VINSON MEETS SETBACK OVER PEACE EFFORT

Split Decisions In High Court Mars Harmony; No Personal Attacks

Washington, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The chief justice of the Supreme Court, Fred M. Vinson, met today with his associate justices in a session that was almost every way possible in deciding three cases. Six of them used 5,000 words to set forth their adamant legal views. They wrote nine different opinions in disposing of the three suits.

Two of them upheld sections of the Hatch "Clean Politics" Act. The third declared that tax money may be used to pay the cost of transporting pupils to Catholic as well as public schools.

Vinson could, however, find some measure of encouragement in two factors:

1. His colleagues did not resort to personal attacks—as had occurred in several instances before he ascended to the bench last October.

2. One of yesterday's Hatch Act cases, in which four differing opinions were written, was a leftover from last term. Hence a majority of the justices had made up their minds on that case before Vinson joined the court.

So the score, so far as Vinson's influence was concerned, was really two split opinions rather than three. Up to yesterday, the court under his leadership has been handing down only a routine number of dissenting opinions, along with a sprinkling of unanimous decisions.

Jackson objected to the court's 5-4 decision that the tax money may be used to pay for hauling children to Catholic schools. He said "undertones" of the majority opinion advocating complete separation of church and state seemed discordant with the court's conclusion in support of the co-mingling of church and state in educational matters.

Justice Black wrote the majority opinion in the parochial school case. Justice Frankfurter joined in Jackson's dissenting view. Justice Rutledge also wrote a dissenting opinion in which Justices Burton, Frankfurter and Jackson joined.

In the other case which found the justices most seriously split, Justice Reed wrote the majority opinion upholding a Hatch Act provision forbidding employees of the executive branch of the Federal

Coalition Talk Junked Despite British Crisis

Laborites And Conservatives Alike Disdain Merger; Bitter Debate In Parliament; Attlee Broadcasts Strong Appeal

London, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Talk of a coalition government to steer Britain through the economic crisis was today as dead as a doornail. Estimates of the coal saved ranged from 25 to 75 percent of normal consumption as a result of the first day's total power cuts to industry and the five-hour cut to domestic users, which blacked out some of the busiest industrial areas in the land.

The return of the dole—with its grim associations linking it to the dark days of unemployment between wars—was the hardest blow to the moral of the coalition.

Those of the 4,000,000 idle not covered by union guaranteed-wage contracts began queuing up for government insurance of $4.80 a week for a man, plus a little more for a wife and children.

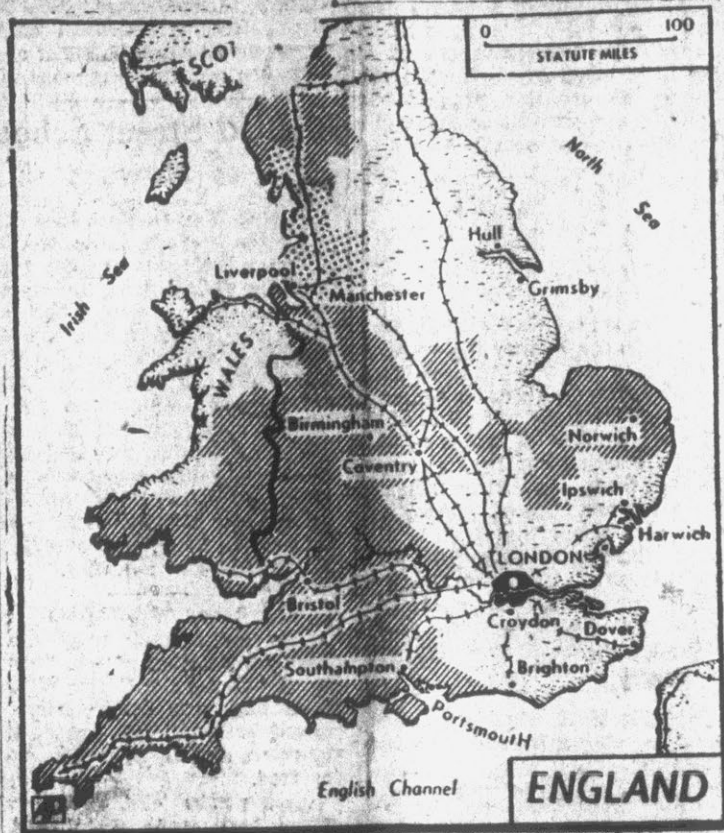

Speaking in the House of Commons while Attlee was on the air, Churchill belligerently blamed the Labor Government for the current coal shortage during bitter debate last night in the House of Commons, slammed the door on such speculation with the curt declaration: "No coalition."

Hugh Dalton, laborite chancellor of the exchequer, made it clear at the same time that Prime Minister Attlee's government would not consent to such a coalition either.

Nevertheless, Churchill withheld "for another day" a motion for parliamentary censure of the government which he had been expected to make. He accused the government of "incompetence in crisis" which has shut down more than half of England's factories, but urged the public to cooperate in a power conservation program to avert economic disaster.

Attlee, gravely attributing the coal crisis to the severest winter in 50 years, told the British in a

British Areas Facing Power Shutdown

Striped areas indicate sections of England in which power shutdowns announced by Fuel Minister Emanuel Shinwell will close major industries and black out millions of homes, stores and offices in an effort to conserve fuel. Dotted areas, the county of Lancashire, is tentatively slated to be included in the shutdown but may be exempted. (AP Wirephoto).

Confession

Chicago, Feb. 11.—(AP)—A Richmond, Va., dentist told his professional colleagues today "I dislike to go to a dentist more than most of my patients do."

"The actual pain is not so great but dentists are inconsiderate devils," said the dentist, Dr. G. A. C. Jennings. "They won't let me spit as often as I would like to, and seat me uncomfortably."

FREIGHT RATE HEARING HERE

ICC Hears Protests Filed By Eastern N. C. Communities

The Interstate Commerce Commission began hearings at the City Hall here today on protests filed by Eastern North Carolina communities through various chambers of commerce and the Carolina Shippers Association, Inc., against the cancellation of reduced freight rates which have been in effect since 1931.

The North Carolina Utilities Commission is supporting the shippers' protest and is represented at the hearing by H. M. Nicholson, its traffic director.

Willard E. Kizer of Greenville secretary-treasurer of the shippers' association, said it is reported that based on the volume of 1931 that cancellation of the freight rates would amount to an approximate 6 per cent increase on some hundred commodities which move into and out of Elizabeth City, Washington, New Bern, Morehead City, Kinston, Goldsboro, Wilson, Rocky Mount and Greenville to northern points.

The N. C. Utilities Commission said the rates were cancelled by railroads as of December 12, 1946 but the Interstate Commerce Commission suspended the cancellation until the present hearing could be held.

All freight rates involved are interstate.

