Three Americans Killed In Berlin Food Plane Crash

Despite Accident, Bad Weather Western Allies Keep Air Lift Going

Berlin, July 9 (AP)—Three Americans were killed last night when a United States Air Force plane flying food to Soviet-blockaded Berlin crashed near Frankfurt. They were the first American lives lost in the allied lift to the isolated city.

Despite the accident and bad weather the Western Allies kept the momentum of the air ferrying service going today.

In London diplomatic officials said last night Britain, the United States and France had decided to delay publication of their notes demanding an end to the blockade for at least 24 hours while Russia thinks the matter over.

Earlier a Foreign Office spokesman in the British capital had said that in view of press leaks on the terms of the three-power protests, the notes might be published at once.

The newspaper France-Soir published in Paris yesterday what it said was an analysis of the protests. It said all three powers told the Russians they would not give up any of their rights in Berlin.

The plane which crashed was a two-engine C-47. The crash occurred deep in the Taunus Mountains, 20 miles northwest of Frankfurt. The plane burned after plunging into the woods on a peak.

Three charred bodies were dug from the wreckage. The victims were two U.S. Air Force officers—the pilot and co-pilot—and a civilian passenger. Their names were withheld pending notification of relatives.

Up to last midnight the Soviet ground blockade had forced the Americans to fly more than 1,400 plane loads of food into Berlin.

Yesterday the Western powers called for drastic new electric power cuts in the city. The cuts reduced consumption of power by residents to one and one-half hours in the morning and five hours at night, with the exception of Saturday when another hour will be provided.

Red Cross Calls For Nurses To Aid Polio Fight

New York, July 9 (AP)—The New York chapter of the American Red Cross has issued an emergency call for registered nurses for duty in North Carolina to help combat a Poliomyelitis epidemic.

Two nurses already have left from this area, Red Cross officials said, and five others have offered their services.

Lists of nurses willing to go into the epidemic area are being compiled in case the emergency grows worse, officials said.

They said hospitals in Durham, Greensboro and Gastonia, all in the area where the epidemic is most acute, face an acute shortage of trained nurses.

Volunteers will receive transportation to and from their assignments, the Red Cross said.

Remove Obstacle To Dam Project

Norfolk, Va., July 9 (AP)—Agreement by the Federal government to pay $800,000 for 17,764 acres of land has removed the last major controversial issue in the acquisition of about 100,000 acres for the $70,000,000 Bugs Island dam project.

Bernadotte Keeps Trying For Peace

United Nations Mediator Still Fanning Flickering Peace Hopes As Tel Aviv Bombed; Palestine War In Full Swing

Cairo, July 9 (AP)—Tel Aviv was bombed today in the renewed Palestine war but the United Nations mediator still fanned flickering peace hopes. There were no details of damage or casualties. One Spitfire plane was reported seen over the city.

A Jewish communique from Tel Aviv said the Jews counterattacked and captured three Egyptian-held villages near Majdal, 28 miles south of Tel Aviv. It said fighting which began there yesterday before the truce ended continued all night, and acknowledged the loss of two other villages to attacking Arab forces.

The mediator, Count Folke Bernadotte, announced in Haifa he had paid a surprise visit to Amman and discussed with King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan the prospect of averting new fighting in Jerusalem and demarcating the Holy City. He said he still was hopeful.

Haifa braced itself for an expected air raid. The refinery city, largest eastern Mediterranean port, has been blacked out now for a full week.

Newspapers in Haifa reported Egyptian attacks far to the south. New fighting had been reported 23 miles south of Tel Aviv even before the truce ended, and in Cairo an official said there was "no doubt that the Egyptian army resumed fighting this morning."

Back in Haifa for a brief stop after his talks with Abdullah, Bernadotte would give no details on the conference other than to say it concerned demilitarizing Jerusalem. He talked with Abdullah about this, he said, because the Trans-Jordan Legion already holds part of the Holy City.

Apparently Bernadotte had gone to Amman on the invitation of Abdullah. He spent an hour with the king there. An Amman report said the two discussed "many things, including the prospects of another truce in Palestine" to supplant the one which expired this morning.

Under Bernadotte's peace proposals, rejected by both Arabs and Jews, Arab parts of Palestine would be lumped under Abdullah's rule. Abdullah long has dreamed of a greater Trans-Jordan with Jerusalem as its capital.

The U.N. Security Council in Lake Success, N.Y., was expected to hold a second emergency session on the Palestine problem today or tomorrow. The council met yesterday but did not act. It called the Middle East for more information. The U.N. began pulling some 300 troops personnel out of Palestine and the Arab states.

Israel charged that Egypt attacked at dawn on the last day of the truce with infantry and at least a dozen armored cars and three tanks, but was stopped short of Beit Daras and Beer Tury, 23 miles south of Tel Aviv. In the Security Council Egypt denied this.

31 New Cases Of Polio Reported

Total Soars To 468 As Communities Combat Epidemic

Raleigh, N. C., July 9 (AP)—Reports of 31 new cases of Polio were received by the State Board of Health today, bringing the state's total for the year to 468.

Burke county, one of four that have been epidemic of this disease, reported seven cases, and Mecklenburg county also reported seven. Buncombe county reported three.

Other cases were reported as follows: Guilford, Onslow and Robeson, two each; and Alamance, Catawba, Cleveland, Montgomery, Moore, Surry, Wilkes and Yadkin, one each. It was the third day in a row that the state board of health has received reports of more than 25 cases. Twenty-nine cases were reported yesterday and 31 the day before.

Meanwhile, communities and hospitals in affected areas began additional precautions and arrangements to combat spreading of the disease and to handle the problem of patient care.

In Greensboro, ground was broken for the $60,000 central Carolina convalescent hospital. The 100-bed hospital is expected to be finished in six working days.

Southern Solons Privately Fear Bolt From Party

Could Cost Dixie Legislators Their Assignments In Key Committees

Washington, July 9 (AP)—Privately and personally some Southern Congressmen are worried by threats of a southern bolt of the Democratic ticket.

They fear a bolt could cost them their committee assignments—if national party leaders go tough.

Because of customary Democratic victories in Dixie and the ability of a good many of its representatives to threaten to bolt if they are not assigned to important and high committee posts.

In the House Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee, in effect, make committee assignments for their party. In the Senate it is handled by a Democratic committee on committees.

Both the House and Senate groups are dominated by members from states which haven't threatened to bolt the party this year.

While the House and Senate vote on committee nominations, it is traditional to support picks of the respective parties.

"If my state bolts, why couldn't the Ways and Means Committee Democrats give my committee assignment to someone from a non-bolting state?" asked one House member who requested that his name not be used.

"Of course," he added, "a good many of us already have been nominated for new terms as straight Democrats. That would give us an arguing point, if worst came to worst."

Party leaders in South Carolina, Mississippi, Arkansas and Alabama have threatened to bolt if President Truman is nominated at the National convention, opening Monday in Philadelphia, finally adopts a platform embodying his civil rights program. There is some talk of deserting the national party in other deep-south areas, including Virginia, Georgia, Florida and Texas.

Of the ten Democrats on the House Ways and Means Committee seven come from states where party leaders haven't threatened a bolt. One of the ten, Rep. West (Texas) is not seeking reelection and assignment to the powerful ways and means committee is awaiting some Democrat next year.

Democratic members, besides West are: Reps. Doughton (NC), ranking minority member and former chairman; Cooper (Tenn) normally listed among administration supporters; Dingell (Mich) Gregory (Ky) Lynch (N.Y) Forand (RI) Eberhart (Pa) Mills (Ark) and Camp (Ga).

House members are limited to appointing one or two major regular committee Senators can be on two. Power and influence grow as members advance in seniority.

State Officials Prepare To Set Up Draft Boards

Raleigh, N. C., July 9 (AP)—State officials today continued preparations to set up selective service machinery.

Governor Cherry said that he was mailing letters to clerks of court, chairmen of county boards of election, and county school superintendents in each county requesting that they constitute informal boards to recommend persons to serve on the local draft boards.

The Governor said that letters also had gone to those who served on the boards during World War II asking if they would be interested in serving again. Replies have been received from many, he added.

Meanwhile, Adj. Gen. J. Van Metts said that formal action to set up the draft boards under the new selective service act passed by Congress two weeks ago awaits action from Washington—appointment by the President of a national director of selective service.

Ailment Is Fatal For Weingarten

Greensboro, N. C., July 9 (AP)—Ed Weingarten, Blue Ridge League and Tri-State league baseball official, died today of a kidney ailment.

Attendees at St. Leo's hospital said Weingarten died at 10 a. m. He had entered the hospital several days ago for treatment of a kidney ailment.

McGrath Predicts Eisenhower Won't Be Offered As Nominee

Philadelphia, July 9 (AP)—Democratic Chairman J. Howard McGrath predicted today General Dwight D. Eisenhower's name will not be offered to next week's presidential nominee.

