

Democrats After Hannegan's Scalp

Demands That He Be Ousted Fall On Deaf
Ears At White House; Some Changes Expected In President Truman's Official Family

By JACK BELL

Washington, Nov. 8—(AP)—Scattered Democratic demands that National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan be fired from the party helm and the cabinet reportedly find President Truman cold today toward any major changes in his official family.

While there are indications that some shifts may be made soon in his personal White House staff, the President is said to be standing behind Hannegan despite the searing Democratic defeat in Tuesday's Congressional elections.

There has been talk on Capitol Hill that for reasons of health, Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, soon may ask to be relieved of his duties. It was emphasized, however, that if any change is made, it will have nothing to do with the election results. But as a direct result of the Democratic to Republican shift in Congressional control, Senate Secretary Leslie L. Biddle is expected by some friends to transfer his activities from Capitol Hill to the White House staff after the first of the year.

The Senate elects its own secretary at the beginning of each Congress, and Biddle, an Arkansas Democrat and close friend of Mr. Truman, appears unlikely to survive a Republican drive for the office despite his personal popularity. In line for the post is Carl A. Loeffler, veteran legislative employee who began as a page boy and has served for years as secretary of the Republican minority.

Hannegan went to the hospital here yesterday for a physical check-up. Hence there was no immediate reaction from him to an assertion by Rep. Roger C. Slaughter (D-Mo.) that Mr. Truman ought to dismiss his old friend and political ally from his job as postmaster general.

Slaughter, defeated in the primary after Mr. Truman had endorsed his Democratic opponent, Enos A. Axtell, asserted in a statement at Kansas City that Hannegan was to blame for the party's defeat on Tuesday and ought to resign as national chairman and Missouri national committeeman.

Previously Ed Crump, head of the Shelby County (Tenn.) Democratic organization, had said Hannegan ought to be ousted.

While friends said Hannegan may want to be relieved of the party post at the national committee's regular meeting in January, they added that he wants to retain his cabinet job and expressed confidence Mr. Truman intends to keep him there.

Pay Amendment Still In Doubt

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 8—(AP)—The fate of the proposed constitutional amendment to authorize an expense allowance of $10 a day for legislators was very much in doubt today.

North Carolinians were closely divided in their opinions this proposal when they voted in last Tuesday's general election and today, on a basis of returns from approximately three-fourths of the state's precincts, proponents of the measure held a very slim margin.

The vote from 1460 precincts, was for 104,945; against 102,395. Many of the mountain and coastal counties had not made their returns available today.

The other amendment—for women to serve on juries—apparently carried. Returns from 1460 precincts gave this vote: for 138,551; against 93,088.

Trusteeship Problems

American Attitude Toward Pacific Islands Opening The Way For Many Future Uncertainties; Trusteeship Idea Set Forth In Charter Is Vague

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.

Many observers at the United Nations meeting in San Francisco felt the loose language used in providing a trusteeship system for colonies and occupied territories was opening the way for much future uncertainty and trouble.

Now the proposal of the United States regarding the former Japanese-held islands in the Pacific brings the organization face to face with the problem.

While subscribing to the ideological requirements of the charter about the welfare of the people and so forth, the U. S. proposal actually means complete control of the islands, even to the right to close them up as military areas as did the Japanese. Such rights may be necessary if the U. S. is to maintain positions from which to help enforce peace. Just how such a policy fits in with our attitude toward what

NEW STRIKES THREATENED

Radio Artists May Walkout; Lewis Silent On Coal Negotiations

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A strike involving some of the biggest names in radio was threatened today.

The Hollywood Chapter of the American Federation of Radio Artists unanimously authorized the National Labor Board to call a strike unless the four major radio networks agreed to new contracts.

Negotiations between the AFL union and the networks, which started in New York Oct. 1, to replace a contract which expired Oct. 31 collapsed on October 30.

George Heller, national secretary of the AFRA, said at that time that the deadlock arose over a union demand for a clause in the new pact which would require all networks to refuse to pipe in their program to any affiliated station which refused to negotiate or arbitrate issues with AFRA.

Meanwhile, in the country's major labor dispute, negotiations in the soft coal controversy were in recess over the weekend, but John L. Lewis planned to confer with his 30 district union presidents, possibly to discuss any settlement plan.

Lewis remained silent on progress in the negotiations between the government and the AFL United Mine Workers but any settlement plan would have to have approval of the 30 district officers. The UMW chief is expected to make his first appearance at the negotiations on Monday and meet with Secretary of Interior Krug, who also has been absent from the party.

Striking Trans World Airline pilots studied a new government arbitration plan for ending their 18 day old walkout following a wage dispute.

Pickets marched in front of the Philadelphia Record and the Camden (N.J.) Courier-Post for the second day following a strike by members of local 10, CIO American Newspaper Guild and employed on the two newspapers. Executive took over the strikers' jobs and the papers were published and circulated. The walkout arose over a wage dispute.

Communist Gets Shower Of Eggs

New Orleans, Nov. 8—(AP)—Police responding to a riot call last night arrested 127 persons at a meeting of the Communist party where they said eggs, tomatoes and "stink bombs" were hurled.

Captain Henry Clark, night supervisor of police, said he was told the disturbance began when a speaker said "Russia is a better country than America."

