Sizzling Summer Heat Continues; No End Sighted

From Rockies To The Seaboard Temperatures Stay High; Little Rain

(By the Associated Press) Temperatures headed for the 90's again today as no break in the summer season's hottest weather appeared for areas from the Rockies to the Atlantic seaboard.

It was the sixth day of sweltering heat for much of the Midwest. It also was a continuation of the oppressive weather during the Fourth of July weekend for two-thirds of the country. An unknown number of persons suffered heat prostration.

A few scattered thundershowers over parts of the heat belt brought temporary relief. But the drought continued in the nation's north-eastern states and damage to farm crops, already estimated at more than $50,000,000, mounted.

Holiday crowd sought relief from the searing heat over the weekend at beaches, parks and vacation lands. But it was back to work today under a boiling sun for the millions of holiday-goers.

New York City slipped yesterday in 97 degree temperature, the warmest day of the summer, but a violent wind and rain storm sent the mercury tumbling 13 degrees. The storm, bringing little rain to the parched metropolitan area, caused at least six deaths and heavy damage to property, including boats and planes.

Some rain also brought a cooling off to parts of northern Wisconsin, northern Minnesota and northern Michigan today. There was a promise some showers may hit northern Illinois and bring relief. Chicago's 98 yesterday was the fifth straight day of above 90 readings and a high of 94 was forecast today.

Above 90 marks were general yesterday throughout most of the central, eastern and southern states and in many parts of the mountain states. The coolest areas were near the Canadian border and in parts of the Pacific coast. In Blythe, Calif., in the desert, reported the country's top mark, 106.

Cool spots included 57 at San Francisco and 74 at Seattle and San Diego. At Williston, N. D., the Weather Bureau said the high was 64 and Duluth was cool with 78. But in Minneapolis and St. Paul the mercury boiled to an even 100.

Resume Sessions On Steel Terms

Pittsburgh, July 5-(AP)—"Big Steel" and the CIO-United Steel Workers resume contract negotiations tomorrow, working against a 10-day deadline for a possible strike.

Bargaining sessions, now snagged on the U. S. Steel Corp.'s refusal to discuss pensions, may set off one of the major skirmishes in labor's struggle for fourth round wage increases.

The 850,000-man union demands a general, but unspecified, wage increase and company-financed insurance and pension programs.

Made Mistake In Hailing A 'Cab'

Durham, N.C., July 5-(AP)—Mistaking a police patrol car for a taxicab, Thomas Rosen, 31, Negro, halted the vehicle—much to his regret.

In Recorder's Court today he was given 90 days in the workhouse for drunkenness and carrying a concealed knife.

Authorities Plan Search Home Of Dead Recluse For Fortune

Philadelphia, July 5-(AP)—Authorities today awaited a court order permitting an intensified search of a home where they said a woman recluse lived like a beggar despite the fortune at her command.

A preliminary survey of the cluttered building yesterday revealed the woman was worth at least $200,000, authorities estimated, but she chose to live on a semi-starvation diet of bread and milk.

The woman, Mrs. Corina S. Ritter, 79, was found dead Sunday on her trash-blanketed bed. The house was crammed with rubbish and litter.

Police said they suspected that somewhere in the maze would be found a clue to the whereabouts of possibly $100,000 Mrs. Ritter is believed to have hidden away.

Police said rents collected from tenants of some 14 houses she owned were brought to her regularly. Neighbors told, investigators they knew virtually nothing of the woman except that she used a tiny vestibule as an "office" from which she conducted her outside contacts.

About two weeks ago two neighbors related Mrs. Ritter had opened the front door and sent them to a store to buy her bread and milk.

But it was at least a year since anyone had seen her emerge from her home.

The investigation of Mrs. Ritter's death was started by neighbors who complained of "odors" emitting from the house. They called the Philadelphia Gas Company and an employe, John Snowden, told police he was unable to gain entrance.

Police broke into the house and found the woman's body. They said she had been dead "about three or four days." Death was attributed to "natural causes."

A niece, Mrs. Lilian Kinkel, told police Mrs. Ritter had been separated from her husband for many years. Mrs. Kinkel said her uncle was a "gentleman's tailor" who had settled on her aunt at least half the 28 houses he owned 25 years ago.

The niece was uncertain about Ritter's present whereabouts but told police she believed he was "still alive, and may be in New Jersey somewhere."

Authorities, trying to get an estimate of Mrs. Ritter's wealth, added up properties worth "at least $35,000," trust funds totaling $65,000 according to Mrs. Kinkel, and an estimated $100,000 in income over the years that the recluse is believed to have hidden away.

Mrs. Kinkel said her aunt had given birth to two children, a boy who died at the age of one year and a girl who lived but two days.

"Bizzell said he heard the driver of the Atlantic Greyhound bus apply the brakes and blow the horn. Then there was an awful crash. I started running and about the time I got there many people were climbing out of the windows of the bus. Stewart, Jones and I began helping them. Then I went to get more help. When I returned with more people the bus and truck were burning. We couldn't get the men out in time."

Johnston County Hospital said Kermit Matthews, 30, Martinsville Va., and John Franklin Payne, 22, Charlotte, bus passengers, were on the serious list with internal injuries.

Of the other injured passengers eight were released from a hospital after treatment, and four remained hospitalized last night.

Dr. Sun sought help from Britain and America. They turned him down. He turned to Soviet Russia, which posed as the friend of freedom in Asia. Russia sent advisors to help Sun reorganize his Kuomintang party along Communist lines.

Sun died in 1925, and a rising young general named Chiang Kai-Shek took command of the party and its army. By 1927 he had defeated the northern warlords. He also had broken with the Communists who had helped him win. The same year he married Ch'ing-Ling's little sister Mei-Ling.

Her elder sister, Ai-Ling, already had married a Shanxi banker named H. H. Kunk.

Ch'ing-Ling chose to flee with the Communists. She went to Moscow and stayed until 1931. Back in China that year, she said:

In a way, few Chinese better personify their country's struggle for freedom and reform than Mme. Sun Yat-Sen, widow of the founder of the republic.

She is above all a product of the western ideas of Democratic freedom in an ancient and backward land. These made her a revolutionary, and set her apart from the rest of her family who have largely ruled China for 22 years.

In the end she has wound up in the arms of the Communists. Why? Her story is the answer not only to her personal fate, but is a key to understanding how the biggest single bloc of the human race—the Chinese people—are submitting to Communist control.

China And A Woman

Madam Sun Yat-Sen Personifies Country's Struggle For Freedom And Reform; Her Role In Revolutionary China; Why She Wound Up With The Communist Forces

By JAMES D. WHITE

In a way, few Chinese better personify their country's struggle for freedom and reform than Mme. Sun Yat-Sen, widow of the founder of the republic.

She is above all a product of the western ideas of Democratic freedom in an ancient and backward land. These made her a revolutionary, and set her apart from the rest of her family who have largely ruled China for 22 years.

In the end she has wound up in the arms of the Communists. Why? Her story is the answer not only to her personal fate, but is a key to understanding how the biggest single bloc of the human race—the Chinese people—are submitting to Communist control.

She was born Soong Ch'ing-Ling in Shanghai. Her father was a wealthy Bible-printer. As a Chinese, he resented the way the Manchus throne discovered his country and kept itself in power partly by trading bits of Chinese sovereignty to foreign powers. Like many wealthy Chinese in those not-so-gay nineties, Ch'ing-Ling's father supported a revolutionary doctor named Sun Yat-Sen.

Ch'ing-Ling was a student at Wesleyan College for Women at Macon, Ga., when word came through in 1911 that Dr. Sun finally had overthrown the Manchus. The story has it that she ripped the dragon symbol of the throne from her domitory wall and jumped on it. Full of American ideas of freedom and Democratic reform, she returned to China and joined Dr. Sun. When a warlord drove him out in 1915, she followed him to Japan and married him. When the Sun returned, they found a coalition of other warlords had taken over Inn Peking and were keeping alive, like the Manchus, by trading bits of Chinese sovereignty off to stay in power.

Dr. Sun sought help from Britain and America. They turned him down. He turned to Soviet Russia, which posed as the friend of freedom in Asia. Russia sent advisors to help Sun reorganize his Kuomintang party along Communist lines.

Sun died in 1925, and a rising young general named Chiang Kai-Shek took command of the party and its army. By 1927 he had defeated the northern warlords. He also had broken with the Communists who had helped him win. The same year he married Ch'ing-Ling's little sister Mei-Ling.

Top Of Building Falls To Street; Four Are Killed

Weight Of Signs Apparently Brought Down Parapet On Crowds Below

Pittsburgh, July 5-(AP)—The top of a building thundered down on a group of pedestrians out for a stroll on the city's northside Federal street last night. The barrage of bricks, mortar and heavy neon signs killed four and injured eight.

