New York Truck Strike Eases As Terms Agreed To

No Progress Among Oil Workers And Longshoremen; Scattered Walkouts

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS
New agreements between striking truckers and 226 individual truck concerns sent nearly 2,000 of some 9,400 idle truckers back to work in New York City today.

However, little or no progress was reported in other labor disputes across the nation.

In New York, the agreements were reached on the basis of reduced wage demand by Local 607 of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters. The terms provide wage increases of 17 1/2 cents an hour.

Meanwhile the CIO oil refinery workers strike against six major oil producers in California entered its second week today with no settlement in sight. A gasoline rationing plan was announced and California began importing the motor fuel from Oklahoma.

Also on the west coast, CIO longshore leader Harry Bridges passed the responsibility for loading Army cargo in San Francisco to the shipowners. Previously Secretary of the Army Royall announced Bridges had agreed that his union would load Army cargo during the strike for pre-strike pay and "working conditions."

Royall said the matter has been referred to the Army's stevedoring contractors. In Seattle, the Independent Aeronautical Mechanics Union called off its 140-day old strike against the Boeing Airplane Company, but back-to-work plans were delayed by a jurisdictional battle between the union and the AFL Teamsters Union and by the fact that the company refused to rehire what it called "a small number of subversives."

Boeing said it will try to re-employ the rest of the strikers as rapidly as possible.

Efforts to settle a strike of 1,200 grain handlers in Minneapolis and St. Paul were stalemated. Employers refused to go beyond their offer of a 12 1/2 cent hourly wage increase and the union is holding out for 15 cents.

In Detroit, some 50,000 automobile workers were idle at Briggs, Chrysler and Packard plants because of a walkout of 170 independent union plant guards at Briggs.

Eric Johnston In Moscow To Trade

Moscow, Sept. 11—(AP)—Eric A. Johnston, president of the motion picture association of America, arrived in Moscow by air today.

"I have come here to try to sell some pictures," he told reporters at the airport.

He added that he hopes to see Prime Minister Stalin. He last saw Stalin on a trip to Russia in 1944, when Johnston was president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Fire Threatens Food Warehouse

Amsterdam, Sept. 11—(AP)—A huge fire broke out this morning in the Blaauwkeers cold storage warehouses, the largest of Europe, and threatened to destroy Amsterdam's winter stocks of food.

The fire raged in two sections of the enormous warehouses and threatened to spread to a third one.

BOMB PRELUDE?

Seoul, Sept. 11—(AP)—The Soviet sponsored North Korean government demanded today that the United States and Russia withdraw their troops from Korea.

Such withdrawal could be the prelude to civil war.

Jealousy Among Nations Of Western Europe Delayed Allotting Of Funds America Set Aside In Marshall Plan Aid; Finally Accomplished; Germany A Sore Spot

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Sept. 11—(AP)—There it was: the Marshall plan, with about $5,000,000,000 given to non-Communist western Europe.

All the countries had to do to get it was to agree among themselves on how much each one's share would be.

It took them from last April, when Congress approved the plan, until yesterday to reach an agreement. Why so long?

Jealousy, for one thing. Jealousy among the nations. Each one wanting as much as it could get and wanting the other not to get too much.

And, in one case after another, these nations as a whole had to beat down one another's estimates, since there was only $5,000,000,000 to go around.

One of the sorest stumbling blocks was western Germany, or rather the two western zones of Germany occupied by the United States and Britain.

One of the main reasons for the Marshall Plan is to stop the spread of Communism by getting western Europe on its feet.

And one of the main points in this country's foreign policy is to

Rules On Buying Autos Affected

New Instalment Plan Regulations Effective Sept. 20

Washington, Sept. 11—(AP)—These new Federal Reserve Board rules for buying automobiles on the instalment plan will go into effect September 20.

A down payment of one-third the cash price must be made on pre-1938 models, or new 1949 models, or other new cars.

For 1938-48 model cars the down payment must be either one-third the cash price or one-third the "average retail value."

If the balance after the down payment is over $1,000, 18 months will be allowed for full payment. The period will be 15 months if the balance is less than $1,000.

"Average retail value" is determined by checking official price guides. The Reserve Board listed along with its announcement of the new instalment regulations. To make up for price differences in various parts of the country, the board specified these areas for each guide:

States east of the Mississippi River—American auto appraisal market analysis report. x x x

If the guides list overvalues of automatic transmissions as extra equipment, that is to be included as part of the car's value, but that does not apply to radios or heaters.

Close Watch On Tropical Storm

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Sept. 11—(AP)—Weather observers kept watch on a small tropical storm in the Atlantic today.

The storm, with winds of 40 to 45 miles per hour near the center, was about 325 miles east northeast of Antigua, British West Indies, moving westward at about 14 miles an hour. That would place it about 1,900 miles east southeast of the Florida mainland.

Original Schedule Of Allotments Reduced To Provide $50 Millions For American-British Zones In Germany

Paris, Sept. 11—(AP)—The nations of western Europe today reached the first milestone in working together for mutual recovery when their delegates agreed on the division of $4,875,000,000 in American aid funds.

The decision for the first year of the European Recovery Program (ERP) embraces a system of intra-European assistance which has still to be filled out by an agreement on currency exchanges.

The council of the European Economic Cooperation Organization (OEEC) prepared these agreements in a six-hour session last night. Work on the scheme for currency payments will continue today.

As soon as the council agrees to the currency proposals it will go to work on the details of the 1948-49 recovery program for submission to the American Economic Cooperation. Each participating nation is to alter its program to conform with the aid allotments drawn up last night. The complete program should be ready by Sept. 25.

The proposed division of American aid for the first year, as revealed by the council, gave Britain the greatest amount—$1,223,000,000. This was a cut of $100,000,000 from the British portion in the schedule originally drawn by the council's subcommittee of experts.

This reduction, along with cuts in the amounts granted France, Italy, Sweden and the Netherlands, went to make up $50,000,000 extra granted to the British-American Bizon of Germany. France's allotment was reduced $20,000,000, the Netherlands $10,000,000 and Italy and Sweden $5,000,000 each.

France drew the highest amount after Britain—$989,000,000. Other allotments included Italy, $606,000,000; the Netherlands, $496,000,000 of which $84,000,000 is earmarked for the East Indies; Belgium, $250,000,000; Austria, $217,000,000; Denmark, $110,000,000; Norway $94,000,000; Eire $79,000,000; Turkey, $50,000,000; Sweden, $42,000,000; Trieste, $18,000,000, and Iceland $11,000,000.

No Trace Found Of Lost Bomber

Frankfort, Germany, Sept. 11—(AP)—A U. S. air force spokesman said today the American B-29 bomber which disappeared more than a week ago after its crew bailed out over the Netherlands is presumed to have dropped into the Baltic sea. He said the plane itself had not been found.

A propeller which fell from the craft near Hamburg was identified by its serial number.

Army Assigning Reserve Groups

Washington, Sept. 11—(AP)—The Army, with half its potential draftees signed up, is readying its reserves for swift action if there is ever a military emergency.

Under a plan announced yesterday, reserve officers are being assigned to units which will be called up in an emergency to support present combat divisions. Other officers are being listed as military instructors.

Revises Tour

Washington, Sept. 11—(AP)—President Truman has abandoned plans for a lengthy southern campaign tour, friends said today as the Dixie revolt against his civil rights program mounted.

