Republican Party Counters Truman 'Emergency' Speech

President Joins Political Battle With Assertion That Present Emergency Equals That Of December 7, 1941; GOP Comes Back With "Whose Fault Is It?"

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Washington, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Republicans, seizing upon President Truman's assertion that this country is in as great an emergency now as when Pearl Harbor was hit, came back today with "Whose fault is it?"

Declaring that the emergency will continue until we can get peace and production, Mr. Truman added in his first major thrust into the congressional campaign, "that's the program of the Democratic Party."

In an informal address to a group of 39 Democratic nominees for 17 states who called at the White House yesterday, the president charged the Republicans with obstructionist tactics and called for the election of a Congress in sympathy with the 1944 Democratic platform.

Carroll Reece, chairman of the Republican National Committee, responded in a statement to reporters that "if we are in as great an emergency as Mr. Truman indicates whose fault is it?"

"He and his administration have been in power with overwhelming majority in both branches of Congress," Reece added. "No leadership has been in evidence. Mr. Truman is simply in water over his head."

Mr. Truman had pointed to Reece and two other Republicans in voicing his contention of GOP "obstruction" and describing the Democratic party as the party of progress.

"I don't see how any voter who thinks at all could vote for the Reece-Taft-Crawford program," the president asserted. "It is just impossible. The difficulties with which we are faced now are due in part to the obstructionists of those gentlemen."

Besides Reece he referred to Senator Taft of Ohio, and Rep. Fred L. Crawford of Michigan, both of whom led in the successful move to revise OPA extension legislation at the last session of Congress. The modifying amendments received some Democratic support, too, and this was reflected in the comment of one of the nominees yesterday—Prince H. Preston of Georgia.

Preston told a reporter he had found pretty unanimous sentiment among the 39 Washington visitors to abolish all OPA controls except those over rents. He said he personally favored such action and definitely is against ceilings on farm products.

Several other southern candidates told a reporter that Richard R. Nancy, executive vice chairman of the National Committee, had given them advice on "talking with the press about the Truman-Wallace controversy."

Stenographer Takes Stand In WAA Probe

Tells Committee She Prepared Pre-Dated Authorization For Sale Of Surplus Goods; WAA Official Dictated Memo

Washington, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Ruth Campbell, a former government stenographer, told a congressional committee today that she prepared a pre-dated "authorization" for the sale of surplus war goods on orders from Superiors.

In a low voice, Mrs. Campbell testified that although she wrote the authorization memorandum in April, 1946, she was directed to date it as of December 18, 1945.

The sale involved more than 200 radio trucks, which witnesses previously said were sold through the Hallcrafters Company of Chicago at $4,500 each. An earlier price of $7,500 had been quoted.

Mrs. Campbell took the stand shortly after Edward W. Dillon, a war assets administration official, testified that under orders from a superior he had authorized an employee of the Hallcrafters firm to allocate huge supplies of government surplus property.

The authorization memorandum as presented before the committee bore no signature. It merely said that William L. Foss, Harold L. Naylor and Earl Atkinson of the War Assets Corporation and Charles Shapiro of the Hallcrafters Company verbally agreed in conference that the price for the radio trucks should be $4,500.

Mrs. Campbell said that Walton Bestwick, a surplus property disposal official, dictated this memorandum and that Foss, then head of the electronic disposal division, was in the room when it was prepared.

Foss yesterday denied before the committee any knowledge of the memorandum.

Dillon told the committee that J. Gerald Mayer, counsel for the Hallcrafters, had prepared the memorandum.

Mr. Campbell said that the committee should not be misled by the fact that the Hallcrafters firm had been in business since 1910.

He said that the firm had a long and distinguished record in the surplus property disposal business.

Mounting Greek Strife Labelled As 'Civil War'

Yugoslavia And Albania Said Aiding Rebels; British Troops Still Inactive; New Outbreaks Along Greek Border

London, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Greek and British government officials today labeled the mounting violence in northern Greece outright civil war and disclosed that stern measures were under way to crush the rebellion.

A British Foreign Office spokesman said the Greek government had given British representatives in Athens evidence indicating that leftist forces attacking the gendarmerie in the north were being armed from Yugoslavia and Albania.

He added that British troops in Greece could be called upon to act only "in a last resort," and would not be used unless the Greek government specifically requested such aid.

Greek Premier Constantinos Tsaldaris said in a Salonika speech that the disorders no longer posed a question of order but a question of war, and declared the state will emerge victorious by using all the means at its disposal and without any hesitancy in taking any measures.

New outbreaks were reported in the town of Desfotou, where the Greek Press Military said, a strong band of leftists attacked the village of Pentalofos and were repulsed in a sharp battle in which 25 attackers died.

The ministry said it confiscated a boat that the town of Desfotou captured three days ago by 2,000 leftists, was recaptured by government forces in a battle in which the leftists lost 87 killed, 178 captured and many wounded.

On the eve of King George II's return to his throne, the Greek government presented evidence to the British that the forces now being opposed by Greek troops were being armed "from the outside."

A spokesman said, pressed to identify the countries involved, the official said they were "Yugoslavia and Albania." He added, however, that no units of foreign troops were involved, so far as he knew.

"We have no reason to doubt the Greek government's evidence," he said.

He said that military measures (Continued on Page Six)

Peace Conference Plenary Session Scheduled Friday

Byrnes To Preside; Finnish Treaty On Agenda; Foreign Ministers Council's New Speed-Up Program To Be Discussed; Italian Colonial Questions Entrusted To Decision Of Four Major Powers; Ethiopia May Get Greater Part Of Eritrea

By ROBERT EUNSON
Paris, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A peace conference plenary session will be held Friday with approval of the peace treaty with Finland as the first topic on the agenda, the conference secretariat said today.

U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes will preside.

