ARAB GOV'T IN PALESTINE IS ORGANIZED

"Shadow Regime" Has Exiled Grand Mufti As President Of Republic

Jerusalem, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Highly placed Arab sources said today an Arab "shadow government" for Palestine had been organized this weekend at Alexandria, the asylum of the exiled Mufti of Jerusalem.

These informants said the shadow regime would in effect have the Mufti, Haj Amin El Hussein, as "president of the republic" and his cousin, Jamal Bey Hussein, deputy chairman of the Arab executive, as "premier and secretary for foreign affairs."

Meanwhile, police reported that constables and navy personnel had discovered an attempt yesterday to dynamite British destroyers at the refueling docks at Haifa.

The Palestine government sent a note to Vaad Leumi, the Jewish National Council, deploring the "withdrawal of representatives of the Jewish community from concern with affairs affecting its well being."

The note replied to Vaad Leumi resolutions recently asking Jews to withdraw from certain government boards as a step in a "non-cooperation" campaign protesting British deportations of illegal immigrants to Cyprus.

Jamal Bey Hussein returned to Palestine from Alexandria today and immediately started conferring with Arab leaders on the "shadow government."

Informants said that plans called for enlargement of the Arab executive from the present four-member structure. They said Dr. Izzat Tannous, former secretary of the Arab higher committee, would

Danubian Rights In Romania Pact

Balkan Commission Provides Guarantees Of Freedom Of River In Romanian Treaty Over Russian Protest; Decision Must Get Approval Of Full Conference

Paris, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The peace conference's Balkan economic commission today wrote broad guarantees for freedom of Danube navigation into the peace treaty with Romania, overriding strong Russian objections, after a plea by U. S. Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg to adopt some such guarantee.

At the same time the commission inserted provisions for a Danubian conference of all riparian states, together with the U. S., Russia, Britain and France, within six months from the time the treaty takes effect, to draft definite traffic rules applicable to all traffic on Europe's greatest inland waterway.

The decision was taken by an 8 to 5 vote on east-west lines, with one abstention. It concluded one of the most controversial issues before the commission. The decision still must be ratified by the full conference and the foreign ministers' council to have any effect.

The commission was expected to write the same clause into the treaties with Hungary and Bulgaria. Yugoslav Delegate Rasovic inserted in the record that all riparian states represented here—Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and the Ukraine, had voted against the proposal. White Russia and the Soviet Union were the other two dissenters.

NAVAL FORCES TO "BACK UP" U. S. POLICIES

Forrestal Says Mediterranean Fleet An Arm Of U. S. Foreign Policy

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Secretary of the Navy Forrestal declared today that U. S. naval forces are in the Mediterranean to help carry out American foreign policy. And they will be there for some time, he said, because the cabinet officer made plain in an unusual policy statement.

Simultaneously, it was learned that when the aircraft carrier F. D. Roosevelt is withdrawn from the Mediterranean it will be temporarily replaced by another flat-top, previous emphasis on the FDR's Mediterranean cruise has been on the good will theme.

Forrestal's policy declaration was released as the American government (1) indicated full backing to Turkey in that country's resistance to Russian demands on the Dardanelles, (2) studied means to aid the present Greek government in its troubles with Russia-supported neighbors and (3) hoped unreservedly for a peace settlement with neighbors and (3) hoped unreservedly for a peace settlement with Yugoslavia over the disposition of Trieste.

