NFTW Offer Is Rejected By Bell

Telephone Officials Turn Down Reduced Pay Demand Compromise Offer; Insist On Own Area Arbitration Plan

By HAROLD W. WARD Washington, April 26—(AP)—An offer by striking telephone workers to settle their wage demands for $6 a week ran into a rejection from an important Bell System unit today, but government conciliators went ahead with efforts to end the 20-day-old cross country trip.

The turn-down came from the Long Lines Division of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. It termed "unacceptable" the union's proposal that all its members accept half the $12 demanded when the walkout started April 7.

Instead, the company offered one again to arbitrate wages on a community basis. The union declined, but negotiations continued. Government conciliators scheduled two other major conferences today between important Bell System companies and the unions of their employees, affiliated with the striking National Federation of Telephone Workers. These are the Western Electric Company and the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

The government-sponsored negotiations for the 20,000 Long Lines workers began last night and were set to continue this morning. The NFWT policy committee reduced the wage demand to $6 to bring it into line with the 15-cent hourly wage increases for steel, auto and electrical manufacturing unions.

The rejection in the Long Lines division came last night from George S. Dring, assistant vice-president. He added in a statement that he promptly offered to arbitrate wages area-by-area, but that John J. Moran, head of the American Union of Telephone Workers and vice-president of the NFWT, replied:

"Even if such a plan were acceptable to the Long Lines union it would have to go to the policy committee of the NFWT for approval."

Moran said later, "the company refused to make any cash offer." Settlement of the strike in Maryland by 2,000 plant and maintenance workers drew conflicting reactions from Lucien F. Rye, the federal conciliator there, and Joseph Beirne, president of the NFWT. "The American Federation of Telephone Workers agreed to submit its wage and other demands on the

Twice Married Negro Was Not Guilty Bigamy

By CHESTER WALSH

Warren Tyson, Negro, who was arrested by Greenville police recently for investigation and who had two Georgia marriage licenses in his possession, is a free man.

Local police said the licenses showed that he was married in a Georgia county in 1945 and that a year later he married a woman in another Georgia State county without getting a divorce. Tyson told police he didn't get a divorce from his first wife because "I couldn't find her."

Tyson was indicted for bigamy and when his case was called in Superior Court he pleaded guilty. Judge John J. Burney of Wilmington, after looking over the licenses found out that Tyson had not lived with either of his wives in North Carolina and therefore could not be held here, and dismissed the bigamy charge.

Incidentally, Greenville police had nothing against the twice-married man.

"Sphinx Of Moscow"

When It Comes To Stalin, This Analyst Can Just Stand And Wonder What Riddle That Colossus May Propound Next; No Clue To Intent At Kremlin Banquet

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

That was a grand banquet which Prime Minister Stalin gave in the Kremlin to mark the conclusion of the deadlocked four-power conference, and his toast to the health of President Truman was an impressive gesture.

One would like to be able to add that this marked the wind-up of the doubts and suspicions and other differences which have been marring the relations of Russia and the western democracies. But when you search for something on which to pin your hope, you don't find it.

They frequently refer to Stalin as the Sphinx of Moscow, because he is a man of so few words. And indeed as your columnist tries to extract any helpful sign from his banquet and courteous toast, he has the identical feeling he has experienced when standing before the great Egyptian Sphinx in the Sahara outside Cairo. You just stand and stand, and wonder what riddle that colossus may propound next to the confusion of mankind.

The banquet was perfect—as a banquet. But something was lacking. Not only was there the absence

Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Maryland, to a local arbitration board and withdrew from the NFWT.

Rye said this "may be the pattern" for settling the national strike.

Beirne said that would be "jumping to conclusions" and reminded reporters that similar arbitration proposals already have been rejected by the 39 striking NFWT unions.

POLICE PUSH DUKE INQUIRY

Release Man Held For Questioning In Hospital Mystery

Durham, N. C., April 26—Police pushed an investigation today of two mysterious attacks on Duke hospital nurses and a series of incendiary fires in the institution after releasing a University of North Carolina student who had been detained for questioning.

Police Chief H. E. King said the student was a former admirer of Miss Sus Taylor, 26-year-old nurse who was shot and critically wounded by an unidentified robber Wednesday night, a few hours after the firemen had been called upon to extinguish seven fires in the hospital.

