Administration Lieutenants More Optimistic As Civil Rights Revolt Appears To Be Tapering Off; South May Be Scene Of Heavy Campaigning

Washington, Aug. 14—(AP)—The Southern civil rights revolt appeared today to be tapering off slightly as serious threat to President Truman's election chances.

Developments in Texas and Arkansas this week have made some administration lieutenants more optimistic than ever that Mr. Truman may grab every Dixie electoral vote, as Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath has predicted repeatedly.

Texas backers of the Dixiecrat ticket apparently face serious trouble in getting their candidates on the ballot, with Gov. Beauford Jester pictured as a possible obstacle to their control of the forthcoming State Democratic convention.

The States' Rights ticket—headed by Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and his running mate Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi—is sure of a place on the ballot in South Carolina, Alabama and Mississippi.

But Dixiecrats also want a crack at Texas' 23 electoral votes, the largest bloc in the South.

The apparent victory of Sidney McMath, 36-year-old Hot Springs prosecutor, in the Arkansas gubernatorial race is pointed to by President Truman's backers as another straw blown their way by the political winds.

While there has been no public commitment from McMath, administration lieutenants predict he will hold his state's party in line for the President.

Most politicians here think the 28 electoral votes of South Carolina, Alabama and Mississippi may be lost to Mr. Truman.

But the administration camp has been talking of possible court suits to force the election, to support the President—if he should carry the three states.

Their loss could be fatal in a close presidential race. Although the South's electoral vote hasn't tipped the result in many years because most recent presidents have been elected by margins rolled up elsewhere, this year promises to be different.

The South, which had become sort of a step child in national elections—contributing heavily to the Democratic war chest but getting little attention from any of the candidates—may be the scene of fairly heavy campaigning before the November elections.

Strategists have told Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the GOP presidential nominee, he has a chance to carry some Dixie states and he may therefore drop below the Mason and Dixie line for some speech-making. His running mate Gov. Earl Warren of California, is almost certain to do so.

Broke In Bank; Sent To Prison

Greensboro, N.C., Aug. 14—(AP)—Young Charles Morgan Lanier, who pleaded guilty to breaking into a bank in his home town of Thomasville, has been sentenced to three and one-half years imprisonment.

FBI agents testified yesterday that nothing was stolen, although Lanier admitted searching for money.

Judge Johnson J. Hayes imposed sentence in district court here. The youth will be sent to the Petersburg, Va., federal reformatory.

Amount Of Effort And Planning Put Into Spy Rings Stagers Imagination; Two Groups Found In Canada; How They Worked Independently; All Run In Moscow

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Aug. 14—(AP)—If you haven't thought much about undercover work, except maybe how a city detective finds out things, then—

You'd be dumfounded by the enormous effort and planning the Russians put into their Canadian spy ring.

The ring was exposed in 1945 and 19 Canadians were convicted of taking part in it to help Russia.

A royal Canadian commission made a long investigation of the case and turned out an astonishing report. The rest of this story is based on it.

At least two Soviet spy rings were operating side by side in Canada at the same time.

President Aims Twin Blasts At Republican Acts

Washington, Aug. 14—(AP)—President Truman today fired a double-barreled blast at Republicans for trampling his budgetary and anti-inflation plans.

He is due to fire the first shot tomorrow night when he releases his mid-year budget review. Some high government officials have predicted a Treasury deficit of as much as $2,000,000,000 for the year ending next June 30.

The GOP income tax reduction law—which Mr. Truman says tied a rocket to prices—was expected to get most of the blame for the budget alterations since January, when the President forecast a surplus of $4,800,000,000.

The second blast was scheduled for Monday. Then, the White House reported, Mr. Truman will act on the new anti-inflation bill turned out in the last days of the special session of Congress.

The Federal Reserve Board was reported all set to clamp down the new consumer credit rules provided in the GOP bill possibly Tuesday or Wednesday. They would become effective 30 days later.

Unless Mr. Truman vetoes the measure, "easy payment" plans will become less easy on or around September 16. Tentative arrangements call for a one-third down payment on autos, radios and washing machines and a 20 per cent down payment on furniture and rug.

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer meanwhile urged another line of attack on inflation—cut down grain shipments to the Marshall Plan countries in the next year.

"It may be time to give some attention to the American housewife," he told a news conference late yesterday.

Only 16 cases in New Polio List

Lowest Number Since Aug. 3; More Money Sent To N. Carolina

Raleigh, Aug. 14—(AP)—The State Board of Health today received reports of 16 new polio cases—the smallest number recorded on one day since Aug. 3, when there also were 16.

Today also marked the second time since July 6 that a total as low as 16 had been marked up for a day since the state's record epidemic began a sharp rise at the end of June. There were 16 listed July 6.

The additional cases brought to 1,465 the state's total of cases since the first of the year. All but one were of August onset, and the month's total reached 200. The July number now is 848.

The board reported three additional deaths, which pushed the toll for the year to 77. One of the deaths was in July and the two others in August.

Cleveland County, with three cases, led today's list. Rowan and Wilkes each reported two. Single cases were listed in Catawba, Davidson, Gaston, Jones (July), Macon, Montgomery, Orange, Pamlico and Polk.

Meanwhile, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis made another $100,000 in March of Dimes money available to North Carolina. Philip S. Randolph, state epidemic coordinator for the foundation, said the latest allotment brings to $111,500 the amount the foundation has sent the state during the current epidemic.

Cease-Fire Pact Proposed To End Indian Fighting

New Delhi, Aug. 14—(AP)—A United Nations commission today proposed a cease fire agreement between the dominions of India and Pakistan to open the way for settlement of the fighting in Kashmir.

Pakistan has denied she has troops fighting in Kashmir, which now actually is part of the Indian Union. India has charged that Pakistan has an expeditionary force in that northern state.

Both India and Pakistan have wanted jurisdiction over Kashmir, a princely state having an area of 11,471 square miles and a population of more than 4,000,000.

For months Kashmir has been the scene of open warfare.

Lion's Share

Paris, Aug. 14—(AP)—Britain got the biggest portion of American aid during the first four months of operation of the European Recovery Program, but France was close behind.

Since April 3, when the program began, Britain has received $246,000,000 worth of aid. France got $246,000,000 worth and Italy was third with $117,200,000.

More than one-fifth of Britain's supplies, or $54,500,000 worth, were wheat. Another $14,500,000 worth went for wheat flour.

Other leading products Britain drew were $44,000,000 worth of petroleum products, $32,500,000 worth of non-ferrous metals and $22,700,000 worth of lumber.

France drew $34,400,000 worth of wheat, $12,100,000 worth of wheat flour and a $100,000,000 mixed allotment of coal, cotton and petroleum.

Clarify Rules Of Tobacco Program

Buyers Will Be Informed When One Bid Below Support Price

Representatives of 73 of the 77 warehouse firms in the Eastern Carolina Warehouse Association whose markets open Thursday, August 19, attended the yearly pre-season meeting yesterday.

The group accepted the current Stabilization Corporation contract covering the government's guarantee of at least 90 percent of parity for flue-cured tobacco on the market. Fred S. Royster, Henderson president, Bright Belt Warehouse Association, and L. T. Weeks, Raleigh, manager, Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation, explained the contract in full.

Royster also outlined marketing regulations as adopted by the belt-wide Flue-Cured Marketing Committee.

J. Oon Lanier, Greenville, general counsel for the Leaf Export Dealers Association and the Tobacco Association of the United States, suggested that the warehousemen supply buyers with information on the Stabilization or support price whenever a final bid on a pile of tobacco is one bid less than the advance (support) rate. The Association agreed in accordance with the contract, which guarantees the buyer such information.

Lanier also suggested that when a buyer's final bid is the same as the support price, the tobacco should go to the buyer rather than to Stabilization. However, the contract calls for buyers to bid at least one bid above the support price in order to obtain a pile of tobacco, and the Association voted unanimously to abide by the contract.