Of the 127 arrested, 121 were booked on a city charge of disturbing the peace and six were booked on a state charge of inciting riot. James E. Jackson, Negro who described himself as chairman of the Louisiana State Committee of the Community Party, said:

"I had been speaking about a half hour when I noticed a photographer approach the door at the head of a group of 25 or 30 men."

"Then someone in the audience jumped up and demanded why didn't I go back where I came from. Then all hell broke loose."

He added that he attempted to quiet the tumult by explaining that he came from Virginia, but failed because he was occupied with dodging a barrage of eggs.

Navy Studying Plan To Retrench In The Pacific

ASKS CURB ON SPECULATION

Secretary Anderson
Would Limit Trading
In Cotton Market

Washington, Nov. 8—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Anderson today recommended that speculative transactions in cotton futures be reduced sharply as a means of "correcting the recent disorderly price situation in the cotton futures market."

He proposed that the amount of cotton futures that any person may trade speculatively on one day of hold in the market should be limited to 30,000 bales in all futures combined. The proposed limits, however, would not apply to bona fide hedging transactions.

The maximum limit now is 30,000 bales in any one future. Anderson's recommendation will be laid before a formal public hearing to be held by the government's Commodity Exchange Commission here December 10.

Under the Commodity Exchange Act, the volume of speculative transactions and holdings of large traders are subject to such maximum trading limits as may be established by the commission. This group consists of the secretaries of agriculture and commerce and the attorney general.

Anderson said that with heavy trading recently in as many as six or seven futures it has been possible for individual traders to hold much larger speculative positions than was contemplated in the commission's original order setting trading limits which was issued Aug. 28, 1940.

Anderson said that order was designed to hold large traders' speculative positions to lower limits than have been found recently in some trading accounts.

Admiral Towers Says Action Being Taken In View Of Ap- proaching Period Of Economies

By DON WHITEHEAD

Honolulu, Nov. 8—(AP)—The Navy high command is studying its entire Pacific defense program, including Guam, with a view to revising plans for postwar construction along "realistic and economical lines," Adm. John H. Towers, commander of the Pacific fleet, declared today.

The admiral discussed the new dollar-saving plan in an exclusive interview.

Towers is one of a group of naval officers who believes that the Navy as well as the federal government is facing an inevitable period of retrenchment in expenditures and that the time has come to plan for the future along these lines.

Building Guam into a strong naval outpost guarding the United States from attack from the west is the immediate goal of the Pacific command.

But Towers said the program he favored would cost only a fraction of the $1,000,000,000 which some sources have estimated would be spent in the next five years to build Guam into "another Pearl Harbor."

"We are restudying the whole situation," he said, "to the end that we can revise our plans along realistic lines."

Navy chiefs in Washington have before them the proposed plan which calls for construction on Guam to be limited to peace-time needs, but with basic construction which will permit quick expansion of naval facilities in the event of an emergency.

Towers favors this plan and expects to discuss it when he visits Washington within the next few days.

The greatest needs on Guam today, Towers said, are adequate cold

a true Christian spirit of helpfulness.

During the business meeting it was reported that $12.28 was gained from the sale of tags for the building of a new chapel at the Stone-wall Jackson Training School. The members decided they would continue to help out at the blind center in any capacity they were asked, and three people were appointed to carry magazines to the hospital.

In conclusion Martha Conway read an interesting selection about the Indians whom The King's Daughters are helping.

Court Had Heart For Aged Negro

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court this morning Judge J. W. H. Roberts again essayed the role of Solomon when he convicted Robert L. Little, 16-year-old Negro youth of shoplifting at Grant's, Rose's and Williams' stores. His Honor held an informal session after court adjourned and listened intently to the boy's father, Richard Little, highly-respected 78-year-old farmer who lives near Lon Nobles farm between Greenville and Pao-tous.

Judge Roberts, Solicitor Eli Bloom and Police Chief Tanner "went into a huddle" to hear the boy's father plead his case. The venerable Negro of the "old school" said he could not farm without his son; that he had given him a fair education, clothed and provided well for him and tried to "raise him right."

The court's judgment was that the boy be given a year on the roads in two of the cases. Judge Roberts suspended the roads sentences on payment of $100 fine, and that he be placed on probation three years.

He explained to the boy that he is not to leave his father's home without him or by being sent by his father on an errand; that any time he is found in Greenville without his father's consent police are to arrest him and take him to the roads to serve his time. "Your father is a good man and has done well for you, and I'm fixing it so you will have to work for him and keep out of trouble," the judge said.

Chapter 25
Barbara Ennis was not home. She had gone out within the hour, after receiving a telephone call, saying nothing about her destination or when she would be back.

He hooked the receiver and dug in his pockets for more coins. He spun out the number of the Morning Record on the dial and got Bill Doran without difficulty and said, "Check on Barbara Ennis' right Get hold of her friends, her old man, everybody. If you can't find her, get the cops and the F. B. I. and tell them she's been kidnapped."

Doran's voice shed its customary gruff cynicism. "Good Lord, Marty; if you're sober—"

"I was snatched by a pair of gunsters who made some cracks about her. Cloud had detectives tailing me or else I wouldn't be talking to you now. If you haven't already got a story about one of the gunsters being killed, you'll be getting it any minute."

