Approve Cut For New ECA Budget

Senate Appropriations Committee Okays Ten Per Cent Reduction; Group Agrees To $3,778,380,000 Outlay To Finance Marshall Plan

Washington, July 11—(AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee has approved a 10 per cent cut in funds for the European Recovery Program, a member said today.

The senator, who asked that identification be withheld, reported the group agreed to $3,778,380,000 to finance continued Marshall Plan operations.

The approved cut totaled $420,620,000 which will come from the Economic Cooperation Administration's proposed budget for recovery operations during the fiscal year which started July 1.

ECA Chief Paul Hoffman had requested $4,198,000,000 for the second year recovery program. The House cut this figure to $3,568,470,000—but permitted that ECA to spend the money in 10 and a half months if necessary.

The Senate figure represented a compromise between those who favored the full ECA program and economy advocates who wanted to cut up to $740,000,000 off the program.

The 20-member committee was called into a closed-door session by its chairman, Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.). In a lengthy public feud with Hoffman, McKellar had talked of cuts of as much as $800,000,000 from ERP funds and, at times, suggested that Hoffman resign.

Senator Bridges (R-NH), former appropriation chairman, at first urged a deep slash but more recently called for a cutback of $300,000,000 to $400,000,000. Bridges said he does not want to sponsor "crippling" reductions.

Senators from farm states also have softened original economy demands. Hoffman pointed out that if ECA is forced to slash its spending its purchase and export of grains, cotton, and other major farm commodities will suffer greatly.

The foreign aid bill carried about $5,200,000,000 as it came from the (Continued on page eight)

Britain Hopes To Solve Crisis In September Talks

Fact-Finding Talks Slated On Dollar Shortage; Will Meet In Washington

London, July 11—(AP)—Britain hopes to find a solution to her dollar problem by September.

That is the upshot of a three-day closed-door conference here between United States Treasury Secretary John Snyder, British Economic Chief Sir Stafford Cripps and Canadian Finance Minister Douglas Abbott.

Before Snyder left for Brussels on the next stage of his European tour, the three issued a joint communique. It promised fact-finding discussions right away and more ministerial talks in Washington in September.

The men met at the end of a week which saw Cripps tell Britain her dollar and gold reserves had sunk almost $400,000,000 below the $2,000,000,000 danger line, and order a three-month moratorium on all but urgent dollar purchases.

The communique emphasized that "remedies" for Britain's plight other than financial assistance such as that provided by the United States and Canada must be explored.

It urged all countries concerned to review their policies to obtain a wider, many-sided trade.

Britain, running out of dollars has been making exclusive barter deals with countries like Argentina, where she needn't pay in the scarce currency.

The policies to be reviewed, unidentified in the communique, presumably would include such bilateral deals, dollar purchase cuts and possibly United States tariffs which many Englishmen claim keep this country from earning dollars.

Warrant Issued For Bank Teller

Greensboro, N.C., July 11—(AP)—A federal warrant has been issued charging Haskell Herman Godfrey, 25-year-old former teller at the Bank of Greensboro, with embezzling and abstracting $4,450 from the bank. It was revealed today by United States Attorney Bryce R. Holt. The suspect has not been apprehended.

Holt said Godfrey failed to report for work Saturday, July 2, and again on Tuesday, July 5. On Tuesday, the district attorney said, bank officials checked funds in Godfrey's teller cage and discovered the shortage.

New GOP Fight Faces Party Chairman Scott

Washington, July 11—(AP)—A new revolt threatened today to put Hugh D. Scott, Jr., out of his job as Republican National chairman.

Scott dismissed the rebellion lightly, but Republican leaders said they would not be surprised if a group of National Committee members force a meeting which might vote Scott out.

Originating in a secret session at Pittsburgh over the weekend, the anti-Scott movement apparently had gained strength among National Committee members who sought unsuccessfully to unseat him in a meeting in Omaha, Neb., last January. Scott won that test, 54 to 50.

More than a score of those who opposed Scott at that time met at Pittsburgh Saturday night and, it was reported, notified the chairman that he could quit by tomorrow without being forced out. Scott's reply was that he was enjoying a week-end vacation free, as far as he knew, from new troubles within the party.

But some of the Republicans interested in the move to oust the chairman said a meeting may be held here tomorrow to map strategy for his removal.

Mrs. Katherine Kennedy Brown an Ohio National Committee member who attended the Pittsburgh meeting, said at Dayton that Scott was not asked to resign. She said that she and others were "very dissatisfied at Scott's repeated attempts to by-pass the National Committee." She added she wants him to stay on as chairman if he will work in close harmony with the committee.

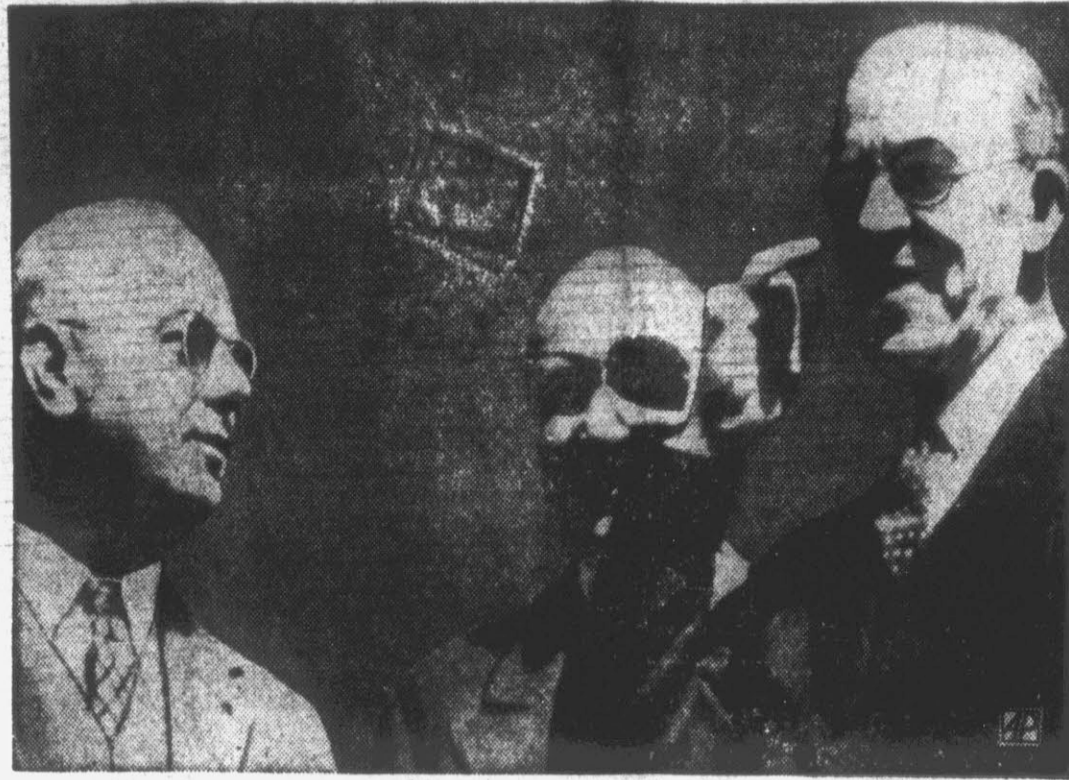

Airport Commission Re-Elects Officers In Friday Meeting

The Pitt-Greenville airport commission at its regular meeting Friday night re-elected L. M. Buchanan of Greenville as chairman of the commission.

