Wages Still Behind High Price Levels

Labor Department's Bureau Says Price Increases Have Largely Cancelled Out Pay Advances; New Ammunition For Fourth Round Pay Demands

Washington, Nov. 10—(AP)—A government report that wages still are lagging behind prices gave unions fresh ammunition today for their fourth round pay boost offensive.

The new wage demands already are developing. The AFL recently called for worker-employer cooperation to step up productive efficiency and cut costs to clear the way for pay raises without new price hikes.

And an industrial relations research firm has just reported that "a new fourth round buds are beginning to bloom." This firm, the National Foremen's Institute, said a survey of 600 newly negotiated labor contracts showed an initial pattern of about 9½ cents an hour more.

The first three postwar pay increase rounds averaged out at about 18½ cents, 15 cents and 11 cents an hour, respectively.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said in its report today that wage rates for factory workers have jumped 43 per cent since V-J Day but price increases have "largely cancelled out the advance."

However, the actual pay received by factory workers—as distinguished from their pay rates—increased an average of 30 per cent a week and 33 per cent an hour in the three years since Japan surrendered. This led the bureau to observe that:

"Rising prices have more than offset the increases in gross weekly and hourly earnings. The consumers price (cost of living) index for moderate income families in large cities rose by about 35 per cent over the three-year period."

The bureau's figures show that wage rates increased 8.7 per cent between October, 1947, and September, 1948—a period in which the living cost index rose 6.5 per cent. Comparable figures on the gain in actual earnings for the same period were not given.

The bureau said there are several reasons why actual earnings don't show as much increase as the 43 per cent jump in wage rates.

One is that the employes are working fewer hours with less opportunity for such premium pay as overtime and night differentials. Hence although their straight-time rates have gone up they may receive less money than they were getting during the war.

Another reason is that a larger proportion of workers now are employed in the "generally lower-wage consumer goods industries," than in the former high-skill war work.

The government agency found that earnings in non-manufacturing industries have varied from those in factories. Hourly wages in retail trade rose 38 per cent in the three-year postwar period, but only 23 per cent in finance, insurance and real estate establishments, the bureau said.

Tobacco Market Sales Go Above All Predictions

Over 53 Million Pounds To Be Sold By Time The Market Closes Says Bill Whedbee

Sales on the Greenville tobacco market will climb to a total of more than 53,000,000 pounds before the market closes next Tuesday, despite the 27.51 per cent acreage cut in the 1948 crop and the fact that an untold amount of tobacco was lost in Pitt County during the extended dry spell early last summer.

Sales Supervisor Bill Whedbee in a statement today attributed the success of the Greenville market this season in a large measure to the untiring efforts put forth by local warehousemen and other businessmen who boosted the local market in every section within a 100 mile radius of Greenville.

Although the poundage sold in Greenville during the current season is considerably below the amount of leaf sold on the local market last year, it is over 10 million pounds more than some local tobacco experts early in the season estimated Greenville would sell.

Last year the local market sold just over 70,000,000 pounds of tobacco and with the cut in tobacco acreage on the 1948 crop, it could estimate this year's sales at just over 50 million pounds, provided the crop was as good as that of 1947.

Alarmed by the forseeable crop failure in Pitt County, and the effect it would have on the local tobacco market and business in general, businessmen, tobacconists, and professional men of the city gathered in a meeting early in July to discuss methods of bringing more tobacco to the Greenville market this fall.

Through the combined efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants Association, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Tobacco Board of Trade and local warehousemen, teams of five men each were assigned specific territories in a 100 mile radius of Greenville to canvass on behalf the local market.

"If it had not been for the fine work done by these businessmen who took their own time to help the local market, Greenville would have fallen far down in the amount of tobacco it sold this season," commented Bill Whedbee.

Sales records in the local warehouses show that farmers from many distant territories brought tobacco to the Greenville market this fall for the first time, and that many farmers in surrounding counties sold on the Greenville market for the first time in many years.

"We believe this season sets a record which is unequalled anywhere and one of which we are justly proud," Supervisor Whedbee said, "and the fine showing the Greenville market made this year against such tremendous handicaps is due to the hard work of the local warehousemen and businessmen who cooperated with the Tobacco Board of Trade in getting out and really drumming up business for the Greenville market."

Soldier Parlays Cigarettes Into Small Fortune

M-Sgt. Wiley C. Walters and his wife (left) were held by police for questioning at Colorado Springs, Colo., after a small fortune in jewels and antiques was found in their home. Police Chief I. B. Bruce said Sgt. Walters told him he traded 1,500 cartons of American cigarettes for the articles during his two-year tour of duty in Austria. No charges were made against the Walters, but Bruce said he and the Air Force are trying to find out if the goods were brought into this country legally. At right are some of the antiques. The collection is valued at $20,000. (AP) Wirephotos).

Forrestal In Europe To Talk Defense Problems

Civilian Boss Of U. S. Armed Forces To Meet With Top American Officials; Visit With Clay Said Significant

Washington, Nov. 10—(AP)—The civilian boss of the United States' Armed Forces was in Europe today.

There, it was announced, Secretary of Defense Forrestal will talk with American officials at Paris, Frankfurt, Berlin and London, including Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American commander in Germany.

And there seemed no reason to believe he would pass up any chance to confer with officials of other friendly governments in Europe where this country has a high military stake.

Forrestal's visit to Clay assumed special significance in the light of the general's conference Monday with Viscount Montgomery. The British Field Marshal is chairman of the military committee of the Western European Alliance.

The formal announcement of Forrestal's trip said he would "discuss problems affecting the national military establishment" with American officials in Europe. Any development concerning military aid to the western alliance is directly related to problems of the American military establishment.

Looming large is the question of how much and what kind of arms the United States can supply the western European nations to help them guard against aggression.

Forrestal still is in the process of preparing new budget estimates for the Army, Navy and Air Force. The needs of our armed forces in Europe, plus whatever military help finally might be decided for Europe, undoubtedly will be reflected in Forrestal's requests to the White House and Congress for money.

New Car Buyers 'Took A Beating'

Investigator Finds Trade-Ins, Unwanted Gadgets Costly

Washington, Nov. 10—(AP)—New car buyers took a $200,000,000 beating this year on trade-ins, and paid out an extra $250,000,000 for unwanted gadgets, a congressional committee said today.

Rep. Macy (R-NY), chairman of the House group investigating questionable trade practices, made the estimates in a statement announcing public hearings this month on new and used automobile transactions in the Washington area.

"During our investigation, we have found that some dealers have made every effort to deal fairly and honestly with the public," Macy said. "On the other hand, we have found other dealers who resort to every questionable trade practice in order to squeeze the greatest amount of money from the anxious purchaser."

Macy said investigations in Washington have shown "an unconscionable markup" by many new car dealers on resales of trade-ins. He said the mark-ups averaged 43 per cent and that trade-ins have been under-valued "at least $300" per car.

"This practice has cost the people in this metropolitan area more than $2,000,000," Macy said.

Washington buyers have been compelled to take an average of $286 per car in extras and accessories, he added, although at least half the extras were not wanted.

Farmer Charges Brief Kidnaping

Signs Warrants Following Alleged Beating Last Night

Sidney H. Skinner, a farmer who lives at 1302 Dickinson Avenue, reported to police last midnight that he had been temporarily kidnaped by a group of men in Wainwright's Cafe, 1902 Dickinson Avenue, forced into an automobile and was beaten up by some of the occupants of the vehicle. Today, Skinner signed warrants against his alleged assailants containing various charges.

Sidney H. Skinner and his mother, Mrs. Emily Rouse, own the building and Wainwright's Cafe.

Police quoted Skinner as saying that some men in the cafe offered him a ride and he accepted. When they arrived at a red light at Dickinson and Boyd Avenues, Skinner said he started to get out of the car; that some of the men held him and beat him up and broke his eyeglasses. When he got out of the car, police quoted him as saying, some of the men chased him to his home. The group had an argument about football scores.

After Skinner reported the incident to police, they arrested five men about 2:15 a.m. today at the Busy Bee Cafe in connection with the alleged assault on Skinner and were holding them without charges for investigation. Those being held are Joseph R. Phillips, Joseph J. Worthington and Allen O. Pittman of near Ayden, and Fred J. Saleeby and Herbert A. Taylor, East Carolina Teachers College students.

Kinston police notified Greenville police that they had arrested Alton Worthington of Pitt County in Kinston on charges by Fred J. Saleeby that he had stolen his watch. Kinston authorities also stated that they had arrested Thermond T. Jones of Pitt County in connection with the alleged larceny of Saleeby's watch. Greenville police are continuing their investigation.

Howell Convicted In Murder Trial

Shelby, N. C., Nov. 10—(AP)— A jury in Superior court today convicted Robert Howell of second degree murder in the slaying of Betty Smith.

The Jury deliberated from 10:25 a. m. to 1 :56 a. m.

Judge J. Will Pless, Jr., gave no indication when he would sentence Howell. The crime carries penalty of two to 30 years' imprisonment.

Armed Robbery

James Medlin, operator of the Green Oil Service Station, on the left hand side of the Bethel highway, across the river, reported to police last night that two armed men entered his place with firearms, held him up and took about $35 from his person. He described his assailants and their car.

Police are investigating.

Americans Depart Chinese Cities As Reds Draw Nearer

Food Riots And Strikes; Mobs Roam Streets; People Are Trampled; Exodus By Air And Sea; Nationalists' Position Worsens Hourly

Nanking, Nov. 10—(AP)—By air and sea American dependents were leaving China today ahead of Reds, riots, and hunger.

Hourly the National position grew worse in North Central China. Suchow and Pengpu were reported virtually isolated by Communists. The Yangtze was feared open to a Red crossing that would expose Nanking.