CAPT. DURANT FOUND GUILTY

Sentenced To Imprisonment, Dishonorable Discharge

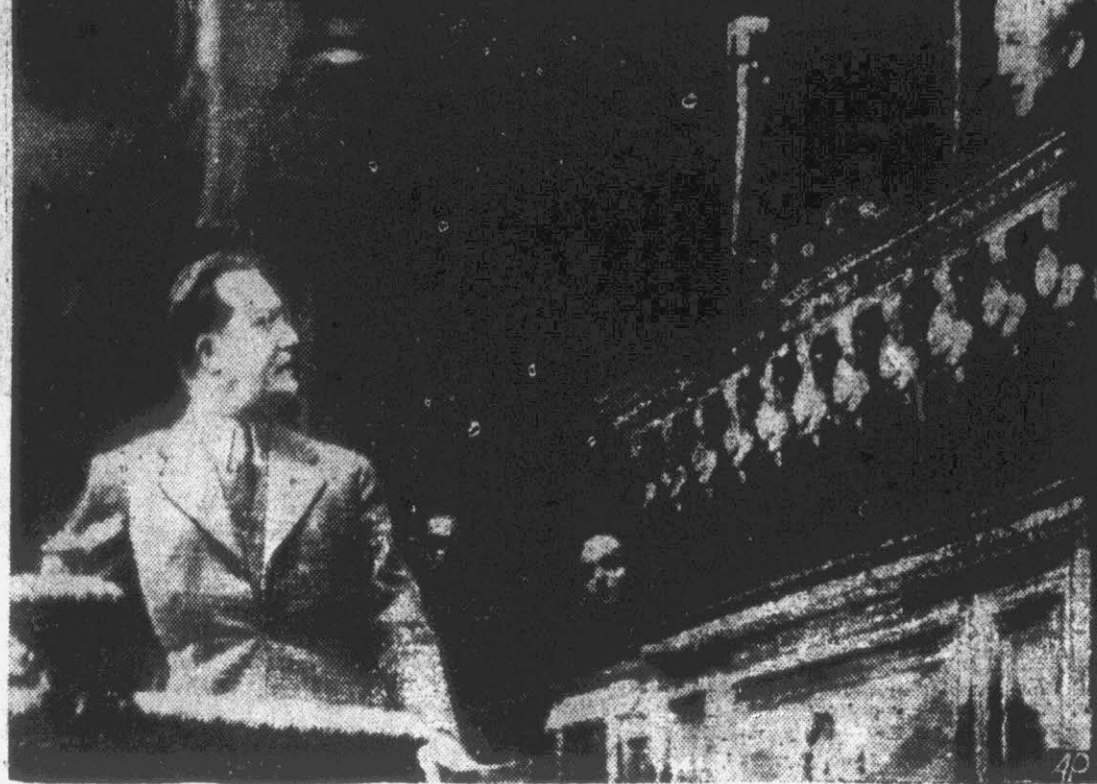

Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Former WAC Capt. Kathleen Nash Durant was convicted today by a military court of stealing $1,500,000 worth of Hesse family jewels, and was sentenced to five years imprisonment at hard labor with dishonorable discharge.

Mrs. Durant's husband, C. I. Jac Durant, and Maj. David Watson are awaiting trial on conspiracy charges in the theft of the jewels from Kronberg castle.

Mrs. Durant displayed no emotion as the nine-officer court passed its verdict of guilty on three counts of larceny, embezzlement and being absent without permission from her military post.

Mrs. Durant's attorney pleaded that she was being made the scape goat for all the loot of one of American soldiers in occupied Germany. "Thousands of others have done the same thing," said Lt. Col. John S. Dwinell of Brooklyn, N. Y., in his closing appeal for mercy.

Military Tribunal Delivers Verdicts

Nuernberg, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The international military tribunal today branded Germany's generals a disgrace to profession; held general staff and high command not criminal as units; organization members not freed from punishment.

The tribunal convicted the Leadership Corps (the Nazi leadership system, the SS elite guard), the SD (a spy department) and the Gestapo (secret police) but "declined" to rule on the general staff and high command, the Reich cabinet and the SA (brownshirts)—in effect acquitting them.

The court emphasized, however, that no individual involved in a crime regardless of the acquittal of his organization could escape punishment because of that acquittal.

The organizations found guilty represent perhaps a million people down to the Nazi block leader who terrorized his neighbors, the SS troops now behind barbed wire and the guards who performed hideous tasks at Hitler's slave camps.

Those members who knew what their organizations were doing, the court contended, were convicted automatically. Those who quit such organizations before the invasion of Poland also were acquitted.

The verdict includes Hitler's old crown shirt SA, which once had 4,000,000 members, from culpability. The tribunal held that the SA lost its significance after the purge of 1934 and became relatively unimportant.

Although it declined to hold guilty the notorious general staff, powerful in German politics since Bismarck's time, the court unleashed bitter criticism of the individual members.

U. S. Sends New Formal Protest To Yugoslavia

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The United States government, in a formal protest today, accused Yugoslavia of disregard of allied military regulations in Trieste and of spreading mischievous propaganda. In a note over the signature of Undersecretary Will Clayton, the State Department acknowledged that American military authorities in Venezia Giulia had detained six Yugoslav soldiers on Sept. 9 and said they were found carrying hand grenades concealed in their clothing contrary to regulations. The soldiers have since been released.

WAA SURPLUS PROBERS HIT BY WITNESSES

Charge "Undeserved Smear" For Services; Group Raps WAA Laxity

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Arthur Brownstein, president of Cordis, Ltd., of Newark, N. J., accused a House Committee today of heaping "undeserved smear of innuendoes" in its surplus war goods investigation.

Cordis was named by the special committee investigating surplus disposal as an agent which billed the government $4,571 for expenses in selling $14 worth of goods.

The witness said the facts are that government surplus property officials shipped his company "a lot of junk" and that the charges against the government covered actual warehousing costs.

"The publicity releases gave our company an undeserved smear," Brownstein protested. "We have actually lost money," he said. "We never charged the government for anything except direct labor and warehousing."

Another private agent for disposal of surplus, August E. Miller of North Bergen, N. J., told a similar story.

In an interim report filed over the week-end, the committee rapped the War Assets Administration for what the lawmakers called gross neglect, carelessness, administrative laxity and confusion in the sale of surplus war goods.

The report made no direct charge of fraud but said WAA practices "invited" such abuse.

Simultaneously, Rep. Wigglesworth (R-Mass.) wrote the House Merchant Marine Committee saying "exorbitant sums have been realized in respect to contracts for the purchase, charter, insurance and trade-in of vessels acquired during the war" and that some profits had run as high as 1,000 percent.