Another fire broke out last night, and firemen said it was started intentionally. The second attack upon a nurse came as Miss Virginia Leonard, night supervisor on the fourth floor, opened a door to investigate the smell of smoke coming from above.

As she opened the door, she told police, she was knocked down by a blow in the face from a man's fist. She caught a glimpse of her assailant, apparently about 35 and wearing a blue shirt open at the neck, she said.

Miss Taylor was reported to be still in serious condition from a pistol wound in the abdomen. Detectives said they were unable to question her because she talked incoherently, repeating that someone had shot her and that someone had brought her flowers.

She was shot by a man who approached her and O. B. Williams, 20-year-old Duke medical college student as they sat on steps leading into Duke gardens to the rear of the hospital. They reported that the man robbed Williams of his wallet, then forced them to walk into the flower gardens where he shot Miss Taylor in the back. The bullet came out the abdomen.

Capt. Claude Woods of the fire department said the blaze discovered last night was definitely of incendiary origin. It was found in an attic above the fifth floor where rags, a board and a table were burning when firemen arrived.

POSSUM AND TATERS.

The aroma of good victuals cooking at First and Pitt streets yesterday was emanating from the brick house on the corner. They had 'possum and taters and all of the "trimmings" for dinner Friday at the home of Ed L. Law, vice-president of the Carolina Sales Corporation. Mr. Law treed a full grown 'possum in a pecan tree on his premises early yesterday. He called in police and they killed the nocturnal marsupial and "that's what was a-cookin' in the Rawl domicile yesterday.

Babe Ruth Day

In observance of Babe Ruth day at Guy Smith Stadium tomorrow—Sunday—the Greenville Baseball Club is planning to give away 12 Coastal Plain League baseballs, autographed by Johnny Pare, Greenies' manager, and by Babe Ruth. The balls will be given to youngsters attending the tilt between the local club and the Roanoke Rapids nine.

A limited number of booklets entitled "Play Ball, Son" will also be distributed among the younger set.

Senate War Investigators Decide To Bail Truman Out Of Veto Mix-Up But Protest Hitch In Seeing Roosevelt Records

Washington, April 26—(AP)—Republicans on the Senate War Investigating Committee talked today of letting President Truman off gently on his "wheeler veto" mixup but blew up a new storm over his restrictions on records of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Chairman Brewster (R-Me.) called the GOP-controlled committee together (10:30 a.m. EST) to decide what the members want to do about:

1. A proposal to pass a compromise version of the vetoed resolution to let former Senator Burton K. Wheeler keep his private law practice while serving as special committee counsel in an oil investigation.

2. President Truman's decision that the oil investigators may obtain from the Roosevelt Hyde Park files only those documents they describe in advance.

The compromise resolution suggested by Senator Hatch (D-NM) is tailored to overcome a Justice Department objection that the original might have been interpreted as giving Wheeler power to bring suit in behalf of the government.

President Truman signed the veto message prepared by the Justice Department and stood by it at his Thursday news conference, although several senators declared they approved an identical resolution for the Senate-House Pearl Harbor Committee in December, 1945.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.), a committee member, still wanted to ask Congress to override the veto.

But Brewster, telling reporters he assumed Hatch had White House clearance for the compromise, expressed hope "the White House will stand still long enough for us to pass it."

On the issue of the Roosevelt records, however, Brewster let it be known there was likely to be some strong talk behind the committee's closed doors.

President Truman signed the veto message prepared by the Justice Department and stood by it at his Thursday news conference, although several senators declared they approved an identical resolution for the Senate-House Pearl Harbor Committee in December, 1945.

UN DELEGATES MEET MONDAY

Special Session On Palestine; Argentine Offers Plan

New York, April 26—(AP)—Official delegations and interested groups mapped last-minute strategy today for handling the explosive Holy Land problem as representatives of 55 countries converged on New York for the special Palestine session of the United Nations Assembly which opens Monday.

The five major powers took the lead by agreeing on a slate of officers for the session which gets underway at Flushing Meadow park Monday. Under the five-power agreement one of the vice presidencies would go to either India or the Philippines with India reported to have the edge.

Slated to furnish the chairman of the six assembly committees were Egypt, Canada, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Mexico and Sweden.

In a flurry of last-minute moves, Argentina announced she would propose the creation of an 11-member committee to inquire into the Palestine situation.