Food riots and strikes flared in Nankow, Shanghai and Nanking.

Mobs roamed the streets. People were trampled to death or injured. Police fired on the rioters here and in Hankow, where a large rice shop was set afire.

The Air Exodus of Americans got underway on an emergency basis from Nanking. The sea evacuation began at Shanghai.

Expectant mothers were the first flown out. Then following the wives and children of U. S. military advisers. All were flown to Tsingtao, American naval base. At least 500 were to be put aboard the hospital ship Repose by Friday night.

From Shanghai the U. S. army transport General Collins sailed with 150 dependents. Two other transports, the General Buckner and Patrick, are due in Shanghai to pick up an estimated 1,000 Americans. The Buckner may sail within 48 hours with 127 dependents.

The American Embassy in Nanking has advised other Americans that sea transportation to Shanghai will be available shortly. When military personnel will leave—if they leave at all—has not been made public.

Railroad, tram and waterworks employes demanded their wages in rice, disdaining the rapidly sinking gold yuan currency. They stopped work when they got no rice. Some returned to their jobs later when a small amount was made available.

In a desperate attempt to stabilize the economic situation, the executive yuan (legislature) authorized the sale of the China textile corporation — largest state owned textile plant in China. Regulations for the sale of American aid cotton on the open market in exchange for foodstuff were passed, also.

President Chiang Kai-Shek, trying to bolster his tottering government, was in almost continuous conference at his home. Reports said the discussion included the possibility of a new cabinet being formed.

Alarmed European nationals, aware of keen anti-foreign feeling, hoped to get out some way.

If the situation grows much worse an American warship may be sent up the Yangtze to protect foreigners and aid in evacuating them.

Americans were ordered off Nanking streets tonight.

Three Communist forces converged on Suchow, government base 176 air miles north of Nanking. The Reds came from the north, east and west. Fighting was reported in the Suchow defense perimeter.

Six National regiments, possibly totaling 10,000 men, reportedly deserted to the Reds around Suchow.

Hurricane Warnings For Carolina Coast

Small And Unusually Late Tropical Storm Swirls Toward Mainland With 75 Miles An Hour Winds; Precautions Ordered

Miami, Fla., Nov. 10—(AP)—Hurricane warnings were ordered hoisted from Cape Lookout to Cape Hatteras on the North Carolina coastline today as a small and unusually late tropical hurricane swirled toward the mainland with 75 miles an hour winds.

The Miami Weather Bureau ordered the red and black flags displayed at 9:15 a.m. (EST) and warned that "every precaution should be taken on the North Carolina capes."

It was expected to hit along the North Carolina coastline this afternoon.

The storm was located about 120 miles southeast of Wilmington, N.C. at 9:15 a.m. and moving northward at about 20 miles an hour.

Cape Lookout is a tiny point jutting into the Atlantic about 75 miles south of Cape Hatteras.

The storm—one of the few to reach hurricane intensity this late in the "season"—was comparatively small in area with its strongest winds on the northeast quadrant. Gale wind, of 60 miles an hour or stronger, spread outward from the center toward the north and east some 100 miles.

The area where hurricane warnings were hoisted covers some 75 miles of North Carolina coastline.

It was the second time this year that warnings have been displayed in the same area. Early in the season a tropical storm threatened the North Carolina coast, but veered off into the Atlantic.

Northeast storm warnings flew from the Virginia capes southward to Wilmington and Southport, N.C.

The Weather Bureau said the surprise storm should pass close to the North Carolina coast late today or tonight. It already had veered from west northwestward to northwestward, and forecasters said it probably would continue a slow curve to the northward.

Old North State Venture Delayed

Not Enough Stock Sold For Recently Formed Insurance Company

The First Securities Corporation of Durham, underwriters of the Old North State Insurance company stock, has notified Greenville citizens who purchased stock in the local insurance firm that their money, held in escrow at the Guaranty bank, will be refunded.

Under the agreement by which the security company was selling the stock for the recently formed insurance company, at least $600,000 was to be sold during a three month ending last September 15. Old North State Insurance company officials said that approximately $115,000 worth of the stock was sold during the period.

"We feel that the First Securities has not done a good job of selling the stock for our company," commented Robert Van Iderstine, president of the Old North State Insurance company. Van Iderstine said that of the approximately $115,000 worth of stock sold, "First Securities is not responsible for more than $10,000."

Erskine Duff, Greenville representative for the First Securities Corporation could not be reached for comment this morning.

Van Iderstine said that the Insurance company venture has definitely not been abondoned and that a letter of explanation will be sent to the investors as soon as possible. He stated that the company is awaiting a ruling from the North Carolina Attorney General before going on with the project. He indicated, however, that the local businessmen are planning to make a concerted drive to sell the necessary stock to have the company licensed as soon as the red tape is cleared through the attorney general.

Turnage Is Main Speaker In Event

Armistice Day Exercises To Be One Of Most Elaborate Held

By CHESTER WALSH

The American Legion's Armistice Day parade and memorial exercises on the Third Street portico of the courthouse tomorrow are expected to be one of the most elaborate celebrations of Armistice Day here in many years. American Legion Post Commander T. K. Fountain of Falkland will preside.

General Hal Turnage of Farmville, Pitt County's most distinguished soldier, who retired with the full rank of general in the Marine Corps about a year ago, will be the principal speaker.

Congressman Herbert C. Bonner of Washington will also speak.

J. Con Lanier is chairman of the Speakers' Committee. Col. Owen Marshburn, retired army officer, is grand marshal of the parade, which starts at the college. Units from the Marine base at Cherry Point and Fort Bragg, the college and high school bands, National Guard and ROTC units from ECTC, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and others will participate.

The Negro American Legion post will fall in the parade at Five Points.

After the memorial exercises at the courthouse a barbecue dinner

German Industries Will Soon Revert To Owners

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 10—(AP)—The vast German coal, iron and steel industries in the Bizonal area will revert to German ownership in the "near future," the British and American Military Governments announced today.

"The military governors, however, are retaining a certain control of powers," the announcement said.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay is the American military governor in Germany and Gen. Sir Brian Robertson is Britain's top occupation official.

The industries, including those of the Ruhr, have technically been owned by the military governors since the end of the war.

New German companies will be established to operate the companies, subject to these stipulations:

1. There will be no "excessive concentration of economic power."

2. Persons who "permitted and encouraged" the Nazi party will be banned from positions of ownership and control.

3. The drastic reorganization shall not prejudice a possible future decision by a German government as to whether the industries will be socialized.

Gloomy View Of Future Business

New York, Nov. 10 —(AP)— Earl O. Shreve, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, says "Business is going to be in the doghouse for the next four years."

He made the statement—without amplification—as he left by plane for Paris yesterday to attend a council meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce.

Film Comedian Dies Of Cancer

San Fernando, Calif., Nov. 10—(AP) — Edgar Kennedy, veteran screen actor who had appeared in about 500 movies since 1911, died yesterday of cancer of the throat. He was 58.

One of the original keystone cops of the silent screen, Kennedy was the star of the "Average Man" comedy series for the last 18 years.

His nickname, "Slow Burn," was due to his characteristic portrayal of a gradually rising indignation culminating in a temperamental blow-up.

Rumored French Premier And De Gaulle Will Meet

Paris, Nov. 10—(AP)—Premier Henri Queuille tried today to hold together his faltering government and there were reports he may meet next week with Gen. Charles De Gaulle.

Observers said Quauille wishes to learn how determined De Gaulle is to force the fall of the government.

De Gaulle, whose forces won about 40 per cent of the membership of the council of the republic, upper house of the French Parliament, in balloting Sunday, has been advocating new general elections which he thinks will swing him back to power.

The popular Republican party, a heavy loser Sunday, already has pulled two of its members out of the cabinet. The National council of the party votes this weekend whether to withdraw the rest of its members from the cabinet. Such an action would precipitate the fall of the government.

Even if Queuille survives these two meetings, he must prepare the cabinet to withstand the shock of Parliament's return Nov. 16.

Constant clashing between the upper and lower houses is almost inevitable. De Gaulle's French people's party will have a strong say in the upper house and observers say his aim will be to force disolution of the lower house—the powerful National Assembly.

Spokesmen for Queuille and for De Gaulle would not confirm reports the two would meet. Informed legislative sources said, however, that negotiations were under way for a conference.

Meanwhile the Communists issued a statement offering to join everybody in order to stop the De Gaulle movement.

THURSDAY LEGAL HOLIDAY

Thursday is a legal holiday—Armistice Day. The postoffice, banks city, county and federal offices will be closed. Stores and business places are expected to close during the Armistice Day parade and memorial exercises at the courthouse.

That Unhappy Land

Nationalist China's Situation Reaches Point Of Desperation With Reversals On Military And Economic Fronts; Future Extent Of American Aid; Part Of Global War

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

This column rarely uses the term "desperate" in describing a situation because that word implies hopelessness, but the position in China has deteriorated to a point which certainly is crowding desperation.

That unhappy land—housing close to a quarter of the globe's population—has sunk so deep in the chaos of civil war and economic collapse that no man can predict her fate.

The question of whether Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek can maintain his nationalist government and defeat the Red rebellion is a matter of anxious speculation.

The Chinese Communists, having overrun strategic Manchuria are now driving southward in China. The great northern Metropolis of Peiping, spirutual capital of the country, is in a state of panic—a city of doom. The Communists continue their drive towards Suchow, the last northern gateway to Chiang's capital—Nanking.

