

Conciliation Chief Calls Coal Meeting

Government Spokesman Summons Lewis And Operators To Session With Him Tomorrow In Effort To Avert Complete Breakdown

Washington, June 16 — (AP) — T. G. Ching, the government's conciliation chief, moved in fast today in a bid to keep John L. Lewis and the soft coal operators from getting too mad to talk contract terms.

The operators broke off negotiations yesterday, saying the sessions were "fruitless" because of Lewis' strings on bargaining for a new wage-welfare fund pact. The present one expires June 30.

Ching called both sides to a meeting with him tomorrow morning. And Lewis ordered his own advisers to assemble one week later for what may be a strike strategy huddle.

The Southern Coal Producers Association, which won a court order to force Lewis to include its representative in the industry-wide meetings, disagreed with the walk-out action of the other operators.

But for the moment, at least, the association was unable to do anything about it. Lewis said Joseph E. Moody, the association president, "walked out, too, leaving us sitting there."

Moody and his board of directors scheduled a meeting this morning (9 a.m. EST). The session took on new importance because of yesterday's rapid-fire developments.

The SCOPA board could decide to invite Lewis to meet separately and make a contract. The United Mine Workers chief expressed the opinion at a news conference that two leaders of the southern group would negotiate an agreement if they wanted to because of their position in the industry. He named J. D. Francis, head of Island Creek Coal Co., and O. L. Alexander, president of the Pocahontas Fuel Co.

The association represents southern companies and individual mines which produce one third of the nation's bituminous coal.

Ching, in asking all parties to come to him tomorrow, said he had been informed they had each made a concession in their own effort to reach a contract.

The conciliation director said the industry acts "a duty and responsibility" upon the service and the representatives of the parties to make in collective bargaining conference in an effort to break this impasse and to negotiate a prompt settlement of all issues in dispute.

Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the bituminous coal operators, told reporters of the break in negotiations.

O'Neill said Lewis insisted on "activation" of the 1947 welfare and retirement fund, now over $40,000,000, as a condition precedent to discussion of a new wage agreement.

O'Neill said that the operators considered "that further meetings may involve the public and governmental agencies by creating the impression that an agreement may be effected by this conference."

Conferees Agree On Compromise Waterways Bill

Washington, June 16 — (AP) — Senate and House conferees were in agreement today on a compromise $129,400,000 authorization for new flood control and navigation projects.

The amount is $3,993,000 less than the Senate approved last week, but $44,000,000 more than the House agreed on previously.

The conferees report, made public today, now goes back to the House and Senate for approval. This bill will have no money available for the projects but its enactment will make them eligible for later appropriation.

Love Of Speechmaking

Little Time Left To Settle All Work Necessary Prior To Adjournment Of Congress; Minds Made Up On How They Will Vote, Legislators Talk On; 3 Reasons

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 16 — (AP) — Time is short . . . but the human impulse to say a few thousand well-chosen words is strong . . .

The House is debating the draft bill. Nobody doubts the outcome. The House will pass it, just as the Senate did. Well have a draft law "the mind of every House member already must be made up on how he'll vote. Speechmaking at this point won't change his mind. At least, it shouldn't."

The draft problem has been kicking around for a while. A member has had a chance to look into it carefully and think about it.

He's had a chance to read all sides of the argument. He's talked with other congressmen. And he's been drowned in mail from the folks back home.

So it would be quick and easy if the House just voted and got the bill out of the way. But the House is trying to make a few changes in the bill.

It would help, too. The House has plenty of work to do, plenty of other bills to tackle. It's trying to finish up by the end of the week.

Everybody knows the less speechmaking, the more work can be done. But this doesn't stop a congress-

Senate's Global Aid Bill To Get Warm Reception

Economy-Minded House Likely To Fight Hard For A Smaller Outlay

Washington, June 16 — (AP) — The Senate's $6,125,710,228 global aid bill headed today for a stormy reception in the economy-minded House which last week voted many millions less.

BULLETIN

Washington, June 16 — (AP) — The House refused to accept the Senate's $6,125,710,228 foreign-aid fund today and gave a conference committee the job of working out a compromise.

The Senate okayed the unprecedented sum by a 60 to 9 vote shortly after last midnight. If rejected by the House—as it undoubtedly will be—the bill will be sent to a joint conference committee for agreement on some middle ground before Saturday's adjournment.

The Senate action added well over a billion dollars to the House-approved bill. It did this chiefly by restoring the world-wide assistance program to a 12-month spending basis instead of the 15 months demanded by the House. In actual cash, the Senate bill upped the House amount by only $145,000,000 and was still $408,000,000 short of the amount President Truman asked.

Both Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) and Secretary of State Marshall had urged the Senate to restore all of the House cuts. Vandenberg charged that the House had used a "meat-ax technique" which "guts the enterprise."

Chairman Bridges (R-NH) of the Senate Appropriations Committee estimated the increase to be "in excess" of $1,100,000,000. His House counterpart, Rep. Taber (R-NY), already has served notice that he will vigorously oppose the Senate action.

Before its vote on the foreign aid bill, the Senate took another step, beginning immediately on American foreign policy. By a voice vote it approved a $3,588,733,250 appropriation for the Navy starting July 1. This measure also goes back to the House for action on a Senate boost of more than $125,000,000.

Earlier the Senate also had disposed of a $43,422,061 government corporations bill which carried, among other things, a $30,972,061 appropriation for the Tennessee Valley Authority. It, too, goes back to the House, which must decide whether to accept more than $5,000,000 in increases, including a hotly debated $400,000 item to start building a TVA steam plant to generate electricity.

