Forty Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR

January 21, 1907

It is half past the winter but there is room for the last half to be worse than the first.

If the congressmen fail to get more pay it will not be because they do not want it and are not after it.

Naturally the other towns want it, but Greenville is the place for it if the legislature establishes the Eastern Normal and Industrial College.

jects during the war years. This will be framed and hung in the club house.

The Garden Club disapproved of the proposed plan of remodeling the state capitol in Raleigh. A letter of protest will be sent to each of the Pitt county legislators.

Mrs. J. B. Spillman, Garden Club representative on the City Planning Committee reported that the proposed plans at Greenwood cemetery were being carried out as planned, and that 75 per cent of the dogwoods planted there last year were living. Through this committee the Business and Professional Women's Club will purchase dogwoods to be planted on the Greenville High School grounds.

The Garden Club will sponsor a garden pilgrimage in Greenville during the month of April.

In the absence of Mrs. Key Brown, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore read a paper on the wild flowers of the state. She described the flowers which are found in the state from the sea coast to the mountains of western Carolina.

Mrs. Arthur Corey discussed her success with growing African violets from cuttings.

The tea table in the club was done by Mrs. Travis Hooker in the Chinese manner. Very attractive refresh-

W. C. T. U. Notes

"The United States is in danger of losing world leadership through lack of support of teachers. We spend $8,000,000,000 annually on liquor and less than $3,000,000,000 on education which fact speaks louder than words," so said Ralph McDonald, executive secretary of the Department of Higher Education of the National Education Association.

One often hears such statements as these with reference to the liquor traffic. "We are headed against a stone wall, there's nothing I can do about it, what's the use to try?" Such statements are misleading and cannot ease one's conscience.

When billboards inflicted themselves upon her Lake George, New York, home Mrs. Elizabeth B. Lawton organized the National Roadside Council. The billboard industry scoffed at the enterprise, calling the council "a little group of scenic sisters with nothing else to occupy them." Today 20 states councils and 82 cooperating agencies carry out the principles of the national council from coast to coast.

The foundations of many of the events of history which have raised the level of civilization were born in the mind of one person who did something about them. These men and women who have changed the world have usually shared their ideas with other like minded people and together have driven the wedge that opened the way for progress. Truly, personal power can turn the tide.

W. C. T. U. believes that something can be done about the nefarious liquor traffic thus helping to keep the United States from losing her world leadership. This can be done through education, zealous work and, last but not least, earnest prayer. The liquor forces cannot sincerely ask God's guidance in their work because it is of the evil one. The W. C. T. U., appointed time of prayer is each day at noon time. "It's always noon time somewhere. And across the awakening continents From shore to shore somewhere. Our prayers are rising ever more."

Notice to V. F. W. Members

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

DUTY DAY BY DAY

Some months ago on the western coast, a woman was informed by her doctor that she had a rare and incurable disease and would soon die. She forthwith interested herself in the case of a pair of fourteen-year old boys condemned to be executed for murder. She took a long journey to see the governor of the state in which the boys lived and to plead for clemency. "I want to do something good," she said, "before I die."

This is certainly commendable. No one could think of such an act in any other mood but that of praise. But with all the nobility which the lady manifested, we hope it will not be regarded as carping to point out that one should not wait until his or her death date is set before planning to do something good. No doubt this woman has done many good things in her lifetime, and probably in the great assizes they will count for just as much as her journey to see the governor and to plead for the boys.

In the great parable in the 25th chapter of Matthew, the people who heard the words, "Well done, good and faithful servant," were astonished that their Lord should have noted their daily helpful ministry to people who were in need. The place to be noble is where we are, and the time, right now. Great noble acts, spectacular service—these things are all very good. But greater than any such are the daily, unremembered acts of thoughtfulness and love.

WASHINGTON LETTER

HE DRAWS THE JOB TO BOIL DOWN OPA FILES OF RECORDS

Washington—T. R. Schellenberg, chief of OPA's Record Branch, has a job he says will take him at least through June 30.