While Mr. Truman will make some appearances in the south, they said, strategic speaking spots either will be selected on a brief, single-trip basis or added to other general schedules.

Draft Board Has 2,710 Registered

An Estimated 2,200 Remain To Be Registered In Pitt

The Pitt County Draft Board through yesterday registered 2,710 men between the ages of 21 and 25, Mrs. Selma W. Evans, chief clerk of the board said.

The state draft office estimated at the beginning of registration that the local board should register 4,900 men during the registration period.

Registration will cease next Saturday and all men between the ages of 18 and 25 who have not registered will be subject to action under the federal draft act. Mrs. Evans pointed out that men who did not register on the day of their age group will be allowed to register during the last week.

Members of the county draft board expressed appreciation to the following individuals and business firms who have contributed time and equipment to the registration:

Demands for elections were voiced again yesterday by De Gaulle as he started a political tour of South-eastern France and Corsica. He is scheduled to make almost 100 speeches in eight days. In an address at Avignon, he said:

Twelve Survived Sinking Of Ship

Willemsdam, Curacao, Sept. 11—(AP)—A radio message from the master of the Norwegian motor vessel Caribbe said today three crewmen and nine passengers survived the sinking of the circus ship Euzkara.

The 12 are aboard the Caribbe, which picked them up from a lifeboat after the 140-foot Euzkara went down in a storm off the Colombian coast Sept. 5.

A total of 56 persons and 50 animals, including trained lions, tigers, monkeys, horses and dogs were believed aboard the Euzkara.

Babson Discusses Politics

Babson Park, Mass., Sept. 11—I am a statistician and not a politician. Moreover, I always vote the Prohibition ticket rather than that of either of the two big parties. Hence, perhaps I am not worthy to discuss politics. But, as my mother used to say, "I like to see even the devil get his due." Therefore, as the presidential campaign is now opening, the members of both parties should ponder over the following figures.

What The Record Shows
With all the cussing we give President Truman, statistics show that since his administration this country has had the highest national income in its history. At the risk of repeating some facts which I have already stated, let me emphasize that the volume of U. S. business has

Russia Accepts Paris Parley On Italian Colonies

Provisional Acceptance Is Reported; Talks Hinge On Britain And France

Moscow, Sept. 11—(AP)—Tass, the Soviet news agency, said today Russia had given provisional acceptance to an American proposal for a four-power meeting in Paris Monday on the fate of Italy's pre-war colonies. Tass quoted a Soviet note addressed to the United States yesterday. It said Russian acceptance hinged upon acceptance of the U. S. proposal by Britain and France.

The Soviet note said the American reply to a Russian proposal last week for a meeting of Foreign Ministers council on the colonies did not correspond "to conditions of the peace treaty with Italy."

A week ago the Soviet Union suggested to the U. S. Britain and France that the four Foreign Ministers meet on the colonies question before Sept. 15.

The Russian note said both Britain and France had agreed to a council meeting, but added the "refusal of the United States to send her Secretary of State (George C. Marshall) to the meeting makes impossible a meeting of the council of Foreign Ministers as such and thus violates the Italian peace treaty."

It was reported in Washington yesterday Marshall is not due to arrive in Paris until Sept. 19 to attend the opening of the U. N. general assembly Sept. 21. State Department officials said there would be no immediate comment on the Russian note.

The note accused the United States of a "completely arbitrary and unacceptable" act in suggesting in her note to Russia Sept. 8 that a council of the four foreign ministers themselves would not be of much use if the Russians had no new proposals to put forward.

Premier Offers 'Fatal' Program

Budget Cuts And New Taxes Brought Past Downfalls

Paris, Sept. 11—(AP)—Premier Henri Queuille today offered France a program of budget reductions and increased taxes in an attempt to get the nation back on its financial feet.

Backed by a national assembly vote of 351 to 196, confirming him as Premier, Queuille sought to form a new Centrist government.

He offered the nation a financial policy along the same general lines as his two predecessors, Andre Marie and Robert Schuman. The same policies caused the downfall of the two governments.

To adherents of Gen. Charles De Gaulle, the Premier tendered a vague promise to consider the general elections which they are demanding. He said the question of elections will be taken up with the assembly after the country's financial difficulties are solved.

This apparently was not enough to win the support of the De Gaulleists, but they refrained from voting against Queuille, most of them registering absentions.

Demands for elections were voiced again yesterday by De Gaulle as he started a political tour of South-eastern France and Corsica. He is scheduled to make almost 100 speeches in eight days. In an address at Avignon, he said:

"I am ready to assure the destiny of the country. I am sure of the country's choice when it is given a chance to express itself."

Wallace Is Given Big Reception

New York, Sept. 11—(AP)—Henry A. Wallace, back from his hectic Southern tour, got a booming reception last night from a crowd of 48,000 at Yankee Stadium.

Sponsors called the rally the biggest paid-admission political meeting in the history of the United States.

Wallace, interrupted frequently by long and thunderous applause, told the throng that he had tasted the "ugly realities of fascism" during his tour of the South.

Food Outlook Is Brightened With Crop Forecasts

Bumper Harvests Indicated; Farmers May Receive $13 Billion For Crops

Washington, Sept. 11—(AP)—Official forecasts of bumper 1948 harvests—both in volume and value—brightened food prospects today for consumers and farmers alike.

The Agriculture Department's latest crop survey indicates that farmers may get about $13,388,000,000 for this year's production of wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, peanuts and rice. Last year these crops were valued at $12,287,517,000.

The department's forecast yesterday noted that production of all crops this year tops the record set in 1946 and is 135 percent of the 1923-32 average.

Although the tally sheets made no breakdown in the figures to show what the record output will mean to the consumer, Agriculture Department spokesmen have said that meat supplies will become more plentiful next year with more feed grains available for livestock. Such an increase could be expected to bring some reduction in prices.

Here is how the department sized up this year's harvest: (Cash estimates are unofficial):

Corn—3,528,815,000 bushels, more than a billion bushels above the output last year, with a value at the farm of about $6,740,000,000 as compared with $5,432,785,000 in 1947.

Cotton—15,219,000 bales, crop worth about $2,758,000,000. Such a return would be half a billion dollars above last year and break the record of $2,348,526,000 set in 1919.

Peanuts—2,302,405,000 pounds as compared with last year's crop of $2,187,985,000. At the government support price this figure about $249,000,000 worth—which would break the record return of $227,000,000 last year.

Tobacco—1,787,723,000 pounds as compared with 2,107,763,000 in 1947. At the August 15 average price to farmers this would mean a value of about $947,000,000. Last year's crop was worth $912,169,000. The record of $1,046,442,000 was set in 1946.

Investigation Of Belgian Realtors

Firms Demanding U. S. Cemeteries Lamented By Press

Brussels, Belgium, Sept. 11—(AP)—Government investigations were under way today into the action of two real estate firms which have demanded the evacuation of a cemetery containing 12,000 American war dead near Namur.

The Interior Ministry is conducting an investigation. The other is being carried out by the office of Prime Minister Paul-Henri Spaak.

"Our only wish," said Edmond Struyf, the premier's deputy chief of cabinet, "is to take every action we can against the two real estate corporations if such actions prove justified."

