Early Polio Fund Report Has Over $2900 Turned In

College Participation Hits New High; Fountain Schools Set Mark

A preliminary report this morning shows that up to the present time $2,942.19 has been turned in to Mr. Jonathan Overton, treasurer of the Pitt County Chapter of the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation. To date the record reads like this:

West Greenville school $237.52; Third Street school $200.00; Arthur school $72.00; Fountain Schools $508.15; Birthday Ball at the college $299.57; Cash from citizens of the town $531.87; Parking meters $142.47; Cosmetologists Club (colored) $3.00; Proceeds from boxing match $110.36; Students dance at college $38.73; Walsler lecture at the college sponsored by Greenville Book Clubs $126.76; Tag Day on streets of Greenville $104.42; Collection in girls' dormitories at college $189.87 and collection in boys dormitories at college $26.07.

J. H. Rose, Chairman of the local chapter, today had a word of praise especially for the college community. Under the leadership of Dr. Jenkins the chairman of the drive for this year, the college students' part in the Tag Day collection on the streets of Greenville along with the other activities at the college have, up to the present time, turned in a total of $1,000. This is about five times as much as has ever been done by the college community before. In fact, this is some sort of a record, said Mr. Rose, on the part of the college activities for a cause like this.

The reports are just beginning to come in to Mr. Overton and from day to day additional reports will be published in this paper.

The Fountain schools with an enrollment of only 240 pupils has by far the best record so far in the county, Rose said.

Donaldson Named For New Term

Washington, Jan. 31—(AP)—President Truman today nominated Jesse M. Donaldson for a new term as Postmaster General.

The nomination of Donaldson, the only member of the President's cabinet who serves a fixed term, had been expected.

Donaldson's name was sent to the Senate along with that of Maj. Gen. Lewis Andrew Pick for appointment as chief of engineers of the United States Army.

Rich Valley Hit By Cold Wave

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 31—(AP)—The lush Rio Grande valley reported one of the most disastrous hard freezes on record today as a cold wave brought all-time low temperatures to Texas. Below zero deadlines were recorded as far south as San Antonio.

The valley tomato and potato crop was a total loss. Ripening fruit was heavily damaged and citrus men said trees themselves, especially young ones, may be harmed.

Warning was passed out from the City Hall today that midnight tonight is the deadline for replacing the old 1948 Greenville city license plates on motor vehicles owned and operated here. Police have orders to arrest drivers who do not have the 1949 city license plates tomorrow—February 1.

Russia In Wonderland

Some Examples Of Russian Thinking, And Their Counterparts If Imposed On The People Of America; How The "Party Line" Is Kept In A Nation, Worn Out

Stalin Expresses Willingness To Talk Peace With Truman

Moscow, Jan. 31—(AP)—Prime Minister Stalin yesterday expressed willingness to discuss an American-Russian "peace pact" with President Truman at a mutually acceptable place.

The Russian leader also said the Soviet government would be willing to discuss a joint declaration of peaceful intentions and gradual disarmament.

(Stalin has said previously that he would be willing to meet with Mr. Truman. The President, in turn, has offered to meet with Stalin any time the Soviet leaders will come to Washington. Officials in Washington pointed out, however, that there has been no official approach for such a meeting.)

In answer to a series of four questions, Stalin also said Russia

"sees no obstacles" to lifting the Berlin blockade if the Western powers meet two conditions.

One would be postponement of the establishment of a Western German state pending a meeting of the Big Four Council of Foreign Ministers on the entire German issue. The other would be lifting of the allied counter-blockade.

(The offer to lift the Berlin blockade if the allies first meet in the Foreign Ministers Council also has been made previously. The question of timing has upset settlement attempts on this basis. A proposal advanced in last fall's U.N.'s Security Council meeting in Paris calling for lifting of the blockade and a meeting of the foreign ministers 10 days later was vetoed by the Soviet's Andrei Y. Vishinsky.)

Stalin's statements answered questions submitted by Kingsbury Smith, general European director of International News Service.

The statements followed by two days a Soviet 34-page white paper asserting the projected North Atlantic pact is intended to set up American-British world domination by force.

The proposed pact would link the defenses of the United States, Canada, Britain, France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. Other western countries might be added later.

In another move linked with the Soviet attack on the Atlantic pact, the Soviet asked Norway Saturday whether it proposed to join the alliance and whether it planned to grant military bases on Norwegian soil to the Western powers.

