Marshall Claims Western Powe Are Winning Cut

Secretary Of State Says Firm Policy Is Winning Cold War With Russia

Washington, May 29—(AP)—The Western powers are winning the cold war with Russia but the end is not yet in sight.

That appeared today as the main theme of Secretary of State Marshall's newest report on American foreign policy.

Marshall's views were expressed last night before the General Federation of Womens Clubs at Portland, Ore. It was his first full length address since the Russian "peace offensive" opener almost three weeks ago.

The secretary dealt at length with that development. But he stressed that peace prospects depend mainly on a continued Western policy of firmness with the Soviet Union—a policy which he said may be threatened from two sides:

1. The strong and impatient desire of people everywhere for a return to "normal conditions" may lead the West into a Soviet false-peace trap baited with propaganda.

2. Americans may engage in some "thoughtless or spasmodic action" which could damage the confidence of other peoples—uneasy enough at best—in the reliability of the United States as a world leader.

Marshall bluntly called the Soviet peace moves "a cynical propaganda campaign to offset a sincere effort on our part to establish a basis for profitable negotiations and agreements leading to a stabilization of the world situation."

But he said he thought American progress toward that end since the first of the year has been "excellent" and "history making." He called for continued support of this nation's "firm" policy toward Russia, saying that "only such a firm and determined course can save the situation for the democracies."

Two developments bear out Marshall's report of excellent progress: the enactment of the European Recovery Program and the gradual growth of European relationships into what might become a true Western European union.

Post-War School Is Built For Kids

New York, May 29—(AP)—Here's one school the kids won't want burned down.

It's Stephen Decatur Junior High in Brooklyn, the city's first post-war school.

The $2,500,000 plant is equipped with a television receiver, and FM radio with loud speaker in each room, jukeboxes in the gymnasium and a music room with $5,000 worth of instruments, including six phonographs.

The new school soon will be ready for the youngsters.

Take Recess On Railroad Study

Washington, May 29—(AP)—The White House took a recess today in its uphill fight to find a solution to the 11-month-old rail dispute, after reporting "no progress" yesterday.

The three-way conferences are due to resume Tuesday.

Yesterday Presidential Advisor John R. Steelman brought company and union spokesmen to the White House, placed them in separate rooms, and shuttled between them for discussions in a vain effort to crack the long deadlock.

Looking Forward To Return Home

MacArthur Awaiting Second Invitation To End Long Absence

Tokyo, May 29—(AP)—General MacArthur appeared ready today to plan his first trip to continental United States in 11 years—after the summer's political conventions.

As matters now stand he is awaiting another invitation from the Senate Appropriations Committee to appear in Washington sometime after the national conventions. He rejected the committee's request to start home within a few days on the grounds this timing would appear to be "politically inspired."

There was a note of consistency in this position. The general has insisted his personal political ambitions were to be kept separate from his position as supreme commander of allied powers in Japan. This, of course, would virtually be impossible if he appeared around the time of the Republican convention in Philadelphia.

But after June he said "I should feel free to place myself fully at your disposal" to clarify Oriental issues which will be just as complex in July as now.

This seemed to make a second invitation inevitable. Any reluctance by the Senate committee to seek his guidance at a later date could be construed as a distinct rebuff for MacArthur and as convincing evidence the original invitation was meant primarily for political reasons.

Charge Clinton Veteran With Forging Checks

By CHESTER WALSH

Greenville police are holding James C. Marshburn, 22-year-old World War II veteran of Sampson County on a charge of forgery and flashing worthless checks here. Chief Lester D. Page said Marshburn tried to pass a $1,200 check on a Clinton bank at the Flanagan Buggy Company in the purchase of a car, but failed in the venture. Marshburn is also wanted by Sampson County authorities, police said.

Marshburn uses several aliases, Chief Page said, including G. T. Brandshaw and James Bass. He was rooming at 1218 Dickinson Avenue. Officers Tripp and Todd arrested him on East Fifth Street about 3 a.m. today.

Election Party

The Daily Reflector will hold its Election Party tonight and give returns of the Democratic Primary on the bulletin board by public address system, and from time to time during the night announce results of the election over WGTC.

The newspaper's Associated Press teletypes, bringing results of the state contests, will be turned on at 6 p. m.

Tabulated returns of the county, district and state balloting will be given throughout the night, or until such time as returns will show the winners.

Wallace Attacks Mundt-Nixon Bill

Socialist Norman Thomas Also Testifies Against Measure

Washington, May 29—(AP)—Henry A. Wallace attacked the Mundt-Nixon anti-Communism bill today as "a declaration of war on the rights of free speech and free assembly in the United States."

The Third Party presidential candidate said that "as the bill is framed, its penalties can be visited upon every organization which espouses the cause of world peace and progress," and added:

"The Mundt bill would empower the attorney general to prescribe our party and visit criminal penalties upon its members, in the event that it refused—as it most certainly would—to register with him."

Shortly before Wallace testified, Socialist Norman Thomas told the committee that the "third party" supporting Henry Wallace for president is controlled to a large extent by Communists.

Thomas, presidential candidate of the Socialists, also is opposed to the Mundt-Nixon bill.

Thomas said Wallace is not a Communist and the majority of his enthusiastic supporters are not but the Wallace movement is "influenced by well-trained and very well-disciplined Communists."

Thomas also told senators that the American Communist party and movement are under foreign control from Russia.

Escapee Caught Within 2 Hours

Elizabeth City, May 29—(AP)—State Highway patrolmen apprehended an escaped convict, Freddie Martin, two hours after his escape from the state road gang near Bethel on US Highway 64 this morning at 8:15 o'clock.

Martin, who resided in Wake County, stole a coupe in Bethel and was caught by the patrolmen between Oak City and Tarboro. The road gang was half a mile east of Bethel at the time of the escape.

Minor Obstacles To Agreement

London, May 29—(AP)—American diplomats reported today the six-country conference on western Germany's future reached agreement "on all but a few political questions." A communique on results will be issued early next week.

There was no plenary session of the United States, British, French, Belgium, Netherlands and Luxembourg delegations called for today. The economic and security committees met to draft reports in which they will present recommendations to their governments for approval.

May Be Wed In Athens June 5

Copenhagen, Denmark, May 29—(AP)—A source close to the royal family said today Princess Anne of Bourbon Parma will marry former King Mihal of Romania in Athens June 5.

The princess will leave Copenhagen by air for Greece tomorrow, the informant added.

The wedding ceremony will follow the Greek Orthodox ritual, the informant said.

No Confirmation Of Appointments

Republican Leaders To Keep Jobs For GOP Followers

Washington, May 29—(AP)—Republicans set up a barricade today against confirmation of any further major appointments by President Truman.

With their eyes on the November election, GOP leaders were reported determined to keep all possible jobs open to be filled by a Republican President, if one is elected.

The Republican Policy committee was said to have passed the word quietly to Senate committee chairmen to hold up action on several current appointees, including Frieda B. Hennock of New York, first woman to be nominated to the Federal Communications Commission.

Republicans already have agreed to support a bill extending the terms of David E. Lilienthal and his associates on the Atomic Energy Commission only until 1950. Mr. Truman asked a five-year appointment for Chairman Lilienthal, with one-to-four year terms for the other four members.

The Senate gave its approval yesterday to the president's choice of Charles F. Brannan of Colorado to be Secretary of Agriculture. Republicans said they felt no cabinet appointment should be held up.

Vote Return To Work At Rath Packing Plant

Waterloo, Ia., May 29—(AP)—Members of the CIO United Packinghouse Workers union have voted to return to work at the Rath Packing plant, scene of rioting May 19 after a union picket was killed.

Company and union officials differed sharply, however, on the contract under which the workers are returning.

Lee Simon, union public relations officer, said union members voted to return "under the old contract agreement with the company, amended only on the wage issue."

A. D. Donnell, company secretary, said the company had "cancelled the old contract May 3 on account of union strike violations.

"We offered them an interim contract under which they could return while a new agreement was being negotiated. They are returning either under the interim contract or no contract at all."

Strong-Arm Plan To End Conflict May Be Defeated

Not Enough Security Council Votes Lined Up For Balloting Tonight

Lake Success, May 29—(AP)— Despite strong American-Russian support, a proposal for United Nations force to stop the Palestine war appeared headed for defeat today.

Security Council President Alexandre Parode of France said he hoped to get a vote by tonight. The plans needs seven affirmative ballots in the 11-nation council. Only the United States, Russia, the Soviet Ukraine, France and Colombia have supported it.

The Russian-introduced proposal would order the jews and Arabs, including Arab governments, to halt military operations in the Holy Land within 36 hours. Failure to comply could bring economic sanctions and the use of an international army.

If the strong-arm plan fails to pass, the council will turn to milder proposals from Britain, France and Colombia. They are briefly:

1. Britain wants a four-week Armistice during which final efforts toward peaceful settlement of Jewish-Arab differences would be pushed. During that time importation of arms and fighting personnel into Palestine would be banned. The Jews already have rejected the plan in its present form. Canada was reported preparing a series of amendments in a move to help its passage.

2. France wants the council to concentrate on stopping the warfare in Jerusalem. The plan would call on Jews and Arabs to cease fighting in the Holy City wtih a threat of strong measures if there was not complete compliance.

3. Colombia asks the big five to consult on measures to enforce compliance with two previously ignored cease-fire appeals from the council. Under this plan a five nation commission also would be set up to seek a peaceful settlement.

Spectators cheered yesterday when U. S. delegates Warren R. Austin announced his support of the Russian get-tough resolution. It was the second time in a week that the two powers stood shoulder to shoulder on the issue.

Arab Forces Begin Attack On Jews In New Jerusalem

"Voice" Boss Quits

Alberto Gandero (above), supervisor of the "Voice of America" broadcasts, has resigned in the midst of a storm of criticism over his scripts. Several senators charged they libeled and misrepresented the United States. Gandero's wife said he has gone to Havana, Cuba, to engage in radio work. (AP Wirephoto).

Widen Scope Of 'Voice' Inquiry

Congressmen Turn Critical Eye On Broadcasts To USSR

Washington, May 29 — (AP) — Aroused congressmen turned a critical eye today on U.S. broadcasts to Russia, as government and private broadcasting officials shouldered blame for controversial programs beamed to South America.