"We feel that this great tobacco program," Lanier said, "will have a better chance of continuing if we can go before the next Congress with a small amount of tobacco in Stabilization stocks, rather than 3 lot, which ties up large sums of government money."

B. E. Sugg, Greenville warehouseman, replied that:

"It would be suicidal to us as agents of the farmers to agree to the proposed change. By telling the buyers the support price, we will be providing more money for the farmer. But, as representatives of the farmer, if we agreed to sell his tobacco at, say, 60 cents, when he could get 61 cents, it would be disastrous."

Flight To U.S.

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 14—(AP)—Sixteen U.S. Air Force F-86 jet fighter planes took off today from Forstentfeldbruck, Germany on the first lap of a transatlantic flight to the United States.

The RAF air base at Odham, England, will be the first stop of the Shooting Stars which arrived in Germany July 25 after a flight from the U.S.

From Odham the planes will fly to Stornaway, Scotland, and then to Iceland, Greenland, Labrador, Bangor, Maine and to their home base at Selfridge Field, Mich.

Babson Discusses Politics, Prices

Gloucester, Mass., August 13.—It may be safe for investors to assume that Dewey and Warren will be elected in November; but it is not safe for them to believe that under a Republican Administration everything will be "peaches and cream."

Step Albus Babson, 77, who is constantly increasing cost-of-living must be licked in some way. Mr. Truman has made some suggestions as to how to stop prices rising anymore. Whether or not his recommendations are practical during peacetime is debatable; but Mr. Truman should not be abused for making these suggestions. He is at least trying to get the problems discussed at once before it is too late.

Otherwise, on November third, it will be found that the combined Truman-Wallace popular vote will exceed the Dewey vote even although Dewey is elected. This could easily take the enthusiasm out of the election of the Dewey-Warren ticket. The electoral voting system will help Mr. Dewey this year; but it will not help elect a Republican Congress two years from now. It is very possible that a Democratic Congress may then be elected.

How to Lower Prices

The difficulty with Mr. Truman's proposals for an excess profits tax, price fixing and rationing is that these laws do not produce more food and goods. He can reduce beef to 50 cents a pound, but the ranches will not ship as many cattle to market. He can fix the price of shirts at $2.50, but there will be no shirts to buy at this price. In peacetime such legislation would create a tremendous black market.

There today are only two ways to lower prices. One of these, is to lower wages which very few Congressmen have the courage to do. The other and most practical method would be by monetary means. As the tremendous increase in U. S. money (from seven billions to 28 billions in ten years) is the primary cause of inflated purchasing power and high prices, so the only cure is to deflate purchasing power. This could be done by curbing government purchases and expenses, by restricting installment buying, and by removing support to the prices both of government bonds and agricultural.

Mrs. Kosenkina Now Under Protective Custody Of U. S.

Teacher Plunges From Red Consulate

New York, Aug. 14—(AP)—Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kosenkina, seriously injured when she jumped from a window of the Soviet consulate where she claimed she was imprisoned, was placed under the "protective custody" of the Federal Government today.

The 53-year-old Russian school teacher formally was granted protection of the United States government when she accepted a subpoena to appear as a witness before the House un-American activities committee.

The subpoena was served at her bedside in Roosevelt Hospital by Robert E. Stripling, the committee's chief investigator. Stripling said the action placed Mrs. Kosenkina "in protective custody of the United States."

The teacher, center of a bizarre tug-of-war between top-level diplomatic circles here and in Moscow—was asked if she had any objection to appearing before the committee and replied in the negative, Stripling said.

William Taraska, Russian-speaking New York City detective, accompanied Stripling and William Wheeler, another committee investigator, to Mrs. Kosenkina's room.

There, the detective identified the callers. Stripling instructed the detective to ask the Soviet teacher: "Do you have any objection to appearing before the House un-American activities committee?"

"No," the woman replied, accepting the subpoena that Stripling handed her.

Meanwhile, federal and state law enforcement agencies were assembling information in the case. Authorities carefully declined to discuss whether criminal prosecution was contemplated.

However, Mayor William O'Dwyer said the police department was turning over details of its investigation of the case to federal and state prosecutors "for action."

Last night officials of the FBI, the state department and the city police met in a four-hour conference in the office of United States Attorney John F. X. McGohery.

The meeting came after Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kosenkina was visited by Soviet vice-consul Zot I. Shepurnykh in her hospital room. She told the Russian representative: "You kept me a prisoner. You would not let me go."

Chepurnykh's visit to the Russian teacher's room yesterday was permitted by a heavy police guard, which earlier had barred his admittance.

The 52-year-old woman-key figure in a controversy with diplomatic repercussions here and in Moscow—made her dramatic jump from a fourth-floor consulate window Thursday.

She had been in seclusion for six days at the consulate, where consul general Yakov M. Lomakin and aides had whisked her from an anti-Communist farm retreat. She was due to sail for Russia two weeks ago.

Probe Anonymous Letter Charges

Washington, Aug. 14—(AP)—The U. S. Air Force announced today that in accord with its established policy it is investigating anonymous charges against a major general.

In a "memorandum to the press," the Air Force said the charges under inquiry are that Maj. Gen. Clayton L. Bissell engaged in "unauthorized transactions" while serving as military and air attaché in Great Britain.

Our Dreams A Mirage?

Only Three Years Ago Today, Japan Surrendered; The World Looked For Peace And Prosperity; War Against Axis Transformed Into War Against Bolshevism

By DEWITT MacKENNIE

Three years ago today Japan surrendered unconditionally to the allies and Japanese war minister Kotochika Anami committed suicide in accordance with the Oriental code that only death can wipe out the dishonor of having failed the Mikado in an emergency.

Allied victory celebrations swept around a world which longed for peace. Even the defeated, shell-shocked nations were glad that the last great bomb had exploded and that they would have time to bind their wounds. The most awful conflict that men ever had known was over—or so most thought. There would, of course, be the usual hard times which follow every war, but there would be a quick recovery, and their new United Nations would guide us into an era of tranquility and good will.

That's what we thought only three years ago. Now we know that the peace we saw was only a mirage. We realize—unless we have lost our wits altogether—that the war against the Axis was transformed into the bolshevik world revolution for the spread of Communism. It was done as quietly and smoothly as the shifting of your auto gears—so

Number Of Postwar One-Family Homes At Unusually High Level

To date in this postwar period, efforts to meet the nation's housing needs have manifested themselves primarily in a surplus of new one-family homes. More of these have been built since 1946 than in any previous comparable period.

This development may be a natural outgrowth of the conditions of the last three years, such as the easy home mortgage provisions of the GI Bill, the record incomes and savings of the people as a whole, and the relative ease with which single family homes can be built as compared with other dwelling projects.

Long-term records compiled by the National Bureau of Economic Research and the Bureau of Labor Statistics show that seven out of every eight nonfarm dwelling units built from 1945 through 1947 were one-family homes. Such a proportion is seldom found in the years going back to 1920, and then only in periods when home building in the aggregate was subnormal.

Numerically more single family homes were built in 1947 and 1948 than in any other year for which records are available.

What The Records Show
In contrast, the number of multi-family dwelling units constructed since 1946 represents less than one out of every ten nonfarm dwelling units built in the postwar period. This is an abnormally low proportion.

A glance at the records of the early 20s, when the nation also had a war-created housing shortage, indicates how the situation then was met. The figures show that construction of multi-family dwellings became active in 1921 when they represented 14 per cent of all the nonfarm dwelling units built in that year. The proportion went up steadily thereafter, topping the 20 per cent mark in 1923 and reaching a high of 32 per cent in 1927 and 1928.

In the present postwar period the percentage of multi-family dwellings to the total number of nonfarm dwelling units constructed was only 7 per cent in 1945 and in 1946, and 8 per cent in 1947. Thus past experience indicates that a national housing shortage of the current postwar dimensions can be fully met only by large-scale, privately-financed activity in the multi-family dwelling construction field.

