Strategy Awaited On Arms Program

Lawmakers Expect Tip-Off Today On How To Push Arms-For-Europe Without Risking Fate Of Atlantic Pact; Truman To Call Signals

Washington, June 27 (AP)—Administration leaders today awaited a White House decision on strategy for getting an arms-for-Europe program through Congress without risking the fate of the Atlantic pact.

Some lawmakers said they expected the signal to come from President Truman during his conference today with House and Senate leaders.

The administration wants swift action on both the pact, which has little opposition, and the arms program, which has plenty, in this situation, officials expressed fear that if the plan to rearm western European and other nations presented too soon it might hurt the chances of the Atlantic treaty.

The pact must be ratified by the Senate alone; both houses must approve the related arms program.

As members of Congress awaited from the President on the timing of the arms program, it was disclosed that the administration wants to set up a $100,000,000 revolving credit under the program to help Latin American countries buy military equipment in this country.

The credit would be used strictly for advance financing of Latin American orders. Unlike the arms program, it would not be used for outright grants of military assistance to countries receiving American backing to enable them to resist communist pressures.

Latin American countries have long had difficulties, officials explained, in obtaining from private manufacturers in the United States the military equipment they desire for their armed forces. Under the credit they could order such equipment through the United States national defense establishment.

The Secretary of Defense would place the orders and use government credit for advance financing. When an arms order was ready for delivery, it would be turned over to the country which placed it upon payment of cash.

What is to be asked of Congress is authority to make contracts up to a maximum of $100,000,000 at any time.

This would not increase the $1,450,000,000 appropriation sought for the pact countries and other nations.

Of this $1,450,000,000 is earmarked for eight European signers of the treaty, including $150,000,000 to enable them to buy raw materials and munitions machinery from the United States, and $300,000,000 for other countries, including Greece, Turkey and Korea.

Navy Considered Re-Building Ship

Washington, June 27 (AP)—The navy, eager to get a "flush-deck" carrier for handling big planes, once considered making one out of an existing flattop but later decided it would cost too much.

Vice Admiral Calvin T. Durgin, deputy chief of naval operations for the navy, said in an interview that the ship was studied before work started on the United States, the supercarrier on which construction recently was halted by Secretary of Defense Johnson.

Washington, June 27 (AP)—The state demanded today the death penalty for Raymond Fernandez, 34, and Mrs. Martha Beck, 29, alleged lonely hearts killers.

The defense countered with a statement to a Bronx Supreme Court jury that it would prove Mrs. Beck was "mentally unbalanced" at the time of the killing of Mrs. Janet Fay, 66, Albany, N.Y., widow.

Defense Counsel Herbert E. Rosenberg also told the jury that Fernandez "had no knowledge—guilty or otherwise—concerning the alleged crime."

The two defendants have been indicted on charges of first degree murder in Mrs. Fay's death, which the state claims resulted from a scheme to fleece lonely women in mail romances.

Coplon Defense Completes Case; Trial Nears End

Two Brief Appearances By Witnesses; Prosecution Begins Rebuttal

Washington, June 27 (AP)—The defense in the Judith Coplon espionage trial completed its case today and the government began calling rebuttal witnesses.

Two defense witnesses appeared briefly. Then Defense Attorney Archibald Palmer said "We rest" at 9:30 a.m. (EST).

John M. Kelley, Jr., a government prosecutor, immediately called William E. Foley as the first of three rebuttal witnesses he plans to put on the stand.

Foley, Miss Coplon's boss when she worked in the Justice Department as a political analyst, was called to contradict her version of an FBI "decoy" memorandum which figures prominently in the trial.

The last defense witnesses were John L. Chambliss of the Geophysical Research Corp., Arlington, Va. and Arthur Shinkin of East Orange, N.J., who is with the New York publishing firm of Simon and Schuster.

Chambliss said his company had never sold geophones to Amtorg, the Soviet trading agency.

Notes from the FBI "decoy" were found in Miss Coplon's purse when she was arrested with Valentine A. Gubitchev, a Russian, in New York March 4.

Kelley and Raymond P. Whearty, the government prosecutors, said they expected to call two other witnesses in addition to Foley. These will be Nathan Levin and Harold P. Koffsky.

The notes in Miss Coplon's purse said Amtorg has been "in contact" with the Geophysical Research Corporation, trying to obtain geophones.

This instrument which measures the force of bomb explosions, were used in the first experimental atomic bomb explosion in New Mexico.

Czechs Step Up Fight On Church

Administrative Offices Said Seized; More Arrests

Prague, Czechoslovakia, June 27 (AP)—Roman Catholic sources charged today Communists have seized virtually all church administrative offices in Czechoslovakia and arrested priests who resisted.

The informants said reports from various parts of the country showed repressive measures against the church are increasing. Some priests reported police charged them with "inciting unrest" after they had read from the pulpit yesterday the Catholic hierarchy's accusations of deceit, fraud, kidnaping and robbery against the Communist government.

The denunciation, in the form of a pastoral letter, was a virtual White Book catalogue of alleged anti-church actions by the government, which it accused of aiming at the "extermination of the church of Christ." The letter told Catholic communicants their "hour of trial" must be at hand.

Prague priests said they believed the pastoral letter, signed by Archbishop Josef Beran of Prague, Archbishop Josef Matocha of Olomouc and the country's other Catholic bishops, had received wide circulation despite police attempts to prevent the letter from being read in pulpits.

Housing Program Test Votes Near

Many Amendments And Substitute Proposals Up For Decision; Senate-Passed Bill May Be Approved By Week's End

Washington, June 27 (AP)—The house approached its first test voting today on a multi-billion dollar administration program of public housing and slum clearance.

With a long list of amendments and substitute proposals up for decision after a week of hot debate, confident house leaders predicted the Senate-passed housing bill would go to the White House by Friday as a major victory for President Truman's "fair deal" program.

But the opposition, including many Republicans and some Southern Democrats, refused to give up.

Rep. Cole (R-Kas) said he would offer an amendment that would postpone the launching of a public housing program for as long as the federal treasury operated in the red.

This would be in line with the sharp, double-edged attack already launched against the bill as: (1) A threat to the financial stability of the government, and (2) a long step in federal control that would take America down the road toward socialism.

