Assure Business There Won't Be A 'Warlike OPA'

Many Democrats Far From Certain New Price Control Proposals Wise

Washington, Jan. 8—(AP)—Democrats seeking an answer to high prices assured business today there will not be "another wartime OPA."

These developments came as President Truman's Capitol Hill lieutenants confidently oiled the legislative machinery for a quick drive to write into law parts of his economic program aimed at 60,000-000 jobs and continued production peaks.

But Democrats appeared far from certain new price controls would be wise, even on the selective and standby basis called for by Mr. Truman.

And a noisy bi-partisan protest came from some farm state lawmakers over the endorsement by the President's economic advisers of flexible farm price supports, which might permit declines in price floors next year.

They said the President himself is committed to "full parity" for farmers.

Chairman Maybank (D-SC) of the Senate Banking Committee proposed a far-flung inquiry into middle-man operations—to find out what causes the wide spread between what a producer receives and what a consumer pays.

He told reporters he wants to know why, for instance, cotton print cloth at the mills is below 1946 OPA ceilings yet "the consumer is paying a hell of a price."

Maybank said "I don't think another OPA is the answer," but he added that "some stand-by controls may be necessary."

Senator Sparkman (D-Ala.) said that because some prices "have begun to wobble" he had hoped Mr. Truman would not find it necessary to ask for controls. But he indicated that if the need can be shown he will go along with the President.

A 'Terrifying' Graph

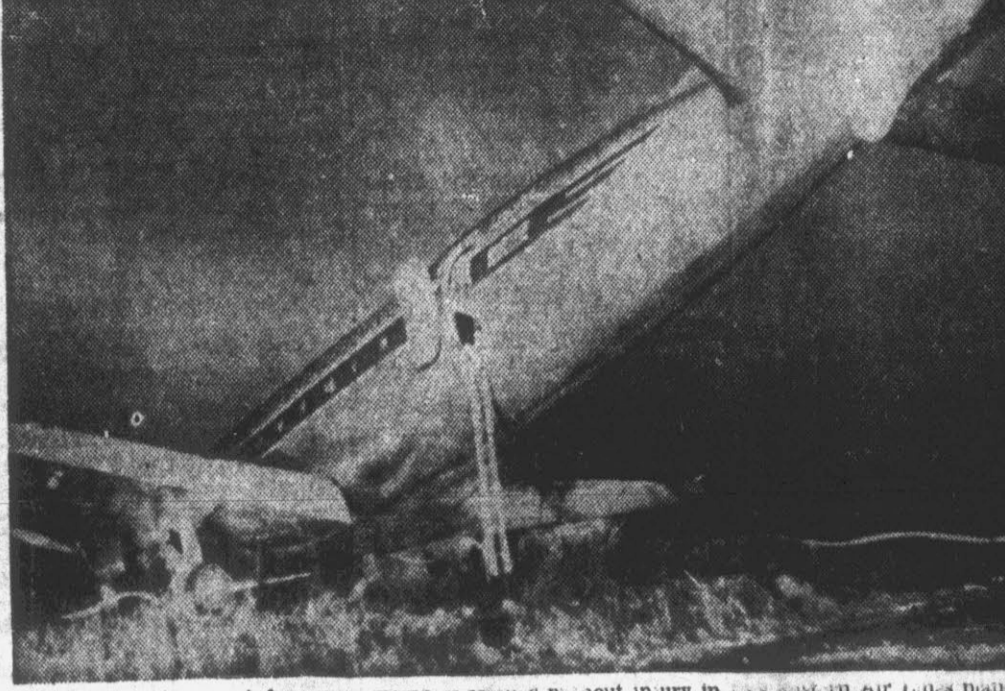

This Columnist Has A Chart Of Economic Ups and Downs From 1790 Through 1945; Each Period Of Prosperity Followed By Depression; Why It Must Happen

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Jan. 8—(AP)—I have a terrifying piece of paper in my desk. At a quick glance it looks like something put together by a drunk. But it wasn't. Across the middle of the paper, which is about one yard long and nine inches deep, runs a straight line. Above the line is a row of black, jagged hills and mountain peaks. And below the line, as if the peaks were being reflected in water, is another row of hills and peaks, upside down. All this was carefully done by business experts. Those hills and peaks above and below the line represent the history of American ups and downs. They're the periods of prosperity and the periods of panics and depressions. The chart begins in 1790 and ends in 1945. It's amazing to see how many prosperity peaks there are above the line—and how many depression dips below.

The last figure on the chart is the huge prosperity peak that started climbing in 1945. We know that this peak, although the chart stops in 1945, is still high above the middle line.

Senate's Okay Of Acheson Seen Despite GOP Coolness

Rankin Appears Off Committee

Washington, Jan. 8—(AP)—Rep. John E. Rankin's job on the House Un-American Activities committee was reported at an end today.

Members of the Democratic committee on committees told newsmen a substantial majority had voted to keep any committee chairman in the House from serving on another committee. The Mississippi Democrat is slated to head the Veterans affairs groups.

The committee action, subject to approval of all Democratic House members and the entire House membership, has been reported in the making for several weeks with administration approval.

It was aimed directly at Rankin, who supported Gov. J. Strom Thurmond for President against Harry S. Truman, and who has been active in the Un-American Activities committee's spy probes, which Mr. Truman called a "Red Herring."

The Mississippiian is expected to contest the action, although if he loses the fight in the Democratic caucus that probably will end it. Traditionally, party caucus recommendations are not questioned by the opposing party.

Will Ask County To Buy Needed Fire Equipment

Farmville, Jan. 8—W. A. Allen, president of the Pitt County Farm Bureau, said today he will appear before the county commissioners at their meeting in Greenville Monday, and request in behalf of the Farm Bureau that the county purchase fire equipment to be used for fighting fires in the county.

At a meeting of the Greenville Board of Aldermen Thursday night it was recommended that the county purchase fire equipment to be placed strategically about the county to afford more adequate fire protection to property outside the incorporated limits of the towns in the county. The Aldermen asked that the request to the county commissioners be made in the name of the Pitt County Farm Bureau.

City Tax Status In Top Condition

City Clerk J. O. Duval reported city tax collections in the best condition this year they have been in several years. As of January 1 he reported 76.16 per cent of the total 1948 tax levy had been collected.

Duval pointed out that a penalty will be charged for all city taxes not paid by February 1. The law calls for a penalty of 1 per cent for February, 2 per cent for March and an increase of one-half per cent per month thereafter until the taxes are paid.

Delegates Plan Placate Critics

Lake Success, Jan. 8—(AP)—United Nations delegates plan weekend consultations in hopes of finding a way of placating countries angered by the Security Council's handling of the Indonesian question.

After nearly three hours of vigorous criticism from a bloc of Pacific island nations yesterday, the Council adjourned without taking any action. It scheduled a meeting for 3 p. m. (EST) Tuesday, leaving Monday open to allow time for the drafting of new resolutions on the case.

SHOW GOES ON Miami, Fla., Jan. 8—(AP)—The Air Force scheduled another demonstration of jet-propelled Shooting Stars at the 17th annual All American air maneuvers today despite the loss of one of its pilots and planes.

But—will that great prosperity peak, greatest in history, crumble any time soon and drip into a huge upside down peak, below the line? It's that question which goes to the heart of President Truman's message to Congress this week. In his State of the Union message on Wednesday, Mr. Truman said: "I am happy to report . . . that the State of the Union is good." But he added: "We cannot afford to float along carelessly on a postwar boom until it collapses."

Then he outlined his program for 1949. And yesterday, in his economic report, he said "we have not been granted lasting prosperity without further effort and vigilance. And once again, for the second time in three days, he outlined his program, but this time in more detail. And he ended with: "This is a period in which our ability to master our affairs in our own way will be rigorously tested."

Report Chinese Seek Mediation To Obtain Peace

Nanking, Jan. 8—(AP)—A usually reliable source said today the Chinese government had asked the United States, French and British governments to attempt to mediate the civil war.