Just as now, skyrocketing construction costs were the big stumbling block in the period immediately following the first World

You Can Make It

Lucky is the householder whose hobby turns out to be making things for the house. The garden, terrace and every room of a house open opportunities for the man who learns the relaxation of working with his hands.

No secret skill is required to build arbors, trellises, bird houses, bird baths, sun dials, fences, benches, seats, tables and other garden furnishings. The average American boy turns out some very attractive work along this line.

Indoors you can build your own bookshelves, corner cupboards, closet fittings, and if you're more ambitious you may essay built-in furniture, such as benches, beds, kitchen cabinets, buffets, bars, . . . and your house size is your limit.

War, rising to a level double or more prewar as they have this time. The peak was reached in 1920, after which there was a sizeable decline.

Building costs then stabilized, and this was a basic factor in launching the home building boom of the '20s and in attracting the investment funds necessary for large-scale multi-family projects.

In no year in the active building period of the 20s did construction of single family homes exceed 70 per cent of the total annual number of new nonfarm dwelling units. In the record home building year of 1928, when 937,000 nonfarm dwellings units were started, one-family homes represented 81 per cent of the total. In contrast, the proportion was 80 per cent in 1945 and in 1946 and 88 per cent in 1947.

Petrel Makes A Long Air Trip

Perth, Australia — (AP) — Robert Beattie, a railway worker, went fishing here and hooked a bird—a giant petrel. A band on its leg showed it had been released by British scientists at Signy Island in the South Orkneys.

Local scientists calculated that if it flew over the South Pole it flew 5,000 miles. And if it took a route via Kerguelen Island it flew twice that distance. The petrel ended its travels in the South Perth zoo.

Framing Of Your House Based On Three Key Types

Houses are somewhat like skyscrapers in that they are built on frame work. The framing of your house determines its resistance to tornadoes, earth tremors, and its general durability.

It is hard to find carpenters who will agree as to what type of framing is best. Three principal styles are widely used. They are: the balloon frame, the western or platform frame, and the braced frame.

The braced frame is the oldest, having been used by colonial settlers, who brought it over from England. It is still used in a modified form in the northeast.

The braced frame was a forerunner of sky-scraper construction. It featured heavy posts at corners and at some intermediate points. Foundation sills to heavy plates at the roof line. Diagonal braces extended from the corner posts to foundation sill, usually from the top of one story to the bottom.

In such a frame the usual wall studs only supported the lath and plaster, forming non-bearing curtain walls, similar in function to the walls of the modern skyscraper.

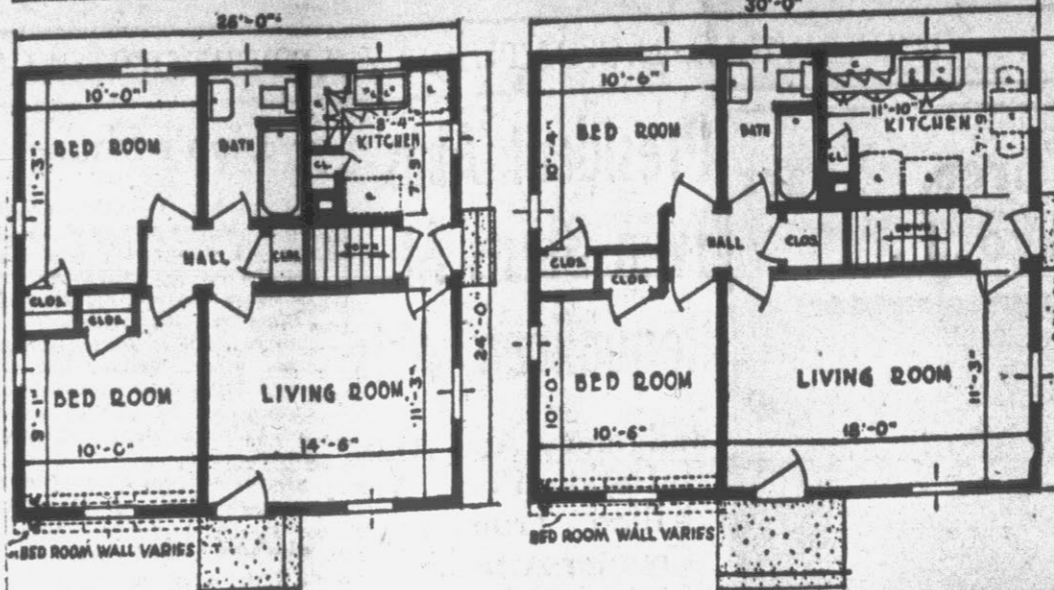

When nails became cheaper this style of construction gradually merged into balloon framing.

In balloon framing, the studs—the vertical 2 by 4s—extend in single pieces from foundation to roof. Walls carry the weight of the building. Floor joists are nailed to the wall studs and further supported by ribbands or ledger board.

The "western" method calls for floor platforms independently framed. Studs are only one-story in height and the house is built like one box on top of another. This platform framing claims advantages in all-lumber construction because shrinkage is uniform and settlement is not so noticeable. However, builders warn against this style for brick veneer or masonry walled construction.

The foundation sill—a plank or timber resting on the foundation wall—is a vital point in all frame construction. If it is bedded in mortar it is better.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP. Packing features

Packing good sized rooms into a small house, this dwelling can be built 10 different ways. The floor plan shown at the left covers an area of 624 square feet. The plan at the right calls for 720 square feet. The exterior design shown here is one of eight different facades in various architectural styles that fit the plans above. The scheme has been developed by the Columbia Small Home Plan Service, John Q. Adams, Jr., Architect, 1570 Hawthorne Park, Columbus 3, Ohio. The house can be built with or without a basement, or with a part basement under the rear half. The stairway space can be used for a utility room if basement is eliminated for economy. The house is planned for a low roof pitch (7 to 12), which can be raised to a 9 to 12 rise if an extra room upstairs is desired. The hall closet then would become part of the second floor stairway. The bedroom wall variation allows for setbacks to conform to any of the eight exterior designs.

DESIGN NO. 7

Adequate Nailing Needed In House

Bridging means a solid floor and is a good thing to look for. This is plainly visible between joists of a completed house when you look upward in the average cellar. It usually consists of 1 by 3-inch strips crossed between each joist. Sometimes solid boards are used although this wastes lumber. Metal bridging can be used, too.

If you walk across a floor without bridging, your entire weight is supported on each joist you step on. Bridging distributes the load throughout the entire floor. Each strip of bridging calls for two eight-penny nails at each end. Bottom ends are left unnailed until the subfloor is laid. This brings joists into better alignment.

The number of nails used every place they are required can mean much in lower maintenance costs. Skimping on nails may cut labor costs but can undermine the solidity of an entire house. Houses with inadequate nailing have been known to tear apart in heavy windstorms with very few pieces of framing actually broken.

Difference of opinion on nailing is so great that the Housing and Home Finance Agency, Washington D. C., has compiled a manual on the "Technique of House Nailing." It is available from the Government Printing Office for 20 cents.

If you think your builder is extravagant when he nails sheathing diagonally on your house and must saw off the ends of the boards at the corners, say nothing about it. Diagonal sheathing has been provided in tests to make a house eight times stronger than walls sheathed horizontally.

Judge Roberts Rules Favor Family Life Police Court Today

By CHESTER WALSH
In Police Court yesterday, Judge J. W. H. Roberts expressed the court's opinion in no uncertain terms when he found Curtis (Tex) Street, local radio cowboy entertainer, of assaulting a female—his wife.

His Honor gave Street 12 months on the roads for assaulting his wife, the mother of two children, then suspended the sentence and placed the defendant on probation for five years on condition that he support his wife and children, and not molest her at any time.

The hearing of this case in court attracted considerable public interest.

Street is well known in this part of the state as a result of his radio entertainments.

Incidentally, Judge Roberts said after court, that if Street violates any law during his five years of probation, he will have to serve the 12-months road sentence imposed this morning.

