Wounded Man Does Not Want To See Wife

Lumberton, N. C., May 17.—(AP)—David Miller, who was seriously wounded last Sunday morning allegedly by a Negro yard man hired by his wife, says he does not want to see his wife. His family, who had withheld the reported circumstances of his shooting, from him for several days because of his condition finally told him.

He asked that she not be allowed to see him, if she sought to do so. The 26-year-old husband, wounded in the chest, also said he doubted the reported "love triangle" reason for the shooting. Officers are investigating for other possible motives.

The Fate Of Europe

Great Statesmen Of The World Agree That Speed Is Necessary To Lift That Continent From Chaos Into Which It Has Fallen; Germany, Crux Of Matter

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Some three weeks ago U. S. Secretary of State George Marshall, just back in Washington from the deadlocked big four Foreign Ministers' conference in Moscow, warned the nation that the fate of Europe must be settled without delay. Premier Stalin had told Marshall that compromises were possible on the great issues dividing the Allies, but the latter in his report to the people declared that the fate of Europe couldn't wait on "a compromise through exhaustion." The Secretary of State added: "Disintegrating forces are becoming evident. The patient is sinking while the doctors deliberate. Whatever action is possible to meet these pressing problems must be taken without delay." Proof of the truth of Marshall's prophecy was treading on his heels. Today the German economic crisis, complicated by a grave shortage of food, makes it only too clear that the "disintegrating forces" are working fast. For Germany is the epicenter of the earthquake which is rocking all Europe. Within the past few days great statesmen of Britain and France have echoed General Marshall's thesis. Only Moscow remains as ever the Sphinx. British Foreign Secretary Bevin,

Some Background On Family-Man George J. Schoenman, Just Appointed By President Truman To Be The New Internal Revenue Commissioner; Review

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, May 17.—(AP)—A man who born in a lighthouse and moved to the White House will now collect your income taxes. He's George J. Schoenman, 57 just appointed by President Truman to be the new internal revenue commissioner, starting July 1. He's worked for the government 36 years and around here he has the reputation of being quite a glad-hander. This doesn't mean you can go up and shake hands with him and get a tax cut. He'll have 60,000 people working for him in the bureau, collecting and checking your taxes. His salary, for seeing that about $35,000,000,000 in taxes are shoveled in to Uncle Sam will be about $10,000 a year. About $20,000,000,000 of that is income taxes. He was born in a lighthouse, where his father was keeper, off Newport R. I. In those days, he says, the light houses were built round on the inside, just as on the outside and—Sometimes the people on the inside went bawling rolling their eyes around because they had no wall angles to center on. The government, he says, later made them square on the inside.

PICTURES ARE EVIDENCE IN TRIAL OF MOB

Photographs Show Results Of Lynching; FBI Agent Tells Findings

Greenville, S. C., May 17.—(AP)—The State of South Carolina rested its case today against 31 white defendants under Judge J. Robert Martin, Jr., refused to admit in evidence the state's pictures of a Negro lynched last February 17 by members of a mob. State prosecutors sought to offer in evidence today the photographic record of what a South Carolina mob left behind after murdering Negro Willie Earle on a frozen road side before dawn last February 17. Solicitor Sam R. Watt said he wanted to show the photographs to a criminal court jury, which is trying 31 white defendants for murder and conspiracy to murder in the reprisal slaying of a Negro accused of stabbing a white taxi driver. The pictures were taken by police shortly after the victim's body was found. They show how the Negro was beaten and virtually butchered alive before his head was blasted into a bloody pulp with three charges from a double-barrel shotgun. The state concluded yesterday its presentation of 26 purported statements made to police by self-acknowledged members of the mob. These were read to the jury—composed predominantly of textile workers—as the prosecution pictured how Earle was taken from the county jail in adjacent Pickens county and driven to his execution near an old slaughterhouse in Greenville county. Richard Wood, special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation told of searching the home of driver, Wood said he found blood-stained coats and trousers, two 12-gauge shotguns, a knife and several brass knuckles. Rector is accused by other defendants of having beaten the Negro with the butt of a shotgun, then slashed him with a knife. Rector, himself, admitted to police that he had participated in the lynching but insisted he had not touched the victim.

Killer's Eyes Are Given To Two Blind Men

Little Rock, May 17.—(AP)—Surgeons today hoped the eyes of a dead murderer might restore sight to two living men. Before 20-year-old Volle Bill Bates was put to death in the Tucker Prison Farm electric chair yesterday, for the robbery slaying of a Mena, Ark. taxicab driver, he willed his eyes to someone who "needed them badly." As a result, surgeons removed corneas from Bates' eyes shortly after his death and today planned to transplant them to the eyes of Michael F. Boucher, 73-year-old retired bricklayer of Hot Springs, and Frank McCracken, a 40-year-old Port Smith piano tuner, both blind. One of Bates' eyes suffered a superficial burn in the electrocution, but a surgeon said "we think it will be all right." Prison officials said Bates appeared pleased when told that his eyes were to be used for two persons instead of only one.

