Communists Win Bloc Elections; Surprise Absent

Steamroller Votes In Hungary, Bulgaria And Eastern Zone Of Germany

By the Associated Press The communists shadow-boxed through three elections in Europe yesterday. They counted votes today and found, to nobody's surprise, they had won. The elections were in Hungary, Bulgaria and the eastern zone of Germany. The German voting continued today. Following the pattern laid down by the Soviet Union, there was but a single slate of candidates in each place, carefully chosen in advance by communist-controlled organizations. The Budapest government said first official figures on Hungary's voting for a new parliament showed 97.3 per cent in favor of the hand-picked slate. In Sofia the official tally made it appear that virtually every voter turned out to mark his ballot for the government. In Germany, the voters had a choice of voting "ja" or "nein" on a hand-picked slate of people's congress members. This "congress" is expected to set up a government to rival that of west Germany. Communist predictions for the election were for a virtually solid "ja" vote. In Hungary the voters theoretically could mark their ballots against the government list. There even were curtained booths for the purpose. But the government had campaigned for "open voting," making it obvious that those who used the booths would be suspected of casting "no" votes. A Hungarian interior ministry statement said only 1.9 per cent of the first 1,154,000 ballots counted were cast against the government slate. The official count this morning was: government, 1,128,000; against the government, 21,700; invalid ballots, 9,800. Absenteeism was about the only way a voter could safely register protest, but since no figures on those eligible to vote were issued, the absenteeism could not be checked accurately. These elections, the first since 1947, are expected to pave the way for the final step in communist domination of Hungary.

Brothers Held In Death Of Father

Morganton, May 16—(AP)—Two Burke county brothers, Herman and Clarence Walker, aged 24 and 30 respectively, are held in jail here without privilege of bond in connection with the death of their father, Benjamin Walker, Jr., 55, at their home in Glen Alpine Sunday evening. Sheriff Ray Sigmon said early this afternoon that in all probability the sons will be charged with murder, but that definite decision on this awaits a conference with James Farthing of Lenoir, sixteenth judicial district solicitor. The sheriff added that the brothers are not to clear about that what took place at the time their father was fatally hurt.

Invent Plane For Slow Landings

Boston, May 16—(AP)—A small plane which can fly as slow as 27 miles an hour and land on a field the size of a tennis court has been developed by two college instructors. Otto O. Koppen, professor of aeronautical engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Lynn Bollinger, a Harvard business school instructor, call it a "heliplane" because it combines the appearance of a conventional plane with the advantages of a helicopter.

Hard-Boiled Outlook

Attitude of this country as it gets set for Paris meeting with Russia is a realistic one; Threat of Russian aggression not lifted, as we see it

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, May 16—(P)—Show me you mean it (and it will take you a long time to prove it) and in the meantime I'll get ready for the worst, in case you try any tricks. That sums the attitude of this country as it gets ready to sit down and talk with Russia about peace. It's a hardboiled attitude, but it's realistic, and it was made clear in the past few days. On May 23 this country, Britain, France and Russia will meet in Paris to talk over their problems, which are world problems. Over the week-end—a week before the Paris meeting—the state department issued a statement which it called the "peace paper." Briefly, this is what it said: This country must help arm western Europe. It must start this year and keep on doing it for some years to come. So, in the eyes of the state department, western Europe must start armed a fairly long time. So, no matter what comes of the Paris peace talks, this country is serving notice it won't take any chances on Russia, although Russia wasn't mentioned by name in the "peace paper."

Housing Program Is Near Passage

Demo Leaders Hope For One Victory On Truman Record

Washington, May 16—(AP)—Democratic leaders hope to hand President Truman this week, at last, one major victory in his program. This would be in housing. The House tentatively set to vote for Thursday or Friday on the administration's multi-billion dollar housing bill. It calls for a far-flung program of slum clearance, low-rent public housing and farm housing aids. House passage would head the legislation toward the President's desk. The Senate approved it April 21 by a top-heavy 87 to 13 vote. However, there still is a possibility the measure may be delayed in the House Rules Committee. Moreover, Republicans and some Democrats are expected to try to amend it on the floor. Meanwhile, other parts of Mr. Truman's program still hit rough or slow going. In the first four and a half months of this Congress Mr. Truman has been passed only one major bill based on his domestic legislative proposals of the 1948 political campaign. That one, continuing rent control, was not quite what he wanted, in a number of ways.

Fourteen Hurt On School Bus

Winston-Salem, May 16—(AP)—Fourteen Negro school children were injured this morning in the Old Town community when a school bus skidded along a bank. The children were rushed immediately to Kate Bitting Reynolds hospital for examination, but most of the injuries were found to be minor cuts and bruises. Only two of the 13 were admitted to the hospital, the others being sent back to school after first aid treatment.

No Intervention In Picketing Of Mill At Tarboro

Tarboro, N. C., May 16—(P)—Tarboro police chief W. Robert Worsley said today he had acceded to a demand by pickets at the strike-bound Hart cotton mill not to intervene. Worsley said he took two members of the 13-man police force to the plant today at the time the first shift normally would have reported. He said a crowd of about 250 was gathered and that leaders told him not to interfere. Worsley said that rather than oppose the throng with only two men he elected to return to headquarters. There was no sign of trouble at the plant. Earlier, Mayor H. I. Johnson had said he would not use the police as "strike breakers." The town's force has been working 12-hour shifts since Friday. The plant's 800 workers have been out on strike over a contract dispute.

Senator Says Screening Program May Be Investigated

Commencement exercises held at East Carolina Teachers College this morning marked the graduation from the college of 216 students. Degrees were conferred in the Wright auditorium by Dr. John D. Messick, college president, upon 15 candidates for the master of arts degree; 42 for the bachelor of arts, liberal arts degree; and 159 for the bachelor of science, professional degree for those taking courses in teacher-training. Dr. John Dale Russell, nationally known educator and director of the Division of Higher Education of the U. S. Office of Education, was principal speaker of the morning. The Rev. J. A. Nelson of the Immanuel Baptist Church of Greenville pronounced the invocation. Introduced by President Messick as one who has been said to know more about higher education than any other man in the United States, Dr. Russell outlined such present trends in higher education as increasing enrollment in colleges and universities, a growing demand for training of various types, and a resultant expansion in the range of services offered by these institutions. Disturbing as changes are to many, he said, the colleges and universities have shown, especially during and since the last war, that they can readily adapt themselves to new types of instruction and to new ideas of service. "The machinery sometimes creaks," he stated, "but it goes on." The influence of higher education in society, he told the graduates, depends upon its product. Continued public support, he stated, depends on the use of their preparation by students toward the public good. "You must," he said, "convinced society that its investment has been wisely made." Exercises began at 10:30, when an academic procession of faculty members, graduates and special guests of the college moved into the Wright auditorium. The East Carolina orchestra, directed by Dr. R. R. Williams, played the professional. During the exercises the college choir, with Dr. Karl V. Gilbert as director and Mary Wallace Foy, student from Pollockville, as soloist, sang "Ballad of Brotherhood" by Joseph Wagner. Emma L. Hooper and Dr. O. Christine Wilton of the East Carolina faculty were co-chairmen of the commencement committee. Announcement of four awards and a scholarship was made as part of the morning's program. Robert L. Shuford of Thomasville received the John B. Christenbury Memorial Award given annually to an athlete on the basis of scholarship, character and service to the college. Lola P. Stephenson of Willow Springs received both the James Fenly Spear Jr. Memorial Award to a student of science and the Alexander

Tribunal Divided On Free Speech

Split 5-4 In Upholding Right When Used To Incite Anger

Washington, May 16—(AP)—Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said today the congressional inquiry into how the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) deals with communists in its fellowship program may expand into "other phases of commission operations." "It may be necessary," explained the former chairman of the joint congressional Atomic Energy committee, "to examine the entire clearance program of the commission." He referred to its program for clearing personnel for access to secret information. Hickenlooper, now ranking Senate GOP member of the joint committee, said that all employees of the AEC "should be above suspicion and most of them are." Hickenlooper stressed that loyalty to his government is not the sole qualification for clearance for access to classified material. "It's loyalty, character and association," he said. "And while a man may be basically loyal, his character or associations, or both might be subject to such criticism as to make him a poor security risk." A man who couldn't keep his mouth shut, Hickenlooper opined would not be a very good man to be permitted access to secret information even if his loyalty were beyond reproach. The fellowship inquiry was touched off last week by Senator Hoyt (D-NC). He told the Senate that a communist was studying nuclear physics at the University of North Carolina on a commission fellowship.

Gerhart Eisler Is Denied Bail By Court In London

London, May 16—(AP)—A magistrate in Bow Street court today adjourned until May 24 a hearing on whether communist fugitive Gerhart Eisler should be extradited to America. The hearing on the United States request began shortly after Eisler arrived at Bow Street court from Southampton. He claims asylum in Britain as a political refugee from the United States. The proceeding was brief. Eisler called the No. 1 communist in the United States, listened intently in the prisoner's enclosure while a Scotland Yard inspector testified that he took the fugitive from US justice of the Polish liner Batory Saturday night. Eisler had arrived at the court only a short time before. He was brought here by two husky policemen in a big black car. Apparently calm, he smiled and waved to four communists who paraded solemnly before the court with placards denouncing his arrest. The court refused a motion by Eisler's lawyer that he be permitted to go free on bail. Instead, the judge ordered Eisler who jumped $23,500 bail in the United States to go aboard the Polish liner Batory, "remanded in custody." That means he will spend the eight days before the next hearing in jail. Eisler was taken off the Batory at Southampton Saturday by Scotland Yard men. Four Polish diplomats were at the court when the car with Eisler arrived. Polish Ambassador Jerzy Michalowski had a date with Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin later in the day to protest because Scotland Yard men lugged the squirming Eisler from the ship.