Administration Democrats and some Republicans have argued that better housing—provided by the government—would strengthen democracy by reducing juvenile delinquency and crime, improving the generally giving the people new confidence.

The measure, as drawn, calls for construction of 1,050,000 public housing units through local housing authorities in seven years. The tenants would pay low rents—less than the cost of the housing.

The Federal Government would pay up to $400,000,000 a year for 40 years, to meet the difference between that rent and the amount necessary to cover the cost of building and operation.

House Democratic leaders, in a drive to collect more votes, have agreed to cut the figure to $100,000 public housing units in six years, with annual federal contributions up to $308,000,000 which is the way the Senate approved it.

The measure also provides $1,000,000,000 in loans and $500,000,000 in grants for slum clearance, and a little over $260,000,000 for farm housing aids.

The total cost is estimated all the way from $7,500,000,000 to $20,000,000,000 in 40 years.

Aged Charmer Is Awaiting Charge

Languishes In Jail; Arraignment Is Scheduled Today

Chicago, June 27 (AP)—A dapper, charming 73-year-old swindler who made a career of bilking women languished in jail awaiting arraignment today on confidence game charges.

He is Sigmund Engel, who advertises swindling women the world over out of millions with his smooth talk ("wonderful tunes can be played on an old violin") and bouquets of roses.

The 5-foot, 3-inch lothario was captured Friday night at a Michigan avenue luggage shop. Police baited a trap for him using a 55-year-old woman he planned to add to his list of victims.

Engel is charged with bilking Mrs. Reseda J. Corrigan, 39, and the mother of three, out of $4,700 after promising to marry her.

Of that amount, $5,000 was reported to have been returned to Mrs. Corrigan by the elderly confidence man Saturday night. The two met in the Loop office of Engel's attorney in a mystery-cloaked tryst.

The unannounced meeting drew the ire of State's Attorney John S. Boyle, who said he would thoroughly investigate it today. The conference of the suave Engel and his victim of earlier this month was contrary to normal police procedure, Boyle said.

Berlin's Railway Strikers Return To Jobs Tuesday

Major Demands Met, Union Executive Board Bows To Western Ultimatum

Berlin, June 27 (AP)—The five-week railway strike which has blocked Berlin almost as effectively as did the Russians is scheduled to end tomorrow morning.

The executive board of the anti-Communist railway union (UGO) bowed to the orders of the western allies yesterday and ordered members back to work on the Soviet-controlled railways at that time.

The British, American and French commanders in Berlin had warned that if the strike were not called off by Tuesday, the west Berlin city government would quit relief payments to the strikers.

They said the strike could no longer be justified because it was seriously damaging Berlin economically, was blocking the Paris four-power agreements to revive east-west trade, and was laying a big burden on the western powers in maintaining the airlift.

Strikers won two of their three major demands.

All salaries will be paid in west marks, since the east currency has a purchasing power four to six times as great as the Soviet-sponsored east mark. Railway strikers have won one of the greatest wage boosts in industrial history.

The railway management will convert 60 percent of each employee's east mark salary into west marks, the west Berlin city government will exchange the other 40 percent.

The Russian-controlled railway management has given assurances there will be no retaliation against strikers.

The workers' third demand—recognition of the UGO as official bargaining agent—was denied.

Nevertheless, success of the strike has been such that the UGO which began it with 3,000 members, now has 14,000.

Claims Shooting Is Self-Defense

Shotgun Blast Kills Negro Truck Driver Sunday

Willie Shields, 25 year old Negro truck driver was shot to death yesterday afternoon about 2:30 by a shotgun blast fired by Ada Louise Spruill, 23, negro woman, on the Fred MacLachlan farm near Hancock Church, 3 miles east of Ayden.

Investigating officers quoted the woman as saying that she killed the man in self-defense, as the man had been threatening her all day long, but she had not been able to remain out of his way. In the afternoon the man approached her with a drawn knife and threatened her. In a chase that followed in the yard and in the house the Negro woman picked up a .12 gauge shotgun and fired at her would-be attacker and killed him, on the front porch of the farm house.

The couple were reported to be going with each other but had had a quarrel some time before.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson and Deputy Jasper L. Mills arrested the woman at her home following the shooting. She was released on posting $1,000 bail. An inquest will be conducted tonight in the court house at 7:30. Coroner Rouse said Shields worked for the Jackson Transfer Company of Ayden and lived at 200 Blount Street in Ayden with his mother, Sarah Dixon.

Hoover Favors School Aid For Backward States

Washington, June 27 (AP)—Former President Hoover estimates that $150,000,000—half the amount voted by the Senate for annual federal aid to schools—can be saved by helping only the "real backward states."

He suggested: (1) Don't help states that don't need it; (2) watch out for government "dictatorship" over education; (3) be wary of the "grave dangers" in federal "grants-in-aid" which cover projects like hospitals, roads and social security.

He gave his views in a letter made public yesterday by Rep. McConnell (R-Pa.), senior Republican on the House Education and Labor Committee.

Referendum Hopes For Belgian Monarch Fade

Brussels, Belgium, June 27 (AP)—Tabulation of about 70 per cent of 5,000,000 votes cast in Belgium's parliamentary elections made it clear today there would be no referendum on the possible return of exiled King Leopold.

The Social Christian party only pro-Leopold group, led in the tabulation with 1,523,221 votes, or 44.4 per cent of the 3,431,630 ballots counted, but was far short of the absolute majority it had campaigned for.

They had pledged a referendum if they received an absolute majority. The election returns also indicated a smashing defeat for the communists, who lost at least one-fourth of their 1946 supporters.

The Liberal party, which campaigned principally on a plank urging a 25 per cent tax cut, was registering gains everywhere.

Socialist Premier Paul-Henri Spaak admitted the returns constituted "a small defeat for my government (a coalition of Socialists and Social Christians)."

His opponents claimed the king showed no sympathy for the underground forces resisting the Germans. After the liberation in 1944 the parliament elected Leopold's brother, Prince Charles, as regent. Parliament voted that the king could not return without its permission.

