GROWING RIFT IN BIG FOUR BERLIN BOARD

American Accuse Of "Sabotage" A tempt In Trade Un- ion Election

Berlin, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Alexander Kotikov, Russian Commandant for Berlin, in an action unprecedented in the occupation of Berlin, made an open attack today on Col. Frank L. Howley, American Deputy Commandant, in the official Red Army newspaper, Tagliche Rundschau.

Gen. Kotikov, for the first time appealing to the Germans against one of his colleagues in the Allied attempt to "sabotage" the election of members of Berlin's Trade Union Federation and indirectly accused him of threatening the "reconstruction of German political life on a democratic basis."

Gen. Kotikov permitted the publication by Tagliche Rundschau of the complete text of a long statement which he made to the members of the Commandantura Yesterday—a bitter trade against Col. Howley and other "American personalities" whom he accused of "exerting pressure" on the Berlin unions.

Kotikov's statement came during a disagreement over the form which elections to the central committee of the city's Trade Unions Federation should take. Britain and France, it was reported, sided with the American in the dispute, but Kotikov's statement was directed almost entirely against the Americans.

The effect of the disagreement will be the dissolution, at least temporarily, of the central committee in the Berlin sector occupied by the Western Allies after Feb. 3 when the present committee goes out of office. The present committee is dominated by members of the Soviet-sponsored Socialist Unity Party.

Kotikov claimed the American suggestions were made "not to improve the election procedure but to delay them and perhaps even to sabotage them."

Col. Howley expressed astonishment at the publication of Kotikov's remarks in a paper published for the Germans, but made no formal reply. However, it was learned from authoritative sources that the American's position has been that it is better to have no election at present if members cannot be elected on the democratic principles which the allies are attempting to support in Germany.

