Survey In Senate Indicates Trade Program To Win

Opposition By Taft Apparently Ineffective In Swaying Law-makers

Washington, Sept. 10 (AP)—A check of senators showed today that President Truman looks like a winner in a new contest with Senator Taft (R-Ohio). This one is over the administration's reciprocal trade agreements program.

In a Senate speech yesterday Taft flailed away at a program Mr. Truman earlier in the week confidently had listed as one of the "wise and important" accomplishments likely to come from this session of Congress.

The Ohio Republican has been effective in battling some of Mr. Truman's domestic proposals. Notably, he helped kill the administration's Taft-Hartley law repealer and aided in scuttling Mr. Truman's plan to create a new welfare department.

On issues involving foreign policy the President has had the better of their extended political argument with approval of such proposals as the North Atlantic Alliance and larger scale European recovery efforts than Taft favored.

Nose counts indicated that Mr. Truman will get his reciprocal trade agreements bill, already approved by the House in the form of the administration wants it. The only question is whether Republicans will be able to attach the so-called peril point amendment.

This would require the Tariff Commission to fix the point at which it believes a cut in import rates would damage American industry. The President could go ahead with the rate cut but would have to tell Congress why.

Calling this provision only a mild restriction, Taft told his colleagues that without it "the act unquestionably gives the President power to destroy American industry and is a complete delegation of legislative power."

Even if the amendment were adopted, Taft said he probably would vote against the measure because he thinks the State Department has adopted a "giveaway attitude" in operating the program.

Hungary To Try Eight 'Traitors'

Budapest, Hungary, Sept. 10 (AP)—The Hungarian government accused eight former high-ranking communists today of treason and of trying to overthrow the government "with the armed help of Tito and the other present leaders of Yugoslavia."

The eight men—including former foreign minister Laszlo Rajk and Lieut. Gen. Gyorgy Palffy, former chief inspector of the Hungarian army—will go to trial on the indictment on Sept. 16.

Textile Leader Dies Of Illness

Charlotte, Sept. 9 (AP)—Carl A. Rudisill, 65, founder and president of Carlton Yarn Mills of Cherryville, died early today in a hospital here after several weeks of illness.

Rudisill was stricken by a cerebral hemorrhage in 1944, but partly recovered and thereafter was active in a moderate way in the affairs of his mill, which operates 21,000 spindles in the manufacture of fine combed yarns, employing about 450 persons.

Missouri-Pacific Railroad Closed Down By Big Strike

St. Louis, Sept. 10 (AP)—The Missouri Pacific railroad's far-flung system was virtually out of business today, with 5,000 trainmen on strike and more than 20,000 other employees laid off.

Other railroads and bus and truck companies struggled to move the 12,000 passengers and 250,000 tons of freight that the "Mo Pac"—the country's ninth largest rail system—carries daily in its 10 state territory.

The strike began at 3 p.m. (EST) yesterday as engineers, firemen, conductors and other trainmen left their posts in a dispute over interpretation of operating rules. However, those trains still rolling when the strike deadline came finished their runs. Others had stopped earlier.

As the strike began, there was no sign of a compromise move by either the railroad or the four unions involved, the Brotherhoods of Locomotive Engineers, Locomotive Enginemen and Firemen, Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors.

Paul J. Neff, chief operating officer of the line, who called the strike "one of the most unjustifiable in American railroad history," repeated that he is ready to let arbitrators settle the issues in dispute.

R. E. Davidson, assistant grand chief of the locomotive engineers, speaking for the brotherhoods, said arbitration wouldn't end the strike. The union's stand is that the issues in dispute are not subject to arbitration.

Davidson said the brotherhoods are ready to resume negotiations with the carriers at any time, but that the strike will continue meanwhile.

The cause of the strike is that the road and the unions, after years of negotiations, still can't agree on how certain operating rules for the men shall be interpreted. The unions have submitted 282 claims for their members, based on their interpretation. These involve about $3,000,000 the railroad would have to pay if it agreed to the claims, which it doesn't.

It was estimated that only about 2,000 of the railroad's 27,000 employees remained on the job today. They are to handle administrative details that, strike or no strike, require attention.

A prolonged tieup would cripple many industries in the area served by the 7,200-mile system and lead to shutdowns idling other thousands of workers.