Engineers To Meet In City June 23

The North Carolina Engineers' Club, composed of engineers of cities and towns of the eastern area of North Carolina, and sponsored by the North Carolina Society of Engineers, will hold its June meeting at the Airport Inn Wednesday night, June 23, at 7 o'clock. Dr. Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina Teachers College faculty will be the speaker.

Engineers from Winston, Wilson, Rocky Mount, Greenville, Tarboro and other cities are expected to attend. Martin Swartz, superintendent of the Greenville Utilities, is a member of the board of directors.

France Is Again Hit By New Strikes And Violence

Clermont-Ferrand, France, June 16 — (AP) — A spreading strike wave, reminiscent of last winter's cold civil war, crept over south central and northeastern France today, sparked by a general work stoppage in this French tire capital.

At least 150 persons were injured here when police forcibly ejected strikers who had occupied the Berougnan Rubber factory. The rubber factory strike, called by the Communist-dominated general confederation of labor, touched off the general stoppage, and by noon, the movement was spreading rapidly to other communities. The U. S. Embassy said this is a "Red Belt."

Police moved in on the rubber plant last night. An eye-witness said the company of State Police and mounted Republican guards were met by a barrage of missiles. Strikers used clubs made from gun rubber in a hand-to-hand conflict.

Police used tear gas. The strikers responded with a barrage of tear-gas capsules of their own which forced the officers to retreat. Reinforcements were called, rushing here by trucks from neighboring towns. The police renewed the assault this morning and forced the strikers out.

By noon, several thousand miners had quit their jobs at Brassac, St. Etienne and other communities in sympathy strikes. Tobacco plant workers quit at Riom. In northeastern France, several thousand metal workers of Belfort voted to strike.

Charge Lobbying Law Is Violated

Washington, June 16 — (AP) — A federal grand jury today indicted the Agricultural Commissioners of Texas and Georgia, two farm organizations and two other persons on charges of violating the lobbying law.

Attorney General Clark, who announced the grand jury action, said they are accused of conspiracy to lobby for higher commodity prices without registering with Congress. He said they had a personal interest in higher prices because of trading on commodity markets.

Call Walkout In Aluminum Plants Midnight Sunday

Nine Plants Affected By Strike Order; 20,000 Workers Are Involved

Pittsburgh, June 16 — (AP) — The CIO United Steelworkers today called a strike of some 20,000 workers in nine aluminum plants of American plants for midnight Sunday.

The union added that the first shift "will not go to work on Monday."

A union spokesman was unable to say whether the walkout would be effective immediately at midnight Sunday or on the day after Monday. The decision to strike, he added, came after what he described as a breakdown of wage negotiations with the company.

The company has offered both the Steelworkers union and the AFL-Aluminum workers an eight percent wage hike. This, the company said, would make a minimum increase of nine cents and a maximum of 15 cents an hour. The CIO union has asked an package increase of 15 cents an hour.

The company did not give current basic hourly earnings but a spokesman estimated this figure at "around $1.00 an hour."

The walkout would affect workers in nine plants in nine states. The Alcoa, Tenn., works employing some 8,000 workers in the largest, a company spokesman said. Next in production, personnel is the New Kensington, Pa., plant with 7,000 workers. Company spokesmen said 18,500 workers would be affected in the nine plants.

Aluminum workers last participated in a major walkout in January, 1946 during the general wage strike by some 850,000 CIO-USW members.

Veto Likely Over Atomic Controls

Gromyko's Disapproval Anticipated In Security Council

Lake Success, June 16 — (AP) — A Russian veto on majority-approved plans for world atomic control appeared probable today in the Security Council.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, is expected by council members to exercise the veto if the council votes on an American resolution backed by Britain and Canada. The council meets at 1:30 p.m. (EST).

An informed source said Gromyko has prepared a 15-page speech outlining Russia's views on the whole question of atomic control. In the U. N. Atomic Energy Commission, he has repeatedly declared Russia's opposition to the majority plan.

Dr. Philip C. Jessup, United States deputy on the council, put before the delegates last Friday a surprise resolution calling for the council to approve the control proposals favored by the majority of the council.

Dr. Jessup was supported immediately by Sir Alexander Cadogan, of Britain, and Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, of Canada. A vote was delayed because Gromyko wanted to speak.

The majority plan calls for a world authority which would supervise atomic developments at all times. It would have the Security Council veto on punishments for violations of the atomic code. It would allow full inspection to determine that the control provisions are being observed.

Gromyko countered with a plan for a convention banning atomic weapons now. He then proposed that controls be worked out later. He refused to waive the veto and has not made it clear to majority delegates how far Russia would go on permitting inspectors within her borders.

The text of the accord was sent to the Soviets before it was released for publication June 7.

Even during the negotiations, Moscow radio and Soviet newspapers indicated it would not be acceptable to the Russian government so their rejection today was not altogether unexpected.

It was, however, the first official announcement that Russia will not accept the plan, which applies only to the British, American and French occupation zones. All the six powers except France have approved the plan. The French assembly now is debating it. The other powers in-

Liquor Sales In State Increased Over May, 1947

Raleigh, N. C., June 16 — (AP) — Liquor sales in the state's ABC stores last month increased $59,430.05 over sales of May last year. But every one of the 25 Eastern counties in which ABC stores were in operation a year ago showed a sharp drop in sales.