DOG BITES CHILD

A dog belonging to Cherry Hester, colored, in the Bama section of the city, a police report said today, bit Janie Morrow, small colored child on both arms and a leg. A group of children were playing near the dog. Police ordered the animal confined for observation.

European and Asiatic persons long have eaten roasted, boiled, baked, stewed, fried, or pickled eel meat.

Costs Changing Style Of Homes; Small, Efficient

The American home is shrinking. Today it is about half the size of the typical house in grandfather's time, and astute observers do not expect it to grow again.

Necessity has made the house smaller and popular preference shows signs of keeping it small.

High building costs, jobs for women, the family automobile, the shortage of domestic help, smaller families and even the neighborhood movie are among factors making the dwelling a miniature.

Such factors have turned family interest away from home. They are making the home a streamlined utility for brief moments of privacy. "Our changing attitude toward the house must eventually result in a changed house." This was the consensus of opinion of 52 architects, builders, housing officials, sociologists and other experts in recent report compiled by the Woman's Foundation, a non-profit research organization.

"Our houses have barely commenced to change in response to our present needs and desires," these experts added.

Nevertheless, homes are changing relentlessly in size, at least. The $6,000 that bought the average six-room house 10 years ago pays for only about three rooms today.

Ten years ago the average size of houses built under federal housing administration mortgage insurance exceeded six rooms. Now it is less than five. Forty years ago the average of all apartments built in New York's apartment-packed Borough of Manhattan was five rooms. Now the average runs less than three.

The smaller houses trend is pronounced throughout the country and architects link it directly to costs.

"Building costs have affected design a great deal, observes Elmer Gylleck, architect of Elgin, Ill.

"They all seem to insist on at least two bedrooms and many of them want three bedrooms, but in this area of the house they will find that they may have to give up the third bedroom with the possibility of adding it at a later date.

"The combination living room and dining room is becoming more popular. We know that this type of plan, where the dining room is an alcove or definitely part of the living room, has proved to be our best seller."

Rising Costs Are Worrying Dairy Industry In State

Many distributors of home-delivered fresh milk in North Carolina "are operating in the red and, to survive economically, must soon raise prices," L. L. Ray, executive vice-president of the North Carolina Dairy Products Association, announced in a recent press release in Raleigh.

Operation costs, including the price paid producers for raw milk, have been on a rising spiral for many months, Ray said, "and distributors have been caught between constantly increasing costs and a static retail price."

"During the past year freight costs have gone up 20 per cent, bottles 20 per cent, coal 35 per cent, tires for delivery trucks 12 per cent, gasoline costs are up and wages are constantly rising.

"It has been the settled policy in North Carolina, among those engaged in the dairy business, to hold prices down as much as possible. The statistics show that the margin of profit of the dairy industry in North Carolina has for years been far below the national average for this industry. But the whirl of inflation is at last catching up with the industry in North Carolina, and retail prices for milk must be brought in line with cost factors.

The profit margin has long been wiped out," John B. Webb, Jr., manager of the Carolina Dairy, said today.

Kiwanians Had Fun Weekly Meet

William H. (Bill) Taft promised that he would present an unusually entertaining program at the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting last night, and Mrs. Leon Tyson, talented musician and versatile master of ceremonies, fulfilled the promise in a big way. The Kiwanians agreed that it was the best program of the year. Mrs. Tyson played on her accordion some of the old songs and the men were singing with her. She directed a series of stunts in which everybody participated and had a lot of fun. President Nathan C Brooks presided.

A one dollar bill is given as an attendance prize to a member who is on time and has on his Kiwanis button. Chester Walsh was the lucky member last night, but he didn't have his button and didn't win the dollar. The prize will be $2 next week.

El Bloom will have charge of the program next week.

Home Building Is Passing Record Set Last Year

Washington, Aug. 13—(AP)—Over 550,000 housing units were started during the first seven months of 1948, the bureau of labor statistics reported today. This is 120,000 units, or 28 percent, more than in the same 1947 period.

Builders started 94,000 units in July, as compared with 96,000 in June and 96,000 in May, the peak month this year.

As it did in 1947, Los Angeles leads in housing permits issued this year. New York City is second. Three Texas cities—Houston, Dallas and San Antonio—were among the leading 10 cities in number of housing construction permits in both 1948 and 1947.

Greenville Company Wins Signal Honor

For the second time the Greenville Equipment Company, Inc., of Greenville has won the much sought Nash 10-point trophy for "outstanding sales and service management and facilities." According to Mr. H. L. Walters, zone manager, the award was presented to Mr. R. W. MacKenzie at the dealership, 2002 Dickenson Avenue, yesterday. All employees of the organization also received recognition of their contributions to the achievement and also will be given pocket medallions in the form of the familiar Nash crest.

The United States used from six to 10 million ounces of silver a year during World War II to make military insignia.

South America stretches about 4,500 miles north and south and 3,200 miles at its widest east-west point.

Miss Elizabeth Ross Parkerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edward Parkerson, Jr., of Greenville, whose engagement to Charles Burton West, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burton West, Jr., is announced by her parents. The wedding will take place September 10.

Announcement Party Given Miss Betsy Ross Parkerson

Washington, N. C.—Mrs. Thomas Lackland entertained at a lovely bridge party last evening announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of her niece, Miss Betsy Ross Parkerson of Greenville to Charles Burton West, III, also of Greenville.

The home was beautifully decorated with quantities of mixed summer flowers, the color scheme of yellow and white being featured in the dining room. Miss Parkerson, the bride-elect, was presented a corsage of yellow roses.

During progressions, iced cocoas were served, and at the conclusion of game, the high score prize, an attractive scarf, was won by Miss Grace Bowen. The second high prize, shoe bags, was awarded Miss Mary Credle of Oxford, and the floating prize, book marks, went to Miss Edith Bowles of Greenville.

Miss Parkerson was presented a gift of flat silver in Chantilly, her chosen pattern, by her hostess, Miss Grace Bowen and Miss Sue Poore, brides-elect, were also remembered with gifts of flat silver in their selected patterns. Miss Elizabeth Berry, also a bride-elect, was given china in her pattern.

Mr. West, the bridegroom-elect, is connected with the West Building Company in Greenville, and the announcement of the marriage was made by unique miniature blue prints. The wedding is to take place September the tenth.

During the refreshment period, the tables were spread with yellow cloths, covered with white net and centered with burning yellow tapers, affixed with ruffles of white lace and yellow cellophane, in crystal holders.

The color scheme of yellow and white was further carried out in the refreshments of ice cream, mints, salted nuts and party cakes topped with yellow rose buds.

Party guests included Miss Parkerson, the honoree, Mrs. Joe Parkerson and Miss Josephine Parkerson, mother and sister of the bride-elect, Mrs. C. B. West, Jr., mother of the groom-elect, Misses Ella Frances Viola, Virginia Brooks, Ann Beatty, Jeanne Hilton, Christine Joyner, Mary Ruth Carter, Faye Duval, Edith Bowles, Joan Oppelt, Catherine Spearman, Linda Renfrew and Mrs. Dick Fye, all of Greenville; Misses Shirley Dunstan, Jean Lawrence, Mary Ann Campbell, Catherine Swanner, Bobby Hackney, Elizabeth Berry, Grace Bowen, Sue Poore, of Washington; Miss Mary Credle and Mrs. C. G. Credle, of Oxford; Mrs. Ruby Swindell, grandmother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. Ralph Hodges joined the party for refreshments.

Pearl oysters may live from 12 to 15 years.

Picnic Dinner Held At August Meeting Of Local BPW Club

The Business and Professional Women held their regular August meeting at the home of Mrs. J. B. Spilman Thursday evening, Aug. 12. This meeting was in the form of a picnic dinner each member bringing her basket. This was spread in picnic style on tables on the back lawn. About sixty members and guests enjoyed the delightful dinner.

Before the meeting was called to order, Mrs. Spilman was asked to stand with the President for an interview. The interview happily turned out to be a birthday shower for Mrs. Spilman consisting of many various and useful gifts. The expression showed this was a distinct surprise and Mrs. Spilman expressed her deep appreciation to the group for remembering her so beautifully and extended a cordial invitation to meet there in 1949.