Meantime the economic situation has worsened. The military disasters in the north have further shaken the confidence of the people in the ability of the government to cope with the situation. The economic crisis has hit a new low and one of the immediate results has been a grave increase in the food shortage, said to be due in considerable degree to hoarding. (AP) Correspondent Roy Essoyan reports from Shanghai:

"Shanghai today is facing its most critical food situation in modern times. Ten weeks of choking economic restrictions and ten days of frantic, unbridled inflation which followed have left the once great center of commerce a city of closed shops, sporadic rice raids and strikes. Chinese reports from the immediate interior add talks of gang raids on surrounding villages, which are being stripped clean of edibles."

So goes the grim story. Small wonder that officials in Washington are deeply concerned. Small wonder that there should be speculation whether the Generalissimo's government can triumph over the Communists.

As for Chiang, he gives the impression of having no doubts of success. He has called on his followers to prepare for eight more years of war against the Chinese Communists, this tacitly admitting that it is a long, tough job, but he maintains an air of confidence. He declares that peace can only be attained by destroying the Communism.

Silent Husband No Boon Asserts Divorce Judge

Washington, Nov. 10—(AP)—Silence may be golden—but not when a husband starts giving his wife the silent treatment on their silver wedding anniversary and walks out three years later—still silent.

That's "unnatural," Judge Alexander Holtzoff ruled yesterday in granting Mrs. Dora M. Hartley, 62, a divorce and $60 monthly alimony.

Furthermore, Holtzoff said, Mrs. Hartley's refusal to cook her husband's meals the last ten silent days was not a legal justification for the 64 year old Hartley to leave home. He did so in 1937 after 26 years of maried life.

"This obviously is insufficient grounds in the eyes of the law to desert a family," the Judge held.

U. S. Aid To Schools

Government Aid To Education One Of Problems For New Congress; Many Bills Offered In Past; Main Points In Arguing For And Against; Compromise Efforts Failed

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Nov. 10 — (AP) — Government aid to education is one of the problems the new Congress has to tackle in 1949.

Such aid would mean giving federal money to the states to help them educate grammar and high school children.

The new Congress may approve, although the idea has been batting around a long time without getting anywhere.

This year, with the Republicans in control, it passed the Senate, backed by Senator Taft of Ohio. But the House Republicans let it die.

President Truman has plugged hard for it. You can expect him to plug harder next year with his Democrats running Congress.

For 30 years bills to give such help have been offered in Congress in growing numbers. Why?

On the grounds that some states are so much poorer than others that they can't afford money for a fair education for their children.

One of the main points in the argument against giving such help is this: sooner or later it would give the federal government power to dictate the nation's educational system.

There's another question:

Besides helping the public grammar and high schools, should any of the federal money go to private or religious schools in the states?

There's been strong support for doing that, and strong opposition to it. All the arguments, and there they are many, have gone on a long time.

The Taft bill, passed by the Senate, tried to reach a compromise on some of them. It may be the model for what Congress does in 1949.

For example: The Taft bill doesn't bar private or religious schools outright from receiving any of the federal money. But—

They couldn't receive a cent unless, under the law of an individual state receiving the money, such schools were receiving state help already.

As for government control, under the Taft bill the government could not tell the states what to teach in their schools.

The government would merely act as a kind of bookkeeper to see that the money was disturbed by a financial formula.

Under the bill the states would receive $80,000,000, at least at the start, to help them give their chil-

40 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
November 10, 1908

Jack Boyd went to Kinston today.

Mrs. C. B. Mayo went to Bethel today.

The Greenville market takes fourth place in the sales of tobacco for the month of October, Kinston, Wilson and Rocky Mount coming ahead in the order named.

Oyster boats are coming up now and the bivalves will be more plentiful.

Miss Hunsucker Honored at Bridge

One of the largest and loveliest of prenuptial social courtesies extended brides-elect during the fall season was the bridge party given Monday night, November 1, by Mrs. Roy T. Cox, Mrs. J. D. McGlohon and Mrs. R. P. Wheless in compliment to Miss Annie Sue Hunsucker of Winterville, now teaching in Walstonburg.

The home of Mrs. Roy T. Cox was the scene of the affair and was decorated throughout with lovely chrysanthemums and greenery. An attractive bridal scene was displayed in the dining room which added more beauty to the party.

The bride's place was marked with a corsage and each place was marked with an individual corsage.

During several spirited progressions, Coca-Colas and cheese straws were served.

The bride was remembered with a knife and fork in her chosen pattern of silver. High score was awarded Mrs. Nelson Hunsucker and low score to Mrs. Ray Oglesby.

Covers were laid for nine tables. Each table was marked with a white candle, tied with a white satin bow and fern, lighted.

A beautiful plate consisting of a varied selection of bridal molds, individual bridal cakes, mints and nuts was served.

G. H. S. Dramateers

The Greenville High School Dramateers will present "Unto Us The Living," a choric drama, tonight at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium. The Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Ona Shindler will furnish the musical background. Mrs. Howard Mims and Alten Finch are directing the drama.

There will be no admission charge.

Dr. Lucile Charles Gives Program

Miss Lena Ellis, Miss Marguerite Austin, Mrs. L. W. Tracey and Miss Eunice McGee were hostesses to the Literature Department, Tuesday November 9, at Ragsdale Hall. Bowls of yellow chrysanthemums here and there, brightened the rooms.

Dr. Lucile Charles of the college English Department gave a program of contrasts. She read two one act plays: one, picturing the stilted social atmosphere of nineteenth century social life in Cranford, England; and the other, a stirring tragic-comedy that brought out vividly the folly and tragedy of war in our present day scientific age. It was timely and the satire as the animals appraised mankind was sometimes delightfully funny; sometimes almost painfully sharp and to the point. Those fortunate enough to have heard Dr. Charles had an experience they will not soon forget.

Guests were: Mrs. T. G. Basnight, Mrs. Lloyd Mills, Mrs. J. O. Derrick, Mrs. Meredith Posey, and Miss Stacy Sorrell.

The next meeting will be on November 23 at the home of Mrs. L. A. Stroud. Francis Lee Neel of the college Art Department will talk on Japan and illustrate his talk with souvenirs he collected while he was a paratrooper there during World War II.

Harvest Home Sunday Eighth Street Christian Church

Preparations are now under way for the observance of Harvest Home Sunday on this coming Sunday, November 14, at the Eighth Street Christian Church. The church will be decorated with the fruit of the harvest of our own fields here in Pitt County. It is a time of great rejoicing among all peoples of the world as they come to the celebration of the harvest season.

The Eighth Street members will bring a special offering of love and devotion which will be used for the retirement of the repair debt. It is to be one of sacrifice just as the ancients brought the first fruits of the harvest. Every member is urged to be present with his love offering at this service.

Civic Leaders Talk Crisis In Education

The Greenville unit of the North Carolina Education Association and the Classroom Teachers Association, under the leadership of the public relations committee, have called on leaders of thirty clubs and organizations of the city for suggestions for arousing the public to an alerted and aggressive attitude toward the crisis in education.

Seven replies to a questionnaire sent to these leaders reflect agreement on major school problems and methods of solving them. Replies were received from T. K. Fountain, commander of the Pitt County Post of the American Legion, Mrs. Vance Perkins, president of the Woman's Club; Rev. R. E. Hardaway, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church; W. F. Young, scout leader; Mrs. C. B. West, Jr., president of West Greenville P. T. A.; Dr. John D. Messick, president of E. C. T. C. and of the Executives Club; Dr. H. G. Haney, pastor of the Christian Church.

In order to arouse public support of an adequate financial program, these civic leaders propose greater publicity through the press, Parent-Teacher organizations and civic clubs of North Carolina.

Requested to assess the chief weakness of the post-war school product, the club heads gave these responses: poor foundation in the fundamental processes, or the three R's, lack of a firm disciplinary program compiacency toward work and attitude of getting by with least effort. Dr. Messick wrote in response to this question: "Disregard for order, complacency toward work and poorly prepared.

Replies attributed these weaknesses to overcrowded classes, lack of classroom space, inefficient teachers due to shortage, lack of firm disciplinary program, unrest, lackadaisical attitude of teachers and parents, too much emphasis on activity by some teachers, homes torn by emotional insecurity and divorce and neglect of religious and character training by working mothers. Mrs. West wrote, "I think overcrowded classes due to lack of teachers and classroom space is the greatest trouble."

The home has delegated too much responsibility to the school, a review of the replies reveals. Said Mrs. Perkins, "In some cases the home has delegated too much responsibility to the school. I for one, am not in favor of such a proceedure. I believe parents should supervise religious and recreational training insofar as possible and that is a hard job to do as it means competing with rotten motion pictures, degrading comics and horror radio programs.

I don't think the school should have home training to do. If they do what is required educationally, they will not have time for other things. Don't misunderstand me. I believe in schools teaching character, too, but not taking the place of the home. I believe in the school teaching health, citizenship and character molding in the course of the regular teaching, but schools should not have to be responsible for those elements after school hours.

If the school must assume training responsibilities formerly met by the home, the expanded program must be financed by federal aid and increased state and local taxes, according to the responses of these Greenville citizens.

W. F. Young sadi, "The only possible way I know is to increase taxes in some form or other."

To the question, "Should the state provide a scholarship fund for talented young people desiring to enter the teaching profession in order to attracbt the cream of youth into educational circles?" an affirmative response was given.

Striking an optimistic note, Rev. R. E. Hardaway wrote, "I do not know what the outstanding weakness in the school product of the post-war years is. My impression is that it compares very well with other periods, depending upon both the individual pupil and teacher." Dr. H. G. Haney wrote, "Perhaps the school has taken heavier responsibilities with extra curricular activities."

The public relations committee of the two teacher organizations expresses its appreciation for the cooperation of the seven leading citizens who responded to the questionnaire.