The total increase was due to sales in Mecklenburg county and Asheville, which did not have stores in operation a year ago.

The state ABC offices here reported in a monthly report yesterday. Total sales for the state last month were $3,554,969.65, compared with $2,985,538.60 in May of last year.

Sales in the 25 Eastern counties in which stores were operating a year ago dropped over $600,000. ABC officials pointed out that there has been a gradual drop in sales in the Eastern area for the past several months. This was the first major sag.

House Draft Foes Hopeful As Final Vote Is Delayed

Plan Further Tests Of Super-Sonic Plane

Air Force Aims At 1,700 Miles Per Hour In New Tests Expected To Take Craft Fifteen Miles Above Earth

Washington, June 16 — (AP) — The Air Force plans to send its Bell X-1 rocket plane hurtling toward 1,700 miles an hour in a new series of high altitude speed tests beyond nature's "sonic wall."

This was learned today from persons familiar with the long range program for investigating super-sonic flight. That strange—and untill last year unexplored—region of speeds faster than sound.

Five men are known to have smashed through that barrier at altitudes generally about eight to ten miles above the earth.

The new tests are expected to take the rocket ship up to 80,000 feet—about 15 miles—which would be the highest man has ever attained. Two Army fliers set the world record of 72,394 feet in a balloon in 1935. The highest plane mark is 59,492 feet, set in March by a British jet fighter.

The first man to crack the sonic wall, Air Force Capt. Charles E. Yeager, told a little of his story yesterday—under close supervision to prevent any slip that might give away super-secret information.

Security officers forbade any mention of conditions Yeager encountered in surpassing the speed of sound—ranging from 662 to 762 miles an hour depending upon the variations in temperature at different altitudes.

The fast-flying captain started out once:

"As you get past the speed of sound you—uh, you—uh." He stopped, then added: "I'd like to go into detail but I'd get my head lopped off if I did."

"It was pretty nice, I thought," Yeager did say.

But he acknowledged he was "naturally scared" as he hurtled through space crouched in the cockpit of the tiny plane.

Pictures Self As 'For The People'

Truman Says Real Fight Is Against 'Special Privilege'

Aboard Truman Train Enroute to Kansas City, Mo., June 16 — (AP) — President Truman pictured himself today as a champion of the people in their struggle against "special privilege."

In platform talks, delivered in a neighborly over-the-back-fence tone, Mr. Truman carried on his appeal for votes as his homeward-bound campaign train moved eastward.

"The issue in this country is between special privilege and the people," he told a train-side crowd at Albuquerque, N. M., last night.

"I think I represent the people, and I am trying to tell the people just how I represent them."

This is one of the themes at which he has hammered during nearly 60 talks since he left Washington June 3 on a cross-country pre-convention tour. Most of the talks have been from the rear platform of his private car.

The President also repeated yesterday that he has been "pouring it on" Congress.

"And they've got the fitters back there," he told an Albuquerque crowd. "They have gone to work."

The President will visit his home in Independence, Missouri, today for the first time since the death of his 94-year-old mother, Mrs. Martha E. Truman, at Grandview, Mo.

Russia Says Agreement On Germany Is Violation

London, June 16 — (AP) — A Soviet Embassy spokesman said today Russia has informed Britain she cannot accept the six-power London agreement to set up a separate West German government.

The spokesman said Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin told Sir William Strang, chairman of the six-power conference, on June 7 that Russia regards the agreement as a violation of the Potsdam Pact.

The text of the accord was sent to the Soviets before it was released for publication June 7.

Even during the negotiations, Moscow radio and Soviet newspapers indicated it would not be acceptable to the Russian government so their rejection today was not altogether unexpected.

It was, however, the first official announcement that Russia will not accept the plan, which applies only to the British, American and French occupation zones. All the six powers except France have approved the plan. The French assembly now is debating it. The other powers in-

Whether he intends it or not, President Truman's remarks last week about "old Joe Stalin" could reopen the question of a meeting with that particular Joe.

This has been in abeyance since the Potsdam meeting three years ago, which left much to be desired from many standpoints.

Since then, President Truman has said he has asked Premier Stalin to come to see him in Washington, and Mr. Stalin has stayed away. It has been widely inferred that neither party has been interested in going like the mountain to Mahomet.

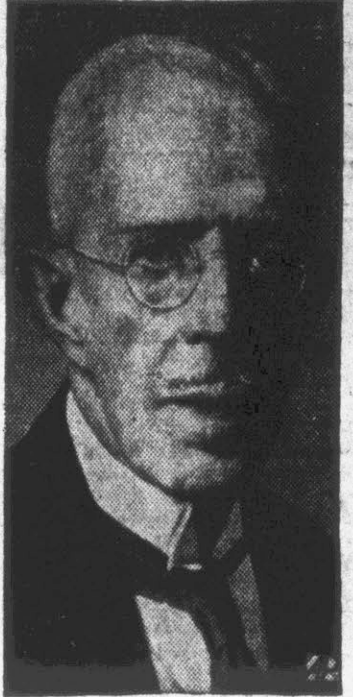

Last week when Mr. Truman was talking about Mr. Stalin he tossed in a remark that the latter is a prisoner of the Politburo in Moscow.

Checking on this at the state department, reporters found an air of surprise and a prevailing impression that Mr. Stalin is the Politburo's boss, not its prisoner.

Now Mr. Truman said absolutely nothing about seeing Mr. Stalin, but let us look into what his friendly reference could mean—bearing in mind that the next day at Berkeley he listed Soviet breaches of faith in detail and declared once more this country's peaceful intentions.