McGrath told a news conference he does not believe that Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas will permit his name to be proposed as an opposition candidate to President Truman in the latter's bid for the nomination.

In response to questions, McGrath said that while he does not think the "stop-Truman" drive has been stopped, he thinks it has been dejected.

"It is off Eisenhower Boulevard and on some side road," McGrath said. "I don't know just where it is at the moment."

The national chairman said he doesn't think that "anybody in the Democratic convention will be so disrespectful as to present General Eisenhower's name after what Eisenhower said." The general has said he could not accept nomination for high political office.

The national chairman said he now sees little reason for the holding of an anti-Truman caucus called here for tomorrow night by James Roosevelt, California state chairman, who is seeking another nominee than Mr. Truman.

Much Advice On Platform Needs

Price Controls, Foreign Policy Revision Recommended

Philadelphia, July 9 (AP)—Leon Henderson, wartime OPA administrator, urged the Democratic Platform Committee today to pledge immediate action to restore price, allocation, inventory and credit controls.

"This must be done, he said, 'to prevent any further rise in prices.' 'Inflation,' said Henderson, 'is a time bomb placed at the foundations of our prosperity. Everyone knows that the bomb bears the stamp 'made by the GOP.' Unless this bomb is removed it will blow us into the worst depression in our history."

Henderson presented his statement on behalf of the Americans for Democratic Action.

He appeared after the committee had heard demands for other witnesses for abandonment of the "Truman Doctrine" in Greece, for endorsement of arm shipments to the new state of Israel, and for the creation of a federal union of democratic peoples of the world.

The former price control administrator endorsed President Truman's civil rights program, declaring that Americans for Democratic Action favor "the abolition of the poll tax by federal law, the punishment of lynching, the establishment of a Fair Employment Practices Act, and the abolition of segregation in the government."

On foreign policy, he said that "the platform should claim support of the European Recovery Program for at least four years, and appropriations sufficient to carry it out in full."

Another witness, Clarence K. Strett, author and editor, urged support for the worldwide federal union.

He contended the "United Nations is too weak to do the job expected of it."

Claim Furniture Scarce For Low Income Buyers

Chicago, July 9 (AP)—Two retail store officials agreed today that their buyers have been unable to find enough furniture designed for lower income groups at the international home furnishings market.

James I. McMahan, Santa Monica, Calif., president of 53 McMahan furniture stores, told a news conference that furniture for the $1,800 to $2,200 income group is "the crying need" of retailers today.

Bruce Kopsker, home-furnishings merchandising manager for Sears Roebuck & Co., said many consumers whose higher wartime incomes led them to pay more for furniture now are back to buying in the lower-price field.

He said such buyers have learned to like better styling and now want a good quality of design style and fabrics in the lower-price merchandise.

Railroad Dispute Brought To End; Future Demands

New Round Of Pay Boost Demands Anticipated Sometime In September

Washington, July 9 (AP)—The year-old wage dispute that nearly tied up the nation's railroad system is settled.

The three strike-threatening unions came to terms with the carriers at the White House last night.

But a new round of pay boost demands on behalf of all of the 1,250,000 railroad workers is just around the corner. Management officials look for that struggle to begin in earnest in September.

However, the long procedure called for by the Railway Labor Act will delay any possible new strike crisis for several months after that.

In the meantime, the railroad will be back under private operation. The government seized them last May and then got a court order forbidding the walkout that had been ordered by the three unions—the locomotive engineers, the locomotive firemen and engine men and the switchmen.

In announcing the settlement, the White House said the lines will be freed of army control as soon as the necessary papers can be drawn without waiting for the formal wage agreement to be written out by the roads and the unions.

The government also is expected to ask for the anti-strike injunction to be dissolved.

The new wage case had its beginning several months ago. The 18 non-operating unions asked for a cut-back in the work week from 40 to 40 hours without loss of pay, and for an additional 25-cent hourly wage boost.

The two operating unions not involved in the most recent strike threat—the trainmen and conductors—asked for a flat 25 per cent boost.

These 18 unions all received a 15 1/2-cent hourly increase last fall. But the three strike-threatening brotherhoods refused to settle for that without some changes in the operating rules. That is what they got in the peace plan proposed on Wednesday by Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman and accepted by both sides last night.

Beer Good 'Bait' To Catch Fish Advises Jailer

Goldsboro, N. C., July 9 (AP)—If the fish won't bite, you might bait 'em with beer. That's the advice of Jailer L. R. Cobb.

Cobb and other officers came upon a still on the banks of an old canal. Water in the canal was so low that there was no flow. Officers poured a barrel of beer mash in and started a flow.

Pretty soon Cobb fished out an eel. In another five minutes he caught a big Lamprey eel. But both, he says, appeared drunk and died within five minutes. Ordinarily an eel would remain alive an hour or more after being taken from water, the jailer said.

Report Increase Airline Traffic

Winston-Salem, July 9 (AP)—Increases in traffic for Piedmont Airlines as indicated by May operating figures have been announced.

President T. H. Davis said yesterday that during May Piedmont carried 2,800 revenue passengers for a total of 723,000 passenger miles. The May figure brought total passenger miles flown since inauguration of service on February 20 of this year to 1,331,754 miles. Express during May totaled 15,338 pounds and freight reached 5,525 pounds.

Palestine's Importance

Battle For Holy Land Has Become Much Broader Issue Than Establishment Of National Home For Jews; Strategic Position; Two Alternatives To Big Problem

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

The refusal of the Arabs to join the Jews in renewing the truce in the Palestine warfare indicates that they believe they can win the conflict.

Whether they are correct in that assumption remains to be seen. However, they are venturing out on a mighty shaky limb which might easily break under them.

The point is that the battle for the Holy Land has become a much broader issue than merely the establishment of a national home for the Jews or the maintenance of the Arab status quo. The fate of Palestine is of vast moment to the whole world. This is true not only in the sense that it is sacred to three great religions—Christianity, Judaism and Mohammedanism—but in the political, economic and military sense.

The Holy Land is the strategic heart of the land-bridge connecting three continents—Asia, Europe and Africa. It stands like a sentinel at the eastern end of the Mediterranean; it is vital to the defense of the Suez Canal; and a few miles to the eastward are the great underground seas of petroleum which play an increasingly important part in oiling the wheels of the world.

Time was when Britain, among the great powers, was mainly concerned with Palestine, apart from religious sentiment. But even before the British abandoned their mandate recently, the Holy Land had become a subject of world concern, and especially to America.

It is a fact of great significance that Britain reportedly has been warning the Arabs that they might bring down upon their heads the condemnation of the United Nations. It is understood the British have pointed out that they have obligations to the U.N., and that the Arabs would find themselves in an uncomfortable position if the peace organization should convict them of aggression.

However, the resumption of fighting in Palestine hasn't been unexpected. Many observers incline to the belief that the war may have reached the point where only two alternatives remain for solution of the problem: Either the United Nations must enforce peace, using troops if necessary, or the Arabs and the Jews must be allowed to fight to a finish. Number Take Part In 'Amateur Night' At College Tuesday Nite

Amateur Night, staged Tuesday evening by the class in community recreation at East Carolina Teachers College, drew an audience of approximately 600 and brought to the stage of the Austin auditorium a number of students and off-campus contestants. The event was sponsored by the department of health and physical education under the direction of Dr. N. M. Jorgensen.

Winners of the first prize in a series of numbers featuring singing, dancing, acrobatics, and instrumental music were Betty A. Croon, Rocky Mount, and Frederick C. Ourt, Wilmington, college students who sang popular songs. Others awarded prizes were Joyce Winfield, Washington, N. C., pianist; Hope Hart, Norfolk, Va., ballet dancer; and Richard Ricks, Conway, pianist, and

T. L. Carter, Jr., Gatesville, harmonica player.

Charles P. Butler, sophomore from Roanoke Rapids, acted as master of ceremonies, introduced contestants, and announced winners to the audience. Judges were Dean Leo W. Jenkins, Mrs. Bernice Wragg, and Norman H. Cameron of the faculty.

Rusty Iron Rod Driven In Throat

Memphis, Tenn., July 8—(AP)—A 12-foot rusty iron rod was driven through the throat of Austin James Freeman in a freak automobile accident yesterday.

With the rod still through his throat, he was rushed to a Memphis hospital from Oklon, Tenn., 100 miles away, in a 90-minute dash. He was reported in a serious condition today.

ACE Services Theme Discussed

The Association for Childhood Education and its services to teachers in the elementary grades was the theme discussed at a luncheon held on Wednesday at East Carolina Teachers College. Approximately 200 teachers and principals now attending summer school at the college were present in the north dining hall on the campus for the event.

