Cold War 'Value' Factor In Policy

Britain's Importance To U. S. In Cold War To Play Vital Part In Shaping Policy On Negotiations Over Economic Crisis

Washington, Aug. 26—(AP)—Britain's importance to the United States in the cold war will play a vital part in shaping American policy in the coming negotiations on Britain's economic crisis.

Administration officials declared today that the United States will have to take full account of both political and military factors in working out what they said will be a sympathetic approach to British appeals for help and cooperation.

Exactly what steps the American government will take in the meetings here with British leaders beginning Sept. 6 remains to be determined.

It appeared likely that at the minimum the United States would agree to (1) temporary discrimination against American goods as a means of saving British dollars, (2) measures designed to increase British sales in this country and (3) cooperation with the British in promoting development of colonial areas through President Truman's so-called "point four" program.

British diplomats here became concerned over the development of American policy for the talks last week. The Administration announced then that Secretary of the Treasury Snyder rather than Secretary of State Acheson would be the chief negotiator for the United States.

Since Foreign Minister Bevin as well as Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's economic boss, is coming here the British had assumed that Acheson and Bevin would be the dominant figures for the two sides.

British concern arose out of the fear that Snyder would want to discuss the British crisis solely in economic terms. Since Britain is in a bad way economically British officials concluded that the American attitude might be on the whole less sympathetic under Snyder's guidance than under Acheson's.

Administration officials said today, however, that the complete American position is being worked out in conferences among Snyder, Acheson, and other Administration leaders and advisors. They said it will give adequate consideration to political and military factors as well as to economic facts.

In general this means recognition of Britain's strategic position. Its close ties militarily with the United States and Western Europe and its role as a political ally with the United States and other nations in the cold war.

Administration leaders thus are willing to take all measures which they feel to be practically possible in a new effort to help get Britain back on its economic feet and keep it there.

Philadelphia, Aug. 26—(AP)—Delegates to the 31st national American Legion convention began streaming into Philadelphia today with many apparently intent on naming a World War II veteran as their new commander.

As the city gradually took on a holiday atmosphere, two veterans of the last war plunged into the business of meeting delegates and lining up support. They are George N. Craig, Brazil, Ind., attorney, and Earl Cocks, farmer and railroad man, of Dawson, Ga.

A third candidate is expected to establish campaign headquarters by tonight—James F. Green, Omaha, Neb., attorney.

Little Permanent Aid

Twelve-Nation Council Of Europe Indicates Marshall Plan Aid Inspiring Little Long-Range Constructive Work; Self-Criticism; Economic Unity Is Sought

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The economic position of Western Europe has reached an unhappy stage which is causing much concern on both sides of the Atlantic.

A grim picture was conjured up during the debate in the consultative assembly of the 12-nation council of Europe just terminated in Strasbourg. The consensus was that the Marshall Plan aid is producing little permanent effect on recovery and that Europe is in for economic chaos if she can't achieve economic unity before the program ends in 1952.

The more gloomy prophets foresee social upheavals and even wars if economic unity isn't achieved. Nobody contradicted statements that little long-range constructive work is being done under the Marshall Plan.

Speakers in the assembly hammered on this question of economic unity. America's aid was praised as generous and wise and criticism leveled at the Marshall Plan countries themselves. They were charged with not having submerged national interests in the interest of Europe.

On the heels of these Strasbourg confessions, the Economic Cooperation Administration in Washington reports a slackening in the rate of European recovery. It sums up by saying that the program's ultimate objective of a healthy recovery, independent of extraordinary outside assistance, remains "a difficult but attainable goal."

The Strasbourg conclusions leave one with the uncomfortable impression of some Marshall Plan countries which up to this juncture have overlooked the cardinal fact that the well-being of the individual state is dependent on the strength of all the states. They have missed the point in their anxiety to overcome their personal difficulties.

We can go a bit further by running the risk of seeming ungrateful. There are some (though not all) of the Marshall Plan countries which have given signs of regarding Uncle Sam as a wealthy fellow who would pay the bill to put them on their feet. Their responsibility in the program ended when they accepted Sam's largesse.

The Marshall Plan never envisaged any such project as footing all the cost for European recovery. Its idea was to help the needy states to help themselves—to construct a "healthy economy independent of extraordinary outside assistance."

One of the prime essentials of success for this program was unity of effort. This has now crumbled up as a new idea for some countries when their representatives got to Washington, Aug. 26—(AP)—Officials of two eastern North Carolina tobacco markets indicated today they would continue their efforts to get additional buyers by continuing to operate so-called "rump" sales. These markets were Rocky Mount and Kinston.

Officials of three other markets, meanwhile, indicated their willingness to halt their extra sales if the other markets would follow suit. These were Goldsboro, Smithfield and Wilson.

A showdown on the issue is expected at a meeting here tomorrow afternoon of the board of governors of the bright belt warehouse association.

Fred S. Royster of Henderson, President of the Bright Belt Association, yesterday notified warehousemen on the five markets and at Windsor to discontinue such sales immediately.

A "rump" sale, Royster said, is a sale in which there are not enough buyers to insure competition in the bidding for the growers' leaf.

The situation arose last week when the opening of Eastern belt markets to obtain additional sets of buyers to operate additional sales on the market. In addition, Windsor is attempting to establish a tobacco market.

Royster said that so far none of these extra sales has attracted more than one buyer for a major buying company.

Royster said the board would meet here tomorrow "to decide what action to take" if the markets do not stop the sale.

"I don't know at this moment what they will be," Royster added.

He said officials of the Goldsboro and Smithfield markets had advised him they would discontinue their extra sales if the other markets do likewise.

Two Leaf Marts Plan Continuing Of 'Rump' Sales

Kinston And Rocky Mount Defy Royster Ban In Seeking Additional Buyers

Says Business Is Backing Economy

Washington, Aug. 26—(AP)—Secretary of Commerce Sawyer told the white house today of strong business sentiment for a cut in federal expenditures and a reduction in taxes on business.

The report was a 6000-word letter to Presidential Aide John R. Steelman. Steelman had asked Sawyer to make a survey for use in carrying out President Truman's program for concentrating federal spending to relieve spot employment of distress proportions.

Polio Epidemic Certain To Be Worst In History

New York, Aug. 26—(AP)—The polio epidemic may not have reached even the half-way point yet, and 1949 is certain to be the worst polio year in U. S. history, says the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The score on the basis of the Foundation's latest reports: 17,306 cases so far in 1949. 3,422 new cases reported in the nation last week—the highest number ever recorded for one week.

The total of reported cases through last week compared with 9,743 for the same period of 1948, the second worst polio year up to that time.

In 1916, which had ranked as the worst epidemic year, there was a total of about 30,000 reported cases.

The figures and prediction were issued yesterday by Dr. Hart E. Van Pipher, the Foundation's medical director, who said:

"Study of previous patterns of polio incidence shows that the peak may come anywhere between mid-August and mid-September. But the mid-point of the epidemic x x x never has occurred before the second week in September.

"If the peak is reached early, the reduction in cases is slower than if it comes later. When the peak is reached late, the number of new cases reported drops rapidly."

Dr. Van Pipher said this year's record of cases shows a sharp rise week by week since early spring, without even temporary drops.

Suspect Cleared In Slaying Of Opera Singer

Atlanta, Aug. 26—(AP)—Grover (Tokio) Pulley apparently was cleared today of any connection with the slaying of Metropolitan opera tenor John Garris.

Pulley, serving a 10-year sentence in South Carolina for possession of burglary tools, was eliminated as a suspect in a one sentence statement by Solicitor General Paul Webb:

"I have no plans for presenting the Pulley case to the grand jury."

He declined further comment. Pulley was named in the case when a coroner's jury ruled that Garris was killed with a bullet fired from a gun found in Pulley's possession.

Seven Killed In Submarine Blast

84 Crewmen Rescued In Arctic Waters By Sister Ship

Washington, Aug. 26—(AP)—Six Navy submariners and a civilian technician lost their lives and 84 crewmen were rescued today when the submarine Cochino exploded and burned in Arctic waters.

The six U. S. Navy men were attached to the U. S. S. Tusk, a sister submarine which rescued the Cochino's crew. The civilian, who was not immediately identified, was the only one lost aboard the Cochino.

The sunken submarine was equipped with a snorkel—an underwater "breathing" tube which enabled it to remain submerged for long periods of time.

The explosion occurred in the Cochino's battery room and was followed by fire.

A Lieutenant and five of the enlisted men were swept from her deck by heavy seas during the rescue of the Cochino's crew, which was hampered by the high seas.

The Tusk, with the rescued men aboard, headed for the Norwegian port of Hammerfest. This is the nearest port where medical assistance can be obtained.

The Cochino and Tusk, together with the submarines Toro and Corsair, had been temporarily assembled to naval forces under command of Admiral Richard L. Connally, naval commander in chief of U. S. forces in European waters.

The submarines had been engaged in cold water training exercises in the Arctic.

Washington, Aug. 26—(AP)—Senators considering President Truman's $1,450,000,000 arms aid program pressed today toward an almost certain slash in funds for Europe—and the possible addition of money for China.

Both friends and foes of the measure hoped for decisions on these major issues at a closed-door session of the combined Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees.

