Jarvis Memorial Prepares For Annual State Conference Here

By WYATT BROWN
Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church will be hosts to the Annual session of the North Carolina Methodist Conference in November of this year. There will be over five hundred persons in attendance from out of town. Early in April Chairman of the Board of Stewards William H. Taft and President of the Women's Society of Christian Service Mrs. S. B. Underwood Jr., appointed the various functions of the local church.

This is the first time in a number of years that Jarvis Memorial has entertained the Annual Conference. Last year during the sessions in Elizabeth City Reverend Robert W. Bradshaw, pastor of the local Methodist Church invited the Methodists to Greenville. It is an especially significant event to Mr. Bradshaw for it was at the Annual Conference here some years ago that he entered the ministry.

The committee assignments are as follows:

Housing committee: Sam B. Underwood, Chairman, Mrs. W. H. Taft, Co-Chairman, Reynolds May, N. O. VanNortwick, Jr., Mrs. R. H. Stark, Mrs. Sam T. White, Mrs. M. K. Blount, Mrs. George Clapp, Mrs. Julian White, Mrs. J. A. Bunting, Mr. Joe Moye, Mrs. F. P. Brooks, and Mrs. Sydney Dunn.

Mrs. Will Hooker, Mrs. J. H. Waldrop, Mrs. James Phelps, Miss Mammie Faison, Mrs. J. W. Foley, Sr., Mrs. Harry Forbes, Mrs. W. G. Garner, Miss Frances Gross, and Miss Bertha Powell.

Crucial Fight On Tariff Issue In Senate Today

Washington, June 12 (AP)—Senate Republicans and Democrats squared off for a showdown fight today on the tariff issue. At issue was the reciprocal trade program which is due to expire at midnight.

Democratic strategists privately conceded defeat in their efforts to meet the Administration's request for a three-year extension of the law "as is."

A Democratic leader who declined to be quoted by name said his side "lacks a few votes" needed to substitute a no-change amendment for a GOP-endorsed one year extension.

The Senate opens debate on the measure today with the Republicans expressing confidence they can put across their compromise plan.

Another 'Dead Duck'

It Will Take A Miracle to Get A Civil Rights Program Through Congress At This Late Date; Probable Strategy; Problem of Fixing Platform At Conventions

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 12 (AP)—The Civil Rights program. Remember it and all the heat it caused? Looks like a dead duck now.

Just about a miracle is needed to get even one of President Truman's Civil Rights proposals passed before Congress finishes up next week.

Last February Mr. Truman, in a 4,000-word message to Congress, asked for a number of Civil Rights laws. Laws that would:

Help put an end to lynching; see that people are not kept out of jobs because of race, color or religion; kill the poll tax in seven Southern states where it has to be paid before a person can vote; and protect everyone's right to vote.

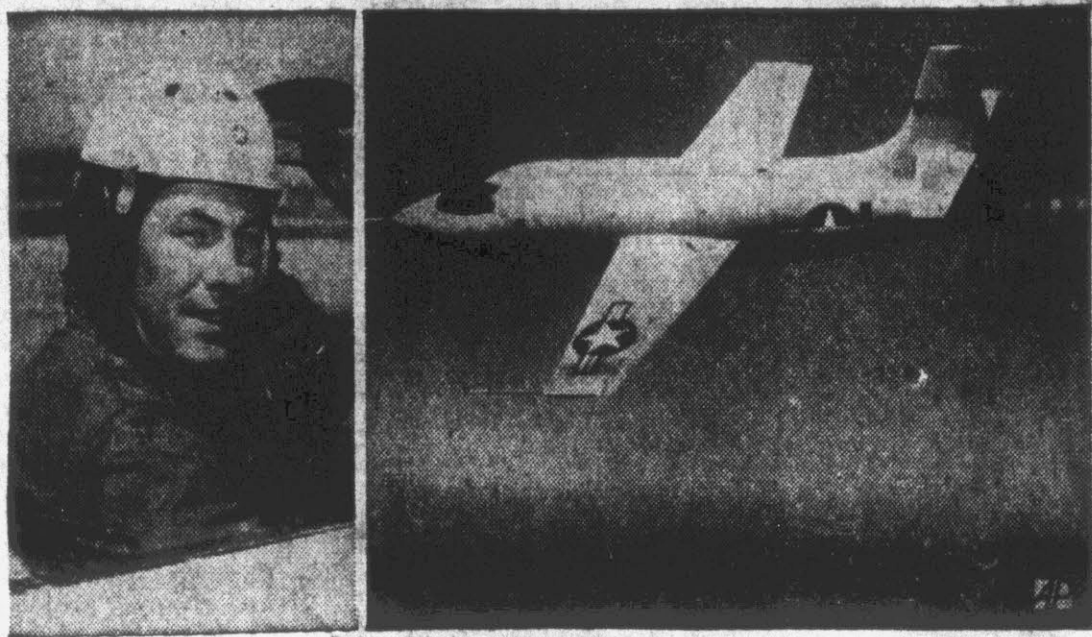

Those laws would be of particular benefit to Negroes. But Mr. Truman's program so infuriated his own Southern Democrats in and out of Congress that:

They threatened to quit the party if the rest of the country's Democrats nominated Mr. Truman for re-election.

The heat was terrific. For a while it seemed Mr. Truman's Democratic party would fall apart. Maybe it will yet, over that issue.

When the storm first hit him, Mr. Truman said he would not retreat an inch. In recent months he hasn't

U.S. Air Force Plane Flies Faster Than Sound

Secretary of Air W. Stuart Symington told a news conference in Washington Thursday that the U. S. Air Force research plane XS-1 (right) has flown "much faster than the speed of sound." The Air Force immediately released this picture of the XS-1 in flight over Muroc, Calif. Capt. Charles E. Yeager (left), a native of Myra, Va., is the first and only pilot to fly the XS-1 beyond the so-called sonic wall. Symington said Capt. Yeager has piloted the plane faster than sound several times. The plane in which Yeager is sitting is not the XS-1. (AP Wirephoto).

Claim Violations In Palestine Truce

UN Mediator Promises An Immediate Probe Of Accusations Made By Jews And Arabs; Retaliatory Moves Threatened

Cairo, June 12 (AP)—Both sides today charged specific violations of Palestine's one-day-old truce, and a high Jewish official hinted that reprisal bombings might be carried out against Arab capitals. The United Nations mediator promised an immediate probe of accusations made to him.

The chief of operations of the Jewish high command said in Tel Aviv last night Arabs had violated the truce on the northern, central and southern fronts. He warned that the Israeli army might strike back to regain any ground the Arabs took.

A similar threat was implied by the unified Arab high command yesterday. An order sent out from Amman, Trans-Jordan, to Arab forces told them to cease fire "unless attacked."

Count Folke Bernadotte, the U. N. Mediator said last night he had received a number of Arab complaints, including one from Maj. Gen. John Baggot Glubb Pasha, commander of the Arab legion and a retired British army officer.

He said he had ordered U. N. military observers to investigate and report as quickly as possible on these complaints.

Bernadotte leaves Cairo today en route to the island of Rhodes to transfer his headquarters there. On the way he is to visit Amman and Jerusalem.

Take Steps For Controlling Polio

Morganton, N. C., June 12 (AP)—Burke county has taken steps to control infantile paralysis by cancelling daily vacation bible schools in Morganton and the vicinity, and closing the community swimming pool at Valdese.

Dr. C. N. Sisk, County health officer, reported that at least a dozen cases of polio have been diagnosed in the county.