His task is to reduce 1,250,000 cubic feet of agency records to 50,000 cubic feet. These will be turned over to the National Archives. The present accumulation of records would completely fill a 12-story building occupying a quarter-acre plot.

Mr. Schellenberg says he is weeding out everything except such items as economic data supplied by industry, all of OPA's regulations and hundreds of amendments on rationing and pricing.

Some of the material will be reduced to microfilm. In addition, he is keeping a complete set of rationing currency, such as the ration books and the little blue and red tokens.

It is estimated that Washington will have a permanent peacetime Federal payroll of 180,000 employees by 1950.

Federal building officials say this will call for continued new building construction.

These officials say that, despite Republican predictions of large scale budget cuts, planning is going ahead on this figure just the same.

Rep. John Taber of New York, who will be chairman of the House Appropriations Committee in the new Republican Congress, has warned that he will slash 1,000,000 employees from the Federal payroll.

The building officials say they doubt that the new Congress will be able to reduce the number employed in Washington beyond 180,000.

Approximately $200,000,000 would be needed to cover the proposed building program, they say.

No Parisian has more chic than America's own Duchess of Windsor, the former Wally Simpson of Baltimore.

She invariably chooses a black dress, suit or dinner-gown for her appearance in public, always exquisitely simple but fitting her slender figure to a "T".

At a reception during her visit here she accented her black costume with rare and expensively-set jewelry. Popularly noted was a diamond pin fashioned into three

Mrs. O. Max Gardner, wife of the newly appointed U. S. Ambassador to Great Britain, appeared at a very swish function the other evening wearing a becoming gown of amethyst crepe, sparkling with bead embroidery. The neckline was high, the sleeves—and there were sleeves—were short.

Speaking of what the well-dressed ladies-in-the-limelight are wearing these days hereabouts, Mrs. Truman at a White House reception looked better turned-out than she ever has before.

She won scores of compliments for the lovely gold metallic dinner gown she wore. It was beautifully draped and she wore it with dignity and grace.

Government. I believe that one of his reasons for wanting the country turned back to its own government was that the terrific financial strain involved in military occupation was bleeding her white. That, too, seems to have been the consensus of impartial observers.

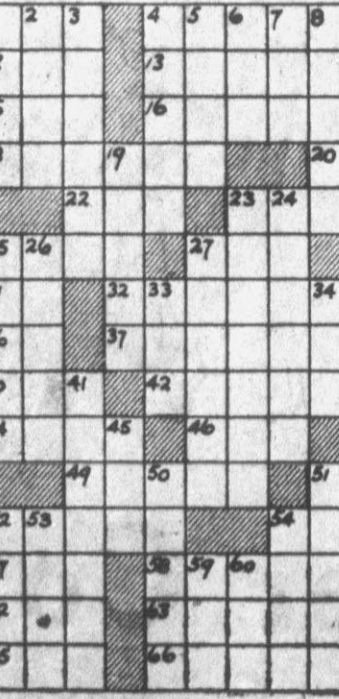

Well, Austria wasn't evacuated last autumn, and I strongly suspect that General Clark didn't believe it would be. While America, Britain and France presumably would have agreed to withdrawal, there was no indication that Russia would subscribe to such procedure at an early date.

The future status of Austria poses a mighty problem for the allies. The small but strategically situated state is wedged into the Western frontier of Russia's protective bloc of countries like a plum in the side of a pudding. Moscow wants Austria wholly within that frontier—along with Hungary, Poland and Czechoslovakia—in order to perfect its original plans for insuring security.

That presumably is the main reason Austria wasn't evacuated long ago. Russia was reluctant to withdraw, and the other three were bound to hang on so long as the Muscovites did.

"We're trying to get Republicans better organized than they have ever been before," White said. "The way to get cooperation is to have full participation and we've asked the new members to carry their share of the burden in working for legislation."

While White and other leaders emphasized they want help on legislation, the "freshmen" apparently will be under no more obligation than their veteran colleagues to confine their remarks strictly to the subject at hand.