The Merchant Marine Committee has been investigating the profits of shipbuilders who operated government-owned yards during the war. Its hearings were recessed last week. (Continued on Page Four)

Soldiers Stoned By Italian Reds

Trieste, Sept. 30.—(AP)—A group of Trieste civilians identified by investigation as "pro-Yugoslav" and "Italian Communists" ambushed and stoned American soldiers here last night. It was disclosed officially today.

Pfc. Raymond L. Kane of Alhambra, Calif., was hospitalized and several other soldiers were bruised, including Pfc. Jerome G. Gurskie of Shamokin, Pa., who was the first of the group to be attacked.

NAVAL BOMBER OVER MIDWAY

"Truculent Turtle" Flying For New Non-Stop Record

Seattle, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Thirteenth naval district headquarters reported today the patrol plane Truculent Turtle had missed a passing Midway Island at 10 a. m. (EST) today on its Australia-U. S. flight. The distance was estimated as past the midway point on its planned 9,000-mile course.

Sydney, Australia, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Truculent Turtle, a new type U. S. navy patrol bomber, headed out on the Great Circle route across the Pacific Ocean today, accompanied by a baby kangaroo—intent on setting a long distance flight record.

The big P2V Neptune, which left Pearce, in western Australia, at 8:10 p. m. (5:10 a. m. EST) yesterday, was reported to have passed over Milne Bay, New Guinea, at 8:45 a. m. local time (5:45 p. m. Sunday EST) today, 2,500 miles on its way to Seattle, Washington, a distance of 9,812 miles.

From New Guinea, the twin-engine Turtle nosed out on a route passing near Bikini and Midway Island on its way to Seattle, the only announced destination. It was understood, however, that if enough fuel remained the crew intended to take the ship on to Washington, adding another 2,335 miles to their journey, for a total of 56 hours in the air and 12,146 miles.

If the trip is continued, the plane would reach Washington at about 1 p. m. Tuesday (EST). Checks maintained by radio over Australia indicated the ship was averaging about 210 miles an hour and in one radio report early today, the Turtle advised: "Everything going fine. Kangaroo riding cool."

Tarheels In Tribute To Famed Frenchman

Cleveland, N. C., Sept. 30.—(AP)—One thousand North Carolinians paid tribute to the memory of Peter Stewart Ney, believed to be the French marshal, at a memorial service commemorating the 100th anniversary of his death yesterday at nearby Third Creek Presbyterian Church.

UNKNOWN HERO New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Joseph Tasso dropped his one-year-old son, James, about 12 feet from a front window of his apartment into the arm of a passing stranger yesterday, then turned and extinguished flames that had developed his wife's clothing when cleaning fluid ignited.

The baby was returned unharmed, but when Tasso tried to express his thanks to the "baby catcher," the stranger had modestly departed.

FATAL WRECK ON HIGHWAY

One Person Killed, Four Injured When Car Overtaken Sunday

Nuernberg, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The international military tribunal today declared today that the initiation of war "is the supreme crime," and indicated strongly that 22 Nazi ring leaders it has tried on war crimes charges over the last 10 months would be convicted—as charged—of conspiring to commit that crime.

Allie Louise Harris, 22, failed to regain consciousness, and died Sunday night at 7:30 of a skull fracture in Pitt General Hospital.

Gordon Stroud, 18, of Falkland, suffered a fractured skull and hospital attaches last night regarded his condition as critical.

D. H. I. Owens, 24, of Falkland, driver of the car, received a broken back. His brother, Patrick Henry Owens, 20, owner of the car, received a broken shoulder.

Corporal John B. Laws of the State Highway Patrol, who investigated, stated that all occupants were thrown out of the car except Margaret Stokes, 16, of Falkland who received cuts and bruises. The officer stated that an inquest by Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Young has been deferred pending the outcome of the condition of the other victims.

Corporal Laws quoted occupants of the car as saying that the driver had to avoid striking a mullet, the car went partly off the pavement, and that it overturned several times when he tried to get back onto the pavement.

Funeral services for Miss Harris will be conducted from the Falkland Presbyterian Church Tuesday at 4 p. m. by the pastor, the Rev. C. A. Lawrence. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Miss Harris was born and reared in Falkland and was graduate from Belvoir High School in 1941 and May, 1946, she was graduated from St. Vincent's School of Nursing in Norfolk. She had recently been employed at Pitt General Hospital. She was a member of the Falkland Presbyterian Church in Falkland.

Surviving are her mother, Mrs. Allie Deans Harris of Falkland; two brothers, Richard S. Harris of Falkland and Petty Officer Charles L. Harris of the U.S.S. Leyte; and one sister, Lillie Irene Harris of the home.

Declare Initiation Of War "Supreme Crime"; Overwhelming Evidence Presented As To Planning Of Aggressive War; Reject Pleas That Acts Were Ordered By Hitler

Nuernberg, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The international military tribunal today declared today that the initiation of war "is the supreme crime," and indicated strongly that 22 Nazi ring leaders it has tried on war crimes charges over the last 10 months would be convicted—as charged—of conspiring to commit that crime.

The tribunal described as "quite overwhelming" the evidence adduced in the four main counts in the indictment, and while naming names in the early stages, ruled that aggressors existed to wage aggressive war, and that war crimes and crimes against humanity had been committed.