Peiping Silent As Red Troops Enter Old City

Spectators Show No Hostility; U. S. Equipment Displayed By Grim Conquerors; Defiance By Four Provinces

By SPENCER MOOSA

Peiping, Jan. 31—(AP)—The Red conquerors entered Peiping today. An estimated 15,000 to 20,000 of them, headed by two bands, marched in through the city's northwestern gate on the road leading into Peiping from the summer palace.

Crowds watched the march of the Communists whose equipment included bazookas and other American weapons captured from the defeated Nationalists.

The spectators showed no signs of hostility nor did they give vent to joy. The only emotion they displayed outwardly was curiosity. The Reds, themselves, were solemn, almost grim.

They did not look like parade-ground troops. They were sweaty and tired and from their faces you could not tell they were conscious of enacting a fateful drama in the history of this ancient city whose many victors have included Genghis Khan, the great mongol warrior.

Under the local peace agreement of Jan. 22, the Communists are scheduled to take over the city tomorrow.

The plan calls for the city to be operated by a joint committee, composed of four Communists and three Nationalists.

Nationalist troops have been marched out of the city, except for a few left behind to aid local police in keeping order.

But from Canton in the far south, new seat of the Nationalist government, there came a defiant challenge to the Reds.

Gen. Hsueh Yuen, new Governor of Kwangtung province, said he would lead China's four southern provinces in a last ditch stand against the Communists.

Death Stopped Mystery Noise

King's Lynn, England, Jan. 31—(AP)—The mysterious knocking under the forecastle of the Barosund went on for eight days out of Danzig—and then stopped.

Airliner Escapes In Mid-Air Crash

New York, Jan. 31—(AP)—A giant airliner, gashed open by a small private plane in a collision 4,000 feet in the air, made a safe emergency landing yesterday with its load of 33 persons uninjured.

The two men in the private plane were killed, and parts of one body and pieces of their shattered craft showered down on Long Island.

The engine and front part of the private plane, the body of one of its occupants and part of the body of the other were imbedded in a jagged hole in the top of the four-engine Pan American World Airways Constellation.

The collision occurred a few minutes after the airliner, "Monarch of the Skies," had left La Guardia Field for London at 4:17 p.m. (EST) carrying 23 passengers and ten crew members.

Most of the passengers left for London on other planes early today.

The dead are Arthur Dutton, 57, pilot, of Portland, Conn., and his passenger, Eugene Kowalsky, 35, of Middletown, Conn.

Those aboard the airliner escaped by a stroke of luck when a hole 15 feet long and five feet wide was gouged out of the top of the fuselage. The front of the small Cessna 14C plane was imbedded just to the rear of the Constellation's flight deck in a space devoted to the galley and to some made-up berths. There were no passengers or crew at the spot when the planes collided.

Atlanta's Power System Fails In Midst Of Cold

Atlanta, Jan. 31—(By telephone to New York)—Atlanta had an almost complete power failure today, the aftermath of several hours of freezing rain. It lasted nearly three hours.

Three 110,000 volt underground transmission lines serving the main section of the city failed shortly before 9 a. m. and the lights went out for half a million people.

Current went off in homes and office buildings alike, elevators were stalled between floors. Heating plants controlled by thermostats and with electric blowers went cold. Trolleys stopped in the middle of streets, adding to already big traffic jams.

Southern Solons Bring Up Fresh Oratorical Guns

Washington, Jan. 31—(AP)—Southern senators brought up fresh reserves today in their fight to save the filibuster.

Latest A-Bombs Are More Deadly

AEC Discloses More Powerful Weapons Are Developed

Washington, Jan. 31—(AP)—The United States has new atomic bombs which have much more explosive energy than the old ones.

The Atomic Energy Commission, which has hinted previously that it had developed more powerful weapons than those dropped on Japan or at Bikini, announced it is right today in its fifth semi-annual report to Congress.

And it said "further developments are now in progress."

It related for the first time that the three weapons tested at Eniwetok Atoll last spring demonstrated "a substantial gain in explosive energy release" over previous models.

Chairman David Lilienthal made it clear at a news conference that "as used in this report" the term "atomic weapons means bomb."

But he declined comment when asked whether the United States is seeking to obtain atomic weapons other than bombs.

The commission told Congress it took steps during 1948 to protect its major plants against sabotage and to provide "for the emergency defense of vital facilities against attack."

But it said "production and improvement of atomic weapons" has continued to receive its major attention. And in that department it reported "improvement advances" in making atomic materials and weapons, as well as developing new designs.

