May Ask House To Decide Issue Of Arms Aid Cut

Growing Demands For 50 Per Cent Slash In Project Face Committee

Washington, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Chairman Kee (WVa) may ask the House foreign affairs committee to check to the full House the hot dispute over cutting the size of the $1,450,000,000 arms for Europe program.

Faced by growing demands for a 50 per cent slash in the project, Kee said he may urge the committee to okay the program as it stands so the issue can be fought out from scratch on the House floor.

Committee Republicans and Democrats alike are fighting for a much smaller program. They have strong support in both the House and the Senate.

"Unless the amount is substantially cut there's an awful rough road ahead" for the bill, said Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio) a leading Republican on the committee.

Rep. Richards (D-SC) ranking Democratic member of the group, agreed.

"I still think it should be cut down," he told newsmen. "I doubt the wisdom of committing ourselves to spend this much when we know they can't use it all before Congress meets again."

The question of cost also was cited by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), top Senate Republican in foreign affairs matters.

The administration yesterday submitted a new bill dropping the much criticized provision giving to President Truman discretion to send American arms to practically any nation he wished.

Vandenberg told reporters that move leaves the program's size as one of the principal remaining problems. Another, he said, is whether the administration is planning only a stop-gap plan or a substitute for the mutual defense plan under the North Atlantic treaty.

Despite mounting criticism of the program's cost, Kee said he is optimistic.

He added that he expects the committee to approve the bill by next Thursday with the requested amount intact.

But he emphasized, "we still can't tell how strong opposition to the amount is going to be."

Most members of Kee's committee agree that an arms program should be approved promptly to bulwark western Europe against communist aggression.

Believes Dewey Should Not Try To Run Again

Washington, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The man Thomas E. Dewey picked for chairman of the GOP National Committee last year says he thinks the New York governor should not run for President again.

Rep. Hugh D. Scott, Jr., of Pennsylvania, expressed this opinion in a radio interview last night a short time after he quit the party chairmanship.

Asked why he thinks so, Scott mentioned the successive defeats Dewey suffered. He said the Republicans should choose a candidate far among the "bright and shining new faces" in the party. Scott said these include Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey, Gov. Val Peterson of Nebraska, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota and now president of the University of Pennsylvania.

Congress Still Divided On Policy For Asiatics

U. S. White Paper Meets Volly Of Criticism From Lawmakers; Agree Something Must Be Done, But Program Lacking

Washington, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Congress found itself about as divided as China today on what to do about stopping the advance of communism in Asia.

The State Department's white paper explaining why Chiang Kai Shek's government failed to keep the communists from gobbling up most of China was greeted on Capitol Hill by a volley of criticism from lawmakers who called it a confession of American failure also.

It was defended, on the other hand, as a realistic review of a situation which just about everybody here agrees is bad.

Among the members of Congress there was a meeting of minds on one point—something ought to be done to keep all of China from being overrun by supporters of the red banner, who might then threaten China neighbors.

But there was no agreement on a program.

Senator Bridgers (R-NH), long-time critic of the administration's policies toward Asia, offered a three-point program.

"I. Pat the nationalist government on the back instead of kicking it in the face; 2. give assurance that this country doesn't intend to recognize the communist government of China; 3. furnish small arms and ammunition to the anti-communist forces still willing to fight."

Senator Magnuson (D-Wash.), a member of the armed services committee, said a great deal still can be done.

Pitt Towns Split $8,656 Profit In ABC Allocations

Allocations Result Of Action In Spring By County Commissioners

Pitt County towns shared in the county ABC profits to the extent of $8,656.79 for the first six months of this year ending June 30 according to figures revealed by ABC Chairman R. H. McLawhorn, yesterday.

The allocations to the various towns in the county came as a result of action during the spring by the board of commissioners. The board adopted a resolution recommending that the ABC board set aside 20 per cent of all profits for law enforcement and to divide among the towns and cities of the county that have ABC stores the remainder of the 20 per cent after deducting the amount spent by the board for county-wide enforcement purposes.

The allocations to the various towns was to be on the basis of the percentage of the county profits earned by the stores in the respective towns. There are no ABC stores in Winterville because the deeds to the property occupied by the town specify that no alcohol beverages may be sold on such property. Since Winterville had no store on which to base its percentage of profit the commissioners specified that Winterville was to receive three per cent of the unused county enforcement fund of 20 per cent each year.

The action of the commissioners was retroactive to January 1 this year but final figures were not available until ABC books for the six months period ending the fiscal year were audited. In the interim, some of the towns were receiving specified amounts each month for law enforcement and these amounts were deducted from each town's allotment in making final settlement for the six months period.

Under the allocations based on the audit the towns benefited to the following extent during the six months period:

European Chiefs To Hold Session

First Meeting of Council of Europe Slat-ed Monday

Paris, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Leading statesmen of western Europe will assemble at Strasbourg Monday to consider proposals designed to give concrete expression to the centuries-old dream of European unity.

This inaugural session of the council of Europe will give its attention to practical problems having to do with public works, patents and social security. One major proposal expected to be considered calls for the creation of an international European passport.

It is the hope of many of western Europe's leaders that the decisions taken will constitute a stable advance toward a distant goal—a real union of states of Europe similar to America's federal system of government.

American dollars already have broken the ground for the building of continental unity. For more than a year the organization for European economic cooperation (OEEC), an administrative agency of the Marshall plan, has been making practical decisions in its 19 member areas.

As yet no contact has been made between the OEEC and the council of Europe. This may be done after the council gets organized next week.

The new president is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Garris of Route 1, Farmville. A member of the Farmville Junior Club, she has completed 27 projects in six years, was runner-up in the state better methods electric contest in 1948, and winner in the state dairy foods demonstration contest in 1948. She is a member of the State Honor Club, having been initiated earlier this week.

Miss Garris has attended 4-H Club Week for three successive years. She also attended both National Club Camp and National Club Congress last year.

Highway Deaths Overshadow Toll By Atom Bombs

Chicago, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Atom bombs killed some 110,000 persons in Japan four years ago but since the atomic age began, the National Safety Council says, accidents have caused 400,000 deaths in the United States.

The comparison was made by Ned H. Dearborn, council president, in the National Safety News.

He said the accidental death toll in other countries of the world cannot be estimated, but if the world rate is near the American, about 6,000,000 persons have been killed by accidents in the four years of the atomic era.

Foreign Aid Bill Nears Final Approval After Long Debate

Washington, Aug. 6.—(AP)—A multi-billion dollar foreign aid bill was set today for swift passage after running a gauntlet of sharp Senate debate for days. The final vote is expected Monday.

The only obstacle still confronting the money bill—and not a very big one—is an amendment by Senator Kem (R-Mo) to bar recovery aid to any nation in the future that nationalizes a basic industry.

The move is aimed particularly at Britain's socialization program. Senate leaders see no difficulty ahead in brushing aside the Kem proposal. It was ruled out of order late yesterday on the ground that it contained policy-making legislation of Senate rules.

Kem appealed the decision by Senator Tydings (D-Md), who was presiding. But leaders are confident they can beat this move.

Once past that hurdle, the Senate is expected to approve the measure which has been tied up in a confused wrangle over Senate rules. As it now stands, the bill contains:

- (1) $3,628,300,000 to carry the economic cooperation administration to July 1, 1950.
(2) $150,000,000 for ECA loans.

There was some surprise late yesterday over the lack of opposition to a proposal designed to halt the destruction or dismantling of 3665 industrial plants in Germany.

The Senate approved by voice vote an amendment which in effect directs ECA chief Paul Hoffman to reopen negotiations with Britain and France on the plant problem.

When an athletic scholarship for a college football player is set at $500 a year, it sounds like high priced subsidizing for a football team, but a breakdown of school expenses for students released today by E. E. Rawl, chairman of the ECTC athletic scholarship drive shows where the money goes.

Greenville businessmen this week set about to raise a $10,000 fund to provide 20 athletic scholarships for the college to use during the school year beginning in September.

The scholarship drive is a follow-up drive to the $25,000 which Greenville citizens raised last winter to build a new 3,000-seat stadium for East Carolina Teachers College.

In explaining where the scholarship money will go, Rawl set forth the following breakdown of a student's expenses at East Carolina Teachers College:

Want Ad Paves The Way To Altar

He said he placed the ad because he wanted to be married in a double ceremony with a friend, Orville Montmore, who is to be wed to Della Baker Saturday. (AP Wirephoto).

Trieste, Free Territory, Aug. 6.—(AP)—A Moscow radio broadcast heard here yesterday called for the liquidation of Yugoslav Premier Marshal Tito. The broadcast said Yugoslav emigrants to the Soviet Union appealed for cooperation to get rid of Tito "in the name of human principles."

The Italian news agency Astra said recently the Moscow radio had reported an anti-Tito underground active in Yugoslavia. Tito was expelled from the Soviet-dominated Cominform (Communist International Information Bureau) last year.

A spokesman said that because of the 1,054-page length of the White Paper, China's official reaction could not be expected for several days, could not be expected for several days, could not be expected for several days.

Even as he spoke, events in the field served to underline one point in the White Paper—that the Nationalist army "did not have to be beaten; they disintegrated."

Canton, in some ways in fact, was more preoccupied with the defections on the front to the north than it was with the White Paper.