Local Chamber Of Commerce Elects Officers For 1947

J. B. Webb, Jr., president and general manager, Carolina Dairy Products, as a result of action of the Board of Directors at its meeting on Friday, February 7, was elected president of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce for 1947. Ed E. Rawl, sales manager of the Carolina Sales Corporation and John G. Fleming, manager of Swift and Company's branch in Greenville, were elected vice-presidents; and David A. Evans, secretary Garrison Lumber Company, was re-elected treasurer; W. T. Kizer, executive secretary of the chamber since 1933 was re-elected to that position. The meeting Friday was the first of the new year, and eight new directors were installed by retiring President Walter L. Harrington. These directors are Ed E. Rawl, Alton R. Barrett, John G. Fleming, Louis S. Ficklen, H. L. Hodges, Jr., C. R. McBrayer, Robert P. Thompson and R. W. Davernport.

The board heard a report on the progress of the freight rate case in which transportation companies are seeking permission of the Interstate Commerce Commission to cancel the reduced rates which were put into effect at their request on March 23, 1931.

The hearing was held today in Greenville in the Board of Aldermen's room of the new municipal building.

The chamber's board endorsed legislation to outlaw the closed shop in North Carolina and legislation which would tax cooperatives on a basis equal to that of other lines of business. The board also decided that the majority of the directors and officers would attend the Regional Conference of officers, directors and committee chairmen and executives to be held in Wilson on February 21, at which time projects of importance and common to this area will be discussed.

Ask Congress For New Social Gains

Social Security Board Asks For New Federal Old-Age Plan, Extension Of Benefits And Other Public Assistance

Washington, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The social security board asked Congress today to jock up federal old-age payments and to extend their benefits to the 23 million workers not now covered.

The report, submitted by federal security administrator Watson B. Miller, also urged establishment of:

1. A federally aided health and disability insurance system and,
2. Federal-state help for all of the needy persons, regardless of the "reason for need or place of residence."

The proposals have White House blessing, bestowed in advance in President Truman's budget and economic message to Congress. The board report asked prompt action saying:

"For a people, as for an individual, it is prudent to provide in good times against adversities that almost surely will arise sooner or later."

The message was the eleventh and final annual report of the official board and its chairman, Arthur J. Altmeyer, who became the commissioner for social security under the 1946 government reorganization act which merged the board into the Federal Security Administration.

Altmeyer gave no estimate of the cost of his proposals, hence is certain to undergo quizzing on this point from the economy-minded Congress if the expanded program gets consideration this session.

The specific recommendations on old age and survivors' insurance—advanced with the argument that they would create "a broader, sounder and more equitable basis for insuring individual, and national well-being"—are:

1. Extension of coverage to "all gainful workers." This would cover the self-employed, farmers and farm worker, servants, government employees and workers in non-profit organizations.
2. An increase in benefits, especially for low-paid workers, and an increase from $3,000 to $3,600 in the maximum earnings which count toward benefits.
3. An increase—from the present $14.99 a month in the amount that an aged person may earn from private sources without loss of old-age benefits.
4. Lowering of the pension age limit for women from 65 to 60.
5. Payment of benefits for both

SCRAP STARTS OVER HEARING WILDLIFE BILL

Senate Group Attends House Hearing As Proponents Take Stand

Raleigh, Feb. 11.—(AP)—A parliamentary scrap broke out at a joint meeting of the committees on conservation and development today and resulted in the Senate group in hearing a bill that would separate the division of game and inland fisheries from the Department of Conservation and Development.

The utilities commission hearing room could not accommodate the gathering of about 250, including 75 committeemen, and the hearing was moved to the House chamber.

Senator Smith of Stately, chairman of his group, said he had not officially called his committee to meet today and therefore it could not vote with the House committee.

Today had been set aside for proponents of the bill. Opponents will be heard Thursday.

Despite protests of the separation move, chiefly Senator M. Laughlin of Ireland, the Senate group would not vote to consider the bill along with the House. Senator Smith said his committee may await action of the House committee.

As various proponents of the bill were called for statements, Tom White of Kinston said that an overwhelming majority of the people were for separation. President P. K. Gravelly of the North Carolina Wildlife Federation, Inc., said game and fish constituted an economic asset that had largely disappeared in the last 15 years. Some areas now have only breeding stocks, he said. He added that the federation has 20,000 members in 102 clubs in 95 counties.

He was asked by Senator Lennon of New Hanover if the federation believed anything less than separation was the only way to bring on the desired results.

"Absolute separation is the only solution," Gravelly answered. He was loudly applauded.

Senator C. R. Brantley of Wayne said there must be some reason for the shortage of game and fish and that the record of the department of conservation and development

KIWANIS HAS ANOTHER CLUB

Washington Leaders Organize With Excellent Personnel

By CHESTER WALSH

The Washington Kiwanis Club was organized at a meeting at the Knotty Pine Inn near Washington last night with 27 charter members.

Moye Harrington was elected president, Charles Bowers vice-president, and Ronald Modlin was appointed secretary-treasurer.

The following directors were elected: Malcolm Paul, Tom Lackland, Bill Waters, Howard Whitford, Tom Litchfield, Bill Thompson, and Edward Matthews. Secretary Modlin is automatically a director.

The Washington club will hold its weekly supper meetings at the Elks' Home on Monday nights at 6:30. The meetings will last one hour.

The Washington club was organized under the sponsorship of the Greenville Kiwanis Club. Arthur Tripp and other Greenville Kiwanians have been conferring with leading business and professional men there for some time. Last week delegations from Greenville and Washington at a meeting there worked out plans for starting the new club.

Under the leadership of Kiwanis District Lieut.-Governor Ed E. Rawl, President Eli Bloom and Vice-President N. C. Brooks and Arthur Tripp of Greenville and

N.C. Assembly Gets Measure Similar To Federal Wage-Hour Act; Law Has Sponsorship Of State Labor Dept.

Raleigh, Feb. 11.—(AP)—A measure sponsored by the State Labor Department to set minimum wages at 40 cents an hour and the maximum work week at 40 hours within six days was introduced today by Senator Ailsbrook of Halifax and others.

Overtime work would be compensated for at one and one-half times the regular rate.

No woman could be employed more than nine hours a day or more than 48 hours a week or more than six days a week.

In general, the proposed law would compare with the federal statute. It was designed to control intrastate pay and hours.

Notice of any hearing provided for in the act would be published in one or more newspapers of statewide circulation.

The governor, with the advice of the commissioner of labor, would appoint an advisory board of six members, two of whom would represent employers, and two would represent the general public. Terms would be staggered.

Hearings would be held on applications to pay less money to learners, apprentices and individuals whose earning capacity is impaired physically or mentally, and for seasonal workers.

The act would not apply to persons employed in establishments which are subject to provisions of the federal fair labor standards act of 1938 as amended; to persons with a guaranteed salary of $50 a week or more; to persons engaged in agriculture, domestic service or fishing; to persons employed in an establishment employing no more than four persons at any one time; or to outside salesmen as may be defined by the labor commissioner.