Raise Funds At Farmville School

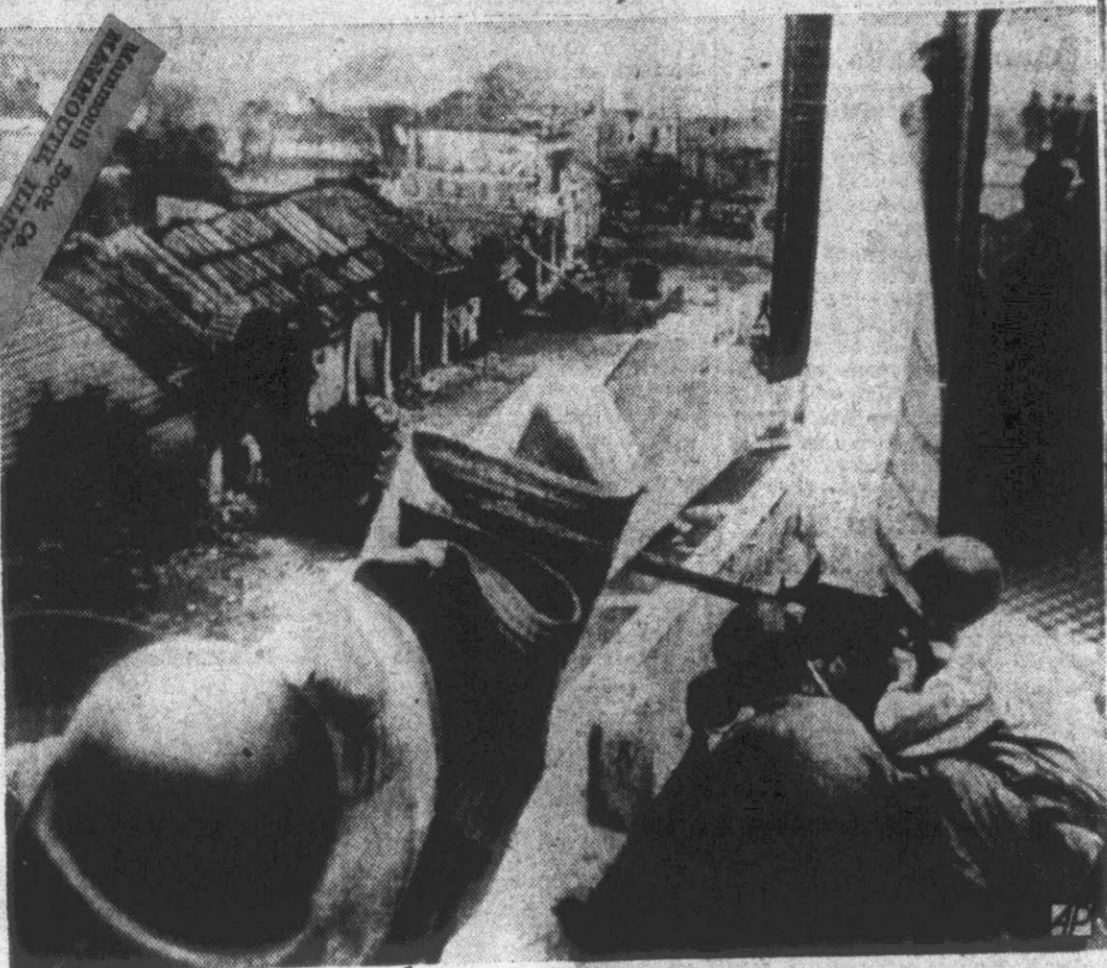

The Farmville public school has reported $694.52 raised in this year's March of Dimes campaign.

J. H. Moore, campaign director of the drive, expressed his thanks to the teachers and pupils for their excellent work.

AFL Executive Council Bids For Merging Of Rival Unions

Move Puts CIO's Murray On Spot; Council Members Not Too Hopeful That Anything Will Come Of Their Proposal

Miami, Fla., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Leaders of the AFL today used CIO President Philip Murray's bid for a united labor front as an opening to propose a merger of the rival labor groups.

Strategically, the AFL executive council, meeting here, put Murray on a spot. They said the kind of unity of action with which Murray sought to combat anti-labor forces could come only through organic or physical merger of the more than 13,000,000 members of the two big outfits.

Murray on Dec. 5—suggested that the CIO, the railroad brotherhoods and the A. F. L. should work together to fight off unfavorable legislation in Congress and present a solid front otherwise. His plea came at a particularly gloomy time for labor. John L. Lewis' miners still were on strike and industries were being forced into idleness for lack of fuel.

AFL President William Green withheld a reply to Murray until the executive council would consider it. Two years ago Murray had made a similar suggestion and Mr. Green had quickly rejected it for the same reason that organic unity had to come first.

Murray, in Pittsburgh, declined to comment before reading the letter, which was dispatched to him at the Washington CIO headquarters. Green announced his move to a news conference. He expressed the opinion that Murray would act favorably on the proposal, since it carried out the objectives of his own earlier bid for a harmonious front.

Explosion

An explosion shortly after 6 o'clock last night which shook windows in Greenville, especially in the western part of the city, caused considerable alarm. The blast occurred on the Harvey Tripp farm, four miles out on the Farmville highway, where they were using dynamite to blast a drainage ditch, Bill Moore informed the police department.

Many theories about the explosion were offered until its source was ascertained. Some had an idea that a passing plane had crashed and exploded.

The Holiday Jaunt By England's Royal Family Has Its Significance As Being Of Vast Importance To Welfare Of British Commonwealth Of Nations

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

England's royal family—King George and Queen Elizabeth, with Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose—is aboard the strongly convoyed battleship Vanguard, heading in truly regal style toward the Union of South Africa for what is described as a holiday, but which one can see with half an eye is a journey of vast importance to the welfare of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

It strikes me as particularly significant that it comes at a moment when John Bull's empire is undergoing a vast change—to state the position euphemistically. He is about to lose the great sub-continent of India and Burma as imperial units, but is praying that they may elect to remain within the commonwealth as independent dominions.

Jap Unions Still Ready To Strike

Tokyo, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The all-Japan Express Company Union tonight cancelled a wildcat strike, reporting it was acting under pressure from General MacArthur's headquarters, but told its locals to be ready to walk out on a moment's notice.

The strike was scheduled tomorrow night. The union claims 130,000 members.

Earlier today, leftist labor leaders, in their first open challenge of MacArthur's authority, petitioned the allied council for the far east to investigate Japanese labor conditions and MacArthur's orders for cancelling a scheduled strike of 2,400 government workers.

Judge Burney has made a record here for clearing the criminal docket. He did fine work while presiding over a civil term of court and considerably reduced the docket during the regular criminal term last week. He was assigned by Gov.

Babson Discusses The Keys To Successful Living

Babson Park, Fla., Jan. 31.—For three score years I have been analyzing the causes of success and failure. Experience has taught me that financial success, job success, and happiness in human relations, in the main, the result of (a) physical well being; (b) constant effort to develop one's personal assets; (c) setting up and working toward a series of life goals; (d) allowing time for meditation and spiritual regeneration.

Health and Success
Good health plays an important part in both contentment and achievement. Unhealthy persons generally lack poise, cannot sleep well, are fidgety. If we want to avoid the ills that beset many Americans—headaches, indigestion, neuritis, backaches, and especially that tired feeling—then I suggest we adopt a set of simple rules of physical conduct and follow them rigorously. There is no royal road to health. Every person probably needs different treatment. That is why I urge you to seek your health rules from your physician. Be sure, too, that he gives you a thoroughgoing overhauling at least once a year.