In doing so, he made the statement that America is not waging

Despite his years, King Gustav remains active. He made several hunting trips last season and only recently gave up tennis on doctors' orders.

Ships And Planes Hunting 3 B-17s

Some Debris Sighted But Full Story Not Yet Known

Paris, June 16 — (AP) — Search planes and ships scoured the Atlantic today in an effort to solve the mysterious disappearance of three flying fortress planes believed privately owned and headed for Palestine.

One search plane out of Santa Maria, the Azores, reported spotting floating debris. The Portuguese destroyer Lima sped to the area.

The planes, their nationality unidentified officially, were reported to have disappeared yesterday on a flight from the Azores to Corsica.

A dispatch from Lisbon, Portugal, said all three were reported headed to Palestine with crews of Jews. Santa Maria sources said it was believed two of the three planes might have continued safely on their journey. The report from the Santa Maria search plane told of life preservers seen floating near what appeared to be wreckage. There was no sign of human life.

The French aid minister ordered planes and ships of its Mediterranean rescue service into the search, and craft put out from French, Moroccan, Corsican, Tunisian and Algerian ports.

Surgeons Repair Wreck Effects In Three Years

Winston-Salem, N. C., June 16 — (AP) — Lucius "Specs" Mills, 22, of Shelby, injured in an auto accident, three years ago, is to be operated on for the 23rd time this week in Baptist Hospital here.

And in another three months they'll have finished making a new man of him by operation 24. That will be putting a silver plate over a skull opening left by a previous operation.

Laodus, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mills of Shelby Route 2, was hurt in Georgia while helping a friend bring back a truckload of cattle.

Surgeons have amputated one leg and fitted him with an artificial one, and made skin grafts on his heel and head. They have operated on both his eyes and now he has 20-20 vision with glasses.

In about six months he hopes to be looking for a job.

Palatial Estate Of Gen. Meyers Is Up For Sale

Huntington, N. Y., June 16 — (AP) — The palatial Long Island estate of Bennett E. Meyers, former Army Air Forces major general now in jail, is up for sale.

The asking price is $100,000, his wife announced yesterday.

Mrs. Ella Rae Meyers, a former actress, said she plans to continue living at the estate until it is sold. The twelve-acre property, overlooking Long Island Sound and including a 12-room Georgian Colonial house, has been listed with real estate dealers.

Odd Meeting

Washington, June 16 — (AP) — Two years ago Mrs. Maggie McGrift rented a room from Mrs. Bessie White.

Yesterday they had a chat which led to the following discoveries, in this order:

1. They both came from Winston-Salem, N. C.
2. They both had the same maiden name: Adams.
3. They were sisters.

The two women hadn't seen each other since 1924.

Election Year Speech

What Was Behind President Truman's Remarks About Stalin? Is It A Step In The Direction To Better Relations With Russia? Is It Just All Politics?

By JAMES D. WHITE

Whether he intends it or not, President Truman's remarks last week about "old Joe Stalin" could reopen the question of a meeting with that particular Joe.

This has been in abeyance since the Potsdam meeting three years ago, which left much to be desired from many standpoints.

Since then, President Truman has said he has asked Premier Stalin to come to see him in Washington, and Mr. Stalin has stayed away. It has been widely inferred that neither party has been interested in going like the mountain to Mahomet.

Last week when Mr. Truman was talking about Mr. Stalin he tossed in a remark that the latter is a prisoner of the Politburo in Moscow.

Checking on this at the state department, reporters found an air of surprise and a prevailing impression that Mr. Stalin is the Politburo's boss, not its prisoner.

Now Mr. Truman said absolutely nothing about seeing Mr. Stalin, but let us look into what his friendly reference could mean—bearing in mind that the next day at Berkeley he listed Soviet breaches of faith in detail and declared once more this country's peaceful intentions.

In doing so, he made the statement that America is not waging cold war, despite the way that expression has worked itself into the American idiom since the Truman-Politburo and not Mr. Stalin who was laid down more than a year ago and became the core of America's bipartisan foreign policy.

Mr. Truman thinks of all this may be too important, especially if it is true that he forms his policy toward America by balancing America's own policy against her ability and willingness to back it up. What Mr. Stalin thinks may not be the point.

The point may be what the American people think, this being an election year.

Mr. Truman, long pledged to carry on in the footsteps of his predecessor, the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, may be following in his master's footsteps. In FDR's own words, he used to return, at such times as this, to a political position "just a little left of center."

FOR THE DAY

JONAH CROSSED HIS BRIDGE.
We are frequently told not to cross bridges until we come to them.
This statement means, of course, that we should not alarm and announce ourselves by worrying about future situations but should wait until they occur and then deal with them. The saying strongly implies that when we reach the future "bridge", we shall probably find it not very difficult to cross after all; and indeed, we often do find, when the time comes, that there really is no
"bridge" at all, nor even any river.

We all know this saying, yet we usually disregard it. Often we let opportunities pass which we would like to have taken, had we had the confidence in ourselves and not feared the possible outcome. Still worse, we sometimes shirk our duties and responsibilities, feeling that we will not be able to fulfill them when the time comes. Ironically, the results of our cowardice can be far worse than the difficulties we feared.

The prophet Jonah learned this truth by sad experience. God ordered him to preach to a wicked city, and Jonah, dreading this order, sought to avoid his mission. Everyone knows where this led him—straight into the whale's stomach.
Eventually he accepted his mission, and what happened? He converted the whole city in a single day's preaching, with tremendous success.
The dreaded "bridge" simply was not there.