Serving on the public relations committee are Miss Cathleen Pike, chairman; Miss Ona Shindler, Mrs. Clem Utley, Miss Elizabeth Norman and Miss Annie Sue Perry. Mrs. Lindsay Savage is president of the N. C. E. A. and Mrs. Howard Mims is president of Classroom Teacher Association.

Jaycees Present New York Play Here December 6

Opening day's demand for tickets for Tennessee Williams drama, "The Glass Menagerie", showing here December 6th, indicated an earlier sell-out, it was reported today by Sam Weeks, Jaycees chairman.

Weeks suggested that local citizens not delay in securing their reserved seats in order to avoid later disappointment.

Greenville's Jaycees consider themselves fortunate to secure this fine Broadway play by Tennessee Williams (winner of the Drama Critics Award) with their New York cast on their Southern tour.

The play will be presented at East Carolina Teacher College, Austin Auditorium, Monday, Dec. 6, at 8:15 p. m.

All seats are reserved and are on sale at Globe Hardware Company, across from City Hall. Prices are: $1.00 for students; all others, $1.20 and $1.80 (tax included in all prices.)

Tennessee Williams play "Streetcar Named Desire" is currently showing to capacity crowds in New York City. Robert Leigh, brother of Vivien Leigh, is the producer of "Glass Managerie," and appears in the cast.

ACA Elections Scheduled For December 2, 3

Committeemen of the community and county organizations of the Pitt County Agricultural Conservation Association will be elected during the first week in December, Wyatt Highsmith secretary of the group, announced today.

On Demember 2, members of the association will vote on the 66 community committeemen, three from each of the 22 communities in the county, and on the following day delagates to the county convention will elect three county committeemen.

Highsmith said all farmers who take part in any of the ACA programs are members of the association and are entitled to vote in the election of the community committeemen.

Strength FOR THE DAY

A LITTLE-KNOWN BOOK

The Book of Revelation is a closed book to the average Christian. This is largely because people fail to read it in the light of the historical situation amid which it arose.

It was written by the Apostle John about the year 90 A.D. and was addressed to churches in Asia Minor which were suffering extreme persecution. Its message to humanity is that the unseen powers at the disposal of men are inestimably more potent than the materialistic powers in which the world at large puts its trust.

Too often the book has been used as an almanac in an attempt to forecast the future. It undoubtedly has much to say about the future, but its chief aim is not to disclose what is going to be but to encourage and sustain believers amid the challange of present trials.

Revelation is a book to be read and reread thoroughly in these days of world chaos. It calls upon Christians everywhere to be faithful and never give up their conviction that the hand of God at last decides all issues, and that even though we must suffer for the right, the triumph we experience is worth all it costs.

"Be thou faithful unto death," is the command repeated over and over again. It is counsel not just for the Christians in the first century, but for the sincere and earnest believers of today.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET

PATRONAGE—Most of the federal jobs will still be held by Democrats, but there may be a good many changes in personnel. This applies to Tar Heels holding government jobs at Washington and in the state. Senators and representatives in Congress will have opportunity to nominate friends for various posts. A situation is shaping up, however, which will give Joe Blythe, national committeeman and treasurer of the Democratic party, the most important voice in placing North Carolinians.

FIRM—Blythe several times manifested firmness in control of positions in the party organization. More than once he blocked appointment of persons whose fitness for the particular posts he doubted. He has quietly passed along word that nominations for positions of importance should be cleared through him, not because he aspires to be a political boss but to prevent cross purpose and confused action. He found that policy effective in maintaining a cohesive working organization in the national committee. Success achieved in the campaign is regarded as justification for extending the policy into normal governmental activities.

HARMONY—Observers see no reason for lack of harmony between the national committeeman and the senators. Relations are not intimate, but factional lines are not clearly drawn and nothing approaching open breach is anticipated. Neither is there any reason to expect conflict between the two senators with respect to the half dozen or so big plums. Tar Heel senators have always gotten along well in division of the spoils, even though the division sometimes results in peculiar situations. Such, for instance, as the post of collector of customs at Wilmington being considered patronage of the western senator.

PLUMS—Other juicy plums include federal judges, in case of vacancy in any of the three districts, U.S. Marshals and attorneys for the districts and collector of internal revenue. Custom has been to consider the eastern court officials as responsibility of the eastern senator, the western district federal posts as belonging in the province of the western senator, while the senators collaborate on the middle district. With respect to collector of revenue, policy has been to accredit the top post to the west, the next ranking two or three offices to the east, with attempt at equitable distribution of personnel down the line.

VACANCIES—Senator Hoey has said he will re-submit the nomination of Wilson Warlick to be judge of the western district and expects early confirmation by the Senate. He will also have to fill the post of marshal now held by Charles Price, who is expected to retire within a few months. Senator Broughton will have to nominate an eastern marshal, and is expected to continue Ford Worthy in the post. Several names have been suggested for the middle district marshalship now held by Edney Ridge of Greensboro, including Ridge's reappointment. District attorneys in each of these districts also will have to be named, along with several dozen assistant attorneys, deputy marshals and revenue collectors. The senators will nominate men for these posts, the President will appoint and the Senate must confirm the appointments. But in each case, Joe Blythe wants to be kept informed of developments as they progress. Not since the days of Senator Furnifold Simmons has the national committeeman kept as close touch with such matters. Blythe's prestige in national circles is enhanced by the fact that both North Carolina senators are serving first terms. Both loyally supported Truman and the entire Democratic ticket, but neither had as large part in his election as did the treasurer of the national committee.

If Winter Comes

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

New York,— (AP) —Sure and bejabbers, there were two Irishmen.

They were fresh from the ould sod, they were, and complaining the streets of new world wreren't paved with gold. Sure and if then they didn't pass a great building with fine pillars. And there was a stone in it that said: "MCMIX."

And Pat turns to Mike and says:

"Faith, Mike, we do be judging the country too harshly. There's one Irishman that's getting along all right."

Ha, Ha! Yes, it's an old story. Everybody knows that the "MCMIX" wasn't an Irishman at all, but Roman numerals indicating the year the building was erected.

All right, you may know that "MCMIX" stands for 1909. But suppose the stone had said "MCDIX." The odds are strong that you could not tell—any more than the Irishmen—when it was built.

And that's why Congress should vote funds to teach people how to read the Roman dates on cornerstones. Either that or pass a law forcing contractors to put on "1409" instead of "MCDIX."

"It's important. Just why, I'll explain later.

First let us take a simple little Roman date like "MCDXLIV." I showed this to thirty people and asked them what number it stood for.

The replies ranged from "I don't know" to "It's easy—1,550,904."

Four professional men, a photographer, a pretty secretary, and a man who bets on the wrong racehorse were among the 26 who gave the incorrect answer. One said that after studying six years of latin the only figure he remembered was that Gaul was divided into three parts—and he was taking Caesar's word for that.

So I called the New York Public Library, where they have an information service that can tell you everything from the number of feathers on an Albatross to what was Hiawatha's chest expansion.

"What number does 'MCDXLIV' stand for?" I asked.

A young lady who sounded like a pretty fair number herself answered sweetly:

"Search me."

This seemed like a grand idea—offhand. But then she switched me to the art department, where she said they had more experience with Roman numerals.

"Oh, yes, we get questions about Roman numerals quite often." said a dear old elderly voice, as gentle as the painting of Whistler's mother wired for sound.

There was a long pause, and then —

"H-M-MMMM. It's quite confusing arranged that way. Let's see. The 'M' stands for one thousand, the "XL" is fifty less ten—that's forty. The "IV' of course is four. But the 'CD'—I don't find it in the World Almanac. The Almanac has only 'DC'—six hundred. Perhaps 'CD' is the same thing as 'DC'.

"That would make it one thousand, six hundred and forty-four Does that sound right?"

No, Ma'am. It didn't. The New York Public Library was publicly wrong. The right answer was one thousand, four hundred and forty-four.

What difference does it make? Well, if the politicians get word nobody read cornerstone dates—they can slap "MCDXLIV" on every big city bridge or building they put up.

Ten years later they can come along and say they want to tear it down, and put up another one. When a taxpayer yelps, "Why it's practically new," the politicians can say:

"You pitiful dope-look at the cornerstone. It says MCDXLIV— 1444. Why this building is a public menace. It might fall down any minute."

And up goes a new building—and the tax rate.

How long can we afford this chaos on cornerstones? Arise, Congress. Get up off the seat of government and end this confusion. Salus Populi Lex suprema Esto! or I'm not a Latin from Manhattan.

(Editors' Note. On the other hand we could just seal of Boyle in an undated cornerstone while he works out a concrete solution).

WASHINGTON LETTER

By JANE EADS

Washington—That plump bird we dish up on festive occasions these days is not the same species our Pilgrim fathers shot and savored at the first Thanksgiving. Dr. Logan Bennett, chief of research of the Fish and Wildlife Service of the Department of the Interior, is authority for this.

He says the turkey on the market today originated from a Mexican bird. It was taken by the Spaniards to Spain, there domesticated and brought back to this country. "The wild turkey is different," Dr. Bennett told me. "It's much trimmer-built, more alert, longer-legged, runs faster, flies more readily—tastes better."

You have to be a real expert to catch a wild turkey. First of all, you have to have a turkey-caller. This is a box made of basswood, about 10 inches long with half-inch thick walls, the tops of which are thickly coated with chalk. Loosely attached to a screw at one end of the box is a 10-inch paddle of red cedar. As you move the paddle from side to side over the top edges of the box it sounds—like a turkey.

"You can't maxe your fake calls too often," he says, "because the wild turkey doesn't do a lot of calling. If you call too often you'll tip him off that you're not the real McCoy."