Ambassadors for the three powers here were asked to relay the request to their governments, this source said.

The three ambassadors were called to the Foreign Office by Foreign Minister Wu Tsen-late today. None of the three nor Foreign Office officials would comment on the subject.

Reliable sources, however, said they were asked to present to their governments a request that "the big three" attempt to mediate and obtain a negotiated peace with the Communists.

It was apparent, from the actions of various officials, that the question either of mediation or an appeal to the United Nations was under consideration.

Failure to include the Soviet member of the "Big Four" in the summons raised considerable speculation here. It was understood that the Russian ambassador has been shying away from any possible participation in either mediation or discussion of negotiations apparently on orders from Moscow.

This latest development coincided with reports from Tientsin that the Red attack on that besieged city had ended today after the Communists had occupied sections of the old "Chinese city."

These reports said the garrison commander ordered an immediate mid-day curfew in Tientsin, forbidding residents to leave their homes and the streets were empty except for National troops.

Cessation of firing after the Communists had started what appeared to be a determined effort to capture the city raised speculation here that the city had been arranged for the surrender of Tientsin to the Reds.

Earlier, Communist attacks on all fronts were stepped up. The official Central News Agency said that Gen. Li-Ming's encircled troops had inflicted 20,000 casualties on attacking Reds southwest of Suchow.

The news agency claimed the Reds had been using poison gas and had caused a number of Nationalist casualties.

Express Concern Over Air Attack Americans See Rousing Of Anti-Israel Feeling In British

Washington, Jan. 8—(AP)—American officials expressed deep concern today over the shooting down of British fighter planes in the Palestine area.

They expressed hope, however, that a general acceptance of the United Nations cease-fire order for Palestine fighting would prevent a more serious involvement of the British with the Jews.

First reaction from official informants here was that the incident would infuriate the British government and rouse a new wave of anti-Israel feeling among the British people but that the British would "not go to war" about it.

Some authorities suggested that the British planes which were shot down, being on a reconnaissance mission, probably either were not armed or had orders not to fire.

(Israeli sources quoted a captured British airman as saying his and some other planes were armed but did not fire. They also said some of the planes carried bombs.)

The state department evidently was without any full official report from the foreign office in London on the incident.

Thief Took Pistol From Undertaker's Office In Fountain

Fountain, Jan. 8—S. E. Henby's undertakers office here was entered last night by a thief and one pistol was stolen. The intruder is believed to have gained entrance to the building through a window.

The robbery was reported to police Chief J. A. Wheeler by a bloodhound to follow the trail of the thief, but the trail was a short way down the old Farmville road.

Members of the Greenville police department were called and took finger prints from the window in an effort to establish the identity of the person who entered the building through the window.

STAGE ROUND-UP Athens, Jan. 8—(AP)—Greek police announced today they have arrested Mrs. Adam Mousenides, whose husband is accused of slaying Columbia Broadcasting System Correspondent George Polk. Five other persons also were rounded up.

New York City, Jan. 8—During the past few days I asked many investment bankers "In view of the business and market uncertainties, what are the safest stocks to hold?" The general answer was that the stocks of the operating utility companies offer the best combination of safety and income.

Outlook For Business Total kilowatt hour output of the utilities will decline with general business, but this decline will be from industrial customers. As many electric companies are now short of generating capacity, and cannot take on many new residential customers, this could be a blessing in disguise. Residential customers are much more profitable than large industrial customers. Therefore, by switching customers, the total output could decline without a decline in profits.

RAF Planes Shot Down By Israeli Craft Over Egypt

London, Jan. 8—(AP)—Britain said today five Royal Air Force planes were shot down yesterday by Israeli aircraft while on reconnaissance patrols over Egyptian territory near the Palestine border.

The air ministry's announcement came after a Jewish spokesman in Tel Aviv said two of the five aircraft shot down by the Jews over Rafah were known to be British planes and two others were presumed to be Rafahs in the border.

Meanwhile, the foreign office announced that Britain, acting on a request of Trans-Jordan, has sent troops to guard the Red Sea port of Aqaba.

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin decided to remain in London over the weekend to keep in close touch with all developments. This underlined the gravity with which the foreign office viewed Britain's present relations with Israel.

A British communiqué said the RAF fighters had strict orders not to cross the frontier into Palestine. Since the attacks, it added, British airmen have been instructed "to regard as hostile any Jewish aircraft encountered over Egyptian territory."

The air ministry said there were two attacks. The first was made against a reconnaissance patrol sent out "to ascertain the depth and scale of the Jewish incursion into Egyptian territory," the ministry said. The second was made against a force dispatched to determine the fate of the missing planes in the first group.

Four pilfers were missing from the first attack, and a Tempest was lost in the second, the ministry said. There were these differences in the British and Jewish versions of the clash:

The Jews said four of the downed planes were British and the fifth was Egyptian. At least two and perhaps three, were shot down by Israeli fighters and the others by anti-aircraft. A captured British flying officer is being held for Red Cross identification, the Tel Aviv spokesman said. The Jews said the downed planes were British.

The British described the clash as occurring 15 miles west of Rafah in Egyptian territory. Rafah is on the communications lines up the coastal strip of southern Palestine to the Egyptian-held city of Gaza. Whether it is in Egypt or Palestine is a matter of dispute.

Jews informants in Tel Aviv said that under the British mandate Rafah was classed as being inside Palestine. At the end of the mandate last May, the British shifted the boundary putting Rafah inside Egypt, they said.

The British charged yesterday that Israeli ground forces had made a fresh incursion into Egypt and had 150 vehicles at a camp three miles south of the town.

The Jewish chief of operations said if Israeli forces actually are in Egypt the matter can be easily adjusted in armistice or peace talks between the Jews and Egyptians.

Counties Confer On Polio Fight

Representatives of four Eastern North Carolina counties met in Greenville yesterday afternoon to discuss with state leaders the 1949 March of Dimes drive. Dr. Ralph McDonald, state chairman of the polio committee, presided at the meeting.

Representatives from Pitt, Craven, Pamlico and Wilson counties attended the meeting and participated in the discussion of methods used in the various counties of the state to raise funds to fight polio.

Dr. McDonald told the group "The purpose of this meeting is to set our sights for the 1949 drive. We are just emerging from the most severe polio epidemic North Carolina has ever known."

The speaker pointed out that the state has secured from the national foundation in recent years over $1,000,000 more than has been paid into the foundation by the state.

McDonald commented on the depleted polio fighting funds in practically every county of the state and said, "Our March of Dimes in North Carolina this year must be a March of Dollars."

Luciano Linked In Narcotic Haul

New York, Jan. 8—(AP)—A vast quantity of smuggled narcotics has been turned up here in two separate actions by authorities. One shipment was called the largest since pre-war days.

The name of Charles "Lucky" Luciano, former New York underworld kingpin, was linked by investigators to both cases.

The largest cache was some $300,000 worth of heroin and opium, found by customs agents yesterday aboard the French freighter Bastia. A customs official said the narcotics, found wrapped in waterproof packages and hidden in a barrel of oil, were the "biggest seizure since the start of World War II."

Charles E. Wyatt, supervising customs agent, said the customs service has "positive information" that "Luciano is involved in all illegal transfers of narcotics from Italy and other Mediterranean countries to this country in recent years."

Pitt Towns To Ask Share ABC Profits

Farmville Committee To Appear With Greenville Group Before Commissioners; Horne Cites ABC Profits In County

When officials and representatives of the incorporated towns of the county appear before the Pitt County commissioners on Monday they will ask that provisions be set up whereby the profits from Pitt ABC sales may be divided between the incorporated towns and the county, a representative of the municipalities said today.

Mayor J. H. Boyd of Greenville who yesterday sent letters to other mayors in the county said today it is definite that a committee from Farmville headed by Mayor J. W. Joyce of that city will appear with the commissioners. The Greenville mayor said this morning sufficient time has not elapsed since his letters were sent out, to determine whether all towns of the county will participate in the move.

