U.S. To Propose Border Studies

Would Institute Fact-Finding Committee To Probe Incidents Along Greek Frontier; Gromyko Expected To Stand Firm For "All Or Nothing" On Ukraine Charges

By LARRY HAUCK Lake Success, N. Y., Sept. 18.—The United States has drafted a far-reaching proposal that the United Nations Security Council name a fact-finding committee to study border incidents along the entire northern Greek frontier, including the areas adjacent to Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria. It was learned authoritatively today.

The U. S. plan, in the form of a suggestion and not a formal motion, was due to go before the council at 3 p. m. when delegates resume the long debate on the Soviet Ukraine's complaint against Greece and Great Britain.

It was understood that Delegate Herschel V. Johnson's plan would call for a small committee of the council to undertake the study here and report as soon as possible. The committee also would be asked to study Ukraine charges that the Greek government was persecuting minorities, insofar as such a situation might provoke border clashes.

Such action by Johnson would in effect keep the Greek case on the agenda and at the same time provide a broad inquiry into border incidents in an effort to determine how they were being provoked. Albania and Greece have accused each other of touching off the clashes.

Johnson also was expected once again to term unsubstantiated the Ukraine's charges that Greece, with the presence of British troops as a principal factor, threatened peace in the Balkans. Such a move would bring into the open direct opposition of the U. S. to Russia's formal motion that the council order Greece to halt what the Soviet has termed provocative activities of the aggressive monarchist elements on the Albanian frontier and the persecution of minorities.

There were indications that Gromyko, who took over the chairmanship yesterday, would stand firm for "all or nothing" in the Greek case.

Naming of a council committee would follow the precedent established in the complaint against Franco Spain when a five-man group sifted evidence for nearly a month.

Meanwhile, the economic and social council referred the entire refugee problem to an 11-man subcommittee for study and approved unanimously a resolution requesting the general assembly to establish at the earliest possible date a world health organization.

Island Priest Called Hero By Ex-Officer

Richmond, Va., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Father Ducaas, island priest charged by Navy Lieut. George Ray Tweed with betrayal of the navy's amphibious main hideout on Guam, was described today as a hero by J. Malcolm Bridges, formerly a navy lieutenant in charge of intelligence for the military government on Guam.

Bridges, executive manager of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce, said his investigations failed to show that the priest, although tortured, had revealed Tweed's hiding place.

Tweed, who charged in a book that the priest, slain by the Japanese, had betrayed a confidential statement of the navy man's hideout after the capture of Guam early in the war, was hooded and jeered by 100 residents of Guam when he appeared on the island Monday.

Prelude To Disputes

Noisy, Bitter Wrangling Over Frontiers Of Smaller Nations Is Merely Leading Up To The Big Question Which Lies Ahead, Fixing Germany's Boundary

Developments of the last few days give notice that the noisy, bitter wrangling at Paris over the frontiers of Bulgaria, Italy and Yugoslavia are only a pale prelude to the bigger frontier disputes yet to come. Secretary Byrnes for the United States, supported by a British foreign office spokesman, and Foreign Minister Molotov for the Soviet Union have laid the issue of the German-Polish frontier before the world. If and when the great powers dispose of the lesser tasks of map drawing in Europe they will be confronted with still greater difficulties and dangers when they approach the matter of setting the limits of the new Germany in the east.

PEACE MAKERS SET LIMIT ON ITALY'S ARMY

Equal Strength Also Limited; Seek Atomic Control In Balkans

Paris, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The peace conference military commission set its seal on the military limitations clauses of the Italian treaty today cutting the Italian fleet to 10 major ships and limiting the army to 250,000 officers and men.

Supplementing decision yesterday which consigned most Soviet units to the big four for division and requiring Italy to destroy the rest, today's unanimous action lets Italy keep two battleships, four cruisers and four destroyers, as well as minor units such as 16 torpedo boats and 50 corvettes and auxiliaries. The army's armament is restricted to 20 medium and heavy tanks among other items.

Stirred by the news that Secretary of Commerce Wallace had urged President Truman to seek an American-Russian treaty on atomic energy, the peace conference also appeared headed for a showdown on a British effort to prohibit atomic weapons manufacture in the beaten Balkan nations.

The British amendment—seeking to add atomic missile weapons and controlled torpedoes to the list of arms prohibited in Bulgaria—already has met with violent Soviet opposition in the military commission, which has the matter on its agenda but put it off with a decision to complete work on the Italian treaty first. Consideration of the banned weapons clause of the Hungarian treaty also was delayed.

Prices Unsteady On All Tobacco Markets

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Prices were unsteady yesterday on the middle belt, eastern North Carolina belt and border belt tobacco markets.

On the middle belt, the gains mainly in cutters and in common to fair leaf, outnumbered the scattered losses. The Federal and State Department of Agriculture reported quality was not as good as on opening day Monday, but volume continues heavy.

More grades showed declines than increases on the eastern North Carolina belt with red and green leaf grades down $3 to $4. Lugs and cutters moved upward. Much damaged or wet tobacco was on hand.

On the border belt the general quality was lower with losses predominating in the sales. The season's highest percentage of non-descript grade was offered.

Senator Andrews, Of Florida, Died Today

Washington, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Senator Charles O. Andrews (D-Fla.) died today of a heart attack at Naval Hospital.

Andrews had gone to the hospital last week for a physical checkup. His home was in Orlando.

A former justice of the Florida State Supreme Court, he was elected to the Senate in 1936 and re-elected in 1940.

The senator, who was 69, did not seek re-nomination this year but had planned to remain in Washington until the 80th Congress convened in January.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Margaret Andrews, and three sons.

Local Student Housing Problem Before Legion

Pitt Post Working For Immediate Use Of Facilities At Airport For GI College Students; Red Tape Delays Efforts

Members of Pitt County Post of the American Legion last night unanimously adopted a resolution urging the federal authorities to permit immediate use of housing facilities at the city-county airport for GI students who wish to attend East Carolina Teachers College here but who cannot attend unless they can find places to live. It was pointed out that approximately 130 students could be housed at the airport and transported to the college by special buses.

