Conferees Stand Behind Big Four

Uphold Agreements On Boundaries And Borders Of Future Free State Of Trieste; Russia Faithful To Commitments, Opposes Revisions Offered By Slav Bloc

Paris, Sept. 20—(AP)—The Paris peace conference upheld today the Big Four agreements on the Italian-Yugoslav boundary and the borders of the future free state of Trieste as the Italian political and territorial commission beat down in vote after vote every effort to revise the proposed frontiers.

Faithful to her Big Four commitments, Russia cast her ballot against the boundary revisions, even though some of them were proposed by the Slav bloc, which she frequently has backed.

Edward Kardej, deputy premier of Yugoslavia, declared after the voting that he "regretted the commission preferred the method of the vote instead of conciliation" and insisted that his earlier remarks, in which he declared Yugoslavia would not sign a treaty which she considered "unfair," be entered in the commission's records.

The commission balloted 11 times on proposals to change the borders of the internationalized, free port of Trieste, fixed by the big four along the so-called French line and bounded on the north by a line drawn from Dulno to the French line, voting down all of them except one, by a 13 to 5 count.

With Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, the Ukraine and Yugoslavia voted for the proposed changes in most cases and Belgium and Ethiopia abstained. On the other proposal, one by South Africa to enlarge the area so as to include Pola and other Italian cities down the Istrian peninsula, the vote was 12 to 6, with Australia, Brazil, Canada, New Zealand and the Netherlands supporting South Africa. Belgium and China abstained.

In that vote it was the other three big four members who remained faithful to their commitments, since the South African proposal embodied the original ideas of Britain, France and the U. S. on the border question.

Czechoslovakia earlier had sought to avoid a showdown on the border issues by proposing establishment of a special sub-commission composed of White Russia, Canada, Ethiopia, China and Yugoslavia to work out a stable solution satisfactory to all, but that was beaten 10 to 7, with Belgium, France and Ethiopia abstaining, and India and the Slav countries, including Russia, voting for it.

The other amendments, proposed by Yugoslavia and White Russia would have moved the Italian-Yugoslav border westward at Italy's (Continued on Page Six)

Inmate Of Training School Found Dead

Rocky Mount, Sept. 20—(AP)—Death by strangulation of an inmate of the Eastern Carolina Training School, near here, was reported today by W. D. Clark, school superintendent.

The body of the youth, David Olin Godwin, 15, of Charlotte, was found hanging from a bar at the top of a school detention room about 7 o'clock last night, Clark said. The superintendent announced the tragedy following a formal investigation by Dr. J. G. Raby, Edgecombe county coroner, who ruled the death a suicide.

The school superintendent said he used artificial respiration on the body until Rocky Mount firemen reached the scene, but all efforts to revive the youth were fruitless.

Godwin's mother, Mrs. Pansy Godwin of Charlotte, was listed as next of kin.

Churchill's Speech

Analyst Expects Moscow's Objections; Tremendous Potentialities In Plan For Federation Of Europe; An Old Dream; Circumstances Block Action

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR. (For DeWitt MacKenzie) Winston Churchill's Zurich speech calling for a United States of Europe is likely to revive Moscow's contention that he is campaigning for a Western bloc to offset Russia. It probably will be taken, also as a second to the recent Stuttgart speech by Secretary Byrnes in cheering up the Germans and promising them a place in the Western democratic sun.

U. S. - BRITAIN TO SPEED UP JAPS' RETURN

Repatriation Goal Set; Will Put Pressure On Soviet Policies

Washington, Sept. 20—(AP)—An Anglo-American decision to speed the return home from Southeast Asia of more than 100,000 Japanese reportedly is in the making today. Its objective obviously is to pull the rug from under any possible Russian contention that this country has sanctioned the use of "slave labor."

Officials familiar with the discussions now going on told a reporter that an announcement probably will be issued in a week or ten days, depending on the shipping situation in the far Pacific.

These officials said it was the shipping situation, now improving, plus the task of corraling the scattered Japanese—that has been responsible for the delays. They added that they expect the task to be completed by year's end.

In line with the Potsdam Big Three declaration calling upon allied governments to permit prisoners of war to return home, the State Department's stand has been taken in the face of a strong desire by some former occupied countries to use the prisoners for reconstruction work.

While sympathetic over the plight of these countries, the State Department nevertheless has taken the position that American endorsement would be inconsistent with current United States demands for the repatriation of about 800,000 Japanese troops captured by the Red Army in Manchuria and northern Korea.

The task of rounding up the Japanese in Southeast Asia fell to the British Tommies in that area—the Southeast Asia Command—with (Continued on Page Six)

Niagara's Brink Falls Into Gorge

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 20—(AP)—A huge portion of the brink of the American falls collapsed today, shaking this city with earthquake intensity as it tumbled down the 168-foot face of the cataract.

Witnesses said a section of the rock wall 120 feet in length at the top and about 30 feet across at the bottom of the falls tumbled into the gorge shortly after 11 a. m. (EDT) with a terrific roar.

They reported that it was on this side of the V-shaped section which broke off in 1942.

Tony Guinta, a member of the Niagara Falls Gazette staff, said the blast "shook hell out of the city."

"Our building shook like a maple leaf in a breeze,"

State OPA Office To Probe Sales Of Meat

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 20—(AP)—The State OPA office announced today it had assigned more than 12 meat investigators to check livestock markets, slaughter houses, purchasers of killed animals and retail outlets.

