Serviceman's Letter Sheds Light In Five-Percent Probe

Washington, Aug. 22.—(AP)—A secret letter beginning "Dear Pop" is shed- ding new light on the perfume oil and home freezer aspects of the five percent inquiry, Senator Mundt (R-SD) said today.

"The letter ties in with the whole chain of events dealing with the presentation of home freezers to prominent people in Washington and the subsequent activities of representatives of the perfume company which paid for the freezers," Mundt said the youth who wrote the letter either will be called to testify at the Senate public hearings, to be resumed tomorrow, or will be questioned privately.

Mundt declined to name the boy or his father. He said the letter was prompted by accounts of the investigation which appeared in the newspapers during the last few days. The committee has been told that seven home freezers presented to Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan and other Washington notables in 1945 were paid for by the Albert Verley Co., a Chicago oil firm.

Tobacco Prices Continue Steady And Sales High

Prices on the Greenville tobacco market held steady today as heavy sales were reported from the local warehouses.

Prices for the individual grades remained about the same as those paid for last on opening day Friday and large quantities of burned lugs and non-descript type tobacco on today's sales continued to hold the market's general average down.

Farmers generally expressed satisfaction with the prices the tobacco brought on today's sales. A smaller amount of tobacco sold on the Greenville market today went to the government stabilization corporation than on the opening day's sales when the government took between 10 and 15 per cent of the tobacco sold on the warehouse floors.

Raleigh, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Prices held steady—or advanced slightly—as the second day of sales began on North Carolina's Eastern belt tobacco markets today.

The Rocky Mount market reported that prices on early sales appeared a little stronger than on Friday when 1,746,272 pounds brought an average of $44.91 per hundred. With about 2,000,000 pounds on warehouse floors, today's sales were expected to total about 1,750,000 pounds.

From the Wilson market came reports that prices and quality were somewhat better than on Friday when 2,151,803 pounds brought an average price of $47. The first few rows sold today saw an average of about $48 maintained, the report said.

At Goldsboro, prices on early sales were reported as about the same as on Friday when 641,284 pounds averaged $49.50.

Friday, the belt's opening and only day of sales last week, led grades on the 17 markets to a high were off from $3 to $5 a hundred compared with 1948's opening day.

Cutters and fine to choice lugs were mostly steady, while low to good lugs, primings and non-descript grades were stronger. Gains for these classifications ranged mostly from $2 to $3 a hundred.

Successful Couterattack For Chinese Nationalists

Canton, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The Nationalists claimed more success today on the vital Central China war front north of this communist-threatened refugee capital.

The government asserted a Red thrust to cut the Canton-Hankow railway and isolate the Hunan province defense bastion of Hengyang had been thrown back.

Not only had the threat to the vital Canton-Hengyang communications been removed—for the moment at least—but Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi's eastern flank was temporarily out of danger.

The Nationalists said they beat back Red Gen. Lin Piao's attempt to take Linyang, 230 miles north of Canton after his forces had been pushed back to the central China defense headquarters at Hengyang, 35 miles farther north.

Begin Soliciting For Fund Drive

This week the special committee to secure 20 athletic scholarships for East Carolina Teachers College began solicitations, and according to Chairman E. E. Rawl, committee members are being graciously received by merchants and citizens of Greenville and Pitt County.

Earlier this year a similar drive to raise $25,000 for the first wing of a proposed 18,999 unit, well lighted and equipped stadium for the college was successful. College officials have announced that the stadium is ready for use this fall with the gridiron, lights, fence and 3,000 permanent and 1,500 seats already completed.

Chairman Rawl this morning urged businessmen and other citizens of Greenville and Pitt County to contribute to the ECTC athletic scholarship drive.

Contributions for the athletic scholarship fund should be sent to J. H. Waldrop, Guaranty Bank and Trust Company, the Daily Reflector, or given to any member of the special committee, Rawl said.

Committee members for the scholarship fund drive are: Alton Johnston, Lewis Tebeau, H. H. Duncan, Carl Adams, Phil L. Goodson, Ed Waldrop, Louis Sturart, Picklen, Kenneth Phillips, R. W. Shiplett.

President Pleads For Fast Okay Of Full Arms Aid Sum

Declares B-36 And A-Bomb Keep Peace

Washington, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Gen. Carl Spaatz, retired Air Force chief said today the B-36 bomber and the atomic bomb "are the greatest forces for peace in the world."

It was because he anticipated that the B-36 could play this role, Spaatz said, that he decided in late 1946 or early 1947 to push the air force program of acquiring the planes.

No outside influence affected his decision, he said. In terms of wars of the past, he said, Russia could subdue "practically all of Europe and Asia in a relatively short period of time" but the B-36 and the bomb maintain "a balance of power for peace."

The General was called before the House armed services committee in its inquiry into whether political influence or favoritism figured in developing the big, six-engine B-36.

Spaatz said that when he commanded the air forces he made a decision to continue a contract for 100 B-36's let in 1943. His decision was made around December 1946 or January 1947.

"I believed," Spaatz said in a prepared statement, "that the results to be obtained from possession of an inter-continental bomber were so enormous as to justify going ahead and taking the chance of failure, just as was done in developing the atomic bomb which this plane is designed to deliver."

