Marshall Resigns; Acheson Named Secretary Of State

Undersecretary Lovett Also Tenders Resignation; President Accepts Reluctantly; New Secretary Of State Has Long Background Of Experience

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Secretary of State Marshall and Undersecretary Lovett resigned today and President Truman named Dean Acheson to head the State Department.

Mr. Truman announced the action at a news conference. He said he is appointing Budget Director James H. Webb as undersecretary of state.

The changes are effective Jan. 20 when Mr. Truman will be inaugurated as President for his new term.

The President, when announcing Marshall's resignation and his acceptance of Acheson's resignation, said the affection he has always maintained for the World War Two Chief of Staff.

"I think General Marshall is the outstanding man of that war period," he said.

Mr. Truman emphasized that considerations of General Marshall's health prompted him to accept the resignation, and that he did so "reluctantly and with deep regret."

Marshall underwent a kidney operation last month and is now at his home in Pinehurst, N.C., recuperating. His recovery has gone slowly and the announcement that the 69-year-old general would retire from the cabinet's No. 1 post was not unexpected.

Lovett, whom General Marshall brought into the State Department, said in a letter to Mr. Truman that he submitted his resignation "for personal reasons with which you are familiar."

Acheson, who will take over from Marshall, is former undersecretary of state to President Truman. He became devoted to his frequent White House conferences.

Presently practicing law in New York and Washington, Acheson has a background of more than six years experience in the State Department. He is 55.

Throughout World War II he served as Assistant Secretary of State under Cordell Hull. He became undersecretary August 27, 1945 and held this post until his resignation was accepted with "great regret" by President Truman effective July 1, 1947.

Since leaving the Department, Acheson has kept in touch with government affairs as a member of former President Hoover's Commission for Reorganization of the Government.

A native of Middletown, Conn., Acheson is a graduate of Yale College and the Harvard law school. After World War One service as a naval ensign he became private secretary to Supreme Court Justice Louis Brandeis and then entered private law practice.

Webb, 42, is a native of Oxford, N.C., and a graduate of the University of North Carolina. He was practicing law in Washington with the late O. Max Gardner, former Governor of North Carolina, when President Truman appointed him budget director in August, 1946.

In switching Webb to the State Department, Mr. Truman named Frank Pace of Arkansas, now assistant budget director, to replace him as head of the Budget Bureau. Fred J. Lawton, a career officer in the Budget Bureau, was advanced to assistant budget director.

The text of Marshall's letter of resignation, made public by the White House, was brief.

The general said simply: "I regret that it is necessary for

Emphatic Denial Of Cabinet Fight

President Refutes Story He Is Engaged In Fight Within His Cabinet To Soften U.S. Policy Toward Russia; Says Writer Uninformed

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—President Truman denied today, emphatically and in detail, a published story that he is engaged in a fight within his cabinet to soften U.S. policy toward Russia.

At his news conference the Chief Executive asserted that there is no change in this country's foreign policy.

He said the article, by Jay Franklin in Life magazine, is without foundation in fact and in nearly every instance and paragraph.

Mr. Truman said further that he never had a private conference or interview with Franklin in his life.

He said the writer had been in to see him about a job a couple of times and that was all he knew.

Franklin never saw a top secret document, the President said.

The President spoke out on the issue after some top Administration officials had indicated belief that he would have to clarify his personal attitude toward Russia soon.

These officials held that an expression from the President was needed to end speculation here and abroad on the future of American policy.

Diplomatic authorities are beginning to fear that European nations allied with the United States in the cold war may entertain grave doubts about the future unless given some reassurance.

Some things that Mr. Truman has said and some things that have been written about him have given rise to concern among many of his own close advisers that his position may be obscured or misunderstood.

New Staff With Governor Scott Comes In Today

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Along with a new Governor, a new staff took over in the Governor's office today.

Charlie Parker, veteran Raleigh newspaperman who handled Scott's campaign publicity, assumed the post of private secretary to the Governor.

Miss Myrtha Fleming, who served Scott for 11 years as secretary when he was commissioner of Agriculture, came in as personal secretary to the Governor.

For the remainder of his office staff, Scott retained the office secretary, former Governor Cherry.

Easing Weather Helps Storm-Damaged Areas

By the Associated Press

Fair weather and rising temperatures today helped speed relief work on the storm-harassed areas of the west and in the flooded regions of four southern states.

There wasn't much inclement weather across the entire country, federal forecasters said. Some snow fell near Lakes Ontario and Huron and there was rain along the Wash-

ECA Reduction

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said today Marshall Plan requests for the year starting July 1 "probably will be cut some."

A $4,374,000,000 figure was submitted to the United States by the nations taking part in the foreign aid program as the amount they will need for the 1950 fiscal year, and Economic Cooperation Administration officials said that sum will be used as a rough basis for a recommendation to Congress.

But Connally told a reporter that this total "is not necessarily what we are going to give them." He said it probably will be cut, but he didn't say by how much.

Urges Flexible Farm Price Aids

President Rejects Proposed Rigid Price Support Plan

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—President Truman came out today for flexible farm price supports, thereby rejecting Congressional proposals to continue present 90 percent parity farm price floors.

In his annual economic report to Congress, the chief executive said rigid supports would in the end cut farmers' income and force rigid production controls upon them.

Mr. Truman's advocacy of flexible supports came at a time when the Congressional farm bloc is split over the issue of long-range government aid to farmers.

One group—led by the Democratic chairman of the Senate and House Agriculture committees—wants the present wartime 90 percent parity supports continued indefinitely. They are due to expire at the end of 1949 under terms of a law passed by the Republican-controlled 80th Congress.

(Parity is a legal standard of prices held to be fair equally to farmers and consumers.)

Another group—led by Senators Lucas (D-Ill.) and Aiken (R-Vt.)—wants a system of flexible supports along the lines of the GOP-passed law.

This GOP law authorizes supports ranging between 60 and 90 percent of parity for major crops and from zero to 90 percent for other products. Supports would be highest in times of shortages and lowest in times of surplus.