Angered by testimony that the State Department and National Broadcasting Company failed to check on "Voice of America" scripts aired to foreign countries, Chairman Chenoweth (R-Colo.) of a House expenditures subcommittee declared:

"We're going to look into this whole picture. We know what happened in broadcasts to South America, and some of us are hopping mad about the ridicule heaped on the United States.

"We want to find out what the State Department is sending out to other countries, particularly Russia and her satellites."

Chenoweth's committee is conducting one of several investigations touched off by disclosure in the Senate Wednesday that "Voice of America" broadcasts to Latin America had included statements which many lawmakers furiously attacked as "slander" and sabotage."

The White House, Senate and State Department all have launched inquiries into the programs.

Assistant Secretary of State George V. Allen agreed yesterday that the State Department must take at least part of the blame. "In the future we must have prior supervision over every one of these scripts," he told the committee.

Housewife Is New Amateur Queen

Greenville, S. C., May 29— (AP)— Mrs. W. B. Cocke, Charlotte, N. C. housewife, is 1948 Queen of Carolinas amateur golfers.

The Red-haired Tar Heel upset Mrs. Jane Crum Covington, the medalist from Orangeburg, S. C., 3 and 1, in the championship match of the tournament here yesterday.

After seeing her 1-up lead of the 18-hole morning round vanish, Mrs. Cocke steadied on the final stretch and captured the trophy and title on the 17th hole with a par 3 as Mrs. Covington took a 4.

Chrysler Strike Ends As New Pay Increase Granted

Straight 13-Cent An Hour Wage Increase Is Basis Of Settling Dispute

Detroit, May 29—(AP)—The vanguard of 75,000 Chrisyer Corp. workers began trickling back into the plants today, their 17-day strike ended by a straight 13-cent an hour wage increase.

With their return the second major labor dispute in the automobile industry this year was written off the books.

Chrysler's settlement with the CIO United Auto Workers, announced last night, bettered by two cents the raise given 225,000 strike-threatening General Motors employes under a cost of living formula only three days earlier.

It provided less than half the union's original demand but more than twice Chrysler's best previous offer.

It also extended the company's contract, due to expire in 11 months, until August, 1950. Either Chrysler or the UAW can seek an adjustment of wage rates once any time after June 15, 1949. Salaried employes, some of them represented by the UAW, were given an eight percent raise with a floor of $20 a month.

There was no official explanation as to why Chrysler settled for a flat sum rather than the widely-heralded GM sliding scale. However, a union customarily holds out for a penny or two more than the pattern for its members on strike.

Chrysler would not say whether it plans to raise car prices to cover its higher labor costs.

The agreement left only the Ford Motor Co. of the industry's Big Three yet to settle with the UAW in the third postwar wage drive. It apparently knocked a second prop from under Ford's counter-demand for a wage cut.

The auto union promptly hailed the settlement as "a signal victory for all American workers in view of the determination of industry as a whole to fight against any wage increases at all or, in some instances, to fight for wage reductions while prices continue to rise."

Bitter Meeting Of Berlin Heads May End Unity

Berlin, May 29—(AP)—A bitter 15-hour meeting of the four-power body for governing Berlin ended today with the Soviet representative announcing he would no longer sit next to his American counterpart.

Maj. Gen. Alexander Kotikov, Soviet commander of Berlin, said he would no longer be seated next to Col. Frank Howley, the American commander, at meetings of the Kommandatura, the four-power governing body. A Soviet deputy will be placed between them, Kotikov added.

The meeting was the longest and perhaps the most acrid in the history of the Kommandatura. It caused American officials to reiterate their belief that the allied supervisory council for Berlin would soon cease to function.

"I don't think the Kommandatura will last long now," said one American official. "There was an obvious increased move by the Russians today to close it down."

Ghetto In Old City Burning; Haganah Tries Desperately To Break Blockade Of Highways Entering City; Armor, Artillery, Planes In Battle

Cairo, May 29—(AP)—Arab troops began an attack today in modern Jerusalem. Jews, short of water and food, tried desperately to break a blockade of all four highways entering the city.

Legion guns pounded Jewish concentrations in new Jerusalem, even as raging fires swept the ancient Jewish ghetto in the old city. There Israeli remnants, with food and ammunition gone, surrendered yesterday after a five-month siege topped off by an 11-day pounding from the guns of King Abdullah's Arab Legion.

Now the Jews in all Jerusalem are under a throttling state of siege that can be ended only by the opening of supply routes to the Mediterranean coast.

"The battle for the defense of new Jerusalem and for the liberation of the old city continues," a Haganah (Jewish army) communique declared.

Thousands of Israelis and Arabs were locked in a battle west of Jerusalem for the highway from Tel Aviv which could supply the Holy City's 80,000 Jews. The Arabs threw armor, artillery, planes and all the manpower they could spare into the fight, Tel Aviv reports said.

Jews fighting to break the Arab ring around Jerusalem could see smoke and flames belching from the rubble-strewn old city. Arab forces, commanding the Zion Gate, led the last group of Jewish civilians—women and children, young and old—from the old city.

In the old city's police barracks 294 Jewish men of military age were temporarily behind bars, waiting buses to take them to a camp at Mamman, Trans-Jordan.

Fires raged through the night in the Jewish Quarter. The Arabs blamed Jewish mines which they said exploded from time fuses after the surrender was concluded.

A dispatch from inside the old city said the ghetto looked like a chunk of blasted Stalingrad. The stench of death was heavy. Some Jewish bodies lay unburied and others had been covered hastily with thin layers of rubble.

To the west in the Latrun area the big battle which may be a decisive one grew hourly in intensity. Thousands on both sides were committed to the struggle for the lifeline road which links Tel Aviv with Jerusalem. Egyptian planes were reported taking part in the fight.

Czech President Has Not Signed Constitution

Prague, Czechoslovakia, May 29—(AP)—President Edward Benes has not signed Czechoslovakia's new constitution, and there is no indication that he will, it was disclosed today.

The President's failure to approve formally the "people's democracy" constitution adopted by a purged Parliament May 9 led to speculation that he may not continue in office.

Official word on Benes' future intentions could not be obtained. The President and all of his principal aides were unavailable.

There was talk in Prague that Benes, who observed his 64th birthday yesterday, would resign after tomorrow's Communist-Dominated single slate election. This talk was plainly labeled as speculation, however.

New Czech Election

Tomorrow's Voting, Under Communist Guidance, Will Level Off Few Remaining Signs Of Democracy In Czechoslovakia; Consolidation Of Conquest By Reds

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

The Communist steam-roller will thunder across prostrate Czechoslovakia again tomorrow, leveling off most of the remaining signs of her democracy.

To be sure, democracy still will remain hidden within the sturdy hearts of the vast majority of the little republic's citizens, for you cannot crush the spirit with a steam-roller. But the visible emblems of freedom will have been ground to dust.

More specifically, a general election is to be held in Czechoslovakia to elect a new Parliament. This represents a further consolidation of the Red conquest—a purge of remaining opposition.

The election will follow the Russian single ticket system. Under this scheme there are no opposition candidates, but merely a single ticket containing the names of candidates hand-picked by the Communist-dominated regime. The only way a voter can register disapproval is to cast a white blank ballot which can be seen by election officials, so that there is no secrecy.

Communists and fellow travelers have been busy drumming it into the voters that casting a blank ballot would be like treason. It might be added that it also would be like sticking one's head in a lion's mouth—an operation which could do no good and would be mighty dangerous.

If that were the end of the story it would indeed be sad, but there's more to it. Yesterday some 30 fugitive members of the Czechoslovak Parliament, and other political leaders, held a conference in London. In effect they constitute a refugee Parliament, although they didn't claim that designation. These foes of Bolshevism went on record as declaring that the present Communist-dominated government of Czechoslovakia is illegal. The same is true of the draft constitution.

The refugee "Parliament" will continue to function. The indications are that its members plan to organize Czechoslovak resistance around the globe for liberation of their country. That liberation unhappily cannot save President Eduard Benes, one of the founders of the state, who has had one stroke and is said to be so ill that he cannot live. Whatever the doctors call the malady, the world at large believes that he is dying because his heart was broken by the Red rape of Czechoslovakia.

But to get back to the refugee conference: That is highly significant. It is the organization of a resistance which one day will strike for freedom. It speaks for millions of Czechs who cannot speak for themselves.

World Health Effort

U. S. On Verge Of Joining U. N. World Health Organization; What It's Supposed to Do; How It Will Be Handled; What This Country Will Get Out Of Joining Up

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, May 9—(AP)—It's taken us time but now we're about ready to join the U.N.'s World Health Organization.

Thirty other nations already have done so. Twenty-six were needed to set it up.

The idea was worked out at a world health conference in New York in 1946.

By next September it will open up shop as a going concern, perhaps in Geneva, Switzerland.

This is what it's supposed to do: set up a single agency so the world's doctors, or their governments, can:

1. Exchange information for fighting disease.

2. Try to control epidemics and keep them from spreading.

3. Agree on a number of things so there'll be less confusion—like the names for diseases and the drugs for treating them.

The above three points are just a skeleton idea of the work it will try to do.

Last July the Senate approved our joining the organization.

Then yesterday, almost a year later, the House got around to giving its approval.

Action by both Houses—they passed what's called a joint resolution—was necessary.

But the way they passed it differed a bit. So they'll have to work out an agreement.

Then President Truman can sign it and make us a member. It probably will cost us about $2,000,000 a year for our share of the expenses.

The health organization will be run by an executive board made up of representatives from the member nations.

Our representative—the President will appoint him—has to be a doctor with at least 10 years' practice in medicine.

What good do we get out of joining? The House Foreign Affairs Committee listed some of these points:

1. By keeping down or preventing epidemics in other countries, the World Health Organization will make the U.S. that much safer from disease.

2. By checking more closely on people flying to the U.S. from other countries, the organization will cut down the amount of sickness and disease brought in here.

3. U.S. citizens traveling abroad will have better protection against disease.

4. Because better world standards will be set up for drugs and medical supplies, the U.S. companies which make them will have better markets abroad.

5. The U.S. not only will receive information about international health problems, but will be able to help solve them.

Babson: Preparing Children For War

Babson Park, Mass., May 29. — Whether or not a war with Russia will materialize, no one knows. It, however, should be realized that the world is going through a great revolution comparable only to the French Revolution of over a century ago. Owing to this conflict between ideologies, those who "have" may be obliged to give up much in properties, securities, prestige, privileges, etc., to those who "have not."