Every employer would have to keep records of employees, their hours and wages, for three years. Those records would be open to inspection by the Labor Department.

The state now has no minimum wage law, but it does have maximum hours for men and women in various occupations. They are 48 hours for women and minors and 56 for men.

Boy Is Starving, Unable Swallow

Durham, Feb. 11.—(AP)—A nine-year-old Negro boy who doctors say is starving to death due to an inability to swallow is undergoing what doctors termed "unlimited research" at Duke hospital today in an effort to find some method of treating him.

The boy, Madison Knox, of Spartanburg, S. C., was brought to an operation to save his life was raised by public subscription when his plight was publicized by newspapers and radio.

Doctors at Duke said today that it has not been determined yet whether an operation will be performed or whether some other method of treatment will be attempted. They said that such a decision will await the completion of the diagnosis now underway, and that thus far it has not been determined definitely why he is unable to swallow.

Will Continue In Portal Pay Suit

Winston-Salem, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Officials of local 22, food, tobacco and Allied Products workers, CIO, announced today their suit for $10,500,000 in portal-to-portal pay against the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company here will continue unless the international officers of the union direct otherwise.

Robert Black, co-director of local 22, said he considered Judge Picard's decision to dismiss the original portal suit against the Mount Clemens, Mich., Pottery Company, was not the final word. Reynolds officials were reported as declaring that an examination of the Mount Clemens case had convinced them the tobacco company should not be liable for such claims.

One other portal suit has been filed in the middle district of North Carolina. The American Federation of Hosiery Workers, CIO, claims $500,000 from the Mock, Johnson, Voelringer Company of Greensboro.

China Currency Is Falling Fast

Shanghai, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek was reported today to have summoned China's top economic experts for an urgent review of the nation's financial crisis as the widely-inflated Chinese dollar plummeted to a new low.

Shanghai was a city of confusion as the value of the Chinese dollar fell or the third straight day. Prices soared in other cities when news of the currency crisis reached them.

When exchange markets closed today, one American dollar, worth 13,500 Chinese dollars at the opening, would buy 13,500. Ten-ounce gold bars sold for 9,100,000 Chinese dollars, up nearly 2,500,000 from the opening price.

Storekeepers' asked prices 50 to 100 per cent daily. Shanghai's residents could not decide whether to stock up at today's fantastic prices or gamble on tomorrow's exchange.

AT SEA AGAIN OVER SLAYING

Police Run Into Blank Wall In Second Brutal Murder

Los Angeles, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Still stymied in their investigation of the "Black Dahlia" mutilation murder, police confessed today they were at sea again in a probe of the city's second sadistic murder in less than a month—the trampling to death of a former movie bit player.

Ending hours of questioning, officers booked Frank French, 47, discharged Marine Corps sergeant on suspicion of murder, but Det. Gene Bechtel of the police homicide detail said:

"His story stands up very well."

French's estranged wife, Jeanne, 40, known in films as Jeanne Arford Thomas, was found—her body bludgeoned and covered with heel marks—on a lonely West Los Angeles hilltop yesterday.

Bechtel said French told him his wife came to his boarding house late Sunday night, asked him to go out with her, but he declined and went to bed.

"French said they parted about a week ago, agreeing to live apart for six months," the detective declared. "They had been quarreling, and French says they decided on the Republican Senator Sought As Advisor

Truman Considering Three Members Of Senate Foreign Relations Committee To Accompany Marshall To Moscow

Washington, Feb. 11.—(AP)—President Truman was said today to be considering asking one of three Republican members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to substitute for Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), as a advisor to Secretary of State Marshall at Moscow.

The three Republicans mentioned by Democratic colleagues aware of the plan are Senators H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey, Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa and Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts. Indications point to Smith as the most likely choice.

Vandenberg, who served with Senator Connally (D-Tex.) as an adviser to former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, has said he does not want to go to the opening of the Foreign Ministers Conference next month. He indicated, however, he would answer any "S.O.S." if the State Department needs his help later.

Friends say the Michigan senator thus far has made no recommendation to Mr. Truman for a substitute. The bipartisan participation in foreign policy began with the attendance of Vandenberg and Connally as delegates to the San Francisco United Nations Conference in 1945.

While it is generally supposed that Vandenberg would lean toward the selection of John Foster Dulles, Mr. Truman is said to believe that a Republican who has voice in the Senate ought to sit in as a front rank adviser.

If this arrangement is made, it is

Decision For Debate

Supreme Court's Decision On Use Of Public Funds To Transport Children To Both Public And Religious Schools One To Be Argued For Years To Come

Washington, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The Supreme Court has given a decision which will be argued a long time by people of varying religious beliefs.

It said it's all right to use public funds to transport children not only to public schools but to schools of varying religious beliefs.

It was the problem:

In your town some of your tax money is used to support the public schools and for buses to take children to those schools.

(These public schools give no religious training so children of any faith can go there.)

But some of your tax money also is being used to transport some children to Catholic schools where Catholic doctrine is taught.

Can any town or state use your money for that, particularly if you are a non-Catholic or maybe an opponent of Catholicism?

About 17 states, including New Jersey, have state laws permitting use of public funds in that way.

But a New Jersey taxpayer, Arch R. Everson, didn't think it was right.

His town, Ewing, N. J., was using some of its public funds to pay the bus fare of Catholic children going to Catholic schools.

He filed suit to put a stop to it, arguing the New Jersey law under which his town acted was unconstitutional on these grounds:

1. You can't take by taxation a man's property and give it to someone else, (14th amendment to the constitution).
2. There can't be any law in the U.S. "respecting the establishment of a religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." (1st amendment).

The case finally got to the Supreme Court which yesterday said the New Jersey law was all right and constitutional.

But it was a very tight decision. Five of the nine justices upheld the New Jersey law. Four of the nine said it was unconstitutional.

Will this mean the similar laws in the other 16 states, and the District of Columbia, are okay, too?

Probably, but that can't be stated positively here and for this reason:

The Supreme Court decides each case on its merits. Sometimes it has to decide on one of those other state laws it may decide that law is different some way from the New Jersey law and therefore wrong.

The big split in the Supreme Court came over this: the separation of state from church, any church.

After bitter religious conflict in our early history, the constitution was created, in part, to keep church

Long Diplomatic Process In Signing Final Ratification Italian Treaty

Washington, Feb. 11.—(AP)—State Department officials estimated today it may be two weeks before the Senate receives the peace treaties with four of Germany's World War II satellites which were signed in Paris yesterday.

President Truman and Secretary of State Marshall are known to favor prompt delivery of the pacts for ratification, but a long and involved diplomatic process must be satisfied first.

Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee told reporters that when the treaties are submitted he wants former Secretary James F. Byrnes as well as Marshall to explain them at committee hearings. He said these should not take long.

Senator Connally (D-Tex.), ranking minority member of the committee, declared in another interview he believes there will be little "real opposition" to ratification. He forecast a full review of American foreign policy, however, in the speeches which will precede the Senate vote.

Before the pacts with Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary and Italy can go to Capitol Hill, there will be these steps:

1. Plates will be made in Paris of the original of each treaty and copies struck off for each of the nations whose representatives signed the document.
2. These copies will be certified by the signers.
3. Copies will be dispatched to Washington and other capitals.
4. Marshall will prepare a report for the President on the terms and negotiations.

Then the White House will ask ratification.

Negro Froze To Death At Ayden

John H. Thomas, 55-year-old Negro farm worker, was found frozen to death, lying in a ditch on the outskirts of Ayden on the Kinston Highway, Monday afternoon. A Negro girl found the dead man and reported to authorities. Thomas lived with his brother, Cordellus Thomas, in Ayden.

Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said Thomas was last seen alive on Sunday night and he appeared to have been drinking. The coroner said the man probably sat down on the ditch bank to rest and fell asleep. No inquest will be held.

The Strike In Britain

Present Industrial Crisis Gravest Ever Known; Present Adversity Is Fruit Of Many Years; System At Test; Future Of Little Island Is In The Balance

The British Empire, already wasting away at the extremities, has suffered a heart attack.

The coal which made one tiny island different from all others in the world is not coming out of the ground from Britain's newly nationalized mines, the looms which for a hundred years wove the web of empire are idle, and the furnaces which forged the steel backbone for half a world are closed.

A member of Parliament called it "the gravest crisis in our history," and was not challenged by fellow-members who had watched while Hitler assembled his invasion fleet in 1940.

For this adversity, though precipitated by an unusual cold spell on top of already strained supplies, is not a mere immediate emergency to be survived. It involves the necessity of concrete solution of a problem which has been growing for a quarter of a century in an economy badly strained by two world wars and subjected to rapidly changing conditions.

There are a host of bewildering factors involved, but at the core seems to lie the question of whether it is economically possible, in the middle of the 20th century, to fund the raw materials of vast armies into one tiny center for manufacture and reshipment in the form of finished goods.

Britain's planners have been operating on the theory that it is. They have been trying to compromise with an upsurge of expensive socialist ideas among labor while still forced to live by the slogan of "export or die."

Some in Britain blame the coal crisis on the socialist-nationalization program, with the old cry that government operation goes hand in hand with inefficiency. But it is hardly that simple. Actually, the Labor Government has merely proved incapable of solving a problem which it inherited, which has been approaching a crisis for years, and which no one else has been able to solve.

Low coal prices after World War I interfered with the mechanization of British mines and World War II made it impossible. Young men left the mines for other work and finally went to war. The old men left are now still older, and the socialist program designed to attract workers has had no time in which to get going. Now Britain, fighting for every day's advantage in the world-wide struggle to re-establish her war-lost trade, has suffered a blow from which it may take months to recover.

Conservatives and socialists alike

Riley, Miss Thelma Ekum, and Mrs. Kelly Rowe were welcomed as new members. Miss Frances Wahl, in her gracious manner, presented a life membership to the Guild to Mrs. Rosa Herring. Miss Frances Wahl gave the devotionals using as text the Fifth Chapter of Matthew. An impressive program was given by Mrs. R. F. Rogers who was assisted by Miss Frances Gross, Miss Jane Hadley, and Mrs. Annie Laurie McKinnis. "Of Such Is the Kingdom" was the subject of the program. Giving the negro a chance and the importance of good manners in face relationship were stressed. The 1947 budget was approved. Mrs. Herring assisted by Miss Ona Shindler and Miss Frances Wahl served delicious refreshments. Handbooks for 1947 were given out.

Dr. Cooke Speaks to Woman's Club
Members of the Greenville Woman's club were privileged to have Dr. Dennis Cooke, president of E. C. T. C., talk to them at their meeting on Friday afternoon. Dr. Cooke chose for his subject, "The Art of Living." He developed his theme with quotations from literature through the ages. Beginning with an old Chinese proverb which says, "I share creation and kings can do no more," he gave the philosophies of leading literary geniuses. Robert Louis Stevenson says "you must keep friends with yourself"; Josiah Hoopland says, "A noble deed is a step toward God"; Emerson says that "The great man is he who in the crowd keeps the independence of solitude"; Dwight says, "Rest is not quitting the busy career, rest is the fitting of self to its sphere"; Mary Stuart, whose collect is used at every Woman's club meeting urges us "not to forget to be kind," so we use from all of these people that in order to find true happiness which is the thing most wished for in life, we shall have to find it within ourselves.

Dr. Cooke said that the teacher must know something about the art of living for she has more to do with inculcating this into children than anybody else.

Mrs. R. L. Humber presided over the business session of the club at which several important matters were brought up for consideration. She read a letter of appreciation from a French mother for the clinic sent her child and also a letter from the superintendent of public education of a district in France thanking the women for their friendliness in helping the French children.

Mrs. Vance Perkins, Garden club chairman, invited all club members to attend Mrs. Charlotte Hilton Green's lecture on February 21.

A delightful social hour followed the adjournment of the club. For the occasion the Rachel Maxwell Moore auditorium was beautifully decorated in a Valentine motif. The tea table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with a bowl of red carnations. Hot tea, open faced sandwiches in heart shape, and decorated cakes were served by the hostess committee of which Mrs. P. W. Murray was chairman. All decorating was done by the Junior Woman's club.

Miss Moore's Thursday
Greenville Elks Lodge No. 1645 will meet Thursday night at 8 o'clock. Several members are to be initiated. Supper will be served at 6:30. John W. Glover, exalted ruler, will preside.

Mrs. and Mrs. Phillips entertained a party of burning white candles, pink carnations and a warm open fire made a beautiful setting for a dinner shower given by Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Davenport last Wednesday night honoring Mr. and Mrs. Elva Phillips.

The guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Davenport and invited into the living room where they were presented to the honorees. The living room mantle was lovely with a center piece made of white satin ribbon, embedded with silver spray, and white candles. On each end of the mantle was placed an antique urn filled with ivy and pink carnations. A huge camellia arrangement in an imported brass bowl was another living room point of interest.

In the dining room Mrs. L. W. Pugh and Mrs. A. C. Tadlock served delicious refreshments. An imported hand-cut table cover was used. The center piece was a crystal bowl with white carnations.

Lumber production figures for 1946 show an increase for the first time since 1942.

Missionary at Christian Church
At 8 o'clock Wednesday evening Dr. George E. Butler for many years a medical missionary in India will speak concerning that country, its great needs and its opportunities of Christian education and teaching at the Eighth Street Christian Church. Such great questions as the caste system, the independence of over 400 million of its inhabitants will be discussed. Dr. Miller has some exceedingly interesting "tiger" stories also.

