500 Fight Fire In Montana That Was Fatal To 13

Smoke - Blackened Men Attempt To Seal Off Fire's Northeastward Advance

Helena, Mont., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Five hundred fire fighters hurried their might today at the flaming three mile front of a timber blaze that has killed 13 forest service men and burned nearly 6,000 acres since Friday.

One of the fire victims was Raymond Thompson, Jr., 21, of Charlotte, N. C., a forestry student at the University of Montana. He was the son of Dr. Raymond Thompson, a prominent Charlotte physician and Mrs. Thompson, and a former student at North Carolina State College, Raleigh. During the war he saw extensive action with the airborne service in Japan.

Armed with axes and shovels, two separate battalions of smoke-blackened men attacked from the north and south today on 7,000 foot Willow Mountain. They struggled to seal off the fire's northeastward movement toward more heavy timber in the gates of the mountains forest 25 miles northeast of Helena.

Wilderness area hills and small parties of fire fighters had checked the flames in the rest of the 21-mile perimeter seared by the blaze.

Showers slowed the advance of the flames yesterday but a 20 mile an hour wind fanned the fire in the northwest section.

The fire devastated from 800 to 1,000 acres yesterday. Willow Mountain is east of Mann Gulch, where the lightning blaze started Friday. The fire has moved four miles east of where the Missouri river winds picturesque through mountain peaks.

Calls for volunteers went out again yesterday. Forest service officials sent fresh men in to relieve those exhausted on fire lines. That also built up a pool of manpower—in case the fire crosses Willow Mountain.

The forest service has not sent any of its parachuting fire-fighters to the blaze since Friday—when the smokejumping program suffered its worst tragedy in the 10-year history.

Fifteen smokejumpers, mostly college students, were trapped by fire when the wind shifted suddenly after they were safely on the ground at Mann Gulch. Only three escaped.

Signs Housing Insurance Bill

Washington, Aug. 8.—(AP)—President Truman signed today a bill making $5,000,000, in national housing insurance available for the private construction of homes near military camps.

The senate banking committee said the military establishment needs 261,565 living units that the government can't undertake to build all of these.

Under the measure, loans would be limited to 95 per cent of the cost of the structures, which could not exceed $9,000 each in cost.

Power Balance Upset

Rising Of Red Star In China Aligns Potential 475 Million People With Communism; Effects In The United Nations; Commercial Treaties; Three Questions Raised

By JAMES D. WHITE

The rising of the Red Star over China inevitably upsets the balance of power in a divided world.

The weight of 475 million people—a fifth of humanity—shifting from one side of the world-wide schism to the other is one reason for the White Paper on China published last week by the State Department. One of the most important things this White Paper did was to admit the futility of trying further to prevent the shift with the method used in the past.

That method was to support the legal government of China, as personified by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek. It didn't work.

If any new method is to work, it will have to answer many grave questions growing out of the great shift in world power that Red China means.

Three of these questions have been raised by J. D. Ferguson, a litigator of the Milwaukee Journal. He asks what the impact of Red China, as shown by the White Paper, will be on:

1. China's use of the veto in the security council of the United Nations.

2. China's loss of influence among western nations.

3. China's commercial treaties with western nations.

In Red hands, the Chinese veto presumably would be used in Russia's favor, but Russia doesn't need this because her own veto is as absolute as anyone else's. The Chinese veto, however, might be used to give the Soviet veto a rest now and then.

The danger would not come from the veto. From the standpoint of western powers it would lie in the added prestige China will give to the pro-Soviet bloc of nations, particularly in the eyes of smaller powers having a racial and colonial background akin to China's.

From the standpoint of the United Nations itself, the danger lies in the possible appearance of two sets of Chinese delegates at Lake Success.

If, for instance, Red China forms a new National government and claims China's place at Lake Success, and if the old delegates from Nanking still are recognized, the ensuing quarrel could split the U. N. wide open.

It could wreck it altogether if the United States and Russia insist upon supporting rival Chinese delegations and drag their respective allies along with them.

The answer to Mr. Ferguson's second question—What about China's loss of influence among western nations?—lies in the future course of power politics. The day may never come when Red China can wangle a loan from Wall Street. But it's probably already safe to say that Red

Extent Of Communist Control In China Today

The shading on this map shows the extent of Communist control in China as the U. S. State Department, in a biting critical White Paper, wrote off China's Nationalist government as a total failure before the onslaught of Communism. Secretary of State Dean Acheson declared in memorandum opposing more aid to China that the Communists hold all important military areas from Manchuria (black area) to the Yangtze river. He said they have military capability of extending their control to the populous areas of the Yangtze valley and eventually dominating South China (arrows). (AP Wirephoto Map).

Acheson To Consult On New Foreign Policy For Chinese

Washington, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Secretary of State Acheson expects to begin consultations with congressional foreign policy committees before the end of this session on the development of a new American policy toward China and the far east.

Officials said today that the State Department chief expects to have China studies well advanced this summer. It still seemed highly unlikely that they would result in any requests for new legislation before Congress adjourns.

Foreign Ministers Of Ten Nations In Session

Meet In Strasbourg As Step Toward Federated Continent; Council Of Europe's First Assembly Meets Wednesday

Strasbourg, France, Aug. 8.—(AP)—The flags of 10 nations bedeck this little city on the Rhine to welcome representatives of those countries today begin the first session of the Council of Europe.

The foreign ministers of Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Ireland, the charter members, meet today at the medieval Strasbourg city hall, in a step toward a federated continent.

Today's conferees comprise the committee of ministers of the council. They may be compared to the government of Europe, if a federated continent comes into being.

Wednesday, the council's first consultative assembly meets. The assembly is a parliament. It is made up of delegations from the parliaments of the member countries.

The council is prepared to extend its frontiers into southeastern Europe with the formal addition of Greece and Turkey to the present membership.

British official sources said the foreign ministers committee, the council's executive arm, will approve membership for the two applicants at its first sitting this afternoon.

Both new countries will be allotted seats in the consultative assembly—eight for Turkey and six for Greece—bringing the assembly's roster up to 101 deputies.

The council brings together in the committee of ministers and the assembly half a dozen organizations that work for European unity and individual leaders of almost every political cast, except the extremes of fascism and communism.

The most colorful figure in the assembly will be Britain's wartime leader, Winston Churchill, postwar enthusiast for welding together the victor and the vanquished as one strong unit.

Churchill is expected to arrive Wednesday from Lake Garda, vacation spot in the Italian Alps.

Churchill may make the assembly his platform for another strong appeal against the danger of Soviet expansion.

Rev. C. D. Patterson, pastor of Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church, North Greenville, and his wife, were severely injured in an automobile accident Saturday afternoon, and are now in the Piedmont Hospital at Atlanta, Ga.

Mrs. Patterson sustained bone fractures, bruises and lacerations, but her condition was reported as favorable late Sunday night. Mr. Patterson escaped with two broken ribs, and is suffering principally from shock. Their son Curtis is unhurt.

X-rays showed no evidences of internal injury in either case, and Mr. Patterson will probably be able to leave the hospital by the middle of this week.

The Pattersons had been visiting in Decatur, Ga., and at the time of the accident were enroute to Alabama to continue their vacation. They are expected to return to Greenville by September first.

Record Highway Travel In July

Raleigh, N. C. Aug. 8.—(AP)—Travel on North Carolina's highways during July broke all records.

James S. Burch, highway commission engineer of statistics and planning, reported today that on an average day during July a total of 66,437 vehicles passed 20 traffic counting stations over the state.

The highest volume of traffic recorded previously was an average of 63,328 vehicles per day in June.

County Schools Will Have Total Of 378 Teachers

Largest Number In County's History All Positions Said Now Filled

The Pitt County school system this year will have a total of 378 teachers when the county schools open August 30. It will be the largest number of teachers in the county in the history of the public school system.

Superintendent D. H. Conley said today that all the positions in the county school system have been filled, and that last minute preparations are being made to the school buildings for the opening of the fall sessions.

The county superintendent said the increase in the number of teachers in the county school system is due to the decrease in the teacher load authorized by the state. Only a slight increase in students has been shown in the county school system.

In addition to the extra teachers made possible by the reduction in teacher load, four supervisory teachers were allotted to Pitt County to help classroom teachers with conducting classes and improving methods of instruction. Conley said two of the supervisory teachers will work in the white schools and two in the Negro schools.

Principals in the county schools for the coming year will be:

Garlan P. Bailey, Arthur; E. F. Johnson, Ayden; Fodie H. Hodges, Bevoir; W. C. Latham, Bethel; Newman Lewis, Chicod; Henry L. Chadwick, Falkland; Sam D. Bundy, Farmville; Mrs. Edna E. Lewis Baker, Fountain; A. P. Tyson, Grifton; Joe L. Cashwell, Grimesland; Ola H. Forrest, Pactivis; Dallas G. Whitford, Stokes; Paul J. Clark, Winterville.

Principals for the Negro high schools will be: H. B. Sugg, Farmville; A. E. Elliott, Bethel; M. Q. Wyche, Grimesland; J. W. Maye, Winterville; J. W. Ormond, Ayden.

The supervisory teachers for the white schools will be Leland Vann Godwin and Anne Lee Jones, and the supervisory teachers for the Negro schools will be Hazel Jordan and Madlin C. Blount.

Cadets, Middies Begin Training

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 8.—(AP)—More than 800 cadets and midshipmen from the United States military and naval academies embarked today on a two-week amphibious training program.

This year's operation for second classmen at the two academies, will be under the supervision of rear Admiral Jerald Wright, USN, Commander amphibious force, U. S. Atlantic fleet.

Indications have been that a large number of the 3,000-odd citizens (official and non-official) have decided there is no possibility of doing business under communist rule and want to get out fast.