The secretariat said that though the Finnish treaty, the first of five draft texts to be completed, was assigned as the primary topic a discussion of the four-power foreign ministers council's new speedup program might occupy the greater portion of the meeting time and, in that case, a new session would be required.

There were only a few disputed portions of the Finnish treaty. Most of it was confirmation of arrangements made in Moscow in 1944, when Finland surrendered to Russia. The U. S. will not be a signer of the treaty as America never did go to war against Finland.

From the plenary session here the approved treaty would go to the next meeting of the foreign ministers council shortly before Oct. 5. It would then go to the statesmen of Finland and the belligerent allied nations for signature.

A conference observer said there was a possibility that the treaty with Finland might be signed before the meeting Oct. 23, of the United Nations general assembly which would receive it for deposit with the United Nations.

Disposal of the Italian colonies of Libya, Eritrea and Somaliland was entrusted today to the four major powers, U. S., Russia, France and Britain.

Gladyss Jebb of Great Britain, speaking for the four power foreign ministers council, assured the peace conference that it is nations which fought on the allied side in Africa would be fully consulted.

Jebb, who attended the foreign ministers meeting yesterday with British foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, told the Italian political and territorial commission that Ethiopia, Egypt and Australia would be heard. However, he reserved Britain's right to speak before the U. S. and Russia, saying "we fought alone on the desert of Libya and stopped the Afrika Korps at El Alamein."

The commission adopted the article on the Italian colonies which assigns the final decision to the four powers after hearing claims from Egypt for Eritrea and Cirencaica and from Ethiopia and Eritrea and Somaliland.

The U. S. favors independence as soon as possible for most of the Italian colonies. Bevin visited U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes at the latter's hotel at noon today, presumably to clarify the positions of the two major western powers.

STEEL CITY'S POWER STRIKE BEFORE COURT

Union Leaders Face Contempt Charges Unless Strike Called Off

Pittsburgh, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A showdown neared today in an Allegheny county court room on Pittsburgh's power strike amid hints of CIO unionists of a possible general strike call in the city unless the leader of the power union is freed from jail, where he was lodged last night for contempt of court.

A three-judge court was preparing to act on its warning to city strike leaders that they also would face contempt charges unless the strike is called off.

Meanwhile, the executive board of East Pittsburgh local of the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers union asking the CIO-Steel City Industrial Council, representing 200,000 workers, to hold a meeting at which the board said it would present a resolution asking a general CIO strike if Mueller is still in jail. No time for the meeting was suggested.

The power strike, called in spite of an injunction against it, was still on this afternoon.

The nine men arrested in court an hour after the deadline but gave no indication of how they would reply to the court's order. Opening of court was delayed, indicating a three-judge bench was considering the case.

KAISER CLAIMS POSSIBLE LOSS IN OPERATIONS

Favors No-Profit System; But Says Incentive Needed In Production

Washington, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Henry J. Kaiser today told a congressional committee investigating his wartime earnings that he would favor any system Congress could develop to take all profits out of war.

It would be helpful, the West Coast shipbuilder said as he returned for a third day of questioning by the House Merchant Marine Committee, if Congress could arrange it so no one would "make a dime" out of war.

But, he added, he knows of no country that has won a war without an incentive to production.

"If you can do it by a system of soup kitchens to take care of all of us, I'll be for it," he said. "If you want to put everyone in soup kitchens so no one makes a dime, it's up to Congress to write the laws that way."

Kaiser has insisted that he made no excess profits out of his shipbuilding operations. On the other (Continued on Page Three)

PRICE FIXING SAID FINISHED

Sec. Of Agriculture Asserts Present Ceilings Adequate

Albuquerque, N. M., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson said that in general the time of price increases for farm produce under the new price control law is behind us.

The present ceilings, he said in a nationwide broadcast last night, are sufficient to stimulate production.

Anderson did not deal with plans of the meat industry to petition him for removal of price control or with the reports of farmers' holding their produce in hope of higher prices.

He expressed the view, however, that shrinkage of livestock marketings should bring praise for the farmers who have ended the run of unfattened animals that came during the price control lapse.

"It is in the interest of the American public to see markets slowed up temporarily and meat hard to find while 52,000,000 head of cattle and 50,000,000 head of hogs convert 160,000,000 tons of feed into top-grade beef and pork," he asserted.

Anderson added that the result in meat supplies might not be apparent for months.

He remarked that recent price increases on farm commodities in compliance with the law had led many to regard the present farm price policy "as a one-way street, the only direction being up."

CIO Landslide

Negro workers at the Export Leaf Tobacco Company here yesterday voted almost unanimously for the CIO as their bargaining agent. According to reports on the election 236 votes were cast in favor of the CIO, three votes were cast for the AFL and three votes were cast against unionizing.

An election is scheduled to be held in the Person-Garrett Tobacco Company tomorrow with elections in other plants scheduled for a later date.

REPEATERS ON RELIEF ROLLS

VA Concerned Over Numbers Of Vets Re-Filing Claims

Washington, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Veterans Administration expressed concern today over the increasing number of repeaters on the unemployment compensation rolls.

As of July 31, the agency disclosed, a total of 1,507,364 veterans of World War II had returned to the rolls after having once left them either to accept jobs or for other reasons.

In July alone, a study of statistics showed, 263,000 claims were filed by veterans who had been on the rolls before. This was the highest monthly count of comebacks so far and accounted for 42.9 per cent of all new claims.

With the exception of June, when there was a slight increase, the number of additional claimants, as VA calls those who have left the rolls to accept jobs or for other reasons, (Continued on Page Three)

NCEA MEETING AT HI-SCHOOL

Greenville City Teachers Hold First Meeting Of Year

Herring reports from the North Carolina Education Association conference held at Meredith College August 14, 15, 16, and appointing committees for the present school year were the main items of business Monday afternoon when the Greenville City teachers held their first N. C. E. A. meeting of the year in the high school library.