Meanwhile the Brussels press lambasted the two corporations for what it termed their "scandalous" disrespect toward the American war heroes "who were the ransom of our liberty."

The cemetery served notice that the cemetery be evacuated within eight days, but a Belgian government spokesman said yesterday the government may expropriate the land in order to make sure that American military government authorities remain in undisputed possession of the cemetery.

An Hour In Jail For Progressive

Atlanta, Sept. 11—(AP)—The Progressive Party's candidate for governor of Georgia, James A. Barfoot, spent an hour in the Atlanta jail yesterday rather than post $17 bond.

Police Capt. J. F. Brown had charged him with creating a disturbance and violating the city's anti-noise ordinance. Brown said Barfoot operated a sound truck in the Negro district "so loud it could be heard for blocks."

In Close Touch

Moscow, Sept. 11—(AP)—A reliable source said today the envoys of the United States, Britain and France are exchanging important messages with their home capitals on the next step in the four-power talks on the Berlin crisis.

(Western diplomatic sources in London said the three envoys had been instructed to seek an immediate new meeting with Prime Minister Stalin on a settlement of the Berlin problem. They said the United States, Britain and France would ask the United Nations to investigate if the bid should fail.)

U. S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith was routed from his bed at 3 a. m. by his minister-counselor, Foy Kohler, to answer messages from Washington.

The talk with Stalin, if it materializes, would be the third in which he participated.

The obvious aim was to build up tomorrow's Communist counter-attack in the Soviet sector and intensify Communist demands that Berliners must kick out the elected anti-Communist city government.

Meanwhile, the Russian-licensed news agency ADN reported last night that a German-led spy ring "supported" by American and British authorities, had been smashed in Eastern Germany with the arrest of 15 agents.

The report said all the arrested agents were under orders from Kurt Schumacher, Social Democrat leader in Western Germany, and had "the fullest support of American and British occupation authorities."

It hinted at Schumacher's Socialists' alleged underground through Russian zone.

The licensed newspaper Telegraf said today thousands of the Russian-indoctrinated "Free German" army are to be armed and stationed at strategic points in the Soviet zone of Germany.

The newspaper claimed the members of the army reportedly led by Field Marshal Friedrich von Paulus and Walther von Seydlitz were being retrained.

The two field marshals were captured by the Russians at Stalingrad with several hundred thousand men. After Communist indoctrination they headed Moscow's wartime "Free Germany Committee." Their army is reported to include many Stalingrad veterans and other war prisoners recruited for Communist training camps.

(Count Heinrich von Helldorf, great grandson of Bismarck who yesterday was convicted of possessing "false papers" by an American court in Germany, was reportedly once chief of staff for Von Paulus.)

Telegraf claimed these "Bolshevist-schooled" soldiers were to be armed with mortars and machine guns and stationed throughout the Soviet zone as "police" battalions.

The report was given credence "a allied intelligence quarters. If true, two Russian purposes would be served. It would give them immediate strong-arm support for the unpopular Communist regime in the occupation zone.

The soldiers also would prove at least a nucleus for a Soviet zone army if the Western Allies should accept Russian proposals for withdrawal of all occupation forces from Germany.

Call On Assembly To Intervene In Greek Situation

Athens, Sept. 11—(AP)—The United Nations commission on the Balkans has called on the U. N. general assembly to intervene in the Greek situation, it was learned today.

In a report to the general assembly, about to meet in Paris, Unesco is reported to have called for action in view of what it termed the existing threat to Greek independence and political integrity.

Builders Found 'Radical' Houses Drug On Market

A few years ago there was a strong trend toward using new materials for "radical" houses of "modern" design. But consumer resistance to this type of home was found to be strong and a number of manufacturers now are producing homes of steel and aluminum which look like traditional houses.

One manufacturer of an enameled steel house built a prototype in Chicago several months ago. Thirty thousand people came to see it.

That company took 20,000 orders, but the spokesman says those orders probably never will be filled. He expects most of his homes to be erected in planned housing developments in which hundreds and even thousands of houses will be built at the same time.

Many companies are still thinking in terms of filling individual orders by individual home owners and some department stores have been taking orders for houses to be delivered to the customer's lot. But an engineer for a company sponsoring the mass production of houses from relatively orthodox materials sounds the same note as the spokesman for the steel house.

"The trend toward community planning in building is the most significant factor in construction plans today," this man says.

A number of community projects already have been completed on various types of "prefabricated" houses. One sponsor of a method of cement construction says his method is impractical for less than 200 houses in one location.

Another factor which may be pushing some prefabricators into community planning is the resistance to changes in building codes to permit the use of new materials and methods in existing communities. At a recent meeting sponsored by the National Committee on Housing, Inc., several unorthodox builders said they were experiencing gratifying success in having building codes changed to permit their type of construction.

One man said he voiced the general hope of mass producers of houses that codes would be changed when communities sponsoring them see other areas getting better homes at less cost.

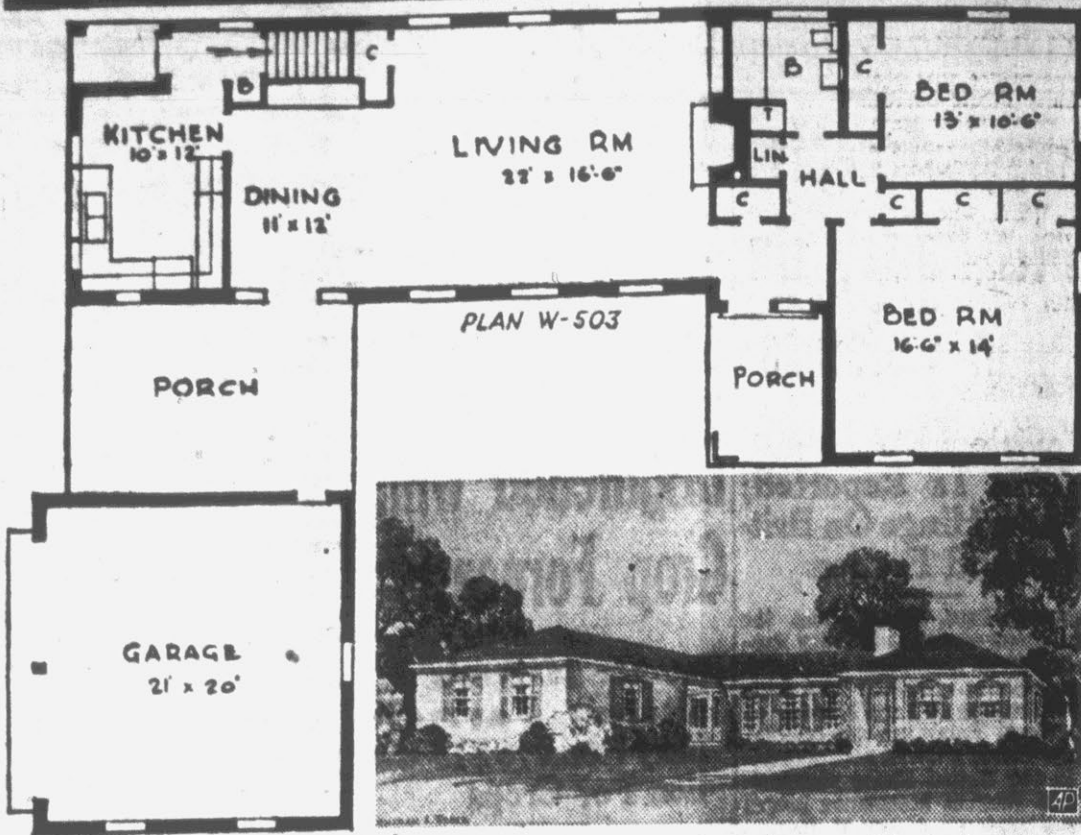

Asks Damages In Links Accident

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 11—(AP)—J. Homer Houston of West Grove, Pa., is suing a Delaware man in U.S. district court for $5,000 damages for injuries received when struck by a golf ball.