Federal Govm't Steps Into Ford Strike Talks

Washington, May 16—(AP)—The federal government stepped into the Ford strike today in an effort to get a settlement. Walter Reuther, president of the CIO auto workers, visited Federal Mediation Director Cyrus S. Ching and talked with him about the strike. Coming out of Ching's office, Reuther told a reporter, in reply to a question, that Ching's agency conciliation service plans to "have a man there today"—meaning that the strike negotiations in Detroit. The union had asked the mediation service to intervene in the strike. President Henry Ford II gave a qualified approval to government intervention as the strike's cost in

Late Evacuation Of Foreigners In Shanghai Ending

Most Airlines Suspending Operations; Communications Cut Sharply

Shanghai, May 16—(AP)—The communists were knocking at the gates of Shanghai today. Most foreign airlines were suspending operations. The last evacuees were scurrying away. Communications with the outside world were sharply reduced. But Shanghai still waited for the reds with no great outward show of concern. The smashing efforts by the communists to take Woussing, the fortified section where the Yangtze and Whangpoo converge, have so far failed. Red Gen. Chen Yi's warriors have been at the edge of Woussing several times. But they have not been able to stay there. Ships still come and go. The Nationalists latest communique says the reds lost 500 dead and 800 prisoners around Woussing. Thwarted at Woussing the reds jabbed at defenses around Hung Jao airport. The Nationalists said they were driving them back. Hung Jao Airfield is only a stone's throw from Shanghai's old French concession. The airfield has not been in operation for several weeks. The few planes leaving Shanghai now take off from Lungwa airfield. The communists are about six miles from Lungwa. The British in what may be a final evacuation removed 157 persons to Hong Kong by flying boats. The evacuees included 130 British, 12 Indians, three stateless Europeans and 12 other nationalities. The Chinese government radio administration began moving its transmitter from the edge of town to the downtown area. During the movement radio-photo and radio telephone service were suspended. All commercial radio service was reduced as a result.

Bitter Campaign For House Seat

Last Minute Charges Of Irregularities In Heated Race

New York, May 16—(P)—A bitter four-cornered fight for a Congressional seat has brought last-minute charges of irregularities from the camps of Tammany Hall and Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr. The campaigning will continue late tonight for tomorrow's special election in the 20th Congressional district on Manhattan's west side. Benjamin Gassman, liberal party law committee chairman, charged yesterday that Tammy was planning to steal the election for municipal court justice Benjamin Shallock by using floaters. Abraham Kaplan, Shallock's campaign manager, answered that Roosevelt backers planned a mass invasion of the district by workers from outside the city and state. Roosevelt, who was turned down by Tammany for the Democratic nomination which went to Shallock, is running as the candidate of the liberal and four freedoms parties. Kaplan said Roosevelt supporters are spending almost $250,000 on the campaign to elect the late President's 35-year-old lawyer son by "force of money." William H. McIntyre, Republican and Dr. Annette T. Rubinstein, American labor party, are fighting it out with Roosevelt and Chalkley for the late Rep. Sol Bloom's seat in the normally Democratic district.

The reunion took place in the Greensburg county jail, from which Russell was released immediately.

Red Ink Forecast Stirs Lawmakers

Estimate That Govm't Will Go $3 Billions Into Red Next Year Raises Cries For More Economy And More Taxes

Washington, May 16—(P)—A week-end estimate that the government will go $3,000,000,000 into the red next year stirred up conflicting cries today for the economy and more taxes. The estimate was made for the senate-house tax committee by its staff of experts. They forecast a "moderate" business slump. They figured that in the fiscal year starting July 1 it would result in cutting the government's income by $2,100,000,000 and adding that much to the $900,000,000 deficit predicted in President Truman's budget. "That," said House Democratic leader McCormack (Mass) "is all the more reason for increasing taxes by $4,000,000,000 as President Truman repeatedly has suggested." In the Senate, however, Senator Russell (D-Ga) announced that he and some other Democratic members of the appropriations committee are drafting a bill to slice about $3,000,000,000 off federal spending. Russell said their plan: were started even before the report of the tax experts was issued. Senator Maybank (D-SC) suggested the $5,580,000,000 European aid program as a good place to cut. Senator McKellar (D-Tenn) chairman of the appropriations committee said he would "rather cut government expenditures than raise taxes." He would not say definitely that he would support any overall reduction if it appears later that appropriations will exceed revenue, but

Report Good Buy In Fryers And Broilers Today

Raleigh, May 16—(AP)—Fryers and broilers are a pretty good buy these days, the State Department of Agriculture reported today. In the first of a series of monthly tip sheets for restaurant operators the department reported that dressed and drawn fryers are selling at retail outlets at from 47 to 49 cents per pound as compared with 68 cents last year. "Your cooperation in featuring this item during the next three to five weeks will be of great help to the state's expanding fryer and broiler program," the letter to restaurant owners said. Idea of keeping restaurant owners posted on availability of North Carolina grown products grew out of conversation between Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine and M. M. Melvin, executive vice president of the N. C. Restaurant Association.

Secret Of Relaxation

It's Good To Know That General Clay, After His Work In Berlin, Wants To Go Fishing To Rest His Weary Nerves; Precedence; Hoover And 'Moby Dick'

I see by my newspaper that General Lucius Clay, having written some of the great history of our time, is hankering to get home from Germany so that he can go fishin'. Now that's grand news. It's good to know that our military commander on the cold-war front belongs to that great fraternity, which recognizes fishin' as one of the most important things in life. There's nothing which will put an overworked man on his feet quicker than to get back to nature with rod and line. There's no music so soothing to frayed nerves as the song of a running reel. But fishin' is more than a pick-me-up for weary nerves. By taking a chap out of the hurly-burly of everyday life it gives him a chance to get acquainted with himself. That's important, you know. Every-one ought to take time off about once in so often for a check-up on just what sort of guy he himself is. If you want to get acquainted with your fellow, go fishin' with him. If you want to get acquainted with yourself, do you likewise. So it isn't so surprising to find a host of distinguished men (and women, for that matter, among the disciples of Isaac Walton. They've learned the secret that puts them right with their maker, with their fellows and with themselves. It makes 'em fit, mentally and physically, and keeps 'em so. I don't know whether you ever had a President who wasn't a fisherman, but we've had many who were. Certainly there have been plenty among the incumbents of recent years, beginning with Mr. Truman. Among his immediate predecessors were F.D.R., (not overlooking Vice President Cactus Jack' Garner of Tennesse), Hoover, Cal Coolidge (the worm fisherman) and Teddy Roosevelt. Speaking of Mr. Hoover, did you ever hear the story of his big trout, Moby Dick? It was related to me over the luncheon table in London by Hugh Gibson, distinguished diplomat and author, who at that time was U.S. ambassador to Belgium. During a trip to the states Gibson had been Hoover's guest in the presidential summer camp at Rapidan, near Washington. The first

Texas Panhandle City Whipsawed By Big Tornado

Ruins Pounded By Heavy Rains, Huge Hail Stones; Hospitals Crowded

Amarillo, Tex., May 16 (AP)—Relief crews dug today into the debris of a tornado that whipsawed the southern part of this Panhandle early last night, leaving four or more dead. Hospitals were crowded with 98 or more injured. Red Cross relief officials flew from St. Louis to the stricken city of 102,000. Ambulances and highway patrol units funneled into Amarillo from a 200 miles radius. Heavy rains and hail, up to the size of a man's fist, drenched and pounded the ruins hampering relief work. South Amarillo, dotted largely by new homes of veterans, bore the brunt of the vicious cone of wild winds which destroyed or damaged up to 50 houses. Confusion prevailed. The stricken area of seven blocks was thronged with curious sight-seers, who slowed authorities in their search for casualties. An estimate of the complete toll of the tornado awaited the coming of daylight. Darkness shrouded the area, save for the eerie lights of cars, ambulances and trucks and lights flickering in the hands of rescuers. One hospital had 24 known injured and another had 20. Most suffered cuts and bruises but some were unconscious. Louis Nordyke of the Amarillo Globe-News said officials at the Tradewinds Airport in Amarillo reported 45 planes were destroyed and that two hangars were flattened. Damage there alone was estimated at $200,000. Nordyke said Massey-Harris, biggest farm implement dealer in the Panhandle, reported another $200,000 damage. Most of it was in badly needed wheat combines and other harvesting equipment. Tornadoes hit elsewhere in the Panhandle. They knocked out telephone and telegraph lines, but the damage at places except Amarillo was believed light. State highway patrol units from Lubbock, Plainview, Fort Worth and Wichita Falls came to assist in rescue work. Gov. Beauford Jester's office at Austin called for blood plasma. South Amarillo was a scene of twisted, grotesque wreckage. The twister missed the giant U. S. Helium plant, located in the direction from which the twister came. Ten or more cars of a moving Santa Fe freight train were also blown off the track. It was suddenly still, just before the twister hit, then it was like there was a great explosion.

Mrs. Winstead Luncheon Hostess

On May 12th, Mrs. John L. Winstead was hostess to the Athenium Book club at a luncheon in her home on Greene street.

The hostess' home was very lovely with arrangements of flowers depicting her artistic touch.

After a delicious luncheon the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Winstead who introduced the speaker, Mrs. Clara Mathis.

Mrs. Mathis in a most charming and interesting manner reviewed "The Dukays" by Lajos Zilahy, a fabulous story of the Hungarian aristocracy.

The character Christina, the eldest daughter of the Count Dukay, was considered to be the main character of the first half of the book. The next daughter, Zsa, the main character of the second half. It was quite interesting to note the development of each girl.

As is the general rule of extremely wealthy people regardless of nationality, these girls were left to governesses and tutors for training.

Christine, I would conclude, was of a rather superstitious nature. Since her entire youth was guided by statements of a fortune teller, the statement declared first that she would be honored by a king—King Charles of Austria kissed her hand in a ceremony which was enough to send her back to the first source.