The whole defense system for south China was thrown out of gear when Gen. Chen-Jen, Deputy commander on that front, went over to the Reds with possibly 30,000 of his 90,000 troops.

That handed over to the Reds the fortress of Changsha, 365 miles north of Canton.

LONG COOLING-OFF
Washington, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Despite an urgent appeal from President Truman, a long "cooling off period" still appeared in store today for the controversial federal aid-to-education bill.

House leaders indicated that nothing will be done this year on the red-hot issue.

Washington, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman has issued a new statement on federal aid to education and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has disagreed with the church leader's stand, termed the message "clarifying and fair."

The statements followed a telephone call from the Cardinal to the wife of the late President. The Cardinal said he acted to clear up "many regrettable misunderstandings" concerning the position of the Roman Catholic Church on the issue.

In his statement, issued simultaneously last night with one by Mrs. Roosevelt, the New York Archbishop said his church seeks public funds solely for "auxiliary services" of parochial schools.

"We are not asking for general support of religious schools," he said.

Mrs. Roosevelt, whom the Cardinal had called "anti-Catholic" for her opposition to federal aid to sectarian schools, said the Cardinal had telephoned her and "asked me to go over a statement which he would like to release."

"I have read it," she added, "and think it a clarifying and fair statement."

The Cardinal said the Catholic Church does not expect, nor ask public funds for school construction maintenance and teaching services.

But he said parochial school children should share with public school children in funds for transportation school lunches, health programs and non-religious textbooks.

Washington, Aug. 6.—(AP)—This country doesn't know what to do next. That's about the best that can be said of the United States policy toward China now.

The communists are in control there. This country doesn't like it. But what this country should do about it is something that hasn't been figured out yet. It's up a tree. That's what you have left when you cut through a river of words that came out of the State Department yesterday in a 1,054-page report, called a "White Paper," explaining why things went wrong in China.

Summed up, the paper says: 1. The Chinese communists have taken over most of the country and can take over all of it, any time they want to.

2. The only opposition to the communists—the Nationalist government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek—was rotten and it's not worth a dime anymore.

3. This government had helped Chiang's outfit but had washed his hands of the Chiang crew now. And that polishes off the last real block inside China to the communists.

The White Paper says more: We were in there pitching for Chiang, and he didn't know what to do with it. He was bullheaded, and he blew the help we gave, and messed up his armies. And instead of reforming his rotten government into one the Chinese people could have faith in and rally round, he let it stay rotten. The government and his armies melted away and the communists took over.

That's a pretty gloomy picture in the White Paper, when you remember it's a great boon to Russia to have a communist China by its side and a great blow to this country since a huge chunk of friendly Asia is lost to us.

In fact, Secretary of State Acheson told a news conference when the White Paper was released that the Chinese communists are Russian stooges, ready to sneeze when Russia feels a draft.

But Acheson tried to throw a cherry note into the China disaster by saying he's not "defeatist" about it at all. Indeed, he went further and said:

The U.S. is willing to help the Chinese people establish true independence. But the 394 question—How?—was something he didn't answer.

All he could do was list five principles for this country's attitude toward China. They said, in effect, we'd like to help the Chinese people get rid of Moscow's Chinese lieutenants. And—he said the problem of how to do it is being studied. But the Chinese communists, if

Ecuador's Quake Death Toll Now 500 Known Dead

Washington, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Five hundred persons died in an earthquake which destroyed 70 per cent of the homes in Ambato, Ecuador, yesterday, the Ecuadorian embassy said it was informed in an official bulletin from its government today.

Dr. Alfonso Moscoso, minister counselor at the embassy, gave this account based on the bulletin received by radio:

Ambato, a small city which is the center of the textile industry in the highlands of Ecuador, suffered greatest damage in the quake that struck a number of mountain cities and towns yesterday.

Five hundred persons died in Ambato alone.

Seventy per cent of its homes were destroyed and the remaining thirty per cent were made uninhabitable.

Other smaller towns nearby were shaken but did not suffer such severe damage.

Galo Plaza, the president of the republic, has gone to Ambato and the army and air force are helping in rescue and relief work. Medical supplies are being flown into the area.

Although reports from other areas were still vague, Ambato appeared to be hardest hit. The Ambato broadcaster said a third of the city was destroyed.

Troops were mobilized to guard and to put down looting that was reported going on in the ruins of stores and homes.

Thousands in the area were panic stricken. Many spent the night out doors, fearing a recurrence of the earth tremors.

The governor of Chimborazo province reported numerous dead and many injured in the provincial capital, Riobamba. The city, with a population of 20,000, is the mission-south of Quito.

The nearby town of Guano was reported almost destroyed with an undetermined number of dead and injured.

A report from Guayaquil said one coach of a passenger train was overturned near Lulisa.

Korea Has War Fever

Southern Korean Officials Now Openly Talk Of Invading Soviet-Sponsored North; Communist-Held Area Already Causing Border Trouble; Jap Stigma

By JAMES D. WHITE

Korea this week upheld its growing reputation as a likely spot for the birth of World War III.

In southern Korea, officials of the American-sponsored government reached the stage of talking openly about invading the Soviet-sponsored north before the north beats them to the punch.

These officials still would not let correspondents attribute such statements to them personally, but (AP) correspondent William R. Moore radioed from Seoul:

"Some very significant figures in the government think the time must come soon when this infant republic must invade the Communist-ruled north as a self-defense measure."

Moore said moderate Koreans advised against this. But the talk of beating the north to the punch obviously has increased recently. A few months ago in Tokyo, American officials back from Korea told me it existed, but was not very open.

Later this week Moore claimed that the northerners had invaded the southern part of the Ongjin peninsula, which is intersected by the 38th separate countries, each is recognized by its respective sponsor in the cold war and by some of each sponsor's allies.

This little war at Ongjin has been going on since late May, when a southern expedition by sea drove the northerners out. The northerners kept coming back, however, and did so in force this week.

The southern chief of staff revealed that this last show of northern force occurred after his troops had occupied two strong points just over the border in the north. He said these were lost in the fighting, which cost about 200 southern lives.

There long seems to have been sentiment in the north to "reunify" Korea (which all Koreans want, one way or another) but to do it by conquering the south. The growth of a rival sentiment in the south has speeded up since the southern army acquired the arms left behind by departing U. S. occupation troops early this summer. Soviet troops reportedly left the north some months earlier, after building and arming a northern Korean army.

But there's something else worth noting about the southern army. It contains thousands of young Koreans who bore arms under Japan. Just how many is not known, but I am told by some Koreans that there may be as many as 30,000—roughly a third of President Rhee's present land force, which he wants to quadruple.

The story is that there were about 100,000 young workers who joined or were drafted into the Japanese army. After the war ended, they

Joint Hostesses Honor Miss Smith

Mrs. Jenny Tripp, Mrs. Faye Harris and Miss Mildred Jones were hostesses Wednesday night at the home of Miss Jones at a miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Hazel Smith, bride-elect.

The room, in which the guests were received, was decorated with ivy and white tapers. In the corner was a table covered with a cut-work linen table cloth where the gifts were displayed.

Upon arrival Miss Smith was presented with a corsage.

On the dining room table was an imported lace table cloth entered with a punch bowl flanked by white tapers entwined with ivy in silver holders.

Lime ice punch, green and white mints, peanuts, jelly roll and varied kinds of canapés were served by candle light.

Miss Smith was remembered with many lovely gifts by her guests.

Music Features Kiwanis Club's Supper Meeting

By CHESTER WALSH
At the Kiwanis Club's supper meeting last night, Ed E. Rawl, chairman of the ECTC Athletic Scholarship Fund Committee, made an encouraging report.

He stated that already scholarships are being donated in the drive to raise $10,000 for 20 scholarships for worthy students. Rawl reminded that 4,000 students have passed through East Carolina Teachers College since it was established. The committee hopes to raise the money before school opens.

Rawl said Football Coach Bill Dole has some promising material lined up and that the stadium is completed and the lights are being installed.

James W. Brewer had charge of the program. He presented the "Four Cs," Ed Conway, Kervin Conway and J. A. Conway, Jr., singers, and Christine Smith as accompanist. The talented musicians made a hit with the songs the Kiwanians like to hear.

The Kiwanis Board of Directors held a short meeting after supper and appointed a committee to make plans for the club to sponsor a baseball game at Guy Smith Stadium in the near future.

Mrs. Ray Tyson, an active Kiwanian for many years, made an impressive short speech in which she urged the Kiwanis and other service clubs to back up the Greenville ball club and encourage larger attendance.

Billy Sugg and R. E. Collins were special guests of the club.

Pitt Farmers Seek Improved Tobacco Curing Method

Install New Type Of Controlled Ventilation For Tobacco Barns

Since that summer's day 97 years ago when Eli and Elisha Slade, two Pearson county farmers, dried tobacco leaves with a wood fire and thus began the production of flue-cured bright leaf tobacco, farmers from Virginia to Florida have been striving to find better and more economical methods of curing their valuable tobacco leaves for the auction markets.

This year four Pitt county farmers in cooperation with Assistant County Agent Sam J. Weeks are carrying out curing experiments which may mean saving of thousands of dollars to tobacco farmers of this area in the future.