The meeting was then called to order by the President, Mrs. Ruth Meeks. The usual items of business were discussed and dispensed with. Reports of the state convention were given by Mrs. S. E. Gates and Mrs. Chester Walsh.

The meeting was then turned over to Miss Ada Jones who explained to the club that the Blount Fertilizer Company offered a prize to the member of the Club who had rendered the greatest service to her community during the year 1948.

After careful study by the committee, Miss Jones enumerated the contributions of each member and decision was made that Mrs. J. B. Spilman had made the greatest contribution to the community. Miss Jones paid a very glowing tribute to Mrs. Spilman and presented the silver tray from the Blount Fertilizer Company. This was accepted most graciously by Mrs. Spilman who pledged anew her efforts toward her community.

The meeting then adjourned to meet September 9, 1948.

Guests for the dinner were Mrs. Urey and Mrs. Howard.

Pre-nuptial Courtesy

Grifton.—As a pre-nuptial courtesy to Miss Jean Scarborough, bride-elect, Miss Betsy Hodges entertained at bridge on Thursday night at her home here. The rooms in which the guests were received were decorated with summer flowers in pastel shades of pink and lavender.

Three tables were arranged for the games which were played progressively. The guest of honor, Miss Hope Wethington, bride-elect, and Mrs. William Stanley Scarborough, recent bride, were remembered with corsages on their arrival and later were presented crystal in their chosen patterns.

Miss Dorothy Glenn Sugg scored high at bridge and was given a double bridge deck. At the conclusion of the games the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. M. B. Hodges, served a delectable course.

Guests for the evening were Miss Scarborough, Miss Wethington, Mrs. Scarborough, Miss Sugg, Misses Ida Margaret Hart, Walenah Quinley, Mary Worthington, Mary Dawson McCotter, Becky Wees Holcomb, Margaret Sugg, Audrey Worthington and Rebekah Wall.

Entertains Contract Club
Grifton.—Miss Hazel Jarrell was hostess on Thursday evening to members of her contract club and invited players for three tables. The home was decorated with mixed garden flowers. During the progressions Mrs. Nannie McGilohon compiled the highest score for club members and Mrs. Edward Hart the second high. Mrs. Claud Hart received the guest prize. Other players were Mrs. G. L. Tucker, Mrs. Elmo Smith, Mrs. Wiley Gaskins, Mrs. Walter Patrick, Mrs. Roy Jackson, Mrs. Sam Nelson, Mrs. Josh Worthington, Mrs. Carey Garris and Ben G. Tucker. A sweet course was served at the conclusion of the games.

Mr. Tucker Hostess To Bridge Club
Grifton.—Mrs. J. L. Tucker was a gracious hostess on Thursday night when she had as guests members of her bridge club. Garden flowers were used as decorations in the reception rooms. As the guests arrived they were served a delectable supper in two courses after which bridge was played at four tables.

Miss Bert Johnson scored high for club members and Mrs. R. A. Nelson second, for the visitors Mrs. Bryan Davis.

Meeting up the tables were Miss Johnson, Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Jack Chapman Mrs. J. L. Quinley, Mrs. Alton Chapman, Mrs. R. B. Mewborn, Mrs. Manley Lee, Mrs. R. Wilbur Woodcock, Mrs. H. C. Oglesby, Mrs. Walter Murphy, Mrs. L. L. Mewborn, Mrs. Paul Bradley, Miss Hazel Patrick and Miss Marie Chapman.

Cut Weeds

An ordinance on the city's books requires property owners to cut weeds and tall grass on their premises to eliminate places which harbor mosquitoes. Mosquitoes are carriers of malaria. Incidentally, there are hundreds of cases of malaria here at this time.

The police have been instructed to enforce the ordinance providing for cutting weeds and tall grass.

Funeral Sunday For Leonard L. Harris

Leonard L. Harris, 22-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lelton E. Harris, died at 2:45 a. m. today at Duke Hospital, Durham, after a week's illness following a car accident.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Greenville Funeral Home tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock. The Rev. John V. Nelson, pastor of the Parkhurst Chapel, will officiate. Interment will be in the family cemetery.

Survivors are the mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Lelton E. Harris; one sister, Barbara Ann; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Whichard, paternal grandparents Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Harris, Sr.

LEGION MEETS TUESDAY

Pitt County Post No. 39 American Legion, will hold its supper meeting at the Airport Inn next Tuesday night at 7:30. Col. Ted Fountain, commander, will preside. All members in good standing are invited to attend and take a new member with them.

The bronze statue known as Christ of the Andes, on the border of Chile and Argentina, was erected in 1902 to commemorate peaceful settlement of a boundary dispute between the two countries.

Burns-Jones was one of the world's greatest designers of stained glass windows. He was a man who believed that life should be beautiful and who insisted that beauty should be carried into all the details of life. He put one of his very beautiful windows, depicting the search for the Holy Grail, over the kitchen sink where his kitchen maid worked. Although he did not say it in so many words, he seemed to feel that cooking and dishwashing had about them certain holy aspects which we usually associate only with sacraments.

We have often heard the statement "to labor is to pray." We might go further and say to do one's job well is to worship. This is by no means a full definition of the word "worship," but basic to all sound religious thinking is the conviction that the whole of life is sacred. We never discover the secret of happy living until we realize that God is in the kitchen as well as in the church. The office and the altar both accord us opportunities for worship. If we do not find God in little things, we do not find Him in great things. We hear Him in the high vaulted cathedral only if we are very sure that we have experienced His presence in the humblest walks of life.

New York—(P)—While younger men were shooting off guns during the second world war, George Braidwood McCoy was shooting off his mouth.

The American army—and George ("The Real") McCoy—agreed it was the best possible compromise under the circumstances.

The war department, anxious always to see that every man got a chance to develop his latent talents, first gave George an opportunity to test his skill at manicuring potatoes . . . thousands and thousands of potatoes.

But George flubbed the dub on kitchen police duty.

"I don't mean to say I wanted to be a hero," said George. "But I didn't realize at the age of 38 to be a vegetable sculptor. I joined up because I was mad about missing the first world war and I wanted to be in this one."

Somehow word must have filtered back to the army's general staff in Washington that at least one enlisted man in its far-flung ranks—the real McCoy—wasn't being done right by.

Anyway, some officer with a passionate sense of justice checked up on and found that George, in civilian life, had been a radio network pioneer—one of the first men to go out with a microphone and hold sidewalk interviews with the man in the street. He was well known in New York.

So the army gave George a microphone in Algeria. And McCoy—a big, red-faced Irish buck sergeant who could down a fifth of vermouth before breakfast—went out on the streets and began selling North Africa to homesick American soldiers. And vice versa.

It was often broad, rough humor, but George keyed it to the largest number of army radio sets—and they were in hospitals where combat men were convalescing. They liked it.

George would get up before huge gatherings of GI's weary of foreign shores and ask:

"Is there anybody here from out of town?"

The night-gown-clad arabs on the outskirts of the crowd could never understand what the laughing was about.

George moved on with the war to Italy. By then the army caste system had become so complex he had to wear three field jackets to remain a man of the people. One jacket with a bald shoulder got him into the privates' club. Another with three stripes admitted him to the sanctuary of the non-commissioned officers. The third, adorned with the dubious escutcheon of a war correspondent, permitted him to mingle with lieutenants and captains in their cups.

George became almost as familiar as Bing Crosby to the hordes of men who tumbled in on the army's radio programs overseas. But when he came home there was no brass band to meet him and no network job waiting. His audience had scattered.

"I didn't want to join the 52-20 club, so I took the first job I could get," he said.

The job was driving a taxicab.