Director T. S. Johnson said special efforts were being made to determine where ungraded meats are being sold and to whom. OPA Attorney Carl Gaddy is preparing a number of suits against persons who have been slaughtering and selling ungraded beef and veal.

This might prove to be a project challenging even the utmost Churchillian effort.

When you try to conjure up a vision of Poland, Hungary, Rumania and Yugoslavia, for instance picking up their beds and walking out of the Russian sphere to help France, Germany, Franco Spain and the others to form on Russia's border a new power which might be the strongest in the world, the light begins to dim.

State Department Hits Charges By Yugoslavia

Term Complaints As "False And Exaggerated"; Demand Cooperation From Tito To Halt Terroristic Activities

Washington, Sept. 20—(AP)—The United States today denounced as false and exaggerated charges of improper treatment of Yugoslav officers. Simultaneously this country demanded cooperation of Marshal Tito's government in efforts to halt obstructive and terroristic activities of pro-Slav and pro-Italian elements in the Anglo-American zone of disputed Venezia Giulia.

In a note made public three days after it was handed to the Yugoslav ministry of foreign affairs by American Ambassador Patterson the U. S. emphasized that it "will not be deflected from its course of maintaining a fair and impartial administration in the zone under its control."

Here are the allegations and the American replies:

1. The charge—that the civil and military police in Trieste made no attempt to prevent an attack upon the premises of the Yugoslav War booty commission, and while taking no action against persons who attacked this building, arrested Yugoslav officers and men."

The reply—an "entirely false interpretation upon the facts of the matter. Investigation has shown that the attack... was one of a number of sporadic outbreaks of violence occurring simultaneously and provoked both by pro-Slav and pro-Italian elements. One Yugoslav officer and two Yugoslav men were arrested. As they admitted that they had fired on the crowd and fatally injuring a civilian, these can be no doubt that their arrest was abundantly justified."

2. The charge—that there were six other instances of alleged failure of the civil and allied military police to protect the persons and property of Yugoslav citizens in Trieste."

The reply—that the full investigation possible" of three of the cases failed to reveal any independent evidence that these allegations are well founded. The remaining (Continued on Page Three)

Wind Storm Heavily Damages Wilmington

Wilmington, N. C., Sept. 20—(AP)—Wilmington and New Hanover County today were digging out of debris and counting the damage left in the wake of a wind and rain storm that piled up 7.05 inches of precipitation here in the 18-hour period ending at 1 p. m. yesterday.

Wrightsville and Carolina Beaches were similarly hit. Schools closed drainage facilities were washed away and transportation generally was disrupted.

The Wilmington City Council meeting in special session on another issue, declared an emergency and ordered that an engineer be employed immediately to study the city's drainage problems.

Increasing Crime Wave Unprecedented In Japan

Tokyo, Sept. 20—(AP)—A wave of sex slayings—almost unprecedented in Japan—plus a wild, rusty-jackknife plot against the premier, unsolved kidnappings and a rising tide of robberies and assaults are keeping shocked Tokyo folk indoors at night.

A pardoned murderer, with a grisly sense of humor, who paired bodies of recent girl victims with skeletons of earlier dead, confessed today to five sex killings.

NMU LEADERS RAISE HOPES FOR SHIPPERS

Curran Will Recommend Seamen Return To Work; No Contract Yet

By ASSOCIATED PRESS Leaders of striking CIO mariners raised hopes today for an early end of the ship strike as operators agreed to a federal arbitrator's award in the national maritime union walkout on the east and gulf ports.

Joseph Curran, president of the NMU, said after a meeting of the CIO committee for maritime unity that he believed that a membership meeting of the union today could result in the men's going back to work and that he would recommend such a move—"all things being equal."

He declined to elaborate further on the phrase "all things being equal."

Curran also announced that "the union was in receipt of a telegram from J. Godfrey Butler, labor director of the U. S. maritime commission, to Frank J. Taylor, chairman of the American merchant marine institute, which represents the east and gulf coast operators, advising him that the commission had accepted the arbitration award."

The award made yesterday by J. L. Fly, federal arbitrator, granted NMU seamen salary increases of $1 to $10 monthly, bringing them to wage parity with AFL seamen.

In San Francisco the NMU said in a statement last night after a prolonged session dealing with the Fly award that it hoped that "by noon today the U. S. maritime of the shippers would give assurance that the Fly award, calling for equal pay for equal work throughout the maritime industry would be applied."

"It was stated following a meeting of the west coast section of the NMU that if such assurance was given the current maritime strike may be ended," the statement said.

N. C. Republicans Plan Campaigns

Lexington, N. C., Sept. 20—(AP)—Plans of North Carolina Republicans to wage aggressive campaigns in several congressional districts this fall began to simmer today.

State Chairman Sim A. Delapp announced that strategy for a determined effort to seat some of the party's candidates was mapped at a conference here yesterday, attended by top ranking Republicans of the state.

In addition, the meeting decided, he said, to put on the pressure for county offices in all close counties.

Delapp disclosed that the party wheelbarrows devoted considerable time to outlining of issues for the campaign but he kept silent upon any decisions reached.

Members of the State Finance Committee worked on measures for raising necessary funds to finance the projected campaign.

Fresh Support Given U. S. Open Air Policy

British Abandon Secret Bermuda Aviation Stand, Pledge Support For U. S. Freedom Of The Skies Policy

By JAMES J. STREIBIG Washington, Sept. 20—(AP)—British abandonment of a secret Bermuda memorandum gave the United States fresh support today for its open skies aviation policy.

