

County Welfare Department Has Its Biggest Year

Record Number Of Applications By Needy; Grants Near $400,000

The Pitt county welfare department during the past year received more applications for assistance under the federal, state and county financial assistance programs for needy persons than ever before in the history of the department.

The increase in applications from needy persons in the county during the past year was announced today by K. T. Futrell, superintendent of the welfare department, in his annual report for the department.

Futrell said cash grants paid out through the county office from county, state and federal funds amounted to almost $400,000 during the 12 months from June 30, 1948, to June 30, 1949.

During the year a total of 479 applications were received for old age assistance, and 368 of the applications were approved. The number of persons receiving old age assistance grants on June 30, 1948, in Pitt county was 688, and by June 30 of this year the number had increased to 912. Futrell said the average monthly grant for old age assistance is $18.90.

For aid to dependent children, 130 applications were received during the fiscal year, and 76 of the applications were approved by the department. On June 30, 1948, there were 142 aid to dependent children cases receiving payments from the county welfare department, and on June 30, 1949, the number of cases had increased to 206. The average grant for June 30 was $30.60 per month for each family. Futrell's report showed 642 children were benefiting from these grants on June 30 of this year.

Grants for aid to the blind increased from 82 at the beginning of the fiscal year to 100 at the end of the fiscal year. The average grant for blind persons on June 30 of this year was $23. Aid to the blind also included teaching of Braille, handicrafts, use of talking book machines, and training at centers for other vocational rehabilitation.

In non-financial services and financial assistance from county funds, 64 patients were given antitubercular care and treatment under the county program for financial assistance to indigent tubercular patients. A monthly average of 45 patients received care under the program.

Financial assistance for emergency hospital care was provided for 14 other indigent patients. Labor certificates were issued for 104 minors under the age of 18. Investigations were made on 47 applications for services under the vocational rehabilitation program to determine eligibility for services, and parole services were given 36 paroled with an average of 28 persons on the list each month.

The sum of $12,782 was paid out through the welfare department to the families of men convicted of non-support and ordered by the courts to make regular payments to their families.

Financial assistance was given to 173 applicants for general relief in the amount of $6,948.21. The population of the county home during the fiscal year ranged from 20 to 23 persons.

Defeat By Default?

President Quirino Of The Philippine Republic Wants To Know "What About Asia?"; Self Help Comes First, But Western Aid Needed To Stop Communism

By JAMES D. WHITE

In the midst of a debate on how much to spend on arming Europe against communism, Congress paused yesterday to hear a question from another precinct.

President Elpidio Quirino of the Philippines Republic asked, in effect, what about Asia?

Quirino's point was that Asia will be lost to communism by default unless the "same courage and vision" is applied there that went into the democratic defenses of Europe.

He said Asia must first of all help itself, but that conditions are so bad that Western technical aid and capital are needed if the job is to be done on time.

His sense of urgency, he said, had led him to start a movement toward a union of Pacific countries against communism. It could serve as a reception center for whatever aid America decides to extend. President Truman's "bold new program" to help economically underdeveloped countries is one way this may be done. Yesterday, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder asked Congress to get one phase of this program started by guaranteeing private American investments abroad.

President Quirino first suggested a Pacific union last winter when the Atlantic pact was announced. He got little attention at the time.

To keep his proposal in perspective, it is in order to note that his leadership in such a movement might well help him get reelected

Want MacArthur

Group Of 10 Senators Today "Urgently Requested" Secretary Of Defense Johnson To Recall General Douglas MacArthur From Japan

Nine Republicans and one Democrat Senator Byrd of Virginia—said in a letter to Johnson that the pending $1,450,000,000 foreign arms aid bill deals with "a problem which is global in character."

Nothing that the chiefs of staff have visited European countries but are not likely to have time to go to the Far Pacific the Senators said they want the views of MacArthur and vice adm. Oscar C. Badger, naval commander in the area, before voting on the arms measure.

Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) and 12 other Senators have proposed that $175,000,000 of the bill's funds be earmarked for military aid to non-Communist China.

Ambassador Will Report On China

John Leighton Stuart To Talk With Truman, Acheson

Washington, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Ambassador John Leighton Stuart arrives today from China to give a first-hand report on what the United States is now confronted with there.

He will talk directly with President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson.

Stuart's reports, following publication of the Truman administration's "White Paper," are expected to have an important bearing on the development of new American policies toward China. The White Paper wrote off the Chinese Nationalist government as a failure.

Especially important will be Stuart's estimates of (1) the possibilities of further assistance to Chinese Communists by Nationalist Generals outside the Red area and (2) the possibility of anti-Communist forces growing up inside the Communist controlled provinces.

Acheson, meanwhile, was reported ready to begin consultations with house and senate foreign affairs committees on the Chinese situation. Indications are that he is especially anxious to try to build new policies on a bi-partisan basis.

He had an appointment to go before the house committee today and it was understood that he might have another closed door session with the senate foreign relations group tomorrow.

Says Blockade Influenced Plans

Washington, Aug. 10.—(AP)—An Air Force General said today that Russia's sudden blockade of Berlin last summer had a strong influence on decisions to carry out the B36 bomber program.

Maj. Gen. Frederick H. Smith, air force requirements chief, returned to the witness stand for his second day before the house armed services committee.

Walks To Chair For Second Time

Huntsville, Tex., Aug. 10.—(AP)—W. Fred Jones walked to the electric chair for the second time in three days early today. This time he died.

The 40-year-old killer who Sunday morning won a three-day reprieve as he stood at the door of the death chamber entered the execution room at 12:03 a.m. (CST). He was pronounced dead at 12:11 a.m. (CST).

Housing Expediter Says Harry Vaughan Sought Track Permit

Washington, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Housing expediter Tighe E. Woods said today he recalls that Maj. General Harry M. Vaughan asked him to "hurry" along construction permit for the Tranforan Race track.

Woods told a Senate investigating subcommittee that Vaughan, President Truman's military aide, came to his office Jan. 12, 1948, to make the plea. He said Vaughan was accompanied by Eugene Mori of Camden, N. J., listed as Tranforan's president.

Woods previously had told the subcommittee only of being called to the White House Jan. 9, last year by Vaughan to discuss the Tranforan matter. He quoted Vaughan as telling him at the White House meeting that "some of my friends" were interested in the case.

Woods said that at the meeting three days later he believed that Vaughan asked him to "please hurry" along the permit because there was "something" before the California race track commission

A Trading Center

(Special to the Reflector)

New York, Aug. 8.—Business activity in Greenville hit a high figure during the past year, with retail sales well ahead of its quota among the cities of the United States. The findings are contained in Sales Management's copyrighted survey of buying power, a 600-page study just completed, covering every community over 10,000 population.

Greenville accounted for retail sales of $22,433,000. Thus the city did 0.172 percent of the nation's business with but 0.123 percent of the national population. It was also ahead on a statewide basis, doing 978 per cent of North Carolina's business although it has only 478 percent of the population of the state.

How well Greenville families fared is shown by their effective buying income—the amount available to them for spending after payment of personal taxes. With net earnings of $17,143,000 for the 4,700 families in Greenville, the average was $3,647 per family last year. The fact that retail sales were greater in volume than local income indicates that the city is the hub of a large trading area. Per individual in the city, the average available after taxes was $952.

The overall change in the past year in the picture of earnings and expenditures is shown by the figures in the survey. They indicate a 5.1 per cent rise in "spendable" money per family and a higher, 11.1 per cent, increase in the amount spent in retail stores. Out of every dollar retail stores got 69 cents.

Appeal Notice

The statement of a case on appeal has been received by Solicitor W. J. Bundy in connection with the Daniels cousins who were sentenced to death in Pitt Superior Court last June.

The defense attorneys gave notice of appeal at the time the sentence was pronounced by Judge Clawson L. Williams, and the appeal now has been completed.

Solicitor Bundy said the appeal is scheduled to be heard before the North Carolina Supreme Court in October.

Dock-Seizure By Hawaiian Gov't

Showdown Stage At Hand In 102-Day Waterfront Strike

Honolulu, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Seizure of Honolulu's two strikebound stevedoring firms carried Hawaii's 102-day waterfront tieup to the showdown stage today.

Gov. Ingram M. Stainback signed orders last yesterday for the territorial government's takeover of two of the islands' seven truck companies. The five others in the outer islands were not affected.

The striking CIO international longshoremen's and warehousemen's union awaited the start of government stevedoring operations to defy the territory's new dock-seizure law.

ILWU leader Jack Hall said the union would start a court challenge to the law within hours after the government puts its longshoremen to work. The government began signing up 1,500 stevedores yesterday.

Hall also said the CIO Marine Engineers' Executive Board in Washington ordered its members not to sail ships from behind ILWU picket lines. John Perry Honolulu representative of the Engineers, confirmed receipt of the order from Washington headquarters.

The emergency law passed by a special session of the Hawaiian legislature bans a strike "or any other concerted activity" threatening to interfere with government dock operations.

Dive Bombers To Be Given Greece

Athens, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Forty-nine U. S. Navy dive bombers will be turned over to the Greek Air Force in a few days, Lieut. Gen. James V. Van Fleet, chief of the U. S. Military mission, announced today.