Dora E. Coats of the college faculty, advisor of the East Carolina student branch of the ACE, presided during the program. She outlined the purpose and the work of the ACE and presented a number of special guests, including Ellen Joyce Clark of Everette, president of the East Carolina branch of the organization; faculty members of the college; representatives of ACE chapters in several towns of this section; and a group of seventy teachers now taking a course in directed observation at the college.

Dr. John D. Messick, college president, who was the principal speaker on the program, talked on the training of children today to make worthwhile citizens for tomorrow. Dr. Messick stressed the errors and difficulties arising from the fact that often in school programs an endeavor is made to shape all children by one mold. Too little attention is given, he said, to the individual needs of each child.

Other speakers included Dean Leo W. Jenkins, Katherine Murray of the Greensboro city schools, and Mrs. Juanita Melchior of Syracuse, N. Y., visiting teachers at East Carolina this summer; Edna Tatum of the Charlotte City schools; and Lissie Pearce, supervisor in the Martin County schools and assistant in the resource-use workshop now being held at the college here.

Mrs. Katherine Baker of Rocky Mount talked briefly on the work of the ACE chapter there and placed on exhibit a scrap book picturing activities of school children. Publications of the ACE were also on exhibit in the dining hall.

Seed from a 500-pound bale of cotton will yield 140 pounds of vegetable oil, 400 pounds of cattle feed, 240 pounds of hulls and 81 pounds of linters.

Musical Salute By School Band

Elizabeth City, July 9—(AP)—The Elizabeth City high school band has been selected to give the musical salute to the president of Lions International, Fred W. Smith of Ventura, Calif., in Madison Square Garden in New York on the night of July 27, International Councilor Norman Trueblood has announced.

The local band, which will be the official representative of North Carolina Lions during the convention, will be the only musical organization appearing before the Lions International president.

Charter Presented Nashville BPW Club

The Nashville Business and Professional Women's Club last night received its charter and became the sixth club in the Seventh district of the N. C. Federation. The club was sponsored by the Rocky Mount BPW club and several of those members participated in the Charter Night program. The charter was presented by Mrs. Chester Walsh, director of the Seventh district. Mrs. Ruth Meeks, district secretary, attended the program. Congressman Harold D. Cooley delivered a stirring address, challenging women to take their place in the political world by exercising their right to vote, to serve on juries and to have a voice in the events of the world. He spoke of his visit abroad to Hiroshima and of the devastation of the war and urged that all people work for peace. Members of the civic clubs, husbands, and representatives of the city and county were guests of the club. The supper meeting was held at the Carolina hotel.

Interned Super-Fort

Wichita, Kas., July 9—(AP)—This is a Rip Van Winkle story from World War I—how a B-29 and its American crew were interned by the Russians in 1944 and how the story was "hush-hush" until now.

The Superfort, which made a forced landing on Soviet soil Nov. 1, 1944, still is in the hands of the Russians. And the whole thing might be one of those forgotten incidents of the war except for one fact.

The big bomber happened to be the famous "General H. H. Arnold Special," significant both for its combat record against the Japanese and as a symbol of stepped up wartime production at home.

The Superfort held a special spot among the 1,644 B-29s produced by the Wichita division of Boeing Airplane Company. Because of that Boeing has wanted to tell the story ever since it heard about it.

They heard about it Nov. 23, 1944 just 12 days after "The Arnold" had been interned.

But the next day all was "hush-hush." The 20th airforce asked that the incident be kept secret only now has this long-withheld information been released with the permission of the Department of the Air Force.

When the Superfortress, veteran of 11 missions and the first of the giant planes to bomb a Japanese target, came down on Russian soil its crew, headed by Capt. Weston H. Price of Longview, Wash., was interned also.

On Feb. 2, 1945 (the war still was on), the crew reached Allied lines in Iran and from there returned to the United States.

General Arnold, the wartime Army Airforce commander, tagged "The Arnold" while making a bomber plant tour in January, 1944. The workers were trying to complete their 175 quota out of 200 Superforts needed to activate the 90th Bomber Command for the start of B-29 bombing of Japan.

When Arnold came along the production line he stopped in front of the nose of the 175th bomber in the assembly procession.

"This is the plane I want—right here!" he said and wrote "H. H. Arnold" on the inside wall of the cabin. She was delivered on the very day set for completion of the AAF's emergency production schedule for 175 bombers.

"The Arnold" was first over Japanese-occupied Bangkok, Siam, June 5, 1944, in an exploratory raid and the lead B-29 in an assault against Yawata on Japan's home islands 10 days later.

She outfought Japanese fighters on numerous occasions; she survived severe flak explosions on both wings, an engine fire, violent tropical storms, and then she came to rest on Russian soil.

She still is there—interned by the Russians.

Angry Baboon On Loose. Bit Bos'n On Ocean Voyage

Plymouth, Eng., July 9—(AP)—The Dutch liner Amsterker docked here today with a tale of a rampaging baboon who bit the bos'n and cleared the decks during a voyage from West Africa.

Consigned to a zoo in Holland, the 150-pound baboon broke out of his cage while the 80 passengers were finishing tea.

They said it was fun to watch him scamper through the rigging. But when he landed on deck, snarling and baring his teeth, the passengers vanished.

After 90 minutes of confusion a steward captured him by throwing a sack over his head.

All matter is composed of 92 kinds of material which are called "elements" by chemists and physicists.

Barking Dog

Stockholm, Minn., July 9—(AP)—A stray barking dog aroused the ire of Arnold Maki, 21, employed here on the Orville Titrud farm. He grabbed a shotgun and went out into the night.

He tripped, the gun discharged and hit a dynamite pit, setting off 100 pounds of the explosive. The ensuing blast ripped off Maki's clothes, broke windows in all the farm buildings, moved a machine shed off its foundation and stripped trees of their leaves.

Maki, cut, bruised and badly shaken, was taken to a hospital. The dog, apparently unharmed, hasn't been heard from since.

Around 730,000 Acres Of Cotton In Cultivation

Raleigh, N.C., July 9—(AP)—Approximately 730,000 acres of cotton were under cultivation on North Carolina farms on July 1, the State Federal Crop Reporting Service announced yesterday.

This is an increase of nearly 12 per cent over the 654,000 acres under cultivation July 1 last year, but nine per cent less than the 1937-46 average of 802,000 acres.

It was the crop reporting service's first cotton acreage report for the year.

Actress Suicide Case Is 'Closed'

Los Angeles, July 9—(AP)—The Carole Landis suicide case is closed, as far as the coroner's office is concerned.

After Actor Rex Harrison's statement at an informal inquiry yesterday that he did not know why the screen star took her life, Coroner Ben Brown said: "I have gone to the limits of my authority."

In a deposition, Harrison also denied any knowledge of a second note left by Miss Landis. But Mrs. Florence Wasson of West Los Angeles, the actress' former stand-in and life-long friend, admitted that she had seen the note.

"It said to take care of Miss Landis' cat, Miss C," Mrs. Wasson said, adding it did not mention a suicide motive. She said someone handed her the note and she handed it back. She didn't know who took it.

Meanwhile, funeral services were being arranged for the blond, 29-year-old actress. The rites will be held tomorrow in the Church of the Recessional, Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Glendale.

Eleven Injured In Theater As Wall Falls On Roof

St. Louis, July 9—(AP)—Eleven persons were injured yesterday when a brick wall tumbled through the roof of a small theater in downtown St. Louis.

Only two of the 11 were hurt seriously.

The wall was on a three-story building adjoining the Senate Theater. Approximately 150 persons were watching the motion picture, "Boothill Bandit." An explosion in the movie occurred at the same time the wall crashed onto the roof.

"People shouted 'let's get out of here,'" said Art Moser, a patron. "They started moving out in a hurry. Then there was a second noise. That's when it came down—a shower of plaster, big chunks. Some persons were pinned in their seats."

Wilmington, N. C., July 9—(AP)—Investigation of the death of a star Gastonia high school athlete was closed today following a coroner's report that he died accidentally.

Bruce Valentine, Carolina Beach Chief of Police, released a report in the death of 19-year-old Bill Uren, Jr., last spring which quoted the State Bureau of Investigation as saying Uren was not the victim of foul play.

Uren, star baseball and football performer, died following a fall from a beach hotel balcony May 24.

Currituck, July 9—(AP)—Nine members of Boy Scout Troop 172 of Currituck county, including the scoutmaster, will receive the Eagle award, highest award in scouting, at exercises here Sunday afternoon.

The troop was organized four years ago under the leadership of William J. Tucker who along with the boys has advanced up the scout ladder. Superior Court Judge Chester Morris has been foster father of the troop.

According to Boy Scout records nowhere in the east has one troop ever had the privilege of awarding nine Eagle scout awards at one time.

There are an estimated 16 million thunder storms on earth every year.