NO FIGHT YET OVER OFFERED WILDLIFE BILL

Measure Was Expected To Set Off Fire- works In N.C. Legis- lature

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 1.—(AP)—A wildlife measure, long anticipated as one of the hottest issues to come before the 1947 General Assembly, was thrown in the House and Senate hoppers simultaneously this week, and was referred quietly to the committee on conservation and development in each body.

Calling for separation of the Division of Game and Inland Fisheries from the State Department of Conservation and Development, the proposal was expected to launch one of the most vigorous arguments of the session, but no discussion was evidenced at its introduction.

The House bill bore 70 signatures, well over the House majority of 61. The Senate bill was signed by 17 Senators, nine below the 26 required for a state majority, but Sen. John C. Rodman of Beaufort, who introduced the bill, claims that it has the endorsement of 27 Senators.

Duties of the Wildlife Commission created under the bill would be to regulate, restore, develop, cultivate and conserve wildlife resources in the state and to administer wildlife laws, exclusive of commercial fisheries.

Another disputed issue kept busy House and Senate committees with bills outlawing fireworks in the state. The Senate committee swerved away from a "safe and sane" fireworks bill that representatives of fireworks manufacturers proposed at a public hearing last week and fell more in line with what anti-fireworks forces hoped would be enacted.

A substitute bill, for which the committee voted unanimously, bans the sale, possession, purchase and use of polytechnics, but permits the manufacture for out-of-state sale if permission is obtained from the board of county commissioners. The House committee will not meet until next week.

Bills providing for grants-in-aid to provide state funds for school building repair and construction were introduced in both branches of the assembly Monday night. The measures, identical in purpose,

No Consent For Girl's Marriage

Welch, W. Va., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Her parents' cabled insistence that she marry the ex-GI who paid her passage from England stood squarely athwart the efforts today of 17-year-old Eileen Edwards to marry the coal miner for whom she jilted her former fiancé.

The cable from London was a reply to one she sent her parents Thursday, when she discovered her age requires their consent before she can marry Theodore Crabtree, coal miner of nearby Superior.

Addressed to Crabtree, the cable read:

"If Eileen not marry Al, I won't consent marry with you. Will have her deported."

It was signed by Eileen's mother, Mrs. Kathleen Edwards, Waterloo, Neb., ex-soldier to whom she became engaged while he was stationed in England. He met her in New York last week and took her to his sister's home in Yadkinville, N. C., for the ceremony, only to find her gone three hours after their arrival.

Atom Commission Has Better Bombs On Way

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A hint of new and more powerful atomic bombs came from the domestic Atomic Energy Commission today as senators deferred final action on President Truman's six nominations to the agency.

The commission, in the first of two reports it is required to submit to Congress yearly, announced that "research and development work on improved atomic weapons is in progress."

A member of the Senate-Atomic Energy Commission, who asked not to be quoted by name, said he interprets this as confirmation of rumors that something vastly more powerful than the bombs dropped on Japan is in production.

Senate members of the committee may get a further insight into this matter next week, when they talk in closed door sessions to Chairman David E. Lilienthal and his commission colleagues.

The report also disclosed: 1. Costly and painstaking methods for the production of U-235—the "pure" product needed for bombs and other weapons—have been effected. One of three methods in use was abandoned apparently in favor of the more efficient one.

2. The government is seeking to develop new deposits of uranium and thorium, two sources of fissionable materials which create atomic explosions and energy.

3. The commission lists research in atomic power for airplanes as a

Missing Girl Is Found In Search

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Police revealed today that Inez Rowe, 26, of Wilson, N. C., object of a widespread search since her disappearance Friday, was found in the Greenwich Village section last night.

Miss Rowe was taken to Bellevue Hospital for observation, police said. She told police when she was found that she was on her way to visit a friend who lived in Greenwich Village.

The North Carolina girl had been reported missing by a girl friend whose apartment she left clad only in pajamas and a fur coat. The friend said Miss Rowe set out to get a cup of coffee.

Safer Air Travel Recent Commercial Airlines With Heavy Loss Of Life Spurs Congress To Work On Some Kind Of Safety Program; Much To Be Done To Clarify Method

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A bunch of plane crashes late in 1946 has started Congress digging about in the airlines' business.

It's been slow, dragged-out, unsensational digging. It's still going on and will continue.