Houston, in a suit filed yesterday, charges John B. Scott of Lancaster Village, a suburb of Wilmington, struck him with a ball after teeing off on the 18th hole Sept. 21 at the Kennett Square (Pa.) Golf and Country Club.

Houston, who said he was preparing to start a round of golf with three friends, claimed the ball fractured his left leg.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP Newsfeatures—A small house that looks like a mansion, this design in French tradition is given warmth and dignity by restrained touches of formality. Curtained windows in the garage at the left give the appearance of many rooms. Sleeping quarters are well removed from noises of the living area. This is design W-503 by Bertram A. Weber, 221 No. La Salle St., Chicago 1, Ill. The main house, without porch and garage, covers 1,481 square feet and contains 22,897 cubic feet. White-painted brick is suggested.

Recreation Room Helps Family Find More Enjoyment In Home

A recreation room can be a key factor in helping Americans to "enjoy living at home." Although the idea might have horrified the early Puritans, who disapproved of any form of play or amusement, the value of good wholesome fun and recreation has long since been established. And what better place to find it than right at home?

Attractively yet simply furnished a recreation room is always ready for fun and lots of it. A versatile room, it can also take care of extra guests at a moment's notice with the aid of a comfortable, modern sofa bed—two sofa beds are even better if a college son or daughter brings home several friends at a time.

Many sofa beds are not only suitable in design for a recreation room, but are also covered with fabrics which can take plenty of hard wear. No kin whatever to old-fashioned convertible monstrosities, modern sofa beds have profited from many construction improvements. Easily opened into full size double beds, they offer top sleeping comfort. Literally on the job day or night, they provide comfortable lounging space, too.

Other furnishings should be equally functional and appropriate. A good start is a floor covering which can take lots of punishment and is easily kept clean. This saves time for a busy homemaker and also makes light of the inevitable spilled refreshments which might ruin an expensive rug. A ping-pong table is practically an essential. Its value is more than just for a game for it makes a wonderful buffet table as well. Pin-up lamps are a safety measure for they leave the floor free of cords and lamps which might cause accidents.

Factory-Built Homes Not Much More Than Trickle

By SHERRY BOWEN

The whole family can work together to make the room just the way they want it. Dad and the boys might build some bookcases and storage cabinets to line the walls. Old orange crates or plywood are inexpensive materials. Paint and decals will finish the job with colorful appeal. Plenty of storage space is a "must" to hold all the games and recreation equipment which accumulates. The girls in the family can whip up draperies and pillow covers of sturdy, colorful material. Plan their plenty of free space in the center of the room—use every available bit of wall space to advantage.

A recreation room is a great relief for mothers. It's a safe spot for little children who must play indoors on cold or rainy days. Mother needn't fear that a speeding tricycle will connect with precious furniture. The "rec" room also has what is takes to encourage teenage youngsters and their friends to spend more time at home in a wholesome environment. Parents find it grand for entertaining their friends. The informal atmosphere lends to the fun of a party and more active games are possible than in the living room. And of course, it's always grand for just the family when all are home together.

Factory-built homes have not solved the American housing problem, but manufacturers who have invested millions of dollars are confident. Each is usually sure that his answer is best and that, given time, his building methods can flood the country with all the homes it can use.

The difficulty is that there are too many answers to the question, "What's ahead for the pre-fabs?" There is even disagreement over the word "pre-fabrication." That term has been used for many years, but some house builders insist that their operations go far beyond mere prefabrication and that their products should be called "industrialized houses."

At least two associations of factory house builders reflect to some extent in their names a growing cleavage in building ideas. One is the Prefabricated Home Manufacturers' Institute. The other is the National Industrial Housing Association.

The institute estimated recently that there were 200 "highly acceptable" producers with capacity to produce 300,000 homes a year on a single shift basis. But at that time they were working at 20 percent of single shift capacity largely because of shortages.

While many thousands of prefabricated houses have been built, this number is pitiful compared with a housing demand which building men measure in millions.

It is the problem of producing houses on the millions basis which many companies are tackling. And they are coming up with a wide variety of answers.

Some experts believe that mass production, mass selling and mass planning can be applied to orthodox building methods. In many instances this type of producer moves many of the traditional building operations under a factory roof and fabricates house parts just as mills have fabricated window frames for many years.

There are many gradations between this type of prefabricator and the producer who seeks his answers in new types of design, new types of materials and new methods of production.

One engineer suggests that a house is essentially a framework, something like a bird cage on which clothes in the form of sheathing may be hung. He estimates that in producing this framework-with-clothes a foot of lumber, a pound of steel or a little more than a half pound of aluminum will do the same work. Various forms of plastic are also available, but many builders doubt they will be abundant or cheap enough to be significant.

On the average, there are six church fires, six school fires, and two hospital fires in the U.S. each day.

Observe Opening Of New Highway

Several hundred citizens of Beaufort and Pitt counties attended a barbecue yesterday in Washington celebrating the opening of the new Pictious highway connecting Greenville, Pictious and Washington.

The barbecue was sponsored jointly by the Washington Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Lions and Rotary clubs of that city and the Pictious Ruritan club. All persons living on the new Pictious highway were invited to the outing.

Informal talks were made by several prominent Eastern North Carolinians after the barbecue had been served. Congressman Herbert C. Bonner said the new highway is another step in the building of farm-to-market roads in the state, but he pointed to the need for more highways of the kind, and to an extended rural electrification program in the state.

Other speakers included Dr. L. R. Swindell, mayor of Washington, John G. Clark of Greenville, state highway commissioner, Noah Lee, president of the Pictious Ruritan club, Wayland Sermons and Edmund Harding of Washington.

The barbecue was originally scheduled to be held at Pictious, but because of rains late yesterday afternoon it was held in Sermons warehouse in Washington.

Cornfield Site Of Buried Cash

Lenoir, Sept. 11—(AP)—Officers say $6,320 in cash has been dug up from a cornfield and returned to a wealthy Charlotte woman. Her practical nurse to whom she entrusted it for safekeeping has taken a warrant charging a man with stealing the money. The man says he buried it in a fruit jar in the cornfield only for safekeeping.

Here are the details of the mystery, which is expected to be cleared up when Allie D. Adkins is called to answer a larceny charge in court here Sept. 21.

Sheriff George D. Greer says Adkins went into the cornfield near his father's home two miles west of here and dug up it.

Mrs. Ruby Staley of Charlotte, a practical nurse and companion of Mrs. Bohannon has taken a warrant charging Adkins with larceny. Adkins is a Caldwell county native who now lives in Charlotte.