Four of the injured were listed as "critical" at Allegheny general hospital. "It was a terrifying thing," said Joe Devany, 32, who suffered a compound fractured leg. "I looked up and saw those two big signs coming at me. Then the whole building seemed to come down."

The dead were T. J. McGee, 60, retired Pennsylvania railroad worker; Charles Schmidt, 29, Donald Hamilton, 22, and Mrs. Viola Dickson, 30.

Critically hurt were John McDonough, 27, broken back; Rose Graden, 23 fractured pelvis, leg and hip; Forest McCallister, 40 fractured skull; and David Stevens, 49 arm and leg fractures.

Assistant fire chief Michael McDonough said the weight of neon signs advertising two cafes housed in the one-story building apparently caused the brick parapet to give way. The cafe ceilings were not damaged.

The accident occurred shortly before 10 p. m. in view of thousands of persons seeking relief from the intense 90-degree heat by promenadeing the district's brightly lit main thoroughfare.

Joe Cunio, 25, who was badly cut, estimated about 20 people were passing in front of the building when the top collapsed.

"I heard a rumble and then the building came down," he said. "I don't know what happened."

Firemen and emergency police crews helped dig the victims from the debris.

Fire Ruins Two Hotels, Houses

Twenty-Four Cottages And 19 Cars At Beach Destroyed

Revere, Mass., July 5-(AP)—A fierce fire wrecked two hotels, 24 waterfront cottages and 19 automobiles at Revere Beach—the Conner Island of New England—last night.

Fire Chief Thomas J. McCarrack estimated damage at $125,000.

The flames, apparently originating in a large garage, jumped swiftly to the three-story Hotel Chateau Thiere and Seaview and the small cottages. Most of the automobiles destroyed belonged to bathers seeking relief from 100-degree temperatures.

Witnesses said the heat from the blaze was so intense that automobiles 25 yards away exploded. The fire raged out of control for two hours.

Firemen threw up water screens to check the flames from entering the million dollar amusement center, most of which is constructed of wood.

Four persons, including one fireman, suffered minor injuries.

Pursued Driver Of Hit-Run Car But To No Avail

Last night at about 11:30, a car driven by Richard N. Musseum, a Marine stationed at the Edenton air base, was hit by an unknown car on the Grimesland-Black Jack road.

Musseum stated that he was heading in the direction of Grimesland when a car coming toward him hit his auto.

The other car, which was believed to be an old model, did not stop after hitting the Marine's car but sped away said the police.

The Marine told the police that he turned his car around and gave chase but failed to catch up with the hit and run driver.

The state highway patrol office estimated that damage costing about $50 was suffered by the car and said that investigation of the accident was being conducted.

N.C. Cancer Clinics Find 169 Cases In First Year

Raleigh, July 5-(AP)—One man out of every 10 examined by North Carolina's cancer clinics during their first year of operation had cancer.

For women, the ratio was one out of 30. The percentages were about the same for white and Negro.

The statistics were presented by the cancer control division of the State Board of Health yesterday in its first year report. However, the report doesn't represent a year's work in all the five centers now in operation. The New Hanover center is the only one which has been in operation a full year.

Other clinics are in Buncombe, Forsyth, Lenoir, and Durham-Orange.

During their first year, the centers examined 3,903 patients. They found 169 cancers.

Of the 3,903 examined, 3,775 were women and 628 men. Of the 169 found with the diseases, 61 were men.

Almost half of the cancers found were of the skin—a total of 82. Cancer of the cervix numbered 30, and of the breast 29. Benign tumors discovered numbered 504.

The examinations gave only 1,291 patients a clean bill of health. In one third of the patients, conditions were spotted which had them referred to personal physicians.

When the cancer division was set up March 1, 1948, Dr. Ivan M. Proctor of Raleigh was named director. Myrtle Ellen Labarr of Greensboro was named secretary.

Changes Made In Highway Offices

New Engineers Take Over Operation Of Second Division

New engineers today took over the operations of the second highway division with headquarters in Greenville in accordance with the reshuffling of engineering personnel announced some time ago by Division Commissioner W. Guy Hargett of Richland.

R. Markham of Wilson is the new division engineer replacing W. N. Sprull who has been transferred to Asheville as division engineer of the first highway division.

Jasper L. Phillips, former district engineer at Kinston, has replaced Hunter D. Irving as assistant division engineer. Irving will join the staff of the state construction engineer, W. K. Hawkins in Raleigh.

Phillips, speaking for the new engineers this morning, stated, "We are going to be working hard to get this new highway building program over. There is a lot of planning to be done, and that is what we are working on now. We are going to try to plan the work so the taxpayers will get $1.01 for each dollar spent on the program. We are going to try to carry out the program intelligently, efficiently and honestly."

Drunk Driver On Autoless Island

Bark Channel Islands, July 5-(AP)—The island of Bark, where autos are banned by law, had its first drunken driving case in its history today.

An outraged judge ordered the defendant's drinks out off until August 1, 1951.

The offender—John Terrace—was accused of driving a tractor while intoxicated on two occasions last month.

The court directed the little island's saloonkeepers to put Terrace on their blacklist for the next two years. He also was fined ten shillings ($2).

Scott Expected To Ask Sentence Be Modified

Roanoke, Va., July 5-(AP)—Attorneys for Lee Scott, 16, are expected to take steps Wednesday toward obtaining a modification of the 99-year prison sentence that faces him for the strangulation slaying of 16-year-old Dana Marie Weaver.

It is then that chief of defense counsel T. Warren Messick will tell Judge Kirk A. Kuyk why he thinks the first degree murder verdict should be set aside.

If the judge of Roanoke's Municipal Court does not set aside the verdict, Scott, Eagle scout and choir singer, probably will be formally sentenced Wednesday.

If he is, his counsel has said the case may be taken to the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals.

A jury Saturday found Scott guilty of slaying Dana Marie, his blonde classmate, in the kitchen of Christ Episcopal Church here on May 5, and fixed his punishment at 99 years in prison.

So far Scott has appeared unaflected by the verdict.

Washington—The big 1950 census doesn't start until next April, but don't be surprised if a census man calls at your home this summer.

Every month Census Bureau enumerators visit about 25,000 households in the United States. They ask questions about the age, marital status and employment of members of households.

The employment census on which the Bureau bases its estimate of the number of job-holders and job-hunters, is now rated more important than the count of population.

Employment information is valuable to the government and private industry as an indicator of business conditions.

Some householders resent the questioning as "prying into private affairs." A few others are scared by it in these days of agitation over Communists and charges of disloyalty.

Census Bureau officials say people have nothing to fear from the interviews. The information is strictly confidential as far as the individual household or his family is concerned.

Names of individuals are not sent to Washington headquarters. The information received here is used only for compiling the number of employed and unemployed and other statistics.

Not even the FBI or Internal Revenue collectors can obtain census information for investigation or tax collecting purposes. Federal law prohibits its use except in statistics.

Some people refuse to cooperate with the Census Bureau's enumerators or interviewers. However, relatively few persist in refusing after the interviewers have shown identification cards with their photographs and have explained why the information is being collected.

Special care is taken to put the questions in simple words and in terms which are well known in the community where the interviewed person lives. The interviewers take short training courses for their monthly one-week work.

The monthly census is taken in 66 sample areas of the country. For example, in some areas there is large employment in certain types of manufacturing or mining in other areas farming or raising is a principal occupation.

A typical enumerator team is composed of three college students, two housewives and one chief interviewer. The latter checks the work of the others and takes on householders who are reluctant to give information.

A householder can be compelled to give information but compulsion is seldom employed. If persuasion doesn't work, another household is substituted on the list.

Gov. Scott Backs Bonds 'Speed-Up'

Collections Up

Raleigh, N.C., July 5-(AP)—Despite a drop in sales tax collections, North Carolina's general fund receipts registered a slight increase in June as compared with June last year, the Revenue Department reported today.

General fund collections for the month amounted to $8,264,127 as compared with $8,069,233 in June last year.

Total general fund collections for the fiscal year amounted to $126,404,152, up 8.4 per cent from the $126,626,226 collected in the same period in the 1947-48 fiscal period.

Slaying Victim Is Related Here

Grandparents Of Girl Killed In Chicago, Live In Greenville

It was revealed to the Daily Reflector today that Joan Coward, pretty Blue Island, Illinois, girl who was slain in the Chicago suburb early Wednesday morning is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coward of 1101 Chestnut street, Greenville.

The 17 year old high school girl, whom the Chicago Sun Times identified as "one of the prettiest girls in Blue Island high school," died as a result of being beaten and choked, and her exact death a strange story of being assaulted by two strangers.

The girl visited in Greenville with her grandparents last summer and visited them again last Christmas. She lived in Greenville for about a year just before entering school, and then moved to Chicago with her father.

Southport, N.C., July 5-(AP)—Four men clung to the wreckage of their fishing boat for four hours Sunday after it was overturned in the Cape Fear River by waves from a tanker.