DEFENDS "OLD JOE"
Aboard Truman Train En Route to Berkeley, Calif., June 12 (AP)—President Truman contended today that Russian forces stronger than "Old Joe" Stalin are preventing the Soviet premier from keeping agreements vital to world peace.

Planning Appeal To Legislature

Charlotte, N. C., June 12 (AP)—The North Carolina conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will ask the next legislature to provide for admission of Negroes to the University of North Carolina and all tax supported state schools.

That was decided in a resolution adopted here yesterday at the end of the fifth annual convention.

Plan Completion College Building

Raleigh, June 12 (AP)—Completion of N. C. State College's coliseum whose gaunt skeleton has stood on the campus nearly five years, was authorized yesterday by Governor Cherry.

The governor told college authorities to "proceed immediately" with plans for completing the huge brick and steel structure, designed to seat 13,500 persons for athletic events, agricultural fairs and meetings and civic events.

MAKES SWITCH
Raleigh, N. C., June 12 (AP)—Miss Nellie Bell Lewis, Raleigh newspaper columnist, has been appointed editor of the Raleigh Times.

John A. Park, editor and publisher, said Miss Lewis will join the staff next Tuesday.

Bankers and investors should also be less selfish and think more of the country's good as a whole. Of these 2500 patents issued last month probably half of them cannot now be used because of lack of capital to manufacture and sell them. As a rule, I am not in favor of Government mixing up with business, but certainly some inventors of good products should in some way be entitled to financial help. Then we must not forget the important patents which big companies buy up to smother for fear of competition. This should be prevented.

Selecting Investments
I study patent assignments, that is, patents that have been bought by large companies from the inventors. This list shows what companies are progressive and are spending sufficient sums on research work; also are watching the Patent Office for new inventions which they can use. Rampaging River Renews Threats

Three Industrial Areas Endangered By Flood Waters

Portland, Ore., June 12 (AP)—The raging Columbia River rose up today in renewed threat to three industrial areas in the Pacific Northwest.

President Truman viewed the devastated American flood zone of Oregon and Washington yesterday as these high spots were developing in the three-week battle against the Columbia and Fraser rivers, worst rampages in the U. S. and Canada:

1—Water from the Columbia lapped at a secondary dike protecting a $43,000,000 aluminum plant east of Portland in Oregon. Soggy levees remained critical along the 100-mile industrial and farming belt from Portland to the Pacific in Oregon and Washington.

2—The Columbia cracked sagging defenses on its Canadian headwaters near the half-flooded smelter city of Trail in British Columbia. One hundred summer homes were washed away. Levee leakage into the city increased.

3—U. S. Army engineers said Columbia dikes were in critical condition at Richland, near the huge Hanford atomic energy works in Washington. The plant itself was not in danger but the engineers said they were ready to evacuate workers from their Richland homes if necessary.

In Portland, Mr. Truman signed a $10,000,000 emergency housing bill that had been rushed through Congress. It will alleviate suffering caused by the Memorial Day drowning of Vanport — most disastrous single blow of the flood wave.

Recess Talks On Coal Contracts

Washington, June 12 (AP)—John L. Lewis and the soft coal operators got down to serious talk about the terms of a new contract for the first time today. There was no announcement as to what progress they made when the negotiations were recessed until Monday.

Heretofore there has been little or no real bargaining on the terms of a contract to replace the present agreement expiring June 30. A dispute over continuing miner welfare benefits after that date has blocked it.

Will Receive Degree University Illinois

Babson Discusses Inventions

Washington, D. C., June 11—Any one who is pessimistic as to the future of sound American stocks, should spend a day at the Patent Office here in Washington and see what is going on. Last month there were about 2500 new patents issued some of them very revolutionary.

Foretells Continued Prosperity
It is true that many things tend to make one pessimistic today, especially the way labor leaders are acting during these critical periods. With all the rest of the world in ferment, it seems as if our labor leaders would forget their selfish shortsighted ambitions and unite for a stronger and better U. S. Not only are these labor leaders curtailing production here at home, but they encourage our enemies abroad. Remember that our newspapers are read in Moscow.

Bankers and investors should also be less selfish and think more of the country's good as a whole. Of these 2500 patents issued last month probably half of them cannot now be used because of lack of capital to manufacture and sell them. As a rule, I am not in favor of Government mixing up with business, but certainly some inventors of good products should in some way be entitled to financial help. Berlin Is Again Briefly Cut Off By Soviet Order

Freight Shipments From Western Zones Blocked Overnight By Russians

Berlin, June 12 (AP)—The Russians blocked freight shipments from the western occupation zones of Germany throughout the night but agreed to restore the traffic to Berlin. U. S. and British officials announced.

An American official said the Russians consented to discuss the whole question of Berlin freight at a special meeting of Russian, American, British and French transport officials Monday.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, U. S. military governor, said earlier he would reinstate the Frankfurt-Berlin air ferry if necessary to get supplies to the Germans and Americans in the U. S. sector of the city. The air lift was used in last April's Soviet-engineered transportation crisis.

Trains from the western zones must pass through the Soviet zone of occupation west of Berlin in order to reach this city. The Soviet check point is at the border of the Russian and British zones. American and French traffic as well as British traffic bound for Berlin passes that check point.

Six British trains which were held up in the Soviet zone after the new order became effective last night will be released and sent to Berlin as soon as locomotives can be provided for them, the British said. The Russians also agreed to permit normal traffic over the route through the Russian zone by 18 daily trains. There is a heavy backlog because of trains held up by the Soviet order, however.

Johnson Charges 'Political Ring'

Declares Scott Set Up Organization While In Office

Raleigh, N. C., June 12 (AP)—Governor Johnson last night charged opponent W. Kerr Scott with developing a "political ring" within the State Department of Agriculture which is now working "night and day" in an effort to elect Scott governor.

Johnson declared in a state-wide radio broadcast "it is my purpose to continue to conduct my campaign on the highest plane possible." He said Scott, who resigned as agriculture commissioner to run for governor, is going "to great lengths in an effort to deceive and mislead the voters."

Johnson defended his record of handling public funds, asserting that "you have not lost one penny of your tax money, and you will not lose a penny of it, as long as I handle your money."

He also claimed that "all cash subject to investment has been invested."

"My opponent," he said, "boldly implies that I should have speculated with your tax money despite the provisions of the law. That may be his way of doing business but it is not mine. Had I followed the suggestion that he and his political henchmen imply, I would be running from the sheriff instead of running for Governor."

Charles O'H. Horne Reappointed Member County ABC Board

The Pitt County commissioners in recessed meeting with the county board of education and the county board of health at the courthouse last night reappointed Charles O'H. Horne, chairman of the Pitt County Alcoholic Board of Control (ABC Board) for three years to succeed himself.

According to the law, appointment of ABC board members is made jointly by the three boards.

The commissioners also considered and discussed the budget for the county tax department and the county board of education. W. Jasper Smith of Bethel presided.

Wants Ships For Watching Truce

London, June 12 (AP)—The Foreign Office reported today that Count Folke Bernadotte has filed a formal request to use British ships and planes to help supervise the Palestine truce.

A spokesman said the request was made to the embassy in Cairo. He assumed Bernadotte, the United Nations mediator, wants the transport for use by U. N. observers.

Report Funds Raised For New Hospital

Winston-Salem, June 12 (AP)—Funds amounting to $51,700 were announced today for a new Baptist hospital. The figures were released by John L. Irwin, campaign director, in a final report on the recent fund-raising campaign to bring Wake Forest College to Winston-Salem.