The two countries in a joint statement declared their faith in the general Bermuda agreement as a means of "orderly development and expansion of international air transport."

Hence the British reversed their stand taken secretly during the Bermuda aviation conference last winter. Under that stand they assumed no obligation to seek in negotiations with other countries the same standards which they accepted in the American agreement.

Last night's statement resulted from an informal conference in London last week during which an American group told the British they had "strayed off the reservation" in their air pacts with Argentina, Greece, France, Holland, Portugal and other countries.

Possible results of the new declaration appear to be:

1. Early revision of Britain's agreements with those countries to bring them into line with the Bermuda principle. This permits airlines to operate as frequently as practicable and to pick up traffic along the route to help maintain an economic payload.

2. An end to any prospect that other countries might write restrictive air agreements with either Britain or the United States.

3. Strong support for this country's effort to complete agreements with India, Argentina and Mexico (Continued on Page Four)

DAIRY PRICES DECISION DUE

Washington, Sept. 20—(AP)—The price decontrol board expects to decide today whether prices of milk, butter, cheese and other dairy products have risen "unreasonably" during the past month.

A spokesman for the three-member independent agency said it planned to announce the decision about 4 p. m. (EDT), after commodity markets and trading have ended for the day.

If the finding is that prices have climbed too high, the board could direct return of CPA ceilings to single products, such as cheese or butter, or reimpose controls over the entire list of dairy products.

The panel also could order controls over milk on a regional basis. Today's scheduled decision was set exactly one month after the board held on August 20 that milk and its products should continue to be under OPA restrictions while the industry had a fair trial at holding its own prices in line.

Meanwhile the panel emphasized that it can do nothing now about "speculative" growing out of its actual last month placing meats and livestock back under price lids.

Secretary Of Commerce Bows Out After Bomb-Shell Announcement At Truman's News Conference; President Stresses Need For Unity Among Members Of Government

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER Washington, Sept. 20—(AP)—President Truman today fired Henry Wallace as secretary of commerce in a dramatic reaffirmation of this country's stand at the Paris peace conference.

Wallace bowed out of the cabinet with the terse announcement that "I shall continue to fight for peace." His aides told reporters, however, that he "will make no campaign speeches this fall."

Mr. Truman gave his "full endorsement" to the policies being pursued at the Paris peace conference by secretary of state Bernice and the American delegation.

"Our foreign policy as established by the Congress, the president and the secretary of state remains in full force and effect without change," the president declared.

While solidifying American foreign policy abroad, the cabinet upheaval was viewed as bringing a possible split in the Democratic Party's fight for congressional seats this November.

Mr. Truman said his removal of the last of the late President Roosevelt's New Deal secretaries was done in friendly fashion.

After a telephone conversation with the President, Wallace addressed a letter to him as "Dear Harry," saying simply:

"As you requested, here is my resignation. I shall continue to fight for peace. I am sure that you will approve and join me in this great endeavor.

"Repeatedly."

This turn of events caught the capital by such surprise that no one would venture a guess immediately as to Wallace's successor.

Until one is chosen, the department will be in charge of Undersecretary Alfred Schindler, who is now on the west coast.

At a news conference which broke up as soon as the president finished reading his terse formal statement, Mr. Truman also laid down a flat rule that no member of the executive branch of the government (Continued on Page Six)

News Conferences

Rumors That The President Would Discontinue His News Conferences Discounted; Wide Variety Of Questions Asked; Answers To All Impossible

By JAMES MARLOW Washington, Sept. 20—(AP)—President Truman is expected to continue his news conferences although there have been rumors he might drop them.

These rumors started because of the jam into which Mr. Truman got himself when he said at a news conference that he had approved a speech by Henry Wallace.

When this approval on a speech which criticized Mr. Truman's own foreign policy—caused international confusion, the president changed what he said.

At another news conference—but one at which no questions were asked—he explained that, in the first place, he had merely meant to say he had approved Wallace's right to make a speech, not the speech itself.

But how can a thing like this happen? Here's an explanation of that and of news conferences.

Presidents Coolidge and Hoover did not permit newsmen at their conferences to ask questions, face to face. The questions had to be submitted in writing before the conferences started.

Then at the conferences Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Hoover answered what they wished from among them submitted questions, ignoring the rest.

A news conference is a good place for a president to keep the country posted on developing events and on his own thinking and intentions.

President Roosevelt brushed aside the technique of the written questions and threw open his conferences. They became catch-up catch-can affairs.

Newsmen fired their questions at him. He ducked those he didn't (Continued on Page Four)

Remembrance of Our Mother

Nine years ago today, God saw fit to take from our midst our dear mother, Mrs. Cornelia Hemby. She is still as fresh in our memory as the violets in spring. We think not of her as dead, she's only sleeping, and resting from her labor. May we, the children, pause in silent prayer. "That some how the windows of Heaven may stand ajar, and that we be blessed to look through the dark clouds and catch a glimpse of the happy home where she is now resting, until we meet again."

Can fond memory ever cease to remember? One who passed away in mid-September, Removed from earth to dwell in glory, Never again will she repeat life's story, Eternity has claimed her immortal soul, Listing it among the numbered roll, In life she lived in death she died, And entered a mansion to forever abide.

Chapter 2

Swaying at the end of a strap in a downtown subway train, Martin wondered if he would succeed as well in the next part of his job. Howard Morrissey, the gambling man and night club owner, might be short on "shiks, but he was as shrewd an exploiter of human frailties as the prohibition era ever graduated.