A report compiled for the Reflector by Charles O'H. Horne, chairman of the Pitt County ABC board showed net profits from county ABC sales in the past two fiscal years (ending June 30, 1947 and June 30, 1948) were $502,235.66. The net profit for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1947 was $271,347.88 and the net profit for the year ending June 30, 1948 was $230,887.78, the report showed.

During the period from December 23, 1946 to June 30, 1948 the ABC board remittances to the Pitt County general fund totaled $501,070.37 the report showed. A division of the money turned over by the Pitt County general fund by the ABC board is what is being requested by the municipal leaders of the county said a member of the municipalities group which will appear before the commissioners.

In the report from ABC board Chairman Horne showed the money turned over from the ABC board to the county general fund in the past two fiscal years as follows: December 23, 1946, $75,000; May 26, 1947, $251,070.37; October 31, 1947, $75,000; March 31, 1948, $50,000; June 30, 1948, $50,000.

In an article in yesterday's Reflector dealing with the effort of municipalities in the county to obtain a share of the county's profit it was stated that the cities and towns at this time receive no part of the ABC fund. The statement was intended to convey the fact that the towns are not at present receiving any of the funds turned over to the county by the ABC board from profits derived from county stores.

The towns however are receiving direct from the ABC board law enforcement fund, the following amount monthly to aid the towns in their law enforcement problems: City of Greenville, $185 a month each for two policemen; Farmville $198 per month; and $125 per month each to Bethel and Fountain, and $75 per month each to Grifton and Grimesland.

Large Quantities Of Smuggled Drugs Seized By Customs

Charles E. Wyatt, supervising customs agent, said the customs service has "positive information" that "Luciano is involved in all illegal transfers of narcotics from Italy and other Mediterranean countries to this country in recent years."

Last night, police detectives also arrested two men identified as Ralph E. Jimenez, wealthy 46-year-old importer, and Roger F. Blasque, 38, an elevator operator. They were picked up outside a midtown hotel, and charged with narcotics possession. About $80,000 worth of cocaine was seized.

Police said Jimenez was arrested nine days ago in Miami, Fla., on narcotics possession charges, and was released in $5,000 bail.

Villagers Flee In Face Of Lava Flow From Peak

Hilo, Hawaii, Jan. 8—(AP)—Frightened villagers in the path of Mauna Loa's lava flow left their homes today despite assurances they were in no immediate danger of being engulfed.

The seacoast villages of Honauau and Keokea were virtually abandoned, although Police Lieut. Anthony Cambra of the Kona sector insisted the lava would not endanger them.

Ruy H. Finch, Hawaii's national park volcanologist, predicted the lava would not go far beyond the 7,000-foot level. It was almost there last night. Mauna Loa's crater is 13,680 feet above the sea.

Schools were dismissed at Hookea and Alaie, as well as the two other villages evacuated.

Jessup Reported Ready To Retire

Lake Success, Jan. 8—(AP)—Informal sources said today Dr. Phillip C. Jessup plans to retire about Feb. 1 from his post as deputy United States delegate on the United Nations Security Council.

Dr. Jessup expects to return to his position as professor of International law at Columbia University, these sources said. The deputy delegate would not comment on his plans.

Committeemen Of Conservation Body To Meet On Monday

Wyatt Highsmith, secretary of the county conservation association, said the group will discuss the 1949 programs, make minor adjustments on tobacco and review information on peanuts from individual farms of the area.

British Say Five Fighters Downed; Some Knocked Down By Anti-Aircraft Guns; Troops Sent To Guard Trans-Jordan Red Sea Port

London, Jan. 8—(AP)—Britain said today five Royal Air Force planes were shot down yesterday by Israeli aircraft while on reconnaissance patrols over Egyptian territory near the Palestine border.

Secretary Of State

A Momentous Decision Involved In Selection Of Man To Fill This Office; Requires International Vision And Vast Common Sense; Acheson's Record; Reactions

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Selection of a U.S. Secretary of State in these dark and dangerous days of communism's global revolution is a momentous decision. He must be a man of international vision and vast common sense. Wars and peace-treaties more often than not start in foreign offices.

For this reason President Truman's appointment of Dean Acheson as Secretary of State is of supreme importance not only to America but to the world at large. The chancelleries of the major nations have been awaiting Mr. Truman's choice anxiously ever since it became apparent that General George Marshall would retire as secretary because of ill health.

Prior to the appointment there had been much diplomatic speculation whether it would involve any change in Uncle Sam's cold war strategy. The answer to that is in the negative.

President Truman has declared that America's policy in this respect will not be changed by his selection. Moreover, Acheson's deeds confirm this estimate.

During his long service as Assistant Secretary and Undersecretary of State, Acheson had a big hand in framing America's policy for holding the Bolshevik aggression in check. He helped develop the "Truman Doctrine" for helping free nations (like Greece and Turkey) resist the Red aggression. He also drafted the Marshall Plan for European rehabilitation.

In announcing Acheson's appointment, President Truman took occasion to declare there is no foundation to reports that he wanted to soften America's "tough" policy in dealing with Moscow. This statement was in answer to a published story to the effect that he was engaged in a fight within his cabinet to soften American policy towards Russia.

The article in question was by Jay Franklin and was published in the magazine. The President said it is without foundation in fact in nearly every instance and paragraph. Franklin is a newspaper columnist and was among writers who helped prepare Mr. Truman's campaign speeches last fall.

Thus the President had given double assurances regarding the steadfastness of America's policy towards Russia. He not only reaffirmed the policy by word of mouth but has put his seal on it by appointing as Secretary a man who

WONDER AT THEFT

They received a report from I. M. Pressler, manhole-cover salesman, that thieves had backed a vehicle into his yard and hauled away the 30-pound iron covers.

Miss Kathy Young, of Berkeley, Calif., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Youngblood, of Greenville, who has been selected from a group of 200 girls to show San Francisco's latest spring styles to Hawaii.

Local Girl Selected To Display Spring Styles In Honolulu Show

Miss Kathy Young, well-known San Francisco model, has been selected from a group of approximately 200 girls to show San Francisco's latest spring styles to Hawaii. Miss Young in private life is Mrs. Jack B. Berard of Berkeley and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Youngblood of Greenville, N. C.

Arrangements have been made by Warner Pathe News with the Matson Navigation Co. and the Manufacturers and Wholesalers Association to take a series of color movies sequences showing San Francisco's advance spring styles on board the new luxury liner "Lurline," during a three week round trip cruise to Hawaii beginning the early part of January. Released as a news feature, the travel-fashion movie will be shown to approximately 5000 theaters before an audience of an estimated 30,000,000 persons.

The Manufacturers and Wholesalers also have been invited to stage a gala spring style premiere at Honolulu's world-famous "Royal Hawaiian" Hotel. Misses Young and Ruth Brite of San Francisco and Miss Elizabeth Kellogg of Los Angeles, the three models selected to make the trip, will show the clothes of approximately fifty manufacturers aided by fifteen Hawaiian junior leaguers.

During the trip, Matson also plans to take several hundred color stills. Both movies and stills will feature "glamour" photographed against "glamour."

Harold Gudnesson, President of the Manufacturers and Wholesalers Assn. says "this is one of the greatest promotions our energetic apparel industry has ever attempted."

Mrs. Stell Hostess To Clio Book Club

The Clio Book Club met with Mrs. W. J. Stell Jr. at her home on the Ayden Highway Tuesday January 4.

During a short business session a report was given on the family for which the Club provided food clothing, and toys at Christmas.

Members of the Club bought tickets to the lecture to be given on North Carolina Literature January 18, for the benefit of the March of Dimes campaign.

Francis Lee Neel, of the art department, East Carolina Teachers College, was guest speaker. Mr. Neel's talk was based on his experience as a paratrooper with the Eleventh Airborne Division in the Philippines, Okinawa, and Japan; he spoke briefly of the paratroopers' rescue of American prisoners in a Japanese prison camp.