Education of Children

This is especially important to consider in connection with the education of children. Hence, Mrs. Babson and I have devoted our earnings to help the Babson Institute to train men, Webber College to train women, and Utopia College in "the center of the country" to train both young men and women.

Every reader knows that the most important of all investments are in character, health and education. Everything else, whether stocks, bonds, bank accounts or real estate, can fade away. This is not saying that they will but through taxation during peacetime and confiscation during wartime, it is constantly going to be harder for children to profit from what money they inherit from us parents. Therefore, we should keep our children in college just as long as we possibly can and, if necessary, subsidize them in

Fire-Proof Materials In Building Add To Safety

Great strides have been made in perfecting fire resistant building materials. You can now build or remodel a home with more safety from fire than ever before.

Some of these new materials, oddly enough, utilize wood, but it is specially treated wood. Others are made of glass, volcanic ash, and a form of mica—vermiculite.

Homeowners or builders intending to use such materials should make sure that they bear the label or listing of Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc. (UL).

Materials listed by those lavoratories must pass a standard fire test. It usually consists of exposure of panels made of the materials to an intense gas flame for a specified time. Then the panel is subjected to a stream of water from a 2 1-2 inch fire hose. If it survives those tests and retains its strength it may be approved.

A fire safe home might be constructed of the following approved materials:

1. Concrete masonry units, made up of Portland cement, sand and gravel, cinders, blast furnace stag, burned shale, etc.
2. Cellular glass blocks, a thermal insulating material.
3. Lumber treated to reduce fire hazard. This is usually Douglas fir, southern yellow pine or plywood, treated with a pressure process that forces metallic salt or other chemicals into the wood.
4. Asphalt-asbestos-protected metal. This is corrugated sheet steel with asphalt saturated asbestos applied with a metallic adhesive on one or both faces.
5. Plaster bases in sheet form, some reinforced with woven wire. When installed on both sides of a partition according to UL specifications these plaster bases furnish protection against passages of flame and dangerous transmission of heat for one hour.
6. Wallboard in 48-inch sheets was given a 45-minute fire resistance classification when installed on both sides of a partition.
7. Fire-resistant plywood flush-type doors withstand a standard fire test without losing shape or allowing passage of flame or smoke.
8. Fire-retardant coating material—a new paint—can be applied by brush or spray. It reduces combustibility and is suitable for doors and wood trim.
9. A new fabric wall covering has negligible fuel and smoke contribution. It is useful in kitchens, nurseries and hospitals.

In addition, glass bricks have been approved for window openings with light fire exposure.

Buy Your House Already Built, If You Like It

Lots of architects will tell you to buy a ready-built house if you like it.

It might be cheaper—it might not. But you'll have the advantage of seeing the house you'll live in.

You won't know what's under the surface, but building codes, mortgage requirements and FHA inspection offer some assurance.

You won't have the worry and wait, or the architects fee. But you will be paying the broker's fee, or salesman's salary, profit on house and lot, advertising cost and taxes before sale.

One architect, busy with developers' jobs, tells of how an indicidual client comes in with a certain plan in mind. It is virtually the same plan a builder already offers. This architect refers the client to that builder, "and I never saw him again" the architect says.

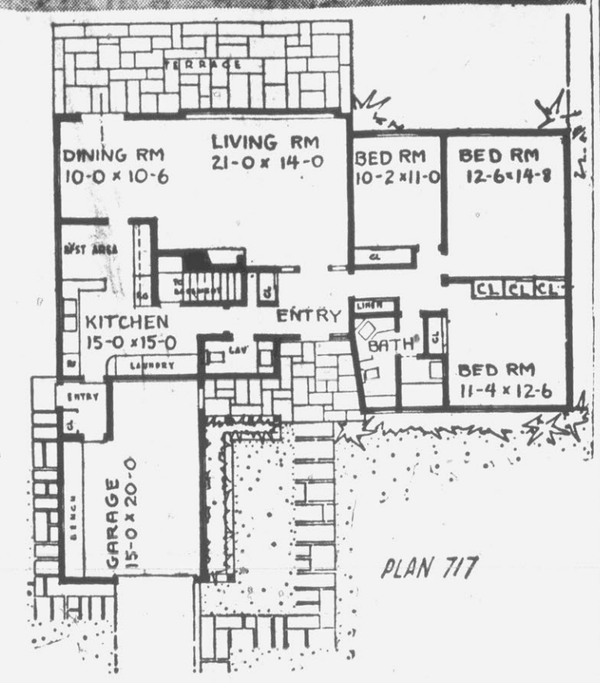

Large scale builders who buy accessories in wholesale lots, usually are able to include more gadgets and trimmings than an individual would attempt to buy at the start.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP Newsfeatures

Workability rather than any rigid style is stressed in this plan 717. Walter T. Anicka, architect, 617 Forest Avenue, Ann Arbor, Mich., says family comfort is the motif. Each department of the house—sleeping, living and service—is accessible from the entrance hall, and grouped independently for maximum efficiency. The house has a volume of 17,660 cubic feet including a basement under the living room and kitchen areas, but exclusive of the garage. Sliding doors are used for all closets and a row of closets makes a storage wall between two of the bedrooms. The bathroom is divided to permit part of it to serve as a powder room. For color, the architect suggests gray exterior walls with white trim, porch alcove in yellow, and dark asphalt shingles.

Three Ways To Select A Contractor

Selection of the contractor to build your house is one of the biggest decisions you'll be called upon to make.

If you live in a small community, where there is only one builder, you can't get competitive bids. But you may have the compensating advantage of knowing the contractor, knowing that he is honest and will have to live in the same community with his handiwork. This is an assurance.

In any place it is highly important to pick a builder you can trust.

Generally there are three ways to select your contractor.

1. Competitive bidding.
2. Cost-plus.
3. Upset price contract.

The first method gives you a lump sum contract. You know where you're at and what you'll get. Your architect will invite builders to bid. Each will be given a set of blueprints and specifications. It will take them two to four weeks to figure the job.

If you are building with stock plans and without the supervision of an arctitect, you will have to deal with the builders and buy enough sets of plans for all bidders.

Each builder will have to get his own bids from subcontractors for all special work, such as excavation, plumbing, heating, electrical work, plastering, painting and so on. To these he will add own costs, overhead and profit. This estimating costs them a lot of time, so don't ask for bids from any builder you wouldn't deal with if his bid were agreeable.

Low bidder gets the job—providing he is financially responsible to swing it.

Under such lump sum contracts, monthly bills call for 15 per cent less than the amount of work finished. That margin is held back until completion of the job to prevent an irresponsible builder from jumping his contract. If he did drop the job, all unpaid workers could file liens, and you'd have to pay them.

The second method of picking your builder, common in times of changing price levels and unsettled labor conditions, is the cost-plus contract. You agree to pay all costs plus the contractor's overhead and profit. This relieves the builder of most responsibility. It can mean that he won't care where costs go, because he is sure of his profit. However, you at least will know ahead of time how much he makes.

The third way, if you can get it, is not to call for bids at all, but to ask a builder you know to figure his "field cost plus profit." This is the upset price contract.

The builder estimates how much it will cost him to build your house, that is the field cost. He will include his own overhead expense, or list it as an additional 5 or 10 per cent of that cost. Then you ask him if he will take the job on that total plus 10 per cent profit.

One advantage of this upset price contract is that if the builder's field cost runs higher than his estimate, the difference must come out of his profit. On the other hand, if he is able to save on the field cost, saving will be divided between you.

In this way it behooves the builder to keep costs down.

Leave Off Porch To Lower Costs

A porch is the first thing you can leave off a house when the plan gets beyond your budget. It also is one of the easiest things to add later.

Porches are expensive to build. They cost from half to two-thirds as much as a room of equal size.

Building costs usually are figured by the cubic foot. Open porches are counted for half of their cubic content. Screened porches often figure at two-thirds of their cubage. Porches glassed-in cost about the same as a complete room.

"JAM SESSION" . . . TELEPHONE STYLE

Telephone "jam sessions" occur when too many people try to make calls at the same time. With the telephone industry handling a record number of telephone calls daily, these "jams" are sometimes unavoidable. But you can help us reduce their frequency. Whenever possible, make local calls during less busy hours. Make long distance calls after 6 PM or on Sunday, when you'll benefit by lower rates. And if you should have a few seconds' wait when telephoning—please be patient. You will be served as soon as a line is open.

Hostess to Inter Se Club

The Inter Se Club met with Mrs. Reynolds May Thursday afternoon for its final meeting of the year.

Mrs. Plato Evans was in charge of the program. "Canada" was the subject. She told in a brief but enlightening fashion, many important facts about the geography, government, industries and people of Canada. In closing, Mrs. Evans mentioned many points of interest, such as beautiful Rocky Mountain scenery, wonderful hunting, fishing, skiing and the quaintness of old Quebec, which combined, tend to make Canada one of the outstanding vacation lands of the world.

Mrs. L. M. Buchanan, president, conducted a brief business session. It was decided as in the past, that the books used during the year would be given to Sheppard Memorial Library.

At the conclusion of the meeting a delicious salad course was served by the hostess.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Rudolph Griffin of Raleigh, Mrs. Lindsey Wilkerson and Mrs. Charles Wilkerson.

To Graduate From Salem College

Ruby Moye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Moye, Maury, and Mary Wells Bunting, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bunting, Bethel, will graduate from Salem College, Winston-Salem, on Monday, May 31.

Gordon Gray, publisher of the Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel and assistant secretary of Army, will be the principal speaker at the commencement exercises, to be held in Memorial Hall at 11 a.m.

Miss Moye will receive an A.B. degree in history and Miss Bunting a B.M. degree in voice.

Before entering Salem College in 1944, Miss Moye attended both Maury and Greenville high schools. While at Salem, she has belonged to the Riding Club, the Spanish Club and the Athletic Association, serving this year as vice-president of the latter organization. Also this year she was elected to the May Court for May Day and was a member of the properties committee for May Day.

Miss Bunting graduated from Bethel High School. While at Salem she has been active in dramatics, belonging last year to the Salem Players. She was elected last spring to the Pierrette Players, honorary dramatics group. Miss Bunting has been a member of the College Choral Ensemble for four years and of the International Relations Club for the same time. She has also belonged to the German Club.