In 1946 there were 11 crashes on U. S. airlines which killed 34 crewmen and 115 passengers. Nine happened in this country, two abroad.

But seven of those 11 crashes occurred in the last three months of 1946. This started congressmen to calling for a congressional investigation. Two committees, the Senate and House committees on commerce, began hearings.

These hearings started Jan. 14. Government and airlines' officials and army aviation experts have testified at them.

And when the hearings were all over, what will be the result? No one can tell at this time. Congress may decide to do several things to make air travel safer. For example:

Pass new laws and spend a good deal of government money for safety equipment, if the airlines can't afford it.

(Maybe it won't want to spend money for that. All the talk in Congress now is about cutting down government expenses.)

The kind of safety equipment being talked about is this:

Radar and radio for landing, equipment, and better light equipment for dispersing fog near airports.

How much would it cost? Senator B. J. Robertson, figures $500,000 to install at all airports.

Will Not Penalize OTC Chief For Mix- Up; President Still Would Hold Line On Rents Except In In- dividual "Hardship" Cases; Fleming's Explanation

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Opposition to a general rent increase was reiterated today by President Truman.

He also told a news conference that he would not penalize Major General Philip B. Fleming, director of the office of temporary controls, for preparing an order for a flat ten per cent raise in rents that the president killed before it could be issued.

Mr. Truman said General Fleming stated the exact truth before the Senate committee yesterday in explaining the rent mixup of two days ago. Fleming, he added, is one of the ablest men in the government.

Prior to preparation of the order, the president continued, Fleming did not take the matter up with him.

Mr. Truman said his own stand was the same as that expressed in a news conference last week when he called for holding the line on rents and put up to Congress the responsibility for any lifting of existing ceilings.

The president also favors individual raises in rents where landlords can prove hardship.

General Fleming told the Senate banking committee he ordered the hike into effect not knowing the president has repeatedly opposed such a move.

James W. Pollin, Fleming's deputy, was going ahead with the order when it was killed abruptly at the White House. The mixup occurred late Wednesday, while Fleming was in Iowa to attend his mother's funeral.

Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) questioned Fleming intensively following his statement yesterday.

Fleming said he had talked to the president about rents in a general way and left thinking he would be justified in ordering an increase. "I did not know his policy before as

Kinston Man Is Found Murdered

Kinston, N. C., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Kenneth Taylor, 57, local bakery employe, was found dead in underbrush near the city limits here today, his throat slashed and his head badly bruised.

Sheriff Sam R. Churchill, Coroner Raymond T. Jarman and Police Chief George E. Canaday said they planned to use bloodhounds today in an effort to trace Taylor's assailant.

Jarman said that heavily imprinted footprints led from the road to Taylor's body and bloodstains were found on leaves near where he lay. His hands were tightly clenched and officers theorized he may have been alive when carried into the woods.

Jarman said he died not later than last midnight. Taylor was last seen about 9 o'clock last night.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

IT'S UP TO US

If there is one message so plain that the most ignorant can understand it and so often repeated that the most chronic doubter need not hesitate to accept it at its face value, it is this: When a man has surrendered his all to Jesus Christ, the power of God's universe is on his side, the arm of the Most High is bared in his defense, and he has Jesus Christ as his companion walking with him along the path-way of life.

Such a man has nothing to fear from life's most trivial circum-stances or from its most appalling tragedies. For those who do not have Christ, the situation is differ-ent. The wavering man has consid-erable to fear. The trusting, child-like disciple of Jesus can face the world unafraid for, as Paul says, all things are his. He has won the greatest triumph a man can ever win. He has laid up for himself a fortune beyond computation of ac-counting. He has entered into a peace, the life of which no price can purchase.

Modern man likes to entertain the idea that eventually everybody will be saved. But there is no Bib-lical support for such a view. The Bible draws a strong line of divi-sion through the eternal destiny of men. Some are saved, some are not saved. But all can be saved if they will.

WASHINGTON LETTER

MOTHER OF WAC'S PROVES TO BE 'MOM' OF ALL VETERANS

Washington - Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers is over 60 years old, fluffy and feminine, but she has the stamina of a dozen men and gets a whopping lot of work done.

New chairman of the House Veterans Committee, Rep. Rogers (R-Mass.) seems to thrive on accumu-lating responsibilities. Her office staff says she puts in about 12 hours work every day.

She says she hates to get up in the morning, but she's always in her office around 8 a. m. and often breakfast with folks she wants to talk "shop" with. She introduced the House bill to set the clock ahead an hour during the war.

She eats her lunch in the House restaurant, but never alone. She never seems to waste a minute in idle or personal conversation. She usually is deep in some business deal and rarely pays attention to what she is eating.