Hurricane Path Aims At Florida

Miami, Fla., Aug. 22.—(AP)—A small Atlantic hurricane—the first of the season—roared toward the Florida coast today.

The Weather Bureau here said the hurricane, probably increasing in size and intensity, was centered at 5 a. m. (EST) about 440 miles east of Nassau.

It was moving west northwest about 20 miles per hour and reports indicated an increase in the rate of forward speed.

Hurricane winds estimated at 90 miles an hour whirled around the center of the doughnut-shaped disturbance. It extended outward 30 to 40 miles from the center and gales extended 75 to 100 miles in the northern semi-circle.

The Weather Bureau pin-pointed the disturbance at 5 a. m. near latitude 25.4 north and longitude 70.7 west.

"It is expanding a bit and ought to slow down," said chief storm forecaster Grady Norton, who warned it may increase in size and intensity.

Address At VFW Convention Aimed At Critics Of Program; Goal Is Prevention Of Aggression And To Bolster Confidence In Economic Future

Miami, Fla., Aug. 22.—(AP)—President Truman pleaded today for fast approval of the full $1,450,000,000 arms aid program as "part of the price of peace."

He indirectly told critics of the plan in Congress—without calling any names—that peace with freedom and justice "can not be bought cheaply" in a world made uneasy by "Soviet pressure."

And he described the goal as prevention of aggression. "We are not arming ourselves and our friends to start a fight with anybody," the President said. "We are building our defenses so that we won't have to fight."

He spoke before the golden jubilee convocation of the Veterans of Foreign Wars after an 822-mile flight here from Washington in the Independence, the White House plane. He planned to fly back immediately.

The President blamed Russian tactics in the United Nations and elsewhere for the need to arm friendly nations "to resist aggression."

"For that reason," he went on, "we have to join other friendly nations in forming regional defense pacts."

Efforts of Senate leaders to re-stroke the $980,495,000 House slash last week from the $1,196,990,000 set aside for Western Europe in the arms proposal were underway in Washington. They faced opposition from a determined economy bloc and others who urged against voting the full sum until they are satisfied that nations to be helped will "go together."

The President, speaking in a key auditorium, condemned communism for its "false" claim that it satisfied "the universal desire for a better life."

Instead, he said, it "lures men by false promises back to tyranny and slavery."

The President made no reference to the plight of communist-controlled China. A new American policy concerning that country is in course of study at the State Department.

But, he said, the Philippines and Korea, the two young republics in the Far East, "need military assistance if they are to maintain their national security."

"We must continue our aid to Greece and Turkey," Mr. Truman said. "We should help Iran maintain its firm stand against Soviet pressure."

Mr. Truman said military aid is "part and parcel" of the policy of helping European economic recovery. He conceded it was costly, but said "it represents an investment in security that will be worth many times its cost."

And he said it is "part of the cost of peace."

Hundreds Battle Big Forest Fires

Hundreds of fire fighters battled flames in National forest areas of six western states today. At least six major fires were still out of control, three in the Payette National Forest of central Idaho and three in Yellowstone National Park in Wyoming.

Four crewmen were hospitalized, one in California and three in Idaho. More than 300 lightning-caused fires, most of them small, covered an estimated 33,000 acres of timber and grass lands in the drought-stricken forests.

Winds that caused fires to flare out of control Saturday had died down yesterday and in Idaho, a light overcast raised the humidity last night. Weather will be the major factor in bringing the fires under control, James Hockaday, forester from the regional forest service fire control office at Ogden, Utah, said today.

Major fire was a 7,000 acre blaze in Hell's Canyon in the Peyette forest. It was there that wind-swept flames caught a crew, causing injury to several men. Three were hospitalized and Jim Knudsen of Gem, Kas., was termed critical. The gorge is 7,000 feet deep, adding to the difficulty in establishing a fire line.

Another fire near Riggs, Idaho, had covered 3,200 acres.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Three Dakota planes were searching northern Manitoba today for an amphibious Canso aircraft missing since last night with 20 persons aboard.

The Canso left Churchill at 6 p. m. (EST) last night and last radioed the Hudson Bay port one and one half hours later. It was scheduled to land here at 10:10 p. m.

Those aboard included a crew of six, seven Eskimos stricken with polio, a nurse, a newspaper man and a party of men from the Federal Bureau of Transport.

Unless the democracies stand together to weld a defense structure strong enough to prevent another conflict, he said, they can be taken over "one by one."

He said the United Nations principles must be supported by regional actions until all nations "are united in the desire for peace."

He said, too, that economic recovery will lag "if the haunting fear of military aggression is widespread."

Such fear, he continued, will prevent new investments from being made and new industries from being established.

At least there was full debate in the Senate on the problem, and everyone in the Senate knew what was happening—at that time.

But when the Senate and house vote money bills, their amounts usually differ and a committee of Senators and representatives has to sit down and work out a compromise. It happened in this case.

40 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR August 22, 1909

On Friday William Patrick gave a most delightful sail complimentary to the visiting young ladies. The crowd of merry makers left the wharf about 10:30 and had a most delightful sail to Yankee Hall. After enjoying rows, conversation and kidding, a sumptuous lunch was served. They left Yankee Hall and reached Greenville about 5:30. Those present were Misses Lizzie Baker of Tarboro, Edwina Lovelace, Sude Hackney and Martha Stevens of Wilson, Florence Blow, Rubelle Forbes and Patti Wooten and Tom Hutchings, Mrs. J. L. Wooten, chaperone.