Reports of the summer conference were given by Miss Ruth Modlin and Mr. E. O. Dowd, who represented the Greenville Chapter of N. C. E. A. The study groups were concerned with the problems of protecting and promoting the physical welfare of teachers; encouraging them to become familiar with their rights of retirement, to make use of their national and state publication and informational services and to use such community facilities as the civic clubs. The group decided that the best way of recruiting teachers is to be a good teacher and to popularize the profession through personal attitudes. Another problem discussed as that of establishing closer cooperation between the public schools and the colleges.

Miss Louise Galphin, president of the local unit, appointed the following committees; membership, Mrs. Luella Stancill, chairman, Mrs. D. M. Clark, Mrs. June Tripp, Mrs. George Gardner; professional and social committee, Mrs. Lois Marshall, chairman, Mrs. Jack Gates, Jamie Lively, Deanie Hackett, Estelle Green; public relations, Elizabeth Norman, chairman; One Shindler, Agnes Fullilove, Mrs. Stancill, Mrs. Evelyn Moyer; legislative, Mrs. Margaret Farley, Christine Johnston, Alice Strawn, Mrs. Malita Batchelor, Mrs. Edna James; federal aid, Mrs. Gladys Womble, chairman, H. U. N. Votes Second Setback For Russia Within Week; Security Council To Review Report For General Assembly

By LARRY HAUCK
Lake Success, N. Y., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The United Nations Security Council today voted down Russia's demand for a far-reaching troop report—the second setback for the Soviet Union within a week—and thus clearing its calendar of all business for the first time in a month.

The ballot against admitting Dalgata Gromyko's proposal to the agenda was 7 to 2, with only Poland joining in support. The U. S., Britain, China, Australia, Mexico, the Netherlands and Brazil opposed with France and Egypt abstaining.

Mr. Gromyko had asked that the council order detailed reports within two weeks from countries having troops and bases in alien non-enemy nations.

This followed the 9 to 2 defeat last Friday of the Soviet Ukraine's charges that Greece, with the presence of British soldiers a principal factor, threatened peace in the Balkans.

The next council meeting, a secret one, was set for tomorrow morning at which time delegates will study the text of their report to the general assembly which meets October 23.

While the weary delegates looked for a respite from long sessions of the last month over new members (Continued on Page Three)

TANKER SAFE AFTER BLAST

Ship Docks In Southport; Five Dead Following Explosion

Southport, N. C., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The tanker Bennington with five dead, one missing and one seriously injured in a mysterious night explosion and fire made its way into port here at 11:45 a. m. (EST).

A terrific blast occurred on the ship at 10:38 p. m. last night as it proceeded from Sea Warren, N. J., toward Norco, La., to take on a cargo of oil. Flames quickly enveloped the front part of the ship.

Using fire hoses, the crew brought the flames under control after a hectic battle at 12:25 a. m. Crewmen expressed belief that a spark from a light switch ignited gas fumes to cause the explosion. During the fight, Capt. K. H. Eltzen of Houston, Texas, ordered the ship turned cross ways to the wind so the flames would blow toward the side.

Capt. Eltzen declined to release the names of the killed until he had reported to his line, the Keystone Tankship Corporation, Philadelphia.

The missing sailor was standing by the bow hatch and was directly above the explosion. Seamen expressed belief he had blown to bits or hurled into the ocean.

Three were killed instantly. Another died of burns at 3 a. m. and the fifth one died four hours later. One of the victims was hurled 200 feet by the blast, his body going over the bridge 45 feet above the deck and landing on the aft deck.

The explosion blew gaping holes, 15 by 30 feet, in both sides of the ship, just above the water line. Steel deck plates were split open. The ship was carrying no cargo. There were 42 in the crew.

STALIN VIEW AIDS PARLEY

Conferees Believe Statement Will Speed Treaty Work

Paris, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The general opinion prevailed in peace conference corridors today that Prime Minister Stalin's latest pronouncement on world affairs would aid materially in speeding the work of the 21-nation parley and thus enable it to meet an October 15 deadline for completing five treaties.

The foreign ministers of the big four, all of whom read the Russian leader's statements carefully before convening, adopted a speedup program last night—apparently with a minimum of difficulty and bickering—designed to get the work of the conference's commissions finished and get their recommendations before plenary sessions in time to adjourn by October 15.

As this speedup program now stands, the commissions will be urged to apply a gag rule on long-winded speakers and will be required to take a vote on every issue before they by October 5. Russian and other Soviet delegates have reacted violently heretofore to any suggestion that debate be limited, but Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov agreed to it last night.

Stalin's statements—expressing belief that there was no real danger of a new war and that the possibility of friendly cooperation between Russia and the western democracies was good—continued to be one of the principal topics of conversation among the delegates of the 21 nations.

His remarks had a powerful effect on the delegates, regardless of their "east" or "west" affiliations, since he speaks for Russia as perhaps no other leader in the world can speak for his country.

At any rate, one diplomat commented, Stalin's statement "shows there still are men who believe a solution can be reached—and Stalin's opinion should carry a lot of weight."

Atom Bomb Test Ships Quarantined Until Found "Radiologically Safe"

Washington, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Operations Crossroads today announced that about 75 atom bomb test ships "suspected of being dangerous" have been quarantined until they are made "radiologically safe."

The ships, part of the joint army-navy task force that carried 40,000 men through the Bikini tests, are berthed on the West Coast and at Pearl Harbor.

The announcement said an unexpected "radioactive residue" was found in the salt water lines and condensers of some of the returning vessels when they underwent a precautionary check.

"We have not had any casualties from radioactivity during Operation Crossroads and we most certainly are not going to take any chances now," said Capt. George M. Lyon, task force safety officer.

"This largely unforeseen result of the atom bomb burst," he added in a statement, "is another example of the great value of these tests to our country and to the armed forces."