Mayor Renews 'Shooting War' With Ku Klux Klan

Iron City, Ga., Aug. 8.—(AP)—A one-armed Georgia mayor and some of his friends renewed a shooting war against robed, night-riding Ku Klux Klansmen yesterday.

To top it off, the mayor chased a Klan official into Alabama at a 100-mile-an-hour pace and had him jailed.

The shooting spree started, said Mayor C. L. Drake of Iron City, when 12 or 15 carloads of robed Klansmen rolled into this little southwest Georgia hamlet in the dark, early Sunday morning hours. One unidentified Klansman received a flesh wound. Drake reported none of his fighters was hurt.

The Mayor, a Klan foe of long standing, declared "some of the bullets whizzed by within five feet of me" while he hastily scribbled down the robed figures' auto tag numbers.

Drake said he didn't have a gun but that some of his friends did and they peppered the Klan convoy with shotgun and pistol fire. The night riders retaliated, he related. Several hours elapsed between the shooting and the daredevil automobile chase to Dothan, Ala. 30 miles away. The Mayor gave these details.

He had returned home when Sheriff C. L. Chandler telephoned that someone had sworn out an assault warrant against him. Drake started to Chandler's office and spotted the car which had led the Klan parade.

The mayor stamped the accelerator and the whirling chase was on. The Klan official, booked as Bill Hendrix of Tallahassee, Fla., said his speed hit 100 m. p. h. during the race Hendrix, who said he is an organizer for a new hooded order, "The Southern Ku Klux Klan," sped to police headquarters at Dothan and asked protection. The Mayor burst in after him and had him jailed on a warrant charging assault with intent to murder which had been issued in Iron City.

Hendrix's bond was set at $500. Drake added that while in Dothan he looked in Hendrix's car and found Klan clothes, receipt books, guns, one Tommy gun clip and carbon copies of Klan letters. He identified Hendrix as "acting agent of the grand dragon of Florida."

Burglary Charge Faces Young Pitt Negro Boy

A 14-year-old Negro boy with a police record is being held in Pitt county jail today without bond, and charged with first degree burglary. Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said attempted rape may be added to the charge against the boy when law enforcement officers finish their investigation.

The Pitt county sheriff identified the youth as Samuel L. Edwards, who lives on a farm near Fountain. Fountain police and Pitt county officers were called to the home of M. D. Walton, about four miles from Fountain, about 1 o'clock this morning when Walton reported an unidentified assailant had entered his daughter's bedroom and fled when she screamed and ran to her father's room.

Officers said the girl, 14-year-old Celia Walton, told them when they arrived at the house that Edwards had entered the room. They quoted the girl as saying she was awakened suddenly when someone grabbed her arm; that she screamed, jumped out of bed and ran to her father's room.

Denies Medal Is For Eisler Escape

Capt. Jan Swiklinski, skipper of the liner Batory on which Communist Gerhart Eisler escaped last May, displays the Gold Cross of Merit awarded him by the Polish government as he is interviewed on the liner's arrival at New York. He said the medal had "nothing to do" with Eisler's successful flight from this country and that the medal was presented for "outstanding service" since the war in the Polish merchant marine. Senators Start 'Five Percenters' Public Hearings

Washington, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Paul Grindle, New England manufacturer, said today James V. Hunt told him that Maj. Gen. Harry T. Vaughan, the President's military aide, "was one of his closest friends."

Grindle testified at the Senate "five percenters" inquiry that Hunt also told him he "could and did go to the White House at any time."

It was Grindle's disclosure about Hunt's activities in Washington that led to the current investigation.

He took the stand after Secretary of Defense Johnson promised the inquiry group he would help "get rid of unscrupulous men who prey on both business and government by peddling influence."

Grindle opened his testimony by outlining how he happened to meet with Hunt, a former Army officer who now describes himself as a business counselor. Hunt has denied any wrongdoing.

Grindle said Hunt offered to get him part of a $3,500,000 government contract for furniture and he came to Washington last April 22 to talk the matter over with him. He said he asked Hunt about his background and Hunt told him that Vaughan was "one of his closest friends."

Grindle related that Hunt confided to him that Hunt's wife was fond of a certain distiller sent to the White House each month. He said Vaughan used to give him some of the brandy with instructions to take it home to his wife. He said Hunt also told him that Vaughan frequently gave him boxes of cigars which had been sent to the White House.

Other "close friends" mentioned by Hunt during the conversation, Grindle said, were Maj. Gen. Herman Feldman, chief of the Army Quartermaster Corps, and Maj. Gen. Alden Waitt, chief of the Army Chemical Corps.

Both officers have been suspended by the Army pending outcome of the five percenters investigation.

In the case of both officers, Grindle said, Hunt told he had access to their offices at "any time."

Says West Open For Agression

Acheson Stresses Military Weakness Of Allies' Defense

Washington, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today urged Congress to approve the $145,000,000 foreign arms assistance program because the U. S. is open to attack on its own territory to a greater extent than ever before.

He made this appeal in testimony before the combined Senate foreign relations and armed services committees.

In a prepared statement Acheson told the senators that the western European allies of the United States are now so weak in military power that their situation is an invitation to any would-be aggressor to strike.

"The first line of defense is still in Europe," Acheson said, "but our European allies do not have the military capacity to hold that line."

"The shield behind which we marshaled our forces to strike decisive blows (in two world wars) for the common cause no longer exists."

Acheson said speedy approval of the administration's arms program is imperative in order to remove western Europe's fear and erase the conditions that might encourage an aggressor to resort to military force.

The secretary said that Russia is maintaining the largest armed forces in the peacetime history of any country. And he added, Moscow has used or attempted to use its obvious military superiority to intimidate and coerce smaller nations.

Says Dixie Crats Are Republicans

Charlotte, Aug. 8.—(AP)—President Earl Britton of the South Carolina State Federation of Labor said today that "the Dixiecrats are not anything but Republicans in disguise."

Britton spoke briefly at a convention of the North Carolina AFL. "Their program," he added with emphasis, "is a Republican party program."

The Dixiecrats—formally known as the States Rights Democrats—believed the Republicans would win the national election last November "and they would get a few crumbs," Britton asserted.

Okay Cherokee Land Trade Bill

Washington, Aug. 8.—(AP)—A bill authorizing an exchange of land with the Cherokee Indians of North Carolina to obtain an alternate right-of-way for the Blue Ridge Parkway was approved today by the Senate Interior Committee.

The bill would return 81 acres of Indian land needed for a better highway approach to Black Camp Gap in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.

The bill has been passed by the House.

Hot And Humid For Areas East Of The Rockies

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS Here's the hot word from the weather bureau today: Hot and humid east of the Rocky mountains. The eastern seaboard will remain much as it has been the last few days, and that means hot.

By tomorrow at least, cool air that is over the northern Rockies today will seep into the western part of North Dakota to help break the baking heat there. Some time late tomorrow the cool air will get down into South Dakota.

Here's a sample of some of that hot weather in the Dakotas yesterday: Bismarck, 105; Rapid City 102; Williston 108.

The Patate river was blocked by a mountain slide which created a lake at the foot of the old town of Patate.

This was the latest breakdown of the death toll by towns and cities taken from official and unofficial sources:

Patate, 3,200; Patate, 1,000 upwards; Ambato, 40 to 500; Pillaro, more than 20, and Latacunga, 11, and Guano, 10.

Quakes again hook the slopes for the Andes yesterday. Shocks were felt in Ambato and Riobamba where rescue workers were digging through the debris in search of bodies.

The essential facts in that larger book now have been boiled down into 101 pages in "U. S. A. Measure of a Nation" with easy to read text and picture charts.

It goes back a hundred years to show the growth of America and projects the American picture to 1960 to indicate where we're going.

In their foreword the authors—Thomas R. Carskadon and Rudolf Modley—say:

"When we take a long look behind the minor ups and downs flattened out in a rising curve of economic activity, of increasing productive power, unique in the annals of this world.

"It is deeply impressive. And as we project this curve into the future, assuming that we can continue to act as we have in the past, we begin to realize America's vast economic and social potential."

The first drawings on page one begin to tell the story. In 1850 there were about 7.1-3 million workers here. Now close to 60 million. And from 12 hours a day for 6 days a week the average work week shrank to 43 hours in 1940, with the work week expected to be shorter in the future.

Say the authors, "The measure of our whole past achievement, as well as our future prospects lie in a good book."

Air Force And Many Freight Planes Join Mercy Airlift; Caribbean Command Promises More Planes If Those On Hand Not Sufficient

Quito, Ecuador, Aug. 8.—(AP)—A call went out today to all U. S. air force and many freight planes in the Panama area to join a mercy airlift flying doctors, nurses and medical supplies into the earthquake ravaged section of central Ecuador.

The death toll of the quake was reported soaring above 4,600. Damage estimate from some mountain towns reached $20,000,000. Countless thousands were injured.

The U. S. Caribbean command headquarters alerted all freight airplanes in the Panama area to join the relief operation. A military spokesman said if there were not enough air force and navy freight planes in Panama to carry the required supplies, additional planes will be drawn from Antilles bases. Some American planes already have participated in the relief work.

The earthquake, which struck on Friday, battered communication and transport lines. Two thousand Ecuadorian troops are on duty in the earthquake zone, removing debris, fixing highways and telegraph lines, giving first aid and maintaining order. Communications now are being restored slowly.

In the first hours after the disaster the Ecuadorian air force began the task of flying relief equipment into the region. Two planes of the U. S. air mission joined planes lent by commercial airlines in the operation, making flights from Quito to Ambato, one of the hardest hit cities.

The Ecuadorian cabinet voted in emergency session last night to take immediate action on President Gale Plaza Lasso's plans to rebuild the stricken areas.

Three U. S. Caribbean air command planes from Balboa took six tons of relief supplies to Quito yesterday. They included blood plasma, serums and drugs.

The president, back from a tour of the ravaged areas, said some of the scenes of suffering rivalled even the "most Dantesque" imagination.