Martin pushed back the gilded double doors of the Gold Mine Club. Only the octagonal bar was doing business there early, but Morrissey should be in his shabby office in the rear of the magnificent supper room.

The door of the private office was ajar and beyond it was daylight from an arched window and the subdued ticking of a noiseless typewriter. A dark, sullen girl was pounding out letters and Morrissey was nearly hidden behind an open newspaper, his feet on a battered desk.

"Hello, Marty," Morrissey said. "What can I do for you?"

"Can we find a quiet corner?" The other folded the paper and dropped it to the floor. "Let the letters go for a while, Louise," he said.

The typist got up silently and left the room. Morrissey clasped slender fingers behind his sleek, dark head and looked at Marty out of blue, steady eyes.

"It's about a story we're running in the morning about Searle. It looks as if he's going to be pinched."

Morrissey's expression did not change. "He got into you for some dough didn't he?"

"Twenty-five thousand?" "I suppose you'd like to get it back?"

Martin shook his head. "Not if he spends the next few years in prison."

"What's in it, Marty?" "For me, headlines. It will help the story if we've got him charged with stealing your money. And for you, the cash he owes you—maybe."

"You think he can scrape it up to beat the rap?" "He'll stretch himself trying. If you're not on the prosecuting end, you won't cut in."

"Who's behind the pinch?" "Clarabelle Messner. She's going to ask for a warrant in the morning."

"Well—" He sighed. "Maybe you're right, Marty. I guess you can print in your paper that I'll tell the D. A. Searle boosted a $25 check of mine to twenty-five thousand."

"I believe you, Morrie. But the men who run newspapers have to be careful. You know about libel suits. If we printed the story, and Clarabelle landed in a sanitarium and you got shot in a stick-up, Searle could sue us for enough to pay off all his debts and buy the Gold Mine besides."

Morrissey made up his mind abruptly. "Louise," he called. She came into the office, her eyes wary and hostile. "Get on that machine, Louise."

September 29 will be promotion day in the Sunday school when every graduating class in the various departments will receive their certificates of promotion and will march into the department into which it is promoted. Every member of the Sunday school should be present for that significant day.

October 6 will be observed as rally day and every pupil in every department is expected to be present by departments and the report of all departments will be made at the morning church service.

The four Sundays in October will be observed as Loyalty month by the church membership when every member of the church is expected to be present for the communion service on the four Sundays. It will be known as loyalty month and every member who is physically able to be present is urged to make these spiritual engagements.

Dillon read the first page. "Go on home, Marty. This is good stuff. I'll give you a byline and see if I can put a bonus through."

Associated Press Sports Writer
Ted Williams, Stan Musial's chief rival for the title of baseball's most dangerous hitter today, believes that the St. Louis Cardinal cloutier is, in Ted's own words—the "greatest player in the National League."
The Boston Red Sox' socker, who with his manager Joe Cronin and others of the team's top-flight stars were interested spectators at the Cards—Braves game in Boston, got a large eyeful of Mr. Musial in action yesterday afternoon.

While admitting he hadn't seen much of the National League except for a few games in Brooklyn, New York and Boston, Williams said "Musial has shown me more than anybody else with the stick."

The cloutier from Corona, Pa., currently leading the National League batters with a mark of 375 slamed out five straight hits in as many times at bat and drove in the winning run in St. Louis' 5-4 victory with his final safety, a ninth-inning single. Two of his hits were doubles, which boosted his league leading total in that department to 48. Musial also leads the loop in hits, runs scored and triples in 97 runs batted in.

The Musial-made victory enabled the Cardinals to preserve their first-place margin of one and a half games over the Brooklyn Dodgers who kept close to the leaders by whipping the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-0 at Ebbets Field.

As matters stand now, the Cardinals need any combination of eight wins or Brooklyn losses to clinch the pennant. The Red Birds have eight games left to play as compared to nine for the Brooks, including today's play-off of the 11-inning 0-0 tie with Cincinnati.

In the American League, the Cleveland Indians defeated the Washington Senators 5-1 for Bob Feller's 25th victory of the season. The Tigers outslugged the Philadelphia Athletics 14-7 for their 17th victory in 22 meetings with the Mackmen.

Lefty Dave Koslo hurled the New York Giants to a three-hit 1-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Clay Lambert outpitched Dick Mauney to give the Cincinnati Reds a 2-1 victory over the Phils under the lights in Philadelphia.

After losing a 4-0 lead, the St. Louis Browns came back with two runs in the last of the ninth to defeat the American League champion Boston Red Sox in a night game.

Phillies Pass Million Mark In Attendance

Philadelphia, Sept. 20—(AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies are over the million mark for paid home admissions today for the first time in history. The paid attendance of 40,007 yesterday, a new Shibe Park record gave the Phils a total of 1,023,460 paid home admissions for the season.

The Phils also:

1. Smashed all single game attendance records here.
2. Smashed all doubleheader attendance records there.
3. Gave the city its first season of a million paid admissions in either the National or American Leagues.
4. Turned away a crowd, estimated by police, at more than 20,000.

The millionth fan to pass through the turnstiles—Chappie Lewis—received a brand new automobile.

"Unknowns" Take Lead In Tourney

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 20—(AP)—The tight little coterie of "name" professionals who for years have had a stranglehold on the pursestrings of tournament golf have reason to feel a bit uneasy today. There's evidence of considerable stirring among the "small type" boys below.