High School Students Give Kiwanis Program

By CHESTER WALSH

Dr. John O. Reynolds of the College, chairman of the Sponsored Youth Organization, presented an entertaining program at the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting last night. Miss Bettie Anne Young and Frederick Brooks, High school seniors, described the extra curricula of the school and outlined its many advantages. Brooks gave the gratifying information that 70 per cent of the Greenville High School graduates go to some college and that the average for the country is only 20 per cent. The two students made hits as after-dinner speakers. Miss Juanita Stokes, a junior, sang a solo, with Miss Ona Shindler as accompanist. Principal O. E. Dowd was a special guest.

President Brooks read a letter from ECTC President John D. Messick, complimenting the Kiwanis Club's minstrel. Incidently, Brooks reported that the minstrel netted a little over $2,100 for the underprivileged child fund.

Guy V. Smith, the "daddy of baseball" in Greenville reported on the financial condition of the ball club and the recent changes; said Greenville should have a good ball club; that the club could be gotten into good working order and solicited the support and encouragement of the fans.

McDonald Bland and Bob Brady Junior Kiwanians for a month, were welcomed.

Tom Wilson had a birthday and contributed a nickel for each year of his age. Aubrey Tilley led the singing of Kiwanis songs, with Mrs. Ray Tyson as accompanist.

V. F. W. Auxiliary Meets

The regular monthly meeting of the V. F. W. Auxiliary of Greenville Post No. 7032 met Thursday night, May 27. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Anna Belle Averette, president. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Carrie West, secretary. Four new members were initiated into the auxiliary, Mrs. Shyla Todd, Mrs. Martha Cahoon, Mrs. Margaret Laughinghouse and Mrs. Sally Musslewhite.

Reports were given by different committees of plans for the coming year. Plans were made to send three delegates to the state convention in Winston-Salem, Mrs. Averette, Mrs. West and Mrs. Kathy Whichard.

Mrs. Ruth Garner presented a questionnaire to the members about the organization.

Hostesses for this meeting were Mrs. Elwando Fleming, Mrs. Lillie Pearl Joyner and Mrs. Peg Tyndall.

Glee Club Rehearsal Monday Night

The Alumni of Greenville High School Glee Club will meet with Miss Shindler on Monday night at 8 o'clock at the high school to practice for commencement.

New Czech . . .

If that were the only development of its kind, perhaps less importance could be attached to it. However, similar resistance groups from other Eastern European countries are organizing quietly abroad. There are the Poles, the Hungarians, the Rumanians, the Bulgarians the Yugoslavs. And meantime underground resistance exists in all the countries which have been brought under Soviet domination.

Some day there will be a spark which will set all this resistance aflame. That spark will be some fortuitous circumstance which no one can foresee now. Another war involving Russia most certainly would provide the spark, and that's one good reason why Moscow doesn't want war.

We may be sure Moscow isn't discounting the growth of the resistance.

Dr. Messick Is Given Honor By Elon College

By CHESTER WALSH

At the recent annual meeting of Elon College Alumni Association, Dr. John D. Messick, president of East Carolina Teachers College, was awarded a certificate for being the outstanding alumnus of the year.

Last Wednesday night, Dr. Messick delivered the commencement address at the Aulander High School He spoke at the Rocky Mount Kiwanis Club's luncheon meeting last Thursday. He delivered the commencement address at Chocowinity High School Thursday night. The popular college president spoke to the seniors at Red Oak High school Friday morning and at the Trenton High school Friday night.

Next Monday morning, Dr. Messick will speak to the seniors at Rock Ridge High School, and at the Ayden High School Monday night. He will address the seniors at the Elizabeth City State Teachers College Tuesday morning at 10:30, and will deliver the commencement address at the Ahoskie High school that night.

Dr. Messick will wind up next week's speaking engagements when he delivers the commencement address at the Wilson High school.

Jarvis Memorial Church

Rev. Linwood E. Blackburn, a missionary to Africa, now at home on furlough, will speak at the morning worship hour at Jarvis Memorial Church on Sunday morning. Mr. Blackburn was for two years the president of the Methodist Youth Fellowship of the North Carolina Conference, and for many years was a leader in the youth assembly program. For the past five years he has served in Africa, and on Sunday will speak of his work in this field.

At the Sunday school hour on Sunday Mr. Blackburn will speak to the youth groups of the church.

There will be no evening service on Sunday on account of the baccalaureate service at the high school.

Fire-Proof Materials In Building Add To Safety

Great strides have been made in perfecting fire resistant building materials. You can now build or remodel a home with more safety from fire than ever before.

Some of these new materials, oddly enough, utilize wood, but it is specially treated wood. Others are made of glass, volcanic ash, and a form of mica—vermiculite.

Homeowners or builders intending to use such materials should make sure that they bear the label or listing of Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc. (UL).

Materials listed by those lavoratories must pass a standard fire test. It usually consists of exposure of panels made of the materials to an intense gas flame for a specified time. Then the panel is subjected to a stream of water from a 2 1-2 inch fire hose. If it survives those tests and retains its strength it may be approved.

A fire safe home might be constructed of the following approved materials:

1. Concrete masonry units, made up of Portland cement, sand and gravel, cinders, blast furnace stag, burned shale, etc.
2. Cellular glass blocks, a thermal insulating material.
3. Lumber treated to reduce fire hazard. This is usually Douglas fir, southern yellow pine or plywood, treated with a pressure process that forces metallic salt or other chemicals into the wood.
4. Asphalt-asbestos-protected metal. This is corrugated sheet steel with asphalt saturated asbestos applied with a metallic adhesive on one or both faces.
5. Plaster bases in sheet form, some reinforced with woven wire. When installed on both sides of a partition according to UL specifications these plaster bases furnish protection against passages of flame and dangerous transmission of heat for one hour.
6. Wallboard in 48-inch sheets was given a 45-minute fire resistance classification when installed on both sides of a partition.
7. Fire-resistant plywood flush-type doors withstand a standard fire test without losing shape or allowing passage of flame or smoke.
8. Fire-retardant coating material—a new paint—can be applied by brush or spray. It reduces combustibility and is suitable for doors and wood trim.
9. A new fabric wall covering has negligible fuel and smoke contribution. It is useful in kitchens, nurseries and hospitals.

In addition, glass bricks have been approved for window openings with light fire exposure.

Buy Your House Already Built, If You Like It

Lots of architects will tell you to buy a ready-built house if you like it.

It might be cheaper—it might not. But you'll have the advantage of seeing the house you'll live in.

You won't know what's under the surface, but building codes, mortgage requirements and FHA inspection offer some assurance.

You won't have the worry and wait, or the architects fee. But you will be paying the broker's fee, or salesman's salary, profit on house and lot, advertising cost and taxes before sale.

One architect, busy with developers' jobs, tells of how an indicidual client comes in with a certain plan in mind. It is virtually the same plan a builder already offers. This architect refers the client to that builder, "and I never saw him again" the architect says.

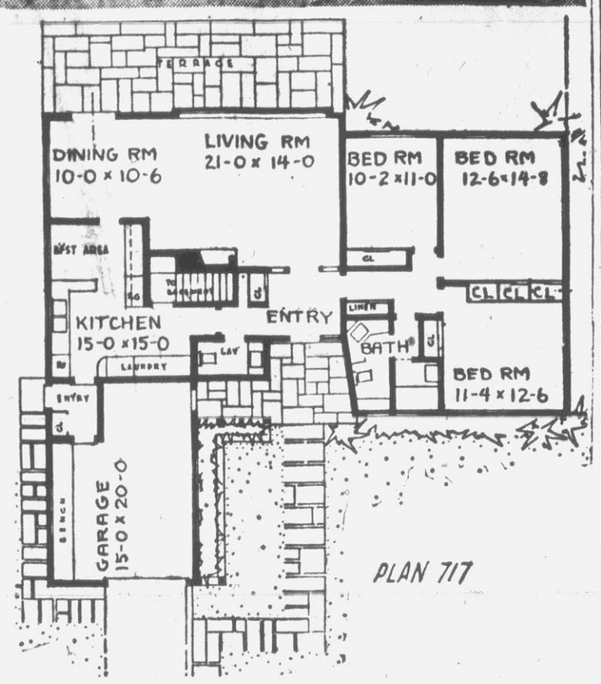

Large scale builders who buy accessories in wholesale lots, usually are able to include more gadgets and trimmings than an individual would attempt to buy at the start.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP Newsfeatures

Workability rather than any rigid style is stressed in this plan 717. Walter T. Aricks, architect, 617 Forest Avenue, Ann Arbor, Mich., says family comfort is the motif. Each department of the house—sleeping, living and service—is accessible from the entrance hall, and grouped independently for maximum efficiency. The house has a volume of 17,660 cubic feet including a basement under the living room and kitchen areas, but exclusive of the garage. Sliding doors are used for all closets and a row of closets makes a storage wall between two of the bedrooms. The bathroom is divided to permit part of it to serve as a powder room. For color, the architect suggests gray exterior walls with white trim, porch alcove in yellow, and dark asphalt shingles.

Three Ways To Select A Contractor

Selection of the contractor to build your house is one of the biggest decisions you'll be called upon to make.

If you live in a small community, where there is only one builder, you can't get competitive bids. But you may have the compensating advantage of knowing the contractor, knowing that he is honest and will have to live in the same community with his handiwork. This is an assurance.

In any place it is highly important to pick a builder you can trust.

Generally there are three ways to select your contractor.

1. Competitive bidding.
2. Cost-plus.
3. Upset price contract.

The first method gives you a lump sum contract. You know where you're at and what you'll get. Your architect will invite builders to bid. Each will be given a set of blueprints and specifications. It will take them two to four weeks to figure the job.

If you are building with stock plans and without the supervision of an arctitect, you will have to deal with the builders and buy enough sets of plans for all bidders.

Each builder will have to get his own bids from subcontractors for all special work, such as excavation, plumbing, heating, electrical work, plastering, painting and so on. To these he will add own costs, overhead and profit. This estimating costs them a lot of time, so don't ask for bids from any builder you wouldn't deal with if his bid were agreeable.

Low bidder gets the job—providing he is financially responsible to swing it.

Under such lump sum contracts, monthly bills call for 15 per cent less than the amount of work finished. That margin is held back until completion of the job to prevent an irresponsible builder from jumping his contract. If he did drop the job, all unpaid workers could file liens, and you'd have to pay them.