After charging that Rep. R. L. Harris of Person, rules committee chairman, had "misled" him into believing that the gag rule was a "dead issue"—an allegation which Harris hotly denied—Martin offered an amendment to change the 25 percent back to three members.

He was defeated overwhelmingly. Rep. John W. Umstead of Orange took the floor to defend the compromise.

He said he was "satisfied," and "I don't care what a bunch of fanatics say about this."

Wake Forest To Seek $9 Millions In All-Out Drive

Winston-Salem, N. C., Jan. 7.—(AP)—The Wake Forest College board of trustees was told today to prepare for the big final leap—this time a nation-wide crucial nine million dollar drive.

John Irwin, campaign director for the college's move to Winston-Salem, appeared before the board at Wake Forest today and outlined the next several years.

According to Irwin, the college plant, when moved to Winston-Salem in 1952, will cost $16,800,000, of which only $5,430,736 is on hand.

A further source of funds by the sale of the present facilities should raise an additional $2,000,000, Irwin said leaving a balance of $9,369,164 to be secured.

Senate Convenes In Brief Session

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 7.—(AP)—The Senate today held a brief session in which it temporarily adopted its rules.

The calm in the Senate contrasted sharply with the storm raging in the House over the "gag" rule.

The Senate rules committee recommended, and the Senate approved, creation of a new wildlife commission.

LT-Gov. H. P. Haylor said that his committee assignments would be read at Monday night's session.

GOP Followers Warn Party Not To Ape New Deal

Campaign Workers Send Frank Suggestions To Chairman; Changes Promised

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Republican campaign workers are far from agreement on what the party should do to win future elections, but a big block of them unite on this general theme:

Don't try to Ape the New Deal. Don't be a "me too" party.

Rep. Hugh D. Scott, Jr., of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Republican National committee, agrees. He promises there will be some changes made; that the "status quo" will be disturbed.

How? That remains for future party conferences. The first pow-wow will come January 26-27 in Omaha, Neb., when the National committee meets. It will decide whether to call a party program meeting on a much larger scale later in the year.

Scott wrote 30,000 party workers from National committeemen and state chairmen on down to precinct and ward door-bell ringers asking:

1. "What must we do to correct our errors?"

2. "If you can help us out with $5 or $10 or $100 or $500—won't you do it today?"

That was on December 6. Today a month later, more than 4,000 replies have been received. Committee officers estimate from one-third to one-half have accompanied their unusually frank suggestions with donations of from one to a hundred dollars.

But many say they will not contribute another dime until the party cleans house, gets some new leadership, adopts a forward-looking program, and, as they phrase it, stops trying to be the "tail-end of the New Deal."

Gag Compromise Change Refused

Davidson Legislator Says Compromise 'Slap' At Program

Raleigh, Jan. 7.—(AP)—After bitter debate today, the House refused to change a compromise over its controversial gag rule.

Rep. L. A. Martin of Davidson sent forward an amendment to change a compromise proposed by the rules committee on the gag rule but was defeated overwhelmingly.

A prominent leader of dry forces in the state, had asserted that the compromise worked out by the rules committee and a "death rule" and a "direct slap at the governor's 'go forward' program."

The rules report recommended that a majority instead of a two-thirds vote be required to adopt a minority report. It also proposed that instead of three members, 25 percent of a committee must sign a minority report.

After charging that Rep. R. L. Harris of Person, rules committee chairman, had "misled" him into believing that the gag rule was a "dead issue"—an allegation which Harris hotly denied—Martin offered an amendment to change the 25 percent back to three members.

He was defeated overwhelmingly. Rep. John W. Umstead of Orange took the floor to defend the compromise.

Marshall Has No Future Plans

Pinehurst, N. C., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Gen. George Marshall, who resigned today as Secretary of State, said at his home here that he has no plans for the immediate future.

The general said that a kidney operation performed at Washington last month has been "entirely successful." He disclosed that he had taken short walks in the last two days about his home, Liscombe Lodge. He said his doctors had told him it would be at least six weeks before the effects of the operation were off.

As the peace issue flared all over Nationalist China with business men clamoring for cease fire orders, informed sources in Nanking said a force of 150,000 government troops surrounded Southwest of Suchow was melting away under Red attacks.

The forces of Gen. Tu-Ming were reported dwindling so rapidly that surrender of the entire group to Chen Yi's Red troops was expected by the week end. Chen began attacks yesterday.

An unconfirmed report generally circulated in Nanking tonight said that General Tu had been flown to Nanking from a small airstrip within the Red Ringed area, where his troops bogged down four weeks ago.

The Evening News said the expected peace statement would resign, whether the government would ask for United Nations support or U. N. or big four mediation, or whether a peace emissary will be sent to the

Truman's Economic Report Sees New Records For 1949

Utilities Control Is Debated At Session

Motion To Draw Up Bill Canceling Charter Is Withdrawn But Aldermen And Commission Figures May Meet Soon

Greenville's Board of Aldermen had a busy session for more than three and one-half hours last night, highlighted by discussion of the Utilities Commission charter, of the present time has an outstanding indebtedness of $1,996,000 in bonds; and an additional $700,000 in bonds which have been approved and are expected to be sold during the calendar year. The city indebtedness, excluding that of the Utilities Commission and the school board, will be approximately $376,000 at the end of the fiscal year on July 1, 1949.

Bringing to a head a long period of uncoordinated action between the Board of Aldermen and the Greenville Utilities Commission, Alderman J. E. Collins moved the city attorney be instructed to draw up a bill to be presented to the North Carolina General Assembly canceling the charter of the Greenville Utilities Commission and "covering any other phase necessary to put utilities property in the hands of the city."

As the charter now stands, the city aldermen have power to appoint commission members, but have no control over the Utilities Commission.

After some discussion, Collins withdrew his original motion and substituted a motion for a joint meeting of the aldermen and members of the Utilities Commission in the near future. The motion was carried.