Clerk of Court Sam Bennett said that crew members of the tanker Gulfland saw his overturned boat but did not stop to render assistance to him and his three companions.

The four, Bennett and his brother, G. L. Bennett of Wilmington, and Joe Crispens and Hank Olmick, clung to the wreckage for four hours while it was carried out to sea. Finally a shrimp boat took the four men from the overturned craft, Bennett said.

"God" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, July 5.

Golden Text: Psalms 91-2. "I will say of the Lord, He is my refuge and my fortress; my God; in him will I trust."

Among the citations comprising the lesson-sermon are the following from the Bible: "And the Lord shall be king over all the earth; in that day shall their be one Lord, and his name one. (Zech. 14:9.) And from the Christian Science textbook by Mary Baker Eddy: "Allness is the measure of the infinite, and nothing less can express God." Page 336.

Mrs. James Thomas Manning Jr.

Manning-Lowery

Miss Algerena Lowery, daughter of Mrs. John Raymond Lowery and the late Mr. Lowery of Trenton, became the bride of Mr. James Thomas Manning Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Thomas Manning of Greenville, Saturday, June 25, at 5:30 p.m. in the Shady Grove Methodist Church near Trenton with Rev. W. E. Howard, pastor of the bride, officiating at the double ring candle-light ceremony.

Mrs. W. E. Howard, organist, rendered the wedding music. Her program included "Oh Promise Me," "Love Dreams," "Because," "Indian Love Call" and "I Love You Truly." Mr. Lawrence Tyson of Greenville sang "Always," "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," and "The Lord's Prayer" which was used as the benediction. The traditional wedding marches accompanied the bridal procession to the altar, and, as the vows were being said, the organist softly played "Clair de Lune." Altar decorations featured a background of palms, ferns and lovely arrangements of white gladioli and white snapdragons. Cathedral candles burned in white standards. The altar steps were spread with white and the church pews reserved for members of the families were marked by bouquets of flowers tied with bows of white satin ribbon.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Swindell Lowery of Elizabeth City, wore a gown of white nylon marquisette over taffeta designed with fitted bodice, and portrait neckline outlined with a bertha of imported French Chantilly lace. The long sleeves ended in points at the wrists and were edged in graceful folds with rows of French Chantilly lace extending from the bodice to form a full train. Her fingertip veil of French illusion edged with matching lace was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of orchids with valley lilies. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

ville, sister-in-law of the bridegroom. Their dresses, made like those of the maid and matron of honor, were of marquisette over taffeta in yellow, aqua and pink. They also carried bouquets of mixed summer flowers. Their headresses were ruffled braides of matching marquisette and they also had matching gauntlets. Each wore a rhinestone necklace, a gift of the bride.

Little Miss Katie Lou Williams of Kinston, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a white dress identical to that of the bride and carried a basket made of pink beauty roses filled with rose petals and were matching roses in her hair. Little Skinny Lowery of Trenton, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Mr. Charles Manning of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and ushers were Messrs. Wilson Lowery, of Trenton, brother of the bride, Claude Manning, of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom, Leslie Garner, of Greenville, and Paul Taylor, of Kinston, brother-in-law of the bride.

The mother of the bride wore a dress of black trimmed with matching lace while the mother of the bridegroom chose a dress of aqua. Each wore an orchid corsage. The bride is a graduate of Trenton High School and of East Carolina Teachers College. For the past year, she taught commercial subjects in the Goldsboro High School. The bridegroom, a graduate of Winterville High School, attended North Carolina State College. He served in the Army during World War II, with duty in the European theatre. He now travels for Ormond Wholesale Company in Greenville.

W. C. T. U. Notes

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the home of Mrs. C. W. Brown, 1012 W. 3rd street, at 3:30 p. m. on July 6. At this meeting Mrs. Hardaway will lead the devotional, and Mrs. Chas. Rumley will bring an interesting report from the state-wide W. C. T. U. meeting which she attended recently in Mars Hill. Mrs. Rumley is an enthusiastic speaker and all members and friends are invited to attend.

Choir Rehearsal
The choir of Memorial Baptist church will meet Thursday night at 8 at the church. All members are urged to attend.

FIRE DEPT. IDLE
The Greenville Fire Department reported today that the Fourth of July was quiet with no fires being reported in Greenville. There have been no alarms in the city for the past week.

Philadelphia, lying at the junction between the Schuylkill and Delaware Rivers, is almost 100 miles by water from the Atlantic coast.

Miss Mary Alice Davis, daughter of Mrs. R. D. Whitehurst of Greenville and the late Wood B. Davis of Kinston, whose engagement to Julian Rives, son of Mrs. Mary Koel Rives of Enfield, is announced by her mother. The wedding will take place on Saturday, August 13, on the lawn at her home on Bethel highway.

Ask Chamber For 5,000 Bullfrogs

The Greenville Chamber of Commerce has the reputation of getting requests for everything from soup to nuts, but the latest request reported by Manager Willard T. Kyzer is for "5,000 live large bullfrogs."

Kyzer said he received the request for the 5,000 live amphibians from the Virginia Biological Supply service of Charlottesville, Virginia. Kyzer said the information he received from the Virginia concern contained complete information about how the frogs were to be shipped and how they are to be measured to be sure they are large enough; but, according to Kyzer, there was no information about how to capture bullfrogs alive.

"If we can find anyone who is interested in catching live bullfrogs, we'll advise the Virginia concern, but I don't think the Greenville Chamber of Commerce is going into the frog-catching business," Kyzer commented.

George Spencer, Negro from a rural point, told police two men stole $18, his shoes and knife. Police are investigating. And there were dozens of other complaints to be investigated.

Records at police headquarters show that the officers are doing an outstanding job preserving the peace of the community.

There are more than 5,000 scheduled mail trains every day in the United States.

Slow Approach

Cleveland, July 5 — (AP)—Sam Johnson, 20, performs for Jimmy Lynch's Death Dodgers by driving a motorcycle through a "wall of fire" at 50 miles an hour.

Last night, during the Festival of Freedom at the stadium, his motorcycle conked out momentarily as he approached the flames and he had to go through at 15 miles an hour.

Johnson, of Youngstown, was treated at a hospital for minor burns and then allowed to return to the stadium.

Greenville Police Had Busy Weekend Minor Complaints

By CHESTER WALSH

The number of cases tried in Police Court gives the public only a slight idea of the unusually large number of activities required of the local guardians of the law.

There were only nine cases tried in the court Monday, but during the weekend, the police—night and day—were called dozens of times to settle a family fight; to check on a suspected "peeping tom"; to chase off a nocturnal trespasser from some householder's property; to investigate complaints of different persons that they had been robbed of their wallets while sleeping, and so on. The police have very few idle moments. The records show that they do more toward preserving the peace of the community than in arresting law violators on personal warrants or their own warrants.

A complaint went in from the Greenville Hotel that a motor scooter had been stolen there. It was recovered at the bus station. Willie Blango, Negro, 106 Cotanche Street, reported that two Negroes entered his sleeping apartment, stole his suitcase and $50 in currency and some small change. He had no clue.

Boyle's Column By HAL BOYLE New York, July 5.—(AP)—Jimmy never can forget how old man Jasper coned him. He told me about it as we set in his new apartment with his latest wife, Rosabelle.

"I went to work for him during the war," said Jimmy. "He owned a big independent soft drink business—cherry, grape, lemon, ginger ale—anything that fizzed. And he shipped to five states."

"How did Mr. Jaspers ever get such a big business, honey?" asked his wife. "I told you a dozen times!" said Jimmy. "He got it the same way you got me—he stole it! Go mix us a drink."

Rosabelle tripped out to the kitchen, looking pleased at this version of their marriage. "Well, anyway," said her husband, "good men were hard to get about then, and it didn't take this old joker long to see I knew my way around. So he made me general manager."

"Then he began having these strokes. They didn't make him goofy. They just kept him in bed. But every day I had to go out to his house after work and tell him what was doing at the plant."

"What kind of man was this Jasper, Jimmy?" "Crazy about money. His first wife divorced him after she caught him snuggling with her maid. And then when his ex-wife fell in love and married another guy with less money, it made old Jaspers mad. Just to spite her he built a $100,000 house over in New Jersey...

Somebody Told Me... By I. J. JACK EDWARDS, JR.

There was a day when the chant of a tobacco auctioneer was a sound familiar only to those associated with the industry. Today, however, it is practically impossible for families in every corner of the country to escape the chants brought into their homes by the radio advertising programs of the American Tobacco Company...

L. A. "Speed" Riggs of Goldsboro and F. E. Boone of Lexington, Kentucky, have polished their voices to fit the radio standards and introduce the Lucky Strike programs (Jack Benny and The Hit Parade) with the rapid-fire lingo.

This advertising technique hit the average non-tobacco town by storm, but in a town like Greenville, where auctioneers are simply part of the show, the chants were nothing new.