Last week in a comparative newcomer to the spike-snee circuit, wee Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., nimbled the shot-making elite for his first tournament triumph.

Today, as the $10,000 Memphis open goes into the second round the golfing greats are trying to catch up with a 35-year-old former army private, O'Neal (Buckshot) White of Greenwood, Miss., who hasn't won a penny this year.

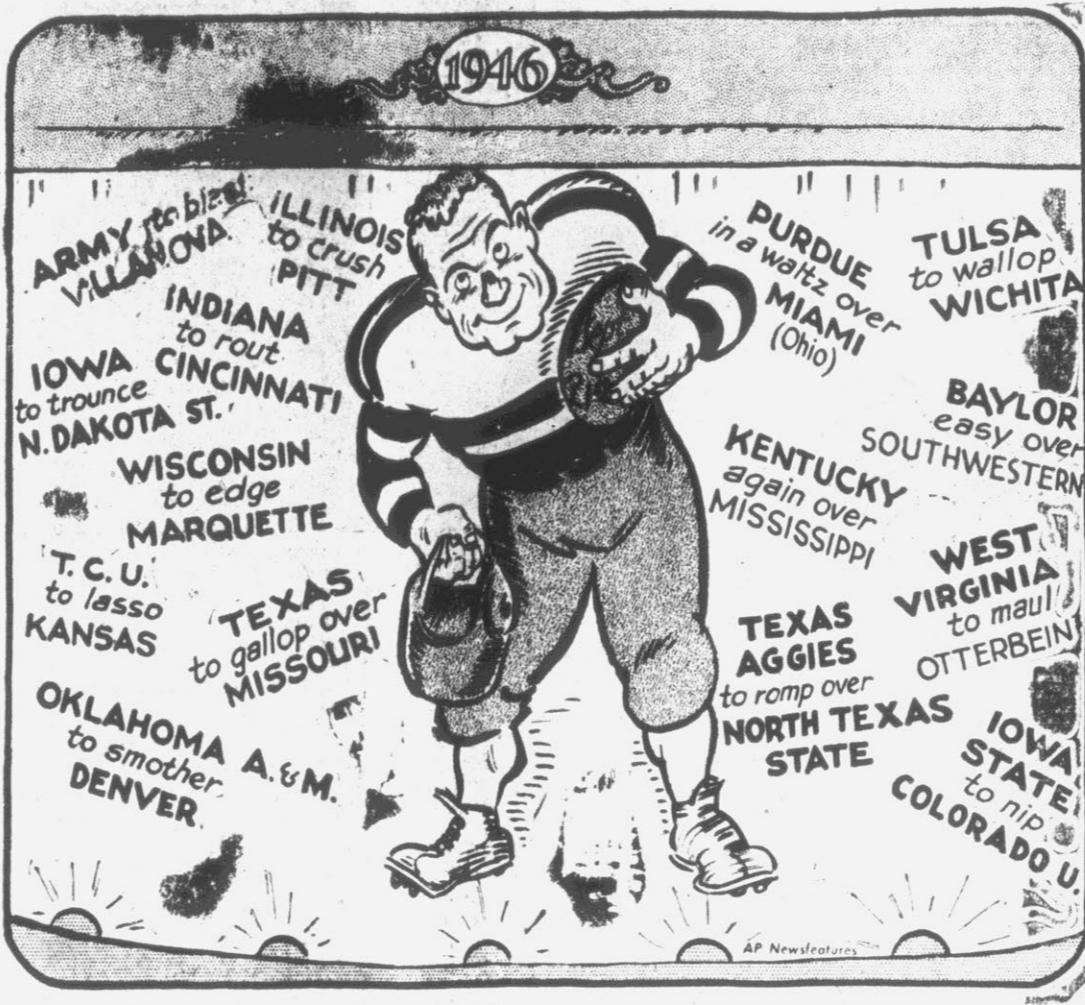

White blazed around the 6,516-yard Chickawaw course yesterday in 65 strokes, seven under par to step off to a three-shot opening round lead.

Last year's winner, Freddie Haas Jr., of New Orleans, came in with a 70 which placed him in a tie with Sammy Sneed of Hot Springs, West Va., the British open champion; big Vic Ghezzi of Knoxville, Tenn., and George Payton of Hampton, Va.

Curtain Going Up

Crystal Gazing, Or, Calling Saturday's Scores

Chicago — (AP) — Well, it's time to stick out our neck, climb out on a limb, gaze into a crystal ball, spin the wheel and do other daffy things football prognosticators are supposed to do.

Here we go, giving you Saturday's scores today (any similarity between them and the actual scores is purely coincidental):

Illinois 27, Pittsburgh 6—it says here that Perry Moss, that freshman passing wizard at Tulsa in 1944, will be unwinding for the Illini. Claude "Buddy" Young will be running wild. Julie Rykovich also will be kept busy—that rock-ribbed Illinois line—virtually the same one Purdue's unbeaten 1943 powerhouse had as service trainees—should stop anything the panthers have.

Indiana 33, Cincinnati 6—the Bearcats have a speedy team and should provide Coach Bo McMillin a good chance to try out his second and third stringers under fire after such Indiana varsity men as full-back Pete Pihos (who is expected to be rid of a strep throat in time to play) and Bob Cowan, a south-paw passer, Ben Raimondi, passing champion of the big nine last year and others combine to rush over five or six touchdowns and salt the game away.

Purdue 20, Miami of Ohio 7—Coach Sid Gillman's Ohioans have only three games in the past two years, and this season they boast speed and a good line anchored by a pair of husky senior tackles, Mark Lecompte and Lee Les.