"Who?"
"They were working for Morrissey. I'm sure. Joe Lark, the Gold Mine doorman, put me on the spot. Barbara got a call about the same time I did and went out, and hasn't been seen since."

"I'll get busy right away, Marty. Where are you?"

"West Twentieth Street station. I came here with the detectives, but I'm not staying. I'm going to hunt-up Morrie and give him the beating he ordered for me."

"Marty, you fool, listen—"
Martin broke the connection and got out of the booth. Crosswinds of powerful emotion whipped through him—a gale of fear for Barbara and gusty wrath for Morrissey.

He had told Williams and Weber he would follow them upstairs to Cloud's office. Instead he went into the street and got a cab to the Gold Mine Club.

The gilded doors opened to his thrust. Lights gleamed about the bar, but there were no customers and no bartender. As Martin strode toward the gloomy back regions, however, Hemingway appeared among the ghostly tables.

"I want to see you, Marty," Hemingway said.

Martin said, "Later. I'm in a hurry."

"If you're after trouble," Hemingway told him, "you're in a good place for finding it." He moved aside and Martin brushed past him, heading for the half-open door of Morrissey's office, from which a band of yellow light shone through the gloom.

Morrissey looked up from his desk as Martin entered. If he was surprised he did not show it, although that could mean merely that the sound of Martin's voice, talking to Hemingway had prepared him. Morrissey said, "Well, Marty?"

Martin leaned over the desk, his glance probing the gambler's steady blue eyes.

"Where is Barbara Ennis?" he demanded.

Morrissey shuffled together an array of cancelled checks; he snapped a wide rubber band around them and dropped them into a drawer of the desk.

"If I wanted to find out I'd try her home," he said. "That's the best I can offer."

"It won't do, Morrie. An hour ago two of your gorillas picked me up after Joe Lark spotted me for them. They cracked about a girl before the cops killed one of them and shackled the other. Now Barbara is missing and you're on a spot."

Morrissey leaned back; he looked tired and bored.

"Sit down, Marty," Morrissey watched him speculatively. "You'll get further by being reasonable than by acting like a hunk of muscle. If you're telling the truth about somebody getting killed, it's too bad, because nobody would have hurt you unless you'd begged for it."

"That's not how they told it to me. But I didn't come here to discuss that." Martin leaned farther across the desk, his impatience mounting. "Where is she?"

"You'd like to know, wouldn't you? And I'd like to get my hands on that note. Why don't we make a deal?"

"The only way I'll deal with you is with my hands doubled."

"Give me the note and both of us will be satisfied. I'll guarantee it."

"You'll guarantee it!" Martin was sick of talk; it stuck in his throat and made a maddening noise in his ears. "I'll give you something that will satisfy both of us for a long time to come, and I'll guarantee it will make you come clena on your dirty snatch racket."

He rounded the desk in three swift steps. His left hand shot out and grasped the lapels of Morrissey's coat, his right hand drew back to strike. Blood pounded in his ears and a crimson film of rage flickered in front of his eyes.

He did not observe the simultaneous movement of Morrissey's arm toward the drawer before him. But he saw the gleam of the pistol barrel as it chopped down on his left wrist, imparting a flashing pain that turned to numbness almost instantly, and in the same split second a hand seized his right forearm and arrested the blow he would have delivered.

He became aware of Hemingway at his shoulder just as Hemingway's open hand, swung with body weight behind it, exploded against the side of his head and sent him staggering.

Bells pealed within Martin's skull as he leaned against the big old-fashioned safe in a corner, staring at the impassive Hemingway and the poker-faced Morrissey, and at the muzzle of the automatic in Morrissey's hand. A sense of outrage swelled within him, and a sense of helplessness, too.

Morrissey asked, "Who's out front, Hemingway?"

"Pete Milner."

"Let him run things for a while. Lock the door."

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. JOUGLAS

TYRANNY OF SIN

One of the most graphic of the miracles of Jesus was the healing of a man possessed of demons and the transfer of those demons from the man to a herd of swine, which, driven to terror, plunged over a cliff into the sea. One of the outstanding circumstances of the miracle is usually but slightly observed.
Jesus asked the man, "What is thy name? And he said unto him, My name is Legion; for we are many."
The word "legion," designated a unit in the Roman army, numbering five or six thousand men. George Adam Smith tells us that in the section of Palestine where this miracle occurred are to be found many tomstones marking the burial places of Roman soldiers, members of these legions of occupation. The man who was healed by Jesus was wrecked by the demons which possessed his soul could only control their multitude and their heavy weight by likening them to the cruel army of occupation—the legions of Rome which bludgeoned him out of the life of him and his beloved countrymen.

Modern man has lost an acute sense of sin. That is one reason why his religion is often ineffective. The name of sin is legion—cruel, tyrannical, full of nothing but distress and suffering.

WASHINGTON LETTER

EYE FOR AN EYE, THE NAVY RETURNS $500 BINOCLULARS
By W. JOYNE MacFARLAN
(For Jane Eads)

Washington—Uncle Sam is finding up the job of returning binoculars to the people who "rented" them to the Navy during the war.

The Navy's Bureau of Ships hopes such a program will never again be necessary. The bureau chief, Vice Admiral E. L. Cochrane, says it believes our warborn capacity to manufacture precision glasses in quantity will be preserved.