Chamber Commerce To Hold Important Meeting Tonight

The Chamber of Commerce board of directors will hold an important meeting tonight at 8 o'clock. President Charles B. Bissette requests that both directors and incoming directors attend. This will be the last meeting of the present fiscal year, and the first meeting of the new year for members who are beginning their three-year terms.

Secretary Willard T. Kyzer said. At this meeting it is hoped to make definite plans for the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce; to take steps to carry out the will of the membership to incorporate the organization; to take action on basing pricing practices, and the election of a president, two vice-presidents, a treasurer and manager of the organization for the new year.

Tobin Talks To Congress In New Labor Bill Fight

Urges Taft-Hartley Act Be Replaced; Says Collective Bargaining Hurt

Washington, Jan. 31—(AP)—Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin went to Congress today and urged that the Taft-Hartley act be replaced by a law "encouraging free collective bargaining."

He told the Senate Labor Committee in a prepared statement that the Administration's labor bill would encourage it.

When labor and management are "assured once again" that this is our National labor policy, Tobin said, "they will, I feel sure, comply with the procedures provided in the bill."

The Administration's measure—unvoted Saturday—would wipe out most of the Taft-Hartley law and substitute something closer to the Wagner act of 1935.

One Taft-Hartley feature that would be killed would be the government's power to get 80-day court orders to delay "National emergency" strikes.

To replace that power, the bill provides for emergency boards to recommend settlements of disputes in vital industries. Both sides would be asked to observe a voluntary "cooling off" period of not more than 30 days during which there would be no strike or lock out.

Tobin said the Taft-Hartley law of 1947 "deals with collective bargaining as if it is inimical to the public interest instead of the foundation of our National labor policy."

He also said this law has "brought confusion" into the field of labor relations and has "unnecessarily limited the rights of workers to strike."

Carolina Hit By Winter's Return

Plane Flights And Road Traffic Slowed; More Coming

By the Associated Press

Sleet, snow and ice stopped commercial plane flights and slowed down road traffic in the Carolinas today.

With more sleet and freezing rain predicted for the interior today and tonight, Eastern Air Lines reported that all flights between Atlanta, Ga., and New York had been cancelled temporarily. The airline hoped to resume normal operations by mid-afternoon.

Highway conditions were worst in western North Carolina where the snow and ice reached a depth of four inches in some places. The State Highway Patrol warned motorists to proceed warily.

Most inter-city buses were still running, although slowed down in many cases.

Atlantic Pact Nations Will Invite Norway Join Alliance

Food Fuel Short In Storm-Bound Areas

Haylift Requirements Overwhelm Relief Officials As Isolated Humans Face Death; Roads Blocked; More Snow Promised

By the Associated Press

The week-old "operation haylift" bringing fodder to snowbound livestock took second place Monday to a new major problem—getting food and fuel to isolated human beings.

Harassed relief officials who marshalled planes to move fodder to livestock before snow-blocked roads could be opened, had reports from areas west of Omaha, Neb., that food and fuel were short. The Army in Washington said everything is being done to get food and fuel to the isolated areas.

The Fifth Army in Chicago reported some areas have been without rail communication since the start of the storm.

"We just don't have enough planes or time" to feed starving cattle by air, the Chicago Army office said, referring to 100,000 snow-locked steers in Nebraska.

"To supply those cattle with one day's feed would require 500 flights. We just don't have enough planes or time to do the job by air. We've got to get the roads open."

Another threat to the snow covered western regions was the forecast by Chicago weather men of continued unseasonal cold and additional snow in some western regions.

As the "haylift" entered its second week the cattle feeding task remained formidable. Army sources termed the ground movement of fodder to cattle the biggest bulldozer operation since the building of the famed Ledo Road in China.

With a blank check for relief funds, and war-experienced Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, in command, the Army threw into the fight planes, helicopters, bulldozers, tractors, weasels, jeeps and even primitive sleds.

Move To Invite Half-Dozen More Nations To Join, Including Soviet-Pressured Norway, Would Answer Russian Week-end Maneuvers

Washington, Jan. 31—(AP)—The seven-nation group negotiating the North Atlantic Security pact here expects soon to invite half a dozen more nations, including a Soviet-pressured Norway, to become full partners in the pact.

This move probably will be the west's most dramatic answer to Russia's one-two punch against the North Atlantic Alliance over the weekend.