Miss Gladys Whitley of Panteg is leading a story hour for the juniors in the afternoon, Wednesday from 4:30 to 5:30.

The public is cordially invited to these mission study hours.

In Japan
With the Eighth Army in Japan—(Delayed)—Private First Class Marvin Sutton, 19-year-old Greenville North Carolina soldier recently joined the 457th Parachute Field Artillery Battalion of the 11th Airborne Division in Northern Japan.

Private Sutton entered the service in June of 1946 through Fort Bragg North Carolina and from there went to Camp Croft, South Carolina for his basic training. He came overseas in November. Shortly after arriving he volunteered for duty with the Paratroops and was sent to his present organization where he is now waiting to go to the Division Parachute School to earn the much coveted wings of the Paratrooper.

Prior to his entry into the service, Private Sutton was a student at the Chocowoc High School but at the present is undecided about his future.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Sutton, who live on Route 2, Greenville, North Carolina.

Hostess to Contract Club
Grifton—Mrs. F. L. Cox entertained on Thursday night at her home here having as guests members of her contract club and invited players for three tables of bridge. The home was decorated for the occasion with ivy and lighted candles. On arrival guests were invited into the dining room where a delectable spaghetti supper was served from a beautifully appointed table, covers being laid for twelve. Mrs. Clay Burney assisted in serving the supper.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR

February 11, 1907

End of the Century Club
The regular meeting of the End of the Century Book club was held with Mrs. F. C. Harding last Tuesday. The literary feature was the life and works of Michelangelo. Mrs. Fickler read an interesting character sketch of the sculptor.

Instead of asking mother each day to make another trip to the dime store, ask her first to go by the Library and bring home one or more of the following books:

"A Boy's Treasure of Things to Do," Horowitz; "What to Do Now," Tina Lee, (for girls); "A Book of Little Crafts," Margaret Powers; "With Scissors and Paste," Lella Maude Wilhelm.

These are only a few of the many books on the Library shelves which will help you, and your mother, to while away the hours in bed.

There are pages and pages of pictures and ideas of things to make from materials you have at home—match boxes, egg cartons, magazine pictures and colored papers; gifts for your family and friends; little box theaters to give your own shows; all of these and more will help to make the time pass quickly until you are all well and out to play again—Mrs. Rose and Hauser, Jr.

Grifton Book Club Meets
Grifton—The Grifton Book Club met on Friday afternoon for their February session, at the home of Mrs. George Sugg. Quince and red candles were arranged to denote the Valentine motif in decorations. After the read call with response by current events Mrs. Sugg presented Mrs. R. E. Walston who gave an interesting paper of the part played by conscientious objectors in the last world war. This was followed by a contest in which titles to current books were found, most adept at this was Mrs. Alton Chapman.

Mrs. Sugg served a delicious dessert course with coffee and salted nuts. Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Walston, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. R. A. Nelson, Mrs. Thurman J. Williams, Mrs. Robert Newborn, Mrs. H. P. Quinerly, Mrs. Cecil Cobb, Mrs. Jack Tucker, Mrs. John Biggers and Mrs. Robert Raspberry.

Bill Denton of Boston, Mass., and Raleigh, N. C., was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Wooten Saturday, February 1.

Miss Lorraine Moore, a member of the Stantonsburg faculty, spent last week end in Raleigh and here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Wooten were visitors in Wilson, N. C., Sunday, February 2.

Mrs. W. J. Little returned home from the Woodard-Herring hospital in Wilson last week. Friends will be glad to learn that she is getting on fine.

Mrs. Woodrow Wooten visited Mrs. Olive Morrill in Greenville last Thursday.

Mrs. Woodrow Wooten had as her guests last Friday, Mrs. R. C. Forrest and Mrs. Sylvia Yelverton of Fremont.

Miss Margaret Jones of Raleigh, N. C. spent Saturday, February 1, Sunday here with her sister, Mrs. T. K. Fountain.

Falkland News
Mr. and Mrs. Carson Jones returned Sunday February 2, from St. Petersburg, Fla., where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Smith, who are spending several months there. Mr. Smith's health is improving, we are glad to learn.

Col. and Mrs. P. M. Crawford of New York were the over night guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Pittman Saturday, February 1, en route from Mexico to Washington, D. C. and New York.

Mayor G. H. Pittman and Mr. R. R. Stokes returned Wednesday from

WHAT TO DO
The next time the doctor tells your mother that you must stay in bed for a week or longer (whether it is measles or mumps or a broken leg) don't keep begging for "something new"—but make it yourself!

Instead of asking mother each day to make another trip to the dime store, ask her first to go by the Library and bring home one or more of the following books:

"A Boy's Treasure of Things to Do," Horowitz; "What to Do Now," Tina Lee, (for girls); "A Book of Little Crafts," Margaret Powers; "With Scissors and Paste," Lella Maude Wilhelm.

S. and W. Cafeteria
The seventh grade arrived in Raleigh about eleven o'clock. They decided to go to the S. and W. Cafeteria and have dinner before the crowds gathered. They formed a line and were served just as soon as they entered.

Each person tried to choose the seven basic foods. Then they ate anything else they wanted. Everyone enjoyed his dinner very much. —Mry Ann Smoot and Frances Estelle Greene.

The Capitol
On Thursday, February 6, the Third Street School 7th grade went to Raleigh. Among the interesting things they did was to visit the capitol.

First they visited the house of representatives in session. Mr. Sam O. Worthington, asked that they be extended the courtesy of the house.

Then they visited the senate in session, where Mr. Arthur Corey asked that they be extended the courtesy of the senate.

They then went to the governor's office. They shook hands with him and told him their names.

They had a very nice time.—Sam Hux, Glenn Scott, and Jimmy Spears.

Hall of History and State Museum
While the seventh grade was in Raleigh last Thursday they visited the Hall of History and the State Museum.

As they entered the Hall of History they found that in different

Bar Association To Meet

The Pitt County Bar Association will hold its regular monthly meeting at the Airport Inn Tuesday February 11, at 6:30 p. m. The supper meeting will adjourn at 8 o'clock sharp. All members are invited. President Marvin K. Blount will preside. James R. Worsley is secretary of the association.

Leaves Hospital

Friends of Mrs. F. O. Nunn will be glad to know that she has returned from Pitt General hospital where she underwent a minor operation. She is convalescing nicely.

Third Street School News

O. Max Gardner Dies
As the seventh grade of Third Street school drove by the capitol building while visiting Raleigh they saw that the flags were at half-mast. They did not know who was dead until they visited the capitol where the house and senate were paying tribute to O. Max Gardner who had died that morning at 8:20.

O. Max Gardner who had recently been appointed ambassador to the Court of St. James was a great American and his death was a great loss to the state, the country, and the world.—Marty Hadley.

