

Cooley Proposes Price Insurance For Farm Crops

Tar Heel Submits Own Farm Program As Substitute For Other Measures

Washington, May 11 (AP) — A new farm program, under which farmers could buy government "price insurance" on major crops, was proposed today by Chairman Cooley (D-NC) of the House Committee on Agriculture.

If approved by Congress, it would guarantee—beginning next year—100 per cent of parity price supports for farmers who bought the insurance and cooperated in production controls.

(Parity is a price intended to set a fair relationship between what farmers produce and what they buy).

Cooley told a newsmen he and Rep. Poage (D-Tex.) are preparing the new plan as a substitute for both the administration's "production payment" farm program proposal and the "flexible price, support program enacted last year by Congress.

Cooley's plan would work something like this:

1. Production of major crops would be controlled by the present acreage allotment or marketing quota laws, to keep farm supplies pegged to the demand.

2. Farmers would pay an insurance premium—the rate yet to be decided upon—for which the government would guarantee full parity price support on their crops. Farmers not paying for the insurance would get no support whatever.

3. If a crop brought a market price above parity, the government would keep the premium money paid by the farmers.

Cooley said the administration's new program has been attacked by farm groups as a "dole" or "subsidy" program.

As for the GOP-enacted Aiken farm law, Cooley said that would give farmers "the least help when they need it most and the most help when they need it least." That law, due to become effective next year, calls for 60 to 90 per cent of parity supports, depending on the available supply of various crops.

"The insured price plan," said Cooley, "would put the farm price support program on a business basis."

The farm program in effect now is the one which was on the books before passage of the Aiken plan. Under the present program, an government guarantees 90 per cent of parity for major crops, holding surpluses off the markets — and thereby maintaining stable prices—by means of loans or purchases.

The new administration program submitted by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan proposes to abandon the loan and purchase principle for many crops.

It would let these crops sell for what the market would pay. Then the government would pay farmers the difference between what it considered a fair price and what the market paid.

Bar Association Members Oppose Road Bond Issue

At the meeting of the Pitt county bar association last night the lawyers voted 11 to five against Governor Kerr Scott's multi-million dollar road bond issue. One member present did not vote in the secret balloting.

At the supper meeting at the American Legion home, Representative S. O. Worthington spoke to the group on the activities of the North Carolina General Assembly in the recent session, and discussed Governor Scott's road building program.

Judge Albion Dunn, president of the Pitt county bar association, presided at the meeting.

The farm committee is holding hearings on a farm bill.

So neither gets much chance, if any, to sit in on the other committee's doings.

It has to trust pretty much to the judgment of that other committee that the bill it finally turns out is all right.

But then at voting time, say on a farm bill, both the committee experts on farming and those who have never seen the bill before, or didn't have time to study it well sit down to vote.

By this time a lot of the non-experts may have their minds already made up on how they'll vote, either because of personal feelings about a bill or because of letters from the folks back home.

But, by and large, you can see that congressmen and senators have to depend pretty much on the judgment, intentions and inclinations of a committee to help them.

And the committees are pretty jealous of their rights. Not just any other member of the House or Senate can walk in, sit down with

Doughton Hopes Spending Cut Will Rule Out Tax Hike

Washington, May 11 (AP) — Rep. Doughton (D-NC) head of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said after a White House call today that he favors rigid government economies to avoid tax increases.

Doughton told reporters that President Truman had asked him to come to the White House for a general discussion of the tax situation and other matters.

Doughton said the committee had made no move yet to frame a tax bill in line with the President's January request for $4,000,000,000 in new taxes.

Doughton said he hopes it will "not be necessary" to impose new taxes because they "might effect business adversely."

In response to questions, he said he thought the President knew how he felt. But he did not say what Mr. Truman had told him.

Doughton made it clear that his committee will not make any decision on what to do about taxes until it completes consideration of proposed changes in the Social Security Act. He indicated it would be

Governor Asks Crusade For Bond Issues In Talk

Calls On ECTC Students To Help Him In Program; Stresses Benefits And Needs; Praise For Legislature

Governor W. Kerr Scott of North Carolina called upon students at East Carolina Teachers College here today to give their support to his program for better roads and schools for the state.

The governor spoke this morning at 11:00 o'clock to students and faculty members assembled in the Austin auditorium.

"I'm asking you," he said, "to go home and help me disturb some of those people who say the program costs too much and that we can't stand it." He called to their attention the bond issues for improving roads and schools which will come before the people June 4, and pointed out benefits which will be reaped from improvements in education and transportation by those now of college age. "Take it as a crusade," he said.

In discussing expansion of rural electrification facilities and rural telephone lines, the governor paid tribute to William Patton Kimsey, Scott's appointee as chairman of the State Industrial Commission, who died of a heart attack yesterday, for his work in revision of the State Utilities Commission during the last legislature. "Extension of electric facilities and improvements on roads will bring more progress to Eastern Carolina than most of us realize," he stated.

North Carolina's school bus system, he said, is the largest in the world. The difference between the cost of operating it as at present on dirt roads and on hard-surfaced roads, he maintained, would be almost enough to pay interest on the bonds needed to improve the rural roads of North Carolina. He cited disabilities in sight and hearing caused among school children by waiting for buses in all types of at least a month before any tax discussion can be held.

Doughton's remarks were one more indication of apparently increasing sentiment in Congress that the government must cut down on spending, rather than increase taxes, in an effort to keep income and spending in balance.

A sizeable "economy bloc" has taken shape in the Senate. It is trying now to force a five percent saving in appropriations to run the Treasury and Postoffice departments in the year beginning July 1.

Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of the President's council of economic advisers is reported to be advising economy and opposing a tax increase as large as the $4,000,000,000 Mr. Truman asks.

The President asked the additional taxes because, he said, it appeared present levies would not bring in enough money to cover all the government's proposed spending.

Doughton said the administration and Congress face three choices: one, reduction in expenditures; two, increased taxation, or three, deficit spending.

In deficit spending, the government borrows money to pay for costs which exceed its income.

Doughton said that in his opinion "deficit spending is the worst alternative of them all."

As for more taxes, Doughton said that when increases are talked about business is "always nervous."

"I am hoping we can hold down appropriations and expenditures so that a tax bill will not be necessary," he said.

"If we can do this without crippling necessary functions of the government and give rigid economy I'm hoping we will not have to consider raising taxes."

In fact, Doughton went on, this committee has been confronted with a "big demand" for reduction of excise taxes, particularly those on transportation and communications.

He said both of these taxes are "very onerous, very harsh."

He personally thinks, he added, that the taxes on transportation and communications should be reduced.

Philadelphia, May 11 (AP) — Vice President Elben W. Barkley tossed the fight for civil rights into the laps of the American people today.

"We cannot legislate civil liberties," Barkley declared.

And, he told 700 people at a $100-a-plate brotherhood day dinner last night, it is up to the American people to "lead the peoples of the world in the battle for equality and tolerance."

He said a "certain foreign country" is directing the counter-attack on freedom and civil liberties by abolishing freedom of speech and worship.

How can we as a nation, Barkley asked, fight for equality for the peoples of other nations of the world if we don't have that equality at home?

"No nation is completely democratic," he said, "if it takes men from their homes to fight for freedom abroad and then, when they return, doesn't grant them the right to participate in their own government."

But laws, Barkley said, cannot guarantee "voice and choice" in government.

"We can only punish offenders," he asserted. "We cannot force people to accept civil liberties. We need moral education."

"The people must be taught that any man, regardless of race, religion or color, has the same voice and the same choice in his government."

They were named for six-year terms to expire on May 4, 1955.

"We were fortunate that the storm didn't come any later in the growing season or the damage would have been really disastrous," commented Assistant County Agent Rowe McNeely. Victims estimated the pellets ranged from the size of peas to small hen eggs. Trees and bushes in some areas were denuded. The ice pellets shattered 100 panes in Park View school. A farmer two miles east of Mooresville said the storm wiped out his grain field.

Senator Adds Weight To New Action On Spain

Joins Connally In Urging U. S. Clear Way To Exchanging Ambassadors

Washington, May 11 (AP) — Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) joined Senator Connally (D-Tex.) in urging today that the United States help clear the way to exchange ambassadors with Spain.

Vandenberg thus added his weight to Senate pressure building up on the State Department for this country to join in a move to have the United Nations soften its 1946 rulings which ban member countries from full diplomatic relations with Spain.

Observing that he had opposed the American position of agreeing to the 1946 action, Vandenberg told a reporter:

"In the first place this action was totally inconclusive. Secondly, our designation of an ambassador to Spain in no sense approval of the government to which he is accredited."

At the same time, Senator Brewster (R-Me.) revealed the old economic facts of life that are partly responsible for the sudden demands of senators in both parties for recognition of the Franco government.

Brewster told a reporter he is informed that if full relations can be reestablished, Spain may be in the market for 300,000 bales of American cotton and 30,000,000 bushels of American wheat.

"I am told that such a sale might go a long way toward solving what threatens to be a large crop surplus in this country," the Maine senator said.

Connally told the Senate yesterday that he favors sending an ambassador to Madrid, where this country now maintains only an chargé d'affaires with somewhat limited authority.

Connally noted that Texas cotton shippers are shut off from Spain's market.

Acheson Indicates Success Of Paris Talks Up To Reds

Still Fascist

Washington, May 11 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson said today Franco Spain must go a long way toward restoring basic civil rights before it can hope to be admitted into the family of free European nations.

Acheson told a news conference the United States considers the issue of relations with Spain an international family matter on which European agreement is needed. For this reason he said the United States will continue to abstain from voting in the United Nations general assembly on a resolution to return ambassadors to Madrid.

Acheson referred to the Franco regime as patterned after Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany. He said it is still Fascist.

Washington, May 11 (AP) — The Berlin blockade—which brought the East and Western powers almost to the brink of war—is to end peacefully, Acheson said.

At one minute after midnight (5:01 p. m. today, EST.) the land routes to and from West Germany are to open again.

This is the 327th day of Russia's siege. It is the 320th day of the airlift that enabled the United States, Britain and France to cling tenaciously to their sectors of Berlin, which constituted an anti-Communist "island" 100 miles behind the Red army's lines.

Although the blockade and the Western counter-blockade are in their final hours, the struggle between the Soviet Union and the Western allies over Germany's destiny will continue. The next round starts at the scheduled four-power Foreign Ministers Conference in Paris May 23.

But, 2,000,000 West Berlin Germans hope, this is the last day that the food on their tables and the fire in their hearths will be mixed up in international power politics.

Trains are ready to roll past the old blockade line. Trucks and buses are gassed up to move Eastward on the super-highway that Hitler built from Spree to beyond the Elbe.