Strength FOR THE DAY

HEROIC LIVING DAY BY DAY

A generation which has passed through two world wars can appreciate the dread which Europe felt almost 150 years ago over the rise of Napoleon. Although the Duke of Wellington gave Napoleon the final thrust, it was Lord Nelson, Admiral of the British fleet, who, by destroying Napoleon's sea power, crippled him so effectively that world domination was out of the question for him. At the battle of the Nile, in the sea victory near Copenhagen, and finally at the world-shaking conflict off Cape Trafalgar, Spain, in Oct., 1805, Nelson made himself one of the heroes of the ages and sealed the fate of the little Corsican. Nelson's flag ship at Trafalgar was called "The Victory." He began the day by sending out the immortal signal, "England expects every man to do his duty." A shot from the mizenmast of a French ship mortally wounded Nelson in the closing hours of battle. His last words were: "Thank God, I have done my duty in the moment of one's greatest triumph is indeed a sad circumstance, but to be able to die saying, 'Thank God, I have done my duty,' is a sufficient recompense for any loss of life or limb."
There are few Nelsons on the scroll of history, but the heroism of Nelson can be manifested in the home or anywhere else provided one chooses to live heroically.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET
SPEAKERSHIP—Mixed in with a lot of gossip about prospective doings at the Democratic convention in Philadelphia next week; some talk about national committee members and chairman of the committee; some talk about the next few days about speakership of the next house of representatives. Kerr Craig Ramsay, who will be serving his fifth term as representative from Rowan county, has been in the forefront of the speakership race since before the last general assembly adjourned. In most quarters his election has been accepted as fairly certain.
UPSET—There has been subtle change in the situation since the run-off primary of June 26. Kerr Scott's nomination as governor was not unexpected, but a majority of more than 32,000 did surprise a lot of people. The Scott folks are exuberant. They feel they have precipitated a distant upset, and many of them are ready to carry on in other fields just to show their strength. For the past two weeks there has been suggestion that some other candidate for speaker might be promoted. Only within the past few days has a name been mentioned. Now there is talk about Eugene Bost of Cabarrus.

REASONS—Bost "belongs" in general terms to the same group as Ramsay. They live in adjoining counties; both are lawyers and both are regarded as loosely aligned with big corporate interests. Ramsay will be serving his fifth consecutive term in the house, and Bost will be serving his seventh. Both supported Johnson for governor, but neither was very active. Attitude of some Scott people, although so far as can be ascertained Scott himself has had nothing to say about the matter, is that either of the gentlemen will make a good speaker. Main reason for their advocacy of someone other than Ramsay is simply to prove they can upset pre-arranged plans. Some of them delight in doing just that. It is generally agreed among capitol square observers that Ramsay has a good head start and will probably be the speaker.
PRO-TEM—There is a new candidate for president pro tem of the Senate Senator O. B. Moss of Nash has tossed his headpiece into the ring. On basis of legislative experience and seniority he will outrank all other candidates for top places in either house, although his service record has not been continuous. He came first to the senate in 1923 and repeated in 1925. Rotation agreements precluded his running for the senate in 1927, but he came to the house that year and returned for the 1929, '31 and '32 sessions. Then he dropped out until he came back to the senate in 1947 and was re-nominated this year without opposition. That means he will be serving his fourth term in the senate, his eighth in the general assembly. Most active contenders for the pro tem presidency, until Moss got in the running, were Julian Ailsbrook of Halifax and J. C. Pittman of Lee. D. L.

(Libby) Ward of Craven is regarded as a "Barkis is willing" candidate.

DISTINCTIONS—Here again some nice distinctions can be made. The span of years gives Moss seniority, because he began in 1923. In total legislative terms (not counting special sessions) Moss and Ward tie with eight each. On basis of consecutive tenure in senate permitted under rotation agreement Pittman leads. Lee county gets a senator every other time and Pittman has been the man since 1927. Ailsbrook is the only candidate with a military record. He will be serving his third term in the senate, had one in the house, and resigned after nomination to the 1943 senate to enter the navy. Partisans of each of the candidates can cite points in favor of their men.

IMPORTANCE—For immediate purposes the speaker of the house is much more important than president pro tem of the senate. He appoints all committees and designates their chairman, including two members of the advisory budget commission. The lieutenant governor performs that duty in the senate, but under the state constitution if both the governor and lieutenant governor become incapacitated the senate president pro tem takes over the No. 1 office. Consequently both positions are tremendously important.

He doesn't like to talk about himself. He was born at Dubois, Pa., and attended early school there. He attended a prep school at Annapolis and was graduated from the Naval Academy there. He was assigned to duty as a naval aide at the White House while serving with the Chief of Naval Operations from 1938 until 1940.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
Port Washington, N. Y., July 9—Once upon a time early in the 19th century—this is a true story—there were two Irishmen.
One Irishman was named Pat—Pat McGrady. The other was Bill—Bill Keenan.

Bill owned a big wooden house on the north shore of Long Island. But Bill wasn't happy about it. The house was only 25 miles from New York City—and Bill had a big worry. He was afraid that if anybody ever started tossing atom bombs at Manhattan his big wooden house would soon look like the bottom layer of the Pompeii ruins.
Pat didn't own a house, but he wanted to. So through a newspaper ad the two Irishmen got together. Pat bought Bill's house, and Bill took Mrs. Keenan and their four children and moved out to Montana.
That was in October, 1946.

Recently Bill Keenan, still a happy fugitive from the atom, announced he said in "atom haven," a two-story place by the side of the road which he built as a restaurant for tourists. It also has living quarters.
Keenan, who was born in the New York area, said some pretty harsh things about city life and added: "There is no safety in a coast city—economic or otherwise."
So, just to get both sides of the picture, I came out here to see how the other Irishman—McGrady—was making out. He's doing fine.
"Bill is right about the wonders of Montana," said Pat. "I was raised out there myself. Didn't come east until 1926 myself. I like it. It's a good place to earn a living."
McGrady, an ex-Marine, and his wife, Grace, have three sons—Pat, Jr., 15, Mike, 14, and Seamus, 9. The rest of the household consists of "Big Stoop," a 90-pound pup, half Great Dane and half bloodhound, who eats hats and nylon stockings and "Supercat," an alley cat left behind by the Keenans.
"It's a nice place," McGrady said. "We have a flower garden and a berry patch. The kids like it because we're close to Long Island Sound. They go swimming every day in the summer."
Living in a potential atomic target area doesn't worry the family at all. Their motto is: "Atom Go Bragh!"

"The Long Island Railroad has enough trouble getting here," said McGrady, who commutes the 20 miles each day to his office in Manhattan. "I don't think an atom bombardier could ever find it."
Said young Seamus: "The worst thing out here is the arithmetic. Some of the school work was pretty hard this year—fractions and all sorts of things."
Mrs. McGrady said: "I don't have time to fret about atom bombs. I'm afraid the mental hazards for housewives are pretty much the same everywhere—cooking, cleaning, washing, sewing."
The two Irishmen write to each other regularly.
"I understand Keenan only had to pay $1.65 in taxes last year," McGrady said. "That ought to start a stampede to Montana. Taxes are more likely to drive people out of the cities than atom bombs."
Besides "Supercat," Keenan left behind in the house three oja boards.
"I'm looking to them to give me the tipoff on the first atomic assault," smiled McGrady. "Then I'll take my family west and move in with Bill."

Women IN THE CHURCH

More and more church women are becoming aware of the fact that it is not enough to be theoretically Christian, sitting on the sidelines and watching the world hardening into a pattern which pays no heed to the way of life which Christ left us as his heritage," says Mrs. Lillian Watford, legislative representative

Young School Bus Drivers Declared Safe, Efficient

Raleigh, July 9.—(AP)—A State Education Commission report said today that student school bus drivers are, in comparison with adult drivers, both efficient and safe.

The report was prepared by J. J. Tarleton of Rutherfordton, chairman of the Pupil Transportation committee. The report shows that over a five-year period an average of over 85 per cent of school bus drivers were high school boys and girls, but they were responsible for only slightly more than 75 per cent of school bus accidents.

"In the opinion poll conducted in connection with the education survey," the report said, "approximately one-half of the persons who answered this question stated that they thought adults were better bus drivers than high school boys and girls."

However, the report continued more than two-thirds of the school superintendents who replied to the questionnaire said that students are better drivers, so "many of the opinions of patrons must have been based on hearsay rather than on actual experience."