He illustrated his discussion of Japanese art with sketches, oil paintings, and watercolors collected in Japan and Okinawa, as well as a collection of silks, and such articles as incense burners and lacquered vases and boxes found in use in Japanese homes. He compared the Japanese with the Philippine where there seemed a lack of art.

The hostess served a delicious dessert course with coffee.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

PRESBYTERIAN MEN'S CLUB

The men of the North Greenville community met Thursday night at the Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church for the monthly meeting of the Men's Club with President Cliff Rhodus presiding. The men gathered around the tables and Rev. O. C. Haas returned thanks, after which Chiefs Jack Russell and Ed Fuller, assisted by the ladies of the church, served a barbecue and Brunswick stew supper long to be remembered. These delicious and abundant dishes were followed by home-made coconut cake and steaming hot coffee.

Immediately following the supper the pastor, Rev. G. E. Patterson, brought a brief devotional message. The group was then delightfully entertained and prepared for the main message of the evening when Corey Stokes and Wilbur Ormand of Ayden led in the singing of a group of popular songs, and Mr. Ormand graciously responded to the pleas of the men for a number of solos on his accordion.

After this period of relaxation and fellowship President Rhodus introduced the very popular speaker of the evening, Mr. S. D. (Sam) Bundy, the principal of the Farmville High School.

Mr. Bundy delighted his audience with his matchless humor and then concluded the program of the evening with a splendid message on "The Right Perspective For the New Year."

Y., is designed with ahead also in the living room to accommodate television set, radio, record player and home movie screen. The house covers an area of 1,285 square feet. The architect says he is convinced from experience that television becomes a new center in a home, superseding the fireplace. He believes that new homes should be planned for television even in areas not yet covered by wires.

Proceeds from the tournament which featured seven boxing bouts and two wrestling events went to the Pitt County Polio Fund campaign. Winners in the gloves fights will represent the BOCV team when the Winston-Salem YMCA team invades the local ring next Saturday night.

In one of the most exciting events of the evening Paul Hansell came up from the canvas to outpoint Jack Ameyt by one point in a welter weight classic.

Hansell, a Thomasville product and boxer with some experience met with a flurry of left jabs and right crosses in the opening seconds of the first round, and was dropped for a count of seven.

So vicious was their attack that they repeatedly fell, still slugging after close in fighting.

Ken Stargard, a dynamic fighter from Richmond, Va., won a three round decision over Hubert Musselwhite in a light heavy weight bout. Stargard led in each of the three rounds to win the event.

Battling B. J. Hunter came from behind in the last round to fight Bill Ennett to draw in a heavy weight bout. Ennett, keeping on the move all the way, kept Hunter on the defense most of the first two rounds.

Bill Torrans won by decision over Charlie Edwards in a middle weight event. Torrans led in each round. The middle weight bout featuring Thomas Daniels and Al Lee was stopped in the second round when a cut Lee received in a match at Charlotte was opened. No decision was made.

Al Morris pinned Arthur Dempsey to win the first wrestling match of the evening. John Heath pinned Douglas Guthrie in the first to take the second grunt and gron classic.

Johnny Long refereed last night's fights. Judges were Colonel W. D. Brown, Mrs. P. Julian, and Garland Bailey; Timers were George Wynee Joe Brown, Bill James and Vernon Jones. Scorers were William Pennington, Bill Hales and Will Pittman. Seconds were Donald Denny George Wood, Ben Hester, and Bill Darby. Jack Boone was announcer.

Bill Bevans Will Go To Chicago

Chicago, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Baseball's lushest rebuilders, the Chicago White Sox, today had salvaged Floyd (Bill) Bevans, loser of a one-hitter in the 1947 World Series, from the New York Yankees.

He comes to the Sox mound staff conditionally, and can be returned if his sore shoulder does not work into shape. The big 31-year-old right-hander twirled 8 2-3 hitless innings against Brooklyn in the 1947 Series only to lose 2-1 when Cookie Lavagetto doubled in two runs.

Herb McKenley Said Suspended

New York, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The New York Times said today that Herb McKenley, world record holder for the 400 meters and 440 yards, is under suspension by the New Jersey A.A.U. where he is registered.

McKenley had made plans to leave Jan. 2 for a tour of Australia. He didn't go. The Times said the suspension resulted pending an explanation.

Upset Looms As Ben Hogan Trails

Los Angeles, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Don't put the bankroll on it, yet, but there's just a chance that Ben Hogan is about to abdicate as King of Riviera's tortuous fairways.

His 124 opponents for the Los Angeles open crown are only whispering their hopes today, but the mighty mite is practically lost in the list of first off the pace.

Game Frenchman Drops Decision

New York, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Robert Villenain is a 100 per cent game Frenchman but he can't punch hard enough to rate as a middleweight title threat.

That was the ringside consensus at Madison Square Garden last night after he lost a decision to Steve Beloisie in a bloody 10-rounder.

Villenain caught the fancy of the crowd of 11,863 who paid $25.968 to see his American debut. Blood streamed from wide cuts around both eyes but he refused to sag.

Strength FOR THE DAY

"THE GREATEST OF THESE IS LOVE"

Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, the former Mrs. Grover Cleveland, was stricken about five years before her death with blindness, which the specialists felt would be permanent.
She therefore set about to learn braille, bought a braille typewriter and prepared herself for years of darkness.

But the specialists were wrong
and because of certain treatment
she received, her sight is almost entirely restored. But did she cast aside her braille typewriter as her sight returned? Not at all. She began operating it very diligently for the benefit of those who were hopelessly blind. She was particularly solicitous about a Navajo Indian teacher who was blind and who had almost no opportunities to read good books and magazine articles. Every month, therefore, she copied the best magazine article
she had read and in addition many pages of helpful material from books. The best she had encountered that month or could recall from previous reading went to this blind Indian teacher. She died at the age of eighty-three, and her monthly contribution of good reading had been mailed to the blind friend just a few days before she died.

True Christian love needs no comment nor any preachment to light it up. The contemplation of it is enough.

IT'S THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

With the 1949 General Assembly only a few days old, speculation already is running high on the question
"Will they or won't they"
give the people of the state
an opportunity to express their sentiments toward the sale of liquor in North Carolina.

During the 1947 General Assembly the case of the drys was climaxed when former Governor Cam Morrison declared in a Senate finance committee hearing that democracy had been assassinated
in North Carolina if the General Assembly did not turn the government back to the people—in the form of a referendum on the sale of liquor.

It can hardly be denied that the matter of a statewide referendum on liquor has been prevented by the legislature for several sessions. The bill usually has been killed in committee. The members of the General Assemblies of the past have evaded the issue,
and have kept it from reaching the floor of either house because apparently they have not wanted to publicly take sides on such an issue.

Whether the matter is settled through a state-wide referendum or a state-wide local option law is a question to be decided by the members of the legislature. The important consideration at the moment is that the members of past General Assemblies have avoided any action at all, and thereby have neglected their duty as members of the North Carolina legislature in that they have failed to consider legislation which it seems at least a large portion of the people wish to see considered.

The question of what to do with liquor in the state has been dodged by legislators

The Little Savage

McNaught Syndicate, Inc., N.Y.C. REG-MANNING

long enough. The committees of the legislature have passed the buck long enough.
It is time a bill for settling the liquor question, in a manner fair to all sections of the state, reached the floor of the General Assembly where the legislators may express their views.

There is a time for playing politics and a time for taking positive action. The liquor question is being faced squarely by the people of the state. Why should not the members of the 1949 General Assembly face the issue squarely instead of following the precedent of other legislatures by hiding behind the coat-tails of committees?

Around Capitol Square

RULES — Whether the rules adopted by the 1949 house are more or less liberal than those which have governed other sessions since 1941 is largely matter of personal opinion. There is sentiment among some who have all along opposed requirement of two-thirds vote to adopt a minority report or to withdraw a bill from committee that they may have overplayed their hand. They are by no means sure what they got by a roll call vote of 91 to 22 Friday isn't worse than what they had. However, that vote of more than four to one in favor of requiring a two-to-one vote to take a bill out of committee and then only after thirteen days—ten days wait and three days notice by author of the bill—left no doubt of the confidence the membership has
in the presiding officer.