Two of the planes, known as Hell Divers, were delivered several weeks ago and U. S. Navy pilots have been secretly training Greek fliers in their use at Larissa.

Van Fleet said the dive bombers would play an important role in final liquidation of Communist-led guerrillas by pinpoint bombers and rocketing of mountain strongholds.

Special Law For N. C. Fisherman

Washington, Aug. 10.—(AP)—The Senate has passed and sent to the White House a bill to allow a North Carolinian to fish from his own boat.

The German built boat was purchased by Garland F. Fulcher of Oriental "for use in the fisheries," according to a Senate Commerce committee report.

However because it was foreign-built he could not use it in coastal waters or in fisheries of the United States, hence the necessity for the legislation, the report said.

Albania Charges Invasion Begun By Greek Troops

Coincides With All-Out Attack By Athens Gov't Against Rebel Forces

London, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Albania said today she was being invaded by Greece and that fighting was in progress along a 30-mile front.

A broadcast by the official Tirana radio said bloody clashes with Athenian government troops began four days ago.

It added that hundreds of Greek soldiers have been killed or taken prisoner.

A spokesman for the Greek Information Service in London said "there is certainly no invasion." He said the Albanian report probably referred to the new offensive launched by the Greek army against the Communist-led guerrillas in the Grammos Mountain area not far from the Albanian border.

The Albanian invasion charge, which coincides with an all-out offensive by the Greek government against Communist-led rebels, was made by the Albanian ministry of armed forces.

The official broadcast monitored in London also quoted the Communist newspaper Zeri I Popullit (Voice of the People) on details of the fighting.

The Greek government has asserted repeatedly that Albania is used by the rebels as a haven where hard pressed and as a jumping off place for fresh forays into Greece.

Zeri I Popullit said hundreds of Greek "royalist fascist" troops have been killed and captured by Albanian soldiers in the border outbreak.

It added that Albanian troops have "shed pure blood" in defending their country's sovereignty.

The government charged bitterly that Greek army aircraft and artillery had bombed, shelled and strafed hundreds of Albanians on a 30-mile front between Leskovik and Boshnjad, just inside Albania on Greece's northern border. The ministry said Greek planes had been shot down by "our brave troops."

It charged hundreds of border violations by the Greek army during August 6, 7, 8 and 9.

Ex-President Is Getting Tributes

Herbert Hoover Is 75 Today; Birthday Creates Stir

Stanford University, Calif., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Herbert Clark Hoover is 75 years old today, and tributes to the country's only living ex-President poured in from all over the world.

Late today Stanford University will honor its most illustrious graduate in the Frost Amphitheater. A crowd of 12,000 to 14,000 was expected.

The program will be climaxed by a major address by Mr. Hoover, beginning at 5 p.m. PST. His topic will be "Think of the Next Generation."

Even Mr. Hoover, who once said "I have had every honor to which any man could aspire," probably was surprised by the stir created by his birthday anniversary and by the congratulatory letters by the thousands.

Two states, Arkansas and Maryland, proclaimed today "Hoover Day." Governor Earl Warren of California issued a proclamation in which he said: "Few men anywhere have lived more useful lives, and none with greater devotion, both at home and throughout the world."

The governors of New Mexico and Vermont extended greetings to Mr. Hoover in proclamations, and personal congratulations were sent by the governors of Idaho, Alabama, Virginia, South Dakota, Kansas, New York and Washington.

Reds Throw New Forces Into Big Chinese Battle

Canton, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Communists threw fresh forces into a fierce battle on the approaches to the Nationalist capital today. The Kiangsi provincial government fled Kanhshien, only 215 miles from Canton.

The big battle raged northwest of Kanhshien in south-central Kiangsi perhaps as near as 50 or 60 miles to Canton's Kwangtung province.

Kiangsi's provincial government transplanted the capital to Hweichang, 50 miles southeast of Kanhshien.

Transfer of the capital of Hunan province, which joins Kiangsi on the west, also was disclosed.

President Signs New Unification Bill For Services

Washington, Aug. 10.—(AP)—President Truman today signed the new armed services unification bill. He said that this will permit the U. S. to progress toward a balanced and effective national defense.

Mr. Truman signed the measure in a ceremony in his oval room of office. Senators and representatives who handled the legislation, the heads of the defense establishment and top ranking army, navy and air force "brass" looked on.

The legislation, which strengthens secretary of defense Johnson's control over the entire military setup, drew one criticism from Mr. Truman.

"It is unfortunate that in this generally progressive legislation, at least one provision represents a backward step, the president said in a brief statement.

"New and cumbersome restrictions are placed on the membership of the National Security Council—whereas the desirable course would be to follow the recommendation of the commission on organization of the executive branch and remove the statutory restrictions on the council's membership."

As a whole, however, Mr. Truman said the bill represents a great advance and will lead to increased efficiency and economy and greater coordination of our military forces.

Bus Wreck Kills 15; Twelve Hurt

Fire Follows Wreck Believed Due To Tire Blowout

Bloomington, Ind., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Fifteen charred bodies were recovered today from the wreckage of a Greyhound bus which burned after hitting a bridge abutment near here.

Coroner Robert W. Lyons of Monroe county said fifteen would be the death toll.

Twelve other persons were injured in the crash and are in a Bloomington hospital.

The bodies removed from the bus were placed in six ambulances and a hearse and accompanied by a police escort, were brought to the Indiana National Guard Armory here to await identification.

Driver Wayne Cramer of Indianapolis, one of the survivors, said a front tire may have blown out, causing him to lose control of the bus. After striking the abutment it skidded 150 feet down winding highway 37 and came to rest on its left side, blocking the emergency door.

Flames enveloped the vehicle almost immediately. The driver said he and "two or three" passengers got out the front door. The other survivors escaped through a rear window which a passenger kicked out.

Ice, uncommon in the winter season here, glazed the streets.

It snowed for the first time in 15 years at Mar Del Plata, fashionable resort 200 miles south of Buenos Aires.

China Policy Sought

Today The Government Begins A Study Of What To Do With The Grand Mess In China; A Great Disaster In Expansion Of Communism In Asia; Problem Studied

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Aug. 10.—(AP)—This government today digs in to finding what to do in a grand mess—the mess is the Far East, where the Communists are taking over China.

This has been a great disaster for the United States since, between them, the Russian and Chinese Communists now control most of Asia.

Only last week the state department issued a "White Paper" which said:

1. This country has washed its hands of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists who were the only opposition to the Communists had.

2. Since the Nationalists are no competition any more, the Chinese Communists can take over all China any time they wish.

Today an aged man, 73-year-old J. Leighton Stuart, flies into Washington with his head full of knowledge of China to give what advice he can.

He's American Ambassador to China. Although he's had that job only since 1946, he's lived in China 45 years, mostly as an educator. He's an expert on China and its problems.

Secretary of State Acheson has created a special group to figure out what this country should do about the Far East, which includes China and the rest of Asia not in Communist hands.

This group is made up of three men: Philip C. Jessup, an Amba-

Secretary Of Defense Says Military Department Willing To Take 60 Per Cent In Cash And 40 Per Cent In Contract Authority For Arms Aid

Washington, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Secretary of Defense Johnson told senators today the military department was willing to accept 60 per cent in cash and 40 per cent in contract authority to launch President Truman's arms program.

It is agreeable to the military he said, to spread the cost of the $1,450,000,000 program over two or even three years.

America's three top military men—the joint chiefs of staff—waited for Johnson to conclude his testimony before they made their report to the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) yesterday proposed a 50-50 split in cash and contract authority to carry out the re-arming of the North Atlantic pact nations.

But Johnson said his staff has advised him that 60 per cent of the $1,450,000,000 for Western Europe must be in cash. The remainder can be in authority to make contracts which will be paid for in cash later, he said.

Senator Saltonstall (R-Mass.) asked Johnson if this authority would mean a firm contract to be paid for in fiscal 1951-52. Johnson replied it would be.

Saltonstall asked if the re-arming of Europe will mean any reduction in the U.S. defense program.

Johnson said no, it would not. He said he would not agree to any plan which would reduce "the ample security of the United States."

This military program, he said, is just a beginning to help Western Europe and other nations "begin to help themselves." Some day, he added, these nations may be strong enough to bolster the security of this country, but that time is yet to come.

Congress is wrangling over the amount of military aid that should be given to the North Atlantic pact nations, plus Greece, Turkey, Iran, the Philippines and Korea.

In addition to the Senate hearing, Secretary of State Acheson is scheduled for a closed-door meeting of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

After Johnson had completed his testimony, Gen. Omar Bradley, Army Chief of Staff, took over. He said that if the American people want to use the advantage gained in the "cold war," they must move quickly at establishing a long range plan of defense.

Bradley and the military heads of the Navy and Air Force, Admiral Louis Denfeld and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, have just returned from a 10-day trip to Europe where they conferred with military chiefs of Atlantic pact nations. They confined their discussions to problems of organization.

West Germans To Choose Possible Leader Sunday

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 10 — (AP)—Western Germans will decide next Sunday (Aug. 14) whether a one-armed, one-legged victim of Hitler's torture chambers or a scholarly, aloof lawyer will be the most powerful figure in the new German federal republic.