Officials here interpreted the Soviet Foreign blast at the alliance Friday night and Generalissimo Stalin's statements yesterday as part of the same pattern of attack on the growing unity of the non-communist western world and particularly the North Atlantic treaty.

Stalin came into the picture this time by saying he would have "no objection" to a meeting with President Truman at a "suitable place." He also talked in surface terms of good will toward peace. There was no quick official reaction here, from the White House or State Department.

Norway figures as the key country in current talks on western alliance, largely because she alone, of all the nations in the projected security league, has a common border with the Soviet Union.

The Russians recognized Norway's importance Saturday night by stating their criticisms of the North Atlantic treaty formally and directly to the foreign office at Oslo. They apparently made no specific threat or demand but left no doubt in the minds of observers here that they were doing their utmost diplomatically to put little Norway on the spot.

The Norwegians themselves apparently rejected the implied Russian warning and persisted in their intention, even against the advice of their neighbors, Sweden, to line up firmly with the western league. This strongly indicated last night when an announcement came from Oslo that efforts of the Norwegians, Swedes and Danes to agree upon a common Scandinavian alliance, Norway had wanted a tie-up with the United States and other western powers through the Atlantic League, and Denmark had tried to develop a middle way.

Collapse of the talks finally opened the way for the seven nations negotiating the pact here in Washington to get on with their next major move. This still has to be formally agreed upon, but persons familiar with the action to date said there was no question now that it would be taken within 10 days to two weeks.

The negotiators had not wanted to invite into the project any country not actively interested in joining it, as long as Scandinavian policy was undecided the course of Norway and Denmark could not be so clear. Now that Norway's position presumably is clarified, invitations can go out as quickly as they can be agreed upon.

New York, Jan. 31—(AP)—Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, commander of the U. S. First Army, retires from active duty today. He is 62 and served 43 years in the army.

Hodges, a native of Perry, Ga., plans to live at San Antonio, Tex. He began his army career as a private. In World War I, he was a regimental commander. In World War II, he led the First Army in its sweep across France and Germany. He won decorations in both wars.

Army regulations concerning general officers require him to retire this month because of age.

Bevin's Hold Slipping

Socialist Government In Britain Weathered Battle-Royal In Parliament Over Middle-East Policy, But Change Appears For Near Future; The Opposition

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

Britain's socialist government has weathered the battle-royal in Parliament over its Palestine policy as handled by Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, but has taken a trouncing in the winning.

The so-called "Bevin poplery" was approved by a vote of 283 to 193 in the House of Commons after bitter debate. The margin of 90 votes was the smallest the government had received on a major issue since it came to power in 1945. Moreover, it involved the defection of a big bloc of the Labor (Socialist) Party.

The vote was taken after Attlee had made the question one of "confidence in the government." This meant that if the government was defeated, it would resign. It was a critical moment and the result caused jubilation in the opposition ranks.

And what is the significance of this? Well, one thing is clear: Bevin's middle east policy is so unpopular at home that many of his own party can't swallow it. Unwittingly, or otherwise, he has given full the impression that he is pro-Arab and anti-Jewish. Churchill accused him of "astounding misdirection" of the whole middle eastern problem.

Mr. Bevin isn't a diplomat of the old school. He belongs to the shirt-sleeve brand of diplomacy. Events indicate that this wasn't the type of diplomacy to employ in handling a situation which was terribly complicated by the war between the Arabs and the Jews.

The foreign secretary seems to have taken the adamant stand that England must maintain friendly relations with the Arabian peoples. This was because there are involved highly strategic areas and vast supplies of petroleum—important not only to Britain but to the United States.

So Mr. Bevin has stuck to what many of his opposition characterize as a pro-Arab policy. At the same time some observers have gained the impression that he felt American Jews were interfering and throwing a monkey wrench into his efforts.

There is small doubt that the British government might be overthrown unless the Palestine policy is changed. That being so, one assumes there will be a shift.

However, even if there is a change it won't end the matter. The government must face a general election in 1950, having had five years in office.

Mr. Dowd Speaks To Pactolus P.T.A.

The Pactolus Parent Teacher Association met Tuesday night, January 18, at 7:30 in the Pactolus Baptist Church with Mrs. J. Paul Daventport, Jr., presiding.

The meeting was opened with the song, "Work for the Night Is Coming," which was followed by a devotional by Mrs. O. H. Forrest, whose topic was "The Joy of Work."

The minutes of the December meeting were given by Mrs. William E. Tripp, secretary, and the treasurer's report by Mrs. Noel Lee, Jr.