Mrs. Rogers is known as "Mother of the WAC's" having sponsored the bill which brought into being the Woman's Army Corps, and has been a leading proponent of veterans' causes for years.

During World War I she nursed overseas with the Red Cross and from 1918 until 1922 took care of returned disabled veterans, part of the time at Walter Reed hospital.

After working at Walter Reed she served three Presidents, Harding, Coolidge and Hoover, as a dollar-a-year inspector of hospitals for dis-abled veterans. She came to Con-gress at first, in June 1925, to fill the unexpired term of her husband John Jacob Rogers, who had died.

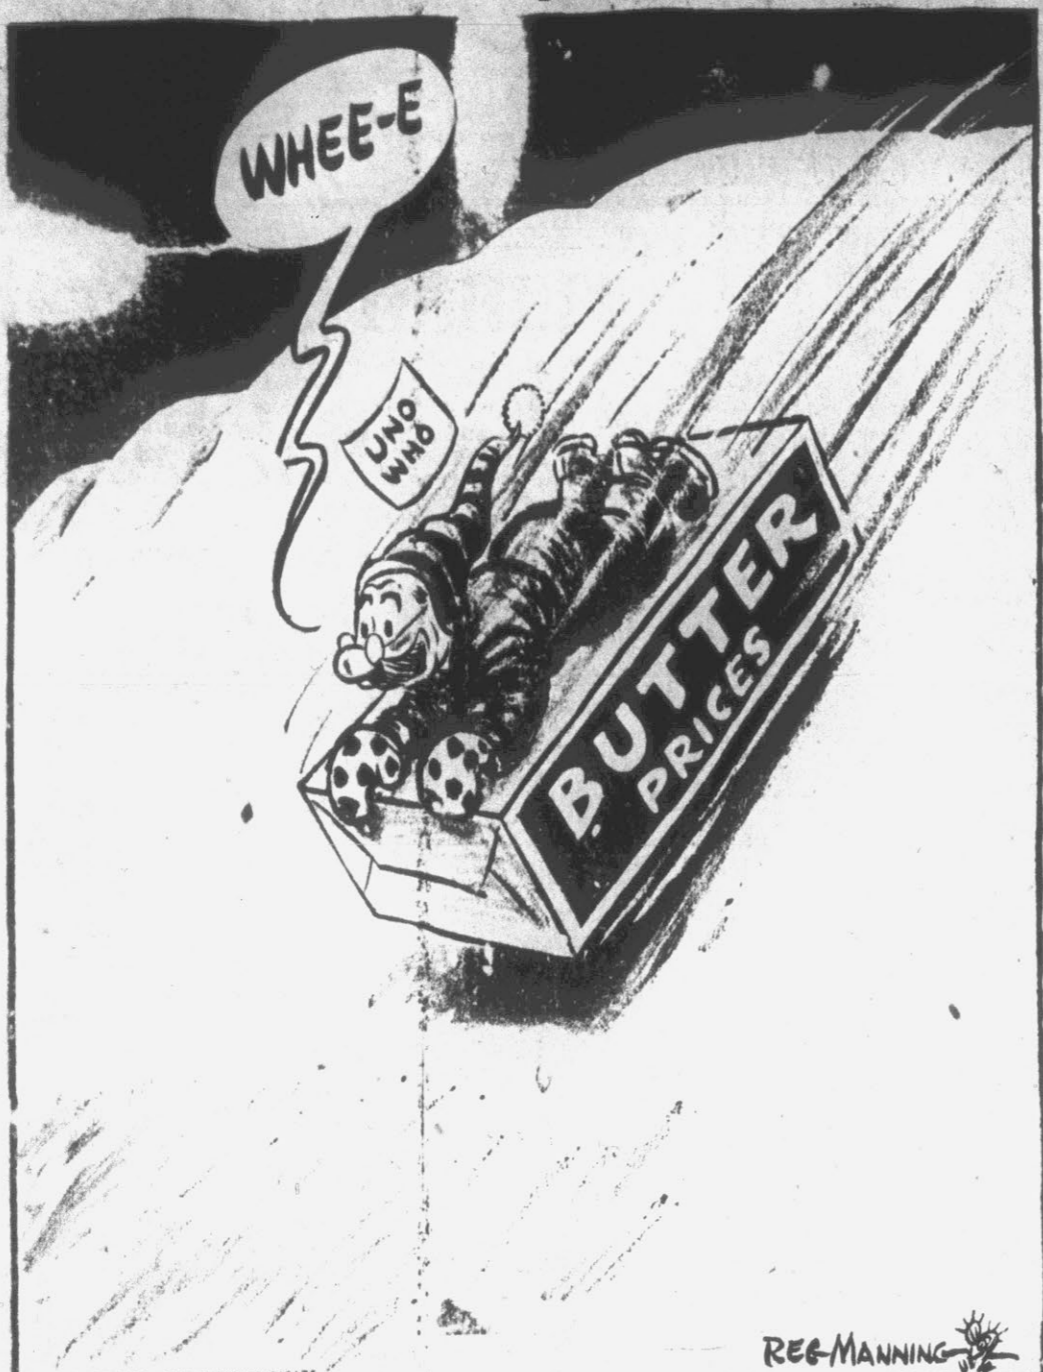

As a representative for the Con-cord and Lexington districts in Massachusetts, the "Congressman," as her colleagues call her, has in-troduced a bill authorizing the President to set aside April 19 as "Patriot's Day."

It's already a legal holiday in Massachusetts, commemorating Ap-ril 19, 1775, when from the Con-cord bridge "the shot heard 'round the world" was fired.

Currently, in addition to other legislation bearing on veterans' welfare, Mrs. Rogers is backing creation of a cabinet office devoted solely to veterans' interests.

Mrs. Rogers was born in Saco Me., daughter of a textile mill op-erator. She was graduated from Rogers Hall School in Lowell and from Madame Julien's School, Paris.

Rarely is Mrs. Rogers seen with-out a corsage of fresh flowers pinned to her suit, or dress, usually the gift of one of her constituents or a grateful veteran from some far corner of the U. S. A.

arrangement in London. So if South Africa had no king it would need a new constitution, perhaps making it a republic.

Thus it isn't strange to see the constitutional monarch again visit-ing one of the sovereign dominions. Still, this visit is particularly note-worthy not only because of the crisis through which the empire is passing but also because of the political situation in South Africa itself.

It's not all honey and flowers in the relationship between South Africa and England. Prime Minister Jan Christian Smuts and his united-party are hearty supporters of the British Commonwealth, but they have strong opposition in elements which would prefer to sever all relations with London.

The strongest of these elements are the Boers who haven't forgotten or forgiven the war in which they were beaten by England some half a century ago. There's much bitter-ness among them. Then there are big business interests which would like to escape the domination of London financiers. There are some Communists who naturally are against the government.