Pleasant Weekend Weather In Prospect

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The weatherman today promised pleasant weekend weather—fair and slightly warmer today, tonight and tomorrow.

Sunshine and comfortable temperatures prevailed generally throughout the Carolinas yesterday. At most points the mercury did not rise above the middle 80's.

Still Growing

General Electric Agreement Made

Union Accepts Offer Ending 17 Weeks Of Negotiation

New York, June 12 (AP)—Leaders of the CIO United Electrical Workers have accepted an eight percent wage increase for 125,000 employees of the General Electric Co. The settlement yesterday brought to an end 17 weeks of negotiations between the union and the nation's largest manufacturer of electrical products.

The wage boost, which the company says will add nine to more than 15 cents hourly to the workers' current average pay of $55.90 weekly, becomes effective immediately.

Almost simultaneously with approval of the GE wage offer, the union announced in Pittsburgh that it has turned down a six percent wage hike proposed by the Westinghouse Electric Corp. for 75,000 employees.

Edward J. Matthews, international union representative, said the Westinghouse offer would give workers "an increase in take-home pay far below increases" granted by other electrical manufacturers.

The accord with General Electric came three days after the company advanced its wage offer.

A 100-member union conference board, representing members in 97 GE plants across the country, voted to recommend acceptance by the locals.

Octogenarians Delay Wedding

Media, Pa., June 12 (AP)—Eighty-seven-year-old William H. Hawkins, of Ann Arbor, Mich., and eighty-four-year-old Elizabeth Burton have decided to put off their wedding until fall.

"It's not that we changed our minds," Mrs. Burton said, "William has to have an eye operation this summer and we thought we would put off the wedding until fall."

DeGaulle Summed Up

Political-Aspirant Charles DeGaulle and French Communists Lined Up For First Time On Same Side; Is DeGaulle A Potential Dictator? An Analyst's View

By RELMAN MORIN

For the first time in their mutually acrimonious history Gen. Charles DeGaulle and the French Communists are political bed fellows today, a fact that reaffirms the truth of the old axiom.

Neither DeGaulle nor the communists approve of the plan to unify western Germany.

The general's political party, the French People's Rally, is the strongest opponent of communism in France. Vice versa, DeGaulle is the man whom the Reds hope is least likely to succeed.

Nevertheless, and for totally different reasons, they find themselves lined up together today on the German issue. Together, they may be strong enough to bring about the dissolution of parliament and to cause a general election and a new government.

And so the question again arises in the minds of millions of people, on both sides of the Atlantic: Is Charles DeGaulle another dictator-in-the-making?

The answer, I believe, is "no." And I would hasten to emphasize that that is a strictly personal opinion, not shared by all the correspondents who watched him, during the war, and came to know him. DeGaulle is an odd combination of a soldier, a mystic, a college professor, a technician, a historian and an idealist.

What he is not is a politician, meaning a man who understands and practices the art and strategy of maneuvering his way into power and then holding on to that power, by fair means or foul.

Compromise is the essence of politics — and DeGaulle has demonstrated over and over again, that he will not compromise on matters of principle. In London during the war, the clang and clatter of his cypresien battles with Winston Churchill could be heard all the way from Ten Downing Street to the east end docks. At Casablanca, he clashed, almost on sight, with President Roosevelt.

In every instance it was because DeGaulle—who, after all, represented nobody but the few Frenchmen who had escaped the German occupation — insisted that France was still a first-ranking power, an ally, and should be treated as such.

Again, immediately after the war, remembers that he came to power in Paris. But when the rest of the French government declined to approve his plan for a centralized regime, with greater power concentrated in the hands of the president, he was forced to resign.

Blame Labor Law For Deadlock On Maritime Issues

Presidential Inquiry Board Says Hiring Hall Is Big Stumbling Block

Washington, June 12 (AP)—A presidential inquiry board today blamed the Taft-Hartley law for the deadlock which threatens the entire U. S. Maritime Marine with a strike next Tuesday.

In a report to the White House the five-man board said maritime employers and unions want to continue their traditional hiring hall system but the employers consider that the new labor law makes it illegal.

The board, headed by Harry Shulman of Yale University law school, spoke of an all-coast shipping walk-out as inevitable unless barred by court order.

President Truman is expected to order the Justice Department to apply for a Taft-Hartley injunction against the strike, which would stall the nation's foreign relief program.

An injunction is the next step under the Taft-Hartley Act's procedure for handling national emergency labor disputes once an inquiry board has done its fact-finding job.

A strike would tie up all American flag ships on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts and all American and foreign shipping on the West Coast. Approximately 150,000 workers represented by seven unions — five of them CIO, one AFL and one independent — are involved in the dispute. The two largest unions are the CIO National Maritime Union on the East and Gulf Coasts and the CIO Longshoremen on Pacific Coast docks.

The board, appointed by the President under terms of the Taft-Hartley Act, said it was "entirely clear" the basic dispute rises from the act itself.

Dress Designer Says 'Swish' Is Effective Lure

Hollywood, June 12 (AP)—Wear a dress that's wired for sound, gals, then wait for the wolf calls.

That's the advice of Ilyana, the designer. She says it's not tiny waistlines, or exaggerated hips that make male eyes pop, but the seductive sounds of swish, rustle or crackle in the material.

"The melodic whisperings of yards of taffeta over the female form are more effective than gallons of subtle perfume," is the way she put it.

"Men like women who wear materials that make tantalizing sounds. Taffeta, faille and under-petticoats of double buckram are as effective for snaring a male as a steel trap."

Will Filibuster Anti-Lynch Bill

Washington, June 12 (AP)—Declaring "they can't write an anti-lynch bill that will suit us," southern senators today promised a filibuster if such measure reaches the Senate floor.

But Republicans on the Judiciary Committee continued to press for final approval of anti-lynch legislation, after the group made changes yesterday which even southerners agreed left the bill "watered down."

Prepare Debate On Farm Program

Washington, June 12 (AP)—The House prepared to debate the long-range farm bill today and North Carolina's Rep. John H. Kerr said he would fight proposed cuts in peanut support prices.

Kerr blamed candy companies for the proposed cuts.

Rep. Dirksen, Illinois Republican, has introduced an amendment to the House long-range farm bill to reduce supports on all peanuts to 65 per cent of parity.

Work Overtime In Effort To Meet Deadline

Washington, June 12 (AP)—Tax, tariff, farm and social security legislation had Congress working overtime today in its drive for adjournment one week from tonight.

The lawmakers want to clear the decks for final action next week on a draft bill, a housing measure and a wide assortment of odds and ends threatening a last-minute jam that might force their return after the political conventions.

The House set aside an unusual Saturday session to debate, and pass if possible, bills dealing with taxation, farm prices and social security.

The Senate was expected to spend all day debating a house-passed bill to extend the reciprocal trade act until June 30, 1949.

Recess Talks On Coal Contracts

Washington, June 12 (AP)—John L. Lewis and the soft coal operators got down to serious talk about the terms of a new contract for the first time today. There was no announcement as to what progress they made when the negotiations were recessed until Monday.

The Home You Plan Should Be Designed For Your Own Needs

If you want a house that will give you lasting satisfaction, take your time planning it. The plan makes a home a home. A second design is secondary to the layout.

The wrong way to plan a house is to plan a house. Plan a house for a house. Plan a house for a house. Plan a house for a house.

If you want a plan that really "works," it must fit your family, fit your budget and fit its site. Furthermore, it should accommodate available parts with a minimum of waste.