WPTF
While in Raleigh the grade went to WPTF where they were allowed to go to a studio where an organist named Sarah Worley was practicing for a program she is going to give March 15. The grade liked her playing very much. The station gave each pupil a card and Miss Worley autographed them.

The grade enjoyed their trip to the station very much. — Wiley Gardner.

The seventh grade of Third Street school went to Raleigh, February 6, 1947.

While in Raleigh they visited the governor's mansion which was started by Governor Jarvis in 1881. President Franklin Delano Roosevelt said, "It has the most beautiful interior in America."

The bricks were made by prisoners from the state penitentiary. It was interesting to notice that many prisoners put initials of a friend on the bricks.

The stairway is very beautiful and has nothing to support it. In the mansion are beautiful chandeliers made of cut glass. No governors picture can be hung there until he dies.—Lula Mayo.

Chapter 8

Bert's refusal staggered Eileen even more than Mr. Traynor. Playing with a movie orchestra, at union salary, overtime—why, it meant financial security, a chance, perhaps, for them to marry. And Bert had flatly turned it down.

Mr. Traynor scowled behind his cigarette. "Building your own band's a terrible headache, fella. And don't let anybody kid you. You'll get places a lot faster in Hollywood, if you join up with a band that's already known, like mine is."

"I know, Mr. Traynor," Bert admitted doggedly. "But I'm going to give it a try, anyway."

"You'll lay awake nights worrying—spend a fortune for advertising—"

Bert was smiling. "Maybe we'll be lucky, Mr. Traynor."

The orchestra leader rose. "Well, anytime you change your mind, young fella, just give me a ring."

Bert and Eileen stood looking at each other. Her cheeks were flushed. "But, Bert, wasn't that a good opportunity?" she asked, puzzled.

"Sure; wonderful! For a moment it nearly knocked me off my feet. He sank down in the chair Mr. Traynor had vacated. "But I'm in with my brothers and the other fellows now. I couldn't let them down, could I?"

"No, I suppose you couldn't, Bert." She came over to him and brushed his thick, dark hair off his corrugated forehead, and kissed him tenderly. "You're wonderful, Bert. And I'm really happier to know how really wonderful you are than if you had accepted."

"It's you who are the wonderful one, darling." And as his arm encircled her trim little waist, he thought how lucky he was to have found a girl like Eileen, who could understand and back him up so loyally, even though it meant delaying their own happiness.

"I wonder what the boys will think about it."

"They aren't to know anything about it," he said quickly. "From either of us. If anybody saw Mr. Traynor come in, and asks any questions—he smiled at her conspiratorily—"Well, he was looking for somebody he couldn't find. Okay?"

"Okay, Mister Big-Heart."

He yanked an errant curl, drew her to her feet, and led her back to the piano. "Now, here's a little number you can do beautifully. Nice harmony, too. Come on, let's try it together."

Bert's mother opened the door. She still had on her flowered cotton house dress, but her graying hair was beautifully dressed, as usual.

"Sounds very pretty," she said, beaming approval. "I never knew you could sing like that, Bert. You've been holding out on your family."

Bert took Eileen's hand. "Oh, I'm just blossoming out since Eileen came along. Shall we tell her honey?"

At Eileen's nod, Bert happily announced, "We're going to be married. Mother—just as soon as the Alvarado Merry-Makers' strike pay dirt."

Mrs. McLane looked at them a moment, fondly. "You couldn't have chosen anyone I'd rather have

Seek To Enlist Vets New Naval Reserve

Lt. R. W. Cantwell (USN), accompanied by Chief Yeoman Robert R. Lowe, will be stationed in the basement of the Greenville Post Office building between the hours of 1 p. m. and 5 p. m. on Wednesdays for the purpose of contacting veterans of World War II for information regarding the new Navy V-6 program for inactive reserves.

All veterans of World War II having an honorable discharge, and men between the ages of 17 and 18-1-2 and men 30 to 40, with no prior military service and no police record, are eligible for enlistment in the new naval reserve.

FAST TALKER

Chicago, Feb. 11—(AP)—Coxswain George McNamara, 21, has lost that lonesome feeling for the boys in his home town of Monmouth, Ill.

McNamara, who is assigned to general duty at nearby Glenview Naval Air Station, went home Saturday on a weekend pass. Yesterday he advised the station that he had persuaded eight of his home town friends to enlist in the organized reserve.

The station, pleased of McNamara's recruiting prowess, furnished a twin engine transport to bring McNamara and the eight recruits to the station.

 FOR THE DAY

OUR BELIEF ABOUT CREATION
 Modern religious thinking has not given sufficient consideration to the matter of creation.

The religious significance of creation is indicated by the fact that it is the first thing with which the Bible deals. Men have fallen into dissenting groups over the question of how God created the world. The important thing is that "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." That is, there was a force exerted in the beginning which resulted in the emergence of life and its environment. Men pass that fact by lightly today.
 They look to science to explain creation, when the very best science can be expected to do is to describe it.

After science has said its last word—if that day ever arrives—religious will have something to say infinitely more glorious than science can ever affirm. That something is indicated in certain statements which the Bible makes about the spiritual significance of creation which is primarily a religious rather than a scientific matter. The God who redeems life is the God who made it. "By the word of the Lord were the heavens made; and all the host of them by the breath of his mouth." "By faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the Word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things that do appear."

"The sun, the moon, the stars, the seas, the hills, and the plains—
 Are not these, O Soul, the vision of Him who reigns?"

MAN WHO TRIMS THE CON-GRESSMEN SEES THIN TIMES AHEAD
 By JANE EADS

Washington—Of politics James H. Neale knows a plenty but he isn't saying anything.
 When Rep. John Garner, later speaker and vice president, got him his job in 1917, he told the little Negro barber, now 76, he was not to "meddle in politics, just to take good care of the Congressmen."

Neale, a mere wisp of a man whose white coat reaches his knees, and whose grimy eyeshade is worn well down over his wrinkled brow, can and does talk about the sad state of hirsute affairs on Capitol Hill.

"There are more bald heads in the 80th Congress," he says, than he's seen in many a day. He figures that Republicans tend more to baldness than Democrats.
 "What about Sam Rayburn, minority leader?" I asked reminding the barber that a colleague of the Texan had recently twitted him about the "fine head of skin" he had.

"Him—why he's only one Democrat in a hundred," says Neale.
 "Tim, waitin' for Mr. Rayburn now," says the little man puffing carefully at a half-inch of old cigar stub on the point of a pencil stub.

"It's not exactly a hair-cut, I'll be giving him—just a sort of fringe-trim. He gets one about every 10 days."
 Neale says he has seen better barber-shop days.
 "The day of the dandy is gone forever," he says. "The day was when men were more particular about their hair, wanting it to comply with the features of their face."
 "Now all they want is what I call a barroom cut, with my running the clipper up their heads leaving their necks and around their ears all skinny and white."
 Neale says he shaved and fixed up Mr. Garner for years.
 "I used to keep his eyebrows even, up until the time he became speaker of the house. From then until the time he left Congress, you couldn't do anything to them—except put a comb through them."