During the discussion of the Utilities Commission charter, it was pointed out that the commission at the present time has an outstanding indebtedness of $1,996,000 in bonds; and an additional $700,000 in bonds which have been approved and are expected to be sold during the calendar year. The city indebtedness, excluding that of the Utilities Commission and the school board, will be approximately $376,000 at the end of the fiscal year on July 1, 1949.

A committee composed of Mayor J. H. Boyd, City Attorney R. B. Lee, and other members to be appointed by the mayor was instructed to appear before the county commissioners at their meeting on January 10 and request the profits from ABC store sales for the county be divided with the incorporated towns of the county on a per capita basis. At the present time no ABC funds are turned over to the towns of the county.

In the matter of fire equipment for county protection, it was proposed that the Pitt County Farm Bureau be asked to present the request to the county commissioners.

J. H. Rose, superintendent of city schools, told the aldermen the school board plans to build a primary school for Negroes near the Negro cemetery, and more rooms to be added to the other Negro schools of the city. The building program, Rose said, is expected to cost about $250,000.

Plans for building a sub-station in south Greenville for the fire department were discussed, but definite action was delayed until the matter of financing the building can be investigated.

It was announced at the meeting that H. S. Ragdale had been employed by the city at a salary of $950 to list the city taxes.

Request for extending the city limits in east Greenville were heard by the aldermen and referred to a committee for investigation and recommendation.

Routine matters and a financial report from the city clerk completed the business of the session.

Little Change In Weather Ahead

By the Associated Press

Fair weather with little change in temperatures today and tonight was predicted for the Carolinas. Partly cloudy and warmer was forecast for tomorrow.

Low temperatures this morning were 15 to 20 degrees below yesterday's. At most points the mercury dropped near, or to, the freezing point.

An exception was North Carolina's eastern coast. Cape Hatteras had a minimum of 44 degrees; Cherry Point 40.

Report Chinese Gov't Planning New Peace Bid

Nanking, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The Nanking Evening News reported today that the government would issue a second "peace statement" in an effort to clear up the stalemate produced by Chiang Kai-Shek's New Year's message.

Government spokesman Shen Chang-Huan said he knew of no such plans, but other sources said they considered it "quite probable" that some official utterance will follow the apparent Communist rejection of Chiang's offer to discuss terms for peace.

As the peace issue flared all over Nationalist China with business men clamoring for cease fire orders, informed sources in Nanking said a force of 150,000 government troops surrounded Southwest of Suchow was melting away under Red attacks.

Forecasts New Job And Production Records; Fixes Goals; Warns Dangers Of Excess Profits; Again Calls For Power To Control Prices, Production

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—President Truman today forecast new job and production records in 1949. He acclaimed the halt of the long price rise as the welcome signal of an approaching "stable" prosperity, not of an oncoming depression.

His annual economic report told Congress that the "fair deal" program he laid before it Wednesday is a two-edged weapon of government—that it is "anti-depression" as well as anti-inflation.

Mr. Truman fixed these national goals for the year: Another million-man increase in employment, to a yearly average of 60,000,000 civilians at work; and another 2 to 4 percent boost in production.

Production last year was reported, in the dollar value of all goods and services poured out, at the historic high of $252,700,000,000. But the gain which Mr. Truman wants is in terms of actual goods and services, with the dollar inflation squeezed out.

The President's report showed that personal income in 1948 was $211,000,000,000. He said consumer income rose about in proportion to the climb in consumer prices.

But he declared that profits are swollen to "excess" and that "dangerous inflationary forces" still imperil the economy. Backing up his eight-point request for control legislation, he told the Democratic Congress in a report that went first to the House:

"We need to have available a range of governmental measures which can be applied as a brake or as an accelerator according to the need."

His proposed $4,000,000,000 tax increase, to be drawn mainly from corporation earnings, can be applied "without unduly interfering with prospects for continued business expansion," Mr. Truman said.

The report was notably more conciliatory toward business than the State of the Union message which, 48 hours earlier, stressed the inflationary hazard and failed even to mention the price declines of recent months. Today's message had this reassurance:

1. "It is possible that we may not, in fact, be forced to use such controls" as the standby price, wage and allocation powers he wants on the law books.

2. The tax policy "should be flexible and should be promptly adjusted to the changing needs of business and consumers"—an implied promise to lower rates again if a recession hits.

3. Price ceilings, if they are invoked on key materials, will be selective and not the "general over-all price control of the war emergency variety." Any legislation should encourage voluntary price cuts before ceilings are clamped on.

4. Private enterprise is the nation's prime reliance "for economic results," aided by a "vigorous government and the mutual respect and trust that are all held for one another."

The President demanded rent control extension "for at least two years." Today's legislative recommendations followed in the main his Wednesday program, with this additional tax proposal:

Some new excise taxes "may be desirable," along with the rise in corporation, gift and estate levies and a possible boost in middle and upper bracket income taxes. But the Oleomargarine tax and some others "should be repealed."

Mr. Truman also asked extension of the law under which steel and other scarce materials are allocated to vital industries by voluntary industry agreement—a point he failed to make in Wednesday's request for compulsory controls and priorities.

But he added: "There is grave danger that the problems of acute shortage cannot be adequately met by voluntary agreements. I therefore recommend that the use of mandatory allocation powers be authorized x x x."

On the issue of price control, Mr. Truman also declared himself convinced that voluntary efforts "cannot meet the problem unless the government possesses the power to act firmly."

While wage increases should be limited if they would otherwise cause a break in price ceilings, Mr. Truman said, there exist some current situations "where non-inflationary wage increases can be granted by employers without price increases."

"I firmly believe that the normal processes of collective bargaining will result in sound wage adjustment."

Joint Labor Project Encouraging Development In War Against Communism Is Action To Take British And American Organized Labor Out Of Moscow-Dominated Federation; Why

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

One of the most encouraging developments in the war against Communism is the project of U.S. and British trade union leaders to take Anglo-American-organized labor out of the Moscow-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions.

Union officials of both countries are beginning conferences in London next week looking to this far-reaching move. The project contemplates the creation of a new world organization, unless there is a house-cleaning by the WFTU with its membership of 70,000,000 in 50 countries.