Army railway control experts of the four powers met yesterday at Helmstedt to settle details for the resumption of traffic. There was almost a carnival atmosphere in the Medieval town as the army men, each group led by a Colonel, got together.

At Bonn, the West German constitution assembly chose that city as the capital of the new West German Federal Republic being set up with the Western allies' blessing. They hope that, some day it also will embrace the Soviet zone—under conditions guaranteed by democratic government to its people, too.

A constitution for the new state already has been adopted by the assembly.

West Berliners seem to find it difficult to realize that the hated blockade finally is ending. But they plan a big celebration after the forbidding police barricades on the East-West Berlin boundary are torn down. Schools will close to let the children celebrate, too.

May Day At

St. Raphael's School

St. Raphael's school on West Fifth street celebrated the May Day on Friday evening, May sixth, at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium.

In a setting made lovely with arrangements of pink and white peonies and sprays of white roses against deep blue curtain, proud parents and friends were entertained with a delightful program of song and dance and verse by these charming children whose ages are from three and a half to nine years.

An ensemble of little May Queens wearing organdy party frocks of varying hues and garlands of contrasting flowers in their hair welcomed the visitors with a chorus, "How Do You Do"—followed by the recitation in unison of two poems, "Mice" and "Choosing Shoes." Peggy Page in most pleasing manner recited "Door Bells."

In this group were Nell Davis, Julie Dodson, Ann Byrum, Shirley Holmes, Linda Crawford, Peggy Page, Betty Joe Warren, Jo Ann Skinner, Fay Jones, Kay Smith, Jo Alene Eason.

The nursery girls and boys, in dainty white dresses or linen suits embellished with silver and green metallic stars skipped in to a lilting tune and gaily presented "Stars for Mother," singing and clapping their hands with appealing exuberance.

Billy Riggins, the sparkling star of this number was joyously accompanied by other young satellites, Patsy Tripp, Jerry Sue Clark, Margaret Anderson, Gene Adams, Besie Bryan, Linda Bryan and Charles Laughinghouse.

Next appeared an enchanting trio who created an impressive scene in their pink and Madonna blue taffeta costumes each carrying an emblem of life, Ramona Hicks, bearing a scroll of music, Ann Peaden, holding a rose, and Joyce Sutton, carrying a decorated and lighted candle, sang with reverence "Jesus Make My Life a Little Light." (A little flower—a little song) by Father Francis, and "Mother's Hands," a Persian folk song arranged by Louise Ayers Barnett. They concluded with a sprightly spring song, "To The Oriole," by de Lully. Then "Little Boy Blue," Billy Anderson, devastating in a blue bell hat, was the object of diligent search by the kindergarten boys, all dressed in blue, who presented with precision the "Blue Boy Drill," and sang the old favorite from the "Rhymes of Mother Goose." "Boy Blue" was found under the haystack and a loud blast of happy horn blowing awakened, also, the audience from any possible lapse into reverie. Those in the dr were Ed Peaden, Roger Allen, Richard Barnhill, Jack Cox, Jimmie Holmes, Bernice Haire, John Byrum, Jimmie Davenport, and Billy Anderson.

The "Topsies" of "Topsy-Turvy Land," impersonated by the boys of the first, second and third grades, added much merriment to the occasion with their antics, for all the world loves a clown. Wearing old felt hats over their faces as beaus, their clothes fastened backward, and the countenance of a large rag doll on the backs of their heads, the "Topsies" were an amusing sight. Their clever songs and pantomime were a favorite episode among both participants and the other children. The "Topsies" were Roger Page, George Saleed, Phil Davis, Arthur Andrews, Charles Cox, Ronnie Cox, Bobby Arthur, Francis Saleed, Andy Peacock and Marshall Evans.

The Reverend Father Charles Gable of Saint Peter's Catholic church closed the program with a word of appreciation for the support given the school by parents and others in the community. He then invited the gathering into the school rooms for refreshments prepared by Mrs. F. H. Smith, Mrs. E. H. Byrum, and Mrs. Ruby F. Lum. Favors were made by Mrs. Leon Cox and Mrs. J. L. Eason.

At Saint Raphael's one is particularly impressed with the beautiful training the children receive under the guidance of the gentle sisters. Here, indeed, is a world of serene and happy children. — Reported by Miss Jesse Rountree Moye.

Joint Hostesses

Entertain Club

The Literature Department met Tuesday, May 10, at the home of Mrs. W. W. Smiley for the last meeting of the year. Assisting Mrs. Smiley were Mrs. N. M. Jorgensen and Mrs. K. T. Futrell. At roll call members gave their summer vacation plans.

On the table covered with a dainty lace cloth, delicate pink roses, pink candles, pink ice cream-punch, and pink and white mints lent a pink and white motif to the delightful refreshments served by the hostesses. Other bowls of pink roses about the rooms added to the pleasant harmony of colors.

At the brief business meeting Mrs. N. C. Brooks, on request, gave a brief resume of Book Club Day and read again the clever toast to the End of the Century Club which she had written and read for Book Club Day.

Then Mrs. Smiley introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Jack R. Edwards, who gave us a good fair picture of Thomas Wolfe, his life and his writings. Bits read from his frank letters to his mother added much to our understanding of Wolfe's philosophy and deep-seated longing, through frankness of approach to life and appreciation of the arts, to make this a more honest and better world to live in.

Our other guest was Mrs. L. W. Jenkins.

A pleasant summer to you all, Mrs. Dan E. Vornholt, Chairman.

Give Dinner For Honor Students

Fifteen seniors at East Carolina Teachers College who rank highest in scholarship among their classmates were guests at a dinner at the Proctor Hotel in Greenville Tuesday evening. The Pitt County Association of Phi Beta Kappa, following a custom established in 1946, entertained in their honor and offered congratulations on their outstanding records as students. There is no chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at the college here.

Seniors present for the occasion were Ellen Joyce Clark, Everett; Floyd Collins, Cerro Gordo; William H. Durham, Jr., Rocky Mount; Seth B. Henderson, Wilmington; Patricia Lyon, Ayden; Mary Elizabeth Mills, Aurora; Mrs. Sarah Ellis Getzinger, Greenville; Jesse McDaniel, Kinston; Carmie Gooding, New Bern; Edward E. Harris, Kinston; Laurie Lancaster, New Bern, and Wallace Kienast, Glendive, Montana, and Chicod. Unable to be present were John Both, Durham; Charles Connor, New Bern; and Richard Taravachia, Syracuse, N.Y.

Mary E. Greene of the East Carolina faculty, president of the Pitt County Association of Phi Beta Kappa, welcomed guests and outlined the history and aims of the local organization. Patricia Lyon, senior ranking highest in scholarship among 1948-1949 graduates, responded for guests.

Frankie Laine In Divorce Courts

Los Angeles, May 11 — (AP) — Frankie Laine, 33, who swoons cobby with his crooning, can't harmonize with his wife. He sued her yesterday in superior court for divorce, charging cruelty. Laine, whose real name is Frank Paul Lo Vecchio, said his wife, Neelina Gidund Lo Vecchio, 24, has already entered into a property settlement. Laine's counsel said she will receive "reasonable maintenance" out of the singer's $5,000 weekly income.

Mrs. Samuel C. Smith

Smith-Stribling

Clemson, S. C.—Centering wide interest in North and South Carolina was the lovely wedding of Miss Martha Stribling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stiles Conger Stribling of Clemson, and Mr. Samuel Cunningham of Richmond, Va., and Greensboro, N. C. The double ring ceremony took place at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, February 26th, in the Fort Hill Presbyterian church, Clemson, with the Rev. Fred A. Hopkins of York, Uncle of the bride, officiating, assisted by Dr. S. J. L. Crouch, pastor of the Fort Hill Presbyterian church.

The church was decorated with palms and large baskets of white gladioli and pom pom chrysanthemums flanked by candelabra.

Mrs. French McCraw of Gaffney, organist, played "Priest A Notre Dame," "Prayer" from Hansel and Gretel, "Clair de Lune" and "O Perfect Love." Miss Virginia Smith of Charlotte, soprano and sister of the groom, sang "How Do I Love Thee," and "Pledge" by Black. The traditional wedding marches were used.

At the close of the ceremony, Miss Smith and the attendants softly sang the Lullaby Benediction with the seven-fold amen.

Mr. Stiles C. Stribling of Moorestown, N. J., and Clemson, brother of the bride, served as best man. Usher-groomsmen were Messrs. Hearst Sullivan, Jr., of Anderson, Roy Ellison, Jr., of Spartanburg, both cousins of the bride; Bob Hall of Greenville, and Paul Seabrook of Clemson.

Miss Dixie Smith of Greensboro, sister of the groom, was maid-of-honor. Her gown was of dusty aqua satin having a fitted bodice, off-the-shoulder shirred bodice, full skirt, and small bustle. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay of pink perfection camellias and pink hyacinths.

Serving as bridesmaids were Misses DeVere Maxwell of Anderson, Lola Miller of Deland, Fla., Margaret Fulton of Greensboro, and Mrs. Bill Morton of Richmond.

Their dresses and nosegays were like those of the maid-of-honor.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of white slipper satin made with fitted bodice having a bertha of Venice lace, leg o' mutton sleeves ending in a point at the wrist, and full skirt featuring a long flowing train. Her finger-tip veil of illusion was held in place by clusters of orange blossoms and her only ornament was a string of pearls, the gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Stribling, mother of the bride, was groomed in coral crepe with silver beaded neckline. She wore a white orchid.

Mrs. S. Fuller Smith of Greensboro, mother of the groom, wore royal blue crepe with beaded trimming, and a purple orchid.

A reception was held in the church reception hall immediately after the ceremony. Assisting the bride party in receiving the guests were the bride's parents, the groom's mother, Rev. and Mrs. Hopkins, and Dr. and Mrs. Crouch. The bride's table was decorated with fern, white hyacinths, white candles in low silver candle-holders and was centered with a three tiered wedding cake.

Following the reception, the bride and groom left for their wedding trip after which they will reside at 3401 Brook Road, Richmond, Va. For traveling, the bride wore a suit of grey gabardine with matching grey hat and black accessories. Her corsage was the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Smith is a native of Gaffney and was graduated from Winthrop College in June, 1946, where she was a member of the executive board, Westminster Fellowship council, and the YWCA cabinet. She received her M. A. degree in Bible from the Assembly's training school, Richmond, in May, 1948, and served as director of religious education at the First Presbyterian Church, Greenville, N. C. Her mother was the former Ethel Hopkins of Fountain Inn, S. C.