Wisconsin 21, Marquette 6—it will be the 22nd game between the two state rivals since 1903 during that span, the Badgers have won 17 and lost 5, taking the first seven contests played by margins of from 9-6 to 85-0. Last year Wisconsin won 40-13.

Iowa 39, North Dakota State 13—the spirit of the Hawkeyes in practice this fall has been lauded by Assistant Coach Frank Carideo as the best he has even seen in a college team.

Army over Villanova: A year ago the Cadets, with Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis playing only 14 minutes each, mastered the Philadelphia varsity by a 54 to 0 score. Villanova has improved and it's doubtful that Army could—so the score should be closer this time but the same team should win. Army.

Alabama over Furman: the firm of Gilmer, Mancha and Cook will find Furman no more difficult than Joe Louis found Tami Mauriello. Alabama.

Mexico City and Rio de Janeiro are the same distance from New York City.

South: Richmond over Randolph-Macon; Milligan over Emory and Henry; Clemson over Presbyterian; Virginia Military over Catawba.

Offer Mauriello Bouts In England

London, Sept. 20—(AP)—Promoter Jack Solomons hopes to get Tami Mauriello here this fall for fights with both Freddie Mills and Bruce Woodcock. Solomons, following a telephone talk with a representative of New York Promoter Mike Jacobs, said he wants Mauriello to meet Mills, British light heavyweight champion, Oct. 22 in London and fight Woodcock in November.

By having Woodcock fight Mauriello Solomons apparently is pointing for an eventual meeting of the British champion and Joe Louis. Mauriello knocked out Woodcock in New York last May.

(In New York, Jacobs rejected any idea that Louis might go to London to fight Woodcock. "If Woodcock wants to fight Louis," said Jacobs, "he can do it here but first he'll have to go out and get himself some victories.")

Mexico City and Rio de Janeiro are the same distance from New York City.

PROBLEMS DIFFER WITH THE AGES

If you have walked along a road and later traversed that same road in a conveyance of any kind, you have no doubt noticed how different the landscape appears at the two levels. A scene viewed from the top window of a house is very different from that same scene viewed from the lawn below. This becomes increasingly apparent when one is in an airplane.

It takes humanity centuries to get over a wrong idea. We look back and wonder how men could ever have fought over the Christian religion of peace and gentleness as they did in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. St. Paul, centuries before that, had to throw his whole life into the project of getting Jewish Christians to see that the Gentiles were also included in God's plan of salvation. What appeared tremendous problems a hundred or a thousand years ago now appear to us no problems at all. But let us not get puffed up and think that our modern view is from the airplane. It is probably from the second story of a rather modest dwelling. We can be sure that we are making mistakes today as egregious as any of our forebears have made, and our descendants will exclaim over our stupidity as we exclaim over the stupidity of our ancestors.

We shall no doubt get ourselves laughed at plenty about our attitude toward war by our descendants living several hundred years hence.

WASHINGTON LETTER

ARMY SHOES FOR EUROPE

By JANE EADS
Washington — About 2,000,000 pairs of worn, unmade shoes, many of which had been in combat, were purchased from the U. S. Army here and now cover the feet of the impoverished of Greece, Yugoslavia, Poland and Italy.

The shoes were taken to Europe the way they were. They filled two freight cars. There were 80,000 cubic feet of shoes.

When the shoes reached their destination, projects to sort, size and repair them were set up by John E. Lynch, a technical specialist for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

It was thought it would be better to have the job done over there where there was much unemployment, than to have it done here where at the time there was a manpower shortage.

At one time 12,000 to 15,000 shoes were being turned out daily. Most of the shoes had between 15 and 20 months' wear.

The biggest job was in sizing the shoes, finding mates, seeing that the two shoes in a pair would both wear the same length of time and so forth.

Only about 35 percent of the shoes needed repair. Those beyond recovery were pulled apart and the materials were used in fixing up others. There was practically no waste.

Farmers, miners, railroad workers and truck drivers have been among the first to receive the shoes. The first 6,000 pairs issued in Rome went to miners in Sardinia who were working with bare and bleeding feet.

Some of the shoes were worn by women whose feet were broader than usual. But mostly the shoes given to women and children have come from clothing collections and purchases.

Lynch was a technical supervisor for reclamation in the U. S. Army Quartermaster General's Office in both world wars. In peacetime he has had his own sole leather business. He bought and cut sole leather for the shoe industry. He has returned from his job abroad and plans to go back to his own business.

Me says one of the most interesting phases of the story of the reclaimed shoes was the work project. About 200 men and women were employed in all four countries. The mending and sizing was done

But Europe is no longer the Europe of which the federalists were thinking before World War II. Down through Europe today there is a line, separating the Slavs and certain other key groups, from the Westerners. For the moment the practical prospects of federation seem more imminent on the East rather than the West, of the Stalin-Trieste line.

Thursday or Friday—the newsmen gather in the big reception lobby outside the oval room and then file past the Secret Service guards, and showing their passes with photographs attached.

When they're all in, the doors are closed by guards who let no one go out until the conference is over.

The president—unless he gives special permission—cannot be quoted directly on anything he said. This is a White House rule.

Mr. Truman, who has a habit of answering very fast when he answers, may get into more jams, although the Wallace episode was a good lesson.

Mr. Truman succeeding Mr. Roosevelt, carried on the same method of face-to-face, rapid fire question and answer conference. But there was a difference.