Legionnaires also heard a brief address by Congressman Herbert C. Bonner and transacted several matters of business including plans for removal of the servicemen's roster from the courthouse square following Armistice Day exercises.

In connection with efforts to procure housing for college students it was pointed out that already enough men students had been accepted to fill the available dormitory space on the campus, the Vaux House and all available private rooms in the city, and that there were at least another 100 applicants for whom no housing is available.

From reports from various persons interested in the matter of the housing facilities at the airport it appeared that government red tape was delaying the desired permission to use the facilities for the students, and it was stressed that with East Carolina Teachers College opening next week immediate action is necessary if the additional students are to be accepted.

Congressman Bonner, who was present at the post meeting, was urged to use his efforts in assisting local authorities in securing immediate use of the buildings.

In a brief address before the Legion post Congressman Bonner paid tribute to the service rendered in behalf of the nation and the world by veterans of World War II and he urged them to band themselves together in the Legion to not procure a lasting peace. He declared that despite the present dark outlook, he was sure that in the end the purposes for which the war was fought would be accomplished and he urged patience and understanding in our dealing with these critics.

Long-Term Convicts Escaped From Truck

Raleigh, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Two long term prisoners escaped yesterday by prying loose the bottom of a prison cage truck as it neared the outskirts of Tarboro, Prison Inspector Kyle Matthews announced today.

Names of the prisoners, serving in a Pitt County prison camp: Sam H. Thompson, 40, serving 2 to 30 years for conviction last October in Guilford county on second degree murder charges.

Clarence Norris of Raleigh, 27, serving 25 to 30 years for conviction in June, 1945, in Guilford county on second degree murder charge.

An intensive search is being conducted for the men, Matthews said.

BIG BUILDING PROGRAM FOR N. CAROLINA

Plan Huge Public Works Construction For Next Four Years

Washington, Sept. 18.—(AP)—North Carolina, its cities and its counties began to consider today out of their own funds within the

This is revealed in applications to the Federal Works Administration for planning non-federal projects.

The Tar Heel program is boosted far beyond $50,000,000 when federal aid highways, river and harbor improvements, flood control, veterans hospitals, postoffices and other items financed wholly or partially by U. S. government funds are included.

Congress allocated $25,000,000 to finance planning for locally financed, post-war public works, but FWA says none is granted unless a governmental unit shows the capacity to build with its own funds within four years. Advances are repaid as construction starts.

Of 138 projects in North Carolina requested up to July 1, FWA approved 100 and $10,000,000 authorized.

WALLACE NOTE WAS 'FILCHED'

Copy Of Top-Secret Letter To Truman Lifted From File

Washington, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Here's what led to the release for publication of Secretary Wallace's eight week old foreign policy letter to President Truman, despite Presidential disapproval:

Reporters learned that Columnist Drew Pearson had obtained a copy and would use it for his column in morning newspapers today.

They asked Wallace and Charles G. Ross, Presidential Press Secretary, for copies.

While waiting for a chance to take the matter up with Mr. Truman, Ross told Wallace to go ahead expecting to see the President before it could be mimeographed and actual distribution begun.

By the time Ross talked to Mr. Truman, however, the Commerce Department had passed out some of the copies.

Mr. Truman told Ross he would not approve release of the letter (as he construed abroad as endorsing its contents). Ross told Wallace, but it was too late. The letter already was out.

The Commerce Department copies the note:

"In view of the fact that a copy of Secretary Wallace's letter of June 23, 1946, to the President was filched from the files and is in the hands of a newspaper columnist, the Secretary of Commerce is today releasing this copy of the letter."

Pearson then issued this statement:

"Unless Secretary Wallace retracts the statement indicating that I 'filched' from the Commerce Department files his Russian letter to President Truman I shall be compelled to bring suit against him for libel."

"This document came into my possession in open and above-board fashion from sources which had no connection with his department. I released it as a newspaperman who believes in letting the public know the truth."

Two Americans Facing Trial For Aiding Nazis

Washington, Sept. 18.—(AP)—While a score or more Americans suspected of wartime aid to Germany are being hunted in Europe, two now in custody will be returned here shortly for trial on treason charges.

Douglas Chandler and Robert Best, accused of having broadcast Nazi propaganda over Radio Berlin, will be flown to Washington from the army prison camp at Orossel, Germany.

In announcing this last night, the Justice Department said 15 former employees of the radio station have agreed to testify against the pair.

A department official meanwhile told a reporter that government agents are investigating the wartime activities of 20-odd Americans who reportedly collaborated with the Nazis.

Since February, he said, agents have been looking into reports that certain Americans broadcast for the Nazis from Berlin, Munich, Vienna and Paris. He added:

"If sufficient evidence is developed to warrant prosecution, these people will be returned to the United States for trial."

Best and Chandler with 41 other Americans were indicted in 1945 for

President Confers With State Dept. Officials; Reported To Have Decided To Tell Wallace He Must Quit Foreign Policy Speeches Or Get Out Of The Cabinet

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER Washington, Sept. 18.—(AP)—President Truman went into a round of conferences with State Department officials today in advance of an expected foreign policy showdown with Henry A. Wallace during the afternoon.

The President was reported by top administration sources to have decided to tell Secretary Wallace that he must quit talking about American foreign policy or get out of the cabinet.

Undersecretary of State Will Clayton, who tried to head off Wallace's "be more gentle with Russia" speech last Thursday, was scheduled to see the President twice before the secretary of commerce arrived at the White House.

Bernard Baruch, administration advisor on atomic policy, was on the White House calling list with Clayton at noon. Earlier, Clayton and Assistant Secretary of State Donald Russell had a 15-minute session with Mr. Truman.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters he did not know whether either or both of the conferences dealt with the Wallace situation.