The second method of picking your builder, common in times of changing price levels and unsettled labor conditions, is the cost-plus contract. You agree to pay all costs plus the contractor's overhead and profit. This relieves the builder of most responsibility. It can mean that he won't care where costs go, because he is sure of his profit. However, you at least will know ahead of time how much he makes.

The third way, if you can get it, is not to call for bids at all, but to ask a builder you know to figure his "field cost plus profit." This is the upset price contract.

The builder estimates how much it will cost him to build your house, that is the field cost. He will include his own overhead expense, or list it as an additional 5 or 10 per cent of that cost. Then you ask him if he will take the job on that total plus 10 per cent profit.

One advantage of this upset price contract is that if the builder's field cost runs higher than his estimate, the difference must come out of his profit. On the other hand, if he is able to save on the field cost, saving will be divided between you.

In this way it behooves the builder to keep costs down.

Leave Off Porch To Lower Costs

A porch is the first thing you can leave off a house when the plan gets beyond your budget. It also is one of the easiest things to add later.

Porches are expensive to build. They cost from half to two-thirds as much as a room of equal size.

Building costs usually are figured by the cubic foot. Open porches are counted for half of their cubic content. Screened porches often figure at two-thirds of their cubage. Porches glassed-in cost about the same as a complete room.

Hostess to Inter Se Club

The Inter Se Club met with Mrs. Reynolds May Thursday afternoon for its final meeting of the year.

Mrs. Plato Evans was in charge of the program. "Canada" was the subject. She told in a brief but enlightening fashion, many important facts about the geography, government, industries and people of Canada. In closing, Mrs. Evans mentioned many points of interest, such as beautiful Rocky Mountain scenery, wonderful hunting, fishing, skiing and the quaintness of old Quebec, which combined, tend to make Canada one of the outstanding vacation lands of the world.

Mrs. L. M. Buchanan, president, conducted a brief business session. It was decided as in the past, that the books used during the year would be given to Sheppard Memorial Library.

At the conclusion of the meeting a delicious salad course was served by the hostess.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Rudolph Griffin of Raleigh, Mrs. Lindsey Wilkerson and Mrs. Charles Wilkerson.

To Graduate From Salem College

Ruby Moye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Moye, Maury, and Mary Wells Bunting, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bunting, Bethel, will graduate from Salem College, Winston-Salem, on Monday, May 31.

Gordon Gray, publisher of the Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel and assistant secretary of Army, will be the principal speaker at the commencement exercises, to be held in Memorial Hall at 11 a.m.

Miss Moye will receive an A.B. degree in history and Miss Bunting a B.M. degree in voice.

Before entering Salem College in 1944, Miss Moye attended both Maury and Greenville high schools. While at Salem, she has belonged to the Riding Club, the Spanish Club and the Athletic Association, serving this year as vice-president of the latter organization. Also this year she was elected to the May Court for May Day and was a member of the properties committee for May Day.

Miss Bunting graduated from Bethel High School. While at Salem she has been active in dramatics, belonging last year to the Salem Players. She was elected last spring to the Pierrette Players, honorary dramatics group. Miss Bunting has been a member of the College Choral Ensemble for four years and of the International Relations Club for the same time. She has also belonged to the German Club.

"JAM SESSION"... TELEPHONE STYLE

Telephone "jam sessions" occur when too many people try to make calls at the same time. With the telephone industry handling a record number of telephone calls daily, these "jams" are sometimes unavoidable. But you can help us reduce their frequency. Whenever possible, make local calls during less busy hours. Make long distance calls after 6 PM or on Sunday, when you'll benefit by lower rates. And if you should have a few seconds' wait when telephoning—please be patient. You will be served as soon as a line is open.

High School Students Give Kiwanis Program

By CHESTER WALSH

Dr. John O. Reynolds of the College, chairman of the Sponsored Youth Organization, presented an entertaining program at the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting last night. Miss Bettie Anne Young and Frederick Brooks, High school seniors, described the extra curricula of the school and outlined its many advantages. Brooks gave the gratifying information that 70 per cent of the Greenville High School graduates go to some college and that the average for the country is only 20 per cent. The two students made hits as after-dinner speakers. Miss Juanita Stokes, a junior, sang a solo, with Miss Ona Shindler as accompanist. Principal O. E. Dowd was a special guest.

President Brooks read a letter from ECTC President John D. Messick, complimenting the Kiwanis Club's minstrel. Incidently, Brooks reported that the minstrel netted a little over $2,100 for the underprivileged child fund.

Guy V. Smith, the "daddy of baseball" in Greenville reported on the financial condition of the ball club and the recent changes; said Greenville should have a good ball club; that the club could be gotten into good working order and solicited the support and encouragement of the fans.

McDonald Bland and Bob Brady Junior Kiwanians for a month, were welcomed.

Tom Wilson had a birthday and contributed a nickel for each year of his age. Aubrey Tilley led the singing of Kiwanis songs, with Mrs. Ray Tyson as accompanist.

V. F. W. Auxiliary Meets

The regular monthly meeting of the V. F. W. Auxiliary of Greenville Post No. 7032 met Thursday night, May 27. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Anna Belle Averette, president. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Carrie West, secretary. Four new members were initiated into the auxiliary, Mrs. Shyla Todd, Mrs. Martha Cahoon, Mrs. Margaret Laughinghouse and Mrs. Sally Musslewhite.

Reports were given by different committees of plans for the coming year. Plans were made to send three delegates to the state convention in Winston-Salem, Mrs. Averette, Mrs. West and Mrs. Kathleen Whichard.

Mrs. Ruth Garner presented a questionnaire to the members about the organization.

Hostesses for this meeting were Mrs. Elwando Fleming, Mrs. Lillie Pearl Joyner and Mrs. Peggy Tyndall.

Glee Club Rehearsal Monday Night

The Alumni of Greenville High School Glee Club will meet with Miss Shindler on Monday night at 8 o'clock at the high school to practice for commencement.

New Czech . . .

If that were the only development of its kind, perhaps less importance could be attached to it. However, similar resistance groups from other Eastern European countries are organizing quietly abroad. There are the Poles, the Hungarians, the Romanians, the Bulgarians the Yugoslavs. And meantime underground resistance exists in all the countries which have been brought under Soviet domination.

Some day there will be a spark which will set all this resistance aflame. That spark will be some fortuitous circumstance which no one can foresee now. Another war involving Russia most certainly would provide the spark, and that's one good reason why Moscow doesn't want war.

We may be sure Moscow isn't discounting the growth of the resistance.

Baccalaureate Sermon Sunday At Eppes High

Dr. E. E. Smith, pastor of Ebenezer Baptist Church, Richmond, Va., will deliver the baccalaureate sermon at the C. M. Eppes Negro High School, on West Fifth Street, Sunday night at 8 o'clock. Rev. J. A. Nimmo will pronounce the invocation. Rev. P. H. Mumford will read the scripture. Prof. W. H. Davenport, principal of the high school, will present Dr. Smith. A special musical program will be presented.

White and colored friends of the school are invited.

Commencement exercises will be held at the high school Monday night at 8:15. Prof. W. H. Davenport will preside. June H. Rose, superintendent of city schools, will speak briefly. J. B. James, of the City Board of Trustees, will award the diplomas.

Hoover Taft And President Truman

President Truman recently scheduled a meeting with a youthful, but important Democrat—and it was small wonder that he was puzzled when the Democrat turned out to be named Taft, then invited the President to call him Hoover. But it finally worked out to everybody's satisfaction, and the President is shown here shaking hands with Hoover Taft of Greenville, N. C., national treasurer of the Young Democratic Clubs of America and president of the North Carolina club of the same organization.—(Photo by Seth Muse).

Strength FOR THE DAY

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY . . M FOR ALL GOOD AMERICANS TO PONDER

The Battle of Princeton was one of the most significant in the history of the world. It had a most decisive effect on the winning of the Revolution, which had a most important effect on the establishment of democracy throughout the world. The battle is studied in every military school in the world. It was a classic in military technique.

Alfred Bill in his fine book, "The Campaign of Princeton," tells how, when the battle was at its height, Washington on a tall white horse galloped down the hill and, rushing into the midst of the soldiers wavering before the British arms, rallied them with the words, "Parade with us, my brave fellows. There's but a handful of the enemy, and we will have them directly." Hat in hand, he continued to wave them forward. Right at that point the American Revolution was won, although five more tragic years, with the horrors of Valley Forge, lay before Washington and his troops.

We know too little about this great man, read too little about him, think too little about him. All we are today as a nation goes back to him. He was God's great gift to an aspiring people in the day when a nation was pressing to birth. A study of his life is an effective antidote to a sneering, carping criticism leveled at many of our institutions today.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By JANE EADS

Washington—A new dance, "The Republican Glide," will be launched at a huge Republican Victory Ball in Washington late this month.

The Hawaiian delegate and Mrs. Farrington, two of the best dancers in social Washington, have been chosen to lead the figures. Sponsors of the ball say they hope the dance will "inspire Republicans to follow through right into the White House after election days."

"The Republican Glide" is said to resemble "The Lambeth Walk" which originated in England several years ago and later swept the dance floors of this country. Tickets to the dance, which is to be held at the Hotel Mayflower will be limited to 1,500 so there will be no overcrowding of the ballroom.

Dr. Joseph Lelyveld, chairman of the National Foot Health Council, says women are a constant source of worry to the country's foot doctors. "We get them broken of the habit of buying shoes too small for their feet," he said, "and then they adopt all sorts of freakish, unhealthful styles."

Dr. Lelyve'd, who said women came to foot doctors at a ratio of four-to-one over the men, praised the care most mail carriers take of their feet. He had a chat with Postmaster General Donaldson the other day; presented him a scroll listing 10 basic rules for foot health. He hopes the postman will take the advice home to the little woman.