Mr. Truman at the beginning appeared anxious to answer all questions shot at him, yes or no. This is pretty delicate business for any president to try.

After a while he began to change his method a bit, parrying some questions, declining to answer others, but still answering a great many.

But no president can possibly have, at his fingertips, answers to all the questions likely to be thrown at him by the hundred or more newsmen who crowd around his desk.

Many of them come prepared to ask him a question about one problem only. Since many come so prepared, there is a great variety in the number of questions asked.

Not just any newsmen can get into the conferences. Those who do get in are mostly top men selected by their news or radio organizations. Before they get cars admitting them, they are checked by Secret Service.

Churchill Speech . . .

and a joint armed force for defense like the original ideas of the Federal Government in the United States.

Although in times past the dream had envisaged a unified Europe from the Urals to the Atlantic and there were still those who did not foresee the entity into which Russia would develop, the federation was generally considered principally for the idea west of a rough line from the Baltic to the mouth of the Danube.

The first step of course, would have been establishment of something like free trade among the participating states. The Russian state monopoly of foreign trade could hardly have fitted into this anyway.

Europeans, of course, recognize the benefits which accrue to our United States because she encompasses both the industrial and agricultural areas of a continent. Industrial Europe, excluding developing Russia, may be said roughly to be composed of Scandinavia, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Northern Italy and the countries which look to the Atlantic. In them even their agricultural systems tend toward industrialization. Outside of them lies the breadbasket—insufficient but subject to development the measures taken by pro-Slav elements to obstruct the allied military administration and to intimidate the local population, thus indicating the provocative attitude of those elements.

4. The charge—that on August 9 a "major despot, the political commissar of a Yugoslav detachment in zone A, together with another Yugoslav detachment in Zone A, together with another Yugoslav officer and soldier, was assaulted by allied military police, and was not protected from further assaults by Fascist mobs."

The reply—in view of the gross provocation offered by major despot and his companions, both in deliberately and unnecessarily interfering in an area of disturbance and more particularly in threatening the police and the crowd with a hand grenade, and in resisting all attempts by the police to conduct them to safety, the U. S. government cannot admit that any blame whatever attaches to the members of the civil police concerned. Moreover, major despot acknowledged that the allied military police concerned were endeavoring to bring him to safety and that on no occasion was he struck by them."

His long voyage came to an end Tuesday when he arrived in New York aboard the S. S. Marine Marlin—with an American-born German boy in tow.

SMOKED BIRD

Miami, Fla., Sept. 20—(AP)—Mrs. E. M. Connell called police to trap a snake which she said had slid down the chimney at her home. When Patrolmen Marvin Mann and Charles Johnson arrived, they heard a noise in the stove. Mrs. Connell turned the damper to shut off the snake's escape. Mann armed himself with a hoe. Johnson grabbed a stout stick.
They opened the stove door, tossed in a burning paper to smoke the snake out.
Out stalked an indignant and slightly sooty red bird.

SOVIET PURGE OF OFFICIALS

Violations In Collective Farming System Uncovered

Moscow, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Soviet Russia decreed today a "liquidation of violations" in the collective farm system, the backbone of this country's agricultural economy, with prosecution of various officials for theft and other crimes.

Prime Minister Stalin and Col. Gen. A. A. Zhdanov, secretary of the Communist Party Central Committee, signed the decree, the latest in a series of measures affecting Russia's postwar affairs.

On June 26 officials disclosed the autonomous republics of the Crimea and Chechen-Ingush had been reduced to the status of provinces and many of their inhabitants resettled in other parts of Russia for wartime teachers. Action has been taken against local party leaders in the Ukraine accused of attempting to revive "bourgeois-nationalist conceptions" and against composers, writers and editors who incurred the Kremlin's displeasure. The release of Maxim M. Litvinoff, former ambassador to the United States, as a deputy foreign minister Aug. 24 also aroused speculation abroad.

The decree cited incorrect payment for workdays to collective farmers, misappropriation of public lands for personal use, which it said had reached "mass proportions," the filing of collective farmers' property, and undemocratic administration of the farms.

Community party, Soviet Government and agricultural officials were declared to be among the violators of the collective farms and agricultural agreements to be called to account in court. The decree said they were "law violators and enemies of the collective system."

"The abuses and violations are deeply harmful to the collective farm cause and to the entire socialist construction of our country," it said.

Unknown Stranger Unable Tell Name

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyon has a white man in jail who does not know his own name, can hear, but cannot talk or write. The sheriff is anxious to establish the unfortunate man's identity. There is no charge against him. He is about 30 years old, weighs 165 pounds, is 5 feet, nine inches tall and of muscular build. He has black shaggy hair, hazel eyes and bad teeth. He has no identifying scars. He is of very low mentality, but harmless and friendly.

The authorities believe the man had been working in green tobacco and wandered away from a truck in Farmville. Officers picked him up about a month ago, when he was wandering about near Farmville. Any person with knowledge of the mysterious stranger's identity is requested to communicate with Sheriff Tyon or Jailer W. G. Leggett at the county jail.

Library News

The Sheppard Memorial Library is sprucing itself up in a coat of two of fresh paint. Whether blue or green or some of both, the expressed opinion of each one as he looks in astonishment at all the extra fixings, is that "it is beautiful." Very soon it will be finished and no longer place can be found for reading, resourceful study, and an up-to-date supply of excellent books. The Sheppard Memorial Library is a source of great pride to the whole town and county. Its chief objective is to serve them both well with the best in books. And one wonders just how well it is serving this community and in what ways it can improve and expand its service.