Wallace was due at the White House at 3:30 p. m. (EDT).

Less than 24 hours earlier he had made a proposal—without Mr. Truman's approval—a letter he wrote the chief executive last July urging that this country agree to reasonable Russian guarantees of security even at the risk of appeasement crises.

"We have little time to lose," Wallace said in calling for a shift in some of our thinking about international matters.

The letter, which Mr. Truman acknowledged and passed on to Secretary of State Byrnes, proposed a long list of moves Wallace said may improve American-Russian relations.

Among them was a definite treaty pledge for the eventual destruction of America's store of atomic bombs and a reassessment of this country's military as well as foreign policies to avert what Wallace described as the danger of a third World War.

The President specifically disapproved release of the letter for general publication on the grounds that his approval might be misconstrued abroad as applying to its contents as well.

But his decision—reversing an earlier one by White House press Secretary Charles G. Ross—came too late. Copies had been distributed among reporters at the Commerce Department after it had been learned that a columnist was about to make the document public. It was this fact that had led Ross to give Wallace a tentative go-ahead to release the letter.

Greece Fearful Of Attack From North

BULK OF U. S. SHIPPING HIT

CIO Seamen's Strike Ties Up Majority Of Ships

By L. S. CHAKALES Athens, Sept. 18.—(AP)—A spokesman for the ministry of defense said today that reports and rumors that Greece was threatened by invasion were part of a "war of nerves."

Information compiled by the intelligence service of the high command, the spokesman said, has revealed nothing to indicate that Greece is facing imminent attack. A qualified allied source had said last night that he had received information that an invasion "may be expected within two days." The source of this information was not divulged.

American correspondents at Athens reported the Greek army along the northern frontier was jittery and fearful of an invasion. The correspondents said Greek commanders reported they were outnumbered and lacked equipment.

An authoritative informant said the Greek government was preparing to present charges to the United Nations that armed leftist bands operating in northern Greece were being supplied by northern neighbors of Greece. Three countries border Greece on the north, Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria.

Evidence to back up such charges is being compiled, the source said. Vice Premier Stylianos Gonatas said last night he had received a dispatch from the governor general of Epirus stating that a band of 200 armed men coming from the direction of the Albanian border had attacked the Greek village of Zacharochori and killed about half the garrison of 25 gendarmes and soldiers. Reinforcements were sent the vice-premier reported.

Recently the Greek ministries of press and public order said bands of expatriates in Yugoslavia and Albania were camped near the border and were preparing to re-enter (Continued on Page Five)

Both union leaders and ship owners appeared to be sitting tight, and waiting for Washington to do something about arbitrating the dispute.

Navy President Joseph Curran asked President Truman for help Sunday night. West Coast leaders appealed to the White House for relief from the stalemate yesterday.

On the West Coast there were no signs of conferences between the operators and the striking CIO marine cooks and stewards union, and the independent marine firemen, oilers, wipers and water-tenders, which struck with the S.M.U. Friday at the end of the AFL stoppage to enforce demands for wage parity with AFL seamen.

The operators have insisted the men return to work before resuming negotiations.

Tobacco Company Elects New Head

New York, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Vincent Riggio has been elected president of the American Tobacco Co. to succeed George Washington Hill who died Sept. 13, the company announced today.

Riggio, who has been associated with the company for 40 years, was elected a director in 1927 and in 1929 became vice president in charge of sales.

Entering the tobacco business in 1905 with the firm of Butler & Butler, Riggio was that company's assistant secretary in charge of sales two years later when it was bought by American Tobacco Co.

He was transferred to the parent company as a department manager in 1911, became section sales manager for the United States in 1919, and general sales manager in 1922.

In announcing his election the company said:

"In electing Vincent Riggio, a president whose entire business life has been devoted to selling tobacco products and a man who has spent nearly 40 years working in close, day-to-day association with George Washington Hill."

No Immediate Relief Seen To Meat Famine

Chicago, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Lack of fresh meat since retail price controls were re-established on September 9 has resulted in the closing of at least 36,000 of the nation's butcher shops, says the National Association of Retail Meat Dealers.

The situation, says an association spokesman, will become progressively worse. He said that a survey of the organization's 60,000 members disclosed that between 60 and 75 per cent have closed their shops because of the sharp decrease in meat production.

Children's Safety

Some Figures On Traffic Accidents Involving School Children; Safety Programs Pushed; Rising Death Toll Reason For Alarm For Automobile Drivers

By JAMES MARLOW Washington, Sept. 18.—(AP)—With schools starting everywhere here are some things to remember about traffic safety.

Children between the ages of 5 to 14 are, and have been for a long time, getting a better safety record than their older brothers and sisters between the ages of 15 and 24. There are a couple of reasons for that.

The 5-14 group gets safety instructions in school; motorists get plenty of warnings to slow down when approaching their schools; and the 5-14 group doesn't drive automobiles.

It's different with the youths of both sexes in the 15-24 group. It's in that age that they begin to drive autos and comparatively few get the idea of safety drilled into them if, for no other reason, not so many are in school any more.

The figures given here are taken from the records of the National Safety Council for 1945. In that year 2,300 children—age 5-14—were killed in traffic accidents, or about 10 for every 100,000 between 5 and 14. But in 1945 about 6,000 youths in the 15-24 group were killed in accidents. That's approximately 30 killed out of every 100,000 people between 15 and 24. Starting back in the 1920s the rate of deaths among the children 5 to 14 has slowly gone down. Not that for those 15-24. Their death rate has climbed steadily. The year 1941—the last pre-war year and the one when the number of cars on the road reached a record—the number of deaths in accidents for all age groups made a record, too. (Continued on Page Four)

TELLS ROTARY ABOUT LEGION

Commander York Reviews History Good Deeds And Plans

By WYATT BROWN The program of service to veterans' dependents, disabled veterans, and the youth of the land was discussed at the Rotary club Monday night by Judge W. M. York, state commander of the North Carolina Department of the American Legion, of Greensboro. He dilated upon the program of recreation and inspiration for the youth of the United States sponsored by the Legion in a nationwide movement. Judge York was introduced by June H. Rose, who had charge of the program. Other prominent Legionnaires who were guests of the club were Col. Paul R. Yontz, executive vice-commander, of Raleigh; Claude Ramsey, national committeeman, of Asheville; Col. Wiley Pickens, director of the North Carolina Veterans Commission; R. Mayne Albright, chairman of the Department Membership, of Raleigh.