Rent Control Is Backed In Bill

Washington—(AP)—The House Banking committee, after reversing itself to kill a 10 per cent general boost in rent ceilings, today submitted for house action a bill to continue rent controls at least until December 31.

A floor battle is likely, beginning next Wednesday, on other provisions of the legislation which would abolish government controls over building materials and construction under the veterans housing act.

Babson Looks Five Years Ahead

Eureka, Kansas, April 25.—I hope I am wrong; but the following is a brief summary of my vision for the next five or more years whatever Russia may do. This, moreover, is based upon forty years of forecasting experience and the expenditure of millions of dollars on business research.

(1) I am reasonably sure of at least two more years of fair business. If the U.S. adopts the right international policy, this can be extended to five years or more. Certainly, the agricultural sections out here are happy and see no reason for any business depression.

(2) My manufacturing friends are very much upset by labor's demands and believe that "sooner or later" we will witness a Great Depression with millions of unemployed. Commodity, real estate and stock prices will be very much lower than at present, they claim.

(3) When visiting Washington, I find a belief that unless Russia collapses in the meantime there will then be a communist uprising in the U.S. If our Federal Government is not then taken over by the

President Greet Envoy To Moscow

Marshall Arrives Home To Report Portents Of Failure In Big Four Session To Congress And To The Nation

Washington, April 26—(AP)—Secretary of State Marshall returned from Moscow at 10:40 a.m. (EST) today and was greeted by President Truman and several thousand spectators at National Airport.

Mr. Truman shook hands warmly with the secretary, chatted with him a few moments, then shook hands with the secretary's advisors who flew back with him from the Foreign Ministers Conference.

With the President, who interrupted a cruise on the Potomac River to welcome Marshall, were Senator Connally (D-Tex.), Secretary of Commerce Harriman, Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson and several other State Department officials.

The crowd cheered as the army transport command plane taxied to a stop at the airport.

An army band played "Hail to the Chief" as the President walked from his car toward the plane.

Marshall was dressed in a neat blue business suit and was smiling as he talked, alternately smiling and seriously with the chief executive.

With him on his flight from Moscow via Berlin and Iceland Marshall brought a top-sided mixture of many disappointments and some accomplishments—the fruits of his first major conferences in the role of the nation's top-ranking diplomat.

He had hoped for more when he left: A firm peace settlement for Austria; greater progress in welding economic unity and in starting work on a treaty for Germany.

Mr. Truman late yesterday invited congressional leaders to a White House huddle Sunday night to hear a first hand account of the Big Four Foreign Ministers' Council and perhaps a report on what Marshall and Premier Stalin discussed in private at the Kremlin.

The legislative leaders counted also on obtaining Marshall's estimate of the Russian reaction to the momentous foreign policies they have been shaping since he left.

The Secretary of State will report to the nation in a half-hour broadcast over three of the four major networks at 8:30 o'clock (EST) Monday night.

The White House conference Sunday plus the broadcast may forestall a Capitol Hill appearance later in the week.

It was at a White House conference in early March that Marshall counseled that this nation must act directly and independently or see communism spill over into small war-weakened countries of the Middle East and the Mediterranean. The result was the Administration's $400,000,000 measure to bolster Greece and Turkey against communism. This legislation has won Senate passage and will probably reach the House floor late next week.

Calling the proposed action the result of a "long range program to discourage patronage of the trains," J. W. Turner, of Portsmouth, special representative of the engineers' union, has written Senator Harry F. Byrd, asking that he intercede in opposition to the move before the Virginia State Corporation Commission.

Although Turner said he was primarily interested in the men whose jobs would be affected by the proposed stop he asserted that every city and town along the 242-mile route would be deprived of passenger train service and that these localities would suffer serious loss, particularly as regards express shipments.

"These communities themselves must act to head this thing off," he declared. "They are about to lose something they will never regain."

He contended that if the railway "would make the same effort to increase its passenger business as it has made to discourage it," the resulting income would make the operation profitable.

RETAILERS IN N. C. LOOKING TO PRODUCERS

Few Instances Of Price Cuts; Claim Hope Lies With Manufacturers

By The Associated Press No immediate reductions in wholesale or retail prices on a statewide basis were seen today in an Associated Press survey of business conditions in major North Carolina cities.