"Without these tests much valuable information of this type might have gone undiscovered until actual casualties occurred, very possibly in some peacetime development."

Indonesians Battle Chinese In Sumatra

Batavia, Java, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A Dutch army spokesman said today that fighting between Indonesian and Chinese forces still is going on at Bangsapiapoi, Sumatra where at least 300 Chinese already have been killed.

The spokesman said the fighting broke out when the Indonesians demanded that the Chinese surrender their arms.

The Peace Conference

It Started July 29; Endless Arguments Have Brought Confusion To All Observers; Here's A General Explanation Of What's Going On Over In Paris

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The foreign ministers conference—the peace conference—the 21-nation conference—the endless arguments—the arguments that go on for weeks, months in Paris.

So the 21 nations finally met in July. Italy was the main problem—how to take away some of her territory and give it to France which thought she should have some; how to set Italy back on her economic feet, and so on.

But there were other problems that involved Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Finland, all countries that had fought on the axis side in the war.

So the conference set up commissions from among their own members to study and work out solutions to the various problems. (Continued on Page Four)

New Line By Stalin

Only Months Ago Russia's Leader Apparently Did Not Believe That Two Worlds Of Capitalism And Communism Could Exist In Peace; Change In Tactics

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

By GLENN BABB (For DeWitt MacKenzie)
Joseph Stalin last Feb. 9 told his people that capitalism breeds wars and announced inauguration of a new five-year plan to insure "our country x days against any eventuality." A few days later he called on the Red Army to "make the borders of our motherland impregnable against enemies." Abroad and at home these statements were interpreted as meaning that the Russian leader did not believe that the two worlds of capitalism and communism could exist together in peace and that he was calling on his people to gird for the inevitable conflict.

It appears that in the last seven months there has been a change in the thinking of Soviet leadership. At least it would appear that Stalin has found it desirable to modify somewhat the average Soviet citizen's picture of the non-Russian world.

For yesterday (Tuesday) in a startling statement as widely publicized in Russia as outside Stalin declared that he believed unconditionally "in the possibility of a friendly and lasting collaboration of the Soviet Union and Western Democracy despite the existence of ideological discord and in friendly competition between the two systems." "Communism in one country"—as opposed to the former Soviet thesis of world revolution—"is fully possible, especially in such a country as the Soviet Union," Stalin continued. Even with Russia advancing further toward Communism, possibilities for peaceful col-

Upperclassmen Arrive At ECTC

Students continued pouring into East Carolina Teachers College today as the freshman orientation program went into the second day. Upperclassmen have begun to arrive and Dean Annie L. Morton has announced that no room in campus dormitories is at present vacant. Freshmen registered for classes for the fall quarter this morning.

Tuesday afternoon and evening were filled with various activities designed to acquaint freshmen with college life and to provide amusement during the first days of the quarter. The Women's Athletic Association gave a recreational program in Wright auditorium Tuesday afternoon. In the evening a general assembly of new students was held at which Mary Elizabeth Wooten of Hookerton, secretary of the Student Cooperative Government Association, served as leader. College and dormitory student officers were introduced to freshmen and transfer students.

The YWCA and the YMCA, with Omelia Monroe of St. Paul, and Patsy Pridden of Elm City as chief hostesses, entertained during the evening at a nopen house, at which games and dancing were enjoyed. Dr. Lucile Charles, new member of the English department, and Sally Margaret Johnston of Wilmington gave readings as part of the evening's entertainment.

Police Chief Is Target Of Union

Thomasville, Sept. 25.—(AP)—William Bell, regional director for the CIO United Furniture Workers said today the union was ready to circulate a petition asking for a special meeting of the city council to hear charges of inefficiency which he said the union would make against Chief of Police E. R. Richardson.

Bell said the union would charge that Richardson's "inefficient direction of the police department and certain actions . . . have placed in jeopardy the lives and safety of our citizens."

He said he could obtain 1,000 signatures on the petition.

Richardson was not immediately available for comment.

The policy committee of the union met last night following a disturbance during the day in front of the strikebound plants of the Thomasville Chair Company.

Three persons were arrested during the disturbance.

Chief Richardson said the trouble yesterday started when a crowd around the main gate tried to interfere with 25 superintendents and foremen who were entering the plant.

Dig Another Grave

By DON CAMERON

Chapter 3

A grumble of thunder and a splash of rain awoke Martin to the new day.

Opening the outer door a crack, he stretched a bare arm into the hallway for his Morning Record.

He leafed through the twenty pages of the first section. Then he repeated the procedure more slowly. At length he let the paper slide to the floor, where it spread over the carpet. Not one word about Searle!

Martin was not given to the indiscriminate use of strong language but in his mind was a composite picture of two men: Searle, who had warned him, "King, you're going to get the surprise of your life," and Ennis, who had killed a story about Searle once before.

He scuttled into the Record Building, Doran saw Martin, but did not look up when Martin stood beside his desk. He spoke out of the corner of his mouth.

"Front office, Son. Ennis wants you."

"What happened to the story?"

"He killed it."

"What went wrong, Bill? Did Searle find a rich friend?"

"Ennis is going to see about settling his debts and giving him a fresh start."

The reporter stared.

"I think," Doran said, "Ennis's daughter was engaged to Searle once upon a time. I think Searle got hold of Ennis and threatened to involve the gal in some kind of scandal unless he was protected."

Martin's eyes were bitter. "What a lousy publisher I picked to work for."

Turning from the corridor into the anteroom of the publisher's office, he collided violently with a young woman on her way out. He halted, fumbling for words of apology, as she gasped and stumbled backward.

She was a pretty girl, about 22, small and shapely. Her hair was a wavy russet brown with glints of copper, falling in a short bob about a face remarkable for cinnabar lips, a faintly upturned nose and eyes of hazel.

When it came to hauteur and petulance, she had them, too.