G. H. Pittman was re-elected vice-chairman and W. T. Kyzer was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

During the meeting the commission discussed plans and efforts being made to secure air service for Greenville, adopted a budget for the current year, approved the financial report for last year, and ordered the books of the commission audited by the county auditor.

Chiang, Quirino Sound Unity Call

Seek Union Of Asiatic Nations To Repel Communism

Baguio, Philippines, July 11—(AP)—President Elpidio Quirino and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek tonight called for a union of the countries of Asia and the Pacific to "contain and counteract" the threat of communism.

The joint statement of the Philippines president and retired president of Nationalist China was issued at the conclusion of two days of talks here. It said "a preliminary conference of the authorized representatives of these countries desiring to participate in the formation of the union shall be convened at the earliest possible moment to devise concrete measures for its organization."

"It is our hope that other countries in Asia and the Pacific will eventually respond to the highest aims of the proposed union," it said.

Chiang said "although I have come to the Philippines upon the invitation of President Quirino to confer with him in my private capacity, I shall as (head) of the Kuomintang (Nationalist party) undertake to advise and request the Chinese government to give its full support and to take steps to implement the agreement announced in the above joint statement."

Chiang is due to leave for China tomorrow.

Earlier informed sources had listed Dr. Syngman Rhee, president of Korea, as an immediate participant. Invitations were extended to Siam, Indonesia, Korea, Australia and New Zealand. It was felt that the sooner the union could be brought into being the sooner the United States would take an interest.

State Of Emergency Is Invoked In Dock Strike

Britain's King Acts As Wildcat Dock Strikers Defy Back-To-Work Call By Government; Extraordinary Powers Invoked

London, July 11—(AP)—King George VI proclaimed a state of emergency today to deal with a crippling strike on the London docks.

The king acted on the recommendation of the cabinet after wildcat dock strikers defied a back-to-work call by the Labor government.

A mass meeting of 5,000 dockers had voted earlier to continue their stoppage.

It was the first time the British government had invoked the 1926 emergency act since the general strike of 1926. Under the act the government is empowered to draft civilians—but not strikers—for work on the docks, may confer extraordinary powers on the police and may commandeer buildings for the use of troops.

Viscount Addison, Labor party leader in the House of Lords, announced the cabinet decision at the start of the afternoon session of Parliament.

A total of 10,278 men—out of the London dock force of about 25,000—failed to show up for work this morning. That left 112 ships idle in the tieup denouced by the government as communist-led.

Seventeen hundred troops called to unload food ships last week were ordered to stand by in the dock area. The cabinet warned the dockers last week it would invoke the emergency act unless the strike ended this morning.

A similar threat in another wildcat stoppage proved effective last year. But today those who attended the mass meeting shouted down proposals that they yield again.

USE OXYGEN TENT
The Greenville Fire Department's rescue unit was called to the home of C. W. Howard Sunday afternoon about 5:30 to bring an oxygen tent to be used on Mr. Howard who had been taken ill early in the afternoon. The oxygen tent was set up by Greenville firemen in short order and Mr. Howard was reported today to have had a fairly good night under the tent.

Barbecued Pig Only Damage In Pit Fire
The Greenville fire department was called to Evans Bar-B-Q Place located at 810 Pamlico Avenue this morning when a roasting pig in a barbecue pit caught fire.

Grease in the bottom of the pit caught fire and burned the pig to a crisp. There was no damage other than to the pig.

Mrs. Kate Tukey Ross, reporter for the Omaha World-Herald, is shown (right) as she talked with Jackson on the phone for an hour and three minutes, pleading with him to desist. Because of her continued talking, police were able to enter the house and restrain Jackson from his threat to light a match and ignite gas escaping from four open jets. (AP Wirephotos).

Russians Choke Off Truck Cargo To West Berlin

All Highways But One Closed; Four Trucks Per Hour Allowed Through

Berlin, July 11—(AP)—The Russians have choked off truck cargo for West Berlin to four an hour—96 a day—on the Helmstedt Autobahn. All other highways to the city have been completely closed.

A report to the American military government that all trucks must be completely unloaded for inspection indicated that this figure might be further reduced. An average of 300 trucks a day had been traveling the Helmstedt road lately.

There has been no explanation yet from the Soviet military government for the "little blockade." Russian border guards said, however, they were acting on telephoned orders from their highest headquarters in Germany.

One truck leaving the British zone with 10 tons of glass for Berlin took an hour to pass the Russian check-point because of the unloading and loading provision. In the meantime no other trucks were allowed to pass.

"If the Russians are merely attempting to prevent the importation of blackmarket goods, they would have some reason to require this rigorous inspection," an American officer commented.

"But since they have shut down at all points except Helmstedt, it seems obvious there are other motives."

Some Allied officials indicated they believed the stoppage was a Russian move to force the Allies to meet Soviet trade terms in forthcoming East-West negotiations.

The British notified the foreign office in London of the restrictions calling them a "clear breach of the Paris agreement" reached by the Big Four foreign ministers last month.

This new harassment of Berlin's supply lines produced a tense atmosphere for tomorrow's opening of four-power consultations for "normalizing" life here.

Some angry Allied officials claimed the Russian action apparently gave the lie to recent professions of goodwill from Soviet quarters in Berlin.

The White House announced today that the Chief Executive will address the people in a talk over all four of the major networks.

Plan Fourteen Arrests For Alabama Terrorism
Birmingham, Ala., July 11—(AP)—Fourteen men were tabbed for arrest today on charges of hooded terrorism in Jefferson County—and this may be only the beginning.

Solicitor Emmett Perry asserted the probe of cross burnings, floggings and night riding would not stop "until the last mobster faces a qualified and intelligent jury."

Perry set into motion the inquiry that resulted in the grand jury indictment Saturday of the 14 men on assorted charges of violence and intimidation.

The Ku Klux Klan has denied any connection with the night riding terrorism.

Sheriff Holt McDowell said last night the seizure of the 14 awaited only the formality of wearing out warrants. But McDowell did not disclose in advance any names or specific charges.

A court attendant said unofficially that six of 44 indictments were State Treasurer Lines Up Sale
Raleigh, N.C., July 11—(AP)—State Treasurer Brandon P. Hodges is in New York this week laying the groundwork for the state's sale of $232,500,000 in bonds.

The treasurer left yesterday to talk with bankers, bond dealers, and securities dealers, renewing acquaintances among them he made in past years as Buncombe County attorney.