Before the reading of the judgment was an hour and a half uneventful, Hermann Goering, once the No. 2 Nazi, virtually conceded that he was on the way to the gallows by telling defense lawyers: "I did not expect that they would go through all this to kill us."

Most of the defendants appeared reconciled to the belief they would be "condemned to death."

The tribunal rejected flatly the plea of some of the defendants that their acts had been committed under orders from Adolf Hitler.

"Hitler could not make aggressive war by himself; he had to have the cooperation of German military leaders, diplomats, and business," the judgment said. "With the knowledge of his aims, they gave their cooperation and made possible the tasks by a dictator does not absolve them from their responsibility for their acts."

Hermann Goering and his 20 colleagues (Martin Bormann was tried in absentia) sat grim and silent as the court unfolded the long opinion, which is to be climaxed tomorrow by formal judgments.

Giants In Industry

Concentration Of Economic Power In Fewer And Larger Corporations Examined; War Added To The Power Of The Giants; See How Far The Trend Has Gone

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The concentration of economic power in fewer and larger corporations will be examined, starting Oct. 15, in hearings by a House subcommittee on monopoly.

The chairman—Rep. Defauver, Tennessee Democrat—says his committee wants to find out what steps are being taken, particularly by government agencies, to stop this trend.

It is a trend that has been going on more than half a century. It was increased by the war. Defauver considers it one of the gravest basic issues of our time.

One thing is certain: The bigger the big manufacturing companies are the more they affect the economic welfare of the country.

A depression among them means unemployment not only for their own workers but for workers everywhere.

A few months ago the government's smaller war plants corporation (SWPC) made a report on this subject—economic concentration among big firms—to the Senate's committee on small business problems.

The report was called "economic concentration and World War II." It did not pretend to be an up-to-the-minute study, for it pointed out:

No census of manufacturing industries has been made since 1929—before the war—so it is impossible at this time to prepare a complete picture of the concentration of economic power in the country.

Balance Of Power

American Interests In The Renewed Russian Demand On Turkey For Joint Control Of The Dardanelles; Straits Have Been Cause For War Since 1200 B.C.

Russia's renewed demand on Turkey for joint control of the Dardanelles—to the exclusion of Britain, America and other interested powers—raises another dangerous issue to threaten international relations.

There are few more delicate situations in our strife-torn world than this. It is part and parcel of England's struggle to maintain a foothold in Greece in the face of the Soviet's expanding sphere of influence. And in large degree, joint control of the eastern Mediterranean and the Middle East depends upon maintenance of his own sphere of influence in this strategic area.

What interest has Uncle Sam in that far-off spot? Well, to sum it up in general and non-explosive

Chapter 8
Martin flagged down a taxi in Seventh Avenue and rode with Barbara to a midtown garage where he rented a small sedan. He drove across the Queensboro Bridge and along the North Shore of Long Island.

"I thought," Barbara said as the miles fled past them, "the idea was to let ourselves be seen. Who will see us out here in the wilderness?"

"A lot of people," he told her. "I know a country club in Nassau County that features wine, women and song till sunrise for the favored few who can't stop playing when respectable joints close. I'm allowed in because I worked on the story of a Wall Streeter whose wife shot him when he took another woman there, and I didn't dwell on the wide-open character of the place as much as some of the other reporters did."

"Tell me you haven't got a wife."

"I haven't. I've made plenty of mistakes, but the biggest and best ones are still ahead of me."

The Sound-of-the-Sea, which was the name of the country club, was less riotous than Martin's description had led Barbara to expect, and she said so with a sigh of relief. Twenty-odd couples talked and drank at tables or danced to the strains of a midget orchestra in a wide, low-ceilinged room, painted white and hung with crimson draperies. Between dances a tall girl sang nostalgic ballads and operatic arias indiscriminately in a fair contralto. No one was unreasonably drunk, and it was possible to carry on a conversation without shouting.

A man named Brummage was the manager; he remembered Martin and was happy to meet "Miss Smith." He placed them at a table comfortably far from the orchestra, and they ordered a passable supper and danced.

It was 5 o'clock when they left the club, and 6 when they finished breakfast in a pullman lunch car in Flushing. They hardly spoke, crossing the bridge in a chill haze that rose from the East River, for the thought of Richard Searle had grown steadily larger and more ominous as they neared Manhattan.

They were headed up Third Avenue toward Barbara's home in East 79th Street when she asked, "What now? Is there anything else we should do together?"

"Yes," he said gruffly, resenting the arrival of morning. "We should forget all about each other, unless the police start asking you leading questions or something happens that forces me to mention your name. None of the people who saw us last night knows who you are. Maybe the cops will believe that I picked up a girl in a ginmill and lost her later, and don't know a thing about her except that she called herself Mary Smith. I'd still have other witnesses for my alibi."

"I appreciate your trying to let me off so lightly."

"As long as I'm convinced you were an innocent bystander, why shouldn't I?"

He brooded, hunched over the wheel, seeing only the steel pillars of the elevated filling swiftly past.

