Acheson Departs For Paris Session

Pledged To Virtual 'No Compromise' Policy On Dealings With Russia On Future Of Germany; Will Not Neglect Real Opportunities

Washington, May 20 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson leaves for the Paris foreign ministers conference today pledged to a virtual "no compromise" policy in his dealings with Russia on the future of Germany.

In a pre-departure statement he made clear that his primary concern will be not an East-West agreement on Germany made just for the sake of agreeing. Instead he spoke of a determination to protect the economic recovery and political stability of all Western Europe in which Germany plans a vital part.

"We shall neglect no real opportunity for increasing the area of solution and tranquility in the world," Acheson declared. "At the same time, we shall not barter away successes achieved in Western Germany and Western Europe for the sake of promises which might again prove to be illusory as they too often have in the past."

In his last rounds of preparation for the Paris meeting, Acheson was confronted with a new problem: What attitude to take before the world on Russia's apparent bid for a settlement of the Greek civil war?

While Tass denied there had been any talks for including the Greek question on the work schedule for Paris, there was an obvious significance to the matter in the whole East-West conflict. Wary caution was the prompt Washington reaction to the Russian proposal.

Acheson's departure today was set for noon EST. With him in President Truman's big plane, the Independence, he arranged to take Mrs. Acheson, John Foster Dulles, his Republican assistant, and Mrs. Dulles and two assistants, Lucia D. Beale and Robert G. Barnes. The conference will open Monday.

Acheson's statement on his policy approach to the new meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers was issued here after he had reviewed his policies and plans with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He was said to have received the committee's full bi-partisan support.

The Acheson statement was a stern and diplomatic—a realistic appraisal of the situation with which he will be confronted at Paris when he sits down with the Soviet foreign minister Vishinsky, British Foreign Secretary Bevin and French Foreign Minister Schuman.

Predicts Drop In Measles Cases

Raleigh, N. C. May 20 (AP)—A great increase in the number of cases of measles should "decline in the near future," Dr. Roy Norton, State Health officer, reported yesterday.

The total of 11,200 cases reported for this year through April compared with 148 cases during the first quarter of 1948.

State Milk Imports Cut Sharply Says Ballentine

Raleigh, N. C. May 20 (AP)—North Carolina is cutting down sharply on milk imports, says Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine.

They have been reduced to the lowest since before the war, he said yesterday, under a tighter control policy made possible by a 1948 law.

The new law required both the shipper and receiver of imported milk to get permits from the Agriculture commissioner. Two types—annual and temporary emergency permits—are authorized.

Currently, Ballentine said, he is issuing only emergency permits good for 10 days. He is trying, he added, to limit milk shipments into the state "to the barest minimum necessary to meet requirements in certain areas."

The commissioner said, "we feel that tighter controls are in the interest of both the public and our own milk producers."

"Permits for longer periods will be withheld until the dairy division has had an opportunity to perfect means of checking the sources of milk imports," he continued.

"North Carolina's production of grade A milk has been at a record high level for several months. x x x

Winter Lingers On In California

Los Angeles, May 20 (AP)—Southern California's rugged winter isn't over yet, although it's mid-May.

It snowed last night in San Gabriel and San Bernardino mountains, as much as three inches falling in Big Bear Valley (elevation 6750 feet).

A couple of Los Angeles residents even reported seeing white flakes here, but the Weather Bureau explained that it rarely shows when the temperatures are in the thirties.

First Shells Hit Shanghai Proper As Reds Advance

Defenders Beat Back Assault On Outpost, But City's Time Is Drawing Short

Shanghai, May 20 (AP)—The first shells of the civil war smashed into booming Shanghai proper today as the Communists returned to the assault on this largest city in all Asia.

Four high explosive shells, presumably from Communist batteries east of the city, struck in the old French quarter. At least six Chinese civilians were killed. Ten others were wounded.

The shells exploded about midnight near the Lafayette Theater on the street of the same name. This is a densely-populated residential and shopping district.

(The district lies nearly a mile from the waterfront behind the old Chinese quarters of Shanghai. On the other side of the waterfront is Pootung, the district under Communist attack.)

A garrison communiqué said the Communists broke an evening lull with an attack on the Woonung sector, 10 miles north of Shanghai, where the Whangpoo River meets the Yangtze.

The communiqué said two companies of Communists tried to seize the government radio transmitter in that area but were beaten back after losing "half their men."

The communiqué declared that government positions were intact on the east side of the Whangpoo River in the Pootung sector. The Reds last were six to eight miles from Shanghai proper on this front.

It appeared that Shanghai's time is drawing short.

The Bund, Shanghai's waterfront thoroughfare, was banned to civilian traffic. (This would be a military measure to clear the way for military withdrawals on the Whangpoo to the Yangtze.)

What the Nationalists are doing there is not clear. There were no important troop landings on ships waiting at anchor.

There were rumors that important Chinese in Shanghai were leaving, but these were not borne out by checks at airports.

This, however, does not apply to Peanut, who seems to have left several days ago.

"Peanut" was the name applied to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek by the late Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell. This dispatch, written under censorship, obviously was saying that Chiang had left Shanghai. He had been reported directing the city's defenses.

Nationalist troops are on the move in Shanghai—north, south, east and west.

Senate Hearings On Atlantic Pact Played To Half-Empty House; Indifferences Arose From Change In Public Attitude And Acceptance Of Policy

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, May 20 (AP)—All over the country it must have been something like this:

The husband was sitting in the living room, thumbing through the newspaper, and the wife looked up from her sewing.

She said: "I was talking with Mrs. Dieffenderfer today and she said:—"

"The husband, looking at something on the inside page, interrupted: "I see they finished the hearings on the Atlantic pact."

"Oh," the wife said. "I wasn't following it."

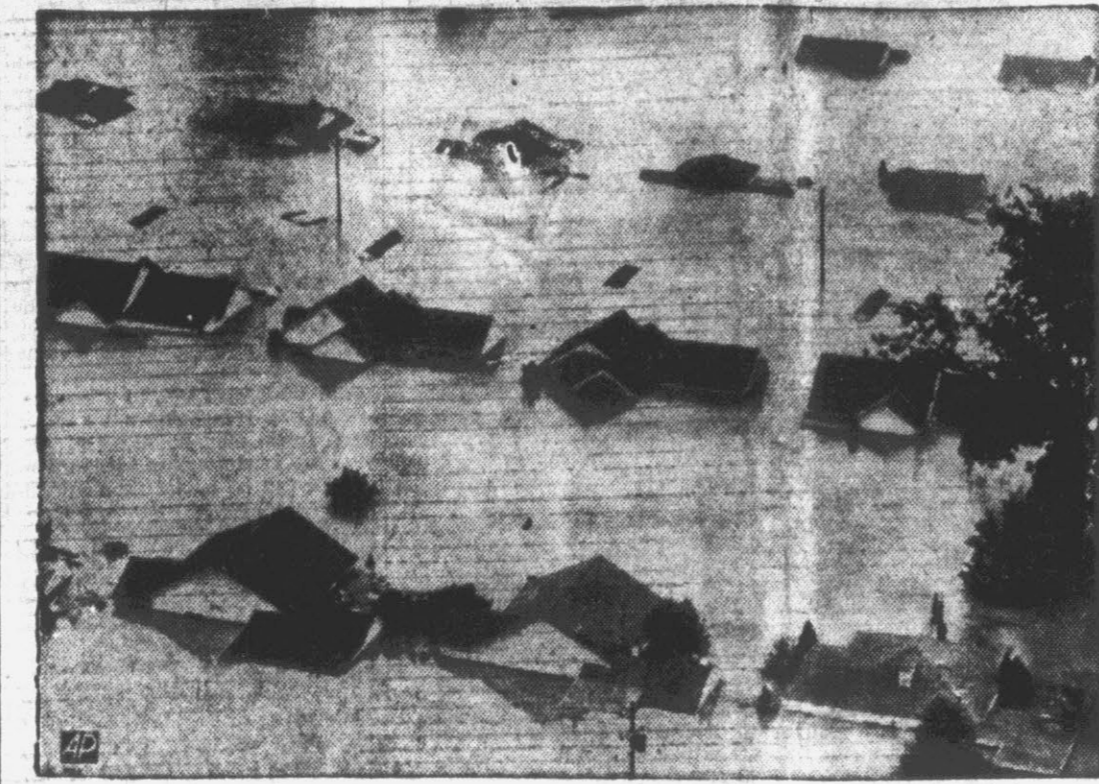

"Me neither," the husband said. "What was the business about Mrs. Dieffenderfer, Dorfordorfer, Defel-dorfer, or what's her name?"