Mr. Smith, son of Mrs. S. Fuller Smith of Greensboro and the late Mr. Smith, was graduated from Guilford College Greensboro. He taught in the High Point high school for several years before serving with the U. S. Army as a captain. At present, he is a member of the senior class at the Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va.

Wreck Victims In Tayloe Hospital; Two Seriously Hurt

Two youths were seriously injured yesterday when a car driven by Charles Earl Hickman, 17, of Chocowinity, got out of control and left the highway near Pactolus and jumped a shallow ditch and turned over.

Hickman received concussions of the brain and lacerations. Johnnie J. Pinkham, 16, 515 John Small Avenue, Washington, also suffered a concussion of the brain, a broken nose and possible internal injuries, a state highway patrolman said today.

Another passenger, whose name had not been learned by the patrolman, was painfully but not seriously injured. James Davenport of Pactolus transported the injured youths to Tayloe Hospital in Washington. The highway patrol is continuing its investigation.

Delegation From Goldsboro Will Fly To Greenville

Tommy Sellers, flying instructor at the Greenville airport, said a delegation of Goldsboro officials including the mayor of that city and the manager of radio station WGBR will land at the Greenville airport Thursday morning at 10:30.

Sellers said the Goldsboro delegation is making a tour of eastern North Carolina towns to help advertise the dedication of the Goldsboro airport on May 28 and 29.

The Goldsboro delegation will interview the Greenville mayor and other city officials, Sellers said, and make tape recordings for rebroadcast.

Retiring Members Of College Staff Entertained Tuesday

Three members of the staff at East Carolina Teachers College who will retire during the present school year were entertained informally Tuesday evening by president of Ragsdale Hall, teachers dormitory at the college.

Miss Ellen B. Bowen of the office of student teaching and placement, and Misses Annie Newell and Lucile Charlton, members of the department of education, were honor guests at the occasion. Gifts, expressing the appreciation and esteem of their friends in the dormitory were presented to each.

Miss Jeanne Hook, faculty member of the department of music and supervisor of music in the elementary schools of the city, also received a gift. Miss Hook will be married during the summer to Mr. D. B. Harrell of Mt. Olive.

The parlors of Ragsdale were attractively decorated with arrangements of spring flowers. Approximately forty residents of Ragsdale Hall and other guests were present for the occasion.

Hail Damage To Tobacco Plants

Hail which accompanied the heavy downpour of rain over Pitt County last night did slight damage to small tobacco plants in the Bethel section, farmers reported today.

James Carson, who lives between Whitehurst station and Parmalee, said the hail "broke a lot of leaves, but it did not beat up many plants by the roots."

A report from the Vanceboro section stated that a sprinkling of hail fell in that area last night and strong winds prevailed, but crops in fields were not damaged.

An insurance agency here reported light hail last night between Grimsland and Beaufort county.

Little Mongrel Hero In Rescue

Oleespe, Pa. May 11—(AP)—A little mongrel dog was the toast of his neighborhood today for performing the greatest heroism of his kind—saving his master.

The dog, Chubby, jumped into the fray when he saw his master, Jackie Strickler, 4, being mauled by a larger dog. Chubby fought the dog until family members rescued the child. Jackie is in fair condition at a hospital where attaches said one ear was torn off and a facial nerve paralyzed. The boy's grandmother said the large dog suddenly attacked the boy while the two were playing in the yard.

Army Transport Brings Refugees

Washington, May 11—(AP)—The Army transport Willard A. Holbrook will dock in New York tomorrow with 1,086 refugees who are headed for 38 states and the District of Columbia.

Two nine-member families and two of eight members each are aboard.

The state of New York will become the home of the greatest number—258, with Illinois second with 127.

Eighteen will go to North Carolina and nine to South Carolina.

Heavy Rain Here

During a thunderstorm in the Greenville area last night 1.9 inches of rain fell after 10 o'clock the local weather bureau reported today. In outlying sections strong winds accompanied the storm.

Total rainfall since January 1 is 14.25 inches, less than was recorded here during the same period last year.

The highest temperature recorded by the Weather Bureau yesterday was 82 degrees at 3 p. m. The mercury dropped during the night to 53 degrees, and at 10 a. m. today it was still standing at that figure.

Buzzards Fly In Gangs; Attack, Kill Livestock

Anderson, S. C., May 11—(AP)—Big coveys of buzzards are swooping down with unexplained fury on livestock in Anderson county.

Traveling in flights of more than 200, they pose a real threat on the 1,000-acre cattle farm of B. C. Reaves near Pendleton.

They attacked a Herford cow that recently was dropping a calf. Both the cow and her calf were killed. Carcasses of several other cows, apparently killed by the birds, have been found on the farm.

Manager L. O. Jameson of the big farm said the birds roost in nearby swamps and attack during the early morning.

They also have killed several pigs. Apparently they wait until they sense an animal in distress before attacking.

New Pension Bill For Vets Voted By House Group

Washington, May 11—(AP)—A disension-split House Veterans Committee today approved a modified pension bill adding about $10,000,000,000 to existing veterans' benefits over the next 50 years.

The new bill in effect liberalizes and writes into law regulations of the Veterans Administration already in force for disabled and needy veterans. It is a follow-up to a hundred-billion dollar measure which failed to pass.

The final committee product contained an amendment by Rep. Teague (D-Tex.) barring pensions for veterans able to work more than half time.

The unemployment requirement was hotly opposed by Chairman Rankin (D-Miss.). He voted against it in committee and threatened to carry his fight against his own committee's bill onto the floor of the House.

Film On Cub Scouting To Be Shown Legion

In an effort to increase interest in Cub Scouting, a movie on the organization's activities will be shown to the American Legion Tuesday night. The same movie has been shown in four Greenville schools, to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and will be shown to the Kiwanis Club next month, and to the Bethel Rotary Club tomorrow night.

The Rev. R. W. Topping, member at large of the Pitt District of the Boy Scouts of America, is in charge of the movie committee.

According to Pitt District Chairman Wyatt Brown, the movie has been "well received."

Strength FOR THE DAY

NEWS FOR SPIRITUAL REALITIES

Many years ago there was a play entitled "The Return of Peter Grim." Old Peter, who had died, was pictured as returning in spirit once in a while into the distraught household in which he had formerly resided. Those who were quarreling were never conscious of his spiritual presence. The maid, whom, during his lifetime Peter had reminded every day to wind the clock, would go and perform this duty when Peter's spirit entered the room. Only the child of the household, a beautiful and pure spirit, actually saw the old man.

Everyone who witnessed the performance was aware of its lesson without having it explained. Only those people were conscious of the spiritual presence of Peter Grim whose lives were prepared to discern spiritual things. The querulous passed him by and never saw him. The sensual and the hateful were utterly unaware of his presence. Only the humble and the pure in heart really sensed the reality of things.

Lifted up into the sphere of religion, this means that we become aware of the presence of God only if our hearts, minds, and souls are attuned to the beauty of spiritual things. Hatred, jealousy, evil passions of all kinds make us blind to the presence of God in the world. "Blessed are the pure in heart," said Jesus, "for they shall see God."

Around Capitol Square

CHAIRMAN—More interest is being exhibited around Capitol square in the next chairman of the state Democratic committee than in any other appointment Governor Scott has to make. There is at present no vacancy in the chairmanship, but Capus Wayne is expected to resign during the early summer to take the post as ambassador to Nicaragua. He was appointed by President Truman last week and senate confirmation is regarded as mere routine.

IMPORTANT—Always important, the place as head of the Democratic party in the state will be more significant next year than usual. For first time in history two United States senators will be elected, as well as twelve congressional representatives and members of the general assembly. Before being elected, they must be nominated in the Democratic primary. Theoretically, the state chairman is not supposed to take part in the primary as between good Democrats. Actually it doesn't work out that way.

SIGNIFICANT—The state chairman recommends majority members of the county boards of election who in turn name precinct registrars and pollholders. That affords opportunity to get the "right" people in these key jobs—the right people being supporters of candidates favored by the state chairman and his associates. With contest for future dominance in party councils coming up between Governor Scott's group and those who do not see eye to eye with him, and with talk of "purging" the legislature of those who did not support the full "Go Forward" program in the recent session, more than usual influence may attach to the state chairmanship.

NAMES—A dozen or more names have been suggested, but most observers agree they are premature. First thing is to set up a standard of qualifications and then seek a man to fit the requirements. Some what similar situation faces the committee charged with selecting a president for the university.

QUALIFICATIONS—One group hopelessly in the minority, would like to have an old line conservative party warhorse, who would apply brakes to the "Go Forward" movement—to keep it from going too far too fast. Another would like to have someone not previously identified with any faction, or with political activity, but with a proven capacity for leadership in the professional, or civic organizations. A third and apparent majority group wants a liberal who subscribes to basic principles of the Go Forward program, but will use judgment and discretion in effectuating it.

SCOTT—Governor Kerr Scott will have more than anybody else to do with the choice. Other dominant personalities will be Senator Frank Graham and former Senator William Graham. Underneath the ghosts of Furfeld Simms, Josiah Bailey and Max Gardner playing off-stage roles. Although the state executive committee elects its own chairman, custom has been for respect to filling vacancies on the national committee, and that estate committee with evident reluctance acceded to Governor Scott's nomination of Jonathan Daniels for that post after death of Joe Blythe three months ago. Despite protestations of some committeemen that "we'll never do it again," opinion is general that the governor will virtually appoint the new chairman when the time comes. The choice will be made after the road bond election and Governor Scott will be stronger or weaker then, depending upon results of the June 4 plebiscite. If the $200 million road bonds are defeated, the governor will lose a lot of prestige. If they are authorized by popular vote, he can just about write his own ticket from there out.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

New York.—(P)—What worries me about psychologists is that they worry about themselves.

And, particularly, I am worried about the stage of life at which they worry over different things.

For days and days I have been mulling over a worry timetable presented recently at the midwestern Psychological Association meeting in Chicago.

It was a composite picture of what 103 elderly psychologists had worried most about at different ages. It left a lot of questions unanswered in my mind. And it also has me even more convinced that I didn't want any psychologists romping barefooted among my mental complexes.

Heretofore I had always thought of psychologists as white-coated men with bifocal glasses who spent their lives in dim laboratories peering at a cunning maze. They were supposed to learn from the mice great lessons to help mankind get out of its trap, too.

Judging from this worry timetable, however, I think the psychologists are caught in the maze. And I am beginning to wonder if the white mice aren't learning something about mental freedom from looking Somebody Told Me...

By L. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

In keeping with my effort to introduce Greenville's newcomers, here is the scoop on B. F. Phillips, who moved here April 3 from Charlotte.