Four towns which virtually disappeared from the map were Guano, Patate, Pelileo and Pillaro.

Eyewitnesses returning from Ambato, largest city to receive the full force of the shocks, said the number of dead and injured undoubtedly had been underestimated.

These witnesses said the ravaged area now is only a cemetery where the odor of death is almost unbearable.

They said the number of persons buried along the slopes of Tungurahua volcano may never be known. They reported that when the quakes struck masses of earth slid away from the mountainsides and the volcano erupted.

Frantic relatives who fought their way into the earthquake area in search of loved ones found mountains of debris instead of communities.

The Patate river was blocked by a mountain slide which created a lake at the foot of the old town of Patate.

This was the latest breakdown of the death toll by towns and cities taken from official and unofficial sources:

Patate, 3,200; Patate, 1,000 upwards; Ambato, 40 to 500; Pillaro, more than 20, and Latacunga, 11, and Guano, 10.

Our Needs, Resources

An Impressive Study Of This Country's Growth, Once Contained In An 812-Page Book, Is In Condensed Version; Every Page In The Book Well Worth Reading

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Two years ago the Twentieth Century fund published an 812 page book, "America's Needs and Resources," a valuable study of this country's growth.

The essential facts in that larger book now have been boiled down into 101 pages in "U. S. A. Measure of a Nation" with easy to read text and picture charts.

It goes back a hundred years to show the growth of America and projects the American picture to 1960 to indicate where we're going.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR August 8, 1909

At their meeting here last Friday the trustees of East Carolina Teachers Training School completed the faculty for the first session, with the exception of music instructors.

The faculty is composed as follows: Prof. R. H. Wright, president; Prof. C. W. Wilson, busbar and instructor; Prof. H. E. Austin, of Baltimore, teacher of Science; Prof. W. H. Ragdale, lecturer on public school administration; Mrs. Kate R. Beckwith of Swan Quarter, lady principal; Miss Mamie Jenkins of Raleigh, teacher of English; Miss Birdie McKinney, of Reidsville, teacher of Latin.

The rate of tuition to those who do not signify an intention to teach two years after completing the course will be $40 for the coming session, for instrumental music $40, for special vocal lessons, $32.

The luncheon at 1 o'clock Saturday given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Greene, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Greene and Miss Estelle Greene at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Greene on East Ninth Street.

Throughout the rooms a color scheme of pink and white was effectively carried out. The bride's table in the dining room, covered with a Madeira cloth of cut work and lace, had a floral centerpiece of asters and on the auxiliary tables, trays of hors d'oeuvres were used.

Upon the arrival of the guests Mrs. Charles White served fruit cocktails in the living room. Luncheon in three courses was served to out of town guests and members of the wedding party.

Rehearsal Party Given In Honor Of Bridal Couple: Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Joyner Jr., Miss Hennie Long and Miss Bessie Brown entertained at the Long home on East Fourth Street after the rehearsal for the wedding of Miss Evelyn Glenn and Mr. Thomas S. Payne Jr. on Friday evening.

A color note of green and white was used in decorations of the home. The table in the dining room was spread with a Richeleu cut work cloth and centered with a beautiful arrangement of asters. Completing the table appointments were a three tiered wedding cake and silver trays with minus and nuts.

Miss Eva Hodges and Miss Estelle Greene served ice punch in the hall. The guest list included the wedding party and out of town guests here for the wedding.

Dinner Honors Bridal Party: Miss Evelyn Glenn and Mr. Thomas S. Payne, Jr., members of their wedding party and out-of-town guests were honored Thursday evening when Miss Rosalie Taylor entertained at dinner in the Magnolia room of the Proctor hotel.

Bridal place cards designated the places for the guests. A large bowl of white glads and carnations centered the table with fern running the length of the table. Dinner was served in three courses. The dessert course of ice cream, moulded to form a bride's cake, was served by Miss Glenn.

Out-of-town guests were Miss Mary Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Payne, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mallison, Mr. Bud Powle, Mr. Jimmie Glenn, Mr. Ford Worthy, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Gray Hodges, all of Washington, N. C., and Mr. Calvin Warren of Garland.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP Newsfeature: FOR A NARROW LOT, this house is designed without a basement. Its utility room accommodates laundry and heating equipment. This is plan A-101 by the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn. It covers an area of 1,040 square feet and has a content of 12,480 cubic feet. Its low rectangular walls make the house adaptable to the use of concrete blocks or frame construction with wide siding. The designers suggest a roof of asphalt shingles.

Wife Of Former Diplomat Dies In Switzerland: (AP)—Mrs. Sumner Welles, wife of the former U.S. Undersecretary of State, died in her hotel here last night, hotel officials disclosed today.

Rescue Truck In Another Mission: The Greenville Fire Department's rescue truck carried out its 16th emergency mission of the year yesterday afternoon at 6:20 when it was called to 1105 Myrtle Avenue to carry a Negro man to the hospital who had been taken sick while walking along the street.

Funeral Tuesday For Mrs. Alex Hamilton: Mrs. Nancy Owens Hamilton, 69 died in a Wilson hospital Sunday afternoon following a long illness. She resided at her home near Aspen Grove Church, four miles from Fountain. She was an active member of Aspen Grove Free Will Baptist Church for many years. Her husband, Alex Hamilton, died in 1926. Funeral services will be held from the late home on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. A. L. Jackson of Saratoga, pastor of Aspen Grove Church, and assisted by Rev. W. L. Hart of Clayton. Interment will be in the Dilda cemetery near Fountain and Falkland. Surviving are five daughters, Mrs. Earl Mangum of Wilson, Mrs. J. J. Ellis of Stantonburg, Mrs. I. J. Horton of Walstonburg, Mrs. J. W. Phillips of Greenville and Mrs. Earl Owens of the home; one son, Rev. C. D. Hamilton, Free Will Baptist minister of Fountain; two sisters, Mrs. Jimmie Owens of Fountain and Mrs. Tommy Owens of Elm City; two brothers, Jack Owens of LaGrange and John H. Owens of Fountain; eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Trucks Collide Near Greenville: A truck driven by Larry James Pearce, Negro of Greenville, collided with a truck driven by George Dixon of Grifton about 10:20 last night on the Avden highway 1/2 miles from Greenville. Both trucks were damaged and Pearce suffered head injuries and a cut leg. Highway Patrolmen who arrived on the scene soon after the wreck sent Pearce to the hospital where he was treated for his injuries and released. State Highway Patrolmen Dick Chadwick and Paul Whiteley who investigated the wreck stated today that Larry Pearce will be tried in City Court in Greenville August 15 on charges of reckless driving and driving under the influence of alcohol.

YDC Of First Dist. Meet September 15: Miss Ada R. Jones, chairman of the Young Democratic Clubs of the First Congressional District, announces that the State YDC convention is to be held in New Bern, September 15, 16 and 17. Miss Jones stated today that the County YDC clubs throughout the district are making plans for local meetings for the purpose of electing representatives to the convention and to elect new officers for the next year. Roy A. Taylor, young attorney and Representative of Black Mountain in the last General Assembly, will deliver the keynote address at the annual convention, and Miss Jones stressed that all Young Democrats and those who are interested in YDC make plans to attend the State Convention in New Bern.

Piney Grove News

Just want to remind everyone that the group from the Middlesex Orphanage will be at Piney Grove Tuesday night, August 9, at 8:00. We sincerely hope that a large crowd will attend and give these children a hearty welcome.

A wonderful time was had by all who attended the Community Hymn Festival at Mount Pleasant last Sunday. They did indeed have a cool reception for us as stated in their column of news. They had four fans going and it was very pleasant.

Folks who were not present really missed a treat by not hearing Mr. Dan Sutton of the Rose Hill community render two numbers on the piano. Each choir's selection was beautiful and the singing done by the choirs together was the prettiest I've heard.

Mr. and Mrs. Eivy Forrest and Mrs. Bernice Causey were recent guests in Norfolk, Virginia. Mrs.

Causey visited her children there and Mr. and Mrs. Forrest spent the time with his father.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Crawford and daughter Nannie Sue and Mr. and Mrs. Eivy Forrest spent the last of this week at the Crawford's cottage at Broad Creek.

Sorry to learn that Mrs. S. A. Humbles is ill in Pitt General Hospital. Hope she will soon be out. Mrs. Raymond Tyson attended the graduation exercises of her nephew, George Loren Edwards, Jr. at Wake Forest Friday night.

Women In The Church

Mrs. Dorothy Clarke Wilson, of Lewiston, Maine, the wife of a Methodist minister in that city, the Rev. Edwin L. Wilson, has been awarded the annual prize of $7,500 by the Westminster Press (Presbyterian publishing house) for "the best manuscript dealing with a fundamental human problem, either historic or contemporary." The historic novel will be published under the title, "Prince of Egypt," dealing with the early life and young manhood of Moses. Mrs. Wilson has already published two religious novels, dealing with the life of James, the brother of Jesus, and with the prophet Amos.

The United Evangelical Lutheran Church of Australia has decided to establish a deaconess order in that commonwealth, especially for work in church hospitals and in mission parishes. The Church plans the opening of a "motherhouse" in the near future. Sister S. Lindner, a graduate nurse from the Royal Adelaide Hospital, has been named the first deaconess, and is now taking special training at Geelong, Victoria, following which she will take other studies at Melbourne University.

The Christian church is making a contribution to India and Pakistan that is far greater than the numerical strength of Christianity in the population of these new dominions, according to Miss Gail Asel, principal of the Forman Girls School, Lahore, Pakistan. "Determination of national life in China has cast a shadow over India and Pakistan," says Miss Asel. "The new impetus given by independence has awakened the people to the intensity of mass poverty and ignorance. Old acceptance of poverty and ignorance is turning into resentment. Many Muslim and Hindu leaders are obviously dead in earnest about the welfare of their people. Too often they fail to solve the need. More and more officials are turning to Christian missions for guidance. Missionaries are throwing much of their efforts into releasing people from poverty, ignorance, and despair. Technical Service Associations, rehabilitation projects, industrial training, and new educational programs are setting standards for national development."