There must have been a lot of the same indifference to the pact around the country, judging from what happened here.

For three weeks the Senate Foreign Relations committee had held hearings on the pact, and finished this week.

But most of the time it played to a half-empty house although the seats at the hearings were free, there were plenty of them, and joining the pact would be one of the most far-

Union Threatens Halt Ford Talks

Would Quit Negotiations Unless Ford Talks New Pact

Detroit, May 20 (AP)—The striking CIO United Auto Workers threatened today to pull out of peace talks with the Ford Motor Co.

Coincidental with the UAW's threat the federal government—after a Ford request—prepared to intervene as a mediator. Ford assailed the union's "attitude" in the private talks.

The maneuvers came as the union's "speed-up" strike idling more than 100,000 workers entered its 16th day with an agreement apparently still distant.

Ford and the UAW are locked in a dispute over workmen's production rates at Ford's Rouge and Lincoln-Mercury plants.

The union, at a strikers' mass meeting last night, made its threat to quit negotiations unless Ford agreed to go into simultaneous new contract discussions.

Meanwhile, a tenth negotiation session was set for today (10 a.m. EST).

UAW President Walter Reuther demanded that Ford start contract talks next Monday and continue simultaneously with strike negotiations "until both matters are disposed of."

There was no immediate reply from Ford.

Reuther said the union was "unwilling to negotiate on either subject to the exclusion of the other."

Earlier Ford asked the government's intervention as mediator in the strike and the request was granted.

Investigating

Sheriff William Ramsey of Beaufort county stated today in Washington that his office had not completed investigation of the alleged criminal attack on Mrs. Bonnie Jones of Grimsland by several white men last Tuesday night.

The victim is in a Washington hospital in a critical condition.

Mrs. Jones, who is married, was reported to have been raped numerous times and that her body was mutilated. She was found early Wednesday morning in a dazed condition on the edge of woods several miles below Grimsland and taken to the hospital.

The Beaufort County sheriff has several men in jail for investigation, but he said he was not ready to make a report of the result of his investigation.

Bond Campaign Continues With Heavy Schedule

Raleigh, May 20 (AP)—The campaign to win supporters for the road and school bond issues continues with a heavy schedule of speeches set for tonight and tomorrow.

June 4 is the date set for the statewide election on the bond issues.

The governor will plug for the $200,000,000 road and $25,000,000 school bond issue tonight at a rally in Sanford.

Dr. T. C. Johnson, Paroles commissioner, will speak tonight at a farm rally at the Copeland school in Surry County.

Here in Raleigh, former State Auditor Baxter Durham will address the Raleigh Citizens Association.

Tomorrow, Governor Scott will speak to a group at Mayodan in the afternoon and then go to Elkin for an address that night.

Constitution Is Ratified

Munich, Germany, May 20 (AP)—Western Germany tonight ratified a constitution uniting 11 states outside the Soviet zone into a federal republic.

Ratification was completed by the Parliamentary action of eight, or two thirds, of the states of the western occupation zone.

The eight states voted "yes" by overwhelming margins, with virtually all the opposition coming from the Communists. Bavaria, the big state in the American occupation zone, voted "No" but reversed the right to enter the new government upon participation by the others.

Britain Refuses Negotiation Role

Reject Soviet Proposal In Settling Of Greek War

London, May 20 (AP)—Britain announced today she will refuse to negotiate a settlement of the Greek civil war "behind the back of the Greek government."

Informants in Washington said a similar reply was given by the United States to a proposal by Russia for halting the three-year-long civil strife between the Athens government and communist-led guerrillas.

The British foreign office said British Minister of State Hector McNeill told Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in New York conversations recently that "the hostilities would soon cease if the northern neighbors of Greece stopped giving aid and shelter to the rebels." Athens "must be fully consulted" on any steps, Britain holds.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said in Moscow that Gromyko had proposed negotiations of a Greek settlement based upon recent peace proposals of the guerrillas, who have proclaimed a separatist government of their own. Athens has rejected such guerrilla overtures several times and demanded unconditional surrender.

Tass said Gromyko proposed that if the three powers worked together on the Greek problem, they jointly call for an end of hostilities, a general amnesty and free, supervised elections. He also called for an international commission to control the frontier areas, which is a departure from previous Russian policy.

Hunt For Three Missing Girls In Charlotte Area

Anderson, S.C., May 20 (AP)—Sheriff Clint McClain said the hunt for three young girls missing from their homes here since Wednesday today had been shifted to the Charlotte, N.C., area and that police there have been alerted to look for the girls.

Sheriff McClain said the hunt was concentrated in that area after he received a report that girls answering their description were seen hitch-hiking toward Spartanburg yesterday afternoon.

Jimmy Lee Eigin, 40, last seen with the girls Wednesday afternoon, still was being held in the county jail without charge today, but Sheriff McClain said he probably will be turned over to city police to face a charge of drunkenness.

Students Win In Strike Action

Shalotte, May 20 (AP)—Striking students of Shalotte high school went back to classes today triumphant in their battle to have their veteran principal rehired.

The 500 students walked out this week after the Brunswick County School Board discharged Principal Henry Stone.

Two members of the board, J. P. Russ and the Rev. Dennis Hewett, have lost the posts since the ruckus began for failure to attend meetings. The reshuffled board met last night and rehired Stone. He has been principal 14 years and has served on the faculty the last 21 years.

Manhattan Has New 'Heliport'

New York, May 20 (AP)—A flying field—which is so small it's not even called a field—has been opened on crowded Manhattan Island.

Designated a Heliport, it's the city's first commercial terminal for helicopters. The 60-by-161-foot airport is located on an east river pier.

Board To Study Milk Ordinance

The amendment to a milk ordinance which would ban all pasteurized milk not processed in Pitt county from being sold within the county will be the principal matter of business at the meeting of the Pitt county board of health tonight.

The meeting is scheduled to be held at 8 o'clock in the commissioners' room at the court house.

Out of town people expected to attend the meeting, officials said this morning, will include representatives from Gardner Dairy Products in Rocky Mount, Coble Dairy Products, and Rodman's Dairy of Washington.

At a call meeting of the board of health Monday, the amendment calling for the banning from the county of all pasteurized milk not processed within the county was presented by County Sanitarian Charles V. Morgan, and unanimously adopted by the board upon a motion by Dr. B. McK. Johnson seconded by Mayor J. H. Boyd of Greenville.

On Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of three members of the board and three members of the county health department with representatives of Gardner Dairy Products of Rocky Mount, the county health officer, Dr. T. G. Baskight, acting with the approval of the three members of the health board, advised the dairy representatives the outside milk would be allowed to continue coming into the county until Saturday.

Members of the Pitt county board of health are M. B. Hodges of Grifton, J. H. Boyd of Greenville, Snodgrass Edwards of Ayden, Dr. B. McK. Johnson of Greenville, V. Vance Bunting of Bethel, and D. H. Conley, superintendent of Pitt county schools.

Senator Quits Group Claiming Probe Is Now 'Farce'

Washington, May 20 (AP)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) today angrily quit the Senate group investigating the Malmady trials and blasted it for "attempting to whitewash a shameful episode" in armed forces history.

McCarthy, himself a World War II Marine veteran, has constantly been at odds with Senator Baldwin (R-Conn.), chairman of the group looking into the trial of Nazi soldiers charged with massing American prisoners of war during the Battle of the Bulge.