The sheriff quoted Adkins as saying he was driving Mrs. Staley and her father back to Charlotte from Washington, D. C. when he and Mrs. Staley got out and took a taxi. She discovered the money missing from her handbag, came back to Lenoir and took the warrant.

Hundreds Birds Fall Into Street

New York, Sept. 11—(AP)—Hundreds of birds fell dead to the streets early today in the vicinity of the Empire State Building.

Agents of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals hurried to the scene but could offer no explanation.

Police said dead and dying birds of several species littered Fifth Avenue in front of the world's tallest building, and that others were strewn on side streets.

The falling birds, in some cases, landed on tops of automobiles. Others smashed against the windshields of passing cars.

Many of them had yellow breasts. Agents of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals hurried to the scene but could offer no explanation.

SPCA agents said many of them appeared to be songbirds, especially warblers.

Lee S. Crandall, general curator at the Bronx Zoo, said that the birds may have crashed into the Empire State Building during a migratory flight.

He said that the autumn southward migration of warblers, thrushes and other songbirds has begun and that it is possible a large flock hit the building.

Amendment Would Relax Public Debt Limitations

By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, Sept. 11—There have always been some constitutional limitations upon the power of the general assembly on behalf of the state, and upon county and town governing boards for their liabilities, to contract debt. Prior to 1937 these restrictions amounted to very little in practical application.

Inevitable result of this virtually unlimited debt contracting authority was that during the boom years of the late 20's many counties and municipalities ran riot in borrowing easy money in order to keep up with their neighbors—who also were operating on borrowed capital. Just as inevitable was the result that in depression years of the early 30's most of these local government units found themselves in distress.

Out of that situation came the local government commission headed by Charles M. Johnson, subsequently appointed and several times elected as state treasurer and continuing as ex-officio head of the commission.

Survey of conditions by Johnson led him to conclusion that some limit should be placed upon the authority to contract public debt, but he believed that the local government act was sufficient to take care of the situation. However, the late A. J. Maxwell, commissioner of revenue, and Dr. Clarence Poe advocated a constitutional amendment limiting new debt to two-thirds of the amount retired during the preceding fiscal period—unless the new obligation was approved by majority vote of all the people in a popular election. Such amendment was submitted by the 1936 general assembly and ratified at the 1936 general election, becoming effective for local units immediately and for the state as of the 1937 legislature.

There is no doubt this constitutional provision saved many local government units bankruptcy and contributed materially to the sound financial position of the state. But many thoughtful people believe it has served its purpose and should now be removed from the constitution.

Up to now the state itself has not suffered from the limitations imposed, but some local units are feeling existing conditions. Counties and cities which still owe large amounts can borrow more without popular vote on basis of last year's debt retirement local units which have paid off their debts cannot borrow without approval of a popular plebiscite.

On first glance that might seem all right. Consideration of special cases shows it is not. There might be, for instance, need for one or two school houses, or a court house, or a public health building in some county. The county commissioners would like to issue bonds sufficient for the immediate need. But there comes in the question of community pride and rivalry, and the commissioners know they must advocate several not so badly needed buildings in other communities in order to carry the election. Result is that the county is socked with a half million dollars or larger bond issue, when perhaps a hundred thousand dollars would have met the needs.

Mother Dislikes Cigars For Baby

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 11—(AP)—Other people may think it's "cute" to see 22-month-old Lawrence Phillips, Jr., smoking a cigar—but his mother doesn't.

Mrs. Phillips said last night she's trying to break him of the habit "but it's worth a year of my life to put up with the screaming" when she tries to take a cigar away from him.

She said he acquired the habit from others—not from members of the family—who thought it humorous to see him puff on a cigar.

"As long as he doesn't see a cigar," she said, "he has no desire for one. But he comes into the restaurant where I work and other people give them to him."

"I think he'll outgrow it. He's just a little fresh right now. He's really a normal boy."

The Phillips home was flooded with letters of advice—some critical—after publication yesterday of the child's fondness for cigars. Telephone calls came from as far as Boston and Washington, the tot's mother said.

Mrs. John Stancil Brown

Brown-Edwards

Miss Dorothy Jean Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Edwards of Greenville, was united in marriage with Mr. John Stancil Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Brown of Greenville, in an informal candlelight ceremony at 8 o'clock Saturday evening at the home, Rev. Colvin G. Harris officiated at the double ring ceremony. The hall was decorated with white and green, and one seven branched candelabra. The couple were married before an altar banked with orange ferns, huckleberry and plumosa greens and decorated with tall standards of white gladioli and white asters. Twelve and nine branched candelabra were used in the background. The kneeling bench, beautifully decorated was used to complete the setting.

For traveling the bride was attired in a grey sardine suit with black accessories. She wore the orchids lifted from her bouquet. After a wedding trip to Florida the couple will make their home near Greenville.

On Friday evening immediately following the rehearsal for the Brown-Edwards wedding Mr. and Mrs. Henry Edwards entertained informally at the home.

The host and hostess greeted their guests and directed them to the dining room.

The dining room was indeed lovely with its color scheme of green and white. The buffet was centered with a bouquet of asters and tuberoses, and the soft glow from ivory candles blended perfectly with the arrangement of the table.

At one end of the table a three tiered cake laced with white and surmounted by a miniature bride and groom was served by Mrs. G. T. Braxton, Jr. and at the other end Mrs. R. B. Starling and Mrs. L. W. Edwards served punch, salted nuts and mints.

About 40 guests enjoyed Mr. and Mrs. Henry Edwards' hospitality.

Mr. Stancil, son of the late Joe Rance and Mary Ann Cox Mills, was born and reared near Cox's Mill. He had lived in that community practically all his life until three years ago when he went to live with his son. He was a member of Rose Hill Free Will Baptist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Della Hardee Mills; four sons, Frank, Grimesland, and Luther J., Marion and T. Floyd Mills of Greenville; 42 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. Mary Hardee of near Kinston.

Salesman Fined In Police Court; Had No License

In Police Court yesterday Judge J. W. H. Roberts found Harrison Appleby, itinerant magazine salesman, guilty of soliciting in Greenville without a permit from the police and taxed him with court costs and ordered him not to solicit in Greenville for two years.

The charge of assault and trespassing at the home of Mrs. Johnnie Overton on Elm Street was dismissed with a warning from the court. It had been reported to police that Appleby had used "high pressure" methods to sell his magazines to Mrs. Overton and represented himself to be representing the Veterans of Foreign Wars post. VFW officials denied this.

Marion K. Williams was not guilty of driving while drunk, but the court fined him $15 for being drunk. John Seamster and Moses Wooten, the last named colored, each paid $11.75 for gambling.

Robert Lee Pollard paid $25 for reckless driving.

Claude Blaw paid $15 for being drunk and disorderly and using profane language.

In the case of Jack Ray Moye, charged with breaking and entering, probable cause was found and he was bound over to Superior Court under $500 bond.

Abner R. Stepps, non-support, was given 90 days on the roads, sentenced on payment of $10 costs.

Theresa Williams, 30 days on the roads, suspended on probation for three months and pay $10 a week for support of his family.

Juanita Jones, colored, assault with a deadly weapon, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $20 costs deducted.

Louella Barnes, colored, paid $20 costs deducted, for assault with a deadly weapon and trespass.

Judge Roberts fined William Davis, colored, $10 for contempt of court.