The Truth About BLUE-WHITE DIAMONDS

Don't be fooled by commonly used terms "Blue-White" and "Perfect" when selecting your diamond! What many jewelers consider a "blue-white" diamond may actually be tinged with yellow.

Only a Registered Jeweler can offer you the assurance and protection of scientific diamond grading. Diamonds vary in value according to four factors:

- (1). COLOR.
- (2). CARAT WEIGHT.
- (3). COMPARATIVE ABSENCE OF IMPERFECTIONS.
- (4). CUTTING.

National diamond grading examinations for the Registered Jeweler assure you of better diamond values. A Registered Jeweler knows the facts about scientific diamond grading and must observe the American Gem Society's standards which protect his customers from purchasing low grade diamonds.

BE SURE YOU SEE A REGISTERED JEWELER BEFORE YOU BUY ANY DIAMOND!

success in China means more western influence lost there than China will lose in the west.

As to China's trade treaties (Mr. Farguson's third question) all have been condemned by implication by the Chinese Reds as "imperialistic" since they are associated with the old government. Specifically, they are associated with the old government specifically, they denounce the Sino American trade treaty of 1946.

Very recently their local authorities in Manchuria signed a one-year trade agreement with Soviet Russia to trade grain for industrial goods. This may set the future pat-

King's English Is 'Washed Up'

Sydney—(AP)—The King's English, says Sidney J. Baker, is all washed up. The language, he says, will one day be replaced by American-English. Baker is an Australian lecturer and journalist who has made a study of Australian speech.

This is an example he gave: "Shove this spin down south, and note down to the rubbity for a fiddle's worth of bombo. My sort's rat-bag coppers are turning on a shivoo sarvo. Dice your jacker and get your chop of the plonk, why don't you? With all the galats and dills that'll drag on this yike, it'd be ridge to have someone who's a wake-up to yabber with."

This, Baker said, is a free translation: "Take this five pounds and hurry down to the hotel for one pound worth of wine. My girl friend's eccentric acquaintances are having a party this afternoon. Leave your work and take a share of the liquor, why don't you? Anyway, with all the unimportant people who will be there, I would like to have someone intelligent to talk to."

Bond Note Bids

Raleigh, Aug. 8—(AP)—Bids will be opened tomorrow on a six-month $7,500,000 bond anticipation note for the State Ports Authority.

State Treasurer Brandon P. Hodges, in whose office the bids will be opened, said he doesn't expect the cost of selling the issue to exceed more than one per cent.

Before the six months is out, the state expects to issue bonds for the development of deep water ports at Morehead City and Wilmington.

Six Nurses Tell Their Story Of Drunken Doctor

Winston-Salem, Aug. 8—(AP)—Six nurses who have charged Dr. Samuel Wallace Fleming, Forsyth County Hospital physician, with drunkenness while on duty told their stories to the Forsyth County Commissioners this morning.

The hospital secretary, Mrs. G. G. Clayton, who said she had not resigned but was fired this morning, also testified.

The testimony reported substantiated previous charges that Dr. Fleming had been intoxicated while on duty at the hospital near Winston-Salem.

The commissioners indicated that they would consider the testimony of the nurses along with other information gathered about the doctor.

Defense In Court Brings Sentence

Berlin, Germany—(AP)—A farmer in Russian-occupied Saxony faced trial before the provincial court recently, charged with failure to deliver the obligatory quota of his berry crop. In defense, he claimed Russian soldiers had tramped down his beds and plucked the fruit.

He was sentenced to nine months in prison for "disparagement of the occupying power and senseless waste of rationed foodstuffs."

Cotton Crop

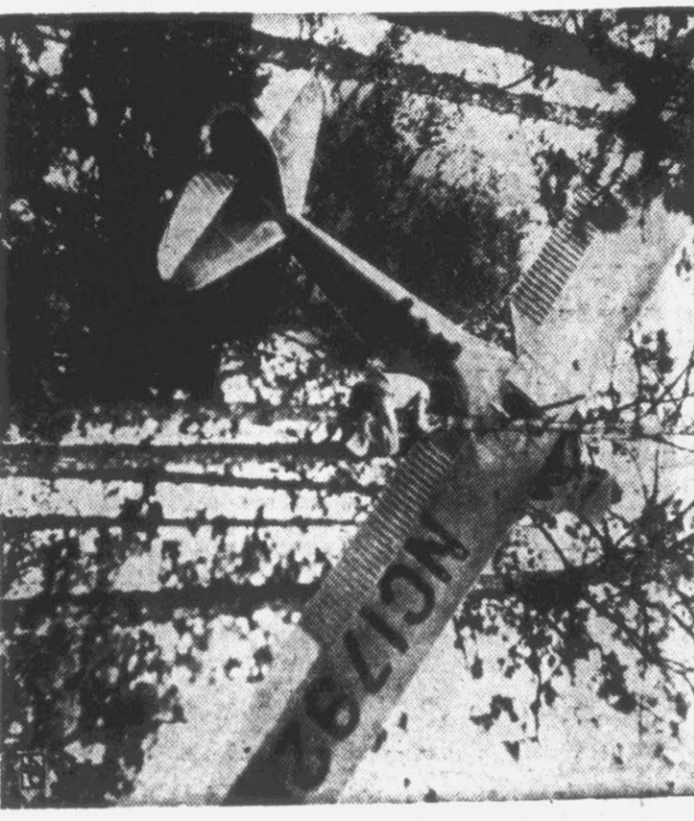

Washington, Aug. 8—(AP)—The Agriculture Department today forecast this year's cotton crop at 14,805,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight each as of Aug. 1.

This estimate compares with 14,868,000 bales produced last year, and with a ten-year (1938-7) average of 11,306,000 bales.

Being larger than prospective market requirements, the crop foreshadowed a return to pre-war production controls for the 1940 crop. Supplementing this year's crop is a carryover surplus of about 5,000,000 bales from previous year's crops, a large part of which is held by the department under price support programs.

Czechs Punishing Mine Absentees

Prague—(AP)—Labor juries composed of miners which sit at the mines to sentence slackers represent Czechoslovakia's latest medium to check absenteeism in its coal pits. The juries hand out various disciplinary penalties against their loafing colleagues.

Absenteeism apparently has spread recently. Disciplinary measures, formerly on a district basis, now have been installed on a national scale. Squads of "voluntary brigade" doctors have been formed to visit slacker suspects at their homes and when they find them at the movies or in pubs while claiming to be ill, report them for penalties. The doctors are also watched by picked trade union and Communist party workers to prevent collusion with slackers.

Names and, in some cases, pictures of chronic absentees are posted on bulletin boards at the mines or in town squares and their names are broadcast over town loudspeaker systems. Names of the diligent miners are posted on honor rolls.

Kay Kyser Goes To Aid Of Lost Colony Drama

Manteo, Aug. 8—(AP)—Band leader Kay Kyser is going to bat again for another one of North Carolina's pet projects.

The Rocky Mount native who was a leader in the state's Better Health campaign is vacationing with his family at Nags Head.

During the time, he has appeared twice in "The Lost Colony," Paul Green's symphonic drama now in its 13th season.

But it is frequently facing financial troubles and Kyser believes his flair for showmanship can help keep the production off the rocks.

Kyser and officials of the Roanoke Island Historical Association will swap their ideas on how to continue "The Lost Colony" at a mass meeting of Dare County citizens here next Monday night.

Sales For First Week On Border Belt Hit $50.20

Raleigh, Aug. 8—(AP)—The second week of sales began today on tobacco markets of the Carolinas Border belt.

First week sales amounted to 35,133,306 pounds averaging $50.2 a hundred pounds.

This was $4.34 below the record high of $54.44 for 28,448,000 pounds sold in last year's first week.

Last week the individual market averages ranged from $46.75 to $54.65. The bulk of offerings was low to choice hogs, low to good leaf and cutters, and low and fair primings. Lugs predominated, making up about half of the offerings. The ratio of lemon-colored tobacco was greater this year.

Most markets were blocked during last week's four days of sales. Volume is expected to decline the middle of this week.

Strength FOR THE DAY

Service
Last month a world-famous man paid his first visit to the United States. At seventy-four, Dr. Albert Schweitzer is a renowned organist, an outstanding authority on Bach and Goethe, and probably the best known living missionary.

Few men achieve distinction in one field; Dr. Schweitzer has done so in three. Yet we customarily believe that we must concentrate our effort in one direction to succeed, and we commonly hear the excuse, "I could really accomplish something if I weren't so busy."

Dr. Schweitzer's life is a striking demonstration that the busier we are, the more we get done. Between 1906 and 1913, for example, he took a seven-year medical course, edited a six-volume edition of Bach's music, wrote a book on the organ, and published two theological studies. Any one of these tasks would have been a worthwhile accomplishment—but how could one man have done them all?

A clue to Dr. Schweitzer's dynamic energy may be found in the aim of his life: service to others. For the last thirty-six years he has been a missionary in Africa. His seven years of medical study were a preparation for this work. Here is a life literally given away—but with what a return! "For whoever would save his life shall lose it; but whoever shall lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it."

COUNCIL OF EUROPE

It was not until the latter part of the nineteenth century that Italy became a nation. For centuries, ever since the collapse of the Roman Empire, the peninsula had been split up into tiny city states and provinces. Their history was marked by frequent wars and invasions whose fierceness fully equalled the warlike actions of the larger nations. Unity for Italy was a dream that seemed never possible to accomplish.

Yet unity for those people was a logical thing... same language, same historical background, no racial barriers and geographically speaking the union was as ultimately necessary for the common good of the Italian people as such a thing could be.