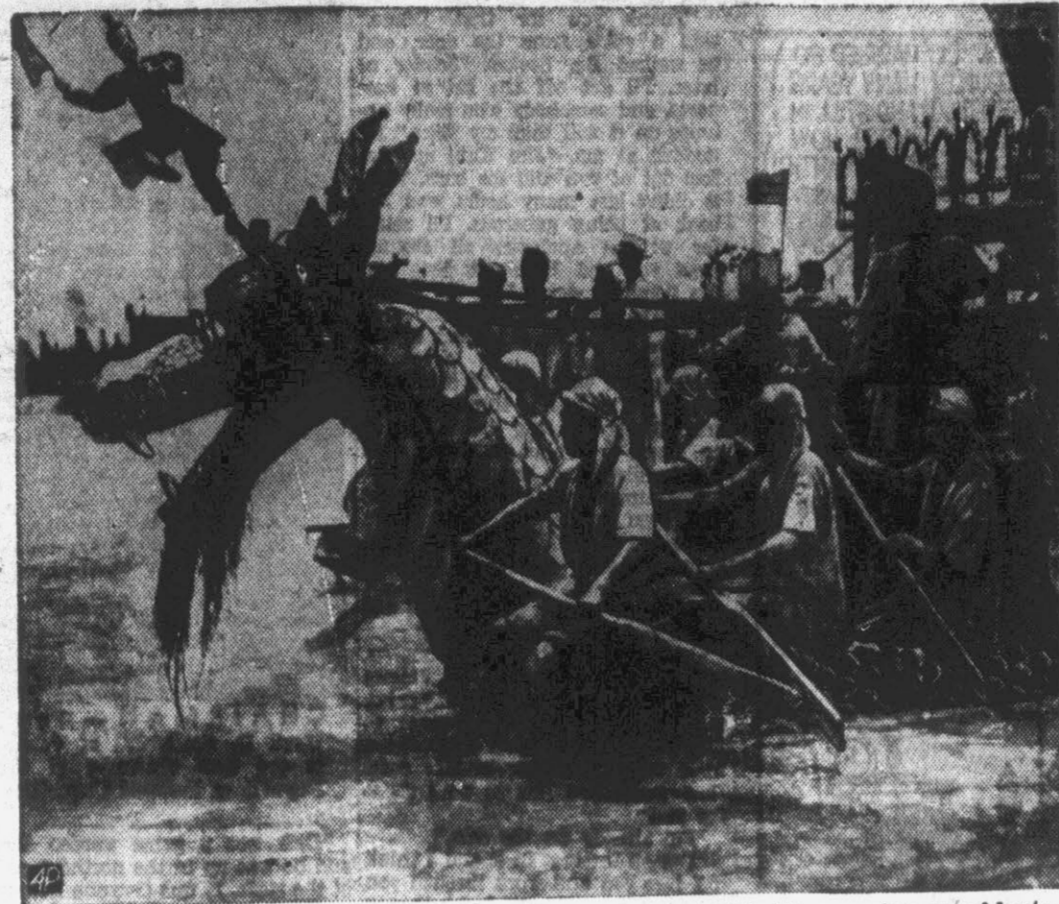

The report shows that the state transports daily to and from school approximately 347,000 pupils at a cost of $14 per pupil. This is the lowest per pupil cost for all of the 48 states, the report said. One reason for this is that North Carolina pays its student drivers $20 a month with occasional local supplements.

About 1,550 of the state's 5,000 school buses are from eight to 10 years old. In view of the age, the committee found. It also found that buses are overcrowded and that approximately 10 per cent of the state's transported pupils must leave home at least an hour and a half before school begins.

Five Jap Prison Guards To Hang

Yokohama, July 8.—(AP)—Five Japanese today were sentenced to be hanged for the murder of 65 American airmen prisoners.

Forty-eight of the Americans burned to death in a cell block when the Tokyo military prison burned in an air raid in May, 1945. The other 17 were cut down with swords by the guards as they attempted to escape their burning cells.

Judge Puts End To Distribution Of Comic Books

Galesburg, Ill., July 9.—(AP)—In line with a recent nationwide movement to ban comic books featuring sex, violence and crime, Judge Gais A. Mathers has halted distribution by dealers of some 46 comic books, nudist magazines and other reading material to news stands.

The Knox county judge said no law was invoked but he had obtained an agreement of compliance from publishers and Galesburg distributors of publications.

Recently 14 comic book publishers with a combined monthly circulation of 14,000,000 established a cleanup code of their own.

Judge Mathers said that in trial of juvenile cases parents had complained of the type of reading matter in comic books. He said in one case a child in court on a purse-snatching charge attributed the idea to something he had read in a comic book.

Seventeen Cows Die Escaping Fly Plague

International Falls, Minn., July 9.—(AP)—Martin Timmer's 28 cows were so plagued by flies during the current heat wave they sought relief by all crowding into a small chicken house.

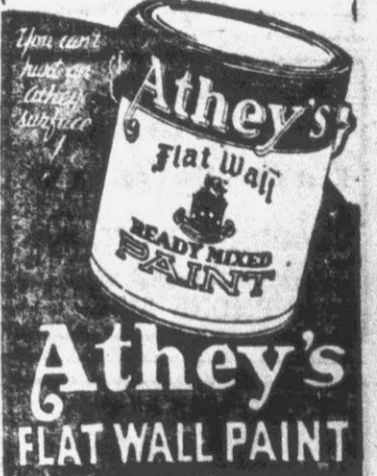

Before Timmer could drive them out, 17 of the animals suffocated in the crowded quarters. He estimated his loss at $2,000.

RAILROAD MAN NEVER MISSES A CHANCE TO RECOMMEND RETONGA

Distress From Nervous Indigestion, Poor Appetite, Irritability, Restlessness, Promptly Relieved. Gives Retonga All The Credit.

"Rarely a day passes that I don't tell someone what Retonga has done for me," states Mr. Alton F. Brown, respected resident of 412 W. Vine Ave., Knoxville, Tenn. A railroad man for 30 years, Mr. Brown is a member of the Railroad Brotherhood. He gratefully continues:

"Lots of days I would go without eating a bite, my appetite was so poor and I suffered so much from nervous indigestion when I did eat. I was losing weight and strength day by day, and went down about 25 pounds all told. I became so cross and irritable I could hardly get along with myself. It was all I could do to get a few hours sleep a night, and my bowels were so irregular that I had to use harsh laxatives most of the time. It was an effort just to keep going."

"Nothing ever brought me the kind of relief that Retonga did. By the time I had finished my first bottle my appetite had returned and now I'm within two pounds of my normal weight. Everything I eat seems to agree with me and I no longer worry about gassy stomach or nervous indigestion. I sleep good every night, get up feeling refreshed, my disposition is happy and I feel better than in years. Retonga is a medicine of true merit." Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, loss of appetite, borderline Vitamin B-1 deficiency, and constipation. If the first bottle fails to give you gratifying relief, your money will be refunded. You can get Retonga at Bissette's Drug Store.—Adv.

Praises Office For Local Work

The Greenville Office of the Employment Security Commission has been commended by the Placement Specialist, Mr. Elton C. Parker, of Raleigh, for the calibre of the office personnel. According to figures given to Mrs. J. B. Spillman, local office manager, the Greenville office ranks first in the entire area for services rendered the entry applicants chiefly composed of 1948 high school and college graduates, generally classified as counseling service, and first per staff member in placement of all applicants applying for work.

According to reports received from the state office in Raleigh, comparing the volume of work done per staff member, Greenville ranks above the Number 1 offices in the state.

During the month of June the Greenville office placed a total of 215 agricultural workers on jobs, and 136 nonagricultural workers. Major occupation groups served were crop specialists, such as vegetable harvesters, services to private households, clerical and sales groups as well as skilled carpenters, bricklayers, plumbers, etc. Of course, general unskilled labor for all local industries has been supplied as needed. Greenville has a surplus of unskilled labor, the larger part of which will be utilized with the beginning of the tobacco season.

Recently studies have been made by Mrs. J. B. Spillman, local office manager, in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce, the Tobacco Board of Trade and the Merchants' Association, in order to bring interest in expanding the industries in Greenville and Eastern Carolina. Other office personnel has been working with the educators and resource-use group on this same problem. The surplus of semi-skilled labor supply such as textile workers and sewing machine operators should be used in this locality. The counseling program conducted by the Employment Service in the schools has emphasized finding aptitudes for the youth with hopes of encouraging them to make the most of their abilities. This would bring more skilled workers and fewer unskilled workers in our area.

Offer To Sell Home Of Author Thomas Wolfe

Asheville, N. C., July 8.—(AP)—The following classified advertisement, inserted by a real estate firm, appeared in the Asheville Citizen: "We are offering for the first time the Julia E. Wolfe home, No. 48 Spruce Street, for sale. This is also the home of Thomas Wolfe, one of Asheville's sons and the famous writer. The heirs would prefer this property being sold as a shrine to the memory of Thomas Wolfe but will consider a sale for other purposes."

The 22-room boarding house operated by Wolfe's mother as "the old Kentucky home," was made famous by the writer as "Dixieland" in his first novel, "Look Homeward, Angel."

Your Dimes Help To Combat Polio

Chapel Hill, N.C., July 8.—(AP)—North Carolina Chapters of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis are spending March of Dimes funds at the rate of $106,840 a month in combatting the current polio outbreak.