The four farmers, W. Ray McLawhorn of Ayden, J. C. Whitehurst of Ayden, and H. G. Moyer and L. E. Turnage of the Langs crossroads community, have installed in their tobacco barns a new type of controlled ventilation which is designed to more exactly regulate the moisture in the curing tobacco and cut fuel cost in curing.

Research Program Begun 1946

Until 1935 wood was the principal fuel used in firing flue-cured tobacco barns, but as the woods of the eastern areas began to diminish, farmers turned to the oil and coal burners for tobacco barns.

In 1946, an extensive curing research program was begun by personnel at Oxford agricultural experiment station. The tobacco specialists began their research with a coal stoker-equipped 16 x 16 foot barn which had been properly insulated at the top and on the sides to prevent the escape of heat through the walls and roof of the barn.

In this barn they installed at the top a vent which could be opened and shut to control the ventilation in the barn. By making changes in the vent at the top of the barn, the Oxford experimenters found that the heat in the barn could be controlled according to the moisture content of the tobacco. Data kept on the curing of tobacco in this barn showed that the coal required to cure out the barn was reduced from 2,404 pounds to 820 pounds—a two-thirds decrease in the amount of fuel required to cure a barn of tobacco. The time required for curing the barn of tobacco was reduced from 11½ hours to 95 1-12 hours.

Experiments Proved Practical

In 1947 further curing experiments were carried on at the station using both coal and oil as fuel, and comparable savings were shown in the barns which were properly insulated and ventilated.

In 1948 the personnel at the Oxford experiment station took their curing ideas to the field on a farm basis, and tested their method of curing on farms in various sections of the state. The farm tests showed continued favorable results in fuel and time savings in curing tobacco.

Carried to County Level

This year curing demonstrations adapting the principals used in the Oxford experiments are being carried out on a county level in the tobacco producing sections of North Carolina.

The four farmers who are carrying on the experiments in Pitt county each installed the Oxford type ventilator in the ridge of their barns, and two of the farmers insulated the top and sides of their barns. One farmer insulated only the top of his barn, and the fourth installed only the vent and used no insulation in the barn.

The Oxford Type Ventilator

The Oxford type ventilator is constructed by building doors which will open and shut in the ridge of the barn. The doors are operated from the floor of the barn by levers or cables, and can be opened or closed as is needed. By using this type of ventilation, the entire barn may be closed as soon as the danger of the tobacco sponging has passed. With the barn closed tightly after the sponging stage is passed, considerable fuel can be saved in the curing process.

When curing, the ridge vents are left entirely open until the leaves are partially dry. Approximately 35 per cent of the moisture evaporates from the tobacco leaves in the yellowing stage of the curing. As soon as the leaf web is dry the ridge vents are closed and remain closed until the curing is complete.

Moisture Closely Checked

In order to keep a constant check of the exact percentage of moisture in the barn, the farmers conducting the experiments use an instrument called a hygrometer. This consists of a wet-bulb and a dry-bulb thermometer, and a reading at any given time will tell the farmer what per cent of moisture there is in the barn. Thus he can properly regulate the vents of the barn.

Curing Cost $1.52 Per 100 Sticks

H. G. Moyer who lives near Langs crossroads installed an Oxford type ventilator in a 30 x 20 foot barn and insulated the sides and top of the barn with fiber-glass material. Equipping the barn in this manner cost Moyer approximately $150.

So far this season he has cured three barns of tobacco in the barn with an average curing time of 102 hours, 20 minutes per barn. Each barn of tobacco has averaged 923 sticks, and the curing has taken an average of 117.4 gallons of oil for each of the three barns of tobacco. The fuel consumption has cost an average of $14.08 per barn, or an average cost of $1.52 per 100 sticks for curing the three barns of tobacco. The fuel consumption of the barn has averaged 12.7 gallons per 100 sticks of tobacco.

J. C. Whitehurst's Barn

J. C. Whitehurst who has a farm near Ayden installed the Oxford type ventilator in a 18x16 foot barn and insulated the top and sides of the barn with insulation type insulation which consist of moisture proof paper sprayed with powdered aluminum. This silver-colored insulation material serves to seal the barn and also to reflect the heat from the oil burners. Whitehurst spent approximately $70 fixing the barn for controlled ventilated curing.

W. Ray McLawhorn's Barn

W. Ray McLawhorn, who also lives near Ayden, installed the ridge ventilator in a 16 x 16 foot barn and insulated the roof and gable ends of his barn with Kimsul type insulation. The body of the barn which was constructed of heavy logs was left uninsulated. The cost of fixing the barn was approximately $30.

This season he has cured three barns of tobacco in the barn, averaging 440 sticks per barn. An average of 81 gallons of oil has been necessary for curing the three barns of tobacco for an average fuel cost of $9.72 per barn. Average curing time in the barn has been 97 hours, 30 minutes. The average oil consumption for the barn has been 18.2 gallons per 100 sticks of tobacco at an average cost of $2.20 per 100 sticks.

L. E. Turnage's Barn

L. E. Turnage of the Langs crossroads community installed only the Oxford type ventilator in one of his tobacco barns to determine what results would be obtained from curing with the ventilators in an uninsulated barn. Installing the insulators cost Turnage approximately $15.

He has had two curings in his barn this summer which averaged 98 hours, 30 minutes with an average of 549 sticks of tobacco to the barn. The barn used an average of 105 gallons of oil per curing for an average fuel cost of $12.63 per curing. The average oil consumption of the barn has been 19.1 gallons per 100 sticks of tobacco or an average fuel cost of $2.30 per 100 sticks.

Pitt Has Lower Curing Cost

Each of the four barns used in the experiments this year in Pitt county have shown an average curing cost which has been considerably under the state-wide average which was secured in the state field survey conducted in 1947 by the personnel of the Oxford experiment station.

Using the Same Type of Equipment

Which the Pitt county farmers are using, the state average fuel consumption was 22.3 gallons of oil per 100 sticks of tobacco, or an average curing cost of $2.36 per 100 sticks of tobacco.

The average curing cost in the experiments conducted in Pitt county this year range from an average of $1.52 per 100 sticks of tobacco to $2.30 per 100 sticks of tobacco. The overall average for the four ventilated controlled barns in Pitt county this year show a fuel consumption of 16.1 gallons of oil per 100 sticks of tobacco, and an average curing cost of $1.92 per 100 sticks of tobacco.

Good Tobacco Obtained

In addition to cutting the cost of curing operations, the new curing techniques which are being used by these four Pitt county farmers are showing good results in the product of tobacco which is taken from the barns when the tobacco has been cured.

The Farmers have Found that Tobacco Cured by the New Techniques is equally as good as the tobacco which is cured in the uninsulated barns with old types of insulators. Both Insulation and Ventilation Needed.

Assistant Pitt county agent Sam J. Weeks who helped the farmers fix their barns for the new curing techniques and who has been compiling the information from the new type curing commented, "The results from these demonstrations indicate the curing techniques used by the research workers at the Oxford agricultural experiment station are applicable to farming conditions in Pitt county. It is also shown that considerable amounts of fuel can be saved if farmers will make improvements in their barns.

"It is realized from results of these demonstrations that neither insulation nor ventilation alone is the complete answer to fuel economy, but where the combination has been used good results in fuel savings have been secured."

May Be Widely Used in 1950

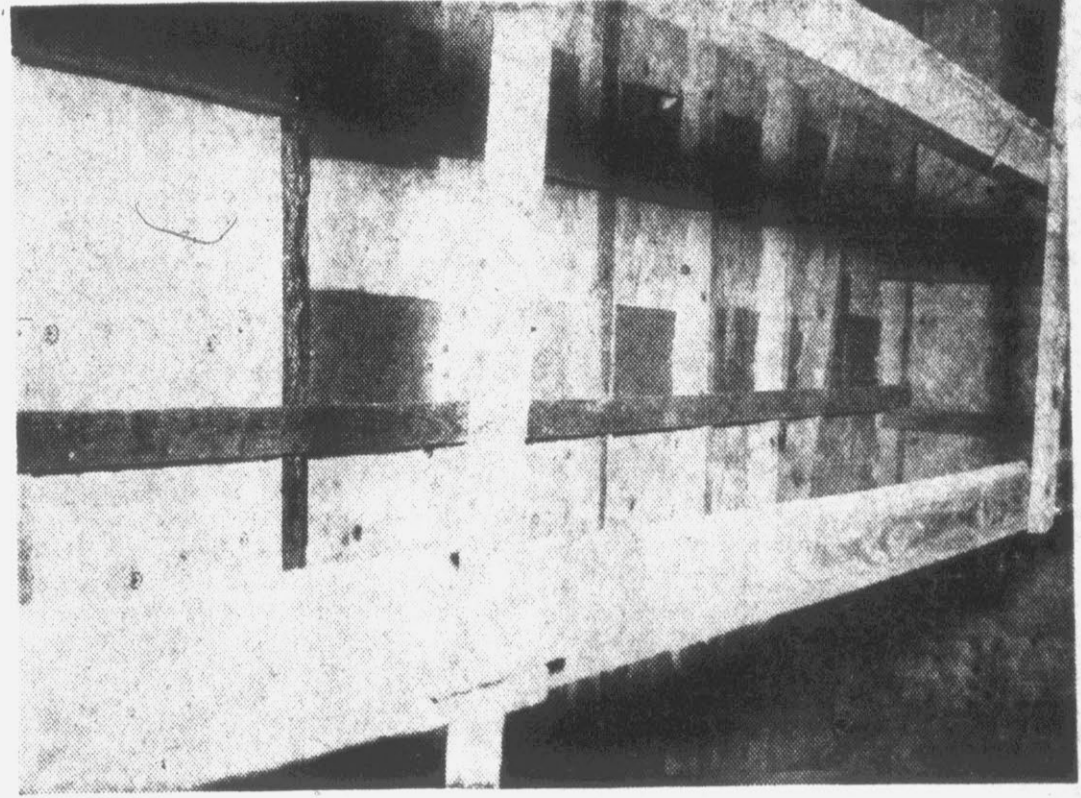

Weeks pointed out that the most important factors in the curing technique are a tight barn and controlled ventilation through the barn. As for the quality of the leaf cured by this technique, Weeks said, "Quality of tobacco is just as good from these cures as from other barns on the same farms where other curing methods have been used."