Europe, and especially Germany always heretofore led the field.
About $500 binoculars were "rented"
to the Navy during the second World War at a price of $1. Some 50,000 sets were offered, but only those which met strict standards were accepted.

More than 5,000 pairs received between 1912 and 1914 have already been reprocessed at the Naval Observatory and returned to owners.
Word has gone out to the fleet to recall remaining rented glasses to Washington as fast as possible.

Many of the glasses have not been accounted for. The Navy expects it will be unable to return perhaps 2,400 pairs. Some 400 sets were found to be beyond repair. One large shipment was lost in transit during the war. Others were lost in combat.
Some few evidently were appropriated by those entrusted with them.

President Truman has signed legislation to permit the secretary to procure surplus Navy glasses of similar quality to those whose glasses were lost.

Offerings of glasses ranged from a gold-plated set owned by Joseph Daniel, a former secretary of the Navy, to opera glasses and lorgnettes. Daniel's glasses were sent to the battleship Pennsylvania, saw service in the Pacific and have been returned.

One set of glasses from Jeremiah
A. Denton, Houston, Tex., had this message in the case: "I hereby lend these binoculars to my country, the United States of America, with the hope that they may be instrumental in blowing Germany and Japan to Hell."

They were sent to Admiral William F. (Bull) Halsey.

One letter said the owner was sending in glasses which he bought in 1918 when he was commissioned in the German army.

"I shall be happy," the letter said,
"to know it will be used in the defense of my new fatherland."

The Navy bought more than 300, 000 pairs of binoculars during the

When The Next Congress Is Seated war and began gathering up the loan glasses in 1944, but it was a slow job until late last year.

Most of the glasses are accompanied by a letter prepared by the officers who used them, telling of their service. Each set is accompanied by a certificate of appreciation signed by Admiral Cochrane.

If Mr. Truman . . .

him for president in the 1948 election. Once in the White House he'd have a better chance of staying there.

But how about the other Republicans in this country who want to be president? Would they scream if they saw the top Democrat, Mr.
Truman, handpick one Republican or president?

If that happened, their chances of ever becoming president might be pretty well ruined. Of course
Mr. Truman could call upon the top Republicans to choose one of themselves to succeed him.

Could such a group of top Republicans agree on one of themselves as president?

But even if Mr. Truman picked for himself an outstanding Republican to be secretary of state—and meaning, eventually, president—could he really get him into the job?
When the Senate in session and a president wants to appoint a secretary, he sends his nomination to the Senate for approval. The man doesn't take the job until the Senate okays him.

But when the Senate is not in session the president can appoint an interim secretary of state, which means: The man he appoints can fill the job until the Senate approves or rejects him.

If Mr. Truman wants to quit rich now, could he appoint a Republican as interim secretary of state, and then resign? And could that interim secretary, not having been approved as secretary by the Senate become president?

If so, then a president would have the power of making a president all by himself. That seems to be manpower for any one man than the founding fathers of Congress ever intended.

Truman Seeks . . .

He likely will break his silence on the election and its aftermath at a news conference early next week.

The extent to which the Republican leadership of the new Congress will be consulted is one of the problems yet to be worked out.

Monday conferences of the President and the leaders of the Democratic Congresses since 1933 have featured both the Roosevelt and Truman administration.

Trusteeship . . .

The council will take its orders from the veto-armed Security Council with regard to strategic trust-ships, and from the General Assembly on the others.

Before there can be a trusteeship council there must be regional trusteeship agreements between the "states directly concerned," so that the identity and number of trustee states can be determined.

The first snag is expected to come when Russia proposes that all members of the Big Five be considered "directly concerned." That would make each of them a party to every regional trusteeship agreement. The Americans are reported desirous of avoiding that.

Democrats . . .

Democrats in Congress, however aced changes against which they had no recourse, with the Republicans taking over both houses.

Senate Majority Leader Barkley (Ky.) reportedly is ready to step out to head the new minority party of that chamber.

But House Speaker Sam Rayburn (Tex.) has said he doesn't want to go back to the job of minority leader, which thus seems likely to fall to Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, who has been serving as majority leader.

Meanwhile, Republicans, impatient to be about their unaccustomed task of organizing the new Congress, sounded a "cease play" refrain in their plans.

In almost identical words, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, prospective Senate and House quarterbacks, said all their colleagues will get a chance to join in drafting a new legislative program.

A few Democrats spoke softly of cooperating with the opposition on any reasonable legislative program but kept the big stick of their sizeable minorities on hand for any political break that might come their way.

Nurses Organize Improve Service

A meeting was held several months ago at Pitt General Hospital for discussion of the Nurse Practice Act of N. C. Following this discussion, the undergraduate nurses' association of Greenville, N. C., was organized. Officers were elected and 30 members were enrolled. The object of this association is to provide better and more efficient nursing care.

The local association accepted an invitation to attend a meeting of the Winston-Salem Undergraduate and Practical Nurses Organization, Inc., which had been granted a charter by Secretary of State Thaddeus B. Ware, on April 25, 1945. Many sections of the state were represented at this meeting and all were invited to join as chapters of the state organization. Since Winston-Salem held the charter, her organization was Chapter I, Greenville Chapter II, Raleigh Chapter III, etc.