The Wisconsin lawmaker issued two bitter statements—one to the press, another for the Senate Record—in which he accused Baldwin's armed service subcommittee of "a deliberate attempt to avoid the facts."

"I feel that the investigation has degenerated to such a shameful farce that I can no longer take part therein," he said.

McCarthy is not a member of the Armed Services Committee. But as one of the senators who suggested the probe, he was appointed to the investigating group for its hearings on charge that American officials had used brutal methods in getting confessions from the German soldiers.

In his statements today he declared that the hearings had demonstrated the truth of the charges.

Visit Of A Friend

Brazilian President Eurico Dutra Pays A Strictly Social Call On His Neighbor To The North; Surprise Party; An Excellent Illustration Of Making Friends

By DEWITT MacKENNIE

The visit of amity by Brazilian President Eurico Dutra to the United States is a happy burst of sunshine through the international storm clouds.

It is symbolic of a great friendship which cannot be too assiduously guarded in these days when the nations of the Western Hemisphere must stand together for the common good.

President Dutra's stay with us got away to a fine start when official Washington, aware that he was arriving on his sixty-fourth birthday, staged a surprise party—cake and all—with President Truman as general host. It was the sort of things which captures the fancy of Americans, and sets them to humming "Happy Birthday to You." So we are glad to see General Dutra.

In an address before a joint session of the Senate and House, the general referred to relations between Brazil and America "as a rare example of fraternal association of two peoples which has prevailed over a period of more than 120 years."

He spoke of President Truman's visit to Rio De Janeiro in 1947 for the signing of the historic

Economy-Talking Senators Again Fight Funds Bill

Solon Proposes 39 Per Cent Cut In Army Civil Functions Bill Before Body

Washington, May 20 (AP)—Economy-talking Senators bounced back for another try today after suffering three straight defeats in their drive to cut federal spending.

One undaunted Democratic Senator in the economy group proposed by far the deepest cut yet—a 39 per cent slash in the army civil functions bill.

Sponsored by Senator Douglas (D-Ill.) the amendment would whack $300,000,000 out of the $751,000,000 measure up for senate debate.

Even those backing the economy move most vigorously predicted privately that Douglas' proposal would be scuttled.

One reason they cited is that the bill carries $722,000,000 for development of rivers and harbors and for flood control projects scattered throughout the country. Dozens of Senators are plugging for projects in their own states.

In addition to the Douglas amendment, the Senate has before it the now standard proposal sponsored by Republican Senators Ferguson (Mich.) and Bridges (N.H.) to cut the bill by five per cent.

They have offered that one on all three money bills passed by the Senate so far, and each time the idea was rejected.

The third defeat came late yesterday on the $1,465,000,000 agriculture department bill. The measure passed the senate by a voice vote and went back to the house, which allowed $21,000,000 less.

Before the final action there were two attempts to whittle the senate total. They both failed, by votes, by votes of 53 to 32 and 50 to 32.

Those two votes gave the backers of administration budget plans their most decisive victory since the start of the economy drive. But the argument was hot and at times furious.

Raps 'Whitewash' Of Trial Inquiry

West Has Strong Position In Talks

Asks Discharge

Shelby, N. C., May 20 (AP)—Odus Mull of Shelby, former speaker of the North Carolina House of Representatives, asked trustees today to discharge Communist Hans Freistadt as part time instructor from the University of North Carolina.

"I know that you will agree with me that the fathers and mothers of our state do not want their children taught by Communists," Mull wrote the trustees. "Likewise, the taxpayers would not want tax money used in paying a Communist teacher."

Mull addressed the letter to Chairman Victor Bryant of Durham and all members of the board.

Freistadt is a part-time instructor and graduate assistant in the University's department of physics.

Enjoy Best Advantage Since Yalta Meeting Of Big Four; Can Either Take Offensive Or Sit Tight And Let Russia Break Dead-lock

Berlin, May 20 (AP)—America, Britain and France will go into the Paris foreign ministers conference in their strongest positions since Yalta.

This is the situation of the Big Four as seen today in Berlin where France, Britain, the United States and Russia wrangle daily.

The Soviet Union's bargaining situation has been considerably weakened economically and politically since the Moscow and London conferences.

In both previous conferences the West was in a defensive position trying to seek agreements from Russia.

In the Paris conference for the first time diplomats believe the West can take the offensive or sit tight and let the Soviets seek to break the deadlock.

In a nutshell, the comparative positions on Germany are seen in this light politically and economically.

Western advantages: (1) Last year and two years ago Western Germany was poverty stricken and economically stagnant. Today its industry is booming, living standards have been raised, its money has been reformed and put on a stable basis and recovery is well under way.

(2) Last year and two years ago West Germany was a political vacuum. There was no government not did anyone care much about one. Today the Germans are busy setting up their own West German state and Germans as a whole have taken an interest in politics again. They have definitely aligned themselves with the West and Communism has sunk to its lowest levels since pre-1918 times.

(3) Last year and two years ago the Western powers were split on their German policy. Britain and the United States wanted to rebuild Germany until it could support itself. France, fearing German aggression, opposed every such move. With security fears largely alleviated by the Atlantic pact, France is now closer to Britain and the United States and united in a common German policy.

Russia's position: (1) At the end of the war the Soviets had the only zone which could support itself economically, particularly in food. Its standard of living was far higher than the industrial west. Today, stripped by reparations, and shipping vast quantities of goods to Russia, the Eastern zone is a deficit area. Its standard of living has tumbled far below Western Germany. Its money, despite reforms, is worth only one fourth as much as the West mark.

(2) At the end of the war, the Russians had a chance to win German support by a lenient occupation policy. Today there is no hope for such support except by force of arms. Ruthless suppression of all anti-Communist opposition, the installation of a small Communist minority as the ruling class and reduction of the population to a state of the state has aroused widespread opposition.

Former Regent Of Greece Dies

Athens, May 20 (AP)—Archbishop Damaskinos, former regent of Greece, died suddenly today. He was 58.

The archbishop, who ruled Greece as regent from 1944 to 1946, had been in poor health for the past several months. He suffered from heart trouble.

Damaskinos, the Greek Orthodox primate, took over the reins of troubled Greece after its liberation from the Germans, to serve until a plebiscite was held on the return of the monarchy. When Greece voted for the return of the king Damaskinos relinquished the position.

Left - Wing Leaders In CIO Handed Warning

Washington, May 20 (AP)—The CIO has shoved the leaders of its left-wing minority toward an outright break with the parent organization, and more shows are coming.

This is the meaning of the three-day meeting of the 53-man CIO executive board which ended last night in Cleveland.

Nobody resigned. CIO President Philip Murray publicly announced that the CIO is facing up to "a communist situation" which must be dealt with at the CIO convention starting Oct. 31 in Cleveland.

Harry Bridges, head of the CIO Longshoremen's Union, who was by far the most talkative of the left-wing group at the board meeting told a reporter the board action had "nothing to do with communism." He said it was strictly a question of whether CIO unions are to run their own affairs or whether they must take orders from the CIO.

Bridges also said he wouldn't resign from the board or lead his union out of the CIO.

Bridge Party Honors Bride-Elect

Miss Ella Frances Viola, whose wedding will be solemnized on Saturday, was honored by Mrs. Novella Moyer Williams, Mrs. Moya Hadley and Miss Jesse Moyer at bridge on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at their home on West Fifth Street.

The entire lower floor of the home was decorated with beautiful spring flowers. In the reception hall where guests were greeted by the hostesses and Miss Marty Hadley, magnolias and green tapers were used. In the drawing room were arrangements of shell pink roses, sweetpeas and larkspur. Here the bride's place was marked with a corsage of pale pink roses and the players' places with attractive bridal tulle.