The best architects will tell you there is no such thing as a perfect plan. If there were, all houses would be alike. You just work out a plan that is as near perfect as possible for you and it will be the best compromise for all of your living problems.

Frederick J. Woodbridge, New York architect, lecturing at Columbia University on practical home building, says:

"The important thing is to evolve a house for you. After it is completed, if someone who likes to label things asks you what style it is, you can say 'It's my style.'"

The reason classical and other traditional types of architecture developed was that each solved living problems and construction problems of its day. A visit to a real Colonial house, however, will convince anyone that if it were duplicated it would not be suitable for central heating, modern ideas of spaciousness and window expanses to mention but a few shortcomings. The true Cape Cod cottage with its somewhat steep roof involved much waste space upstairs. Original Tudor English homes were dark and cold. However, every style that has filled a purpose has added to the heritage of architecture. Modern variations of traditional designs are always popular.

It is comparatively easy to select an exterior design to fit a good plan. Your architect will develop the plan to fill your family living habits and preferences, then evolve the expression of that plan in the exterior.

There are two main schools of planning today—champions of the "open plan" and defenders of the "cubicle" plan. The open plan calls for a minimum of partitions with privacy obtained by screens, accordion type folding doors, or mere furniture arrangement. In the extreme it would compromise one big room with a kitchen in one corner, a table in another, a bed in a third and easy chairs in the fourth.

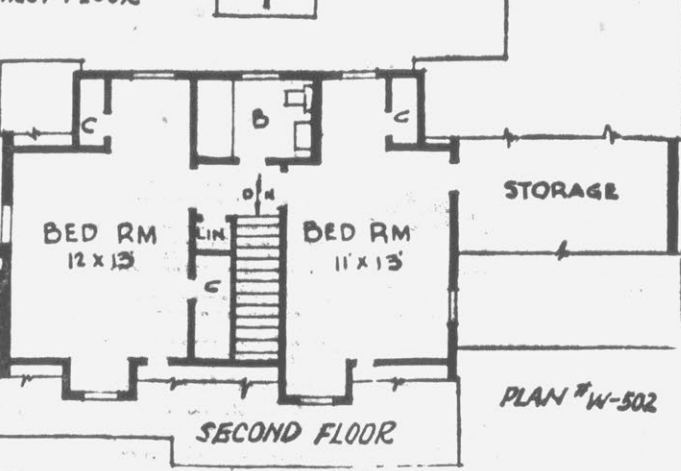

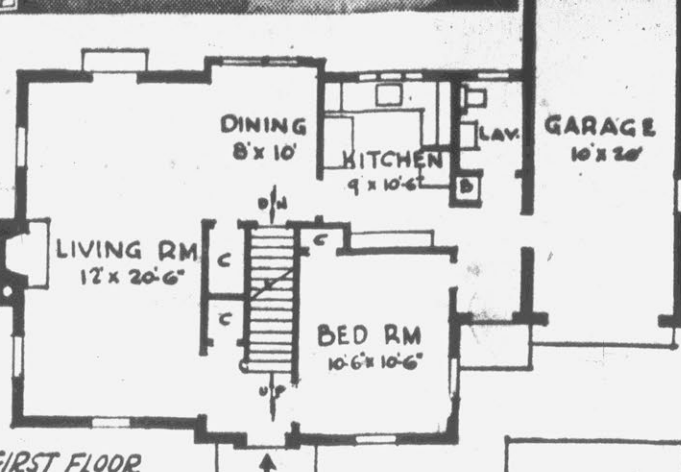

In practice people take what they like from each school. A center hall, if you can afford one, can be the key to a good plan. It can make each room accessible and keep each room from becoming part hall. But hall space should be kept to a minimum. It is expensive to build.

Big windows are cheerful and spectacular, but remember they have to be washed. And in planning windows remember your furniture. Wall space can be a valuable asset. Think of your bookcases, beds, dressers and every piece of furniture that needs wall space.

If you have a grand plan you must plan for it. If you go in for home movies you plan for that. Keep your fireplace away from a stairway and its interfering drafts; also away from doors that will interfere with seating around the hearth.

The more you plan, the better you will like your home.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

Buying A Home? Check Carefully

Buying an old home with a view toward remodeling and modernizing it is frequently a wise move, but if you're considering such a plan be sure the house is structurally sound before you close the deal. That's the advice of building experts, who point out that only a structurally sound house is worth remodeling.

The safe procedure is to check the dwelling in question thoroughly. Often the most serious faults of a house are hidden. The foundation may be cracked or sunken, the sills and floor joists may be rotted, or there may be severe termite damage. First floor joists often can be inspected from the basement, although it sometimes is necessary to rip up a portion of flooring to see them. Termite damage usually can be detected by picking at the wood with an ice pick.

It generally pays to have a building expert inspect a house under consideration, since he is qualified to pass judgment on its true merits. Occasionally an expert will find that it is feasible to correct even serious flaws in a dwelling by replacing damaged structural materials. Interior remodeling usually presents no baffling problems. Walls

This compact six-room house can be built as a "honey-moon cottage" with the second floor left to be finished when the family grows. By including a shower stall in the lavatory the ground floor will comprise a complete four-room dwelling. Designed by Betram A. Weber, architect, 221 North LaSalle St., Chicago 1, Ill., this plan, W-562, covers an area of about 965 square feet with garage. Including a full basement, the house contains approximately 18,000 cubic feet. The architect suggests a red brick exterior accented with white trim and green shutters. The first floor bedroom can double as a library.

Fewer Built-In Gadgets Best

Don't worry about gadgets when building a home. Gadgets are changed and improved constantly, so the smallest number built into a house, the better.

Since most of these accessories are powered by electricity, the important thing is to have adequate outlets.

"My Father—He Had Time For Me"

By CHESTER WALSH
Miss Dora Coates of East Carolina Teachers College faculty, always interested in childhood education and a consistent advocate of progressive teaching methods, passed the following item along to the Daily Reflector and suggested that it would be appropriate because Sunday, June 20, is "Father's Day."

The item was carried in "Adventures in Human Relations," a bulletin of the Association for Childhood Education, published in Washington, D. C. The story, by Robbie Hunt, was headed "My Father—He Had Time For Me."

"I knew him first when I was a very little girl. His eyes twinkled, and he walked very fast. On the farm he was never a good ploughman, for he walked so fast that the horses got tired. But he was never too busy to help a little girl go fishing, to bait her hook, and help her get the fish off.

"And he was not too proud to leave the farm and take a hard job in the city because that was what good schools for his daughters to attend in the country. After a long day at manual labor, he would put on his best clothes and take his youngest to a symphony concert.

"It was when the house burned that one picture stands out in my memory. There was no insurance, and man after man came to ask 'What are you going to do?'

"Each time he said, 'Get to work to build another.' And he did.

"I never heard him complain of but one thing, and that was when he told me of his father's refusal to let him be a doctor. 'It wasn't right,' he said. 'I could have made my own way.'

"Through the years are vignettes—putting his best suit on a neighbor who had died, getting a young nephew out of trouble, comforting his daughters when their mother died and, when he was past eighty, playing jokes on a crowd of young people who had given him a party.

"He was a joyous, lovable human—my father."

It will be led by the Very Rev. Theodore O. Wedel, Ph.D., Warden of the College of Preachers of the Episcopal Church, Washington, D. C. In addition to Dr. Wedel the faculty for the conference will consist of the Rev. John G. Magee, minister to the Episcopal students at Yale University, and the Rev. Mortimer Glover, rector of St. James' Church, Wilmington, N. C.