She stiffened suddenly and cried, "Look out, Martin!" He twisted the wheel and threw his weight on the brake pedal, too late to avoid the big sports convertible charging out of 65th Street through a red light. A screech of tires ended in a discordant crash as the convertible struck his left front wheel, swerved, and nosed against a mail box standard on the corner. Sitting there, stunned by the shock of the collision, he saw a young man topple slowly sideways in the other car.

"Are you all right, Barbara?" he asked anxiously, as she bent down, reaching with a trembling hand for her purse, which had fallen to the floor.

She straightened. "Yes. Just — startled. This changes our plans, doesn't it? Won't we have to make statements to the police, and all that?"

He was taking the sealed envelope containing Morrissey's and Clarabelle Messmer's letters from his pocket, thankful that he had thought of it right away. He did not want the police to find those documents if they arrested him in connection with this accident or because of what had happened to Searle. For want of a better place to hide the envelope, he lifted a corner of the carpet that covered the floor boards and slid it out of sight, while Barbara watched.

"I'll talk to the police," he said, leaning across Barbara to open the door on her side, because the one beside him was jammed. "You hurry over to Lexington Avenue and take a cab straight home, and don't say a word to anybody till I telephone you later." He gave her a gentle push. "Hurry."

She got out and hesitated, as if she had something to say; but Martin brushed past her to the roadster. When he looked up, she was across Third Avenue and walking fast.

He had not yet made up his mind whether the young man in the roadster was dead or only unconscious.

"They have been a disgrace to the honorable profession of arms," the ruling continued. "Without their military guidance, the aggressive ambitions of Hitler and his fellow Nazis would have been academic and sterile."

"Although they were not a group falling within the words of the charter, they were certainly a ruthless military caste. The voracious German militarism flourished briefly with its recent ally, National Socialism, as well as or better than it had in the generations of the past."

Evidence of criminality "against many members of the general staff and high command as individuals is clear and convincing," the verdict said, but the court was unable to find that the military as such came under the terms of the charter setting up the trials.

A similar attitude was taken toward the Hitler Jugend (youth), which was not referred to in the verdict except to show the culpability of Baldur von Schirach, who built it up.

In abolishing the cabinet, the tribunal said that in the dictatorial Hitler setup it was impotent after 1937.

The court stressed that nothing it said about the organizations absolved any individual members of liability to prosecution on their own account.

Danubian Rights . . .

The commission also adopted an article authorizing allied nations to seize Romanian property within their borders, after approving an Australian amendment exempting artistic and literary rights from confiscation.

The military commission, meanwhile, adopted the military limitations sections of the treaties with Hungary and Finland, thus virtually winding up its work. The commission has only to define the very terms "demilitarized" and "completely demilitarized" as they appear in the Italian treaty, before taking up its final report to the plenary session.

Hungary was limited to an army of 65,000 and an air force of 5,000 with 70 combat craft and 20 trainers and was forbidden to possess or construct self-propelled or guided missiles or submarines. The prohibition against atomic research written into the other treaties also was adopted.

Finland was limited to a land army of 34,000, a navy of 4,500 men and 10,000 tons and an air force of 3,000 men and 60 craft.

The War ministry in the shadow government would control such uniformed Arab youth groups as the Futuwah and Nejada, which informants said would be united soon into a single body.

Strength FOR THE DAY
 BY EARL L. DOUGLAS

A BELIEVER WITHOUT FEAR
 Chesterton once referred to Ruskin as an artist in prose and one of the most miraculous products of the extremely poetical genius of England.

This was not exaggeration. Great as he was in the field of letters, however, he was even greater in the field of character. Few men in the history of the British nation have made a deeper impression on men by their sheer goodness than did this wealthy, gifted, and generous author. He gave away practically all his fortune to further good causes. While he was considered by many a rebel as regards orthodox Christian doctrine, he was a Christian in the best sense of that term, and best of all was never afraid to stand up and be counted. "I am a Christian," he wrote on one occasion, "and I have been such these five and twenty years at least. Heaven keep me from being less as I grow older."

Regarding the Bible he wrote: "I have read this book with as much care as most men, and am thankful that, on those who trust it, I can press its pleadings. My endeavor has been uniformly to make men trust it more deeply than they do; trust it, not in their own favorite verses only, but in the sum of all; trust it, not as a fetish or a talisman, which they are to be saved by daily repetition of, but as a Captain's orders to be heard and obeyed at their peril."

He died saying: "I grow daily more sure that the grace of God rests on dutiful and kindly hearts."

WASHINGTON LETTER

WAR DEPARTMENT DIPLOMATIC ABOUT TELEPHONE TALKS

By JANE EADS
 Washington—Thieves paid a visit to the Alexandria, Va., home of Truman Arnold, one-time trust buster of the Department of Justice. They hooked a savory ham weighing more than 25 pounds.

This was the second time law-breakers had visited the home of Arnold, who is now in private law practice. The first time was only a couple of weeks before. Nineteen chickens and one turkey were stolen. The meanies halted only 100 yards away from the Arnold home, cleaned the fowl and left only the feathers.

It might have been worse, say the Arnolds. There are two bigger and better hams still hanging in the attic which the boys overlooked.