Judge York told of the inception of the Legion in Europe with the main object of service to widows and dependents of veterans, and to disabled veterans. The Legion is one of 200 veterans organizations to come from World War I. There have been 90 started since World War II. Among them the American Legion has become the largest veterans organization with the most considered the program of any from any war. Judge York pointed out, in membership the Legion has grown over 5,000 memberships a day until it now numbers 3,300,000 men and women of World War I and II with 68 per cent of these being World War II veterans.

Acknowledging how many depend upon their information about the Legion from its demonstrations at conventions, Judge York said he would like to tell the Rotarians something about the Legion which legionnaires consider a "service" organization. "Its purpose is to serve," declared the speaker.

Then he outlined the fields of service undertaken by the Legion. First, service to disabled veterans manifested in a rehabilitation program promoted by the legion, financed by the federal government. In this connection he told of the three veterans facilities in North Carolina. The Veterans hospital at Fayetteville, the Veterans hospital at Oteen, and the Veterans Administration at Winston-Salem. Those three are financed by the government but at each the American Legion has service officers to look out for the veterans' interests and the officers are paid by the legionnaires through their dues at the local posts. Judge York stressed the need of the service officers because each veteran's claim has to be prosecuted actively to secure the government's services.

He called attention to state legislation providing state-paid service officers who are trained and competent to assist veterans in pressing their claims or their dependents' claims.

Entirely financed by the veterans and auxiliaries is the welfare program for veterans and their dependents until some agency takes the case. Over $37,000,000 have been spent in this connection.

For all youth the Legion has a program Judge York revealed. First, there is junior baseball for 16 and 17 year old boys carried on by local posts of the Legion but organized on a national basis. Over 350,000 boys participated in the program this summer. There were 100 teams in North Carolina in this program.

The second program for youth is the Boys State promoted and put on by the Legion. For a week each summer young people meet at the University of North Carolina from all over the state and study and actually operate local, county and state setups.

Another program is the scholarship awards made each year to five prospective college students who get money to go to any college in the state. Judge York called attention to the state department chairman of that committee, who is June H. Rose. Mr. Rose met his committee in Raleigh last Sunday and made the awards for this year.

In an educational way the legionnaires put on oratorical contests. The subject assigned is always one of the Bill of Rights. In this way, Judge York explained, young people are encouraged to study constitutional government and to come to know the value of that form of government. It is the way the Legionaires fulfill their role of big brothers to the youth of the land in showing them the value of their form of government.

Next Judge York mentioned some of the things the Legion stood for as a national policy for our government for the practical minded veterans realize they must promote legislation to achieve some of the needs of the country. Military preparedness the speaker listed as of prime importance and asserted that World War II might have been avoided and certainly much loss avoided if the government had heeded the Legion's warning to be prepared.

At this point the judge waxed eloquent over the fellowship and friendship which the veterans valued and wanted to preserve among themselves—perhaps started on the battlefield. In conclusion he brought attention to the local post by saying it was Legion policy to give the local posts widest latitude in undertaking worthwhile welfare projects for the benefit of the community.

The Rotary Club accepted sponsorship of the sale of tickets for the high school football games. President Judson Blount appointed a committee for this purpose of Ty Wagner, J. B. Kittrell and Charles White. Guests of the club last night were Bill Bruton, J. B. Kittrell, Jr. and Fred Langston of Raleigh. Judson Blount, club president, presided.

Forty And Eight In Monthly Gathering

The regular monthly meeting of the Forty and Eight was held at the Chick Shack Wednesday night. The meeting was well attended, food enjoyed, and important business transacted. A report was made on the Eastern Division Promenade which was held in Goldsboro, September 7th. The Promenade was attended by a representative group from the Greenville Society, and several new members took their initiation degrees. Plans are now in progress to enlarge the membership on the society by admitting members of the American Legion, who have earned the qualifications which the society requires.

Passenger Buses Keep Schedules

By CHESTER WALSH The Greenville Transit Company a corporation of local people, which bought the city passenger bus lines last week, is making improvements in schedules and surveying the situation with a view to providing bus service here equal to that in any of the larger cities.

One of the outstanding features of the service now is the regularity of the schedules. Early morning traffic is especially heavy. Arrangements are being made to place printed schedules at the main stopping points for the convenience of the traveling public. Manager Dave W. Hardee, Jr., said today. Special service is going to be provided for the high school and ECIC football games at Guy Smith Stadium this season. The company is making arrangements for chartering buses to football fans who intend to witness the local gridiron teams play in nearby cities.

ducted by Lions for the Pitt County Association for the Blind, and requested that final reports all be made during this week.

Junior Lion Dave Clark, Jr., was a visitor at the meeting, which was presided over by Vice President Tyson Bilbo, in the absence of President Vernon M. Rawles.

THE MATERNAL INSTINCT

By Dorothy Staley

Chapter 18

Lillie thought to herself grimly, "I counted on that," and stepped into the house, but in the hallway she got an unexpected glimpse of herself in a mirror, and she thought wildly, "I don't want to be Mrs. Henry Posey. I want to be Lillie O'Dell. I want to know this girl, to have her come see me. I never had Violet, but this girl and I could be friends. We could talk about Rodney, and about Violet. There will be no one to tell her about Violet." She caught her breath, and inside herself said coldly, "Be yourself, Lillie."