Cancels Call For $4 Billion Tax Increase, Bows To Temporary Deficit Spending Policy In Midyear Economic Report To Congress; Also Drops Demands For Price, Wage Or Other Business Controls

By STERLING F. GREEN
Washington, July 11—(AP)—President Truman today cancelled his call for a $4,000,000,000 tax increase. He bowed to a temporary deficit spending policy to head off any depression.

"No major increase in taxes should be undertaken at this time"—were the President's words. Also: "We cannot expect to achieve a budget surplus in a declining national economy."

In a stunning reversal of his stand, Mr. Truman sent to Congress a midyear economic report wiped clean of his past demands for price, wage or other business controls.

Instead—stating that unemployment is acute in some areas—he proposed 11 new laws to build up jobs and production, boost consumer income and buying power, and loosen federal lending.

All the ideas were familiar. Most were not drastic. They included public works planning, but not more public works; the Brannan farm plan; expansion of social security and jobless pay; extended GI benefits.

Crisis action isn't needed, Mr. Truman said, because the economy still is strong and healthy. It can hit a soaring annual output of "well above $300,000,000,000" in a few years, he predicted. That is one-fifth higher than today's national production.

"But there is nothing healthy about more unemployment or less production," Congress was told. "Such trends can and must be reversed by positive action, private and public. x x x 'Our own people insist upon the maintenance of prosperity, and will not tolerate a depression.'"

The President's Council of Economic Advisers, in an accompanying report, was somewhat more optimistic in general tone than Mr. Truman. It found the business outlook reassuring. But agreed that federal action is called for.

"We may have the unique and fortunate experience of liquidating a major inflation without falling into a severe recession," the three-member council reported.

In a sentence certain to win the acclaim of business, Mr. Truman took his stand against any major increase in taxes.

"Only estate and gift tax rates should be raised, he said. He added that the transportation tax on goods should be wiped out and the "carry-over" of losses in corporation taxes should be liberalized.

The expected results: (a) Better profit prospects for industry; (b) a small net loss of federal revenues, in place of the thumping boost in corporation rates and income taxes which the President asked in his January economic message and for which he spoke against only a month ago.

The President flailed at legislators who insist on government economy and foreign aid. "Nothing could represent greater economic folly," he said.

"If we tried to avoid a budget deficit by cutting essential expenditures, we would contribute to low national output, still lower employment, federal receipts would fall further, and the burden upon federal (Continued on page eight)

Texas Governor Died Early Today

Beauford Jester Is Found Dead In Pullman Berth
Houston, Tex., July 11—(AP)—Governor Beauford Jester was found dead today in his Pullman berth on a train at the Houston Pacific Railway station. Jester was 54.

First word of the governor's death was received when someone at the station telephoned Homicide Lieutenant W. P. Brown of the Houston police department about 7:30 a.m. CST.

The lieutenant dispatched three homicide detectives, Lloyd Barrett, L. L. Watts and Frank Murray, to the station to begin an investigation.

However, Brown said that as far as he knew the governor died a natural death. Justice Tom Mass hurried to the station to begin an inquest.

Jester was serving his second term as governor. Lieutenant Governor Allan Shrivies, also serving his second term, will take over as governor.

Jester swept into office with an overwhelming majority two years ago. His victory was over Homer P. Rainey, ousted University of Texas president, his arch opponent.

Scott Studying New SBI Report

Raleigh, July 11—(AP)—Governor Scott has had under study this weekend a supplemental report of the SBI on its investigation of union charges that a "virtual reign of terror" exists at Marion.

The chief executive received the report Saturday from SBI Chief Walter Anderson at a two-hour conference also attended by union representatives.

Declining to comment on Anderson's report until after further study, the governor said he was going to talk over the matter with Attorney General Harry McMullan.

Fire Chief Hero In Saving Infant

Baltimore, July 11—(AP)—Fire swept through one of Baltimore's old row apartment houses today and killed a Virginia grandmother and three of her grandchildren.

A heroic fire department battalion chief Paul W. Reynolds, made three trips into the blazing ground floor of the three-story building before he could find a five-month-old baby and snatch her from her crib to safety.

A Diet Of Economics

With Spy Cases Put On Ice, News Headlines For Most Of The Remaining Summer Will Deal With Economics; A Number Of Angles; Heavy Warm Weather Reading

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, July 11—(AP)—Now that the spy cases have been put on ice—and unless we run into some unforeseen sensations—we can look forward to a summer diet of economics.

President Truman makes his economic report to Congress today. And that is sure to be the cause of jeers and cheers in Congress. It always is, every time he makes one.

In fact, the jawing back and forth about it, in and out of Congress, will use up a good part of the week, at least. And you will be hearing references to it up into next winter.

As usual, this will leave the public a bit puzzled as to who's right but hoping that things will work out and that we won't, in the end, land on our skulls with our pockets empty and no jobs.

This puzzlement can be expected any time the economists start flinging their jargon around since, after all, economics isn't a science, and a lot of experts were wrong in 1929, and since.

Meanwhile, we'll have the British Economic crisis up for a good while. It won't be solved in a day or a week. We'll be hearing about that for months, particularly since we'll be involved in whatever the British do.

There's the question of whether the CIO Auto workers and the steel workers will go on strike. That decision certainly will have an effect on the economy, which is skidding a bit already.

But that isn't all. In Congress a house committee was to begin today an investigation into monopoly in this country. So we'll be hearing about that.

Then we'll have to sit through—before Congress quits this summer—debates in Congress on renewal of the reciprocal agreements act.

This seems certain to get Congressional approval, but not without a lot of palaver. Congress is away behind time on this one.

It was supposed to have been renewed before the date of the death, June 30. It had regularly been renewed every two or three years since 1934—but the senate didn't get around to it.

And when the senate gets through approving the North Atlantic pact—it's working on that now and seems sure to okay it and will then tackle the reciprocal trade renewal—it may take up the problem of voting money for arms for Europe, perhaps $1 billion.

Pacific Pact Dreams

Chiang Kai-Shek, Still Very Much In The Far East Picture, Is In The Philippines Talking Up An Anti-Communist Front; Cool Attitude By Americans

By JAMES D. WHITE
For the first time since 1943, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek has left Chinese soil.

This time the stated purpose is to talk over the Communist question in Asia with President Elpidio of the Philippines.

Accompanied by such aids as his publicity expert, Wang Shik-Chiek, the Gimo has flown into Northern Luzon from his island retreat on Formosa. An official source said Chiang and Quirino talked about forming a non-military Pacific front against Communism.

"The visit is another example of the Gimo's real if reduced importance. He operates in a kind of political sub-stratosphere. He has 'retired' as president of China, but not resigned. While no longer the acting titular head of the Chinese government, he remains for many reasons the No. 1 non-Communist leader in his country.

He is still the acknowledged head of the Kuomintang, the government party. This position entails the following:

The government—still the legally recognized government of China—is answerable to him through the party. So is the army so are the Navy and Air Force, which have cut off Red China's foreign trade by enforcing the closing of Red ports without calling what they have done a blockade.

"Retired" or not, Chiang still is firmly in the picture. When he called for American aid against the Communists last week he commanded widespread attention in the American press.