Each chapter has its constitution and by-laws and board of directors. Serving on the local chapter's board of directors are Dr. S. M. Crisp, Dr. J. M. Barrett and Dr. J. L. Winstead. Each member was accepted by written application and received her card of membership designating the group into which her nursing experience automatically classified her.

The first state meeting for all chapters was held in Greenville September 18, 1946. State officers were elected. The state president has issued to each member a card certifying she has been accepted as a member of the state organization. A symposium on the nursing situation was held in Durham on Sept. 12, 1946. The state president of the Undergraduate and Practical Nurses' Organization, Inc., added to the discussion by explaining the object of the state organization.

The meeting of the Nominating Committee on Oct. 23, 1946, was held in Durham to appoint the N. C. Committee of the National Association for Practical Nurse Education. The local president served as state representative for the Undergraduate and Practical Nurses' Organization. On this N. C. Committee of the national association five undergraduate nurses from different sections of the state were elected. The local association has been a great help to this community. Out of its members nine nurses are regularly employed by Pitt General Hospital, four nurses are regularly employed as office nurses by local doctors, two work in out-of-town doctors' offices, and the other members do private duty.

Says Outlook For Cotton Favorable

The favorable statistical position of cotton was called to the attention of Pitt County farmers today by J. V. Taylor, chairman Pitt County Agricultural Conservation Committee, also the 92 1-2 percent parity loans giving cotton growers an opportunity to retain title to their cotton and sell later when prices are more favorable.

The August 1 carryover of 7,500,000 bales, he said, compares with 11,200,000 bales a year ago and 13,000,000 bales in 1939. He pointed out that the U. S. Department of Agriculture's recent estimated August 1, 1947 carryover of less than 4,000,000 bales is the smallest in 17 years.

The Commodity Credit Corporation has already disposed of its large accumulated stock and all stocks now on hand have been committed for export.

It was testified that Noah Harris, Negro, swore out a warrant for Powell, who had been employed at his store, and charged him with taking his watch. The indictment was issued after Powell had gone to Norfolk, Va., to work. Local police sent word ahead and Roanoke Rapids officers met the bus and arrested Powell. He did not have the watch, they said. Powell was brought back to Greenville and tried in court this morning. It appeared to the court that the prosecuting witnesses had been "in a huddle" and did not want to prosecute. Judge Roberts found Powell not guilty. Harris paid court costs.

DEATH PENALTIES

Washington, Nov. 7—(AP)—Georgia led the nation in the execution of death penalties last year taking the lives of 19 convicted criminals. The national total was 117.

California was second with 13 executions and North Carolina third, with nine. Of the national total, 90 were for murder, 26 for rape, and one for robbery.

FLUSH OUT KIDNEYS THIS DOCTOR'S WAY

Backache, loss of the old pep, getting up nights, and headache are often caused by nothing more than improper kidney action due to excess acid in the urine. The kidneys are one of Nature's ways of removing impurities from the blood. And when these impurities back up, trouble may start. So if you have these troubles, give your kidneys and bladder a good flushing out by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. It works on the kidneys to flush them out, increasing the flow of urine to help relieve that excess acidity and ease that burning sensation when you pass water. It helps that bladder irritation that makes you get up nights. Made of 16 herbs, roots, vegetables, and minerals, Swamp-Root is absolutely non-habit forming. Millions have taken it for 3 generations—often with wonderful results. Caution: take as directed. For free trial supply, send to Dept. V, Kilmer & Co., Inc., Box 1255, Stamford, Conn. Or—get full-sized bottle of Swamp-Root today at your druggist.

GOOD NEWS! To Our Dealer Friends:

Even Though the O.P.A. has Removed the Price Ceiling on Soft Drinks -- Our Wholesale Price to the Trade, for the Present, Has Not Been Raised

You Can Still Retail Dr. Pepper

At the Same Old Price of 5¢ With the Same % of Gross Profit

All during the war, in spite of higher costs, Dr. Pepper Company has sold us syrup, and we have sold you bottled Dr. Pepper at the pre-war price. We have always resisted and will continue to resist every influence which may threaten the traditional privilege of the American people to enjoy Dr. Pepper for a nickel. Every dealer who values consumer good will should strive to preserve this American tradition.

While the ceiling on soft drinks is off, the ceiling on sugar remains. To remove the ceiling on sugar will not make available sugar that does not exist or replace sugar that is being diverted to foreign lands. Our sugar ration is still limited to 60 per cent of 1941 usage.

Since we have not and will not use inferior substitute ingredients, the shortage of Dr. Pepper will continue until sugar is plentiful again.

In these uncertain times manufacturing costs are subject to drastic change but we do not feel that the present situation justifies increase in our wholesale price at this time.

PHANTOMS TO PLAY TONIGHT

Will Meet Roanoke Rapids Yellow Jackets At Guy Smith Stadium

A fast moving, hard hitting Green Phantom football team goes after its second straight win here tonight in Guy Smith Stadium when they do battle with the strong Roanoke Rapids Yellow Jackets at 8 o'clock.

With a none too impressive record of two wins against four losses, the Phantoms might possibly be regarded as underdogs tonight, but after last week's bang-up game against Scotland Neck, the Greenville supporters are confident that their team will emerge victorious again.

With every eligible player ready to go, with the possible exception of end Paul Stokes and wingback Lewis Evans, who are bothered with bad knees, the Greens should be at almost top strength tonight. Stokes and Evans will probably be ready for limited duty.