And Stop Doing Your Stomach
With Soda and Alkalizers

Don't expect to get real relief from headache, sour stomach, gas and bad breath by taking soda and other alkalizers if the true cause of your trouble is constipation.

In this case, your real trouble is not in the stomach at all. But in the intestinal tract where 80% of your food is digested. And when the lower part gets blocked food may fail to be properly digested.

What you need for real relief is something to "unblock" your lower intestinal tract, something to clean it out effectively—help Nature get back on her feet.

Get mild, gentle Carter's Little Pills right now.
They gently and effectively "unblock" your digestive tract. This permits all of Nature's own digestive juices to mix better with your food. You get genuine relief from indigestion as you can feel really good again.

Buy mild, gentle Carter's Little Pills at any drugstore. Today, "unblock" your intestinal gia, geniality, a columnist-reporter on the Atlanta Constitution and a roving seeker after interesting stuff for magazine feature stories. He came back from the war, during which he did some good writing and fighting, to settle down on a $60-a-week job with a wife and a couple of daughters. He soon became embedded in Georgia politics when the red-gallied "Gone With the Wind" beat the son of him and his paper. That took some of the zest out of his already war-torn beliefs in democracy and political decency, but didn't stop him from writing for the Constitution—and picking up enough side money for feature stories to take him well out of the $3,000 a year class. These extra assignments included a round-the-globe air trip to review world conditions for the Saturday Evening Post.

ATTRACTED—Most free-wheeling writers sooner or later contact the state news bureau for leads, pictures, material for stories—maybe a little help in getting around over the state. Harold Martin did, from Mantes down on the Banks where he had wound up between expense checks with just enough money to get on the "terrific bus" to Manteo. Soon after the contact was made Harold graciously invited the state folks to dinner—and borrowed amount of the tab at a men's room conference. On the night ride from Manteo to Raleigh Harold was stuffed right up to his ears with ideas and angles for North Carolina stories.

YIELD—The state news folks got their money back and by way of interest some humdinger nationally circulated stories about THE LOST COLONY (which, by the way, opens its eleventh season on Roanoke Island and July 1). Reason for the hurried trip to Raleigh was to let Harold catch an expense check and an airplane. The air angle afforded opportunity to brief him on how what he first called the "barren, uncivilized outer banks" were being opened up by the air plane which had been born at Kitty Hawk on the Banks nearly forty-five years before. That briefing also paid handsome dividends.

PROFITABLE—Soon thereafter
Harold blossomed out with a story on Memphis in the Saturday Evening Post "cities of America" series which was a masterpiece of political satire on Boss Ed Crump. Of course, what had happened was that the once disillusioned writer had come up against eternal history in the never-never land of America's beginning and had been born again.

It happens in North Carolina regularly to creative artists, on the coast, in the mountains, in the ultramodern piedmont. There are many illustrations of it; but this is a yarn about Harold Martin and his North Carolina stories and how both he and the state profited from that night ride.

Kisses Lose Out In Battle For Germany;
Sentiment Is Dying

BERLIN (AP)—Hard times have made the kiss unfashionable in Germany, according to the German press. "The sentimental kiss, out of the insignificant family kiss are out of place," the newspaper "Nacht Express" found. "Hard times usually limit sentimental expressions to an absolute minimum." The newspaper said it found kissing in public also had "grown more seldom."
"Since the housewife has been freed from the seclusion of the home and participates in all daily happenings, the attitude of the sexes toward one another has become more open and unaffected. Even young people in love no longer feel it as necessary to make the world a witness to their love."

Women's Clubs Of State On Mission 'Good Samaritan'

By CHESTER WALSH

Robert Lee Humber, world traveler and internationally known advocate of peace in the world through his World Federation Plan, which has been adopted and approved by many state legislatures, was the spokesman for the Women's Club at its meeting, under auspices of the State Federation of Women's Clubs at the Greenville Women's Club last night.

Mr. Humber, recalling his experiences in Europe, told the representative audience that he knows, at first hand, all about the suffering of the children of Europe. The North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs is sponsoring these meetings in the interest of the "Crusade for Children." Mrs. J. Vance Perkins, who presided, said when she presented the speaker.

He rang a solemn note when he said: "Two hundred and thirty million children in Europe today are the innocent, pitiable victims of a war they did not cause. These children starve as a result of the scorching earth sacrifices that slowed the enemy, but rendered useless and unproductive vast agricultural areas of Europe and Asia." "Remember," Mr. Humber added, "your children will share the world of tomorrow together with the 230 million children now on the fringe of starvation as a result of the war, and remember that today's children are the citizens of tomorrow."

The speaker pointed to the plates on the tables in which was served the half a hundred guests a scanty meal of few calories, such as is served the children of the war-torn countries. "If we let this starvation continue; if we allow starvation to warp the young minds, what will the future bring? Can we reasonably expect to keep the peace? If we permit this mass starvation to go unchecked—what a fertile field for hate to grow in—what might it cost our own children in anguish—in tears—in blood?" Mr. Humber commended the Women's Club Federation for their good work. He encouraged the Greenville women for their good work, and urged all to heed the call for assistance and co-operate with the promoters of these meetings to relieve starvation in Europe.

The American Overseas Aid United Nations Appeal for Children is sponsoring the "Good Samaritan" work.