One thing he and Quirino talked about is the idea of a Pacific pact against Communism—to be underwritten by the United States. This would be a big step beyond the political alliance proposed by the Pacific front against Communism.

This idea has been in the heads of non-Communist Asiatic leaders ever since the Atlantic pact was announced. Quirino himself has discussed it, but he appears to have had in mind a kind of economic union. Chiang, whose armies have lost most of their American equipment to the Reds, would probably like to see a military defense arrangement which would give him more arms.

In any case the United States has been cool to the idea from the beginning. Even Prime Minister Nehru of India pointed out that Asia is too confused politically to make such a pact work now.

Nehru asked specifically who, for instance, would sign such a pact for a place like French Indo-China?—The French, or the Indo-Chinese Nationalists who have been in rebellion against French rule nearly four years?

that the city ordinance requiring property owners to clear their premises and vacant lots of tall grass and rank weed growth be strictly enforced. The city law provides a penalty for violating the grass and weed ordinance.

"We do not plan to work a hardship on anybody," Mayor Stafford said today, "but since the city ordinance does prohibit property owners from allowing their premises—occupied or vacant—to grow up in rank vegetation, it is the city administration's job to enforce the law. Rank vegetation forms a breeding place for mosquitoes and endangers the public health. We trust that property owners will cooperate with us in making Greenville a cleaner and healthier city."

Police will be instructed to enforce the grass and weed law, the mayor added.

Drive-In Movie Inspires Pastor

North Hollywood, Calif., July 11—(AP)—The Rev. Norman L. Hammer passed a drive-in theater one day and had an inspiration.

The fruit of his idea may be observed any summer Sunday at his Emmanuel Lutheran Church here. Yesterday, for example, some 180 members of his congregation drove 54 cars into the church parking lot. But instead of piling out and filling into pews, the folks just settled back in their autos. Whereupon Mr. Hammer, speaking over a microphone from a platform in the church patio, delivered for them a 45-minute sermon on "Judgment Just."

Strength FOR THE DAY SMOOTH SAILING Many fortunate people will spend their vacations on the ocean this year, enjoying a few days or weeks aboard an ocean liner. The summer is the most pleasant time for a voyage. The sea is smoother then, and the weather is good for sun-bathing, deck tennis, or just watching the fascinating variations of the sea and sky. Winter, with rain, winds, and storms is much less pleasant.

reporter, insurance or automobile salesman, every successful politician knows the value of contacts. Lawyers appreciate them too, but call them "clients." It is a lot easier to do business with personal acquaintances than with strangers. Governor Scott found that out a long time ago. None of the state capitol newsmen accept without reservations the governor's statement to effect his recent visit to Washington was just to chat with President Truman and get acquainted with some other big shots in the national administration. Almost certainly there was some more specific motive for the visit.

VALUABLE — However, there is no doubt of the long range value of the personal contacts established for future use. Governor Scott has manifested earnest zeal for better roads, extended electric power and telephone lines. These matters now loom large on the Washington scene. Bills pending in the congress would authorize federal aid for telephones to the rural electrification program. There is under consideration an eleven billion dollar appropriation for public roads. There is war between privately managed and government owned power developments, as well as jealousy between government agencies. All these things intimately affect North Carolina's progressive development.

GENERAL — Despite the governor's half-hearted denial, belief prevails among newsmen that he had some special items to discuss. His statement that conversations dealt with generalities only doesn't quite jibe with his known attitude and method of approach. But the general talks laid a good foundation for discussing specific cases as they arise.

GOOD OR BAD? — Whether this is good or bad depends upon the viewpoint. Governor Scott calls it closer co-operation for more rapid attainment of desired goals. He thinks it is good. A champion of private enterprise says the only way a little fellow can cooperate with a big one is to let the big 'un call the tune. He sees in the situation rapid approach to federal socialism, subversion of state sovereignty by federal authority, and he thinks it is bad. Good or bad fact is there is more intimate contact between the North Carolina state administration and Washington than for many years past.

WONT LEARN — You fellows don't learn much from experience do you? quipped a friend the other day. He was talking about the newspaper story emanating from Charlotte that President Truman had called Governor Scott to Washington to offer him the cabinet post as secretary of agriculture. He continued: Haven't you found out yet that nobody can follow the mental processes of Harry Truman or Kerr Scott? A good reporter can forecast business trends, or popular election results, even legislative action. There's where you've got a lot of folks to deal with. When you get down to just one man, and he is known to be erratic and unorthodox in method, you're stupid to try to outguess him. Maybe the guy has something there.

SETTLED — Anyhow, Governor Scott put quietus to the rumor. He told a press conference that he was elected to be governor for four years, had not even got started on his administration program, and did not intend to make any move toward a federal appointment "until the impeachment committee gets to work." That would seem to mean that except for some untoward incident beyond his control Governor Scott expects to let Lieut. Governor Lat Taylor continue his law practice at Wadesboro.

Boyle's Column By HAL BOYLE New York — (AP) — Osa Johnson, the first lady of the jungle, lives on Park Avenue now — and it makes her homesick for the serenity of Africa. "I like my jungles because I don't have any competition there," she laughed. "There I can wear khaki trousers and hunting boots and put my little gun on my shoulder and go out into the jungle and feel I am queen of all I survey. I can look up at the blue, blue sky and feel all Africa is mine." She said she was going back, too, for one last trek to the land whose wild life was filmed by her explorer husband, Martin Johnson, as she stood guard with a gun. Johnson was killed in a plane crash in California in 1937, and Osa

Somebody Told Me... By I. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR. Those who are particularly gifted at predicting the future say that some day the automobile will be practically replaced by the airplane for long-distance travel. Yesterday I was tossing this idea around in the empty space in my head and decided to visit the local airport to see how Greenville is progressing in the field of aviation.

The airport was given to the City of Greenville by Uncle Sam, with the stipulation that he can take it back in case of a national emergency. In turn, the city leased it to Greenville Aviation, Inc., which consists of Tommy Sellers, the manager, and Gene West, a silent partner. The estimated cost of constructing the airport has been set at one million dollars. The value has been increased even more by the addition of a hangar by the City of Greenville, making it possible to house 17 planes. Greenville Aviation operates five planes, one Aeronca four-passenger sedan and four two-passenger Aeronca Champions. These planes are used for instruction, charter trips and sightseeing. Fifteen students are currently enrolled in the flight school, which is the Greenville Aviation's greatest source of revenue. Charter trips, the sale of gasoline, and sightseeing trips rank in that order as secondary money-makers. Last month 58 transit planes landed at the Greenville Airport, over 50 per cent of which were from New York or Miami, stopping by for gas. When I arrived at the airport seven pilots were engaged in a spot-landing contest. Each one took off, circled the field, and attempted to land as close as possible to an east-west line from a north-to-south approach. Otis Forlines of Winterville won the contest by out-spotting Manager Tommy Sellers, John Stone, Carl Harris, Bob Corey, Luke Renshaw, and Orin Holmes. While circling the field with Tommy I noticed that "Welcome to Greenville" is printed on one of the runways in letters large enough to make them visible from 12,000 feet. Tommy named 23 licensed pilots who fly at the local airport: Wyatt Peaden, Orren Holmes, Bob Corey, Cletus Jackson, Hugh Stokes, Wesley Harvey, Jim Moye, Tom Webb, Roscoe Hauser, Frank Moseley, J. B. Joyner, Charles Lynwood Jr., Herbert Edwards, Lynwood Wells, Gene West, J. C. Galloway, Joe Penner, Lee Lupton, Perry Brown, Ray MacKenzie and Mrs. Jackie Tyson. This subject will be continued tomorrow. And I thank you.