On that day the Western Germans will elect their first central government since Hitler. It will be their first free election on a national scale in 17 years.

The election will set up a new European state uniting the American, British and French occupation zones with a population of more than 45,000,000 Germans west of the Elbe.

And it will make one of these two men the biggest figure in the new republic.

Dr. Kurt Schumacher, 54-year-old leader of the Social Democratic party. The Social Democrats are left-wing Socialists.

Dr. Konrad Adenauer, 73-year-old head of the Christian Democratic Union. This is a conservative party favoring private enterprise.

Schumacher lost a leg in the first World War. He languished in Nazi concentration camps for 11 years. Nazi torturers mangled one of his arms. He later lost it. But he has lost none of his fiery, crusading spirit.

Adenauer is a politician with a professor's mannerisms. His high cheek bones and Sphinx-like expression make him resemble a proud American Indian chief. He, too, was tossed behind bars by the Nazis on three occasions.

Both Adenauer and Schumacher are mentioned as possible choices for the first president of the fledgling republic. The president will be named after the election by the Bundestag (lower house of parliament) and the 11 West German states. But their power flows from their positions of leadership in Western Germany's two big parties.

Schumacher and Adenauer are among some 1,000 candidates vying for 400 seats in the Bundestag. The party controlling the Bundestag will name the chancellor (prime minister). It will determine government policy, as the ruling party does in Britain's House of Commons.

And the man who controls the dominant party will be the key figure in German public life.

Schumacher and Adenauer are opposites — politically and personally.

Schumacher's Social Democrats want the government to take over big industries, banks and insurance companies. Adenauer's Christian Democrats call for promotion of private enterprise and protection of private property.

Before an audience and often in private talks, Schumacher shouts like a drill sergeant, contorting his gaunt, expressive face. His eyes blaze. He is a stirring orator.

Adenauer seldom shucks his reserve. At party rallies he speaks slowly and quietly, like a classroom professor lecturing on philosophy. But many people listen. They like his logic.

NEW RECORDS.

East Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—A total of 15 new varsity track and field records, ten outdoor and five indoor, were written into the books during the 1949 Michigan State track season. In addition, two other varsity marks were equalled and two new freshman records were set.

Mrs. Thomas Sparrow Payne Jr.

Payne-Glenn

In a summer ceremony of beauty and dignity the marriage of Miss Evelyn Elizabeth Glenn and Thomas Sparrow Payne, Jr., was solemnized at St. Paul's Episcopal Church Saturday afternoon, August sixth, at five-thirty o'clock by the Reverend Stephen Gardner of Washington.

White gladiolus and asters were used on the altar, and mums and white ribbons marked the pews.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Guy V. Smith rendered a group of appropriate organ selections. The traditional wedding marches were used. The choir entered the church singing "Lead Us, Heavenly Father, Lead Us," after which Miss Bessie Brown sang "O Perfect Love," by Harker. Tom Smoot, Jr., served as officiator.

The groom had as his best man Fred M. Mallison of Washington. Ushers were Ford S. Worthy, Jr., Samuel R. Fowle, Jr., and Gray Hodges, all of Washington, and Dr. Charles T. Pace.

Miss Rosalie Taylor of Kansas City, Missouri, was maid-of-honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Frances Estelle Greene, cousin of the bride, and Miss Mary Payne of Washington, sister of the groom. The bride's attendants were identical gowns of powder blue organza made with portrait necklines and long, full skirts. They wore wedding-ring hats of natural yellow daisies and carried nosegays of mixed garden flowers.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, James Greene Glenn. Her wedding gown was of chintilly lace over satin, fashioned with a crushed bertha of tulle caught with orange blossoms, and a flared skirt that terminated in a circular train. Her finger-tip veil fell from a Juliet cap of satin. The bride's bouquet was of white roses centered with an orchid. Her pearls were a gift of the groom.

After the benediction the choir sang the Dresden Amen.

Mrs. Payne is the daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Hodges Glenn of this city and Mr. John Brodnax Glenn of New York. She received her education at St. Mary's School, Raleigh, and Woman's College in Greensboro. Mr. Payne is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sparrow Payne of Washington. He attended N. C. State College in Raleigh and Davidson College at Davidson, N. C., and has since been associated with his father in the insurance business in Washington.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Glenn wore a gown of rose taupe with matching hat and a corsage of biarrich roses. Mrs. Payne, mother of the bridegroom, chose white lace-trimmed crepe with which she wore a white hat and biarrich roses.

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Payne, Jr., Mrs. Glenn entertained at a reception in the parish house immediately after the ceremony. The reception rooms were elaborately decorated with a profusion of white cut flowers and fern, carrying out the bridal motif.

Upon arrival the guests were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Joyner, Jr. In the Guild room Miss Hennie Long presented them to the receiving line which was composed of Mrs. Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Payne, Jr., and Mrs. Thomas S. Payne, Jr., and their bridal attendants.

Doctor Cleared Of Drunk Charge

Winston-Salem, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Forsyth county commissioners last night cleared Dr. Samuel Wallace Fleming of accusations by six resigned nurses that he was drunk on duty at the county hospital.

The commissioners' report of the investigation used these words: "We have come to the conclusion that the charges are without foundation, that same are refuted, cannot be substantiated, and are dismissed as far as the Board of County Commissioners of Forsyth county is concerned."

The board published 16 affidavits from Winston-Salem county officials, and employees and patients at the hospital. The majority were testimonials to the good character and behavior of Dr. Fleming. He is the assistant to Dr. T. F. Vestal, hospital superintendent.

The board said it had declined to take affidavits of the six nurses into consideration on the grounds they were striking against the hospital management. The hospital treats aged and indigent patients.

Differences May Come To A Head

Raleigh, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Differences of opinion between Governor Scott and the State Board of Conservation and Development may come to a head today.

Scott and the board's advertising committee have been engaged in a ding dong verbal battle over two main issues. They are the naming of a successor to Bill Sharpe, recently resigned state news bureau director, and the handling of the state's advertising contract.

Last week, in a surprise move, Scott named his private secretary Charles Parker, to Sharpe's post. At the same time, the governor announced he was withdrawing the state's $150,000 advertising account from Ayer and Gillett, a Charlotte firm, which was given the account some 18 months ago by the committee.

In the past the advertising committee has handled both the hiring of the division director and the placing of the advertising contract.

As a prelude to today's meeting, Scott yesterday announced he had ordered the State Bureau of Investigation to look into reports that the state advertising contract has been improperly handled. Scott said the investigation was instigated at the suggestion of J. L. Horne of Rocky Mount, vice chairman of the conservation board and chairman of the advertising committee.

Horne, however, said he requested the investigation only after Fred Davis, a Scott appointee, repeated at a recent McReed City meeting charges long rumored here that poltics played a part when the contract was taken from Eastman-Scott of Atlanta and given to the Charlotte firm.

According to these rumors, Charles M. Johnson, then state treasurer and candidate for governor, was influential in taking the account from the Atlanta firm because of ill feeling between him and Robert Redwine, Raleigh representative for Eastman-Scott.

10,000 Cases Of Polio In Country

New York, Aug. 10.—(AP)—About 10,000 cases of infantile paralysis are reported in the country—with 36 states having more cases now than they had at this time last year.

The figures were given yesterday by Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, medical director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

An Associated Press survey Aug. 6 showed about 9,400 cases throughout the country.

Dr. Van Riper made the report following a conference of foundation medical chiefs and representatives of the Federal Security Administration on means for pooling finances for caring for polio victims.

The states most in need of help, Van Riper said, are Arkansas, with 400 cases as of July 30, and Oklahoma, with 321 cases.

Cases Tried In County Court

Judge Dink James disposed of the following cases at the forenoon session of County Court Tuesday:

Assault: Bert Brown, colored, 90 days, suspended on payment of court costs and $12 to prosecuting witness and doctor's bill. Augusta Briley, $25 and costs.

Albert Hadnot was not guilty of being drunk and disorderly, and he was not guilty of trespass and being a peeping tom.

Sammie Sneed, colored, carrying a concealed weapon, six months on the roads, suspended on payment of $40 and costs and he was placed on probation for two years.

Non-support: Alton Wilcox, colored, 90 days, suspended on payment of $30 to a midwife. Ernest Barnes Jr., 60 days, suspended on payment of $8 a week and pay $20 extra by October 10 for clothing.

Will Staton, colored, worthless check, 60 days, suspended on payment of court costs and pay check by October 15.

Wilbert May, colored, was not guilty of abandonment and non-support.

STRETCHING A CITY ORDIN-ANCE

No Parking From Here to Corner!

He can read as well as anyone else, and furthermore he can see that the front wheels of his car are already abreast of that sign. There is no more parking space left.

But what's he doing? Heavens
of that other car. Well, of all things! He's moving that parking sign up to the front of his own car.
And there he goes down the street whistling and stopping now and again to look into a store window.
He hasn't broken the law; he's stretched a city ordinance to meet his convenience.

Some people treat all laws that way, especially the Ten Commandments. When these interfere with convenience, they stretch them out to fit. When high heaven itself sets a limit in matters of conduct beyond which they cannot go without breaking the moral law and violating their conscience, they should worry; they move the no-parking sign. Their slogan is, "If you don't like the way a law operates, make it operate the way you like."