Some time ago I was shooting a few hands of bridge at the same table with one of the chanters, Jack Moye Jr., who auctioneers in Farmville and Sumner, Kentucky. Between hands I managed to squeeze in a few questions about the colorful profession.

It usually takes an auctioneer about five or six years to get a start. Many weigh tobacco, or take any job available around a warehouse in order to be on hand to substitute for the regular auctioneer.

Jack says the hardest part of the job is keeping up with the bids of eight or nine regular buyers, plus the speculators who are following the sale. The auctioneer has to catch bids made by the flash of a finger, the pull of an ear, or possibly even the twitch of a cigarette. After working one row of tobacco with a completely new set of buyers, an auctioneer should be able to catch the bids.

Above all, an auctioneer must have showmanship. A strong voice in getting the sugar. And I found how to get plenty. "He had no way to check up on me, and for a time I was considering going into business for myself—using his plant. I could've out a few of the boys in, and we could've run off a thousand or so cases extra at night and sold them ourselves. But my wife was against it."

"Yes," Rosabelle said, looking at him fondly. "It was dishonest—and you might have been caught." "About this time I got a better offer," said Jimmy. "I went to the old man, and he told me, 'stick to me my boy. I'll take care of you. The business is going to belong to you and a few oldtimers at the plant when I'm gone.' "Naturally, I stuck. Every day I'd go out and the first thing he'd ask was, 'how many cases today?' I'd tell him, and he'd smile and say, 'you'll never regret you stuck by me.' "Tell him how old Jasper died," said Rosabelle. "He got a big stroke one morning. He was real weak when I came to him. He smiled when I told him business was fine. Then he held my hand and whispered, 'don't leave me, Jimmy. I'll take care of you well.' "That night he died. When his will was filed, I rushed out to the court-house. Well, there were a lot of pages in the will—but the name Jimmy wasn't on any of them."

"No," said Rosabelle. "The old skintint left everything to the maid and their two children. And that was the first time his neighbors knew he had re-married. He'd told everybody his wife was just the housekeeper and the children were adopted."

Jimmy looked a little saug. "You know a man has to take care of himself," he said. "There weren't any in-laws on that black market sugar, and I managed to make myself enough to furnish this place and get me in the bank. But what gets me is the way old Jaspers coned me—he coned me with his dying breath."

"Yes," said Rosabelle. "The things some people will do for money."

WASHINGTON LETTER By JEAN MADE

Washington—"But you don't even know if you can stand the smell of a hospital," protested D. A. Peiry when his starry-eyed young daughter, Lucille, announced her intention of becoming a nurse.

Lucille Peiry had just completed her sophomore year at the University of Delaware. She decided to spend her summer vacation "finding out." She got a job as a practical helper in a New York hospital for $35 a month, returned home 10 pounds lighter and with an experience "that generally weighed the scales" in her decision.

Today, one of the country's most outstanding, forward-looking nursing educators, Lucille Peiry is the new assistant surgeon general of the U. S. Public Health Service, the first woman, the first nurse and one of the few non-physicians to hold the office. She is also an associate chief of the agency's Bureau of Medical Services.

Miss Peiry got her diploma in nursing at Johns Hopkins Hospital School of Nursing in 1927 and served briefly on the staff. She also taught at Yale University School of Nursing and was assistant director of the School of Nursing, University of Minnesota.

Just before World War II she was appointed nurse consultant in the U. S. Public Health Service and in 1945 became the director of the Division of Nurse Education and Director of the U. S. Cadet Corps, winding up with a rank comparable to that of Colonel in the Army. Now she is rated the equivalent of a brigadier general in the military service which is rated as the highest military rank ever held by a woman in the United States.

In three years while she was director of the Cadet Nurse Corps, some 180,000 young women were enrolled for 30 to 36 months of training in the more than 1,100 schools of nursing participating.

The pretty, five-foot Public Health aide says her chief aim is to achieve better nursing for more people. Her associates say she "doesn't hesitate to pioneer in new ideas," that she is always "thinking of a new approach or new angle."

She keeps in touch with things going on in the world, reads a good deal, would go to the theatre every night if she had time. She spends about half of her time traveling about the country and is constantly in demand to address and advise state nursing groups, national health groups, various public service organizations.

The largest government arsenal is located on Rock Island, Ill., close to the city which took its name from the island.

Fleet Is Hunting Absent Sardines

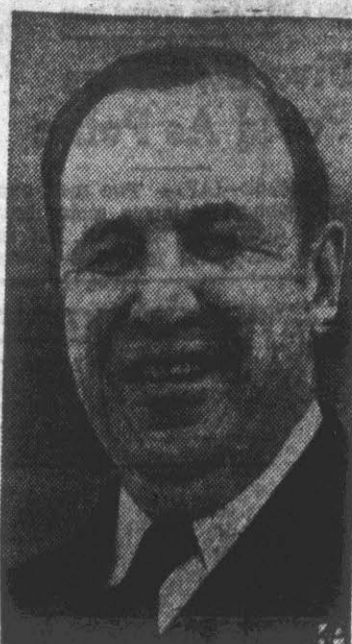

La Jolla—(AP)—A small fish, no longer than 10 inches, has a six-ship navy stalking him along the Pacific coast.

He's the Pacific sardine. In company with the billions of his fellow sardines that were teeming in California waters only a short while ago he represents a $65,000,000 industry.

Sardine schools have begun to dwindle alarmingly in California waters. The catch has dropped from a former high of 800,000 tons annually to less than 150,000 tons, representing a $30,000,000 loss to the California fishing industry.

In order to determine why the sardines left and where they went a combined fleet of six ships from the University of California Scripps Institution of Oceanography, the State Fish and Game Division, and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has launched the great oceanographic survey in history.

According to Dr. Roger Revelle, associate director of the Scripps Institution, this massive operation is reaching 500 miles to sea and from Oregon to Lower California. Involving many phases of science—oceanography, meteorology, zoology, botany, and chemistry—the research is financed by a $700,000 grant from the California Legislature and a tax of 50 cents a ton on all sardines caught in California waters.

The U. S. mail is handled in more than 40,000 railroad stations in the United States.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP Newsfeature

For acreage of a 76-foot lot, the plan 728 by Walter T. Anicka, 617 Forest St., Ann Arbor, Mich., offers a maximum of livability. The integrated three-bedroom wing and six closets with sliding panels are features. Over-all width is 82 feet. The house and garage cover 1590 square feet and contain 21,300 cubic feet, useful figures for preliminary estimates on local building costs. Siding or shingles are suggested for the exterior and asphalt shingles for roof.

Women In The Church

Miss Dorothy Edwards, a public health nurse, and Miss Ruth Atkins, an educator, both missionaries of the Methodist church in the Philippine Islands, recently took a mobile clinic into the rural communities of Cagayan Valley, Luzon Island, which had been occupied by the Japanese during the war. "I was dumfounded to find the children so undernourished," says Miss Edwards. "Malaria and tuberculosis are prevalent. Sanitary control is very poor, and medical facilities are inadequate. We heard tales of desperate war experiences everywhere we went. Many of the families lost everything they had, but their spirit is unbroken."

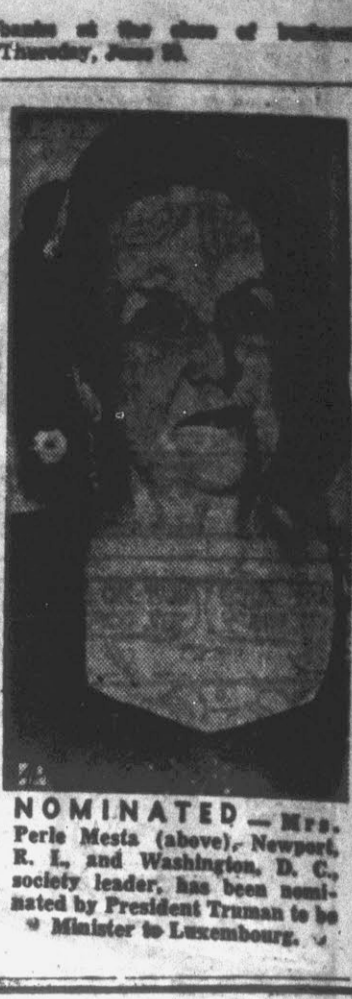

Miss Bees Wilson, the first American worker of the Young Woman's Christian Association in the Republic of Liberia, has established a social center in Monrovia, where girls and women are organized into clubs and classes in recreation, education, and religious worship and study. Outside of "Y" centers and those of a few churches, there are no social agencies for young or old, male or female.

In central Africa, where the home as it is familiar in the western zones is unknown, the Board of Lay Activities of the Methodist church, as part of its "Advance the Church and His Church" program, is making an effort to Christianize home life. Says the Board: "We are to initiate a 'Christian Home' program. We recognize that the Christian home is fundamentally essential to the life of the church, and we feel that a definite program for Christianizing homes must be an increasingly important part of missionary work. The home must be the field of Christian activity."

