12 requiring out-of-state children from poliomyelitis affected areas to undergo quarantine before entering North Carolina. Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, state health officer, said today.
"Effective immediately, the state of Florida and the counties in Alabama and Texas previously specified need no longer be considered as epidemic areas," the health officer said.

Paul Bonner, representing the Office of Foreign Liquidation signed the sale "will help reestablish Italian trade—one of the factors for the realization of the democratic ideal."

Air Show . . .
The show originally was scheduled for presentation on the carrier's arrival, but the naval attaché's office at the U. S. embassy announced shortly after the vessel dropped anchor that it had been abandoned because it could not be integrated with the crowded program arranged for the four-day courtesy visit.
Later, however, an informed source said U. S. Ambassador Lincoln McVeigh had asked abandonment of the air show, presumably because of the restless political situation here.
Royalist sources last night expressed belief that King George II, victor in a recent plebiscite—should resume the throne about Sept. 15 and expressed belief his return from exile would stabilize the nation, now rocked by internal dissension and the international disputes centering about her.

SECOND BEST
Everett, Wash., Sept. 9—(AP)—Willis W. Wade, just before the deadline in the Washington State Eagles Silver Salmon Derby, rowed up to the judges' barge with a big smile and a bigger salmon.
As he handed up his catch it slipped from his grasp. Vern Winkie, a longshoreman, dove into the frigid water of Puget Sound and a moment later came up with Wade's salmon.
The fish weighed 25 pounds 11 ounces, and won Winkie the second prize—a sleek inboard motorboat.

By JOE REICHLER

The Brooklyn Dodgers have stolen the "Gashouse Gang" tag from the St. Louis Cardinals with their daring tactics which may yet pay off with a National League pennant.

Joe Durocher's hustling, fighting crew is displaying the same cash and fire as Frankie Frisch's Cardinals displayed in the early 20's. Mally Pepper Martin and company literally stole their way to the world series.

To date the Dodger greyhounds led by Pistol Pete Reiser, have stolen 34 bases to rank far out in front of all major league clubs and almost double the output of the Cardinals, who have pilfered 31 bases.

The Dodgers hit a new high for one game yesterday when they swiped eight bases—three short of the modern National League record—in drubbing the New York Giants 11-3.

Despite their victory, the Dodgers dropped a half game to the Cardinals, who swept a double header from the Pittsburgh Pirates to increase their first place lead to five full games.

However, the Dodgers' position is not as bad as it sounds, since they are only one game behind in the league column, having two more games to play than St. Louis.

Reiser was the Dodgers' biggest larcenist yesterday. He stole three bases, including home, to make it 3-4 for the season. Seven times this year he has stolen home.

After eking out a 3-4 decision in 11 innings of the opener, the Cards pummeled five Pittsburgh pitchers for 17 hits to coast to a nightcap victory 12-2.

The Boston Red Sox will have to win the American League flag in the west. Despite their defeat by the Philadelphia Athletics 5-3 yesterday, they came nearer to clinching when both the second place New York Yankees and the third place Detroit Tigers dropped twin-lills. The Sox now need only one more victory to eliminate the Yankees and two to end all mathematical chance for the Bengals.

They can do it tomorrow when they meet the Tigers in Detroit.

Washington beat the Yankees twice, 2-1 and 9-5. The Chicago White Sox topped the Tigers twice, Ed Lopat outpitching Hal Newhouser 3-2 in the first game, and Frank Pappish shutting out the Tigers 6-0 in the afterpiece.

Don Ross' seventh inning homer enabled Bob Feller and the Cleveland Indians to defeat the St. Louis Browns 3-2 after St. Louis had won the opener 4-1 behind Jack Kramer.

Hank Wyse pitched and batted the Chicago Cubs to a 4-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. The Boston Braves and Philadelphia Phillies split a double header, the Braves winning the first game 4-3, and the Phils the second game 4-0.

Coach Johnson Is Well Satisfied At Practice

Football practice went into the second week this morning at East Carolina Teachers College with the men working on more fundamentals of the T-formation. Practice will be light for a couple of days to allow the boys a break to recuperate from pulled muscles and other minor injuries obtained during the first week.