It's amazing how far some people can stretch the thou-shalt-nots of the Decalogue without actually breaking them.

THEY'RE CARRYING A BIG LOAD

Responsibilities weigh heavily on the eighty-first congress and they are such that only time will tell how well the congress has met them.

Far beyond the keeping of political promises in election years, the problems of international nature have produced questions that must be answered, one way or another. Winning and keeping the peace remains the major item on the congressional agenda.

Currently, the rebuilding of ruined nations and economies ranks high in the "must do" column. At the same time, the extent and manner of assistance that this country can and should give raises barriers to doing the kind of job that the majority would like to do.

It is not entirely charity, this lending a hand to old friends. There is also a factor of self-interest . . . a self-interest that falls into two categories: our own defense, and the preservation of foreign markets.

Unfortunately the military and economic interests are mingled to such an extent that in dealing with one, the other must be considered so that the two will work in harmony. History indicates it has always been this way, and as anyone would agree, it would be far simpler to deal with either problem on a separate basis.

To add complexities to an already complex problem, lawmakers must also assay possibilities and probabilities in giving their answers and on these "ifs" few people can ever entirely agree.

Congress is working overtime with the weight of the world on its shoulders. It would be thoughtless indeed, to complain on their slowness at this time. The stakes are more than mere money, the future of the world is involved.

Boyle's Column
By HAL BOYLE

New York—(AP)—Carlton E. Morse is a pleasant, balding man of 48 who bakes his own bread.

He also eats steak and potatoes for breakfast—seven days a week—and believes he makes the best apple pie in America.

"It's an apple pie with pears in it—and a little dash of rum," he explained.

Morse is better known for skill at the typewriter, however, than his skill with the skillet. Since 1929 he has turned out 20,000,000 words of radio drama.

His most durable breathwinner has been "one man's family," a weekly NBC half-hour program, he has written, produced and directed for 18 continuous years.

Morse believes this is a record for this type of dramatic serial.

The program tells the trials, tribulations, and vicissitudes of an American family—Henry Barbour, a retired stockbroker, his wife Fanny, and their offspring. It has gone on so long it makes "Able's Irish Rose" and "Oklahoma" seem like one-night stand tent shows.

When I started there were only seven characters," said Morse. "Now there are 18 active characters, and I'm in the third generation of the family."

He is proud that six of the seven actors who appeared on the first broadcast of the program still play their original roles. Members of the live cast have had a total of 22 children during the 18 years. Morse and his wife, Patricia, are childless.

"The program is really an idealization of my husband's own family," said Mrs. Morse. "His father and mother are a wonderful couple. They just celebrated their golden wedding anniversary."

Morse rises every morning at 6:30 and cooks breakfast. By seven he is at his typewriter. He is a swift writer. By 9:30 he has finished his stint for the day. It takes him two mornings to write the weekly program, and his mythical family has grown so large he needs a chart now to keep the relations straight.

His listeners take the Barbour family very seriously.

"Four years ago I killed off one of the characters in an auto accident," Morse said, "since death must come to every family. But hundreds of people wrote in and protested."

Somebody Told Me . . .
By J. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

There's a fellow who comes in Edwards Auto Supply from time to time by the name of J. B. Stokes. The minute I discovered that J. B. is the father of twelve children I decided to do a column on him.

J. B. can't understand why. He says he can find me plenty of people who have more children than he does. One man he knows has eighteen. But I explained to him that he will make better reading than the other fellow for one particular reason: J. B. pays his bills. That fact distinguishes him from so many people, and coupled with his children, J. B. is newsworthy.

With his wife Mamie, J. B. lives six miles from Greenville on the route to Simpson. He owns two farms totalling 87 acres (50 cleared), two mules, nine cows, a bull, an automobile, and a tractor.

Now 49, J. B. was 21 when he was married and his wife was a few days under sixteen. "Don't tell her that I said this, but I raised my madam," J. B. says. Just about anything is more printable when someone isn't supposed to know it. But he's safe; the mother of 12 children couldn't take time to read this column even if it were worthy of it.

For a while J. B. thought he would have to give up trying to name his children and use numbers. But with the help of George Washington, F. D. R., and the late Senator Broughton, J. B. found names for all 12: Alma Clark, 3; Melville Broughton, 5; William Frederick, 7; Emma Pearl, 11; Nancy Holland, 13; Elbert Roosevelt, 16; James Hardee, 18; Ester Earl, 19; J. B. Jr., 20; Sylvia Sevens, 21; George Washington, 26; and Mabel Louise, 27.

Nine of the 12 children are at home now; six of those help with the crops. Mamie and J. B. raise most of what they eat, and store it in their freezer locker. J. B. says all of his children "show up right well at the table—every one is a big eater." He believes that hefty eating is a good device for keeping healthy. During the last three years J. B. says his doctor bills have amounted to less than $10. Of course you realize that there is no telling how much they amounted to before that time.

Mamie and J. B. are sharing the delight of their children as their grandchildren begin to arrive. Ester Earl is the only mother among the children, but J. B. thinks the others will catch up.

J. B. was in a hurry to get back to the farm yesterday, but he had time to do a political view. "Truman's doing all right up there in Washington. I always say lay off a man unless you think you can do better. If you can do better, do it."

"It's just like a fellow I saw in a field one day. He was talking to one of my neighbors, telling him that he wasn't plowing right. My neighbor turned the reins over to him and let him ruin a row. Then he took the plow back and no more was said."

With that bit of philosophy J. B. had to rush off to put another nickel in the "monkey" (parking meter).

And I thank you.

WASHINGTON LETTER
By JANE EADS

Washington—At least one woman keeps Washington in focus. She's Jackie Martin, the first woman member of the White House News Photographers Association, who for the past 20 years has focused her camera on people and events in this city of history-making news.

Impeccable, debonair, bright as a new coin, conscientious, Jackie knows everyone well enough to say "Hello" from bus boy at the Mayflower to President Truman.

At a recent reception I saw Mrs. Bon net, wife of the French Ambassador, rush up and kiss her. Senators call her "Jackie."

Jackie became the first woman's sports editor in the United States back in 1922, working on a local paper. She once served as manager and publicity director for Washington's Madison Square Garden. She wrote news and society for the Washington Times and for 10 years was photographic and art director for the Times-Herald.

Jackie went with Ruth Bryan Owen Rhodes, U. S. Minister to Denmark, as unofficial press attache. She did photographs of Linbergh baby kidnapper Bruno Hauptmann's trial at Trenton, N. J. She covered national political conventions, did a picture-interview series of Hollywood stars in their homes.

In 1941 she and Alice Rogers Hager, distinguished Washington journalist and author now press attache at the American Embassy at Brussels, were guests of the Brazilian government. They published books, "Frontier by Air" and "Brazil, Giant to the South." Jackie worked for the Woman's Home Companion, the HOME-OWNED — Significant item in connection with Tuesday's sale of seven and half million dollar port bond anticipation notes was that the two lowest bids were from North Carolina concerns, and they were far below offers made by out of state dealers. It was of further interest that the winning bid was filed by Charles M. Johnson, former state treasurer and last year's runner-up candidate for governor. His bid was in name of First Securities Corporation of Durham of which he is vice president, and was for an adjusted interest rate of 5.235 per cent. Next low bid was by Branch Bank and Trust Company of Wilson for an adjusted rate of .50 per cent. Both bids carried interest rates of four percent, but the premiums offered reduced the actual carrying charge on the notes almost to one-half of one percent. Actually there was only $212.50 difference in the gross bids of the two firms, which

Chicago Sun, was first official photographer of the WAC was an accredited war correspondent and photographer in Italy and France during the war when she did a picture story on the Army Nurse Corps.

More recently she has been lecturing all over the country and serving as Washington photo representative for a feature syndicate. She has just made all the photographs for a book of the nation's Capital, "Washington, City of Destiny." Mrs. Hager, a former president of the Woman's National Press Club, wrote the text. Most of her pictures are sold on a free lance basis.

Jackie, born Cecelia Barber Martin, in Pittsburgh, Pa., came to Washington during World War I. She went to Syracuse University on a scholarship, earned her other expenses waiting on table, shining shoes, grinding skate blades and running a laundry pick-up service.

ROAD MONEY—State Treasurer Brandon Hodges is convinced the August gasoline taxes will contribute a record-breaking amount to the state's highway fund. The tax is paid at central distributing points and may show up in earlier or later revenue department reports, but the actual users are paying it at filling stations this month.

TRAFFIC—Driving to Raleigh from his home in Asheville Sunday afternoon Hodges was impressed with the heavy traffic—unusual even for a summer Sunday. So he decided to count automobiles for a while. Between Swannanoa and Hildebrand, a distance of some 65 miles along U. S. 70 with 20 miles including U. S. 84, he met 585 cars. That's an average of nine cars per mile, or one for every city block. As a motorist he was peeved at the slow speed necessitated by traffic density, but as state treasurer he was very happy about prospects for more money to help pay off the $300 million rural road bonds. Hodges' unofficial count is supported by official check of the highway commission which shows more highway is close figuring on seven and a half million dollars.