The sweetheart necklace and pearls were beaded and inset with pearls. She wore her mother's veil of imported Brussels point lace which covered the train of the dress.

The bride carried a bouquet of white orchids with stephanotis attached to the streamers on a prayer book given the bride by her mother.

The bride's sister, Miss Josephine Saad, was maid of honor and wore a pink lace gown with a fitted bodice and a sweetheart neck. The peplum at the waist was of pink lace. Her sweetheart hat was made of ruffled pink net. Her colonial bouquet was of talisman roses with yellow and aqua ribbon streamers.

Col. Sam Tabit of Norfolk, Virginia, was best man.

The ring bearer, little Mishel Hage of Norfolk, Virginia, wore a white suit and carried the rings on a pillow of white satin.

The bridesmaids were Misses Gloria Millan of Norfolk, Virginia, the bridegroom's sister; Bessie Lee Gray of Greenville, North Carolina; Mary Darjany of Washington, D. C.; and Freda Michael of Manchester, New Hampshire.

Misses Millan and Michael wore yellow taffeta gowns and Misses Gray and Darjany wore aqua taffeta gowns. The gowns had fitted bodices with sweetheart necks. The skirts were full with long scalloped peplums. Their picture hats were made of maline. Their colonial bouquets were of carnations and snapdragons with yellow streamers.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore pearls.

The bride's mother wore a black crepe dinner gown with inserts of light pink lace bows at the shoulders. The skirt was tucked with a front peplum. Her corsage was an orchid.

The groom's mother wore an aqua crepe dinner gown with a side drape. Her corsage was an orchid. The ushers were Messrs. Joseph and George Saad of Greenville, brothers of the bride, and Johnny and Raymond Romanus of Norfolk, Virginia, cousins of the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was given by the bride's parents at the Woman's Club for the bridal party and approximately 250 out-of-town guests.

The club was beautifully decorated with white carnations and snapdragons.

The bride's table was covered with a handmade linen cloth. In the center was a bowl of white carnations and fern, at each end crystal candle holders with white candles tied with fern and ribbon.

The three-tiered cake was cut by the bride and groom. After a delicious buffet supper the bridal couple left for a wedding trip to Georgia and New Orleans.

For traveling the bride wore a blue wool crepe suit with pink accessories and rattlesnake shoes and bag, and orchids from her wedding bouquet.

Camp Hardee On The Pamlico

Owned by the Greenville Unit of Girl Scouts

HOWARD J. MCGINNIS

"Nothing could be finer than to be in Carolina"—at Camp Hardee. That is a beautiful camp ground of twenty-six acres located about four miles below Washington on the south bank of the historic Pamlico river. Others may look on from the side lines while making a brief visit to this delightful spot, and those who assist in carrying on the work of the camp may enjoy their stay, but only the girls belonging to the Greenville Unit of Girl Scouts and those scouts who come from other units in Eastern North Carolina to participate in the activities of such a camp can experience fully the delightful sensation that inevitably comes to these scouts when they go to Camp Hardee for the two weeks' period each summer.

The site is ideal for its purpose. On a high bluff overlooking the broad expanse of the Pamlico river, the site is four miles wide at this point, far enough from main traveled roads for privacy, near enough to the city of Washington and other markets to secure provisions and other necessities easily, a terrain that is undulating and well drained, and the whole twenty-six acres covered with a wide variety of native trees—this is Camp Hardee.

This name was chosen for the camp because Mr. Henry M. Hardee, a native of Pitt county, now living in Norfolk, gave as a memorial to his mother and father ten thousand dollars to provide a club house and several cottages for the girls and for the beautification of the site.

Camp Hardee is held in the name of a corporation organized a few years ago to secure and hold permanently an appropriate home and recreation site for the Girl Scout troops of Greenville. This corporation is known as The Girl Scouts of Greenville, incorporated, and it is backed by a group of leading citizens of the city who are vitally interested in seeing that the young girls of the city and of Eastern North Carolina are provided with such training and given such wholesome recreation as only an organization of Girl Scouts can provide.

Though the present organization was formed only about four years ago, some attempts had been made earlier to promote the Girl Scout movement in Greenville. In 1929 a troop was organized under the leadership of Miss Jeanette Wedmore with three local mothers, Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. E. P. Arnold, and Mrs. Howard J. McGinnis as sponsors. They conducted a two-weeks' camp during the summers of 1929 and 1930 at Bay View, and were housed in a two story green shingle dwelling located near the residence of Mr. J. F. Kilby. Some of the girls taking part in those two camp programs now are mothers who have daughters of their own who presently will be eligible for scouting.