Even Administration supporters said privately it was extremely doubtful the committees would approve the full $1,450,000,000 asked by the President in the bill for military assistance to European members of the North Atlantic alliance.

The House slashed this amount to $580,495,000 before it passed the bill. Some members of the Senate committees, such as Senators Byrd (D-Va.) and George (D-Ga.), favored holding it to that level. Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) proposed a milder cut to $1,000,000,000, eliminating money requested to stimulate arms production in the Atlantic alliance countries.

But with Senators Connally (D-Tex.), Pepper (D-Fla.) and others fighting for the full amount, few lawmakers would predict the size of the final total.

Equally uncertain was the exact outcome of demands by Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) and others that arms aid for non-Communist China be added to the Administration's program.

Hot On Trail Of B-36 Innuendoes

Investigators Seek New Sources Of Discrediting Charges As Suspected Naval Official Retracts On Mystery Memo

Washington, Aug. 26—(AP)—Congressional investigators took off today on the trail of additional suspects who may have spread discredited charges of fraud and favoritism in the B-36 bomber program. The hearings produced a spectacular climax yesterday:

1. The complete lifting of any suspicion of corruption from Secretary of Defense Johnson, Secretary of Air Symington, Industrialist Floyd Odlum and everybody else connected with the development of the giant, intercontinental bomber. That was by unanimous action of the committee.

2. An equally complete repudiation of all the charges and rumors of irregularities contained in the anonymous memo. That was by the author of the document, suspended navy official Cedric Worth. He got plenty of help in his repudiation from Committee Counsel Joseph B. Keenan.

The Navy, much embarrassed, ordered an investigation of its own. It set up a court of inquiry, to convene next Monday, to "inquire particularly as to whether other persons, military or civil, under the Navy Department participated in or instigated or had knowledge of the preparation of the said document."

Worth was suspended Wednesday from his $8,500-a-year job as an assistant to Undersecretary Dan Kimball.

Before the House committee, with Keenan cracking the whip, Worth executed one of the most sensational flip flops ever seen on a congressional witness stand.

He withdrew his "unscrupulous man" description of Odlum, board chairman of Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft Company, makers of the B-36.

He admitted to Rep. Bates (R-Mass.) that he has no direct or indirect knowledge of any corruption, fraud, collusion, influence or favoritism in the B-36 program.

Voicing regret time after time under prodding from Keenan, the witness agreed that he had:

Made a "great error," done the Navy no good," brought about heartaches and "a great disservice to the American people," and spread "a lot of loose, false statements."

Worth said he no longer is convinced there was political chicanery or corruption in the B-36 program, but:

"I believe and still believe there is need for serious consideration by a committee of Congress or by a group of objective people of the defense structure, and that is particularly related to the B-36."

While Worth, a former newspaper and movie writer, said nobody collaborated with him, Keenan said he thinks the charges from which Worth backed down originated in other and higher places.

"The area of infection is wider and deeper," he said.

Committee Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) told reporters he is in no position to decide whether Worth, in the words of a newsman, is "covering up somebody else." He simply pointed to the next order of business on the inquiry work sheet:

"Locate and identify the sources from which the charges, rumors and innuendoes have come."

Florida Braces For Heavy Winds

Hurricane Heads For 'Gold Coast'; Intensity Grows

Miami, Fla., Aug. 26—(AP)—A tropical hurricane with winds up to 120 miles per hour passed north of picturesque Nassau, Bahamas, today and headed for South Florida's gold coast.

All South Florida was braced for the storm, which whirled toward this wealthy Atlantic resort area at a 18 to 20 miles an hour pace on a west-northwest course.

If the present course is maintained, the hurricane will strike the mainland a short distance north of Miami this afternoon.

A high flow of southern wind over Florida may cause the storm to take a more northward course about the time it reaches the coast and cause it to buzz saw along the thickly populated area between Miami and Palm Beach.

The center of the second hurricane of the season passed nearby over or slightly north of the Bahamas capital shortly after 6:30 a. m. (EST). Highest winds were reported at 75 miles an hour in gusts. The wind did not reach the hurricane's top velocity in Nassau since that British colonial city caught the weakest side of the storm.

In an 8 a. m. (EST) bulletin the Miami Weather Bureau said the storm had picked up intensity during the night with highest winds estimated at between 110 and 120 miles an hour.

Because of the erratic nature of the storm, hurricane warnings covered a 142-mile stretch of the Florida east coast from Vero Beach south to the greater Miami area, and inland to include the Lake Okechobee region. Storm warnings flew over most of the state not included in the hurricane area.

Maragon Refuses To Talk Before Senate Inquiry Body

Declines To Answer Any Questions After Bank Accountant Testifies Maragon Deposits Far Exceeded Sworn Income Statement

Washington, Aug. 26—(AP)—John Maragon today refused to answer questions at the Senate five percent inquiry "on the ground that my answer might tend to incriminate me."

The Greek-American had taken the witness chair after an accountant testified that Maragon made bank deposits of $119,608.61 during a five-year period in which he has said his income was only around $30,000.

Maragon, a mystery man about town in Washington, simply wouldn't talk at all.

He would not even say, when asked by chairman Hoey (D-N.C.) whether he had testified before the committee behind closed doors July 22.

Maragon did testify at that time. The committee has since released a transcript of his testimony. Among other things, Maragon swore that he had never received any payments for negotiating business with government agencies.

Today, Hoey asked him if he had not given such testimony. Maragon said with a slight accent, "I refuse to answer on advice of counsel on the ground that my answer might tend to incriminate me."

He gave the same answer when Hoey asked if he had not testified in private session that he had no other income in 1945, 1946, and 1947 beyond certain sums which had been mentioned.

Maragon's lawyer, Myron G. Ehrlich, broke in to say he had advised his client to refuse to answer certain questions.

Ehrlich also had a long prepared statement for the committee. In this he contended that "it appears there have been extracted from this witness possible self-incriminating statements by methods" in violation of Maragon's constitutional rights. His reference was to the July 22 session.

Ehrlich questioned, too, the right of the committee to ask Maragon about his personal affairs and to demand Maragon's personal papers. He protested that committee counsel had refused to return papers that Maragon turned over to the committee.

The accountant's story of Maragon's bank accounts came immediately before Maragon was called.

Carmine S. Belling, accountant for the Senate Investigations subcommittee, gave the testimony at the group's hearings on peddling of influence in government.

In his testimony Belling said that in a closed session with the committee last July 28 Maragon repeatedly said that he has no bank account except here in Washington.

But later, Belling said, Maragon remembered an account he had opened in San Antonio.

Belling said Maragon listed his total income as only $6,000 to $7,000 a year. Yet, he said, deposits in three bank accounts added up to $119,608.61.

Maragon, who was born in Greece and grew up in Kansas City, has been a major figure in the committee's hearings.

He has never held any official position in Washington, the committee got testimony from him as late as last June. Army officials were under the impression that Maragon was acting as a liaison between the White House and Secretary of Defense Johnson's office.

Maragon has said he is a close friend of Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan.

Prices Steady On Greenville Mart

Heavy Sales Continue As Prices Continue Edge Up

Sales on the Greenville tobacco market held steady today with continued spirited bidding for the middle and top grades of leaf.

A total of 1,400,000 pounds of tobacco were sold on the Greenville market yesterday, and today sales were heavier than yesterday. A large portion of the growers' offerings continued to be low grade types and non-descript types of tobacco for which there has been little demand here since the market opened a week ago.

Tobacco which on opening day a week ago brought $50 to $55 this week moved to the $60 and $65 bracket as the company buyers were making a larger demand for the top grades. Medium grades of tobacco on the Greenville market this week showed price increases ranging from $8 to $12 over the sales opening day.

President Keeps Political Plans His Own Secret

Closest Friends Predict Intentions Won't Be Revealed Until Next Year

Washington, Aug. 26—(AP)—Some of President Truman's closest friends predicted today he won't let it be known until after the 1950 congressional elections whether he will run again.

They agreed he will stump around the country next year to get a congress to back his "Fair Deal" program.

A substantial number of them expressed conviction Mr. Truman's inclination is to leave the White House at the end of his present term in 1952.

All of them conceded they were "guessing"—that they were just as much in the dark as are the people who are not close to the President.

And they insisted that Mr. Truman himself couldn't say for sure at this time.

The President himself set off the speculation yesterday.

He hinted—with a smile that might have meant anything—that he won't run in 1952. (He will be 68 on May 8 of that year.)

But then, later, he wouldn't say no, positively, or even probably.

It was started when 96 teen-age girls trotted up to the White House to look it, and the President over so long he had to wave goodbye and get back to work.

One of the girls—students of government brought here by the American Legion Auxiliary, had asked about her chances of becoming an ambassador five years from now.

Reporting this in one of his off-the-cuff talks, Mr. Truman said he couldn't Charles Horne of Greenville, chairman of the arrangements committee for the pageant, said this week arrangements have been made to make their headquarters at Jarvis Hall on the East Carolina Teachers College campus during Farmers Day.

Music for the beauty pageant and a dance immediately following the pageant in Wright gymnasium on the ECTC campus will be furnished by Dean Hudson and his orchestra.