"I should think," she said in a voice as even as a razor's edge, "you'd get yourself a dog or a cane."

He said, "With what your father pays me I couldn't make the down payment on a tin cup" and glared just as haughtily as Barbara Ennis swept past him and marched down the corridor, her spindly heels rattling.

Martin crossed to the inner sanctum. At the far side of a massive desk, set before windows that framed half of New York Harbor, George Ennis faced him.

"Ah," Ennis said. "Come in, Martin. He was a plump little man, round-faced, with oily strings of hair plastered against a polished scalp.

"Doran tells me you've killed the Searle story," Martin said.

"There are—ah—certain reasons why it would be undesirable to print it at this time."

"I know of none."

"They needn't concern you."

Martin's anger overwhelmed an unflinching instinct for diplomacy. "You can throw away our best local story in six weeks, you can shut up Clarabelle Messmer and Morrissey with cash, you can impress upon your daughter that it doesn't matter if she was indiscreet, because she has a rich father—but you can't conceal from yourself or anybody who knows the facts that you've fallen for blackmail."

Ennis was shocked. "It occurs to me, Martin, that you may be dissatisfied with the way things are run here."

"I am."

"Very well, Mr. King," Ennis stretched a pudgy hand toward the telephone. "I'll instruct Mr. Doran to release you from our payroll."

Martin drew a long breath—"I'm going to get your job," Searle had promised.

Martin said, "That's all right with me. I may starve, but I'll feel cleaner."

Back in the newsroom Doran fixed Martin with an crimsonous eye. "Why did you argue with him? Didn't anyone ever tell you he's the boss here?"

"I don't like him, Bill."

"You don't have to. I'm not in love with him, but I'm polite to him. Now I've got to beg him to let you come back."

"Don't bother. I'll get along."

Doran rubbed his chin and scowled. "What about those notes you got?"

"I'm keeping them among my souvenirs."

"A good idea. Keep 'em safe. Ennis must have forgotten them. Maybe you can come back on the job with a raise in pay."

"You mean, maybe I can blackmail the old buzzard?"

"Who said anything about blackmail? If I happened to mention that you'd kept the statements, and might peddle them to a scandal sheet like the Star, would that be blackmail? If he calls you up to apologize, it will be strictly his own idea."

Doran became absorbed in a proof sheet. "Meet me at your favorite snuff mill ten when I get through."

"The Gold Mine," Martin said. "Morrissey owes me a champagne party."

Marty went to his apartment.

His clothes were clammy and he started to take them off, emptying the pockets. When he came to the sealed envelope in which he had placed Clarabelle's and Morrissey's written promises to prosecute Searle, he put it between the leaves of the largest book on his shelves. And when he had stripped to his abbreviated underwear he stretched out on the studio couch to consider his situation.

Chairman Bland (D-Va.) announced that the hearings would end Friday afternoon to give committee members an opportunity to return home for election campaigning. It may be resumed, he said, after the November elections.

Still to testify are representatives of 15 other shipbuilding companies whose wartime activities are under scrutiny.

Going into details of his operations, Kaiser told the committee he took charge of the Rheems Construction Company yards at Providence, R. I., because the Maritime Commission "begged us to do it."

The yard subsequently was operated by the Walsh-Kaiser Company and Kaiser testified that the Walsh Construction Company and others besides himself and his affiliates had the controlling interest.

"It was no job that was attractive to us," he said, but the Maritime Commission "wanted to produce ships fast and cheap."

McCormack and Rep. Welch (R-Ohio), who was questioning Kaiser and his son Edgar when yesterday's six-hour session ended, said they wanted more and clearer information.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

UTILIZING THE TIDES

They were trying to raise a wreck from the bottom of the river, and the engineers had tried every device they knew, but to no avail. Huge machines, which it seemed would lift anything, had tugged ineffectually without raising the sunken vessel an inch.

It occurred to someone that perhaps the tides might be harnessed. Fasten the wreck tightly to floats and then wait to see what the rushing tide would do when it swept in with full force from the sea.

It worked. What all the devices of men were unable to cope with, the currents of the tide handled with ease. The wreck was raised from the bottom, and once being raised it could be hauled without much difficulty to the surface and to the shore.

When God's tides of encouragement, inspiration, and hope come into the human soul, things are accomplished which up to that time seemed impossible. Scouring will not make men better, nor will threats of death; neither will the kind words of a friend help much if a man is too far down. But when God himself puts something into his heart, then he rises to heights of glory.

There is something irresistible about these tides because God is behind them. Scientists today are but fingering the fringe of a universe of incalculable power.

"WAIT AND SEE"

