Color Can Make Exterior Of A House Distinctive

Wise use of color is one of the few ways of making the exterior of a house distinctive, according to Frederic H. Rahr, New York color consultant, who believes a home should express the personal tastes of the family that occupies it.

Most home-owners neglect color as a basic means of creating individuality of appearance for the exterior of their homes, he says. The color consultant, who is head of the Rahr Color Clinic, points out that this is in contrast to the great attention usually given to selecting colors for interior decoration.

"A house is always judged by the way it looks from the outside," he says. "Everybody in the neighborhood sees the exterior every day and for that reason the exterior is certain to make a lasting impression."

The way to make a house stand out is to personalize it as you personalize yourself. Be daring and creative with color. Don't be afraid to use your ingenuity. Consider all the colors you can and then choose those you honestly like best.

Mr. Rahr says the roof is the main element of color on the exterior of a house and he recommends "letting the roof set the color space." The roof color should be selected first as a dress or suit is selected first when a woman builds a wardrobe, he explains.

After choosing a particular solid or blended color for the roof, choose color for window trim, doors, shutters and other elements of the exterior color plan, he advises. Other colors, he adds, should blend with the roof, contrast with it or accent it.

"Think in terms of an ensemble. Pick colors which are not only beautiful individually but which are beautiful in combination with each other. Make the total effect attractive," Mr. Rahr says.

He explains that a wide variety of colors is available in asphalt roof shingles, thus giving opportunity for expression of personal preference. Some colors are solid, he says, and others are blended, harmonizing mixtures of two or more colors in each shingle.

"Tradition-busting in color" is the way Mr. Rahr defines his work. He recently directed a survey, the Rahr Color Count, in which 115,000 women were interviewed about the colors they now have in 37 items used in their homes and the colors they want in the future, and he uses this information in advising business firms about color desires. He has planned colors for 30,000 houses in 156 Public Buildings Administration projects.

"Even in a huge housing project color succeeds in making each house look different than others in the same block," he says, "and in a community of private homes it's much easier to take advantage of the extra attractiveness which color affords."

Public Asked To Help Eliminate Hazards Of Fire

Nearly three quarters of all home fires can be prevented, fire safety officials say, if citizens will follow a few simple fire prevention rules in their homes. They emphasize the need for the public's strict adherence to these rules by citing the toll for 1947—11,000 lives and $700,000,000 in damaged property.

Children playing with matches and adults who are careless in their smoking habits cause about thirty per cent of all home fires, statistics show. Adults, therefore, are asked to keep matches away from children and to be careful themselves when smoking or disposing of cigars and cigarettes.

The misuse of electricity is recognized as another leading cause of home fires. Amateur electricians and forgetful housewives are the chief offenders. A safe practice is to have all electrical work done by experts. They never put pennies in fuse boxes or run electrical wires under rugs. House wires are urged to turn off all electrical appliances, especially irons, before answering telephones.

Lighting, defective chimneys and heating units cause many other home fires, it is pointed out. Lightning conductor systems offer the best protection against fires caused by lightning. Since soot-filled or cracked chimneys let heat into walls of buildings where fires often break out, chimneys should be cleaned and inspected at regular intervals.

It's a good idea to know what your architect, lawyer and builder are talking about. Misunderstandings of terms can be costly.

For example, if you want a bathtub set back into a nook—sunk into the wall—you don't ask for a sunken tub. That would be a tub below the floor level. What you want is a recessed tub.

When in doubt, ask questions. Some terms explain themselves, such as door stop, stair tread, window light (a pane). Others can be tricky. Here is a partial list of terms you may encounter:

ABSTRACT—Usually a summary of past ownership of your land, including deeds, wills and legal proceedings.

AIR-CONDITIONING—Not always cooling; usually humidified forced warm air heating.

APRON—A flat board of interior woodwork under a window stool.

AREAWAY—An open sub-surface space to allow light and access to a basement window.

BAY—The space in a plan that is divided by columns or piers.

BRIDGING—Wood or metal braces between floor joists.

CEMENT—Usually Portland cement, or the smooth finely textured surface created by it. Comparatively thin.

CHASE—Groove in masonry, usually to accommodate pipes.

CONCRETE—Mixture of cement, sand, gravel, stone or other reinforcing materials for strength.

COPING—Cap on top of a wall to shed water.

CRICKET—Small roof behind a chimney to shed snow and water.

DADO—Molding around lower part of a wall; a chair rail or low wainscot.

DOOR BUTT—A hinge secured to the edge of a door.

EASEMENT—A right to use land, other than as tenant, for a specific purpose, such as passage.

ELEVATION—Altitude, but also a scale drawing of the upright parts of a building.

ENCUMBRANCE—Interest or right in property that does not prevent sale, such as restrictions, easements and reservations, as well as mortgages, taxes and judgments, which are both liens and encumbrances.

EQUITY—Your cash interest in property over and above liens.

ESCUTCHEON—Metal shield around keyhole or doorknob.

EXEDRA—A wall seat, often of stone and in a curve.

FEE—Payment for service; or inheritable estate in land.

FIRE STOP—Any solid tight closing between walls or floors to prevent rapid spread of fire. Usually a board.

FLASHING—Metal strips or other sealing of joints in a roof, in valleys and around chimneys; also around doors and windows.

FOOTING—A spread base for a foundation or column.

FURRING—Wood or metal strips holding a plastered wall away from masonry or ceiling.

HEADER—A beam across the end of joists, such as one framing a stair opening.

JOIST—One of a series of parallel beams supporting floor or ceiling and supported in turn by larger beams, girders or bearing walls.

KITCHEN DRESSER—A cupboard or kitchen cabinet for dishes and pans.

LEADER—A downspout, eaves drain, roof drain or conductor, variously known in different sections of the country.

LINTEL—Horizontal structural member over door or window opening.

MEETING RAIL—Cross bar holding lock in middle of a double hung window.

MULLION—Generally non-structural upright bar between units of a window, such as a casement.

MUNTINS—Small frames in a window holding the panes.

NEWELL—The post at the foot of a balustrade.

ORIENTATION—Arranging or facing a house for view, sunlight and direction of wind.

PARGE OR PARGE COAT—Coarse plaster as a decoration or protection for masonry; also base coat for dampproofing.

PLATE—Horizontal structural member on top of studs to carry rafter or roof trusses; sometimes a shoe in a partition.

PLINTH—The block on which moldings of a narchitrave are stopped; the base of a door frame.

POINTING—The tooling of mortar in joints of masonry for appearance and protection.

RABBIT—A rectangular longitudinal groove cut in the corner of a board.

RISER—Vertical board between steps in flight of stairs.

ROWLOCK—A brick on edge showing only its end in wall surface.

SADDLE—A threshold.

SHEATHING—Structural covering of exterior of studs or rafters, usually of boards or wallboards.

SILL—Lowest member of framing, usually a plank resting on foundation.

SILL COCK—A hose bibb, or faucet for garden hose attachment.

SOFFIT—Underside of a beam, or of wall over window or door, etc., relatively minor in size compared with ceilings.

SOLE—Horizontal support for studs, such as at bottom of a partition.

STILE—The outer upright frame of a paneled door. Center upright is a mullion. Cross bars are rails.

SPANDREL—A panel between the top of a window or door at one story and the sill of a window or door at the story above.

SPLASH BLOCK—Masonry slab at ground level to carry roof drainage away from foundation.

STOOL—The flat narrow shelf of interior trim at bottom of a window; outside is the window sill, inside the stool.