Legion Post Has Officers Installed

By CHESTER WALSH

American Legion Post No. 39, at its meeting last night at the Air-port Inn, with Commander James S. Jenkins presiding, was one of the best meetings the post held during the past year. A fine spirit of fellowship prevailed—that kind of comradeship can only exist among men who have been soldiers.

One of the features of the meeting was the presence of Robert Lee Humber, internationally known Greenville citizen, who made a short talk of felicitation to the legionnaires in which he commended the officers and committeemen for their good work during the past year and then drew a round of applause for reminding the legionnaires that there are more than three million starving children in Europe who need the help of Americans—in the "good neighbor" spirit.

Installation of new officers was an impressive ceremony. Adjutant Conner Eagles officiated. Lt. Col. T. K. Fountain of Falkland was installed as the new commander. He was eloquent in his speech of acceptance, and recognized the various committeemen for their good work and paid tribute to retiring commander of the post, Lt. Col. James S. Jenkins, who thanked the legionnaires for their cooperation and pledged his best efforts in the rank's.

Other officers inducted were: Larry Averette, first vice-commander; Z. Vance Bunting, second vice-commander; Coy L. Forbes, third vice-commander; L. B. Gowen, finance officer; Ed Smith, sergeant-at-arms; David C. Moore, Jr., historian; and Dr. H. Glenn Haney, post chaplain.

Plans for celebrating next Armistice Day in a big way were discussed at length. A proposal was made that the Legion provide dinner for veterans who might attend the Armistice Day exercises. It didn't click. D. J. Whitchard, Jr., and others suggested that since Robert Lee Humber, world traveler, legionnaire, and otherwise good citizen had reminded that there are three and a half million starving children in Europe, the American Legion can hold a successful Armistice Day celebration without a feast next November 11, when General H. H. Turnage of Farmville, retired Marine officer, will deliver the Armistice Day address.

Concerned Over Spread Of Polio

Greensboro, N. C., June 16—(P)—Health authorities from 20 North Carolina counties, alarmed over the continuing spread of infantile paralysis, came here today to map plans for combatting the disease.

Two more polio cases were reported in Greensboro last night, bringing the total to date to 18. The latest count shows 17 more in Guilford county (outside Greensboro) and 26 other cases in 10 surrounding counties.

Find My Killer

By MANLY WELLMAN

Chapter 7
We reached the place where they'd parked a car. Kuhl opened the door and Diane Ealing got in and sat under the wheel. Then Kuhl touched me on the elbow. "Go with her," he said. "I'll talk to you later." He walked away along the street and Diane Ealing started the motor and drove us away.

She drove more slowly and carefully than J. D., and it took us some time to reach her home. She looked sideways at me once or twice but didn't talk much and I didn't prompt her. I was thinking.

I began to see how smart Kuhl was. He was a lawyer and knew when and where to stand forward or stand back. He might cause trouble by being close to Diane Ealing now, because somebody might remind the world that he'd been close to her previously. So he hired somebody to look after her interests for him; somebody who already had a stake in the Ealing case, the drawer of Ealing's will, J. D., and I as J. D.'s partner were almost as legal as the police.

When we parked in her driveway she let me open the door and help her out. Probably she was as tired and depressed as she seemed. The old woman, Mrs. Pettigrew, met us at the door and looked at me, then at Diane Ealing, then back at me.

"This is Mr. Yates," Diane Ealing told her. "He's helping us in the investigation that must be made. Do whatever he asks."

I followed Mrs. Pettigrew to the kitchen and talked to her and her husband.

"Are you right-handed or left-handed?" I asked Pettigrew. "Right-handed," he said. "Just now," and he twiddled the bandaged hand, "I'm kind of awkward, this one being hurt like it is."

"How did it happen?" "In the tool shed out back. Day before yesterday was my usual day of the week to edge up everything—sickles, pruning shears, axes, things like that. So I went out to the shed and reached to take down a sickle where it was hung on its nail. There was four-five sickles on that nail."

"Quite a lot of sickles," I suggested. "Yes, sir. When Mr. Gwynne—Mr. Dick's uncle—died, we got all his tools, and Mr. Dick had some of his own. I sharpen 'em when they need it."

"Every week, you say?" "Yes, sir, every week," Pettigrew licked his lips, and I saw that he was losing his important teeth. "Just habit like, you might say. But when I got hold of the top sickle of those on the nail, why, the nail came out of the wall and they fell down on top of me. I guess I put up my hand to fend 'em off me, and one or other of 'em cut my hand open."

"So you came back here to the house and called Dr. Stokes?" "Mrs. Ealing phoned him. He hurried over and patched me up." He twiddled the bandaged hand again.

"After that," I said, "what about finding Mr. Ealing's body?" "That was when Dr. Stokes called me to help him break down the door of the gun room. Like I told him at the inquest."

"Both you and Dr. Stokes say that the key was in the lock, on the inside, when the door was broken down."

"Yes, sir. I pointed it out to the doctor. Or," and he paused and frowned, "he pointed it out to me. One way or the other."

More things to ask them were jostling my mind but I knew we were being listened to. What some people call a "hovering presence" was just beyond the kitchen door. I don't mean I'm psychic but I'm wide awake. Police work keeps you awake. Somebody was there with both ears at full mast and I could be sure who the somebody was.

"Thanks for the time being," I nodded to the Pettigrews, and moved toward the front of the house—slowly enough to let Diane Ealing get away from the kitchen door and go up the hall ahead of me.