SOUND—The fact that Johnson who perhaps knows more about the financial condition of North Carolina and the state's resources to back up its obligations than any other man, was low bidder is regarded as tribute to the soundness of state government. Some students of such matters were trying to find comparison with previous note sales. This was difficult because it has been nearly 30 years since North Carolina offered notes for sale. So far as oldtimers could recall this was the first instance in which a state bond firm bought state notes, although there have been a few times when North Carolina banks bought state bond issues.

LOSS—While his friends were congratulating Johnson on winning the sale, he smiled ruefully and said he had lost $212, because even a fifty-cent margin would have got the note.

Head Resigns

Raleigh, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Resignation of Hubert E. Olive of Lexington as chairman of the state board of elections was announced today by Governor Scott.

The governor said he was planning to appoint Charles Britt of Asheville, wholesale grocer and operator of a radio station, to succeed Olive on the board. He added that he would recommend to the board that it name Britt as its chairman.

ELECTRICITY — North Carolina had approximately 64,000 miles of rural electric lines serving about 365,000 customers on June 30 this year. It will be several months before all reports are in and tabulated so that accurate figures can be given. Estimates here are based on reports received from slightly more than half the various private, municipal and co-operative agencies serving rural areas. They represent about ten percent increase during the year in line mileage and eighteen percent increase in number of customers served. On July 1, last year there were 49,846.87 miles of lines completed, serving 307,888 customers.

German Smokers More Numerous

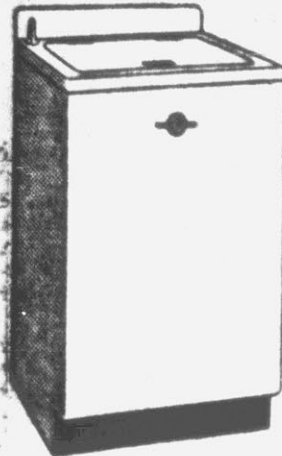

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 9—(AP)—A sign of prosperity in Germany: The German railroad is doubling the number of smoking compartments on its trains.

The reason: cigarettes, once so scarce and expensive they were the backbone of the black market, are now so plentiful and cheap that more people can afford to smoke them.

A pack of cigarettes which used to cost 100 reichsmarks valued at ten dollars, now cost two and a half deutsch marks, valued at 75 cents.

AMERICAN BANKING IN ACTION

BOTH OF THEM BENEFIT

The druggist back of the counter is proud of his new soda fountain. He might be surprised to learn that the young man on the stool helped him to get it. This is the story: The druggist borrowed at the bank—the same bank where the young man has a thrift account. His deposits, and others, make business loans possible. And the interest on loans helps to pay interest on thrift accounts. Customers and storekeepers help each other. And banks help both.

McGill University Takes Up Blood Bank Problem

Montreal.—Your red blood corpuscles are like a community of people. They are made up of individuals, ranging from newly born to old age. While not all survive to a ripe old age, they tend to a fairly uniform life span of four months. The things that affect their life span and their work are under study at McGill University's department of biochemistry. The purpose is to improve blood bank preservation. The work is in charge of Dr. Orville F. Denstedt, who was one of Canada's wartime blood storage experts.

In health nearly one per cent of your red cells die each day. They are quickly discarded and replaced with newcomers born at the astounding rate of about 10 billion each hour. In cold storage, in a blood bank, the death rate of these cells is about one per cent per day. But the bank doesn't get rid of them like your body. When banked blood is given by transfusion, the defunct corpuscles are quickly thrown out, all except the iron in their red coloring matter. Your body takes that iron, and either stores it in the liver, or sends it immediately to the bone marrow to manufacture fresh hemoglobin, the red stuff, for newly formed corpuscles.

How long a red corpuscle lives depends on several conditions. One is the efficiency of his internal chemical processes. Although it takes a microscope to see a single corpuscle, each one is an elaborate chemical plant. The machinery of this little plant is enzymes. Some enzymes enable the corpuscle to use sugar and other foods. Other enzymes help it to get oxygen and to rid itself of carbon dioxide. The preservation of the corpuscles in blood banks is to a large extent a matter of keeping these enzyme systems working.

New Patterns By Wedgewood Firm

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 9—(AP)—The British firm which makes Wedgewood plates is planning a new series of patterns showing such New England industries as tobacco culture, maple sugaring, logging, cob fishing and cranberry raising.

This became known yesterday when Miss Claire Leighton arrived in the area to execute a series of wood engravings about tobacco culture.

Miss Leighton, a Durham, N. C., resident who once won first prize for wood engravings at the Chicago International exhibition, said she had been commissioned by Wedgewood to do the New England series.

Endorse Clark For Court Post

Washington, Aug. 9—(AP)—A succession of judges and lawyers today urged prompt senate confirmation of Attorney General Tom C. Clark as an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court.

Representatives of the National Lawyers Guild, the Civil Rights conference and other organizations waited for a chance to testify against Clark, however.

Winning Fight

Helena, Mont., Aug. 9—(AP)—Man was winning his fight today against a fire that has killed 13 persons and devastated 6,000 woodland acres.

The flames were being checked by 500 men, tired and grimy after a four day struggle. A. D. Moir, Helena National forest supervisor, said the blaze should be 100 per cent controlled by tomorrow.

Truck Drivers Go To School

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 9—North Carolina's first truck drivers training school held its first sessions today with a capacity class of 20 students.

The six week course will prepare graduates for driver positions in the motor transport industry. Conducted at N. C. State College and sponsored by the State Motor Carriers Association, the school is believed to be the first of its kind in the nation.

Spiritualist Is Found Strangled

Baltimore, Aug. 9—(AP)—Someone bound a 60-year-old Spiritualist hand and foot, then strangled her last night with an electric cord.

Her fellow mediums immediately offered their services to police. They said they would attempt to get through to the spirit world and learn from the victim, Mrs. Emma A. Kefalos, the identity of her slayer.

Mrs. Kefalos, a widow, had lived alone in her second floor apartment in Baltimore's Polish-Bonemian section.

Four years ago, after her husband's death, she began giving seances and gazing into crystal balls. Neighbors said most of those who came to her for spiritual readings drove up in large expensive cars.

As she was a friendly sort of a person, other residents of the block missed her when she did not appear most of yesterday.

Nick Dritsas, who operates a restaurant underneath the Kefalos apartment-seance chamber, went upstairs to investigate.

He found her, feet and legs bound with clothline, lying face down on the living room floor. An electric ironing cord was wrapped tightly about her neck.

Nearby was her crystal ball. Hundreds of bottles of "love potion" were stored in a cupboard.

The apartment had been thoroughly ransacked, but police discounted robbery as a motive.

Foreigners Attend Perugia University In Opening Session

Perugia—(AP)—Over 600 foreign students attended the opening session of the special summer courses at Perugia University for Foreigners. Perugia, one of the most beautiful medieval towns of Italy, has been the home of a university for foreigners for the past 20 years.

From 1921 the year of its foundation to 1948, the University has taught 12,796 students belonging to some seven nations. The largest national groups came from Switzerland, Hungary, Germany, Romania. About one thousand came from the United States.

U. S. BAKERY FIGURES

Chicago—(AP)—The American Bakers Association figures that every man, woman and child in the U. S. spends an average of $26 a year for bakers' products. It estimates that $3,780,000,000 worth of such goods are sold annually.

About 50,000,000 tons of ice are produced yearly in 6,000 plants in the United States.

23 REDS DOOMED
Athens, Aug. 9—(AP)—Twenty-three communists, including Brig. Badeskos and his wife, were sentenced to death by two courts martial yesterday. They were accused of responsibility for 101 killings. Five other women are among the doomed group.

The number of U. S. Forest fires dropped 13 per cent during 1948.

European Money Also Spent In Getting Nations Back On Feet

By CLARKE BEACH
Washington — European money has gone to work on a vast scale to make the Marshall plan a success. The 55,000,000,000 of Marshall plan funds provided so far is only a sixth or seventh of what Europe itself is spending to get back on its feet.

Before the plan got started, the bulk of the European money supply was becoming dammed up, idle, and thwarted. Without the comparatively small leaven of dollars needed to buy certain essential western hemisphere products, native money resources could not go to work to rebuild the European economy.

In most of Europe the money was willing to work, but it needed help from the dollars. In some countries the native money had lost its nerve.

David Bruce, chief of the economic cooperation administration's (ECA) special mission to France, says that economic stagnation seized France in the 1930s.

The value of the franc kept falling until the last few months. Not wanting to keep their money in francs, the investors bought hoards of goods—such as rugs, jewelry and paintings. Some rich people shipped goods abroad on consignment. The shippers kept title while the commodities were held for them in foreign warehouses. The idea was to eventually follow the goods out of the country.

The big change in France came early this year. The government announced it would seek new money in a 300 billion franc bond issue. Friends of France held their breath. If the people failed to subscribe to the loan, it would show they had no faith in their own government's financial stability. The value of the franc might have dropped out of sight, and the recovery effort would have been dealt a serious blow.

But the bond issue was a huge success. The value of the franc immediately began to rise. Another good sign: The price of gold on the French black market has been falling ever since the bond issue. The price had been boosted by farmers who had chosen to buy gold rather than risk holding on to francs. Now it seemed they were unloading gold and choosing francs.