The price reductions, urged by President Truman to block inflationary tendencies in the nation's economy and placed into effect at scattered points throughout the country during the past week, waited for manufacturers' action first, at least one North Carolina retailer asserted.

A group of 81 grocery stores in Greensboro and its vicinity announced mark downs of retail commodities of ten per cent or more yesterday. The stores, independently owned, are members of Home Service Stores, Inc., an organization created as a central buying agency.

Only state manufacturing concern joining the Truman price reduction drive was the Cannon Mills, producers of towels, which reported last weekend that their products would be merchandised at lowered prices. The amount of the reduction was not disclosed.

At Asheville, Chamber of Commerce officials said there is little prospect of a concerted movement by merchants there to slash prices. Ralph Grant, president of the Merchants' Association there, termed efforts to reduce prices on the retail level "poor business practice" because, he said, "the margin of profit realized by most retailers is too small to permit effective reductions." The only hope of genuine price relief, he asserted, lies with manufacturers.

A similar attitude was reflected by official spokesmen for Winston-Salem merchants. Ernest "Fank" Fank, executive secretary of a merchants' group there, said that dealers did not see their way clear to make general price cuts at present but that reductions would be made as costs decrease and as "the good old way of merchandizing warrants."

In Elizabeth City, a group of stores on Pointechar Street agreed to cut prices ten per cent on a week's trial basis. If the plan is successful and volume increases they will continue indefinitely.

Political Pot Is "Biling' Over In Winterville

By CHESTER WALSH It's politics all the way, incidentally. Paul Hunsucker, citizen of the enterprising town said today, three candidates have announced for the place of chief burgess of Winterville. They are C. D. Langston, H. E. Carroll and Burney K. Tucker. Each has a platform, but none have so far announced details.

Herbert Forrest has announced for the Board of Aldermen in Winterville to oppose George D. Cox, the incumbent. Three aldermen compose the board. Only Cox has to run at the coming election. Will Weatherington and L. B. Hill are holdover aldermen.

Efforts are being made by public-spirited citizens to have the mayorally candidates engage in a public debate.

About Reclamation

Recovery Of Waste Land In America's Western States For Farm Use Long Anticipated; Today's Fight Over Funds For Interior Dept. In Congress; Its Impact

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, April 26—(AP)—Reclamation? There's a fight in Congress over it. What does it mean? Here's the story.

Much of the western United States was known as the great American desert. Rainfall was scarce and still is, in much of it. Because the unwatered land was no good for crops, the early settlers tried to reclaim it from the desert.

They did it by homely devices, such as ditches that carried water to their dry land from streams and so on.

The limit for this kind of reclamation was reached about 1900. Millions of acres still could be reclaimed but—from 1900 it became clear further reclamation would have to be done on a big scale in a way that would carry water many miles to many farms.

So Congress in 1902 passed a reclamation law to help make western lands fertile, the act still stands. It covers 17 western states. Since 1902 the government has spent about a billion dollars for reclamation work.

The value of the crops raised on the land reclaimed through government help since 1902 has been about five billion dollars.

The government now has 54 irrigation, or reclamation, projects in operation and another 28 under construction.

About 5,000,000 acres of land are supplied with water from the government systems now. Another 4,000,000 will be supplied when the new projects are finished.

As time passed, the government advanced from simple irrigation project to huge plants which could help supply not only water for irrigation but electric power to surrounding areas.

In 1936 the government finished Boulder Dam in the lower Colorado river at a cost of $126,000,000. It helps irrigate 400,000 acres of land and it supplies electric power to Lower California, Lower Nevada and Eastern Arizona.

The reclamation programs are carried out by the Interior Department.

Like every other government agency, each year it must go up to Congress for money to keep running.

Strength FOR THE DAY

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

ON BEING TOO BUSY The poet Coleridge dropped asleep one day while reading from a book of poetry. When he awoke he had in his mind a poem of several hundred lines so complete in every detail that he began writing it down without a moment's hesitation. He wrote fifty-four lines as quickly as he could scribble the words. Then a caller knocked at the door. When Coleridge went back to his writing some time later, the poem had vanished from his mind. The world has fifty-four lines of Kubla Kahn, and only this number, born of pronounced and unqualified inspiration.