Fabulous Ancient City Is Found Buried Under Sand

Calro, Egypt, Aug. 26—(AP)—An American explorer said today he has found a fabulous ancient city buried under the sands of Arabia.

Wendell Phillips, Concord, Calif., archeologist said he found the remains of a great civilization near Mareh, traditional home of the Queen of Sheba.

Phillips, 27, led a University of California expedition exploring the region for two years.

Travelling from Aden, Arabia, on a Royal Airforce plane, Phillips related, he landed on the site of ancient Timna, described by the Roman historian Pliny as the "city of forty temples."

"Timna is covered by sand," he said. "However, several city walls, the gate, and ruins of temples are still visible. In the center of the city an abelique emerges four feet above the sand. Nomads living nearby dug fifteen feet deep without reaching its base. Hymetric inscriptions are carved on its four faces."

Phillips described the Hymanites as people living in the area 30 or 30 centuries ago.

He described the area as an "archaeological treasure house" waiting for scientific research.

In an exclusive interview, Phillips told of finding the remains of another temple city outside Seilah, summer capital of the Sultan of Muscat and Oman. He called this one of the least explored areas in the world.

Still A Prisoner Of Sunken Silo

Osceola, Wis., Aug. 26—(AP)—The corn was green today and Snoopy remained in her private valley—a 12 foot deep silo on the Everett Lammpan farm.

Snoopy, a frisky 650 pounds of young heifer, jumped into the silo Wednesday through an opening 20 by 20 inches while Lammpan was chasing her out of a corral.

The silo door is at ground level and the chamber is built into the earth. With the advice of neighbors, Lammpan decided the only way to get Snoopy out is to fill the silo. Then, when she's level with the door, greasing, coaxing, pushing and pulling should do the trick.

It was Snoopy's appetite for corn that started all the trouble. To keep her from eating a good part of the fresh-out corn, he'll pour in the silo; Lammpan figures on using a bucket as a muzzle.

A "coming out party" is planned for this weekend, when the corn cutting is scheduled to begin. Mrs. Lammpan said she would have apple pie and fried chicken for neighbors joining in the rescue. Snoopy, of course, will be guest of honor, and everyone's hoping the party comes off without a hitch.

Autumn is the season for SUITS

Simplicity Describes The New Fall Suits

Suits and coats for dress-up, and casual wear, too, wear a look of suave simplicity in styling—a new opulence in fabric. This year, the magnificence of fabric is the most interesting highlight of the fashion story. Such wool fabrics as superfine worsteds, featherweight gabardines, saxonies and tweeds are shown over and over again in all of the collections. Velvet and wool combinations are introduced—look for iridescent tweeds and a revival of men's wear fabrics to a new high in popularity.

Suits see shorter jackets—fitted, boxy, back-belted and the classic Norfolk jackets. Skirts are slim, and occasionally kick-pleated—many are all-around pleated—panel fronts hug the hips tightly—the slimmest of skirts are slit, both for utility and good-looks.

Ambulance Plane Crash Kills Trio

Oxford, N.C., Aug. 26—(AP)—Three persons were fatally injured last night when a twin-engine Cessna ambulance plane crashed 15 miles northwest of here.

The victims were identified as Robert B. Bushey of Winston-Salem, the pilot, Mrs. Letha Cortrell Cole of 2801 Hillsboro Road, Durham, and Mrs. Peggy Chatham, 22, of 1020 Broad St., Durham. Mrs. Cole's husband, N. Dallas Cole, said his wife and Mrs. Chatham were nurses. They were returning from New York where they had accompanied a patient from Watts Hospital in Durham.

The crash occurred about 9:15 p.m. on the Brent Meadows Farm, a remote section of Granville County, according to State Highway Patrolman O. J. Mitchell. The pilot and Mrs. Cole were killed outright. Mrs. Chatham died at the Granville hospital here this morning.

Mitchell said several persons saw the plane crash. He quoted eye witnesses as saying the pilot dropped two flares and then attempted to land. The plane struck a tree, sheared off a wing and crashed into a corn field, he said.

At Winston-Salem, Tom Davis, president of Piedmont Aviation, Inc., said Bushey took off from Reynolds Airport there yesterday morning. The plane was a five-passenger Cessna converted to ambulance use and owned by Piedmont Aviation, said Davis.

Mrs. Joseph Al Latham, who before her marriage on Saturday afternoon in the Farmville Baptist church, was Miss Margaret Lee Tyson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Aaron Tyson, of Farmville. Mr. Latham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Roland Latham, of Plymouth.

Study Technique In Crop Estimate

Raleigh, N.C., Aug. 26—(AP)—A two-day conference is being held here to discuss new methods for achieving more accurate estimates of corn yields.

A score of state and federal statisticians opened the gathering yesterday with a study of the new techniques, which will be used to determine the outcome of the "corn war" between North Carolina and Virginia.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture, which developed the new method, decided to give it a trial run in these two states before applying it in other parts of the country.

Frank Parker, director of the Statistics Division of the State Agriculture Department, explained that this year's corn estimates in the two states will be based on scientific findings of trained enumerators—rather than on the hit-or-miss calculations of farmers and other crop reporters.

The reports will be based on samplings from 2,500 to 3,000 corn yields picked at random throughout the state, Parker said. He stated that final estimates of North Carolina's corn yields probably would be completed and announced in December.

School Opening At Walstonburg On September 1

During the summer months, rooms in the elementary building were painted pastel shades.

Chinese Reds Advance In Kwantung Province Drive

Canton, Aug. 26—(AP)—Red forces pushed to the Kwantung border today.

A Nationalist army spokesman admitted the southwestern Kiangsi town of Lungnan had fallen to the Communists.

(Private reports, which are reliable, said Kiennan and Tingnan, too, had been taken by the advancing Communists.)

(This would put the Reds within 140 miles or less of Canton, the provisional Nationalist capital, and on the Kwantung Province border. Canton is the provincial capital of Kwantung.)

About 19,000 Communist troops were said by the Nationalists to be hammering at the border points.

The attack rolled up along roads which lead south of Kukong, an important railway point 125 miles north of Canton.

(This drive could isolate Kukong and roll direct on Canton. Military observers in Canton regard Kukong so highly as a defense point that they say when it is attacked the battle for Canton itself has begun.)

A Nationalist army spokesman said only that the three cities were threatened. He declared the Communist troops would not dare go far along this route because of the Nationalist threat to their western flank farther north.

The private reports say further—more that the Nationalists have built a strong line of defenses running southeast from Kukong.

Counterbalancing the gloomy reports from the front nearest Canton, the Nationalists reported triumphs on the front due north of Canton and along the eastern seaboard.

Official dispatches said a Communist seaborne assault on the Chusan Islands 100 miles southeast of Shanghai was beaten off, 700 Communists were killed and 30 large junks were sunk.

It is from Chusan's many islands that the Nationalists are mounting their air and sea blockade of Communist ports.

It Costs Less To Live According Govn't Report

Washington, Aug. 26—(AP)—The government's living cost index took a new dip today.

It fell six-tenths of one per cent from mid-June to mid-July.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the mid-July living costs level was 168.5 per cent of the 1935-39 average. That average is figured at 100 on the index.

The new index is three per cent under a year ago but 70.9 per cent over the August, 1939, prewar level.

Price drops for foods, wearing apparel and house furnishings caused the living cost decline. Foods averaged 1.3 per cent lower, apparel nine-tenths of one per cent, and house furnishings three-tenths of one per cent lower.

Heart Disease Continues Reign As Top Killer

Raleigh, N.C., Aug. 26—(AP)—Heart disease continued its reign as number one killer in North Carolina during the first half of this year.

The six-month toll of heart disease was 4,448 lives, an increase over the 4,287 lives taken in the same period last year, the State Board of Health reported yesterday.

Increases also were registered by strokes and cancer, the other two major killers. Strokes claimed 1,829 lives and cancer 1,499 in the first six months of 1949 as compared with 1,822 and 1,395 for the same period last year.

Life Insurance is free of Federal Estate Taxes?

An estate is liable for Federal Estate Taxes on Life Insurance just as on other property, whether the insurance is payable to one's estate or to an individual. Hence, careful estate planning becomes a necessity.

For example, suppose one leaves property totaling $100,000 to a second wife, and $100,000 in Life Insurance, under the life income plan, to children by one's first marriage, hoping thus to make an equal estate distribution.

There is a Federal Estate Tax of about $4500.00 on the entire estate. (By reason of the new "marital deduction" the bequest to the wife does not give rise to any of the tax, but in this particular case, all of the tax is attributed to the insurance.) Since the Life Insurance is payable only in installments, the children may not be able to pay the tax in cash. Will the wife have to pay the whole tax and be reimbursed over a period of time by the children as the installments are paid on the insurance?

Through an estate plan embracing a well-considered Will, the hoped-for equal distribution could be made without complications.

Your estate is different, we know. No two estates are just alike, and Life Insurance is only one of many things involved. But because Life Insurance comes under the Federal Estate Tax, it is doubly important to keep it properly balanced with the rest of your estate, planning your Will to fit your individual circumstances.