The significance is this: Red-controlled trade unions in Europe have provided Moscow with its most potent weapons in the revolution for the spread of Communism. Italy and France are examples of countries which were brought close to disaster by Bolshevik influence over labor. Numerous lesser states have succumbed.

Naturally one of the first moves Moscow makes in starting a campaign in a new country is to lure into trade unions. The objective always is key executive positions through which the Reds aim to control the organization. Many of these fifth columnists are trained in Russia, or receive intensive instruction from agents who have had their schooling in Moscow.

The hook-up with the Cominform is complete. When the Communists once get control of a trade union that means it is getting orders from the Kremlin.

Well, American and British labor have spotted the rats boring in. They are seeing Red. Hence the move to disassociate themselves from the World Federation of Trade Unions which is credited with toting the Bolshevik line.

Americans expected to attend the London conference next week are James Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO; Walter L. Fisher, president of the United Auto Workers, and David McDonald, secretary-treasurer of the United Steel Workers. Britain will be represented by Arthur Deakin, secretary of the British Trade Union Congress, and other TUC officials.

In March British labor leaders will meet with heads of the American Federation of Labor in the United States. The AFL is said to have indicated a willingness to discuss joining a new federation.

This movement actually had its inception a year ago in Paris at a meeting of labor representatives from countries in the Marshall Plan.

"Music, once admitted to the soul, becomes a sort of spirit and never dies. It wanders perturbedly through the halls and galleries of the memory, and is often heard again, distinct and living as when it first displaced the wavelets of the air."

Mrs. Kari Gilbert was presented with deft fingers and musical ability proved the thoughts given by Mrs. Smith. Miss Gladys Reichard and of the college faculty gave three vocal selections proving her ability in the field of music.

The business session was then called by Mrs. J. T. Little, the president. Minutes were read, committee reports made and books exchanged.

Fellowship featured the meeting.

The Junior Chamber unanimously voted to contribute $136 to the National Junior Chamber of Commerce's proposed War Memorial at Tulsa, Okla., where the citizens donated $100,000 for a site.

ECTC Band Took Part In Scott's Inaugural Parade

The East Carolina Teachers College band, wearing their purple and gold uniforms, formed a unit in the spectacular inaugural parade in Raleigh on Thursday, January 6, when W. Kerr Scott became thirty-third elected governor of North Carolina. Largely through the help of the Greenville Lions Club, the college band of fifty-five members went to Raleigh for the ceremonies and marched through the streets of the capital city along with other bandsmen and military units.

Among members of the band participating in the inaugural parade are the following students from Greenville and other localities in Pitt County:

Greenville: Alef G. Collins, James D. Cozart, Herbert Dale, Emile Dupree, Nancy Elks, Hogan Gaskins, Mary Hudson, Mary Ann Keel, Helen Nelson, Junius Rose, Rodney Roberts, Mary B. Taylor, Ruth Taylor, Sherod White and Sarah Standell.

Bethel: L. T. Henshaw.

Grifton: Becky Holcomb.

Herbert L. Carter of the college faculty is band director. Since he joined the department of music at the college in 1946, he has organized the band from small beginnings and has gained recognition for it as one of the outstanding school bands in North Carolina.

Robert A. Rootson, Washington, D. C., as drum major, leads in marches and maneuvers. Included in the membership are three majorettes, Helen Alderman of Elizabeth City, Becky Holcomb of Grifton, and Lucy Robertson of Williamston.

Tomorrow's Gardens
By Greenville Garden Club

If roses were not planted in the fall they should be gotten in the ground as soon as possible. This gives them time to develop good root systems before top growth begins.

Camellias and azaleas may be moved with safety but when moving them even short distances have a piece of burlap ready to put the bush on when it is lifted. Pin the burlap up with nails to hold a ball of earth around the roots and leave it on when the bush is put in the new hole. When resetting camellias be sure to place them at exactly the same depth.

Azaleas have very shallow root systems. Place them in the center of a slight depression so that a good mulch of pine straw or oak

WALTER PIDGEON, playing the part of Dr. Andrew Manson in "The Citadel," is shown here speaking in his own defense during a trial for malpractice. "The Citadel," from A. J. Cronin's best selling book, is this week's broadcast in the radio series, GREAT SCENES FROM GREAT PLAYS, sponsored by families of The Protestant Episcopal Church and the Episcopal Actors' Guild. leaves can be used. The mulch should have the outer edge higher than the center so rain can collect about the azalea roots rather than running off as though the mulch were a miniature haystack.

If azaleas are on even slightly sloping ground always have an edge of some kind at the front of the bed. Many azaleas fall because all the protective mulch and top soil washes off, leaving the delicate roots too dry. The edge may be rocks, bricks or a planting such as oxalis or vinca minor.

If evergreens were not pruned at Christmas and used for decoration cut them back now. A little pruning every year keeps bushes healthy and shapely and should be done before new growth begins.

If lilies have made a premature growth due to the very warm weather protect them with a light mulch of leaves and mark them so they won't be stepped on. The new tips are extremely tender.

Now, too, is the golden opportunity for planning. Look out of the windows and down from upstairs, see your garden with fresh vision and decide what changes you would like to make and where you can make two plants grow where only one grew before.

Brothers Meet In Wreck On Pactolus Highway Yesterday

By CHESTER WALSH

Brother met brother in a side-swiping collision of two cars two miles east of Pactolus on the Washington Highway yesterday afternoon. Both cars were badly damaged. They inventoried the damage, agreed to make their own repairs, and no arrest was made.

State Highway Patrolman Dick Chadwick gave this version of the crash: A produce truck driven by Elbert Moxingo of Farmville signalled that he was going to make a left turn to Marvin Beacham's store. Another truck, owned by the Norfolk Tallow Company and driven by Clinton Anderson of Route 2 Farmville with a dead mule aboard, in trying to pass the produce truck crashed into the rear of it, spilling vegetables over the highway.

Both vehicles were considerably damaged, the patrolman stated. The drivers were not injured.

Chadwick arrested Anderson and charged him with reckless driving.