She was waiting in the parlor. She had taken off her coat, and was sitting in a chair by the window. She gestured to a table where some bottles and glasses had been set out.

"I thought you might like a drink," she said. I poured two slugs into two glasses and filled them up from a siphon. "I've talked to your servants, Mrs. Ealing," I said. "May I talk to you now?"

"Why, yes." Her eyes above the glass were as steady as two green searchlights. "If I can help you."

"Is it true that Pettigrew sharpens all the edged tools in his shed on a given day every week?" "He does everything at given times," she replied, and again she tried a smile. "He's the most methodical man I know. You could set watches and correct calendars by him."

"Is he right-handed?" "Yes, he is," she told me. "I was quiet a moment, checking over everything I'd been told at this house, and classifying it, so to speak, in pigeonholes of my mind. Then I said, 'Help me on the time element. When did Pettigrew hurt himself?'"

The best she could say was that it was a few minutes after four in the afternoon, not as late as half-past. "And when did Dr. Stokes arrive?" "She was clearer on that because Dr. Stokes himself had given the time at the inquest. 'Five o'clock or thereabouts.' " "Came right out from his office, did he?" "No, not from his office, now that you mention it," said Diane Ealing. "I called him there but he hadn't been in all afternoon. Then I called him at home and he came over." "And the finding of your husband's body?" "At six o'clock almost exactly," she said. "Pettigrew had been bandaged. Dr. Stokes and I had a drink together and then we began to wonder about Dick. And the rest you know." "The rest I don't know," I said, and finished my brandy and soda. "Now I want to go to the gun room." (To be continued)

Leaves Paid To Indians; Cocaine Plant Is Chewed

Chicago—(AP)—Indians of the central Andes sometimes receive part of their wages in leaves.

The Desloge Peruvian Botanical Expedition of the Chicago Natural History Museum, returning after studying cultivated plants in the valleys of Peru, reports that the cocaine plant is grown in terraced valleys about 5,000 feet above sea level. The Indians pick the leaves by hand, pressing them into bales by shipment. The custom of chewing coca leaves is so common, said Dr. Hugh C. Cutler, Curator of Economic Botany at the Museum, that most haciendas pay part of an Indian's wages in coca leaves.

An alkali, usually ashes or lime mixed with clay, is added to the quid, for without it there is little effect. Members of the expedition report that this practice is similar to the use of ashes or lime with betel nut in the western Pacific islands.

Mr. Keenbridge took a decisive stand on the guests to his card party. And Mr. and Mrs. Dimosers were not among those present.

Mr. Keenbridge felt that one more evening of waiting for Mr. Dimosers to play; of watching him lean over and peer at the cards on the table, then squint at his hand and fumble for a card would drive him mad.

Everyone owes it to himself and to his friends to see clearly and quickly at the card table. Special glasses for bridge—smart, becoming, and designed particularly to give maximum efficiency and comfort at the card table—have been requested by many of our patients.

Arroyo And Tate Effectively Hold Down Opposing Batters; Cohen And Riggs Continue To Rack Up Hits

By BERT MOYE

Manager Bill Phebus' Greenville Greenies took both ends of a double-header here last night by taking the seven-inning opener, 3-1, and then came back to take the night-cap, 1-0, in two of the best ball games seen on the local diamond this season.

First Game
Luis Arroyo, pitching three hit ball, registered his eighth win of the season last night, as he handcuffed the New Bern Bears, 3-1, for his second win of the season over Manager Soufas' boys.

New Bern scored their only run of the game in the first frame when they bunched two of their three hits. Lou Kolback singled, went to second on a passed ball, Soufas walked and Charlie Chute singled to bring home Kolback for their lone tally.

The Greenies put across two of their runs in the second frame which proved to be their winning runs. Wiley Nash reached first on Kolback's error at first, Larry Riggs singled advancing Nash to third, Joe Nessing flew out to second baseman Sullivan, and Joe Sposas singled to bring home Nash with Riggs advancing to third. Moe Carter forced Sposas at second on a ball hit to the Bear's second baseman with Riggs coming home from third on the out.

They tallied again in the sixth frame when Bob Cohen tripled and Larry Riggs flew out to deep left field on the out. Soufas came to bat on the out.

Arroyo scattered his three hits among as many players and struck out six men and walked seven.

The Bears used two hurlers with Israel Ten, the starting pitcher, pitching his initial game for the Bears, being charged with the loss. Ten pitched the first five frames and allowed four hits, two runs, walked one and struck out three.

Ray Wineski relieved him in the sixth frame and allowed one hit, one run and struck out one man.

Bob Cohen with a triple and a single in three times at bat led the Greenies five hit attack off the two New Bern hurlers. Riggs, Nessing and Sposas each got a single for the Greenies other three hits of the game.

Second Game

Joe Tate registered his second win for the Greenies last night in the second game of the double-header as he scattered eight New Bern hits, very effectively for a 1-0 win.

Bob Cohen's triple into deep centerfield to bring home Ray Phillips who had singled ahead of him, provided the only run of the game.

Roy Stott and Harry Soufas with two singles each, led the 8-hit attack off Tate. Tate allowed only one man to reach first via the free pass route and struck out a total of six Bears.

Larry Baldwin, former Greenville hurler, was on the mound for the Bears and suffered his fifth defeat of the season. He has won eight. Baldwin walked only two men and struck out six.

Bob Cohen, with a triple and a single and Larry Riggs, with a double and a single, led the seven-hit attack off Baldwin.