Miniature Cyclone

Zigzagging winds during yesterday afternoon's thunderstorm about 4 o'clock did considerable damage in an area between Factions and Stokes. Reliable reports today stated that the wind blew down numerous trees on the "Fon" Wichard farm, flattened much tobacco in the fields and damaged some outbuildings.

The miniature cyclone, of a few minutes' duration, blew away a part of a packhouse on Lonnie Staton's farm across the road, uprooted trees in his orchard and laid low some tobacco in the fields.

Light rain fell in spotted sections, the heaviest shower in the Greenville area being only one-eighth of an inch.

Union Charges 'Reign Of Terror' In Tar Heel Town

Marion, June 27 (AP)—Police chief Wes Smith neither confirmed nor denied today an AFL accusation that a reign of terror existed in this furniture manufacturing community.

"No comment," was Smith's answer to newsmen asking about the appeal made by the upholsterers' International union to Governor Scott, asking his help.

The union's Washington office said that Sal B. Hoffman of Philadelphia, union president, wired Scott: "Urgently request investigation at your direction of virtual reign of terror against our union's organizers at Drexel Furniture plant in city of Marion and in McDowell county."

"Two successive brutal beatings of organizers Charles Brown and Theodore Freeman, of Asheville, on June 10th and 17th, the last in actual presence of city police officers, indicates cynical complicity of city and county law enforcement officials in aid of anti-union company's attempt to frustrate rights of labor for free choice of collective bargaining agency."

"Twenty year old pattern of murderous intimidation of labor in this county requires some state executive correction to end denial of fundamental constitutional guarantees and liberties in this county industrial area. Our legal counsel, myself and our North Carolina officers are prepared to lay out evidence before you or your attorney general at your convenience."

Sheriff C. M. Pool of McDowell county said the Drexel plant was within the city limits and it was not his place to investigate unless city police asked for his assistance.

Soft Coal Strike Hinging On Talks

Gordon Gray And Rep. Bonner Will Be Speakers Here

Secretary of the Army Gordon Gray and Congressman Herbert C. Bonner will headline the VFW-American Legion Armistice Day celebration here November 11, according to announcement made today by Larry L. Averette and Jimmie S. Jenkins, co-chairmen of the committee for distinguished guests.

The celebration, sponsored by the Charles Gray Morgan Post, VFW, and Pitt County Post 39 of the American Legion, will be a county-wide affair and is expected to draw one of the largest crowds ever gathered in Greenville.

While a complete program for the day's activities has not yet been worked out it is known that Secretary Gray will deliver the principal address and will be introduced by Congressman Bonner.

Legion Commander T. I. Wagner and VFW Commander Earl Adler at an early date will appoint additional committees to work out the various features of the program.

The first joint Armistice Day celebration held by the two organizations drew about 10,000 people to Greenville and it is expected that an even larger crowd will be present this year.

Secretary Gray is another North Carolinian of whom the state is justly proud. Prior to going to Washington as Undersecretary of the Army he was publisher of Winston-Salem's morning and afternoon newspapers and owner of that city's chief radio station and a majority stockholder in Charlotte's afternoon newspaper, the Charlotte News. His recent elevation to his present post succeeding Kenneth C. Royall, of Goldsboro, met with enthusiastic approval both within and without government circles.

In 1939 Gray gave up a seat as state senator in this state and entered the army as a private. Hard work won him the right to try for a commission in the hard way at Benning, Ga. During the fighting in Europe, he served as a captain on the staff of General Omar Bradley. When Bradley was asked, following Gray's appointment to his present post, how it seemed to have a former captain who was under him to become his boss, Bradley replied: "No former captain who ever served in my command deserves the job more than Gordon Gray."

The appointment brought from a hard-bitten Army press agent the following statement: "Usually I cringe when I have to put out corny lines about the brass. This time, for a change, I can tell the truth. He's the kind of a public servant the government needs more of. Any you can quote me."

The local committee expressed delight at being able to procure Secretary Gray for the Armistice Day celebration and stated that every other phase of the program would be worked out in keeping with the occasion.

Ready To Enter Not Guilty Plea

Roanoke, Va., June 27 (AP)—Lee Scott, ready to enter a plea of innocence, went on trial in Roanoke's Hustings Court today on a charge of murdering high school classmate, 16-year-old Diana Marie Weaver.

At once Rep. John Taber, New York Republican who preaches economy, got a look at the budget and said: "We'll have to go over it and try to civilize it."

That started a regular economy chorus. Congress has the power to cut the budget since it's Congress which votes the money for running the government.

All that started in January. Here it is, late June, and no real cuts have been made yet. Now a majority of Senators are talking of having both houses simply pass a measure telling Mr. Truman to do the cutting.

If this goes through, it will be a very frank confession that Congress has failed, or doesn't know how, to carry out one of its most important jobs: deciding what the government should spend.

As a major item . . . A public housing bill may go through. The Senate has approved it, the house is considering it now. It's not so sure that a new labor law will be passed to replace the Taft-Hartley act. Congress has been talking about this since January. The Senate is debating it now, will pretty surely pass some kind of labor bill.

The Senate pretty surely approve the Atlantic pact. This doesn't need house approval since the pact, being in the form of a treaty, is a job for the Senate alone.

An Inactive Congress

Almost 7 Months Of Work Has Produced Little; Truman Campaign Promises Still Hang Fire; Even Economy Pleas May Result In Admission Of Failure

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 27 (AP)—It's been almost seven months since this Congress—the 81st—started work, except for rent control, it hasn't passed one major item of President Truman's campaign promises.

This is getting to sound like a phonograph record. Every month those watching the show here can pull another 30 days off the calendar and say: "nothing much done yet."

It's been a dull session, indeed, to anyone looking down at it from the galleries, or in the committee hearings, the law-jawing which has been endless, the results meager.

Before it quits for 1949, Congress probably will pass a couple of major items. It isn't likely to do more than that.

Then when it returns next January for the second half of its two-year term this 81st Congress, controlled by the Democrats, will get another crack at producing before the 1950 fall elections.

Perhaps nothing shows better what has been happening, or rather, what hasn't been happening—than all the talk about cutting down on government spending.