The brothers met at the scene of this wreck. A car driven by Eddie Jackson of Washington pulled over the center of the road to avoid a car parked partly on the shoulder of the road. A car driven by Chester Jackson of Washington, in trying to pass the car ahead, side-swiped it, damaging both vehicles. Highway Patrolman Chadwick was standing a few yards away when the drivers dismounted to "talk things over." They identified each other, and agreed to settle their own damages, he said.

Strength FOR THE DAY

THE WONDERS OF EVERYDAY
A man fell ill some months ago as the result of an infection, and his health was restored by the use of one of the new wonder-working drugs which science has recently discovered. In his gratitude, the patient sat down and wrote a letter to the scientist who had made this great discovery. The scientist in answering said: "This drug is performing cures far beyond our expectations and, singularly enough, we haven't the least idea how it brings about cure."

And it might be added that we have no idea how anything occurs. One of the marvels of life occurs in the transforming a thought into action. A man concludes that he will raise his arm, and the impulse is somehow conveyed to the muscles and the arm is raised. We look out upon a landscape and behold its marvelous colors; we hear people talking round about us; we lay our hand on an object and feel it. How does sight, hearing, or a sense of touch take place? What is the origin of parents' love for their children, the love of men and women for each other? Whence comes the desire of man for a life lived above the level of the animal?

The whole thing seems to go back to a power higher than our own. We lie in the center of a Hand which, we can be sure, is entirely sufficient for our life and our security.

THE PUBLIC HAS A RIGHT TO KNOW

Representative Umstead of Orange County was perfectly right in leading the fight in the first session of the Legislative Rules Committee against an executive session closed to everyone including the press. The legislators are sent to Raleigh to transact state business for the people of North Carolina and there is no reason why the people of North Carolina should not know what goes on at all times in every phase of the legislative work.

In all forms of public business, including local subdivisions, too often executive sessions are invoked in order that the public might not know stands taken by various individuals in the matters at issue. Such a condition should not exist. The public has a right to know what their elected or appointed officials are thinking and doing about public matters that have been delegated to them.

Executive sessions for the transaction of public business should be relegated to the dark ages.

KILL THE LAW THAT SAVES LIVES?

Reports from usually reliable sources in different parts of the state say that a movement is underway to kill the auto inspection law which was passed by the 1947 North Carolina General Assembly.

Whether such a bill actually will be introduced in the current session of the legislature remains to be seen; but in spite of the inconvenience which the motor vehicle inspection law may have caused some people of the state, highway department records show a notable decrease in the number of persons arrested for minor defects in automobiles.

This decrease in minor defects in the automobiles of the state has resulted in a decrease in accidents, both major and minor, which were caused by defective automobiles.

The motor vehicle inspection law of the state is by no means perfect, but it has doubtlessly saved many lives and has lessened the property damage caused by automobiles.

Some few people may be dissatisfied with the law, but the law has been of great benefit to the people of the state, and should be enforced rigidly from year to year.

Around Capitol Square

AUSPICIOUS—Many comments have been heard about the auspicious beginning of the Kerr Scott administration. Belying his own forecasts of showers, the weather man smiled and as the parade moved down Fayetteville street the clouds which had hovered over the capital city most of the morning dispersed and the sun shone brightly. The parade itself clicked to the minute in every detail, oldtimers saying they had never seen more accurate timing and performance ceremonies at the auditorium also went along without untoward incident and with speed. Governor Scott waded into his inaugural address, said his say in a few easily understandable words—and quit. Several times the speech was interrupted by polite applause, but the audience really clapped their hands on his commitments for a state referendum on liquor and removal of sales tax from restaurant meals.

NEW ERA—Most of the attendants at the inaugural ceremonies apparently believe a new era is beginning in North Carolina. Certainly the new governor has a philosophy of governmental service which in many respects diverges from that which has prevailed for twenty years or more in the state. At the same time, there was an undercurrent of resentment at frequent references to the "farmers taking over." One large farmer pointed out that when lawyers and bank presidents have been inaugurated there was no such reference to their professions "taking over."

Kerr Scott is a successful farmer and has no other trade or profession, but his interest in progressive government is not limited to farm problems. Rural development may get more attention under his administration and most of the people interviewed by your reporter saw nothing wrong with that prospect. One of the most enthusiastic endorsements of the new regime came from a prominent lawyer-banker.

FIRST—This is believed to be the first inaugural joint session of the general assembly to be presided over by the speaker of the house, Lieutenant Governor Ballentine called the meeting to order and presided until he took the oath of office as commissioner of agriculture. Just prior to that incident, he handed the gavel to Kerr Scott, speaker of the house of representatives, who presided until the new lieutenant governor, H. P. Taylor, was sworn in.

CRACKS—Retiring Governor Gregg Cherry could not resist one last official wisecrack. As he presided over the taking of the oath of office, Cherry said he noted that all the other officials-elect had been presented as duly elected and qualified. He hoped both statements were true. With respect to the new governor he said "I know he was duly elected, and I believe he is qualified." Then Chief Justice Stacy said a few words of Scott said "I do," and Gregg Cherry became one of the four former governors on the platform. The others were J. C. B. Ehringhaus and Senators Clyde Hoy and J. M. Broughton. The other living former governor, Cameron Morrison, was not present.

WASHINGTONIANS—Besides Senators Hoy and Broughton all members of the Tar Heel delegation in Congress except Kerr and Bulwinkle came down from Washington for the inaugural. With them were many other North Carolinians now resident in the national capital. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Wilson. "Hop" Wilson was chief of the division of publications in the state department of agriculture under Commissioner Scott for the first six years of his term. Wilson said he would rather attend this inauguration than that of President Truman, because the country would have many more presidents but North Carolina would never have another Kerr Scott. In similar vein Congressman Monroe Redden of the twelfth district said he doubted that even the president would have as well managed a parade and as cordial reception as did Governor Scott.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
New York—(P)—Remember the name of Walter Curry. Immortality crows a finger his way. Let the common man bugle his name.