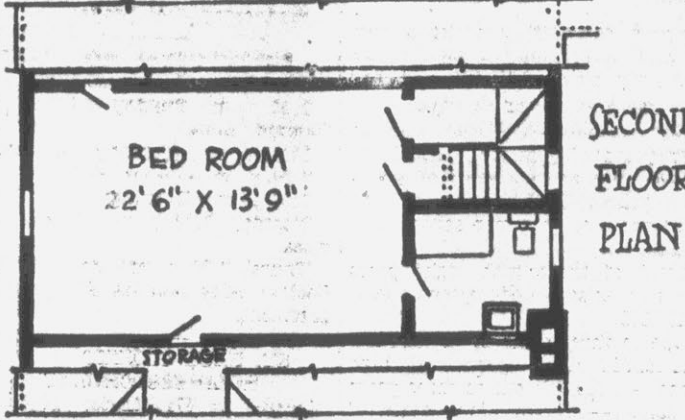

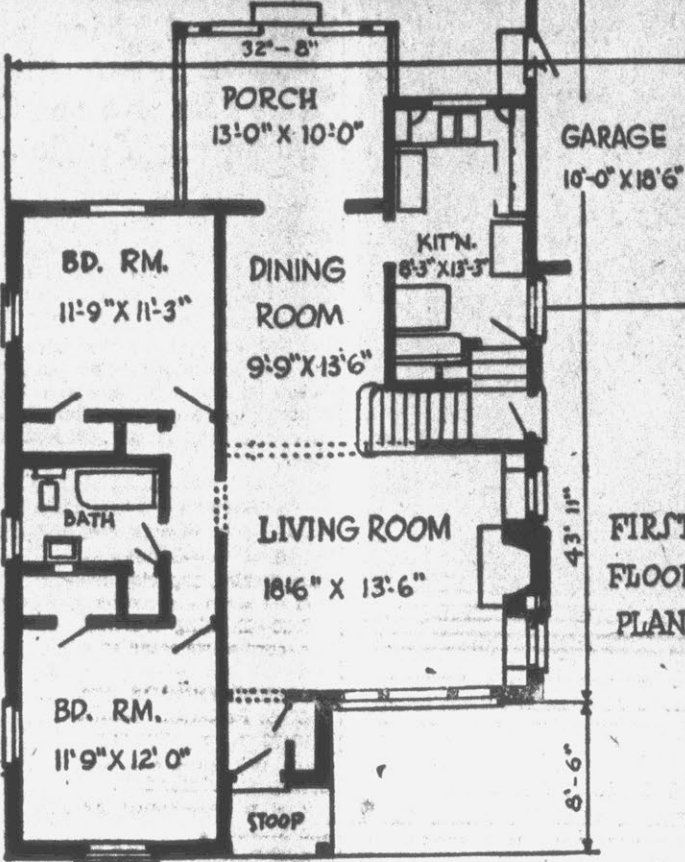

STRETCHER—A brick lying horizontally on its side in masonry work.

STRINGER—The board trim along the edge of a flight of stairs; wall stringer is against the wall open stringer reveals the steps at the side, closed stringer boxes in the steps.

STUD—Upright framing member in wall or partition; usually a 2 by 4.

TRAP—A U-shaped drain pipe to

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP Newsfeatures
Designed for a deep, narrow lot, this house is recommended by The American Builder magazine for comfortable secluded living in congested suburban areas. The integrated bedrooms and adjoining bath on the first floor separate the sleeping quarters from the rest of the house. A master bedroom, bath room and ample storage space take up all of the second floor. Construction features are asphalt shingles on the roof; damp-proofed basement walls, laundry, drying rooms and complete automatic heating equipment in the basement and attached garage at the rear.

Modified Modern Style Preferred

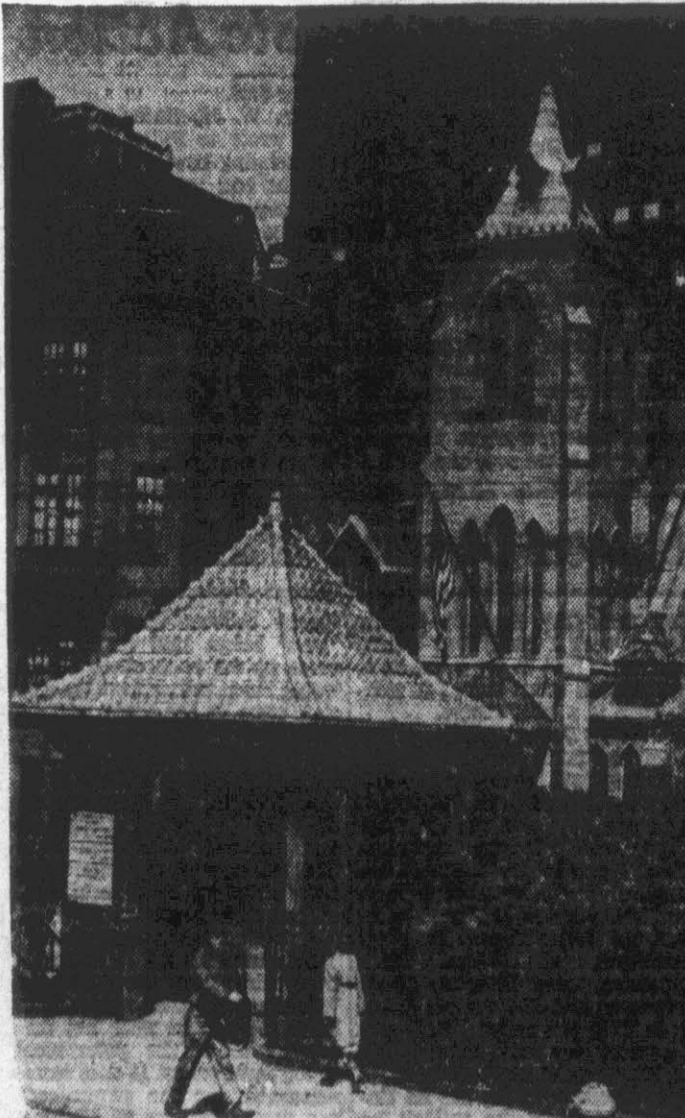

A modified modern style of architecture is going to be America's favorite 10 years from now, according to architects interviewed in a survey taken to gather information about building trends.

The architects were asked this question: "Keeping in mind developments in mechanical equipment and construction materials, what style house do you believe will be predominant 10 years from now?"

Of the 386 architects who answered, 121 gave modified modern as their choice. The next six styles in order, were modern, ranch house, colonial contemporary, Cape Cod and modified conventional.

One architect answered, "Caves." Asked to list the current house styles preferred by their clients, the architect gave first place to ranch house. Others were modified modern, Cape Cod, American farmhouse, modern Georgian and southern colonial.

Cape Cod ranked first among builders, who were asked to name the styles of houses they are constructing now. Ranch house was second and modified modern, third. Otherwise, ranking of the top seven was the same as with architects.

LITTLE CHURCH—The Little Church Around the Corner in New York, famous as the marriage place of many notables, celebrates its 100th year as a parish in October. The garden is entered through a quaint lichen-gate, one of the few in the U.S.

Cost-Of-Living Index Up Again

Washington, Sept. 24—(AP)—The cost of living index rose another notch in August and while the Bureau of Labor Statistics detected a tiny drop in retail food prices, the signs indicated it won't last.

The index represents retail prices of goods and services usually bought by moderate-income families in large cities.

On August 15 it hit 174.5 percent of the 1935-39 average—0.5 percent above the July 15 mark.

Wages of factory workers hit another high of $53.26 a week, the bureau announced at the same time.

While cost of living went up, retail food prices fell off 0.1 percent to 216.6 percent of the 1935-39 average. That was 10.2 percent higher than a year ago and 48.8 percent above the June, 1946, level.

But as food prices slipped a bit, wholesale prices—which will determine food prices tomorrow and next week—hit another all-time high.

The only time in American history when wholesale prices might have been higher was right after the Revolutionary War. The bureau has figures compiled for Congress after the War for Independence which would have produced an index of more than 170, when compared to the 1926 average prices which are figured as normal or 100.

Railroads Again To Ask Rate Hike

Chicago, Sept. 24—(AP)—An eight per cent increase on most freight rates will be asked by the nation's railroads. It is their sixth request for higher rates since the end of the war.

Approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission would boost the country's annual freight bill several hundred million dollars.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has estimated that the five rate boost granted the railroads since the end of the war total about 40 per cent. However, the increases vary widely depending on the particular commodity.

The new rates to be asked—with a somewhat lower boost for a few commodities—were decided at a series of conferences here this week by traffic executives from all the carriers.

"Current freight rate levels are not producing sufficient revenue to meet the carriers' requirements," said W. H. Dana, chairman of the Western Traffic Executive Committee.

He said the boost does not take into account any wage increase that might be granted in connection with the current demands of the railroad brotherhoods.