Strength FOR THE DAY (Continued) Storms strengthen those who are ready for them. THE POLICE DEPARTMENT It has been rumored during the past week that certain members of the Greenville board of aldermen have included in their plans for the city a complete revamping of the local police force, with details calling for decreasing the force by from two to four officers, and naming former Pitt county sheriff, S. A. Whitehurst, as chief of police. While in the interest of efficiency there may be one or more members of the local police force who should be replaced, it seems to us that wholesale changes in the apparently well organized department would result in disorganization and poor law enforcement which may require several years for the city to overcome. The growth of Greenville during the past several years has required an increased police force to insure the proper control and prevention of crime, and the city surely needs as many policemen as are on the force at the present time. In considering the past records, we do not feel a decrease in the number of policemen in Greenville nor the naming of former Sheriff Whitehurst as chief of police will be in the best interest of Greenville. If there are improvements which can be made in the city departments to give the people of Greenville better service, we are in favor of them, but any actions along this line by the aldermen should be based on sound judgment and a thorough study of the particular situation.

was badly injured. "I have a secret valley," she said. "I can't tell you where it is. It has never been explored, but Martin and I always vowed we would go back. It's teeming with big game—lions, rhinos, elephants, buffalo—there's at least a million head of big game in that valley." She is planning an expedition consisting of two station wagons, six jeeps with trailers, and a helicopter. "I can flutter over in the helicopter and tickle the backs of elephants and ostriches. You should see the ostriches fan themselves with their plumes as they run. They make Sally Rand look like a sissy. I want to make a full length color film of wild life there. It's never been done. "Animals in zoos are out of their environment. They lose their color and become wishy-washy. But a wild zebra—he looks like black and white satin, sleek and fat and glossy." She has published nine books and is now writing four more for children, based on the life stories of her own animal pets. She is also completing a cookbook of exotic recipes, preparing for a lecture tour and negotiating a television contract. She has a library of 3,000,000 feet of film taken by her husband on their travels. Now 55, Osa is still as vivacious and energetic as the day she married Johnson at 16. "We did pretty well for a couple of kids who started from nothing," she smiled. Her six-room apartment overflows with souvenirs from her journeys. She writes at night under a shelf on which stands nine carved wooden heads from the Belgian Congo. "They give me inspiration," she said. The apartment walls are painted with African scenes against a background of soft blue. "There is a certain blue haze about the African hills you find nowhere else," she said. "The English who live there never say, 'I'm going out on safari!' They say, 'I'm going out into the blue.' "I wanted that blue on my walls. But it took me 27 paint jobs to get it." Osa's favorite hobbies are fishing and cooking, and she spends a lot of time in her kitchen. "I'll bet you," she said, "I'm the only girl on Park Avenue who bakes her own bread."

WASHINGTON LETTER

By JANE EADS Washington—You can help save a life even if you can't swim, the Red Cross Water Safety Service insists in a series of new posters designed to help reduce the nation's annual drowning toll of 30 persons daily. Last year close to 7,000 persons drowned in the U. S. You may have been one of the needlessly helpless onlookers at one of these tragedies. These are the ways the Red Cross says you can help—even if you yourself can't swim. When a bather is in trouble near a dock, float or side of a pool, you can: (1) Extend the upper part of your body over the water, lying flat on your stomach, grasp the wrist of the victim and slowly draw him to safety. (2) Extend a towel or shirt branch or pole to victim, draw him to safety, but be sure not to let him pull you in. (3) Stand on one end of a rope, throw life buoy beyond victim, using an underhanding draw, buoy into victim's grasp, pull slowly to safety. When a bather steps into deep water off-shore, you can wade into water until chest deep, incline your body toward shore, grasp the back of the victim's wrist and backing slowly, draw victim to safety. Or you can shove a board, plank or similar floating object into victim's grasp and help thus to bring him to safety. Also, the Red Cross says, you can row a boat or skiff to the victim. When you get to him turn the boat so he can grasp the stern, then row and tow to safety. If he is struggling, extend an oar to support him and draw him to the stern and then row to safety. Suppose you are in trouble yourself and you are a weak swimmer? You can play dead safe by not getting into an overloaded canoe and not sitting on the seat to paddle it. The safe thing to do is to limit the load and kneel for padding. If you do upset, use the canoe as a life preserver. You can hand-paddle it to safety. But do it slowly. Also remember that wood canoes and metal ones with good air tanks won't sink.

Churchmen Plan For Red Battle

Chichester, England, July 9—(AP)—Churchmen from 44 nations gathered in this ancient cathedral town today for a battle against communism and religious indifference. The Central Committee of the World Council of Churches opens a six-day conference here tonight. The churchmen will take stock of the churches' fight for life in Communist-dominated countries and plan a battle to "re-sell" Christianity against Marxism and lack of interest among many laymen. Conference sources said Dr. W. A. Visserst Hooft of the Netherlands, general secretary of the council, will reaffirm the council's opposition—voiced in its Amsterdam assembly last August—to anti-church pressures in East European countries under Soviet domination. # End Search For Mystery Vessel

Norfolk, Va., July 11—(AP)—The Coast Guard has discontinued its search for a mystery vessel reported burning and abandoned by its crew in the Atlantic southeast of Cape Hatteras.

Two planes and two cutters were ordered from the 20,000 square mile search area at nightfall yesterday. There was no comment from Coast Guard officials on the possibility that the SOS that touched off the search had been a hoax.

The cutter Mendota picked up the signal Saturday morning as she stood a watch off Bermuda.

The SOS—which failed to include the vessel's name, master's identity, and description—said the ship was fighting an engine room fire.

Minutes later a second call corrected the ship's location and said the crew was abandoning the vessel before uncontrollable flames.

No further messages came.

Edwards-Morton
Miss Ann Hardison Morton, daughter of Mrs. Jacob Claude Gaskins of Greenville and the late James Shepherd Morton, and Clifton Hugh Edwards, Jr., son of Mrs. Clifton Hugh Edwards of Greenville, and the late Mr. Edwards, were married on the afternoon of July 9 in the Memorial Baptist church. The Rev. R. E. Hardaway, pastor of the church, officiated.

Wedding music was given by Mrs. Karl V. Gilbert, organist, and Miss Allison Hearne and Major Donald Taylor, vocalists.