Dr. Bennett got his wild turkey last year on a mountain top in Pennsylvania. He started at 1:30 p. m. selecting a low spot in the brush where he lay quiet until the woods were still about him. Then he made three calls on his box. He waited 20 minutes, made two more calls. The turkey answered. "I didn't move an eyelash—wild turkeys have good eyesight," he said. "The turkey called two or three times, but I kept still until 2:10, when I made my next call, and waited until 2:30 to make another. The bird knew where I was. He made a call every few minutes trying to get me to answer."

At 2:45 Dr. Bennett made another call. The turkey answered, kept moving forward, until exactly at 3 p. m. when he got within 45 yards of his would be assassin. "Then the bird couldn't stand it any longer," recited Bennett. "He broke into a fast run, as hard as he could go, right at me. I heard him coming, turned my head to look. Immediately he flew into the air at a right-angle. I reached for my gun, shot and killed him. We had turkey for Thanksgiving.

Dr. Bennett lives in a restored colonial home in Virginia, 35 miles from the capital, with his wife; a 13-year-old daughter who, like himself, trains bird dogs; and a son, nine who possesses a beagle hound. The Bennetts also raise pigs and are getting ready to hunt their Thanksgiving turkey.

The eye disease glaucoma was named 2,500 years ago by Hippocrates.

WHAT IS AN EXTENSION TELEPHONE?

An extension telephone is an extra telephone instrument attached to your present line. It can be placed in your home or place of business. Since the telephone instruments are again available we are happy to announce that EXTENSION TELEPHONE SERVICE IS AVAILABLE AGAIN.

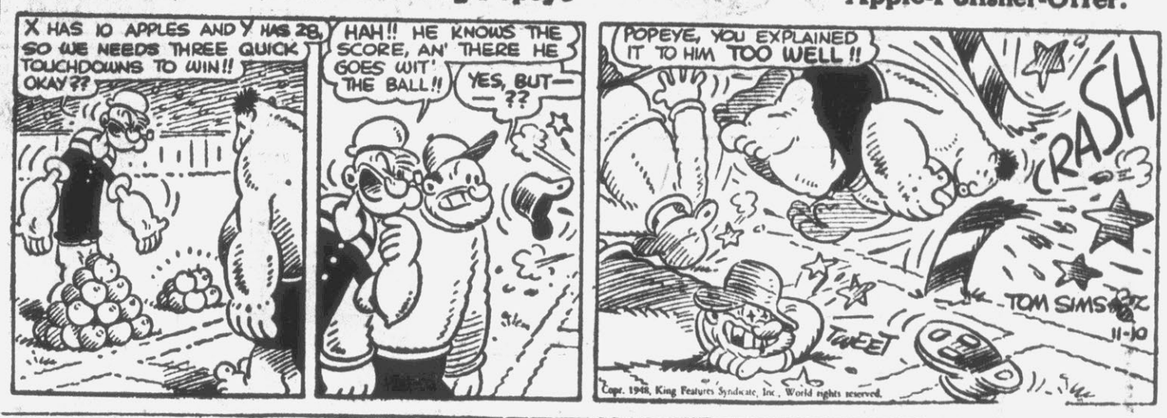

Main telephone service however is still on the "hard-to-get" list because production of the central office equipment and lead covered cable needed to extend our present facilities, is slow and delivery dates uncertain. We shall continue however to install main telephones where we have the necessary outside facilities and central office equipment.

Seniors Select 'Superlatives'

Seniors at East Carolina Teachers College have elected twenty-three outstanding members of their class as the "superlatives" among this year's graduates; and through Willard Pendleton, Portsmouth, Va., president, have announced their choices.

The students selected will have their photographs included in the 1949 "Tecoan," college annual, edited by Milton Fields of Scotland Neck. The election of senior superlatives is an annual event at the college, and inclusion among those chosen is considered on the campus a significant mark of the esteem in which a student is held by his classmates.

This year's list includes Rosa Squires, Kelly and Carnie C. Gooding, New Bern, most likely to succeed; Charles Connor, New Bern, best leader; Virginia Floyd, Barnesville, most athletic woman student; John Wyatt, Portsmouth, Va., most athletic man student; Elizabeth Womble, Nashville, and Willard Pendleton, Portsmouth, Va., best dressed seniors; Charles Williams, Erwin, most original; Jean Bostian, Wilmington, most sincere; Allen Stoddard, Greenville, most studious; Jesse McDaniel, Kinston, wittiest; Marian Ward, Nakina, and Robert L. Shuford, Jr., Thomasville, best all-round seniors; June Bass, Hallax, prettiest; Barbara Stovall, Bullock, cutest; Willie Warner, Thomasville, handsomest; Richard Tarrasvchia, Syracuse, N.Y., most intellectual; Pattie Flowers, New Bern, best dancer; A. E. Manning, Jamesville, most talented; Ann Beddard, Snow Hill, most cooperative; James Briley, Robersonville, most friendly; Robert Chinnis, Wilmington, most dependable; and Herbert Taylor, Robersonville, best personality.

Ballard's X Roads News

At the November meeting of the Ballards Home Demonstration club it was announced that the club building, under construction at Langs Crossroads, is ready to be wired and, as the building fund is nearly depleted, members voted that each club member should make a cash donation for the wiring. Members are hoping to have the new home completed in time for the Christmas party. Families of club members will be guests at the annual party.

Mesdames Gilmer Nichols, J. D. Jones, L. R. Jones and James Moore officers for the new club year, and Mrs. Lloyd Allen and Mrs. A. J. Garris, retiring officers, have been asked to serve as hostesses.

Miss Lowery, assistant home agent announced that the feature of the Achievement Day program in Greenville in the Memorial Baptist church at 2 o'clock this afternoon, will be an address by Mrs. Richa Oud, from Haarlem, Holland.

Pitt county is very fortunate in getting a visit from Mrs. Oud as she is going to only four counties in the state.

Mrs. Nichols presided over the business session. Guests for the afternoon were Miss Pauline Brown, assistant county agent in Bertie. Mrs. David Quinn and Mrs. G. T. Tyson.

The demonstration for the afternoon was on "Green and Yellow Vegetables in Salads" and was given by Miss Lowery. In this demonstration a meal was prepared and the menu consisted of a meat and vegetable stew cooked in a small presto cooker in 20 minutes, served on rice, corn meal muffins, a vegetable salad, and peach surprise.

At the close of the demonstration, the hostesses, Mrs. J. R. Jones and Mrs. James Jones served the meal buffet style, to those present.

Miss Edith Tyson, who teaches at Black Creek, entertained on October 31 at a surprise birthday dinner in honor of her mother, Mrs. G. T. Tyson.

The dinner was served from a beautifully appointed table centered with a lovely birthday cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyson, Miss Edith Tyson and three invited guests were present for the occasion. Mrs. Tyson received several nice gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Jones of Danville, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bowen of Plymouth were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Jones.

Miss Sue Worthington attended a meeting of the Future Home Makers in Scotland Neck last Saturday. She took part in the program.

Miss Lillian Harris of Halifax spent the week end at her home at Ballards.

Friends of Mrs. Chester Worthington will be sorry to learn that she is ill in the Greenville hospital.

Miss Louise Tyson spent the week end with relatives in Greenville.

Tommie Deans Bowen of Plymouth is spending this week with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Braxton of Newport News, Va., spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Levi Braxton.

Mrs. Verna Crawford continues to be very ill at her home at Bell Arthur.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar L. Erwin were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jones Sunday.

Mrs. Viola Boyd spent last week with her aunt in Pinetops.

Mrs. L. R. Jones and Mrs. C. J. Tyson spent several days with Mrs. Earl Bowen in Plymouth last week.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Elks attended the home mission talk given in Farmville Presbyterian church Monday night by Dr. Hassell.

Women In The Church

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church, which now has a membership of about 1,500,000 women throughout the United States and in its overseas missions, is campaigning to add million women to its rolls within the next four years. The Society is also seeking to enlist and send out into foreign and home missionary service, and as deaconesses in American churches and institutions, an additional one thousand young women; and to increase the present giving for home and overseas missions by $18,000,000 in the four-year period. Mrs. J. D. Bragg, of St. Louis, Mo., is president of the W.S.C.S., and Mrs. Eloise A. Woolever, of New York, heads the promotion of its advance program.

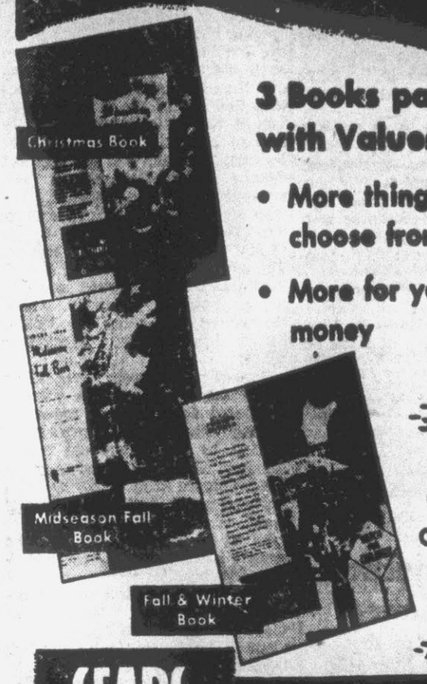

Pointing out that life expectancy in the U. S. A. is 68 years, while in India and Pakistan it is only 27 years among men and 26 years among women, Miss Hilda M. Lazarus, M.D., director-principal of the noted Vellore Christian Medical College, Vellore, India, says that—to meet 40 percent of American health and sanitary standards—India requires 400,000 doctors, 800,000 nurses, 74,000 midwives, 92,000 dentists, and 62,000 pharmacists. Of the 6,500,000 deaths per annum, she says, one-half are of children under ten, and one half of these are children under one year. The causes are malnutrition, inadequate medical care, and controllable epidemics. Dr. Lazarus and her associates are attempting to meet a share of the need through training of doctors and nurses, travelling dispensaries and education in health measures.