The Sheppard Memorial Library serves as headquarters of the Pitt county library system. Not only are all the citizens of the county free to use it but it is striving to bring books within easy reach of all the citizens of the county. Regular visits are made to the other public libraries in the county and collections of books are carried to supplement the local collections. The towns of Ayden, Bethel, Farmville, Fountain, and Winterville maintain libraries which benefit from the exchange of books. In addition collections are kept in other community centers where there is no established public library. These are looked after by public spirited volunteers there.

These units are called deposit stations and are at present located in Arthur, Fackets, Grimeland, Grifton, Falkland, and Simpson. The George Washington Carver Library in Greenville is also a part of the county system. Its services are available to the negro population of both city and county. Organized in February, 1940, it is rapidly building up its book collection and becoming a real value to the group it serves.

There are 4400 registered borrowers who visit the central library fairly regularly. They take out approximately a hundred and fifty books each day and these books are read by one or more persons during the two weeks loan period.

For the most part the books are returned promptly when they are due or before they are due. What a pleasure it is to serve a public who are prompt in their responsibilities! A small per cent of borrowers fail to do this. They are careless; they misplace the books or just over-look the books and dates due. This causes untold work in keeping the records straight and takes up a lot of time which the librarians should devote to means of bettering their services. The group who is keeping these books out long over-due is blocking their circulation and depriving many readers of the opportunity of reading them.

Let's get all over-due books in. Let's get all fines checked off; let's start new records with every borrower a clean sheet. The fresh, clean and beautiful Sheppard Memorial Library is yours to use to the fullest. He (Pliny the Elder) used to say that "no book was so bad but some good might be got out of it."

Coast guard headquarters said the commander of the North Atlantic patrol asked that a helicopter be flown to Gander to aid in the rescue.

Headquarters said it was asking the Atlantic Transport Command at Fort Totten if it would supply a C-54 freight plane to carry the helicopter from the coast guard's Salem, Mass., base.

A great many of the wage increases and other items covered in the award have already been offered to the NMU. While there are many points in the award with which we disagree, nevertheless the industry pledged itself to accept by ten decision of the arbitrator."

He added he agreed with the statement of Fly in announcing his decision that the award makes it unnecessary for any strike to be continued by the national maritime union."

However, Paul Palazzi, chairman of the NMU strike committee, was quoted as saying after Fly's decision was announced that "the arbitrator's award is not a contract and until we have a signed contract the strike will continue."

Bearing directly on the reported speed-up decision is the breakdown in negotiations between Russian and MacArthur representatives earlier this year over the estimated 800,000 Japanese troops held by Soviet forces.

Ambassador George Acheson, Jr., chief of MacArthur's diplomatic section, told newsmen several days ago that he had informed General Kuzma Derevyanko, Soviet member of the allied council, that shipping was available for repatriation of all Japanese from the Asiatic continent. Derevyanko was reported to have taken the position that he was authorized to discuss the repatriation of only Japanese civilians from North Korea, and "certain Japanese civilians from south Manchuria."

The decisions were foreseen yesterday when the commission turned down a Brazilian attempt to move the Italian-Yugoslav border eastward in Italy's favor north of Trieste.

The military commission also went down the line for another big agreement when it rejected 10 to 6, a Greek amendment to reduce the naval strength allowed Bulgaria by the foreign ministers council. There were five abstentions—Belgium, Brazil, Ethiopia, Norway and the Netherlands. Voting for the amendment were Australia, Canada, Greece, India, New Zealand and South Africa.

Wallace . . .

It was widely assumed that the president acted under a showdown demand from Byrnes, now in Paris that the president must choose between him and Wallace.

Mr. Truman's action, coupled with his blunt assertion that "no change in our foreign policy is contemplated," put an abrupt end to speculation that he might yield to Wallace's ideas to soften American policy toward Russia.

"The people of the United States," Mr. Truman said, "may disagree freely and publicly on any question, including that of foreign policy, but the government of the U. S. must stand as a unit in its relations with the rest of the world." The president said that there was a fundamental conflict between Wallace's views on foreign policy and those of the administration.

"We could not," he said, "permit this conflict to jeopardize our position in relation to other countries." By booting Wallace from the cabinet, Mr. Truman also removed the gag the former Iowa farmer had imposed on himself, which would have held through most of the fall political campaign.

Wallace now is free to speak up and to stump the country, if he chooses, in behalf of the foreign policy he advocates—one which envisions more lenient treatment of Russia.

What the political effect of his removal will be remains for future determination. Republicans already have been making much of the Wallace affair. Wallace, furthermore, has a following in what generally considered the left wing branch of the Democratic Party.

Mr. Truman's statement had been definitely in the cards since last night. Word had come from Paris of the grave concern in the American delegation over the apparent divergence of views in the cabinet over foreign policy.

Paris, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes will issue no statement either now or later on the ouster of Henry A. Wallace as secretary of commerce. An associate said tonight.

"He hasn't said anything since the whole affair started, and he is not going to say anything now," the aide said.

He's six feet, she's five-three, and they've wisely planned a living room where both of them... and all their friends... can be comfortable. That extra-long sofa for instance... stretch full-length on it, or sit beside three friends with ample elbow room. The low chairs are her idea of heaven. Paired cozily, and built so that even a tiny person can lean back blissfully. You can see it's a room that will really be lived in! Furniture by Tomlinson has the rare knack of expressing the way you live today.