Your attorney and your life underwriter can be of real assistance to you in this matter

NOT BREAD ALONE
As a group of Americans who were being sent to Europe to make certain investigations regarding post-war conditions were leaving a prominent statesman, he called after them: "We must be careful what we do with bread."

This seemed a strange statement for a man to make who was at the very center of a furious vortex of world events. But when we think about it for a moment we realize how important his words were. "We must be careful what we do with bread." Bread makes and unmakes government. Physically, the home is founded upon bread. And it is significant to ponder the fact that at the center of the Christian religion stands a sacrament which is built on the consecrated use of bread. Our Lord's first temptation was to misuse bread. One of his great nature miracles was the feeding of five thousand on a few loaves. Bread can almost be said to be the bridge extending from earth to heaven. It is very important what we do with bread.

But it is also important that we avoid trying to live by bread alone. "Man cannot live by bread alone," said Jesus, quoting an Old Testament statement, "but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

which put him under the cloud of suspicion, his goose is cooked. No partial explanation will be accepted by the public mind.

People just don't like to see those in a position of trust to be found wanting; just as they dislike the thought of such persons abusing their high position and getting away with it.

Around Capitol Square

APPRECIATION — Thirty-odd employees of the state board of education, working directly under the controller, suspended operations for a few minutes Thursday morning to pay tribute to their retiring chief, Paul Reid, who will leave next week to assume his new duties as president of Western Carolina Teachers College at Cullowhee, after nearly six years as controller of the state board of education, was presented a handsome silver tray as a departing gift from his associates in the office.

REFRESHING — Your reporter got in on the occasion by accident. Making routine rounds of capitol square offices, he hit the education building just as the ceremonies got underway. It was a refreshing experience after sitting in on several other recent meetings at which caustic words and accusations were bandied around. J. E. Hunter, chief of the teacher allotment section presided. He admitted and Reid concurred, that there have been differences of opinion among the folk charged with administering fiscal phases of the public school system; but during all the time they have worked together nobody has questioned the integrity or good intent of anybody else.

SINCERITY — Such events require nice words, but there could be no question of sincerity in the cross-tributes exchanged on the occasion. Reid said that before he came with the state he had the opinion apparently held by many others that state jobs were obtained and held by political preference. He doubted that is true of any department, and

THE TWO-EDGED SWORD OF INVESTIGATION

Congressional investigations of governmental affairs and responsible figures in government are a constant source of concern to the advocate of good government. No matter how you look at it, the necessity of these probings is an unhappy circumstance.

There is concern over the possibility of turning up evidence that shows irresponsibility or mismanagement, and concern over the possibility that the investigators might overlook evidence and mistakenly "clear" the subject of inquiry.

There have been any number of investigations conducted by lawmakers in recent months; two headlines of recent weeks have been the probe of B-36 contract-letting and the "five percenter" inquiry which has lately been concerned chiefly with the activities of Major General Harry H. Vaughan and his friend John Maragon.

The B-36 probe has fizzled out; with the defense officials and air force men completely cleared of all charges of dishonesty, fraud, collusion and what-have-you. That development made good reading to a lot of Americans who might never again give their complete confidence to men who needed it most, if the innuendos and accusations had stuck.

In all justice to the president's military aide, it must be stressed that the investigation affecting him is incomplete. General Vaughan's side of the story is yet to be heard. But on the basis of evidence thus far divulged, Vaughan's story will of necessity be long and his explanations exceptionally adequate to meet the growing pile of testimony weighing against him. For unless he can completely refute the witnesses and evidence

Somebody Told Me...

By L. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

Have you ever wondered how a joker like me would write a straight news story? If you have, the answer is to be found in tonight's Reflector. Somewhere in the paper is a news story about the sale of season tickets to ECTC's home football games. Naturally I put my own name in the first paragraph of the story.

If I have a regular reader he knows that occasionally I subject him to a sales talk. Up to now the product I'm selling tonight excels all previous ones. If you buy a season ticket to the five home games for $6 you are saving $4, because individual games cost $2 each. If you aren't interested in seeing all the games, you have broken even by seeing three. And you have tickets to the remaining two to sell or give away.

As always, the main advantage to buying a reserved seat in advance is that you get a choice seat, which will be waiting for you until you get there. In order to get a good seat at a baseball game at Guy Smith Stadium you have to go early. With a reserved ticket for the football games you can arrive at kickoff time and your seat will be waiting. Also, you can buy tickets with your friends and know that you'll always be sitting with them.

As the news story explains, the Junior Chamber of Commerce has the choice seats available for sale. The fifty-yard line splits section B, which the JCs have. The worst seat will be on the 25-yard line, which is still a good spot.

Greenville has gone all-out for football at ECTC this fall. The donations of over $25,000 provided a top-notch stadium, which will be used by the high school as well as the college. A school drive is now underway to provide opportunities for students to come here to play football. And most important, the state's former top high school coach, Bill Dole, is the Pirate pilot. At Fayetteville Dole produced a winning team.

With this sort of support there's no chance that the games will contemplate that prize winning exhibits at local community or county fairs would be entered in district fairs, and only prize winning exhibits at district fairs would be eligible for entry at the state level. A start was made toward that policy by the 1949 general assembly which placed all local and county agricultural fairs under jurisdiction of the state board of agriculture, the sponsoring agency for the state fair.

EXPANSION — The 1949 assembly also appropriated about two million dollars for expansion and improvement of facilities at the state fair grounds. There wasn't time to do much about it before this year's exposition, but by next fall it is hoped to have more adequate livestock poultry and industrial exhibit buildings, as well as a coliseum for cattle judging and indoor games.

School Days Should Be Happy Days

Vacation is a good time for parents to take stock of their children's vision. If your children dislike to read; if they are not as good as they are their playmates; if their schoolmarks last term were not what you hoped for or expected—then—by all means—look to their vision... undoubtedly the seat of all the trouble. Do it now—so that they may enjoy their vacation, and so that they can do good work next school term—easily and without effort.

By ED CREAGH
(For HAL BOYLE)

New York, Aug. 26.—(P)—Maternity leaves? Sure. But why not get really practical about this business of having babies? Why not time off for fathers, too?

This almost became a burning issue yesterday. A newspaper in Kentucky heard that a union in New England was demanding paternity leaves for workers—male workers of course—and the news wires quivered with anxiety while New Haven checked.

But before long the report came back: nothing to the story. No break in prospect for the old man. Another golden opportunity gone glimmering down the drain.

That's the way it is nowadays. Things that shouldn't happen to a dog are always happening to people. And things that should happen to people, especially men, don't happen at all.

If Phil Murray, John L. Lewis and not be worth $6. Plenty of fans, particularly women, go to football games without understanding the first thing about the game, and for a good reason. It's worth the price of admission to see the color: the crowd, the clothes the fans are wearing, who's there and with whom, the band march at the half, the response of the crowd when a touchdown is scored, and the cheerleaders. With all of those attractions a knowledge of the game is minor. There's a spirit in the air at a football game that can't be found elsewhere, not even in a bar.

Don't wait to be approached by a member of the JCs to buy a ticket. In tomorrow night's paper an announcement will be made naming the down-town business establishments at which the tickets will be sold. Edwards Auto Supply and the Daily Reflector have already been designated as sales points, but more will be determined by tomorrow. Come down and buy a ticket from me, and I will thank you.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington—Uncle Sam has been counting every man, woman and child in the nation every 10 years since 1790 and has a pretty accurate idea about the number and characteristics of the people who inhabit this country. But many other American republics know little about themselves. No one knows how many people live in Ecuador or Haiti, for instance. They have never managed to take a national census.

"This lack of a recent census in many countries," George C. Compton points out in Pan American union's "Americas" magazine, "not only produces a blind spot in the vision of educators and experts on social security, housing, health services, or food production, it also makes the next census more difficult. First, because the lack of practical census-taking experience, second, because of the people's unfamiliarity with the idea of a census and the resulting reluctance, or even hostility toward the curious enumerators."

Plans are well along, however,

THE TRUTH IS THAT A MAN WHO'S EXPECTING A BABY ISN'T WORTH THE POUND BEGGING FOR MY ADVICE they will beg pre-natal preparedness periods for Paps at the top of their 1950 want list.

And big business (you think babies are not big business?) will still long enough to make it convincing, and then will give in with a secret sign of relief.

The truth is that a man who's expecting a baby isn't worth the pound being to work.

His company loses a couple of hundred dollars every time he shows up at the office.

He's a dead weight on the payroll. He does nothing but burn cigarettes and sneak out to the telephone. If he does force himself to turn out a little work he creates such a snarl that two other fellows have to spend a week untangling it.

Heaven help the stockholders if one of those other two men should also be an expectant father.

You may know more about this than I do, since I've only been through the mill once. And I didn't get jittery. Not at all. The show must go on, you know.

Oh, there was that time when I wrote something like:

Bulletin:
Washington, July 14.—(P)—The National Labor pains Board ruled today, etc.

Of course I meant the National Labor Relations Board. Perfectly natural mistakes. Could happen to anyone.

But for less stoical fathers (and there will be no rude jokes about the state being the bird that brings babies) some relief is clearly necessary.