The Rev. Thomas H. Wright, D.D., Bishop of the Diocese, will be in charge of the conference which will be under the direction of the Rev. James F. Fetherough, rector of St. John's Church, Fayetteville, N. C.

Invitations will be sent out, it is said, especially to the Clergy and to the men and women of the parish who hold office. In addition a general invitation has been issued to the membership of the Episcopal Church and the Diocese at large, and the conference, it is expected, will have a capacity attendance.

Housing and household utilities rank second in the average American consumer's budget. Food takes top place.

Mrs. Joseph W. Lupton

Lupton-Moye

Miss Willie Mae Moye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Moye of Winterville, became the bride of Joseph William Lupton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Barkley Lupton of Greenville, in a candlelight ceremony solemnized on Saturday, June 5 at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. The Rev. R. N. Hinman of Micro, pastor of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with pines, magnolia blossoms, trailing ivy, white gladioli and tall candelabras with burning tapers on a white carpeted altar, with a kneeling bench in front. The windows of the church were arched in ivy, wedding bells and burning tapers.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. R. N. Hinman of Micro, pianist, and Rev. Lawrence Tyson of Greenville, soloist, sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer" for the benediction.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a wedding gown of white taffeta, fashioned with a round yoke of illusion, edged with tiny scallops, short scalloped sleeves, fitted bodice, and a full skirt extending into a circular train, edged with scallops. Her scalloped elbow-length gloves of white taffeta covered the entire length of the bodice and on the gloves. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion fell from an imported coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a white purple-throated orchid, showered with white feathered carnations and tied with white satin ribbon.

Miss Kathryn Ann Moye, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of blue taffeta fashioned like that of the bride's, with elbow length gloves of matching material. She carried a mixed colonial bouquet of delphinium, better times feathered carnations, and better times roses tied with matching ribbon, and wore a headress of natural flowers to match her bouquet.

Little Miss Sue Ann Lupton, sister of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a pink taffeta gown made similar to that of the bride's with a headress of pink roses, and carried a blue flower basket filled with pink roses, tied with pink taffeta ribbon. She scattered rose petals in the path of the bride.

The bridegroom was his best man his brother, Theodore Berkley Lupton, Jr., of Greenville. The ushers were C. B. Spain, Jr., and Jesse Lee Hathaway of Greenville, cousins of the bride. Tommy Lupton, brother of the groom, was junior usher.

Little Miss Irma Sue Worthington of Winterville, cousin of the bride, was a ring bearer. She wore a gown of yellow taffeta similar to the bride's gown and wore a corsage of pink feathered carnations. She carried the groom's ring on a white heart-shaped taffeta pillow, edged with a ruffle of illusion. Master Jesse Van Jackson of Winterville, cousin of the bride, was a ring bearer, and wore white trousers with a dark coat and carried the bride's ring on a pillow identical to the groom's.

Miss Rachel Lee Spain of Raleigh and Greenville, cousin of the bride, was mistress of ceremonies. She wore an off-the-shoulder gown of pink taffeta and a headress of pink net and pink roses.

The bride's mother wore for her daughter's wedding a draped dress of aqua crepe, with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother chose a draped dusty rose crepe dress with black accessories. She also wore a corsage of pink roses.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple left for a wedding trip to Washington, D. C. For traveling the bride wore a two-piece green dressmaker suit, brown hat, pink gloves and accessories of brown lizard. She wore the orchid lifted from her prayer book. After the wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Lupton will be at home at 200 Summit street.

2. Bring it out, let the filibuster start, and then drop it—thus killing it for this session—to get on with their other work.

Then, at least, the Republicans can say they tried. For there's a problem both sides will have to keep in mind.

In the next couple of weeks both Democrats and Republicans hold their conventions to nominate a presidential candidate and draw up a platform, pledging what they'll do if elected for the next four years. But four years ago both parties, pledged in their platforms to do something about Civil Rights if elected for the four years beginning in 1944 and ending this year.

Both parties have had a chance to keep their pledges on Civil Rights—although neither has done so yet—for the Democrats controlled Congress from 1944 to 1946 and the Republicans from 1946 to 1948.

Tells Kiwanians About Utilities

By CHESTER WALSH

Martin Swartz, superintendent of Greenville Utilities, guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting last night, gave an interesting description of the development of the city's utilities—electricity, water and gas; explained their operation and outlined present and future needs in the way of additions and improvements and showed by charts the importance of the issuance of $1,500,000 of bonds, the election for which will be held on June 28. Swartz told of substantial profits from the plants being allotted to the city and pointed out that these profits serve to keep the city tax rates at a low figure. Van C. Fleming, program chairman, presented the speaker.

At the conclusion of his talk, Swartz invited questions from the Kiwanians and they were forthcoming. It appeared to the Kiwanians that the proposed additions and improvements at the plants are imperatively necessary in order to keep up with the rapid growth of the city and the increased use of electricity, water and gas.

In the discussions, Edwin E. Rawl and other Kiwanians advanced the opinion that Greenville needs some insurance on its utilities, especially electricity, and they suggested that the city should have available a hook-up with some electric power company for times of emergency. Many of the Kiwanians remained after the meeting to discuss utilities plans with Swartz.

John O. Reynolds, chairman of the Sponsored Youth Committee, presented Bobby Brady, talented high school student, as one of the Junior Kiwanians for a month.

Jesse R. Moye, chairman of the Elks Lodge's Flag Day Committee, invited the Kiwanians to attend "exercises at the Elks Home next Monday evening at 6:30. Bill Taft and Jesse Moye had birthdays and donated a nickel for each year of their age.

Vice-President W. Arthur Tripp presided for President N. C. Brooks, who has gone to Atlantic City to an insurance convention.

The Women's Auxiliary of Boyd Memorial Presbyterian Church served the supper.

De Gaulle . . .
trated in the hands of the premier, he did not compromise. He resigned.

DeGaulle has an inexorable singleness of purpose. And once he sets his sights on an object, he will not look the other way—even for power.

That trait alone would disqualify him as a potential dictator. He won't make deals. He won't trade horses. And if he owns a back-scratcher, he has never been known to use it.

Nor has he ever kissed any babies. Those homey little acts that are supposed to win the heart—and the vote—of the common man are not for Charles DeGaulle.

He is a lonely man who holds himself aloof in public. Usually he is brusque, cold and unbending. If he has any sense of the value of publicity, which is doubtful, he seems it. He doesn't like to have his picture taken, and I have seen him simply rise, without a word and walk out of a press conference. He had said all he wanted to say and he wasn't bothering with the amenities.

His mental powers are unquestioned. History may show that he had an almost clairvoyant vision of the future of Europe.

But my personal opinion is that it will never record against his name the word—"dictator."

Mrs. Samuel C. Stell

Stell-Hamilton

Miss Vera Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hamilton of Sea Level, N. C., became the bride of Samuel C. Stell, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stell of Tarboro, N. C., at 5:30 o'clock June 5 in a candlelight ceremony in the First Presbyterian church. Rev. Leonard W. Toppings performed the double ring ceremony.

Escorted by her brother, Cecil, the bride was attended by Miss Inez Hamilton as maid of honor, and Miss Margie Stell and Miss Elsie Hamilton as bridesmaids. Bill Stell was chosen by his brother as best man. Ushers were Jack Gray and Charles Regan.