Miss Margery L. Mayer, of Toledo, Ohio, a missionary carrying on educational and social service activities in Nagasaki, Japan, under the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church, reports that "out in the atomic bomb center of Nagasaki lives a Buddhist priest who last month became a baptized Christian. To his parish of 100 families he has given New Testaments, and has been teaching Christian doctrine. The young Japanese people are coming to our churches and schools, but returning to Buddhist families who have no understanding or sympathy for these new ideas. We must get into the homes through social work and health centers."

Fishing Line Is Responsible For Saving Swimmers

Charleston, S.C., July 5—(AP)—Two holiday swimmers at nearby Polly Beach probably owed their lives today to a quick-witted fisherman and his stout line.

A leg cramp imperiled a would-be rescuer who went to the aid of a swimmer caught in a swift current when a small rubber raft overturned.

Grady R. Harmon of Gastonia, N.C., used his line to haul both to safety in separate trips. The one clinging to the raft was rescued in first as hundreds watched.

Only two strands of Harmon's line were intact when the second rescue was completed.

Romans Told Not To Blow Horns

Rome—(AP)—One of Rome's post-Mussolini freedoms is slowly being snuffed out. That is the freedom to blow your automobile horn.

Acoustic signaling, as it is called in Italian road manuals, was strictly taboo in Rome during the Fascist Regime. With the fall of Rome, June 4, 1944, Italians went on a tremendous toot. The seven hills rocked—and continued to rock for five years—to the unrestrained sound of automobile horns.

Editorials finally began appearing in the Rome press calling for a return to the once-oppressive days of silence. And just the other day, traffic signs were erected near the Palazzo Venezia. They show horns with lines drawn through them—meaning don't blow them around here.

Pharmacy is one of the oldest of all the learned professions. It had its beginning more than four thousand years ago, and has been practiced in one form or another ever since. The modern drug store bears little resemblance to the apothecary of old. Yet, today's pharmacist is inspired by the same honorable principles that governed the conduct of his forebears. The pharmacist's chief interest, now as then, is the relief of suffering and the prolongation of life. Prescriptions come first in our store. Sheriff Reports A Quiet Fourth

The July Fourth week-end which ended yesterday was one of the quietest in Pitt County for several years as far as the sheriff's officers were concerned, Ruel W. Tyson reported today. Sheriff Tyson said not a single call of any sort was received by any members of the sheriff's department Saturday afternoon, Sunday or yesterday. We had one of the quietest July Fourths I have ever seen," the sheriff commented. Written laws existed in Crete as early as the 6th century B.C.

Greenies Win One In Three Over The Holiday Weekend

Rout Roanoke Rapids By 11-1 And Drop Both Ends Of Tarboro Series By 5-2 And 8-6

By BERT MOYE
The Greenville Greenies grabbed one run win out of a total of three games played during the weekend by taking a 5-2 victory over the Roanoke Rapids, 11-1, in the game at New Bern on Sunday afternoon this was called in the second inning when a downpour of rain halted proceedings, with Greenville leading at this point, 1-0. In the two-game series with their arch rivals — the Tarboro Athletics — they lost both ends of holiday doubleheader, with the Athletics taking the game over in Tarboro 5 to 2, and then making it two in a row by copping the night game here at Greenville by the score of 8 to 6.

Saturday's Game
The Greenies walloped the Roanoke Rapids Jays, 11-1, here Saturday night for their ninth win of the season over the Jays to make a clean sweep of the two-game series between the two clubs.
Junior Yohn went the route for the Greenies and pitched seven-hit ball, as he registered his eighth win of the season. He has suffered two defeats.
The Greenies took a 3 to 1 lead in the fourth, added one in the seventh and in the eighth frame put the game away for keeps by scoring seven runs on seven hits one error, a walk and a wild pitch.
The Greenies collected a total of 13 hits off the two Jay hurlers, with every man on the club getting a hit with the exception of Steve Denier and Pete Gillespie.

Score by innings—
R. Rapids .. 001 000 000—1 7 3
Greenville .. 000 300 17x—11 13 0
Brown, Bergstrom and Martling; Yohn and Varney.

Holiday Games
Manager Joe Antolick's Tarboro Athletics registered their fourth and fifth straight wins over the Greenville Greenies in a holiday twin bill yesterday, with the Athletics taking the afternoon contest in Tarboro, 5 to 2, and then taking the night contest here last night, 8 to 6.
Home runs by Don Warfield in the third and seventh inning with a man on base each time spelled defeat for the Greenies in the afternoon contest at Tarboro.
The first home run came off the offering of Charlie Nordmeyer in the third frame and the second came off relief hurler, Vernon Mustian, who was making his professional debut with the Greenies. Mustian was credited with the loss in his first appearance for the Greenies.

Nordmeyer, who started the game, pitched five-hit ball in the first two frames and was taken out at the start of the seventh when manager Pappy Williams went in to pinch hit for him. At the time he was taken out the score was knotted at 2-2.
Bobby Harrison got two singles in four trips to the plate to lead the Greenies six-hit attack off the two Tarboro hurlers.
Score by innings—
Greenville .. 100 010 000—2 6 3
Tarboro .. 002 000 21x—5 8 3
Nordmeyer, Mustian and Varney; Unger, Gohl and Antolick.

The Tarboro Athletics staged a four-run rally in the ninth frame after two men were out, to take the night game of the doubleheader here last night by the score of 8 to 6. Five walks, three of them in succession, aided by two singles and a wild pitch, accounted for the four runs.

During this wild ninth inning, the Greenies sent in four hurlers but all four of them could not stop the scoring spree set by the Athletics during this frame. Frank Mauney who went in and walked one man and then quickly relieved was credited with the loss, as it was the man he walked which broke the 6-6 tie and put the Athletics ahead.
As the game went into the ninth inning the Greenies had a two-run lead and Norman Clark, who was on the mound up to this time, had let the Athletics down with six hits had struck out twelve men and walked six. He was taken out in the ninth after he had retired the first two men in order and then walked one man in the next man collecting a single.
The Athletics used three hurlers in the contest who gave up only seven hits, with Steve Denier getting two doubles to lead the attack for the Greenies.
The five Greenie hurlers used in the contest gave up a total of seven hits, walked nine men and struck out 13. After Frank Mauney, Junior Yohn, and Vernon Mustian has paraded to the mound in that order, it was Art Mascarella who went into the contest to put out the fire by striking out Dal Orf for the third out and end their rally. Three men were left stranded on the bases at the time.
The Greenies play at home again tonight when they meet the league-leading New Bern Bears at 7:45 o'clock.

Mix a few bases on balls with an error or two and add a good solid base hit and the result will be one or more runs. Stir this around for nine innings and repeat a time or two and the final outcome will be a ball game won by the team getting the benefit of the general mixture. Games won and lost are shown in the league standings. What is not shown in this column is the gauge of public interest which fluctuates as the tide goes. This fluctuation spells the difference between large crowds and small is determined in dollars and cents. Dollars and cents, incoming and outgoing, determine the success of any financial venture. When the outgo is greater than the income, there is a notation in the bookkeeping in red ink, which indicates there is a loss. When there are continual losses chalked up in the red, panic sometimes results. Panics are not good for our digestion. Bad digestion brings misery. Misery loves company, and when several or more miserable people get together there are complaints and howls and general heck to pay, and Around the Circuit: — Vernon Mustian, ace relief hurler of the Wake Forest Nine, has joined the Greenie pitching staff. He is a right-hander and hails from Powellsville, North Carolina. . . . Clark Gardner has been given his release by the Greenville baseball club. . . . The Kinston Eagles have added Outfielder Nisbet Hollis to the roster after dropping Ed Robinson. Robinson is now with Anderson. . . . Vernon (Dusty) Rhodes, catcher, has been assigned to the Rocky Mount Leads by the Raleigh Capitals of the Carolina League. Rhodes has been with the Raleigh club all season. . . . Frank Tepedino, who was with the Jays for a number of games a week or so ago and went hitless in every game he played, is now setting the woods on fire with Windsor in the Albemarle League. . . . Al Busa, recently acquired pitcher for the Tarboro Athletics, has returned to his home. Bill Schiavo, who had been given his release, was recalled. . . . Luis Olmo, the former Wilson Tob outfielder and a member of the Brooklyn Dodger baseball team, who has just been reinstated after being ousted from baseball for three years because of his Mexican League jump, got back into the Dodger lineup last week. . . . Quite a few former Coastal Plain performers are to be seen on the diamond of the Virginia League this season. Curt Salyer, formerly with Goldsboro, is playing a hot third base on Glenn Titus' Lawrenceville-Blackstone Club, along with Jim Meyer, big outfielder who was a valuable member of the Jays squad last season. Tony Polink, who pitched for the Goldbugs last year, is hurrying for Hopewell. Ray Urban, with Tarboro last season, is playing third base with Hopewell. Les Bangs, who played with the Jays a part of last season, is romping in the outfield with the Petersburg Club. . . . Len Romankowski, Eagles' shortstop, suffered a broken knee cap in a game last week and will probably be out of the Eagles' lineup for a month. . . . The Eagles recently acquired a new outfielder, Martin Mason, a rookie optioned by the Cleveland Indians from their Zanesville, Ohio, club. . . . Manager Steve Collins has returned to his regular position at second base after being out several weeks with a back injury. . . . Latest report from Manager Ross Morrow, who was hit by Pitcher Jim Lewey here last week, is that he is still confined in the hospital at Wilson and is getting along as well as could be expected.