"O Perfect Love" were softly played during the ceremony. Mrs. Edgar Denton, of Greenville, soloist, sang de Hardlot's "Because" and "I Love You Truly" by Bond, just prior to the entrance of the wedding party. Palms, ferns and native greenery formed the background for the floor baskets of white gladioli and asters, and the branched candelabra holding burning white tapers, before which the vows were exchanged.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding gown of white embroidered organza over white taffeta, was designed with a fitted bodice with high neckline which fell into a deep berth over the shoulders. The full bouffant skirt was completed with a crushed sash of white taffeta featuring a large bow at the back.

Her open-crown picture hat of sheer white braid was trimmed with white illusion around the crown and formed a flat bow, affixed with valley lilies and waistline streamers. She wore nylon gloves and carried a nosegay of white bride's roses and asters showered with satin ribbons and tube roses.

Miss Joyce Currier, the bride's sister and only attendant, wore a gown of heavenly blue net. The dress was styled with a basque waist made with a high neck with shoulder drape which formed a plunging neckline at the front, and a full bouffant skirt. She wore a bandeau of matching blue net and blue nylon mitts. Her colonial bouquet was of briarcliff roses, pink and blue asters, tied with blue satin.

The groom's best man was his brother, Edward Harris of Greenville. Ushers were W. B. Harris, Ford McGowan, Jerry Prizzell and W. M. Scales, all of Greenville.

Mrs. Currier, the bride's mother, wore a sheer navy blue dress with matching navy blue accessories. Her wide brimmed hat was of navy felt and she wore a corsage of white roses.

Following a reception at the home of the bride on River Road, Washington Park, Mr. and Mrs. Harris left on a wedding trip to unannounced points. For the bride, the bride changed to a suit of oyster-white shantung, using a navy silk blouse with white trim and other accessories of navy blue. Her hat of navy blue featured an oyster-white plume and she wore a shoulder corsage of white bride's roses.

Mrs. Harris graduated in June from East Carolina Teachers College, Greenville, with a B. S. degree in Business Education and English. She plans to teach commerce and English in the Alliance school, near New Bern, this fall.

Mr. Harris, a graduate of the Greenville High School, attended the University of North Carolina and East Carolina Teachers College. He is now employed in the construction department at Cherry Point. The couple will make their home in New Bern.

The Currier home on River Road, Washington Park, was beautifully decorated with massive white floral arrangements and white burning tapers, reflecting the bride's motif, when Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Currier entertained at a reception honoring the bride and bridegroom and their wedding party immediately following the ceremony in the First Christian Church.

Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Currier were the bride and groom, James L. Harris, Sr., father of the bridegroom, and members of the bridal party.

In the dining room the bride's table was covered with an imported cloth of cream lace. At one end of the table was a low silver bowl filled with white asters, carnations and tube roses, flanked by an arrangement of burning tapers. At the opposite end was the three tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom, resting on a mirror reflector.

A large bouquet of white gladioli were most effective on the buffet and other white designs were featured about the room.

Miss Lynn Kelly and Miss Jeanne Lawrence of Greenville poured punch during the appointed hour and Misses Anna Windley and Peggie Dall of Greenville assisted in passing bridal cakes, assorted salted nuts and tinted mints.

Following the reception hour the bride and groom, their wedding party and intimate friends of the couple were entertained at a cake cutting.

Recreation Commission To Improve Program In City

This past week and the Recreation Commission of Greenville held their last summer meeting at which time Bill Dole, the recreation supervisor for the summer, outlined the progress of the program and had a word of praise for those persons who had a part in making the program a success.

The following recommendations were made and accepted unanimously by the commission:

1. That all recreation in Greenville come under the supervision of one head.
2. That funds from the recreation funds be used for the upkeep of the ball park.
3. That provisions be made for a swimming pool and a teen age center for the colored people.
4. That a swimming instructor be hired to coach teams.
5. That a playground school be held for applicants and that they be chosen as a result of their work background, experience and leadership.

Due to lack of funds the recreation program this winter will be limited to midget activity and Bill Kittrell was employed to handle this activity. Coach Dole who finishes his work as recreation supervisor September 1 to assume his college duties was commended by the commission for setting up a sound program and doing a fine job this summer.

"Mind" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, August 21st.

Golden Text: Romans 11:34. "Who hath known the mind of the Lord? and who hath been his counselor?"

Among the citations comprising the lesson-sermon are the following from the Bible: "Great is our Lord, and of great power: His understanding is infinite." (Psalms 147:5) And from the Christian Science textbook by Mary Baker Eddy: "All is infinite Mind and its infinite manifestation, for God is all-in-all." Page 468.

Lawbreakers In Holiday During Recent Weekend

By CHESTER WALSH
Law violators took a holiday during the recent weekend, according to law enforcement officers. Police here and in other Pitt county towns reported, "All's quiet on the police front." The state highway patrol and sheriff's office had few calls none of them important. Judge J. W. H. Roberts, in Police Court, had a light docket today.