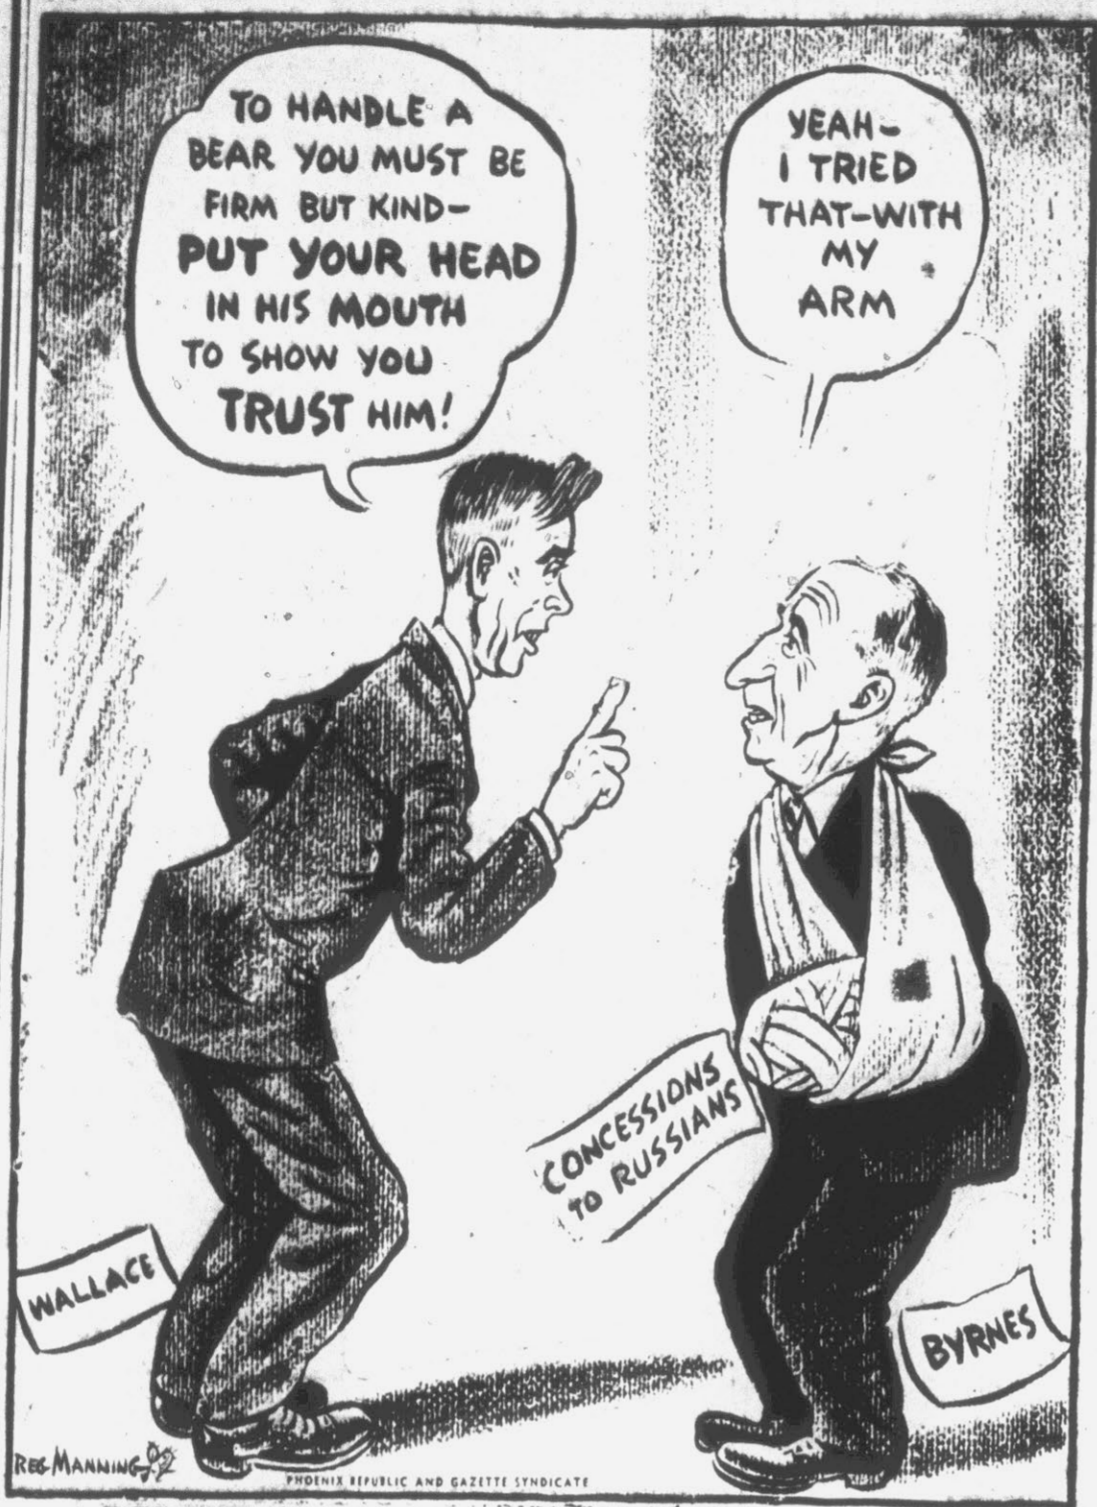

To us there seems little indication of appeasement to the rest of the world in Stalin's interview as reported yesterday. Instead, there appears to be an underlying firmness of a man who knows what he wants and will to obtain it.

In one breath, he asserts that wars cannot be won with atom bombs, and then promises that the monopolist possession by the United States will not last long anyway. The Communist leader sees no danger of war at the present time, but adds that American troops in China and that same "monopolist possession" of atom bombs is a threat to peace.

Stalin also called for a "demilitarization and demilitarization" of Germany. It looks good in print, but Russia is noted for having different interpretations of those words than the rest of the world. In fact, there's a very great difference between Democracy as Joseph Stalin sees it, and as the delegates of thirteen colonies in the eastern border of North America interpreted it when they conceived the Bill of Rights.

As far as the demilitarization of Germany goes . . . there are ugly stories coming out of Europe that German munitions factories are turning out arms for the Red Army. No concrete proof of this has been offered, but the sources which have relayed these stories are usually reliable. Furthermore, the areas in which these weapons of war are said to be manufactured, are closed to observers of England and the United States.

Taken as a whole, it's difficult to believe much that comes out of Russia. Predictions are nice things to be able to make, but they can be used as pure propaganda; too.

The "wait and see" attitude appears to be the best for observers to take at this time; after all, actions speak louder than words.

STRENGTH FOR DAY

WASHINGTON LETTER

ETHIOPIA'S MINISTER TO U. S. IS A BUSY SIGHTSEER

By JANE EADS
Washington—Ras H. Imru, Ethiopian minister to the United States is one of the capital's most ardent sightseers.

Only recently arrived from Addis Ababa, he has already visited most of the big government buildings and other places of historical or artistic interest.