Brazilian Police Fire On Crowds In Mass Meeting

Rio De Janeiro, Sept. 24—(AP)—Special police fired into a downtown mass meeting early today and wounded 10 persons.

The crowd assembled after attending a civic meeting called to form an organization to oppose foreign exploitation of Brazil's oil.

At least three army generals were in the crowd listening to a speaker in a midtown park when the special police drove up and opened fire, using pistols and tear gas. Army Gen. Raimundo Sampaio said: "It was a veritable scene of savagery and banditism."

Military police later came up and restored order by driving the special police away, to the cheers of the crowd.

Truman Closer To Having Name On Louisiana Ballot

WINNER—Margaret Chase Smith, new U.S. senator from Maine, is first Republican woman thus honored and first woman elected without serving previously by appointment.

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 24—(AP)—President Truman today drew closer to a spot on the Louisiana November ballot, but without familiar identifications as a Democratic party candidate.

Leaders of the Louisiana State Central Democratic Committee, which two weeks ago ousted Mr. Truman's state in favor of the States' Rights Democratic ticket, yesterday helped draft a compromise to get the President's ticket on the ballot.

The compromise proposal, now rolling through a special session of the state legislature, would amend the general election law to reserve a place on the printed ballot for 10 Truman electors. These electors must be nominated by a petition filed with the secretary of state and signed by 100 qualified voters. The proposed deadline is Oct. 8, date of the second run-off primary election for state offices.

The proposed amendment leaves untouched sections of Louisiana's general election law which prohibit candidates nominated by petition from using either the symbol or the name of parties already legally recognized.

Thus, Mr. Truman and Vice President-Nominee Alben Barkley of Kentucky, though Democratic candidates, could not be identified on the ballot with the rooster, traditional seal of the party in Louisiana. They would be denied even the use of the word "Democrat" in naming their slate. The States' Rights candidates, Gov. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and Gov. Fielding L. Wright of Mississippi, remain official candidates of the Louisiana Democratic party.

In 1947, the New York police department issued 228,977 warnings and recorded 81,572 arrests and summonses against people making too much noise.

Miss Davis Wed To William Hudson

Little Rock, Ark.—In a ceremony performed September 15 beneath a wild plum arbor on the lawn of her parents' home, Miss Katharine Dowdle Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Hirschel Davis, became the bride of William Elijah Hudson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hudson of Grimesland, N. C.

Dr. Aubrey G. Walton officiated before an improvised altar, on which was placed the ancestral Bible of the bride's family. Nuptial music was provided by Miss Margaret McGough and Marion Parker.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory illusion dress draped at intervals with seed pearls, flitted bodice and off-shoulder neckline outlined with heirloom lace. Her lace veil, which was worn by her mother in her wedding, was attached to a coronet of baby gardenias.

She carried a lace handkerchief, made by her great-grandmother, and a corsage of gardenias on a white prayer book, which was given by her great-grandmother.

Dr. Dowdle, her great-grandmother, Mrs. R. A. Dowdle, to her grandmother, Mrs. S. P. Davis. Bridesmaids, Mrs. Thomas Ritchie of Conway, Mrs. Lillian L. Bolls, Jr., of Fayetteville, Mrs. Pat Humphreys and Miss Jean McCoy, and junior bridesmaid, Miss Gay Hudson, sister of the bridegroom, wore pastel shaded dresses, and carried lavender net parasols adorned with pink roses.

Graham Hudson served his brother as best man, and groomsmen were Albert Hudson, brother of the bridegroom, Leon Dunham, John Chapin and Milford Davis, brother of the bride.

Serving at the reception were Mrs. Loid Rainwater, Mrs. J. Back Brown, Mrs. Allan Rainwater, Mrs. Garland Dowdle of Morrilton, Mrs. Parker Ewan, Mrs. F. W. Allison, Mrs. David Galloway, Mrs. Ralph Davis, Mrs. Chester Chapin, Mrs. Joe Mayne, Mrs. George Dwight Cress, Mrs. Jack East, Mrs. C. V. Hoke, Mrs. J. Turner Lloyd, Jr., Mrs. Robert Earl, Mrs. Leonard White, Mrs. Jefferson Speck of Frenchman's Bayou, Mrs. Leon Dunham, Miss Mary Dowdle, Miss Josephine Dowdle of Morrilton, Miss Kate Bostinger, Miss Helen Ruebel, Miss Joanne Mayne, Miss Alice Newton, Miss Nancy Moses, Miss Marie Scott, Miss Mildred Harrison, Miss Helen Cress and Miss Susan East.

After the reception the couple left for Chapel Hill, N. C., where they attend University of North Carolina. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. William A. Hudson of Grimesland, N. C., mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. Joseph Milford Davis, Woburn, Mass., grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. E. H. Costello of Ridgewood, N. J., aunt of the bride.

(Continued from Page One) philosophies which will keep on breaking out everywhere it can. He announced that Britain intended to fight Communism at every turn. Simultaneously the U. S. State Department has broadcast a sharp counter-attack against the Red "drive for power" in southeast Asia. If America and Britain thought Moscow was bluffing they wouldn't be engaged in such sweeping rearmament programs. British Defense Minister A. V. Alexander startled the House of Commons a couple of days ago with the statement that Britain's rearmament program was moving so fast he had no figures on its cost. Simultaneously the Navy, Marines and Air Corps announced urgent campaigns to build up strong reserves in readiness for any war.

Understanding . . .

(Continued from Page One) not too busy with their own problems or too tired from their day's work. What of those 44,500,000 who had never gone to high school? They too have their own problems and get tired from a day's work. And they lack the education that would help them plow through the kind of writing that only a college man has time or patience for. Yet, anyone who is anxious to see this democracy work at its best—meaning, through well-informed people—must keep in mind those 44,500,000 who didn't get as far as high school.

What Americans can understand—from the things they read—depends upon their schooling and study. If the not-so-well educated can understand what is written in the way of public information, the well-educated will have no trouble. This doesn't mean writing down in kindergarten English. It means writing so that most people will understand. It means that anything written so only college graduates can understand is over the heads of the not-emergency. All men and women who served in Britain's wartime armies are subject to recall.

These preparations don't mean that America and Britain think war is just around the corner. Sir Stafford Cripps, British chancellor of the exchequer, expresses the belief that there is not much possibility of a war soon, though "accidents can always happen."

But the democracies aren't treating the Bolshevik threat as a bluff which can be handled by appeasement.

Babson . . .

(Continued from Page One) per barrel and then dump these potatoes in the ocean; while you and I must pay at the rate of over $5 per barrel or much more if we buy by the pound. There are 137 1-2 pounds in a barrel. It now looks as if the government would also be obliged to buy considerable corn, wheat and other products and either burn them or sell them at a big loss.

But I tell my Wall Street friends there is another side to this story. It is true that farm net income is now four times as high as the 1935-1939 average; but this average means foreclosures and intolerable conditions. The total gross farm income for the 1948 crop is estimated at $17 billion compared with $11 billion for the 1935-39 average. There is no doubt but the farmers are more prosperous than they have been for years.

Farmers Deserve Help
Bpt, according to the 1945 census 60 per cent of all farms grossed less than $2,000 in products, while the 35 per cent of net incomes of only $3,000 giving net incomes of only half or two-thirds these figures. Comparable gross income for 1948 may be 25 per cent more than the 1945 figures; but this will be offset by a like increase in the cost of machinery, labor, interest on debt, building maintenance, etc. In other words, even with high prices 75 per cent of the farmers are not netting as much when working 14 hours a day as they were working 14 hours a day as city bricklayers, painters, carpenters and even common laborers get for working only 8 hours. This is not fair.

So that when you divide the government bonuses among millions of farmers there is not much for each one. Furthermore, when you consider how dependent farmers are upon weather, they are entitled to a few good years to take care of them when later crop failures and other disasters come. Therefore, so far as these small farmers go I believe the government bonuses are justified. As to the few big farmers, the government gets back at least half of its guarantee through income taxes.

Strength FOR THE DAY

WATCH OUT FOR THE BARBARIAN

Anthropologists and psychologists are constantly warning us that there is only a thin crust separating civilization from barbarism. In fact it takes only a few minutes of the breaking of a picket line or the opportunity to practice cruelty unrehearsed to turn vast herds of people into barbarians.