Under the heading, "Telephone Recording Devices," the War Department recently sent out a new directive.

It is the essence of politeness. It asks all officers and employees not to record any more telephone conversations coming in over the department's phones until first being sure to tip off the person at the other end of the line.

This follows on the heels of the hue and cry raised by members of Congress when it was brought out before the Mead Investigating Committee that recording devices were attached to many War Department phones.

Some of the congressmen called this business "wire tapping." Others complained that it was "mean." "Up and Atom" is the title of a movie which the National Committee on Atomic Information and other groups are showing in their campaign to present facts of the atomic age to the public.

In 1880, 15 in every 100 women of working age worked outside the home; in 1940, 26 in every 100 women of working age worked outside the home, says the Women's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor.

In 1890, 15 in every 100 workers were women. In 1940, in every 100 workers, 24 were women.

The bureau predicts that by 1950 in every 100 workers, 28 will be women.

In home interviews with women who planned to continue working in 10 war production areas in 1944 and 1945, the Women's Bureau found that most women work to support themselves and their dependents.

 The bureau estimates that 84 women out of every 100 work to support themselves or to support themselves and others; eight work to own a home, to be free from debt or to educate their children. Eight work primarily because of interest in the job.

Industrial Giants . . .

 and definitive report.
 DeFauver's committee, therefore, may obtain some current information of economic power among the giants of industry.

DeFauver, as have many others before him, fears that too much of this kind of concentrated power among the giants will threaten the existence of small business.
 Noting how the war added to the giants' power, the SWPC report said:
 "What will be the effect of this wartime concentration upon the peacetime economy? This is the heart of the problem. Will the time gains in concentration be retained or increased, or will the economy return to its pre-war state?—which, it should not be forgotten was already highly concentrated."

Then, to give an idea of the pre-war concentration in the American economy as a whole, and in manufacturing particularly, the SWPC gave this summary:

1. The 45 largest transportation corporations owned 92 per cent of all the transportation facilities of the country.
2. The 40 largest public-utility corporations owned more than 80 per cent of the public utility facilities.
3. The country's 20 largest banks held 27 per cent of the total loans and investments of all the banks.
4. The 17 largest life insurance companies accounted for over 81 1/2 per cent of all the assets of all life insurance companies.
5. The 200 largest non-financial corporations owned about 55 per cent of all the assets of all the non-financial corporations of the country.

Naval Forces . . .

 "Today," Forrestal said, "the U. S. navy is continuing to maintain forces in the eastern Atlantic and the Mediterranean Sea for the following specific reasons:
 "First to support the Allied occupation forces on the Allied military government in the discharge of their responsibilities in the occupied areas of Europe.
 "Second to protect U. S. interests and to support U. S. policies in the area."
 In the last year so official comments on the presence of American warships in the Mediterranean have been generally confined either to explaining specific foreign missions in terms of good will trips or errands of mercy, or to showing that naval operations were helping the U. S. carry out its occupation problems.

Yet the Mediterranean is one of the world's most strategic areas. There conflicting interests of the British Empire and Russian expansionists aims come into sharp focus. There, too, the U. S. itself is concerned with oil and global strategy.

Capt. Durant . . .

 Mrs. Durant had refused to testify concerning the theft and neither admitted nor denied during the trial that she took the jewels, some of which were found in the home of her sister in Hudson, Wis.
 The court, however, accepted as evidence a statement she signed upon her arrest, saying she took possession of the jewels secretly when they were found buried under a castle floor. The statement said she helped smuggle the gems to the United States.
 The prosecution opposed any leniency in her case, stating that when she joined the WAC she became subject to the same judgment as any officer.

Boy Scouts Will Hold Round-Ups

A Council wide Fall Round-Up for Troops of the East Carolina Council will be held in two locations of the Council next month. The first will be at Scotland Neck on October 4th, 5th and 6th and will be for Troops of the Edgecombe, Halifax, Roanoke, Nash, Roanoke-Chowan, and Wilson Districts.
 The second will be held at Washington on October 11th, 12th and 13th and will be for Troops of the Albemarle, Beaufort, Craven, Carteret, Contentnea, Farm-Greene, Martin, Greeneville, Rocky Mount and Onslow Districts. Each will begin at 2 p. m. on Friday and will close at 9:30 a. m. on Sunday.
 Camping will be done by Troops as Units rather than the Patrol Unit as used in Camporees and will be judged on their activities as they undertake them. Thus if the Troop cooks as Patrols they will be judged on their efficiency in doing so; if the cook as individuals they will be judged on their efficiency in this method.
 The events will include a mass capture of the flag and a Hare and Hounds game. Also Tug-of-War, Pancake Cooking, Horse-Shoe pitching, First Aid, Signaling and Scout Pace.

 week until after the November elections.
 The surplus property committee called as witnesses today officials of two firms that have been selling surpluses as agents for the government. A report put into the record indicated that one billed WAA for $4,571 in expenses while selling $14 worth of surplus goods and that the other had $14,678 in expenses against sales amounting to $120.