He says for social wear extreme shoes aren't too dangerous if the right shoe is worn for the proper occasion. For dancing or walking, though, high heels are taboo. "We're dead set against moccasins," he goes on. "They were all right for Indians who never had to pound a pavement. But on city streets, the wearing of these so-called loafers will cause big ankles"

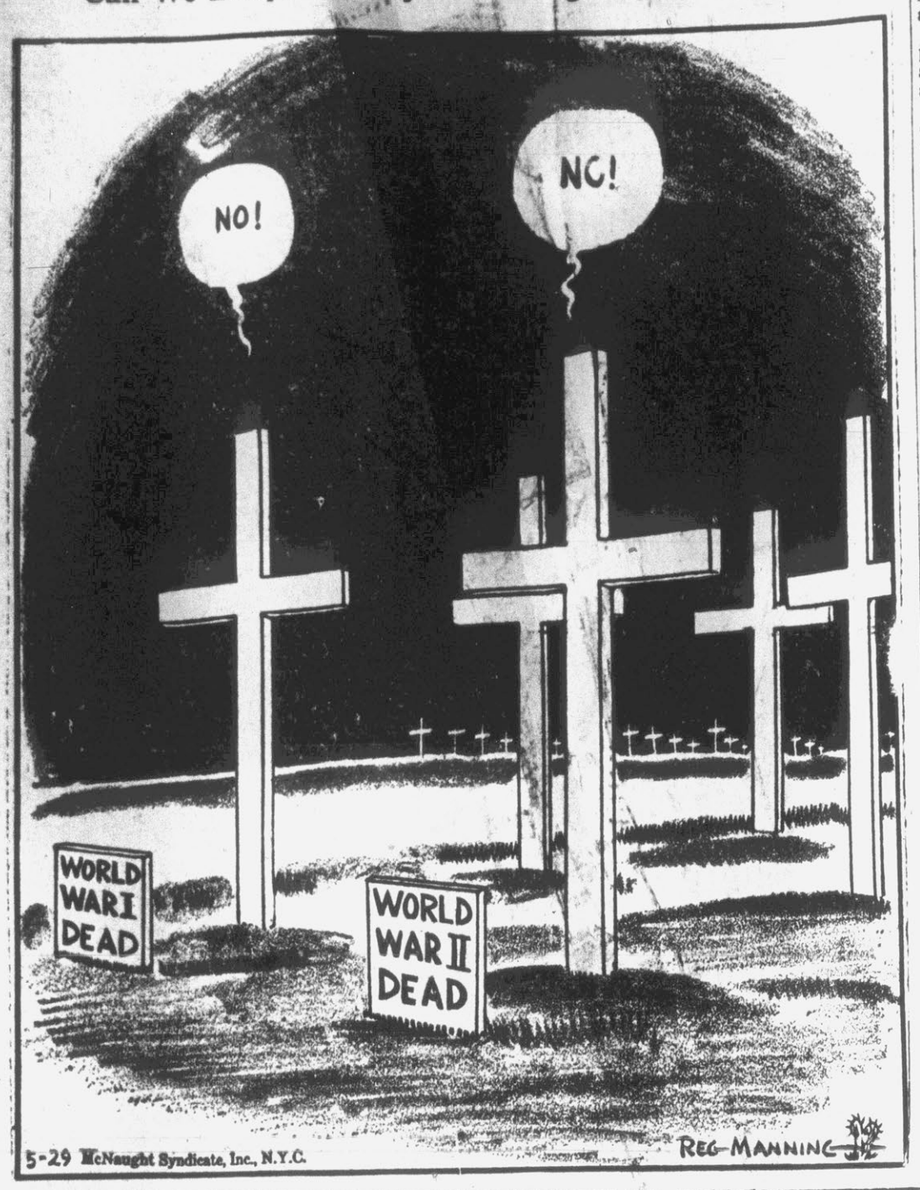

One lone man and 2000 women attended a garden party Mrs. Truman gave at the White House recently for women holding executive positions with the government. The man was Secretary of State George C. Marshall. He had come to escort Mrs. Marshall. She was still receiving with Mrs. Truman and other Cabinet ladies in the Blue Room and couldn't leave. Courageous but shy, the Secretary drew up a chair in a far corner of the room and waited until the reception was over.

Can We Escape War By Remaining Unprepared?

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

New York, May 28—(AP)—The class in beer drawing will please come to attention.

You think I'm kidding? are there really classroom courses on how to draw a glass of beer?

Sure. I just—Bu-ur-r-r-rp— flunked the first lesson.

I took it in a demonstration room at the Jacob Ruppert brewery, the one that used to own the New York Yankees and kept them—so to say—hopping.

The professor was 55-year-old Hal R. Roffmann, the dean and effervescent Rembrandt of American beer drawers. The class consisted of students in a local bartenders' school. A number were veterans studying under the G. I. bill of rights.

The professor, a consultant to many breweries and hotels, went right to the heart of his suoject—how to reach the man behind the bar to draw a proper glass of beer. Draft beer. Bottled beer, he feels, better for pigeons.

"There's a lot of kidding on this subject—but it's important," he said adding ominously:

"There even have been cases of murder over whether beer was being drawn right. I got the clippings right here in my pocket.

"You gotta be a diplomat. Some customers act up after just smelling the bar rag."

To draw a glass of beer that'll malt in your mouth is as much of an art as drawing a landscape, and even more soul-filling—according to the professor. He told the class that beer is getting better but that tavern keepers are getting worse.

"Too careless," he said. "In the old days bartenders paid more attention to how beer was kept."

For an hour and a half Roffmann explained how important it was to keep the keg in a pre-cooler, flush the coils regularly, and adjust the pressure so the customer would get the beer in his glass instead of a spray in the face.

Then the professor began to draw some beer himself. The glass pehked up at once.

"There is no such thing as wild beer, flat beer, or green beer," he lectured sternly, "if you keep it cool—below 40 degrees—and draw it right."

"It oughta have a collar," he continued, drawing a glass himself with an inch-deep necklace of suds. "It oughta leave a ring on the glass every time you take a sip."

The professor takes big sips himself. He left only six rings. the class looked thirsty.

"But you gotta have control. It's like shifting gears in a car. Pull the faucet down fast. If you throttle it, you get too much foam.

"Always wash the glasses in water. Don't use soap. It kills the head. And don't dry the glasses with a cloth. Use 'em wet. If you use a dry glass, the customer will see bubbles settling on the sides. If he drinks it and it's a hot day—well, what happens maybe?"

Everybody flunked that one.

"He burps maybe," said Roffmann patiently. "Right away he starts blaming the beer. Says it's got too much gas—says he saw the bubbles himself."

The professor then invited the tap room scholars up to draw a sample. Everybody quickly sidled up to a scidel. Each rinsed his seidel in a pail of water before drawing his beer. I forgot this part of the ceremony.

"Nice collar," said the professor genially, "but look at the bubbles. You used a dry glass."

I nosed into the glass. It was a warm day. Something happened.

Eccles Wants No Truman Position

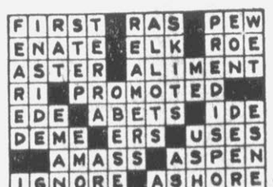

Washington, May 28. — (AP)— Marriner S. Eccles, 'ot the country know today that he wants no new job title from President Truman now.

Eccles, one of the last holdovers from the New Deal front ranks wrote the Chief Executive to forget about appointing him vice chairman of the Federal Reserve Board a seven-man organization which wields heavy power over the nation's economic affairs.

Visiting Nurse

Chapter 23

Hildred was sure Randy would never agree to Jimmy's staying at the Laniers.

But the amazing part was that, this one time Randy did not disagree. He did not even put up an argument. When she got him on the phone to tell him Jimmy had been found she thought it best also to tell him right away that Jimmy was going to stay on a few days at the big plantation.

She waited for the explosion that she was so certain would follow. But Randy's voice came back in its even, professional tenor. "I see. Well, that might not be a bad idea."

"You—you mean you really think it would work out?"

"It might." Randy's voice was utterly impersonal.

She was in deeper now than ever, she reflected, as she hung up the receiver once more.

"Now I do wish I could just crawl in a corner and have a nice quiet breakdown," she said to Mamie, still the interested spectator.

"You mean the Doc was that bad!"

"No, he was that good. He was very agreeable, very neat. He just stepped out of the picture, Mamie—and let me carry the ball."

Mamie, again, answered for her. "He's doing it because of you, too—the Doc is. He may not know it yet. But I still figure he'll wake up in time. He thinks you and this Lanier man have got so thick that it's better for him to leave you together."

"That doesn't make any sense!" Hildred was cross now.

"Sure it does!" Mamie defended her knowledge. "You'll see. Some men, like Doctor Baird, are so stubborn and blind and dumb they cut off their own noses. Jest so, this time, he don't spite his own face—and your happiness."

"Before I'd go to all that bother for any man. . ." But what was the use? Mamie certainly did not know what she was talking about now.

She had told Lucien Robin could call for her at five o'clock. She would go out and see Jimmy. She would tell Lucien, and his mother, that the boy could stay for awhile. What else, as Randy had said, could she do? But there would have to be some other solution. Hildred was determined as to that.

Jimmy was so happy that she did not have the heart to scold him, especially as Lucien insisted he already had. "I am going to let you make a little visit here," Hildred told the boy. "But that does not mean, Jimmy, that it is for keeps. You must understand that, dear." She felt it was best to be honest with him, if he was only a child.

"But Lucien said I could stay as long as I liked!" Some of the radiance was dimmed in the enormous big dark eyes. "I like it here. I like it much better than any place else. And, Miss Hil, I won't go back to the Home." Now his eyes were filled with dark tragedy. "I will run away again—I will kill myself first."

"Do not say that!" Lucien's voice was like a knife. The same dark tragedy was reflected in his own eyes. He knelt down to take the boy in his arms, to hold him tightly; he looked up at Hildred, standing silently apart. "You see!" his tone was reproachful, "he is very much like me—alas, too much! And you must also see now that he must be allowed to remain."

"I hardly think Jimmy would go that far," she returned coolly. "Jimmy, you are a very naughty boy to talk that way. You should be punished—as you should have been for running away. We will see how good you are," she finished, giving as much, no more than she felt she could. "That will determine how long you may visit here, Jimmy."

Lucien got to his feet, but not before he had given the boy another reassuring hug. "We will both be very good, won't we, sonny? I cannot understand why our little nurse is so angry with us. You run along now with Robin—he is waiting to take you down to the barn. And you, Hildred, are invited for tea which is waiting for us."

In spite of herself Hildred had to smile, as Lucien took her arm to lead her into the house. She said, "You know, Lucien, it is not as simple as you try to make out. You should be punished, too—or scolded soundly."

"If you do the scolding I shall not mind," he told her, his dark eyes smiling deeply into hers. "And there is something more that I have to tell you—something that may make everything far more simple than you seem to think, my dear! But come, Liz is waiting to pour—she, too, is most anxious to see you."