Congressmen and Senators have outdone one another with their stern statements that Congress would reduce government expenditures and . . . but just go back a bit: . . . Last January Mr. Truman turned his budget over to Congress. The budget is his experts' estimate of what it will cost to run the govern-

Operators Gather To Consider Three-Day Work Week During Pact Negotiations; Alternative By Lewis Is Shutdown Of All Pits

Pittsburgh, June 27 (AP)—Coal operators arranged to meet here today for a conference which may determine whether the nation's 400,000 soft coal miners will go on strike July 5.

John L. Lewis has put this proposition before them: He will change the "no contract, no work" policy of the United Mine Workers and keep the miners in the pits after the present contract expires, provided—

The industry goes on a uniform three-day work week during negotiations for a new pact.

The alternative is a shutdown of all bituminous mines. The UMW leader made that proposal to northern and western operators at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where he and the management officials have been talking contract terms.

The meeting was recessed so that the operators could sound out sentiment at home. Several conferences were arranged. The big one was called here by George H. Love, youthful president of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, the world's largest commercial soft coal producer.

Lewis presumably wants his answer when the talks at White Sulphur Springs resume tomorrow afternoon.

Sources close to the industry indicate that the key decision probably will be made at Love's conference today.

The soft coal contract expires Thursday at midnight, however, the miners are on a 10-day vacation that does not expire until July 5.

Lewis has said time and time again that he wants to stabilize conditions in the coal industry.

Such a three-day week would be a step toward guaranteed employment for workers in the soft coal mines.

The three-day work week would also serve to whittle down the present, above-the-ground coal stockpile estimated at about 75,000,000 tons enough to run the general economy more than two months. This stockpile stands operators in good stead when it comes to bargaining.

When the stockpiles dwindle "there may be some operators willing to make a contract at a bigger price," one industry spokesman declared.

So far as it could be learned, only the northern and western operators—representing about two-thirds of the country tonnage—got the no-strike-but-shorter-week offer. Lewis himself won't talk about it.

In addition, the U. S. Steel Corporation's Harry M. Moses, had to consider whether that Corporation would accept the proposition for the mines it owns. Coal from these so-called "captive" mines is used to feed the U. S. Steel's furnaces.

Members of the Southern Coal Producers Association have not been offered the three-day week as an alternative to a strike.

They have been negotiating separately with the UMW at Bluefield, W. Va., since May 25. Lewis may go there today.

Mrs. Hoyt Alvin Minges

The bridegroom had for his best man his brother, John Franklin Minges. The ushers were Herman Minges of Fayetteville and Dr. Ray Minges of Richmond, Va.; Gattis Honeycutt of New Bern; Henry Turner of Asheville, Charles Flanagan, Ralph Garrett, Dall Laughinghouse and Hogan Gaskins, all of this city. The groomsmen wore formal evening clothes and white carnation boutonnieres.

Mrs. Wagner chose for her daughter's wedding an evening gown of pink chiffon, fashioned with a flared skirt and a shirred bodice embroidered with crystal paillettes. Her corsage was of white purple-throated cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Minges, mother of the groom, wore a gown of imported ice blue lace over blue satin fashioned with an oval neckline embroidered in sequins. Her corsage was also of white purple-throated cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. E. G. Flanagan, maternal grandmother of the bride, was gowned in gray chiffon with a corsage of purple orchids. Mrs. W. J. Nicholson of Kinston, paternal grandmother, wore robin's egg blue chiffon with a lace bodice and a purple orchid corsage.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Wagner entertained at their home on Evans Street with a reception in honor of the bride couple. Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Flanagan welcomed guests at the front door and in the drawing room Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harrington introduced them to the receiving line. Receiving here were Mrs. Wagner, Mrs. M. O. Minges, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Minges, Miss Carolyn Clark, Mrs. Charles Flanagan, Misses Muriel Shotwell, Ione Bradsher, Dorothy Ormond, Lillian Wooten, Joyce Duke, Nancy McConico, Betty Warfield, Mrs. Bert Bennett, Mrs. E. G. Flanagan, Mrs. W. J. Nicholson and Miss Sandra Bass. Guests were invited into the living room where Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Bass and Dr. and Mrs. Ray Minges served champagne punch. Mrs. John Flanagan presided at the register. In the rear of the spacious hall was an artistically decorated circular table where guests enjoyed assorted hors d'oeuvres. From here they were invited into the dining room which was a scene of rare loveliness. The table was covered with a ruffled organdy cloth over white satin and was festooned with garlands of smilax interspersed with nosegays of white roses. The center arrangement was a four tiered wedding cake, the layers of which had frosted lattice work enclosing miniature champagne glasses. Throughout the dining room and sun room were sprays of white flowers and lace fern carrying out the traditional color scheme of green and white. From the tables in both rooms a delicious supper was served, consisting of lime ice punch, sandwiches, cheese straws, ham and rolls, French pastries and salted nuts. As a finale to the evening members of the wedding party used the small champagne glasses from the cake to drink toasts to the happiness of the young couple. Several hundred friends called during the evening.

Immediately after the reception Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Minges left for their wedding trip to Colorado Springs, Colorado. For traveling the bride wore a Paul Parne's original suit, made with navy worsted skirt and natural cashmere jacket. With it she wore a navy blue faille hat and bag and two white orchids lifted from her bride's bouquet.

Mrs. Minges is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Wagner and is the granddaughter of Mrs. E. G. Flanagan and the late Col. Flanagan of Greenville and of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Nicholson of Kinston. She received her education at Greenville High School and was graduated in May from Southern Seminary and Junior College, Buena Vista, Va.

Mr. Minges is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Minges of Greenville. He is a graduate of Randolph-Macon Academy, Front Royal, Va., and attended The Citadel in Charleston, S.C. He is now secretary-treasurer of the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of Greenville.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding were:

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Fountain and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Harmon, Raleigh, N. C.

Mrs. Ray Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Padgett and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Rawl, Jr., Chapel Hill, N. C.

ADVICE TO DIABETICS

Beware of patent medicines advertised as cures or remedies for diabetes! They often are not reliable. Diabetes was first recognized about 1552 B.C. This was about the time of Moses, or 200 years before the birth of King Tut. Ever since that time, at intervals, some faker comes up with a cure. A dependable treatment for diabetes was discovered only twenty years ago. It will not cure the disease, but it will enable the diabetic to live a normal life. The discovery is known as Insulin. Your doctor knows all about it. If he finds it necessary in your case, we can supply it in just the right strength.