Heads of law enforcement agencies here reported exceptionally good order in the county last Friday during the opening of the Greenville tobacco market.

Greenville police and state highway patrol are giving special attention to regulating traffic in town and on the highways. The patrolmen are checking on motorists who do not have drivers' licenses.

Police reported several minor motor vehicle collisions in Greenville during the weekend, none of them serious. No arrest was made. Collisions occurred at 10th and Evans, Fourth and Greene, and 11th and Forbes streets during the weekend.

al of the big trees, about which property owners have complained will be cut down. It is understood. The men doing the work are trained and capable and they are doing the work for the best interest of the public.

'Celebration'

Dansville, N.Y., Aug. 22—(AP) Bernard MacFadden has passed another milestone in his goal to prove "this growing old idea is all nonsense."

The physical culturist who got his private pilot's license at the age of 74, celebrated his own 81st birthday and his wife's 44th Saturday by making his first parachute jump.

As he successfully 'chuted 2,000 feet from a plane to a field a half mile from Dansville airport, Mrs. MacFadden ran up to him shouting:

"Oh, you wonderful man, you!"

MacFadden stamped around climbing out of his parachute rig, exclaiming:

"It was wonderful coming down."

SMITH & SUGG MARKET REPORT

Opening day price range was from 9 to 70 cents (not including nondescript tobacco). Most of the top grades of primings selling at 65 cents. We look for a steady and firm market. Our average will run well over 50 cents after we dispose of the lower grades of primings and tips. Many of those selling with us opening day averaged 55 and 60 cents.

Exceedingly Important: Don't let your tobacco get soft and damaged, even slightly. Keep green and dark leaves out of your bright grades. No support price whatever on damaged or wet tobacco. Much lower price on mixed tobacco. This will save growers thousands of dollars.

For 38 years we have endeavored to assist the tobacco growers in their efforts to secure a fair price and permanent Farm Program. You will be pleased when you market your tobacco with us. We are anxious and able to serve you.

Strength FOR THE DAY

JUST GIVE IT A CHANCE
 One hour today a great deal of commotion with the United Nations. The complaints are many. One of the most common is that the United Nations cannot reach any important decisions because of the East-West split. Some people object that it has no real power to enforce any decisions that it does make. Others are disturbed by the opportunities it gives for foreign agents to enter our country.

These are the complaints of pessimists. Historically minded persons will recall the disparaging remarks which greeted the first telephones, submarines, automobiles, and airplanes. Yet, after trial and error, all these devices were successful and became part of our life.

In actual fact, besides concluding many small agreements, the United Nations has already stopped one full-scale war—a minor war, to be sure, but just the sort of war which has in the past drawn greater powers into it.

But the most encouraging thing about the United Nations is the almost universal conviction of the common people of the world that it ought to exist. Here is a great step forward. Twenty-five years ago the citizens of our own country rejected the idea of a world government. Today they grumble about it, but they support it. This widespread faith that nations can agree and that wars are unnecessary is this century's most hopeful sign.

A SILENT MENACE

Your editor's embryonic conviction that comic books were a silent menace to the American public became more fully developed Saturday afternoon on reading that a woman lost $12,600 in a paper bag while engrossed in reading a comic book.

It seems a Bronx housewife had drawn her life's savings from the bank and was taking it, via subway, to pay for a new home and a new car. She didn't know just when she lost the money because of her absorption in a comic book.

She must have been one sick woman on discovering the loss, and we can't help but wonder if she still has a taste for comic books.

Those things can be dangerous.