Artful Dodger — Jackie Robinson gives the fans a great thrill and the opposing pitchers the jitters once he gets on base. His dancing, darting tactics serve to disconcert the hurlers for they know he may be off like a streak without warning.

Fans Reaction Awaited To Williams In Brooklyn
Brooklyn, N.Y.—(AP)—The first appearance of Ted Williams in Ebbets Field promises to be one of the highlights of the 16th All-Star game on Tuesday, July 12. Williams never has played in the home park of the Dodgers.
Just how will the Brooklyn Dodger fans react to their first glimpse of the American League's great slugger? Or how will Williams react to the cheers, or the boos if there are to be any? It will be interesting to see the results.
Over a period of years, Williams probably has been the most-feared batter to come to the plate in the annual dream games. He has appeared in six previous classics—a high for active outfielders—and has batted a rousing 500. The slender southpaw swinger has driven out nine hits in 18 official trips to the plate. Last year he had a torn rib cartilage and his only All-Star activity was a base on balls as a pinch hitter.
Included in his blows are three home runs, two doubles and four singles. He has driven home nine runs.
His best All-Star effort came in 1946 at Fenway Park, Boston. He had a perfect day at the plate, with two homers, two singles and a walk to lead the attack in a 12-9 victory, the most one-sided of the 11 American League victories in 15 games thus far. Williams is the only American League ever to hit two homers in one All-Star game. Arky Vaughan did it for the National League in Detroit's Briggs Stadium in 94.
Williams is one of the really great hitters in baseball history, and in Ebbets Field the right field fence 297 feet on the foul line, is made to order for the terrific pull hitter.
Suppose Williams hits a home run on his first trip to the plate? Naturally, the fans, even though most of them will be National League fans, will stand up and cheer. They will expect Williams to tip his cap in a gesture of appreciation between the time he touches home plate and returns to the dugout.
Brooklyn fans know their baseball inside out but a lot of them have yet to see Williams. Their cheers, which usually are spontaneous, who likes that? The solution is simple. Lay off cooking too much of the starting mixture.

The Brooklyn Dodgers have been billing their second base ace, Jackie Robinson, as the best one-man show in the National League. And in order to halt any arguments to the contrary, they point to the summeries which list the leaders in the various departments of play. The name of Robinson appears more often than any other player. Jackie has been cutting out a merry pace in batting, total hits runs, runs batter-in, stolen bases, triples and doubles, and is enjoying the very best season of his career in organized baseball.
Branch Rickey modestly labels Robinson as "the best since Ty Cobb" and points out that Jackie's daring base running, plus his natural speed, makes him the most spectacular player in the game. It is true that Robinson gives the fans a great thrill and the opposing pitchers the jitters once he gets on base. His dancing, darting tactics serve to disconcert the hurlers for they know he may be off like a streak without warning.
Robinson has come into his own around second base this season. In 1947, his first season with the Dodgers, Jackie was at first base and the position was strange to him. Last year he was returned to his old spot at second and he came along fast, a season he has arrived. His speed and hustle are an inspiration to the rest of the Dodgers and his potent bat has accounted for a flock of Brooklyn triumphs.

Dallas Owner Is A Free Spender
Dallas—(AP)—Dick Burnett has spent over a million dollars to build the Dallas club of the Texas League into a powerhouse. There are many stories of his lavishness.
Bobby Goff, business manager of the club, always tells this one when the question of Burnett's spending is under discussion:
Goff, who used to work for the St. Louis Browns—notes for spending as little as possible—was trying to buy a player for the 1949 club. Burnett sat by and let Bobby do the bargaining.
"This player was pretty good," says Goff, "and I wanted him. Well these other people didn't like our offer and I kept going up and up wondering what Burnett was thinking. He never said a word.
"Finally, I offered $19,000 in cash and ball players. They still said no so I gave up.
"On the way back to the hotel, I was afraid that Burnett would think I had lost my mind, offering that much money for a guy who was going to play in Class AA ball I figured he'd fire me.
"Instead of that, he rode along for a while without saying a word and finally he told me: "Trouble with you, Bobby, is that you worked too long for those Browns. You're too conservative."

Pension Fund Problems Spur Dream Game Players July 12th

By JIM BECKER
AP Newsfeatures Sports Writer
New York—The All-Star game—a contest reluctantly approved by club owners and occasionally shunned by the players—could blossom into an event second only to the World Series.
A hit with the fans almost from the start, the "Dream Game" was considerably slower to capture the imagination of the owners. And the players never have taken the contest really to heart.
The 16th game, slated for July 12 at Ebbets Field, should be the turning point. For the second straight year most of the proceeds will go to the Players' Pension Fund. The fund is in bad shape. The players are looking for ways to fill the coffers.

They proved last season after Bob Feller was withdrawn from the game by his front office that they are tired of players pleading imaginary back aches to stay out of the game. The boys let Feller know they didn't like his sitting the game out.
In the past, too, the starting pitchers have been worked full games before the All-Star contest by Stan Mustal accounted for all the scoring in the last three games for the men of Ford Frick and secondary hurlers had to work the game. All that should be over. Men selected for the game by the fans, who pick all but the pitchers are going to compete, if physically 2-1 and dropped last year's game 5-2.

A home run by John Mize with nobody aboard and a two-run clout able.
In addition, the National League is tired of lining up for what has become its annual lumps. The American Stars have won six of the last seven games, three of them in a row.
The game that started that string, the 1941 contest, was one that long will chafe National League memories.
The Nationals had won 4-0 in 1940 and seemed home in their bid for two straight. Leading by a score of 1-4 with two out in the ninth, pitcher Claude Passeau had only to dispose of Ted Williams. Claude had fanned Ted the inning before. But Williams instead drove a two and one pitch deep into the right field stands with two mates aboard. The slender slugger danced merrily around the bases and the junior leaguers held a real victory celebration in the Briggs Stadium clubhouse.

Only in 1944 have the Nationals been able to win a game since. They captured that game, 7-1, in Pittsburgh. The 1945 game was cancelled because of war-time travel restrictions and the postwar history of the classic has been one of frustration for the senior group.
Blanked 12-0 in the horrible 1946 affair, they lost the 1947 contest

YANKS VS. REDS
The Yanks from the Training School turned back the league-leading Reds at W. Greenville on the morning of the Fourth by the score of 10 to 6. Puryear, Quinn and Evans led the Yanks with two hits each. Gene Hudson with a double and two singles and Jerry Phillips with a double and single were top hitters for the Reds.

Athletics vs. Braves
The A's and Braves battled for three extra innings on the morning of the Fourth with the game ending in a 6 to 6 tie. The game had to be called, not because of rain or darkness, but on account of dinner time. Sydney Briley for the A's and Hilton Quinn for the Braves both pitched superbly and also led their teams at bat. Syd got four hits in five trips and Quinn got four for six.

Swank Forest Hills Sees Dark Pro Tennis Future
By FRANK ECK
New York—The West Side Tennis Club probably has seen the last of professional tennis.
The stadium in swank Forest Hills played to only 7,000 cash customers and a gate of approximately $10,000 during the recent week-long pro championship.
This was hardly enough to meet expenses. In 1948 the gross take was $25,000. Jack Kramer won the title and picked up $2,500. This year Kramer thought he could do much better in England, and he was right. Bobby Riggs, who turned back Don Budge in the final, 9-7, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5, drew only $468 for his victory, a rather pathetic return in view of the fact that he left engagements in England for the tournament.
Runnerup Budge got only $312 for his efforts in the singles part of the tournament, about $900 less than he received last year as a semi-finalist.
Despite statements from a few optimistic tournament officials, the tennis players themselves feel that it will be many years before the event will return to Forest Hills. They think they should explore other cities.
The West Side Club backs the tournament at a reported cost of $8,000. Last year the tourney cost the club a $2,000 loss. With less than half of the 1948 gross take at the gate this time the future of the

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

BORN of the STORM

By Sidney B. Carter

Chapter 1

It was a beautiful morning for a wedding. Priscilla stirred drowsily in her bed and turned over, trying to keep from waking up.

"Priscilla!" She heard her mother's voice and knew that the process of waking up could be delayed no longer. She would have to go downstairs and help with the preparations for the wedding. That meant facing things.