But when she left the house more than two hours later she carefully avoided looking in the mirror. That way she could forget "Mrs. Henry Posey" and pretend that this girl knew Lillie O'Dell and that when she got to Bradford City, she would know her and talk to her about Rodney, and Lillie would tell her about Violet.

Halfway home, Lillie opened the window of her compartment and threw out the blue felt hat, and felt a vicious satisfaction in knowing that the suction of the train had carried it under the wheels to be ground to pieces.

When she got home, she went first to have her hair waved, then she went to see August Bradford. "You can relax," she said when she sat down beside his desk. "I've been to see Rodney's wife. I spent a whole afternoon with her. We got quite chummy over a cup of tea." She looked at August Bradford and smiled, a rather mischievous smile. "Which means she talked and I listened."

August Bradford leaned toward her. "When I sent for you, I wanted to see you to do that, but I couldn't had to rely on your understanding now as in the past. Tell me, is she . . . ?" He fumbled around for words and finished lamely, "Alright for Rodney?"

"We couldn't have done better," Lillie answered. "If we had picked her ourselves she does look like Violet. She stopped talking, remembering for a moment the shock she had received when Peg Ann had opened the door for her, the aching, tearing force of it."

"But except for the remarkable resemblance," Lillie went on determinedly, "she is not at all like Violet. She's a lady, yes. But she has purpose. She knows what she wants in this world, and she's going to get it."

Lillie flipped her hand carelessly in the gesture that all Bradford knew. "Now don't get me wrong. She isn't a gold-digger. She isn't after money. But she knows the kind of life she wants and she's going to have it."

Lillie looked at him quizzically for a moment, as if to gauge how much he could take. "She has some new-fangled ideas about business and labor and such things."

August Bradford grunted. "I guess we can take that in our stride. Where does she get them?"

"I'd say," Lillie answered, "from dragging her family out of the depression and poverty by their bootstraps. She's not a Southern girl; her family comes from Michigan. Her father lost his job some years ago when he refused to join a sit-down strike for which he felt there was no justification. The union expelled him and he was never able to get a decent job after that."

August Bradford nodded, and Lillie leaned toward him. "But do you know what one brother who was almost through college is going to be? A union organizer. Peg-Ann says it's time the unions were taken out of the hands of racketeers and run by trained business men who know what it's all about. When he gets out of the army, he is going back to school to finish his course."

"Umph," August Bradford said. "On my money."

Lillie shook her head. "Oh, no. On his G. I. benefits, and maybe, Rodney's money. Remember his mother left him a trust fund that he gets when he's twenty-five."

Mr. Bradford nodded, and Lillie said, "Peg-Ann says that is enough for them, and that if you— There was a bit of suppressed delight in the smile Lillie gave him. "If you interfere too much with Rodney's and her life, they will use that as a stake to start out for themselves, but she rather hopes you won't because she doesn't want Rodney to shirk any of his responsibilities to his family, to the workmen in the mills, or to the city."

"So!" August Bradford exclaimed. "She's a go-getter, Mr. Bradford. She put herself through college; moved the whole family south when her father's health began to fail."

"She kept Rodney straight down there apparently," Lillie said. "Prodded him through O. C. S. because she says he had the makings of a good officer but he liked to play. Then she married him before he went overseas—without meeting his family as she would liked to have done—so that Rodney would have something to hold to, something that would keep him from being reckless, and would bring him home."

Mr. Bradford cleared his throat, and Lillie said quietly, "She isn't at all like his mother. But she loves Rodney above everything and she has purpose and determination and backbone to go after what she wants and she will fight for those she loves."

August Bradford got up and came around the desk and stood looking down at Lillie. "In other words, Mrs. O'Dell," she said gently, "she's just like you."

"What do you mean?" she asked, and choked on the words. She got to her feet, but August Bradford took her hands firmly in his. "You're a very fine woman, Lillie O'Dell. His grip on her hands was so tight that it hurt. "I've never thanked you for all you've done for us—"

He smiled rather grimly. "Not for us—we just reap the benefits. I feel as though we've been partners in an important enterprise, and all I can say is that I've never had a partner for whom I had as much respect, or affection."

They stood silently, looking at each other steadily. Then August Bradford dropped her hands. "You're a very fine woman, Lillie O'Dell," he said again. "You would have made a very good mother. It's a pity you had no children. You should have had several."

"Me?" Lillie laughed. "Me? Why I haven't a particle of maternal instinct."

DISAPPEARING ACT.

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 13—(AP)—Three days ago Orville Rosso's car broke down near here as he and his family were on the way from Kansas City to Fort Dodge, Iowa.

He sent his family home and had the car hauled into a farm yard. Later when he tried to direct a mechanic to the car he couldn't remember how to get back to the farm.

For three days he and police covered every mile of every gravel road in the area with no success. At last, Adrick Henggele called police and asked them to help find the man who left the car in his farm yard.

A RATTY TRICK

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 17—(AP)—The rats in the meat packing and milling district here are going to get a two night feast this week and then—

Saturday and Sunday nights the sponsors have a surprise. They're mixing the meat with a fatal potion of alphantholthiourea (alphantholthiourea that is).

A combination of a serious shortage of meat and an oversupply of rats in the district prompted the wholesale extermination plan.

Miss Angela McLawhorn, attractive brunette daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. McLawhorn of Williamson, was crowned the queen in Reidsville's Harvest Jubilee Festival held in that city Friday and Saturday of last week. This annual event sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of that town, attracted 16 contestants from all over North Carolina and Virginia. Each contestant was judged wearing a bathing suit on Saturday afternoon, while the judging Saturday night was made with the contestants wearing evening gowns. Miss McLawhorn, sponsored by A. J. Manning's Service Station in the Williamson beauty pageant held July 17, capably represented Williamson and the local Junior Chamber of Commerce by taking the first place honors. In addition to the glory of being crowned queen, Miss McLawhorn received free a week's stay at the Astor Hotel in New York for both her and a companion.

with free transportation being furnished via air from Greensboro to New York, as well as being the recipient of a check for $300 for winning first place honors. The stay in New York is from September 15 to September 22.