Mr. Phillips is superintendent of construction on the new Pitt County Hospital, and says he will be in Greenville at least a year and a half. He and Mrs. Phillips are living at 844 Evans Street.

In Charlotte Mr. Phillips was supervising construction on a Strietman's (Zesta's Crackers) Warehouse. He was born and raised at Greenville, South Carolina, and is the father of two children, Bobby and Iris Long.

Since his hobby is bowling and there is no alley in Greenville it would not be too surprising to find Mr. Phillips a little perturbed. On the contrary, he is very pleased with Greenville. Says he, "I am proud to say that we have found everyone here very nice and courteous. Thank every Greenville for such a grand welcome."

The Reflector's circulation is about 8,000. If two read every paper, and one out of ten read this thing, 1,000 have been thanked for the welcome given Mr. Phillips by a few. The power of the press!

This morning as the Governor out at them.

The timetable shows that psychologists are at least as crass as the rest of us. In some ways they seem to have delayed reactions to life.

At 18, the survey showed, these foragers in the pastures of the brain are most concerned over idealism and personal development. At 20 they are in a blue funk over their personal appearance, although most boys lose their pimples before then. Comes the ripe old age of 23, and what is the fledgeling psychologist fretting most about? Why, sexual morality. According to Dr. Kinsey's famous report, this is some four years after the average young man should find this his most pressing problem.

At 26 the psychologists bend their IDS and EGOS to the task of making a good impression on people.

It is perhaps completely normal that at 31 they should be most interested in their personal business or professional success. But why, at of North Carolina spoke to students of East Carolina Teachers College I was able to grasp a few of his words over the radio despite the hum of business transactions at Edwards Auto Supply.

In my file headed, "Important Speeches by Important People," one comment will follow Scott's speech: If there ever was a Governor who attempted to carry out his campaign promises, it's Scott.

In that same file are notes from a speech by a fellow columnist, Drew Pearson. Now I must admit that last statement is the height of something-my referring to Drew as a fellow columnist. That's just like comparing Duke to Carolina.

My buddy Drew spoke in Chapel Hill last winter, and made a few interesting statements about Harry Truman. The story he told took place back in the days when Harry was a Senator.

It seems that all the Senators had been to a social shindig, diked out with white ties, tails, and limousines. But Harry drove his 1938 model wreck as usual. When the party was over and the doorman recognized Harry walking out he asked, "May I call your car, Senator?"

"Sure," said Harry, "you may call it, but I doubt if it'll come."

And I thank you.

33, are they most worried over job security?

Why are these two years so critical?

Well, they jog on to 38 and are doped over their health. They hit 41 and mope over their political convictions. At 42 they have finally decided whether to vote Democratic or Republican—or go all out for Henry Wallace—and it is marital difficulties that plague them most. And at 45 life has cut them down to their last two big worries. This is the year they pine over giving up their unfulfilled ambitions and turn again to their health. For the rest of their day nothing frustrates them more than how their ulcers are faring.

This worrytable is rather disillusioning. It shows these fearless explorers of the mental jungle find no tigers therein that the average bank clerk or bus driver doesn't meet and grapple with. It makes psychologists so dull and ordinary.

What year do they worry most about the white mice? And who worries most—mice or psychologists?

WASHINGTON LETTER

By JANE EADS

Washington.—The strength of any society, and most certainly the strength of a democracy, depends on its grass roots foundations, says Dr. A. F. Wileiden of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

A rural sociologist, Dr. Wileiden points out that these foundations are the people, the homes and families and the local group life. He says America needs strong local communities and deplores the fact that in our "great concern today for furthering one program or another on a state, national or even international basis we often forget that simple fact."

"Particularly, we are inclined today to forget the small community," he says in an article titled "The Forgotten Village" in the April issue of the Department of Agriculture's publication "Extension Service Review."

"The farmers of this country today, through the Agricultural Extension Service, have the most complete system of adult, or continuing education, yet devised anywhere in the world," he says. "Their formal education program is improving. At the other end, the large cities and those of intermediate size have drawn to them the business resources and leadership of the nation. They have their vocational schools, and many of them have extensive programs of cultural and civic education and recreation, and they almost invariably have the best formal school systems for their young people."

The in-between communities, on the other hand, are "only partially" reached by the extension service program. They are also without vocational schools, other than what vocational subjects they get in the high schools—if there are high schools. They also are without organized programs in the field of civic education or recreation. About one-third of U. S. people live in such places.

However, Dr. Wileiden points out the importance of this village or small city community is slowly being recognized. He cites the decentralist movement in industry which is looking to the community because of the economic advantages it offers the reorganization of our school system, on consolidated or unified plans, with the community as the basic unit; the organization of community health centers; the community planning movement and in some places the community council movement.

"And occasionally, it is hinted if not directly expressed," he says, "that the time has arrived when we should strengthen the thousands of small communities over this nation as a defense against atomic warfare."

5 doctors prove this plan breaks the laxative habit

If you take laxatives regularly—have's how you can stop!
Because 5 New York doctors now have proved you may break the laxative habit. And establish your natural powers of regularity. Eighty-three per cent of the cases tested did it. So can you.

Stop taking whatever you now take. Instead: Every night for one week take 2 Carter's Pills. Second week—one each night. Third week—one every other night. Then—nothing! Every day: drink eight glasses of water; eat a definite time for regularity.

Five New York doctors proved this plan can break the laxative habit.

How can a laxative break the laxative habit? Because Carter's Pills "unblock" the lower digestive tract and from then on let make use of its own natural powers.

Further—Carter's Pills contain no habit-forming drugs.

Break the laxative habit... with Carter's Pills, and be regular naturally.

When worry, overeating, or work make you irregular temporarily—take Carter's Pills. Get Carter's Pills at any drugstore for 15¢ today. You'll be grateful the rest of your life.

Marines Use Helicopters To Land Assault Forces

Quantico Marine Base, Va., May 10—(AP)—The Marines, invasion specialists, have come up with the world's first force of seaborne helicopters for putting assault troops ashore.

And they think that in this idea there may also be a means for saving Navy ships in any future beachhead battle where an enemy might strike back at an invasion fleet with atomic bombs.

The Leathernecks showed this innovation in warfare to a group of Congress members yesterday. Today the lawmakers were back in Washington to weigh this demonstration of new technique against talk in some quarters that perhaps the Marine Corps is no longer needed and should be merged into the Army and Naval aviation.

Meanwhile, the Marines prepared to move the helicopter airlift unit from the simulated flight deck (marked out on an airfield) and a mock beachhead area to the carrier Palau for operation as part of war exercises along the Carolina coast.

The Marines' idea is this: Carriers can move in toward an enemy coast, then put up helicopters with combat troops and fly them safely over and beyond dangerously fortified enemy beach positions for the first phase of an attack. Landing craft, creeping in ashore under battering fire, would not be needed. (The Marines know by bitter experience at Tarawa and Iwo Jima how costly this can be.)

The enemy may be able to estimate the probable beach front where an invasion force will hit and thus be prepared. But he can't guess where a wandering squadron of helicopters will choose to land a force.

In the Marines' view, the method possesses a defensive value as great as the offensive characteristics. It means that the carrier fleet which launches this initial airborne wave of riflemen need not be grouped in a tight, compact formation—a fine concentrated target for an enemy atomic bomb.

Truck Crops In Only Fair Shape

Raleigh, May 10—(AP)—North Carolina truck crops are in "only fair" condition because of adverse weather conditions during April, according to a federal-state report.

The strawberry crop, was the hardest hit, suffering from cold, dry weather and heavy infestation of red spiders during most of April. Heavy rains have hampered picking and lowered the quality.

Recent rains are expected to help the snap bean crop, which has been in "only fair" condition due to earlier dry, cool weather.

Steel Exported, Also Imported

Sidney—(AP)—Australia is exporting steel to England in exchange for tinplate. And Japan is exporting steel to Australia because this country hasn't enough.

Manager Keith Butler of Broken Hill Proprietary Steelworks told a reporter his company is exporting steel to England at the request of the Australian government.

New South Wales Minister for Transport Maurice O'Sullivan says his state government has to buy Japanese steel for railroad building. He told newsmen Japanese steel will cost about $156 against about $54 for Australian steel.

By the end of 1947 American firms had $33 billion worth of group life insurance for their employees.

Nearly 30 per cent of the total United States work force was protected by group life insurance at the close of 1947.

Tepedino Singles Home Winning Run Against New Bern In Overtime Tilt

Strausser With Homer And Two Singles And Tepedino With Three Singles Lead 10-Hit Attack On Visiting Club As Locals Win 4-3

By BERT MOYE
John Tepedino's smashing single into centerfield after one man was out in the ninth frame, to bring home Moe Carter, who walk and Paul Strausser's single had advanced him to second base, gave the Greens the winning tally in the first game of a twin bill here last night. The game was booked for seven innings but went into overtime when the two clubs were locked in a 2-2 tie at the end of seven innings.

New Bern went out in front in their top of the first frame when Bill Bevil and Neil Howard were walked with Howard later scoring on Jake Daniel's single.

The Greens knotted the count at one-all in the first frame when Paul Strausser hit the first offering of Dick Kelly over the left field wall—a distance of 350 feet from home plate. They took the lead at 2 to 1 in the second frame when Willie Mauney singled, Pete Gillespie reached first on fielder's choice, forcing Mauney at second, Steve Denier walked, and Moe Carter singled into right field to bring home Denier.

The Bears tied the score up at two-all in the top of the fifth when Bill Bevil reached first on an error, advanced to second on a wild pitch, and came home on Roy Kennedy's single into centerfield. They came back in the eighth to take a one run lead when Joe Wheeler singled and later scored on Art Frieberger's double.

The Greens came back in the eighth frame to tie the game up again and save defeat. Tepedino walked, Bob Cohen forced Tepedino at second, Pappy Williams singled, advancing Cohen to third, Willie Mauney was given an intentional pass to lead the bases and then Pete Gillespie hit to deep centerfield with Cohen crossing the plate for the tying run.

Norman Clark went the entire route for the Greens and scattered eight hits effectively, although at times he received ragged support from his teammates. Clark struck out four men and issued six free passes.

Roy Kennedy—with a double and a single, Art Frieberger with a double and a single and Jake Daniel with two singles led the eight-hit attack off Clark.

Paul Strausser with a homer and two singles and John Tepedino with three singles led the 10-hit attack off New Bern's Dick Kelly.

The second game of the double-header was rained out after two innings of play with the score tied 2-2.