This time she was told that she would hold the heart of the king in her hand. Christina was willing to bide her time until the king was fit to marry her in spite of the fact that he married and finally was the father of eight children. After many events King Charles died, an autopsy performed and Christina was asked to hold the physical heart of the king on a tray. This she considered the end of the prophecy.

Yes, the second daughter, was taught by a tutor who had revolutionary ideas unknown of course to the Dukays. This daughter, after marrying an aristocrat, who was a very handsome Italian and suffering a great deal of mental anguish, finally married a man who had recently written a book that was so entirely revolutionary that he served a prison term. She was so in sympathy with her husband's ideas that she divided up the tremendous estate among the tenants and employees, giving all the businesses of the estate to the community to share alike.

During the entire book Count Dukay is a very outstanding character. He is really a king in his own domain, making his own laws as to his many estates and especially his personal living, taking all pleasures regardless of wife, family or fellow man and giving nothing of himself to the worthwhile things of life. However, a very individual and attractive personality.

His only unselfish love was for Zsa who finally destroyed not only this one streak of unselfishness, but also his love for a short period, by her act of dividing up the expensive estate which was a gift from him. This act separated her so completely from him that he refused to see her. The shock so great to her that he could do this. She felt she had seen him in his true roll for the first time.

However, when World War I was declared he felt this was the end of everything and with this thought he collapsed. His last few moments

Beautiful spring flowers added charm to the occasion.

Rev. Leon R. Russell, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church was guest speaker. He said, "It is the responsibility of Christian people to create the atmosphere in which social evils cannot live. Most of the evils that have plagued mankind have died when the climate was not conducive to their life. Just so the beverage alcohol traffic will disappear with a change of climate. When we create an atmosphere in which it is unpopular, one in which the drinking of alcohol is not accepted, then it will disappear. Christian people must not conform to the world. It is their business to transform the world, to create the atmosphere instead of being transformed by it.

Another responsibility of Christians is that of redeeming agents for the people who have become the victims of beverage alcohol. We must devise means of helping those who would overcome the habit. Our method must be one of love and understanding instead of condemnation.

Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley, beautifully sang, "Smilin' Through."

Mrs. Chas. W. Brown led the devotional using I Thes. 5-17: "Pray without ceasing." Prayer is essential to Christianity, it is our only communication with God, Mrs. Brown said. Let's remember our noon day prayer. If we keep these chains of prayer going we can be sure God will answer to give us victory over the liquor traffic. The devotional was closed with the hymn, "Take Time to Be Holy."

The vice president, Mrs. Helen Higgs Kirkpatrick, held a short business session. She stated that plans were being made for the state convention which will take place in Greenville in October.

The meeting was closed with a prayer by Mrs. Richard E. Hardaway.

Students Of Music Give Commencement Recital At College

Students of music at East Carolina Teachers College gave a commencement recital in the Austin auditorium on the campus Saturday evening. Selections by vocal and instrumental soloists and by music organizations at the college made up the program.

The Woman's Chorus and the College Singers, directed by Dan E. Vornholt; and the College Choir of men and women students, directed by Dr. K. V. Gilbert, appeared in a series of numbers during the evening.

Soloists for the occasion included Mary Wallace Foy, Pollockville soprano; Audrey Louise Brooks Falcon, mezzo soprano; Alexander Livesay, Rocky Mount, tenor; and Robert Mays, Hopewell, Virginia baritone. Pianists who appeared on the program in solo numbers were Nell Dean Owen, Asheville and Nina Abernethy, Rocky Mount.

Other students of instrumental music who played during the evening were Edward D. Benson, Rocky Mount, trumpet; Donald Adcock flutist, and William Adcock, clarinetist, both of Durham; and Robert E. Gaskins, New Bern, trombonist. A brass quartet made up of Harold W. Grant, Selma; Rodney Roberts, Greenville; Boyd Elliott, Thomasville, and Robert Gaskins New Bern, appeared on the program.

Accompanists were Peggy Sapp, Leaksville, Maxine Maddrey, Sevier; Annette Hughes, Willard; Marilyn Maxwell, Greenville; Elizabeth Drake of the faculty; and Mrs. Margaret Gilbert, Greenville.

TB Takes Heavy Toll Of Indians

New Delhi —(AP)— More than half a million people die of tuberculosis in India every year, Health Minister Rajakumar Amrit Kaur recently reported.

The health minister frankly admitted that it was impossible to prevent the spread of this disease in India because of overcrowded cities and the scarcity of hospital beds and sanatoria for T.B. patients.

The Tuberculosis Association, with the cooperation of the Health Ministry, is embarking on an extensive campaign of anti-tuberculosis vaccination.

Christian Science Service
"Mortals and Immortals" was the subject of the lesson-lesson in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, May 15.

Golden Text: 1 Corinthians 15:55. This corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. Among the questions comprising the lesson-lesson were the following from the Bible: "But ye are not in the flesh but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you. Now if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his. Romans 8:9.

And from the Christian Science textbook by Mary Baker Eddy: "In Science man is the offspring of Spirit. Spirit is his primitive and ultimate source of being; God is his Father, and Life is the law of his being." Page 63.

Voice Of America Nearly 'Jammed Out' By Soviets

New York. —(P)—Ever listen to a radio while power saws, electric sweepers and razors were plugged into the same circuit?

This nerve-racking sensation is like what is happening in Russia, where Soviet jammers are trying to blot out shortwave broadcasts from Great Britain and the United States.

Since February 1948 the Russians have been interfering with American broadcasts. Early in April they stepped it up sharply, intent on wiping out foreign broadcasts completely.

This is in violation of the Madrid and Atlantic City Telecommunications convention, which Russia signed, and also the Cairo-Atlantic City Telecommunications regulations, to which Russia and the U. S. were signers.

Jamming a station is relatively simple. You simply broadcast irritating noises on the same wave length that is carrying the broadcast.

A reason frequently given for Russia's intensified campaign to blot out all incoming broadcasts in recent weeks is to block foreign opinion that the end of the Berlin blockade was a diplomatic defeat for Russia.

What is the United States doing to counteract this interference?

Instead of broadcasting only two hours daily, as formerly, it is on the air 24 hours a day.

Wave lengths are changed without warning.

All programs are transcribed and repeated over and over until another program begins.

In beaming news to Russia every available transmitter is utilized.

Engineers also have developed the "clipper" device, which increases the intensity of a broadcast at a slight sacrifice of total quality. It's the difference between a rifle and a shotgun the clipper plants its broadcast in a smaller area, like a bullet from a rifle, instead of spraying shot over the countryside.

The BBC and the voice of America recently have added four new programs, broadcast simultaneously over 61 transmitters. This is to necessitate division of jamming efforts so that their effect is lessened.

Voice of America officials say Russia has had to pull some domestic programs off the air and use the stations as jammers. Only a transmitter can jam another transmitter and to block it out completely five or six must be employed.

There is no interference in the satellite countries, such as Poland or Czechoslovakia, but the Soviet zone of Germany is blotted out.

American transmitters are located in New Jersey, New York, Massachusetts, Ohio and California.

These are augmented by four relay transmitters in Munich, one in Stuttgart, five that are leased from the BBC in Wofferton, England, two in Manila and another in Honolulu. All voice of America broadcasts originate in New York.

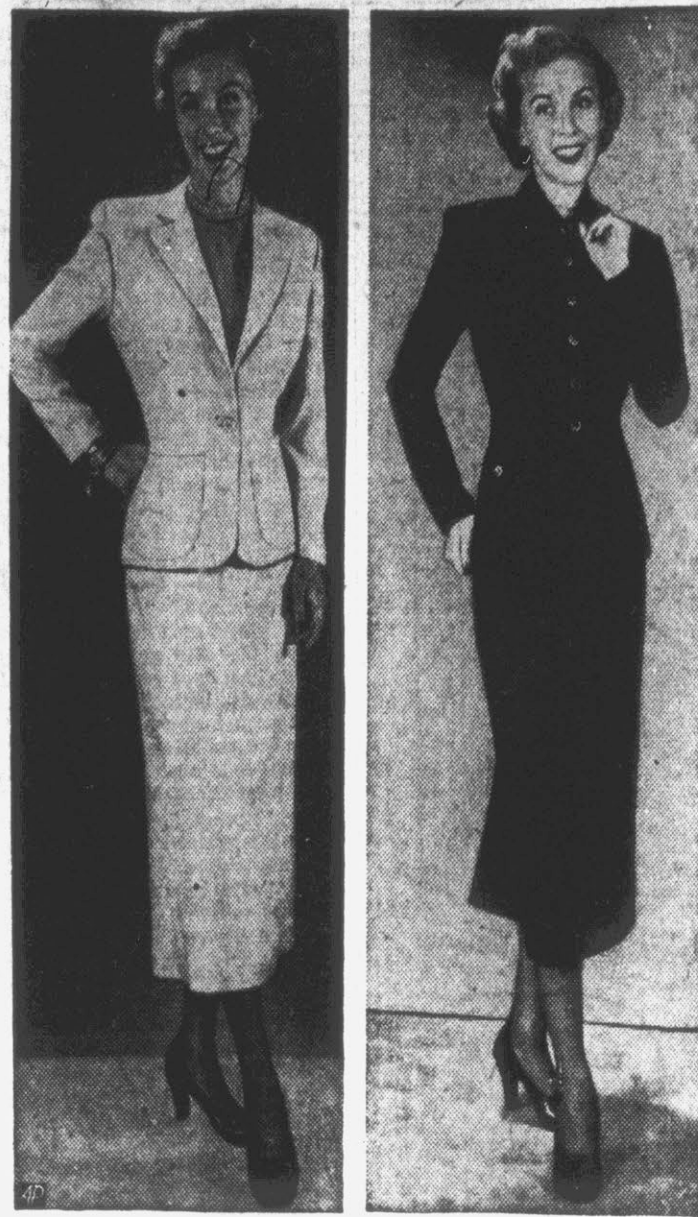

Britain operates a network of monitoring stations which locate and identify Russian jammers. They also take tape records at reception points in foreign countries.