Miss Sandra Bass, niece of the groom, served as flower girl. She was dressed in green organza over green taffeta. Her full skirt had rows of lace extending to the hem line. She carried a miniature crescent matching the bouquets of the bridesmaids.

Honorary bridesmaids were Misses Helen Terry and Patricia Flanagan, Mary and Margaret Nicholson of Kinston and Miss Mary Harrington. Their corsages of roses blended with the color of their dresses.

Epergnettes of picardy glads and green candles encircled with fern were used on the mantels and in front of the fireplaces at each end of the ball room were large fans of picardy glads and greenery.

Punch with party sandwiches, crystallized grapefruit, tomato puff and cookies were served from tables covered with lace over salmon pink. Christine Smith and her orchestra furnished music for the dance.

Strength FOR THE DAY

TRUST-AGAINST ALL REASON
The history of the Christian Church reveals that in the early days the very persecutions sought to stamp out Christian faith proved it with unflinching regularity. After every persecution the Church grew in numbers and influence. The very people who persecuted the Christians and others who stood by and watched the infliction of torture with satisfaction were so impressed by the bravery of the victims that many of them changed sides and cast in their lot with a hated minority. The unbelieving Romans were filled with superstitions as we are today. They were filled with a church growing under persecution. Every time they killed a Christian, a new convert stepped up to take his place.

Now all this is at variance with the ways of the world. It astonishes us as much as it astonished the ancients. But the truth of the matter is that God wins some of his greatest victories through the feebleness of righteous men. They appear to have no strength whatsoever, yet these feeble men, supported by an unseen power, devastate the strongholds of evil.

Paul explained this extraordinary situation when he said: "The foolishness of God is wiser than men; the weakness of God is stronger than men."

Around Capitol Square

PHILANTHROPIST—The editor of the Richmond Post-Dispatch is a native of Chatham County, former publisher of the Chatham Record, and he takes pride in challenging somebody in Richmond county to match the philanthropy of a former Chathamian. He reports that Thomas W. Brooks, now of Richmond, amassed dollars with Chatham folks for a general county hospital. He has already given $300,000 in cash. He is now building 30 apartments and will deed them to the hospital, so that the institution will have a sustaining endowment. Editor London cites that as action worthy of emulation by somebody in Richmond county. It is also a challenge to wealthy people in other counties.

DISOLDS—Although state economists insist there is no imminent danger of serious depression in North Carolina, signs multiply indicating a slight decline in prosperity. Unemployment rolls are growing larger every week. Each week the employment security commission mails out more checks for unemployment compensation. Latest report of the labor department that work certificates for winners during the month of May dropped lower than for the comparable month any year since 1939. Furthermore, whereas applications for certificates for boys and girls under 18 usually are more in May than in April, this year they were less. The department says this is further indication of a tightening labor market.

JOB SEEKERS—Another and perhaps more significant indication of declining labor market was the large number of applicants for positions as prison guards. The prison authorities feared they would have a hard time filling the quota, requirements being able-bodied white men 25 to 45 years old, and the salary being $126 a month and meals. Several dozen men showed up in response to a newspaper story about the openings. Both state and private business offices report excess applicants for positions as stenographers and typists and the long time problem of getting school teachers is not bothering superintendents much this year.

TRAVEL—Figures brought out at the commercial secretaries' conferences at Chapel Hill last week showed that North Carolina ranked second among southeastern states in value of tourist business. Florida was tops, and Mississippi came close to our state with estimated income of $200,000,000 from travel trade. This showing emphasizes the care necessary in filling the position vacated by Bill Sharpe as director of state advertising and news. There can be no doubt that effective publicity had a lot to do with bringing $700 million travel dollars to Florida and $200 million to North Carolina.

RETURNS—The state is spending around $200,000 a year for out of state advertising, which is divided on attractions for industry agriculture and tourists—with approximately half the total devoted to tourists. To get two hundred million return on one hundred thousand investment would seem to be good business. But as every advertiser knows, simply paying out money for newspaper and magazine space is not advertising. Unless properly handled the entire amount spent can easily be wasted. The record is sufficient proof that under the system that has prevailed in this state for the past several years the advertising money has yielded high dividends. While resort areas have benefited more directly the travel dollars have been generally diffused throughout the state. Even Raleigh, which by no stretch of words could be called a vacation center has taken in many thousands of dollars from vacation travelers passing through.

Boyle's Column

By MAL BOYLE
New York.—The firm was so large that it took up several floors of the skyscraper.
This particular floor was the idea factory, a kind of chain store of the mind. The floor was honeycombed with cubbyholes like a hive, so that each worker bee could create his ideas in semi-privacy.
In one cubbyhole a big young man staring amiably at a brassiere ad on the wall. It showed a bosomy young girl and bore the caption:
"Always in the springtime of life."
Down the corridor came the office receptionist, followed by a stocky, balding man.
"Here," she said. She looked in at the big young man, tittered nervously, and went back to her desk.
"You about through, Jim?" said the stocky man.
"Sure, John," said the big young man gently. "Be with you just as soon as I finish clearing out my desk."
He opened a brief case and began stuffing his personal belongings into it from the desk drawers. He jerked open one drawer full of neatly filled papers and banged it shut again.
"Everything in calculated confusion," he said with a booming laugh.
In a few minutes he was through. He took a notebook pad and scribbled on it with a heavy black pencil. "There is nothing yellower than 1,000,000 bucks."

Somebody Told Me...