The Protestant Business Women's Council is the "evening section" of the Milwaukee County (Wisconsin) Council of Church Women. While the parent body meets during the day, the evening section is composed of employed women who still are concerned with the interests of the church. Mrs. Erma Romanik is president of the evening group which is now three years old. Among the many activities of the P.B.W.C. are the giving of small gifts and favors to the patients and staff of the Veterans Hospital at Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter; giving of toys, books and other articles each Christmas to the children in the County Hospital Pediatric Ward; and the teaching of weaving, knitting, crocheting, in a mental hospital.

Tar Heel Democrats Gain Seats In General Assembly

Raleigh, Nov. 10—(AP)—The national trend of picking more Democratic legislators came through on the state level in North Carolina.

On the basis of nearly complete returns from last week's elections, Tar Heel Democrats appear to have gained two seats in the general assembly.

Democrats took five house seats from Republicans while losing three, Secretary of State Thad Eure reported. The Republicans hung on to their two of the senate's 50 seats.

The indicated score in the house is 109 Democrats and 11 Republicans.

Democrat Eure said of the four counties which have not reported their house elections—Cumberland, Pitt, Polk, and Guilford—"We have no worries at all about them."

Democrats who won house seats held in 1947 by Republicans are Ed R. Hanford, Alamance; J. H. Duncan, Cherokee; L. A. Martin, Davidson; Roy W. Davis, McDowell; and C. W. Tatem, Tyrrell.

Republican winners of seats held by Democrats are J. M. Smoot, Davie; Robert Smith Hayes, Randolph; and Ralph Fisher, Transylvania.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Lions Told Why Dewey Defeated

Dr. A. D. Frank, member of the Faculty of ECTC, was the guest speaker at the Monday evening meeting of the Lion's Club. The speaker chose as his subject: "Why the Presidential Election came out as it did." Dr. Frank first pointed out that the immediate past election was one of the most interesting in the nation's history. Only a bare handful dared dream that President Truman had the slightest chance for re-election—and yet, when the ballots were counted, Truman was in by a comfortable margin, Too, never before have the "Polls" taken such a beating. Though towards the end of the campaign they showed a slight trend towards Truman, still, throughout the race, the "Polls" indicated a sweeping Republican victory.

Several reasons were advanced by Dr. Frank which, in his opinion, accounted for Truman's reelection. Among those were (1) Dewey's nomination by the Republican party; (2) Republican overconfidence; (3) the avoidance of all issues by Dewey, whereas Truman took a definite stand (4) the heavy Negro vote received by Truman, and (5) the terrific battle waged by the underdog, Truman.

The following guests were in attendance: Walter Wilson, Junior Lion; Bob Russ; Ben Phillips, President of the Ayden Lion's Club; Ben DeMain, Ayden; Heber Winfield, W. I. Leonard and Bill Dunn, Washington; George Heath, President of the Tarboro Lion's Club and Frank Barber, also of Tarboro.

Schools Improve Sanitary System

County Sanitarian Charles V. Morgan said today that the general condition of the county schools in both physical plants and cleanliness is much improved over last year.

Morgan has just completed a survey of the schools of the county in which special attention was given to school water supply, sewerage disposal systems and to the lunch rooms in the larger schools of the county.

That Unhappy . . .

lists through the nation.

Secretary of State Marshall conferred privately in Paris yesterdays with China's United Nations delegation Chief, Dr. T. F. Tsiang. The future extent of American military and economic aid to China's regime is said to have been discussed. American sources said the whole question of Chinese aid is being studied against a general background of feeling that there is not much point in pouring water into a leaking bucket.

American delegation officials in Paris said U. S. State Department experts are seeking a plan to reconcile the realities of the Red military gains with the U. S. desire to give effective aid to the Nationalist government. At the same time William C. Bullitt, former Ambassador to France and Russia, said in Washington he was leaving for China to make a survey for the joint Congressional Economic cooperation association watchdog committee. He hopes to return by Christmas with a report of China's needs to meet the Communist military threat.

Thus the indications are that America intends to pursue a program of aid to China. The Chinese civil war is a vital part of the conflict with Russian Communism, and China is likely to be an increasingly important threat of operations in the orient.

It wouldn't be profitable to win the cold war in Europe but lose the fight in the far east.

Power-Minded Cadets Roll Toward All-Time Grid Mark

Current Average On Ground-Gaining Well Ahead Of 359.8 Yards A Game When Blanchard And Davis Were Seeing Action

New York, Nov. 10— (AP) —Wars, they say, are won by the infantry. Army must figure the same is true of football games.

The power-minded cadets, who have never yielded to the modern pass-happy trend, are grinding toward a new all-time collegiate record for advancing the ball by land.

In seven games they have rolled up a staggering total of 2,640 rushing yards—an average of 377.1 yards a game.

If this keeps up, the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau reminds us, the black knights of the Hudson are round to wreck their own existing mark of 359.8 yards a game set in 1945 when Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis were stomping all opposition.

Blanghard and Davis have a touchdown tandem counterpart on the present army team in Gil Stephenson and Bobby Stuart, who are almost a cinch to shatted the ball-carrying records of the wartime Duo.

Led by Stephenson and Stuart, unblemished army smashed 525 yards over the ground last Saturday in beating Stanford, 43-0. It was the season's greatest display of power.

Should they win rushing offense honors this year it will mark the third time in five years the cadets have turned the trick. They were best on the ground also in 1944 and 1945.

Notre Dame is the only other team to take rushing honors more than once. The Irish were the nation's top powerhouse in 1943 and 1946. They are now in third place behind army and Texas Mines, in rushing.

The cadets get a real test Saturday when they clash with Pennsylvania, the third best defensive team in the country.

Nevada, although upset last week by Santa Clara, kept its long lead in two offensive departments—total offense and passing.

The Westerners have an overall total of 3,436 yards, an average of 490.9 yards a game. Army is second with a 456.4 average, followed by Notre Dame, which leaped from sixth place to third with 406.7.

The Irish offense also gets a chance to prove its mettle saturday. The foe is Northwestern, an outstanding defensive bulmark.

Nevada, paced by rifle-armed Stan Heath, has a 284.9-yard average in passing, followed by Tulsa with 173 and Georgia Tech with 168.4.

Plastic Helmets To Be Ruled Out

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 10—(AP)—Informed that the broken ankle suffered by Ken O'Donnell, Harvard football player, resulted from contact with a plactic helmet, Athletic Director William J. B. Bingham today advised the Crimson coaching staff that such equipment would be illegal after the 1949 season.

Bingham, head of the football rules committee, said his body notified the manufacturers to cease making plastic helmets last year because of their hard and unyielding surfaces.

Major Leaguers Draw For Talent

Cincinnati, Nov. 10—(AP)—A score of "bushers," more or less, will leap to the major leagues today as the two top loops hand-pick talent from the minors in the annual baseball draft.

This is no catch-as-catch-can affair, for the big leaguers know just which players among the more than 5,000 eligibles they'd like to add to their rosters.

Teams Play For A Worthy Cause

"Calling all people! Calling all people! Wanted for murder! All types of diseases!"

This will be the cry Thursday November 11th at 8 p.m. in Guy Smith Stadium when the Eppes High Bulldogs and the Snow Hill Terrors meet in a football game. The proceeds from this game will be donated to the Pitt County Community Clinic to help catch Old Man Disease. All are urged to attend the game to help this worthy cause. Admission is 35c and 60c.

It is quite generally agreed that George Mikan is the best basketball player in the country—amateur or professional. Certainly, he is the most discussed at the moment when the Minneapolis Lakers, having switched from the National League to the Basketball Association of America, are embarking on a bid to win top honors in their new surroundings. Last season, Minneapolis won the National League crown as well as the annual professional tournament in Chicago, and Mikan sparked them all the way.

Since leaving De Paul University where he won national honors three years, the six foot, ten inch Mikan has carried on his brilliant performances against the nation's top professional courtmen. Big George averaged 19 points per game in his four years with the De Paul varsity. In taking top honors in the National League last season, Mikan piled up a total of 1,195 points for an average of 21.3 per game.

Teaming up with Mikan to make Minneapolis club a serious threat in the Basketball Association is Jim Pollard. Both were unanimous all-league choices last season. Other Minneapolis veterans include Norm Schaefor, Tony Jaros, Don Carlson, Don Smith, John Jorgensen and Jack Dwan.

Problem In Morale Facing E.C.T.C. Football Mentors

By EUGENE PRICE

With their North State Conference tilt with High Point College just four days away, football mentors at East Carolina Teachers college are faced with a difficult task.

The Purple Pirates of East Carolina have lost their fighting spirit. "They are defeated before they go on the field," Coach Jim Johnson said yesterday of his squad which has dropped six games in a row and is yet to claim a victory.