During the business session it was decided to hold a new study course in two sessions, holding two hours in the afternoon and two hours after supper, on the third Tuesday in March, which is the regular meeting date. Supper will be served in the Community building to those attending the meeting.

Mrs. William E. Tripp, chairman of the pre-school clinic, handed in to the president a summer round up certificate showing that the committee had completed the summer round up of the children according to national requirements.

It had been decided at a previous meeting to appoint a committee whose duty is to encourage better school attendance. The members of this committee are: Mr. H. E. Hill, chairman, Mrs. M. R. Haddock, Mr. Noel Lee, Jr., Mr. L. P. Woolard, Mr. George Briley and Mr. Clarence Harris.

Following the business meeting, Mr. O. H. Forrest, principal, introduced the speaker, Mr. O. E. Dowd, principal of Greenville High School, and president of North Carolina Principals' Association. Mr. Dowd gave a brief summary of the report of the State Education Commission, entitled "Education in North Carolina Today and Tomorrow." The facts of the report were emphasized by use of slides.

Mr. Forrest made an announcement to the effect that he had purchased sixty dictionaries to be distributed for use in the class rooms. He also announced that the Junior class planned to sponsor a barbeque supper at an early date to be served in the Community building. The profits are to be used to finance the Junior and Senior banquet.

4-H Leader Was Guest Of Council

Mr. Jesse James, Assistant State 4-H Leader, was the guest at the Pitt County Council of 4-H Clubs on Monday Jan. 28. Mr. James talked to the 4-H'ers about that wonderful trip that State 4-H Project Winners took to Chicago to the National 4-H Club Congress. He also showed a movie, "Looking to the Future."

Hazel Garris and Curtis Lee, Pitt's delegates to the National 4-H Club Congress, gave reports to the Council members of that meeting. These talks held the 4-H'ers spellbound—they were packed so full of fun and such unbelievable happenings; such as have Fred Waring play for them at one of the nightly dances. Hazel further encouraged each 4-H member to keep up the good work and do just a little more work so that they in turn could have the same such wonderful opportunity.

At the close of the business meeting all 4-H'ers joined in the Virginia

Charge Bethel Negro With Shotgun Assault

Dock Thomas, 46-year-old Negro laborer on the J. L. Gurganus farm, near Bethel, is in jail here and charged with assaulting with a deadly weapon with intent to kill his wife, Edith Thomas, at their home Saturday night.

Deputy Sheriff Jasper Mills and Bethel Policeman Walter Gray, who investigated the shooting, said it resulted from a family row in which another man was involved.

The officers quoted Thomas as saying he shot at the man and that the blast struck his wife, seriously wounding her thigh and breaking the bone. She was taken to a Tarboro hospital.

Strength FOR THE DAY

IS THIS PROGRESS?
The 48-hour week; the 40-hour week; now they are talking about the 30-hour week. In case we have an economic cold snap. Big dividends this year, bigger next year, continued prosperity—this is what the boys talk about who live up on the top floor of privilege.

Will not somebody speak up a simple word in behalf of duty and service? Will not someone think of the country first and himself second, or twenty-second if the need may demand? The insistence with which people demand their rights today has become a national affliction. Rich and poor, old and young, men and women—labor unions and manufacturers' associations; pensioners and college students; men who demand a new social order and women who want divorces. The man who talks about duty is a dead end. Wake up, cry his associates, you are living in a new age. This is progress.

But is it? Where do we go from here? Roger Babson, who accurately predicted the First World War, speaks and writes about the atomic war with full confidence that it will occur. Will the atomic war be progress?

The whole trend of world life today is increasingly alarming.

THE "NEROS" OF GREENVILLE

We wonder how much longer the local municipal government is going to procrastinate before giving certain sections of Greenville adequate fire protection.

In the past six months fires in the outlying sections of the city have caused great loss to property owners simply because adequate facilities for combating fires have not been installed. It has been more than a year since the section north of the river, the Hillsdale section and the 'Bama section were taken into the city and the property charged with city taxes. In all of these sections, however, there is a lack of adequate facilities for combating fires.

Fires in North Greenville last fall hastened the installation of several fire hydrants in that area, but fire alarm boxes across the river are yet to be had. In the Hillsdale and 'Bama sections there are no fire hydrants and there are no fire alarm boxes. As long as these conditions are allowed to remain, there are going to be fires like the one last night in the 'Bama where local firemen were forced to stand by and watch a house burn to the ground because they did not have sufficient water to fight the blaze.