Although many farmers still are skeptical about the new curing technique, many of the tobacco growers in the various sections of Pitt county, and some from surrounding counties have visited the tobacco barns in Pitt where the new methods are being employed.

The local farm agent's office has had many inquiries about the new curing techniques, and indications from farmers in this area point to the probability that many tobacco barns will be insulated and equipped with the new type ventilators before the curing season rolls around again.

The inside of this tobacco barn on H. G. Moyer's farm near Langs Cross Roads has been insulated with a fiber-glass insulation material. The material holds the heat in the barn, and the Oxford type ventilators in the top of the barn control the circulation of the heat in the barn and cut curing time and amount of fuel needed to cure out a barn of tobacco. The dark pieces of cardboard tacked to the insulation prevent the tobacco sticks from punching holes in the insulation.

Assistant Pitt county agent Sam J. Weeks (left) checks over the records of an experiment barn with Farmer Ray McLawhorn near Ayden. McLawhorn's barn was one of four in Pitt county which this year was equipped with special ventilators and insulation to get actual data on a new method of curing bright leaf tobacco.

It may look odd from this angle, but this ridge ventilator in the top of a tobacco barn is one of the type which is fast changing the method of tobacco curing. The hinged trap door in the top of the barn can be opened and closed from the barn floor by the lever arms attached. Rough insulation material tacked to the top of the barn presents the escape of heat from the barn and speeds up the curing process.

From the outside this tobacco barn on L. E. Turnage's farm near Langs Crossroads looks about like any other barn in Pitt county, but on the inside it has been equipped with a new type ventilator which controls the moisture and heat in the barn, and greatly reduces the amount of fuel needed to cure a barn of tobacco.

50,000-Mile Motor Trip By Aged Couple Is 'Old Story'

Bronxville, N. Y. Aug. 5.—The next time your husband grouches about being too tired to take the family for a Sunday drive, tell him about Herbert Hover.

Hover is 81. His wife, Meta, is 72. They are now on a 50,000-mile auto trip.

Some people have grown blasé about the invention of the motor car. Not the Hovers. In fact, their lives read like an ad for the automobile manufacturers.

They have been taking long car trips since 1907. In 42 years, they have toured more than 1,000,000 miles. In 1908, they became the first husband and wife team to cross the continent by car—a trip which would have made less durable souls swear off autos for life. But, at the first opportunity, the Hovers still reach for the car keys.

"It's the best thing we know," he says, "for getting away from business worries, for a change of scene and thought, for your health."

Last month the Hovers started a journey which will keep them away from their home in Pass-a-Grille, Fla., about two years. On the first leg, they came up to the Gramaton hotel in Bronxville and now they're driving through New England. The remaining itinerary calls for leisurely but extensive touring of western United States, Canada, Mexico, the West Indies and South America.

In 1908, Hover's doctor told him to get away from his business (it was oil development then; now it's real estate). He was suffering from nervous exhaustion and decided on a long auto trip.

Carrying 300 feet of rope, double block and tackle, shovel, crowbar, ax, saw, compass, many extra tires, sparkplugs and five-gallon tins of gasoline, the Hovers left their home in a small town in Washington in a two-cylinder Maxwell. In five months of actual driving—the total elapsed time was far greater—they made their way down to Tijuana, Mexico, and then across the country to New York.

"There was absolutely no traffic problem," Hover recalled with a grin. But, he also recalls, there were paved roads, filling stations, tow trucks, auto clubs, or auto mechanics as such. The gasoline tins were bought at grocery and hardware stores. Blacksmiths were enlisted to repairs.

The roads were rocky, bumpy muddy, dusty, sometimes covered with fallen trees. Hover says they frequently had to leave the alleged highways and travel by compass. Sparkplugs had to be cleaned every day. There were as many as 10 punctures a day in the old fabric tires and thin rubber tubes, he says.

"In Oregon," Hover remembers, the mud was two feet deep. It took us three weeks to cover 24 miles, with the help of a team of horses and five men. In the sand dunes of Idaho, we spent a whole day covering 150 feet. We put canvas stripes under the wheels to get traction. We'd ride two or three feet at a time and then move up the strips.

"We got two miles or 20 miles to the gallon in those days, depending on road conditions."

When they reached New York, the Hovers decided to go on to Europe. They shipped their car ahead and boarded the liner Republic. The ship sank after a collision off Nantucket lightship but the Hovers and other passengers were rescued. Back in New York, the Hovers boarded another liner, made it this time to Europe and then toured the continent by auto.

At 81, Hover is a tall energetic man whose wife still calls him "sweetie pie." Mrs. Hover is small and wispy and he calls her "Bossy." They've been married 54 years. Their only child, a son, died in the flu epidemic of 1918.

Mrs. Hover no longer drives herself. Even after 42 years of riding with her husband, she admits she still can't resist some backseat driving from the front seat. "But he's a very good driver," she quickly adds.

Hover says he never had a real accident. He likes to cover no more than 200 miles a day, at between 50 and 60 m. p. h.

The Hovers don't expect to make long trips after this one. They said they'll just limit themselves to occasional short runs of 2,000 or 4,000 miles each.

Report Beaten Nurse Still In Poor Condition

Columbia, S. C. Aug. 5.—(AP)—The condition of Ann Pierce, 35-year-old nurse beaten over the face and head with a pistol butt, continued critical today.

Hospital attendants reported she took a turn for the worse yesterday and that more blood transfusions will be given her.

A charge of assault and battery with intent to kill has been filed against Russell B. Maxey, 45, University of South Carolina associate engineering professor.

Should Miss Pierce die, the charge will be murder, Sheriff T. Alex Heise has said.

Maxey has been in jail since his arrest at Miss Pierce's suburban home at an early hour Wednesday.

RETURN TO SCENE

San Francisco, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Harry Bridges, head of the CIO Longshore Union, had passage on the morning flight to Honolulu today. His trip to Hawaii was linked with the strike which has tied up ports there since May 1.

How To Avoid The Perils Of Infantile Paralysis

THE MENACE of polio is again acute in many parts of the United States. Here, Geraldine Childs poses to illustrate some of the do's and don'ts for avoiding the plague. These are things that each person can watch for himself.

DON'T GET CHILLED—Sitting in front of a fan when over-heated is bad. Remove wet garments at once. Keep warm clothes handy in case of need.

KEEP CLEAN—Garbage cans should be covered tightly. If disposal facilities are lacking garbage should be burned. Keep food tightly covered and safe from flies and insects which might carry virus.

DON'T SWIM IN DIRTY—Polluted water and places marked "no swimming" should be especially avoided. It is safest to use only swimming pools and public pools declared safe by health officials.

KEEP OUT OF CROWDS—Tennis is one of the sports which does not involve close contact with other people. It is wise to stop playing before you get overtired. The injunction to avoid fatigue and crowds applies to work, although it is more difficult to adjust work schedules.

Coast Guards Cool Off At Lonely Lighthouses

Miami, Fla.—(AP)—One of the coolest jobs in the south these sweltering days is tending the lights off the Florida keys. A score of coast guardsmen work on five reef lighthouses spaced at strategic intervals right out in the ocean—and they like it.

The powerful lights, visible 16 miles, warn vessels of a treacherous shallow ledge running from south of Miami almost to Key West—a ledge which once echoed to the cries of wreckers.

Each reef lighthouse is built on eight iron pilings and is completely surrounded by water. The men have twin-decked circular living quarters about one-third the way up the structure. An enclosed circular stairway leads to the light at the top. All the windows open on the ocean. The men's cots have blankets on them, and the blankets are used too, while people ashore lie in puddles of perspiration.

But Commander John R. Stewart, chief of the Aids to Navigation Section of the Seventh Coast Guard District, says it's not all cool breeze and relaxation.

"The men have plenty of hard work keeping the lights shipshape," he explains. "They are on duty 28 days and then off nine. That means there are only three men at work at a time."

The commander, who was born in Plymouth, Ohio, and lived in Dayton for many years, says there are 21 attended lights in his district.

"There are also seven so-called reef lights which are not attended."

Coast guardsmen from Miami and Key West check the automatic operations of these lights every two or three months.