Philip S. Randolph, state coordinator for the national foundation, said the expenditure was based on a current load of 294 polio patients at an average daily cost of $12 per patient.

"At the present rate of incidence," he said, "it seems likely we will be carrying this case load for two to three months at least. So far admissions have kept well ahead of discharges."

Randolph said that 92 persons are hospitalized in Greensboro with 30 at Asheville, 30 at Morganton, 35 at Gastonia, five at Charlotte, 23 at Winston-Salem, 35 at Raleigh, 12 at Durham and 32 at Wilmington.

"During the disastrous epidemic of 1944," he said, "the drain on local funds was so great that we had to call on national headquarters for $474,574.17. Epidemics are unpredictable but it is quite possible that we will pass the 1944 figure of $61 cases."

Since the foundation was established in 1938, Randolph said, North Carolina chapters have drawn $914,287.92 from national headquarters for fighting polio in this state.

Aged Minister Accepts Challenge Debate On Devil

Annapolis, Md., July 9.—(AP)—The devil had at least one advocate today, as an elderly minister accepted a challenge to debate Satan's existence over the air waves.

are even more attractive than in the past!

ALWAYS THE VALUE-LEADER . . . Always the first choice of people who want the finest at lowest cost . . . Chevrolet's value-leadership is now so outstanding that men and women everywhere are deciding it's more than ever the preferred investment in its field.

FIRST in Value . . .

FIRST in Big-Car Quality at Lowest Prices . . .

FIRST in Registrations

Not only does Chevrolet stand out as the first and only low-priced car with all the following major advances which comprise the soundest and best in modern motoring . . . not only does it offer all these major advantages of Big-Car quality at lowest prices . . . but it offers them at prices that are now definitely and decisively lower than those of any other car that even remotely approaches it in quality!

It's the first and only low-priced car with the original and outstanding Unitized Knee-Action Ride. It's the first and only low-priced car with a world's champion Valve-in-Head Engine. It's the first and only low-priced car with the enviable Body by Fisher. It's the first and only low-priced car with the triple safety-protection of Fisher Unitist Body-Construction, the Unitized Knee-Action Ride and Positive-Action Hydraulic Brakes.

And yet, despite the fact that CHEVROLET AND ONLY CHEVROLET IS FIRST to offer all these major advancements of low-cost motoring, it holds an even greater price-advantage and gives you even more value for your dollars in comparison with other automobiles today than at any previous time in Chevrolet history!

That is why more people are buying Chevrolets than any other make of car, this year as for the total 17-year period, 1931 to date; that is why they are agreeing, with ever-mounting enthusiasm, that Chevrolet is first in dollar-value as it is first in nation-wide demand.

Find My Killer

By MANLY WELLMAN

Chapter 25
"Jackson" and J. D. put her hand on mine. "There's someone outside there, trying to attract your attention."

Both Raniel and I looked around. While both of us were looking, J. D. pushed a key into my hand, the key to her car. I knew what she wanted.

"Oh, him," I said. "Excuse me a minute, you two, I'll see what he wants and come back." And I got up quickly and left.

Outside, I got into J. D.'s car and started it. Away I boiled, within two ticks of J. D. Thatcher's speed, for Ealing's. I had to get there and do my talking quick, before Raniel got out from under the ether, because he or Winkle or both would be out to do theirs.

Nobody answered the door of that big, ugly yellow house when I rang. I tried the door and it was locked. Just as I rang again, Diane Ealing opened. She was wearing a hat and a tailored suit.

"I want to see Mrs. Pettigrew," I said.

"She's not here," said Diane Ealing.

I looked at her sharply. "Didn't she come back from wherever you sent her this morning?"

"I sent her out again."

"Tell me, did your husband have any more derringers besides the one that was found in his hand and the one he'd given you?"

"I can't be sure."

Somebody had come through the hall to the parlor door and called by name. I turned. It was Pettigrew.

"I been hoping you'd come around," he said.

"Hoping? Why?"

"Something the police should see and find out about," said Pettigrew.

"All right," I said, "lead me to it."

I followed him into the front yard and around to the side of the house. There was a side door, set flush with the ground, as if it might lead to steps going down into the basement.

Pettigrew led the way to it, then stopped and tapped the woodwork with the forefinger of his unbandaged hand.

"Bullet hole," he said.

"Yes?" I came and looked, too. The jamb showed a round mark at shoulder height, the size and shape of the one I'd seen three hours before, right in the middle of Bessinger's forehead. It didn't go in very far, no more than half an inch. I put my face close and peered.

"This isn't a new hole," I said. "There's been weather on it — a couple of weeks, maybe."

"About a month," said Pettigrew, as if he knew enough to correct me.

Chapter 26
We drove downtown and to the station, escorted by a police officer at his laboratory. There sat Holmgren at his table, studying a loose-leaf notebook.

"Maybe some of these gun houses in the big cities can tell us who bought a pair of derringers lately," he said to me. "How do you do, Mrs. Ealing, what can I do for you?"

"She's here to do something for us," I said. "What about the death gun in this Ealing case? Not the latest shooting, I mean the one found in Ealing's hand."

"With the prosecutor. Probably locked up safely in his office."

"Think hard, Holmgren. When you and I first got acquainted, it was over that very gun, and you mentioned a backslip from its firing."

"Thank you for that, Diane," said a voice from the door, and in walked Dr. Stokes. "Sooner or later, I'll get off the list of suspects, and somebody who really believes in me will take my place." He looked at me. "Jim Kuhl made a nodded out of me and me both. Well, it didn't last many hours, and I'm back at being generous. I'll settle for written apologies all around, from you and Holmgren here and the homicide detail."

"You're going to sue Jim," said Diane Ealing. She didn't ask it, she said it.

"I think I will, yes," he said grinning. "After he's through being tried for obstructing justice and so on. Don't glower at me, Diane. You can hardly blame me, can you?"

She turned away from him and Holmgren spoke up mildly from where he sat. "What do you want here, Doctor, besides a written apology?"

"To hear what's being found out about my servant's murder."

"Nothing as yet," said Holmgren, and Dr. Stokes sneered. His glasses came around to confront me, "Yates, I haven't any particular cause to like you, but you and J. D. have been busy, at least, in this case. How would you like to work on it for me?"

"I'm already on the case."

"I've an interest in it and I think if I hire you and work through you I can square things for both my friend and my servant."

"Make the deal with J. D. Thatcher," I told him. "Ring her up now."

And Holmgren shoved the desk phone toward him.

Dr. Stokes sat on the edge of the desk, picked up the phone and called our office number. He chatted gaily with J. D. Then hung up.

"Yates," the doctor said to me, "you've just begun working for me. I've hired J. D. and you by phone. You'll report to her, and she'll report to me, in person — tonight at dinner."

He took off his spectacles, polished them delicately, put them on again and sauntered out.

"Where's your wife?" I asked him.

"I'm not saying."

"What!" I yelled. "What do you mean, you're not saying?"

"Police were here too, asking all about her. She was out at the time, and after they left, she happened to call on the phone. I told her to lay low."

"I have to see her," I told him. "If you don't dig her up for me, you may land in jail yourself. Have you ever been in jail, Pettigrew?"

"Never yet in all my life," he said. "And I doubt if it's more than I could stand going there. Anyway a husband can't be arrested for refusing to give evidence against his wife."

I went into the hall and called Raniel.

"What do you know, Yates?" he asked.

"I'm checking on Al Bessinger's last hour on earth."

"Who isn't?" he sneered. "All we can find out is where he wasn't. Nobody seems to have seen him after he left his place at seven-thirty this morning."

"I'll see what I can learn about that, Raniel."

"Here's something you might be able to kick around," he said. "As soon as the newspapers got the dope like that, they had something to say about it. Last night he seems to have come down on a visit to them."

"To which newspaper?"

"Every daily in town. Three. He was looking through their back files for something years ago — the articles on the death of Ealing's uncle, Gwynne Ealing, who left him all the dough four years back."

Chapter 27
I hung up, very slowly, because I didn't want her to see how my hand was shaking. "Diane, tell me all about your husband's Uncle Gwynne."

"But I hardly knew Gwynne Ealing," she said. "He died before I married Dick."

"Was there anything strange about Gwynne Ealing's death?"

"Not that I can tell you," she said in her usual cagey way. "He was an elderly man, with a bad heart. I doubt if anybody felt very badly when he went, including Dick."

"Now about Mrs. Pettigrew," I said. "After I go, maybe she'll show up."

"And what must I do?"

"Convince her that if she's not guilty of murder, she's hurting herself by hiding or trying to run away. Get her to come downtown to my office and talk to me about it."

Downtown, I hunted up Dr. Stokes's office. I walked into an office with a walnut desk, comfortable chairs, and books right up to the ceiling. Dr. Stokes looked at me from behind the desk. "Well, Yates? I hope this is important."