STATUE QUO—There won't be for some time at least, any material change in racial segregation status of workers in the national Democratic headquarters. And there won't be, perhaps longer time, abandonment of segregation in the armed forces. Reason back of this rather positive statement is that North Carolinians currently are in dominant position to determine the course of affairs. Democratic Chairman Howard McGrath gave out a statement a few days ago that the Negro division in Democratic headquarters was being abolished and Negro workers would be integrated throughout the several offices. President Truman had previously issued a statement saying that segregation in the army would be discontinued.

TAR HEELS—But—Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall, who would have to enforce the ruling, is a North Carolinian. His assistant is Gordon Gray of Winston-Salem. Treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, who must approve all personal appointments and changes, is Joe L. Blythe of Charlotte. And Chairman Howard McGrath's chief assistant is W. J. (Bill) Primar, citizen of Alabama and son-in-law of the late Senator J. W. Bailey of North Carolina.

PARTISAN—The military angle can wait but the situation with respect to the Democratic committee is immediately acute. Acuteness of it explains, partially at least, why Blythe and Primar are on their present jobs. They represent about the only contact of the traditional Southern Democratic party with the national organization. If they should withdraw, the radical northerners would take over complete control and no semblance of party ideals as this and preceding generations have understood them would remain.

TREASURER—No person can be employed or assigned to a job in Democratic headquarters without approval of the treasurer. Blythe accepts no salary for the job, but he does wield a lot of power. Appointed last year to fill an unexpired term, he was re-elected by the full committee at the Philadelphia convention. Information coming down from Washington and New York is that he will not okay appointment of a white worker in the Negro division, or a Negro worker in the white division, and he doesn't approve consolidation of the whole force without regard to racial segregation. So despite political statements and newspaper stories, fact is, there has not been and will not be, material change in long established practice of handling headquarters workers.

CRITICISM—Amid the furore created by the Dixiecrat of State Rights, these North Carolinians have been criticized for stacking with the national party organization. Keen observers, however, have pointed out that they are rendering highly valuable service. Opinion is general that this country will continue to have, as it has since its beginning, essentially a two-party system. Minority parties stir up a little temporary dust, but in more than 150 years have accomplished nothing more than to

WASHINGTON LETTER

By JANE EADS

Washington—The current move in Congress to get a "little White House" in which the vice president of the United States can live rent free is not new. Efforts to get a home for the vice president are as old as the republic, but it has been nearly 20 years since the subject was last broached. That was when Mrs. Henderson, widow of Senator John B. Henderson, famous Civil War general and statesman, offered her huge mansion on sixteenth street as vice presidential residence.

Completed in 1929, a couple of years before Mrs. Henderson died at the age of 90, the home cost $300,000, had 30 rooms and 10 baths. Replete with towers, towers and battlements, it is known as "Henderson's Castle." Mrs. Henderson, in a letter to the House Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, wrote that "Ex-President Coolidge in his autobiography calls attention to the need of a permanent home for the vice presidents and approves its establishment."

At the time, Rep. Gibson (R-Vt.) introduced a bill to accept the mansion, to appropriate $300,000 for furnishings and $25,000 a year for maintenance. Congress never acted on the measure. Newspaper files show that Mrs. Henderson's granddaughter, Mrs. Beatrice Henderson Wholean, went to the District Supreme Court in April, 1931, to block the transfer of the property on the grounds that the aged lady was incapable of managing her estate.

Mrs. Henderson retailed with the revelation that Mrs. Wholean was an adopted child. Then she drew up a new will which disinherited Mrs. Wholean. However, after a long court battle Mrs. Wholean was restored as an heir. That was Mrs. Henderson's death. This business seems to have discouraged any attempts to house the vice presidents officially until the subject came up the other day on Capitol Hill.

Then companion bills were introduced in the House by Representatives Gearhart (R-Calif.) and Gregory (D-Ky) asking Congress to appropriate not more than $2,500,000 for the entire project. Mr. Gearhart, who thought up the idea, pointed out that many vice presidents had not been wealthy enough to live in the style to which Washington is accustomed. In introducing the legislation, he pointed out that Vice President Garner lived in a "couple of rooms" at the Washington hotel and that Charles Curtis made the Willard Hotel his quarters.

Clean Up and Stay Clean

The clean up campaign sponsored by the colored Civic League will begin Aug. 18 and continue through Aug. 30 and we are asking all colored families to clean up their back yards of all trash, rags and paper that have accumulated during the past hot months and place in a convenient place for removal, put bottles and tin cans in boxes or bags for convenient handling and garbage in covered containers. The city trucks will take away the same. Remember friends, we are apart of the citizenry of this city and for the sake of all people won't you cooperate by doing so ultimate success will be achieved.

Let us recall an old old story. A battle was lost for want of an army. An army was lost for want of a horse. A horse was lost for want of a shoe. A shoe was lost for want of a nail and for the want of a nail of individual pride, the battle for a clean city can be lost in just the same way.

This movement is endorsed by Mayor J. H. Boyd Jr. and Supt. of Streets C. T. Mallison.

Leaders of the street drive will be appointed by chairman of the eighth division of the colored sections of the city.

Elizabeth Kearney, V.P. of C.C.L.

COLORADO GIRL WANTED TO

A MAN IN THE HOUSE

By Florence Stuart

Chapter 26

Christmas Eve came with wind rattling the windows and the weather man predicting the worst snowstorm in years. Grand Jane thought. That meant a white Christmas. Evergreen trees were blanketed white with their icy burden; the houses, window-deep in snow, were turned into picture post card houses. She hung a great wreath on the front door and placed candles in the windows. Ted came over to help her trim the giant tree and they laughed and sang Christmas carols while they worked, and had fun. Several days before they had driven out into the country and brought home holly and greens for decorations. The house smelled of fresh pine and logs burning and spiced cakes baking.

It was going to be a grand party and a lovely Christmas. Jane told herself. For Carl's gifts she had bought a lounging robe and a book of poetry, first edition, which she knew he'd be crazy about. The tension between them seemed to have lessened since Ted had moved over to Pauline's. Things weren't as they had once been, of course. Carl seemed tired, overworked.

Sometimes Jane had to wonder if all his work was really necessary. It could be, couldn't it, that it was a very convenient excuse to shut himself away from her evening after evening, to avoid her as much as possible.

But she had made up her mind to let things ride until after the holidays. She was like a little girl about Christmas. She no longer believed in Santa Claus, exactly, but she still knew the mystery, the beauty, the thrill of looking forward to Christmas. Each year she could recreate for herself the wonder of it. She still believed it was a little different from any other time of the year, touched with some illusive magic. She wasn't going to have this Christmas spoiled.

For a week or so previously, she went out of her way to be especially sweet to Carl. When little things came up to aggravate her, such as the evening they were dated to go to a dinner party and Carl forgot all about it and arranged to attend a faculty meeting, Jane was nice about it. She refused to quarrel, no matter what happened.

Once Carl grinned at her: "You've developed the most heavenly disposition. You wouldn't be trying to love to Santa Claus what a good girl you are?"

In his quiet way, he seemed to enjoy all the Christmas fixings, although he had no time to help with them. The evening Jane and Ted were working on the tree he came in and stood watching them, smiling.

If ever some secret thoughts of his own, "It's a fine tree," he observed finally, and then he went upstairs to his work.

Jane thought bitterly: Wouldn't you think he'd stay downstairs until Ted goes? Wouldn't you think he'd want to take a little part in it? But he seemed to take Ted's presence as a matter of course. And, Jane guessed, he considered a Christmas tree too childish a thing for him to bother with.

She had to smile at herself when she thought of all her fine plans to make Carl jealous. The more he saw her with Ted, the more philosophically Carl seemed to accept the situation.

All that had come of her schem-

Party Harmony At Big Conclave

Raleigh, Aug. 14 (AP)—The State Democratic Executive Committee selected new officers at a harmonious two-hour meeting last night.

A large gathering, the biggest to assemble for such a meeting since 1941, unanimously elected Capus Waynick of High Point and Raleigh as chairman and Mrs. D. A. McCormick of Robeson County as vice chairman.