Rock Vinters will no doubt bring a tough club here tonight, one that will be on the rebound after losing to Raleigh's Class AA Caps 38-0 last week. The Yellow Jackets are evidently one of the best teams in the Northeastern Conference, as they beat Washington's Pam Pack by approximately the same score as did the league leading Elizabeth City team a few weeks ago.

Coach Farley, sent his team, through a short passing and kicking workout yesterday just to keep the kinks out.

Starters for tonight will probably be: Henry Turner and Billy White at ends, Jim Tanner and Shelly Beard at tackles, June Rose and Bobby Fleming at guards, Dennis Cooke at center, and Mahlon Tucker, Glenn Perkins, MacMcLawn and Jim Lee in the backfield.

Rock Vinters will no doubt bring a tough club here tonight, one that will be on the rebound after losing to Raleigh's Class AA Caps 38-0 last week. The Yellow Jackets are evidently one of the best teams in the Northeastern Conference, as they beat Washington's Pam Pack by approximately the same score as did the league leading Elizabeth City team a few weeks ago.

PIRATES WILL SEEK TROPHY

Team In Top Shape For Game At Wilson Tomorrow Night

By CHARLES BRACKEN

A lengthy scrimmage against the scrappy B team ended the workout in preparation for the coming Saturday night football game in which the ECTC Pirates will meet the ACC Bulldogs. The B team under the guidance of Howard G. Bester, new assistant coach, used plays similar to those used by ACC, and much stress was put on pass defense.

Coach Johnson announces that his team will be in top shape for this contest and that the boys are eager to decide whether or not they should have settled for a tie in the first game between the two schools.

ECTC's forward has been doing a fine job against opposing lines so far this season, and in the first game with ACC held them to a mere 71 yards rushing. The pass defense has not been quite what it should be, but with the work that has been put on it in the last two weeks it should be a much improved defense that will meet ACC Saturday night.

The return of Lee Greene, quarterback, who has been on the injured list, will aid Pete Everette in handling the "T."

Bob Miller is playing excellent defensive and offensive ball, and will be expected to turn in another fine performance Saturday night.

Long guard, who alternates playing with the B team and the Varsity, has looked surprisingly good and has been plenty of action in the last two games.

Frank Winesette, 200-pound end who turned up as the surprise end of the ECTC team, and Charles Brown are expected to give ACC's ball carriers plenty trouble when they try to skirt the ends.

McMullan, center, who has been on the injured list for some time turned in a fine performance against the Naval Apprentices, and he should see quite a bit of action against ACC.

The backfield is intact. Pittman, Fearing, Everette, Philip, Musselwhite, Williams, Bonerman and Zuras are all ready to go, and are set on showing a few heels to would-be ACC tacklers.