Mothers, now—they get the best of everything. Hospitals. Doctors. Hand-holding. That not-yet-mum's sit-in-a-draft-dear and here-let-me-carry-that-popcorn-box-for-you stuff.

All right. Fine. They're entitled to it.

But fathers? They get nothing but snickers, false sympathy and a cigarette cough.

Maybe paternity leaves aren't the answer. I don't know. I'm willing

NOT BREAD ALONE
As a group of Americans who were being sent to Europe to make certain investigations regarding post-war conditions were leaving a prominent statesman, he called after them: "We must be careful what we do with bread."

This seemed a strange statement for a man to make who was at the very center of a furious vortex of world events. But when we think about it for a moment we realize how important his words were. "We must be careful what we do with bread." Bread makes and unmakes government. Physically, the home is founded upon bread. And it is significant to ponder the fact that at the center of the Christian religion stands a sacrament which is built on the consecrated use of bread. Our Lord's first temptation was to misuse bread. One of his great nature miracles was the feeding of five thousand on a few loaves. Bread can almost be said to be the bridge extending from earth to heaven. It is very important what we do with bread.

But it is also important that we avoid trying to live by bread alone. "Man cannot live by bread alone," said Jesus, quoting an Old Testament statement, "but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

APPRECIATION — Thirty-odd employees of the state board of education, working directly under the controller, suspended operations for a few minutes Thursday morning to pay tribute to their retiring chief, Paul Reid, who will leave next week to assume his new duties as president of Western Carolina Teachers College at Cullowhee, after nearly six years as controller of the state board of education, was presented a handsome silver tray as a departing gift from his associates in the office.

REFRESHING — Your reporter got in on the occasion by accident. Making routine rounds of capitol square offices, he hit the education building just as the ceremonies got underway. It was a refreshing experience after sitting in on several other recent meetings at which caustic words and accusations were bandied around. J. E. Hunter, chief of the teacher allotment section presided. He admitted and Reid concurred, that there have been differences of opinion among the folk charged with administering fiscal phases of the public school system; but during all the time they have worked together nobody has questioned the integrity or good intent of anybody else.

SINCERITY — Such events require nice words, but there could be no question of sincerity in the cross-tributes exchanged on the occasion. Reid said that before he came with the state he had the opinion apparently held by many others that state jobs were obtained and held by political preference. He doubted that is true of any department, and

Congressional investigations of governmental affairs and responsible figures in government are a constant source of concern to the advocate of good government. No matter how you look at it, the necessity of these probings is an unhappy circumstance.

There is concern over the possibility of turning up evidence that shows irresponsibility or mismanagement, and concern over the possibility that the investigators might overlook evidence and mistakenly "clear" the subject of inquiry.

There have been any number of investigations conducted by lawmakers in recent months; two headlines of recent weeks have been the probe of B-36 contract-letting and the "five percenter" inquiry which has lately been concerned chiefly with the activities of Major General Harry H. Vaughan and his friend John Maragon.

The B-36 probe has fizzled out; with the defense officials and air force men completely cleared of all charges of dishonesty, fraud, collusion and what-have-you. That development made good reading to a lot of Americans who might never again give their complete confidence to men who needed it most, if the innuendos and accusations had stuck.

In all justice to the president's military aide, it must be stressed that the investigation affecting him is incomplete. General Vaughan's side of the story is yet to be heard. But on the basis of evidence thus far divulged, Vaughan's story will of necessity be long and his explanations exceptionally adequate to meet the growing pile of testimony weighing against him. For unless he can completely refute the witnesses and evidence

Fight On Forest Fires Takes Favorable Turn

By the Associated Press
The battle against fires ravaging North American forest took a favorable turn today.

Rain and diminishing winds aided the fire fighters.

The situation is still serious, however, in many areas. Flames have wiped out valuable timber in western United States, New England and Canada.

One person was killed and four injured yesterday in California's forest fires. Harry T. Meyer, 32-year-old lumber crewman, was killed by a falling tree in Stanislaus National Forest where flames have blackened more than 7,100 acres.

Fire fighters in Idaho's national forest still were running into trouble. One of four major blazes in Payette National Forest broke loose yesterday and ran over an estimated 6,000 acres.

The total Payette fire area spread to 24,000 acres. An additional 1.5 men were being added to the 1,700 attempting to check the flames. Two of the main fires were under control.

The outlook in the Black Hills of South Dakota was promising. Rangers looked for favorable winds to blow the flames back over burned out areas. An estimated 5,000 acres of timberland and 10,000 acres of grassland were hit.

Backfires saved Telford, a South Dakota village of 100 population, from destruction yesterday.

About a dozen forest fires still were burning in New England but none was reported as serious.

Suicide Follows Brutal Slaying In 'Nightmare'

Grand Marais, Minn., Aug. 25—(AP)—The body of a vacationing Nebraskan who apparently hacked and strangled his wife to death during a nightmare and then took his own life with poison was returned to Omaha today.

J. Henry Eliason, Cook County attorney, identified the victims as Lloyd N. Osborne, 36, and Omaha real estate man, and his 47-year-old wife, Helen.

Their bodies were found yesterday in the cabin of a resort 36 miles north of here along the Gunflint Trail.

In a note found near his body,

Eliason said Osborne wrote: "I must have had a night mare. I didn't realize what I had done to Helen. This is the easy way out." The note ended in a scrawl as the poison potion took effect.

Racial Issue In Bill Eliminated

Washington, Aug. 25—(AP)—The House reversed itself today to strike down a civil rights amendment previously written into a housing bill.

Then the chamber shouted approval of the measure providing about $3,750,000,000 in mortgage insurance to help people with modest incomes build homes.

The house approved, with only a scattering of no votes, a substitute bill that eliminated any reference to the race issue.

Says Senate To Get Farm Plan

Washington, Aug. 25—(AP)—Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) predicted today that a compromise farm price-support measure will be ready for Senate action within a week.

"I think we can have a flexible measure that will serve as a framework for our long range program out of committee within a few days," said the Senate's Democratic leader.

Chairman Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.) of the Senate Agriculture Committee, however, called for additional public testimony today. Hearings and the printing of testimony will require more time.

Thomas is the only member of the 13-man Senate committee who has announced public support for the House-approved farm bill. It would extend for another year the rigid, high-level price supports of wartime and kill off a flexible price-support program due to be effective next year.

Senator Anderson (D-N.M.), former secretary of agriculture, is sponsor of the Senate compromise bill now pending before the committee.

Lucas at first was critical of some features of the Anderson bill but more recently has expressed preference for it over both the stopgap House plan or the 1948 flexible price-support program due to start operating January 1.

Anderson said his only request now "is that we can get a vote quickly both in the committee and in the Senate."

The cedars of Lebanon, forests which once extended 100 miles along the Lebanon mountain slopes overlooking ancient Tyre and Sidon, have now virtually disappeared.

City Carriers To Go On Little Merchant Plan

Notice is hereby given all Daily Reflector subscribers within the city receiving carrier delivery that on Monday, September 5, all carrier delivery in Greenville will be on the "Little Merchant" plan with the carriers purchasing the papers from the office and, in turn, selling them to the subscribers at 20 cents per week.

The inauguration of this plan has been in the making for some time and already about 60 per cent of our Greenville subscribers are on this basis.

Under the plan no more paid-in-advance subscriptions for carrier delivery will be accepted at our office. All such payments will be made direct to the carriers on a weekly basis. Notices of expiration dates are now being mailed to our city subscribers and as the expirations occur each will be placed on the weekly basis. Meantime the office will continue to make the deliveries until the subscriptions expire.

The "Little Merchant" plan is nothing new in newspaperdom for it is already in effect in most daily newspapers and The Reflector is practically the last daily in North Carolina to adopt it.

Experience with other newspapers has proved that the direct transaction between the subscriber and the carrier has resulted in better service to the subscriber.

The plan also furnishes valuable business training for the carriers and better fits them to take their proper places in the world of business in the years to come.

We realize that, at the start, the changeover might seem somewhat of a nuisance to some of those who in the past have been paying their subscription on a yearly basis direct to the office, but when you become accustomed to it we believe you will like it better.

Once the changeover is made, we urge our subscribers to remember that the carrier boys are in business for themselves and that they are paying the office each week for the papers they deliver to their customers. This means that the carrier will be unable to make deliveries to customers who do not pay promptly. Otherwise he will suffer personal financial loss.

We urge the full co-operation of our subscribers in helping us to make this plan a success in the interest of better service.

Any further information you may desire pertaining to the proposed change will be gladly furnished by our office.

North Carolina May Keep Its Twelve Seats In Lower House

By LYNN NISBET
 Raleigh, N. C. Aug. 26—Re-check of probable apportionment figures based on revised estimates of population in the United States and North Carolina to be disclosed by the 1950 census shows less danger than had been thought that this state might lose a seat in the national house of representatives. The state gained a member in 1930 and another in 1940, because then the Tar Heel population grew faster than the national rate.

During the decade from 1930 to 1940 population of continental United States went up from 122,775,046 to 131,669,275, a gain of about 7.25 per cent. Meantime, North Carolina's count went up from 3,170,276 to 3,571,623, a gain of 12.50 per cent.