Coach Johnson plans to hold another scrimmage later in the week.

Due to illness and injuries, two of the Pirate candidates will be out of the running for a couple of weeks. George Jackson, -80-pound halfback from Concord, was hospitalized Monday morning with a severe cold that showed signs of developing into bronchial pneumonia.

Jack Hedgepeth, 175-pound center from Rocky Mount, sustained a broken finger during scrimmage Saturday morning.

Joe Williams, from Greenville has strained several muscles in practice and will be out of play a day or two.

was suffering from a blistered heel and did not play. Ed Grady, halfback from Kinston, was very fast in the running offensive.

Keith Kilpatrick, 205-pound tackle from Kinston, looks good on the line and will be hard to beat out of a first string position.

Ben Miller, late comer who played with the Pirates 1941 team, is showing up well in practice. Henry Andrews, 205-pound Greenville candidate, is turning in some excellent line play in his bid for a position on the starting lineup.

On the whole, Coach Johnson appears well satisfied with the progress that has been made during the opening week of practice.

The East Carolina Teachers College football squad held its first scrimmage Saturday morning.

Coach Johnson reports that the squad is looking fairly good. During the 30-minute scrimmage session, the offensive team scored twice. The boys were a little ragged but on the whole have readily caught on to the intricate T-formation.

Looking good in the first scrimmage were tackles R. B. Lee from Kinston and John Wyatt, Portsmouth, Va.; center, William Pendleton, Portsmouth, and C. O. McMullan, Elizabeth City; Hubert Musselwhite, Greenville, Abb Williams and Jim Brinson, Elizabeth City; Jack Davis and Ed Grady of Kinston sparked the backfield's running attack, and ends, Louis Tatarski, Plymouth, and Frank Winstette, Plymouth. Charles Brown, outstanding end from Portsmouth

Cleveland, Sept. 9—(AP)—President Abe J. Greene came out swinging today at what he called "New York's persistent monopoly of major contests" as the National Boxing Association launched its first convention since 1941.

The fireball prexy from Paterson N. J. mapped a heavy program for the delegates in his opening address prepared for delivery this morning, and high on the agenda was a series of haymakers at the Empire State's Commission and Promoter "Uncle Mike" Jacobs.

Greene declared the representatives would discuss in detail "New York's persistent monopoly of major contests through the medium of 'exclusive' contracts which are in violation of that state's own laws, and which have tended to prostitute every element on sport and make of boxing nothing but a commercial vehicle for one individual organization's personal advantage."

Big Crowds See Pro Footballers

New York, Sept. 9—(AP)—The All-America Football Conference is off and running with over 120,000 paying customers watching its first three ball games.

Cleveland, New York and Brooklyn have bounced into an early first-place tie of opening weekend victories and all the other clubs will be in action before the week is out.

Compared to Cleveland's 44-0 romp over Miami before 67,135 fans at Cleveland Friday, the two Sunday contests were really tight battles.

Brooklyn's grid Dodgers defeated Buffalo 27-14, with a crowd of 23,489 on hand to see Glenn Dobbs overcome the handicap of a hand injury to pass the Dodgers to two fourth-period touchdowns.

Dan Topping's New York Yankees uncovered a crushing ground attack and a clever passing offensive to down San Francisco's Forty-Niners 21-7 before an estimated crowd of 35,000 at Kazer Stadium.

The week's schedule:
 Friday—Brooklyn at Los Angeles (night) and Cleveland at Chicago (night).
 Saturday—Buffalo at New York (night).
 Sunday—Miami at San Francisco.

Rocky Mount Moves Into Coastal Finals

Rocky Mount won its semifinal series from Goldsboro yesterday, 7-3 and moves into the final to meet the winner of the Wilson-Kinston series which is deadlocked at two games each after Wilson's 9-5 victory in the Sunday game.

Rocky Mount made it four straight over Goldsboro after dropping the opening contest in the series.

A big four-run first inning gave Wilson a lead which it held in the victory over Kinston. Six consecutive hits accounted for the runs.

Kinston, second-place winner in the Coastal Plain League by one-half game over Wilson, will meet Wilson at home tonight in the fifth game of the series.