Charge Fraud In Kansas Primary

Kansas City, Sept. 30—(AP)—Possibility of a congressional investigation into the August primary election in the Kansas City area arose today following charges of fraud in the fourth and fifth congressional districts.
 The Kansas City Star said its reporters and investigators had uncovered voting irregularities and Ludwick Graves, city election board chairman, declared also that there is "definitely some evidence of fraud, affecting both congressional and local races."
 In Washington, Chairman Priest (D-Tenn.) of the House campaign investigating committee said after being told of the Star's report:
 "I feel sure that in view of the developments in Kansas City the committee will send an investigator there at an early date in an effort to determine whether there is any basis for investigation into the congressional race."
 The outstanding race in the primary was for the fifth district democratic congressional nomination. Enos Axtell who had the support of President Truman and the James

Balance Of Power . . .

 U. S. A. and Britain can be expected to back Turkey firmly. This doesn't mean that the Anglo-American pair or Turkey are opposed to Russia having full rights in the Dardanelles. On the contrary they have recognized that the Soviet Union should have free passage through this strategic strait. What they do object to is any Russian military expansion into the Dardanelles and any direct negotiations between Moscow and Ankara to the exclusion of other interested powers.
 In short, while Russia, Turkey and the other Black Sea states obviously have a special interest in the Dardanelles, yet this great waterway is a trust of the world at large. This global interest has existed through the ages.
 The Dardanelles has been a continual warfare for its control since 1200 B. C. when Agamemnon led his Greeks against Troy near the southern shore. Because it is narrow, the strait can be controlled by defenses along its shores—and that's why the other powers don't want to see the Soviet Union installed in fortifications there.

Financial Needs For College To Be Heard

Dr. Carolin H. Cooke, president of East Carolina Teachers College, will appear before the Advisory Budget Commission in Raleigh on Friday morning, October 4, at nine o'clock to present the financial needs of the college for the next year. With the college authorities at the hearing will be the budget committee of the Board of Trustees, the members of which are Ralph M. Garrett of Greenville, T. J. Hackney of Wilson, and Mrs. Charles M. Johnson of Raleigh. The financial needs of the college both for maintenance and for improvements in the physical plant will be presented.

POLICE WAGE WAR SPEEDERS

Police Court And Officers To Bear Down On Motorists

By CHESTER WALSH
 In Police Court this morning Hizoner Judge James William Holmes Roberts announced that the price for speeding over the streets of Greenville has gone up, and "the OPA didn't have anything to do with it."
 "There's too much speeding and other reckless driving and too little regard for public safety," Solicitor Eli Bloom added, and then the court proceeded to fine Nathan Brewington, Negro driver for the Eagle Taxi Company, $25 and costs—total, about $50 for driving 45 miles an hour along West Fifth street when the Negro school children were on their way home.
 Incidentally, the fine on minor speeding offenses went up from $15 to $20.
 Police Chief Jim Tanner said "the war is on against speeding taxicab drivers." When a taxi driver is arrested for speeding the first time he will lose his driver's license for 10 days; on the second offense he will lose his license for 60 days, and for a third offense the convicted taxi driver "will be through driving a taxicab in Greenville."
 Incidentally, the police have been ordered to bear down on traffic violators, with special attention to motorists who park improperly.
 The city ordinances require all vehicles to park with their right side to the curb and prohibit the parking of cars all night in front of residences.

Notre Dame And Texas Challenge Army's Reign

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Notre Dame and Texas stood out today as the most serious challengers of Army's two-year reign in the college football domain after a week-

step this week against Pittsburgh at South Bend. Texas followed up its 42-0 conquest of Missouri by overwhelming Colorado, 76-0. The Longhorns must face Oklahoma A. and M. on the Texas turf this week. The Aggies saw a 20-game winning streak come to an end in a 21-21 tie with Arkansas Saturday but still look powerful enough to give the Longhorns their first real test.

Army, hard pressed to beat Oklahoma 21-7, with Doc Blanchard on the bench, catches Cornell, 21-0 conqueror of Bucknell, in its third game at West Point.

Navy, which opened with a 7-0 triumph over Villanova, moved in against Columbia, which stopped Rutgers, 13-7, and Colgate invades Yale, 35-0 winner over the Mar- chant Marine Academy.

Other top games in the east this week will find Brown at Princeton, Syracuse at Dartmouth, Tufts at Harvard, Detroit at Holy Cross and Lafayette at Pennsylvania.

Michigan, which opened its quest of the big nine title by shutting out defending champion Indiana, 21-0 entertains Iowa, 16-0 victor over Purdue, in the best game of the Midwest.

Arkansas invades Texas Christian, a 19-16 winner over Baylor for a Southwest Conference tussle. Texas Tech will go to Southern Methodist and Southwestern to Rice for non-league frays.

Ohio State, tied by Missouri in one of Saturday's many surprises will go to Southern California for an inter-sectional game.

Alabama, which squeezed past Tulane, 7-6, plays at South Carolina. Tennessee, 13-9 winner over Georgia Tech, moves against Duke, which was upset by North Carolina State, 13-6.