By I. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.
You've often heard people say, "He's a good fellow; tends to his own business." Such a virtue is one all of us admire in a person, but won't you join me in admitting that it's sometimes hard for us to keep our noses to ourselves? One of my favorite curiosities is that I like to know how much money people make. Now I don't stage snooping campaigns to find out other people's salaries, but I certainly enjoy stumbling over the information.
If you stop and think you'll realize that I'm not the only person in this world who's interested in what other people make. As a matter of fact, you probably are just as interested as I am. Every year the press carries reports on the highest paid men and women in the country, and naturally the salaries of our political leaders is everybody's business.
Benjamin Franklin argued at the Constitutional Convention against paying the Presidents of the United States anything but their expenses. He warned that if profit and power were combined the nation would not get the best man for the job. But Franklin was overruled and the Convention voted George Washington a salary of $25,000 and a rent-free mansion.
William Howard Taft wrote this message to incoming President Woodrow Wilson: "You will find that Congress is very generous with the President. You have all your transportation paid for, and all servants in the White House except such valet and maid as you and Mrs. Wilson choose to employ. Your laundry is looked after in the White House. Altogether, I have been able to save from my four years about $100,000."
Calvin Coolidge also saved money in the White House. But in the final year of Hoover's administration Congress made all governmental salaries, including the President's, taxable. By 1944 taxes took over half of the President's salary. In his twelve years in the White House, Franklin Roosevelt never got out of his red, but he had a fortune of his own, plus his mother's, to fall back on.

President Truman, with no such fortunes, was having difficulty breaking even. The Government pays the White House staff and servants, but doesn't feed them. Mrs. Truman tried cutting the staff (which runs between 25 and 30), but had to give the idea up because the house work didn't get done. Feeding the help, plus the family and friends, meant that Truman had to pay for about 2,000 meals a month. In Roosevelt's time the monthly food bill sometimes hit $7,000. Mrs. Truman has cut it to about $2,000. On quiet nights with the family, Harry often gets leftovers.
As you know, Congress raised the President's pay in January from $75,000 to $100,000. To his old $40,000 expense account, they added $50,000, tax-free, to be spent as he chooses, with no questions asked.
Before this raise Truman told friends that after he paid his $30,000 in income tax, he averaged about $80 a week.
One of the hardest pluggers for the raise was ex-prexy Herbert Hoover, who said that if the President had enough money left for cigarettes he was lucky. Harry Truman doesn't smoke.

The newly-organized Greenville Swimming Team journeys to Tarboro tomorrow night for the first meet of the season. This team is operating without funds from the Recreation Commission, and consequently needs the help of Greenville's citizens. The current problem is transporting the swimmers to Tarboro.
If you would like to take a car load of swimmers to the meet, call me at 4889 after seven tonight. The team also needs a starter's pistol. If you know where one is in town, please phone me. And I thank you.
He put the pan on his desk. The two men walked to the elevator, and the receptionist bent her head to avoid speaking to them.
In the lobby the big young man said, "how about one for the road, John?"

"Sure—one," said the stocky man. At the bar Jim suddenly said: "I can get two hundred bucks from this bartender anytime I want to."
"Sure," said John. "But why strain a beautiful friendship?"
They finished their drinks and walked out and took a car. It swung across the hot drive of Manhattan to Riverside Drive, and rode northward into a cooling breeze.
"Squirrels put across into the ground, and we bury gold at Fort Knox," said Jim. "The squirrel can go back and eat the acorn. But gold is good for only one thing."
"What's that," said John.

"Gold is only good for injections into the veins of old misers to make them young again."
"Sure."
"Money! money! money!" Jim suddenly shouted. The cabdriver turned and glanced at him uneasily. The taxi picked up speed.
"Why do people have to worry about money all the time?" said Jim. "Why don't they just use more credit, then nobody would have to worry."
"Sure," said John. "It's easy."
The cab left the highway, sped across some leafy avenues and turned into a small roadway. It stopped before one of a group of cheerful cottages bordering a lake which swam two white ducks.
The two men went in and talked to a quiet thoughtful man at a desk. Jim signed his name and then walked out and watched as his stocky friend climbed back alone into the waiting taxi.
"You know it's only my heart that's tired, John," said Jim. "I just need a rest that's all."
"Sure," said John, "that's it."
"I wasn't tired," said the big young man. "I'm really working for the boss on a big secret merger."
"Sure, I know."
"Always in the springtime of life!" said Jim, and laughed so loud the ducks on the lake turned in feathered wonder.
John waved goodbye, and the taxi drove off. As it turned off the roadway it passed a sign.
The sign said: "Sanitarium."

WASHINGTON LETTER

By JEAN EADS
Washington — Dr. Leona Baumgartner, a trim, blue-eyed woman from New York, full of humor and a zest for her job, developed a social consciousness at the age of five when she organized a kindergarten for neighborhood kids.
Her responsibilities have taken on national proportions since then. As the new associate chief of the U. S. Children's Bureau, it will be mostly her duty to administer the Bureau's $18,500,000 in grants to states to extend and improve maternal and child health services and services for crippled children. Dr. Baumgartner comes to the Children's Bureau after 12 years in the New York City Health Department, where she rose to be assistant commissioner. She succeeds Dr. Martha Eliot, who has been appointed an assistant director general of the World Health Organization.

Attractive Dr. Baumgartner is the wife of Nathaniel M. Elias, a consulting engineer in New York, and the mother of two children, Barbara and Peter, both in their early 20s. She was born in Chicago. Before engaging in public health work she taught in high schools and universities for several years. Her first teaching job was in the Colby, Kas. high school. This included biology, civics, math, French, and etiquette. "I got the football team together and taught them how to use knives and forks," she laughingly explained.
She got her AB degree from the University of Arkansas, later went back and got a master's degree, researching on scarlet fever. She taught bacteriology at Kansas City Junior College and the University of Montana and studied a year in Munich. She got a Ph. D. and M. D. in public health at Yale. In addition to her work with the New York Health Department, she served on the pediatric staff of New York Hospital.

In New York she and her husband maintain a residence at Washington Square. "We raised our kids there," she said. She agrees with her daughter Barbara, whom she overheard telling a friend: "It's naturally tough to be brought up in a city, but you

Tarboro Athletics made two in a row over the Greenies in Tarboro by rallying for a lone run in the ninth inning to take a 4 to 3 decision over the Greenies.

George Pastor led off in the ninth with a walk. Manager Joe Antolick sacrificed him to second and then Fitcher Tony Napoles stepped to the plate to hit a clean single into centerfield to bring home Pastor for the winning tally.

Greenville took a 1-0 lead in the top half of the third frame when they scored a singleton. Paul Strausser singled, stole second and Steve Denier singled to bring him home for the first run of the game.