A program of music was presented by Mrs. Guy Smith, organist, and Mrs. Sam Pierce, soprano soloist. Mrs. Pierce sang "Each Thought of You" by Ward, and "Because" by D'Hardelot. Traditional wedding marches were used.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white slipper satin ornamented with designs of seed pearls. It was fashioned after her grandmother's wedding gown with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline and leg o' mutton sleeves which fitted tightly below the elbow and came to call points over her hands. The skirt was very full and extended into a circular train. Her two tiered finger tip veil of bridal illusion fell from a coronet of pillared orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a single strand of heirloom pearls.

The bridal bouquet was a purple orchid showered with stephanotis, atop a white prayer book.
Gowns of the attendants were fashioned of taffeta with sweetheart necklines and full net skirts, with the maid of honor wearing blue and the bridesmaids wearing green and pink respectively. They wore matching taffeta hula hats with shoulder length veils, also matching opera mits and carried colonial bouquets of painted daisies.

The bride's mother chose a gown of powder blue brocade chiffon with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses. Mrs. Stell, mother of the groom, wore a frock fashioned of white embroidered pique with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Baskets of white gladioli and baby's breath with ferns and cathedral tapers were used at the front of the church.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina Teachers College and is at present employed as a teacher in the Greenville City schools.
Mr. Stell is a student at East Carolina Teachers College. He served for three years in the Coast Guard.

Immediately following the wedding an informal reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lindsay Savage.

Mr. and Mrs. Savage received the guests at the door and introduced them to the receiving line consisting of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ray Hamilton, the bride and groom, the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stell and members of the bridal party.

Mrs. Sauls Rutledge received in the library where the gifts were displayed and had each guest to sign the bride's book.

In the dining room, which was decorated entirely in green and white, the table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. At one end of the table was a lovely arrangement of white sweet peas, carnations and gypsophylla. Lighted white candles in silver holders and twined about with Southern smilax added to the beauty of the table. The chandelier was decorated with bridal tulle and wedding bells.

The wedding cake after being cut by the bride and groom was served by Mrs. Arthur Corey while bridal ices were served by Miss Laura Foley. Assisting in serving mints and nuts were Misses Elizabeth Norman, Leila Brown Stancill and Mesdames Moye Hadley and Ray King.

For travel the bride changed to a gray corded silk suit with white accessories. She pinned the orchid from the prayer book on her shoulder.

Among the pre-nuptial courtesies extended Miss Hamilton was a dinner party given on Wednesday evening at the Airport Inn by Miss Laura Foley and a garden party on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Stell in Tarboro.

After the wedding rehearsal Mrs. Lindsay Savage entertained informally at her home on Rotary avenue honoring the members of the bridal party.

The home was beautiful throughout with arrangements of regal lilies and mixed summer flowers.

A color note of green and white was observed in the dining room. The table was covered with an embroidered linen cloth and an arrangement of white sweetpeas and gypsophylla was placed at each end. Between these was a crescent arrangement of green and white candles in silver holders. Lime ice, cheese straws, nuts, mints and cake were served.

Strength FOR THE DAY

WE'RE ALL BELOW PAR

A book agent was trying to sell a farmer a set of books on agriculture. They were designed to show him how to improve all his farm methods. As the book agent pressed for a sale, the farmer grinned and said: "I don't need the books. I'm not half as good a farmer now as I could be."

What he needed was not information but stimulation.

Most of us are like the farmer—not half as good as anything as we could be. There is seldom a job being done that could not be done better. The reason is not that we can't, but that we don't. We will not be helped by being told how to do better. We are only too conscious that if we did as well as we already know how, we would do twice as well as we are doing.

We need, along with the farmer to get started up on the inside of our lives. The psychologist would probably say that we need purpose; the preacher, that we need purpose; the doctor, that we need a tonic. At any rate we need to begin using the resources we have, and nothing can help us so much as religion.

Around Capitol Square

STATISTICS—Some of the amateur statisticians around Capitol square have been doing some work on election figures. The professional statisticians haven't, because they find no recreation in it. Results of the figuring afford little reason for boasting about citizenship on part of North Carolinians, and still less for the majority which has the right to participate in Democratic primaries. The total state general election vote has seldom gone above 45 percent of the potential. In the recent primary—which to all intents and purposes is the election for state officers—the vote was almost exactly one-third the estimated potential, just about half the Democratic registration.

AUTHORITY—Authority for the figures here used includes the 1940 census, the World Almanac, and the state board of elections. Official census population of North Carolina in 1940 was 3,571,623. Of that total non-alien above 21 years old, listed as "citizens" are quoted at 1,925,483. That is the theoretic voting strength of the state. But the biggest vote ever cast for governor of North Carolina was 604,146 in 1940. That was exceeded by presidential totals in 1936 and 1940, which the Roosevelt-Landon vote in 1936 setting the all-time record of 839,435. This was topped both as to number of actual votes and in potential percentage.

PARTISAN—Taking the general election votes for governor from including 1924 to 1944, the party distribution was 67.16 percent Democratic, 32.84 percent Republican. That ratio ranged from 55.5 percent and 44.5 percent in 1928, to 74.4 percent and 25.6 percent in 1940. These were the two campaigns in which Republicans put out most effort on national tickets, the first time for Hoover against Smith and the second for Willie against Roosevelt. (Incidentally, the Republicans carried the state for their president in 1928 by about 62,000, but the Democrats got the usual majority of about 400,000 in 1940.)

QUIRKS—These election figures take some queer quirks. For example, the margin by which the Democrats held the state for governor in 1928 was almost the same margin by which they lost it in the national contest. And J. M. Broughton, who won the Democratic nomination for governor in 1940 with less than one-third the total primary vote, because the runner-up did not ask a second primary, has distinction of getting more votes in the general election than any other candidate for governor in state history. Although he did not get a majority of the total primary vote for governor in 1940 and did get a majority of the findings help much. Biggest question is size of the vote. New York—(AP)—The handbar moustache and the high button shoe have long since made their exit. But the masher is still just as much a part of the scenery as he was when Casey went to bat.

And just like Casey—he's still striking out.

The grownups still call a masher by his Gay Nineties moniker. That would be too old-fashioned for the teen-agers, who have a new word for everything. They call him a wolf.

But whatever he is called his technique hasn't change much since he scared grandpas out of her bustle on her way from choir practice.

In her day he was a kind of fancy Dan in a boater straw, checkered vest and peg-top trousers who frequently dangled an ivory toothpick from his watch chain. When she swished past this leering beast in human form would boldly accost her with such brilliant greetings as "Oh, you kid!" or "Twenty-three kid!"

voting strength, it is found that there should be a voting potential of 1,283,033 Democrats. Election officials estimate Democratic registration at around 960,000. In the May 29 primary only 421,000 Democrats voted. Guesses on a second primary total range from 225,000 to 400,000, with most folks settling for less than 350,000. They may be fooled. History would indicate a somewhat higher vote. In 1932 the first primary brought out 379,657 votes and the run-off had 351,026. The first primary in 1936 counted 516,864 votes and the second brought out 480,768. Combining the two shows a loss of a little over seven percent in the run-off total vote. The same ratio now would bring a total of around 392,000 votes on June 26. In 1932 and 1936 absentee played a big part; this year they are not eligible, but that should not affect comparative totals.

Negro 4-H Club News

Summer 4-H community meetings of the 30 Pitt County 4-H Clubs have been scheduled throughout the county for the summer months. The objective for these meetings are:

1. To encourage 4-Hers interest in the projects by letting them report the little things they have done.
2. Keep spirit alive until school is in session again.
3. To develop sound bodies and minds through supervised recreational activities.
4. To develop closer relation between 4-H work and parent by getting parents to participate in the club work.