In other Southern games, Furman will be at Auburn, Florida at Tulane, VMI at Georgia Tech, Xavier at Kentucky, Mississippi State at Louisiana State, Mississippi at Vanderbilt, North Carolina State at Clemson, Virginia at Virginia Tech, Wake Forest at Georgetown and William and Mary at the Citadel.

Davidson's "B" Team In Six Game Schedule

Davidson, Sept. 30.—Athletic Director Norman Shepard announced completion of a six game schedule today for the Davidson "B" team. Three Junior Colleges, two high schools and a service team will meet the Wildcats eleven.

Jack Sparks, coach of the Junior Varsity organization, has a squad of 64 men consisting largely of freshmen but with a sprinkling of upper classmen.

The schedule: Oct. 4, Lees McRae Jr. College, home; Oct. 11, Belmont Abbey Jr. College, home; Oct. 25, Barium Springs, home; Nov. 2, Presbyterian Jr. College, away; Nov. 9, Concord High School, away; Nov. 16, Cherry Point Marines, away.

Hogan Calls Scores, Pockets Prize Money

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 30.—(AP)—When Ben Hogan looked over the Brook Hollow Country Club course here last week the national pro champion predicted that a 284 score would win top money in the $10,000 Dallas open.

Today the page champion from Hershey, Pa., is pocketing a $2,000 first prize after shooting a 37-36-73, three over par, in yesterday's final round for a 72-hole total of 284.

In finishing ahead of approximately eighty other professionals and amateurs the former Fort Worth caddy ran his year's golfing income to $37,877.

In a fitting climax to baseball's most turbulent year, the close of the regular season today found the National League without a champion, since the Brooklyn Dodgers and the St. Louis Cardinals wound up in a dead heat for first place.

It is doubtful if ever before so many hectic episodes were crowded into one big league season. Here are just a few of the things that happened:

LEAGUE RACE ENDS IN TIE

Cards In Position To Berate Selves For Turn Of Events

St. Louis, Sept. 30.—(AP)—St. Louis and Brooklyn have backed into a situation unique in the annals of baseball—an exact first place tie for the National League pennant.

Never before in the span of the two major leagues have two teams struggled through a grueling 154-game schedule to finish in a dead heat for the big prize.

Each club had a chance to pick up all the marbles and World Series date with the Boston Red Sox of the American League by winning yesterday's final games. Each cooperated with destiny by losing.

Eddie Dyer's Cardinals probably can find the most reasons to kick themselves today, for they knew full well that the Dodgers were having a rough "afternoon with Boston. Mort Cooper before the Red Sox "blew" their finale 8 to 3 to Chicago's Johnny Schmitz, infected toe and all.

Each of the 34,124 paying customers that produced Sportsman's Park's largest crowd of the season knew all about it. The Braves had opened a 1-0 gap on Brooklyn and the Cardinals were showing the way to the Cubs, 2-1, with George (Red) Mungler coasting along in fine style.

Then came the fatal sixth in which the St. Louis pitching and fielding collapsed during a dizzy spell that yielded five Chicago runs on a double, three infield hits and a wild throw by Stan Musial. The toss by Musial, over the head of Murry Dickson who was covering first base, broke the Cards. They were through, and made only a few disconnected moves at paring Chicago's lead.

League: Robert Murphy's effort to establish a baseball union and the narrowly averted Pittsburgh Pirates player strike; resignation of six major league managers; sales of the Pittsburgh and Cleveland clubs; Bob Feller's determined bid for a strikeout record; the Boston Red Sox' first pennant in 28 years, and a record 18,000,000 attendance mark for the majors.

The Cards-Dodgers deadlock was something new in major league baseball. Never before had a regular campaign ended in such a tie, although the Chicago Cubs and New York Giants were ordered to replay a tie game to determine the championship in 1908. The Cubs won that regular season playoff and also the World Series.

The first Cards-Dodgers playoff game is to be played in St. Louis tomorrow. The two teams then will go to Brooklyn for a second game Thursday and possibly a third Friday.

This means the World Series will start next Sunday, Oct. 6 instead of next Wednesday. Meanwhile the Red Sox will pass the time playing an all-star squad in several exhibition games.

Neither the Dodgers nor the Cards had the punch necessary to put over the knockout blow yesterday. A victory for either team meant the championship, but the Brooks bowed to Mort Cooper and the Boston Braves 4-0, while the Cards were beaten by Johnny Schmitz and the Chicago Cubs 8-3.

The Cubs retained their one-game margin over the Braves in beating the Cardinals and wound up in third place.

Managers who quit during the year were Bill McKechnie of Cincinnati, Frank Frisch of Pittsburgh, Jimmy Dykes of Chicago's White Sox, Luke Sewell of the St. Louis Browns and Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees and his successor, Bill Dickey.

Bob Feller won 26 games and whiffed 343 batters to better Ruben Waddell's official strikeout record of 343 (unofficial mark is 349.)

AERO CYANAMID
The Weed Killer For Plant Beds

The 'AERO' Cyanamid method of weed control depends on warm soils. Cold, frozen ground suspends its chemical action. Treatment should, therefore, be 60 to 90 days before seeding. We have a supply on hand at the present time and would suggest that you place your order early.