What has the history of Italy to do with today's events? Well, in Europe the charter nations of the Council of Europe are meeting. Its significance is that it is a step forward in the ambition of a "United States of Europe."

As in Italy of the past, the union appears to be the answer to many problems affecting the welfare of many people. The advantages of a federated continent would be great. Small disputes that could lead to interference with trade or possible war would be averted; more economic mass-production of needed goods could be attained (would such industrial giants as we have in America, which provide cheaper services and goods by the means of mass-production, be possible if their selling areas were reduced to the consumers of only the state in which they happened to be located?)

Trade barriers would be lifted and a saner apportionment of agricultural and industrial production might be effected. The overworked people of Europe would benefit greatly by both economic and political advantages.

McNaught Syndicate, Inc., N.Y.C. REG-MANNING

The language barrier is the great barrier. Separate and distinct customs and the traditions of centuries were overcome by the Italian states when they became a nation. There was no language barrier.

Geographically, the continent of Europe is a peninsula extending to the west of the larger land mass of Asia. Similar reasons for the union of West Europe exist today as existed for the Italian states.

No one knows yet just how close a federated Europe is to becoming a reality instead of a dream. The idea has been kicking around for a long time and history indicates that good ideas are eventually accepted, though it takes time.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
New York—(AP)—When you grow from a boy into a man you are short changed in many ways. You trade the simple life for the complicated left. And one of the things you trade is the "old swimming hole" for the beach. It is a swap. It turns the carefree barefoot boy to yore into a grumbling, grumbling grownup beast of burden.

When I was a boy and summered in the country, going swimming was no problem. We just peeled off our overalls behind a bush, and waded into the stream or pool, bare as a

Somebody Told Me...

By L. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

A quotation from somewhere: "He who is criticized can at least claim that he has been noticed." Another one: "He who makes an unjust claim should at least be willing to correct it."

These quotations probably fit the situation under consideration today. July 27 this column sang the praises of Fred "Pappy" Williams, manager of the Greenville baseball team. One verse of the song said that The Pap is quite a hustler to be 44 years old.

No sooner had this column come off the press than the fans began a long and loud protest. Some said that he's 35. Sports writer Bert Moyer said Pappy claims 36, and somebody said that his Social Security card lists him as 35. In view of these protests to my statement that he's 44, I printed a retraction, nominating "How old is Pappy?" as the question of the week.

Here is the response received from that question:

1305 Forbes Street, Greenville, N. C. August 5, 1949.

Mr. Jack Edwards, The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N. C.
Dear Sir:
This letter is in regard to your "Question of the Week" in your column in yesterday's Daily Reflector. I could answer your question but as I have been doubted by others I would like for you to get this information from an authentic source.

For fifty cents, which I am enclosing, and a three-cent stamp, blue jay and happy as a hound dog. The only thing to fear was stepping on a crow's claw or meeting up with a water snake. And of course, you had to keep an eye on the sush behind which lay your overalls. If you didn't some rural cousin would sneak out, tie them in knots and soak them in the stream. Then, later, as you tried to untie your soaping clothing, the gang would surround you and scream: "Chaw beef! Chaw beef!"

When the evening train passed on the way to Kansas City, most of the kids ducked down to their necks in the water. But there was always one who climbed up on the grass and paraded back and forth in view of the passengers.

In those faraway days such a boy wasn't called a "showoff." The Missouri phrase was: "look at the bank strutter," and anybody, man or boy, who tried to keep in the public eye was known as "that bank strutter." It was a popular term among politicians.

Going home from the "ole swimming hole" a boy might get a thorn in his foot. But, all in all, his dunking had been as artless and easy as the first dive by Adam into the Garden of Eden's pool.

Co-educational swimming has ruined all that. After a man marries, he finds that going to the beach is a ritual and an industry. Getting properly undressed for the ocean's foamy touch takes more trouble and clothing than dressing for a fancy dress ball. It is more like going on an African safari than going for a swim.

I spent a weekend at the beach recently with Frances. She packed two heavy suitcases. After lugging them for three hours to reach the sea, via subway, train, taxi and ferry I figured the suitcases must have emergency to protect us against any emergency except prostrate and being hit by lightning. They did.

In the suitcases were two bath-tobes, enough towels to dry a battalion of purpoises, two pairs of slippers, sunglasses, four bathing suits, socks, slacks, shirts, dresses, fountain pens, pins, combs, books, magazines, vitamin pills and an unanswered letter from a friend in Montana. There also was a battery of bottles loaded with lotions and creams sufficient to grease Shirley May France for a swim from Dover to Boston.

"I don't want you to get sunburned Frances. That afternoon as we lay on the beach Frances mused: "Wouldn't it be nice if we had brought along the portable radio?" You know what I got out of the week-end? A strained back—and a bad sunburn. The ocean took my lotion.

I'm through swimmin' with women. Send me to the showers, coach, or back to that ole swimming hole.

Around Capitol Square

SETTLED?—Whether the situation with respect to state advertising is near settlement or farther away from adjustment than ever by reason of Governor Scott's arbitrary action only future developments will show. Governor Scott has several times before surprised the state in going over the heads of boards and commissions to place his own choices in key positions, but the steps taken in connection with state advertising were unprecedented even for him in by-passing legally constituted authority and ignoring the statutes. At least the matter is now in the open. The tense feeling between the governor and the board of conservation and development, which your reporter has often mentioned and which has been denied in official quarters, is now on the record.

REVIEW—It has all been told before, but brief review of incidents may be in order here. As much as a year ago reports gained currency that Governor Scott desired to use the advertising account as political pay-off for his supporters. C and D board members didn't like that idea. Early this summer Bill Sharpe, who had headed the advertising division for most of the time since its establishment, resigned effective August 1. Then came reports that Governor Scott wanted that job for a political supporter. Prior to the board meeting at Morehead City two weeks ago there was a lot of grapevine talk about the case. But in all open sessions of the board and its committees a positive prevailed. However, no positive action was taken with respect to either the advertising director or the agency which would handle the account. Since then many rumors of friction and cross-purpose have been in circulation. A few days ago it looked like John Marshall would get the job and that Ayer and Gillett would continue for awhile at least with the agreement under which that agency has handled the advertising account since January of last year. RAPID—Then came rapid developments. Marshall wired the governor on Thursday that he would not accept the post. At his press conference Friday afternoon the governor announced that his private secretary, Charles Parker, would take over the news-advertising berth under a new title as director of state advertising, and that John Marshall had been selected as private secretary to the governor. Governor Scott also said he had not consulted the board or the advertising committee chairman, either Ayer and Gillett or termination of the agreement with them. Under the law responsibility for administering the department of conservation and development is vested in the board of fifteen members.

POLICY—How these incidents will affect future policy with respect to state advertising will depend upon a good many factors. The 15-member board is set up so that five terms expire every two years. Because of two resignations Governor Scott recently appointed seven new members. There is some evidence that he is needing carry-over appointees to get them to resign so he can name a clear majority of the board. Governor Broughton accomplished that by having the law changed to end all terms at one time, but Governor Cherry requested the staggered term plan be reinstated. Many North Carolinians who have invested large sums in facilities to accommodate tourists and others who have shared in the 200 million dollars spent by travelers in the state, are concerned about effect of change policy on this growing industry. Governor Scott has indicated his attitude by referring to certain highways as unnecessary "tourist roads," and by recalling that the coastal and mountain areas, principal direct beneficiaries of the tourist trade did not support him in last year's primary.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington—Some 2,600 grants, or scholarships, will be awarded this year under the Fulbright Act, which provides for education in exchange programs abroad. Eleven countries are participating in the program. These are the countries which have already signed agreements under the Act, passed in 1946. The Act was launched by Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.), a former Rhodes scholar, in the face of the need for broader educational understanding and the shortage of dollars. Other nations wished to buy the millions of dollars worth of surplus property which the United States shipped abroad during the war, but they could not obtain enough dollars to do so. The Fulbright Act authorizes the Department of State to use foreign currencies and credits acquired through the sale of these properties for programs of educational exchange.

It is expected that an additional nine nations will sign agreements under the act and that about $140,000,000 will be used over a 20-year period to carry out the programs. The maximum that can be used in any country over the 20-year period is $20,000,000, to be spent at the rate of not more than $1,000,000 annually. Only China, Britain, France and Italy will have this amount to use. Other countries have varying amounts, from about $200,000 to 850,000 a year. The program provides for sending Americans abroad, maintaining foreigners at American institutions abroad and financing travel for nationals of other countries to study in the United States. In September about 100 American students, 22 professors, 125 teachers and 15 researchers will participate in the program in England alone, with a comparable number of persons from England coming here to study on travel grants. The State Department says about 2,500 applications have been made for some 250 available student grants in France. Sen. Fulbright says the exchange program can play an important role in carrying out the President's Point Four program. This includes exchange of technical knowledge as well as investment of American capital in other countries.

Circulation Rising Rapidly For Afternoon Newspapers Of N. C.

By LYNN NISBET
Raleigh. — Newspaper circulation has grown rapidly throughout the United States during the past few years, and North Carolina has more than kept pace with the rest of the country. In fact, North Carolina is one of the best "newspapered" areas in the world.

It is almost impossible to compile an accurate list of all publications produced in this state, and largely circulated here. Church, institutional and trade papers are not included in usual newspaper listings—and North Carolina has a lot of them.

Most reliable listing shows this state has 43 daily newspapers—eight morning and 35 afternoon—and 169 papers of less than daily frequency. These publications deliver to readers each week more than 8,750,000 individual newspapers.

Latest available circulation figures show that morning dailies had combined average of 431,000; afternoon dailies 415,000 and less than daily frequency papers slightly over 300,000. These figures are in most instances a year or more old, and all brackets would be increased substantially on current audits. Despite false accusations to the contrary, North Carolinians are a reading people and they manifest increasing interest in current news.