Barbarism seemed fifty years ago to have been wiped out of existence. The world over. But a terrible thing happened. Defeated at our frontiers, barbarism re-emerged in our midst in the form of Nazism and Fascism. With all their claims of a supporting philosophy, these systems were nothing more than ancient barbarism descended upon the modern world with scientific weapons.

And let us never forget that in every country there is plenty of latent barbarism ready to spring up and destroy us. Dean Inge has written: "Ancient civilizations were destroyed by imported barbarians; we breed our own." Much so-called "progress" is a frantic attempt to evade the disciplines involved in true progress and to choose instead the easy-going indulgence of barbarism.

Watch out for the Barbarian. He isn't dead yet by a long shot. He lives in American cities as well as in African jungles.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET

BUSY—When some of the head men in the Democratic caravan starting out on the tour of congressional districts heard about the change in date of the twelfth district meeting they sighed with pleasure. First scheduled for Tuesday, the twelfth district met at Asheville was moved back to Monday to coincide with the Berkeley appearance that night. Other dates were not changed. Morganton on Wednesday, Ruthertown on Thursday and Salisbury on Friday. Thereupon some of the party leaders saw chance of a sort of "lay day" when they could rest and bask in early autumn mountain air. Not so, not so. County Democratic leaders in the area saw a chance to get some high powered help in their local fights. As a consequence, most of the fellows will have as busy time on Tuesday as any day during the week—with Governor-nominate Kerr Scott himself covering several hundred miles.

ROLL-CALL—A new release from the council of state governments notes that 17 states now have electric roll-call voting equipment in one or both branches of the general assembly. This number includes Arkansas which is now installing the machinery preparatory to the 1949 legislature. Wisconsin was first to use the device in 1917. During recent sessions of the North Carolina general assembly some members have discussed the idea, but very casual investigation disclosed the cost too high. Virginia installed the system several years ago and the Henrichs who have seen it operate have been impressed with its time saving and accuracy value. Instead of the lengthy name-by-name roll-call when a vote is to be taken each member can press a button on his desk and the totals are tabulated instantly. Another feature which makes the device attractive to some and unattractive to others is that it provides an individual record of every vote taken. Legislators frequently object to having permanent record made of the way they vote on certain issues.

SCREWY—G. D. Arndt, treasurer of the N.C. Cotton Growers Cooperative, has a plausible explanation for what appeared on its face to be a screwy deal. A Wake County farmer had borrowed on a bale of cotton from government funds at the rate of 43.17 cents a pound, when he could get only 32 cents a pound on the market. He got a loan of $55 more for the bale than he would have gotten had he sold it outright. Arndt explains that this was a very unusual case, though not rare enough to be classed as unique.

EXPLANATION—The cotton was 1-7-32 inch staple and graded good middling. The local buyer has no outlet for that staple length in quantity lots and the handling of a single bale would be very expensive; so he could pay no more than the market price for the usual type cotton handled by his firm. But, when placed in the loan pool, the bale could be grouped with several hundred others of like grade and staple and disposed of at more than the loan value plus handling charge.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

New York—(AP)—Inspiration, says Ferde Grofe, is like a little bird. "If you don't grab him when you can, he flies right out the window."

So Grofe, a master of modern American musical composition, does not allow the little bird to take to wing.

He carries a musical scratch pad with him wherever he goes and scribbles down tune phrases as they come to him—at home, on trains, in taxis. In this way he carries out the function he best likes—to be a total reporter of his own land.

At 54, the short, roly-poly composer is busy as ever, adding steadily to the total of nearly 300 finished compositions.

Grofe is a kind of musical jack-of-all-trades who became a top hand one of the first composers to marry modern jazz rhythms with traditional symphonic forms.

But he has done about as well with other people's work as with his own. His arrangement of "Whispering" when he was beating the piano for Paul Whiteman, helped sell 1,800,000 records. His arrangement of "Rhapsody in Blue" brought fame to himself as well as the late George Gershwin.

Grofe is about the least genius-looking genius in the genius market.

"I work best when I am under pressure and when I am inspired," he laughed. "But I inspire easily."

He is still full of gusto and tunes. One class of listeners likes him for his popular songs, such as "wonderful one." To others he is best known for his semi-hair creations like "The Grand Canyon Suite," "Mississippi Suite" and "Symphony in Steel."

It took him three years to compose the "Grand Canyon Suite," one movement of which came to him as he sat under a tree on the Hackensack, N. J., golf course. It takes a symphony orchestra 34 minutes to play it.

On the other hand he turned out

WASHINGTON LETTER

By JANE EADS

Washington—Asha, granddaughter of the new Indian Ambassador Sir Benegal Rama Rau, celebrates her fourth birthday this month. She came in from the garden and plunged her chubby little hands into a bowl of potato chips. She had crashed the party her distinguished grandmother, Lady Rama Rau, was giving for a group of Washington women, but they were delighted. Hosted high in the arms of a governess was her baby brother Nikhil, 18 months old. He wanted potato chips too, and his grandmother saw that he got them.

Lady Rama Rau, who is recognized as one of the country's leading feminists, is a tall handsome woman with white hair combed softly over her forehead. She speaks eloquent and beautiful English, and her dark eyes glow with intense enthusiasm. Receiving with her was her charming daughter, Santha, 26 whose real name is Vasantha.

Santha Rama Rau, who graduated from Wellesley and worked for OWI during the war, told us she was about to leave for China to continue some work she had begun under Madame Sun Yat Sen. "I am enormously interested in the work of the 'Little Teachers,' a project carried out under Mme. Sun Yat Sen's China Welfare Fund," Santha told us.

The project, she said, started first with a group of about a dozen children between the ages of 13 and 16, who after a couple of months' training were put to work organizing classes among the slum children who were too poor to go to school. The children were given black-boards and chalk and taught their eager little groups—picked from those who wanted to learn to read and write—on the steps of clinics, churches and public buildings.

The number of youngsters now engaged in this program, including teachers and pupils, runs around 8,000, Santha said. Now the age at which they begin teaching is lowered to include 10-year-olds. The pupil group now also includes adults who are equally thirsty to learn. Other youngsters are trained to be little medical helpers. They get the routine work started—sterilize instruments, give vaccinations.

The teaching is done at the child's own age level and necessarily is limited in scope, but Santha says "it's better than nothing" and that much progress has been made in encouraging an eagerness for learning among the slum areas of Shanghai and other parts of China. Santha expects to spend six weeks in the northwest of China and will continue to write for Chinese and American publications. Some day she hopes to see a "Little Teacher" program started in India. Santha went to China while her father was serving as Indian Ambassador to Tokyo.

Warren's School Figure Resigns

Warrenton, N. C., Sept. 25.—J. Edward Allen, under indictment on charges of misappropriation of school funds, resigned last night as county superintendent of schools.

The resignation notice said Allen was resigning voluntarily because he couldn't attend to his duties on account of his health.

Harry W. Walker of Norlina, chairman of the Warren County Board of Education, announced Allen's resignation had been accepted after a special meeting.

According to Walker, the board took no official recognition of charges against Allen and did not name a successor. He said an appointment will be made later.

Allen was indicted by the grand jury Tuesday on charges of embezzling $24,577.15 over a period of nine years, false pretenses and 33 counts of forgery.

A capias was served on Allen at Duke Hospital and a cash bond of $15,000 was posted for him. He returned to his home here later this week, Walker said.

Allen's trial is expected at the next term of Warren Superior court, scheduled for January.

Workman Killed On Falling From High Scaffold

M. M. Watson, 23-year-old laborer of 1204 Sauls Street, Wilson, was killed almost instantly yesterday shortly after 1 o'clock when he fell from the scaffolding at the Catholic school construction on west Fifth street.

Watson was rushed to the hospital, but died about the time he arrived. Dr. J. L. Winstead said death was caused by a brain concussion.

Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said Watson and his brother O. D. Watson were working on the scaffolding about 10 feet above the ground when the accident occurred. After investigation, Coroner Rouse said no inquest will be held.

Faculty Lecture Club To Hear Discussion Of N.C. Folk Music

Dan E. Vornholt, faculty member of the department of music at East Carolina Teachers College, will speak on folk music of North Carolina next Monday evening at the first meeting for the school year of the Faculty Club, an organization made up for approximately twenty-five staff members here.