According to monitoring reports, not more than 13 per cent of American broadcasts are received in Russia without interference.

Thirty-five per cent have interference, but can be understood.

Fifty-three per cent are blotted out altogether.

Red Oak News

"An Old-Fashioned Mother," a dramatic parable of a mother's love, in three acts by Walter Ben Hare will be presented by the Youthful Workers club of the Red Oak and Piney Grove communities at the Red Oak club house on Wednesday evening, May 18, at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Lawrence Tyson, housewife, mother and bookkeeper of Greenville will play the leading role as Aunt Deborah Underhill, a mother in Israel. Mrs. Tyson portrays this part beautifully and feelingly.

The part of her prodigal son is played by Robert Allen, a young farmer of this community. This is Robert's first performance in a play of this type, but it is surprising how well he assumes this role.

treasurer of the Pitt County Council of the Home Demonstration clubs. She says she hopes her ankle won't give out on her before her wonderful performance.

Last but not least is a comedy role, the part of Jerry Gosling, the "swoppingest" boy you ever seed, played by Reverend Lawrence Tyson. Lawrence is a seasoned actor around "these here parts" and there is none better in the amateur class.

This is a good play with a good moral. We hope everybody in the community and anyone else who enjoys such as this will come and enjoy this play and help a worthy cause.

Circle No. 1 of Red Oak church will have sandwiches and drinks for sale at the play and the proceeds will be used to help pay for the lumber used in remodeling our stage. Remember the date, Wednesday night, May 18th, at 8 o'clock.

Douglas Allen is Charlie Underhill, the elder brother. Although Douglas is rather young for this part he is to be congratulated on the way he has stuck to this role, after it had been given up three or four times. Douglas is a student of the Greenville high school, a member of the Glee club that went to Greensboro recently and the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Fenner L. Allen.

Grace Daniels, a student of the Bell Arthur school, has the part of Isabel Simscott, the village belle, and plays her part very well.

Enoch Rowe, an outcast and a wanderer, is portrayed feelingly by Norman Coward, a young farmer of the Mount Pleasant community.

Miss Elizabeth Worthington, a teacher in the Winterville school, has the part of Gloria Perkins who is "as good as gold."

Miss Grace Tripp, bookkeeper in the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company of Greenville and whose wedding date has been announced for mid-June, plays the part of Sukey Pindle, the Widder's Mite. She really "cuts up" for some refreshments at the choir practice.

Mrs. Travis Crawford, who has had a role in practically every play the community has ever produced, is at her best as Miss Lowitz Loviny Susannah Wrigglesford Custard. She is a saleslady at the Bootery in Greenville.

Louise Holloway, student at the Bell Arthur school, is fine as Jonah Quackenbush. He learned his part quickly and plays it well.

Quintus Todd, the county sheriff, is Charles Stocks, who really looks the part and plays it well since this is his first time in a play.

Mrs. James Allen, housewife and mother, and grandmother, makes her debut as Widder Bill Pindle, leader of the choir. Mrs. Allen is Strength FOR THE DAY DISAPPOINTMENTS MAY BE ASSETS Sometimes our disappointments turn out to be our greatest blessings. Nothing would involve us more certainly in ruin than to be granted everything we want in just the way we want it and when we want it. Frustration followed by triumph is one of the great evidences of a divine Power behind all things. Abraham Lincoln had many disappointments in his life. We all know of his straitened circumstances in youth and his disappointments in love. But few people know that Lincoln was greatly disappointed just a few years before his election to the presidency because he was denied appointment to a Federal office. Shortly after this disappointment, he was offered the governorship of Oregon, but his wife would not hear to their going to that distant point; and so Lincoln sadly relinquished what had been a cherished ambition. Of course if he had taken either of the positions he would probably not have reached later the exalted office to which he was called. The greatest good fortune that ever came upon him were these disappointments concerning public office. All of which may constitute some comfort to many of us when we fail to achieve cherished ambitions.

Around Capitol Square AVERAGE—There probably is no such animal as an "average" county in North Carolina. The list of prospective distribution of school and road bond funds if the issues are approved on June 4 indicates that Beaufort county is the nearest "average" in school allotment while Stokes is nearest in road money. Dividing the $25 million school money by 100, the number of counties would give each county $250,000. Under the allocation list as worked out by bond sponsors, Beaufort will get $248,873 less than the exact amount. The $200 million road fund divided by 100 would give each county two million. Under the allocation set out in the act, Stokes will get $1,982,000, just $18,000 short of exact average. DISTRIBUTION — The school building fund will be allocated on basis of public school enrollment for 1947-48, while the road money will be divided on a formula including area, population and road mileage. Area is static; mileage is figured as of December 31, 1948, and population on basis of the 1940 government census. Camden gets the smallest amount from both funds, $30,747 for school buildings and $26,000 for roads. Guilford tops the list in both, with $253,708 for school buildings and $5,148,000 for roads. In addition to prospective bond money, each county in the state shares equally with $250,000 out of the direct appropriation of $25 million for school buildings.

HOSPITALITY—While Alamance and Forsyth counties were celebrating their 100th birthdays with big doling last week, Edgecombe—more than 100 years older than either—was carrying on with something new. The second annual "hospitality day" was staged in Tarboro last Wednesday. Despite heavy rains, some 15,000 school children gathered to help their elders celebrate the event. They brought a dozen high school bands, paraded the main drag, ate over a ton of barbecue, heard Governor Scott speak and generally demonstrated genuine hospitality among themselves. JOBS—Governor Scott has discovered that finding suitable persons for important state jobs is just about as difficult as finding jobs for his numerous supporters who expect to be "taken care of" by this administration. Former Governor Cherry was fond of saying he could always find "a patriot willing to serve the state" when he had an appointment to make. He like his predecessors and his immediate successors, did not always find it easy to make the jobs and the man fit. UNUSUAL — The incumbent chief executive is in unusual position. While not many people agree with his appraisal of last year's upset as a "revolution," Governor Scott's election did precipitate a heavier turnover in top flight positions than any other in 20 years. Each succeeding general assembly adds to the list of appointive places in administrative, executive and advisory commission circles. Furthermore, recent belated increase in state salaries makes the positions more attractive than ever before. So Governor Scott has more and other jobs to hand out than any other governor has had. This situation makes the problem more acute instead of less. INDUSTRIAL — The two additional places on the utilities commission presented this issue, and it is known the governor changed his mind about appointments when he became thoroughly familiar with the qualities requisite to the offices. The industrial commission vacancy created by sudden death of Chairman Kinsey is another headache. That is a real working job, carrying middle rate pay for comparable posts, and it is almost necessary that at least two of the commissioners be lay-ers. The law provides that one member shall be chosen as representative of employers, one as representative of employees, and one as representative of the public. Kinsey was the employer member; J. W. Bean was recently appointed as the labor representative, and Buren Journey — whose term expires this year—is the public man.

Boyle's Column By MAL BOYLE New York—(AP)—The explosion of a chemical-laden truck in the Holland tunnel gave America a needed peacetime lesson of what a capable nation in war. It was a small-scale example of how vulnerable a great city is today. The Holland vehicular tunnel runs beneath the Hudson River and joins Manhattan and Jersey City. It has 14 main tubes, each more than 9,000 feet long. The accidental blast tied up traffic in the west bound tube a few hours, halted traffic in the east bound tube more than a day. It temporarily interrupted news, television, telephone and wirephone circuits. But what would happen if a band of desperate, rightly trained men made a determined attempt to knock out New York City? This thought keeps police officials nervous about the activities of political groups who believe in changing governments by force. It has been estimated that as few as five atom bombs, properly placed, would render the metropolis nearly helpless. But it wouldn't require atom bombs to plunge the city into a period of

Somebody Told Me...