Something more to tell her . . . how he loved to make things mysterious—she felt she understood Lucien now and that that, really, was all the mystery there was about him, or the Laniers. His love of the dramatic, of playing his different roles.

"I shall tell you during tea," Lucien said. "It is another surprise—as big a one as Jimmy's running away! An exciting day this has been indeed!"

But it was the Countess who told Hildred the other news. She told it almost in Lucien's same words. After she had greeted Hildred very warmly, she said, "I am so glad you have come. This day has been almost too much for me. First Jimmy coming to us—though that is very good. Indeed, we are, as Lucien has told you, most happy to have him, to keep him as long as he can stay. And then Dorothea—to think she would send her wire—and such a wire—today, too! I suppose, Hil-[illegible]. Lucien has told you that his cousin, who has been betrothed to him [illegible] with another

New Counseling Plan At College

A new program of counseling for students at East Carolina Teachers College has been worked out at the college by a committee headed by Rudolph R. Willmann of the faculty and including among members Dean Leo W. Jenkins and Registrar J. K. Long. The plan suggested has been adopted by faculty action and will go into effect at the beginning of the fall quarter in September.

Special offices and personnel now offering guidance to students on the campus, such as the Placement Bureau, the dean's and registrar's offices, the deans of men and of women, the veterans' advisor, and the college physician and his staff will continue their present work. According to the new plan, each student attending the college will have in addition a specially selected faculty counselor for academic work and one for personal problems.

A series of tests and scales including intelligence, aptitude, reading, adjustment inventory, study problems, and vocational preference will be given students at the time of their entrance at the college. This material, along with information as to students' academic record and extra-curricula activities, will be made available to counselors.

A new orientation course carrying three hours' credit will be added to the curriculum. Its purpose will be to aid students in making the difficult adjustment from high-school to college work. It will aid in the choice of a major field of study, the selection of extra-curricula activities, and the establishment of good work habits and acquaintanceship with college facilities, such as the library.

the meantime so that they can get married and have children.

What About Marriage?

We should perhaps change our ideas as to marriage, support of families and education. The present theory whereby children should get through college as soon as possible and not get married until able to "paddle their own canoe" without any help from home may be wrong. Better have them take a longer time for their education including an intensive year's course in mechanics.

In the Balkan countries, Czechoslovakia, Finland and eastern Germany, the native young people who have fared the worst under Communistic regime are the sons and daughters of well-to-do people, many of whom have been liquidated. The poor people are better off than they ever were; but the ones who are really suffering are the sons and daughters of the upper middle-classes who were living a life of more or less ease. Their parents have been stripped of their lands, stocks and bonds. Only those young people who had been trained to be agriculturalists, physicians, dentists, scientists, engineers, accountants, mechanics and other skilled workers have been protected.

Importance of a trade

Too many young people are going out into life inefficiently equipped manually. Most of them are helpless in putting a machine together or in operating it or repairing it. This applies to almost everything from fixing a typewriter to operating farm machinery. Hence, our college graduates go out into the world without the respect of labor. Therefore, I believe every young person should spend a year in some mechanical business or school.

Some readers may be fortunate enough to have a mechanically inclined boy or girl, but I am sure that many readers will agree with me that most children are too helpless. This is one reason which gives labor leaders the ability to threaten us with strikes and scare us with their propaganda. This is especially important for those who expect to inherit money or position. A year's training of this sort would be the very best insurance that we could possibly give our children and grandchildren.

Get Some Mechanical Training

Such a year's training would not take the place of a college which teaches very necessary foundations. I am simply appealing that after this formal education is completed, before our young people settle down, they should take a year of intensive training in mechanical work, agriculture, ranching, oil production, lumbering and the other basic industries upon which our nation ultimately must depend. Certainly, they should know more about the industries upon which their food, clothing and shelter depends.

Service League Observes Tenth Anniversary

The Service League proudly observed the 10th anniversary of its inception at the annual luncheon meeting held Wednesday, May 26, at the Red Oak community house. Many former members and the entire Advisory Council, composed of Mrs. Judson Blount, Mrs. S. J. Everett, Mrs. J. L. Hassell, Mrs. E. W. Harvey, Mrs. Will Hooker and Mrs. T. A. Person, joined in observing this happy event. On arrival each guest and member was welcomed and presented a lovely nosegay by the president, Mrs. Lyman Ormond.

The meeting was opened with an appropriate prayer by Mrs. E. W. Harvey, after which Mrs. Joseph Moye, secretary, called, first, the roll of active members, then that of charter members and, lastly, the names of other former members. As this was done each person answered with a gift for the Ellington shelf. Monthly reports were given by the chairmen of the various committees and the treasurer, Mrs. Charles Flanagan, made a complete and gratifying yearly report. Mrs. Ormond then reviewed the entire year's work in a most comprehensive report which opened with these remarks: "Not unlike a snowball gathering momentum and strength as it rolls along our Service League brings another good year in its life to a close. This record of things accomplished during the year is one of which all of you should be justly proud, for you as a member have made this report possible."

1. The Thrift Shop was used as headquarters for the T.B. Seal Drive which was sponsored by the League. It, also, worked in conjunction with the Welfare Office in the Emergency Relief Program and cooperated with the Merchants Association on "Trade Promotion Days."

2. The Greenville Emergency Charity Fund Committee, which was made possible by the Community Chest, was created and during the year aided the sick, the blind, those left destitute by fire and many, who because of the severe winter, found themselves in need of temporary aid. A total of 98 families were assisted.

3. The Lending Chest did a fine job in furnishing sick room supplies to patients confined to their beds and made available crutches and a wheel chair to those who otherwise would have had tiresome days in bed.

4. Participated in the Community Chest Drive.

5. Participated in the Red Cross Drive.

6. Assembled twelve layettes and placed nine with cases found to be in dire need.

7. Worked at the Blind Center.

8. Gave a campership to both a Boy and Girl Scout enabling them to attend camp for a two-week period.

9. Furnished chairman for Greenville Recreational Commission and, also, sent a representative to the recent recreation planning meeting.

10. Raised funds for the Laughinghouse Hospital Bed through the publication and sale of 1200 cook books; sales from the Ellington shelf; bake sales and Stanley demonstrations.

11. The Laughinghouse Hospital Bed functioned actively throughout the year and received the heartfelt thanks of many who benefited from it. In addition to the financial aid, members gave many hours of volunteer service at the hospital, doing office work, assisting nurses and making bandages.

12. Helped Rotarians pack clothes collected in the Overseas Relief Drive.

13. Donated $25.00 to the Pitt County Bookmobile.

14. Distributed cookies at the hospital at Camp Lejeune at Christmas.

In closing the president thanked the entire League for making this report possible and ended with these lines:

When things go wrong, as they sometimes will,
When the road you're trudging seems all up hill,
When the funds are low and the debts are high,
And you want to smile but you have to sigh,
When care is pressing yonder a bit
Rest if you must, but please don't you quit.
Life is queer with its twists and turns,
As everyone of us sometimes learns.
And many a failure turns about
When he might have won had he stuck it out.
Don't give up, though the pace seems slow.
You may succeed with another blow.
Success is failure turned inside out—
The silver tint of the clouds of doubt.
And you can never tell how close you are,
It may be near when it seems afar:
So stick to the fight when you're hardest hit—
It's when things seem worse that you just mustn't quit.

Mrs. Ormond was given a rising vote of thanks for the magnificent work she has done as president during the past two years.

Mrs. J. T. Little was installed as the new president and Mrs. J. H. Thomas as secretary. Mrs. Little spoke a few words of greeting and appointed the following committee chairmen for next year:

Membership, Mrs. Wyatt Brown; Hospital Bed, Mrs. R. C. Stokes; Girl Scout, Mrs. B. B. Sugg, Jr.; Publicity, Mrs. Robert Lang; Lending Chest, Mrs. Lyman Ormond; Layettes, Mrs. David Evans; Finance, Mrs. John Warner; Placement, Mrs. Ed Williford; Thrift Shop, Mrs. Jesse R. Moye; Emergency Charity Fund, Mrs. W. S. Bost; Projects, Mrs. W. L. Whedbee; Playground, Mrs. W. L. Harrington.

At the conclusion of the business session a delightful luncheon was served by members of the Red Oak church. Places were designated by colorful cookie cutters given as mementos by the president. Intermittently during luncheon a musical program was presented with Mrs. Clarissa Edwards May singing three enjoyable numbers accompanied by Mrs. Tyson Bilbro, and Mrs. R. L. Tyson leading group singing as well as contributing several accordion selections.

As a highlight of the meeting Mrs. W. S. Bost in her inimitable manner gave a clever, witty and most revealing history of the League's ten years of existence. As she finished the birthday cake was lighted and the lucky number for the cake was drawn. Mrs. S. J. Everett proved to be the recipient.

The climax of the luncheon came when Mrs. Ormond, as outgoing president, presented an exquisite silver trophy to the Service League to be awarded each year to that member who through her willingness of cooperation has lived up to the objectives and ideals of the League, which are to foster interest among the members in the social, economic, educational, cultural and civic conditions of the community, and to make efficient their volunteer service.

Connie Mack Has Located Much Needed Relief Man

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Connie Mack, whose luck seems to be all good for a change this year, apparently has found the relief man he wants in the veteran Nelson Potter.

Mr. Mack's Philadelphia Athletics figure to have just about the best pitching staff in the American League. But Connie wanted an experienced man to play fireman when one was needed.

The script called for Russ Christopher, once the A's starting ace to play this role. Christopher balked. He wanted starting jobs or nothing. So Christopher was sold to the Cleveland Indians where he wound up as a relief man.

A couple weeks ago the Athletics bought Potter from the St. Louis Browns in a straight cash deal. The chunky righthander performed for the A's from 1938 to 1941 with little success. This season he hadn't done much and had a sore shoulder.

Strictly a starting pitcher with the Browns ever since 1943, Potter has been used three times by Philadelphia, always in relief. he worked once in a losing cause, then saved a game for Joe Coleman.

Last night in Shibe Park against the New York Yankees he clinched the job. He entered the game in the fifth with two on and none out. He [illegible] without a run and from [illegible] the Yanks couldn't move past first.

Potter gave up only two h[illegible] received credit for the 6-3 victory. It was the sixth in a row for the A's who maintained their one game first place Margin over the Cleveland Indians.

Cleveland stayed right behind by whipping the Chicago White Sox, 2 to 0, in Chicago. Don Black and Christopher gave up only five hits but were in trouble several times. On three occasions the Sox loaded the bases but failed to score.