"GAG Rule"—So much erroneous publicity about the so-called gag rule in the house has been used during the past few years that many people have honestly thought there was something venal or vicious in the house rule book. When the first session of the 1949 house Wednesday deferred adoption of rules respecting minority reports and recall of bills from committees, some overly enthusiastic reporters wrote pieces about the "gag-rule" being dead. By Friday most legislators had realized there never has been a rule that gagged them on anything, and they proved it by arguing for an hour and forty minutes including one voice vote in which members could not be identified and one roll call vote of individual record. Both were overwhelmingly in favor of adopting the rules committee report, which substituted

the senate rule on recalling bills
for the former house requirements
and makes it harder to get a minority report signed, but easier to get it adopted when presented on the floor.

IRREGULAR — The whole proceedings Friday morning were admittedly irregular and the debate at times was acrimonious, and personally bitter. Irregularity occurred in that the question was adoption of the rules committee report, which could not under regular parliamentary procedure be amended except by the committee itself.
But Speaker Ramsey and other house leaders recognized that the question involved transcended parliamentary technicalities, and amendments were accepted from anybody who wanted to offer them.

BITTER — Personal bitterness cropped out several times. First instance was when Representative Lister Martin of Davidson objected to the statement by Chairman Reg
Harris of Person that there was no dissenting vote in the committee.
Martin insisted he voted "no."
Other committee members and newsmen present said Martin expressed opposition, but when the vote was called he did not hear a single "no." There was further evidence of personal feeling when Winfield Blackwell of Forsyth and Frank Huskins of Yancey sent up an amendment on the bill withdrawal section. Neither is a member of the committee, both had been invited to attend. Huskins was not present, Blackwell was there but offered no suggestion. Committee members felt that the idea
should have been presented to them for consideration rather than held for introduction on the floor. This situation resulted in charges and denials that certain elements were trying to destroy the legislative committee system and in effect
make the house itself a committee of the whole on every bill introduced.

GAG—That would really be a "gag rule" so far as the public is concerned, since traditional rules
of legislative bodies preclude appearance of anybody on the floor
who is not a member of the general assembly, a former member, an elected state official or someone invited by the house to speak. It would have the effect, according to a veteran of many legislative sessions, of denying to the public any sort of hearing on pending legislation.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
New York.—(P)—It's a goldfish
life today for the average man.
He doesn't have any secrets anymore. He's afraid to open his mouth for fear it'll be taken as a confession.

What does the American male
think about the Bible and the bees?
You don't have to be a Freud to know. Just read Dr. Kelsey. If his scientific poll of the Masculine Lib-ido hasn't made sex more respectable, it at least hasn't diminished its popularity. Curious ladies are still snapping up copies of this survey as eagerly as poolroom owners used to buy calendars displaying
"September Morn."

And now along comes Archibald
Crossley, the business researcher, with a study of Mr. America's dreams, wants and habits in commercial matters. It turns out that the common man is quite a market,
and spends a considerable share of the family budget.

Yes, sir he's some guy—this schizophrenic fellow, Mr. America.
The Crossley poll, made for Argosity magazine, shows, for example that papa wants to smell sweet, just like mama does. At least most papas do. Some 57 per cent use mouthwashes, regularly or occasionally.
More than 69 percent smear or pour something on their scalp to ornament or anoint the shrubbery
thereon.

And 42.5 per cent now use deodorants, usually the same kind the lady of the family likes. Of those who do, 44 per cent walk right up to the drug store counter and buy it themselves.

Better than 53 per cent of men
go without hats in good old winter time, but come winter wind
and the figure drops to a cautious 27 per cent.

He still prefers a white shirt and a Blue suit, this mythical cross section male, but now he's just about as soon have the suit double breasted as single breast.

Most men still wear pajamas, top and bottom, in the winter, but only 35.4 per cent don both pieces in summer. Only 6.7 per cent sleep narrowly. This custom appears limited to robust young bachelors who live in the eastern part of the country. The boys with a southern accent still prefer to snore in shorts.

Now take booze. Well, only 68
per cent do, and beer is the top draw.
But 79 per cent of the men like tobacco. But only 4.8 out of 100 chew
it anymore, and as for snuffing it —only seven men out of 1,000 do that.

It would seem the average man is handier about the house than his wife would admit. Anyway, 44.9 per cent listed home repairing as their chief pastime. A dismal 3.9 per cent share the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's enthusiasm for stamp collecting. A stout 39.3 per cent said they went fishing, and 29.7 per cent went hunting, at least six times a year.

An encouraging note for those who dislike all exercise: 29.9 per cent
went on record that they didn't engage in any sport that often.

They're neater than you might suspect, these males. It's true that 73 per cent still don't wear garters; but 40 per cent have at least once a day and another 30 per cent scraps 'em off three times a week or more. And 44 per cent wear a tie clip—or own one.

About 68 per cent pack a wallet or billfold. What do they spend the dough on? Well, 79 per cent own life insurance, 62 per cent an automobile, 58 per cent an electric refrigerator, 46 per cent a vacuum cleaner, 26 per cent an automatic washing machine, 25 per cent a combination radio phonograph, and 3.3 per cent an electric blanket.

Who buys all these things? Crossley says men do a lot of it. He says 60 to 70 per cent buy their own haberdashery, hair goo, and toothbrushes. Some 80 per cent buy their own boozie (mama must pick up the check for the other 20 per cent, 91 per cent select their automobiles, and 85 per cent choose their own life insurance policies.

One thing is omitted from this

WASHINGTON LETTER

By JANE EADS

Washington—Long before George Washington chose this site for our National capital Indians lived here.
The area was crossed and recrossed by many tribes from the north and from the south. For a long time early settlers in Maryland told how the Indians used to enjoy fishing

at the foot of Capitol Hill and often gathered on the hill itself, where the Capitol building now stands, to hold their councils.

This is revealed in a booklet, "Lost
Arrow" published by the Cleveland
Park Community Library Committee
of this city. Material for the booklet was adapted by Elizabeth W. Rounds,
a teacher of Millard Fillmore school,
from data furnished by Neil M. Judd curator of archeology, U. S. National Museum.

Early in the summer of 1608 an open barge with two square sails came up the Potomac River from Chesapeake Bay carrying a group of white men led by Capt. John Smith. They came from Jamestown, the new settlement they had made in Virginia. They were exploring the waterways. Along the right bank of the Potomac, Smith and his party began to see scattered Indian dwell-along the Indians he noted many things and jotted them down. He records that there was always a palisade of poles surrounding the house of the Indian chief. Palisades were built around the religious structures also. There were places where the bones of many Indians were buried together. Two of these were destroyed when Bolling Field was enlarged in 1936.

From Captain Smith's notes archeologists judge that possibly 300 Indians lived in Nacotchtank when he visited it. He thought about 80 of these were warriors. It is believed that the Indians living in this area
belonged to the Algonquin family, ruled over by Powhatan, for whom the Potomac river was named.

Long after the Indians disappeared
from this area their trails remained, and today you can go to many of the spots in the District of Columbia
where the Indians used to live. Archeologists of the Smithsonian Institution found traces of the Indian
"Long Houses," which were built like Quonset huts of World War II 35 to 40 feet long and half as wide.
They found pieces of pottery, bark-
ets, broken implements, soap bones,
fish bones, arrowheads, knives,
spearpoints, stone cooking pots.

Sheep are the chief national wealth of Afghanistan.

Chapter 1

Betty Matthews sat with her face pressed against the train window, staring out at the bleak New England countryside, wishing she were back in Manhattan. Anywhere but here!

There was nothing about it that even remotely resembled a refuge. It seemed to exude a chill that penetrated Betty's entire body, despite the fact that when the Cape Cod train had left Boston, only an hour ago, the coach had been almost too warm for comfort. She had a vague but terrifying feeling that it was symbolic of the life which lay ahead of her.