To compromise between the official census and the City Directory figures, let's say that Greenville has 15,000 residents. Nine thousand, or sixty per cent, drink, and one out of sixty, or 150, are chronic drunks. And then there is a group of individuals of unknown quantity who could be called "potentials"—heavy drinkers not yet at the chronic stage. For three days this column will be about Greenville's 150 drunks, or alcoholics, not as individuals, but as a small but important part of America's three million. Alcoholism is the number three public health problem in America. This writing is inspired by a speech by James Street, celebrated author of such books as "Tap Roots," "The Gauntlet," "Oh Promised Land," "By Valor and Arms," and "In My Father's House." For the past three years Street has lived in Chapel Hill, and one day he took time off from work on a historical novel to address the public speaking class of which I was a member. His subject was alcoholism. For 18 years, Jimmy Street was a drunk. At 19 he was a Baptist preacher. That position lasted three years before his malicious conduct resulted in his dismissal. He then bounced from one newspaper job to another, starting in his home state, Mississippi, and ending in New York City as a columnist on a Hearst newspaper. In 1937, Street became a freelance writer, in 1940 he stopped drinking, and since then his writings have brought him fame and fortune. During his 18 drunk years Street was a cop fighter. He'd wake up from a binge in a hotel room with many strange people standing around. Some would be parents of the children he had given bicycles to, others would be people he had told he was Jerome Kern, others would be people to whom he'd given bad checks. But between drunks Street made a living as a newspaper man. He also had a desire to be cured, which finally resulted in his going dry. But his 18 years of alcoholism were hectic for him and everyone connected with him. He was a patient in no less than 29 hospitals for drunks, and attempted suicide five times. But he says only one in five million alcoholics will kill himself. He now admits that he didn't mean his attempts. "I even jumped in the Mississippi River once," he says, "but I sure as hell swam out fast. The mania for swim is entirely different from the alcohol mania. If a person is going to kill himself, he tells me one, but the drunk will say he's going to, and not do it." Street says he really doesn't know why he was an alcoholic, but he thinks there are three reasons: (1) Until he was 16, he stammered so badly that he could hardly talk. (He still does, but very rarely.) (2) At the age of four he once heard his mother say that he looked like a squirrel when he was born. (3) One of his childhood sweethearts put her head to the left of his while they were dancing because he had a rising in his right ear, which caused him hurt and embarrassment. The 46-year-old author claims he still has the mania that caused him to be an alcoholic, but he says he feeds the mania in a different way. He used to wear conservative clothes, but now he is a loud dresser. The day he addressed the speech class he was wearing a race track sport coat, a mustard-colored sport shirt, and yellow socks. In his drunk days Street seldom talked; now he is a chatter-box. Although he has been dry for nine years, he still refers to himself as a drunk. But instead of drinking, he stays drunk by keeping in the spotlight. The decision to write this three-day coverage of the subject of alcoholism is based on the fact that enough people in Greenville, or any other town, are effected by the problem to be interested. If you have sufficient interest, you might also read Roy Crane's daily comic strip, "Captain Easy," which is about alcoholism these days. This subject is to be continued. If I recommend two movies in a row (Saturday it was "Three Wives") you will immediately conclude that I'm in cahoots with T. Y. Walker. But I'm not; I just hate for you to miss "The Adventures of Don Juan," playing at the Pitt Tuesday and Wednesday. You have probably read about Errol Flynn's kicking policemen's shins and leading girls astray, all of which makes him a Don Juan in real life. And that's probably the reason he is superior in the role on the screen. And I thank you. NOTICE OF SUMMONS BY PUBLICATION In the Superior Court Before the Clerk North Carolina, Pitt County James A. WASHINGTON LETTER

By JANE EADS Washington — The nation's busiest housekeeper is, as you might not suspect, a man—in fact, an Army officer, Maj. Gen. Herman Feldman by name. Forty-two years ago he was just Pvt. Herman Feldman, but today as the Army's quartermaster general, Gen. Feldman is responsible for supplying food to all services, clothing for the Army and Air Force troops—brushes, overcoats, newspapers, jeep-pup tents, laundries, every thing else a man in uniform needs. Gen. Feldman, entering Battery D, 1st Field Artillery, at the age of 18 back in Nov. 1907, has learned the supply business from the Army PX up. He served as supply sergeant in Hawaii. Because he showed skill in making limited supplies go round he was soon promoted to regimental supply sergeant. Always interested in good feeding of troops, he started a vegetable garden to supplement the regular ration of troops stationed at Fort Hoyle, Md., where he served as battery commander after World War I. His idea as quartermaster general is that the U. S. Army cannot compete with the highly populated nations in manpower in case of an emergency. "I am convinced," he told me in an interview, "that to develop the best military for the United States, our men must have superior training and their food, clothing and equipment must be the best in the world." The basis for the Quartermaster Corps' extensive research and development program, he says, is the Army's ceaseless effort to give our men the best that science can devise. Born in New York Sept. 10, 1886, the stocky, affable, imperturbable quartermaster general doesn't smoke or drink, though he has no inhibitions about such habits. Fond of dancing, he whisks his wife off to parties whenever he can. He met his wife, Milly, a native of Scotland, during the American occupation of Germany World War I. She was working for a British banking concern. They have a daughter, Betty, 26, an accomplished musician.

Dublin Protests Rule Of Ulster

Dublin, Ireland, May 14—(AP)—Irate Irishmen by the thousand jammed Dublin streets last night to protest continued rule of Ulster by the British crown. Ulster—the six Northern counties of Ireland—voted in February to stick with England in unity under King George VI. The 26 southern counties set up a completely free republic Easter Monday. The Dublin meeting was sparked by a bill now before the British house of commons which reaffirms the right of northern Ireland to stay in the United Kingdom if she so chooses. The bill also exempts the new Irish republic from being considered a "foreign" country by England, and gives Irishmen resident in Britain the privileges of British subjects. Prime Minister John Costello told the Dublin crowds the republic of Ireland would never accept continued partition of the Emerald Isle. Ireland "can without firing a shot, exercise such power behind a well-organized movement as will inevitably reunite the north and south," he said. Costello offered Ireland's "friendship and support" to Britain in return for "justice." Downtown Dublin was almost as full of excitement as when independence was declared. Bands and loud-speakers blared music to the milling throngs which police estimated at over 100,000.

Greenies Take Wilson Twin Bill, Kinston Sweeps Pair

Trim Tobs By 5-0, 8-4, But Kinston Scores 2-0 And 4-3

By BERT MOYE

Manager Pappy Williams and his Greenville Greenies played 500 ball during the weekend in a pair of double-headers by taking both ends of a twin bill on Saturday night against the Wilson Tobs—5 to 0 and 8 to 4—and then traveling over to Kinston Sunday afternoon to drop both ends of a twin bill to the Kinston Eagles by the score of 2-0 and 4 to 3, with the second game being forced into an extra inning.

Saturday's Games
Norman Clark, righthander, pitched his second shutout game of the year against the Wilson Tobs as he hurled a 5-0 win in the opening game of a double-header Saturday night. Clark let the Tobs down with a lone single which came on the bat of Dale Sanner in the fifth frame out into centerfield.

The Greenies scored three runs in the first frame on four singles and a walk and came back in the fourth frame to put across two more tallies when Manager Pappy Williams slammed a homer over the left field wall, his first of the season, with John Tepedino on base by virtue of a walk.

Clark, in pitching his first one-hitter and his second shutout of the season, did not walk a single man and he struck out only one. Not a single Tob reached third base during the game and only one man reached second.

The Greenies collected six hits off the offering of Charlie Nordmeyer, with Pappy Williams getting a homer and a single in three official trips to the plate. Bob Cohen got a double for the only other extra base hit of the Greenies.

In the second game the Greenies spotted the Tobs three runs in the first frame and then came back in the bottom of the third frame to score four runs and go out in front after which they were never headed.

The Tobs scored three runs on four walks on one single and the Greenies' four runs in the third inning came as the result of three walks, two singles and an error.

The Greenies came back in the fifth to push across another marker on two singles and a stolen base and put across what proved their winning run in the sixth on a single, two stolen bases and a fly to deep centerfield by Pappy Williams. They added their final two runs in the seventh on two singles, a hit batsman, passed ball and a stolen base.

Ed Mason started on the mound for the Greenies and after walking the first three men was relieved by Jim Lewey who pitched the rest of the game scattering six hits very effectively. Rose Morrow with two singles and a double in four trips to the plate led the Tobs.

Willie Mauney and John Tepedino with two singles each led the eight-hitter attack off the four Tobs hurlers.

Sunday's Games
The Kinston Eagles bunched three of their four hits in the fourth frame to put across two runs and take the first game of a double-header at Kinston yesterday afternoon, which was a seven inning affair.

With one man out Len Romanowald singled, Harry Soufas doubled to bring him home and J. W. Denton's single brought in Soufas. Steve Collins got the other hit for the Eagles in the seventh frame.

The Greenies missed their only chance to score in the second inning when on two attempts to pull a double steal with a man on first and third failed them with the runners being caught on each occasion. During this frame the Greenies got two of their four hits off the offering of Claude Volselle and was brought to a close with three men stranded on the bases.

Art Mascarella held the Eagles to four hits which were scattered among as many Eagles; he struck out four men and walked only two. Clark, Mauney, Tepedino and Williams got the Greenies' four hits, with Clark getting a double for the only extra base knock for the Greenies.

In the second game, the Eagles rallied for a run in the ninth frame to knot the count at three-all and then came back in the tenth to shove across another run to take the second game of the twin bill, 4 to 3. With the start of the ninth inning the Greenies had a 3-2 lead, scoring in the third inning on two walks, a sacrifice and a fly to deep right field by Willie Mauney. Their other two runs came in the sixth when Pappy Williams reached first on a fielder's choice and Pete Gillespie homered over the left wall to bring him home.

The Eagles' tying run in the ninth came as the result of doubles by Byrd and Manager Steve Collins and their winning run came in the tenth when Soufas walked. Taffet reached first on a fielder's choice with Soufas being safe on an error as the result of a bad throw by Garland Little to second and then Byrd came to the bat to line a drive into right field to bring home Soufas for the winning tally.

Pete Gillespie with a homer and a single and Steve Denier with two singles led the six-hit attack off the two Eagles hurlers. Claude Volselle, who pitched the first win of the double-header, relieved Osafofsky in the tenth and received credit for the second win of the day.

Al Taffet and Byrd with a double and a single each led the nine-hit attack off Garland Little, who went the route for the Greenies.

Continue Reign

Winston-Salem, May 16 — (AP) — For another year, at least, the Duke team and Wake Forest's Arnold Palmer will continue to reign over the Southern Conference golf world.

Both retained their titles in the annual tournament here Saturday. Duke won team honors with a four-man, 36-hole aggregate of 590 to nose out Wake Forest by a stroke despite the efforts of Palmer.

The Deacon sophomore star posted rounds of 69 and 67 for a 136 total, six under par for the Old Town Club course, to top Duke's Art Wall by two strokes. The latter was two strokes ahead of Harvie Ward of the University of North Carolina, whose best was a pair of 70's.

Locke Left Out Of PGA Plans

New Rochelle, N. Y., May 16—(AP)—George Schneider, tournament manager of the Professional Golfers Association, said today there was little chance that the organization's executive committee would change its mind and permit Bobby Locke to compete in the national P.G.A. tournament at Richmond.

This strict adherence to rules probably is all right with the players after what the South African did to a select field in winning the Goodall round-robin event at the Wykagyl Country Club yesterday.