Up to now most of the recovery plan investments in France have been made by the American government because private capital was unwilling to take the chance. Now the experts expect to see private investors get into the field.

In Italy the investment situation has been much the same as in France. No marked improvement has been noted yet, although the lira has held its price for about a year now.

In western Germany there has been a scarcity of investment capital, but to ECA officials the money supply seems to be increasing as the balance of exports over imports continues to rise.

Greece alone of the countries being helped has shown no improvement on the investment side, according to ECA officials. The continuing warfare there drains the resources of the nation.

But for the Marshall plan countries as a whole there is a great outpouring of native investment capital. They will spend about $30,000,000,000 this fiscal year to modernize factories and farms, build new plants, homes and transportation facilities.

This means they will be taking about 20 per cent of their national incomes and plowing it back into business. In average periods of prosperity such investment is usually around 15 per cent of income. To raise it to 20 per cent, the countries will have to maintain reduced living standards for some years yet, denying themselves a lot of consumer goods.

The business outlook has to be good and the people's faith in their countries' future must be strong to impel them to invest on such a scale. Even in the United States in some years of the depression 30s the depreciation of plant values was larger than the total of gross investment.

This is an aerial view of Montana's deadliest forest fire raging in the Gates of the Mountain wilderness 25 miles northeast of Helena. Thirteen forest service men have perished in the flames that have burned over about 6,000 acres since Friday. Five hundred fire fighters are battling the blaze (AP Wirephoto).

An Average Wedding For Actor Stewart And Bride

Hollywood, Aug. 10—(AP)—James and Jimmy 8-9-49 on the bride's finger.

Stewart, who gained film fame portraying the average guy, had an average American wedding—except for the crowd and the star-studded audience.

The actor married Gloria Natrice late yesterday and the ceremony almost fulfilled his hopes for a small quiet wedding untinged by the Hollywood touch.

The couple took their vows in the Brentwood Presbyterian church before 50 friends of the film colony while an orderly crowd of 500 waited outside.

Like the average bridegroom, Stewart was nervous. He fidgeted as he watched his socialite bride walk down the aisle in a cocktail dress of grey satin, carrying white orchids and a prayerbook.

Stewart's replies to Rev. Dean Osterberg could hardly be heard. "I got a frog in my throat," he said afterwards.

He murmured "I will" and slipped a plain gold band inscribed "Gloria

Jumped Safely From Jet Plane

Charleston, S. C., Aug. 10—(AP)—Lieut. Jack Frazer of Cecil Field, Fla., last night parachuted safely from his disabled navy jet fighter plane into the inland waterway just south of here.

He made his way to land and was taken to the Walterboro hospital for treatment. Then a navy ambulance was sent to take him to the Sixth Naval District hospital in Charleston.

Buyers Market In Racing Stock

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 10—(AP)—Signs of a "buyer's market" in racing stock are being reflected at the 1949 Saratoga yearling sales.

For the second straight session, prices at last night's Vendue failed to measure up to those of a year ago.

Fifty yearlings went on the block for a total of $140,000—an average price of $2,800. The second night last year saw 58 head go for $281,600.

Ark Hunters Get Permit By Turks

Greensboro, Aug. 10—(AP)—Permission for American Ark hunters to enter a tightly guarded Mt. Ararat military zone has been granted by Turkey's Prime Minister, says Dr. A. J. Smith.

Reporting by airmail from Istanbul to the Greensboro Record, the Tar Heel bible school teacher said his party was to leave for Ankara August 3 to receive the long-awaited permit. Supplies for the mountain expedition finally cleared Turkish customs August 2 after a 10-day delay.

The Greensboro explorer said he and three companions would leave at once for the interior where they hope to find petrified remains of Noah's ark on Mt. Ararat's barren slopes. With the party was a group of Turkish newsmen, said Dr. Smith.

Ark hunters were targets for the fun-poking Turkish press during their stay in Istanbul.

Because they were adopting the western method for computing ages, every Japanese man, woman and child will become from one to two years younger the end of this year.

Signals Link Engineer Father And Flying Son

Denver, Colo.—(AP)—Passengers on the United Airlines' flight from Denver to Cheyenne have noticed a train far below them winking its big headlight in the night. Passengers on the 8:15 p. m. Colorado and Southern between the same two cities have on more than one occasion spotted the huge airliner flying parallel to the track, systematically blinking the lights on its wings. This has been going on for three years now.

The engineer of the train and the pilot of the plane are father and son. The blink blink of the lights is 64-year-old Clarence Chapman's way of saying "How're you, boy?" to his airborne son, 31-year-old Capt. Leroy Chapman.

Occasionally the senior Chapman fancies up his nocturnal hello by lighting a red railroad flare and holding it out the window of his cab. "I'm right proud of my boy," Clarence says. "And I just like him to know the old man's still up and around and on the job."

Under the Japanese system of computing ages, a system which will be discarded the end of 1949, a baby is considered to be one year old at birth and another year is added to its age on the first day of the following January.

Amateurs Write For Red Germans

Berlin — (AP)—The "people's democracy" in the Soviet zone of Germany is creating a new type of journalist—the "people's correspondent." He is usually a worker who reports from his work or his factory to communist-controlled dailies.

Their stories are featured in large communist papers in East Berlin. Several columns are reserved for them.

Not all Russian-licensed newspapers like the new type of journalist. Said "Neue Zeit," a Christian-Democratic Organ: "The people's correspondents will hardly be in a position to satisfy the qualitative demands of the press."

But "Neue Zeit" was slapped back by "Neues Deutschland," the official Socialist Unity (Communist) Party daily which criticized "the professional correspondents of those newspapers which do not know this direct contact with the essence of our social being."

Beer Taxes Pay More To State

Raleigh, August 10—Beer taxes collected by the State in July totaled $336,825.89, the State Department of Revenue reported today.

Total collection for the first seven months of 1949 total $2,476,932.69. Half of the excise tax is distributed annually to counties and municipalities which license beer sales.

The tax totals do not include the State sales tax on beer or license taxes levied by the Federal and local governments.

Honors Overcome A Woman Solon

Bangkok — (AP)—The first woman ever elected to the Thailand (Siamese) Parliament arrived at Bangkok's railroad station only to be carried out on a stretcher.

Nang Orapin Chayakarn was to receive a triumphal welcome from her husband, family and friends, but she was so overcome by the rigors of her campaign that she had to be taken in an ambulance to a hospital.

Lost His Appetite After Outdoor Work

Galesburg, Ill.—(AP)—The best way to get set for a big Sunday meal is to do a stint of outdoor work. That may be a sure-fire formula for others, but it backfired on Larry Guenther. Just before lunch time, he turned a crank on a cement mixer. The crank slipped and struck him on the lip. He lost two teeth and all interest in a chicken dinner.

Critical Of Church Music On The Radio

Shelby, Aug. 10—A resolution criticizing the backward condition of church music on the radio was adopted at a meeting recently at the Fruitland Baptist Assembly grounds.

Horace Eason, director of the statewide conference on church music, said a study would be made of religious music being broadcast, and try to encourage radio stations to improve their church music libraries.

Report Business Failures In Week

New York, Aug. 10—(AP)—Business failures rose to 171 last week from 168 in the preceding week and 116 for the like week of 1948, Dun and Bradstreet reported yesterday.

Of the latest total, 123 involved liabilities of $5,000 or more. This was a decline from the 137 the previous week but above the 97 for the corresponding 1948 week. Failures involving liabilities under $5,000 rose to 48 from the previous week's 31.

Bears Snap Victory String For Greenies In 8-6 Game

See-Saw Contest Goes To New Bern As Varney Winds Up Tilt With Homer In Ninth: Big Fifth Frame Scoring Spree By Locals Wasn't Enough

The league-leading New Bern Bears snapped the 10-game winning streak of the Greenville Greenies down in New Bern last night by taking the first of a two-game series with the Greenies by an 8 to 6 score in a very wild and loosely played contest.

The Bears jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first three frames by scoring two runs in the first frame and one in the third. Bill Bevil led off in the first frame with a triple into centerfield. Nell Howard singled to bring him home, stole second and Jim Burns doubled to bring home Howard. In the third frame, Howard doubled and scored on Joe Wheeler's single.

The Greenies came back in the fourth frame to go out in front by a 5 to 3 score when they scored five of their six runs on two singles, error, wild pitch, and Paul Strausser's grand-slam homer over the right field fence. In the fourth, Denier singled, Tepedino forced him at second, Williams reached first on an error by the Bears' third baseman Wheeler with Tepedino advancing to third and then coming home on a wild pitch. Willie Mauney got an infield hit and Sid Varney was given an intentional pass to first to load the bases. Then Paul Strausser came up and hit over the right field fence to unload the bases and put the Greenies out front at this period of the game. The round-tripper for Strausser was his seventh of the current season.

The Bears came back in their half of the fourth and scored a run on two hits, two walks and two infield outs. They took the lead at 6 to 5 by scoring two runs in the fifth on two singles and two costly Greenie errors, and then ended their scoring for the night by shoving across two more runs in the sixth on two doubles, a single and two more costly Greenie errors.