Miss McLawhorn was accompanied to the Reidsville event by Miss Betsy Manning, Mr. Russell Bullock and Mr. Burke Parker, the quartet leaving early Friday morning and returning to their homes in Williamson on Sunday. All four attended the banquet Friday night and the Queen's Ball held Saturday evening following the pageant. An estimated crowd of 10,000 people attended the festival. Miss McLawhorn was escorted to New York by Mr. Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Parker, and representatives of Reidsville Junior Chamber of Commerce. Miss McLawhorn is the attractive granddaughter of Mrs. Maud Surrill of this city.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

BASIC RULES CONCERNING GREATNESS

When the motion picture, "Livingstone in Africa" was being made some years ago, an official of the company making the film remarked that this would be a hard picture to make. "Not," he said, "because it is hard to reproduce African scenes. Lions, elephants and jungles are things the skillful producer takes in stride. The hard thing will be to show people why Livingstone ever went to Africa."

Exactly. Why did a man leave a comfortable berth in his homeland and go out to the wilds of a forbidding continent? Livingstone was a well-trained physician. Certainly there were many sick people in his native Scotland. He did not go to Africa to get rich for in the midst of that fabulously rich land he made no effort to enrich himself. He won great honor for himself, but this was not because he sought it. He was amazed when it came, and indescribably embarrassed because he considered himself in no way worthy of all this fuss.

Livingstone was like a few other great souls in this world who early decided that following a great ideal was worth all it cost. In his case it was a religious ideal. In the case of Washington it was a political ideal. In the case of Pasteur it was a scientific. In the case of Columbus it was a geographical.

When men set the center of their lives and efforts on a great ideal outside themselves, get ready for greatness. The place to be great is where we happen to be; the time now.

SENSATIONALISM, PLUS!

Sensationalist Drew Pearson scored another news "beat" today in his publishing of Wallace's "Top Secret" letter to President Truman.

The Commerce Department declared that the letter had been "filched" from the files.

Never to be out-done by a mere branch of the Government, Pearson immediately issued a statement demanding a retraction by Wallace of the statement "indicating that I 'filched' from the Commerce Department files his Russian letter." Pearson threatens to bring suit for libel.

Actually, the Commerce Department didn't even hint at such a performance by Columnist Pearson . . . but then, some people will go anything for a bit of cheap publicity.

HOW FAR, MR. WALLACE

The world will not soon forget Prime Minister Chamberlain and his bowing to the will of a dictator to give "Peace in our times." The fiasco of Munich proved that appeasement only magnified the ego of power-conscious nations.

Sec. Wallace, stepping outside his province, urges that this country agree to "reasonable Russian guarantees of security" even at the risk of "appeasement" cries.

The United States has already leaned over backwards in an effort to assure other peoples that they need have no fear of armed aggression from us. Bernard

Hot Squat

Baruch gave the world a program that amazed all (except the Soviet bloc) by its generous concessions. Secretary Byrnes has proposed a lengthening and strengthening of the treaty now in effect with Russia . . . the offer was not even acknowledged.

Just what does Mr. Wallace expect of us . . . to join the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics?

WASHINGTON LETTER

HELPING FIRST LADY

By JANE EADS

Washington—Brisk, gray-haired and efficient Henrietta Nesbitt, for 13 years the nation's number one housekeeper is retiring.

Mrs. Nesbitt has been overseer of White House cooking and cleaning since 1933, when the Roosevelts brought her from Hyde Park. When Mr. Roosevelt died and the family moved out, Mrs. Nesbitt wanted to go too but agreed to stay on until Mrs. Truman got settled.

Mrs. Nesbitt first met Mrs. Roosevelt when both were members of the Hyde Park League of Women Voters. Mrs. Nesbitt made some whole-wheat bread for a sale the league sponsored. Mrs. Roosevelt liked it and asked for more. Later she ordered some of Mrs. Nesbitt's prize cakes.

Mrs. Nesbitt and her husband Henry F. Nesbitt lived on a farm adjacent to the Roosevelts. When the Roosevelts came to Washington the President made Nesbitt White House custodian and Mrs. Nesbitt housekeeper. When Nesbitt died in 1938 his widow took over his duties in addition to her own. Running America's No. 1 household has become a highly complex job since the days when President Harrison used to go to market in 1841 with a basket on his arm.

Mrs. Nesbitt customarily arrived in her office at the White House from her apartment on Connecticut Ave. at 8 a. m. She read her mail opened parcels. After the First Lady had her breakfast, Mrs. Nesbitt consulted with her on the day's menus and found out how many were expected for dinner. Frequently 100 or more guests sit down to dinner in the state dining room.

In addition to supervising state dinners, Mrs. Nesbitt superintended the housekeeping. Before every state dinner the oak panels in the state dining room are washed and waxed and every single crystal in the east room's three big chandeliers is separately polished.

Mrs. Roosevelt saw to it that Mrs. Nesbitt had an ideal, modernized kitchen. When the family moved in the drains were rusty there were many rats and equipment was inadequate and outmoded.

Mrs. Roosevelt installed extra pantries and dumbwaiters for big receptions. She got a 30-gallon ice-cream pack and a huge pancake griddle.

During the war Mrs. Nesbitt met shortages and rationing like any housewife. She stretched meat as far as she could, but even then there was butter for breakfast only. Coffee was kept to one cup a day, except for foreign visitors.

The presidential food bill ran to some $2,500 a month, and on a normal day the kitchen staff had to provide for 60-odd persons—the family and a house staff of 50 or more, from secretaries to kitchen help.

Mrs. Nesbitt preferred her own apartment to quarters at the White House. She likes to listen to the radio and do petit point embroidery.