Neale also used to shave the late "Uncle" Joe Cannon, and though the longtime speaker from Illinois was practically bald he had a good healthy beard. Neale describes it as a "Lincoln beard." He used to like to work on it.
 Former Rep. Tinkham of Massachusetts also had a beard "what was a beard." Neale says it was a pleasure to trim it.

Neale says his eyes aren't so good now. He wouldn't want to be bottered with beards again. He explains you have to cut them too carefully to make them look nice and "it's a strain on the eyes."
 The barber says he is a Democrat, but when he first came to the Capitol barber shop he was assigned to work on the Republican side. The barber shop in those days was divided in the same way as the floor of the House of Representatives—
 West Side, Republican, East Side
 Democrat.

"In his daily wielding of scissors and blade, whether it's haircutting, fringe-trimming or shaving, Neale says a man's politics has little to do with his attitude in the chair."
 "I take 'em as they come and give them the best I've got," he says.

 and state separate).
 Justice Black, who wrote the majority opinion upholding the constitutionality of the New Jersey law, said in part:
 "The purpose of the New Jersey law, even if it meant using funds to transport children to Catholic schools, is to promote education and getting children educated is a public service.
 In other words, Black said, paying the bus fare to get children to Catholic schools was part of a social benefit program that would apply to people of any religious belief.
 Therefore, it was all right.
 But Justice Jackson, disagreeing with Black, said:
 "Catholic education is the rock upon which the Catholic Church rests. To help the church school by transporting children to it, with public money is the same as helping the church itself.

 Therefore, Jackson considered this in violation of the constitution which forbids any state to help in "establishment of a religion."

Stake In Britain . . .

 seem to realize that Britain's whole system is being put to the test. Although her people are being asked to fight the economic battle with all their ancient determination, they realize that in some ways
 Dunkerque was easier.
 The fear in Britain seems to be that her social program will prove too great a burden for her economic system. That if she attempts to continue it she will be unable to compete in the world's markets and become just another little island.

 tion in political campaigns. This was the holdover case from last term. It was filed with the court a little more than two years ago.
 Frankfurter wrote a concurring opinion in this case. Rutledge noted a dissent, Black wrote an opinion dissenting generally, and Douglas wrote an opinion dissenting in part.

 ment

Washington, Feb. 11—(AP)—Dr.
 Arthur E. Morgan, ousted nine years ago as chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, today accused his successor, David E. Lilienthal, of making "dishonest" statements and harboring a desire for "irresponsible power."

Morgan's testimony, given to senators considering Lilienthal's qualification as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, was the second blow at the nominee today.

Friends of Senator Taft (R-Ohio) chairman of the powerful Republican Policy Committee, disclosed earlier he intends to vote against Lilienthal's confirmation.

Morgan told the committee that Lilienthal had "excellent abilities in some ways" and was "an exceptionally suitable person for administrative relationships, where he had no contrary purposes."

But, he said, he had encountered two principal difficulties in working with Lilienthal.
 "One arose out of his desire to be irresponsibly in power," he testified. "I think I could have gotten along as far as that was concerned."

"But representations were made to the public by the TVA, as the TVA, which I found to be, in a short word—dishonest."

Compromise On Big Four Report

Berlin, Feb. 11—(AP)—After weeks of discord, the Allied commanders in Berlin have agreed to submit a joint report on Germany to the big four foreign ministers conference in Moscow next month, with the proviso that each power have the right to submit an individual report if so desired.

The right of submitting unilateral reports was decided as a compromise move by a coordinating committee.
 This would permit the drafting up of a report on information high all four commanders supply from their zones, and in cases where one commander reports certain information unavailable the other three powers could prepare individual reports.

 instead to a theory that Miss hacking and severing of her body—may have suggested a similarity to Mrs. French's slayer.

Prof. R. C. Deal Is Lions Speaker
Ralph C. Deal, retired professor of East Carolina Teachers' College, was guest speaker at the Greenville Lions Club supper meeting at the Woman's Club. He spoke of the advantages of a small town, among the many privileges being jaywalking, utter disregard to traffic lights, and to walk in any direction whether the light is red or green. The retired college professor, who is reputed to have made more speeches during the last 30 years than any person in Eastern Carolina, was philosophic in his treatment of his subject. Always humorous, always cheerful, he entertained the Lions with one of the breeziest after-dinner speeches they had heard in a long time. His oration on safety in traffic was a gem of eloquence. The program was sponsored by the Lions Safety Committee. Lion Raymond Hart chairman.

Miss Joan Bloom, a high school student, gave a dissertation on Bermuda in the series of studies of foreign languages, presented to the club by various Greenville High School students. "Bermuda is now primarily a tourist country and winter resort," she said.
Rufus Stark, Vernon Tyson and Frank Scott were guests. Rufus Stark is the Junior Lion for the month. President Vernon Rawls presided.

The friends of Mrs. Lillie Hunter will regret to learn that she is ill at her home on Greenville Route 1.

The Rose Bud Ushers of Mt. Calvary F. W. B. Church met at Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bell's on February 9. The meeting opened with its usual procedure with the president presiding, Mrs. Gus Gardner. After the meeting the hostess, Mrs. Bell, served a three course supper and everyone enjoyed it.

The Ladies' Auxiliary club had its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Lena Bradley Sunday, February 9, at 5 o'clock. The opening song was "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." Scripture lesson was read by the president, after which we were led in prayer by the president. A song, "Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone," was sung.

After the business part of the meeting a program was presented. A recitation was given by Mrs. Annie Whitehead and a reading by Mrs. Louise Hopkins. A quartet composed of Smith, Atkinson, Simmons and Woodard gave several selections. A delicious salad course was served by the hostess.

Here's Proof of Extra Mileage in the Tire That OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES

Testimonials about the new B. F. Goodrich tire are not uncommon. This extra mileage was scientifically engineered into the tires. First, a wider, flatter tread was developed for longer wear and greater protection against skidding. Second, to hold that tuckier tread, a new 35% stronger cord body was developed.

That's why we say, see us today... equip your car with the new B. F. Goodrich Silvertown... the tire that outlasts prewar tires.

U.S. SENATOR WILL ADDRESS LEGION HERE

W. B. Umstead Main Speaker At Legion Banquet And Dance Friday

Plans are now complete for the annual American Legion "ladies night" to be held at the armory in Greenville Friday night of this week. The features of the evening will be a speech by United States Senator W. B. Umstead of Washington City and a dinner, to be followed by a dance. The music for the occasion will be furnished by a 14-piece orchestra. Only a limited number of people can be taken care of for the dinner, therefore, Ty Wagner, chairman of the Ticket Committee, requests all those desiring to attend the dinner and dance to get tickets at once in order that proper reservations may be made.