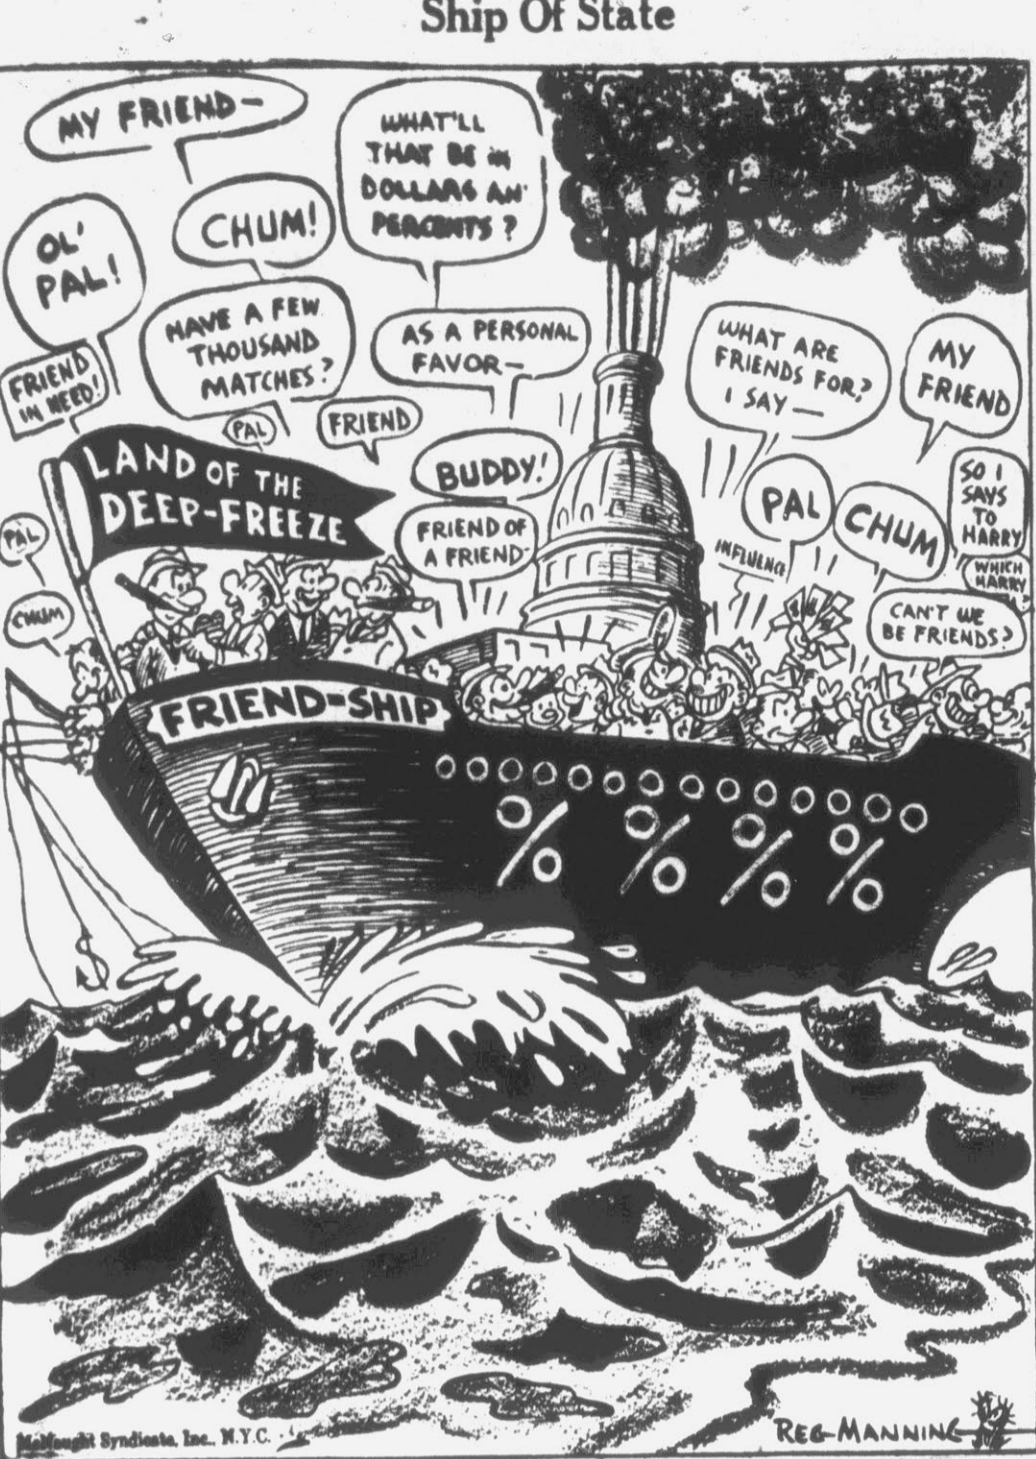

YOU'D THINK THEY WERE BORED

Wishful thinking plays a big part in our everyday lives. For instance, when two old machines were found in a Maryland tobacco shed Friday, they were at first believed by some air force officials to be "prototypes" or early models of the famous flying saucers.

Hours later, the air force officially disclaimed any such view, taking the position that it could not recognize anything as a "prototype" of something that has not proved to exist.

Well, that announcement ended speculation over the contraptions. However the discovery of the odd machines revived all the fabulous tales of sky-riding saucers.

The point we would like to make is that a lot of people want to believe in flying saucers just as they want to believe in other odd fables, principally for the distraction they provide for the imagination.

Somebody Told Me...

BY L. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

Most families think that twenty meals a week is enough for mother to cook, and the twenty-first should be eaten out. Quite often that one week is Sunday night. The cool weather last night whetted many appetites for barbecue, so Respass' was filled with Sunday-night eaters-outers. Even the best cook in town, Wife Rachel, and her husband were eating out there.

Sometimes I think things are getting in a pretty bad state around Greenville. People can't even do a normal thing like eating in a restaurant without a snoop columnist, namely me, spying on them and writing a column about it.

But the people I spied on were too busy to realize I was doing it. At the same table were two families: ma, pa, and a seven-month old girl; and ma, pa, a three-year-old and a one-year-old.

When the two mothers excused themselves momentarily the daddy of the oldest boy decided he wanted to go with his mother and received the directions from his daddy.

Half way there the youngster turned around and said, "Which road, daddy?" Red faced, the daddy called him back for more detailed instructions.

When the food came things really began to happen. The seven-month-old was enjoying her soda crackers so much that she decided that her daddy must eat one. At first he tried to ignore her out-stretched hand which offered him a cracker, but his effort was in vain. There was no such thing as getting out of it—daddy simply had to eat that cracker.

He would glance around to see who was looking at him, nibble on the cracker, then glance and nibble again.