Imru is related on his mother's side to Emperor Haile Selassie, the Lion of Judah.

The new minister was Governor General of the Province of Gondar before coming to the United States. During the Ethiopian war he distinguished himself by refusing to surrender to the Italians. Finally, in the last battle of the war, he was captured and taken to Italy. He was held prisoner for six years on the Islands of Ponza and Lipari and later in Calabria.

During this time his family took refuge in Palestine.

The minister has seven daughters and one son. His eldest daughter, Yenisratch, is married to the Ethiopian minister in Moscow. His son Michael, 16, is studying in England and plans to become a lawyer. Only two daughters, Ruth, 19, and Judith, 17, are with the Minister and Mrs. Imru. They are studying English.

Mrs. Imru is a pretty woman and described as devoutly religious. The family are members of the Coptic faith.

The Minister likes to write, sketch and play tennis. But his great hobby is photography, in which he became interested in Italy. At the legation he has a room fixed up where he does his own developing. He has mastered the art of color photography and is now taking up motion pictures.

In the drawing room of the legation hangs a large new picture of the Emperor and his Queen.

On the Emperor's 55th birthday it looked down on several hundred guests attending a reception in celebration of the anniversary. The throng included representatives from most of the embassies and legations, members of the cabinet, State Department and business men interested in the affairs of Ethiopia. Greenery and red and orange flowers filled the various rooms, matching the flag which hangs over the legation. The lawn, where the cocktail bar and buffet had been set up, was dotted with huge red, green and orange umbrellas and small tables decorated with flowers of the same color.

One of Ras Imru's more important diplomatic tasks at the moment is to negotiate for an American loan for his country. For the past several weeks he has been dickering with the Export-Import bank for a $5,000,000 credit. It is needed, of all things, to pay the salaries of a number of American advisers to the Ethiopian government.

New Line . . .

laboration with the outside world need not decrease "but can even increase," he declared.

With this new line of thought the Soviet premier coupled a profession of confidence that no new war is in the making and remarks calculated to ease the anxieties of his own people concerning the atomic bomb. Dispatches from Moscow report that these had a reassuring effect on the Russian public, which appears to have been more worried about the prospect of standing against a hostile encirclement than realized outside. It seems obvious that Stalin's remarks were addressed to his own people as much as to outside world.

Just what psychological objective he was driving at remains obscure. But Russians doubtless were glad to be assured that the United States' monopoly of the atomic bomb can not last long, which the Americans themselves have admitted from the first. And non-Russians may find still greater reassurance in Stalin's flat statement that "use of the atomic bomb will be prohibited." Does that mean that Moscow is ready to meet the United States and other nations halfway in the search for a covenant to outlaw the dread weapon?

The Stalin statement will be studied anxiously and intensively around the world for guidance as to the real direction of Moscow's policy. Has there been a change of heart in the Kremlin? Are its leaders abjuring the concept of a Soviet Union encircled by potential enemies living according to a system with which Communism can not compromise? Are they now ready to admit the possibility of the two great divisions of mankind living together in reasonable peace and harmony? If so, the outlook for the world turns brighter.

However, one theme outstanding in the flurry of reaction already recorded is: watch Stalin's deeds not words. His statement coincided with an American note charging Moscow with failing to fulfill its Yalta promises to give the former enemy satellites a lift toward recovery. Although Stalin reaffirmed the Potsdam agreement as the bond between Russia and America, the American position still is that many of the Potsdam pledges especially those of Democracy and fundamental liberties to the peoples of eastern Europe, remain unfulfilled.

The Peace . . .

In some cases perhaps only five or six nations would be represented on a commission, in others more. In the case of Italy 20 nations made up the commission.

All these commissions have to report back to the full session of 21 nations what they have accomplished. Then all 21 are to vote on whether to accept the commissions' findings.

The conference has not yet voted on anything. Everything so far has been in the commission stage. These commissions are supposed to finish their work by October 5.

And the full conference is expected to finish its work of approving the treaties worked out by the commissions by Oct. 15.

But even though the 21 nations in full conference vote on something, that doesn't mean it has settled anything. For this conference can't finish anything.

It can only, by its vote, recommend to the big four foreign ministers what the conference thinks they should do. It then up to the ministers to agree.

That won't happen in Paris. For the four ministers met yesterday and agreed they'd tackle some of the treaties, approved at the conference, at a foreign ministers meeting in New York early in November.

So all the talk you've heard so far doesn't mean anything is really finished. The talk helped shape what will be done.

The reason there's been so much talk at the Paris conference is that the diplomats argue every foot of the way, compromising a little here yielding a little there, standing firm here.

There'll be plenty of battle when the big four ministers meet.

Disorderly conduct and affray: Herman Stocks, $15; John D. Stocks and Mervin Lee Stocks were not guilty.

Kendall said, however, that the UCC would render "every possible help" to veterans who are conscientiously seeking jobs.

"The veteran is given a reasonable time—four to six weeks—in which he may seek the desired job," he said. "Then if he has not found it, he is referred to other work. If he refuses to accept this he is referred to us."

The UCC released figures showing that about eight per cent of nearly 340,000 veterans are drawing jobs benefits while only one per cent of the 800,000 non-veterans are receiving State Unemployment Compensation unemployment compensation.

FINE SPEECH ROTARY CLUB

Head Of Farm Life School Discusses Art Of Living

By WYATT BROWN

"Understanding comes through fellowship. Let us quicken our pace," urged E. G. Blair, principal of the Farm Life School at Vanceboro, when he addressed the Rotary Club Monday night. "The world stands on the threshold of a new day, afforded by the grace of God and with the atomic bomb making peace imperative, the Rotarians with their ideals and their international organization have an opportunity," the speaker brought out.