Later a day camp was conducted in 1939 and in 1940 on the farm of Mr. Bruce Sugg just west of Greenville; about the same time the local scouts as a special outing feature were taken on a boat trip at Morehead.

Many citizens of Greenville helped purchase the land for Camp Hardee—each person agreeing to purchase one or more acres. A bronze tablet with an appropriate inscription has been placed in the lodge, and the Council is planning the unveiling of the tablet during the present summer when Mr. and Mrs. Hardee and members of the family will be present.

Each year the local organization prepares and sends to its members and to other scout groups in Eastern North Carolina an attractive booklet containing the program for the forthcoming camp season and other information of interest to prospective participants in the season's camping activities.

The health and sanitation facilities of the camp and surroundings meet fully the requirements of both state and national Girl Scout organizations. The drinking water is tested at regular intervals and swimming activities are supervised by American Life Saving Instructors. A doctor is on call when needed and hospital arrangements are made in case the need should arise.

The program is centered around the out-of-doors, with pioneering, cooking out, hiking, and nature lore as the chief interests. The balance wheel offers dramatics, crafts, swimming, boating, music and informal games for the entertainment and training of the girls.

The Bulletin for this year tells the Brownies that:

"The fairies have never a penny to spend,

They haven't a thing put by;

But theirs is the dower of bird and flower,

And theirs is the earth and the sky."

And it tells the intermediate girl scouts:

"Strap your pack to your back,

With a sandwich for a snack,

And we'll take to the road with a song;

Through the brush, through the brake,

When the day is first awake,

Then the Girl Scouts go hiking along."

At the end of the day a campfire is built and the girls circle around it to sing, tell stories, play games and have all manner of wholesome fun. The logs crackle, the smoke rises lazily among the branches of majestic trees and, echoing from afar, comes the croak of bull frogs while the cheerful chirp of crickets and other nocturnal insects add their part to the symphony. What could be more bewitchingly soul satisfying to a lover of the great out-of-doors?

Sitting of evenings around the big fireplace in the spacious lodge hall, lighted only by the dancing flames of a log fire, singing the familiar camp songs that have become a tradition, telling ghost stories that cause a pleasant tingle to run up the spine, or playing some of the numerous appropriate games that only a group of adolescent girls can appreciate fully, is an experience that lingers long in the memories of the girl scouts who have the opportunity to attend the camp. These festivities are of almost nightly occurrence and they are the culmination of a day filled with various forms of work and play.

The camp leaders believe in the adage that, "All play and no work make Gill a shirk," and make her a less desirable companion at home and abroad, so each girl must perform certain set tasks and meet her assignments promptly and well. She must make her own bed, help tidy up her sleeping quarters, take her turn in helping with the meals and in keeping the lodge hall looking presentable.

The camp leaders, as a matter of course, provide a program of daily activities that keep the girls busy and interested. Camp craft, projects of an educational nature and supervised play activities all help to make camping a pleasantly valuable experience.

Camp Hardee is covered with beautiful native trees of oak, maple, pine, hickory, cypress, gum, holly and many small shrubs that make it a bewitching sylvan retreat from the sweltering humidity of the city during hot summer days. Rustic swings and seats among towering trees and winding paths over the rolling terrain invite repose, meditation, and daydreaming. A spiritual satisfaction that builds steadfastness and strong character is hereby developed.

A gentle incline leads among majestic cypress to a clean sandy beach where the slightly saline waves softly lap on the shore. Here the girls may lie peacefully in the sun, or bathe in perfect safety in water whose depth increases so imperceptibly that it is necessary to go far from shore before getting beyond a safe depth.

Across a shimmering expanse of four miles of water may be seen Shady Banks, a summer residential colony on the north side of the river, and, looking down the river, one may see the mouth of Bath creek and the shore line at Bay View. While the camp is on the fringe of the hurry and bustle of every-day life, it has all the quiet charm of a remote fastness where the world and its turbulence is entirely shut out.

There will be plenty of time later for these young girls to have their "house by the side of the road" and to "be a friend to a 'man'"; now, during the adolescent period, they should be given every opportunity to build the strength of body and character, and be assisted in the formation of such habits of thought and action as will enable them to be the kind of friend the world will have especial need for in the period just ahead.

When the idea of building such a camp for the Girl Scouts was suggested to Mr. Hardee and his wife by Mr. Jake Higgs, they became so much interested in the project that they made a trip to Greenville to discuss it with those who were sponsoring and taking the lead in the undertaking. They made a trip to the proposed site and discussed its possibilities; made suggestions looking toward making the most of every feature, and toward making a camp of outstanding attractiveness.