The Greenies journey over to Roanoke Rapids tonight to meet the Jays in the first of a two-game series. The two teams will play back here at Guy Smith Stadium on Thursday night.

Rare Rider

by Pap

Tommy Field came by his riding talents honestly. His father, a former jockey and trainer of show horses, still trains horses despite the fact he suffered a broken neck riding. Tommy, now 27, has been close to horses ever since he began showing horses at the age of four.

He was born in Shropshire, England, and was brought over to Toronto, Canada, at six months. A great natural rider, Field has a way with all horses and can do anything with a horse.

Last year Tommy won 25 victories and was voted the top steeplechase rider. Back in 1940 Tommy rode his first winner on the flat at the Woodbine track in Toronto. Quite appropriately, his mount was named First Crop. Because of his weight, around 134 pounds, Field was forced to desert the flat races for the jumpers.

There is another Field coming along to challenge Tommy's right to top rating. He is Ken Field, Tommy's 17-year-old brother. Like Tommy, Ken started showing horses at five. He has his older brother's easy manner with his mounts and shapes up as a brilliant steeplechase rider. Some brilliant duels are in prospect when the brothers battle it out down the stretch.

Weight Limit Is Robinson Bogey

Chicago, June 16—(AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson today was faced by the threat of losing his welterweight title on the scales in his 15-round championship go against challenger Bernard Docusen tomorrow night.

A great deal of mystery surrounded Robinson's exact weight for his third title defense before an estimated 15,000 at Comiskey Park.

Robinson must weigh 147 on the official scales tomorrow to be considered defending welter champion. Estimates of his weight yesterday varied from 149 to 152.

The champion, defeated only once in 88 bouts over an eight-year period, possibly can sweat off his excess poundage.

But—if he falls—boxing rules dictate that he must vacate his crown and fight Docusen, 21-year-old cutie from New Orleans, in an over-weight bout.

The title then will be thrown up for grabs in a tourney of welter contenders.

Many insects may eat their mates, yet starve themselves for their children.

BOY'S LEAGUE BASEBALL

Training School Greenies got back in the win column yesterday, winning over the Tigers of Third St. in an interesting game by the score of 7 to 6. Both teams scored four times in the first frame, but afterwards very little scoring was done. The Tigers scored singletons in the last two innings to keep the game in doubt until the final out.

Eugene Ayers with three singles and Joe Sawyer with two singles were the leaders for the Greenies. Bobby Fyfe and Sydney Briley were best for the losers.

Guy Smith, pitching for the Dodgers, held the hard hitting Lions of W. Greenville to three hits yesterday and won 4 to 1. The game was even closer than the score indicates. The Dodgers made only four hits off the hurling of Howell but the Dodgers were guilty of some ill advised base running, having four men thrown out at third trying to steal and two at home plate. Hendrix got two of the losers' three hits.

Red Sox vs Lions, W. Greenville.

Navy To Defend Regatta Title

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 16—(AP)—The defending champion Navy crew was scheduled to arrive today to join in Hudson River workouts for the annual Poughkeepsie regatta June 22.

One of the strongest challengers for Navy's title—Washington's undefeated Huskies—arrived on the scene yesterday with what Coach Al Ulbrickson termed an improved eight.

Washington finished third in the varsity race last year behind Navy and Cornell.

Important Cases In County Court

By CHESTER WALSH
In Pitt County Recorder's Court yesterday, Judge Dink James found Ralph Suggs and Arthur Oakley, tenant farmers, guilty of being drunk and disorderly and damaging personal property in Pactolus last Saturday afternoon and gave each of them 30 days in jail, sentences suspended on payment of court costs and they were ordered to remain sober for a year. Testimony was that Suggs and Oakley took the bride off a mule hitched to a cart and tied to a post, and that the mule ran away, damaging the cart. The court ordered them to repair the cart by June 29.

Thad Braxton, Jr., convicted of assault, was given 30 days in jail, sentence suspended on payment of $50 and costs. Another case of assault against him was continued. Elias Foreman, Negro farm worker, charged with assaulting with a pocketknife James Little, Negro farm worker, during an altercation in Pactolus last Saturday, was given 18 months on the roads, sentence suspended, and he was placed on probation; is to pay court costs $50 and Little $50 for time lost and pay attending physician for medicine. Little received a long gash on the side of his face.

Brooks, operator of a service station near the Port Terminal, convicted of being drunk and disorderly and assaulting Joe Forbes with a deadly weapon, was given six months on the roads. Sentence was suspended on condition that the defendant be placed on probation, and that his store be padlocked for one week, beginning June 15, and that the store is not to be opened on Saturday night or Sunday for a period of six months; his gun was ordered destroyed and he was fined $50 and costs.

The case against Jemmie P. Roberson, colored, for non-support, was transferred to Superior Court.

If this is so, a meeting with Stalin is conceivable, and such a meeting is easier because of what the President said last week. If it is the politburo and not Mr. Stalin who is behind all the things Russia does, Mr. Stalin stands somewhat exonerated of these same things.

How such a meeting would be sandwiched into an election campaign is for those interested—if any one is—to figure out.

When the House put up the shutters for the day yesterday, this writer called one of the congressmen who had been listening all day. "Do you think anyone's mind was changed by all the speechmaking?"

"Not one," he said.

Why then bother to talk? Maybe three reasons:

1. Some congressmen feel so strongly about the draft, one way or the other, that they have to say something.
2. Some probably just like to hear themselves talk.
3. And some want to get on record so they can mail a copy of their speech to the voters back home.