Estimates now are that by the 1950 census the national population will be 150,000,000 a gain of 13.75 per cent during the past ten years. State estimates approximate 3,900,000 a gain of slightly under 10 per cent.

On the face of these figures it would appear that if membership in the House of Representatives is kept static at 435, and North Carolina has grown only three-fourths as fast as the nation, there would be danger of losing a representative. Analysis of all factors, including application of the apportionment formula which has been in effect since 1931, and which presumably will govern the next distribution of seats, occasions lively hope that North Carolina will retain its present 12 votes in the popular branch of Congress.

Dividing the 435 seats into the 1940 population gave an average district of 280,000 people. A few states had less than that total population, but each state must have at least one representative, so the average for other districts was increased. Furthermore, there is no such thing as absolute uniformity among the states or among districts within a state.

With a national average slightly more than 280,000 the twelve districts in this state average 297,633, ranging from 239,040 in the first to 358,573 in the eighth. Dividing the 435 seats into the potential 1950 population of 150,000,000 gives an average district of 345,000, and dividing this state's twelve seats into 3,900,000 gives an average of 325,000. Instead of being substantially above national average, North Carolina's districts would be smaller; but if our representation were cut to eleven the average would be 390,000, which is worse out of line. As a matter of fact, North Carolina barely missed getting a thirteenth representative after 1940.

Under the equal proportion system nine Congressional seats were shifted in 1941. California gained three; Arizona, Florida, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oregon and Tennessee each gained one; Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Nebraska, Ohio, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania lost one each. Most of the gains expected next year will be in far western states where population has grown more rapidly.

The World Almanac offers this information on the apportionment system.

"This method, devised by Professor E. V. Huntington of Harvard University in 1921, sets up the following criterion of a good apportionment. Suppose an actual apportionment bill, allotting any given number of seats (say 435) among the several states, is before Congress for consideration; and suppose an attempt is made to improve the bill by transferring a seat from one state to some other state. Such proposed transfer of a seat should be made if, and only if, the percentage difference between the congressional districts in these two states would be reduced by the transfer.

"For example, Arkansas has a 1940 population of 1,949,337, and Michigan 5,256,106. Under the method of equal proportions, Arkansas gets seven seats and Michigan gets seventeen seats, so that Michigan's district is 11.02 per cent larger than Arkansas' district. But if a seat were transferred from Arkansas to Michigan, giving Arkansas six and Michigan eighteen, the Arkansas district would be 11.26 per cent larger than the Michigan district. Since 11.26 is greater than 11.02, the transfer should not be made.

Application of that rule is expected to hold the present allotment of twelve seats to North Carolina, since our population growth although well below national rate has been higher than in many other states.

Four states now have only one representation: Delaware, with 1940 population of 266,505; Nevada, 110,247; Vermont, 357,231, and Wyoming 250,742. Since only Nevada is in the fast growing belt, and even 300 per cent increase there would barely qualify for another seat, it is not likely any of these states will gain representation.

Gets Out Of Bed For Last Meet

Long Beach, Calif., Aug. 26—(AP) Chipper Charley Chappel, one of the last of the old boys in blue, has hopped up from his bed again, hoping to be the last national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic.

And as usual Charley, 102 last July 7, is doing it the fastest way. He's going to fly tomorrow night to the GAR's last encampment at Indianapolis.

That's the way the spry old veteran went to the convention last year, too. Then he said: "I want to get there in a hurry, help get our business transacted, and come back home. I'm still fairly active, you know."

This year's it's just a little different. For one thing, it's the final national get-together of the boys in blue before the GAR disbands. So there'll be an awful lot of yarn swapping, at which Charley excels.

Then, too, Pvt. Charles L. Chappel, 10th New York Infantry who was

DDT Dust Is Discovered Deadly Poison For Rats

Washington, Aug. 26—(AP)—Government scientists have discovered that rats can be killed by heavy dustings of insecticide DDT. This information has two important implications.

First, it emphasizes the need for using DDT carefully in the production of foods for human consumption. If rats can be killed, the human body also may be damaged by constant exposure to DDT.

Second, it means that DDT can be used as another weapon to exterminate disease-harboring rat colonies in cities.

The rat experiments were made by the U.S. Public Health Service and the Georgia Department of Public Health.

The scientists placed 119 rats in a rat-proof concrete building. They placed DDT in pitches and bands upon the floor, in such a way that the rats had to go through it to reach food and water.

About one-third of the rats died within seven weeks and the scientists said the deaths "apparently" were from DDT. Careful examination of the bodies of the dead rats confirmed the cause of death as poisoning.

Medical experts have known that rats could be killed by feeding them DDT. But in the Georgia experiment the DDT wasn't fed directly to the rats. The report said the rats dragged food through it however, and they accidentally scattered some of the dust in their drinking water.

DDT is used in rat-infested places to kill parasites—lice and other vermin—that live on rats. These parasites carry such diseases as submic plague and typhus.

The Health Service report said not so many rats would be killed by DDT when infested places are dusted, as were killed in the controlled experiment. This is because the rats seemed to avoid the dust if possible, but in the controlled experiment they could not avoid it in reaching food and water.

'Buck' Buchanan Offers Local Housewives Anti-Fly Formula

"There may be flies 'round some of you guys but there ain't no flies 'round me," is the theme song of L. M. "Buck" Buchanan, prominent local insurance man and member of the board of aldermen, since he came across a "sure-fire" plan for keeping flies from congregating on the kitchen screen.

The formula described by "Buck" is within the means of everyone and, as fantastic as it seems, it works. Here it is: just tie a wad of cotton about the size of the palm of your hand on your screen door and no flies will come around it. Hence when you open the door no flies enter the house.

"It sounds crazy," says "Buck," "but I'm trying it and so far it's keeping the flies out."

"Buck" wants to keep up with what is going on everywhere so he reads several newspapers besides his home newspaper. It was in a Norfolk paper a few days ago that "Buck" came across a story of a Norfolk matron who had learned the secret while on a visit in Richmond where housewives are reported to have thrown away their spray guns and keeping fly-free kitchens by the use of the wad of cotton on the screen door. It's just plain cotton, absorbent or otherwise, with no chemicals or any kind of treatment. Just fasten it about the center of your screen door with a safety pin, piece of small wire, bobby pin or anything else that will hold it in place.

According to the newspaper story the Norfolk housewife drew the jeers and ridicule of her neighbors as she fastened the cotton to her screen door and explained its purpose. But later, those who had been skeptical expressed amazement at the results. According to the Norfolk housewife she has seen many flies come near to the screen only to take a peek at the cotton wad and speed away. Several flies have been seen to alight on the side of the house near the screen but none have ventured close enough to enter the house when the door was opened.

The housewife says she herself didn't believe it until she saw it tried in Richmond and even now she expresses amazement at the wonder.

The head of the Norfolk City Health Department upon being told of the experience of the housewife, said he couldn't explain the why and how of the "secret weapon" but that he was going to give the plan a try himself and if it worked it would be advocated as a health measure to keep the city's kitchens free of flies.

If you try it and it doesn't work blame "Buck" Buchanan. He's the pioneer of the experiment in this area. If it does work you owe your thanks to him.

Judge Decrees $500 Allowance For Carol Beery

Los Angeles, Aug. 26—(AP)—Carol Ann Beery, 18-year-old adopted daughter of the late Wallace Beery, will have $500 a month pocket money.

Superior Court yesterday decreed that the girl—who will receive a third of the actor's $2,000,000 estate when she becomes 21—be allowed to withdraw a total of $1200 a month from her guardianship fund. The actor's former wife, Mrs. Mary Areta Foyt, will administer use of $700.

But Judge Newcomb directly decreed the rest be paid directly to Carol Ann for her own personal use, saying:

"She will have to handle a great deal of money in the years to come and it's time she began to learn."

Jays Stage Late Rally, Top Greenies By 5-to-2 Margin

Eighth Inning Error Paves Way For Four-Run Outburst As Greenies' Hold On Fourth-Place Standing Shrinks To One-Game Lead

The Greenies continued along the beaten path for their sixth straight loss as the Roanoke Rapids Jays defeated them by a 5 to 2 score here at Guy Smith Stadium for the third straight time in as many games. The loss for the Greenies narrowed their hold to one full game ahead of the fifth place Goldsboro Bugs who shutout the Kinston Eagles over in Goldsboro last night.

After scoring one run in the first frame on two singles and the aid of an error, the Jays staged a four-run eighth-inning rally to overcome a 2-1 deficit and lick the Greenies. In the eighth, after Buck Kilpatrick had flew out to right field for the first out, Eddie Jackson was issued a walk. Manager Glenn Strausser reached first on a fielder's choice. Both runners advanced to third and second when Pitcher Mustian overthrew to second base on what appeared to be a perfect double play in the making. Milt Bolick then came through with his second hit of the game to bring in both runners, but was later caught trying to steal second for the second out of the game. Larry Quartararo was then issued a free pass and Val Gonzales then hit to the top of the scoreboard in left field for a homerun to bring in Quartararo ahead of him.