The Lodge and the Infirmary were constructed in 1941 according to plans drawn by an architect from Rocky Mount who was proficient in designing such structures. Mr. and Mrs. Hardee attended the house warming of the lodge during the summer of 1943, at which time Mrs. Catherine H. Adams was the scout leader.

Ten cabins have been constructed for the accommodation of the girls and their counsellors. They are located near the main Lodge where all activities are centered and where meals are served. The infirmary, also, is directly connected with the Lodge. While the construction is semi-rustic, it is neat, attractive and substantial. Excellent materials were used in the construction of the buildings and the equipment is of the best available.

The high vaulted ceiling, supported by artistic wooden girders in the main hall of the lodge, resounds nightly, when the camp is in progress, to the clear happy voices of the girls as they sit around the roaring log fire, if the night is cool, and sing as only a group of exuberant youth can.

And feeding such a group of healthy, vigorous girls is no mean item in the life of a camp. The kitchen is well equipped with range, oven, and all the utensils necessary to prepare every kind of food in a most palatable manner. The food is carefully selected and the menus worked out by persons skilled in such matters. But a person, young or older, who puts in a day filled with as much activity as the campers, gives less attention to the quality or preparation of the food than they do to the amount—it is quantity that is demanded, and then still greater quantities.

Tents were used to house the girls attending the camp during the first two summers it was in operation. That was in 1941; since 1942 ten cabins have been provided—two for counsellors and eight for the girls. There is one unit of four cabins for the Brownies—girls ranging in age from 7 to 10, and an intermediate unit of four cabins for girls ranging in ages from 11 to 14. Plans are now under way to provide a unit for senior girl scouts at a later period.

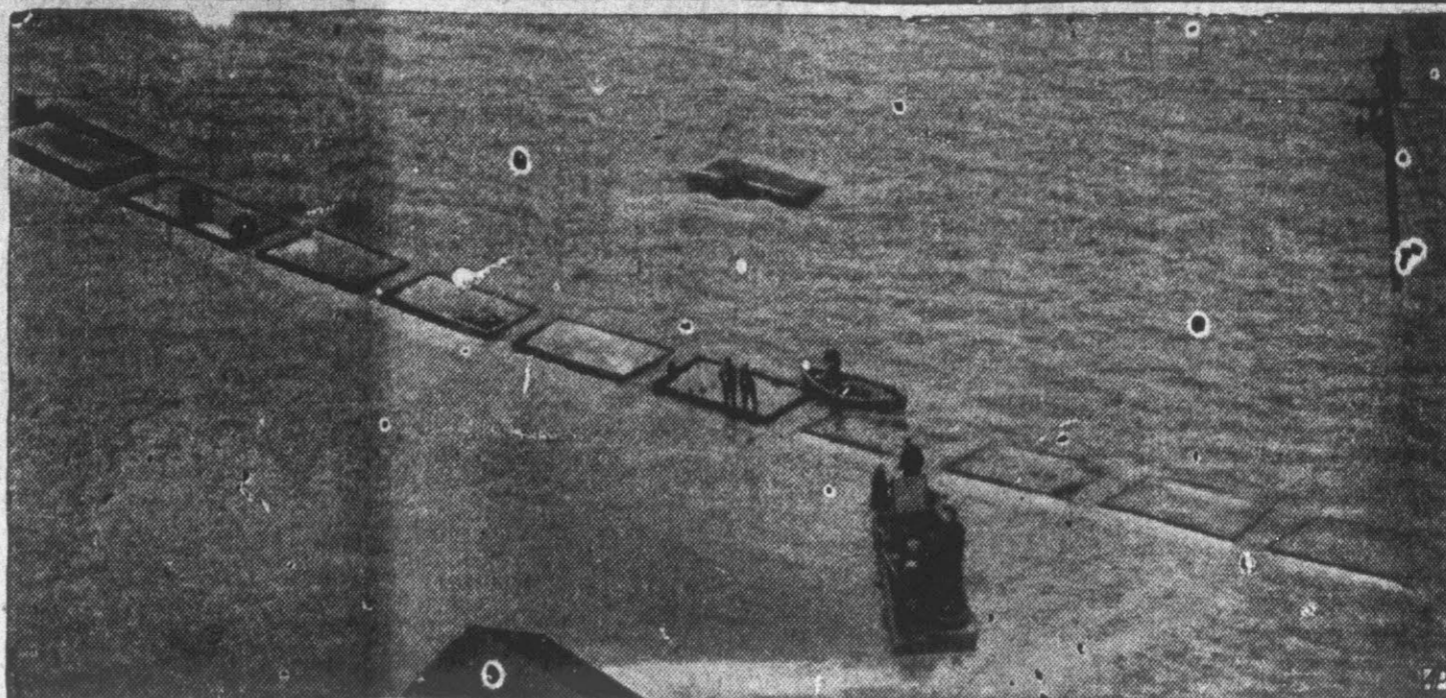

Though the camp belongs to the Girl Scout organization of Greenville and is operated solely by their organization, girl scouts from other parts of North Carolina are invited to attend the camp sessions, which they have done in considerable numbers each year, on invitation from the local officers.