There is no very accurate gauge for measuring number of newspaper readers. It is conceded in the trade that the home town weekly is the most thoroughly read, the afternoon daily next with morning papers having a lower percentage of readers as compared with gross circulation. Afternoon publishers long ago adopted the slogan "Evening Hours Are Reading Hours" and numerous surveys justify that claim. Analysis of circulation development of North Carolina papers shows larger percentage increase in the afternoon fields, despite almost phenomenal growth of a few leading morning newspapers.

A few years ago the ratio of afternoon to morning circulation was 45-55. Now it is 49-51. That change has been due to equal or faster growth in circulation of established afternoon newspapers, plus the fact that while only one morning paper has entered the field in the past few years (Elizabeth City Independent with about 3,000) at least four have started daily afternoon publication. They are the Chowan Times at Ahoskie, the News-Topic at Lenoir, the Dispatch at Lexington, and the Herald at Roanoke Rapids.

It is well known that afternoon circulation is more local. A much larger percentage of morning papers go outside the state. While the Charlotte News, biggest in the afternoon field, has a good many subscribers in South Carolina, the proportion of total is not nearly so large as that of the Charlotte Observer, leader in the morning group. The Raleigh News and Observer perhaps sends more papers to Washington and other state capital cities than all the afternoon papers combined.

This factor is believed by competent analysts to mean that despite a slightly larger overall circulation the morning newspapers published in North Carolina do not deliver as many papers inside the state as the aggregate of afternoon number of morning editions go to business offices, while the afternoon newspapers go into homes and are more generally read by all members of the family. "Evening Hours Are Reading Hours."

Large Tumor In Child Is Removed

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Two-year-old Judy Rae Carpenter today was given better than an even chance to live following removal of a tumor as big as a man's head from her tiny chest.

The tumor, said by University Hospital staff members to be the largest of its kind they had ever seen, was removed last week. It had the bodily components of another child.

The disorder, according to Dr. Vernon L. Boersma of the hospital pediatrics department, is known to doctors as "the included twin." Its cause, he said, has not been determined.

If there had been a normal development Judy would have had a twin, physicians believe.

The tumor took up so much space in Judy's chest that it had collapsed her right lung to the size of an egg, doctors found. But after the three-hour operation, the lung expanded and is now functioning.

The child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carpenter of Morris, Mich., said that she had complained of stomach pains and shortness of breath for several months.

Participants line up for inspection during a festival in Bavaria, Germany, to insure that they are wearing genuine Bavarian costumes. Two of the inspectors check to see that underwear is in the conventional fashion—shorts reaching to the knees. An expert can tell quickly whether one is a native Bavarian or a "foreigner" dressed like one. It takes three hours for a girl to dress "genuinely Bavarian." (AP Wirephoto).

District Mormon Missionaries To Meet August 13

The monthly missionary conference for the missionaries in the Goldsboro district of the Central Atlantic States Mission will be held in Greenville on the 13th and 14th of August according to a recent announcement by N. M. Jorgensen, president of the Greenville Branch of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormon).

All full time Latter-day Saint missionaries laboring in the ten counties comprising the Goldsboro district will be in attendance. Just 26 of 5,000 young men and women of the church who devote two years of their time at their own expense, these are mostly from the western part of the United States, Arizona, Utah, Idaho and California representing their home states. Several however are from North Carolina and Virginia. The Greenville branch itself is represented in this unique missionary system by Ed Joe Waters, son of Mrs. Florence Waters, Route 5, who is serving in New Mexico which is part of the Southwest Indian Mission.

The conference will begin Saturday at 10 a. m. with a report meeting for the missionaries to be followed by reports of activities in the afternoon with a barbecue supper to boost the Greenville branch building fund in the evening. The public is invited.

The first session of conference will be held at 10 a. m. Sunday at the Redman Hall on Cotanche street, followed by a lunch spread with the second session at 2 p. m.

These meetings which are considered spiritual feasts by the members are open to the public and all visitors will be welcome. Anyone desiring further information may obtain it by contacting N. M. Jorgensen, 513 East Eighth street, or the traveling elders at Route 5, Box 26, Greenville.

Relax Men, You Can't Win In A Fashion War

Washington, Aug. 8.—(AP)—G. Bromley Oxnam, Methodist bishop of the New York area, accused the Roman Catholic leadership last night of killing the proposals in Congress for federal aid to public schools.

In a radio interview (WWDC) he said Francis Cardinal Spellman's "personal attack" on Mrs. Roosevelt was a part of a "coldly calculated plan" of the Catholic hierarchy.

He said this plan was "designed to deny federal aid to public schools unless the hierarchy can get its hands into the public treasury and secure millions for the support of parochial education."

Bishop Oxnam said the American people have recently learned that federal aid to education is dead for this session of Congress, and most of them deplore the fact.

Bishop Oxnam also said there is a "striking parallel between the organizational structure and method of the world wide communist political party and the world wide Roman Catholic political party. Both are totalitarian. Both seek control of the minds of men everywhere. Both practice excommunication and character assassination and economic reprisals."

Relax Men, You Can't Win In A Fashion War

New York, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Park your coats on that hitching post, gents, and let's amble down Fifth Avenue while the women folks are finishing their marshmallow sundae.

The big stores with the chromium plated floor walkers broke out a few million dollars' worth of female fall finery over the weekend, and you might as well see what you are going to get nicked for.

Pay no mind to all that fancy advertising. Here's what it boils down to:

The French new look is battling it out for the national fashion title with the American "back to the 1920s look."

You should worry which one wins. Either way, it's going to cost you.

This window here—that bunch of black fluffy stuff on the mannequin with her nose in the air: That's the new look.

How does it differ from the old new look?

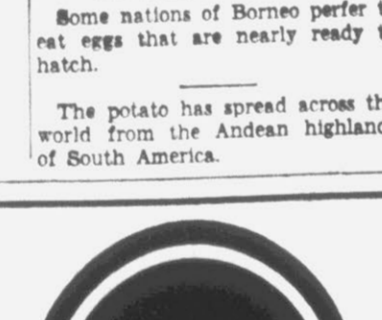

Well, the hem hangs higher. Thirteen and a half inches from the floor. Remember that! You might be asked about it on a give-away program.

Also, the new look has something called a floating power. The floating panel is a kind of misplaced bit. It hangs down from the waist, apron-wise.

Now then, in the next block, the new old look.

Gad, what memories it brings back—Cal Coolidge, the Charleston, Clara Bow, prohibition. The tight, or hobble, skirt is now back. Short! too—way up what we used to call the limb. And get

FIRST GLIMPSE of a BRAND-NEW IDEA

HERE is a hint of something wonderful that's coming your way.

It is more than just the front end of the new Buick SPECIAL. It's a fresh new front end treatment—a "Buick first"—and it makes so much sense that it's safe to say it will start a new trend in styling.

Look it over and you'll see what we mean: Sturdy vertical bars, attached to the bumper, form the grille—and at the same time serve as bumper-guards, which makes it impossible for you to "lock horns" with the car ahead of you.

The bumper no longer projects beyond the grille—so inches are saved in the over-all length of the car.

Parking lights are deeply recessed. The grille is made up of bars heavy enough to absorb all normal impact—and they're individually replaceable to cut repair costs in the unlikely event of damage.

Bumper, grille, bumper-guards and parking lights all become part of a single, unified design.

But—stunning as this brilliant bit of designing is—it's just a hint of all the new things you'll see when the new SPECIAL goes on display.

Even the price is good news. So watch for the full announcement—coming very soon—and you'll agree that more than ever, Buick's the one for you.

Greenies Win Ninth In Row On 6-3 Victory Over Jays

Yohn Notches 11th Win Of Season After Slow Start As Greenies Stretch Victory String To New Record For Season

Pappy Williams' Greenies did it again Sunday afternoon, rallying from a 3-1 deficit to lay Roanoke Rapids low by a 6-3 count. The victory was their ninth straight and extended their winning streak well beyond all previous efforts.

Junior Yohn notched his eleventh win of the season (as against five losses) Yohn frequently found himself in trouble during the opening frames but settled down in the fifth to hold the Jays scoreless for the remainder of the game.

Williams and Strausser, each with three hits in four times at bat, led the Greenies in the hitting department. Tepedino, Mauney and Palica accounted for the remaining four hits racked up by the locals.

Greenie will be host tonight to the Roanoke Rapids club in their second game of the series in Guy Smith Stadium.

Woodcock Talks Of 'Retirement'

Doncaster, England, Aug. 8—(P)—Bruce Woodcock tossed a wrench into his fight with Lee Savold today by announcing he may retire from boxing.

But in London, Jack Solomons, the promoter who has Woodcock billed to fight Savold for the British version of the world heavyweight championship, said the contest "will take place as soon as Bruce is fit."

Solomons has sold all the 40,000 seats at London's White City Stadium for the bout originally scheduled for Sept. 6.

Crowds Support Stumbling Bucs

Pittsburgh, Aug. 9—(AP)—As a baseball team the Pittsburgh Pirates are something less than terrific.

But as a paying business enterprise they are just about phenomenal.

The stumbling Bucs have wallowed in the National League's 2nd division most of the 1949 season—yet last week the Forbes Field turnstiles clicked into the senior circuit's lead for season's attendance.

Yesterday, 27,928 fans paid to see the hapless Pirates drop a twin bill to the Philadelphia Phillies, and raised the season's gate to a total of 1,088,599.

That places the Forbes Field attendance 78,250 above Brooklyn, which, until last week, paced the circuit in drawing crowds.

"They just like the kind of baseball they see at Forbes Field, whether the Pirates win or lose," said John A. Pieper, manager of the Forbes Field ticket office.

"And they get a chance to tell somebody off—and brother, they don't miss anybody."

And they didn't. Players from both teams, the umpires (of course), and even the peanut and pop vendors and the harried tenants of the press box drew derisive hoots from the shirt-sleeved mob.