Vornholt's talk will be a discussion of the origins of folk music in this state and will be illustrated by recording of songs by singers in the North Carolina mountains. A number of the recordings were made by Vornholt during the past summer.

A member of the East Carolina faculty for the past three years, Vornholt is a member of the committee on folk music of the Music Education National Conference.

This Is Greenville

By LULA MAYO

One hundred seventy-six years ago a group of citizens realized the productivity and importance of the area embraced by Pitt County. They knew that a place for trade and a seat of government would promote the progress that they foresaw. They requested Richard Evans to introduce a bill in the Assembly for the establishment of a town on lands that he had offered for the purpose. In 1774 the town of Martinborough was established. This name was changed in 1786 to Greenville in honor of General Nathaniel Greene, the hero of the battle of Guilford Courthouse.

In the early life of the community, the citizens of Greenville became interested in education. In 1814 Greenville Academy was incorporated. In 1830 Greenville Female Academy was organized. East Carolina Teachers College, a state institution, was located in Greenville in 1907.

In the early days transportation facilities were limited to the use of the Tar River, on which Greenville is located, and to vehicle trails. Pitt County, of which Greenville is the county seat, was formed in 1780, and was named in honor of William Pitt, the Earl of Chatham. Tobacco, as with many of the counties of Eastern North Carolina, and Virginia, was and is now the major cash crop.

According to the United States census, the city's population in 1940 was 12,874—88.4 per cent American—while in 1930 it was 9,194. The increase in the ten-year period was 36 per cent. The present estimated population is about 16,000 for the city, and the 1940 United States census for Greenville Township was 19,550.

The altitude of Greenville ranges from 84 and 75 feet above sea-level with the topography rolling and well drained.

Today the industries of Greenville include three fertilizer plants; three lumber plants; two drug manufacturers; eight tobacco processing plants; cotton yarn mill; a brick plant; five soft drink plants; a milk pasteurizing and ice cream plant; five laundries, with dry cleaning departments; four plants doing dry cleaning exclusively; chick hatchery; three florists; two bakeries; marble works; four commercial printing plants; a daily newspaper plant; two sheet metal works; three machine works; full fashion hosiery mill; a meat packing plant and abattoir; a sweet potato grading, waxing and packing plant; a livestock feed mill; and a plastic products plant.

Greenville's average mean annual temperature is 62 degrees, and the average annual rainfall is 45 inches. The growing season is 207 days. The government of Greenville is vested in a Mayor and nine Aldermen who are progressively administering the affairs of the city to provide the necessary facilities required for its rapid growth.

Greenville is now one of the educational centers of the coastal plain section of North Carolina. Greenville's public school system, accredited since 1917, has six schools, two of which are for Negroes, all operating for a full nine months term with the high school providing twelve grades. The city is now prepared to care for the educational needs of its youth from kindergarten to a master's degree from college.

Greenville is located in the center of a highly productive area. It embraces a population within a 50-mile radius of 543,000. The Greenville tobacco market is one of the largest in the nation, and is one of the two that have five sets of buyers. Its seventeen mammoth auction warehouses, together with its processing plants, embrace an area of about three million square feet of floor space devoted to the handling of bright leaf fine cured tobacco.

Today every known mode of transportation is available, including railroad, highway, air and water. The city has the distinction of being the farthest inland port in the state having a navigable river channel of 12 feet depth, and there is a network of paved highways radiating in all directions, two railroad lines, and one of the best airports in this section.

Some of the many buildings of importance in Greenville are the post office, courthouse, WCTC, Shepard Memorial Library, Greenville Utilities Commission, Proctor Hotel, Greenville Hotel, Pitt General Hospital, Radio Station WGTC, two banks, the "Daily Reflector" office, fire station, bus station, Chamber of Commerce and the Municipal Building.

Greenville welcomes new businesses and new industries which are adapted to this section, as well as new citizens who desire to make their home in a community where every facility is available for a full and well rounded life.

More War Dead Leave Cherbourg

Cherbourg, France, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The bodies of 1,047 American soldiers dead of World War II left today for the United States aboard the ship "Carroll Victory."

The bodies were from cemeteries in Normandy and southern France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Holland and Switzerland.

This brought to 47,883 the number of war dead thus far shipped home from Europe.

About 65 per cent of deaths attributed to hypertension involve the heart.

Crop Price Supports Not Fully Understood; Reason

By ROBERT E. GEIGER

Washington—The price of food is high, and yet the government is guaranteeing the farmer a minimum price for 20 major crops. Most farmers understand the principles behind price supports but not so all the city folks with grocery bills to meet.

The farmers know, for instance, that while the government was guaranteeing a certain price for some crops in the past few years, it was seldom that the market price fell below the guaranteed price. So the government seldom had to step in with heavy support.

Attempts to stabilize crop prices by artificial means date back many years. At first farmers tried to do so by cooperative methods, by agreeing to withhold products from markets so there would be a scarcity and prices would stay up.

During the Hoover administration the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1929 was passed in an effort to keep prices from falling because of farm surpluses.

The government bought grain in an effort to keep up the farmers' prices. Then the Democrats came to power and passed the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933. Farmers agreed to limit the size of crops in return for benefit payments. The government attempted to finance these payments through taxes levied against food processors, but this was held unconstitutional in 1936.

The government then began paying the farmers out of general revenues, raised by taxation and other means.

Before the war the problem was to limit crops to prevent market gluts and declining prices. In wartime the government guaranteed prices to encourage the farmers to produce all the food possible. That's one reason the U. S. had as much food as it did. Thus price support plus crop controls—limiting acreage—have been used by the government at one time to limit production, and price supports have been used at another time to increase production.

What's happened now is this: We have moved once more from a situation in which a scarcity of food was threatened, as during the war, into one in which surpluses may occur.

We have bumper crops and a declining market. Many agriculture experts estimate the government will have to put out around $1,500,000,000 to keep prices on 1948 crops from falling below levels fixed by law.

Some experts are saying price supports must be cut in the face of this record production.

But in the closing hours of Congress this year a bill was passed which continued the present supports through 1949. Any new changes would have to be made by Congress, and Congress won't meet until January. That's too late to have effect on some 1949 crops, like winter wheat.

After next year the law provides the supports may be lowered, in most cases.

The price at which the government supports crops is based on a complicated formula. In general this formula attempts to tie crop prices with the farmer's cost of living. If the prices of the things he has to buy go up, so do the support prices. If farmers' costs go down, so do support prices. After 1949 the law also provides that the more abundant the crop, the less support the farmers will receive, as far as most crops are concerned. This will tend to reduce unreasonable surpluses, agriculture experts say.

Agriculture experts say price supports aren't responsible—or at least entirely responsible—for high prices. They point out that most market prices have been higher than the government support price. This, they say, has encouraged production. And high production, they add, is the best way to bring down prices.

Farmville Eleven Battles To 45-6 Defeat In Opener

Farmville High lost its initial game of the new football season to Williamston last night by the one-sided score of 45-6.

Coach Elbert Moyer's star back, Bennett, made a beautiful seventy yard punt return in the opening minutes of the game, getting away from four would-be tacklers to give Farmville a briefly held lead of 9-0. The try for extra point failed.

With this slim margin to work with, the Farmville squad settled down to a punishing first quarter but were unable to prevent Williamston from notching six points of their own to even the score for the period.

From the start of the second quarter it was evident that the visitors to Williamston had shot their bolt for Coach Moyer's eleven pounded hard and often at the lighter Farmville line and emerged at the half with a comfortable lead of 25-6.

The final half was a repetition of the first, with the exception that Farmville was unable to score. The third quarter closed with a 32-6 count, and Williamston continued to score in the last period to bring the final margin of victory 45-6.

Statistically, the host team accounted for 18 first downs as compared with Farmville's 3; Farmville fumbled four times, and each time the ball was recovered by their opponents. Williamston fumbled twice, but each time recovered. Penalties cost Williamston 75 yards; Farmville lost 37 yards on one penalty.

Club To Help In Athletic Program

The Veterans Club of East Carolina Teachers College at a recent meeting on the campus initiated several projects to aid the athletic program at the college during the 1948-1949 term. Keith Kilpatrick of Kinross, newly elected president of the club, presided at the meeting.