In the living room and library were roses and sweetpeas in shades of bright red and maroon. At the end of the game, the guests were invited into the dining room where the traditional bride scheme of green and white prevailed. On the mantel, buffet and serving table were silver bowls of white roses and burning white tapers in silver candlesticks. The long banquet table was centered with a graceful arrangement of white roses, delphinium, sweetpeas and Devon jessamine in a large silver bowl flanked by white tapers in tall silver candlesticks tied with tulle and jessamine, and silver compotes of bridal mints and salted nuts. Seated at either end of the table, Mrs. Alex Viola, mother of the bride, and Mrs. A. K. McGowan, mother of the bridegroom, served bridal ices and cakes from silver platters. The guests returned to their tables, which were centered with burning pink tapers tied with flesh tulle and jessamine.

Miss Jane Massey, winner of high score, was presented a gift. Miss Viola was remembered by the hostesses with a gift for her trousseau. Miss Anne Morton, bride-elect, was also remembered with a gift.

Dr. Adams Speaks At Club Meeting

Greenville's Junior Woman's Club held its regular meeting Wednesday night, May 18, in the Woman's Club building with a large attendance and guests for the evening included Mrs. J. B. Spilman, Mrs. Vance Perkins, Mrs. T. M. Watson, Mrs. R. R. Willmann and Dr. Carl L. Adams. The meeting was opened by the reading of our collect, after which the minutes were read and approved and the roll was called.

After a brief business session, our meeting was turned over to our program chairman for the evening, Mrs. Charles Marston, who introduced our guest speaker, Dr. Carl L. Adams, professor in the psychology and education departments at EOTC. Dr. Adams' subject was "Children"—a topic wide in sphere but dealt with very concisely and informatively by Dr. Adams. He emphasized the four wishes of growing humans which exist from the time of birth until death—wish for activity, experience, security and recognition. These wishes to be coped with by day-to-day living. Each day should be a new and constructive process with the worries involved ceased with the close of each day. Dr. Adams left us with this: "Our supreme value on earth is our children and let them live in happy anticipation." The club appreciated Dr. Adams' talk and we sincerely hope he can give us more of his valuable time in the future.

Our president, Mrs. E. K. Allen, read to the club a paper written by Mrs. Sam J. Weeks, which was submitted at the convention of N. C. Federated Women's Club held in Goldsboro April 19, 20 and 21. Mrs. Weeks very thoroughly covered our year's work with emphasis on our main project, the Watson Memorial Fund. The merits of our year condensed in this paper by Mrs. Weeks won for us the Pleda Jackson Award. Plans for our annual picnic were discussed and agreed upon. June 1st will be our date and Mrs. J. B. Spilman graciously invited us with our husbands and friends to enjoy the benefits of her lawn for this occasion. All of us are looking forward to a delightful time which will officially terminate our year.

Mrs. T. M. Watson was introduced by our president and expressed to us her sincere appreciation and loving gratitude for the work we have accomplished in behalf of her deceased husband, Dr. T. M. Watson, former local pediatrician. She presented to the club a substitute gavel to be used until she can have one made from a walnut tree Dr. Watson planted years ago in his mother's yard. We accepted this gift with humility and only hope we can strive forward to benefit more and more underprivileged children with hospital and medical attention by our Watson Memorial Fund. The club gave Mrs. Watson a photograph of Dr. Watson we had had made.

Mrs. Ernul K. Willis, on behalf of the club, presented to Mrs. J. B. Spilman a gift which expressed from her kind and loyal capacity of our senior advisor.

We were happy to have with us Mrs. R. R. Willmann, incoming president of the Senior Club, who gave us encouraging words for our work.

Our installation service of new officers was officiated over by Mrs. Vance Perkins, retiring president of the Senior Club. As the new officers formed a semi-circle around a table set with a lace table cloth, an empty bowl and long tapers in silver candle holders, she was presented with a bouquet of flowers. Mrs. Perkins read the poem "Bridge Builders," after which she recognized each officer and read their duties. As the officer accepted her duty, she arranged in the empty bowl her bouquet and lighted the tapers thus forming a lovely picture of unity producing beauty and radiance. The service was closed with a prayer. The officers for next year are as follows:

President, Mrs. Johnston Dees. 1st vice-president, Mrs. Robert C. Pearce; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. V. I. Morris; recording secretary, Mrs. K. H. Mercer; treasurer, Mrs. Sam J. Weeks; corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. W. Shiplett; reporter, Mrs. H. L. Brown; historian, Mrs. H. E. Alder; advisor, Mrs. J. B. Spilman; institute director, Mrs. E. K. Allen, our retiring president.

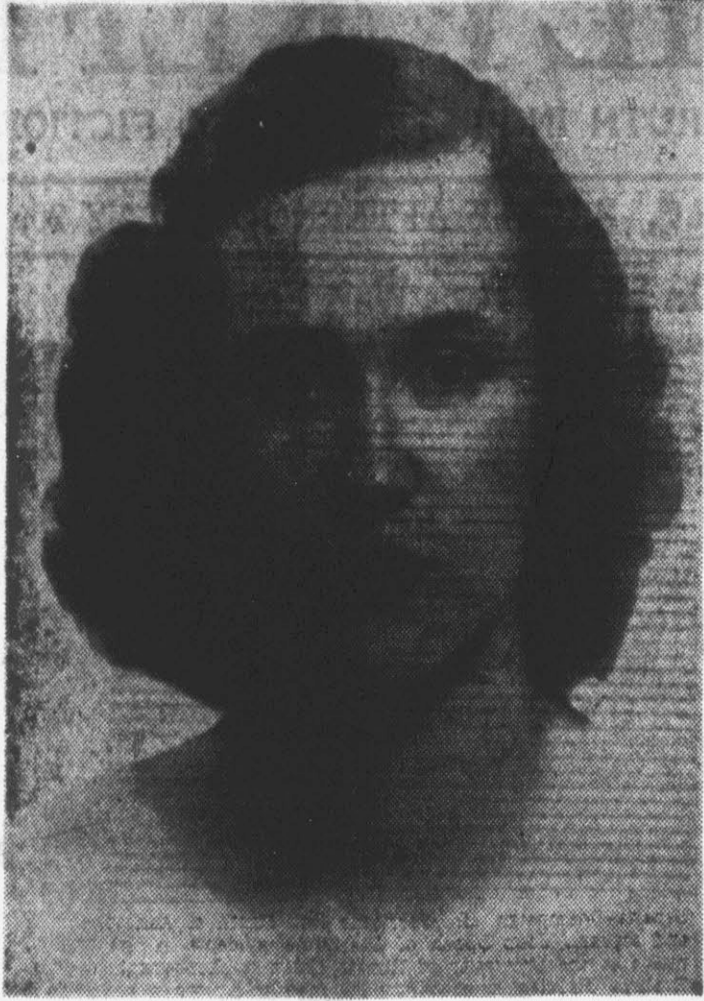

The incoming officers were presented with a shoulder corsage. The flowers in the bouquets came from the gardens of Mrs. T. M. Watson.

Mrs. Dees immediately took office and reminded us of our work ahead with the poem, "Are You An Active Member." She then read her committees for the next year. Mrs. Godfrey Oakley read the latest report on our Watson Memorial Fund with our latest benefits accomplished for underprivileged children as follows: April—stomach operation and thymus gland X-rays.
May 1st—$9.97 total amount spent on books, puzzles and toys for the children's wing in Pitt General Hospital.
May 14th—Hospitalization for two children and two tonsilectomy.
May 17th—Hospitalization and care for cross-eyed child. Diarrhea case hospitalization cared for.

All of this work is made possible by the cooperation of the good citizens of Greenville and Pitt County and we sincerely appreciate your loyal support.
Our meeting disbanded with an invitation to the tea table where delicious refreshments of loed Pepsi-Cola, assorted lovely open-faced sandwiches and potato chips were served. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. V. I. Morris, Mrs. Clyde Hollowell and Mrs. Norris Merritt. —Reported.

Stokes—Miss Vera Williams of Chocowinity and Mr. J. B. Congleton, Jr., of Stokes, whose wedding will take place in June, were entertained at a dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon L. Clark at their home in Stokes Wednesday night, May 11. The home was most attractive throughout with baskets and vases of roses and spring flowers. Guests sat at tables seating four, each of which was centered with small vases of sweetpeas and larkspur. The honored guests' table was centered with a vase of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Williams found her place marked with a corsage of white carnations.