This incident may well remind us in an age of feverish activity that we are losing many precious things by being too busy. When the day is over and the balance is struck, we may well wonder whether the effort we have made in so many fields has been worth while. Might it not have been better to have taken things easier, invited our souls a bit, and enjoyed life a little more? Activity and growth are the signs of health, and they who shuffle through life and come to its end with practically nothing accomplished are failures indeed. But so are the people who work so hard and keep so busy that they miss the meaning of life.

city in the Central Area of the United States. If you don't care to take so definite a step now you can at least now make a start by rearranging your investments. In the light of this situation there are three classifications of investments to be considered. These are Safest Investments, Bomb Targets and Semi-Protected Investments.

Safest Investments should include those companies whose assets or sources of materials are decentralized, or underground or indestructible. Among these are certain Land, Chemical and Mining companies most of whose assets are well scattered, well buried or obtained from the sea. Also, companies processing or packing food products whose assets are in or near Agricultural Areas. Some Lumber and Sea Food companies should be included in this group.

Bomb Targets should include most heavy industries such as Steels, Locomotives, Automobiles and Machinery. Other companies whose principal income is derived from Food Distribution in large cities would be vulnerable. Utilities, including transportation, gas and electricity, Electrical Equipment Manufacturers, large Department Stores, Drug Companies and Restaurant Chains would all be open to attack.

Semi-Protected Investments are those based upon somewhat scattered assets with at least the greater portion in "safe" areas. I have in mind such industries as the Container Companies, certain Meat Packing Companies, Oil Companies, Chain Store Systems, Communication Companies, and finally Publishing Companies whose good will and reputation are in the same category as trademarks and cannot be "bombed" out.

Interior asked for $145,952,200 for its reclamation work. The subcommittee decided it needed only $62,717,000, a cut of $83,234,800.

Then the subcommittee sent out its wrecked-down figure to the full House to vote on. The House put back only $5,175,000 of the reclamation money.

LOCALS DROP SECOND GAME AGAINST TARS

Hard-Hitting Visitors Spoil Evening For Home Fans By 15-6 Win

By BERT MOYE Greenville's home opener in the Coastal Plain League was spoiled for approximately 1,800 fans as Manager B. L. Hamons' Tarboro Tars pounded two Greenville hurlers for fourteen hits to make it two in a row over the Greensies with a creased score of 15-6.

Manager Pare's Greensies started off on the scoring end last night in the initial frame with singles by Mauney, Bobby Pare, Dick Fraker being hit by pitcher to load the bases, and Charlie Chute's long fly to deep centerfield to score Mauney from third.

Tarboro in their half of the third took a one run lead when they scored two runs on two hits aided by two Greenie errors.

The Greensies came back in their last of the third to knot the count at two-all when Lynch walked, and Dick Fraker doubled to bring him home.

Greenville scored another singleton in the sixth frame when Rogers walked and scored on Paul Simmons' triple.

The Greensies were held scoreless until their last half of the ninth frame when Mauney and Johnny Pare, who went in to pinch hit for Lynch, were walked, and Bobby Pare poled a homer over the left centerfield to clear the bases.

Johnny Foell started on the mound for the Greensies and pitched the first six frames, allowing five hits, including two doubles and a homer, nine runs, walked seven, and struck out four. Ralph Davis, making his initial appearance for the Greensies, pitched the final three innings and allowed nine hits, which included a homer and two doubles, six runs, and struck out one man.

Robert Pare, Greensie third baseman, and Willard Mauney, centerfielder, led the Greensies' attack last night. Robert Pare got a three-run

Jan Garber Dance. It is strange that Jan Garber's ambition was to be a baseball player rather than a band leader. Jan, who has one of the most popular swing bands in the country, pursued the diamond career until a ball broke his nose. He then quit baseball and applied himself wholeheartedly to music.

He studied and practiced the violin vigorously until he became a master of it. In a few years he was the leading soloist with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra.

Jan decided he wanted a band of his own, so he started a "hotcha" band and became known as the "Originator of Hokum." He then changed his style to that of soft, sweet music with the title, "The Idol of the Airplane."

THE DAILY REFLECTOR

April 26, 1947 The no front yard fence idea continues to grow around Greenville. It really makes front yards look better, and shows buildings to better advantage, to do away with fences. Now if the town authorities would just move to abate the nuisance of chickens running at large people could have pretty lawns and front yards.