Tarboro came back in the fourth frame to knot the count at one-all on successive singles by Gus Godbold and Don Warfield, with Godbold scoring on Bob Bubeck's infield out.

The score was knotted again at the end of the eighth frame as the Greenies shoved across two runs and the A's came right back to put across two runs in their half of the eighth frame.

Don Purdy pitched the first eight frames for the Greenies, but was taken out after pitching eight frames when Pappy Williams went in to pitch hit for him. Art Mascarella, who pitched the ninth frame was

Around the Circuit—Sid Varney received a badly torn finger nail in Saturday's game and will not be in the backstop position for a couple of days. . . . He is certainly getting a well deserved rest from that position as he had not missed a game since joining the Greenies and in several cases the schedule called for double-headers. . . . Jim Lewey has been sick but is expected to be in shape within the next few days. . . . Norman Clark has been placed on the disabled list by the Greenies management. Norman is still having trouble with that injury he received while in service during the war period. . . . Jim Pollard will join the Windsor Club of the Albemarle League today. . . . Pepper Martin resigned as manager of the Rocky Mount Leafs following their loss to the Greenies Friday night and is succeeded by Red Benton. . . . Martin will continue to play with the Leafs however. . . . The Wilson Tobs have released Charlie Nordmeyer. He has been with the club for two seasons.

The Tobs also announce the purchase of Gene Whitesides of Statesville, a limited service pitcher. . . . Bill Paden reported to the Tobs from New Bern yesterday. He's the lad who was received in a trade for pitcher Neil Lefler. . . . Hal Couzzo, limited service first baseman, who has played with the Bears the past 10 days, requested and was given his release on Friday morning. . . . Couzzo gave as his reason for leaving the Bears that this type of baseball is too fast for

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

By FAGALY and SHORTEN

Only the brave

BY PAUL EVAN LEHMAN

Chapter 27
Jeff sat on his bunk in the Town Hall jail. There had been no visitors. Jeff was forced to the conclusion that Frothingham had not delivered his message to Glenn; and, as he thought over his own precarious position, even his courageous nature came close to despair.

If Glenn would only come! He could assure the boy that his secret was safe and have him change the shoes on his horse. Then he could tell about those tracks on the creek bank, could prove by them that another was present and at least raise some doubt as to his own guilt.

When one got right down to the heart of the problem, it was plain to see that Slug Benjamin held the key. Force the truth from Slug and the pendulum of public opinion must swing abruptly the other way. But the search for Slug would be neglected now, abandoned perhaps, because men thought that they had the culprit safe. Their sympathy would be with Slug as a man who had borne the stigma of another's misdeeds.

He heard the grate of a key in the lock. Ed Wade came in, gun in hand, looked sharply at Jeff, then came over and tested the cell door. It rattled, but was securely locked. Ed let his gaze roam over the interior of the cell, then turned away.

Jeff said, "Did Bill get word to Glenn yet?"

"Bill's been right busy. There was a mob outside yellin' for your blood and for a while it looked like they might get it."

"I've got to see Glenn. Ed, get word to him just as quick as you can."

"I'll tell Bill," promised Wade, and went out.

He heard a little ping as a stone came through, and he caught it before it could strike the floor. Tied about it was a string.

He drew in the string, turning his head and cocking his ears toward the door. He saw that something tied to it had caught against the bars. It was the blade of a hacksaw!

Jeff kept hauling in the string, winding it about his hand as he did so. The other end was tied through the honda of a larlat. This too he drew into the cell, coiling it swiftly. Climbing up on the bunk, he went to work. There was no time to work cautiously; he had to get out there before the mob returned. He sawed through four of the bars close to the lower sill, then almost through the four near the top of the window. Strong, steady pulls on the nearly severed bars broke them off with but little noise. The rope was a forty-foot one; he slid the ends one on each side of a sound bar and paid out the slack until it was all gone. Rolling the string into a wad, he put it into a pocket with the stone. The blade he stuck beneath his shirt. He slid to the ground, landing in the dark alley. He pulled on one end of the larlat and the rope came free of the bar and fell at his feet.

A vague shadow stood near him. The shadow spoke in a low voice. "Come along and make it quiet!"

Jeff sucked in his breath sharply. Chuck Gale!

He followed the other across the alley and into the stable. Clear to the far end they walked. Another shadow glided from the last stall.

"Jeff!"

The second shadow hurled itself at him and he automatically opened his arms to receive it.

"Connie! What in the world are you doing here?"

"Chuck's horse is in that stall. There's a rifle and blanket roll on the saddle. Go, Jeff. Don't wait."

Connie and Chuck had gone to the front of the stable and were talking in low tones. He couldn't hear what they said, but he wanted to talk to her again.

Chuck was standing just inside the front entrance, his hawklike gaze on the blackness outside, when she joined him.

"He gone?" Chuck asked without turning.

"I told him not to wait."

"Still aim to keep yore bargain?"

"I gave my word."

The tears came, but she would not let him know she was crying.

"You love him?"

She knew whom he meant. "Yes."

"And still you'd marry me?"

"Yes."

He chuckled — a low, rasping

her roughly.
"Now get him out here! Go on, dang it! Get him out!"
He released her abruptly, spun on his heel and walked out into the night.

Wheat-Growing Contest Starts

Raleigh, June 27—(AP)—A contest to select the 1949 wheat-growing champion of North Carolina was announced today.

The contest was announced by Dr. E. R. Collins, head of agronomy extension at N. C. State College.

Dr. Collins said any farmer in the state is eligible to enter the contest. Growers should ask county agents to have their yields checked. Records must be completed and forwarded to Collins by July 15.

All the raw materials used in the making of fine American handmade glass are found in the United States.

Historians believe that the "brass" referred to in the Bible probably was bronze.

Aged Premier Of Spanish Republic Died Early Today

Madrid, Spain, June 27—(AP)—Alejandro Lerroux, 85, five times premier of Republican Spain, died early this morning.

The family announced that Lerroux, who had proclaimed his agnosticism throughout his life, returned to the Catholic Church and received the sacrament on his deathbed. He will be buried in Madrid's Catholic cemetery.