Bobby shot a 66 for his fifth straight sub-par round to finish with a point total of plus 66, just twice that of defending champion Herman Barron, who finished in second place.

It was Locke's second victory in the event in the three years he has competed. He won two years ago and finished second to Barron last year.

Sixteen leading pros competed in the event. They played five rounds of foursomes so each player met each other player over the 18 hole route. His plus or minus total depended upon his medal score in comparison with the medal scores of each of the other members of his foursome.

Finishing third in this mathematical derby was Sam Snead with 80 points, with Byron Nelson fourth with 80.

Manager Eddie Sawyer saw enough of Willie (Puddin' Head) Jones, both at Toronto and with the Phillies, to make up his mind that the youngster would be his 1949 third baseman in Philadelphia. In 17 games last fall, Jones batted .333 and indicated that he was ready for the big show. The entire Phillie sound was pulling hard for Willie to make the grade because the lad from Laurel Hill, S. C. has a pleasing personality—and he knocks a baseball a country mile.

Manager Sawyer likes to recall the time when Jones was playing for him in Toronto. Willie approached Sawyer hesitatingly and asked for a few days off to take his wife back to Laurel Hill. He explained that they were expecting an addition to the family, and he wanted to make sure that his son wasn't born in Canada because then the son could never be President.

The Phillies paid Jones a fat bonus reported at $17,500, for signing when he had no experience in organized ball. He was signed on his reputation as a slugger in South Carolina semi-pro ranks. There was a time when the Phillies felt that they had made a bad bargain for Willie was well on his way to eating himself out of baseball. He's learned to curb his robust appetite with the result that he is playing great ball around third base and pounding out so many doubles that the Philadelphia fans call him Two-bagger Jones.

Faster Field Awaiting Mauri Rose And Bill Holland In Speedway Event

Indianapolis, May 16 —(AP)—Mauri Rose and Bill Holland will have to beat a faster field to repeat their one-two act of the last two years in the 800-mile Memorial Day auto race.

Opening qualifications Saturday and Sunday left Holland in the fourth starting position and Rose clear back in the No. 10 slot. Speeds that would have been sensational in earlier years were matter-of-fact to the new crop of cars and drivers.

Duke Nalon, Sherman Oaks, Calif., won the pole position Saturday in a $75,000 V-8 Novi Special at 132.939 miles an hour. Only the late Ralph Hepburn had taken the 10-mile speedway test at a faster speed, 133.944 in 1946.

Then young Johnny Parsons, a 20-year-old midget racer from Van Nuys, Calif., came along yesterday and qualified the four-cylinder Kurtis-Kraft Special at 132.900 miles an hour. He has never raced on the speedway.

The closing time trials turned up 15 cars with 10-mile averages over 127 miles an hour. Only one of the first 200 qualifiers averaged less

Wide Open Race For Third Crown Of 3-Year Olds

Baltimore, May 16—(AP)—The 3-year-old racing spoils are split today and even the Belmont, last gem in the triple crown, may not decide which colt will pick the 1949 championship marbles.

Besides the two different winners in the Derby and Preakness there are at least a couple of other colts which might have something to say about the New York classic on June 11 Saturday. Preakness closed the Pimlico meeting and most of the starters have headed for other tracks.

Ivan Parke, trainer of Olympia, seems to have summed up the wide open status among the turf sophomores when he predicted "They'll go on beating each other."

That was after Calumet's Ponder won the Derby in which Olympia was favored and wound up sixth. Ponder got the same treatment in Saturday's Preakness, going off the favorite and finishing fifth while Greentree's Capot took the honors. Olympia is likely to return to the struggle in the Belmont after getting the rest Trainer Parke said he needed following the Derby. The month's rest is liable to help some others, too, such as Old Rockport which is suspected of being stale.

The long layoff between the classics makes it impossible to accurately guess the probable Belmont field. The distance of a mile and a half also is going to weigh heavily in the decisions of owners.

The distance brings you back to Ponder. In both the Derby and Preakness he showed he requires a long way to go to make his powerful late drive click. The Derby is a sixteenth of a mile longer than the Preakness and that meant a lot to Ponder.

It did to Capot, too, probably the difference between his second in the Derby and first in Preakness. The longer route also points up the chances of Isidor Bieber's Palestinian.

Palestinian missed catching Capot in the Preakness by only a head and if the wire had been a couple of yards away might have made it. But on the basis of a first and second in the classics, Capot must rank now as the colt for the others to beat in the Belmont. Trainer John Gaver thinks so himself.

Midgets Defeat Scotland Neck

Greenville's Midget baseball team banged out a 8 to 3 victory over the Scotland Neck Midgets Saturday.

The local batters ran up a total of 11 hits against the Scotland Neck hurlers, while three Greenville pitchers gave up seven sacrifices.

Greenville took an early lead in the bottom half of the first inning as Sawyer walked and Phillips brought him home with a hard hit triple to begin a three run spree.

They added another three runs to their lead in the second inning, and came back in the fifth to get two more runs.

Wiley Gardner was the big gun for the Greenville Midgets at the plate as he collected three hits in four trips to the plate, and Hux had a perfect day at the plate with two hits for two trips to the plate.

Singleton was the winning pitcher for Greenville and brought his total to two wins and one loss for the season. He was relieved on the mound by Morgan in the fifth, and Smith went in the sixth to finish the game.

The next game for the Midgets will be at Guy Smith stadium Friday night at 8 o'clock when the locals stangle with Kinston.

Guy Smith, Jr., who has pitched 13 consecutive scoreless innings as a relief pitcher, will get his first starting assignment on the mound for the local Midgets Friday night.

Stands Out As Marathon Runner

Yonkers, N. Y., May 16—Victor Dygala, 30-year-old grocery store accountant who last year dominated the shorter road distance, today also stood out as the nation's premier marathon runner.

The former University of Idaho athlete, representing the McKirose A. A. of New York, won the national AAU marathon yesterday in two hours, 36 minutes, 45.9 seconds.

This victory, following on a second in the Boston Marathon behind Sweden's Karl Leander, left Dygala undisputed ruler of the U. S. long-wind races.

The snorkel, a device which permits submarines to "breathe" while under water, was placed on Dutch ships before World War II and perfected by the Germans during the war.

world rowing today because, when the break came Saturday, they were right there to skin past the Washington Huskies and win by a quick breath.

The Olympic champions, racing the crew that beat them twice last year on the three-mile haul, were less than a length back going into the final 100 feet, but it looked like Washington's Foughkeape titlist could stop rowing and win on momentum.

Suddenly the swift-slicing Husky shell seemed to ram a brick wall. The No. seven crew had chopped water on the recovery, jamming the end so hard in Oarsman Rod Johnson's stomach it nearly kicked him into the six man's lap.

The Bears slid past to win by a few feet in 14 minutes 12.3 seconds. The time rates as a regatta record although the course was shorter by a quarter-mile than the three miles of past arguments between the two old rivals. Washington, timed in 14:13.4, set the old three-mile record at 14:28 in 1941 on California water.

Coach Al Ubrichson said later one of the starboard men farther up the bow got careless with victory assured. He looked up for a moment and the coach said—his ear tipped Johnson's blade. "Johnson's one of my best men," said Al, "it wasn't his fault."

The big seven man stumped forward in his slide as the boat yawed to a stop after crossing the finish line. His shoulders were shaking. Don Landon reached forward from No. 6 slide and patted Johnson on the back.

"I'm proud the name Kaiser is on the first really new idea since the self-starter...it's 2 cars in one...and I'd like you to see it!"

The new Kaiser Traveler...world's most useful automobile!

1 Here's what Mr. Kaiser says: "For a long time, I've had the idea that a great many Americans would welcome a practical kind of automobile that could do double duty as a passenger car for pleasure and a cargo carrier for work. I was thinking particularly of farmers, salesmen who have to carry bulky samples, merchants, housewives who do heavy week-end shopping, sportsmen and small businessmen.

"Station wagons aren't very practical. My own station wagon was hard riding, drafty and full of squeaks and rattles. It was hard to handle, and hard to work as a truck. If there was hauling to do, seats had to be wrestled out by brute force. It didn't carry enough cargo. It cost too much to operate, and more to buy than the average family can afford.

"So I talked to the boys of our engineering-production team, and the result was the all-new Kaiser Traveler. I believe that the Kaiser Traveler is the practical answer to the problem of thousands of families who really need two kinds of cars, but can afford to buy and maintain only one.

2 "At first glance, the Kaiser Traveler is a luxurious 6-passenger sedan, with a 123 1/2 inch wheelbase, and nine feet, seven and-a-half inches of usable seating space. But in ten seconds, it becomes a sturdy cargo-carrier with a ten-foot-long, steel-shod hold, powered by the mighty Kaiser engine, with its high compression ratio of 7.5-to-1. You use no tools or bolts.

"You just fold down the rear seat, flip open the cargo-hatch and let down the tailgate. All but the youngest of my eight grandchildren can convert it easily (and he's just a little fellow six months old!).

"Of course, the springs and shock absorbers have extra muscles to carry a big load, but they are soft and cushion-y and give a grand ride. The upholstery is long-wearing and easy to wash. The tailgate is held in place with a piano-type hinge, so that you can use it as a loading platform.

"With three people in the front seat, there is over 130 cubic feet of storage space in the cargo hold. And even with six passengers, you get more than 78 cubic feet of hold. That's room enough to carry almost anything!

3 "One of the things you'll like about the Kaiser Traveler is the price. It only costs $2088.* That's several hundred dollars less than the cheapest full-size station wagon, and is much more practical and satisfactory both as a pleasure car and a work car. It's really a great value.