Well, now, it isn't suggested that His Majesty is going to South Africa to do crusading. However, the purpose of his visit undoubtedly is to raise the morale of the country and to strengthen its relations with Mother England. The royal visit presumably is calculated to bolster the hand of Field Marshal Smuts in his political warfare with his opponents who also are the oppo-nents of England.

And any strengthening of rela-tions with South Africa would tend to strengthen the whole British Commonwealth of nations and make it more attractive to India and Burma. The London Times yester-day said editorially that when Field Marshal Smuts, who led his countrymen in arms against Queen Victoria, receives his great-grand-children in Capetown, a world bro-ken by hate will have before it the "example of another spirit."

Air Travel . . .

United Airlines, says it would make air travel as safe as land travel in three to five years.

James M. Landis, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) the government's big boss of civil-ian flying, says it would help trem-endously.

But William A. M. Burden, assistant secretary of commerce, says the civil-ian airlines can't afford a real modernization of the airways. So he says Congress should vote to put up government money for such a safety program.

He says this about the financial shape of the airlines:
In the first nine months of 1945 they earned $33,000,000 but in the first nine months of 1946 they earned only $4,000,000, a $29,000,000 drop.

The government has two agencies in charge of civilian flying: The CAB, mentioned above, and the Civil Aeronautics Administration (CAA).

CAB, the big boss, lays down the rules. CAA carries them out. But sometimes, as in a plane crash CAB acts as cop and jury. It will investigate a plane crash and im-pose any penalties it thinks neces-sary. CAA also investigates plane crashes.

Because of CAB's double job in such cases—cop and judge—some congressmen think an investigating board, apart from CAB, should be set up.

Setting Up Life Goals

Having thus discovered our inter-ests, abilities, personal qualities, etc., our next step in self-devel-opment is to match our personal qualities to jobs that might well utilize our abilities and interests. Again, local school teachers, head-masters, the YMCAs, Veterans' Ad-ministration Centers will be glad to counsel with us. Our sights should be set on life goals, and every ac-tion planned to knock down the goals one by one like pins in a bowling alley. We must remember that the chief difference between an unsuccessful and a success-ful person is not one of knowing, but of doing.