The one-year-old seemed to be enjoying what he ate of the food, but a large quantity was pitched here and there around the room. Before long he decided that food was better for eating than it was for throwing, so he settled down to chomping.

The point of this story is that mother has a job to do at every meal, whether the job is cooking or feeding, or both. But when the family eats out she at least doesn't have to wash the dishes. Maybe when the family eats at home her husband does the dishes occasionally (26 million American husbands help their wives with the dishes). In that case she "only" has to cook and feed. There's no getting around it; mother has a job.

Whenever I stick a separate paragraph on the column like this it usually means that the main subject wasn't long enough. There was a columnist who got so desperate that he put the Ten Commandments in his column without adding any comment.

After the paper was off the press a subscriber wrote to the editor, "Cancel my subscription. Your columnist is getting too personal; who is he to tell me what to do and what not to do?"

And I thank you.

COMPARISON—Kerr Scott may be doing for the Democratic party in North Carolina the same thing that Franklin Roosevelt did for the Democratic party in the nation. Whether that is good or bad depends entirely upon the viewpoint. Many of the traditional policies of the party were sacrificed when the Roosevelt New Deal states far bigger than the party under whose label he was elected. Prior to 1936 the national Democratic party had been for half a century the minority party. Election of Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson came about through fluke circumstances without refusing the designation of Democrats as the minority party. The 1932 election of Franklin Roosevelt was a protest against conditions and was not a straight out party contest. By 1936 Roosevelt had proved himself stronger than his party, and the voting habits acquired in 1936, 1940 and 1944 were largely responsible for the election of Harry Truman in 1948. By that time millions of people who had voted for Roosevelt, the man, had been confirmed in the habit of marking the Democratic circle on the ballot.

STRONGER—The state situation is not exactly the same. The Democratic party has been dominant in North Carolina throughout state history. Occasional lapses, last of which occurred in the nineties, resulting in election of a Republican administration, were as much flukes as were the Democratic national victories of Cleveland and Wilson. But all the while there have been a dozen or so counties regarded as naturally and safely Republican, and a dozen more were borderline cases. A cursory survey

Is Your Child the "One in Five"?

One school child in five is retarded because his vision is defective. Poor vision is a great handicap to a child. It shows him up in every way. It forces him to work harder to master his studies; handicaps him in his relationships with other children and grown-ups, too. It tends to warp his personality—and generally sets him back in his struggle to get ahead and make his mark.

Make sure your child's vision is right! Don't handicap him!

Boyle's Column

By ED CREAUGH
 For Hal Boyle

New York, Aug. 22—(AP)—When a man builds a better mousetrap than his neighbor, the next thing he wants is to build a bigger mousetrap. That's a still bigger one. And in the end, he's miserable if he hasn't built the whoppingest mousetrap ever.

Something like that has happened to Douglas Leigh.

Leigh is a boyish, soft-spoken Alabamian who has made himself a millionaire by creating those ram-dazzle electric signs that swing, sway, hiss, rain and otherwise startle the crowds on Broadway—and elsewhere.

You've seen them, in the movies if not in the original: the Niagara of real water that roars over times squares, 80,000 gallons a minute; the blimps that flash advertising from the sky; the giant soldier blowing giant smoke rings.

"Spectaculars," they're called. And Leigh has dreamed up the more spectacular of them. He's been nicknamed "the tamplighter of Broadway" and "the sign painter of America."

So—what next? How fantastic can you get?

Let's sit down in Leigh's Rockefeller center office and listen to a man who's as full of ideas as a boy with a new slingshot and a bag of pebbles:

"Well, there's our walking man. He'll be as tall as a seven and a half story building and it will look from the sidewalk as if he's stepping from the top of a theater right down onto Broadway.

"Then there's the 175-foot sign we're doing for a bank in Minneapolis. A real whopper. They'll be able to see it for miles across the wheat fields. And tell from it what the weather's going to be.

"You know about our stork? It's going to be 220 feet long and it will fly through the air, carrying a baby. We're doing it with lights on a blimp.

"Won't the stork make people nervous? Like newweds, you mean? Oh, I suppose there will be a lot of wisecracks . . .

Leigh is a low-pressure talker, sometimes remarkable in the advertising business. He's 39 and looks about 30. He also looks a mite discontented.

Why?

"That's where the bigger mousetrap comes in.

"For years," Leigh confesses, "I've been looking at the Empire State building. Longing. Tremendous advertising possibilities. And I haven't been able to do a thing with it . . . so far.

"Another idea I've had is to paint an insurance ad on the rock of Gibraltar. Never really expected to do it. Still, England owns the rock and she's hard up for dollars. I wonder . . .

Playfully—or so I thought—I asked Leigh if he had considered harnessing the Northern Lights, sometimes known as the Aurora Borealis, for huckstering purposes.

His eyes glowed. You've seen the same glow in the eyes of small boys contemplating a neighbor's pear tree.

"As a matter of fact," Leigh said,

Why?

"That's where the bigger mousetrap comes in.

"For years," Leigh confesses, "I've been looking at the Empire State building. Longing. Tremendous advertising possibilities. And I haven't been able to do a thing with it . . . so far.

"Another idea I've had is to paint an insurance ad on the rock of Gibraltar. Never really expected to do it. Still, England owns the rock and she's hard up for dollars. I wonder . . .