Lerroux was reported ill in Lisbon, Portugal, in 1945. He had been in exile there since the civil war in 1947. Generalissimo Franco gave him permission to return to Spain.

A life-long republican he had been exiled several times by King Alfonso. Each time he returned his power as chief of the radical re-

Million Landlords Expected To Ask For Higher Rent

Washington, June 27—(AP)—About a million landlords are expected to ask rent ceiling increases under the 1949 rent control act.

Housing Expediter T. H. E. Woods reported today that his agency's offices have handed out that many application blanks.

Woods disclosed also that he has issued four new orders which may bring higher rents to additional landlords, as long as they give tenants new services or improvements.

The new rules give local rent directors wide leeway to grant increases to owners who spend money on remodeling, decorating and the installation of new furnaces, furniture or other equipment.

Predicting that this might encourage a spurt of activity in the building and building materials fields, Woods told a reporter: "If only $100 were spent on each of the 14,000,000 dwellings now under rent ceilings, landlords would be putting $1,400,000,000 worth of new jobs and sales into the economy."

Under the act itself, a small landlord whose net operating income is less than 25 per cent of his gross income can qualify for a rent boost bringing his net to 30 per cent.

The owner of more than four dwelling units who now is getting less than 20 per cent will be allowed an increase to 25 per cent. This is what Woods has determined to be "fair net operating income" as required by the law.

The expediter said local offices are "pretty well swamped" with landlords seeking information and filing application forms.

While about 1,000,000 application forms have been distributed, far fewer have been returned and acted on.

Not So Hot

The temperature in the Greenville area again reached the 98-degree level yesterday afternoon, the U. S. Weather Bureau here reported. About one-sixth of an inch of rain fell during a thunderstorm about 4 p. m.

During last night the mercury dropped to 74 degrees. At 8 a. m. today it was 81, and at 11 a. m. it registered 90 degrees and was rising.

In comparison with yesterday's 98 degrees here, the temperature on the same day a year ago was an even 100 degrees, and one year ago today, June 27, the Weather Bureau here recorded 103 degrees.

Festivals Draw Many Thousands

By The Associated Press

Singing conventions at Benson and Linville and a Rhododendron festival near Bakersfield attracted an estimated 65,000 persons over the weekend.

Sen. Frank P. Graham helped lead the singing yesterday at Benson, in the eastern part of North Carolina. He also made a speech calling for "one community and one world. . . the community of the United States may yet become a community of the United Nations of the world, we pray so." About 30,000 persons heard him at the 29th annual sing.

Grandfather Mountain near Linville in the western part of the state was a backdrop for the "singing on the Mountain" yesterday. Some 25,000 persons attended the 25th annual affair. The speaker was Lieut. Gov. H. P. Taylor. He said he was full of faith in the future of America "because God-rearing people like these come together in this manner and help keep the country out of trouble."

The third annual Rhododendron festival at Bakersfield Saturday drew an estimated 10,000 despite showers. It was on the summit of Roan Mountain on the North Carolina-Tennessee line.

Friday Cases In Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

Judge J. W. H. Roberts disposed of the following cases in Police Court last Friday morning:

Assault on a female: Amos Harris, colored, 15 and costs and the judge ordered him not to drink intoxicating liquors for a year. Lester Blount, colored, 15 and costs and he was ordered not to molest or visit the prosecuting witness for a year.

Robert T. Mills paid $15 for being drunk.

Arnel Covell, 49-year-old Negro tobacco worker and "sometime preacher," was not guilty of the larceny of a car belonging to Minnie Greer, colored, and he was not guilty of assault (with his teeth) on Irene Singleton's Minnie Greer's daughter, who was found not guilty of assaulting Covell with an ice-pick.

Judge Roberts found Minnie Greer, a licensed "deacon," who swore out the warrant against Covell for larceny of her automobile, and Covell guilty of fornication and adultery. The court fined her $35 and Covell $15 on this charge.

Covell paid out Friday. Minnie Greer spent a night in jail and paid up Saturday.

Covell also paid $25 fine for not having a driver's license.

Juke Jones, Jr., colored, non-support, six months on the roads, suspended on condition that he pay $3 a week for support of his child starting as of January 1, 1949. The court fined him $15 and put on probation for five years.

Cotton Blossoms

W. B. Crawford, of near Ballard's Crossroads, today reported to the Reflector having found the first cotton blossoms on his farm.

Crawford says he came across a couple which had withered and appeared to be as much as three days old; others, more recent, were also found. Prospects for his crop were described as "good."

Unions Vote For Organizing Soon

Geneva, Switzerland, June 27—(AP)—Representatives of free trade unions voted yesterday to establish an international organization directly opposed to the Communist-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions (WFTU).

Their representatives, battling Communism in the trade union movement, decided to set up their own organization before the end of November.

Currency . . .

Morgan received me like a long lost brother. When finally I asked him for a statement, however, he threw up his hands. He didn't give interviews. I told him the situation was precarious and I thought he should make a statement. Finally he agreed, and laboriously produced in long hand a message with which I raced to the cables.

Morgan's statement, which described the British government's action as "a hopeful and not a discouraging event" swept into front pages throughout America, and of course raced around the world. This optimistic word from the sphinx of the house of Morgan was credited with having much to do with steady international relations.

Of course, a devaluation of the British pound now wouldn't have any repercussion. Still, it would be a grave move which the government wishes to avoid.

Labor Law Issue Brings Together CIO And AFL

Washington, June 27—(AP)—The heated Senate labor debate, now edging toward a crucial vote on injunctions, has accomplished two things never intended by the senators:

It has brought the CIO and AFL closer together, and it has so widened their split with John L. Lewis that it is hard to imagine a reconciliation within many years.

The Senate chooses tomorrow between a 60-day injunction proposal for dealing with national emergency strikes, offered by Senator Holland (D-Fla.), and a government seizure plan offered by Democratic Leader Lucas (Ill.).

The result is so uncertain that the issue may be decided by a margin of only two or three votes.

Announce Record Polio Fund Sum

New York, June 27—(AP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis reported yesterday that a record total of $25,728,000 was raised in the 1949 "March of Dimes."

Last year's total was $21,600,000. Basil O'Connor, Foundation president, said the need for funds "still remains extremely critical."