Party leaders made strong pleas for unity within the ranks of the party, urging that internal differences be dropped. The crowd applauded when Governor Cherry urged Democrats to close ranks just like one great family.

Waynick, in taking over the chair from retiring chairman Wilkins P. Horton of Pittsboro, called on the party to "proceed in unity, for the sake of the party and for the sake of world peace."

Harmony on the state as well as national level keyed the meeting. Waynick, the announced choice of Governor-nominee Kerr Scott, was nominated by the man whose job he takes over, Horton.

State Senator Rivers D. Johnson, a bitter Scott foe in the gubernatorial primaries, made a strong seconding speech.

Horton said "My good friend Capus is welcome to the job. God bless him and I'll help any way I can."

Called Off

Coach Boley Farley announced today that football practice for the Greenville High School team, scheduled to begin on Monday, has been postponed.

The action was taken, Coach Farley explained, in view of the statewide polio epidemic.

Court To Decide If Child To Get 'Chance To Live'

Chicago, Aug. 14 (AP)—A 22-month-old baby girl played happily today as legal and medical authorities sought to decide whether or not to perform an operation that might give her a chance to live.

The child is Pamela Frances Lamphere. She was born with a rare deformity — her bladder is outside her body — that requires major surgery to correct. Doctors have given the child two to three years to live without the operation.

Her parents, estranged over the question of operation, laid the problem in the lap of Judge Walter R. O'Malley, of suburban Aurora, sitting in superior court.

The father, Fred, 23, a shipping clerk, filed suit to compel the mother, Irene, 21, to agree to the operation.

Said the mother in court: "I live for my child. I want her as long as I can have her. I'd lose her forever if she were operated on."

Said the father: "I love her just as much as you want her to have a chance to live."

Judge O'Malley said he couldn't do anything "without full medical advice," appointed the deans of the medical schools of the universities of Illinois, Chicago, Northwestern and Loyola to investigate and report to him.

The parents agreed to abide by their decision.

Police Court

Judge J.W.H. Roberts disposed of the following cases in Police Court Friday.

Violation whiskey law: John Seaster (two charges), $75; Ruffin Carr, $50; Arthur L. Brann, $50; Jake Watson, colored, $50, and Harvey L. Stepps, $15 (probated 3 years). Costs were deducted.

Drunk: Benjamin F. Rollins, Craven Bradley and Marshall Tyson — each fined $15.

Speeding: William E. Lewis and J. A. Williams, each paid $20.

Parking violation: William H. Whitcher, $15.

Non-support: Leon Cannon, 90 days, suspended; prayer for judgment continued, and the court ordered Cannon to pay $10 a week for support of his family.

Failure to stop at "stop" sign: William W. Sausbury, $10; Wesley Harvey, $10.

Affray and disorderly conduct: Ralph W. Lindsey, not guilty; Michael Adduco, $15.

Curtis Street, assault on a female: 12 months, suspended and he was placed on probation for five years and he was ordered to support his wife and children and pay court costs.

Abandonment and non-support: Matthew Roundtree, 18 months on the roads, suspended; placed on probation for five years, pay court costs and pay to the court $15 a week for his family.

Did Greeley Say 'Go West, Young Man'?

Georgetown, Colo. (AP)—A Western historian says Horace Greeley never said it. "Go West, young man, go west," that is, Benjamin Draper of Georgetown insists the phrase first was uttered by John Babson Lane Soule, a Terre Haute, Ind., newspaper editor, in 1851. And Soule wasn't referring at all to the mountain west, Draper said, but rather to the Mississippi valley, then being settled.

great pains to keep the ambassador from knowing what the two groups were doing.

Here's an example of how the two groups didn't know each other's secrets, although the NKVD probably knew more about Zabolot's work than he knew about theirs.

The NKVD wanted to use a certain Canadian Communist whom Zabolot happened to be using and asked Moscow's permission to contact him. Moscow knew all about him and his work for Zabolot and wired back: "Don't touch."

At another time Zabolot asked the head of the NKVD in Canada about another Canadian. The NKVD head, using that man himself although Zabolot didn't know it, said "don't touch."

When Zabolot lined up a Canadian who was willing to spy for him, he'd check on the man, trying to find out his history and reliability. Then he'd wire a full report to Moscow and ask permission to use the Canadian. In time, Moscow would answer back "yes" or "no."

Why the delay? Because it had wired right back to the NKVD, in the embassy with Zabolot, to make a separate, thorough check on the man.

When Zabolot wanted to arrange a meeting between a Soviet agent and a Canadian spy, he'd tell Moscow his plans and ask approval. For instance:

Should the Canadian — so the Soviet agent would identify him — carry a certain afternoon paper under his arm, walk past a certain store at 5 p.m. dressed so-and-so? Moscow might wire back saying something like "make it 11 p.m. and tell him to carry the paper in his hand."

This is only part of the store-

down our throats by such incidents as the escape of the two Russian teachers from the clutches of communism right in New York City? That's waving the red flag in our faces.

We may see lulls in the bolshevist aggression. There are likely to be truces in various places from time to time. The "cold war" is like any other war in that its heavy offensives are followed by pauses for consolidation.

However, the indications are that Moscow has no intention of stopping its drive so long as the Soviet has the strength to carry on. The objective for continental Europe is the English Channel, and the only thing that will halt the Russians will be western Europe's recovery of sufficient strength to hold them.

The Reds have been slowed down and are being held fairly well along their line through central Europe. There is a fair chance that western Europe will get on its feet in time to prevent the Communists from taking possession of more governments by strong-arm methods. If that happens the cold war in Europe will settle down to one of attrition — of Communist infiltration, espionage and sabotage. But the conflict will continue.

Meantime we may expect a rapid increase in the fierceness of the conflict in the orient.

Has Dewey the Courage? Mr. Dewey — if elected — may have the courage to propose such a drastic cure, but he would have great difficulty in getting a Republican or Democratic Congress to go along with him. Hence, I visualize prices to continue high until people stop buying and a national bust follows.

Wallace may be very unwise in his Russian attitude; but he may be a better business prophet than either of the other two candidates. I repeat that gross business should hold up for two or three years. It now is a part of the U. S. military strategy to prevent unemployment. This, however, will be accomplished only at a terrible cost. The longer it continues the bigger the bust.

What About Stocks? This situation I foresee when writing last December my forecast for 1948. I then feared that net profits would decline during the latter part of this year even although gross business remained at high volume. I yet so no reason for changing this forecast even with the probabilities of a Republica victory on November 2nd. I haven't forgotten what Calvin Coolidge once said to me, "Babson, conditions do elect presidents, but presidents do not elect conditions."

WT SOCO

The above is one reason for forecasting that, during the bulk of this year, the Dow-Jones Industrial Averages will range between 165 and 185. I continue to make this forecast. As the campaign speeches warm up, wise investors will see that the Republicans are to be in a terrific dilemma. If Dewey is determined to reduce prices, this means deflation, lower wages, and the removal of price supports. If the Republicans don't deflate but let high prices ride, they are headed for a bust sometime. Hence, it seems advisable to take profits when the Industrial Averages are around 185.

Olympiad Closes Today; U. S. Has Most Champions

Olympic Stadium, Wembley, Eng., Aug. 14—(AP)—The Olympic games close today in solemn glory with the United States clearly established as athletic champ of most of the world.

It might have taken in the rest of the globe, but Russia did not choose to compete and Japan and Germany were not invited.

As it was America won 38 first place individuals or team medals against 17 for second-place Sweden with women's gymnastics still to be announced and the Equestrian Prix de Nations yet to be run off.

Other championship winners were Hungary, 10; France, 8; Italy, 8; Turkey, 6; Holland, 5; Czechoslovakia, 5; Finland, 4; Denmark, 4; Britain, 3; Argentina, 3; South Africa, 2; Australia, 2; Belgium, 2; Egypt, 2; and Peru, Jamaica, Austria, Norway and India, one each.