Take Time To Meditate
Too many people these days are living too much on nerve alone. To be sure, quantity of production comes from working energetically; but quality of life comes from ex-posure of the soul to great ideas, enabling thoughts, enriching per-sonalities and inspiring meditation.

My automobile battery is of con-siderable help to me in turning the starter and lighting the lights on my car. But it will not give power for long unless it is connected with the generator. Too many of us are connected only with the starter. In missing exposure to prayer, music and meditation, we are missing the very thing that will build strength to make the rush of life possible.

Real success in life will depend much on how we feel inside about what we are doing. I've discovered that to feel right one must know that his labors are making not only himself but others healthier, hap-pier, and more prosperous.

Fleming told the committee land-lords in general are better off than they were before rent control, but that an increasing number are find-ing themselves in an unfavorable financial position.

"Therefore," Fleming said, "under the circumstances, to correct existing hardships with a minimum of administrative burden, it seem-ed advisable to grant the overall increase."
He said the president decided that such a general increase would be unwarranted because it would affect all landlords whether they were suffering hardships or not. Furthermore, he said Mr. Truman felt the matter should be left up to Congress.

Demonstration In Reading At Schools

Miss Grace Carter, reading demon-stration teacher for the new state adopted co-basal reader in the pri-mary grades, gave a demonstration in Bevoir, Ayden and Pictolus schools on January 27 and 28. Miss Carter, who is representing the Scott-Foresman, the publishers, was formerly a critic teacher in the Curry Demonstration School at the Woman's College in Greensboro. Ap-proximately 50 primary teachers in the county attended one of these three demonstrations. Miss Carter in demonstrating the use of the new reading material did a fine job and the teachers were enthus-astic about her demonstration.

On February 6, Mrs. Robert Hughes will give two demon-strations, one in the Farmville school and one in the Chicod school, in the use of "My Weekly Reader." One of these demonstrations will be in a primary grade while the other will be in a grammar grade. Teachers from the Winterville school and the Grimesland school have been invited to attend the demonstration which will be held at the Chicod school. Mrs. Hughes will be accompanied by Miss Julia Wetherington of the State Department of Public Instruc-tion.

To Appear In GHS Senior Play

Betty Jo Wilson, who recently played the part of the housekeeper in the "Christmas Carol," portrays the part of Mrs. Spangler, the typical college boarding house landlady, in the senior class play, "Spring Fever," a comedy, will be presented February 7 in the high school auditorium.

Betty Jo is a member of the G. H. S. Dramateers and Black Masquers and playgoers of Greenville remember many excellent character roles that she has played during the last three years.

President Tommy Diener of the Greenville high school student government, will take the role of president once again when the seniors present "Spring Fever" in the school auditorium on February seventh.

This time, however, he is the president of Brookfield college, a school in one of the western states. It is Tommy who persuades Mr. Purcell, the rich father of one of the schools' co-eds, to give a large endowment to the school for a new building.

Besides being the Student Council president, Tommy is a member of the Monogram club, the Journalism class, and the Science club. He plays a whale of a game on the gridiron, holding down the guard position.

The Children's Corner

Sheppard Memorial Library

The field of writing and illustrating books for children has enlarged tremendously during the past fifteen years with the stronger emphasis on training and educating the young child, and the improvement in color printing.

As proves true in any competitive endeavor, certain names have become preeminent in this field, and are a guarantee in themselves for reading interest, pictorial beauty, and real enjoyment for children.

Jessie Orton Jones and Elizabeth Orton Jones are two such names, and I want to call to your attention a number of their books which can be found at the library.

"A Little Child," "The Christmas Story," and "Small Rain" are books of Bible verses, compiled by Jessie Orton Jones, and illustrated with rare beauty and delicacy by her co-worker Elizabeth Orton Jones.

These illustrations of the Bible verses give a child an understanding of their meaning, which is often difficult for a parent to convey by words.

"Secrets," a collection of poems in free verse, is one that you will want to read with your child, and truly a little book to cherish. The small joys of childhood, the delight of living for each day's happiness, the beginning of understanding the workings of God's world, are all to be found in this tiny book. As in their other literary ventures, the author and illustrator have a harmony of thought which is seldom expressed with such perfect unity.

Elizabeth Orton Jones is also very well known as the illustrator of Rachel Field's "Prayer For a Child," which won last year's Caldecott Medal, an annual prize for the finest children's book of the year.

She is both author and illustrator of "Twig," the story of an imaginative little girl who lived a very dull life, until Mrs. Sparrow brought Elf to live nearby. He could work magic and did, and make Twig a tiny fairy too, and the wonderful adventures of these two tiny creatures will captivate the fancy of any child.