Strength FOR THE DAY. GREATEST OF VIRTUES. If there is one teaching which above all others stands out with prominence in the New Testament, it is that God regards a willingness on the part of men to forgive one another the greatest of virtues. If we were constructing a system of ethics we might not put forgiveness first on the list of duties. Anyone of us could name a number of things which would certainly come with forgiveness for first place on our list. But undoubtedly in the sight of God, the willingness to forgive faults in others constitutes the greatest of virtues, and the unwillingness to forgive, the most despicable of vices. People sometimes declare that they have intellectual difficulty in reciting the Apostles' Creed. But do they not encounter moral difficulty when in reciting the Lord's Prayer they come to the petition, "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us"? What this really means is, "Lord do not forgive my many sins unless I in perfect sincerity forgive all those who sin and have sinned against me." If you want to stay on the side of the angels, then do not neglect to keep your life wholesome and refreshed by a continuous willingness to forgive in others their faults and trespasses.

BLOODSHED BOXSCORE. Perhaps your attention has been occasionally directed to the "boxscore" on fatalities and injuries from automobile accidents in North Carolina. It does not make for pleasant reading when you stop and think that those black little figures represent mangled flesh, shattered bones and broken hearts. One disadvantage with bare statistics is that they do not bring home to the casual reader that if their own death or injury in a traffic accident were to occur, all of the grief and pain felt by their family or themselves would be expressed in print by the adding of only one more unit to the boxscore. Each unit in that black table of death and injury represents the same sum of suffering, and there are literally thousands of them. A careful driver is as likely to be involved in a tragedy as the careless or drunken motorist; for in spite of all precautions, the good driver is still the potential target of his death-dealing brethren. Ordinary driving care does not seem to be enough. If one wishes to boost his percentage of safety on the highway, it appears he must consider every other driver on the road as being irresponsible and unpredictable; and by driving with this unflattering thought in mind one's chances of survival should go up.

Around Capitol Square. By LYNN NISBET. DIDN'T WORK--It has been learned that Horace Edwards, who ran a poor third in Virginia's four-way race for governor, patterned his campaign on the model set by Kerr Scott in North Carolina last year, but with much less satisfactory results. Some of Edwards' campaign workers came to North Carolina to find out how Scott operated, and one or two of the who were active in Scott headquarters last spring visited Richmond to coach the Edwards staff. Now both Virginians and Tar Heels are trying to figure out why the similar methods didn't work in the Old Dominion.

REASONS--There was a good deal of similarity in surface conditions. Edwards, like Scott, had been substantial beneficiary of the dominant political organization; and like Scott he made a vigorous "anti-machine" appeal to the voters. There were four candidates in each state (six in North Carolina but the votes for Boyd and Stanley were inconsequential.) Scott ran a very close second in the first primary and won in the second. Edwards ran a poor third and in Virginia there is no provision for runoff--the high man takes the nomination. Significant and perhaps chief reason for the different results was Virginia has a cohesive and well organized "machine" which backed the winner, while North Carolina has not for many years had a very compact political machine on state level. Another very important difference lies in personality of the candidates. Edwards lacked the personal appeal which got Scott a great many votes and John Battle, the winner, apparently had more personal following than Charles M. Johnson had here. This appeal, plus potency of the Byrd machine rendered the methods employed by Edwards far less effective than they were for Scott.

Somebody Told Me... By I. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR. Wife Rachel and I have spells of sitting around and theorizing on subjects that are very general in nature. Usually this sort of thing gets us nowhere, but occasionally we hit upon some interesting conclusion. The subject last night was college degrees and their significance. First off we agreed that in many cases obtaining a college degree is more a sign of character than intelligence. The student who is fortunate enough to have more than his share of gray matter can slide through college with a minimum of effort. In his case, however, many students are ten per cent brains and ninety per cent ambition. This type of student has to fight the books all the way, and has too much ambition to fall an inch by the wayside. Having a strong character is what brings him through. This chain of thought led us away from the college campus, where we agreed that the self-educated man puts the college man in the shade almost every time. The reason is simple: The self-educated man is the governor appoints more. In fact, only the governor, the lieutenant governor and the attorney general are elected there. The governor appoints the secretary of state, treasurer, auditor and the several other officials which Tar Heels elect. The state government in Virginia also has more control over local county and city officials than is the case in North Carolina. MEDICAL CARE--More young men and women are taking advantage of the student loan fund administered by the Medical Care Commission than had been anticipated. The general assembly set up a revolving fund of $50,000 to lend students studying medicine, dentistry, pharmacy and nursing. Loans are limited to $900 a year, maximum $3,200 for any student in medicine and dentistry, less for pharmacy and nursing. Applications have so far exceeded expectations that the commission has asked the governor and council of state to allow at least another hundred thousand dollars from the contingency and emergency fund.

Boyle's Column. New York--(AP)--Every year or so a man opens his morning mail and finds a pleasant surprise--or a real opportunity. That's how lucky I am today. I've got a chance to take a free ride to Mars! Each day I get all sorts of odd invitations. One day somebody wants me to go over to the Waldorf-Astoria to attend a cocktail party for a new tractor. Another day an opportunity comes to be a judge in a contest to "pick the most beautiful pigeon in America." It turned out to be a complete waste of time--all the pigeons had feathers. But this is the first time anybody ever offered me a hitch-hike ride to Mars. I would be suspicious that somebody was just pulling my leg except for one thing--the man who made the offer said he had already been there himself. So it must be the 24-karat McCoy. The invitation came in a letter from a gentleman in Missouri, and his first name isn't Harry. "I have just come back from Mars, and I had a wonderful trip," he wrote. He explained he wanted me to accompany him on his second trip, because he wished the people of earth to have a word picture of life on Mars. He said that as a professional writer I would be able to do this better than he. The voyage certainly sounded attractive as he outlined it. "We will be gone only a few

WASHINGTON LETTER. By JANE KADS. Washington--Even the primitive desert regions of Arabia are getting help to what is going on in this country through the State Department's Voice of America shortwave broadcasts. Robert Ferris, American vice consul at Aden, Arabia, reports how effectively outside news is penetrating the lonely isolated areas of the world. Mr. Ferris recently made a trip up into the hinterlands with the commandant of the Aden Government Guards. He was introduced to several big-wigs, called "sharifs" who govern the outlying districts. After the usual formalities were over, one of these, Sherif Awadh Bin Ahmed, completely surprised the American vice consul by remarking: "If Mr. Ferris happens to be empowered to take applications for participation in President Truman's Point Four program, I am ready to sign." Sherif Awadh Bin Ahmed went on to tell Mr. Ferris that his youngest son, now enrolled in the Aden-Yemen Protectorate college for sons of chieftains, "is receptive" to studying in the United States under an educational exchange program. Mr. Ferris wondered, he said, how is this lonely faraway spot, where direct communication with the outside world is practically a physical impossibility, where most of the natives have no curiosity or desire to know what's going on, these men should be so familiar with developments of this nature. He soon found out, for after a late evening meal, Sherif Ahmed had a servant set up a portable radio, powered by a dry cell battery, the serial long strand of wire strung between two poles driven into the desert sands. "That evening foreign language broadcasts came in clearly, and the whole camp paused to listen," Mr. Ferris said in his report to the State Department. "Sherif Ahmed stated that every evening the few radios in the area were ritually tuned to these wave lengths and listeners eagerly took in the broadcasts." The Voice of America is now broadcasting in 20 languages, some 26 broadcast hours a day, to virtually every corner of the world and behind all iron curtain countries. The American short-wave radio service carries news, commentary and educational programs to other countries in an effort to give people everywhere a full and clear picture of America and to correct impressions of the United States such as are being given by Russia and other Communist-dominated countries.

Identify Bandit By Tattoo Clue. New York, Aug. 6--(AP)--A tattoo on his right arm was the clue that led to the arrest yesterday of Irving Katzenbogen, sought for seven months as the leader of an eastern holdup gang. The 32-year-old ex-convict had his face altered by plastic surgery, police said, but his identity was betrayed by a tattoo of two hearts, and the words, "true love to mother," on his arm. Police said Katzenbogen admitted his identity after he was stopped for questioning. Two companions, Abraham Spernick, 39, and Henry Miller, 26, also were arrested. All of them were living in Brooklyn. Police said Katzenbogen was head of a band that had taken $100,000 at gunpoint in a series of holdups here, in New Jersey and Connecticut. He also is wanted in Miami, Fla., where he jumped bail last winter pending an appeal on a conviction of carrying a gun and burglar's tools, police said.

There were some things he wanted—and he needed money to buy them. What's wrong with that?

Nothing wrong with that. We all want many things that cost money. But most of us learned long ago the difference between earning and stealing. . . this boy hasn't! Oh, he may understand that difference in terms of method. But he doesn't understand it in terms of moral principle.

And even a prison sentence will probably not teach him the truth he could have learned as a child in the Church.

Wise parents, begin immediately to give your children the priceless gift of religious training in the Church!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Pappy's Homer Wins Eighth Straight For Greenville

Harrison Hurls 4-Hit Game As Rocky Mount Loses 2-1

Big Crowd Thrills To Tight Defensive Play By Greensies When The Chips Were Down

By BERT MOYE
 Manager Pappy Williams' home run over the scoreboard in the fourth frame—his eighth of the season—provided the Greensies with their winning run as they edged a Rocky Mount Leafs 2 to 1 over the Smith Stadium last night at Guy Smith Stadium.