"It's about Gwynne Ealing," I said.

Joe Haynes Gets On All-Stars But Having Bad Year

Chicago, July 9—(AP)—Bucky Harris wasn't looking at the won and lost record when he picked the Chicago White Sox's Joe Haynes for the All-Star pitching staff, but there he is—the lone Chicagoan on the 25-man American League squad.

The big right-hander has been having a tough season. Already he has lost more games—seven—than he has won. His 14-6 record is the best he has compiled in his nine years in the American League.

He hasn't been able to take his regular turn this season because of a sore arm and he has completed only four of his 14 starts this year. Of his five victories, two were being won on the field after he had retired.

But now Joe, 30 years old, is an All-Star even if it's just for a day. Every team must have at least one representative and Haynes was the choice of Harris, New York manager, to represent the cellar-dwelling Sox. He has been with the Sox since 1941 after two seasons with Washington.

Advised of his selection in Cleveland yesterday, Haynes said: "Well, I'll be. Say, that is quite an honor, isn't it? I didn't expect anything like that with the kind of a year I'm having."

The other seven pitchers nominated by Harris are Vic Raschi and Joe Page of the Yankees; Bob Feller and Bob Lemon of Cleveland; Hal Newhouse of Detroit; Walt Masterson of Washington and Joe Coleman of Philadelphia.

The New York Yankees, traditionally dominant in the major league All-Star series, will send half a dozen of their number against the National League's best as the junior circuit seeks its 11th victory in 15 All-Star engagements at Sportsman's Park in St. Louis next Tuesday.

Willie Mauney

Willie Mauney, who patrolled the left field garden last year for the Greensies and who on several instances did some fine relief catching, has been signed by the Greensies and will report to the club today, according to an announcement by John Adams, business manager of the club. Mauney, who has been playing the current season with the Concord Club of the N. C. State League, was hitting at a .353 clip, according to the latest batting averages.

Last season with the Greensies Mauney ended the season in fifth place among the league hitters with a .354 percentage. He played in a total of 125 games, went to bat 508 times, collected 180 hits for 263 total bases. He hit 32 doubles, 15 triples, 7 home runs. In addition he made three sacrifice hits, stole 28 bases, was walked 35 times, hit by pitcher four times, drove in 94 runs and in 508 trips to the plate struck out only 27 times.

Disastrous First Frame Of Opening Game Spelled Out First Loss; Leafs Come From Behind To Take Nightcap

The Greenville Greensies lost both ends of a double-header for the sixth time this season as the Rocky Mount Leafs took both ends in a twin bill in Rocky Mount last night, 13-8 and 9-8. The twin-killing for the Leafs was their second of the season over the Greensies.

First Game
Greenville spotted Rocky Mount nine runs in the first frame and that proved the margin of victory for the 13-8 win in the seventh-inning opener. The Leafs made nine singles to score Cohen and Phillips, Kovalchick walked, reloading the bases, Carter singled, bringing home Riggs and Wood.

Carl McQuillen's homer over the left field wall to bring in Wood and Carter added him, accounted for three more runs by the Greensies in the seventh frame.

Harry Helmer was credited with his 17th win of the season, although he had to have help from Kimmel in the last two frames. Billy Wood with three singles in four trips to the plate led the 13-hit attack off the two Leaf hurlers.

Johnny Tate started on the mound for the Greensies and was relieved in the first frame after allowing three hits, five walks and with all 9 runs being charged against him. The loss for Tate was his sixth of the season and his first to the Rocky Mount Leafs. Johnny Kovalchick pitched five and one-third frames and held the Leafs to four runs on nine scattered hits.

The line score:

Greenville . . . 100 040 3-8 13 1
Rocky Mount 901 102 x-13 13 2

Second Game
The Leafs spotted the Greensies four runs in the first frame and then came back in the second and third frames to score five and four runs respectively to take a 9-8 decision over the Greensies in the nightcap.

The Greensies scored four runs in the first when Wood walked, Carter tripled, Cohen singled, Nessing tripled and McQuillen flew out to deep right field.

The Leafs bunched six of their ten hits in the second and third frames to do all their scoring. They scored five runs in the second on three singles, a double, two walks and an error. In the third, two doubles and four walks accounted for four more runs.

The Greensies scored three runs in the third when Nessing walked, Nash singled, Sposas' long fly to deep second base position scored Nessing, Riggs tripled, bringing home Nash and Arroyo singled, bringing in Riggs.

The final run of the game came in the sixth frame when Carter and Cohen hit successive singles and McQuillen singled scoring Carter.

Page and Pittman did the hurting for the Leafs with Page getting credit for the win. Moe Carter with a triple and two singles and Bob Cohen with three singles led the 14-hit attack off the two Leaf hurlers.

Luis Arroyo started on the mound for the Greensies and after pitching three innings in which the Leafs scored all their runs was credited with the loss, his tenth of the season and his second to the Leafs. Johnny Tate came back in the second game to pitch the last five frames and held the Leafs to three hits and no runs. Pepper Martin with two doubles and a single and Lonnie Smith with three singles led the 10-hit attack off the two Greenville hurlers.

Decide Today On Hunting Season

Raleigh, July 9—(AP)—Dates for the 1948-49 hunting seasons were expected to be decided on today by the State Wildlife Resources Commission.

The commission began a three-day meeting yesterday. It has yet to set on its appointments to the Currituck County Game Commission.

Action taken so far includes approval of an operational budget calling for investigation into use of patrol planes with two-way radio for law enforcement work.

The commission plans to rent equipment to make spot tests as to the value of these tests. Executive Director Clyde P. Patton stated. If the tests prove feasible, fish and game law violators will have the air-lanes and the air-waves to worry about.

The commission approved employment of a game proctor for each of the state's 100 counties, subject to approval of the State Budget Bureau. At present eight counties lack resident proctors.

Funds were approved for an expanded education program, which will include employment of two senior and one junior publicity specialists and necessary clerical assistance.

The commission's magazine, "Wildlife in North Carolina," will be put on a monthly basis and other educational publications will be produced.

Beats His Own Record Catching Big Amberjack

Morehead City, July 9.—During the summer of 1947 Capt. Bill Ballou, owner of the charter boat Victory, made national news when he landed a 5 1-2 pound amberjack near the western edge of the Gulf Stream off Cape Lookout. It was the biggest fish of this species ever taken with rod and reel off Morehead City. Pictures of Ballou with his giant "jack" were published throughout the country and more than 5,000,000 persons saw it in the N. Y. Daily News predate edition when it appeared in a double column cut.

A few days ago Capt. Bill took time off to do some more fishing on his own hook. He got a strike and started fighting a surging something or other which did not surface until it was near the stern of the Victory. It was another amberjack and a big one. Gaffed and brought aboard the fish when weighed scaled at more than 60 pounds. He was said to have been using light tackle with 63-pound test line when he made his record catch.

By winning the National A & U decathlon championship and earning the right to head the U. S. Olympic team of thru all-around athletes in London, Bob Mathias, 17-year-old Tulare (Calif.) high school boy, followed in the footsteps of other California schoolboy athletes who popped into prominence during Olympic years and made the international teams.

In 1924, Lee Barnes came out of Hollywood High school to make the Olympic team and to go on and pole vault crown. He tied with Glenn Graham, a fellow Californian, and then won the title in a jump-off. Frank Wykoff was wearing the colors of Glendale High when he qualified as a sprinter on the 1928 team.

Mathias is a 195-pound standing two inches over the six-foot mark and still growing. He piled up 7224 points in winning the decathlon title under most trying conditions and following a cloudburst. Mathias first attracted national attention when he won the Southern Pacific A & U All-around title with a total of 7,094 points. Always relaxed, he has amazing poise for one of his limited experience. The big name among the foreign stars won't mean a thing to him once the gruelling ten-event gets underway in London.

Orphanages Plan For Shrine Bowl

Wilson, July 9—North Carolina sports fans right now probably are thinking more of finding ways to keep cool than of next Fall's football fare, but the announcement of one impending game, which has been scheduled for late October, should interest every devotee of the pigskin game, and possibly act as a soothing, cooling antidote for the hot weather.

That event is the Orphanage Shrine Bowl football game, which is to be played at Riddick Stadium in Raleigh the night of October 29, between teams representing the Methodist Orphanage at Raleigh and Oxford Orphanage of Oxford.

The Shrine Bowl game is being sponsored by Duke Temple, head of Shrinehood throughout Eastern North Carolina, embracing more than 5,000 members. The sponsors plan to make the game an annual event.

Coaches Fred Smith of Methodist, and Eli Ragan of Oxford, are well-known for their abilities to develop football teams which rank with the best high school talent in North Carolina. They report that their material for the coming season, judging from early practice sessions, promises to be about the best that has ever come to their attention, and an interesting, hard-fought game always can be expected when these two old but friendly rivals clash.