Given in marriage by Claude Gaskins, the bride wore a wedding gown of bridal satin designed with a basque bodice and bertha of imported rosepoint lace, and a full skirt with cathedral train. Her full-length veil of imported bridal illusion fell from a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of bride's roses centered with a white orchid and showered with lilies of the valley. Her ornaments were a string of her mother's pearls and a pearl crescent brooch, which belonged to the bridegroom's mother.

Mrs. Donald Taylor, cousin of the bride, was the matron of honor. She wore an imported German gown created by Claire de Oumner styled with a bodice of hand-made white silk lace and a skirt of moire taffeta, with short train. She wore a matching lace stole and gloves, and carried a colonial bouquet of California painted daisies.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Smith and Mrs. Tatal Warner Fearing of Williamston, cousin of the bride. They wore identical gowns of pink marquisette over pink taffeta, picture hats of shirred pink net interlaced with satin ribbons and matching ruffled mitts. They carried colonial bouquets of painted daisies in pastel shades.

Little Miss Mary Ellen Moore, cousin of the bridegroom, was the flower girl. She wore a gown of white net over pink taffeta and carried a miniature nosegay like that of the honor attendant.

Young Jacob Claude Gaskins, Jr., brother of the bride, was the ring-bearer. He wore a white suit and carried the ring on a white satin pillow.

Dr. T. Raymond Moore of Mount Holly, cousin of the bridegroom, was the best man. The ushers were William Phillip Moore, Jr., and J. B. Smith, cousins of the bridegroom and J. Knott Proctor, Jr., and Julian White, Jr.

The mother of the bride wore a gown of Nile green silk crepe, a hat of matching crepe and illusion, and a white orchid corsage. The mother of the bridegroom wore a blue chiffon gown, with pink accessories, and a pink orchid.

Immediately after the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception at the Country Club. Following the reception, the bridal couple left for a wedding trip through the Shenandoah Valley. Upon their return, they will make their home in Greenville.

For traveling, the bride wore a Handmacher suit, with matching natural linen and sandalwood accessories, and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Edwards was graduated from Greenville High School and is now attending East Carolina Teachers College.

On Friday night, following the rehearsal, Mrs. Edwards, the mother of the bridegroom, entertained the wedding party and families of the bride couple at her home, "Cliffside." At noon on their wedding day the bridal couple was entertained at a wedding breakfast given at the Country Club by Dr. and Mrs. B. D. Moore, Dr. and Mrs. R. T. Moore, and Mrs. George D. Vick, Jr.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Country Club by Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Claude Gaskins. The guests were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wilkerson and Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Gaskins, who introduced them to the receiving line.

Receiving were Mrs. Jacob Claude Gaskins, Mrs. C. H. Edwards, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Edwards, Jr., Major and Mrs. Donald Taylor, Mrs. Tatal Warner Fearing, Miss Mary Smith and Mrs. Karl Gilbert. Mrs. W. T. Phelps, maternal grandmother of the bride, presided at the register and Miss Mary Phelps invited the guests to the tea table where Mrs. B. D. Moore and Mrs. George Vick, aunts of the groom, served lime punch. They were assisted by Misses Ann Wilkerson and Rachel Lang who served mixed nuts, cakes and mints.

The club was decorated with a color note of green and white for the background. The mantels at either end were banked with magnolia leaves and on the mantels were arrangements of Magnolia leaves, white gladioli and white candles. The table was beautiful with a mareria cloth over pink and again the

Cancer Drive To Start; Free Clinics Planned

By CHESTER WALSH
Plans have been perfected for conducting the annual cancer drive in Greenville and Pitt county. Mrs. B. McKay Johnson is county commander. Dr. J. L. Winstead is chairman of the County Executive Committee. W. W. Speight is campaign manager, and W. H. Woodard president of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company, is treasurer.

Campaign headquarters are at the offices of the General Insurance Agency, 312 Evans street. Mrs. E. M. Gibbs is in charge of the office and will give information to those who enquire and distribute printed information concerning cancer.

Officials of the drive quote medical men as saying that early diagnosis of cancer permits a cure. Vital statistics reports show that 44 persons died in Pitt county of cancer last year.

A cancer clinic for several counties in this area will be held in the offices next to the Community Building in Kinston on Thursdays from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. Six physicians are available for diagnoses without cost to applicants. Six registered nurses are on duty there and six nurses' aides. The examinations are private. If a person has cancer symptoms he or she will be personally notified and advised to seek medical and surgical attention later on, a cancer specialist at Duke Hospital, Durham, will be available for persons with cancer symptoms.

Expenses of the clinics and examinations will be paid for by the State Cancer Society and the State Public Health Department.

Playground Activities

All playgrounds open promptly at 10 a. m. in Greenville. Beginning this week a special story time for little children has been scheduled for 10 a. m. to be followed at 10:30 by a song, half hour. If enough small children attend the story period this week it will be continued for the summer. Each morning a new story will be told and then a request time will be in order. Any favorite story a child has will be a welcome suggestion by the playground teachers. The song period will be for any children who attend and will be camp and novelty tunes.

Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 at Ocotanche Park the Tin Can Stilt Race will be conducted. The racers made their stilts from No. 2 cans and some heavy cord, a simple little device, but when the participant puts one foot on each can and begins to walk it becomes complicated to race on them.

Friday afternoon at N.Y.A. the inter-playground ping pong tournament will get underway. The best player in singles and the best in doubles from the four white playgrounds will compete.

This afternoon at Fleming Street playground the colored homeshow play will continue when Cooper Street pays a visit with their singles and doubles teams under twelve, between twelve and fifteen, and over fifteen. Last week the Fleming St. playground took the measure of the Evans Street group by winning the singles and doubles under twelve and over fifteen.

Beauty by Chrysler

The Beautiful Chrysler | Silver Anniversary Model

Beauty In Appearance! Every clean, lovely line has purpose and meaning. Beauty that is useful is the Chrysler idea. A striking line of chrome along the fenders may please your eye, but it's there to act as a rub rail. Behind each detail of Chrysler design there's a story of common sense and imagination in engineering.

Beauty In Comfort! A chair at home is beautiful if fine design gives it grace and comfort. Chrysler chair-height seats have this kind of beauty, too. Perfectly proportioned for comfort, they seat you at the proper height to see the road and to enjoy your drive. Comfort that has beauty through fine design—that's the secret of Chrysler engineering and the relaxing pleasure of driving a Chrysler.

Beauty In Performance! You know what we mean the moment you feel the smooth response of the great Spitfire High Compression engine. With Prestomatic Fluid Drive Transmission, driving is wonderfully easy. Start in third, a slight lift of your toe takes you into cruising range. You rarely touch the gear shift lever. A few minutes in this car gives you pleasure it would take a book to describe. Phone for a demonstration today.

Greenies Drop Both Week-End Tilts By One-Run Margin To Eagles, Bugs

Kinston Breaks Loose In Ninth For Two Runs And Victory; Goldsboro Wins 8-7

By BERT MOYE

Manager Pappy Williams' Greenville Greenies dropped both of their weekend tilts with a 2 to 1 loss to the Kinston Eagles Saturday night and the first in a two-game series with the Goldsboro Bugs by the score of 8 to 7.