Following the dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Clark gave Miss Williams and Mr. Congleton—a silver vegetable dish.

GHS Dramateers Present Plays

The Greenville high school dramateers will present two one act plays, "Elmer," and "Mooncalf Mugford," tonight in the high school auditorium, at eight o'clock.

These two productions will be directed and produced by student personnel. Mrs. Howard Mims, drama teacher, commented the plays "are more on the experimental basis, with all the scenery and props, direction of the plays being handled by the students." The drama class chose the cast for the play.

"Elmer," a one act comedy, was written by Beatrice McNeil and stars Joel Bunch, as Elmer. The supporting cast is composed of his twin sisters who are played by Barbara Ann Larkins and Peggy Bland. Ann Sutton plays Elmer's mother while his other sister is portrayed by Clara Williams.

Joana Bunch is director of the play and is assisted by Peggy Barrow. Other actors in the play are played by Bobby Lee and Tommy Hannaford.

"Mooncalf Mugford," a one act drama, was written by Duffield and Leary. The main characters of the play are two dominated people, who are played by Zack Taft and Peggy Tucker. Sam Fleming takes the part of the ghost who returns to earth to visit the couple.

This play is directed by Meador Norris and Carolyn Clapp.

Those two plays will bring to a close the activities of the Dramateers for the year. The 29 members of the class have worked on many productions which have won them praise. "Unto Us the Living" was one of the best of their year's work. "Gray Bread" was presented in the state drama festival and in Goldsboro. The highlight of the year's work was the selection of Joana Bunch as the best actress at the state drama festival held in Chapel Hill.

Orientation Is Held At Belvoir-Falkland School

The Future Freshmen program held at the Belvoir-Falkland High School on April 12 proved to be very successful with fifty-seven students registering and enjoying the schedule planned for them.

This is the second time that an orientation program has been held for the incoming freshmen from both schools, and with the getting together of the students we believe that student relationship will be better than it has been in the past.

Dennis Manning, vice-president of Student Cooperative Association, acted as chairman of the program which consisted of music by the Glee Club and student speakers. Estell Dunn, Janet Parker, Floyd Langley, Rose Brown, Beatrice Cogins, Milton Spain, Mary Lou Vainright and Frances Little each spoke on the same phrase of the school program.

The students were issued schedule, registered and attended classes where the teachers gave them a general idea of what to expect from their high school work.

Mr. F. H. Hodges, principal, made a few remarks concerning the school, its curriculum and welcomed the Future Freshmen into the high school.

The Home Economics Classes entertained at a tea after which they enjoyed the May Day exercises which was sponsored by the Music Department of the school.

Methodist Women Meet In Grifton

Methodist women of the Central Zone, which is composed of churches at Ayden, Walstonburg, Snow Hill, Hookerton, Greenville, Kinston, Pink Hill and Grimesland, met for their spring meeting in Grifton on May 18th, the churches at Edwards, Sharon and Grifton being hosts for the meeting.

Mrs. D. Lester Latham of Washington, zone leader, had charge of the business which began with registration at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Marvin Bass and Mrs. Wilbur Langston were on hand to act as a reception committee. They were assisted by Mrs. J. C. Hooten and Mrs. Cecil Cobb. More than two hundred women were present for the inspiring meeting.

Welcome by Mrs. Milton Hart was responded to by Mrs. W. H. Taft of Greenville. Mrs. Harry Taylor of Hookerton recognized guests and officers. Of special interest were the promotion secretary's "Notes and Quotes" by Mrs. R. L. Cox of Mount Olive. The four-point program of advance by district officers proved to be of interest also. This was followed by an inspiring address by Mrs. H. I. Glass of Kinston, who is the conference vice president.

After a lunch hour the meeting again was under way and this was a workshop clinic under the leadership of Mrs. Cox.

Mrs. J. H. Barwick of Grifton was presented a life membership by her daughter, Mrs. Howard Keel of Bethel. Baby life certificates were given to children of Mrs. J. M. Hart and Mrs. Claud Hart.

Music for the day was under the direction of Mrs. Milton Hart. Mrs. H. L. Wettington of the Grifton church was speaker for the group. After the courtesy report adjournment was had at 2:30.

Strength FOR THE DAY

ON OUR OWN LEGS
 There is a long hill leading from the lake to the campus. The other evening as we drove up the hill, groups of boys were returning from crew practice. The greater number of them walked along and paid no attention to our car, but a few stragglers stood in the cold wind and thumbed up the hill. The distance was comparatively short and most of the boys were willing to walk, but a few wanted a lift.

We hear a great deal today about free enterprise and the contribution it has made to the building up of America. The boys who were willing to walk up the hill correspond to the people in daily walks of life who ask nothing more than a opportunity in life to make their way. Always there are a few standing at the roadside, their thumbs raised, asking for a lift. In the office they figure out that if they can ingratiate themselves with the president they will soon be sitting at his right hand, or at his left. In the mill they pay more attention to keeping on the good side of the foreman than they do to the proper performance of their tasks. In college they believe that the way to make good is by getting in with the right crowd and doing the proper thing.

We should thank God for the open road and good strong legs to carry us. This is what America stands for.

322 EMPLOYES A DAY

The executive branch of the United States government has many and varied functions, but when the time comes,—and it already has,—that it takes 2,111,257 civilian employees to keep the wheels of this branch moving, and then sometimes not too smoothly, it is time to slow down and consider what is going on.

During the past fifteen months, according to Senator Byrd of Virginia, civilian employees have been added to the staff of the executive department at the rate of 322 per day. At the average rate of civilian employee pay, this is adding the tidy sum of $750,000 per day to the annual government expense account.

We agree with Byrd that bureaucracy apparently is out of control with respect to personnel, and some action should be taken to cut down the number of non-essential employees.

If the Byrd proposal that 500,000 employees be dropped from the executive branch payrolls, which he says can be done without impairment of a single essential function, it will leave the employees of the branch at 175 per cent above the pre-war peak.

Admittedly the functions of the executive branch have become more complicated since the war, but we doubt the complexities require 175 per cent more workers, or that the efficiency of the branch has been improved an appreciable amount.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET
 BONDS—With a little more than two weeks remaining before the school-bond election on June 4, and after two weeks of strenuous campaigning for the bonds and less strenuous but still active campaigning against them, sentiment is beginning to crystallize. Majority opinion around Capitol square now is that both the $25 million school building and the $200 million rural road bond issues have better chance to win than was accorded them last week.

Balancing Bear

McNaught Syndicate, Inc., N.Y.C. REG-MANNING

FACTORS—This opinion is based on observation and experience in previous election campaigns, and upon some knowledge of human nature. It is conceded by most of those who comment on the subject that majority of the people do not and will not actually approve the idea of huge bond issues and consequent state debt. There is genuine opposition to the policy of state grants for school buildings, prevailing belief being that item should remain a local responsibility. There is also belief that $200 million is an excessive amount to vote for roads, even if any borrowing were necessary. But—capitol square is convinced that sentimental and emotional prejudice will aid both bond issues. Sentiment and emotion have long been recognized as significant factors in elections.

ABC—One observer says the bond situation is controlled by ABC store philosophy in reverse. He believes that most people in North Carolina would vote against ABC liquor stores, in spite of the fact they really think that system better than bootlegging. They vote against them because of the sentiment created that a vote for ABC is a vote for liquor, and a vote against ABC is a vote against liquor. So, now, the psychology is being developed that a vote for the bond can be classed as erroneous, but experience has proven them very effective in producing votes.

ILLUSTRATION—An eastern business man said he didn't like the idea of state aid to school buildings, and didn't think it sound policy to borrow money for roads at this time. But, he added, "my wife is active in the parent-teacher association, and I've got to go along with the bonds."