Home Demonstration Club members and their families have realized that North Carolina's No. 1 need in 1947 is Good Health. Therefore, it is fitting that they have met throughout Pitt County this month to discuss "Nutrition In Relation To Health."

The discussion was led by the County Farm and Home Agents. Dinner meetings in every community with the husbands as honored guests have been one of the highlights of the year's program. Two meetings were held at the attractive Falkland school lunch room. As usual the members of the Falkland Club had a good meeting on Monday night. Over one hundred citizens gathered and were served a delicious chicken salad supper. Mrs. J. T. Baker, president, was toastmistress. After the program Mrs. B. L. Tyson led recreation that the old and young enjoyed. On Tuesday night the Seven Pines Club met at the same place. The tables were attractive with arrangements of magnolia leaves and yellow candles, carrying out the Home Demonstration Club colors of green and yellow. Mrs. Clifton Ellis, president, presided and welcomed the guests to which Ichabod Allen responded. The recreation was led by Miss Lillian Hines, Assistant Home Demonstration Agent.

Sweet Gum Grove Home Demonstration Club kept up their fine record with a good meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Nobles, Jr. on Thursday night with an attendance of over eighty men, women and 4-H Club members. From attractively arranged tables in the living rooms, hall, and dining room a barbecue supper was served by the 4-H girls, Mrs. John Whitchard, president, was toastmistress for the occasion. Mrs. S. A. Moore welcomed the members, husbands and guests. Mrs. J. H. Briley presented plans for the Club House and further plans were made to build such during the coming year. Recreation followed the program led by Mrs. B. L. Tyson.

Ballard's Club held their annual husband's night at the Farmville Country Club on Monday night. The building was beautiful with its decorations of red camellias and candles on the mantles and banquet tables. Mrs. Howard Moyer presided, presided and extended a cordial welcome. Arch Planagan responded in his unique manner. After the dinner, Mrs. Moyer, chairman of the Community Building Committee for a Club House, reported that over six hundred dollars had been pledged and donated during the month for the building. The blue print of the building was accepted by the group. After the program Hazel Garris, 4-H Club member, led several raffles and games and then another good meeting adjourned.

Two meetings were held in the Winterville school lunchroom. On Tuesday night the Winterville Club members and their husbands had night the Renston-Nobles Club enjoyed a barbecue dinner. At both meetings the tables were attractively decorated in yellow and green. Yellow candles and ivy formed the decoration. Mrs. Laurie Ellis presided at the Winterville meeting and Mrs. Obed Castellon presided at the Renston-Nobles meeting. Mrs. Castellon extended the welcome and Alfred Forbes, Jr. responded. Recreation was led at this meeting by Mrs. D. T. McLawhorn.

The St. John Home Demonstration Club entertained their husbands at a delicious fish stew supper at the Club House Monday evening, January 20th. The president, Mrs. Glen Price, presided. The group joined in singing "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow," as the blessing. After the supper the secretary-treasurer Mrs. L. W. Taylor, gave a financial report. From interest aroused during the program given by the Assistant Farm and Home Agent, Mr. Fred Taylor was

PHANTOMS WIN OVER TARBORO

Perkins Comes Out On Top As Point-Maker Despite Heavy Guarding

The Greenville High School Phantoms won their fifth Northeastern Conference game last night by defeating the Tarboro Serpents 43-27. With the Tarboro team sometimes using two men to guard Pivot-man Glenn Perkins, the Greenies had to make a lot of their shots from out behind the foul line. Despite the heavy guarding of Perkins, the Greenies were ahead in the ball game all the way, and led at half-time 19-4.

In the second half, the Serpents came back strong and cut the Greenville lead to 22-20; but at that point the locals turned on their power and surged ahead to clinch the final victory.

Perkins again came through as his hi scorer of the evening as he hit the cords nine times for a total of 18 points. Cletas Jackson was second high scorer for Greenville with 8 points.

Everetts of Tarboro, was runner-up with 9 points and was high man for the Serpents.

In the preliminary game, the Greenville Juniors defeated Tarboro's Juniors 25-16. Jole Allgood led in the point-making division for Greenville with 9 points.

Forest Warden Gives Some Timely Advice

County Forest Warden N. S. Tyson today issued the following about starting brush fires:

"Don't forget that beginning to start, February 1, you must get permits to do your brush burning within 50 feet of woods. Even though you have a permit, don't burn brush while there is a high wind blowing and when the woods are dangerously dry.

"The proper time to burn is following a rain and in the late afternoon or at night, when the air is damp and fire is more easily controlled.

"When you do burn brush, play around to prevent forest fires."