"We are at the threshold of a new world and face an uncertain future. By the grace of God the people of the world have another chance to learn how to get along with each other. In fact, we have to get along with each other. All men must learn the art of living together on this earth," declared Mr. Blair. He then announced that the theme of his brief address would be "Understanding Through Fellowship."

"Rotary has a role as an international organization. We must transcend national boundaries. We must promote friendship and goodwill" among nationalities. He told how at an international convention, fellowship brought goodwill between men of various races. Then with dramatic details he related the experience of seeing a Japanese and a Chinese brought to shaking hands amidst tears.

"They rose above fear and hatred. It had vanished entirely. They had met on a common platform of understanding and goodwill." The ex-entertainer which the world faces was brought out by telling of the scientist who said the world would profit more from learning how to get along with each other more than that they would by some new scientific discovery.

"The inconsistency of the United States trying to work out a world peace with a domestic problem of industry—unsettled labor difficulties—persisting for months, was brought out. Illustrating the war of nerves was the picture of news stories bearing a United States date line telling of atomic bomb plans or results. The next day news stories under a Russian date line telling of an explosive more powerful than the atomic bomb. He said it reminded him more of two boys arguing which one's father is the stronger.

"It is high time we asked ourselves how we can get along together with other peoples. Rotary has the answer with its ideals taken from the lonely Nazarene. Friendship, understanding and goodwill is the only answer to the all important question," he declared emphatically.

Citing from the record of Rotary in foreign nations he mentioned the fifty clubs with more in the works in India. There in that land with its untouchables, its Hindus and Moslems, Brahmins one finds the greatest differences among men but Rotary has worked there. Palestine with its Gentiles, Jews and Arabs would seem an impossible situation but Rotary Clubs containing some of each of the three antagonistic races are working out most successfully and have been since 1928.

"That was no miracle," he said in commenting on the Clubs in Palestine. Greed and selfishness disappear when fellowship and goodwill appear on the scene.

Relating instances of men eating cannibals rescuing and befriending the lost soldiers in the South Pacific, Mr. Blair made the point that missionaries carrying the message of Christ had preceded our military forces spreading goodwill among men.

"Peace among individuals and nations is not impossible. Fear and hate brought on World War II and destroyed millions of our most promising youth. Why not a school to teach the way of peace, the economic causes of war" when we have schools to teach warfare. "War is a costly blunder. Both sides lose."

"Why not a secretary of war in the cabinet. 'We build planes dedicated to destruction. Why not playgrounds dedicated to peace? Choose between catastrophe and civilization," he warned.

In 41 years Rotary has not had a single club to fail due to religious, political, or racial differences and yet they had clubs with every political, religious and racial difference in the membership. "That is because Rotary teaches kindness and friendship."

The atomic bomb explosions teach us there must be a change in the way of the world. Let's have Rotary lead the way! Understanding does come through fellowship. Let us quicken our pace," he challenged in conclusion.

The following Rotarians were guests: John Hackney of Wilson, Stephen Gardner, John Bragaw and Henry Harding of Washington, Roy Carter of New Bern, Nat Gooding of New Bern, Dave T. House and John D. Bunting of Bethel, other guests were: H. Brown Mayo of Chocowinity, Eugene Grimes of Wilson, James Johnson, C. W. Frizzle, D. M. Clark and D. H. Conley of Greenville, J. O. Weatherington of Vanceboro, Harold Butler and Donald Weatherington of Vanceboro.

Urcell Webb, chairman of the Program Committee, presented the program. It was announced that Lieutenant Governor of North Carolina Ballentine would be the speaker at next week's Rotary Club meeting. Ty Wagner urged the Rotarians to back Greenville's good football team this year at all games. Judson Blount, club president, presided.

GIRL SCOUTS GO FORWARD

Camp Hardee Fine Success; Gratifying Reports Made

By CHESTER WALSH

At a meeting of Greenville Girl Scout Council at headquarters in the City Hall last night a gratifying report of Camp Hardee, summer camp on Pamlico river, below Chocowinity, was made. Mrs. Katharine H. Adams, camp director said the camp experienced the most successful season of its history. The excellent camp personnel and improvements made early in the summer contributed much to the success of the worth-while venture. The health, comfort and general welfare of the girl campers was vigilantly watched over by those in charge.

The Girl Scout Commissioner Mrs. W. P. Moore, who presided over the first meeting of the fall last night, congratulated those responsible for the success of Camp Hardee, and reviewed the summer's activities.

Mrs. E. L. Henderson, acting executive secretary, made an interesting report. Girl Scout headquarters are now open daily from 9 until 5 o'clock.

The program for the local Girl Scout troops was carefully considered. Service and camping are the two main objectives to be stressed. Camping is one activity that seems to adequately satisfy the child's desire for fun and at the same time receive wholesome training that is a vital part of scouting. The Scout Council hopes to take advantage of the weekend camping possibilities at Camp Hardee. Mrs. E. L. Henderson, acting executive secretary will be available any time to assist in these projects.

Renewed interest is being manifested in the fall and winter program. All troops will meet on their regular days and the same hour and place. New Girl Scout leaders are being recruited to take the place of some who have moved away, and others who were forced to discontinue their scouting activities. Mrs. Henderson will meet with each troop which does not have a leader at present. All Girl Scouts are reminded to meet with their troops at the next regular meeting.

The last part of the wall in Wall Street, New York City, was removed in 1699.

Mayer later took the sand and said Foss "certainly was aware of this arrangement."

"I didn't think it was a good arrangement," Dillon said, but he declared he acted on instructions from William L. Foss, then head of the WAA electronics division.

"Foss was my boss and I took orders," Dillon added. He testified before the House Committee investigating surplus property disposal.

Foss, now head of a private engineering concern, testified yesterday he has no knowledge of a letter signed by Dillon transferring to Dwight E. Gustafson, an employe of the Hallicrafters company, authority to allocate the large store of electronics material at the demobilized Chicago signal depot.