FALLACIOUS—Meantime, both sides are putting out a lot of propaganda that will not stand up under the light of facts. The claim that a repair of certain big bridges and other primary highway facilities depend upon a favorable vote on road bonds is begging the question. Just as fallacious is argument presented by some big cities that their citizens will pay into the road fund a lot more than they will get out of it. Fact is, the business enterprises in these big centers depend upon patronage of the back country. If Asheville, Charlotte and Winston-Salem were limited in trade territory to the borders of their own counties they would soon dry up.

POLITICAL—Behind scenes there is a good deal of straight out political talk about effect of the bond elections on future political developments, and also about influence of current situations on the upcoming election. It has been openly charged that Governor Scott will use distribution of the road bond money to build up a state WPA, easily convertible into a Scott political machine, immediate objective of which would be to elect Dr. Frank Graham to the senate next year and get a general assembly for 1951 more amenable to executive control than was the 1949 legislature. Conversations starting out along this line very soon get into discussion of the communistic element at Chapel Hill, the presence of an avowed Communist as a student-instructor on an atomic energy commission scholarship, and other phases of the general fear of Communism. Many people who have no idea of what Communism is, are talking about its encroachment on the American way of life.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
 New York —(AP)—More men than women are giving themselves a change of pace today by getting themselves a change of face.

They get a new outlook on life by going to a plastic surgeon to have an objectionable facial feature remodeled.

"Since the war we have more men than women patients," said Dr. Gregory L. Pollock, a pioneer specialist in this form of human sculpture.

In the last 30 years he has operated on some 5,000 persons. Among them were the widow of a U.S. President—she had her face lifted—and scores of society, theatrical and movie celebrities.

Dr. Pollock is something of a Broadway notable himself. He went from bookkeeping to bobbing. As a youth, before he went to medical school to learn the art of how to bob noses, ears and bosoms, he worked as an entertainment book-keeping agent. Many of his old clients later became his patients.

The science of plastic surgery has undergone significant change in three decades. At present it is a mushrooming branch of medicine.

The feature most people find fault with about their anatomy is the nose. Then come the ears—too much like Peter Rabbit or a pair of swinging doors. And then, in order, are wrinkles, over-sized bosoms and weak chins.

Paraffin was abandoned years ago as a subsurface stuffing to iron out wrinkles. Doctors found it tended to melt and collect in lumps beneath the skin. And it was an incipient agent of malignant growths.

One of the great developments in plastic surgery has been the creation of cartilage banks.

"With cartilage we can take a patient worried over his receding chin and make him look like a bulldog if he wants to," smiled Dr. Pollock.

Plastic surgeons now operate on babies two days old (cleft palate) or women and men past three score and ten (wrinkles that rankle).

One of their problems is to turn down people who come to them with imaginary facial defects. Dr. Pollock rejected an 81-year-old woman who wanted her face lifted. Her age made the operation too risky for any benefits she would gain.

One of his oddest callers was a handsome young man who came to him shortly after the death of Lon Chaney, the movie "horror man."

"He had a suitcase stuffed with hundreds of Chaney's pictures," said Dr. Pollock. "He wanted me to operate on him so he would look like a composite of Chaney in all his grotesque roles."

"I threw him out. Then I threw out his suitcase."

Somebody Told Me...

By I. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

East Carolina Teachers College was established in 1907, and it's pretty safe to say that since that date every Greenville boy of courting age has spent his share of time in pursuit of the ECTC girls.

When 10:30 comes around and the girls dash for the dorms the Greenville boys dash for a hamburger. About eight years ago when I was one of the dashers the Dixie Lunch was the target for ten-thirty.

Last night I dropped by the Dixie to renew my acquaintance with the owner and manager, Paul Nixon. Twenty-nine years ago, when he was fourteen, Paul came to this country from Avridania, Greece, a town of 4,000. En route he stopped several months in Italy, France, and Portugal.

Soon after arriving in America Paul shortened his Greek name and became Paul Nixon. Before coming to Greenville he lived in Frederick, Maryland for eleven years, Bluefield, West Virginia for five months, and Salem, Virginia for four years. He's been at the Dixie Lunch for 12 years.

With his wife and three children Paul lives at 1106 Fairfax Avenue. Paul's children learn to speak Greek first, then English. I asked Paul if he had much trouble learning to speak English. "Are you kidding?" he said. "I haven't learned how to speak it well yet." Ocheek that "well," instead of the incorrect "good" that most of us use.

Most of you who were here during the war remember that Paul had a Red Cross day each year. Every cent that the Dixie Lunch took in during that day was donated by Paul to the Red Cross. The total for the four years was $1,075.

Paul's home town in Greece was totally destroyed by the Germans in 1942. His two brothers are refugees there now. They live in monstres kept on saying, "I have ten months. I don't speak English." Then he would say "Okay" in answer to every question. On the way out I asked Paul to tell my new buddy that I'd drop by to talk to him a few months later.

"And I thank you."

By this stage of the interview Paul was getting behind on his hamburger orders, so I had to let him go. I was just about to leave when a conversation in rapid-fire Greek drew my attention. Later I discovered that Paul's cousin and partner, Gus Nixon, was translating English to Greek for Paul's nineteen-year-old nephew, Demostenes Karros, who arrived in America from Greece only ten months ago.

Immediately Demostenes and I became good buddies, and I was all set to get the low-down on conditions in Greece during the war. But the information from Demostenes was rather limited. "I have ten months here. I don't speak English." Those words were perfectly enunciated, but that's as far as it went.

"Who's teaching him to speak English?" I asked Gus. "Nobody. He's learning by himself."

Demostenes served in the communications department of the Greek army before coming to America. You can imagine how disheartening it was not to be able to hear his story, but Paul and Gus were too busy with hamburgers to serve as translators.

Smiling from ear to ear, Debut didn't want to dig a lot of test holes. King was called into play as a dowser.

A dowser is a person who claims ability to detect underground water by using a divining rod. Some dowzers employ peach tree twigs but King—an Amishman from Pennsylvania's Lancaster county—scorns such old fashioned methods in favor of a pair of wire pliers.

King paced across a plot of ground for the water company until at one point the pliers almost leaped from his grasp.

"There's a lot of water here," he announced. Using a pendulum made with a piece of string and a gold ring set in motion over a tumbler of water, he counted the number of vibrations.

Water, he said, would be found first t about 141 feet, again at 200 and 291 feet.

Despite the scepticism of a few residents, the water company started drilling. Yesterday, they reported, the drillers reached the 141-foot mark—and water gushed forth.

Yes sir, that Dave King and his pliers are highly considered in these parts now.

League Declines Support Bonds

Raleigh, May 20—(AP)—North Carolina's League of Municipalities is not supporting a $200,000,000 bond issue for rural roads.

League headquarters here made public yesterday a statement by R. M. Cooksey, Thomasville city manager and league president, which said the league is not recommending support of the rural road bonds.

Tobs Pound 20-2 Win Over Locals

Greenies Held To Seven Hits, One Of Them Being Homer By Gillespie; Visitors Score Eight Runs In Third And Sixth

By BERT MOYE

The Wilson Tobacconists pounded four Greenie hurlers for a total of 19 hits to wallop the Greenville Greenies 20 to 2 at Guy Smith Stadium last night.

Bruce Kramer went the route for the Tobs and held the Greenies to seven hits, one of which was a homer by Pete Gillespie in the second frame to account for one of their runs.

The other run of the Greenies came in the fifth frame on three successive singles by Keith Carraway, Joe Pasquale and Bobby Harrison.

The Tobs had two big frames last night by scoring eight runs in the third frame, then came back in the sixth to shove across eight more and in the sixth and seventh stanzas scored two runs each.

In the third, four singles, two doubles, two walks, two stolen bases plus a hit batsman and an error gave them their first eight runs.

In the sixth, five singles, Manager Ross Morrow's grand-slam homer, aided by three walks and an error and a wild pitch gave the visitors eight more runs. A double, single and an error gave them two runs in the seventh and their final runs came in the eighth on two singles and a double.

Bobby Dingler, playing second base for Irv Dickens who was out with an injury, with four singles in four trips to the plate, Bobby Dingler with two doubles and two singles, led the 19-hit attack off the four Greenie hurlers. Dale Sanner was the only Tob unable to get a hit during the contest.