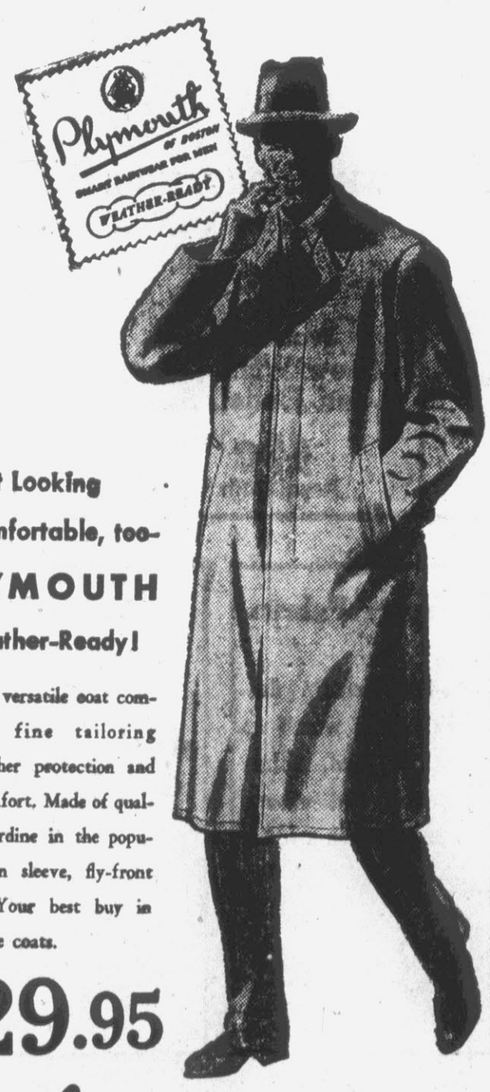

Fate has not been lenient with the ECTC club. They have lost three of their games by one touchdown margin. Until their game with Appalachian last week, however, the Pirates remained in high spirits and kept alive a fighting will to win even against the toughest foes.

Today Johnson and backfield coach Jack Boone looked over their injury riddled and green ball club and admitted that team moral was at a low ebb. Even with four line regulars benched for the season with injuries and two more lettermen out for personal reasons the coaches harbored a hope that the Pirates would break into the win column in one of their last two games.

"But you have to want to win . . . to believe you can win in order to do so." Coach Boone said. "We came out of the Appalachian game without a scratch—you don't get scratchel and bruised if you don't block and tackle," he said.

The coaches are hoping they can bring the team around in time for the game at Wilmington against High Point Saturday night. "It's up to the boys," Johnson asserted. "High Point has a heavy club. They have some good material. But they put on their pants just like we do. We have a chance to win—if the boys get out there and fight."

Gridiron Gossip

By "BOO BOO" BUTLER

Coach Jim Johnson sent his Pirates through a two hour scrimmage yesterday afternoon in preparation for Saturday's game with High Point at Wilmington.

The blues got revenge from last week's scrimmage with the whites as they battled the Baby Pirates to a 12 to 0 victory. The whites won last week's session by the same score. Clarion Bass was outstanding in the line for the blues. The rugged substitute guard was at his peek as time after time he broke through and threw the ball carrier for a loss. "Tee" Davis looked good in the backfield. For the whites it was Jim Danks, third string fullback. He showed up very well on offense as well as defense.

Heavy equipment is on the menu again today for the Pirates. A practice game between the whites and blues is scheduled at 4 p.m.

The Pirates may have not won a game this year, but nevertheless they are highly respected by other coaches. Yesterday scrimmage was witnessed by a scout from High Point. Asked what he thought the Pirates' chances were against High Point Saturday night, "I think High Point will take ECTC by at least three touchdowns. Our boys are bigger and from indications have more experience."

Coach Ralph James of High Point sent his eleven through an hour of scrimmage yesterday in preparation for Saturday's tilt with ECTC. A passing attack was stressed during the afternoon but most of all a pass defense was set up in order to stop the Pirates' aerial attack. James said, "They can't get through my line so they will have to take to the air. We will be waiting for them there." A word to the wise is sufficient. "Don't count your chickens before they hatch."

The Greenville High School Phantoms went through their first heavy scrimmage yesterday in two weeks. The Phantoms, who have had open dates for the past two weeks, return to the gridiron Friday night in a Northeastern Conference contest with the Roanoke Rapids Yellow Jackets. "The boys are in the best of condition for this game and I think we will give Roanoke Rapids, who is favored by two touchdowns, a good game. They were favored last year to win also and we came out on the top end of the score," said one of the assistant coaches. The Yellow Jackets went down in defeat last week. Oxford High, with an air attack that could have been matched only by "pros," took the game home with them, 12 to 0.

The Washington Pam Pack scrimmaged behind "closed doors" yesterday in preparation for Friday's game with Kinston, the league leaders. Coach Wagner will try to pull very trick in the book to try and stop the Red Devils who have been unbeaten this season. Here's the way they stand in conference rating:

	Won	Lost	Tied	Pct.
Kinston	5	0	0	1.000
Edenton	4	1	1	.800
Washington	4	1	0	.800
Elizabeth City	3	2	1	.600
Roanoke Rapids	2	3	0	.400
New Bern	2	4	0	.333
Greenville	1	4	0	.200
Tarboro	0	6	0	.000

Carolina Scout Says Maryland Will Score Twice

Chapel Hill, N.C., Nov. 10—(AP)—"Maryland will score at least two touchdowns against us Saturday. If Carolina wins, our boys will have to score at least three touchdowns."

That's the flat and unqualified prediction of Coach Jim Gill, Carolina's heavyweight scout, who saw Maryland apparently toy with South Carolina last week and march off with a 16-7 decision. Gill has been shaking his head sadly ever since his return from that engagement.

"This Maryland team has improved fully fifty per cent since the Duke game," he adds.

"And it has improved 100 per cent since last season," adds Scout George Radman, who has seen Maryland even more times than Gill.

The Old Liners are much sharper than they were in 1947, the Carolina scouts report. They are much more versatile, and Coach Jim Tatum has added some effective variations to the offense. Additions to the Maryland repertory include trap plays and fake passes with pitch outs.

Maryland also has installed the "diamond T" similar to that Duke employed successfully against Wake Forest last week.

In pointing out that Maryland has a much more potent attack, with lightning fast Jim Larue, John Idzik and Hubert Werner among the running backs the Tar Heels will have to try to head off. Quarterback Vic Turya, a clever ball handler, is one of several good passers and all backs and ends receive with almost equal efficiency.

On two different occasions, two kickoffs have been run back for touchdowns in a Washington Redskin-Philadelphia Eagle game—in 1942 and 1947.

Scout Troops To Play Series Of Basketball Tilts

Three Boy Scout troops of Greenville, troop 30, troop 38 and troop 36 are organizing basketball teams to participate in a series of games among the scout troops in the county.

The scout troop of Bethel already has organized a team and tentative plans are for a game with troop 38 of Greenville sometime next week.

The basketball teams are being organized in connection with the scout work in the Pitt district, and members of the teams will berequired to attend troop meetings regularly in order to play on one of the teams. Practice sessions for the Greenville troops are held at the Armory each Wednesday night at 7:30.

The 12 teams in the Basketball Association of America will play 60 games each this season.

Chapter 12

Rex Hall was not one of the best known theatrical agents on Broadway, but those who did know him considered him one of the smartest. He didn't have a big suite of offices because he didn't want to handle a filing cabinet full of names he knew nothing about. He believed in concentrating on a few dancers or singers who had a chance of really big success. That hadn't come yet, but still he was doing well while waiting for the real thing, as he called it. He had a small but suitable apartment in a small but suitable hotel off Broadway. He enjoyed himself suitably, because he was not only a man to help theatrical aspirants but a handsome young man in a slim, dark, sleek way. He also could be charming—and was if he saw any advantage in that line. He did not live a dissolute life, however. He not only valued his health but also was waiting for his big success. He had no doubt it would come to him. Above all he never doubted himself. It never even occurred to him to do so. He was Rex Hall.

He was very pleased with himself and life in general as he arrived at his office at eleven o'clock exactly. The office opened at ten, but Miss Garden was in charge then and could handle routine matters. Miss Garden was a regal creature whom he had inherited when he took the office. Once she had operatic ambitions suitable to her name, but now she was a contented assistant who had no particular liking for her employer but did believe Rex Hall was sure to succeed and go far. Having happily given up any delusions about herself, she was willing to go along in his train. She planned on spending the comfortable end of her life in a comfortable California bungalow.

Rex valued her shrewd assistance and always greeted her cheerily in his jovial way.

"Have any fish swum into the net this morning?"

Miss Garden smiled. "Miss Winters wants you to call her up as soon as you get in."

Rex grinned in the manner of a man of the world who has no secrets from his secretary.

"Daisy always wants so much there is never a chance of her getting it. How about Miss Meeghan?"

Miss Garden looked at him steadily. "Miss Meeghan arrived a few minutes ago with a card of yours. I put her in your office. She isn't theatrical, so—"

"She will be." He smiled. "I danced with her in Chicago between trains on the way home. She just wandered into the restaurant last night while I was having a dull dinner with Daisy."

"I thought Winters sounded very much upset."

He laughed and patted her carefully tinted cheek lightly. "You are as intelligent as you are beautiful, Miss Garden. I value you more than I can ever say. Now I can talk to Rosalie—Miss Meeghan. Pretty Irish name, eh?"

"A very beautiful girl, Mr. Hall. But not theatrical."

"We'll see, my dear."

Rosalie was standing by a window looking down into the morning animation of Broadway, so different from that of evening. She turned slowly as Rex advanced with outstretched hand and a welcoming smile on his dark, eager face.

"How nice to find you here this morning after you refused to promise last night. You are a smart girl, Rosalie."

She drew a steadying breath. "I fear I should not have come."

"Really." He laughed, knowing how handsome he was when he laughed and his white teeth flashed. "Am I as frightening as all that? Or is it just the daylight crudities of Broadway? Sit down in that good chair and tell me about it."

She smiled faintly. He was now just as he had been on the train, easy, amusing, entertaining. Last night he had been sharper, annoyed by the Miss Winters whom he had been dining with and who had gone out of her way to be rude. It was that more than anything else that had made her half promise to come see him in his office here today. She had done it though it meant taking the morning off her new job, which had seemed so important until she had told him about it. He had not said anything against it, but merely smiled it away as if everything not of his own theatrical world were of no importance. He had that smile now.

"I fear there isn't anything important to tell you, Mr. Hall."