Dr. George Erick Bell of Wilson, Potentate of Sudan Temple, has announced, following several organizational meetings of committee chairman and members of the executive committee, that he is confident a capacity crowd of 20,000 or more fans will witness the game at the spacious athletic arena of N. C. State College.

Bobby Locke Out To Win Second Columbus Open

Columbus, O., July 9—(AP)—South African champion Bobby Locke goes after his second straight $10,000 Columbus open golf title today, with 83 other professionals and 18 amateurs attempting to foil him in the 72-hole event.

Several top-flight stars are missing from the test over the municipally-owned Wyandott Country club, but eight of the year's top 10 money-makers in money way in the money-making tourney at the first 25, were on hand at tea time.

Locke won last year's race at Columbus Country club with 274, but the boys say the South African's game isn't suited exactly to the public layout where the current contest is slated.

Should Locke be shunted aside in his quest of the $2,000 first prize, favorites to take the laurels include such luminaries as Skip Alexander, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Dick Metz, Ed Purcell, Chick Harbert, Lloyd Mangrum or one of the other regulars on the tournament tour.

Wrestlers Meet In Olympic Test

Bethlehem, Pa., July 9—(AP)—The first of three tryouts which will go a long way toward selecting the wrestlers to represent the United States at the Olympic games in London will be held at Lehigh University tomorrow.

Art Griffith of Oklahoma A. and M. head coach of the 16-man Olympic squad, said he would decide on the make-up of the team largely on the basis of matches between the original-tryout winners and alternates.

The first of these will be tomorrow, the second enroute to England and the third after the team arrives.

Basketball Game 'Of The Century'

Lexington, Ky., July 9—(AP)—A mid-summer basketball "battle of the century" was promised 14,000 fans here tonight when the Philadelphia Oilers and the Kentucky Wildcats tangle in the showdown game of their pre-Olympic series.

Since Kentucky bowed to Phillips in the Olympic trials tournament in New York, each team has won a game in the three-game series. Tonight's meeting is the final before the National College and AAU championship joint forces to represent this country in the Olympics.

NBA Head Says Ike Williams And Beau Jack Ready From 'Dry Rot'

Washington, July 9—(AP)—Boxing is fighting for its life, says Abe J. Greene, president of the National Boxing Association.

"There is grave danger of the sport dying of dry rot," he said yesterday. One of the reasons is television, which is both "a threat and a promise" to boxing. Another: the lack of title contenders in all weight classes.

"All of the present champions have been perennials," Greene noted in a statement which accompanied the NBA quarterly ratings. "The heavyweight dilemma created by Joe Louis' mastery and his announced retirement is only a symbol of what's happening in all divisions."

The ratings, compiled by a committee headed by Fred J. Saddy of Milwaukee, made no effort to solve the problem posed by Louis' retirement. He still is listed as champion—with no heavyweight named as a logical contender.

But Greene promised an NBA statement soon on the heavyweight situation which will be "both equitable and interest-creating."

Turning to television, the NBA head said:

"Of all the sports, boxing is the best from the viewpoint of video presentation. The action is brought right up to the screen, making it possible for the television spectator to see it from a working press seat."

"The challenge to those in the sport, therefore, is to make it so inviting that the genuine fan will not be lured away from the ringside, while at the same time fans will be attracted from the vast and growing television audience."

The NBA ratings listed only Joe Walcott and Lee Savard as outstanding heavyweights. No logical contender is named for Ray Robinson.

Boys League

Third Street's Tigers won another close game over the Greensies of the Training School that went into extra innings before the Tigers won 10 to 9. The Greensies led all the way until the seventh inning at which time the winners scored four runs. Lewis with a homer and three singles and Joseph with two doubles and a single were the leaders for the Tigers. Stump Garrett with three singles and Eugene Ayers and Speedy Siders with two singles each led for the Greensies.

The Giants of Third Street ended their long string of victories ended yesterday when the Orioles of Training School won over them by the score of 14 to 7. The Orioles snapped a twelve game streak of the Giants. Billy Brady and Hilton Quinn got three hits each to lead the Orioles. John Siders and Kent Lee with two hits each were best for the losers. Billy Woolford and Leon Moore combined to allow the Giants only seven hits.

West Greenville's Lions had a field day at the expense of the Third Street Dodgers who are leading the league, winning their first game of the second half by the score of 17 to 2. The Lions gathered seventeen hits while the Dodgers got only five. Jerry Phillips with a single, double and two triples and George Phillips with two singles and a homer were the leaders for the Lions. Gene Hudson, Pat Sawyer and Bob Howell hit hard for the winners. Jackie Cox was the only Dodger to get two hits.

Schedule for Monday.
Red Sox vs Dodgers, Third Street 9:30 a. m.
Orioles vs Giants, Third Street 9:30 a. m.
Greensies vs Tigers Third Street 2:30 p. m.

The Giants of Third Street continued their winning streak Wednesday with a 10 to 6 eleven inning victory over the Training School Orioles at the Training School. The Giants tied the score at 5-5 by scoring three runs in the fifth and neither team were able to score again until the ninth when both sides scored singles. The Orioles wasted several fine opportunities to win the game in the late innings but poor baserunning nullified their efforts. Both pitchers, Larry Flye of the Giants and Doug Morgan of the Orioles were very effective with men in the bases. Errors proved the downfall of the Orioles in the final inning when the Giants sewed the game up with four runs.

Wiley Gardner, Kent Lee, Sydney Briley, John Siders and Bobby Lee all got two hits for the winners, one of Briley's was good for the circuit. Billy Brady with a double and two singles led the losers at the plate. Billy Woolford, Morgan and Billy Woolford also got two hits for the Orioles. One of Woolford's hits was a triple that scored three runs.

The Third Street Dodgers remained undefeated in the second half of the Junior League after their 11 to 7 victory Wednesday over the Red Sox of the Training School. One big inning, in which the Dodgers scored seven runs proved the undoing of the Red Sox. George Siders and Joe E. Brown of the Dodgers each got three hits. Billy Best, Quinn and Dallas Evans got two hits each for the losers.

Draft And . . .

That's where the compulsive power in the draft bill hangs like a stick over the business man's head. For, if he refused to honor a priority order from the government, his plant could be seized and, as explained, he could be jailed or fined.

But this business of getting steel-makers to agree, voluntarily, on allocations is pretty much what has been happening for months.

Last December Congress passed a bill which did this: Gave the government power to ask the steelmakers to set aside—voluntarily—a certain amount of their steel for things badly needed in this country.

For example: freight cars. Because of the wear and tear on freight cars during the war, government experts figured that 10,000 new cars should be built every year for some time to come.

So the steel industry heads voluntarily agreed to allocate 3,000,000 tons of steel a year to build new cars and repair the old ones.

If something like this hadn't been done, the steel might have gone into a lot of other things less badly needed, like automobiles.

Rep. Ploeser, Missouri Republican and chairman of the House Small Business Committee, was the one who put into the draft bill the part which assures small business a share in steel for government work.

Slate Exercise Air Rescue Team

Hickory, N. C., July 8—(AP)—Aircraft of North and South Carolina will join in a large scale test Saturday and Sunday of the North Carolina Civil Air Patrol's newly organized air search and ground rescue group.

More than a dozen North Carolina planes and an undetermined number from South Carolina will operate from an "advance base" here.

31 New Cases . . .

The Asheville orthopedic home threw up a hospital tent, flown in from Atlanta, and moved in 30 beds from a veterans administration hospital at Oteen to care for emergency cases in Western North Carolina.

However, the outbreak remained concentrated in the central portion of the state.

Long Dry Spell Damaging Crops

Raleigh, July 9—(AP)—An extended dry spell has done some damage to crops in this section of the state, the weather bureau reported

Largest Crowds At Nat'l Park

Smokemont, July 9—(AP)—More folks visited the Great Smoky Mountains National Park last Sunday than on any day since counting began in 1936. The Sunday count was 28,798.

Park Superintendent Blair Ross said the total would be 37,000 except for the fact that 23 per cent is deducted as a duplicating count. Ross said the week-end total was 50,000 visitors. The previous biggest Smoky Park turnout was 32,464 on Aug. 31, 1941, a Labor Day weekend. However, the 23 per cent deduction system wasn't used then.

Franklin, July 8—(AP)—Macon county voters will decide August whether the sale of beer and wine

Palestine's . . .

(Continued from Page One) It is hard to believe that the second alternative should be entertained. It would be too terrible for contemplation. And apart from all other considerations it would be a firebrand which might set the whole world aflame again.

Therefore it isn't surprising to see the U. N. Security Council meeting in emergency session to consider means of halting the bloodshed. The United States has taken the lead in advocating strong action to enforce an extension of the truce—even application of diplomatic and economic sanctions against the aggressors.

Female mosquitoes live on blood, males on the nectar of flowers.