Senator Umstead is a Legionnaire. He is a member of the Durham post of the American Legion and has been since World War I. For a while Umstead was a member of the House of Representatives of the National Congress but resigned in order to reenter law practice in Durham. He was campaign manager for the present Governor

R. Gregg Cherry, and was then appointed chairman of the Executive Committee of the Democratic Party. When the late Senator J. W. Bailey died he was appointed United States senator. He is one of the most forceful speakers in the state.

In addition to Senator Umstead other distinguished guests will be present.

Jimmy Jenkins, chairman of the Dinner Committee, reports that all arrangements have been made for the dinner and LeRoy Cherry of the Dance Committee and Carol Chauncey of the Decorating Committee reported today that all plans are complete.

Chairman June H. Rose stressed the fact that all ex-service men are invited, whether they are members of the Legion or not.

Greenie Squad In Hardest Contest

What should be one of the season's hardest fought high school basketball games is on tap in the GHS gym here tonight when the Green Phantoms take on an unpredictable New Bern Bear five at eight o'clock. A junior game between the two schools will begin at seven.

New Bern evidently has a strong team, for Washington's league leading Pam Pack was forced to come from behind to take a 32-31 win from them last Tuesday. Previously, however, Roanoke Rapids, a team the Greenies have whipped twice this year, beat the Bears by a 30-25 score.

If the Phantoms can win tonight, it will mark their fourth straight triumph and seventh Northeastern Conference victory. Holding at present a 6-3 conference record which places them third in the eight team league, the Greenies seemingly have little chance to capture the league title unless some real upsets are pulled around the conference. However, they could certainly overturn Washington's apple cart with two wins over them in the couple of games to be played on February 21 and 24. If this should happen, Washington and Kinston could end the season in a dead heat for first place.

Starters for tonight will probably be Jimmy Cox and Billy White at guards, Henry Turner and Glynn Perkins at forwards, and Dave Clark at center.

Bethel Cagers In Winning Season

Last Friday night the Bethel High School boys' basketball team broke the winning streak of the South Edgecombe High School boys team by a score of 36 to 28. The Edgecombe boys had previously won 16 straight games.

This game was Bethel High's 19th consecutive victory over high school teams.

W. Z. Worsley, Bethel center, was high scorer of the game, with 16 points; Whitley and Hemingway followed closely with 12 each. Keel, Smith and House played splendid floor games for Bethel High.

Bethel High lost an early season game to Farmville High but has since beaten them two games and has put aside all opposition with exception of the ECTC Jayvees. The 19 triumphs include winning an early season tournament at Walstonburg, victories over Robersonville, Tarboro, Farmville, Ayden, Snow Hill, Oak City, Grimesland and Winterville.

Walter C. Latham, principal of Bethel High School, and Sam Dewar, agriculture teacher, coach the basketball team.

Bethel High's home games for February are as follows: Grifton High, 11th; Winterville High, 14th; Arthur High, 18th; Robersonville High, 22d, and possibly Tarboro on February 27th.

Greenville High and Belvoir have indicated definite plans to compete in the contest.

A first prize of $10.00 is being offered, and three others ($7.50, $5.00, and $2.50). At least two other schools are expected to enter speakers in order that all prizes may be claimed.

Last year's Pitt County winner was Shelley Beard of Greenville High. Hilda Loftin, of Winterville, was in second place.

The five-county district contest will be held in Greenville a week later under the direction of June Rose, superintendent of Greenville City Schools.

N.C. Basketball

Duke meets one of the most imposing obstacles in its path to an undefeated Southern Conference season tonight when the Blue Devils tangle with the White Phantoms of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

The encounter highlights of the cage week, is one of five on tonight's schedule for state teams. It's due to be a battle of "hooks" — John "Hook" Dillon of North Carolina and Ed "Big Hook" Koffenberger of Duke. Dillon has been out of action because of injuries but may be in shape to go all the way tonight.

Koffenberger is the conference's leading scorer with 143 points in eight games and has a season's total of 295 in 19 contests.

It will be the only conference action for the two clubs this week.

Also on tonight's card are games between the Citadel and Davidson at Charlotte; Appalachian at Guilford; Catawba at Newberry; Atlantic Christian at Lenoir-Rhyne; and Wake Forest and Washington and Lee.

Things went pretty much as expected last night with the exception of the Atlantic Christian-High Point game where the Christians edged out the Purple Panthers 83-82 as Vince Columbo sank a pair of charity tosses in the final seconds.

North Carolina State swamped the Citadel, 75 to 35 and moved into position to take over the Southern Conference lead if Duke falls to North Carolina. Wake Forest opened its Virginia invasion by defeating VMI, 54 to 44, and Catawba stopped Wofford, 31-23 in a mild upset. Charley Seay, Wofford's high scoring center, was held to six points by the Indians.

Co-stars Bing Crosby, Fred Astaire, Joan Caulfield, the technicians Irvin Berlin musical "Blue Skies" opens Tuesday at the Pitt.

Pirates To Play Duke "B" Quint

The East Carolina Teachers' College cagers will be out for revenge tomorrow night, when they take on the Duke "B" team in the Wright gym at 8:15 p. m. The Duke quint is one of the few teams that have defeated the Pirates this season and boasts of a strong squad.

The ECTC team, which has been ridden by injuries for the past two games, will be at full strength in order to keep their winning slate clean on the home floor. The Pirates have lost only one contest in the Wright gym, that being the first game of the season. The Buc's record now stands at 16 wins against 4 losses.

March Deadline In Farm Training

Arthur B. Corey, County Service Officer, announced that North Carolina veterans of World War II, who desire to take co-operative farm training under the provisions of Public Law 346 (the GI Bill), must be enrolled for instruction by a vocational agricultural teacher prior to March 1, 1947, in order to receive tuition and subsistence allowance payments under the Veterans Administration training program.

Veterans not enrolled by the end of February cannot enter the farm training program until 1948, as new procedures require all enrollments to be made during January and February of each year in the future. This means that farm training—a cooperative program of organized instruction and on-farm training—will always start at the beginning of the crop year.

There are already some 8,000 veterans in the state taking farm training. They, and others entering before the new deadline, will have their progress reviewed on March 1, 1948, by their vocational agricultural teachers and VA agricultural training officers. Evidence of satisfactory progress will be required to permit continuance of subsistence allowance at that time.

Schools To Take Part In Contest

The tenth annual oratorical contest sponsored by the American Legion will be held at Greenville High School at 7:45 o'clock Thursday evening, March 13. The contest is on the Constitution of the United States, and consists of a ten minute prepared speech and a four minute extemporaneous talk on the Bill of Rights.

Each Pitt County high school is eligible to enter one speaker. Only