The loss to the Eagles Saturday was their fifth of the season as against six wins. The win for the Bugs was their sixth win of the season over the Greenies as against five losses.

Art Mascarella lost a heart-breaker to the Kinston Eagles over in Kinston Saturday night by a score of 2 to 1. It was his second loss to the Eagles this season and his tenth since joining the Greenies. He has won five.

After holding the Eagles to three scattered hits in the first eight frames, in which only one man reached third base, the Eagles bunched together two hits, sided by a sacrifice and stolen base, pushed two runs to come from behind and win the game from the Greenies.

Manager Steve Collins started the frame by being issued a free pass to first base. Ray Rosenwinkle sacrificed him down to second and then Harry Soufas came through with a timely single to bring in Collins for the tying run. Soufas then stole second and R. W. Hepler came up to the plate to collect his second single of the game to bring home Soufas for the winning tally.

Greenville took the lead by scoring in the first frame, a margin which they held until the fatal ninth. Steve Denier led off with a walk, stole second, and went to third when Willie Mauney reached first on a fielder's choice, and came home when Manager Pappy Williams singled to bring him home.

Art Mascarella went the entire route for the Greenies and gave up only five hits. He walked three men, one of which scored for the tying run. He failed to strike out a man. R. W. Hepler, the Eagles' left fielder, got two singles in four trips to the plate to lead their attack.

Nick Turowicz, who went the route for the Eagles, gave up a total of only six hits, walked one man, and struck out three. Steve Denier with two singles in three trips to the plate led the attack for the Greenies.

Sunday's Game
The Greenville Greenies spotted the Goldsboro Goldbugs eight runs in the first four frames here yesterday afternoon, which proved enough for the Bugs to take an 8 to 7 win over the Greenies.

The Bugs scored three runs in the first frame when Rip Ryan hit the first ball pitched to him over the left field fence and then Clyde Whitener hit the second pitch off starter Junior Yohn for a homer in the same frame. Then Hedrick, who had walked, advanced to third on Katkaveck's single and Hudson's double brought him home.

The Bugs then came back in the third frame and scored four more runs, one of which was a homer by Ray Komaneky with a mate on board and another was a run by Katkaveck following this. A double by Hudson and Deaton's single gave the Bugs their fourth run of the frame.

What proved to be their winning run came in the fourth frame when Whitener singled, stole second and scored on Komaneky's single.

The Greenies were unable to score until the fourth inning when they shoved across two runs on two errors, sided by Pappy Williams' double. They scored a singleton in the seventh frame when Mustian reached first on a Bug error, advanced to second when Denier walked, and Mustian doubled to bring home Mustian.

They rallied for four runs in the eighth—just one shy of a tie—when they garnered five hits, one a double, sided by two errors and two passed balls. It was during this frame that the Greenies chased two Bug hurlers from the mound.

Junior Yohn started on the mound for the Greenies and after hurling two and one-third frames in which he gave up seven hits—good for 22 total bases—six runs, two strikeouts and one walk, was taken out and replaced by Don Purdy who went the next two and two-thirds frames in which he gave up five hits, two runs and one walk. Vernon Mustian finished out the game, allowing four hits and no runs.

During the contest the Greenies executed three beautiful double plays to stave off a bigger score by the Bugs. The Bugs made only one twin killing. Nine Greenies were left stranded on the bases while the Bugs had eight men left on.

The Greenies travel to Goldsboro tonight to meet the Bugs in the second game of the two-game series between the two clubs.

Top Navy Hitter
Annapolis, Md.—(AP)—Calhoun Killeen led the U.S. Naval Academy hitters for the season with a .449 batting mark. He made 31 hits during 69 trips to the plate in 19 games. At first base he handled 148 chances without an error.

er, is one of the hardest working men on the Greenville club and has snatched more than one game away from the Greenies' opponents with his fine relief work. He is a steady worker and willing at all times to go into a game, no matter whether he has pitched a full game the night before or not. He also is one of the top pitchers in the league at the present time with a record of eight wins and three losses, and has seen action in a total of 25 games for the Greenies this season more than any other CPL hurler to date.

For the position of manager of this mythical all-star team, my choice is "unanimous" in this opinion, that being Joe Antolick of the Tarboro Athletics. Joe is one of the friendliest fellows to be found on the local diamond. He has been able to take a bunch of boys (the average age of the Tarboro roster being 20 years of age), and put on the field a team full of hustle and has installed into them plenty of fight and spirit. At the present time he has the most improved team in the league and they certainly have been black eyes to the Greenies during the current season.

You don't need to leave the wheel to make a cargo cruiser of the Traveler. Simply fold down the rear seat, and there's your room, steel-shod hold...big enough for a double bed at vacation-time! "Mr. Miggie" says that on long trips the 123 1/2" wheelbase is wonderful. He never suffers from 'short car fatigue'.

How Kaiser's exclusive new idea gave the Migliorisi family "2 cars" for only $2088

Says Henry J. Kaiser, Chairman, Kaiser-Fraser Corp.: "Our purpose has always been to make the sort of cars the typical American family wants and needs. That's why we designed and built our new Kaiser Traveler. It is the answer to the 2-car problem of busy, thrifty folks who don't like the bother and expense of maintaining two different kinds of cars. I hope you treat your family to the thrilling experience of a Kaiser Traveler demonstration real soon."

Joseph Migliorisi, New York thread salesman, gets his Traveler ready for a 137-mile delivery run. Mr. Migliorisi, known in business as "Mr. Miggie", loads 80 pound cartons into the Traveler's 130 cu. ft. cargo hold, (with room for 3 passengers). ## BORN of the STORM

By Sidney B. Carter

Chapter 7
Priscilla wiped the tears from her eyes and went slowly down the hall to her bedroom. If things got worse, she thought stubbornly, it might be a good idea to marry Kenneth. Having solved that problem with the easy resilience of the very young, Priscilla turned off the light and promptly fell asleep.

Kenneth, she soon found out, could not be depended on to show up regularly for dates, as Raymond and Bob did. It seemed that his work kept him out of town a good deal. He took trucks on long interstate hauls and whether it was the company's fault, or Kenneth's own, his schedule seemed to be very irregular. And yet, his popping up unexpectedly was rather exciting.

To Priscilla's relief, her mother did not refer again to the argument over Kenneth. However, in order to avoid any further unpleasantness, Priscilla met him outside whenever she could, which was usually on week-ends. Kenneth continued to beg her to marry him and even began threatening, more or less jokingly, to go away somewhere if she didn't.

"If you want me to stay, honey," he said one day, half-serious, half-teasing, "show it by marrying me. Oh, yes, I know your answer. Wait till you graduate from business school."

One day Priscilla got home to find the house deserted. She ran up to her room; removed most of her clothes; and, thinking herself alone in the house, she went through the hall to the bathroom. The unexpected sound of a footstep behind her made her start with fear. The voice she heard was James', but with a certain warning thickness in it that only served to deepen her fear.