Pirate officials said Forbes Field fandom is not restricted to Pittsburgh and its environs. Men, women and children—in some cases, entire families—swarm into the steel city from the western Pennsylvania coal fields, the hills of West Virginia and even desert the ballwalk of the Cleveland Indians and trek in from Ohio.

Art Houtteman Is Back On Mound After Accident

Boston, Aug. 8—(AP)—Last spring the big, husky young pitcher nearly was killed when his car was in collision with a fruit truck near Lakeland, Fla., where the Detroit Tigers were training.

Art Houtteman's life was despaired of at first. Then doctors said he would recover—but they seriously doubted when he'd be able to play ball again.

Art, a Detroit born right-hander, not only recovered but yesterday celebrated his 22nd birthday by pitching the Tigers to a 6-4 decision over the Boston Red Sox who had won seven in succession.

"You know, said the soft spoken young pitcher after the game, "that's my first victory in this park and I have tried six or seven other times. This club is rough to beat any time, but more so here in Fenway Park. Those boys have the power and know how to hit."

Pro Football League Rivalry Again Flares With 'Jump' By Steeler

Cambridge Springs, Pa., Aug. 8—(AP)—The bitter rivalry between the nation's pro football leagues flared wide open again today—a national league has jumped to the enemy all-American conference.

He's 23-year-old Johnny Mastrangelo, ex-guard at Notre Dame and until today a key man in the plans of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Mastrangelo, who has been playing catcher for the Philadelphia Athletics lately, did things to the Indians in the last three days that shouldn't happen to an American League pennant contender.

While the A's were taking three of four games from Cleveland, Guerra cracked out nine hits—including two doubles and a triple in 13 official trips to the plate. In all, he was on base 13 times in 16 batting appearances and brought his average up from .257 to .284.

Snavelly Opens Coaching Clinic

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 8—(P)—Coach Carl Snavelly of the North Carolina Tar Heels opened a three-day football coaching clinic here today.

The clinic, the second annual such affair put on at the University of South Carolina for South Carolina high school coaches, will end Wednesday with an all-star high school players' game that night.

The three-day first half of the clinic, on basketball, ended Saturday night with the upper state all stars beating the lower country boys 42-33.

Bulky Field For 'Hambletonian'

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 8—(AP)—A bulky field of 18 starters, second largest in the history of the race was indicated today for the 24th Hambletonian Stake Wednesday.

The latest check through the barns at this home of harness racing's blue ribbon trotting event brought up the names of four additional horses not previously considered as possible candidates for the $67,000 classic.

If all known candidates face the barrier, it will be the largest field since a record 19 pounded around the kite-shaped mile track in 1945 when Titan Hanover won in two straight heats.

Latest to come into consideration are Penelope Hanover, owned by Kenneth Dale Owen of Houston Tex.; Prince Comet, owned by Dave Resnick, Washington, Pa.; Rosamond, Gib White, Lexington, Ky.; and St. Clair, C. W. Phellis, Greenwich, Conn.

St. Clair is a bay son of Spencer Scott, which grabbed the 1940 Hambletonian for Phellis. Phellis also is the owner of Miss Tilly, champion two-year-old filly of last season and winter book co-favorite with Bangaway for Wednesday's classic.

If both the Phellis horses start, it will be the second two-horse combination in the event, for Hayes Fair Acres Stable, Du Quoin, Ill., plans to send Scotch Pal and Atlantic Maid after the big prize.

Lesnevich-Charles Fight Brief, If You Believe'em

New York, Aug. 8—(AP)—If the usual confident pre-fight statements are to be believed, the Ezzard Charles-Gus Lesnevich heavyweight battle here Wednesday night won't last long.

The fight carries title status everywhere in the United States except here in New York. This is the only state that doesn't see eye to eye with the National Boxing Association.

The Yankee Stadium engagement is billed for 15 rounds. But as the fighters wound up boxing drips there seemed to be considerable support for a shorter engagement.

Curbs For Bowl Game Craze Are In The Making

Chicago, Aug. 8—(AP)—Curbs on the bowl game football craze are in the making.

Nine collegiate athletic leaders from various sections of the nation plan to put "sensible" restrictions on such games. They will meet here next weekend.

They are on the 1949 bowl game committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The NCAA gave the group power to set up bowl game rules relating to sponsors, management, participation and promotion.

The recommendations next Saturday and Sunday are to be submitted to NCAA convention delegates in New York Jan. 13-14. If that's done, the rules would apply to all 390 NCAA member schools.

Amvets Prepare For 4-Day Meet

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 8—(P)—North Carolina's Amvets open a four-day annual convention Thursday.

Secretary of the army Gordon Gray will be on the reviewing stand Saturday when every Amvet post in the state will be represented in a parade.

State commander James H. Pou Bailey said that Lt. Col. Roswell P. Rosengreen, chief of the army's public information office, will be the principal speaker at a Saturday night banquet.

Unpaid Fines Go Over $22 Million

Washington, Aug. 5—(P)—Justice department records show an accumulation of $22,296,931 in unpaid fines in the federal district courts across the country since 1941.

Much of it will never be paid, because in many cases, the defendant against whom the fine was assessed has signed a pauper's oath, attesting inability to pay.

Playground Activities

The Greenville Playgrounds will officially close at noon Saturday, August 13. The last inter-playground activity will be a stunt contest held on Wednesday at Cotanche Park. All participating in this program will be guests at a swimming party.

The girls' softball team from Cotanche Park will meet the West Greenville team in the championship game at Cotanche on Tuesday afternoon. The teams are tied at present.

Cotanche Park has a total of 697 points, West Greenville 665, 14th Street 276, and Third Street 206. Competition between West Greenville and Cotanche has been close and spirited all summer and the winners of the stunt and of the baseball will determine the first and second place holders of the summer's competition.

The story hour for the little children will continue at 10 o'clock this week.

New National Jaycee Champion

Houston, Tex., Aug. 8—(P)—Bud Holscher, Santa Monica, is the new National Jaycee Junior golf tournament champion.

Holscher convincingly dethroned Gene Littler, San Diego, 6 and 5, in the 36-hole finals of the fourth annual Jaycee meet yesterday.

Wonderful New Comfort

The Beautiful Chrysler | Silver Anniversary Model

New Yorker 4-door sedan with PRESTOMATIC FLUID DRIVE* TRANSMISSION—drive without shifting

New Wider Chair-Height Seats! We don't fold you up like a "jackknife." You sit comfortably in seats the height of your easy chairs at home. We've more headroom, legroom, and shoulder room for you. And no other car has ever been so completely engineered from the fundamentals up for your comfort, your convenience, your peace of mind.

New Easier Steering! In one of the great advances since the war, we give you new "center control" steering. For the first time, tie rods of equal length give you no wheel light. There's greater road stability, easier handling, less road shock. Yes, and greater safety, too—for everything about this car is designed for safer driving.

New Smoother Driving! Chrysler's mighty Spitfire engine now has still higher compression for faster acceleration, smoother response. And along with its better all-around performance goes an amazing new Waterproof Ignition System that's exclusive with Chrysler. You can drive through high water but it won't stall. You get quicker starting, even in damp weather, smoother idling, longer life.

Chapter 1

The crash of splintering woodwork echoed through the empty warehouse above. The momentary drumming of feet across the floor ended abruptly in a fusillade of shots. The quiet that followed was a prelude to disaster for the men listening below.

The noise of movement overhead was louder now. In a matter of seconds, the police would find the steel re-enforced door at the top of the stairs. Once they got through that, it would be every man for himself.

Instantly, the men were galvanized into action. Pulling the heavy press aside, they began to pry open a section of the floor boards, to disclose a large cavity. Into this went copperplates, negatives, filters, and the various chemicals needed to make currency without the benefit of the supervision of the United States Treasury.

"It won't take 'em long to find it, if they really tear the joint apart, but maybe we can keep 'em occupied with other things for a while. Get the lights out, Joe!" a voice ordered.

The heavy darkness heightened the tension.

The door was slowly giving away. Hald Scott began to move forward. With a groaning snap the door burst open.

For a moment, they were blinded by a powerful flashlight from the top of the stairs. Faintly, they made out the surge of blue-clad forms through the door. Then bedlam broke loose. A slug shattered the light and hit the man behind it. The police were apparently having trouble getting around the fallen man, for they stopped shooting.

The one named Joe edged toward the stairs, and from a new vantage point began to throw a rapid fire. In spite of the hall of bullets beating against them, sheer weight of numbers on the part of the police was beginning to tell. A muffled curse, ending in a gasp, indicated that one of the counterfeiters near Hald had been hit.

The shooting became spasmodic, finally stopped.

"O K, boys—show 'em over," a voice called. At the same time, a brilliant light flooded the room.

"Two stiff back there, Captain," one of the patrolmen pointed out.

A third policeman, holding a riot gun, motioned Hald to join the others.

"All right! Up with you!" He indicated the stairs. "You, O'Malley, watch him. This bird will have some interesting talking to do."

As Hald stumbled up the stairs, his mind was racing over the possibilities of a getaway. If it was to work at all, it would have to be as they were cutting through the warehouse on the loading dock, where the police had forced an entrance.

He turned his head slightly to see if anyone else had come up the stairs. Only the faint sound of voices came up to him from below. The patrolman who had accompanied the three other men was out of sight.

O'Malley was slightly behind him, torch in his left hand, his right holding a gun. As they drew level with a mass of packingcases piled one on top of the other, with only a narrow passageway between, Hald realized it would be now or never.

Pretending to stumble, he put off his arm toward the policeman as if to regain his balance. As the latter drew level with him, he pressed his wrist holding the gun, and pressed down with all his weight. At the same time, he pushed the other forward with as much force as he could. O'Malley, taken by surprise, was unable to stop himself until he brought up against a heavy crate. With the wind partially knocked out of him, he could not immediately bring his gun around. This gave Hald his chance. Darting into the alleyway between the cases, he tried to put as much distance between himself and the policeman as he could. The respite was brief, for almost immediately O'Malley shouted at the top of his lungs. Feet pounded up the stairs from below, announcing reinforcements.