Playfully—or so I thought—I asked Leigh if he had considered harnessing the Northern Lights, sometimes known as the Aurora Borealis, for huckstering purposes.

His eyes glowed. You've seen the same glow in the eyes of small boys contemplating a neighbor's pear tree.

"As a matter of fact," Leigh said,

Strength FOR THE DAY

One hour today a great deal of commotion with the United Nations. The complaints are many. One of the most common is that the United Nations cannot reach any important decisions because of the East-West split. Some people object that it has no real power to enforce any decisions that it does make. Others are disturbed by the opportunities it gives for foreign agents to enter our country.

These are the complaints of pessimists. Historically minded persons will recall the disparaging remarks which greeted the first telephones, submarines, automobiles, and airplanes. Yet, after trial and error, all these devices were successful and became part of our life.

In actual fact, besides concluding many small agreements, the United Nations has already stopped one full-scale war—a minor war, to be sure, but just the sort of war which has in the past drawn greater powers into it.

But the most encouraging thing about the United Nations is the almost universal conviction of the common people of the world that it ought to exist. Here is a great step forward. Twenty-five years ago the citizens of our own country rejected the idea of a world government. Today they grumble about it, but they support it. This widespread faith that nations can agree and that wars are unnecessary is this century's most hopeful sign.

Greenies Bow 6-5 As Jays Come From Behind In Ninth

Locals Get Off To Fast Start But Lead Whittled Away By Roanoke Rapids; Visitors Score Needed Two Runs In Final Inning

Well, it happened for the third straight time out at Guy Smith Stadium yesterday afternoon when the cellar-dwelling Roanoke Rapids Jays staged a two-run rally to overcome a one-run deficit and take a ball game from the Greenies by the count of 6 to 5.

In the ninth, John Hudak and Larry Quatararo singled, Sam Piacentino grounded out to first for the initial out. Val Gonzales walked leading the bases. Dewey then laid down a perfect infield bunt which he beat out for an infield hit to bring in Hudak. Then Bill Ramsey hit to short forcing Gonzales with Quatararo scoring on the play to give the Jays their winning run.

The Greenies took the lead in the initial inning by scoring three runs on one single, four walks and a double steal. Strausser reached first on Gonzales' error, walks to Smith and Tepedino loaded the bases. Then Manager Pappy Williams was walked to force in Strausser. Denier was walked forcing in Smith and then Valle got an infield hit with Tepedino scoring.

The Jays put across one run in the second on two costly errors and two walks. They came back in the third frame to narrow the Greenies lead 4 to 3 as the Greenies scored one run in the second on two walks, a single and a double steal, while the Jays added two in the third on two successive doubles and an error by Manager Pappy Williams.

Greenie increased their lead 6 to 3 in the sixth frame when Strausser singled, Tepedino walked and Willie Mauney singled to bring him home. This ended the scoring for the Greenies.

The Jays came back in the seventh to score one more run on Quatararo's double and Sam Piacentino's timely single.

The Greenies had a good chance to knot the count in the final frame, but were unable to produce the necessary punch. After Varney had popped up to shortstop for the first out Steve Denier was walked and then stole second. Charlie Graham went in to pinch-hit for Valle and was out, short to first for the second out with Denier racing to third. Frank Lapovley then went in to pinch-hit for Pitcher Mustian and was called out on strikes without taking the bat off

Greens Beat 'Em

Mamaroneck, N. Y., Aug. 22—(AP) Great Britain never can expect to regain the Walker cup until its golfers overcome the Americans' mastery around the greens, says Percy (Laddie) Lucas, captain of the visiting forces.

"We're going right back to England and start working on our wedges and short irons," the 33-year-old former RAF wing commander said today as he reviewed Britain's 11th setback in 12 cup clashes with the U. S. "That's where your fellows broke our back."

Chapter 14
The Zodiac Club was on West Fifty-second not far from Broadway.

Derris waited for a moment, then entered. The room was roughly semicircular, the walls divided into twelve panels. In the center of each the signs of the Zodiac were mounted in bas-relief.

The headwaiter came toward her immediately.

"Hello, Luigi. Quite a crowd tonight."

"Not just tonight, Miss Martin," he smiled, "but every night. Unless people have reservations we have to turn them away. Will you come this way, please?"

He led her to a table at the edge of the dance floor where she had a good view of most of the club, and of the orchestra on a raised stage just below the sign of Scorpio.

In a little while she saw Dave Holway moving toward her.

"Sorry not to have gotten over sooner."

"Has Cherry been on yet?"

"No, it's almost time for her number now." He looked at his watch. "I think you'll like it."

As he spoke the lights dimmed. A hushed quiet gripped the crowd. Above them in the darkness, the starry ceiling took on the velvet of a tropical night. Softly drums began to beat a Beguine rhythm. The spotlight held the mistress of moonstones. Slowly a figure moved out of the shadows. Softly, to an accompaniment only of the drums, a voice began to sing in Spanish. The light became brighter now, picking up Cherry in its full brilliance, accentuating her peasant dress.

Cherry moved sturdily through the crowd until she had made a complete circle. The lights grew dimmer again, the song ending as she disappeared into the darkness amid thunderous applause.