The present administration in the Greenville city government has talked about furnishing adequate fire protection to the sections of the city, but it seems to us that such talk has resulted in little in the way of needed protection.

The city government is obligated to afford fire protection to its people; and excuses and delays in affording this protection have long since worn thin the patience of the fair-minded citizens of Greenville.

TEACHER PAY—Confuse the forces of education and then defeat them is the suspected tactic of opponents. Numerous versions of what is being sought by way of salary increases to the teachers are extant. While reading a news story interpreting this phase of the program, one may hear a news-caster presenting an entirely different version. It may be well to state clearly what our school personnel is asking for. The resolution introduced in the state senate by Senator John Umstead and others contains clearly and exactly what the educational forces in the state stand for. The resolution quite simply states: "Providing for the appropriation of sufficient funds to effectuate the salaries for teachers recommended by the State Education Commission and the State Board of Education." The resolution requests the joint appropriations committee to include in the nine months school fund appropriation sufficient funds to provide a teacher's minimum salary schedule of $2400 per year based on ten months service with increment of $100 for twelve years and $300 per year additional for teachers holding graduate certificates. This in clear terms is the program of the United Forces for Education as it relates to teacher salaries.

It is not reasonable to assume that we shall continue to be able to attract to the teaching profession and retain the better trained young men and women in a school system which has the heaviest teacher load in the nation and ranks 38th among the 48 states in average salaries. This condition coupled with conditions more fully discussed in preceding articles may account for the exodus of teachers with standard certificates from the schools of North Carolina. There has been in the last few years a notable decrease in teachers with standard certificates and a corresponding increase in the number of non-standard certificates. In 1941-42 there were 15,144 teachers in our schools with A certificates. In 1947-48 the number had decreased to 13,002, a loss of 2,142.

The average salary for teachers in North Carolina is $2,015. Under our present schedule a beginning teacher with a college degree and the required professional training receives as maximum salary the sum of $1,820. What is the future for those who enter the teaching profession? The same teacher may look forward at the conclusion of 11 years service to a salary of $2,100, which is the maximum she can receive unless she goes to a graduate school and earns a graduate certificate. In that event she may have a goal of $2,312. The Umstead resolution makes provision for the salary schedule recommended by the State Board of Education and supported by the United Forces for Education, and it may be added that it possibly has the blessing of the parents of the more than 100,000 school children who are being taught in North Carolina schools today by teachers who do not meet the standard requirements.

STATE AID TO SCHOOL BUILDINGS—The condition of the school buildings in North Carolina has been briefly referred to previously. Thousands of school children are attending classes in basement rooms, in auditoriums, in gymnasiums, in balconies and in rented buildings. In general, the buildings are overcrowded and in an alarming sanitary. The urgency of the situation was recognized and forcefully stated in the budget for the biennium 1949-51. On page 43 of the budget report and in paragraph 2 it is stated: "The State Board of Education has requested a permanent improvement fund appropriation of $50,000,000 for state aid for school buildings. The State Education Commission finds that 'state aid for school buildings is absolutely necessary for most of the counties of the state,' and also finds that an emergency grant from the state surplus 'would not solve the school building problem because only half of the urgent need for school buildings could be provided for even if all of the state surplus were appropriated for this purpose.'"

They are going.
"Clickety Clack—Clickety Clack—Clickety Clack—"
"Clickety Clack—Clickety Clack—Clickety Clack—"
Through the dead silences of the night come the messages. A boy from Germany says he's arriving home with a fraulein wife—a father in California says in a tender and motherly way "love." From Kansas City a husband lets his wife know he arrived by plane okay on a foggy field.
"Clickety Clack—Clickety Clack—Clickety Clack—"
Good and bad news speeds through the senseless night. And a telegrapher, a lone man in a domed trade, takes the news down—and passes it on.

What men they were—and how few there are left—the old telegraphers. They stitched the American continent together with their clickety clack. Now the old timers are dropping out, one by one. Bright young girls tap out by hand on automatic transmitting machines the messages that used to be by Morse wire.

In the old days the Morse telegraphers used to grow gradually deafened by the static music of a sounder, whose noise was enlarged by a Prince Albert Tobacco can stuck in to sharpen the clickety clack—
"But we have to leave out the tobacco can now," said Lustré DeLaine Phillips, 56, who has been interpreting the clickety clack since he was 14 years old.

"They found the sound carried too far. Somebody passed by outside who understood the Morse code might pick up a private message.