Southern Conference

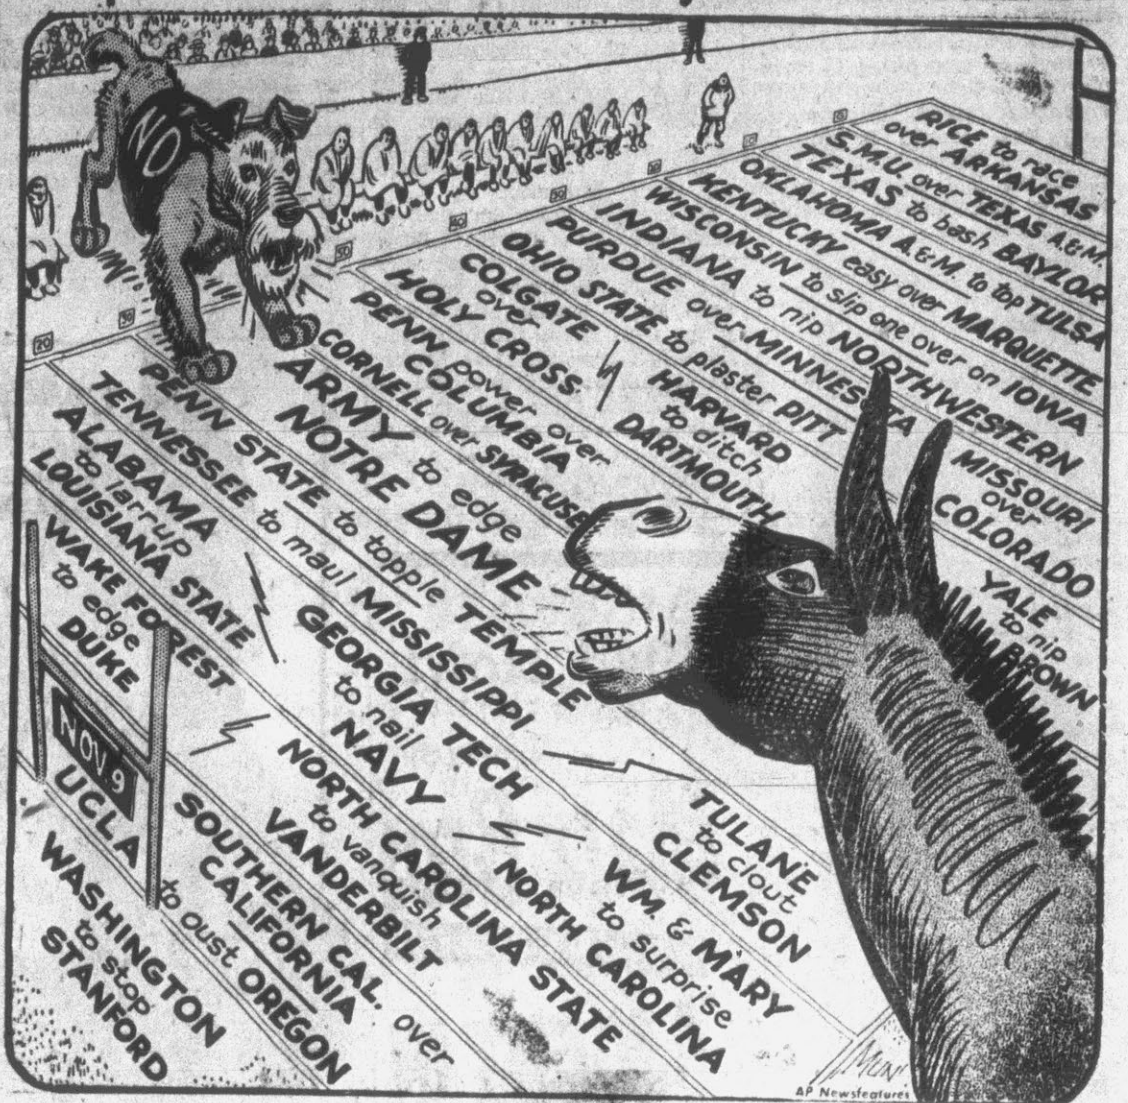

By the Associated Press

There'll be plenty of interest in this Wake Forest-Duke tussle coming up in Durham Saturday as one of the big games in the Southern Conference—if not the biggest.

Ever since the Demon Deacons ran over mighty Tennessee they've been news on any grid sheet. The fact that they took the Vols 19-6 while the Vols on the other hand gained a 12-7 victory over Duke gives those Deacons the favored spot in pre-game selections.

However, Wake Forest won't forget for some time to come the 26-19 beating handed out by Duke last year. Duke will have on hand the lad who made three of the four touchdowns tallied by the Blue Devils—George Clark, a great back who, incidentally, also led his team in '44 when it also knocked out the Deacons. It appeared today that both teams would be at top strength Saturday, unless Red Cochran, star tailback for the Baptists, fails to recover sufficiently from longtime Injuries.

Coach Bill Story of the Davidson Wildcats has been shifting his lineup considerably this week to find someone to take the tackle spot usually occupied by Ernest Stricklin. Ernest's bad knee has improved somewhat and he may be on hand to play a little against Richmond Saturday. Richmond saw Joe LaLuna, fullback, doing a lot of ground work yesterday—and nicely—taking a temporary respite from his passing specialty. He made several good gains as the Spiders prepared for their trip to Davidson.

The Carolina Tar Heels occupied themselves with a long, spirited workout and welcomed back Charlie Justice in full togs and apparently ready to go against William and Mary in Richmond Saturday. The Indians had a rough and ready scrimmage in preparation for their half of the game.

The VMI Keydets, who left yesterday for Furman's game Saturday, had a light workout scheduled prior to getting on their way after a pretty thorough drill Wednesday. Washington and Lee and Virginia Tech, who'll meet in Lynchburg Saturday, kept busy in all departments of the game.

MOVING IN INDIA

New Delhi, Nov. 7.—(AP)—At least three persons were killed and seven injured in New Delhi today in an outbreak of Hindu-Muslim rioting broken up only after police opened fire.

Getting specific, Notre Dame will win by a 28 to 22 score.

Other guesses on this weekend's games:

Southern California over California: Gordon Gray has regained his pre-war form and the Trojans of Southern California again are the toughest of old.

Rice over Arkansas: It may be that this game will settle the southwest conference race. Clyde Scott, the one-time Navy hero, is healed but if his new-found Arkansas mates win it will be a bigger upset than the recent Rice victory over Texas.

Iowa over Wisconsin: The Badgers have a weak defense, Iowa can do everything but score. Here's where they learn.

Alabama over Louisiana State: Henry Gilmer was held completely in check last week. He is too good to suffer that fate on successive Saturdays.

Pennsylvania over Columbia: In the belief that the potentially great Quaker club learned its lesson last week when Princeton triumphed.

Northwestern over Indiana: Ben Raimondi's passes will keep it close but the Wildcats will have power enough to win.

Georgia Tech over Navy: The Middles are reported as a "coming" team. They are coming head-on into their sixth defeat.

NOTRE DAME'S "SPY" KNOWS ARMY SECRETS

"We Know Their Weaknesses" Says Scout; Best Chance In Three Years

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The round man wandering around the Notre Dame campus this week and holding long hush-hush huddles with the Irish coaching staff is Jack Lavelle, who knows more about the Army than your draft board does.

Round Jack is Notre Dame's scout in charge of finding out what makes the Cadets cave the roof in on other ball clubs. In this cloak-and-dagger capacity, the chubbier "spy" who hails from New York, has sat in on every minute of every one of Army's 25 straight wins over the past three years, and he still shudders at the way "that Davis hurts you and that Blanchard murders you."