The spot light was focused on our first meeting in Calico community at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Leary, Calico 4-H community leaders, with attendance 823.

The meeting was called to order by Ruth Leary, Calico 4-H Club president followed by singing 4-H Firelight Song and repeating the 4-H Club pledge. The president asked each boy and girl to stand and give a report on their projects. The reports had been prepared nicely under the guidance of Mrs. Leary, 4-H leader.

Some of the activities reported by girls as having done for the month of May were: 2 canned 30 quarts of garden peas, 10 planted 26 different vegetables, 4 improved bed rooms 1 improved flower gardens, 2 planned and prepared 8 meals, 1 made 2 kitchen towels, mended holes in dresses, hemmed 3 dresses, made handkerchiefs. Some of the things the boys reported as having done for May were: 2 have planted 19 rows of Hybrid Seed corn, 2 pig shelters made, 4 baby pigs, 2 cucumber patches in blossom.

The agents congratulated the boys and girls on their fine reports and also gave suggestion for summer community activities such as: Keeping church and school grounds cleaned, give assistance in church cleaning for various meetings, furnish flowers for church and sick and render help to sick and elder people in the community.

Suggestion for other summer meetings were discussed and plans were made for all out community picnic.

Remarks were made by community leaders. The leaders gave timely suggestions for activities and extending appreciation to the agents for their thought that such meetings would serve as key note for marked progress in their community.

While the leader prepared refreshments every one got together and went project touring. We visited one of the boys pastures. Hybrid corn, fields and girls garden. The group enjoyed this very much.

After being served the group went out in the yard for supervised games. In closing every one joined together in singing Follow The Glean.

Find My Killer

By MANLY WELLMAN

AP News Column

I took a room at a hotel just around the corner from the office. The phone rang itself almost off the bedside at sunrise next morning. I reached for it. "Hello," I heard J. D.'s voice. "It's six o'clock and we've an inquest to go to."

"Do they hold inquests this early?" I moaned.

"No, but they publish newspapers, and there's plenty for us to read in the morning Eagle. Meet me in fifteen minutes."

I dressed in quick motion, slid downstairs to the grill counter for breakfast, sailed up the street and around the corner, and met J. D. with three of the fifteen minutes to go.

"Look," she said, and gave me the morning paper.

MURDER HINTED
IN EALING DEATH

Fake "Detective" Is Sought For Grilling; May Hold Clue

STRANGE LEGACY NOTED
"What I don't like is that Jim Kuhl told what you said about that reward legacy. Every hungry private detective within two hundred miles will be nosing after it. And," she sighed, "we need it ourselves."

I laid down the paper. "On the phone you talked as if you expected me to attend that inquest."

"I do," she assured me. "If the police want you, they'd better arrest you now get to I can get you out again in time to help me. Right? Now, after a night's deliberation, what can we work on? What that nobody else has yet?"

I thought. Then I said, "Our dope runs like this: Ealing was a quiet, reserved, brash man with a gun hobby. His pretty young wife has a lawyer friend who shows up before a rigor mortis sets in on Ealing. The shooting suggests a derringer, a gun not exactly rare but not common either. And Mrs. Ealing had just such a gun."

"Not the death gun," J. D. pointed out. "The police are bound to have that."

"I told you derringers come in pairs."

"Go on about the shooting."

"It was a chest wound, and look! I pointed a finger at my chest. 'See how the wrist has to turn. Awkward. A head shot's easier, and surer death. Another thing—Ealing died looking blank and surprised, not desperate or bitter. How about calling up Dr. Stokes? He said he was Ealing's friend?'"

I took up the phone and called the doctor's number. He was sleepy and grumpy. J. D. saw I was having trouble, and took the phone from me.

"Hello, doctor," she cooed into the transmitter. "This is J. D. Thatcher, remember me. . . Oh, quite well, thank you. . . You know, my father drew the Ealing will, and I'm handling it. I wondered if. . . Yes. . . Oh, I'd love it! She giggled sickly. "Keep some coffee hot for me, then! I'll be there in ten minutes."

She hung up, and winked the sapphire eye. "That's how to deal with the Dr. Stokes type, Jack. I met him a year ago, and he seemed the sort who'd remember. Come on."

"He surely didn't invite me to breakfast," I objected.

"Of course not, but you're coming."

We were let in by a sturdy Oriental who looked like a bit player out of a Japanese stocky movie. "Doctor say wait," he announced.

I studied him, wondering if he was Chinese, Japanese, Filipino or what. "Who are you?" I asked.

He smiled, showing pointed teeth. "Alchieser. Work for doctor ten years. Doctor say wait."

Dr. Stokes came from the back of the house, with a silk robe over shirt and trousers. He looked remarkably cordial for a man just routed out of the blankets.

"What do you want from me, young lady?" he asked, when we were all seated. "This Ealing matter is taking up most of my day, it's it. I'm to testify at the inquest. You know I was present when the body was found."

"That was tragic," said J. D. "For you I mean. You were his best friend, I believe."

"For ten years. We met when I was treating his Uncle Gwynne. Alchieser brought in coffee and Dr. Stokes filled cups for us. Gwynne Ealing was incurably ill. Dick was his only near kinsman, and spent lots of time with him. Dick and I got close, and we stayed close."

"Gwynne Ealing died about four years ago, as I remember," said J. D.

"Tell me about the suicide," J. D. said.

The doctor cleared his throat. "Night before last—not night, really."

"That was tragic," said J. D. "For you I mean. You were his best friend, I believe."

"For ten years. We met when I was treating his Uncle Gwynne. Alchieser brought in coffee and Dr. Stokes filled cups for us. Gwynne Ealing was incurably ill. Dick was his only near kinsman, and spent lots of time with him. Dick and I got close, and we stayed close."

"Gwynne Ealing died about four years ago, as I remember," said J. D.

"Tell me about the suicide," J. D. said.

The doctor cleared his throat. "Night before last—not night, really."

Greenies And Wilson Divide Twin Bill Here; 4-2 And 6-10

Seven Errors In Nightcap Give Wilson Tobs Big Advantage As Tate Loses His First Game For The Locals

By BERT MOYE

The Greenville Greenies gained a split with the Wilson Tobs in their twin bill here last night with the locals taking the opening game, 4-2, and the Tobs taking the night cap 10-6.

First Game
Louis Arroyo registered his seventh win as against seven losses as he scattered 10 hits effectively in the first game.

The Greenies scored in the first frame when Cohen tripled and Wiley Nash singled to bring him home and then came back in the second frame to score another singleton when Sposa reached first on a fielder's choice and scoring successive doubles by Riggs and Lastres.

The Greenies put across two runs in the eighth frame to clinch the win. Phillips singled, Cohen tripled, and a bad throw to third base by Winstead, Wilson centerfielder, which enabled Cohen to score, accounted for the two Greenie runs.

The Tobs scored singles in the third and ninth frames for their two runs. In the third Manager Macie Wilson walked, Rehm reached first on Lastres error, Carpenter walked, and a bad throw to third base by Winstead, Wilson centerfielder, which enabled Cohen to score, accounted for the two Greenie runs.

The contest started with Greenville at bat in the second inning, one run out front, the point at which it was interrupted by rain on May 25 when it was originally scheduled.

Moss and Ehlman with two singles each led the 10-hit attack off Arroyo. He struck out six men and walked four.

Manager Macie Wilson was on the mound for the Tobs and gave up eight hits, no walks and struck out five Greenies. Bob Cohen with two triples and Joe Sposa with two singles led the local's attack.