The Greenies made their only two runs of the game in the sixth frame. Strausser walked and Valle reached first on a fielder's choice when Strausser advanced to second on Jackson's error. John Tepedino popped out to the catcher for the first out. Manager Pappy Williams singled into left field to bring in Strausser and Bobby Harrison singled to bring in Valle. Willie Mauney then hit into a double play to end the Greenies' chances at scoring any more during this frame.

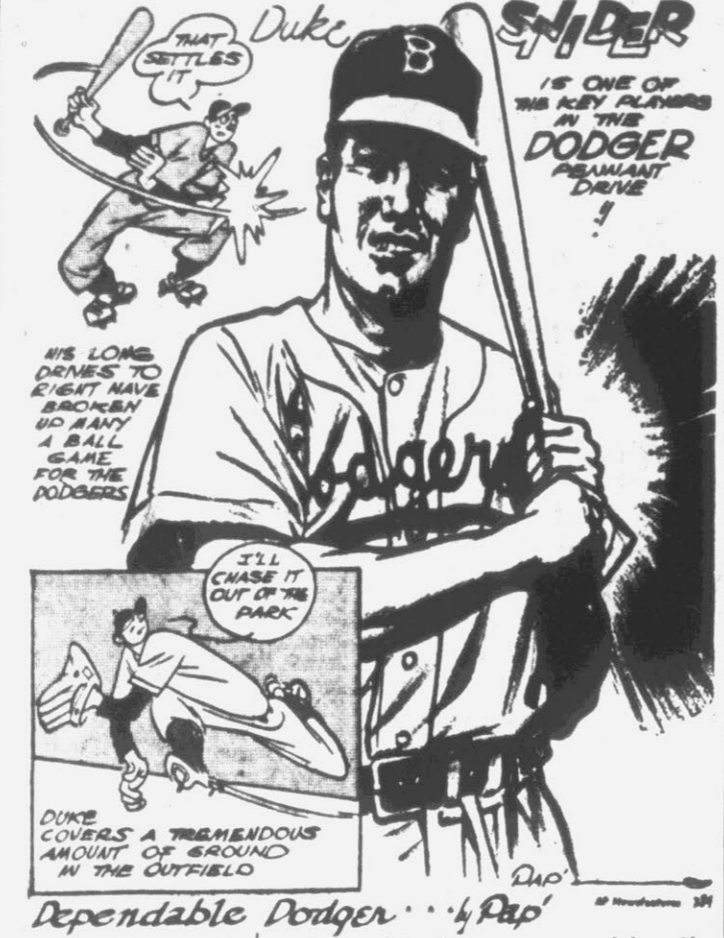

The Greenies started a rally in the ninth frame after one man was out. Hubert Smith, pinch-hitting for Varney, was walked. Nick Palica, pinch-hitting for Mustian, was walked. Then Frank Lapovicy went in to pinch-hit for Strausser and was called out on strikes. Charlie Graham went in to pinch-hit for Valle and grounded out pitcher to first to end the ball game.

The Greenies outthit the Jays, 7 to 4, but lacked the necessary power to hit when a hit would have resulted in a run for them. Buck Kilpatrick, on the mound for the Jays, held the Greenie hits well scattered as he registered his ninth win of the season, although he had to have help from Alton Brown in the final frame.

Sindo Valle and Pappy Williams with two singles each led the seventh-inning attack off Kilpatrick. Vernon (Preacher) Mustian went the route for the Greenies and gave up only six hits with Milt Bolick being the only Jay able to connect for more than one safety. The loss for Mustian was his fourth of the season and his first to the Jays. He has won five contests.

Tonight the Greenies travel to Roanoke Rapids to meet the Jays for the last time this season. Harry Owens will be on the mound for the Jays in his final appearance of the season in a Jay uniform. Owens, on option from Norfolk, Va., will return Manager Barney Shotton has come to the conclusion that the Dodgers need Duke Snider in center field to be at full strength. The talented young outfielder has a tremendous range in the outfield and only his lack of confidence against left-handed pitchers keeps him from being one of the outstanding players in the league.

"I can't imagine a boy of 22 thinking that he can hit only right-handed pitching," says Shotton. "There aren't many batters who drive the ball with Duke's power but I wish he was hungry to play every day—against left handers as well as right. Only boys who are hungry to play win, and we have to that club on Saturday to help the Norfolk team in their fight for fourth place position. The Greenies return home Saturday night when they meet the Tarboro Athletics, in the first of a two-game series.

Tonight's Games: Greenville at Roanoke Rapids, New Bern at Wilson, Rocky Mount at Tarboro, Goldsboro at Kinston.

The Greenies lost an all-important game last night to the Jays as the Goldsboro Bugs took a 1-0 win over Kinston to put the Bugs just one game behind the Greenies for fourth place spot. The win for the Jays was their third straight and now gives the Greenies a 12-7 mark in the series between the two clubs thus far this season.

The loss at home was number 24 for the Greenies this season. The Greenies so far this season have lost a total of 36 games within a margin of three runs, losing 18 by one run, 10 by two runs and 8 by a three-run margin. A total of 12 more games remain on the Greenies' schedule and the same number are to be played by the Bugs. The big question now before local fans is whether or not the Greenies will be in the playoffs.

Tarboro has selected its all-star team for the season. Fans who made the selections placed four Tarboro players on the squad, with Joe Antolick also listed as manager as well as catcher. Others on the squad are: Pappy Williams, Greenville, first base; Gus Godbold, Tarboro, second base; Joe Wheeler, New Bern, third base; John Tepedino, Greenville, shortstop; Outfielders Clyde Whitener, Goldsboro, Pepper Martin, Rocky Mount, Ray Komaneky, Goldsboro; Antolick, Tarboro, catcher; left-handed pitcher, Vince Gohl, Tarboro; righthanded pitcher, Tony Napoles, Tarboro; manager, Antolick, Tarboro; and Harry Soufas, Kinston, utility.

A move to oust Steve Collins as manager of the Kinston baseball club was voted down by the club's board of directors in a secret meeting held on August 20, it was revealed yesterday.

According to reliable information, two members of the board brought up the motion on the grounds that Collins is not playing up to his usual form. The board promptly turned down the move.

On the day of the meeting, Kinston was in second place, only one and one-half games out of first place.

Losingest Club Drops 102nd Tilt For The Season

Leavenworth, Kas., Aug. 26—(AP)—The Leavenworth Braves, tabbed the losingest baseball club in America, keep plugging along—in the same old rut. The Braves lost their 102nd Western Association game of the season last night, 6-1, to the league-leading St. Joseph Cardinals. It was their 16th loss to the Cardinals in as many starts.

They've only won 24 games. Club President Robert Ricketson compares the Brave camp to "an army replacement center in wartime." Nobody has accused the Braves of not trying to win. They hustle to the last out and are well ahead of their 1948 attendance when the club finished only four games out of first division.

Five Good Reasons For Optimistic Viewpoint

Season Tickets Go On Sale For Pirates' Home Football Games

The Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce today completed plans for handling the sale of season tickets to the home football games at East Carolina Teachers College this fall. President Louis Gaylord, Jr. issued a call for all members to pick up the tickets from Sales Chairman Jack Edwards at Edwards' Auto Supply on South Cotanche Street.

Tickets will be available for $6 for the five home games. At the gate the tickets will be $2 per game which provides a saving of $4 to the purchaser of a season ticket. The ECTC home schedule: September 15—Cherry Point Marines; September 24—Lenoir-Rhyne; October 8—Elon (incoming); October 28—Edenton Flyers; November 5—Appalachian.

The home schedule of ECTC and Greenville High School will be played under the lights at the newly-constructed college stadium, made possible by donations of Greenville merchants and other citizens amounting to over $25,000. College games will be played on Saturday nights, with kickoffs scheduled at eight o'clock. The one exception is the Homecoming game with Elon which will get underway at three in the afternoon. High school games are scheduled for Friday nights.

The choice permanent seats on the north side of the playing field have been divided into three sections of reserved seats, labeled A, B, and C. Section C, on the east end, will be reserved for ECTC students and faculty. The Greenville JC's have sections A and B available for sale.

Each section includes 17 rows with 34 seats to a row. None of these 1,734 seats are further from the center of the field than the 25-yard line. Season tickets may be purchased from any member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, or at centrally-located business establishments in down-town Greenville, to be announced at a later date.

U. S. Slated To Rule In Tennis For Long Time

By GEORGE BOWEN. Baltimore—(AP)—It's going to be a long time before France or any other European country will endanger the world tennis supremacy of the United States. Who says so?

A Frenchman—Pierre Pellissier. He's a qualified judge, having helped win the French national doubles title four times and played on his country's Davis Cup team.

Why does Pierre think the United States will continue to reign the tennis world? Because: "Tennis in England and France is a rich boy's game. Private clubs. Too expensive for the average child to play. Here anyone can play."

"One other thing to remember is that kids here could play right through the war. That, of course, was not true in Europe. These countries will have to keep sending old men against young Americans for the next several years. Only Australia offers any kind of threat."

The 32-year-old Pierre made the French Davis Cup team after the war during which he spent three years in a Munich prison camp. "We toured the United States in 1946 and when I saw conditions here I said this is for me," he recalls. He returned to the United States last year and became the tennis professional at the L'Hirondelle club here. During the winter he fills a similar job at the Phoenix, Ariz. Country Club.