The win for the Greensies was their eighth straight victory and the 11th in a row over their Nash-Edgecombe rivals.

The Greensies had scored a run in the second frame for the other marker in the game on four successive hits. Pappy Williams singled and was caught stealing second for the first out. Willie Mauney singled, stole second, Varney singled with Mauney taking third and then Paul Strausser singled into left field to bring in Mauney.

The Leafs scored their only run in the sixth frame when John Lifsey walked and Jim Reges hit into center field and on the relay from centerfield John Tepedino threw wild to third base with Lifsey scoring on the error.

Bobby Harrison on the mound for the Greensies, held the Leafs to four lone singles, struck out eight, and walked four as he registered his seventh win of the season and his second over the Leafs. Jim Reges, the Leafs' leftfielder, collected two of the four singles given up by Harrison.

Lefty Cole Jacobs went the route for the Leafs and gave up a total of eight hits including two doubles and a homer. He failed to walk a single man and struck out four. It was Jacobs' second loss to the Greensies.

Pappy Williams with a homer and a double and Willie Mauney with a double and a single paced the eight-hit attack off Jacobs.

The large crowd was treated to thrill after thrill by the great defensive work of the local club, but was really brought to their feet in the sixth frame when Pepper Martin drove a ball into deep right field and Dick Pileas made a beautiful one hand running catch of the ball to "rob" him of what would have been a hit for extra bases and also another score for the Leafs.

The Greensies travel to Rocky Mount tonight to play the Leafs in a return game and then go to Roanoke Rapids Sunday for the first of a two-game series with the Jays. The second game will be played at Guy Smith Stadium here on Monday night.

Cass Clicks... by Pap

It took a blow to the pocketbook, the most sensitive spot on any professional baseball player, to make Cass Michaels a great player.

Beginning in 1944 Michaels went along doing a workmanlike job around second base for the Chicago White Sox. It wasn't exactly the sort of job that was expected of a player of his talents and potentialities, but it was a good job. Cass seemed satisfied, and he was prosperous enough to show signs of contentment—especially in the region of waistline. A bulging waistline is no asset to a second baseman. General Manager Frank Lane thought last winter when he sent Michaels a contract indicating a substantial cut in salary. To make this matter even more pointed Lane refused to reconsider the offer until Cass did something about the spare-tire he was developing around his midriff.

In training camp, it was a new Michaels who hustled around second base for the White Sox. Lane was willing to give him more money, but he was determined to make Cass earn it. With a bride of a year and new-born baby to feed Cass had the inspiration he needed. From the rise of the curtain on opening day, Michaels has played the best ball of his career. He played so well that he was voted a spot in the starting line-up of the American League All-Stars. For all the years of service he has put in with the White Sox, Cass is only 23, and he has at last come through in the style expected of a player of his talent. Perhaps Lane was a bit rough on Cass, but right now Michaels is happy he was shucked into his senser.

Talbert, Mulloy In Match Today

South Orange, N. J., Aug. 6.—(AP)—It was top seeded Billy Talbert of New York vs fourth seeded Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., today in the semi-finals of the eastern grass courts singles championships.

Winner of this match will meet Art Larsen, eighth seeded San Francisco, tomorrow in the title match at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club.

Larsen scored one of the biggest upsets of the tourney yesterday when he whipped pint sized Felisto Ampon, giant killer rom the Philippines.

It took Larsen five gruelling sets to humble the mighty midget, 10-8, 5-7, 1-6, 6-3, 6-1. Larsen's ability to dominate the net and his uncanny placement of shots was too much for Ampon who had beaten third seeded Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and top seeded foreign star Eric Sturges of South Africa previously.

Doris Hart of Jacksonville, Fla., and Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio, will meet in the finals of the women's singles tomorrow.

Frame Golf Sticks

New York.—(AP)—The driver and putter used by Babe Ruth when he played at the Bayside Golf Club on Long Island, will be framed and hung in the clubhouse, says Walter Grego, manager of the links and close friend and golf tutor of the late Babe.

The rest of the clubs, which Babe left at Bayside when his illness forced him to give up the game have been given to diamond star Johnny Mize at the request of Mrs. Ruth.

Girl Is Champ In Women's Golf

Chicago, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Marlene Bauer, 15, pretty Los Angeles high school sophomore, held the women's western junior golf championship today.

The Los Angeles Miss defeated Pat Leith of Elgin, Ill., 6 and 4, in the 18 hole finals yesterday at the Onwentsia Country Club in suburban Lake Forest. She has at her best, shooting four under women's par for the 14 holes of the match.

Savold To Wait For Title Bout

London, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Lee Savold of Englewood, N.J., will have to wait at least until Sept. 20 for a chance to win the British version of the world heavyweight title from Bruce Woodcock.

Originally scheduled for Sept. 6 the bout was postponed yesterday because of injuries received by Woodcock in a truck accident Thursday. Promoter Jack Solomons set the Sept. 20 date as tentative, depending on Woodcock's condition.

All games next week will be played at Third Street Park, with Senior and Middle League games being scheduled for 9:30 a. m. and Junior and Mite league games in the afternoon at 2:30.

College All-Stars Start Secret Split-T Course

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 6.—(AP)—The all-star's head coach said, "Also tell them we will have a few plays from the regular T and that we know exactly which men we'll put out on the flanks to give us pass receivers."

Wilkinson would give no indication of what will be his starting line-up against the Eagles beyond saying, "The men who give us the most will be in the lineup."

The Eagles, 1948 champions of the National football League, are working out daily at their training camp near Grand Rapids, Mich.

Wilkinson's squad includes such standouts as Clyde Scott, Arkansas halfback, John Rauch Georgia, Stan Heath, Nevada, and Harper Davis of Mississippi State. In a full scale scrimmage Bob Curry, Michigan State fullback, and Gene Canada, Arkansas end, were impressive along with Joe Geri, Georgia back, who starred in running and plunging.

Twelve Home Games Scheduled In Brand-New Football Stadium

Twelve home football games for the East Carolina Teachers College and the Greenville high school Phantoms have been scheduled for this fall in the new 3,000 seat stadium at ECTC.

The high school games will be played under the lights of the stadium on Friday nights and the college games will be played on Saturday nights. The $25,000 stadium, which is practically completed, was built with funds which were solicited by Greenville businessmen last winter and turned over to the college.

Another drive for $10,000 to provide 20 athletic scholarships for the college was begun last Wednesday night by the same businessmen at a "Kick off" dinner meeting in the college dining room. Ed E. Rawl who was chairman of the stadium fund committee also heads the scholarship drive committee.

The sale of season ticket books to the college home games was announced this week by Dr. N. M. Jorgensen, athletic director at ECTC. The season ticket books will be for reserve seats, and will be sold for $6 a set. The tickets will be good for the five home games which the Pirates will play in Greenville.

Admission to the college games at the gate will be $2 per game, Jorgensen said.

The ECTC football schedule for 1949 is:
 Sept. 17—Cherry Point here.
 Sept. 24—Lenoir Rhyne here.

Kramer's Return To '48 Form May Be Big Flag Race Factor

By JAC KHAND
 Associated Press Sports Writer

Jack Kramer's return to 1948 form with a six-hit shutout for Boston may be the most important development in the American League race since Joe DiMaggio rejoined the New York Yankees.

Failure of his brilliant Jack to measure up to his brilliant 18-5 record of last year almost ruined the Red Sox in early season. Kramer lost six in a row until he finally broke the streak with relief help, July 24.

When Kramer cooled off the Tigers, 9-0, he became the sixth straight Boston starter to go the route. Manager Joe McCarthy now has gone through an entire regular staff of Maurice McDermott, Mel arnell, Chuck Stobbs, Ellis Kinder, Joe Dobson and Kramer without calling on the bullpen. In fact he has relieved in only two of the last 12 games.

Just as DiMaggio's return bolstered the league leading Yanks in late June, Kramer could make the difference between a pennant and an also ran to the Red Sox. Dom DiMaggio contributed his bit with a double, hitting in his 32nd straight game. Vern Stephens bashed his 26th homer.

Arrival of the St. Louis Browns proved to be just the tonic the faltering Yanks needed. Casey Stengel's gang broke loose with their roughest batting attacks in weeks, sweeping a doubleheader, 10-3 and 10-5.

They backed up Ed Lopat's efficient pitching with a 13-hit outburst that included homers by Tommy Henrich and Joe DiMaggio in the opener. It was Lopat's 10th victory.

Rookie Duane Pillette finally hung up his first big league victory with relief help from Joe Page who pitched the last four innings of the second game. The attack included Charley Keller's second homer and Yogi Berra's 14th, with the bases loaded.

Although Cleveland whipped Philadelphia, 3-2, in a night game, the Tribe dropped back three full games behind the Yanks. Boston is 51-2 off the pace.

The Indians cashed in four infield errors for two unearned runs as Mike Garcia with help from Al Benton bested Alex Kellner.

Mickey Haefner, fired by Washington for "indifferent performance" a month ago, returned with the Chicago White Sox to whip the Senators, his first win in his new uniform. The little lefty went all the way, allowing only seven hits Luke Appling, Sox vet, tied Rabbit Maraville's major league record by playing shortstop in 2,153 games.