As long as she could remember, Priscilla had liked weddings — perhaps because she herself had longed so much to be a bride. She had imagined herself walking slowly beside Dennis to the stately strains of Lohengrin. How often in her daydreams she had followed every detail of the ceremony! Today she would be part of a wedding, but not as a bride. Today—and the thought gave her no pleasure—she would be her sister's maid of honor.

James, the bridegroom, was stockily built and moonfaced, with a false smile and too-friendly expression. Priscilla disliked him. However, he seemed to suit Lorraine and she was the one who was marrying him.

Then, unaccountably and to her own surprise, she burst into nervous tears. A moment later she had flung herself across the bed. She sobbed uncontrollably.

Oh, Dennis, Dennis, why did you go away and leave me? Other men went away to war, but they came back. Lorraine's man came back. Today Lorraine will be a bride, while I... Dennis!

Priscilla must have spoken the last unspoken word aloud, for she looked up to see a startled expression on her mother's face as she stood in the doorway. "Way, Priscilla," said Mrs. Hayden, her tone no more acid than usual, "you should be dressed. Lorraine is... Lorraine would be, thought Priscilla. Lorraine is Mother's perfect daughter and on her wedding day she will be even more perfect, if possible, in Mother's eyes.

"Really, Priscilla," exclaimed her mother in the voice reserved for her second daughter, "you're seventeen now. You're not a child any longer, or rather you shouldn't be.

Now you get yourself dressed in five minutes or you'll hear from your father."

Priscilla slipped the dress over her head and stood in front of the long mirror. She was tall and her figure filled out the dress in the right places. Her hair was a golden shade darker than the curls of her childhood and her eyes were a magnetic blue. She made a charming picture standing there, her full skirt swaying slightly in the mild June breeze that came in at the window, the sunlight spilling gold into her thick, wavy hair. What's the matter with me? Why isn't this my wedding day?

As Priscilla joined her father, Lorraine, and little Druse at the top of the staircase, she heard the opening strains of "Oh, Promise Me." That would be Nancy at the piano and, in a moment, Gertrude would begin to sing. And then her mother, standing among the guests grouped in the living room, would undoubtedly begin to cry over the loss of her favorite daughter, an idiotic procedure, Priscilla thought, since James and Lorraine were going to live there.

The girl in pink is Priscilla. Oh, no, she's not the bride. Priscilla is the girl Dennis Drummond liked. They were dancing together in the living room... no one else was around... they were in a world apart... he so handsome in his lieutenant's uniform... she with her bright hair against his shoulder... sweet music sending them... Suddenly the radio was snuffed off. Dennis had released her. Priscilla looked up at him in surprise.

"We're not going to dance any more," he said, and his voice was not gentle, the way she had remembered it.

Priscilla saw with sudden clarity, then, the lines around his mouth. They were lines of pain. Poor Dennis, she thought with pity, he's been wounded and he's been suffering a great deal. Now he's got to go back to the Army hospital and have another operation if he's to get full use of his hand again. But he was speaking to her. She could not believe what she heard.

"Priscilla, you're only seventeen. You're sweet and young and I wouldn't have you any other way. His voice was tortured. "But... well, there are some things I can't explain to you... You've never killed anybody... and I have. I've got to get over this feeling of guilt I have about it. No matter how I reasoned I never seemed to get used to it."

Priscilla listened with her heart. She wanted so much to help him, but the fear she had been repressing came forward with intensity. She could not, she knew, help him in this.

"Dennis!" Her voice broke. "Can't I help you? What good will it do for you to go away from me?"

He turned and looked down at her for a moment. "I'm restless," he said. "I can't settle down. I wouldn't make a good husband now." Seeing the frightened helplessness in her eyes, he spoke more gently. "These things," he said, "are born of the storm. I pray you may never feel the brunt of such a storm as that."

She felt his kiss upon her forehead and through a hour of desolate tears she saw him go.

The light, reminding touch of her father's hand on her arm started Priscilla. Oh, yes, it was Lorraine's wedding day. Give a good performance, she said to herself. Remember. Dad paid through the nose for this... this show.

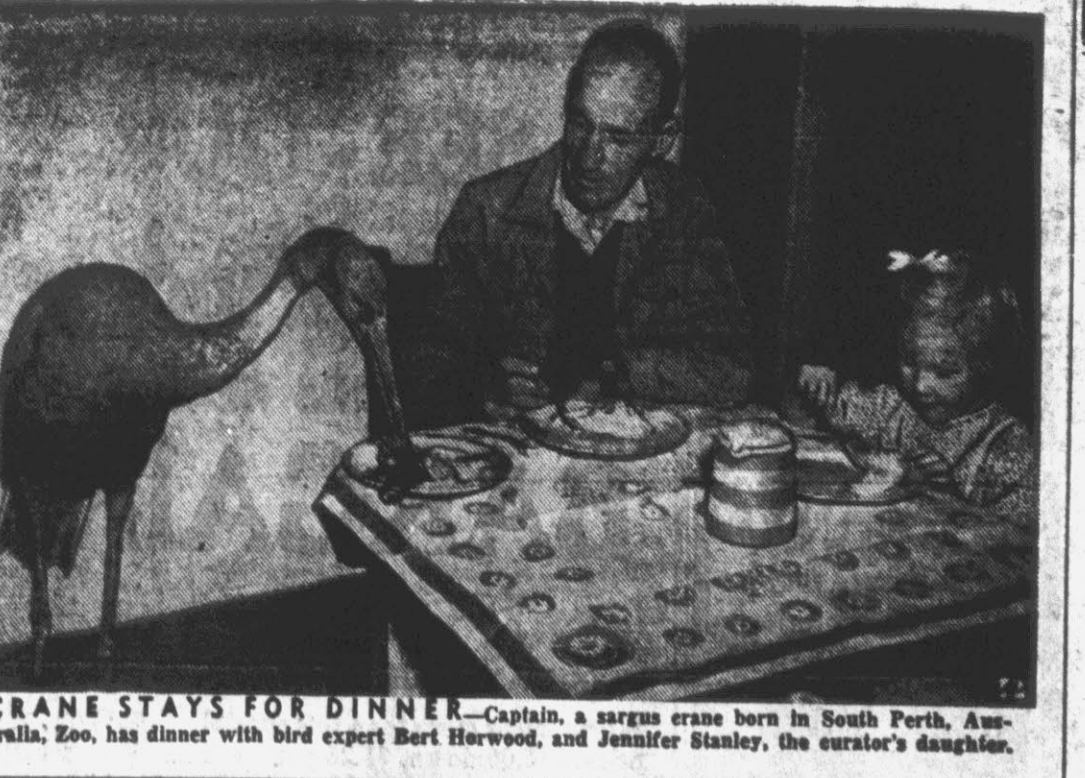

Priscilla came down the steps like a queen toward the waiting wedding guests and moved to her place at one side of the improvised altar. Lorraine, Priscilla's small, stocky, less-attractive older sister, was coming toward them. Lorraine wore a white dress and moved slowly, if not gracefully, beside her father who would give her away.

Mr. Hayden stepped back a few paces from the altar and let the moonfaced James take his place. The long cadences of the double-ring ceremony began... De you, James, take Lorraine... Priscilla wanted to scream.

Father Of Textile School At State College Retires

Raleigh, N.C., July 5—(AP)—The man who fathered N.C. State's textile school from a two-machine basement affair to one of the world's greatest institutions of its kind has retired.

Dr. Thomas Nelson, dean-emeritus of the school of textiles, announced his retirement yesterday. He is 77. Born in Preston, England, Dr. Nelson joined State's faculty in 1901. The textile department at that time had but one instructor.

In 1906 Dr. Nelson became professor of textiles and head of the textile department and in 1924 he became the school of textiles' first dean.

Last month the school awarded 375 graduates their diplomas. This was nearly one-third the nation's crop of 900 textile graduates.

Dr. Nelson helped organize and was a charter member of the Southern Textile Association in 1908. He is known throughout the world in textile circles, has written many books on the subject, and has given much technical advice to the federal government.

After working in some of the finest fancy weaving mills in England, Dr. Nelson set sail for the U.S. He worked in mills in Connecticut and Massachusetts and in Petersburg, Va. He taught warp preparations and weaving in the Lowell, Mass., Textile Institute for a year and then came to State.

Abraham's Pants

In Police Court here yesterday, Judge J.W.H. Roberts convicted King Solomon of stealing Abraham's pants.

King Solomon Spencer, middle-aged Negro, confronted Eli Homer on the charge of the larceny of two pairs of Abraham Johnson's pants. Testimony was that King Solomon had lived in the same house and the charge of breaking and entering was thrown out.

King Solomon was in court last week on other charges. Investigation revealed that at that time he had on one pair of Abraham's pants under his regular work-day britches. The pants were recovered. Judge Roberts gave King Solomon six months on the roads for larceny and Abraham his pants.