For the accommodation of the different groups who will want to attend camp this summer, three camping periods of two weeks each have been provided. The first opens on June 20 and closes on July 4; the second runs from July 4 to July 18; and the third begins on July 18 and closes on August 1.

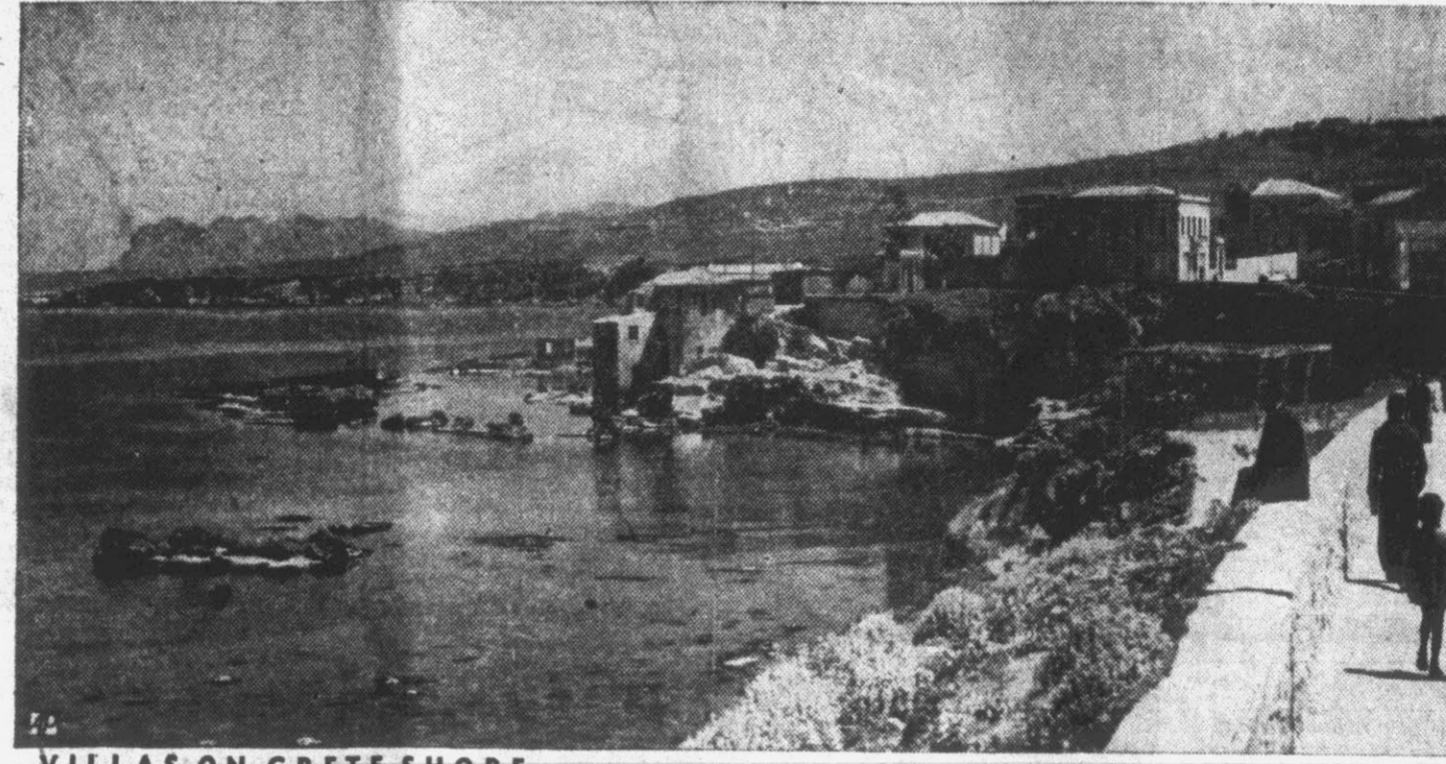

Registered Girl Scouts of Greenville are, of course, given preference in applications accepted for a camping period, but girls from troops elsewhere are accepted in sufficient numbers to fill the normal quota, but an applicant is not accepted for a shorter period than two weeks because, it is explained, a girl cannot get the full benefits and become a good camper in a shorter period.