Carolina Sales Wins By 6-To-3 Musial Hits .588 Average In Brooklyn's Home Park

By FRANK ECK
 AP Newfeatures Sports Editor

Brooklyn, N. Y.—You can sum up the National League pennant race this way: Brooklyn vs. Musial.

If the Dodgers can stop Stan (The Man) Musial they have a good chance to win the National League flag. Musial is hitting .588 in Ebbets Field this season.

His slugging average at the home of the Bums is 1.147, based on 39 total bases for 34 official trips to the plate.

In his last two games here the St. Louis Cardinal outfielder slashed out seven hits in nine trips to the plate, and five of them were for extra bases to account for eight runs.

Even in the All-Star game, Musial led a one-man attack on the Ebbets Field fences, getting a triple and two singles in four trips to drive home two runs for the National League.

The Dodgers still have three games to play with the Red Birds in Ebbets Field, starting on Aug. 21. They wind up the 22-game season series with three games in Sportsman's Park, St. Louis, Sept. 21 and 22.

Maybe by that time the Dodger pitchers will learn to respect Musial. The one solution left for Brooklyn vs. Musial is the base on balls.

Here's what that man has done against the Dodgers this year:

They Still Argue 1837 U. S. Loan For 26 States Taught Neatness And It Paid Off

Billings, Montana.—(AP)—During her 32-year teaching career, Miss Cora McCormick always stressed neatness to her pupils. That was one reason it distressed her so much when the weeds in her back yard took over and she was unable to cope with them. A neighbor and former pupil—noticed Miss McCormick's plight. She called other former pupils of the now retired teacher.

Sunday morning at 9 o'clock sharp, former McCormick students began arriving at their one-time teacher's home. The men-folk cleared off the weeds, spaded up the grounds, sowed grass seed and had the new lawn all watered down by noon.

The women cooked food for "lawn party" guests at the house next door.

And all sorts of gifts arrived from other former pupils. There were flowers, a lawn chair, a cancelled bill from a tree surgeon and a guest book by three generations of Miss McCormick's former pupils.

Nature Digs By Water Power

Zion National Park, Utah.—(AP)—Nature is busy carrying 3,000,000 tons of rock and dirt out of Zion canyon each year.

That's the amount scientists estimate is eroded and carried away by the little Virgin river in the half-mile deep canyon. The gorge grows deeper each year, mainly because the stream has a rapid fall of 90 to 90 feet per mile.

Tony Leswick, Ranger left wing, has played 156 consecutive hockey games since 1946.

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
 Washington—Once upon a time—113 years ago—the federal government had more money than it needed. Money was "tight" in the commercial world, so Congress authorized the Treasury Department to deposit surplus funds with the states (reserving $5,000,000) beginning Jan. 1, 1837. A total of $28,101,644.91 was lent to 26 states.

None of the 26 states has returned any part of that money, and the government so far has made no attempt to collect any of it.

The amount of money advanced was based on the proportion of representation in Congress. For more than a century there have been debates in Congress over the obligation to repay the money. Through the years many persons, including congressmen and state officials, have written the treasury department asking whether it was loaned or given.

The law passed by Congress on June 23, 1836, "pledges the faith of the states to pay the said moneys and every part thereof from time to time whenever the same shall be required for the purpose of defraying any wants of the public treasury."

When a business panic hit the country in 1837, Congress enacted a law postponing further deposits of Treasury funds with the states. This law provided, however, that the "three first installments of money advanced to the states remain on deposit with them unless otherwise directed by Congress."

Congress has never directed return of the deposits, and the Treasury cannot collect them until so directed, officials say. However, the law clearly indicates that Congress

Desert Was Once A Land Of Lakes

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW! By FAGALY and SHORTEN

BORN of the STORM

By Sidney B. Carter

Chapter 30

An hour later she went into the bathroom and washed her face. Re-entering the great room, where she and Gertrude were staying, she paused at one of the windows which overlooked the terrace. Absently, she stared at the deck chairs, both of which were now empty, and then as her gaze strayed farther she gasped. A man and a girl stood at the fringe of the woodland that semi-circled Dennis' house. The girl was Gertrude and the man... was someone she had never seen before. As Priscilla stared at them, wondering who he could be, the man grasped Gertrude's arm roughly. His intention was unmistakable. He was going to hurt her in some way.

Priscilla raced downstairs. "Come quick!" she said breathlessly to a startled Tom as she went through the kitchen. Tom did not hesitate. He had caught up with her by the time she reached the back porch. Together they ran across the terrace toward the woods and were almost there before the strange man saw them. He turned immediately, dropping Gertrude's arm, and started back into woodland.

As Priscilla and Tom reached the place where Gertrude stood, rubbing her arm, a sharp, snapping sound came from the denseness of un-cleared thicket back among the trees.

Suddenly voices seemed to be coming from everywhere. In the excitement about the stranger, Priscilla had not heard the sound of a car in the front driveway.

"Hello," said Dennis' voice. "What are you all doing standing here?" The three of them jumped as if they were puppets operated by one string. Priscilla, turning around, saw to her surprise that Dennis was not alone. Daniel was with him. Daniel Kent who had said...

Dennis to Priscilla's further confusion, was not looking at her and Gertrude and Tom any more. He seemed to be looking at somebody in back of them.

"Good!" Dennis was saying. "Congratulations, Duffy!" He was smiling. Priscilla whirled around the other way in time to see Inspector Duffy picking his way out of the thicket.

"Come back here and give me a hand with him, will you?" said Duffy gruffly. "I had to put a bullet in his leg and now he can't walk or thinks he can't."

Daniel and Dennis helped Inspector Duffy drag the man from the thicket and carry him halfway down the driveway, where their task was taken over by two policemen. Priscilla, Gertrude, and Tom had followed as far as the terrace and now stood, still speechless, staring. Gertrude found her always lively tongue first.

"When!" she said, dropping into the deck chair she had left. "Let's all have a drink first and explanations second, third, and fourth."

"I'm afraid we haven't time for anything," said Dennis, as he and Daniel reached the group on the terrace. "We need Priscilla to go back to town with us. Dora has been hurt and..."

"Dora!" Priscilla exclaimed, more bewildered than ever.

"We'll explain on the way," said Dennis. "I know this all seems crazy, but just take it for granted and come on."

The story, according to Daniel's rapid account, was this. Dora had been lured outside the grounds of the home, where a strange man had thoroughly beaten her.

Daniel wound up bitterly, "all for a bar of candy." He sighed and then, as Dennis concentrated on driving and Priscilla remained silent, he continued.

"Anyway, the whole thing begins to fit together, as Dennis saw very quickly. I... I'm beginning to be very sorry for what I said to you two the other day, but I honestly thought... under the circumstances... you two being in love and all that..."

"That's all right. Forget it," said Priscilla quickly. "But how does it all fit together? I still don't see entirely."

"It's like this," said Dennis, driving more slowly as they entered the town. "The man who tried to kill Dora is the man who killed Kenneth. The police have had a dragnet thrown out for him since last night and this afternoon they got a tip that he was in the neighborhood of my house."

Dennis drove into the hospital driveway and parked. "To make it brief," he said. "They're undoubtedly checking his fingerprints at headquarters now and—if they check with those on the knife—hes Rafe Carlson, wanted in San Francisco for several robberies and known to operate with two other men, one of whom fits Kenneth's description."

"But why did this... this Rafe Carlson kill Kenneth?"

"I don't know yet," said Dennis patiently, "but that's beside the point right now. What you must do is get Dora's story. The poor kid's been through a lot and she's been frightened half out of her mind." Dennis opened the door on his side. "She must have witnessed the murder, else why would the murderer be so anxious to have her out of the way?"

May 26th, the dreaded day of the trial, came and went smoothly. Dora was still in the hospital, but her statement had become a part of the record. For two more days the trial went on but at the end of the third day, Rafe Carlson, under pressure from Dennis, admitted that he had murdered Kenneth Kent. It seemed that he, Kenneth, and a third man had held up two banks in San Francisco. Kenneth had been wounded during the second hold-up and, after forcing a doctor to treat his wound, the other two men had brought him home. But Kenneth, who had hidden the major part of the money gained from the first hold-up, then refused to tell his pals where he had hidden it. Rafe had killed him for his stubbornness.

The jury, after deliberating eight minutes, acquitted Priscilla Kent of the murder of her husband. As she and Dennis left the courtroom together, she felt that they would at last be allowed the happiness for which they had waited so long.

Dennis put his hand over Priscilla's where it lay on the arm of her chair. "The bad things are over now and the good times are coming." He raised his glass with his free hand. "Let's drink to our happiness... together."

"To us!" she said softly. The Emerald Valley of her dreams was now within her grasp.

Liquor Charges Promptly Denied

Atlanta, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The question in Georgia's liquor scandal, says ex-Governor M. E. Thompson, is who is going to put who in jail for what.

Gov. Herman Talmadge said yesterday "some of that crowd (the Thompson faction) may be starting the penitentiary in the face."

He claimed ex-govs. Thompson, Ellis Arnall and E. D. Rivers all were mixed up with a campaign fund raising plot to sell tax-paid liquor in dry counties in wholesale lots.

The charge was promptly denied—the governor was accused of playing politics.

Then Thompson last night came back with this statement: "Gov. Talmadge insinuated that tax-paid liquor was illegally distributed in dry counties with the consent of revenue employes during my administration."