"Now, before you buy any car at any price, I'd like to caution you to stop, look and listen. Stop in and see the Kaiser Traveler. Look at it carefully. Listen to what the salesman has to tell you. And then see if this isn't the one car that gives you everything you want...the comfort, the safety, the prestige of big car ownership, plus the extra advantages of owning a fine-performing cargo carrier that costs no more to operate than many much smaller, less useful cars.

"When you do this, I think you'll decide to buy a Kaiser Traveler, and I hope you do. If you get half as much use out of yours as I get out of mine, you'll have made a very wise choice!

"After you've seen the Kaiser Traveler, please write me your reaction. Address me at Willow Run, Michigan. I'd really like to hear from you."

White Sox Follow Washington; Double Shut - Out Over Tribe Stumps Experts

Forecasters Failed To Take Into Consideration Improvement Of Weaker Clubs; Dog-Eat-Dog Scramble Now In Prospect

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
False alarm: Chalk up another error for the experts who predicted a two-team race between Boston and Cleveland for the American League pennant.

The prognosticators failed to take into consideration the over-all improvement of the so-called weaker clubs—particularly the Chicago White Sox and Washington Senators.

First the Nats made the experts squirm by running up a winning streak of nine straight. No sooner had the Senators cooled off than the Chixos began to sizzle. And the cellar-dwelling St. Louis Browns have shown signs of emerging from their coma.

With the New York Yankees grabbing an early lead, and Detroit and Philadelphia playing better than 300 ball, it now looks like a dog-eat-dog battle right down to the wire. Only four and a half games separate the first place Yankees and seventh place Red Sox.

The White Sox turned in the eye-lifter of the season yesterday when they shut out the Indians twice at Chicago, 10-0 and 2-0. The double-whitewashing of the world champions was especially pleasing to the Sox because a record crowd of 53,325 was on hand.

Bill Wight and Allen Gettli wielded the white wash brushes for the winners. Wight, the ex-Yankee southpaw, pitched a five-hitter in the opener for his fourth straight victory. He still hasn't tasted defeat. Gettli, who once pitched for the Indians as well as the Yankees, doled out four hits in the nightcap.

Rookie Gordon Goldsberry's first major league home run with a running start accounted for Chicago's runs in the nightcap and gave the Sox a sweep of the three-game series. The double success boosted them into third place, two and a half games from the top.

Coming through with a spectacular seven-run outburst in what proved to be the final inning of the second game, the Athletics overcame a 3-0 deficit to nip the Yankees 7-6 for a sweep of their doubleheader. The A's also fought an uphill battle in the opener, winning 8-7 in 11 innings after trailing 7-3 going into the seventh.

Jughaudie Joe Dobson posted his first victory of the season limiting the Senators to four hits as the Red Sox shut out the Nats 3-0. Dom Dimaggio paced an eight-hit attack on loser Sid Hudson and Dick Weller with a double and two singles.

The lowly Browns divided a doubleheader with Detroit to make it five victories in their last seven games. After the Tigers had won the opener, 9-3, the Browns came back to combine 11 hits and 14 bases on balls to win the second game, 12-4.

Boston's Braves and the New York Giants continued in their first place National League deadlock for the third straight day. The Braves made it three in a row over the Brooklyn Dodgers with a 4-0 shut-out triumph, while the Giants whipped the Philadelphia Phillies, 7-3, for a sweep of their three-game set.

Vern Bickford pitched the shut-out for Boston, permitting the fourth place Dodgers only four singles. The Giants collected only eight hits but took advantage of seven bases on balls to hang the second defeat upon young Curt Simmons.

Chuck Diering's two-out double in the ninth drove in the tying run, and Red Schoendienst's single sent in the winning run as the St. Louis Cardinals came up with two runs to nip the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3.

Cincinnati and Chicago divided a doubleheader, the Reds winning the opener, 6-5, and the Cubs taking the nightcap, 8-5.

Chi Sox Release New Outfielder

Chicago, May 16 —(AP)—The Chicago White Sox announced today the release of Herb Adams, 21-year-old outfielder, to Memphis of the Southern Association on 24-hour recall. Adams, currently sidelined with a fractured finger, played in 13 games for the White Sox this season, hitting 302.

Adams' exit cuts the White Sox roster to 25 players, 11 of whom are pitchers.

Last season Adams played at Hot Springs, where he batted .375 to win the Cotton States League batting championship.

Kovaleski Tops Seixas For Title

Chapel Hill, N. C. May 16 —(AP)—William and Mary's brilliant tennis star, Fred Kovaleski, has finally caught up with Vic Seixas, seventh ranked player in the nation from the University of North Carolina.

The William and Mary ace, after five previous setbacks at the hands of the Tar Heel star from Philadelphia, won the big one Saturday—with the Southern conference championship riding on the outcome.

Kovaleski polished off the defending champion in straight sets, all hard fought to the end. The scores were 6-4, 11-9, 6-4.

Today they met again—this time in a regular team match between their schools and the renewal of their keen rivalry was expected to lure one of the largest tennis crowds of the year to the University courts.

The deliberate Kovaleski, a native of Hamtramck, Mich., flashed sharp backhand and telling placements to overcome his opponent's overhead smashes and point-making drop shots.

A bit nettled by the partisan crowd, the William and Mary star at one stage of the struggle, singled out one spectator and requested that he leave if he did "not like the contest."

Later he said he regretted the incident.

Seixas got a measure of revenge later when he came back to team with Clark Taylor and trim Kivalieski and Howie Atwater, 6-2, 6-1, 6-4. This reversed last year's results when the Tar Heels lost to Kovaleski and Tut Bartzan.

Captures 6 Of 7 Boat Races

Memphis, May 16 —(AP)—The national champion of outdoor motorboat racing, Douglas Creech of Charlotte, N. C., lived up to his title here yesterday by taking first place in six of the seven events in which he took part.

Creech got off to a bad start in the seventh race, but managed to place second. Steve Tantner of St. Louis won first place honors.

One theory as to why engagement and wedding rings are worn on the third finger of the left hand is that the Egyptians believed a vein ran from that finger directly to the heart.

One of the oldest rings known was a gold Egyptian ring found at Ghiseh bearing the name of Cheops, the Pharaoh for whose tomb one of the pyramids was built.

Sidelights—Norman Clark 8 to 0 win over the Wilson Tobs in the first game of a double-header here Saturday night was his second shut-out of the season. . . . He previously shutout Roanoke Rapids there on May 6th. . . . The win was his fourth of the season as against two reverses. . . . Jim Levey who pitched the win in the second game now has two wins and one loss. . . . The double-header loss in Kinston Sunday afternoon was the second double loss of the season for the Greenies the Bears turning the trick down in New Bern on May 8th. . . . The Greenies really exhibited some mighty poor base running in the opening game at Kinston yesterday afternoon which resulted in their loss, especially the first game. . . . Both games were a heartbreaker to lose with Art Mascarella pitching four hit ball to lose the opener, and Claude Voliselle, pitching the first game win came back in the tenth to win the second game for two wins against the Greenies. . . . Garland Little pitched the second game and received credit for the loss his second of the season. . . . He has one win to his credit. . . . Bob Cohen was out of the Greenies lineup for both games at Kinston yesterday suffering from a leg injury received in the twin bill here Saturday night. . . .

Additional to the Greenies includes Harold Purr, rookie third sacker, who played his initial game Saturday night. . . . He hails from Concord and was brought here at the suggestion of Willie Mauney. . . . He has played semi pro ball in that section of the state and Saturday night marked his first appearance in a pro game. . . . Edward Mason, the hurler who started the second game, is a limited service pitcher that was bought by the Greenville Club from the Giant farm at Sanford, Fla. . . . Moe Carter has been sold to Dublin, Ga., for an undisclosed sum and also taken in on the deal was a rookie catcher by the name of Ted Quinn. . . . A new catcher by the name of Duke has reported to the Greenville club, being sent here from the Raleigh Capitals of the Carolina League. . . . He is a limited service man. . . . Chris Romeo has jumped the club and has been placed on the ineligible list by club officials. . . . Pitcher Joe Baston of the Eagles has been traded by the Eagles to Anderson, S. C., for a limited service outfielder, Frank Lapovsky. . . . Bob Rogers, a catcher, has been sent to the Wilson Tobs after a try out with the Roanoke Rapids Jays.

Mrs. Jack Hedgpeith, wife of Jack Hedgpeith, who does the announcing at the ball park, entered Pitt General Hospital this afternoon for a minor operation. It is the sincere wish of this columnist that she gets through in grand style.

Earl Torgerson of the Braves is a lefthanded swinger, who according to the orthodox rules, should not be as effective against southpaw pitchers. His first four home runs this season, however, were made against portersiders.

The White Sox boast a string of eleven consecutive victories over the Browns—seven straight so far this season, plus two in exhibitions during the spring training season and another pair at the tailend of the 1948.

Nazareth, Pa., May 16 —(AP)—Bob Schults of Stroudsburg pitched the first no hit, no run game in the North Atlantic League this season. The score was 7-0.

Schults faced only 34 men in a seven inning victory over Nazareth in the second game of a double-header yesterday. He walked two and one man reached base on an error.

Girl And Dog Join In Rescue On Tar River

By CHESTER WALSH
The age-old tradition that a dog is man's best friend came true again Saturday on Tar River, not far from the home of Howard Porter, basketball coach at East Carolina Teachers College, who lives on East Fourth Street extension.

Porter's pet bird dog was a hero in his own right by the riverside when tragedy was impending and helped to save the life of his young mistress, Dinah Porter, teen-ager, who loves to go on "exploring" expeditions.

According to Dr. J. K. Long of ECTC faculty, his daughter, Mary, and her guest, Dinah Porter, asked permission to go on an exploring trip and it was granted.

Accompanied by Porter's dog "Bosco," they wended their way to the river.