While the cost at present is twenty-five dollars for a two weeks period, it is the hope of the Council to bring the cost down eventually to around one dollar a day.

Many persons have been interested in and to a greater or less degree, instrumental in bringing to its present well organized status the girl scout movement in Greenville. Mrs. J. B. Kittrell as the first commissioner has been very active in the work. Mrs. E. L. Henderson was the commissioner in 1944, and Mrs. W. P. Moore has also served in that capacity. Each of them is still actively working in the interest of Camp Hardee and the girl scouts. Mrs. Henderson is now serving as active executive secretary of the local girl scout organization until a permanent executive secretary can be secured. Mrs. Kittrell, Mrs. Henderson, Mrs. Moore, and Dr. S. M. Crisp, past camp chairman, are now the official advisers of the camp. maintenance; Mr. Jonathan W. Ormiston, publicity; Mr. H. L. Ormond, operations; Dr. S. M. Crisp, camp doctor; Miss Martha L. Cowell, treasurer of the building fund; and Mr. J. K. Proctor, council program.

The camp staff this summer will consist of Miss Marguerite Whipple, director; Miss Julia Hill, water front; Miss Vera Williams, dietitian; Mrs. E. L. Henderson, business manager and some other personnel yet to be named.

As further evidence, if it were needed, of the energy, enthusiasm and foresight of the Greenville Girl Scout Council, it may be said that they have acquired for prospective use in the future a desirable lot in West Greenville and another on Third Street almost in the center of town. Plans are being considered, and have been underway for some time but were halted by the war, to build a suitable club house on one of these lots, thus providing a meeting place readily at hand the year round for the local troops.

The Greenville Rotary Club, more than a year ago, assumed sponsorship of the local Girl Scouts and have lent a hand in promoting their welfare. At the expenditure of some "elbow grease" and the acquisition of a few blisters, members of the club went to Camp Hardee last spring on at least two occasions and wielded hoes, rakes, brooms, axes and other honorable instruments of labor in cleaning leaves, weeds, unnecessary shrubs, etc., from the grounds. In return, they were provided with one of those rare camp dinners which can be enjoyed only in such a setting—one that combines food, fellowship, and a pastoral environment.

And so when June twenty rolls around, as it will shortly, the girl scouts of Greenville will be themselves away to Camp Hardee for, as a lover of the out-of-doors, Hotan Tonka, once said:

"Deep within the forest, His handiwork is seen,
You'll find His altar bulged beside each crystal stream.
The singing of the birds His voice, 'Tis face in every flower,
Go into the forest, Son, Give Manitou His Hour."

Strength FOR THE DAY

CAN WE SURMOUNT BITTERNESS?
When alongside the experience of misfortune one can place a firm and unwavering conviction of the goodness and power of God, he can go from that misfortune not perhaps into ways of pleasantness but into ways of understanding and courage.

The buldgeoning of today drives us back upon the eternal power of God, and the darkness of life causes us to cry out for the only light that will dispel it. The pain of undeserved suffering leads us to seek the merciful hand of God; and as we grasp it in the darkness, understanding comes. "In the night of death, hope sees a star, and listening love can hear the rustling of a wing."

It is easy enough for us in the days of pleasantness to counsel ourselves and each other about the way to take misfortune, but it is difficult really to get through the storm breaks. What makes it possible for one really to get through the storm and to come out refreshed and strong is the consciousness that above one's own powers are the powers of a personal God. When the storm occurs within the circle of that conviction, men get through it. When the storm occurs outside the circle of that conviction and does not drive men to that conviction, then the storm ends either in the shipwreck of bitterness or with the beating down of every vital power in one's life.

WASHINGTON LETTER

JUNIOR RED CROSS HELPS PUT EUROPEANS BACK IN SCHOOL

By JANE EADS

Washington—School books of all kinds are scarce in Europe. Supplying the printing machinery to help produce books is the latest international project of the American Junior Red Cross.

Through the National Children's Fund, maintained by contributions from more than 19,000,000 members of the junior organization, the first printing unit is being sent to Norway.

It includes an office style composing machine with two complete sets of three kinds of type and a foreign language type setter; one duplicating camera with picture plate-making equipment and other supplies such as lamps; duplicating machine and plates, as well as ink, stamping machines, special pencils and photographic developing materials.

Later three other sections of Europe will receive similar printing units. Each will be marked with a small metal plate bearing the statement: "Gift of the Schools of the United States of America through the American Junior Red Cross."

In the beginning trained foreign representatives of the manufacturers will go to Norway to set up the first printing and duplicating units. They will also show Norwegian instructors how to operate the machinery.