But she knew very well that she would bear it. Would have to bear it, since Uncle Dave Warren's home in Carrolton, a town proudly known as "the birthplace of America and the gateway to Cape Cod," was the only refuge open to her, now that her mother was gone. Yes, she would have to face it with the same patience and fortitude that had characterized the Pilgrims as they trudged along the long, arduous trail. It would be a shock to them too!

Although it was the beginning of April, southeastern Massachusetts still lay frozen and dormant in the grip of a seemingly interminable winter.

Betty Matthews, seeing this part of the country for the first time on this windswept April day, saw it as a place where the sun never shone, where nothing ever happened, and where warmth and friendliness were conspicuous by their absence.

She recalled with a sense of nostalgia that it was spring in the South, where she had lived as a child in the old carefree days before her mother had found it necessary to carve out a career for herself. Only two weeks ago she, Betty, had gone back there to stand before an open grave.

She recalled how she had stood, numb and inarticulate, while they buried her mother in the little cemetery overlooking the picturesque Swanee River and the daisy-studded fields beyond. And somehow her grief was made a little less poignant by the thought that it was spring—would always be springtime in Georgia where her mother slept.

It was spring too in New York where she and her mother had lived for the past ten years, and where Frances Matthews had worked as a commercial artist before tragedy put an end to her career. Although there was still a chill in the air, there were reminders of spring on every corner.

A quick appraisal of her traveling companions when she entered the local train had been anything but heartening to Betty. Still smarting under the shock of her mother's death and the sense of loneliness that possessed her, she had been painfully aware of unfriendly eyes fixed upon her as she hurried down the aisle and sank into the first vacant seat. They were fixed on her now; she could feel them, although her face was turned toward the window and she was trying very hard to concentrate on the terrain.

She lifted her chin a trifle higher and told herself she was imagining things; she was being ridiculously sensitive. These were the people she would live with the rest of her life. She was not an outsider—not really. If they stared at her, it was simply because she was a stranger and they were curious.

She had no way of knowing that what her fellow travelers saw was a young woman who definitely did not belong in these parts. At least not yet. The tourist season was all of six weeks away, and they weren't ready for visitors. Their disapproving glances were not prompted by clianness alone. They represented the natural resentment of a winter-harassed people against city visitors who came too early or stayed too late.

She straightened to attention as she observed a sudden change in the terrain. The houses facing the tracks began to look more prosperous and lived in. The more prosperous given way to gently rolling hills with real trees upon them. Betty could see none of the publicized sand dunes, nor any of the rocks made famous in song and story. But she did catch occasional glimpses of an angry, restless sea and was momentarily impressed. This, she assumed, must be "the stern and rugged rock-bound coast" on which the forefathers landed.

And it would be raining. The rain, which had been threatening all day, was now coming down in businesslike sheets. The wind too had increased in fury. It seemed bent upon tossing the train off the track, and thus destroying the last vestige of human life in this formidable world. It was almost as if the rain and the wind and the sea had banded together to provide a fittingly desolate end to a desolate journey.

Although she felt the sting of tears in her eyes, Betty pulled herself together and managed to smile. In a few minutes she would be getting off the train. Uncle Dave and perhaps Aunt Minniebelle and little Gertrude would be meeting her. They must never, never know how desolate she felt.

"And you shouldn't feel desolate," she admonished herself. "You just don't know how lucky you are. It'll be wonderful living in a real house instead of a tiny apartment. It'll be fun having a family around you, and a kid cousin to keep things exciting and just a little bit goofy." (To be continued)

The number of diesel locomotives in the United States increased from 1,267 before World War II to more than 5,000 in 1948.

Confesses Role In Holdup; Freed

Akron, O., Jan. 7.—(AP)—John Turcoy, who confessed to his part in a daring daylight holdup of a department store here 16 years ago, was a free man today.

The 44-year-old machinist was given a suspended sentence and placed on five-year probation by common Pleas Judge Frank H. Harvey, who declared "Society would not benefit itself by putting you in prison."

Turcoy surrendered to police last fall and identified himself as a gunman in the $7,262 payroll hold-up of the A. Polisky Co., on Aug. 2, 1932, when he was 28.

He never was picked up for questioning, but told Judge Harvey he confessed because of the influence of the teachings of Alcoholic Anonymous.

His wife, Vera, who urged him to confess, wept when Judge Harvey declared "There would be no use to send you to jail to rehabilitate you for you have rehabilitated yourself."

There are motion pictures in almost 10,000 U. S. towns and cities.

About 72 per cent of U. S. motion picture theaters are in towns of 50,000 population or over.

Of the major U. S. cities Washington with 11.6 persons for every theater seat, Chicago with 10.5 persons per theater seat and New York with 10.3, have the smallest number of theater seats per unit of population.

Saved By Chance

Fukushima, Japan, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Indicted on a charge of selling blackmarket cigarettes, Mrs. Yoshie Mishima, 58, was worried over raising money for a possible fine.

Later in the day she won 2,000,000 yen ($7,407) as first prize in a nationwide lottery.

"Now," she said, "I can settle that affair by paying a 20,000 or 30,000 yen fine."

Suggest Changes In Election Laws

Raleigh, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The State Board of Elections yesterday recommended seven changes in the state's election laws.

In declaring that the recommendations were "principally aimed towards efficiency and clarification," the board stated it could see "no justification in recommending any sweeping changes in the elections laws."

The board said "There have been no complaints no protests filed with it" as to the conduct of the general election held on Nov. 2, 1947.

"This is the first time this has occurred to the knowledge of the executive secretary of the board" in the last 22 years, "or while he has been in office."

As the result of the situation last summer when the State Supreme Court overruled the election board and ordered the States Rights Democratic party recognized as a party, the board recommended changes in the laws on formation of new parties.

It asked for legislation providing for verification of the signature of persons petitioning for a new party; certification that the petitioner is a registered voter; and a longer period between filing of petition and the date of election.

ECONOMIC CONDITIONS NECESSITATE INCREASE IN TELEPHONE RATES

In order that the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company may continue to provide good telephone service to its customers it has filed an application with the North Carolina Utilities Commission for a revision in telephone rates.

The new rates requested are the minimum rates needed to meet the present costs of material, equipment and labor and no consideration has been given to a probable further increase in such costs.

An adjustment of rates was obtained effective August 1, 1947. This was the first general upward change in rates since shortly after World War No. 1. The rates put into effect in 1947 were only sufficient to take care of the immediate needs at that time.

New Telephone Rates Required For Satisfactory Service

In order for the Telephone Company to improve and enlarge its services it is necessary from time to time to obtain additional capital. Every additional telephone, every new switchboard, all additional facilities are paid for by those who put their earnings in the telephone business.

During the past year the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company has added approximately $4,400,000 to its plant investment. This represents an increase of about 30 per cent since the beginning of the year. The Telephone Company has added approximately 11,000 telephones during the past year 1948, which is the greatest gain in telephones that the Company has obtained in a single year.

It is anticipated that the requirements this year and for several years to come will make it necessary for the Company to continue its program of providing additional facilities.

In order for the Company to continue its program of expansion it will be necessary that its earnings be sufficient to attract new capital to the business. If the present heavy demands for new telephones were not a vital factor additional new capital would still be required in order to maintain and improve the service to the existing customers. The earnings of the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company at present are not sufficient to attract the additional capital needed. The new rates which have been requested of the North Carolina Utilities Commission are necessary to obtain the additional investment for the improvement in service and the increases in facilities which are contemplated.

Telephone Service At Moderate Rates

For service received there is no greater buy than telephone service and with the new rates requested by the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company this statement still holds good. It is still the policy of the Telephone Company to render the very best service at the lowest possible cost.

If the Telephone Company is to continue to give good service and if it is to continue to extend and expand its facilities it will be necessary for them to obtain new rates. If insufficient return on investments is continued the results can only be impaired service and further restrictions in the provision of telephone service. The customers that are now being served by this Telephone Company and those who are in need of service will want the good service which this Company desires to render.