He leaned back in his desk chair. "Call me Rex. You did on the train, at least after we had danced in Chicago. I was back there the other day to arrange about some bookings. I won't embarrass you by saying how much I missed you there. Had I but known where to find you you could have flown out there with me."

She sat up straight. "The only flying I should do is back to my office to see if I have a job after daring to take a morning off after only one full day's work."

He laughed in his special way and pushed a tooled leather box of cigarettes toward her. "Don't worry about your job. I called Mr. Pickering a little while ago and explained you wouldn't be in any more. We had quite a nice chat. He understood perfectly."

'WHY I AM GLAD
Hill's
CAME to GREENVILLE'

Will win a free trip to New York if your letter is chosen to be the best letter mailed to HILL'S in Greenville. You must be at least 16 years of age to be eligible.

A free trip to New York for one week with expenses paid . . . an ideal trip for that second honeymoon . . . or if you are unmarried, you may choose any companion you wish for this exciting adventure.

You may travel by plane, train, or car. Free hotel accommodations . . . expenses for shows, night clubs, sight-seeing tours, and enjoy the glamor of the night life and thrill to the bright lights on the ever glamorous Broadway.

The free trip to New York entitles Milady to visit the Ideal Beauty Shop and Mrs. Dail will give her a hair-do (as only Mrs. Dail can) which she will always remember . . . a cold wave permanent . . . then to G. Heber Forbes Ladies' Shop and select the wardrobe suitable for the trip up to $100.00 anything she prefers . . . Then off to The Bootery for her choice of shoes and bag to match, together with two lovely pairs of nylons. She will then be privileged to visit J. A. Collins & Son for the luggage she prefers for this thrilling trip.

Now for the man . . . He must look the part to take the trip with Milady. We would first send him to the Hotel Proctor Barber Shop and have him fixed up so Milady would be proud of his appearance. Then he may select a complete outfit from

From HAT to SHOES, including
Hart, Schaffner and Marx
SUIT, MANHATTAN SHIRTS, TIES, and UNDERWEAR . . . any color or quality he may choose. Naturally his expenses will be paid also.

The next two best letters will receive a HART SCHAFFNER & MARX SUIT each.

For every letter we receive, we will issue the writer a credit slip for $5.00 on any $50.00 purchase. You may write as many letters as you wish, so get busy and keep the mail rolling to HILL'S in GREENVILLE.

Contest closes midnight November 15th. All letters will become the property of HILL'S.

Bonner Talks To Pactolus Ruritan

At the Pactolus Ruritan Club's regular monthly meeting Monday night Congressman Herbert Bonner addressed the club members, officers for the coming year were elected, and routine business of the club was disposed of. President Noel Lee, Jr., presided.

John Overton was elected president; George Cherry, Jr., vice-president; O. H. Forrest, secretary; W. D. Little, treasurer, and Gus Briley, sergeant at arms.

During the business session a report from the special committee on rural electrification stated that work will begin soon on a new power line in the Pactolus community which will serve places not now connected with electric lines. Herman Hill, chairman of the expansion committee, reported that new clubs have been organized at Bear Grass, Belvoir, and contacts have been made at Falkland and Maury.

Congressman Bonner was introduced by G. E. Cherry, Jr., and spoke on the progress which has been made in recent years in the community, the state and the nation.

Guests of the Ruritans were several members of the newly formed Belvoir club, members of the Falkland group which will organize into a club tonight, and W. N. Spruill, chief engineer of the state highway division.

Dail Laughinghouse Died At Hospital; Funeral Thursday

H. Dail Laughinghouse, 46, died in the Pitt General Hospital here Tuesday afternoon following two weeks of critical illness. Funeral services will be conducted at the home Thursday at 3 p.m. by his pastor, the Rev. R. W. Bradshaw. Burial will follow in Cherry Hill Cemetery. He was born in Greenville, the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Charles O'Hagan Laughinghouse. He attended the Greenville city schools, the Augusta Military Academy at Fort Defiance, Va., and also the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. For the past 22 years he had been connected with the American Tobacco Company as a buyer. He was a member of the Elks Club, the Kiwanis Club, and also a member of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church of Greenville. He was married to Miss Margaret Jenkins of Shelby, who survives him, along with two sons, H. Dail Laughinghouse, Jr., and Charles P. Laughinghouse of the home; a brother, Charles Laughinghouse, Jr., and a sister, Mrs. R. C. Stokes, Jr., of Greenville. Members of the Kiwanis Club, Elks, and Tobacco Board of Trade will serve as honorary pallbearers.

U.S. Aid To . . .

dren a better education. Its aim was:

To see that in every state at least $50 a year was spent on the education of every child. The states as a whole spend an average of $126.

A poor state like Mississippi would receive far more federal money than a rich one like New York.

So the states wouldn't share equally. But every state would receive at least $6 per child a year.

When he argued for his bill last spring, Taft pointed out that about 2,000,000 children between six and 17 attended no school at all. Why?

Several reasons. Example: schools themselves are at fault; or there's lack of transportation to get the children to school, and so on.

Some arguments for federal aid go like this:

It's important if a democracy is to survive that its citizens be educated; the children now being educated later grow up and move around among the states, so all states have an interest in seeing their future citizens get an education; the only way there can be an equalization of education is through federal help.

These are some arguments against it:

Such government help would unfairly take money from rich states—through taxes paid the federal government—to help poor states; giving anything like equal education is impossible without federal control; once such help starts it opens the door to eventual federal control; educating children is the job of the states, not the federal government; giving money to private or religious schools would tend to break down the separation between the state and churches.

Aldermen Meet At City Hall Thursday Night

By CHESTER WALSH

The Board of Aldermen will meet in regular session at the City Hall Thursday night at 7:30. Mayor protem L. M. Buchanan will preside. The regular meeting, scheduled to be held the first Thursday night in each month, was postponed until November 11 because of the mayor's illness. He is recovering satisfactorily, but his friends say that he should not attempt to take on active duty presiding until he further regains his usual good health.

Mayor Boyd, according to the records, has given more of his personal time and attention to the duties of mayor of Greenville than any of his predecessors. He has manifested a keen interest in the welfare and progress of the city and suburbs, and as a matter of fact, his illness was largely due to overwork at the City Hall and in connection with his farming and other interests.

Incidentally, both doors of Mayor Boyd's office at the City Hall have always been wide open to receive citizens to hear their suggestions and complaints and to do his strenuous routine work. His record is outstanding for service.

Day To Smile

Harrisbur, Pa., Nov. 10—(AP)—The old-fashioned smile had its day today in Pennsylvania's capital city.

The occasion was the local optimist club's annual Smile Day with silver dollars going to the city's 1,000 best exhibitors of the toothy grin.

Twenty-club members began patrolling the streets this morning, handing out the silver "cartwheels" to smiling Harrisburgers.

will be served by Respess at the Farmers' Warehouse, across the river. Those on the program and the visiting marine and military contingents will be dinner guests of the local post.

The parade leaves the college tomorrow morning at 10:30. Exercises at the courthouse will start following a patriotic number by the two bands, James S. Jenkins, Publicity Committee chairman, said.

PARKING METERS OFF DUTY FOR ARMISTICE DAY

Parking meters will not be in operation tomorrow—Armistice Day—Police Chief Lester D. Page stated. Authorities request that Greenville motorists park their cars away from Evans and abutting streets tomorrow morning and give out-of-town visitors a chance. Evans Street from Third to Second, and Second Street from Evans to Washington, and Washington Street from Third to Second will be roped off tomorrow morning to provide space for vehicles and the military units in the parade. No parking there.

NEW YORK CELEBRITIES TO VISIT KIWANIS CLUB HERE

Tige Gardner, talented entertainer, spreader of good cheer and known in Kiwanis minstreisy as "Sweetpea," will have some New York guests on his program at the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting Friday night at 6:30. The Andrews Sisters, two of them, who are appearing on Broadway in a successful show, with their brother, Wash, will feature the program at the Kiwanis meeting and Tige Gardner will be master of ceremonies. President Nathan C. Brooks will preside.

MAYOR JACK BOYD IMPROVING

Mayor Jack Boyd, who has been ill at Pitt General Hospital the past two weeks, is recuperating satisfactorily, and expects to return to his home during the next several days.

School To Hold 'Open House' Here Tonight

In observance of National Education week, open house will be held tonight at Greenville high school and will feature a religious play set to music.

The program will begin at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium and after the program all high school teachers will be in their class rooms to confer with parents, of high school students.

All The Shooting Not In Script

Oakland, Calif., Nov. 10—(AP)—All of the shooting during a horse opera at an Oakland theater wasn't confined to the sound track.

As Police Officer Roy G. Hooper watched a mighty stampede yesterday on the screen he must have reached for his .45 automatic pistol. Anyway, it discharged and shot him in the leg.

N.Y. Cotton

New York, Nov. 10—(AP)—Cotton futures opened 10 to 35 cents a bale lower.

Noon prices were 40 to 75 cents a bale lower than the previous close. Dec. 31.36, March 31.36 and May 31.30.

Hog Market

Raleigh, Nov. 10—(AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices 25 to 50 cents weaker. Tops of $22 at Kinston, Rocky Mount, Tarboro, Wilson,; $21.75 at Greenville, Goldsboro, Washington and Richmond.

Poultry and Eggs

Raleigh, Nov. 10—(AP)—(NCDA)—Fryers and broilers steady at 34-35; eggs stronger, A large 65-67.

N.Y. Stock Market

New York, Nov. 10—(AP)—The stock market tried hard to get ahead today but it was rough going. Gains and losses were pretty evenly distributed. Most changes were small although several severe declines were noted.

Trading was active for a while but later quieted.

Wall Streeters said the market was due for a rest after the battering received on Wednesday and Friday last week and again yesterday.