The Boston Red Sox slipped to seventh place again by losing to the Senators, 2-1, in Washington.

A seventh inning rally brought the St. Louis Browns a 5-4 victory over Detroit and moved them to within three percentage points of the fourth place Tigers.

In the National League the St. Louis Cardinals increased their first place lead to three full games over the New York Giants, although rain shortened their game in Pittsburgh to a 1-1 six-inning tie.

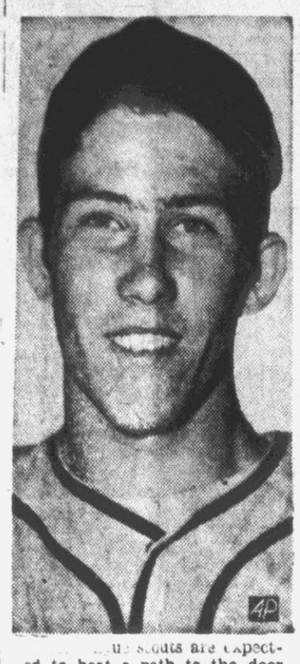

The Giants couldn't handle the Philadelphia Phil's in the Polo grounds and lost, 6 to 3. New York manager Mel Ott announced he was playing the game under protest after a ninth inning argument, but the dispute involved an Umpire's judgment and the protest isn't likely to get anywhere.

Umpire Art Gore ruled that Emil Verban held a thrown ball long enough to force a runner at second base. The ball then bounded away. The Giants said he didn't.

The Brooklyn Dodgers finally caught up with the Boston Braves and beat them, 7 to 5, in Boston. It was the first time the Dodgers had turned the trick in the last nine games between the two clubs.

Hank Sauer hit his 11th and 12th home runs and Grady Hatton and Johnny Wyrostek chipped in with four baggers for the Cincinnati Reds against the Chicago Cubs, but the long blows weren't enough. The Cubs came from far behind and nosed out the Reds, 10 to 8, at Cincinnati.

Powerful Pitcher

[illegible] Scouts are expected to beat a path to the door of Hugh Radcliffe (above) when the 19-year-old sensational righthanded pitcher is graduated from high school at Thomaston, Ga., June 1. In one nine-inning game this spring he fanned 28 men. The extra batter resulted from failure of the catcher to hold on to the third strike on the 27th batter. (AP Photo).

Gavilan Slated For Title Bout

New York, May 29—(AP)—Champ—Kid Gavilan's stunning one-round knockout of Rocco Rossano probably means a summer title shot for the Cuban clouter with welter champ Ray Robinson.

That's what Sol Strauss, acting promoter of the twentieth century sporting club, has in mind. As soon as he saw Gavilan flatten the kid from Brooklyn in 2::01 of the first last night, he turned to George Gainford, who handles Robinson's business affairs.

"Come along," said Sol, "we got business to do."

Gavilan was expected to win from Rossano but few expected a knockout. Rocco was supposed to be the puncher off his 33 second Kayo of Eddie Glosa last winter. They respected Gavilan's boxing ability but he had not displayed any kayo power in his Bolo right or his leaping left jab.

Rossano probably never knew what hit him. Gavilan bounced across the ring to catch him in his corner almost before he could get his hands up. A stiff right to the head sent him down for nine with bells ringing in his ears. Although Rocco managed to weather that storm, it was only a matter of time until the Cuban hawk stiffened him, flat on his back, with a right to the jaw.

The blood pressures of children are normally lower than those of adults.

Racers Scramble For Position In Starting Lineup

Indianapolis, May 29 — (AP) — Twelve to 25 cars will scramble from noon to sundown today for three remaining spots in the lineup for the 32nd annual 500-mile race Monday.

Some of the 30 previous qualifiers were not too secure and would be ousted if more than three cars bettered their qualifying speeds.

It was the biggest last-minute battle for starting positions in Indianapolis Motor Speedway history.

Something always is the biggest or fastest or strangest happening in the history of America's noisiest sports event.

Last year's novelties were the drivers' strike, settled the week of the race, and the first one-two team victory by Mauri Rose and Bill Holland.

This year's race seems likely to be unique on several counts. The original entry list of 80 cars was the biggest ever. Sixty-five cars actually reached the track and that also was a record. The big field resulted in an unprecedented shortage of drivers, with the better known pilots just about having their pick of cars.

Monday's show will draw some 150,000 spectators and they may see the fastest of the 32 races. Qualification speeds indicated a half-dozen cars had the stuff to beat Floyd Roberts' record of 117.2 miles an hour that has stood since 1937.

The chances for a new record depend largely on the weather and whether there are accidents that force slow driving while the debris is being cleared away. The speedway has been phenomenally lucky as to weather—not so lucky on accidents.

Only one 500-mile race, in 1915, has ever been postponed because of rain, although a downpour cut the 1926 race to 400 miles.

Little Joe Cianciabella, the stubby sprinter from Manhattan College hasn't been given any great amount of consideration when U. S. Olympic sprint hopes have been discussed, but he is determined to be aboard as a member of the track and field team when the ship sails for London.

Cianciabella is the 1C4A indoor and outdoor sprint champion, and despite his lack of stature, figures his best chances in the international games lie in the double furlong event. Joe won the indoor 1C4A 60-yard title in 1947 by nosing out Glenn Davis, the famous army football and sprint ace. This year he successfully defeated his title although it required the aid of a photo to establish him as the winner. A year ago, Little Joe romped off with the 100 and 220 yard championships in the outdoor Intercollegiate title meet in Franklin Field, Philadelphia, in the respectable times of 9.7 and 21.4 seconds.

The flying Jasper is aiming to be the second man in 40 years to successfully defend two IC4A sprints championships. Barney Ewell, of Penn State, double winner of the sprints in 1940, 1941 and 1942, is the only one to accomplish the feat since 1908 when Nate Cartmell of Cartmell of Penn, also won both dashes in 1906-07-08. This year, with the Olympic scramble at full tilt, Little Joe has a terrific assignment on his hands, but a double triumph would boost his Olympic stock many points.

The Greenville Greenies got a much needed rest last night in Roanoke Rapids as the game had to be postponed on account of wet grounds. This means another twin bill for the Greenies on tap next week as the game last night will be played as a double-header in Roanoke Rapids next Saturday night.

The Greenies at the present time are in the midst of a winning streak, having won their last three contests. Make your plans to come out tonight and support the Greenies when they meet the New Bern Bears here in the first of a two-game series.

The official averages usually run in this column on Saturdays failed to arrive today in time for publication. However, it is hoped that they will be here in time to use in Monday's paper.

Home runs with the bases full are not common happenings in the game of baseball. Yet, within the last several days three were accounted for in the Coastal Plain loop. Last Saturday night at Roanoke Rapids, Manager Steve Collins of the Kinston Eagles started things off with his four-run blast against the Jays. At Rocky Mount the next day, Dave Fowler of the Leafs grabbed one against New Bern. Then Monday night Jack Hussey connected with the bags packed against New Bern . . . David Dwight Hamrick, veteran righthanded hurler who was recently released by the Kinston Eagles to make room for Lou Herrington was sent to the Shelby Club of the Western Carolina League, where latest reports are that he's doing right well for himself . . . Charlie Chute, ex-Greenie, did his bit for New Bern last night against Wilson, collecting five hits, including a two-bagger, in five trips to the plate.

Former Boxing Champ, Promoter Sent To Prison

Baltimore, May 29—(AP)—Harry Jeffra, one-time holder of two world's boxing titles, and Baltimore fight Promoter Nathan E. Phillips were sentenced to six months' imprisonment each in federal court yesterday for violating the wartime draft act.

Citing Jeffra's reputation as a fighter, Judge William C. Coleman said it is a "sad commentary" that the former bantam and featherweight champ, should "circumvent the law that requires him to fight for his country."

Jeffra was convicted specifically of causing the promoter to make a false statement in a letter to Jeffra's draft board. Phillips was found guilty by the jury on a charge of making the false statement.

The jury recommended leniency in both cases.

Citation's Bank Account To Get Another Deposit

Camden, N.J., May 29—(AP)—Barring the turf upset of a generation, Citation will move into fifth place among the money winners along about 3:30 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, today.

That is the hour when the chestnut flyer from Warren Wright's Calumet Farm is expected to lead five other three-year-olds over Garden State Park's mile and one-quarter racing strip in the $50,000 added Jersey stakes.

Victory for the Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner would push Citation's earnings to $468,000, past Seabiscuit and only a little less than $100,000 behind Whirlaway, who also raced for Calumet.

Ahead of Whirlaway's bank account of $561,161 stand Assault, Armed (another bearer of the Calumet Devil Red Silks) and Stymie.

Need Furnishings For Teen Age Club At Old NYA Center

The Greenville Community Council, at a meeting at the High school Thursday night, made plans for providing quarters for the Teen Age Club in the mess hall of the old NYA building in the eastern part of the city, about the middle of June. Tyson Bilbro was appointed chairman of the Equipment committee to collect donations of furniture, etc., with which to furnish the hall. Bo Farley and Heber Tripp are the other members of the committee.

The committee requests householders and others willing to assist in the community enterprise to donate any of the following equipment: pool table, easy chairs, casual chairs sofas, music box, cold drink box, bridge tables and chairs, bridge floor lamps, game tables, etc. Telephone Chairman Bilbro at 2115 or 3586.

Maynard Thorne Died Farmville Home Yesterday

Maynard G. Thorne, 48, died at his home in Farmville Friday afternoon after a short illness. Funeral services will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. from the Farmville Christian Church, of which he was an elder and Sunday school teacher for many years. The rites will be conducted by the Rev. Z. B. T. Cox, pastor, assisted by the Rev. E. W. Holmes, pastor of the Baptist Church. Burial will be in Hollywood cemetery.

The body will remain at Farmville Funeral Home until 1 p.m. Sunday, when it will be taken to the church to lie in state until the funeral hour.

Mr. Thorne attended Farmville schools, Duke University and Massey Business College at Richmond, Va. He was connected with the Farmville Furniture Company as salesman and assistant manager for 30 years. In 1947 he opened Thorne-Wooten Furniture Company. He served as president of the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association last year and took an active role in civic and church affairs.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Tommie Deason Thorne; two sons, M.G., Jr., and James Thorne and his mother, Mrs. Florence Thorne, all of Farmville.