This happened in the Fourth of July session of Police Court.

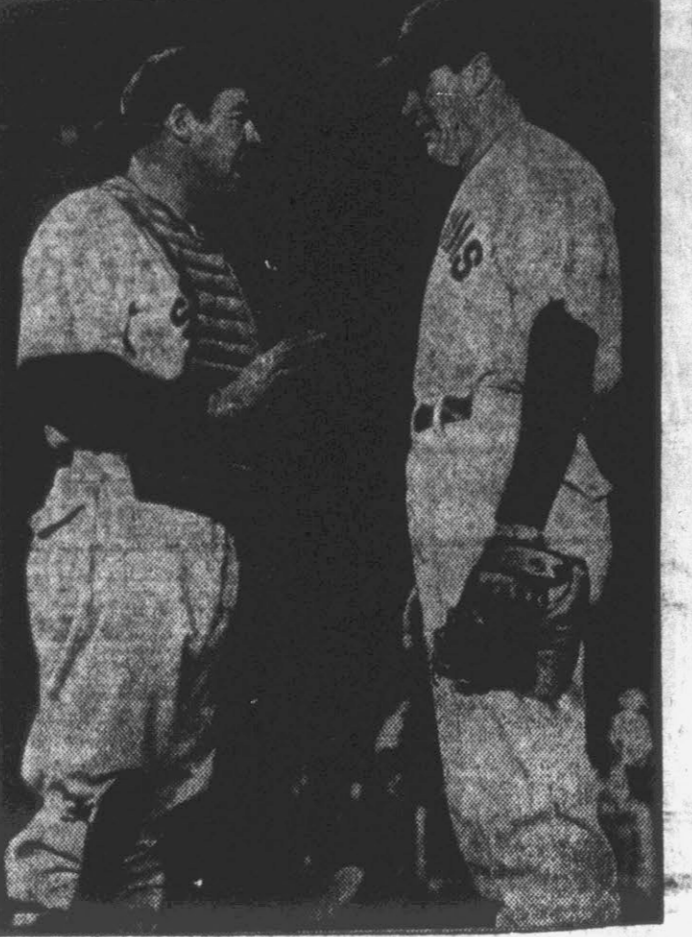

Truman Relaxed By Brief Cruise

Washington, July 5—(AP)—President Truman, relaxed and refreshed, was back on the job today after a business-plus-pleasure weekend cruise on Chesapeake Bay.

The White House said the three-day trip on the Presidential yacht Williamsburg did Mr. Truman a lot of good. He spent most of the time studying the report of his council of economic advisers, on which he will base his own economic report to Congress in about two weeks.

The President's daughter Margaret and two of her girl friends went along on the cruise.

Funeral Wednesday For Mrs. W. H. Moore

Mrs. Susie Mayo Moore, 78, wife of Will H. Moore, died at her home at Bruce, near Farmville, this morning at nine o'clock after several months of illness. Funeral services will be conducted at the Falkland Presbyterian Church Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock by Dr. J. W. Hassell, Presbyterian minister of Greenville, assisted by the Rev. Philip Corey, Presbyterian minister of Fountain and the Rev. C. A. Lawrence, Presbyterian minister of Falkland, and burial will be in the church cemetery. The body will remain at the S. G. Wilkerson and Sons Funeral Home until one hour prior to the time of services at which time the body will be carried to the church.

Mrs. Moore, daughter of the late Dr. Peyton H. and Susan Hopkins Mayo, of Pitt County, was born reared and spent all her life in the Falkland community. She was married to Will H. Moore, April 19, 1892 and was a member of the Falkland Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are her husband; a daughter, Mrs. Ethel Moore Denton of Raleigh; four sons, W. Jenness Moore of Falkland, P. Milton Moore of Bruce, William H. Moore, Jr., of Farmville, and Ivey F. Moore of Jacksonville, N.C.; 9 grandchildren; 4 great grandchildren; a brother, Cary B. Mayo of Greenville, and a sister, Mrs. Maude Warren of Falkland.

China And . . .

"The Kuomintang has lost its position as the country's revolutionary party. The party's destroyers, far from being enemies, are its own leaders."

She meant her brother in law, Chiang Kai-Shek and H. H. Kung, and her own younger brother, T. V.

There you have it—reform and freedom. And who can Mme. Sun or any Chinese thank but the Reds?

One question is this: Has Mme. Sun just been taken in by Communist success in a situation which nothing better was presented to the Chinese in terms they found acceptable? There's room to doubt.

The lady was not born yesterday, and furthermore she lived in Stalinist Russia from 1927 to 1941. In her speech she said "salute to the Chinese Communist party." But she also said "long live the Chinese peoples revolutionary movement," and thereby told the Reds to keep on leading that movement if they don't want big trouble in that big country of hers.

Break Even On Prison Escapes

Raleigh, N. C., July 5—(AP)—The Prison Department broke even in June in the matter of escaping prisoners.

It reported that during the month, 28 prisoners managed to make their escape and that 28 prisoners were recaptured.

Byrnes Attacks 'Welfare State'

Former Secretary Of State Hits Political Promising

Greenville, S.C., July 5—(AP)—Former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes says "We do not want the federal government regimenting our lives from the cradle to the grave."

He reiterated his stand against a "welfare state" and called on the United States to be strong militarily and economically in a speech yesterday to the South Carolina American Legion convention.

"We must remain strong economically," he declared. "Our first line of defense is not on the Rhine—it is a sound, safe American economy. That sound American economy is likewise the first line of defense of all democratic nations."

Byrnes predicted Russia would follow a policy of rearmament and militarization in its part of occupied Germany. But he added, "the recent conference (of the Big Four foreign ministers in Paris) cannot be regarded as having made no progress as long as there was an agreement for further conferences. So long as men confer about their problems, even if the language is profane, there is hope of agreement."

He declared federal welfare and social agencies are taking from the states tax money which could be used to better advantage at home. Byrnes referred to a recent address at Washington and Lee University in which he expressed similar views. He declared, "It was interpreted by some as an attack upon an individual and a political party. I singled out no individual. I named no party. I said that each political party tried to outpromise the other."

Cases Tried In Police Court Fourth Of July

In Police Court yesterday, Judge J. W. H. Roberts continued judgment in the case of Walter Dupree, colored, charged with larceny.

Larceny—King Solomon Spencer, colored, six months on the roads.

James M. Vines, colored, paid $12 for an affray.

Drunk—Amos A. Brown, colored, and Roy White, each paid $15.

James Lee Edwards, assault with a deadly weapon, 90 days on the roads or $25. For carrying a concealed weapon Edwards was given six months on the roads or pay $50.

Sentences are to run concurrently.

Arthur Daniels, colored, paid $25 and costs for not having a driver's license.

Plummer Williams, colored, was not guilty of disorderly conduct and profane language.

James H. Wethington paid $30 for being drunk and $10 for property damage, breaking a front door glass at 108 East Ninth street. Wethington was found not guilty of possessing non-tax-paid whiskey.

her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Coward, formerly of Greenville.

According to Chicago police, Miss Coward was brought to the Riverside station in a dying condition by Arthur Marino, her 28 year old fiance, whose mouth and throat were so burned, supposedly by ammonia, that he was unable to speak clearly. Police said Marino managed to write a sketchy statement of what had happened before being taken to the hospital for treatment.

Could Be Hotter

Normal weather conditions prevailed in the Greenville area during the long Fourth of July weekend holiday.

Highest temperature Saturday was 84 degrees, partly cloudy. Highest Sunday was 88. Highest Monday, 91 degrees, and the lowest last night was 70. At 5 a.m. today the mercury stood at 75 degrees, the local observer for the U.S. Weather Bureau reported.

The highest temperature recorded here last year was 95 degrees.

Farmers of this section in town today were optimistic over the outlook for excellent crops as a result of last week's timely rains. Tobacco in the fields is flourishing and curing is getting into full swing. Farmers say they expect a bumper corn crop.

Grain Market

Chicago, July 5—(AP)—Grain futures were firm to strong in today's board of trade session. Wheat advanced on mill buying which offset hedging pressure. Observers said the volume of trading was heavy.

At the finish wheat was 1 1/2 to 2% higher than Saturday's close, July $1.95 1/2-; corn was 1/4 to 1 1/4 higher, July $1.36 1/2-; Oats were 1% to 2 cents higher, July 61¢. Rye was 2% to 3 1/2 cents higher, July $1.38 1/2. Soybeans were 4¢ to 8¢ cents higher, July $2.47 1/2-47. Lard was 2 cents a hundredweight higher to 10 cents lower, July $10.62.

N.Y. Stock Market

New York, July 5—(AP)—The stock market once more responded to a mere breath of demand today.

Gains ranged from fractions to around a point. Buying was selective, though, with a good handful of shares either backing down a trifle, or remaining at last week's closing levels.

Business was slow, turnover but a rate of only 650,000 shares for the full session.