GREENVILLE at Goldsboro Rocky Mount at New Bern Kinston at Roanoke Rapids Wilson at Tarboro

Sidelights:—Paul Strausser really gave Dick Kelly a warm welcome here last night as he slammed the first pitch of the game over the leftfield wall for a homer. Greenville executed two fast double plays last night with the Bears also making the same number. . . . New Bern had 11 men stranded on bases while the Greens had eight. . . . Hats off to all the members of the Greens club—they are certainly playing hustling ball these days. . . . Willie Mauney and Pete Gillespie were the base stealers in last night's game. . . . The win for the Greens placed them in a tie with Wilson for fourth place. They are now playing 500 ball. . . . A check with Umpire John Knight during the rain last night revealed that Jake Daniel was chased from the park not for disputing the ump's decision on the double play, but because as Knight put it, "He called me everything in the books." . . . The win for Norman Clark was his second of the season; he has suffered one defeat.

Chuck Lawson, sportscaster for the local radio station, made the comment during the game at New Bern Monday night that Garland Little walked off the mound in disgust. However, in fairness to Little, this statement was taken out of the game by Manager Pappy Williams and did not walk out before being told to do so by Pappy. Several fans asked me about this yesterday after hearing the statement on the radio and the correct version of the incident is stated above.

Manager Pappy Williams is planning to move his family here at a very early date and is still looking for an apartment to occupy during the summer months. Says he could get along with a three or four room furnished apartment. If you have one you would like to rent to Pappy call 4613 and leave your name and address.

Second Baseman Joe Gordon of the Indians made the final out of the inning in each of his four appearances at bat against the Tigers April 29. He left one runner stranded in the first inning, two in the third and two more in the fifth.

Who pitched the last perfect game in the major leagues? Answer: On April 30, 1922, Charlie Robertson, Chicago White Sox rookie, pitched a no-hit, no-run game against the Detroit Tigers, in which not a single Tiger reached first base. Of the 27 men who faced Charlie, six struck out, six grounded out, six went out on outfield flies and nine on infield.

Here and There:—Ken Brooks has been given his outright release by the Greenville club and will leave today to go to Fayetteville of the Tobacco State League for a try-out. . . . Joe Moss has been released by the Kinston club to make room for Harry Soufas, a veteran. . . . Pitcher Red Benton of the Rocky Mount Leafs has been suspended to make room for Dave Fowler, veteran catcher with the Leafs last season. . . . Ross Morrow, manager of the ToBs, is suffering an ear infection and is unable to play at the present time. . . . By Great shortstops have been a tradition with the Chicago Cubs and Roy Smalley, the Bruins new short ace, bids fair to earn a right to place his name beside that of Joe Tinker, Charley Hollocher, Woody English and Billy Jurgis. A sensational fielder ever since he joined the Cubs in the spring of 1948, Roy had a little trouble finding the range at the plate. But he was batting at a .300 clip during the late stages of last season, and this spring picked up where he left off. As a matter of fact, Smalley's solid and timely hitting was one of the bright spots of the Cubs' exhibition tour.

Smalley came mighty close to becoming property of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Only an alert Cub scout, Jimmy Payton, who had seen Roy on the sandlots of Springfield, Mo., managed to beat the Dodgers to a signed contract. Smalley even went so far as to attend a Dodger tryout school in Tulsa when the Texas League was suspended on account of the war. Payton signed Roy for the Los Angeles club of the Chicago farm system and he played with the Angels only until it was time for him to go into the service.

Tall for a shortstop Smalley stands six, three, and weighs 190 pounds, yet he moves with the easy grace of a natural athlete. Blessed with a great pair of hands and a fine throwing arm, he is almost certain to rank with the best shortfielders in the game.

Surprise Derby Winner Arrives For Preakness

Baltimore, Md., May 11.—(AP)—How did Ponder do it and can he do it again?

Those two questions—asked in one breath—stood out today among the buzz as Baltimore started to warm up for Saturday's 73rd preakness at Old Pimlico.

Ponder's arrival yesterday brought on a rash of post-mortem over the Kentucky Derby in which the Calumet colt came out of nowhere to win. Everyone seeking an explanation for the upset was searching at the same time for a line on the preakness.

Even Calumet trainer Jimmy Jones is still "pleasantly surprised." Jimmy admitted that in Florida he didn't think "Ponder was much" and he didn't even bother to go down to Louisville last Saturday.

Jimmy's explanation of the colt's amazing victory in the first of the main fixtures for 3-year-olds was: "You know a young horse is just like a kid. One day he looks dumb and the next day he's the star of the high school football team."

However, Jimmy hinted he still has to be shown personally that Ponder really rates. Returning to the Derby, he said "all the other horses must've dropped dead."

Ponder's unexpected victory caught the stable without plans for the preakness. Ben Jones, Jimmy's father saddled the colt for the Derby but designated trainer for Saturday.

Last year father Ben took the honors with Citation at Louisville and Jimmy did them here. Each has saddled two preakness winners, Jimmy scoring in 1947 with Faultless and Ben with Pensive, Ponder's sire, in 1944 and Whirlaway in 1941.

No Code Revolt Seen Say Heads Of Conferences

Atlanta, May 11.—(AP)—Heads of the Southern, Southeastern and Southwest conferences say no revolt against the National Collegiate Athletic Association's sanity code is in the offing.

Two Southern sports writers predicted in their columns yesterday that resentment against the code in the South might bring an open break with the NCAA this month. The writers were Johnny Bradberry of the Atlanta Constitution and William Keefe of the New Orleans Times-Picayune.

The code is a sore spot with many southern college officials, but presidents of three Dixie conferences said withdrawal from the NCAA is not the answer.

Representatives of Southern colleges will meet here May 28 to discuss amendments to the code, adopted in January, 1948. The amendments are to be submitted to the NCAA.

"There is no indication of a rebellion on the part of the Southeastern Conference," said Dr. Blake Van Leer, president of the SEC and of Georgia Tech.

"Count the Southwest Conference out of any rebellion against the NCAA's 'sanity code,'" said Dutch Meyer, Texas Christian University coach and president of the National Football Coaches Association.

Meyer's stand was shared by Dean R. A. Leflar of the University of Arkansas, Southwest Conference president, and James S. Stewart, conference executive secretary.

Dr. Geary Epley, president of the Southern Conference, said improvement of the sanity code is the aim of the Atlanta meeting—not a rebellion against it.

"We want a workable, practicable code," he said. "And to be allowed to do for athletes all that can be done for other students."

Gus Lesnevich Or His Manager Must Pay Fine

Cincinnati, May 11.—(AP)—Gus Lesnevich, former world light-heavyweight boxing champ, or his manager, Joe Vella, must pay a $200 fine for failure to post a $2,500 weight forfeit for a bout here May 23 with Cleveland's Joey Maxim.

The Cincinnati boxing commission levied the fine yesterday.

The forfeit was to have been posted by May 1 to guarantee that the Cliffsides, N.J., battler would meet the 175-pound weight-limit-for the 15-round bout, which has been recognized as for the American light-heavyweight championship.

The commission said Maxim posted the $2,500 forfeit before the May 1 deadline.

Terms of the contract between the two boxers also provided that both would report here 14 days before the date for the scrap. Maxim arrived Monday but neither Lesnevich nor Vella has, as yet, put in an appearance.

Loftin Team Defeats Bell Arthur By 4-3

Loftin's Store and Bell Arthur baseball teams met Saturday afternoon at Loftin's Store. The host team won by a 4-3 score.

Right Fielder Tripp led the eight-hit attack of the victors with a two-for-five. Fields, with Bell Arthur accounted for three of the seven hits by the victors.

Haefner Blanks Tribe; Bill Veeck Traded Him Last Fall

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bill Veeck, dynamic head of the World champion Cleveland Indians, may have pulled "the boner of the year" when he preferred Early Wynn to Mickey Haefner in the Tribe's five-man winter deal with the Washington Senators.

Haefner didn't add to Veeck's joys yesterday when he pitched the Senators to a brilliant 1-0 shutout over the Indians in Cleveland. The little left-hander allowed only one hit—a first inning single by Larry Doby—as the amazing Nats rang up their eighth consecutive victory and their third in a row over Cleveland.

Haefner would be pitching for the Indians today had not Veeck been scared off by his advanced age of 36 and his unimpressive 1948 won and lost record of 5-13.

Although Mickey's lifetime record is below 500, he is a 667 pitcher against Cleveland. Including yesterday's triumph, he has beaten Cleveland 16 times while losing only eight.

Doby was the only Cleveland batter to reach third. In addition to his single, he got on base in the ninth when he was hit by a pitched ball. Four others reached base, all on walks. Haefner did not strike out a batter.

The victory, coupled with Philadelphia's triumph over the Chicago White Sox, left the Senators and Athletics tied for fourth place in the American League race at an even 500 percentage.

Hal Newhouser, Detroit's sterling southpaw, had a no-hitter until the fifth when the New York Yankees raked him for two runs and went on to knock him out of the box in the ninth inning to defeat the Tigers, 6-1. The victory increased the American League leaders' margin over the Tigers to four games.

Allie Reynolds went the route for the Yanks to register his third victory against one defeat. He received strong batting support from Tommy Henrich, who blasted a two-run triple, and Jackie Phillips, who hit a bases-loaded single. Johnny Groth of Detroit went hitless for his third straight game.

Yogi Berra, Yankee catcher, was hit on the head by a thrown ball during infield practice before the game. He was taken to a hospital where X-rays showed no fracture. He accompanied the team to Cleveland.

Gerry Priddy batted in both runs to lead the St. Louis Browns to a 2-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox. The victory snapped a 10-game losing streak for the Browns. Priddy doubled in Dick Kokos with St. Louis' first run in the third inning and broke up the game in the last of the ninth with a home run.

Charlie (Red) Embree permitted the Sox only four hits including a first inning home run by Ted Williams. Losing Pitcher Chuck Stobbs allowed only three hits, but all figured in the scoring.

The Athletics got only three hits but drew 11 bases on balls off loser Billy Pierce, Marino Pieretti, Bob Kuzava and Matt Surkont to defeat the White Sox 5-0 in a night game in Chicago. Joe Coleman pitched the shutout, doling out five hits for his second straight against three losses.

The entire National League card was wiped out by rain.

She Came To Watch Brother.. Now Is Top Pitcher With Boys

By EUGENE PRICE

A freshman girl from Oxford, N. C. who came to East Carolina Teachers College to see her brother play third base for the Pirates baseball team has become the top pitcher in the college BOYS amateur softball loop.

Besides being a star softball pitcher, Ann has another distinction. She is the only female bat boy in the North State baseball conference and perhaps in intercollegiate baseball.