Dinah used a stick to test the depth of the water near the bank, found it less than knee deep and stepped in. She was wading on a narrow ledge while Mary Long and "Bosco" remained on the bank. Another step and Dinah had plunged into deep water. "Get me!" she screamed to Mary Long, who reached down from the bank and grabbed her with one hand, clutching with the other the collar of "Bosco," good sized dog, and pulled hard "Bosco's" reluctance to be pushed into the cold water caused him to plant his feet in the dirt and pull backward while Mary Long got her playmate on dry ground. "Bosco," as an anchor, helped a lot in the rescue, Mary said.

The two girls and the dog returned to the house. Dinah, muddied and wet and crestfallen as a result of her plunge in the river, told their story of "exploring." Beyond the ducking, she was not much worse for her experience in the river, but one of the parents said "she is a wiser girl now."

Incidentally, "Bosco," the Howard Porters' pet dog, is acclaimed a hero and sharing honors with Mary Long. "Bosco" doesn't like the water.

The children have tried to push him in from time to time without success. He won't even stay out in the rain. His allergy to water probably saved a life Saturday.

Recover Body Of Drowning Victim

The body of Jesse Ray Hunter, 19-year-old Negro, who was drowned while swimming in Contentnea Creek, one mile below Grifton Saturday afternoon, was recovered Sunday afternoon by Luby McLawhorn, Coroner Griffin H. Rouse reported today.

Hunter and a companion, Leslie Freeman, 18, Negro, jumped from a boat into the water together. Freeman managed to get back to the craft. Hunter, who could not swim sank. Searchers sought the drowned youth's body until after midnight Saturday. Greenville firemen used their motor-driven electric light unit in the search.

McLawhorn, in a motor boat found Hunter's body Sunday in deep water less than 60 yards from where he jumped into the stream. Deputy Sheriff Loyd Manning said Coroner Rouse, who investigated the drowning said there will be no inquest.

Peddler of Dreams

By Peggy Dern

Chapter 21

Dawn was breaking in the east when Garrett and Felicity drove back across the bridge to the trailer camp. At the sound of their car Ma Green's cottage door opened and she beckoned to them.

"You two might just as well have some breakfast with me," she greeted them hospitably. "I'm not ashamed to admit I've been watching for you. What was the party like? Did you have a good time?"

Felicity helped her set the table while Garrett straddled a chair, and gave the delighted and appreciative Ma Green an amusing account of the festivities.

Felicity lingered to help clear the table. But Ma Green pushed her into a chair and said sternly, "You sit down there, Felicity. I want to talk to you. Have you thought any about what you're going to do, now that your father is here?"

Felicity shook her head. "No—I haven't. I don't know how long he plans to stay."

"From what he said after you and Garry left, it looks to me like he plans to stay on quite a spell," said Ma Green a trifle tartly.

Felicity stiffened in quick defense of her father.

"There's no room for him in that trailer of yours," said the woman firmly.

Felicity had been thinking of the same thing.

"Now, I've been thinking," Ma Green went on after a moment. "I've got plenty of room here. I could rent him a room—"

"But we couldn't pay you anything much."

"And he could earn the rent of the room by doing odd jobs about the place," Ma Green finished, as though Felicity hadn't spoken.

Odd jobs! Felicity caught her breath. She opened her mouth to offer a protest, but before she could speak a voice spoke from the open doorway.

"That's a most kind and generous offer, Madame," said Father a trifle grandly, "and I shall be very happy to accept it."

Ma Green studied him coolly, her gray hair a little on one side, her eyes shrewd and not unkind behind her steel-rimmed spectacles.

"Maybe you ain't as bad as I've been thinking, after all," she said. "And my name ain't Madame—it's Ma Green, same as everybody else always calls me."

And so it was settled between Burton Morfe and Ma Green, while Felicity looked on, not quite sure just what action she should take, if any.

Then he said briskly, "You get some sleep, you abandoned young thing—out all night! Cornelia and I will look after the others, so there's not a thing for you to worry about."

He went out and shut the door behind him, and Felicity was guilty of a small tear as she slid out of the crumpled hoop-skirted frock and tucked herself up for a nap.

It was late afternoon when Felicity heard Garrett's car.

She stepped out into the golden sunset and flung up a hand in a gay salute. But even before she reached the side of Garrett's car, there was something about the set of his jaw that told her something unpleasant had happened.

"Why, Garry, what—"

He indicated a sotted-looking package that lay on the seat beside him. "They didn't like it."

"Oh, Garry—darling!" Felicity put her arms about him, her cheek against his shoulder. "Don't feel so—"

Four New States Provide Bonuses For Veterans

State legislatures in four more states have passed laws providing for the payment of bonuses to veterans who were residents of the respective states at time of entry into service. These states are: Indiana, Minnesota and North and South Dakota.

Twelve states have previously enacted bonus legislation, and applications are still being accepted in nine of these states. Those states still accepting applications are: Connecticut, Illinois, Iowa, Louisiana, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Ohio, Vermont and Washington.

Any veteran who was a resident of any of the above listed states, at the time of entry into service, should call at the office of Arthur Corey County Service Officer located in Blount Bldg., to make application for his bonus.

Commencement Sermon By Dr. R. Montgomery

Dr. Riley B. Montgomery, president of Lynchburg College in Virginia and president-elect of the College of the Bible, Lexington, Ky., delivered the commencement sermon to members of the senior class at East Carolina Teachers college Sunday morning. Dr. Montgomery, who had as his subject "A Thrilling Future for College Graduates," made an inspirational talk to the college graduating class.

A life made exciting by bravely meeting the problems of one's own time and by serving one's fellowman, he said, presents a challenge to action for the college graduate. Socially, morally, and spiritually, he told the seniors, the intelligent and educated man and woman should adopt the way of life exemplified by the Good Samaritan.

Churches of Greenville joined in the service, which was held in the Wright auditorium on the campus. A large congregation from the city and from out of town was present to hear Dr. Montgomery.

The Rev. H. G. Roney of the Christian Church in Greenville gave the invocation as morning worship began. Special music was provided by the East Carolina orchestra, directed by Dr. R. R. Willmann, which played the processional, and by the Women's Chorus of the college, directed by Dan Vornholt. Soloists with the chorus were Mary Wallace Poy, Pollockville, soprano, and Robert Mayes, Hopewell, Va., baritone, students of music at the college.

Dr. Montgomery was also speaker at vesper services conducted in the Wright auditorium by the YWCA and the YMCA. He was introduced by Donald Hatch of Mt. Olive, president of the YMCA for 1949-1950. Evangeline Baker of Rocky Mount, president of the YWCA for the coming school year, gave the call to worship.

Following the talk, a traditional candle-lighting ritual was held, in which officers of the two organizations for this year passed on the light of leadership to their successors. Approximately forty men and women participated in the ceremony and marched in the recessional to the portico of the Wright building, where "Taps" was sounded.

Municipal Band In Concert Here

By CHESTER WALSH
A large crowd enjoyed the concert presented by the Greenville Municipal Band on the courthouse portico Sunday afternoon. The twenty musicians composing the band, all talented and well trained musicians, appeared to enjoy presenting the musical program as much as the audience appreciated it.

John Arant of the high school music department, assisted by Bandmaster Herbert Carter of the East Carolina Teachers College Band, directed the program. Sponsors of the municipal band are planning to repeat the concert on other Sunday afternoons as a result of the popular approval given yesterday.

Radio station WGTC made recordings of the concert. The station will broadcast future concerts, James S. Jenkins and Fire Chief George Gardner, active leaders in promoting the band, said today.

Hard-Boiled . . .

2. Russia will have to prove it wants peace before we believe it. What's behind the state department's belief that we'll have to help western Europe arm and stay armed for years? It can be stated A-B-C: The nations of western Europe are our allies. If they fall, we'll be practically alone in a "hostile world." We need one another if we're to survive.

If we don't help arm them—in the meantime, they'll have to help arm themselves—they may lose confidence in us as allies. In turn, this would weaken their strength and determination to resist aggression.

Sitting idly by, not helping arm them, merely talking of liberating Europe if it's overrun, would dilute our allies. And trying to liberate our allies, after they were crushed, would be costly to us.

White Shrine In Ceremonial At Masonic Hall

The Greenville White Shrine held a ceremonial last Thursday night at the Masonic Hall. It was an impressive event. Mrs. Blanche Jackson, worthy high priestess, presided. The degrees of the order were conferred on Paul A. Scott, Annie Scott and Ray Oglesby.

The new district deputy of District 5 was escorted to the East by Mrs. Emogene Duffin, junior past worthy high priestess.

The past worthy high priestess and district deputy of last year was escorted to the East by Mrs. Carrie Munford and the past watchman of shepherds, Thomas I. Moore, also was escorted to the East.

Mrs. Eughena Raynor, worthy high priestess of the Coastal Shrine, New Bern, was introduced by David Connor, watchman of shepherds. There were several other members present from the Coastal Shrine.

Plan Discussion Summer Cruises

day the President handed Hugh fly-fishin' equipment and told the ambassador to go catch a trout for himself. Gibson being an eager fisherman, rushed to his assignment.

For a considerable time the angler cast with indifferent luck, but kept working along the stream until finally he came to a magnificent pool. It was ideal for trout. Hugh carefully maneuvered himself into position and made a beautiful cast.

As the fly touched the water there was a violent swirl and a strike like a ton of rock. Hugh set his hook and the fight was on with what obviously was a big fish. The battle was long and thrilling, but finally the prize was brought to net and his excellency found himself possessor of a trout weight several pounds.

Gibson carried the trout back to camp and turned it over to the cook in the kitchen. A little later the President strolled in and, after taking a look in the kitchen came to where his envoy was sitting.

"Hugh, where did you get that big trout?" asked Hoover — and Gibson described the pool.

"My gosh," exclaimed the chief executive, "you've got Moby Dick. He was presented to me by the citizens of —, and has been hand-fed ever since."