The Greenies managed to put across a run in the ninth frame when Sid Varney hit over the right centerfield wall for his seventh homer of the season.

Jim Lewey started on the mound for the Greenies but was relieved after pitching six full innings in which he gave up 13 hits, all eight of them runs, walked two men and struck out four. Charlie Nordmeyer pitched the remaining two frames and held the Bears to two hits and no runs.

Neil Howard and Jim Burns with a double and two singles, Joe Wheeler with three singles and Bill Bevil with a triple and a double led the 15-hit attack off the two Greenie hurlers.

Spec Padgett went the route for the Bears as he registered his 21st win of the season. He has suffered eight defeats. Padgett allowed the Greenies ten hits but kept them well scattered throughout the contest.

Paul Strausser with a homer and a single, John Tepedino with two singles and Sid Varney's 360-foot homer were the big guns in the Greenies' hitting department against

Junior Chamber Defeats Rotary

Tonight's Game
Lions vs Kiwanis
The Junior Chamber softball nine last evening won a well-played contest over the Rotary Club by the score of 11-9. Rotary was in the ball game all the way, and worked hard to upset the league leaders.

For Rotary, Ercell Webb wielded the big stick, getting a homerun and a triple, hitting for the Jaycees was divided between Dill, Sellers, Gaylord, Cobb and McGowan.

The loss for Jim Lewey was his fourth of the season against the Bears as against two wins.

That was loss number 19 away from home as against 23 wins away from home.

Here is the way the Greenies went on a 10-game winning streak which started on July 30th.

Defeated Tarboro two games, Goldsboro two games, Wilson two games, Rocky Mount one game, and Roanoke Rapids two games.

With only 27 playing days remaining in the Coastal Plain League schedule, the Greenies at the present time have more than a chance of getting into the playoffs at the end of the season.

With today's standings we find Greenville resting well in fourth place four full games ahead of fifth place Tarboro and five full games ahead of the Goldsboro Bugs.

The Greenies are four and one-half games from the league-leading Bears, two and one-half games behind the second place Rocky Mount Leads and one and one-half games behind the third place Kinston Eagles.

Fred Oliveri, limited service outfielder of the Tobs, has been placed on the voluntary retired list by the Wilson Baseball Club and has returned to his home in New York State.

Bill Roberts, former Tob outfielder, said the Wilson club a visit a few days ago.

Roberts was hurt at the start of the season with hand injury.

Well Ladies this is your night at Guy Smith Stadium and it is the desire of the club management that a record crowd attend. Remember you do not have to bring a man with you so you can get up your "hen" party and come out and have a big night. And if you are among the first 500 to enter Guy Smith Stadium you will receive a nice carnation corsage as a remembrance of the occasion.

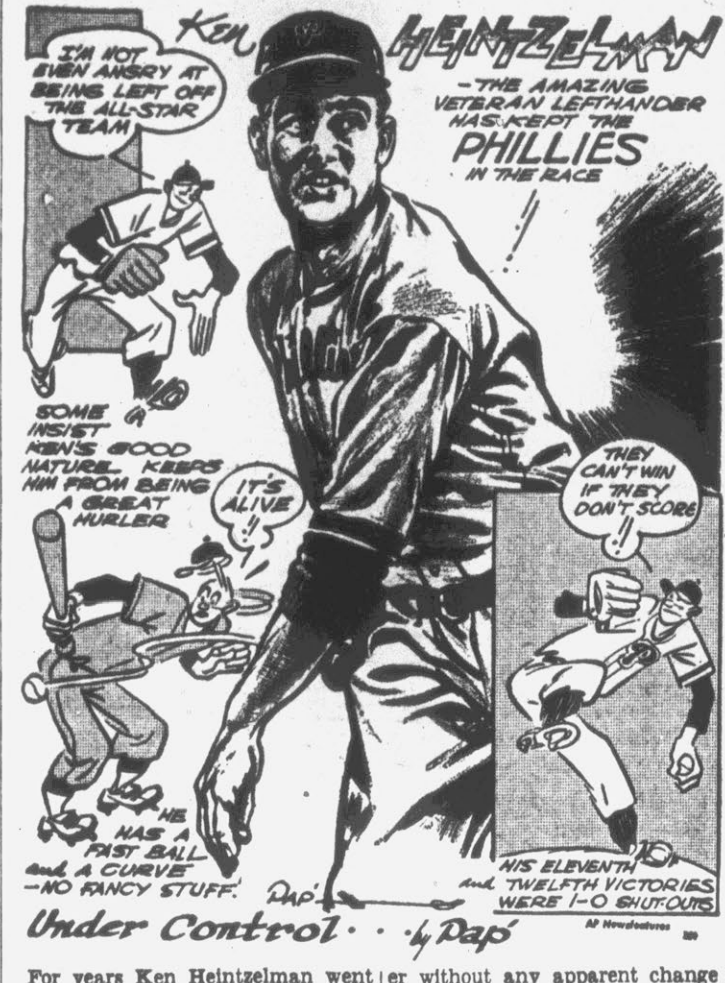

And, in addition, Pappy Williams says he is going to start back in the win column tonight by giving you ladies a win over the New Bern Bears. So come early and be sure of a good seat.

Fountain Scores
22nd Victory Over Weekend
Fountain won two games over Temp Hall during the weekend to boost their record to 22 wins and only nine losses. They meet Five Point (Wilson) for a three-game series next weekend, playing their first game at Five Point Saturday and a doubleheader at Fountain Sunday.

R. Webb still leads the Fountain batting list with a .456 average. B. Wooten is second with .407. Others include: T. Moseley, .399; R. Jefferson, .378; J. Owens, .343; F. Wooten, .333; T. Owens, .329; D. Norville, .321; B. Baker, .319; F. Jefferson, .292; C. Owens, .283; B. Gay, .280; B. Everett, .279; Z. Smith, .261; D. Flora, .217; and B. Cobb, .200.

Sport Slants

For years Ken Heintzelman went along winning a fair share of ball games but never quite living up to the pitching potentialities which many smart baseball men felt that he had. Some said he simply was too good natured to win as many ball games as he should.

Frankie Frisch, when he was managing the Pirates, once offered a fat bonus to Ken if he would hit a batter. But Ken was too nice to "dust off" a slugger who bailing dug in fully confident that he was safe at the plate.

With the best fast ball in the league and a sharp-breaking curve, Heintzelman had all the pitching equipment he needed—all that is, except the "killer instinct" to make him a winner.

Suddenly and without explanation, Ken blossoms out with the best record in the National League. He's still the smiling, good-natured pitcher without any apparent change in his hurling habits. But at 33, he is a big winner. He has no explanation for his new-found success except that he is happy with the Phillies and would like to see the club get a crack at the World Series melon.

Heintzelman was frankly disappointed when Manager Billy Southworth failed to name him for the National League's All-Star mound staff, an honor he rightly deserved. He's not angry with Southworth, yet he is determined to prove that the Boston manager misses a bet. Since the star-studded game in Ebbets Field, Ken has won a pair of 1-0 shut-outs, over the Cardinals and the Cubs, and run up a string of 26 consecutive scoreless innings. Instead of slowing down with age, as do most pitchers, Heintzelman gets faster and better.

column by shading the West Greenville Reds 6-5 in a well-played errorless ball game. P. Sawyer pitching for the Reds gave Sideris a race for his money, striking out seven batters and allowing eight hits, two hits more than Sideris. The Dodgers' Cheatum was the big stick, driving in three runs with a single, a double and a round tripper. T. Wilkins and R. Sellers led the Reds at the plate with two hits apiece.

Wayne Pollard wrapped the game up and handed it to Norris in the third inning by slamming a triple with the bases loaded and scoring on the throw-in from centerfield.

That was all Norris needed as he allowed only one man to reach third base from then on. Joe E. Brown with a double, was the leading hitter for the Orioles.

If Red Sox Ever Catch Yankees It Will Be Due To Mound Staff

By JOE REICHLER
If the Boston Red Sox ever catch up with the New York Yankees in their season-long American League pennant chase, most of the credit must be given to their much maligned pitching staff.

In the last five weeks, during which time the Red Sox have picked up six and a half games on the front running Yankees, Boston hurlers have pitched 25 complete games in 34 starts. As a result, they've won 25 of them to whittle their deficit to five and a half games. On July 4 the Red Sox trailed the leaders by 12 games.

Ellis Kinder, the Red Sox right-handed ace, is the latest to go the route. He finished what he started last night, beating the Yankees, 6-3, for his 13th victory against five losses. It marked Kinder's ninth conquest in his last 10 decisions and his 10th complete game.

Mel Parnell, Boston's southpaw ace, who leads all the pitchers with 16 victories, also owns the most complete games, 19. Joe Dobson has nine rout—going jobs. Lefty McDermott has six out of eight and Chuch Stobbs, seven out of 11.

Kinder permitted the Yankees 10 hits, including a pair of home runs by outfielder Hank Bauer, but an early 5-0 lead furnished by Birdie Tebbetts and Ted Williams carried him through. Tebbetts parked one of Vic Raschi's offerings for a two-run homer in the second, and Williams duplicated the catcher's feat in the third.