Ann Hester, the only lass ever to play in the East Carolina boys softball league, has pitched five victories to date, including a no-hitter to put her team on the top of the amateur league.

And she isn't playing with a bunch of sisters either. The league boasts the best male softball material found on the campus.

Approximately nicknamed "Tom," Ann gained sectionwide recognition when she hurled the "Geeks" to a 5-0 no-hit victory in the opening game of the amateur league.

Only once this season has she tried her hand at pitching for a girls team. She pitched three innings in that game. Nine girls faced her, all nine of them were struck out.

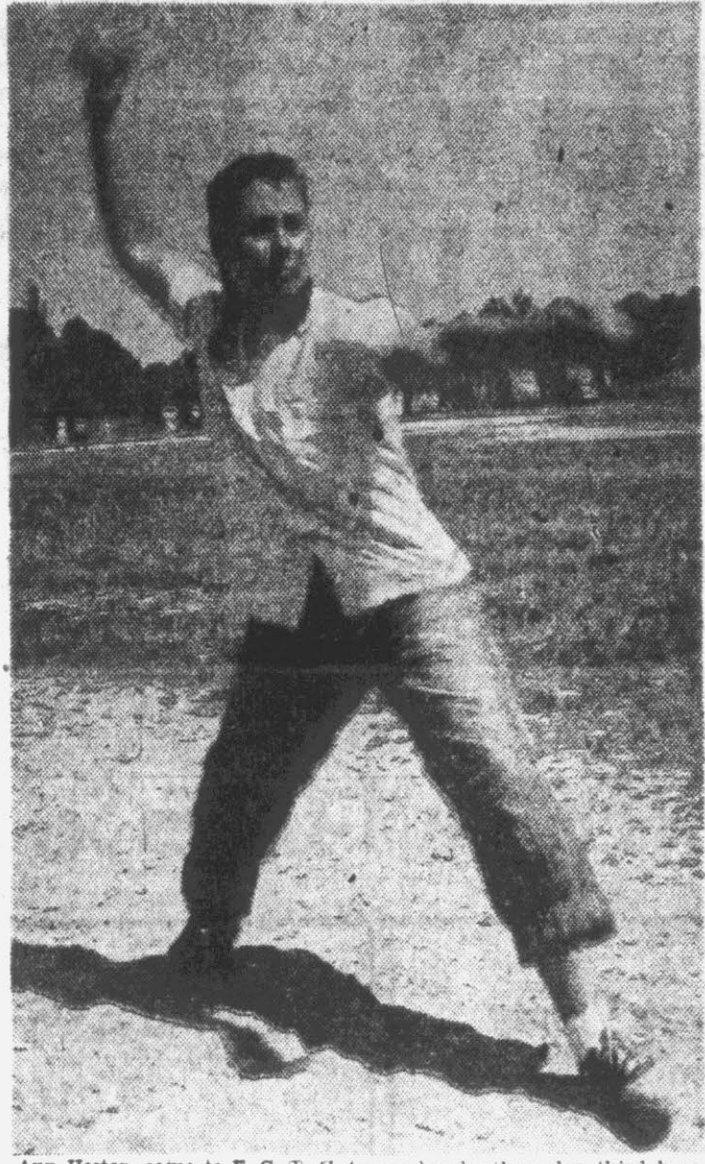

And to the softball fans of the Greenville section it looked like the Oxford freshman was headed toward a career as a professional girls team softball pitcher. But Ann says "No." "I like living on the farm too much for that," she explained.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hester, own a 350 acre farm near Oxford.

She assumed the bat boy (or should we say bat-girl) duties for the ECTO Pirates when the 1949 season first began. Her number one interest in the team was seeing how her brother, third sacker Ben Hester, was doing. During regular games and practice sessions alike Ben has to keep on his toes lest he receive a verbal lashing—coach to player fashion, from his sister.

This summer Ann will tour the United States and even parts of Canada with the B. B. Knight Girls Softball team of Burlington. She won recognition as an under hand tosser with the team last season and hurled a no-hitter while with the Lucky Strike Girls team in Durham last season.

Though her fast underhand pitch and her dungees makes her look like one of the male softballs, Ann is a young lady... one hundred per cent. She likes all the things the other girls in Cotten Hall (freshman dormitory) like and likes sports a lot more than most of them.

Ann Hester, came to E. C. T. C. to see her brother play third base for the Pirates baseball team. Today she is the only bat girl in the North State Baseball Conference and a fireball hurler in the college boys amateur softball loop.

Turnabout

McAlester, Okla., May 11—(AP)—The usual procedure of man hit ball was just about reversed in a Class D Sooner State League game last night.

It was all ball hit man, as Ardmore beat McAlester, 7-5.

Eight batters were hit by pitched balls. Officials believe this is a new league record and possibly surpasses anything written into record books in other leagues.

Fifty Netters In Tennis Tourney At Chapel Hill

Chapel Hill, May 11—(AP)—Fifty players from seven schools have registered for the annual Southern Conference tennis tournament. The net meet begins tomorrow afternoon and will continue Friday and Saturday.

Representatives of the seven colleges will meet here tonight to make the draw. E. Victor Seixas of North Carolina, defending singles champion, is expected to be seeded number one and Fred Kovaleski of William and Mary, probably will be number two.

Seixas, who ranks seventh in national ratings, is undefeated in college play this year and has led the Tar Heels through an undefeated season.

The Tar Heels are scheduled to meet the strong Davidson team here today and Seixas will meet Oliver (Bo) Roddey, Davidson ace who is expected to draw one of the top seedings in the tourney.

Thirty-Two Open Wilson Tourney

Wilson, May 11—(AP)—Thirty-two shotmakers today teed off in the opening round matches of the North Carolina Amateur Golf championship tournament.

Their qualifying scores on the Wilson Country Club yesterday enabled them to enter the championship flight.

Roger McManus of Raleigh was the medalist with a 37-34-71. His fellow townsman, Avery Beck, is the defending champion.

Promoter Louis Expanding Fast

Chicago, May 11—(P)—Promoter Joe Louis opened his new office yesterday and then shadow-boxed with questions about where the business would flourish.

Joe conceded that his international boxing club was on the verge of hooking-up Madison Square Garden in New York, with Detroit Olympia, and Chicago stadium for an excellent fistic corporation. But the pattern of assigning choice bouts, Louis didn't know.

There is plenty of money behind the I. B. C., with wealthy sportsmen Arthur M. Wirtz and James D. Norris as Joe's colleagues.

Furthermore, James Norris, Sr., father of Joe's partner, is a member of the Madison Square Garden board of directors and executive committee. The Garden is in the process of absorbing the 20th Century Sporting Club directed by the now retiring Mike Jacobs.

That presumably means that Louis can step into Mike's shoes as the game's top promotional figure.

Chicago has landed Louis' first big venture, the June 22 bout between Eard Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott for Joe's vacated heavyweight crown. It will be at Comiskey Park.

After that what?

The Walcott-Charles winner is under contract to meet Lee Savold—If the latter beats the winner of the coming Freddie Mills-Bruce Woodcock English production.

This bout, Louis admitted, could go to New York—if the New York state athletic commission will recognize it as a world title affair.

Olympic Walker In 31-Mile Event

Cincinnati, May 11—(AP)—Ernest Weber of the New York Germania American AC, who was a member of the American walking team in the 1948 Olympics, has entered the national AAU 50,000 meter walking championship to be staged here next Sunday. It was announced today.

Sebastian A. Linehan, national AAU walking chairman, said Weber was the third member of the 1948 Olympic team to enter the 31-mile grind. Entries were received earlier from John M. Deni of Pittsburgh and Adolph Weinacker of Michigan State College.

Only three players ever have won the American League batting championship four times or more—Ty Cobb, Harry Heilmann and Ted Williams.

Sam Breadon, Cardinals' Owner, Died Last Night

St. Louis, May 11—(P)—Sam Breadon, the David Harum of the baseball world, is dead.

The 72-year-old former St. Louis Cardinal owner died of cancer at St. John's Hospital last night. His wife and their daughter, Mrs. Robert E. Goss, were at his bedside.

Funeral arrangements were not announced immediately.

In 27 years as head of the Red Birds, including some lean ones in the old days, Breadon led the club to nine pennants and on six occasions went on to a world championship.

From a $200 initial investment in 1917, Breadon built up the club to a $3,000,000 organization—the amount he is reported to have received from Robert Hannagan and Fred Saigh in 1947. Saigh later bought out Hannagan.

Breadon became president of the Cardinals in 1920 after he had purchased a majority of the stock. He replaced Branch Rickey who had been president. Rickey held his other job of manager.

In 1926 Breadon brought Rickey into the front office where the sport made the best office team the park has seen.

Together they started the farm system under which minor league clubs were helped financially or bought outright. Through this system the Cardinals got the players who carried them into so many pennants and the money that put the club on a sound financial footing.

Duke To Attempt Breaking String Of Twenty Wins By Deacons Today

By The Associated Press

Duke tried today to snap Wake Forest's baseball string of 20 victories this season without a defeat. But Wake Forest Coach Lee Gooch indicated he'd be surprised if the Blue Devils did it.

His team "will be stronger from here on out," he commented. "We've been in a hitting slump against the big four. Now we've got our eye." After the Duke game, Wake Forest plays big four clubs in four of its five remaining games.

The other two clubs that comprise the big four also play today—North Carolina is at North Carolina State.

The Wake Forest coach says North Carolina, two-time victim of his club, is the team most likely to break the Deacon victory mark.

A couple of North State conference games complete the baseball program today for major colleges in the state. High Point is at Elon and Atlantic Christian at Lenoir-Rhyne. Atlantic Christian defeated Western Carolina Teachers yesterday, 4-3.

Golf and tennis round out today's college sports program. North Carolina's undefeated tennis team was host to a strong Davidson squad. It was a prelude to the Southern Conference tennis championships opening at Chapel Hill tomorrow. Seedings and pairings for the championships will be announced tonight.

Nationalization Did Little To Change Bank Of England Policy

London, May 11.—(P)—The Old Lady of Threadneedle Street has been an honest woman for more than three years.

The Old Lady, as most people know, is a familiar name for the Bank of England. Public ownership, which took effect March 1, 1946, made her an "honest woman"—or, as bank and British treasury officials agree, it "legalized the position."

It didn't change it much otherwise. The 255-year-old bank manages the national debt, issues money, stores the nation's thinning gold hoard, sells and redeems government securities, controls foreign exchange, and does any other needful financial chores. It did all these things before nationalization.

This whole arrangement grew up informally, with the government simply using the privately owned bank of England as its banker. Its 14,563,000 pounds of stock paid hand-some 12 per cent dividends.