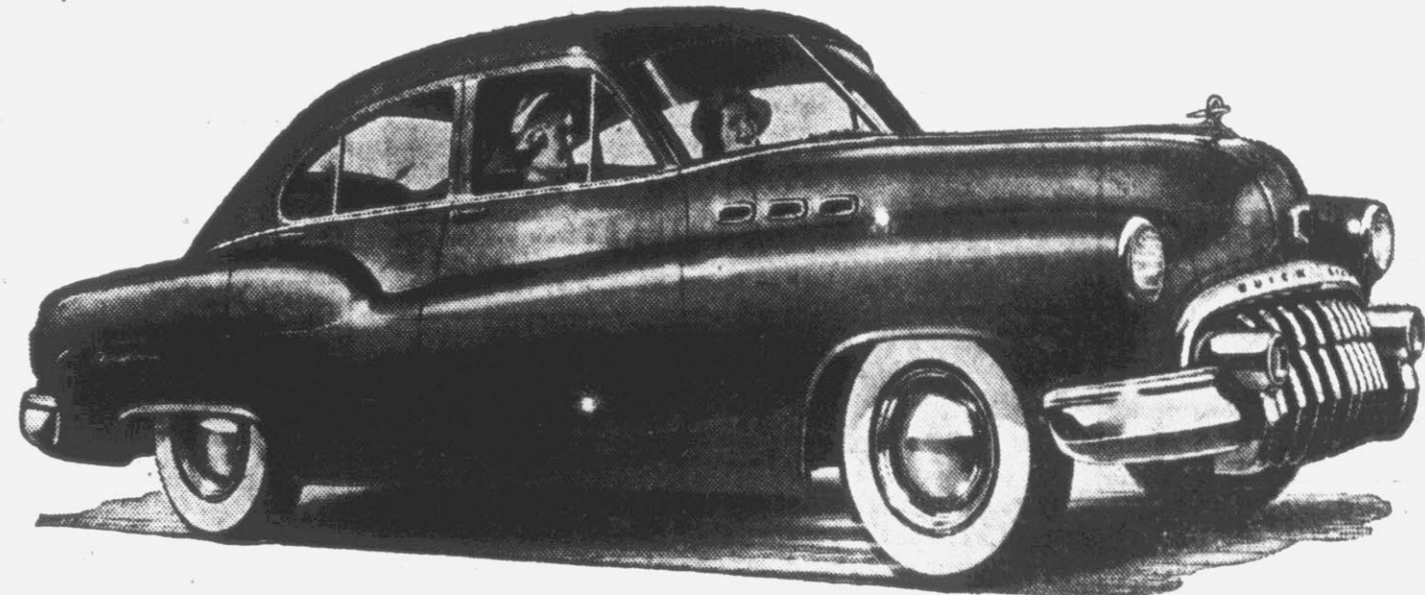

Believing you can't teach and play tournament tennis at the same time, Pierre limits his competitor to once a year—the national pro championships. He does pretty well.

The HOUSE on LILAC STREET

by FRED BAYARD

Chapter 18

Mike Dodson and Frankie Mitchell decided that, for one day at any rate, the Franklin Street Public School could get along without them. Morning found them on the New York City waterfront. With the independence of youth and forty-five cents between them, the boys walked lazily along the water's edge.

Frankie stopped suddenly and shouted, "Look! What's that in the water?"

By the time Mike had scrambled down to join him, Frank had picked it up.

"Gee whillikers—it's a woman's purse. Wonder how she could have lost it down here."

"Maybe she dropped it on the path and it sort of rolled down," Mike suggested.

"Maybe," Frank turned it over in his hand. "It's sort of pretty. Do you think we should look inside—maybe her name's in it?"

Mike shook his head. "I think we should find a cop and give it to him."

They climbed back to the path dry. A sea gull was circling, only swerving away as the boys came near.

"I'm just going to have a look at what's got him so hot up," Mike was down the slope in a second. His hoarse shout brought Frank peeling down.

"Look!" The other pointed. At the very edge of the water lay a woman, face down, one arm thrown forward, her fingers buried in the grass roots. Her other arm was doubled under her. It was a lonely spot, shadowy, almost hidden by the overhanging of the trees and part of the retaining wall.

The boys looked at each other, too horrified to speak. Something about that motionless form with the wind softly stirring her fair hair terrified them.

Frankie, always the bolder of the two, finally began to walk toward her. Reluctantly Mike followed.

"Do you think she's sick or something?" the latter whispered. Nothing could have made him speak the words aloud.

"She ain't sick," Frankie answered. "I think she's dead!"

"You think she was drowned?" Mike asked. Another thought occurred to him. "Say—maybe this purse we found was hers—?"

"I don't know, but we've got to find a cop," Frank thought quickly. They found a policeman not far from the entrance to the park.

The policeman followed after them, refusing to be hurried.

"See," Frank said when they had climbed down the slope. "There!"

One look convinced the arm of the law that the boys had not been imagining things.

"You two wait right there," he shouted at them, "while I go phone Don't let anyone near her." He disappeared in the direction from which they had come.

In what seemed to be only a short while, the place was swarming with police and with curious spectators, drawn like vultures to the scene of the disaster.

The two boys, momentarily forgotten, stood wide-eyed, watching the police activity.

The patrolman, who had first followed them to the spot, came forward, accompanied by another man.

"These are the boys, sir, who reported this," Frankie's voice sounded like a squeak. "We skipped school today."

"Perhaps it was a good thing that you did," was the surprising reply. "Otherwise might have been quite a while before she was found. Now, if you two can tell me everything you know, we just might be able to forget about your playing hooky."

The two youthful faces brightened. Something about the detective's manner inspired confidence.

With many interruptions from Mike, Frankie told his story, the words tumbling out in a rush in his anxiety to please. Fletcher listened carefully, then called to one of the men.

"Sergeant, find out where these boys live, and take them home." He looked at them. "I may want to ask you some more questions later. If so, I'll let you know."

As the boys went off, Lieutenant Fletcher walked thoughtfully toward the little group of men at the water's edge.

The girl's body was being placed on a stretcher. The medical examiner came up to him.

"What's the verdict, Doc?" Fletcher asked.

"I'll have to make a further examination, of course," was the reply, "but there's no doubt about it. This girl was strangled."

"How long would you say she's been dead?"

"Hard to tell exactly, but I should say since sometime yesterday afternoon. I'll be able to tell better later."

"She must have lain here all night. The ground under her is quite dry. Looks to me as if she was killed somewhere else and brought here. There's no sign of a struggle."

"More than likely," the doctor replied. "I'll send you the particulars as soon as I can." He hurried off.

With the removal of the body, the onlookers had begun to disperse, and quiet settled over the park again.

Fletcher was the last to go. He stood deep in thought. Somehow, what had happened here was out of keeping with the sunlight and the sparkling water.

Finally he too turned and made for his car. As he got in, he glanced at the plainclothesman behind the wheel.

"Well," he remarked. "Missing Persons can close one file! We've found Ruth Hamilton!"

He placed on the seat beside him the red leather briefcase the boys had found.

Scott Repeats Criticism Of Speaker Kerr Ramsay

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 26—(AP)—Governor Scott today repeated criticisms he voiced Wednesday of House speaker Kerr Ramsay.

The Governor was asked at news conference why he singled out the Salisbury legislator who presided over the house during the stormy sessions of the 1949 general assembly.

He said this was because Ramsay was typical of a group of legislators.

"I could pick out more," he said. "A lot of them do double talking. They told the people back home they were supporting my program, but didn't do it here. If they want to do that, that's their privilege. But the folks back home ought to know it."

The Governor first voted his criticism of Ramsay at his news conference Wednesday when he denied reports he planned to stump the state in order to elect a friendly legislature next year.

He reiterated that today.

"I naturally would be interested like anybody else in having somebody down here I can work with," he said.

Meanwhile, reports from Salisbury said Ramsay was preparing to write the Governor a letter in answer to the remarks the Governor made Wednesday.

The Governor said he had not received that letter.

"Ramsay told me several times he would support my program," the Governor said today. "Then he came down here and left the chair and came down on the floor to fight it. That's his privilege to be that way if he wants to, but I don't think he voted it square with me after I assured me of his support before his election as speaker."

gether in the consultative assembly at Strasbourg and began to assay the general situation. It's a case of one for all and all for one, just as it was during the World War.

Britain yesterday made a move of self-help by asking all government departments to cut down spending. She hopes to save at least $600,000,000 in the next year. That's five per cent of the national budget.

This step followed American public criticism of the British Socialist government's home spending. It likely means that some Socialist welfare projects will have to be deferred—a tough break for the party in view of the general election due the middle of next year.

Although he had not notified Royster, James I. Miller, president of the Wilson Tobacco Board of Trade, said today probably would be the last day that its extra sale would operate.

At Rocky Mount, P. K. Gravely, president of the Tobacco Board of Trade, said he had notified Royster that its fifth sale is "not a rump sale and will continue to operate."

R. S. Witherington, sales supervisor at Kinston, said that the fifth sale there would continue in operation as long as government inspectors grade tobacco for the sale.