The seven hits collected by the Greenies were divided among as

Bowls 2 Perfect Games In Three

Seattle, May 20 (AP)—It was a "pot" game with seven other leggers at the University Bowl.

Roy Williams hit 13 straight strikes for 300; dropped to 238 in his second game, then came back with another perfect 300 in his third game today.

Bowling officials said it was the first time they could recall of anybody here getting two 300's in a single series.

Only one other 300 has been rolled at the University Bowl. Last December it was recorded by Roy Williams.

Tonight's Games

Greenville at Wilson (2)
Rocky Mount at Kinston
New Bern at Roanoke Rapids
Tarboro at Goldsboro

Sidelights:—The loss for the Greenies last night was their third straight and in the last five games they have won one out of five. . . . It was the fifth loss at home for the Greenies this year; they have won eight at home so far. . . . The Greenies at the present time are tied with Tarboro and Kinston for fifth, sixth and seventh place in the league. . . . They are playing the Tobs in a double-header at Wilson tonight and a double loss by the Greenies together with a win by the Jays would place the Greenies in the cellar. The games tonight will start at 7 o'clock and both games will be nine full innings. . . . The win for Wilson last night evened the four-game series between the two clubs with two wins and two losses for each club. . . . Garland Little, credited with the loss last night, received his third setback of the year as against one victory. . . . Greenville made three double plays last night with the Tobs getting two. . . . Ken Helwyn, the third pitcher to see action in last night's game, was sent to the Greenville club on option by the Mooresville Club of the N.C. State League.

Coach Bill Kittrell's Greenville Midgets will play the Kinston Midgets here tonight at Guy Smith Stadium at 8 o'clock. The game is being sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and money derived from this game will be used to pay for their uniforms. Make your plans now to attend this game and give the youngsters a boost.

Attention Street Department:—That road leading into the ball park is just one big cloud of dust at game time and many complaints have been heard from those attending the game. They state that they have to have their car washed following every game which they attend. How about putting some oil on it to hold down that dust the same as was done last year?

One suggestion that has been made, which is believed would be helpful if adopted in the Coastal Plain League as a permanent regulation. That is, the periodic shift of the plate and base umpires. If they switched midway the game, it is believed chances for umpire baiting would be lessened, because even if the newcomer were no better on balls and strikes, he would at least give the fans the satisfaction of knowing an effort was being made to improve the game. In the case three umpires were used, the shift could be every three innings, with each getting plate experience for three stanzas in each game.

Walks Stop Groth

Detroit (P)—It took two bases on balls to stop Rookie Johnny Groth of the Detroit Tigers. Groth hit safely in his first 11 games for the Tigers. In his twelfth game he went to bat only once officially, grounding out to end his streak.

231 Try Grid

East Lansing, Mich. (P)—Michigan State's largest turnout for spring football in the school's history greeted coach Clarence Munn this spring. Drawing equipment for the Spartan grid team were 231 aspirants.

They Know How

Austin, Tex. (P)—Three current Southern Conference track coaches—Clyde Littlefield of Texas, Emmet Brunson of Rice and Jack Wilson of Baylor—are former two-event champions in the loop. Littlefield and Brunson held two records each at one time.

Red Rolfe Winning His Spurs As Successful Club Manager

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Red Rolfe is winning his spurs as a successful big league manager at Detroit.

The ex-New York Yankee third baseman who never managed any team, except Yale University, until this spring, has his Tigers in second place, only two games behind the leading Yankees.

Washington, Cincinnati and the Chicago White Sox have been stealing the big black print in the newspapers, but Detroit rates high among the surprise teams of 1949.

They laughed at Rolfe last March in Lakeland (Fla.) when he said he was taking dead aim at the American League pennant.

Everybody nodded politely, grinned and said, "They'll be lucky to beat out the Philadelphia A's to get in the first division."

Despite a decided weakness at first and second base, Rolfe maneuvered the Tigers into a contending position on the hitting of George Kell, Vic Wertz and Rookie Johnny Groth. Then he plugged the second base hole by acquiring Don Kolloway from the White Sox. Recently he benched George Vico and started playing Paul Campbell at first. It worked.

Rolfe set up a pitching "big four" of Hal Newhouser (4-2), Virgil Trucks (5-1), Ted Gray (3-1) and Freddie Hutchinson (2-2).

Hutchinson, who turned back Washington with seven hits yesterday, is on the mound. Hutch drove in three runs with a single, double and triple in the attack that hung loss No. 3 on Rae Scarborough. Not even No. 10-1, is as handy with bat as three hits by First Baseman Eddie Robinson could save Washington.

Detroit picked up a full game on the first place Yanks, who were dropped by Cleveland, 3-2, on a terrific slugging display by Larry Doby. The Indians' Negro outfielder smashed a 450-foot-plus homer — said by veteran observers to be the longest ever hit in the Yankee Stadium — as Steve Gromek shaded Bob Porterfield.

Doby's blast in the second inning cleared the 20-foot bleacher wall and landed in the seventh row of the center field bleachers. Later he hit a single with the bases loaded in the fifth to break a 1-1 tie.

A jittery defense cost the Boston Red Sox a 10-inning ball game on an error by First Baseman Billy Hitchcock on Vern Stephens' throw. The Red Sox made four errors in the game but Hitchcock's was the big one that gave Chicago a 7-6 margin.

they meet Kinston of the eastern Carolina boys baseball league. In four previous games this season, the local mites have won two and lost two for a .500 average.

Coach Bill Kittrell said his charges have shown considerable improvement during the past several weeks, and should be in good form for tonight's contest.

Probable starting pitcher for the Greenville team, Kittrell said, will be southpaw Guy Smith, Jr. who has pitched 15 consecutive scoreless innings as a relief pitcher this season. Tonight will be his first roll as a starting pitcher.

Other starters, Kittrell said, will be Bobby Nunn, catcher; Billy Bos first base; Pat Sawyer, second base; Gene Hudson, third base; Jerry Phillips, short-stop; Doug Morgan, left field; Connie Singleton, center field, and Charlie White, right field.

The proceeds from tonight's game sponsored by the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce will be used to pay for uniforms for the Midget baseball team.

Peddler of Dreams

By Peggy Dern

Chapter 25
On the last night of Felicity's visit to Casa del Mar Susan insisted on giving a party which she called "Tippy's coming-out party." The Horne children, Burton, Garrett and, of course, Ma Green, were all invited and Chalmers Thorpe agreed, a trifle grumpily, to come along. Just as dinner was over and they were lingering over the dessert, Susan faced them all, smiling brightly.

eally, Garrett grinned and nodded. Coming out of the drive at Casa del Mar, Garrett turned south along the Ocean Boulevard instead of north. He sent the car along at a good speed until he came to a point from which the slowly rising moon could be seen clearly as it threw a silvery path across the restless black satin waters of the ocean.

"Is this a romantic spot?" asked Garrett, and his voice shook a little. "I seem to remember that the other time I proposed to you it was in the noisy cafeteria, to the music of clattering dishes and nasal voices. Now that I'm about to propose to you again, I'd like you to have all the trimmings. And, my dearest dear, have you the faintest idea how utterly mad I am about you?"

"Then—oh darling, you're not cross with me about the play?" she stammered.

"I'm cross about just one thing—and that is that you thought so little of my love for you that you didn't realize I would have been the happiest man in the world for your success!"

"You sort of opened my eyes to the thing that was me, and I didn't seem to care a heck of a lot for the picture. So I sat down and gave myself a thorough going-over—and if you think you could possibly put up with what's left, I'll try my darndest to be what you expect of me from here on out."

"Oh, Garry—Garry! I was so afraid I'd hurt your pride by selling my play before your book was accepted!" she confessed humbly.

Garrett held her close and kissed her. For a moment they were silent, and then Garrett remembered something.

"Come to think of it, there was something else I wanted to tell you. It doesn't seem very important just now, somehow." He grinned down at her, one arm still holding her close, the other hand fishing in his inside coat pocket for something.