Arthur Tripp Is New President Kiwanis Club

By CHESTER WALSH
W. Arthur Tripp was inducted as the 32nd president of the Greenville Kiwanis Club at last night's supper meeting, with Lieut. Governor Ed E. Rawl, an official of Kiwanis International, officiating in his usual courtly manner. Tige Gardner is the new vice-president, and new directors are Ed Willford, V. A. Merritt, J. Bryan Brown and J. Archie Rogers. Hold-over directors are W. E. Woolard, Dr. Melvin P. Hoot, Wyatt Highsmith and Hunter B. Keck. Nathan C. Brooks, retiring president, whose administration was very successful, automatically becomes a director. The wives of the officers and directors were special guests, and added color to the fellowship meeting.

Governor Rawl, always eloquent always optimistic, paid tribute to the retiring officials and committee chairmen, with special praise to David C. Moore, Jr., the club's valuable secretary-treasurer for life, and said the club's success is due to the harmonious and cooperative work of the members. He praised retiring President Brooks for his good work and presented him with a gold past-president's emblem. Moore has been secretary-treasurer 18 years, except in 1939, when he was president.

El Bloom was especially cordial in welcoming the officers and directors' wives and said he personally invited them; that each of them asked him "what to wear" and that he "recommended new dresses." "The scheme didn't work," he said, "because not a one of them showed up at my store."

In inducting President Tripp and Vice-President Tige Gardner, Ed Rawl reviewed Tripp's good work in helping to organize clubs in other towns and Gardner's great contribution to the success of the Kiwanis minstrel for underprivileged children. In presenting the gavel of authority to the new president, Rawl reminded him and the vice-president of their great responsibility of leadership in the Kiwanis Club.

It is an old Kiwanis custom for an officer or director to entertain the club officials at supper at his home or elsewhere at the monthly business meetings. Director V. A. Merritt will be host to the group at Nelson Hopkins Tavern on the Tar, in the principality of Bruce, next Tuesday night at 7 o'clock.

E. Hoover Taft, a special guest made an impressive short talk in which he stated that the Old North State Insurance Company of Greenville will inaugurate a stock-selling campaign next Monday and predicted success of the enterprise under the presidency of Robert Van Idersdale, formerly of New York and a nationally known insurance executive.

Milo Smith, chairman of the Program Committee, will have charge of the program at next Friday's meeting.

Smart Fox Was Caught In End

Blue Anchor, Eng., Jan. 8.—Once upon a time, said Geoffrey Bosley there was a smart fox.
Bosley's terrier, rabbit hunting found the fox in undergrowth and got a grip on its tail.
The quick brown fox swung its tail over a cliff—Bosley said he saw it happen—and the dog fell to death on rocks beneath.
But the fox did not live happily ever after. It was caught in a hunt a few hours later.

Surrender

Tokyo, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Nearly four years after American troops took the island, two Japanese machine gunners surrendered Thursday on Iwo Jima, the army announced today.
They were clean and well-fed, each had a recent haircut. They were wearing warm American uniforms, including fatigue sweaters and GI shoes.
They lived on food stolen from the Americans and canned what they didn't eat up.

Plan Installation Lodge Officers

Dr. Maxwell E. Hoffman, Grand Master of Masons of North Carolina, will preside over the ceremonies installing the newly elected, and appointed, officers of Greenville Lodge No. 284, A.F.&A.M., Wednesday night. The installation will be made in the Masonic Temple at 8:00 p.m., January 12, 1949 and will be open to the public. Mr. Wilbur L. McIver, Grand Secretary, will accompany Dr. Hoffman.
The following officers will be installed: Hugh J. Sawyer, Master; Rufus H. Harrell, Senior Warden; Walter G. Garner, Junior Warden; Archibald R. House, Secretary; W. Herman Hardee, Treasurer; Harold E. Alder, Senior Deacon; Walter E. Boswell, Junior Deacon; Raymond L. Smith, Sr. and George W. Smith, Stewards; Carey A. Joyner, Tiler.

The officers and officers-elect will honor Dr. Hoffman at a "dutch supper" to be held at Respass' at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday night, and all Masons are invited to attend. Those planning to attend the supper should notify Mr. W. Herman Hardee or Mr. Rufus H. Harrell in order that necessary arrangements may be made for their accommodation.

Bethel School News

On January 7 the Bethel seventh grade listened to Governor Scott's address. Janelle Whitley brought her radio to school and we enjoyed the privilege of hearing our new governor. We never realized before just how many things a statesman has to know and study about. I won't repeat all the 15 points of his "go forward program" but just a few things that are in line with our interest and studies. Transportation is part of the success of any country, so we have learned and our health is our greatest wealth, so we have learned. (And we too know we need more rural doctors). You know it pleased us to hear him say that the nation's greatest crop was its children. We do hope that roads, education and health will get first attention.

We've studied about federal aid and we like the improvement government commodities have made in our lunch room. We know how it helps farmers in our area.
It was interesting to hear him say that public utilities should be cheaper. We too think that the natural resources in the land of North Carolina should be improved. Its forest and fishing, mining and ports make us great. He said prisoners should be trained too. Maybe they could be trained to teach others to preserve our natural resources.
And taxes, everyone talks about taxes, but it would be nice to be able to go out to eat or buy food at home without a tax on it.
We liked Mr. Scott's speech and since he invited us up maybe we can go to see him.

New Model Autos Stress Post-War Styling Trend

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Detroit, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The public will see a lot of new model automobiles in the next few weeks—all emphasizing a new styling trend that began soon after the war.
Shown to dealers and industry writers this week were the new 1949 Chevrolet and Studebaker models. Next week Chrysler will announce details of the new Chrysler, De Soto, Dodge and Plymouth units to be publicly introduced some time in February.
That will leave only Packard and Hudson to disclose what if any design changes are to be made this year.
Packard observes its golden anniversary this year and it seems a fair assumption it will not let the occasion pass without bringing out new models to commemorate its 50 years in the automobile business.
Packard, which built a single buggy in 1899, expects to assemble close to 130,000 vehicles this year. That will compare with 98,998 units last year. Some guesses are that new Packards will appear around mid-1949.
Hudson is well satisfied with its current models and may make no design changes.
Similarly satisfied with the reaction obtained from its low, wide, streamlined exteriors is Studebaker. It is retaining this styling in its 1949 models instead of overhauling the exterior design. Studebaker is emphasizing it and re-styling its interiors.
Engineering changes in the 1949 Studebakers include increased horsepower in the Commander and Champion models. Power output of both engines has been stepped up substantially. The stroke in the Commander engine has been increased; the Champion has a new carburetor and slight changes in the valve lift and the intake manifold.
Heavy wrap-around bumpers and re-designed radiator grilles enhance the exterior eye-appeal of the new Studebakers. The interior advances include use of new fabrics and trim materials. In some models seat backs and harmonizing patterns, with two-tone contrasts between upholstery and side-walls and head-lining.
Studebaker has begun a series of previews for dealers in various sections of the country before the public showings to be held in the next few weeks.
Studebaker, whose history as a vehicle builder goes far back into the last century, set a new production record in 1948. Car and truck production totaled approximately 234,000 units against the previous year's record mark of 191,451.
That gave Studebaker unquestioned leadership among the industry's so-called "independents."

The company has manufacturing facilities to boost its output even higher this year. Whether it will do so will depend upon the same factors that will determine the output of other old line car and truck builders.
Most car makers look for a substantial production increase this year. With or without the return of full scale competitive merchandising in motor vehicles, they expect to boost production by at least 10 per cent over last year.
That would mean a 1949 volume of close to 5,798,000 vehicles.

Lee Humphrey, 51, died at his home near Grifton Friday at 4 p.m. following a stroke of paralysis. Funeral services were held in the Humphrey family cemetery near Richlands, at 2 p.m. Saturday. Rev. Crow, Methodist minister of Richlands, officiated.