Then the Norwegian instructors will share the printing "know-how" with older students so that they can help with the textbooks and other printed materials for their schools.

Schools from the three other sections of Europe scheduled to receive their own printing outfits will then go to Norway to study the production methods so they will be able to set up their own.

After current school needs for books are met, the printing machinery will be used by Junior Red Cross societies in Europe for printing their own magazines, pamphlets and program materials.

In addition to the printing machinery sent through the National Children's Fund, school children of the nation plan to pack and send 1,000,000 gift boxes overseas during the year.

The children of all of them Junior Red Cross members will work in their own classrooms, filling boxes with such hand-made articles as pencils, paper, soap, wash cloths,

Business also sorely needs young people who can think and pray. The ability to make correct decisions cannot be learned by merely memorizing facts. It cannot be "mass produced" in large classes with busy work and soundless. We need smaller classes, taught by more seasoned teachers who themselves know how to recognize problems and determine issues, seek pertinent facts, develop alternatives and reach reasoned decisions.

Teach Them the "3 R's"

Just before Everett W. Stephens, Personnel Director of Babson Institute, recently came to us from Boston University he completed a three year study of some 100 secondary schools throughout New England. He and his staff administered "achievement and aptitude" tests to more than 30,000 pupils in grades 9 through 12. The appalling revelation is that the average New England schoolboy cannot read well; furthermore the further he goes in school, the slower his progress becomes.

Because these New England youngsters can't read and understand what they read, many high school graduates today cannot solve a simple arithmetical problem. They can add and subtract, but they cannot make their addition and subtraction do anything for them. Employers get here in the Central West assure me that this applies only to children from the large cities, not to those from the small rural communities.

Qualities Business is Looking For
Business and industry are clamoring for young people who show some creative ability, who can comprehend what they read, and who can make simple mathematical calculations. They are also searching for emotionally stable young people filled with vim, who are also sincere, loyal, dependable, resourceful, but still willing to learn. Business needs young people who have not only the willingness but the ability to assume responsibility and to cooperate with and inspire others.

Fate Of Europe . . .

Churchill held that Europe of today is the future of Germany.

Churchill was making another appeal for a United States of Europe—a subject which is increasingly in the thoughts of many people. Certainly a unified Europe is in the minds of statesmen like Marshall, Bevin and Bidault, whether it be called a "United States of Europe" or by some other name.

It is a truism which this column has emphasized often enough that unity in Europe—at least in central and western Europe—depends on the politico-economic rehabilitation of Germany. That's not because Germany's neighbors love her—or nobody does—but because she was the keystone of the European structure.

You will note that the emphasis on "speed" in settling German affairs is common in the declarations of each of the four statesmen quoted. It perhaps isn't so much that the German people might, as Churchill says, "turn their thoughts to revolt and revenge," for we can handle that. But the continent is deteriorating along with the Reich.

The essential for settlement of the grave differences between Russia and the Western Allies is, as Stalin himself has pointed out, a desire to cooperate. Whether that desire exists on both sides is the great imponderable upon which the fate of Europe depends. We may not find the answer to that before the November conference, but meantime there are growing signs that the Western Allies intend to go ahead on their own—to try to make peace for Europe if Russia cannot see her way to cooperate.

Say Politics Behind Shakeup In High School

Elk Park, N. C., May 16.-(AP)- Nearly 800 parents, teachers and students of nearby Cranberry High School jammed the school's auditorium last night in a continuance of a week-long effort to get Principal C. A. Bowlick removed for another year.

The meeting concluded with adoption of a resolution requesting the school committee to reconsider its recent 3 to 2 vote to replace Bowlick by Kenneth Anderson, FSA employee in Avery county. A delegation of 25 persons was named to place the entree before the five-man board.

John Ellis was the only one of the board members to attend the meeting. County Superintendent of Schools George M. Bowman was not present. Several speakers verbally flailed Bowman for "ruining the school with politics."

WILSON HALTS GREENIES BY 8-3 VICTORY

Chute, Bomar And Lee Lead Locals At Bat; Ranweiler Gets Loss

The Wilson 'Tobs' halted the Greenies' winning streak last night as they took an 8-3 win over Manager Pare's Greenies in the Wilson Municipal Stadium.

The Tobs clubbed out 13 hits off the offerings of three Greene hurlers while Lefty Monk Webb pitching his second triumph over the Greenies, was touched for 11 hits but they were well scattered.

Frank Rauweiler started on the mound for the Greenies and pitched 3 2-3 innings, allowing five runs nine hits, walked one and struck out two. He received credit for the loss, his second of the season. Phil Redden followed him on the mound and pitched 2 1-3 innings, allowed one hit, no runs, four strikeouts and no walks, being taken out when Baldwin went in to pitch hit for him in the seventh frame. Ralph Davis pitched the remaining two innings and allowed three runs on as many hits.