Following a suggestion by Jack Hodgepeth of Rocky Mount, chairman of the board of directors of the club, the Veterans allotted a sum of $500 for scholarships for athletes attending the college this year. Provision was made that the money be used to meet such expenses as board room rent, and school fees and that no scholarship should exceed $70 a quarter.

Funds were also voted for the purchase of a loud speaker system to be used at athletic contests to aid students in keeping up with the games. Franks Holcher of Rocky Mount will make arrangements for the purchase and use of the equipment.

The minstrel staged annually by the Veterans Club to raise funds for athletic scholarship at the college will be presented again during the present school year, and a date early in January was tentatively set for the performance.

President Kilpatrick announced that an effort would be made to include all ex-service men at the college in the membership of the club this year and that bi-weekly meetings would be held regularly during 1948-1949.

Dream Backfield Sparks Chicago

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Chicago Cardinals are off to a good start in defense of their National Football League championship.

Sparked by their dream backfield of Charlie Trippi, Paul Christman, Marshall Goldberg and Pat Harder, the Cards opened their season last night by beating the Philadelphia Eagles, 21-14, before 37,875 fans at Comiskey Park.

The victory was marred by the death in the dressing room shortly after the game of the Cardinals' first string tackle, Stan Mauldin. Mauldin, 27, collapsed after the game and died two hours later.

Trippi, who usually carries the ball, brought the Cards victory with a last period touchdown pass that covered 64 yards.

Tied at 14-14 in the final four minutes of play, Trippi took a hand-off, faked a wide end run and then made a leaping toss. The ball landed in the arms of Mal Kutner 31 yards away and Kutner scampered the remaining distance to pay dirt.

Trippi scored the first Card touchdown in the opening period with an eight yard dash that climaxed a 64 yard drive. Christman showed the Cards ahead, 14-0 at the outset of the second period with a 20-yard touchdown pass to Kutner. Harder converted after each Card touchdown.

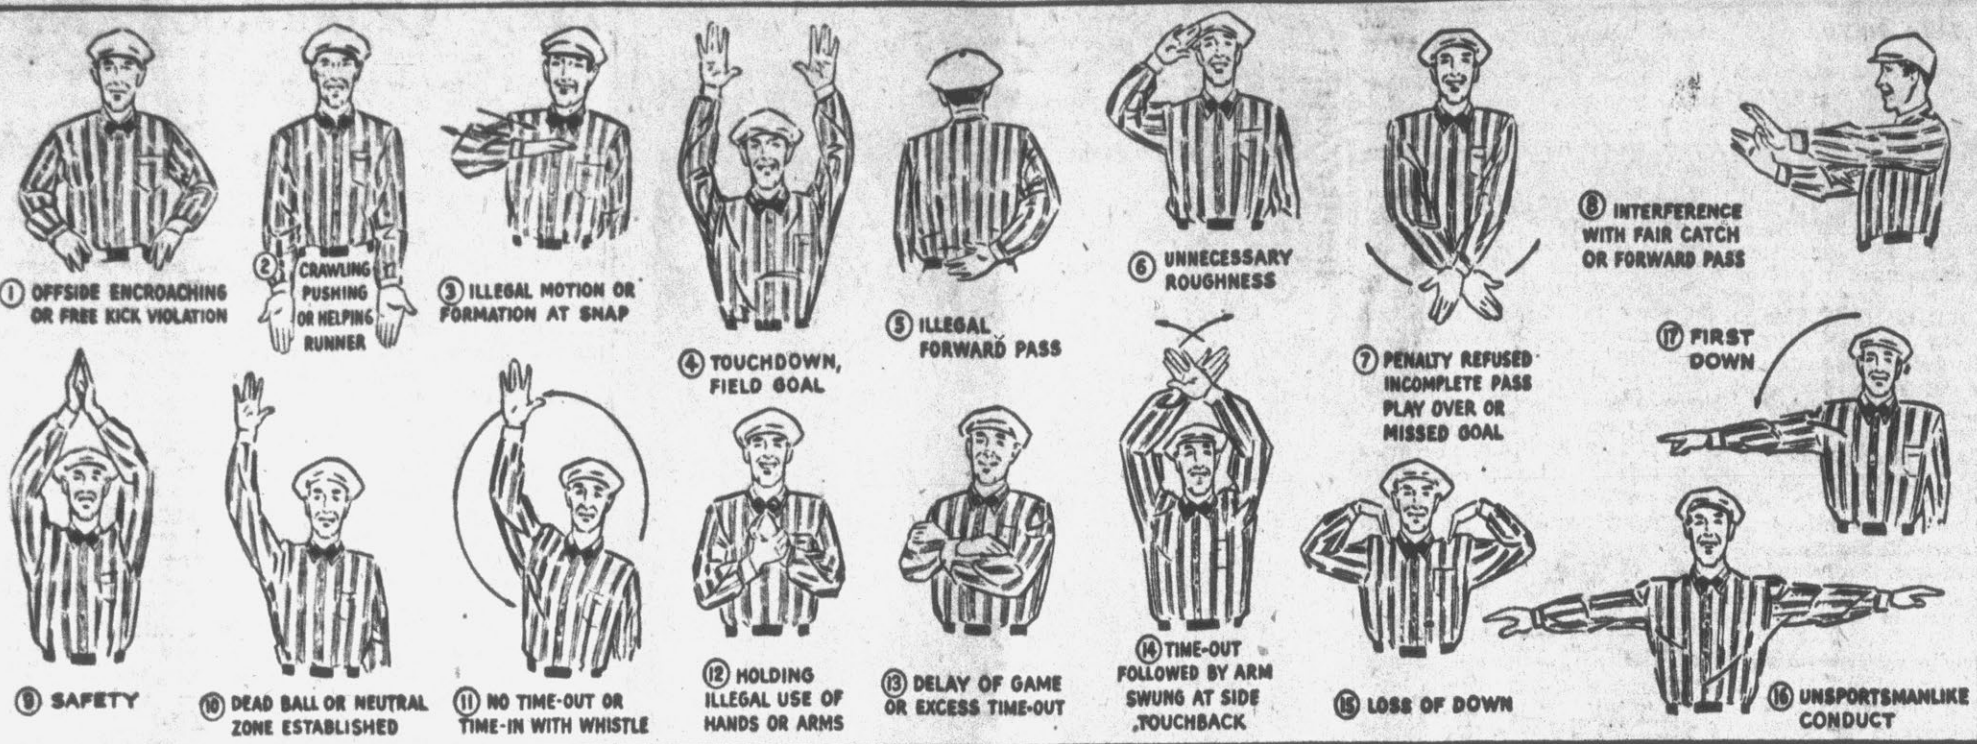

'King Kong' Has His Day Today In Yankee Stadium

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Charles Ernest Keller, known to New York Yankee baseball fans as Charlie Keller or King Kong, was honored this afternoon with a "day" at the Stadium.

Keller, who has been with the Yankees since 1939, was graduated by the University of Maryland in 1938.

Gridiron Gossip

Coach Clarence Stasarik of Lenoir-Rhyne claims he has worked up a system to stop the Pirate Split "T." He will get his chance to see how it works tonight at Hickory.

The Appalachian Mountaineers continued heavy drills to close week for their game with Western Carolina in Asheville today. Coach E. C. Duggins registered dissatisfaction of his team in their 21-14 victory over Guilford last week. "We were sluggish," he said.

Coach Jim Johnson was asked what he thought his chances were with Lenoir-Rhyne, as he went to get on the bus yesterday to leave for Hickory. "Well, you know we are suffering from several injuries that hurt us a lot, but win or lose, we will be in there trying all the way. And a hustling ball club will get their share of the breaks."

Jacksonville suffered their second loss in as many games as Selma, scored in the last quarter to paste a 7 to 0 victory. The Jacksonville club suffered their first defeat by the Greenville Phantoms by the tune of 13 to 6. Yesterday was the opening of the '48 season for the Selma club.

Last night, when the radio commentators began to pick Carolina over Texas, the boys at ECTC who were giving 13 points quickly dropped to 6 points.

Then at 10 o'clock, when Walter Winchell said, and I quote: "For my upset tomorrow, I pick Carolina over Texas, and Purdue over Notre Dame," the boys said their prayers and went to bed.