Phillips is the son of a country printer who named his children after the phenomenon of light. First came Hugh and then Day, Ray, Lustré, Bright, and Fair. A seventh child broke the pattern by naming herself Juanita. She wanted to avoid the family's sunshine prejudice.

Like all Vanishing Knights of the dwindling "dot and dash" empire Lustré has his memories. He remembers the time when the clickety clack was the only way the news of the world was spelled out.

"I copied Jack Johnson's fight with Jim Jeffries at Reno for a country weekly," he recalled. "We had a special edition on the streets within an hour. That was the record time for a weekly."

Phillips has been working nights for more than thirty years—the midnight to morning trick. The messages he transmits still affect him.

"It is a thrill to send word of the birth of a baby," he said, "and saddening to send word of a death. Especially at my age, when you realize the certain end of all things mortal."

Lustré isn't as pessimistic over the future of the profession as many men who feel the clickety clack of the telegraph will soon be stilled forever.

"Most of the good old telegraphers have passed on," he said. "I don't say the future is bright for us. But there will always be somebody working a bug and somebody to receive it."

"That means there will always be two of us left."

And that means there always will be someone who has life by the ear.

Columbia, S. C., Jan 31—(AP)—From the upstairs room between midnight and dawn comes a clickety clack.

It sounds in the traffic room of the Western Union and nobody hears it but an old-eared man leaning toward retirement.

He is one of a race of heroes dying out in our own lifetime. And nobody but themselves bothers to know that

Bandits Stage Early Hour Raid

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 31—(AP)—The Mercantile National Bank of Miami Beach was held up and robbed of an estimated $80,000 to $70,000 in cash shortly after 8 a. m. (EST) today.

Two night clerks—E. L. Jeter and J. W. Dameron—were held up by two gunmen as they started to place night deposits in a small night depository room.

The robbers bound, gagged and handcuffed the clerks and threw them into a hole beneath the escalator.

S. W. Curry, cashier of the bank, said on the basis of last weekend's night deposits he estimated the sum stolen around $80,000 to $70,000.

"But it may be more and it may be less, and that's only for cash, there may be much more in checks," Curry added.

He said the money stolen represented receipts for Saturday, Saturday night and Sunday—the largest night deposit amount each week.

Red Oak News

In spite of the fact that a most beautiful snow had fallen on the daffodils, japonicas, hyacinths, pansies, jonquils, violets, stocks and jasmine that were a riot of beauty on this the fifth Sunday in January in the year of our Lord 1949, a large crowd from far and near gathered in the recently remodeled Red Oak Christian Church for another one of the fifth Sunday hymn festivals.

Large choirs from the Sweet Gum Grove, Mt. Pleasant, Reedy Branch and Piney Grove churches came, not to demonstrate who could sing the best, but they came for the sheer joy of singing. Each choir rendered two outstanding numbers. They were well-directed and well-rendered.

The Tyson quartet from Ballard's was outstanding in its rendition of two numbers. They were truly sermons in song.

Short talks were made by Mr. Jim Everett, Jimmie Edwards of Stokes-town, Ed Ratcliffe of Greenville and Mrs. Grieg Tyson of Ballard's.

Miss Pattie Jenkins of the Mt. Pleasant Church was pianist. Mrs. B. L. Tyson gave two short readings and played, "Sweet Hour of Prayer" on the accordion while the audience sang it.

Reverend Harold Tyer of Bath read the scripture for the evening and Rev. Lawrence Tyson led in prayer.

The hymn festival will be held next fifth Sunday in this year at our neighboring church, Piney Grove.

Many of the old time favorite hymns were sung by the congregation. After singing, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" and "Day Is Dying in the West" goodbyes were said and many declared it was the very best "singing" that we have ever had. Nearly three thousand people have attended these "Hymn Festivals" since they were originated about 18 months ago.

The Red Oak Home Demonstration Club members will be host at a supper at the Red Oak Club Center next Wednesday evening, Feb. 2nd, in honor of their husbands, the Red Banks Club members and their husbands and other invited guests. Supper will be served at 6:30 o'clock. Judge Dink James of Greenville will make the principal address. Many other entertaining things have been planned for this annual "Husband's Night."

Greenville High School News

The austere country parson in the GHS senior production "Annie Laurie" is portrayed by Donald Rose, better known as "Rosebud" by his class mates. The turn of events in this drama of frustrated love make the Reverend Wallace, usually a very unperturbed old Scottish gentleman, quite frustrated himself. Finally he is forced to inquire:

"Which one is to be the groom?" Only the audience on the evening of February 10 will be able to find out how the old preacher is answered.