No successor to Mrs. Nesbitt has been named. Acting housekeeper is Mrs. Mary Sharp. Mrs. Nesbitt's assistant for the last couple of years. Described as young, attractive and efficient, Mrs. Sharp is popular with the White House staff.

Children's Safety . . .

The year 1946—start of the first full postwar year without gas rationing—set out with a rate of traffic deaths that was running neck and neck with 1941.

Alarmed by this, President Truman called a national safety conference last May, a conference of state and city officials and people interested in safety.

They went back home to do something about improving safety and soon afterward the death rate began to fall.

It was still higher than in 1945—when fewer cars were on the road—but a good deal less than in record 1941. Here's an example:

Traffic deaths in June were 2,510. This was 27 per cent higher than for June, 1945, when the war with Japan was still going on, but 19 per cent below June, 1941.

And in July—the last month for which records are available—the number of traffic deaths was 2,330. This was 21 per cent over July, 1945 but 23 per cent less than July, 1941.

Safety programs in schools for children 5 to 14 have been conducted for a number of years.

About 300,000 boys and girls act as guardians—or safety patrols—and around schools to see that children get across the streets safely and that motorists slow down in school zones.

From 1922 to 1945 traffic fatalities among children 5 to 14 has shown an overall drop of 26 per cent.

In 1945 the number of people, all ages, killed in traffic accidents was 28,600. In record 1941 the total was 39,969.

territory east of the line Szwemunde-River Oder-Western Neisse has moved some 2,000,000 Germans out and is continuing the process of clearing out all the German population. Molotov tells the world that because the western powers knew of this mass eviction and accepted it without protest they have in effect admitted the validity of the Russian-Polish position.

Molotov argued, in his statement of Monday, that inclusion in the Potsdam agreement of a section on "orderly transfers of German populations" bolstered the Russian-Polish position. This section said that the transfer to Germany of German populations or elements remaining in Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia will have to be undertaken. Molotov stretches this to apply to "the territory assigned to Poland." Some of the framers of the Potsdam agreement appear to have failed to foresee this interpretation, applied to areas assigned to Poland "for administrative purposes" as well as to areas indisputably Polish.

It should be noted that the Russians and Poles have not cheated themselves in their drawing of the Szwemunde-Oder-Neisse line. They have set it well west of the lower Oder for sufficient distance to include Stettin, one of the major ports of pre-war Germany. Stettin has become Szczecin, Polish settlers are replacing the German population (which was some 270,000 in 1939) and evidence points to intentions to make the city the chief Baltic port of the new Poland.

cal matters. He pointed out, however, that America should not continue to extend charity to the world unless it was permitted to see and know that its efforts and gifts are being used for the purposes intended.

The Legion Home Committee reported the completion of the purchase of more than 14 acres of land adjacent to the airport and stated that final payment had been made and the deed for the property properly recorded. A drive to procure funds for the erection of a Legion home on the property will get under way at an early date.

Foreign Policy . . .

week-old cabinet drama moved toward this afternoon's climax act in Mr. Truman's office.

Whether Wallace would choose to keep his position in silence or get out and fight for the foreign policy he believes America should have his own secret for the moment. But at least some of those close to him expressed belief he would elect to get out rather than be gagged.

Swiftly, these other details were learned from top administration officials:

1. Wallace, already at work on his scheduled September 24 speech at Providence, R. I., hoped last night to have it ready to take to the conference with the President. His plan to seek presidential approval of this address evidently was made without knowledge of Mr. Truman's decision for a showdown on his cabinet status.

2. The President is deeply concerned about the effect abroad of Wallace's foreign policy declarations, fearful lest other governments might begin to act on the assumption that this government is split over its relations with Russia.

3. Through Undersecretary of State Will Clayton, who conferred with him late yesterday, Mr. Truman has sent a message to Byrnes at Paris thanking him for his forbearance and understanding during the Wallace controversy. Byrnes has maintained strict silence.

4. Mr. Truman's stated approval—later withdrawn—of Wallace's New York speech last Thursday that touched off the uproar is being explained by some of his aides as having been given after hearing only a disjointed reading of the text. Because of frequent interruptions to handle other business, these aides say, he did not discover the explosive nature of the address.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Sept. 18—(AP)—The stock market suffered another relapse today as a late selling wave hit all departments for losses of 1 to more than 7 points with a number of issues touching lows for the year or longer before last-minute support cut extreme setbacks.

Dealings were moderate and prices downward from the start. Offerings became a bit more urgent after midday and orders piled up sufficiently in the final hour to put the high speed ticker tape as much as two minutes behind actual floor trades for a while. The pace then slowed and recoveries appeared in the majority of cases at the close.

Transfer for the full proceedings were in the neighborhood of 2,000,000 shares against Tuesday's smallest turnover for the month of 1,390,000.

GOAT GETS HIS GOAT

Salem, Ill., Sept. 18—(AP)—Rotarian George Lytle got the Salem Lions Club goat but the Lions got the last laugh.

As a prank, Lytle kidnaped the Lions' mascot, a pet goat, and took it up for a ride in his airplane.

He didn't stay up long. The goat started chewing on the plane's fabric, and Lytle landed, but quick,

More Money For Sweet Potatoes

By CHESTER WALSH

The sweet potato dehydrating plant on the old Belvoir road, next to the airport, has made contracts with many farmers to dehydrate sweet potato culls—the bruised and cut potatoes and those too small or too large to sell, and the roots. W. Glenn Scott, head of the plant, said today.

The potatoes are fed to the dehydrator on a conveyor and they come out the other end of the locomotive-size machine in small chips—cooked and ready to serve as valuable stock feed. Twenty-four hundred pounds of sweet potatoes will produce 807 pounds of excellent stock feed, rich in proteins and minerals. The dehydrated potatoes taste good enough for human consumption.