Congratulations to Conway, Fleming and Cox. These boys played a bang-up game in last night's defeat handed them by New Bern in the Northeastern conference tilt.

Short On Seniors

Miami, Fla.—(AP)—Coach Andy Gustafson has only eight seniors on his University of Miami football squad—and three of them are right halfbacks. However, the trio packs plenty of experience. All three—Bo Bowman, Joe Krull and Al Hudson—were freshmen members of Miami's Orange Bowl Championship team which defeated Holy Cross Jan. 1, 1946.

Basketball Practice Opens Oct. 4 For Pirate Squad

Though football is currently the topic of greatest interest on the East Carolina Teachers College campus, Basketball Coach Howard Porter announced today that practice for his Pirate Cagers would begin October 4.

Assuming the pessimistic attitude of all coaches, Porter looks to the 1948-1949 season with "We'll do well to win half our games." It is not that Porter expects a weaker ECTC quintet, he merely anticipates more opposition than he met last season. The general outlook for the Pirates, though it is impossible to form any definite opinion yet, is regarded as good. Five lettermen who played a lot of ball last year are expected to be the nucleus of the 1948-1949 edition.

Charlie Bill Moyer, rated among the top forwards in the North State Conference last season, will be among the lettermen. Ben Harrison, Len Bauer, and Frank Maennle, all guards with plenty of experience, will be returning, in addition to freshmen forwards Fitz Fennell and Louis Collie, both of whom were

Conway Recovers Blocked Kick For Only Score; Loss Marks Second Conference Defeat For GHS This Season; Airways Fail Locals

New Bern took Greenville's Phantoms last night by the score of 13-6.

Scoring started in the second period when the Bears led off with a pass from Fred Taylor to Warren Russell. Taylor passed from the 35 Russell taking it on the 25 and outrunning the secondary for a touchdown. The extra point was scored with Russell's kick.

Resuming their offensive play, the New Bern eleven pushed down to within 20 yards of the Greenville goal line late in the second quarter but Jack Morgan intercepted a pass on the 12 yard line to end the threat.

The Phantoms scored soon after the beginning of the third quarter. Joe Allgood punted out on the New Bern 14; Fleming blocked Russell's attempted kick, and Paul Conway (center) recovered the bounding ball for Greenville's only touchdown.

A fifteen yard penalty in the final period gave New Bern the ball on Greenville's 15 yard line. On the first play, Allen Ross jumped high to elude tacklers and fired a long pass to Jack Carden who made a spectacular catch over the goal line. The attempted kick was blocked with the score standing at 13-6.

Farley's Phantoms took to the air in the final minutes of play but their desperate attempts failed to produce a real scoring threat.

The contest was the first conference game for New Bern, and marked the second conference loss for Greenville.

Fleming and Conway were stalwarts of the Greenville line, while Cox played a stand-out game in the backfield.

Have Entries In Fall Horse Show At Rocky Mount

Rocky Mount, Sept. 25 — Horses from leading stables in Eastern Carolina, and Virginia have been entered in the annual fall horse show, which will be held here Sunday, Sept. 26, under the auspices of the Eastern Carolina Horse Show Association.

At least 60 horses, 40 from other cities, are expected to be entered in the events.

Owners who have already sent entries, include Sue Lassiter, Hugh Winslow and Roland Mayo, of Greenville.

The fall horse show will get underway at the Lakeside Bridge and Saddle Club at one o'clock Sunday afternoon.

For three straight years Johnny Sain has pitched himself into that charmed circle of 20-game winners in the National League. That remarkable record should have established the tall right-hander of the Boston Braves as a mighty fine hurler, and it has. Yet there are many opposing batters who are unwilling to admit this. "He hasn't got a thing except a curve ball," they insist, "and any batter ought to be able to stand up there and pick off a curve without too much trouble." The obvious reply is that Johnny Sain must have SOME curve ball for the records indicated that he can win ball games with it.

It was Sain's father, a former semi-pro left-hander around Havana, Ark., who taught Johnny the rudiments of pitching, and Johnny was an apt student. He was still in short pants when his round-house curve was the talk of the town. Then Jimmy Walkup, a former Brownie, refined Sain's pitching style, improved his curve and taught him a change of pace.

Sain was among the 92 players the late Judge Landis lost loose from the Detroit Tigers for covering up. Johnny found his way to Nashville where Larry Gilbert tried to convert him into a first baseman because of his hitting ability. Johnny stuck to his guns and remained a pitcher. Nashville sold him to the

Carnegie Tech Boasts New Small Atom-Smasher

Pittsburgh — (AP) — Though a midget among giants, Carnegie Institute of Technology's new 1,500-ton synchro-cyclotron will pack a punch equalling that of cyclotrons weighing twice as much.

The new atom smasher now under construction will be in operation by 1950, experts at Carnegie Tech predict. The instrument will produce 400 million volt particles.

The increased magnetic field of the cyclotron results from improved overall magnet and pole tip design. It will be used to produce meson the tiny mysterious particles found in cosmic rays.

Wake Forest Loses 26-9 To Boston; Aerials Fatal

Boston, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Wake Forest couldn't hold on to the ball long enough last night and as a result took a 26 to 9 trouncing from Boston College in the opener of New England's football season.

The Deacons did splendidly in the final period however, scoring all of their points and preventing B. C.'s reserves from marking up a single point.

Wake Forest was eager to carry the offensive into the air right at the outset and it was this strategy that led to their downfall because Boston apparently was well prepared for this type of play and almost everything the Deacons threw the ball someone on the other team grabbed it or it fell to the ground.

Wake Forest tried 34 passes and completed only 11 for a 34.4 percentage.

All four of the Eagles touchdowns could be traced to pass interceptions. In the first period Tom Fetzler tried a pass for Wake Forest and Maurice Polissant intercepted it on his own 30. Boston bulled and hauled its way to the Deacons' 19 where Ed Songin tossed successfully to end Albe could for the first score.

Tom Brennan intercepted another Wake Forest aerial early in the second period on the Deacons' 16 and on the next play they ripped across the goal line with Joe Diminick. Four minutes later they had their third touchdown after taking an aerial of the Deacons and then sending Diminick on a 43-yard gallop.

Boston contented themselves with a single six-pointer in the third period and then sent in the reserves.

Grid Star Dies Following Game

Chicago, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Stanley H. (Stan) Mauldin, 27 years old star tackle for the Chicago Cardinals of the National football league, died early today, two hours after he had played in the Cardinals-Philadelphia Eagles game.

The 6 foot, two-inch, 235 pound star of the league champions collapsed in the dressing room at Comiskey park after he had walked from the playing field and had taken a shower.

Dr. Sidney Fortis, heart specialist summoned to the park, said Mauldin died of "either a hemorrhage of the base of the skull or a massive coronary attack."

Fire and police inhalator squads worked unsuccessfully for about two hours in attempts to revive him. Three physicians also had been summoned. He died without regaining consciousness.

Mauldin, former star in football, track and basketball at the University of Texas, was playing his third season for the Cardinals and was ranked as one of the League's leading tackles.

In last night's game, which the Cardinals won 21 to 14, Mauldin had played most of the first half. However, he did not start the second half, having complained of not feeling well. Later, however, he expressed a willingness to re-enter the game and played the last two minutes.

Blame Boudreau For 4-3 Defeat By Detroit Team

Detroit, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Second guessers today were placing the blame of Cleveland's disheartening 4-3 defeat at the hands of Detroit yesterday directly at the doorstep of Lou Boudreau.

The rap on the Indians' manager was not due to the fact that Boudreau, the player, was held hitless in four times at bat by Freddie Hutchinson. Nor was he being castigated because he slapped into that fateful double play in the eighth inning which preceded Joe Gordon's 30th-home run.

The wolves were barking at Boudreau because he violated one of the theories of baseball. He had the temerity, so they said, to break up a winning combination by returning Eddie Robinson to first base, and replacing Thurman Tucker in center field with Wally Judnich.

Unfortunately for Cleveland and Boudreau, Robinson gave the scalps hunters plenty of ammunition. The big Texan not only was handcuffed at the plate, but left four runners stranded on the bases. Once he fanned with two men on and none out. That was in the second inning. In the fourth, he fouled out behind the plate with a couple of runners on base and one out.