Police Are Holding Nocturnal Prowler's Pants At Station

While Hyman, colored, who lives at 101-B East First street, reported to police early today that he had found a pair of pants on his front porch about daylight. Police took the pants to headquarters and searched them. They found a pocketbook containing $25 and a Draft Board card bearing the name of Thomas E. Strider.

Shortly after this, David Daniels, colored, who lives at 100 Evans street, reported to police that a white man wearing a white shirt and shorts, but no pants, had tried to break into his house about 2 a. m.

Police are investigating.

ion of India interlocks with the bitter politico-religious clash between India and Pakistan.

This hostility has all but brought the two dominions to open warfare over the princely state of Kashmir whose population is mainly Moslem but whose Maharajah, a Hindu, elected to join predominantly Hindu India. Troops of both dominions are in Kashmir and there has been fighting which has threatened to become general. A United Nations commission on the ground has been unable to achieve peace.

With the foregoing as a preface it is easy to understand the meaning of the statement by the foreign minister of Pakistan, Sir Mohamud Zafarullah, who charges that India's policy in the Hyderabad dispute will lead to a "communal bloodbath" which could engulf the subcontinent. Of course he is viewing the situation through the hostile eyes of Pakistan, whereas India holds the Nizam responsible for the crisis.

Irrespective of responsibility, however, the fact remains that the consensus of observers seem to be a "communal bloodbath" is a possibility. The Indian peninsula has seen this bloody communal strife for generations, but never before has a division of the country as exists in the dominions of Pakistan and India.

The position is so grave that the United States embassy at New Delhi has announced aerial evacuation of American and British nationals from Hyderabad will begin in a few days. It is estimated that there are 40 British and 300 Americans in the state.

Strength FOR THE DAY

CHRISTIAN DOCTRINE OF CREATION

Modern religious thinking has not given sufficient consideration to the matter of creation. Its religious significance is indicated by the fact that it is the first thing with which the Word of God deals. Men have fallen into squabbling groups over the question, how God created the world. The important thing is that He did create it, regardless of the method used. "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth."

Men pass by lightly today the matter of divine creation. They look to science to explain creation, when the very best science can be expected to do is to describe it. After science has said its last word it that day ever arrives—religion will have something to say about creation infinitely more glorious than science can ever affirm. "By the word of the Lord the heavens were made, and all the host of them by the breath of his mouth" (Ps. 33:6). "All things were made by him; and without him was not anything made that was made" (John 1:3).

Thus does the word of God maintain that creation is primarily a religious rather than a scientific matter.

ABOUT SANITATION

As chairman of the City Sanitary Department I wish to give to the public some of our main laws on sanitation. First, weed cutting; we do have a law on that, and where it is a health menace, (mosquito breeding places, harboring of rats, snakes, etc.) such a situation should be reported to the police department for action. This also applies to yards where unsanitary conditions breed flies, mosquitoes, etc. We have a law against open privies, of which there are some over 400 in the city limits and subject to fines any day if one will prosecute the owner of the property. Since I have been chairman of the department, I have spent a great deal of time visiting both white and colored sections, and many have cooperated in cutting weeds, cleaning up yards, etc., but some have refused. Let's all cooperate and not wait for the law to force us.

There has been a great deal said lately through the press and by the public about the deplorable conditions in the colored section and about unsanitary privies which I will have to admit—and after an extensive visit through all these sections, not only open privies, but also filthy yards, lack of garbage cans, and so on.

There is now, and has been for some time, a drive through the Colored League to teach the colored people good sanitation in their homes, and to me it is appalling that some of our greedy money people will allow the filthy privies they have in the back yards to say nothing of the breeding places of flies and the health menace to our entire population.

They were given 30 days to put all these privies in a sanitary condition, with not more than 2 percent giving any attention at all; and then the board of aldermen saw fit to give them 2 more weeks.

Will some intelligent person answer me this question? Just what is their intention?

What are we going to do about it? We still have some just south of Greenville and if violators of the law persist, then our courts should handle the matters.

PERPLEXITIES—The state board of education had several perplexing problems to face at its meeting Friday. Most of them derived from delayed opening of schools because of polio, some were of more chronic nature, all inhere in the idea of dual state-local operation of the public school system. REC-MANNING

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—It isn't that everybody wants to make money. Everyone knows how to make money—work hard, save half of what you earn and buy stocks whose profits multiply like rabbits. The fact that more people don't make money is proof that they are allergic to the first ingredient in the formula—hard work.

They don't find the second ingredient palatable. They'd rather be shiftless than thrifty.

But one thing everyone likes to do is to inherit money. If you can't find money—and every year there seems to be less and less of it left lying around loose—the next best thing to do is to inherit it. This is one of mankind's oldest daydreams.

Teachers have been allotted for them on basis of previous attendance; and they will almost certainly remain for the full school term. In effect, board action means establishment of a school at the Forsyth TB hospital, similar to operations at the State orthopedic hospital at Gastonia.

PRECEDENT—It is recognized that this action to some extent establishes a precedent, and if other tax supported TB hospitals have enough school age patients to justify, teachers may have to be allotted. On the other hand, the precedent of allotting teachers for temporary emergency conditions in a private hospital would probably occasion many headaches.

UNFORTUNATE—There is full sympathy for the plight of sick or handicapped children. Dr. Clyde Erwin has for years advocated appropriation to provide teachers who would visit homes of such handicapped children and assist in their education. Difficulties have been regarded as insuperable. Although the state constitution guarantees a public school education for every child, it is obviously impossible to meet the full obligation with respect to every individual who cannot be fitted into the normal scheme of things.

No boy was ever more polite to an old lady. I even petted her small spitz dog, a dirty-white, nasty-tempered beast that bit me in the ankle at least once a week. But it all came to nothing. I was standing there one day, smiling and smiling, and my dear old lady said snappishly,

"Boy, don't you have anything more to do than just stand there grinning like an ape? You make me nervous. Do deliver your papers."

So that dream ended.

That is the trouble with old ladies—they're inconsistent. They are as likely to leave their money to a favorite cat, dog, or charitable institution as a polite little boy. To inherit money you have to compete with all sorts of things—human as well as non-human. Your biggest competitor is Harvard College. It has inherited $150,336,400.

Perhaps the best way to inherit money is to marry a rich man and annoy him so much he'll pay you to divorce him. They call it alimony—but it's just like inheriting money.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By JANE EADS

Washington—Mrs. Morrie E. Finkel, a government worker who hails from the Blue Grass country of Kentucky wears her lucky places around her neck—aluminum racing "plates" or shoes, of famous horses. Sometimes she fashions them into hats or uses them for decoration on cocktail aprons. She uses the horseshoe nails for making earrings, pins, hair ornaments, tie clips and book marks.

Mrs. Finkel has made a hobby of collecting the racing plates and nail worn by stars of the American turf since 1919, when a friend gave her a racing plate belonging to the famed Man-of-War. She writes to the owners of the horses, many of whom are personal friends and they send her plates when they're become worn enough to be no longer useful.

"The shoes, which are light as air, are discarded when only slightly worn down, because even a slight defect might throw the horse off balance and make it lose the race," Mrs. Finkel told me. All of the plates she says, are made by a company at Baltimore, Md. The blacksmiths who fit them and put them on the horses are real artists.