"I don't insinuate. I openly charge that this very practice has taken place recently during his administration."

Talmadge, however, went ahead with arrangements to name a special deputy attorney general to dig into the scandal.

Whoever gets the job will work with Fulton county solicitor general Paul Webb. It was in Atlanta.

Legislator OK's Bill To Seize Hawaii's Docks

Honolulu, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Hawaii's Legislature today passed a bill empowering the Territorial Government to seize the islands' strike-bound docks. Earlier, striking CIO stevedores voted unanimously to refuse to work for the government.

Final passage of the legislation designed to end the 98-day waterfront tieup came in the 10th day of a special session called by Governor Ingram M. Stainback.

Late last night Senate and House conferees agreed on the measure which directs the governor to take over the islands' seven struck stevedoring firms. It also calls for hiring, as far as possible, the 2,000 striking members of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union at the pre-strike $1.40 hourly wage.

Webb's territory, that revenue commissioner Charles Redwine charges a big warehouse feeds $1,200,000 worth of liquor into dry counties.

CHIANG IN KOREA
Chinai, Korea, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek arrived at this South Korean port today for a series of conferences with President Syngman Rhee on a Pacific pact against the communists.

Find Counterfeit Stamps In Field

New York, Aug. 6.—(AP)—A group of boys uncovered 2,000,000 bogus three-cent stamps in a Bronx lot yesterday, and secret service men linked the find to a jittery fake money ring.

The stamps, tied up in six bundles, were found by a half dozen youths playing in an empty lot near the Bronx river. Secret service men examined the stamps and linked them with the arrest Tuesday of an alleged counterfeiting ring leader.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Roy M. Cohn said there was no question the stamps had been dumped in the lot by henchmen of the accused ring leader, Michael Malone.

"The stamps are evidently in a panic," Cohn said. "There should be more developments soon."

Malone allegedly was east coast leader of a giant counterfeit outfit that has been flooding the seaboard states with phony 10 and 20 dollar bills.

Malone, 38, is being held in $50,000 bail for grand jury action. Cohn has said his arrest "means a crushing blow to the counterfeiting activities throughout the nation."

New Heat Wave Strikes In West

Chicago, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The hottest weather of the summer season has hit some of the Western states. The hot belt covered the Northern Plains, the Rocky Mountain and Plateau states. The mercury topped 100 yesterday at several places and was in the high 90's over wide areas. Similar readings were forecast today and some of the hot weather was expected to move into parts of Minnesota, Nebraska and Iowa.

Glasgow, Mont., and Phoenix, Ariz., reported highs of 105 yesterday and the top at Salt Lake City was 102. Topping those marks was Las Vegas, Nev., with 109. Temperatures were above normal in the Northeastern states and about normal in other parts of the country. Skies generally were clear but there were some thundershowers in the South Atlantic states and light rain in eastern Wisconsin and upper Michigan.

Secretary Gets Publicity Post

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Governor Scott punctured growing confusion over the state news bureau directorship by saying yesterday the job will be to his private secretary Charles J. Parker.

The Governor also told a news conference he had offered the secretary's post to John Marshall of Raleigh, who earlier in the day had asked Scott to withdraw his name from consideration for the news job.

Babson ...

(Continued from page one) been tested. We know that certain metals are now good transmitters of magnetic waves; but by a certain mixture of these same metals an alloy is produced which is almost a complete insulator. It is not the purpose of this foundation to make laboratory experiments but rather to collect data on all experiments being made by others and serve as a free clearing house and information bureau to all who are thinking and working on the problem.

Far Reaching Possibilities

When telling this story to an elderly friend, she asked: "If I stood on a material made of this gravity insulating material, wouldn't I rise and hit the ceiling with my head?" My answer was: "Yes, if this mat were a 100 per cent insulator. Such a mat would be very dangerous to you; but it would be only like putting your hand on an electric wire carrying 100,000 volts, or into a furnace fire making steam for an engine. As a matter of practice, these mats would be so diluted as to reduce your weight only partially, not enough to cause you to rise to the ceiling. These mats could, however, be used for stair treads so that it would take no more effort for you to walk upstairs (many flights) than to walk on a level floor."

Those who are interested in World Peace believe that the discovery of such "free" power would so raise the standards of all peoples in all parts of the world (gravity exists with equal force everywhere) that there would be no more world wars. Most wars have been to seek more arable land, or more coal, oil and other sources of power. The reason for locating at New Boston, N. H. instead of at Old Boston, Mass. is for fear that there will be a World War III before this new power has been harnessed. Hence, it is desired to preserve the Foundation's records in some safe place.

Finds Unanimous Viewpoints On Defense Program

Paris, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Admiral Louis Denfeld, U. S. navy member of the joint chiefs of staff, today said there is "great unanimity of opinion" on the way the Atlantic Pact defenses should be organized. Denfeld spoke at a news conference in the American embassy, which followed the talks by the American joint chiefs of staff with French, Belgian, Dutch and Portuguese military leaders.

At the conference with Denfeld were Gen. Omar Bradley, army, and Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, airforce. Portugal's military delegation also attended.

Denfeld described as "most successful" the talks of the American officers with western European military leaders this week.

He emphasized that the talks were confined to an exchange of views "to get ideas on military organization" and said no decisions were made.

Policy-Makers ...

(Continued from page one) they're like communists everywhere else and they seem to be, will rule the people with an iron hand. And that ought to be pretty good in keeping down any outbreaks against the communist regime, particularly since there's no real military opposition left.

Soap Continues European Luxury

Vienna.—(AP)—Soap is still a rich man's luxury in many European countries. Even in those countries where it is not rationed, the price is generally higher than low income groups can pay. Hospitals and other public institutions still depend on charity shipments from abroad for the bulk of their needs. Care officials throughout Europe report the use of inferior quality soaps in institutions is a serious menace to child health.

An Associated Press survey showed France, Italy and the Scandinavian countries as the brightest spots on the European soap map. Britain, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia are at the other end of the scale. Between those two extremes are countries like Poland, Austria and Germany where you can buy all the soap you need if you have the money.

In Czechoslovakia the soap ration is one bar of toilet soap every three months. There is also a small ration of laundry soap and soap powder. The government had promised to put soap on free sale but the price will range from 50 to 60 cents a bar. The average British ration is seven small bars of toilet soap every two months. In Yugoslavia it is half a pound per month per person, and the supply is irregular. In Poland a bar of toilet soap costs 25 cents.

Austrian soap is of poor quality. A bar of American soap on the black market costs 50 cents. An inferior type of soap is still rationed in Germany. To supplement their one small rationed bar, Germans pay 30 cents a bar for American soaps which are on sale almost everywhere. Care officials in Vienna say the real need in Europe is for better distribution of good soap to low income families with children and to public institutions.

German Command For Gen. Taylor

Berlin, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, wartime paratroop leader, officially was named today to command the American military government and army forces in Berlin.

He will be given this double-barreled authority, a formal statement said, "in order to unify the United States position in Berlin."

The statement said he would assume his position at a date to be announced later, but presumably in September.

Philippine Chief To Visit Truman

Manila, Aug. 6.—(AP)—President Elyodoro Quirino set out by plane today to make an official visit to President Truman in Washington.

"I am not going to the United States to ask or beg," he told a crowd of 50,000 Filipinos gathered at the airport, "but I am going in honor and dignity to express as your spokesman the gratitude of the Filipino people to the United States."

However, it was believed in Manila that some time during the stay in Washington he would broach the subject of more military and economic aid to the Philippines as a bulwark against communism.

The boys will go on mountain hikes, an overnight camping trip, and will visit other camps and places of interest in the section.

Blame Taxes For More Moonshine

Washington, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The distilled spirits institute blamed an increase in moonshining on high liquor taxes today. In a news release it said the federal tax of $9 a gallon, plus an average state tax of $1.43 a gallon, has boosted the price of legal liquor to the point where a growing number of drinkers demand "the unsafe but tax-free moonshine product."

Korea ...

(Continued from page one) bore the stigma of collaboration in the great wave of hatred against all who had worked for or with the Japanese. They had trouble finding jobs. Many became tramps and bandits; some of course joined the Communists.

But thousands of them got into the southern Korean army, where they naturally are interested in any situation which might improve their lot and that of their fellows who didn't get in. My information is that their main idea of how to do this is to "reunify the country" by reconquering the north.

They think it would make them all heroes.

One officer was asked recently, what if that results in a long war that would drag in Russia and American and bring on world war III?

"What of it?" was the gruff, Japanese-type reply.

Next Wednesday Is Last Half-Day

Next Wednesday, August 10, will be the last half-day closing of the summer months. Local merchants observe Wednesday half-day closing each summer from right after Easter until the week prior to the opening of the tobacco market.

With the tobacco market scheduled to open on Thursday, August 18, next Wednesday automatically becomes the last half-day closing.

Suspend Priest For Politicking

Lyon, France, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The Rev. Marcel Grangier, a Catholic priest, has been suspended for "political activities," the office of Pierre Cardinal Gerlier, Archbishop of Lyon, announced today.

The semi-official French press agency said he was charged with speaking at communist meetings.

A communique from the archbishop's office said Father Grangier persisted in his disobedience despite repeated warnings.

There was no doubt he was suggesting that Chiang Kai Shek—severely criticized in the State Department report—make his exit.