During Cleveland's sensational September surge which netted the Indians 14 victories in 16 decisions and boosted them to the top, the Tribe had used Judnich on first and Tucker in the outfield, almost exclusively. Before yesterday's game, Lou announced he was going to defy superstition and put Robinson back at first, with Judnich in centerfield. He pointed out that Johnson always had hit well in Detroit.

Despite the setback, and admittedly it was a bitter defeat to swallow, the Indians remained confident they would win the flag. "I still predict we'll win the pennant," Coach Bill McKelchne said today, "and we don't have to win six of our remaining games either. Five will do the trick. Just wait and see if we don't wrap this thing up by Saturday."

Son Of Chiang Kai-Shek Outlines 'Social Order'

Shanghai, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Chiang Kai-Shek's Moscow educated son yesterday outlined to his privately picked Youth Corps the "new social order" he foresees for China.

The son, Maj. Gen. Chiang Ching-kuo, 39, told a graduating class of 14,000.

"Our goal is the creation of a new social order where there is no exploitation, no oppression, no deceit and no irrational phenomena of any nature."

"There everybody will live a life of freedom and happiness."

The speech was made to the Shanghai Volunteer Youth Service Corps. Young Chiang organized the corps to ferret out blackmarketeers.

In the past month he has arrested more than 100 bankers and business men on his father's blanket instructions to enforce China's new economic reform.

"In dedicating ourselves to our present task," young Chiang told the youth group, "we are assured of the support of a great majority of the people."

"We have no single lot of wealth, not an inch of landed property," he went on. "The interests of banks and large commercial undertakings have nothing to do with us so we can proceed with our job without hesitation and misgivings."

"I can swear before you," he continued, "that if I myself, am found guilty of corruption any one of you may shoot me dead."

The young general, whose executioner yesterday took his first civilian life for breaking China's new economic laws, formed his locally called "Elite Corps" of men between 18 and 30. That age group of Chinese students is the most fiery element in the Chinese political world.

Philippine City

Rocked By Quake

Manila, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A strong earthquake shook the central Philippines city of Lloyd and neighboring towns late tonight, the Manila Times reported.

Four persons were reported injured when crowds rushed out of two movie theaters.

Love Alone, Not Enough, He Says

Toronto, Sept. 24.—(AP)—The Rev. Daniel A. Lord, Roman Catholic educator and editor from St. Louis, Mo., said last night the reason so many modern marriages fail is that too many men and women marry for love alone.

"A marriage based on love alone is doomed," he told a large audience at a downtown auditorium.

Father Lord said until the late middle ages, no one ever married for love. Many couples were in love, but they married for other more practical reasons.

"People in love are the worst possible ones to pick mates objectively," he said.

Father Lord's formula for successful marriage comprised four m's—mind, money, manners and morals.

Speaking of manners, he observed that the bad-mannered husband "who calls his wife a ball and chain, deserves one."

Helped In Search

For Lost Plane

Found On Lake

Elizabeth City, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A PBY from the Elizabeth City Coast Guard air station, piloted by Ensign Bill Warren and Lt. Warren Rast, helped in the search of a missing plane which was found on a lake in northern Manitoba Friday by a Royal Canadian Air Force Lancaster, according to Lt. Curt Kelly, public relations officer at the Coast Guard station here.

Five persons sighted by the search planes in the woods near where the plane was sighted were identified as the five persons aboard, one a U.S. naval attaché. They were reported suffering from exposure and in need of immediate medical attention. A plane was to be sent to their rescue today to attempt their removal.

Demand Finnish Rifle Clubs End

Helsinki, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A Soviet note demanding dissolution of Finnish rifle clubs has been handed to the Finnish government, Finland's leftist press said today.

The papers said the Russian note reminded the Finnish government that members of the clubs—former members of an outlawed militia—had engaged in target practice, which it called a violation of the peace treaty.

A spokesman of the Finnish foreign office said no formal note was delivered but that the Russian minister in Helsinki, Lieut. Gen. A. Savonenkov, called on Foreign Minister Carl Enckell to inquire about the matter.

The Finnish Communist press lately has given much publicity to a report that former members of the so-called Protective Corps had formed rifle clubs and practiced target shooting.

The Protective Corps was a militia or homeguard formed during the civil war of 1918. They were dissolved under the armistice agreement.

Church Prepares

To Fight Behind

'Iron Curtain'

Vatican City, Sept. 25.—(AP)—East of the Iron Curtain, the Catholic church today bears the brunt of an assault, currently most bitter in Hungary, mildest in Poland.

But, Vatican sources say, there is fear it will be extended and intensified in coming months.

Pope Pius XII and Communist leaders in Italy have indicated such a development. Both the church and Communism—aware of the long-range aspect of the conflict—are directing mighty efforts towards youth.

Only an hour before the Pontiff this month addressed a vast throng of 300,000 girls of Catholic action, adjuring them to constancy in their faith, he warned the German people of assaults against their religion.

Brief Reprieve

For Premier And

Shaky Coalition

Paris, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Premier Henri Queuille won a reprieve for his shaky coalition government today.

The national assembly, after a complex series of reversals, voted to hold local French elections next March, instead of next month, and then decided to go on vacation tomorrow night. This will give Queuille a chance to shore up his cabinet's strength.

Parliament's vacation is expected to last about a month.

The vote to postpone the elections until March was 296 to 274, with the Communists and followers of Gen. Charles De Gaulle joining against postponement.

Premier Queuille is slated to address the nation by radio tonight.

PTA Meeting In Pactolus Staged Tuesday Night

The Pactolus Parent-Teacher Association met Tuesday night in the Pactolus Baptist Church, with Mrs. W. F. Little presiding.

The meeting opened with a song, which was followed by the devotion-al by Mrs. O. H. Forrest.

The minutes were read and the treasurer's report was given and approved.

The teachers were welcomed by Mrs. H. C. Simmons who also introduced the new member of the faculty, Mrs. Edith Worthington, teacher of the third grade.

Plans for the coming year were presented by the various committees, which were accepted by the entire membership.

Mrs. Edward Switzer, membership chairman, explained her plans for the membership drive. An award of five dollars, contributed by the Executive Committee, will be given to the grade who enrolls the highest percentage of P.T.A. members.

Mrs. J. P. Davenport, Sr., chairman of publications, displayed a Loving Cup, which will be given at the District Meeting of the Association which has reported the highest percentage of subscriptions to the P.T.A. Magazine for the past year.

Mrs. Noel Lee, Jr., chairman of the Budget Committee, reported that our chief money-making project for this year would be a "Tom Thumb Wedding" to be given very soon.

Mrs. M. Guthrie, teacher of combination third and fourth grades, consented to direct this project.

Mr. O. H. Forrest, principal, reminded the parents that there were still a number of children in the community who have not entered school as early as possible.

The P.T.A. voted to buy a picture suitable for upper grammar grades and high school to be given each month to the grade which has the highest percentage of parents present at the regular meetings.

Mrs. J. P. Davenport, Sr., will donate a suitable picture for the primary grades to be given in the same manner.

The lucky number was held by Mrs. Minnie J. Stancil, who received a homemade coconut cake, given by Mrs. H. C. Simmons.

Following adjournment, punch and cookies were served on the lawn by the Hospitality Committee, Mrs. C. J. Satterthwaite, Mrs. Paul Edwards and Miss Sidney Davenport.

Making Up Time

Raleigh, Sept. 25.—(AP)—There are several ways schools can make up time they lost because of late openings caused by the polio epidemic.

Paul Reid, controller of the State Board of Education, said it was a local problem to be solved by the schools themselves.

Board Reports 20 Polio Cases

Raleigh, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Reports of 20 new cases of polio to the State Board of Health today sent the year's total for North Carolina to 2,164.

All were September cases. This month's total climbed to 220.

The new list brought to 86 the number reported this week, compared with 76 last week, 112 the previous week and 138 the week before that.

Weather Suited

To Football Fans

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

Carolina's football fans will applaud the weather forecast for today and tomorrow. Partly cloudy with little change in temperature was the prediction.

And that kind of weather is almost ideal for football.

Low temperatures around the Carolina's this morning averaged in the low 50's. But at towering Mt. Mitchell in western North Carolina the mercury dropped to 33 degrees—just one degree above freezing.