Who is Walter Curry? He is a kind of Junior Abraham Lincoln, heralding the pattern of a promised freedom for the new slaves of the mechanical age.

In more prosaic terms Walter Curry is a superior court judge in Providence, R. I. and he has just made a provident decision—a decision provident for the health of all mankind.

Only Wednesday it was that Judge Curry ended by judicial decree a case of what four lady complainants called "Torture by telephone."

The feminine quartet complained that a fifth lady for six years had annoyed them several times a day by calling them on the phone. They said she greeted them with "curses, epithets and Bronx cheers."

And what did Judge Curry do? Why, he forbade the fifth lady from ever phoning her four neighbors again under pain of "drastic punishment."

This decision may at first glance appear to be only a minor foot-note in the long history of jurisprudence. But it could end up by making Walter Curry the best known judge since Sir William Blackstone laid down his English law.

For he has struck a clear sharp blow for freedom from one of the greatest mental perils of the twentieth century—"Torture by Telephone."

Millions hailed as a blessing this small instrument, the telephone, when it was first brought to widespread public attention by Don Amelcho after earlier research by an obscure putterer named Alexander Graham Bell.

What joy it held in the beginning carrying a loved one's voice and helping dear hearts to stop the distant miles! It brought people closer together than they had ever been before. It shrank continents—and then the world—to the size of the room. A person could speak into it and be heard at almost any point in the globe he chose.

And the blessing, like blessings often do, became a kind of curse, too. The telephone made it possible for a big mouth to be heard anywhere and everywhere.

It got to be an instrument that brought people together who didn't necessarily want to be together. It reached the point where thousands of people hated to answer its bell, because they thought, "Oh, Oh, here's trouble."

It forced people against their will to talk to people they didn't want to. It became an instrument of solicitation and unwanted invitations. People began to jump when the phone bell rang. Thousands and thousands of people with names like "Phil Graves" were plagued with practical jokes who woke them at night to say: "This is the cemetery calling."

Subscribers began demanding unlisted numbers. They didn't want to be in the phone directory. The new dial phones helped some also—they tended to cut down the calls from people who couldn't count up to ten.

But Judge Curry has opened a real way to liberty from "Torture by Telephone." He has shown the law of fers ready relief from this invisible plague. Yet it still takes a brave man to go to court to end his annoyance, and it takes time.

Congress could be helpful. What is really needed is a federal statute for the problem goes beyond state borders. It is a national nuisance.

One way would be to pass a law making it a felony for a man to phone another man without sending a letter in advance and getting his written permission.

Or at least he ought to be made to call up first to see if it's Okay.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington—Plans for extending federal and state social legislation are already on the books. The big problem now lies in getting trained workers to carry out the program. In a partial effort to solve the problem, some 64 social agencies of the country have organized the National Council on Social Work Education, which is conducting a survey of the field and hopes to come up with some answers.

Dr. Ernest V. Hollis, chief of college administration, U. S. Office of Education, who heads the council, says his group expects to complete the survey by July. He tells me there are some 150,000 social work positions in this country, of which only 35,000 are filled by professionally trained workers. This means there is a backlog of some 115,000 positions. Ten per cent of these are unfilled, and the rest are filled by people with less than adequate training.

"There is a greater shortage of these workers than of doctors, nurses, elementary school teachers or physicists," he says. "What's more, there are only 78 schools of social work in the universities of the country, and they enroll less than 5,000 students and graduate each year less than 2,000."

Dr. Mills says the shortage is bound to increase considerably, with the Truman administration pledged to an expansion of social welfare legislation and with many states enacting laws to increase their individual programs. The National Council of Social Work Education secured $31,000 from the Carnegie Foundation to carry out the survey. Publicity launching the project in Washington this month is a national committee consisting of 19 outstanding educators and laymen.

A major purpose of the study is to improve the organization and financing of schools of social work, says Dr. Hollis.

The council is working directly with the schools in 37 states. With the Bureau of Labor Statistics, it is correlating facts on the education, experience, salaries and duties of social workers. It is also gathering information through questionnaires submitted to presidents of universities and deans of schools of social work.

Social legislation, which really took its first steps following the depression, has grown up faster than the schools have been able to turn out workers qualified to administer it, Dr. Hollis says. "Now," he says, "it is highly important that the people who handle these monies be specially trained."

Cherry Thanks N.C. Newspapers

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 6—(P)—The limelight was on W. Kerr Scott today but the man whom he succeeds as North Carolina's Governor had a few words for the State's newspapers.

The words formed a message of thanks and praise for the "true public service" rendered by the state's press during R. Gregg Cherry's term as Governor.

Sixteen Boxers Square Off In Elimination Tourney At ECTC

Sixteen East Carolina Teachers College boxers square away here tonight in the school's elimination tournament to decide which boys will fight in the Winston-Salem YMCA match here January 15.

Two wrestling matches have been added to the evening card. Entire proceeds from the event will go toward the Pitt County polo campaign, according to Dr. N. M. Jorgensen, director of athletics at ECTC.

One heavyweight bout, two light heavy fights, three middleweight classics, one welterweight, and one lightweight fight have been scheduled for the program. The first fight gets underway promptly at 8 o'clock.

According to Coach Jim Johnson and Assistant Johnny Long, all the boys will be well matched.

One of the feature events of the evening will be a bout between slugging Duke Cockrell of Rocky Mount and Redwan David, of Fayetteville. Cockrell was TKO'd in the second round at Charlotte three weeks ago. David, though he has not fought this season, was one of the ECTC standouts last year and was runner-up champion in Golden Gloves competition while in high school. The boys will fight at light heavies.

Ken Stargardt, Richmond, Va., who won a three round decision over Jack Griffin in his first fight at Charlotte, will be matched with Herbert Dowless, Elizabethtown, N. C., in a middleweight event. Bill Emmett, towering, elusive boy from Swansboro, will slug it out with B. J. Hunter of Winston-Salem in a heavyweight ordeal.

The two other middleweight bouts will feature Thomas Daniels, of Colerain, the boy who fought to a draw with Murray Beasley in Charlotte, against Al Lee, Clinton, N.C., and Bill Torrains, Greenville, fighting Charles Edwards.