At the same time, Jack thinks the Irish have it this year, and while he agrees the Army figures to win on speed and experience, he gives his alma mammy its best chance in three years to do the trick Saturday in New York.

Actually, he predicted a 7-7 tie for a local newspaper, which of course won't get him into trouble. "Army has weakness," he tips you off. "We know what they are. What is more, we have two good lines we can throw at their one. You don't

And if you'll keep mum about it, five of the assistant coaches, off the record even will tell you they think this one can be put in the file under soft touches for Notre Dame—that the Irish will come home by 20 points.

Naturally, Jack is making no proclamations about where the Irish brain trust figures Army is weak, although all hands admit that with D, and B, A team isn't exactly in need of blood transfusions of vitamin pills, but it is pretty generally admitted that when Art Counter flunked out, the West Point tackle situation was nothing to write folks about in high glee, and that back of Army's first team, the reserves aren't going to win any bowl trips.

And from the looks of things at the Irish practice the past couple of days on Cartier Field, you get a vague idea that maybe the Notre Dame board of strategy also believes Army's defenses against forward passes are not precisely lightning cover for a bomber raid.

RETONGA FINE IN HIS CASE, SAYS PROF. RILEY

Lived On Soft Diet For Months And Suffered Terrible Distress From Acid Indigestion, Declares Educator. Regains 12 Pounds And Feels Fine Now

"Words are inadequate to express my appreciation of what Retonga has done for me," is the grateful statement of Prof. A. W. Riley, retired educator who now operates the Enside Poultry Farm at Boston, Ga. A native of Dale County, Alabama, he taught in Georgia for many years. Describing his happy experience with Retonga, Prof. Riley declared:

"I was a really miserable man for years. Acid indigestion compelled me to live on soft eggs and milk for months. Everything I ate seemed to sour almost instantly and cause terrible gas pressure in my stomach. I lost weight, felt high-strung and irritable, and was forced to take harsh laxatives almost daily. Refreshing sleep was almost impossible. I felt depressed and discouraged over failure to find adequate relief.

"In Retonga I not only found prompt relief, but I feel that it has given me a new outlook and new hope. I sleep like a baby; eat anything, and have regained twelve pounds. I feel much stronger. All other distress also is happily relieved and it seems I am feeling better every day. I say this voluntarily in the earnest hope I may help others."

Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, loss of appetite, Vitamin B-1 deficiency and constipation. Thousands praise it. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at Bissette's Drug Store.—Adv.

Suggests Plan For Labor Peace

Durham, Nov. 8—(AP)—Federal District Judge John C. Knox of New York, in an address to the Duke University law school here last night, advanced a nine-point program for labor peace which he said would eliminate the necessity for strikes.

The main provision of the plan as outlined by Judge Knox would be a federal labor court with power to "hear and determine all labor disputes having to do with interstate commerce."

The labor court would be guided by a set of eight fundamental rules, Judge Knox said, which would include the provision that no decree shall require any employee to be or to remain a union member.

Other rules would provide that the court take into account an employer's past, present and future profits in fixing wages, but providing that no settlement be made up on the premise that an employee was entitled to share in the employer's profits.

Methodists Take In New Preachers

Henderson, N. C., Nov. 8—(AP)—The Methodist conference of North Carolina today accepted 11 new preachers and planned to ordain them Sunday.

Dr. H. E. Spence of Duke University welcomed the new ministers and told them that they had a great call, challenge and would be accepted in great companionship.

Other speakers included Dr. B. G. Childs of Duke University, Harvey Branscombe of Duke, Josephus Daniels of Raleigh, and Dr. Karl F. Meister of Chicago, executive secretary of the general board of hospitals and homes.

Dr. Meister said the Methodist Church had gained 1,194,000 persons since last year, and that its financial assets were increasing.

storage, transit sheds for handling freight, permanent quarters for personnel, permanent ship-repair facilities, hospital facilities and a power plant.

"Before the end of the war," Towers went on, "it was decided to develop a big naval and air base on Guam.

"The war proved definitely the necessity for the Navy to have a major base in the Pacific westward of Hawaii if it is to be in a position to support our government's policies and, if necessary, to engage in hostilities."

Before the war plans were drawn for construction on Guam which would have cost $800,000,000 but Congress appropriated only $5,000,000 for improvements to Guam harbor and the construction of a breakwater.

Under pressure of war, the Navy was compelled to improvise a base by the installation of temporary facilities.

Indications are that the Navy will not press for a program as ambitious as the pre-war one, but will concentrate first on developing Guam harbor by dredging, bulkheading and filling.

When completed, Towers said, Guam harbor probably could handle 500 ships in an emergency, assuring the United States of "an unbroken pipeline" for ships and supplies.

"We have reached a point where we have to make a grand sweep," said the official, who disclosed that the matter now is up to Mr. Truman.

things as sugar rationing, priority controls, the government's purchase and control of rubber, tin and other strategic materials.

The restrictions on easy payments and down payments would die within six months after a declaration of peace, because the credit controls are based on the first powers act which expires at that time.

Wage controls, which otherwise would run until June 30—unless the administration ends it sooner—would also terminate, as would the government's power to seize strike-threatened plants.

The Federal Reserve Board already has announced it will eliminate credit controls shortly, and the question of wage stabilization now is under government review.