Sees Victory In Cleveland Vote
Shelby, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A heavy vote was expected today in an election to decide whether legal beer and win sales should be ended in Cleveland County.
Both wets and dry waged vigorous campaigns prior to the election.
The Rev. W. P. Biggerstaff, director of the dry campaign, predicted an overwhelming victory for his forces.

ITCHY FINGER
Milan, Italy, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Three revolver shots in the darkness ripped into an advertising balloon tied to a Milan office building. The balloon collapsed and fell. Advertising company officials, in a report to police, blamed a competitor with an itchy trigger finger.

Last Traces Of Decorations Go
Fountain—Christmas is definitely over. The vanishing of the last traces of the street decoration is proof enough of that. And as the light poles assume their usual hues and the long cords of decorations are taken down and the multi-colored lights go back into storage until another year, it seems fitting to say that the general feeling as observed here in Fountain, North Carolina, decorations were the best this year they have ever been.
At some times in the past, it looked as if it would have been better not to have attempted to decorate. This year, however, everything looked much better and the public and the visitors saw it and were favorably impressed.
One of the outstanding new attractions this year was the decorated Christmas tree on main street.

Reduced Income And Added Costs In Assembly Bills

By LYNN NISBET
Raleigh, N. C. Jan. 8.—The 1949 general assembly is running true to form. The first three active legislative days had bills introduced to increase state spending by many millions of dollars and to reduce state revenue by fewer but still several millions.
On the first day of the session Representative John Umstead offered bills providing for minimum school teacher salaries of $2400 a year and for a flat $50,000,000 to aid counties in building school houses during the next four years. These bills are designed to effectuate in part recommendations of the education study commission and are regarded as consistent with, if not specifically part of, the Scott program of progress.
Two days later, on Friday, bills were introduced in the house by Representatives Walter Crissman of Guilford and Ronald Hout of Johnston designed to relieve restaurant meals and fuel oil for tobacco curing from the three percent sales tax.
Exact amounts of increased spending and reduced revenue cannot be computed, because both depend upon future developments. Unofficial estimates are that the increased spending for the next four years, if these bills are enacted into law, will approximate fifteen million dollars a year, while revenue on current schedules will be reduced between two and three millions, an overall debt balance of fifteen to eighteen millions.
There is small chance that these bills will be enacted into law as they were presented. The fact that the first three days of the 1949 general assembly produced bills of this type gives some indication of the problems facing the session. If these or similar bills, or composite substitutes for all of them, become law there will be absolute necessity for curtailing state services in other fields or finding additional sources of state revenue.

Ruritan Club Of Falkland Meets

Falkland, N. C.—The Falkland Ruritan Club held its regular monthly meeting last night. There were twenty-one members present. Jack Hogarth, a Boy Scout official from Kinston was present also, and plans for organizing a Boy Scout troop in Falkland were discussed at length.
A delicious chicken dinner was served by the Ladies Auxiliary.
A resolution was passed to level the school grounds in the near future.
One new member was admitted, Mr. Willard M. Wooten.
After all business had been attended to, there was a question and answer stunt engineered by W. W. Wooten, which was enjoyed by everyone but the contestants, Billy Bryson, J. Z. Garris, Marvin Deans and Fee Wee Garris, who had their neckties shown off when they failed to answer the questions to the satisfaction of Mr. Wooten.
The next meeting is set for Feb. 4, when a barbecue dinner will be served.

New Timekeeper In Atomic Clock

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—A new "atomic clock" — said to promise more accurate time-keeping than the world has ever known—has been unveiled by government scientists.
National Bureau of Standards researchers said the new development, first disclosed late last month, may also prove of great importance to radio communications by providing better control of the "width" of broadcast frequencies, thus permitting more radio and television stations to be set up.
The clock was demonstrated yesterday. Its operation is indirectly controlled by the constant, natural vibration of atoms in a molecule of matter.
The scientists say their clock loses or gains only a little more than a second a year, which approaches the accuracy of clocks set by reference to the Earth's rotation.
But the bureau men say that eventually their clock may vary only a second in every 300 years.

Greenville Station To Boost Stadium Tonight and Monday

By CHESTER WALSH
The Greenville radio station, WGTC, will be on the Dixie FM network at 8 o'clock tonight to broadcast the Temple University-Duke University basketball game in Durham. Manager Billy Hodges announced that instead of selling "spot" advertisements on the broadcast, WGTC will donate the sponsorship to the proposed ECTO football stadium fund. The station will give about 30 announcements during the game, boosting the fund for providing a football stadium and a more extensive athletic program.
Ed E. Rawl, vice president of the Carolina Sales Corporation and chairman of the football stadium fund committee, said today the WGTC management is making another fine gesture of its public-spiritedness.
WGTC also will broadcast the Carolina-George Washington basketball game Monday night at 8 o'clock and donate the sponsorship to assisting in arousing interest in the football stadium and athletics at ECTO.

Ident, they should gladly grant these needed rate increases.
Utilities As Inflation Hedges
Utilities of operating companies can be recommended for safety and for income, but they should not be selected as hedges against inflation. If considering only the cost of replacement, stocks of utility operating companies should be worth double what they were ten years ago provided they cannot be caught by the "Depreciation Formula." The fact however, that utilities are not free to raise their rates without special permission, is a distinct handicap. Hence, for inflation hedges it is better to buy steel, oil or merchandising stocks. A live merchant can always keep one jump ahead of inflation.
It is wise to confine one's purchase of electric company stocks to the territory in which you live. You, yourself, should know the attitude of your public authorities on this rate-making problem; it is reflected by your local newspapers. If you believe that your public service commission is fair then buy the stock of the company supplying your home with electricity; but not otherwise.
Importance Of Diversification
Of course, you should not put all of your eggs in any one basket, however good that basket may be. This means that one should not have more than 20 percent of his funds in public utilities, and not more than 5 percent in any one company. An investor should have his funds divided amongst different industries, different companies and different sections. As a final thought, I urge you to avoid utilities in big cities that might be bombed in case of World War III.

had much to do with developing it. First, foreign reaction to Acheson's appointment came from London. High government officials privately expressed enthusiasm, although they were sorry to see Marshall retiring after "his fine and outstanding work for the good of humanity." Western Europe generally welcomed the appointment.
One would expect that to represent the consensus among anti-communist nations. In this connection it is interesting to note that Acheson is perhaps the American best known personally in the chancelleries of some 44 countries. He acquired this status through his leadership of the American delegation to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration conferences of 1943 and 1944.

Cotton Controls Outlook Studied

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Cotton crop controls for 1950 were up for consideration today at the first of a series of meetings by an unofficial House subcommittee.
Two Agriculture Department officials were called as the first witnesses. They are C. D. Walker, chairman of the cotton section, and E. D. White, representing the Agriculture Department and the Economic Cooperation Administration.
Rep. Face (D-Ga.) is chairman of the subcommittee. He said among the questions to be decided will be whether acreage planted in cotton this year will be included in figuring next year's allotment if acreage limitations are imposed.
He said it was necessary to know quickly the prospects of acreage control for next year before the 1949 crop is planted. The entire cotton marketing quota laws must be rewritten, he said.
Face told a reporter there is an overall supply of around 19,000,000 bales of cotton and prospective domestic consumption and exports of around 12,000,000 and 13,000,000.

tory we were more or less isolated from the rest of the world.
When we fell on our faces, we had time to pick ourselves up off the floor leisurely and get started upward again.
There was no danger to us if other countries collapsed at the same time or even collapsed because we collapsed.
It was pretty much all right for us, we were safe, every time it happened—up till now. But now it's different.
If we skid down into a depression, our friends in the world, western Europe and Latin America, will almost surely go plunging down into poverty and maybe revolution.

And—a collapse for us is just what the Russians are banking on. It's the kind of thing on which they've built their thinking and their ambitions.
For now, if we collapse, it will be unlike any other time in our history. This time Communism will try to run-over the world, including us.
We could almost afford depression before, when we felt safe in the world. We can't now. The next one might be fatal for us.