"She's simply wonderful, Dave. She absolutely makes you feel you're part of any atmosphere she wants to create."

Dave nodded. "She's certainly given the Zodiac Club its popularity."

A few minutes later, the singer joined them.

"How do you think it went over?" she asked.

"Cherry, even allowing for a certain amount of bias in your favor, we think it's great."

Cherry slipped the Martinis she had ordered, then suddenly got up.

"Have to get ready for my next number. . . . As she did so, a waiter came up and handed Dave a note. Holway read it and looked at Derris.

"I'm sorry, but you'll have to excuse me for a while. Senator Morrow has asked me to speak to him for a moment. Order anything you like," he flung back over his shoulder.

She watched him moving toward a table almost directly across the room and saw him shake hands with a stout gray-haired man. They were soon in deep conversation.

The lights dimmed again as she walked over toward the orchestra. She began to sing a popular blues number.

Again, she moved among the tables as she sang. She came toward Derris, smiling as she did so, when suddenly a shot rang out. Her voice stopped in mid-note. A strange rasping sigh escaped her, while her face became mask-like, her eyes no longer seeing the many countenances now turned toward her in bewilderment and confusion. She slid to the floor like a sawdust marionette.

The members of the orchestra had risen from their seats, looking toward the motionless figure on the dance floor. For a brief interval, during which time stood still, stunned silence held the spectators. Then the thin high scream of a woman broke the spell. Derris had risen, gripping the edge of the table instinctively as she saw him trying to push his way from the senator's table.

At the same instant someone touched her arm. She turned to find Haid standing beside her.

"What are you doing here?" she asked in surprise.

"Don't waste time talking. I'll tell you later. Come on." At the same time he began to move through the milling crowd in the direction

On Trial Fourth Time This Week

Windor, N. C., Aug. 18—(AP)— Raleigh Speller is scheduled to go on trial this week for the fourth time on a rape charge. The 46-year-old Negro has been sentenced to die twice, but each time won new trials by appealing to the Supreme Court.

Superior Court Judge William J. Halstead of South Mills may call the case today.

Speller is charged with assaulting and raping Mrs. Aubrey Davis, middle-aged white woman of Windor in July 1947.

His first trial was the following month before Judge J. Paul Friselle, who overruled a motion to quash the bill of indictment because Negroes were "consistently and systematically barred the grand jury duty in Bertie county," however, Friselle continued the case until the following November.

At the November term, Speller was found guilty and sentenced to the gas chamber by Judge Paul Edmundson. The state Supreme Court ordered a new trial on an appeal by Speller because of the exclusion of Negroes from Bertie grand juries.

At his third trial, Speller again was convicted and sentenced to death by Judge R. Hunt Parker. A Supreme court appeal by Speller's attorneys on the grounds that they did not have proper time to investigate the jury was upheld.

The jury for the present trial is expected to be drawn from either Martin or Beaufort county.

Auto Plunges In River; 7 Drown

Beaufort, N. C., Aug. 22—(AP)— A car speeding over a wet road plunged through an open drawbridge yesterday drowning seven Negroes.

There were no witnesses to the accident. Skid marks, however, showed the car traveled 80 feet after crashing through the lowered gate to the drawbridge.

The vehicle dropped 26 feet and sank in 12 feet of water. The scene was about seven miles northeast of here, on an alternate route between Beaufort and Cherry Point where highway 101 crosses Core Creek.

Bridge tender David Dickinson said he was watching water traffic about to go under the bridge when the mishap occurred at 2:30 p. m.

A Fort Macon Coast Guard boat found the sunken car with grappling hooks and a Marine Corps crane lifted the car. All seven bodies were inside.

Highway patrol commander C. R. Tolar attributed the accident to the rain which was falling at the time and excessive speed.

Dying Vet Gets Hope And A Job

Detroit, Aug. 22—(AP)—The world did not pass navy veteran Ernest Gillum by in his time of trouble. He asked for a job—any sort of a job that a man desperately ill with cancer could do in the six months he had left to live. Today, he had found his good Samaritan, who may be able to give more than temporary work. A millionaire Detroit Philanthropist, who asked that his name be kept secret, read newspaper stories of Gillum's plight. Then reported the 34-year-old photographer, the millionaire came to him and said, "I'm going to give you a job—a good one. But first, I'm going to get you cured."

The Calculated . . .

They are intensely proud of their sovereignty and are ready to fight to preserve it, a fact which lends strength to the idea that the Tito-Kremlin battle over sovereignty is the real thing. All these circumstances explain why the United States for the first time since the war is deliberately sending "war-potential" material to a communist government.

Sleeping . . .

(Continued from page one) no time at all in agreeing to the house action which made the cut still deeper to $17,500,000. There was no Senate debate. But why weren't the friends of rent control alert enough to know what was happening? This explanation comes from Senator Paul Douglas Illinois Democrat and a friend of rent control: "Friends of mine who were on the floor (of the house) and who perhaps were not paying close attention, stated they did not understand what the motion was—not many members were on the floor.— "There was no discussion or debate whatsoever on this appropriation reduction: I think it is true that there were very few members either in the Senate or in the House who realized, some not until two days later, that this very severe slash had been made."