He brought it forth, a long slim envelope out of which he drew a check. In the light he switched on in the top of the car, she saw that it was long and pink and narrow and that it had Garrett's name and the amount, Two hundred and fifty dollars.

"It's from a pulp magazine," he told her eagerly. "And the editor liked the story she leading character in it—and suggested I turn it into a series to run six months or longer, depending on how the character 'takes' with his readers. He'll guarantee me two hundred and fifty for each installment of the series, one to be delivered each month."

Felicity touched the check with fingers that shook a little. For the moment she was speechless.

And all Felicity could say was a shaken, ecstatic, "Oh, Garry!" But if her responses lacked variety, they seemed to be entirely satisfactory to Garrett and, at the moment, nothing else was important. (To be continued)

Urges Farmers Hear Ballentine

L. Y. Ballentine, state commissioner of agriculture, will be the principal speaker at a livestock feed production and potato field day meeting to be held at the Tidewater experiment station in Plymouth Monday.

Pitt County Agent S. C. Winchester urged Pitt county farmers interested in these phases of agriculture to attend the meeting in Plymouth. "It is going to be a good field meeting and should be very helpful to farmers," he commented.

The meeting will begin at 9:30 Monday morning, and from 10 o'clock to 12:30 there will be field trips to study pastures, forage plots, fire lanes and beef cattle and sheep research programs.

J. L. Res, director in charge of the experiment station, will be in charge of the meeting.

Lunch will be available at the station, and at 1:30 Commissioner of Agriculture T. Y. Ballentine will address the farmers. R. W. Cummings, associate director of the experiment station, will speak on the Tidewater research program following Ballentine's address.

At 2:10 another field trip will begin during which there will be a study of fertilization, varieties, disease control and cultural practices for Irish potatoes.

Pasture And Hog Raising Meeting

Approximately 150 farmers from Pitt and surrounding counties gathered at the farm of Joe Moye, Jr. near Farmville yesterday for pasture and hog raising meetings.

Jack Kelley and Dr. H. A. Stewart of the State college extension division and S. F. Koehler of the Kingan packing house in Richmond, Va., spoke to the farmers on the best methods of raising hogs and the types which are preferred by the meat packers.

Kelley said yesterday's meeting was one of the first attempts to have farmers and meat packer representatives gather together to discuss the problem each has in dealing with hogs. "Hogs in North Carolina last year," he said, "was a 70 million dollar business."

Koehler in a short talk to the farmers emphasized the seriousness of the losses sustained by the packers because of parasites in hogs and he pointed out that the poorer quality of hogs are reflected in the prices paid for hogs in Virginia and North Carolina compared with those raised in the western and mid-western states.

Clean pens and good pastures are the two most important factors in keeping hogs free from parasites, he commented.

After the talks, the group toured the Moye Duroc farm and saw the hogs, pastures, and were explained the methods used by the farm in producing good purebred hogs. Joe Moye, Jr. explained the types of farrowing houses used by the farm and the advantages of each. He pointed out the different types of permanent pasture developed by the farm, and the decrease in cost of pasture feed over other feed for hogs.

From Joe Moye's farm, the group went to the farm of Howard Moye where they saw a five acre pasture on which purebred beef cattle and hogs are grazed; and there Howard Moye pointed out the benefits of the pasture and the condition of the animals which have been feeding on the pasture.

A barbecue dinner was served the farmers by members of the Ballards Home Demonstration club after which Kelley, Koehler and Stewart pointed out in several hogs the qualities which packers look for, and the characteristics of a hog which a farmer should keep in mind in raising hogs for market.

Church Services For 4-H Sunday

A county-wide church service for members of the Pitt county 4-H clubs will be held for the first time in Pitt county Sunday at the morning services at the Memorial Church in Greenville.

The Rev. Richard E. Hardaway will deliver a sermon "Faithfulness in Little Things."

Seven members from county 4-H clubs will take parts in the service. Milton Spain of Belvoir will read the scripture lesson, Jean Moore of Farmville will sing a solo "I Would Be True," and Hazel Garris of Farmville will read the poem "I Would Be Great." Prayers for the service will be Bobby Edwards of Pactolus, R. B. Bowers of Pactolus, Bruce Hudson of Chocod, and Max Lewis of Chocod.

Club members and their parents from the 16 4-H clubs in the county are expected to service.

Miss Marjorie Shearin, assistant home demonstration agent in charge of girls 4-H work in Pitt county, and C. J. Goodmon, assistant county agent in charge of the boys 4-H work.

Hot Yesterday

The Weather Bureau thermometer here registered 92 degrees yesterday at 3 p.m. The mercury descended to 66 degrees during last night and at 8 a.m. today it was hovering around 72 and steadily rising.

The temperature at 11 a.m. today was 85 degrees and rising with an overcast sky and prospects of rain.

N.Y. Stock Market

New York, May 20 (AP)—An attempt to recoup early losses made small headway in the stock market today. Prices headed downward soon after the opening. A comeback started before noon but about the best to be said for it was that the widest declines were shaded. Losses ranged from fractions to more than a point and were pretty well distributed through the list. Turnover proceeded at the rate of about 800,000 shares for the full session.

Poultry and Eggs

Raleigh, May 20 (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices stronger. Tops of $18.25 at Greenville, Wilson, Goldsboro, Washington; $18.50 at Rocky Mount, Tarboro; $18.75 at Kinston; $19 at Richmond.

Grain Market

Chicago, May 20 (AP)—New crop wheat deliveries eased while the May contract jumped about nervously on the board of trade today. Other cereals mostly tended lower but soybeans and lard both displayed quite a bit of weakness.

May wheat closed 2 1/2 higher at $2.23 1/4. New crop wheat was 1/2 to 1 cent lower. Corn was 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, May $1.33 1/4, oats were 1/4-1/2 lower, May 67 1/4-1/2, rye was 1/4-1/2 lower, July $1.39-1.38, soybeans were 2 1/2-3 lower, May $23 1/4-$23.50, and lard was 10 to 15 cents a hundred pounds lower, May $11.37.

N.Y. Cotton

New York, May 20—Cotton futures today opened unchanged to 10 cents a bale higher.

Noon prices were 15 to 20 cents a bale lower than the previous close. July 32.46, Oct. 29.04 and Dec. 28.83.

Increased short covering and trade buying rallied cotton futures into new high ground for the day in closing trading.

Futures closed 25 to 50 cents higher than the previous close.

Hold Meeting On Pitt X-Ray Drive

A county-wide meeting on the Tuberculosis x-ray program to begin in Pitt county on June 4 was held last night in the local Agricultural building with representatives from various parts of the county present.

The 23 home demonstration clubs of Pitt county, which are taking the lead in distributing information about the program to rural areas, were represented by Miss Vera Belle Lowery of the county, home demonstration department.

Other representatives from Fountain, Grimesland, Grifton, Farmville, Winterville, Bell Arthur and Ayden also attended the meeting.

Miss Lulu Belle Highsmith, health educator with the tuberculosis division of the state health department, explained the program to the representatives and asked that a meeting be arranged in each community in the county so the program may be explained to the people.

An opposition vote of 33 per cent last weekend in an election rigged to produce a 100 per cent "yes" vote is an index of the Soviet Union's political failure.

A major factor in the lowering of Soviet prestige in Europe was the failure of Russia's attempt to force the Western powers from Berlin by starving the population through the blockade.

COMEDY

Dates Fixed For 4-H Camp Week

The week of camp this summer for the junior and senior members of Pitt county 4-H clubs will be August 23 through August 28, it was announced today by C. J. Goodmon, assistant county agent, and Marjorie Shearin, assistant home demonstration agent.

Goodmon estimated 75 Pitt county boys and girls will attend the week's camp to be held at Camp Manteo on Roanoke Island. Members of 4-H clubs from Dare and Currituck will attend the camp during the same week, Goodmon said.

The Hindu custom of a widow throwing herself on the funeral pile of her husband was outlawed 120 years ago by the British government but is no yet obsolete.