Nearly 6,000 athletes from 58 nations drew more than 1,500,000 spectators despite blistering heat opening day July 29 and the following day, and rain and cold thereafter. Crowds of 80,000 sat bravely through a steady drizzle day after day to cheer with monotonous succession non-British track victories.

Finally the United States 400 meter relay team was disqualified because officials mistook the baton passing zone marker and Britain was given the victory. British delight of two days turned to sadness however, when the official film gave the verdict back to America.

This was the only off-base incident of the otherwise almost serene games, except for bitter arguments in boxing.

Closing hours brought brilliant but an entirely expected victory in basketball for the United States as the Americans rolled over France 65 to 21.

Boxing ended on a sad note for the U. S. America, holding six of eight world professional championships and considered the very center of the sport, made one of its poorest Olympic showings by failing to win a single title.

Olympic boxing has been characterized by a series of arguments, ousting of large blocs of officials and protests from most of the teams. It has been the only sport on the program subject to continuous public dissension.

French Nervous In Final Contest

London, Aug. 14—(AP)—The American Olympic basketball team claimed the gold medal today for a second successive U. S. triumph in the cage sport.

The towering Yanks swamped the nervous Cinderella kids of France last night, 65-21, handling the ball brilliantly against the scared, fumbling French boys who simply were too nervous to make a fight of it after the opening minutes.

New Haven Conn.—(AP)—Harold W. Kopp, former football assistant at Brown, Harvard Connecticut and Northwestern and now at Yale, played fullback on the 1930 Western Maryland College team that extended the school's winning streak to 27 straight games. The '30 squad won 11 consecutive games. He was also captain of the 1932 squad which lost only one contest, to Bucknell, and was a guard that season.

Patty Berg's brilliant golf record is dotted with great performances on the links but it is extremely doubtful the auburn-haired, chubby Minneapolis miss ever put on a greater show of golfing skill and heart than she did in her uphill triumph over Mrs. Babe Didrickson Zaharias in the women's Western open final on the Skycrest, Chicago course. Patty was four down with only six holes to play when she started her spectacular drive to cut down the famous all-around athlete from Texas. The match ended on the 37th hole which Patty won after outdriving the Babe. The long-hitting Babe's reputation has made much of an impression on Patty. As a matter of fact, Patty posted a 72-hole total of 308 to top her rival in the Augusta Women's Titleholders championship last spring. It marked the fourth time Patty had triumphed in the Augusta classic, having won her previous titles in 1937, '38 and '39 as an amateur.

It is amazing the way Patty manages to keep her game as such a peak with all the demands her job puts on her time. She travels around conducting clinics, playing exhibition matches and spreading the gospel of golf in schools and colleges. Yet she has found time to win just about every American championship at least once since taking up the game of golf back in 1935.

Paige Hurls Big Win For Indians

Chicago, Aug. 14—(AP)—Mr. Buser, leading contender for the national two-year-old championship, today risks his unbeaten record against 10 other swift juveniles in the $75,650 Washington Park Futurity.

Mr. Buser, by winning his fourth important start of his career, can almost triple the record $50,000 paid for him as a yearling in 1946 by Mrs. Elizabeth Graham, owner of Maine Chance Farm.

The six furlong futurity sprint offers a possible $60,750 winner's take.

Risks Unbeaten Record In Sprint

The famous Saturday of Negro baseball fame gave 51,013 Chicago citizens a sample of his old time brilliance last night when he shut out the White Sox 5-0 to pitch the Cleveland Indians back into first place in the torrid American League pennant race.

The Tribe victory, coupled with the New York Yankees 8-5 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics, pushed the Indians back into first place by half a game over Connie Mack's A's. The Indians have won 64 and lost 42 for '48, and the A's have won 65 and lost 45 for '48.

The lean, lanky native of Mobile, Ala., whose age has been estimated at "between 40 and 50," dealt out only five singles and did not issue a single base on balls as he hurled his first complete game in the majors. It was only his second start since he joined the Indians on July 9. At the time he was counted upon "only for relief." He has won four and lost one. He has made nine relief appearances and the Indians were victorious in seven of them.

Hospital Report Says Babe Ruth Holding His Own

New York, Aug. 14—(AP)—The Babe is still in there slugging. Feverish and hardly able to take food, baseball's greatest hitter continued to hold his own today although his condition was reported unimproved. A hospital bulletin said last night that he "rested well during the evening and awakened to speak with his wife."

He managed his famous Babe Ruth grin and a cheerful word for other family members and intimate friends permitted to visit him yesterday.

Late in the afternoon, the Memorial Hospital Center for Cancer and Allied Diseases said his temperature was "slightly lower" than at the same time the previous day.

"He is taking nourishment with difficulty," the hospital said. "His condition is otherwise unchanged."

Pirate Football Material Coach Johnson Lining Up

Coach Jim Johnson of ECTO is busy lining up his Pirate squad for the fall season. "Big Jim," who arrived on the campus last week, will be joined in the next few days by ECTO's new backfield coach, Jack Boone of Portsmouth, Va.

Practice for the 1948 season will begin on September 1, with 50 eligibles on hand. Prospects look good for the Pirates, Johnson says.

Single Wingback Test Against 'T'

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 14—(AP)—The closest possible answer to the long wrangled question of whether, given perfect personnel, the T-formation or single wingback is football's best attack, may evolve in the college all-star camp at Dycus stadium today.

The nation's top college performers in both systems will collide in a regulation game designed by head coach Frank Leahy as a dress rehearsal for the Twin-Sledged offensive planned against the Chicago Cardinals at Soldier Field next Friday night.

There is the making, too, of a showdown between individual Notre Dame and Michigan team whose Irish players, headed by brilliant quarterback Johnny Lujack, in the starting "T" lineup and five single wing starters from the great 1947 Wolverine club.

In all, Leahy has 14 players from his Notre Dame team which "teed" its way to an unbeaten and united season. Thirteen will play with the T unit today, the 14th, defensive quarterback Pete Ashbaugh being loaned to the single wingbacks.

From the Michigan team whose clever wing back attack produced for Fritz Crisler a perfect campaign, capped by the big nine and Rose Bowl titles, Leahy has eight performers.

The single wingers will have three Bulwarks from Penn State.

Close Contest In Stadium Tonight

Baseball fans who like a hard-fought game between closely matched teams can look forward to a good show tonight (7-45) in Guy Smith stadium, when Arthur and Red Oak play.

The league-leading Arthur veterans are currently holding a half-game advantage, and a tight contest is in store for top position in the Pitt league.

Demaret Views His Lead As Not Very Impressive

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 14—(AP)—A three-stroke lead at the half-way mark might impress some golfers, but not Jimmy Demaret, the colorful links expert from Ojai, Calif.

Heading into the third day of the St. Paul Open, Demaret had a 133 compared with the 136 boasted by 300-pound Pat Wilcox, Des Moines, Ia., driving tee operator.

"We all run on the same track," Demaret remarked yesterday after finishing with a red-hot 66, six under par figures for the 6,555-yard Keller course. "There's a tough 36 holes left in this tournament and a lot can happen."

A Win For Czech Women Gymnasts

London, Aug. 14—(AP)—Czechoslovakia won the women's Olympic gymnastics team competition today with a total of 445.45 points. Hungary was second with 440.55 and the United States third with 422.6.

The competition was finished late last night, but the scores were not compiled until today.

Dodger Youth Plan

Rickey, famed for youthful Brooklyn Dodgers of the All-America pro football Conference have cut loose most of the squad's veterans. Only eight players have been in pro ball for more than one season and these eight have only played for pay for two campaigns.

One of the world's largest extinct volcanic craters is in Hawaii. It is 20 miles around and 2720 feet deep.

Keeps Going Up

New York—(AP)—Admiral Jonas Ingram, commissioner of the All-America pro football Conference predicts an increase of from 2550,000 to 300,000 paid admissions over the 2,000,000 his league drew last year in its 56 games, six exhibitions and championship contest. The 1947 total was 500,000 more than the loop drew in its first season.