Taking it into government hands was the first nationalization project of the labor government.

Prof Harold Laski, a Socialist intellectual who was head of the labor party at that time, stated the Socialist case: "We can not achieve a planned economy without control of the central bank."

So the government took it over by act of Parliament, with little political opposition. It paid off the stock at 400 pounds ($1,600, in government securities for each 100 pounds $400) share, but cut the interest rate to three per cent. Quadrupling of the stock and quartering the interest rate gave the old shareholders the same income on their investment. Only one clause gave the government more power. All the other banks in the country are privately owned; the nationalization bill authorized the bank to "make recommendations to bankers" and issue directions to reinforce them.

Thus the government, through the bank, gained direction of banking policies. So far it has not needed to use that power.

Meantime, the Old Lady of Threadneedle Street goes her way as always, handing day to day operations without government interference.

The bank was founded because the government was broke. William III was battling France in Flanders and needed money. A syndicate headed by Sir John Houblon, a Huguenot merchant refugee from France, offered the government 1,200,000 pounds ($4,800,000) in return for a bank charter. In addition the bank got eight per cent on its money plus 4,000 pounds ($16,000) a year bonus—making an income of a neat 100,000 pounds ($400,000) a year for the bank on its first loan.

The bank is still guarded at night by a detachment of Royal guardsmen—a practice stemming from the Gordon riots of 1780 when troops had to be called out to protect the bank.

Eighteen years later the bank stored a corpse—and kept it on "deposit" for 135 years.

One of its clerks, William Daniel Jenkins, was a giant of a man, six feet seven and one half inches tall. When he died in 1798, his sister feared such a huge corpse would be a great prize for body-snatchers. She asked the bank to bury him in its inner courtyard. Jenkins' body stayed there until 1933, when it was moved to the cemetery during the rebuilding of the bank.

The huge stone edifice covers three acres. It still has an inner court, where red and yellow tulips and brilliant daffodils bloom in April.

The bank's reputation for holding money securely was safely assured within the first five years of its founding. John Toland an eminent Irish writer of the time, wrote that even foreigners felt their money was safe there. Since then, the term "safe as the bank of England" has become a phrase to emphasize a sure thing.

Black Jack Holds Special Services On Mothers' Day

Dr. Leo Jenkins, academic dean of East Carolina Teachers College was the speaker at "Mother's Day" exercises at Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church last Sunday evening. Rev. J. R. Davidson, pastor of Black Jack Free Will Baptist church, presented the speaker. An overflow congregation attended the meeting.

The exercises opened with singing by the congregation of "All Hail the Power. The choir sang "Church In the Wildwood."

Newman Lewis, principal of Chiod school, presented Mrs. J. B. Spilman, who officiated at the selection of mothers and presentation of flowers. Mrs. B. R. Hardee, 86, was the oldest mother present, Mrs. Mary L. Buck, 83, Mrs. Gertrude Tripp, 80, and Mrs. Ada Campbell, 79, were next.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Arnold who had been married the longest, Mrs. Nina Ruth Burroughs was the youngest mother present.

The impressive program was as follows:

Duet, "My Dream Mother, Mrs. Lester Dixon and Mrs. Elmer Dixon. Selection, Community Chapel, Mrs. Norman Porter, Mary Frances Porter, Roy Burroughs, Clarence Stokes, and Della Ann Stokes, accompanist. Selection, County Quartet, John Conway, Jr., Kervin Conway, Edward Conway and Mrs. Julia Nabe, and Mr. Manning accompanist.

Selection, Craven County quartet. Selection, Black Jack quartet, Mrs. Cotton Briley, James Mills, Jr., Quincy Burroughs and Clarence Stokes. Song by the choir, "Home, Sweet Home."

Selection, Conway Trio. Selection, Community chapel. Selection, Craven County quartet. Solo, "Sweetest Mother," Mrs. Roy P. Gaskins, accompanied by Mrs. James Page.

The congregation sang "God Be With You 'Till We Meet Again." J. S. Smith pronounced the benediction.

Ushers for the "Mother's Day" services were Elmer Haddock, Lester Dixon, Furney V. Gaskins and Charlie W. Harper.

Mrs. James Page was pianist, Mrs. Lester Dixon, choir director.

The arrangements committee, Mrs. Heber Dixon, Mrs. Griffin Rouse, Mrs. Rufus Mills, Mrs. Zeno Dixon and Mrs. Gertie Spencer.

Flowers were donated by Ruel W. Tyson, Charles P. Gaskins, S. G. Wilkerson and Sons' Funeral Home, Greenville Fertilizer Company, D. T. House, Jr., John Dixon Sunday School Class, Black Jack Sunday School and Dr. Paul E. Jones.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

Peddler of Dreams

By Peggy Dern

Chapter 17
Two days later Garrett came to her triumphant, a great pile of manuscript in his hands.
"Well, here it is, Fliss—THE book! Now that I've finished it, I'm almost afraid to mail it," he confessed.
The manuscript looked very impressive. It was thick brown envelope, with three even more impressive-looking blocks of red sealing wax on the back flap, and addressed in Garrett's dashing hand to one of the leading publishers in New York.

Garrett was keyed up, excited. He insisted that Felicity come with him into town to mail the book.
"This calls for a celebration, Fliss," he told her. "Get Cornelia to give the children their lunch and we'll have lunch in town and go to a movie. This is an Occasion!"
"Go ahead, Fliss," coaxed Cornelia. "I'll manage well—and you deserve a treat. Please go!"

Best and so Felicity, donning her very best dress, tucked herself into the car beside Garrett and they drove into town.
When Garrett had seen the last of his precious package, he cradled Felicity's elbow in his palm, drew her close to him and bent his handsome head above her. There was a look in his eyes that brought her heart trembling into his throat.
"And now, where do we go from here? You're the boss. Luncheon here or across the bridge?" he demanded recklessly.

Felicity gasped at the bare thought.
"Luncheon at that cafeteria down on Clematis Street," she told him firmly.
"Cafeteria? But, my darling, this is an Occasion! There's a place on the other side—a patio—in one of those quaint little courtyards they call Via Parigi, or something, where there are obelisk fountains for pavement and green grass thrusts up between the stones. In the center there's a very old tiled fountain where there are tropical lilies and goldfish that weigh a pound or more, and beds of flowers around the walls—" he began.

"And where the tip for the waiter would be more than the price of a full meal for both of us at the cafeteria," she cut in swiftly.
"You win, darling," he said after a moment. "It's what you want, always, darling—from here on out." Luncheon proved to be excellent and Felicity enjoyed the feeling of leisure and elegance brought on by the knowledge that she wouldn't have to clear the table or wash the dishes.

Impishly she confessed as much to Garrett, who studied her for a moment and demanded, "Fliss, are you a fraud? A lovely, darling fraud who just pretends to like the way you live?"
"Of course not, Garry," she answered. "Of course I'd like the children to have a real home, with—oh, with a garden to keep, and a back yard to play in, and all that. But I don't mind a bit—anything except washing dishes. Isn't that a shameful confession? All these years when I've done it—and yet I've never learned to like it!"

"Then just as soon as we're married," Garrett said firmly, "I'll have an electric dish-washing machine installed in the kitchen, and learn to operate it myself!"
Felicity was startled into a momentary revelation.
Something he saw in those startled brown depths made Garrett say very low, his voice not at all steady, "Didn't you know, Fliss?"
"Know—what?" she stammered, her voice so shaken that it was little more than a gust of words.
"That I love you, of course, darling."

Garrett smiled faintly. "Then you'd probably be the only person in our world who didn't know," he said. "Ma Green—Jay—even Mrs. Fleming."

He looked swiftly about the place and chuckled.
"Give me credit for a soul filled with romance, sweet," he said. "I always seek the most romantic possible spots in which to propose to my girl. I had it all planned out. A certain lovely, secluded spot beside the ocean; a full moon; the air soft with flower-scent and the tang of the sea. And I was going to say it in words so beautiful that you could never forget them as long as you lived."

"I never can—anyway!" said Felicity huskily. "And this is just as romantic a spot as I could have wanted. Oh, Garry, are you—sure?" Her voice pleaded for reassurance of something so lovely that she could scarcely make herself believe it.

"I was never so sure of anything in my life, my dearest sweet," he said, his eyes adoring her. "Marry me—tomorrow!"
"But you know I can't marry you. There are—the children."

Garrett thrust his fingers through his hair in a little characteristic gesture that she loved. Suddenly he shoved back his chair, helped her to her feet and as they walked out, he said grimly, "There's a way. There's got to be a way. I suppose you wouldn't consent to marry me and bring the children, too? I'm pretty crazy about that family of yours, you know."

Felicity shook her head and, though there were tears in her eyes, she managed a smile as she answered. "That wouldn't work out. The children would feel in your way, and that would make them unhappy."

"It's got to. There's got to be a way! And I'll find it, just as soon as my book is accepted!"
They went to a movie and, though it was a picture widely advertised and supposed to be very good, neither of them was conscious of anything that took place on the screen. They were conscious only of their shoulders touching; of the fact that they were together here in a little world all their own. They loved each other. And something would have to happen so that they could have each other.

Patrolman Found
$12,000 In Gutter

New York, May 10.—(AP)—A big blob of grease fell on the windshield of a police car from an oil truck today forcing patrolman Gilbert Orr to get out in the rain.
He spotted a pink rag in a gutter and picked it up to use to wipe off the grease. He noticed the rag was knotted at four corners and felt heavy.

He took it to the car and opened it. Out spilled an even $12,000 in cash. There were seventy-eight $100 bills, seventy-five $50's, and many smaller ones.
Police higher-ups were mystified by the find. No such loss had been reported anywhere in the metropolis recently.

Scott Says N. C. Can't Afford Turn Down Road, School Bonds

Raleigh, N. C., May 11.—(AP)—Governor Scott opened a campaign last night to convince North Carolinians they need school and road bonds to "advance to greatness."

He declared the state cannot afford to turn down a $200,000,000 road bond issue and a $25,000,000 school building bond issue.

Voters will cast their ballots June 4 on the issues.

Speaking by radio from his capitol office, Scott urged the state to show again the courage to go forward it showed under Aycock and in 1921.

"I believe that as we expand road service and educational opportunity for all," declared the Governor, "the state will be opening the way for North Carolina to advance to greatness."

"I ask you, therefore, with all the earnestness I possess not to permit these bond proposals to be defeated."

Scott scored "loose talk about the danger of wasting" in a rapid program of building secondary roads. It will not be necessary that all the money be spent during his administration, he said.

He explained that the work can be spread over a number of years if good management requires it.