Possibly the best matched pair of the evening will be Paul Hansell, of Thomasville, and Jack Ameyett, of Clinton, who will vie in the welterweight classic of the evening. "Both boys are confident and neither seems to be any better than the other. It will be a good fight," Assistant Coach Long predicted last night.

In the only lightweight event of the night, Harvey Stull, of Covington, Va., will fight Cleon Smith, of Hamlet. Both boys were TKO'd in the opening round at Charlotte.

In a light heavyweight bout Marshall Baines, of Spring Hope, will battle it out with Bruce Jones of Portsmouth, Va.

John Heath and Douglas Guthrie will face each other on one of the wrestling matches but the fighters in the second grunt and groin event had not been announced yesterday afternoon.

Duke Climbs Up Into Tie With William And Mary

By The Associated Press
TONIGHT'S GAMES

Maryland at Virginia.
Georgetown at William and Mary.

Duke's Blue Devils had pulled into a tie with William and Mary for the Southern conference lead today (Friday) and North Carolina's White Phantoms had been knocked from the ranks of the nation's unbeaten teams.

The Dukes climbed up into their deadlock with the Indians last night (Thursday) by spanking Washington and Lee's Generals at Lynchburg, Va., 58-45, for their second league decision.

North Carolina's string of seven straight victories was snapped in Madison Square Garden in New York by New York University. The White Phantoms were beaten badly, 72-48.

In fact, last night was a sad one for the Southern Conference in the Garden. For North Carolina State's "Hoosier hotshots" also went down to defeat in the great metropolis, bowing to Long Island University 65-61.

Duke's triumph over Washington and Lee sparked by center Ben Collins, who dumped in 18 points. High for the Generals was center Bob Goldsmith, who collected 15.

The Generals closed the Duke game to three points late in the game, but Collins and Cep Youmans went to work to produce several field goals that sewed up the game for the Blue Devils.

North Carolina couldn't keep up with New York University because the White Phantoms were off on their shooting. Time after time, they rolled down the floor only to miss an east set-up, N. Y. U. led at half-time, 38-24.

For awhile, it appeared that North Carolina State would make a run-away of the Wolfpack's game with Long Island. At one time, the pack led by 22-5. By the intermission, though, Long Island had pulled up to within a single point, State leading by 32-31.

The boys along Jacob's Beach seem in agreement that this lease business has gone far enough and the ring titles now resting on foreign brows should be returned to this country. And quickly. Even at the current low rate of exchange in things pugilistic, a championship is a championship and the boys want them back.

It was a most severe shock to boxing boys when Gus Lesnevich, rated a stout champion, lost the decision and his light heavyweight crown to a mediocre fighter such as Freddie Mills in London. They saved their wounded feelings with the thought that Marcel Cerdan is a very competent performer when the Frenchman relieved Tony Zale of the middleweight championship.

The third championship in foreign hands—the flyweight—has been abroad for some time and there are few if any flyweights of ability operating in our rings.

Mills has shown little inclination to risk his laurels against our better 115-pounders, either in this country or in his native land. Cerdan has sampled some of the fat American boxing purses and stands ready to take on the best of our 160-pounders but there isn't too much talent around to threaten his reign.

Conference Tilt
The Greenville High School Phantoms pry the lid off their Northeastern conference schedule here tonight when they play host to the Edenton High School Aces with the Jayvees playing a preliminary game starting at 6:30.

Coach Boley Farley's boys will be seeking to break a four game non-conference losing streak. All their losses have been to Class AA schools, however.

The local Juniors have won two and lost two games against the Jayvees of class AA schools.

Grimesland Tops Washington JV's
Washington, N. C., Jan. 7—Grimesland High's varsity trounced the Washington junior varsity 34-13, in the second game of a basketball twin bill here last night. The Washington girls varsity defeated Grimesland, 21-11, in a preliminary game.

Elbert Jackson scored 13 points for Grimesland to lead the scoring in the boys game. Washington's Barbara Woolard, with eight, and Grimesland's Susie Pyre, with six, were the leading point-makers in the girls' game.

Coastal Plain League To Hold Meeting January 11

Goldsboro, Jan. 7.—Annual meeting of the Coastal Plain baseball league directors will be held at the Community Building in Goldsboro January 11 beginning at 6:30. President Ray Goodman of Williamston has announced. Principal business scheduled to come up will include adoption of a bill, election of a president, and decision on the number of games in the schedule for 1949.

Three-year contract for the Goldsmith 97 baseball expired last season. Also President Goodman's term of three years is up. A vice-president is elected annually.

Changes in the constitution and by-laws may come up at the session. Also, President Goodman is expected to give a report on the convention of minor leagues which he attended in Minneapolis. Since the directors voted at the end of last season to change the player classification to eight rookies, three veterans, and four limited service men, there has been speculation about the effect on the league. There were rumors at one time that at least two of the clubs, Rocky Mount and Wilson, were anxious to pull out and join other leagues. However, this report has died down. Whether opponents of eight rookies will attempt to have the classification of players changed remains problematical. Last year the classification provided for four veterans, four rookies, and eight limited service players.

The league apparently will operate again with the same eight clubs. Five of those clubs have named managers for 1949 and a sixth club named a manager, but President Goodman had to refuse approval of the contract because of a bonus offer involved.

The games were full of thrills because the Winterville aggregation played hard and well, and it was not until after the half time period in each game before Eppes High could garner an appreciable lead.

Coach Murrill's male quintet showed unusual skill and dexterity as they downed the Robinson team with a score of 46 to 14. Billy Davis, Fred Johnson, and Lee Langley tied for honors, each having shot ten points.

Chapter 32

I finally broke the feather-hitting-feather silence.

"Pretty, aren't they?" I mur-murled.

Bierman jerked his head up, and the old fireball glare was back in his eyes.

"Why didn't you tell me about these?" he rasped out. "My God,

Barnes, she might have..."