Hald realized that the others would know their way around no better than he. But they did have the advantage of flashlights. Once his eyes became accustomed to the gloom, however, it was easier to make his way along.

Suddenly, as he glanced up, a slightly lighter patch met his eye. Possibly a small window built high for purposes of ventilation. It seemed to offer his only chance. Cautiously, he began to climb toward it, fearing at each moment that one of the cases would come crashing down.

Working now with all the haste caution permitted, he opened the window. The hinges giving forth a small squeak in spite of his efforts

Nat'l Polio Foundation Sends $85,000 To N. C.

New York, Aug. 8.—(AP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis today sent $85,000 to local foundation chapters in North Carolina.

Basel O'Connor, National Foundation president, said this brings to $262,000 the amount of funds sent to the Tar Heel state since the first of the year.

"States such as North Carolina," said O'Connor, "show the cost in dollars and cents following an epidemic where medical care must be continued for months and years."

He pointed out that only 90 cases have been reported so far this year, compared with last year's 3,518 cases.

In 1948, North Carolina received $1,860,000 in March of Dimes funds. Of this total, $1,420,000 in emergency aid was sent from the National Foundation.

The National Foundation said the great pile of equipment collected at camp Sutton, N. C.—which was used as an emergency hospital until last June—has now been transferred to 11 other states for use in treating victims in this year's epidemics.

UNC Applicants Asked If They Are Communists

Chapel Hill, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Applicants for teaching positions at the University of North Carolina are being asked whether they are, or have been, member of the Communist party.

W. D. Carmichael, Jr., comptroller and acting president of the university, said in reply to a reporter's question yesterday:

"As a matter of administrative practice, in recent weeks all prospective faculty members . . . have been asked to state on their employment applications whether they are or ever have been a member of the Communist party."

Hans Freistadt, a part time instructor in physics, was not re-hired by the university at the end of the last school year after he acknowledged that he was a communist.

Manhunt Staged For 9 Escapees

Tarboro, Aug. 8.—(AP)—A manhunt was on today for nine Negro convicts, including two killers, who saved their way out of a big prison camp near here early yesterday.

They out two bars of their cell block, tied up two guards, and climbed over the back gate of the stockade.

From the cell block they got into a hallway, overpowered Guard Robert Pannell, tied him, and took his pistol and sawed off shotgun. They removed the shells and left the weapons. They awoke Relief Guard Lee Turner, who was off duty, and bound him. Neither guard was harmed.

Turner got loose about an hour and a half later and reported the escape to Prison Superintendent W. H. Stell.

Prison officials and state highway patrolmen started a search throughout northeastern North Carolina, using bloodhounds.

Officials said the prisoners first headed east toward Tarboro, three miles away, and then apparently divided into smaller groups.

N. C. Federation Of Labor Opens Annual Meeting

Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 8.—(AP)—The annual meeting of the North Carolina Federation of Labor opened here today. Delegates were expected to discuss the action of the last General Assembly in killing a bill to modify the state's 1947 anti-losed shop act before the convention ends Wednesday.

Officers will be elected the closing day. Veteran C. A. Fink of Spencer was expected to be renominated, with Leroy Sams of Asheville, Claude L. Albee, of Charlotte and E. A. Brown of Durham seen as possible

Korea Joins Nationalist China Backing New Pact

By The Associated Press

The leaders of Nationalist China and the South Korea Republic called today for a conference of Asian powers to draft a Pacific Alliance against Communism.

Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and President Syngman Rhee of South Korea made the request in a joint statement issued after a two-day conference in Chungking, Korea. They asked President Elpidio Quirino of the Philippines to summon the nations.

Quirino, in San Francisco on his way to visit President Truman, had no comment. He and Chiang laid the foundation for a Pacific pact last month in a similar conference at Bakuio, in the Philippines.

The picture has changed since then, however. Quirino recast last week his entire concept of the projected Pacific union and eliminated all reference to Chiang and his crumbling Nationalist regime in China. The United States issued a white paper which labelled the communist government a failure in the civil war against the Chinese Communists.

Now Washington seeks the development of a new American policy toward China and the Orient. Secretary of State Acheson expects to begin consultations with congressional foreign policy committees on the subject before the end of the present session of congress.

Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, Republican floor leader in the House, said yesterday that Republicans "stand ready to join with the administration in the formulation of a strengthened China policy for peace."

Biggest Outlays On Education By State Gov'ts

Washington, Aug. 8—(AP)—State governments spent more on education than anything else.

In the year ended June 30, 1948 more than one-fifth of state expenditures—$2,312,000,000—went to schools. Next in line, the Census Bureau reported today, were highways, $1,989,000,000; public welfare (relief, etc.) $1,609,000,000; hospitals and institutions for the handicapped $581,000,000. These four functions accounted for more than two-thirds of all state spending.

State government expenditures totaled $10,400,000,000 in the year. This was an increase of 28.4 per cent over the previous year.

Conservation of natural resources, public safety, correction (operation of jails, reform schools, etc.) and public health also were programs described as "involving sizeable state spending."

Strike Voted, But No Walkout Seen For Union

New York, Aug. 8—(AP)—A union officer predicted today that 12,000 Marine engineers working from east and gulf ports would not strike Aug. 16 despite a strike authorization vote.

Robert Thompson, an official of the 4,000-member local 33 of the CIO National Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, said "I don't think there will be one (a strike)."

The hiring hall method of supplying ship engineers through union halls has been the big issue in a dispute between the union and 40 shipping companies.

The union plans to resume negotiations with the aid of federal mediators soon, Thompson said. He added that legal advisers said the hiring hall for engineers did not violate the Taft-Hartley law.

Thompson, who caught fire off the coast late yesterday and was towed to the Wilmington harbor early today.

Goat Hair 'Smog' For Wilmington

Wilmington, Aug. 8—(AP)—Wilmingtonians who last fall instituted a move which brought 50 Donora, Pa., smog victims to Wrightsville Beach for a week's vacation were today themselves victims of a smog caused by burning goat hair.

New Hanover county health officer Dr. A. H. Elliott said this afternoon that "it is assumed that the gaseous smoke came from the fire aboard the ship. Coast Guard officers aboard the cutter Mendota had said earlier that they believed the smoke was coming from a fire aboard the Liberty ship Pere Mar-

Firm Has Eye On N. C. Advertising

Raleigh, Aug. 8—(AP)—Formation of a new advertising firm—organized with an eye to the state's $150,000 a year advertising account—was revealed today.

A certificate of incorporation for the firm of Eastman-Redwine Inc., was filed in the office of secretary of state Thad Eure. Incorporators of the new agency were listed as Robert Redwine, Thomas Ellis and Margaret Brock, all of Raleigh.

Redwine, who has been in the advertising business here for several years, said that the new firm would "solicit the state's account."

Governor Scott announced last Friday that the state's present advertising contract with the firm of Ayer and Gillett of Charlotte would be terminated and that a new contract would be negotiated.

Before the Charlotte firm was awarded the contract a year and a half ago, the firm of Eastman-Scott of Atlanta had handled the state's advertising for about 10 years. Redwine was Raleigh representative for the Atlanta firm.

Redwine said that he owns 50 per cent of the stock in the new firm of Eastman-Redwine and that Gerry Eastman of Atlanta, president of Eastman-Scott, owns the remaining 50 per cent.

Denies Husband's Story Of Slaying

Charlotte, Aug. 8—(AP)—A Negro woman today denied her husband's story that she had been with him when he killed an elderly white woman here last week and critically wounded her butler.

Pauline Medlin told police she had nothing to do with the robbery-slaying of Mrs. Estey O. Anderson, Sr., 68-year-old society matron.

Her husband, Monroe Medlin, confessed to shooting Mrs. Anderson with a shotgun at the fashionable Anderson residence here. Police Chief Frank Littlejohn reported.

Yesterday Littlejohn reported Medlin had changed his story, implicating his wife. Medlin, Littlejohn said, told police his wife was at the house with him and slashed the throat of Wilford Randleman, 43, the Anderson's butler. Medlin has admitted beating Randleman with a heavy iron pipe.

"I know what Monroe said," the Medlin woman said today, but all I know is, it's wrong.

The police chief said the husband's story, explained the muddy footprints of a woman's shoes found on a carpet of an upstairs bedroom shortly after the slaying.

Track Fans Boo Winner, Loser In Slow Race

Wilmington, Eng., Aug. 8—(AU) Race fans bronx-cheered the winner and loser today after a slow-motion mile and five furlong horse race that took more than five minutes.

Neither 2-5 favorite Ridgewood nor his opponent, Courier, stirred when the race, the Midland St. Leger trial stakes, started.

It was a two horse race and the customers yelled for action.

The starter's assistant moved behind the horses with his long whip. They began to move—at a walk.

Still walking, Ridgewood and Courier covered the first furlong in one minute, 24 seconds. A man can run that distance—220 yards—in 20.3 seconds.

The horses walked the first six furlongs while the fans booed. The horses broke into a run at the six-furlong mark and Ridgewood won by three lengths.

Tom Thumb, the first American-built steam locomotive, had a boiler the size of a flour barrel.

for healthful REST and perfect SLEEP

sleep on a KARPEN Pil-O-Rest

The relaxing comfort of sleeping on fluffy channeled pillows, supported by a firm completed innerspring unit, can be yours—only if you sleep on a Karpen Pil-O-Rest mattress. There's nothing to compare with this combination of just the right amount of "cushioning comfort" with just the right amount of healthful support. Karpen spent years in research to determine just how much cushion and just how much support was necessary... and the patented construction of the Pil-O-Rest is the result. We're proud to present this outstanding mattress.