New racing plates cost $5 a pair, but Mrs. Finkel seeks only the ones worn by winning horses. She keeps a file of letters and information from the owners on each set of plates, identifying them and giving interesting information concerning their history. She has thousands of clippings on horses and racing but mainly keeps track of the Kentucky horses.

She was wearing a racing plate of South Dakota, which she described as the "poor man's Whitwax" gaspished with pink and blue glass beads which she has transformed into a choker-style necklace. Complementing the necklace were earrings and pins made of nails, also of aluminum. Mrs. Finkel makes the necklaces by removing the caulks from the shoes and polishing them. She sews or wires on semi-precious stones and beads in the stable colors of the horse for ornamentation. A ribbon is threaded through the nail holes in the shoes and with this she ties the "necklaces" in place. She makes the pins and earrings by placing the nails on cardboard and shelacking them.

"Man-O-War was known as 'Big Red' she told me, and though his stable colors were black and gold I trimmed his shoe with red leather. I wear it with a red leather belt and a jacket with red leather buttons." Other horses whose shoes Mrs. Finkel has in her collection include On Trust, Skymie, Jet Pilot, Star Pilot, Armed—which she described as the nation's third top money winner—Pavot, which won the Massachusetts Handicap in 1946 and the Belmont Stakes in New York, Black Gold and Manout.

The San Francisco fire of 1906 burned 28,000 buildings, with losses of $550 millions.

Chapter 19
It was an hour or two later when Sheriff Loomis and Deputy McCabe rode into town. Jed reached the doorway when they had passed. He cupped his hands around his mouth and yelled.

"Sheriff!"
"Smatter, Jed?" Loomis asked.
"Will you come inside a minute, please?"

"Want me, too?" McCabe asked.
"Yeah," the Sheriff answered. "Mebbe you'd better sit in on this, too, Pat."

McCabe dismounted . . . he followed Loomis and Oliver into the bank. Jed went at once to the ledger, opened it.

"See that?" he asked.
"Sure," Loomis said. "What's it supposed to be?"

"It's a ledger page," he said. "There was an entry in his voice. 'It's the account of George Akers.'"
"Oh," Buck said. "George Akers, eh?"

"Yes," Jed said. "See that deposit figure there?"
He pointed to it and both Buck and Pat bent over.

"Five thousand dollars deposited to his credit today," Oliver said. "Does that mean anything to you?"
"You're darned tootin' it does," Loomis said quickly. "When was he here?"

"He sent it in."
"A young woman brought the deposit. A very pretty young woman, too. I might add. A Mrs. Gay Hollis."

McCabe turned to the Sheriff. "Hey, that just about ties things up, don't it?"
"Uh-huh," Buck said, nodding. "Mister Akers is where I wouldn't be, headin' fr a hangin'. Come on, Pat."

It was evening. Gay and George had just seated themselves at the table. Gay having returned from town but minutes before. Cathy moved about in her usual quiet and efficient way. She served Gay, placed George's plate in front of him, brought her own plate to the table and sat down facing them. She picked up her fork, glanced at her sister.

"Gay," she said, "what made you go off to town so suddenly?"
"O-h," she answered. "I had something to attend to in town."

There was a sudden clatter of hoofs and the three of them looked up as one. George put down his knife and fork.

"I'd better see who it is," she said and she went to the kitchen door. She opened it. Two tall figures filled the doorway. "George," Cathy said over her shoulder, "it's the Sheriff."

"Smatter?" George asked and his voice was hard and annoyed. "Think up some more questions?"
"Akers, I understand you deposited five thousand dollars in the bank today."

George's head jerked upward in surprise, but he managed to check and control himself.
"O-h," he said.

"I'd like to know where you got that dough," Buck concluded. George smiled coldly.

"I borrowed it," he said and he smiled again, almost tauntingly. "I suppose you c'n prove you borrowed that five thousand, can'tcha?"

George said angrily. "If you're chargin' me with anything, it's up to you to do the provin'."

Their eyes clashed, but the Sheriff's did not waver. Sheriff Loomis shrugged his shoulder.

"Y'understand, Akers, that you're actually forcin' me to take you in, don'tcha?" he asked.

"Sheriff," Gay said suddenly, and all eyes turned to her. "Ma'am!"

"The money was mine," she said quietly. Loomis coughed lightly behind his hand.

"Uh-huh," he said. "I know you deposited the money for him, Ma'am. And if as you say, it was your money, why'n't you actin' so danged mysterious about it?"

"Because he didn't know anything about it," Loomis' eyebrows arched. "I offered to lend it to George."

Took Holiday To Commit Murder

Berlin (AP)—The Soviet-controlled press here tells the story about a German convict who took a holiday from prison to commit a murder.

The newspaper "Der Morgen" said the incident occurred at Dessau in Russian-occupied Saxony. There the convict slipped away from the local jail one night, robbed and murdered a jeweler's widow. With his loot he traveled to Leipzig, about thirty-five miles away. He converted part of the jewelry into food and other luxuries for a night "on the town."

The remainder he buried in a park. Then he voluntarily returned to Dessau and prison.

His holiday crime was discovered some weeks later after children at play had uncovered the jewel cache. The murder trail led back to the cell in which the slayer thought he was safe.

Ayden Man On Ship Visiting Brighton

Officers and enlisted personnel also attended sports events and dances staged for them by the city of Brighton.

she went on presently. "But he refused it."

"And then what?"
The color had returned to Gay's face and she seemed considerably more at ease.

"George asked me where I had the money," she said. "When I told him that I had it here, in the house, he suggested that in view of things, it would be wiser and of course safer if I put it in the bank as quickly as possible."

"I decided to take it to the bank without further delay. While Mr. Oliver was entering the deposit in my name, I asked him to credit it to George's account."

"Even though George didn't want it?"
"Yes."

"Where'd you get that money?"
"From my husband," Gay explained gently. "It was the money I got for our place in Texas."

New U. S. Cars Cheaper In Europe? Tale Misleading

New York, Sept. 10 (AP)—If you think you can get a new car cheaper in London or Buenos Aires than in your home town, forget it.

This idea got around recently when a story about an airline pilot and his new car came to light. But the story had some missing elements—and they make the whole thing considerably less rosy and frustrating to be new car buyers.

This was the first story: The pilot, Dick Wells of Lake Orion, Mich., was reported to have ordered a Studebaker in this country more than a year ago.

Then, during a stopover in London, he talked to a Studebaker dealer there and was able to make arrangements to get a car, with delivery to be made in South Bend, Ind.

The price, so the story went, was to be $1,820 as compared with the $2,387 tag on the car he had ordered in this country. He picked up a car after he returned to the United States.

Here are missing details as supplied by the Studebaker Corporation:

The car ordered by Wells in London was a sedan in the Company's least expensive line. It sells at $1,803.70 in South Bend with certain specified equipment and accessories. Well actually paid $1,817.70; the extra $14 covered charges in export sales transactions.

The $2,387 was the price for a convertible in a more expensive line with stilted equipment and accessories.

The pilot gave a London hotel as his address in placing the order there and the English dealer accepted it with the provision that the car would be brought to England. Shipping agents estimate that would involve a little item of about $600 including ocean shipping charges, boxing and marine insurance.

London, Sept. 10 (AP)—After 22 years Film Actress Greta Garbo has taken the first step toward becoming an American citizen.