When Donald is not working before the footlights in senior play rehearsal, he can usually be found boating in the "June Bug," working on some electrical project, or running the movie projector at the high school. His interest outside regular academic activity is in the GHS Electrical Engineers and the Radio Club; he has been a member of these two organizations for three years.

In Rose's sophomore year his classmates elected him class president. A highly successful Coronation Ball was sponsored under his presidency.

Rounding out Donald's extra-curricular activities, he is serving his third year in the GHS Glee Club. "Reverend Wallace" remarked in his somber Scottish manner that he was "honored to be a member of the cast of "Annie Laurie."

Announcing OUR THIRD Birthday in Greenville...
We have really enjoyed doing business in Greenville the past three years, and we take this method of announcing our appreciation for the fine support given us by the good people of Greenville and Pitt County.
We are sorry that we can not boast of longer being established in Greenville, as it is our aim and desire to remain here and help build up the community, as it has already come a long way since 1771, when it was called Martinsborough, being named after North Carolina's Royal Governor.
The town's second name came from General Nathaniel Greene in 1786, and was named Greenville. General Greene was known as the hero of the Guilford Court House... in the battle fought there against Lord Cornwallis in March 1781. The damage inflicted against Cornwallis' veterans helped bring their defeat shortly afterwards at Yorktown.
We believe in Greenville, and have made a substantial investment here to back our judgment in Greenville's future. We stand ready at all times to do our part in making our town and county the outstanding place to live and enjoy the better things of life.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

HER SECRET STAR

Chapter 20
Betty never remembered how she managed to tell her uncle and aunt. But she must have told them, for a little while later they were in the car on their way to the hospital.

Uncle Dave was driving, his heavily veined hands manipulating the steering wheel with a steadiness that astonished his niece. His unwonted silence was the only outward indication of what was going on inside him.

Aunt Minniebelle sat on the back seat with Betty, dry-eyed and silent. There was no more sobbing, no more hysteria. Every now and then she would say in a quiet voice, almost as if she were talking to herself:

"She was coming home, and she wanted me to know it. I knew all the time she'd come back." "Yes," her husband would say, unconsciously speaking in the past tense, "she was like that. They didn't make girls any finer than Gertrude. She was a little bit stubborn like me. But her heart was always in the right place—just like yours, Minniebelle."

Betty felt her heart bleed for this gallant middle-aged couple who were so valiantly carrying on. After hearing the news Aunt Minniebelle had gotten up from bed, dried her tears, and dressed just as quietly—just as carefully—as if she were going to a club meeting. If her hand trembled a little as she put on her hat, it wasn't too obvious. Uncle Dave, with no bluster at all, had found his coat and hat without even asking where they were and accusing somebody of hiding them.

Yes, they had kept their chips up—Uncle Dave and Aunt Minniebelle. She, Betty, whose concern was nothing comparable to theirs, hadn't. It wasn't Aunt Minniebelle who had burst into a fit of wild sobbing after Betty had delivered Doctor Newton's message. It was she, Betty. Why, it was all she could do to keep from crying aloud right now!

It was a small hospital, a reconstructed residence to which a long wing had been added. It looked more like a home than a hospital, and was utterly unlike the handsome building in New York in which Betty had trained for a few months. A nurse met them at the door and escorted them into the small waiting room. She spoke to the Warrens, calling them by name and, although she made no mention of their reason for being there, there was a world of compassion in her eyes.

There was an air of friendly informality about the entire place, but there was obviously no lack of efficiency. Presently Betty got up and went into the big room where the nurses were. She spoke to one of the nurses, a pretty blue-eyed girl whom the others addressed as "Bobby." She asked about Jack Barnes.

"Oh, he's getting along all right," the girl said. "It's really a miracle, I'm sure you can come in to see him tomorrow, if you like to. You could go in now, but he's badly shaken up and the doctor wants to keep him as quiet as possible."

She did not volunteer any further information. Betty did not ask about Gertrude. Somehow she knew without being told that Gertrude was dead. The compassionate look in Bobby's eyes had said so.

When she returned to the waiting room Doctor Newton was there. He had already told Uncle Dave and Aunt Minniebelle. Uncle Dave stood with his arm around his wife's shoulder, staring off into space, seeing nothing. Aunt Minniebelle's eyes appeared to be glazed and her chin was trembling, but she made no outcry.