Scott said that large growers of sweet potatoes can sell only the potatoes of uniform size. The extra large and small potatoes and the culls usually go to waste. By dehydrating them for stock feed farmers have found in Louisiana and other states that the sweet potato is one of the most valuable vegetable crops grown in the south.

Specialists from State College and U. S. agriculture departments and farm agents who inspected Scott's sweet potato dehydrator in operation here were optimistic in their predictions that dehydrating will make sweet potatoes more profitable to the growers. The plant here is open for public inspection.

Superior Court To Convene Oct. 21st

Judge Q. K. Nimocks, Jr., of Fayetteville, will preside over a one-week civil term of Superior Court here the week of October 21.

He will preside over a one-week criminal term of court the week of October 28. The Cumberland County jurist will be confronted by an unusually heavy and important criminal docket.

Dairy Curbs . . .

The figures show, Porter told the board, that dairy product prices are now generally above the level of former June 30 ceilings plus subsidies.

He added that the prices of cheese, butter and other manufactured products indicate a trend which if continued, will in a very short time lead to a general price level substantially and dangerously above the level of former ceilings plus subsidy.

A decision on reconrol of dairy products is not expected today and may be delayed several days.

At the time of its meat reconrol decision last August 20, the board allowed dairy products to remain free of the price curbs that had expired June 30 along with OPA. The panel ruled that (1) while milk and other dairy products were in short supply and (2) while price controls could be enforced, (3) dairy prices had not climbed unreasonably, hence the industry should be given an additional trial free from ceilings.

Chairman Roy L. Thompson noted that milk had gone up about 3 cents a quart since June 30, and said butter prices were "not far out of line."

But Thompson cautioned that "if dairy products move upward from here on out, this board can and will put the industry back under control."

The words atomic bombs into an amendment last week which added controlled torpedoes to the list of possible modern weapons—including guided missiles—which Bulgaria "shall not possess, construct or experiment with."

The Slav delegations spotted the words at once, objected and blocked all immediate consideration of the proposal, putting it on the military commission's schedule for later discussion.

$660,776 for drafting of plans.

The remaining 24 requests to cost $3,173,465 still were under FWA study.

The agency said it has a policy of giving preferences to advances for projects for which bonds already have been voted or for which cash is on hand.

Of advances already made, $310,241 is for planning 50 sewer, water and sanitation works to cost an estimated $11,067,072.

The next largest item is for $196,162 to plan a $6,772,329 expansion of 56 schools of the state.

Other approved advances include $35,512 for public building plans which ultimately are expected to cost $5,744,415 and $108,119 for $5,744,415 miscellaneous public facilities.

George H. Field, commissioner of FWA's bureau of community facilities, said no advances were approved for projects on the federal aid highway system or for private hospital facilities which may be built with U. S. assistance under the Hill-Burton Act.

Likewise advances have been held from airports falling within the civil aeronautic administration's $500,000,000 program.

North Carolina has asked approval of $15,300 for planning five additional school projects to cost $579,000.

Greece. Some of these bands were estimated at 4,000 or 5,000 men.

It has been noted that leftist bands have shifted their operations largely from Macedonia in the north to the rich plain of Thessaly, farther south and athwart the main lines of communication between Athens and Salonika, where British troops are based.

"UNBLOCK" your DIGESTIVE TRACT

And Stop Dosing Your Stomach With Soda and Alkalizers

Don't expect to get relief from headache, sour stomach, gas and bad breath by taking soda, and other alkalizers if the true cause of your trouble is constipation.

In this case, your real trouble is not in the stomach at all. But in the intestinal tract where 80% of your food is digested. And when the lower part gets blocked food may fail to digest properly.

What you want for real relief is something to "unblock" your lower intestinal tract. Something to clean it out effectively—help Nature get back on her feet.

Get Carter's Pills right now. Take them as directed. They gently and effectively "unblock" your digestive tract. This permits all 5 of Nature's own digestive juices to mix better with your food.

You get genuine relief from indigestion so you can feel really good again.

Five Tackles Bolster Line For ECTC Pirates

By JOE TEW
Here are five of the tackles who will be filling the line for the East Carolina Pirates in the scrimmage session through the coming season...

Zack Manning, 6 foot, 211 pound Navy veteran from Winston-Salem have been giving the boys a hard time in his bid for the first team...

Navy veteran from Kinston is looking very good. Keith played ball formerly with Grainger High in Kinston.

These men will be playing with the White and Gold teams when they meet at Guy Smith Stadium this evening for a scrimmage under the lights.

Louis Heavily Favored Against Tami Mauriello

By GAYLE TALBOT
New York, Sept. 18—(AP)—Joe Louis makes the 23rd defense of his heavyweight title tonight at Yankee Stadium, with Tami Mauriello of the Bronx being served up as the sacrificial goat.

There appears to be little doubt in anybody's mind, except possibly Mauriello's, that Louis will retain his crown by a knockout, but some 30,000 are expected to be drawn to the big ball yard on the chance of seeing a lot of fight while it lasts.

So, of course, has Louis. The big Negro doesn't ordinarily say much and he has surprised the boys with his outright assertions that Tami should be easy to hit and that it shouldn't last long.

Champ, in five rounds. Woodcock knocked out Gus Lesnevich in a non-title bout in London last night. He is only 23, weighs close to 200 and is tough and confident. Also, he has trained for this one strenuously and earnestly.

Knowing Tami's ring habits, the odds-makers are almost positive he will get it early. They are offering even money that Louis knocks him out inside five rounds, and 9 to 1—and even greater—that the champ wins. They have gotten very little action on either count.

Rocks Win Final Game In Playoff

Rocky Mount today was the undisputed champion of the Coastal Plain League. The Rocks were the pennant winners in the regular season's play, and last night they defeated Wilson 12 to 9 to take the Shaughnessy playoffs by a margin of 4 to 2.

The Louisville-Mauriello fight may be heard tonight over the Tobacco Network, starting at 9:00 o'clock.