Line score:
Wilson 001 000 001—2 10 1
Greenville 110 000 024—4 8 1

Second Game
In the second game the Tobs collected an even dozen hits and aided by seven Greenie misuses, gave starting pitcher Johnny Tate his first loss of the season for the Greenies. He had previously won his first game against the Tarboro Tars.

Four runs in the seventh frame on three hits, two walks and an error clinched the victory for the Tobs, after they had knotted the count at four-all in the top of the eighth.

W. Greenville's Lions laid one on the Dodgers from Third Street yesterday afternoon, winning by the one sided score of 20 to 0. The Lions made the pattern in the first inning by scoring nine times and continued their bombardment in every inning of the game.

Key Norris and Pollard got three singles for the Lions; Hendrix and Sawyer also of the Lions got two hits apiece. Guy Smith got two of the Dodgers four hits, one was good for three bases.

When Al Zarilla embarks on one of his famous hitting sprees, the best American League hurlers can do is to make for the hurricane cellars. The veteran Brownie outfielder has had his moments this spring as he has had in the past. But this time he is determined to keep hitting and give the ambitious American League sluggers a real run for the individual batting crown.

The St. Louis outfielder has been a streak hitter all the time he has been with the club. He came up from Toledo in 1943 with a fancy mark of 375. He was a shade under the 300 mark at the close of the 1944 season and played a major role in helping the Browns fashion their first Bill Se Tarboro chucker, is the leading pitcher with 8 wins against one loss. Two Rocky Mount chucks have won 9 games but have lost two and three respectively. They are Helmer and Benton.

In the hitting department Bob Cohen is in second place in doubles with 7 being topped by Deaton of Kingston with 18. Wiley Nash is in third place with a total of 16. Wiley Nash is tied with three others for second place in triples with 4, with Turk of Kingston leading league with 5. Nash has four home runs to lead the other Greenville hitters.

In sacrifice hits Lastres is tied with Martin of Rocky Mount with 6, and is third in number of stolen bases with 11. Wiley Nash is fourth in the RBI division with 40 to his credit.

In the pitching department Luis Arroyo is the strikeout artist of the league with 83, being followed closely by Helmer of Rocky Mount with 81. In the number of walks issued Arroyo is in second position with 51, with Causey of Kingston leading in this division with 47.

In team batting the Greenies are now in sixth place with 262 percent, with the Tarboro Tars leading the league with a team average of 314.

In team fielding the Greenies are in sixth place with 945 percent, are second in the league in the number of double plays with 41 being topped by Kingston with 52. The Wilson Tobs are leading the league in team fielding with 958 percent and have committed only 73 errors. The Greenies have an even 100 charged against them.

Chicago, June 12—(AP)—The army today was prepared to move in on the American Olympic finals at Boston later this month after assembling a 24-man squad from command posts throughout the world.

The team emerged from the finals of the army and air force tournament at Chicago Stadium last night which produced at least one red hot Olympic bet.

He is Weltewright Ross Virgo, Rochester, N. Y., of the European command, which topped the title round with four winners.

Virgo's vicious scrap with Joe Lopez, Chicago, of the Pacific command, had a throng of 7,000 in an uproar from start to finish in the evening's outstanding bout. Virgo scored his 50th triumph without defeat in two years of military fighting with a three-round decision over Lopez.

Illinois Trackmen Capture Trophy
Milwaukee, June 12—(AP)—The Central Collegiate Conference national track title was back in the University of Illinois trophy case today for the fourth time in six years.

The Illinois, scoring in 13 of the 16 events, ran away with the 23rd annual annual before 6,000 fans at Marquette Stadium last night, scoring 58½ points to 43 1-5 for second place Notre Dame.

That was the consensus today following the decathlon performance of 17-year-old Bob Mathias of Tular High School in the Southern Pacific AAU championships.

Mathias—a strapping six-foot, one-inch lad with 195 evenly-distributed pounds—scored a total of 7094 points. According to available figures, it was the most an American athlete has rung up since the 1936 Olympics, when Glenn Morris set the world record of 7900.

Irving Mondschein, New York University, won the 1947 ten-event national title with 6715 points.

Dean Cromwell, veteran USC track coach and head man of the U.S. Olympic team, watched the young giant in action yesterday and was moved to comment:

"That boy is practically on his way to London if he keeps that up."

He won only two events, the 100 meters and the discus, but his all-around balance showed up in three seconds, three thirds, one fourth and one fifth. Eight athletes competed in the AAU trackfest.

Army Assembles Olympic Squad For Final Tests

Los Angeles, June 12—(AP)—Will hard luck continue to dog Sam Snead in the U.S. Open golf championship?

Will the Southern socker from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., lose out once more in his quest for the most coveted links crown of them all?

The final 36 holes of the big fairway derby got under way today and the questions were expected to be answered about the time dusk began setting in on the Riviera course.

Barring a 72-hole tie, that is, Sammin' Sam, one of the longest hitters in the game, a drawing, superbly-conditioned athlete, held a one stroke lead as he teed off for the third round. His 138 for 36 holes was compiled with a pair of 69s. He was three under par for the distance. The 7029-yard long layout plays to a standard 71.

Two tough rounds within the day's span faced the 57 survivors. Snead had the stamina to come through with colors flying. But misfortune has camped at his doorstep in the past.

Treading on his heels were the tournament favorite and PGA champion, Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and Bobby Locke of Johannesburg, South Africa. Their 138s armed each with a formidable scoring weapon. Hogan, first round co-leader with a 67, found his putter misfiring yesterday and took a 72. Locke improved his position with a 69, one under his previous round.

Little Jim Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., was nicely placed with a 71-69-140.

Defending Champion Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., was within striking distance with a 141.

He'll be in there swinging for his base knocks—you can count on that.

McKenley And LaBeach Appear On East Coast
New York, June 12—(AP)—Herb McKenley and Lloyd LaBeach, a couple of foreign spiksters who have been burning up the clinders in California this spring, shift their operations to the east coast late today when they step out in a benefit track and field meet at Triborough Stadium.

Scheduled to appear in three events each, they head a handpicked field gathered for the pre-Olympic exhibition being staged for the benefit of Sydenham Intercultural hospital. The twilight affair will get under way at 4 p. m. EST.

Although both are former big nine conference stars, McKenley and La-

Beach will be running against Uncle Sam's Athletics in the coming Olympic games. McKenley came from Jamaica to the National championship. LaBeach, a native of Panama, did his running at the University of Wisconsin.

Crews On Way To Poughkeepsie
Seattle, June 12—(AP)—Three undefeated University of Washington crews head for Poughkeepsie today.

The varsity, victor over California and Wisconsin this season, also will compete in the Olympic games trials after the Poughkeepsie regatta. Washington was the victorious United States crew in the last Olympics, in 1936.

Curtis Cup Team Is Used To Rain
New York, June 12—(AP)—The United States Curtis Cup golf team which left in the rain and retained the women's trophy in the rain returned home from England in the rain last night.

Los Angeles, June 12—(AP)—Will hard luck continue to dog Sam Snead in the U.S. Open golf championship?

Will the Southern socker from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., lose out once more in his quest for the most coveted links crown of them all?

The final 36 holes of the big fairway derby got under way today and the questions were expected to be answered about the time dusk began setting in on the Riviera course.

Barring a 72-hole tie, that is, Sammin' Sam, one of the longest hitters in the game, a drawing, superbly-conditioned athlete, held a one stroke lead as he teed off for the third round. His 138 for 36 holes was compiled with a pair of 69s. He was three under par for the distance. The 7029-yard long layout plays to a standard 71.