The Greenies were unable to score until the fourth stanza when Lurch led off with a single, stole second and scored on Chute's double.

In the sixth frame Mauney singled, stole second, advanced to third on an error, and scored on Chute's single.

The final tally for the Greenies came in the eighth frame when Mauney hit to first baseman who erred ball, allowing him to advance to second and score on another error by the Tobs' pitcher on a ball hit by Bomar.

Chute with a double and a single in three trips to the plate, Bomar with two singles in four trips, and Tommy Lee with two singles in five trips to the plate led the Greenies' attack.

Score by innings:

DIAMOND DUST

By BERT MOYE

Paul Simmons, who was reported in this column as having received a sprained ankle, went to the doctor's office for further examination and it was revealed that he had a crushed bone. This means that Simmons will be out of action for at least four more weeks.

Jake Daniel, manager of the New Bern Bears, has announced that he had "voluntarily resigned" as skipper of the Bears. His resignation is the first of the season in the local circuit. Harry Soufas has taken over the post temporarily.

Ray Carlson, Greene shortstop last season, is playing this season with Sioux City of the Western League, a Class A ball club. Milt Naron, Greene catcher of last season, is playing this season with the Ft. Smith Club of the Western Association, a Class C Club.

Grainer Park at Kinston is the only park in the league which does not have a public address system at the present time. However, officials of the Kinston club are getting busy on the matter and hope to have one by the end of the week.

The City Council at Kinston recently voted to give the Baseball Association its lights for this season. They did the same, thing last year. How about the local City Council matching this at their next meeting? It takes a lot of money to run a ball club, even without the expense of paying for the lights each night they play at home.

Chute with a double and a single in three trips to the plate, Bomar with two singles in four trips, and Tommy Lee with two singles in five trips to the plate led the Greenies' attack.

Score by innings:
Greenville..... 000 101 010-3

Peace Pageant At Third Street School

By EDWINA McMILLAN
On Wednesday, May 14, the children of Third Street School presented a Peace Festival and Pageant. It was rather like their annual May Festival, only the children danced for peace in the world.

The program opened with a concert by the elementary bands of the Third Street and West Greenville schools. The concert was conducted by Mr. H. A. McDougle.

Then the toy orchestra of the first grade of Third Street School played two numbers. The children of this grade were from Denmark, and after their music presentation they gave a Dance of Greeting representing that country. In their dance they asked for peace so that all children may be free to play and be happy.

The seventh grade was from the southern part of our own United States and they did a dance, the music of which is known to everyone. "Polly Wolly Doodle." Their dance was dedicated to peace so that all children may be free to work and help the world become a better place in which to live.

Grade 2 represented France and gave two dances of that country, "Chimes of Dunkirk" and "Sail Boat." They danced for education.

Holland was represented by the children of grade 3. Their dance was "Hansel and Gretel." They asked for religious freedom.

A Rovenack Polka from Czechoslovakia was done by the fourth grade. They danced with the hope that there will be more tolerance and understanding in the world.

Then Terry Flanagan, who represented Hungary, did a creative dance. She made up all the steps and as she danced she asked that peace be the aim of our peoples so that our music, art, and dances may be passed on to children yet unborn.

Seven Jumps was given by the fifth grade. Their dance was from Sweden. They asked for the practicing of the Four Freedoms.

Grade 6 did an Irish jig. They were, of course, from Ireland. They danced with the hope that no more lives be taken in war.

Then the seventh grade presented the Maypole dance from America. The streamers on the pole were red, white, and blue and the children's costumes were the same colors. The girls represented the Statue of Liberty and the boys, Uncle Sam.

"The white is for purity that must be in our lives; the red is a prayer that never again must there be bloodshed; and the blue is a hope that nations be honest and truthful."

Then all the children formed a circle around the Maypole and sang "Praise for Peace." The closing number.

The story which accompanied the dances was to have been read by Mr. J. H. Rose, but due to several important meetings he was unable to attend. The Pageant and Mrs. D. M. Clark, teacher of the seventh grade, read it. The story was written mainly by grade seven.

Mrs. Glenn Scott directed the dances and accompanied them and during the program she was given a dozen American Beauty roses and a piece of silver in her pattern by the P. T. A. Mrs. Vance Arnold made the presentation speech and Terry Flanagan presented Mrs. Scott with the gifts.

The large audience seemed very appreciative of the dance festival and this in itself compensated for the hard work that children, teachers, mothers, and Mrs. Scott had put on the pageant.