"No," I stopped him. "She didn't have the chance to go to the bank with DeFoe." Bierman asked sharply,

"My God, they must be worth millions."

"Several millions, is my guess," I said. "Technically, DeFoe was the safeguard. The head man of the bunch, he..."

"What bunch? Bierman cut in.

"Just shut up, and listen!" I said.

"Barnes told it all to me in great detail, but I'll cut it down and give you just a tough idea for now.

When the Nazis were thundering across Europe they looted every country high and dry. One of their specialties was diamonds. But all of the stones didn't quite get back to Germany. Individual Nazi greed.

The Underground boys knew about that. They had those lads pegged.

And when the Nazis were thundering back across Europe a slight faster, certain members of the Underground moved in quick. They were picking up small hidden caches of diamonds like you'd pick up fallen apples. Oh, only a few did it, but those that did had a good thing for themselves."

I paused for breath, and Bier-man nodded slowly.

"Rene DeFoe was the leader of an Underground unit that included

Cardeur, Parfisch, Zara, Barone, Eu-

rich, and some others. To go sell their loot direct to merchants in

Antwerp, and elsewhere, would be

to ask for a rope around their necks.

So they figured out a plan. DeFoe

and Barone had connections here in the States. They could sell their loot here a little at a time, and it would eventually find its way to the European markets. But how to get the diamonds out of Europe here?

They worked out a very neat smuggling stunt. Each of them took a few cleverly hidden and came here

for a visit. Believe it or not, the ones I've named to you have made

four trips since V-Day. DeFoe came here, though, and remained. The

diamonds were delivered to him,

and he worked the deals that brought the cash. DeFoe was smart.

He loved them all dearly, but he didn't trust one of them. So he put

all the unsold diamonds in a safety

deposit box under a name that only

he knew. That was...

"Cardeur knew!" Bierman broke

in.

I started to nod, but checked

myself and looked at Zara.

"How did Cardeur find out?" I asked.

"He did not trust Rene," she said quietly. "He searched Rene's rooms, and find a letter to Herbert Varney from the bank. He do that to protect us. We are all beginning to distrust Rene a little. He is acting strange. We are worried."

"Yes, it must have worried you a lot," I grunted, and turned to Bierman. "Well, Cardeur found out.

Cardeur, Parfisch, Zara, Barone, Eu-

rich, and some others. To go sell

their loot direct to merchants in

Antwerp, and elsewhere, would be

to ask for a rope around their necks.

So they figured out a plan. DeFoe

and Barone had connections here

in the States. They could sell their

loot here a little at a time, and it

would eventually find its way to the European markets. But how to get

the diamonds out of Europe here?

They worked out a very neat smuggling stunt. Each of them took a

few cleverly hidden and came here

for a visit. Believe it or not, the

ones I've named to you have made

four trips since V-Day. DeFoe came here, though, and remained. The

diamonds were delivered to him,

and he worked the deals that

brought the cash. DeFoe was smart.

He loved them all dearly, but he didn't trust one of them. So he put

all the unsold diamonds in a safety

deposit box under a name that only

he knew. That was...

"Cardeur knew!" Bierman broke

in.

I started to nod, but checked

myself and looked at Zara.

Reports Theft Of Gems Valued Around $200,000

New York, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Theft of jewelry valued by the owner at $200,000 was reported to police last night.

Erhart Ruegg, a textile manufacturer, said he discovered the jewels missing from a bedroom closet when he returned home from a night club at 11 p.m. (EST) with his wife, Liette Veree, a former Hungarian actress.

Ruegg said the jewels were mostly insured.

The Rueggs had been absent for three hours from their luxurious apartment in a house at 25 East End Avenue, overlooking the East River.

A handbag containing $1,000 in cash was found untouched on the shelf of the closet, which they had left locked.

Bogarts Have A New 'Humphrey'

Hollywood, Jan. 7.—(AP)—It's a boy for the Humphrey Bogarts.

The baby, born last night, is the first child for screen star Humphrey Bogart and his actress wife, Lauren Bacall.

He weighed in at six pounds, six ounces.

Mama, who is reportedly doing fine, is 24; papa 48. They were married May 21 1945.

Emphatic . . .

The latest of these incidents is an article published in Life magazine today by Jay Franklin, newspaper columnist and one of the writers who helped prepare Mr. Truman's campaign speeches last fall.

Franklin said that the President is now making a fight in his own cabinet to modify the "tough" American foreign policy toward Russia and adopt a softer approach.

Franklin implied that on the other side of the fight are Undersecretary of State Lovett and Secretary of Defense Forrestal, whom Franklin linked to this country's oil and munitions interests. These interests, he said, have a "vested interest" in continuing the cold war.

Truman's . . .

(Continued from page one) nents without the civil application of any governmental authority related to wages, if business and government make genuine efforts to hold excessive prices and profits and to reduce the cost of living.

He again colded the housing industry for "prying itself out of the market." and in he asked for strengthened rent controls, slum clearance, and a public housing program to build 1,000 low-rent dwellings in seven years.

The economic message is required annually by the President by the employment act of 1946. That law binds the government to develop and follow policies leading to maximum employment, production and buying power while avoiding violent booms or depressions.

Marshall . . .

"Please accept my thanks for the extraordinary consideration and complete support you have given me these past three years. I shall never forget your kindness, and I submit this resignation with affectionate regard and greatest respect."

Joint Labor . . .

It was about that time that Louis Saliant, French secretary general of the WFTU, declared in a speech to leftist workers in Milan, Italy, that the organization's objective was to "eliminate the primary cause of war—the capitalist system."

A little later a Trade Union Conference was held in London to try to avert a split in the WFTU over the Marshall Plan. Besides the American CIO and the British Trades Union Congress, the trades organizations of thirteen other nations were represented. The WFTU stayed away.

Legislative . . .

(Continued from page one) The Southerners would fight it of course. But it might make them so sore that Mr. Truman would lose their help for the rest of the term on the rest of his program.

So the civil rights parts of the Truman program probably will come up late in the session, after a lot of other things are out of the way.

But Mr. Truman wants Congress