The Swedish-born actress, wearing slacks and sports jacket, appeared unexpectedly yesterday at the federal building and in five minutes filed a declaration on intent with the naturalization office.

Garbo came to Hollywood in 1926. Absent from the screen seven years, she plans to return to the films in a picture based on the life of George Sand, part of which is to be made in Europe.

What John Q. Public Should Do
Yet if we all—employers and several other capital goods. The wage-workers—would be willing to work harder and give the consumer more for his dollar, the United States could continue to enjoy present good business for sometime to come. If we consumers would be willing to change our buying habits in accordance with demand and supply, this would prevent prices from going any higher.

If we would encourage the government to cut its tax and relief rolls in halves and put millions of people back into industry, it would both reduce taxes and the labor shortage. There is much that each reader of this column could do to prolong prosperity; but are we willing to do so? Remember that politics are only an echo of what we ourselves are willing to do. A river does not run higher than its source.

Coaches Express Satisfaction At Pirate Progress

By BILL LLOYD

The E. C. T. C Pirates were sent through their first intra-squad scrimmage yesterday in a regulation sixty minute tilt, as preparations continue for the opening game against Cherry Point in Rocky Mount, September 17th.

In the hour long scrimmage the Whites outshone the Blues behind the effective signal calling of quarterback Frank Holscher, who led his team to a two touchdown difference over the Blues.

Along with Holscher, Audrey Heath, Frank Maennie, and Mike Kovalev gave creditable performances in the two back fields. Holscher scored once through the air and Heath, a fancy stepping newcomer from Elizabeth City, scampered 40 yards for the other score.

Joe Polilli, center from Dover, Ohio, was the outstanding lineman of the day, as both forward walls performed well in a blistering sun.

Doug Bryant, freshman flash from Rocky Mount, suffered a slight ankle injury and will be out of action for several days.

Highlighting the two weeks practice has been the consistent high spirit of the squad, as fifty men are vying eagerly for a starting position on the Pirate eleven.

Coaches Jim Johnson and Jack Boone have expressed extreme satisfaction over the progress of their club, but are faced with the problem of sending their charges against more formidable foes.

Individual Leaders Val Gonzales, Roanoke Rapids first baseman, led the league in hitting with .383 percent. Dave Fowler of Rocky Mount with 214 was far out in front in runs batted in, Frank Fabianich of Kinston was the leading base stealer with 72 thefts, one of the best records in the minor leagues. Pappy Williams led the total bases with 324 including 35 doubles, seven triples and 24 home runs.

Five pitchers in the Coastal Plain League won 20 games or more for one of the best minor league pitching records as a whole. Bill See, of Tarboro, was the leader of the pack with 25 wins against six defeats. Kramer of Wilson had nine wins and two losses for the best percentage but See's 5 wins and six ten losses with a .963 percent.

Team Fielding The Greenies ended the season in seventh place in team fielding with a .949 percentage. They made 135 double plays, 3646 putouts, 1509 assists, 262 errors. Wilson led de-

Dimaggio Revives Yankee Flag Hopes With Big Hit

Giants Sure To Keep Sid Gordon

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sparked by the greatest present Yankee of them all—jolted Joe DiMaggio—the New York Yankees have declared themselves back in the American League pennant race.

Dimaggio re-kindled the pennant hopes of the defending world champions in Boston yesterday with a tremendous, grand-slam home run that brought the Yanks an 11-6, ten-inning victory over the league-leading Red Sox.

The Yankee clipper socked his game-wrecking blow in the tenth inning off Earl Caldwell, fourth Boston pitcher. The blast ended a nine-game Boston winning streak. Caldwell dug his own grave by walking Gus Niarhos and hitting Pitcher Spec Shes with a pitched ball to start the tenth. He fanned pinch-hitter Charley Keller, walked Tommy Henrich and struck out Rookie Hank Bauer, but he couldn't get by Dimaggio.

Dimaggio worked the count to 2-2, one of the strikes being a long foul that missed being a homer by inches. Then he poked away from home plate, to break it up.

The defeat cut the Sox lead to two and one-half games over the Yanks. Until Dimag unloaded, the flag aspirations of the Yanks were mighty dim. The Bombers entered the hub Wednesday night a game and a half off the pace and took two straight beatings to tumble three and a half games behind.

A third straight licking by the Sox and the Yanks could just about forget the pennant and start concentrating on holding second place against the onslaught of the third place Cleveland Indians.

Yesterday the Yanks followed the pattern of their two previous losses to the Sox. They built up a quick lead against Jack Kramer only to crumble before another murderous Boston counter drive.

Chicago Rockets Upset Baltimore

New York, Sept. 11—(AP)—The Chicago Rockets, hitherto long on the yardstick and short on the scoreboard, were in the All-America Football Conference record books today with their second victory in as many seasons.

They upset the favored and overconfident Baltimore Colts last night, 21-14 before 14,642 fans who rattled around in the huge Soldier Field, Chicago.

High Price For Double-Play Duo

Chicago, Sept. 11—(AP)—Zack Taylor, manager of the St. Louis Browns, places a $150,000 price tag on his American League-leading doubleplay combination of Shortstop Eddie Pellagrini and Second Baseman Gerry Priddy.

In the sixth place's first 129 games, Pellagrini and Priddy sparked the Browns to 154 twin killings, two ahead of Philadelphia's runner-up combine of Eddie Joost and Pete Stude.

Movement Under Way To Provide Better Support Athletic Program

By CHESTER WALSH

There is a movement on foot here to give better support to athletics at East Carolina Teachers College, and it is gaining encouragement as the football season approaches, said Howard Waldrop, ardent supporter of an expanding athletics program at ECTC.

Many businessmen and others have indicated that they are willing to contribute to a fund to provide scholarships and other self-help for promising athletes. Waldrop pointed out that when the GI program of education expires, there must be a progressive athletics and sports program at the college to encourage young men to attend.

He described the activities of the Educational Foundation, of which James Butler of Goldsboro is president, and said it is worthy of the support of the alumni and the people of Greenville and Pitt county, as well as elsewhere.

In a recent interview with Coach Jimmy Johnson, he said ECTC has lost a number of promising football players because of the lack of funds to apply on their education. Recently Jack Cashion of Sanford, 190-pound center, reported here for football practice, and before he could matriculate representatives of Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, had offered better educational inducements and Cashion went to Wilson. There have been other similar cases, he added.

"We need funds to apply on the athletes' education if we are going to have a successful athletics program at ECTC," he said. Johnson recalled that Catawba College last year said ECTC was not strong enough to be in the North State Conference.

East Carolina Teachers College needs a stadium as well as outstanding athletes, others in the athletics department of the college said. It was stated that no gate to any of the ECTC football games last year netted over $600, and announced that the first football game this season with the Cherry Point Marines, will be played at Rocky Mount because the game will net ECTC more money there. Incidentally, this game, September 17, is sponsored by the Rocky Mount Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. John D. Messick, president of the college; N. M. Jorgensen, athletic director; Coach Jimmy Johnson, Jack Boone, baseball coach, and Howard Porter, basketball coach and others who are doing much to arouse increased interest in athletics at ECTC, are hopeful that the people here will give better support to athletics at the college and back up a program which will give ECTC more prestige in education and athletics.