A capacity crowd of 35,691 was made happy by Boston's first victory of the season over Raschi, a note of disappointment crept in, however, by the inability of Dom DiMaggio to prolong his consecutive game hitting streak. The Red Sox centerfielder, who had hit in 34 consecutive games, was held hitless in five trips to the plate.

Williams' homer, his 28th of the season, was the 250th of his career. The triumph, Boston's 12th in 16 starts in this current home stand, left the third place Boston Sox a game behind the runner-up Cleveland Indians. The Tribe whipped the St. Louis Browns, 6-2, to reduce the Yankee's lead to four and a half games.

The HOUSE on LILAC STREET

by FRED BAYARD

Chapter 3
Lilac Street began at Washington and ended in a blind alley. The sixteen odd houses which fronted on it were all more or less alike, of a uniform gray slab stone popular when the street had housed some of New York's best families, back in the Nineties. Number Eight sat at the end, and differed from the rest only in its slightly larger size. The other houses closed side on side, turning an impenetrable front toward all intruders.

It was close to two A. M. when a man turned into the street and began to walk down its south side. As he drew close to Number Eight, the curtain of a second floor window moved.

Soon "Ace" Spado was inside. "Ace" had been in this room before on two other occasions—but then, he had been requested to be there. This time he had come of his own accord, and in violation of strict orders.

David Holway moved with catlike motion behind his heavy desk and lowered himself into the chair.

Holway did not look his forty years. Many men had been deceived by his youthful looks and the charm of his dark eyes.

"Sit down," Holway indicated a chair.

Ace hastily complied. You didn't argue with the boss.

"It'd better be good, to bring you out here after what I told you," Holway's silky tone in no way minimized the implied threat of his words.

Ace's words came tumbling out now, as if he were impelled somehow to vindicate his actions.

"You're not going to like this, Boss. There was a raid down at the warehouse."

There was no doubt that the news was a shock, but it was momentary. Ace marveled at this man's self-control. Holway's features became, if anything, more expressionless. Only the eyes were alive, as if all the hatred of his being were waiting to be unleashed through them.

"Go on!"

"Vince Morelli and I followed orders. We tailed Scott to the warehouse. I don't think he spotted us. Anyway, he never tried to give us the slip."

"Boss, it was a good thing I was looking sharp. All of a sudden, from nowhere, the place was lousy with cops. I stayed where I was, figuring that'd be as safe as any place, and thinking I might get a chance to do something."

He shrugged his shoulders.

"But no dice. The coppers went right to the loading dock. Somebody must've tipped them off good. They forced the door. There were a bunch of shots. It sure sounded like the boys put up quite a scrap."

"What happened to Scott?"

"That's the pay-off. After the shooting died down, all of a sudden, a racket breaks out. Cops start blowing whistles, and I figure some of 'em's making a break. That's the chance I've been waiting for, so I angle over and get around to the next street over behind the warehouse. I'm standing by an empty lot, keeping in the shadows, when someone comes through the fence, slugs flying. I didn't give much for the guy's chances, but he made it, and next thing I know, it's Scott."

Holway showed surprise.

"How'd he get there?"

"Don't ask me. Somewhere along the line he must have made a break for it. It sure looked on the level, for the cop that came through after him wasn't fooling."

He looked at Holway as if expecting a question. When it didn't come, he went on.

"The coppers lost him, and I followed him down to the laundry."

"What happened then?"

"Ace looked worried."

"He gave me the slip."

"You clumsy fool," Holway made no effort to hide his anger now. "I told you not to lose him."

"Boss, it wasn't my fault. I tell you, I didn't want to get too close. Harman's place was shut up. Scott stood in the doorway for a moment, and when this bus pulled up, before I knew what he was up to, he jumped on me. I was just cursing for letting him put one over when Vince showed up. We grabbed a cab that was cruising, and took after the bus. We caught up to it in a couple stops and got on. That's when this dame comes into the picture."

"A girl?"

"Yeah, Scott was in the back of the bus. He said this blonde was talking Boy—some looker, too."

"I got the feeling then that they were on to us. Maybe we didn't fool him when we tailed him. The girl did most of the talking, and once in a while she'd look at us. They got off at the end of the line. This dame went straight to her car in the parking lot. It was awful dark, and before we knew it, the two of

Time, August 23, 1949, by the undersigned at its office in the City of Raleigh, North Carolina, for $250,000 School Building Bonds to be issued by Pitt County for and in behalf of Greenville School District.

Bonds dated September 1, 1949, and maturing annually, March 1, $4,000 1952 and 1953, $6,000 1954, 1955 and 1956, $7,000 1957 and 1958, and $10,000 1959 to 1979, inclusive, without option of prior payment. There will be no auction. Denomination $1,000; principal and semi-annual (M and S) interest payable in lawful money in New York City; coupon bonds registerable as to principal only; delivery at place of purchaser's choice. The bonds are payable exclusively from an unlimited tax to be levied upon all taxable property in Greenville School District.

Bidders are requested to name the interest rate or rates, not exceeding six per cent per annum in multiples of one-fourth of one per cent. Each bid may name one rate for part of the bonds, and another rate or rates for the balance, but no bid may name more than four rates, and each bidder must specify in his bid the amount of bonds of each rate. Each rate bid must be for bonds of consecutive maturities. The bonds will be awarded to the bidder offering to purchase the bonds at the lowest interest cost to the District, such cost to be determined by deducting the total amount of the premium bid from the aggregate amount of interest upon all of the bonds until their respective maturities. No bid of less than par and accrued interest will be entertained.

Bids must be enclosed in a sealed envelope marked "Proposals for Bonds" and be accompanied by a certified check upon an incorporated bank or trust company, payable unconditionally to the order of the

Break Hypnosis Over Telephone

Cheltenham, Eng., Aug. 10.—(P)—Hypnotist Peter Casson put a group of people to sleep here July 28. He finally got the last one to wake up early today—by long distance phone from London.
Anyway, that's what 19-year old Joyce Dorey and her mother said. The family doctor agrees with them. Joyce went to sleep during a mass demonstration of Casson's powers at the town hall nearly two weeks ago. In a walking trance, she wandered away from the crowd. When Casson brought the rest back to their senses, she was on her way home, still in a dream.
The following day she collapsed at work. Then she went to a movie and passed out again. She took to swooning in the street when people spoke to her.
The family doctor declared she was still in hypnotic state. He put in a call for Casson, who by now was playing in a music hall in London.

Remembered In Will

Henry M. Hardee, prominent retired Norfolk, Va., businessman who died recently, included in his will a bequest to Greenville Girl Scouts for Camp Hardee $2,500.
The will disposing of the approximately $1,000,000 estate to his widow and four daughters and two sons was probated in Norfolk several days ago.
Mr. Hardee, about eight years ago, gave the Greenville Girl Scouts $10,000 for a building at Camp Hardee and recently had donated $1,000 additional. The gifts were made as a memorial to Mr. Hardee's mother and father, natives of Greene County.

By phone from 120 miles away Casson told the girl to fall into a sound sleep and wake up in five minutes.
At the end of the appointed time Joyce awoke, thanked Casson and told the doctor she felt fine.

Hold Inquest In Death Of Baby Highway Wreck

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse will hold an inquest into the death of Irvin M. Barber, Jr., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin M. Barber of Greenville, who was killed in a three-car collision on the highway in Hillsdale the night of July 16. The hearing will be held in the court room at the City Hall next Monday night at 7:30.

Police reported that a car driven by Jack Crawford, going toward Winterville, attempted to pass the car driven by Jesse Ray Faulkner of near Winterville; that evidently Crawford saw an oncoming car, changed his direction and passed the Faulkner car on the right, crashing into the rear end of the vehicle, causing it to hurtle across the highway, colliding head-on with the car driven by Irvin M. Barber, 200 Mumford street, Greenville. The police report states that Crawford's car continued 200 feet beyond the scene of the collision and landed in a ditch. Nine persons were injured in the wreck, one fatally.
Police arrested Crawford on a charge of reckless driving. He was released on $5,000 bond.

Grain Market

Chicago, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Grains recovered a part—but in most cases not all—of an early loss on the board of trade today. The market sank during the morning on moderate hedge selling in wheat and liquidation of corn in anticipation of a bumper crop forecast from the Agriculture department after the close. Soy beans showed resistance during the early weakness.
Wheat closed 1/2 lower to 1/4 higher, September $2.04-$2.08 1/2, corn was 1/4-1/2 lower, September $1.24-1/2, oats were 1/4-1/2 lower, September 65 1/2-70, rye was 1/4-1/2 higher, September $1.51 1/2, soybeans were 1/4 to 3/4 cents higher, November $2.38-$2.39, and lard was 2 to 10 cents a hundred pounds higher, September $12.77.

'Gray Market' In Nylon Reported

New York, Aug. 10.—(AP)—A heavy demand for nylon has brought a return of a "gray market" for the fiber, trade sources reported today. There are reports that premiums of 50 cents a pound or more have been offered hosiery knitters for excess yarn.
Trade circles said dresses, undergarments, shirts and other apparel items in which nylon cloth is featured have been in demand. Cutters are looking for large quantities of goods to fill orders from retailers.