"It's just me," he said. "Just decided to come home early. Just decided to stop in for a little drink and come home and see how I'll Priscilla is." To Priscilla's horror she felt his hand on her bare shoulder. She tried to hurry into the bathroom.

"James," she said as calmly as she could, "will you please turn around so that I can go to my room and get my negligee?" She had grasped a towel and was trying to cover herself, but he wouldn't let her.

"Why, honey," he said, his words slurring with passion as well as liquor, "you don't have to be so bashful with poor old James. But, if you insist," he released her with an elaborate gesture. Priscilla turned quickly and tried to hurry past him, but he whirled and caught her in his arms. Priscilla fought desperately, but drunk as he was, he held her strongly, tightly against him, babbling to her. Priscilla felt waves of nausea rising in her stomach. She lost her head and began to scream.

"Get off your high horse," James kept saying. "Give James a little kiss."

Priscilla fought him impotently. "You crazy fool," she screamed in her fright, "you get away from me."

I'll tell Lorraine. I'll tell Kenneth." She scarcely knew what she was saying.

James laughed so hard, he almost lost his grip on Priscilla, but not quite. "You'll tell," he said. "That's good! Lorraine's not gonna believe you and Ken wouldn't be so crazy 'bout you if he knew 'bout your little affair with Dennis Drummond." He had difficulty saying "Drummond" and his close grasp on Priscilla's soft body slipped ever so slightly. Priscilla swung her free hand into his face with as much power behind it as she could muster. At last she was free. James stood there looking dazed, staring at something or someone in back of her.

Priscilla whirled, not bothering to cover herself with the towel this time, and, starting in a rush for her bedroom, ran full tilt into her sister. Lorraine's expression was a furious study.

"You get out of this house, Priscilla," said Lorraine in a strangled voice. "I hate you. Get out of here."

Priscilla pulled the towel around her and stood her ground. "I haven't done anything wrong," she said, although she didn't expect her statement to be believed. James, meanwhile, contented himself with looking punitively at Lorraine and cowering behind Priscilla.

"But I haven't..." Priscilla began.

"Don't say you haven't... anything," said Lorraine, her voice ringing. "Can you deny that you stayed home this afternoon to be with my husband? Can you? Of course not."

"I do deny it," said Priscilla.

"I..." Lorraine did not let her finish. She lunged forward suddenly and with all the weight of her small, stocky body behind her hand, she gave her sister a stinging slap across the face. Priscilla stood there, stunned and sickened with the cheapness of the entire scene, stunned too by the venom she saw in Lorraine's expression. That wasn't just for this time, she thought. That was for all the times she's wanted to slap me. She's always hated me.

By this time Mr. and Mrs. Hayden had reached the upper hallway. Mr. Hayden, tense and grave, took Lorraine by the arm. "What's the trouble?" he asked. If he was startled by Priscilla's state of undress and James' obvious drunkenness, he did not show it.

"I found them here," Lorraine blubbered. "Look at Priscilla. Just look at her and she was putting her arms around James." Priscilla, at this, felt hysteria rising within her. If she started to laugh, they would all think her crazy. Mr. Hayden looked over Lorraine's shoulder into Priscilla's eyes and then, as if he read the truth there and was satisfied, he turned his attention to soothing his older daughter.

"It's probably not so bad as it looked," he said comfortingly.

Lorraine took the clean handkerchief he was handing her and blew her nose. "Well," she sniffed, "James always praises her and thinks more of her than he does of me." Mr. Hayden talked to all of them for a few minutes, quietly, calmly, until finally Priscilla slipped away to her room, shaking and weak after such a dreadful scene. Lorraine was led off by her mother and James was dispatched to sober himself up with a cold shower.

For Priscilla, life at home was more unbearable than ever after that. James was in disgrace for a few days, but Mrs. Hayden and Lorraine at length seemed to have reasoned that whatever had happened must have been Priscilla's fault. Priscilla was not surprised. It was the conclusion her past experience had taught her to expect. Her father, however, had formed a different opinion. Although they never discussed it, she knew that he could envision what had happened as well as if he had been there to see it. And, forever after that, so far as Priscilla could notice, her father never looked directly at James again.

Trapeze Artist Falls To Death

Agawam, Mass., July 8.—(AP)—A trapeze artist, who performed under the name of Eddy Polo, was killed last night in a 60-foot plunge from a tight wire at Riverside amusement park.

The operator reported that the man was the former star of the silent movies and carnival stunt man. But the real Eddy Polo was located in Los Angeles—very much alive. He explained that he had allowed the dead man to use his name after he learned he was an actor "trying to struggle along." That led to the wrong identification.

Approximately 200 Take Part In Reading Studies

Approximately 200 teachers from various sections of North Carolina and students at East Carolina Teachers College have been present daily at a conference and workshop on testing and the teaching of reading conducted at the college here during the past week. The closing session is in progress today, when testing of individual students and of groups is being demonstrated.

Under the direction of Dr. Hazel Taylor, director of the Testing Bureau at East Carolina, those present have considered various problems and difficulties involved in the teaching of reading. The Harvard University reading films, designed to improve reading skills, were shown and explained at the opening session Tuesday, July 5. At the same time Dr. Taylor explained the program in remedial reading now in operation at East Carolina Teachers College. Instruments used in developing reading skills and analyzing the difficulties of students were exhibited Wednesday, and their use demonstrated.

Teachers in the Training School on the college campus staged a series of reading lessons Thursday, in which pupils attending the primary and grammar grades there participated. Those conducting the demonstration lessons were Christine Johnston, Elisabeth Hyman, Katherine Murray, and Mrs. Elsie Eagan. Marjorie Dew, assistant librarian at East Carolina, and students of library science arranged as part of the conference a display of books on remedial reading which were on exhibit during the week. Miss Dew and her students were hostesses Wednesday afternoon at a tea in the drawing rooms of the Flanagan building, at which those present for the conference were guests.

He gave notice of appeal to Superior court.

A truck driven by Linwood Ragland, 31, Negro, 1216 Clark Street, on highway 264, several miles east of Grimesland Sunday about midnight, got out of control, swerved to the other side of the highway, traveled a couple hundred yards along the shoulder of the road, landing in a clump of woods, a State Highway patrolman reported today. Ragland was painfully injured and the truck was considerably damaged.

A passenger, Booker T. Ragland, 22, Negro, of Greenville, received minor injuries. The patrolman said Andrew Jones, Negro, of Greenville, received spine injuries and was taken to the hospital in a paralyzed condition. Sam Stafford, 21, Negro, also a passenger, received minor injuries.

The officers quoted William Nelson, 26, Negro, of near Vanceboro, driver of the parked car as saying he saw Dennis' car coming without lights and dodged it to escape injury.

Dennis received cuts on a leg and chest injuries. Margie Edwards, 15 of Greenville, a passenger in Dennis' car, was taken to Pitt General hospital with undetermined injuries. The patrolmen were continuing their investigation.

State Patrolmen Cpl. John Laws and Dick Chadwick commented on numerous wrecks on highways in the area during the weekend were all due to mechanical defects.