White's invitation found the new Republicans generally willing to join in the verbal battling in the Senate but reluctant to be the first to break the ice.

Mr. Truman made it plain he wouldn't quit. Now Mr. Fulbright has made his two proposals in this Republican-controlled Congress. Here they are:

He suggested Congress change that act of 1886, in this way: Anytime there's no vice president and the president dies or quits there shall be an election within 90 days for president and vice president.

So anytime the opposition party won control of Congress, the president, if he thought the people wanted a man from that party as president, could quit and let the people show by voting whether they did or not.

an end to war."

Andrei Gromyko, chief Soviet delegate, in opposing the move, suggested the United States merely wanted more time to push its original suggestion that control of atomic energy be given priority over arms reduction plans.

The Russian delegate also lost a fight to keep British charges against Albania off the Security Council agenda. The ballot was 10 to 0, with Russia abstaining.

Then a debate developed over when the council should take up the complaint.

The British asked that the case be opened Wednesday, whether Albania was present or not, but Council President Norman J. O. Makin won a "vote of confidence" to set the date himself.

There was a possibility that the council might meet Friday. Meanwhile, there was some sentiment in the American delegation that the case should be turned over to the International Court of Justice.

PIRATES TRIP VISITING TEAM

Goldsboro All Stars Fall Victim To High Scoring Locals

Jina Teachers College Pirates ran up their largest score of the year last night in the Wright gym when they completely outplayed the Goldsboro All Stars to the tune of 78-51. Jim Taylor, high scoring forward, was again the big gun for E.C.T.C., as he dropped in 26 points for the highest Pirate individual score of the season. Taylor, who uses a one hand push shot, scored 11 of these points in the first ten minutes of play to give the Bucs an 18-7 lead and, with Charlie Moye, helped run up a 34-25 advantage at halftime.

The All Stars came back in the second half, with Clyde King leading the scoring, to come within five points of the Pirates; but the local team started another scoring spree that swelled the score. Clyde King carried on Goldsboro's offense with 22 points—but to do advantage, as the Pirates went away winning by 27 tallies.

The "B" team also went on a scoring spree and completely outclassed Bethel Hi by a large margin of 60-34. Tomorrow the Bucs will entertain St. Helena Division of William & Mary College in the Wright gym at 8 p. m. In a previous contest, E.C.T.C. edged out St. Helena 43-42.

GHS Team Meets Edenton Quintet

The Greenville Phantoms meet the Edenton Aces on the latter's court for their fifth Northeastern Conference game. The two teams have not met in recent years. The Greensies will be out to win their fourth straight conference win against one loss at the hands of Kinston.

In practice, the Greenville boys have been working on their fast break offense and an offense against the zone defense. In the Tarboro game they worked against a zone defense and showed up very well.

Starting line-up will probably find Jimmy Cox and Billy White at guards, Henry Turner and Cletas Jackson at forwards and Glynn Perkins working the pivot spot.

times since last fall to land Greenberg, but that each time he was turned down. Yet when he might have had opportunity to get Greenberg for the $10,000 waiver price, he failed to take advantage of it.

MacPhail declared the Tigers would not have allowed Greenberg to go to the Yankees, or any other potentially strong American League club. That might have been true, but neither MacPhail nor anybody else gave the Tigers a chance to prove or disprove it.

MYSTERY SALE OF GREENBERG

Home Run King Unwanted By American League's Clubs

New York, Jan. 21—(AP)—The mystery surrounding Hank Greenberg's sudden departure from the Detroit Tigers and the American League deepened today when it became known the league's seven other clubs had failed to claim the home run king.

Only one waiver request could possibly have been made up to last Saturday, when Greenberg was sold to the Pittsburgh Pirates. This means that President Larry MacPhail of the New York Yankees and others in the American League did not even bother to put in a claim for him.

MacPhail, explaining why he let Greenberg be waived out of the league, said he had tried three