The Governor also asserted that the rural road program would benefit other highways. He said that because of special funds set aside for rural roads, more of current highway revenues could be used to restore primary highways to first-rate condition.

Voting for the $25,000,000 school bond issue, said Scott, would round out a step forward in education.

High School Glee Club Gives Annual Concert

Between 300 and 400 people gathered in the Greenville high school auditorium last night to hear the 20th annual concert by the high school glee club under the direction of Miss Ona Shindler.

The hour-long program featured sacred songs, contemporary music, spirituals, and American folk songs presented by the mixed chorus, boys and girls glee clubs, a double trio, the boys quartet, and high school soloists.

Particularly outstanding in the program, according to an informal poll in a high school music class this morning, were the spiritual solo "I'm so Glad Trouble Don't Last Always" by Barbara White, and the spiritual "Climbin' Up the Mountain" by the boys' quartet.

"Of course I am always aware of ways the group can improve its singing, because I want it to be perfect, but I think all the singing did very well last night, Miss Shindler commented today.

The sacred songs included in the program were "Heavenly Light," "The Lord's Prayer" and "Beautiful Savior" by the mixed chorus, and "Courage," a baritone solo by Sam Northrop.

Contemporary music included "Blow Thou Winter Wind," "The Sea Gypsy" by the boys glee club, "April Showers" by the junior high double trio, "My Lover is a Fisherman" by the girls glee club, and "Robins in the Rain."

Spirituals on the program were "I'm so Glad Trouble Don't Last Always" by Barbara White, "The Old Ark's a-Moverin'" by the mixed chorus and "Climbin' Up the Mountain" by the boys quartet composed of Carl Denton, Bobby Odum, Northrop and Howard Proctor.

Folk songs were "Cindy," "I Dream of Jeannie," "Nellie Was a Lady" and "Charlottown."

"America, the Beautiful" was sung as a postlude.

Mrs. Carl V. Gilbert was accompanist for the program.

Potato Blight In Pitt Spreading

County Agent S. C. Winchester said this morning the late blight which has done considerable damage to the Irish potato crop in other sections has begun to spread in Pitt County.

The county agent pointed out that damp weather is favorable to the rapid growth of the blight fungus and if potato crops are not treated by local farmers the damage to the Pitt county potato crop may be "serious."

Although rainy weather today over most of the county prevented farmers from dusting and spraying potato plants, Winchester reported that many farmers have secured the necessary chemicals so they may treat the potato plants against the blight as soon as weather conditions permit.

of the times that we strengthen our public school system."

The chief executive said that when the 1921 road building program was started, the state's banking resources totaled $441,000,000.

"Today," he said "they are close to $2,000,000,000 or nearly five times as great."

He said the new bonds could be sold at a fraction of the interest charged when the first road bonds were issued, in 1921, he declared, the market did not want North Carolina bonds and interest rates never fell under four per cent.

"Today if we offer $200,000,000 of road bonds to the market," he said, "they will sell readily, so bankers tell me, at no more than 1.75 per cent interest. We are better able to borrow this money now and pay it back at this small interest charge than we were to borrow $25,000,000 in 1921."

Want A Pet?

There are about 25 or 30 dogs dogs in the city dog pound, taken up off the streets by the dog catcher, that have not been claimed by owners. The city ordinance provides for disposing of dogs running at large. Members of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have suggested that persons desiring pets may pay the nominal fee and obtain a pet by calling 3141, the police department.

Police Chief Lester D. Page said the dogs will be held several days awaiting owners or others to claim the dogs.

'Woman In Case' Indicted By Jury

Raleigh, May 11.—(AP)—In a surprise move, the Wake County grand jury yesterday indicted Mrs. Daphne Cone Privette and John Robert Bridges for the first degree murder of Mrs. Privette's husband, Keston Norris Privette, last Feb. 7.

At Bridges' trial in Wake Superior Court last month, Mrs. Privette freely admitted that she and Bridges were engaged in an illicit love affair.

Bridges was a boarder in the home occupied by the Privettes. Grand jury members called Bridges from his cell on death row at Central Prison in yesterday's action.

Mrs. Privette was not in town when the jury acted. She has been free on $200 bond. Other than Bridges, Wake County Sheriff Robert Pleasant was the only witness summoned by the grand jury before it returned the true bill.

Solicitor William Y. Bickett said he has no intention of trying Bridges on the charge.

the committee, and start questioning witnesses or take any part in the doing.

When a non-member of a committee wants a hand in what's doing, he has to ask permission to take part. The most recent example of that happened with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

This committee is probably the most distinguished in Congress, and is very proud of itself. Senator Tom Connally, Texas Democrat, is chairman. And at his right hand sits Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Michigan Republican.

This committee has been holding hearings every day on the Atlantic pact. Two Republican senators—Donnell of Missouri and Watkins of Utah—who are not members of the committee, asked permission to sit in and question witnesses.

Both senators are critical of the pact. But before they had a chance to ask a question, Connally accused them of wishing to oppose and filibuster against the pact.

Finally, when it came time to ask witnesses question—after all the committee members had finished asking—Connally informed the witnesses that the two senators were not committee members and were being allowed to ask questions only by courtesy of the committee.

Watkins walked out Monday feeling that he had been "lectured and humiliated long enough" by Connally. Connally said Watkins and Donnell had been using up two-thirds of the committee's time with their questions.

Taking note of all this, the Washington Post suggests that the professional staffs which work with the various committees hold seminars, or study periods, for congressmen who are not on a certain committee but would like a fill-in before voting time.

This might help. But most congressmen probably would say they had too much other business to find time for seminars. Congress is likely to go on as usual.

weather as an added argument for providing country children with more efficient transportation to and from school.

Winning frequent applause and laughter from his audience by his humorous and picturesque expression of ideas, the governor described crowded conditions in many of the state's schools. "Most of you," he told the students, "graduated not because you knew anything, but because others were waiting to take your places in the classroom."

"North Carolina," he stated, "presents a perfect picture for the atomic age." Industry in the North, he said, is being decentralized as a result of policies begun in the war years. Industrial plants are now being scattered throughout the country, and more ports are being developed, he explained, to prevent disastrous destruction in the event of war. With good country schools, adequate electrification, the development of ports and water transportation facilities, and a fine system of roads, the North Carolina of the future need be second to no other state in the nation, the governor stated.

"We will make our state," he said, "the California of the East in the field of agriculture and the Pennsylvania of the South in the field of industry."

In a review of the work of the last General Assembly, he praised the state's lawmakers for the progress made in providing funds for the care of mental patients and for anti-tuberculosis work. "We rural people," he said, "eliminated tuberculosis among cows a long time ago. The state can do the same for its people." He stated that much progress was also made in providing a more adequate hospitalization program, improving schools for Negroes, and in furthering building programs in state educational institutions.

Appropriations of the last legislature and possible federal aid in the future, he said, will cause teaching to be recognized as a profession and will help it "to come into its own." Inequities in compensation of teachers in comparison with that in other fields of work have too long, he said, robbed the schools of some of their best personnel.

President John D. Messick of East Carolina, introducing Governor Scott to the students, described him as "a people's governor" and praised him for his leadership in North Carolina.

Milton Fields of Scotland Neck, editor of the "Teecon," year book of East Carolina Teachers College, presented the governor with a copy of the 1949 edition, which is being distributed among students at the college today. The college choir, directed by Dr. Karl V. Gilbert, gave a program of music in honor of the governor's visit to the campus.

Masterpiece In Art

Loughborough, Eng., May 11.—(AP)—Artist Thomas Warbis doesn't take a lot of trouble over his painting.

He splashes the colors—dozens of them—with a bold brush . . . or his bare fingers . . . or an old stick with a chewed end.

He lets his cat, Jill, pad over the fresh paint, sit on it and swish her tail over it.

And while turning out his masterpiece "Figure 8: Skegness" he spilled a saucer of paint on it by accident, smudged it, tried erasing, muttered "oh shucks" and let it ride.

But sponsors of a local art show thought "Figure 8: Skegness" was good enough to hang.

Critics praised it. Said the Leicester Mail: "A fine specimen of modernism by the Barrow-on-Soar artist Thomas Warbis."

They found later that Artist Warbis is six years old.

Tommy's father Alfred, a commercial artist, said he found Tommy's venture in modern art while looking for packing paper to send his own pictures to the exhibit.

"I sent the picture as a joke and a test of people's knowledge of art," he moaned. "And to think I've been trying for 40 years to get somewhere in art."

Thomas D. Pearce, the organizer, wasn't blushing.

"It's no worse than a lot of stuff which passes as modern art," he said.

When Tommy himself turned up at the exhibit, a caretaker threatened to bounce him.

He tried to stand on his head in a corner.

Leadership Available For New Scout Troop In County

Highlighting the monthly meeting of the Pitt District of the Boy Scouts of America Monday was an announcement by District Chairman Wyatt Brown that "trained leadership is available for a new Scout troop, and we are anxious to have some Greenville organization sponsor a new unit."

Two coming events of interest to Pitt County Scouts were announced: the council camp at Camp Charles June 12 through July 23, and a Navy-sponsored trip to the Jacksonville, Florida, Naval Training Station for the Senior Scouting unit next month. The entire expenses of the trip to Florida will be paid by the Navy. Greenville's Senior Scouting unit is sponsored by the Rotary Club.

Sherman M. Parks, chairman of Camping and Activities in the Pitt District, reported that the Camporee in Washington, N.C., was well attended by scouts of the District, and several Pitt Scouts won Blue Achievement Ribbons, the highest awarded.

The chairman of the inter-racial vanda of the South in the field of industry.

national trade. The colony consists of three parts.

There is the island of Hong Kong which has an area of 32 square miles and contains the capital city of Victoria. There is the neighboring peninsula of Kowloon, a little more than three square miles in size, which was ceded to Britain in 1860 after the Anglo-French war against China. And there are the so-called new territories, containing 359 square miles, which China leased to England for 99 years in 1898.

Thus the territory actually belonging to Britain consists of the island of Hong Kong and the Kowloon peninsula. Since the new territories are leased they presumably will revert to China in 1998 (under normal circumstances) unless the lease is renewed.

Well, now, could Britain defend this possession if the Chinese communists should make an attack on it in force?

That certainly raises a great big question. Hong Kong is highly vulnerable to attack from the mainland because its huge population of something like 1,600,000 is largely dependent on the hinterland for food supplies. It would be difficult to feed a besieged Hong Kong by sea and the operation could only be carried out under cover of big scale naval and air operations.

In short, it strikes us that defense of Hong Kong against an all out communist attack would involve a major war. That likely would mean another world war. A decision along those lines may be what Britain will be up against.