Fact-Finding Board On Steel Submits Report

Contents Kept Secret But Reports Circulate That No Wage Increase Called For: White House To Tell Details Late Today

Washington, Sept. 10 (AP)—President Truman's three-man fact finding board today filed its recommendations for settling the crucial steel dispute with Mr. Truman.

Contents of the board's report were kept secret but the White House promised to make them available for publication at 8:00 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) today.

The President had expressed hope in advance that the findings would become the basis for an agreement to head off an industry-crippling steel workers' strike due next week.

The report had added importance because industry and labor alike look for any steel settlement to become a guide in other industries facing fights over a fourth round of postwar wage increases.

The recommendations were kept secret. However, reports circulated among the parties in advance that they called for no wage increase, but approximately 10 cents an hour for each worker in pension and insurance benefits.

The CIO Steelworkers Union had asked a 30-cent increase including 12.5 cents in added wages an hour, 11.23 for pensions, and 6.27 for insurance. The union's million members now get an average of about $1.64 an hour.

Thus a recommendation for a 10-cent settlement would be a third of what the union asked. The steel industry has been flatly opposed to granting any general wage increase or pension plan now. Denial of a general pay boost would likely become a heavy burden toward higher wages in other industries.

Whatever the board recommends is not binding on either the steel industry or the union. Either side can accept or reject—according to terms of the 60-day trade President Truman arranged last July to avert a strike and let the board sift claims of both sides.

Governor Urges Full Support Of New Polio Drive

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 10 (AP)—The State Motor Vehicle Department's report on highway accidents for the 24-hour period ending at 10 a. m. today:

Killed—4. Injured—10. Killed to date in 1948—467. Injured to date—8243. Injured to date in 1948—4927.

These and similar declarations have brought me an inquiry as to whether there is a Communist policy that one Communist nation won't go to war with another. Is Russia's hope for world peace based on the idea that, if all nations should turn Communist, there couldn't be wars among them?

Russia hasn't announced such a policy in so many words. She has, of course, frequently declared that she maintains a policy of non-aggression against all countries—Communist and otherwise—and will fight only in self defense. She hasn't differentiated between Communist and non-Communist nations in this respect.

However, Moscow has identified its political aim as "international Communism," as opposed to the Nationalism for which Tito stands. The sovereignty of a nation under international Communism rests in Moscow. The Marshal has refused to surrender his country's sovereignty, and on that point hinges the current conflict between Russia and Yugoslavia.

It is, I suppose, logical to assume that there can be no armed strife between loyal "international Communists" who take their orders from Moscow. So in that sense it could be said that the Russian policy for international Communism precludes war among members Birds of a feather flock together.

The case of Yugoslavia is a peculiar one. Moscow is withholding judgment on the country as a whole, while reading Tito out of the fold as a heretic. The Kremlin says he is not a true Communist but is a Fascist. Upon his shoulders rests the blame for defiance of Moscow.

Wm. F. Owens To Be Transferred

Local Postoffice Worker Assigned To Washington Office

William F. Owens, who has been employed at the Greenville post-office nearly a quarter of a century has been promoted and will be transferred to the office of the first assistant postmaster - general in Washington, D.C., September 15.

He will be associated with the deputy first assistant postmaster-general, Clarence N. Bruce, in the administrative branch of the Post Office department, in work relative to postmasters throughout the United States.

Owens entered service in the Greenville post office October 11, 1926. He has served under three post-masters. His first assignment was delivering special delivery mail and parcel post packages as a substitute carrier. In 1928, he received a regular appointment on the post office staff and served as a letter carrier. He was transferred September 1, 1937 to a regular clerkship and was assigned to the money order division. In 1940, he was made clerk in charge of the financial section, and he holds that position until September 15, when his transfer to the Washington post office department becomes effective.

"Willie" Owens, as he is familiarly known to nearly everybody having dealings with the Greenville post office, has always taken an active part in community affairs. He was active in the North Carolina Federation of Post Office Clerks and served as president in 1942. He is a past master of Greenville Masonic Lodge No. 284. He is a past high priest and past worthy eminent commander of the Greenville York Rite Masonic bodies, and now is watchman of shepherds in the Greenville White Shrine of Jerusalem. He is a member of Eighth Street Christian Church.

The National foundation for infantile paralysis launched a special drive Thursday for additional funds because of the unprecedented polio epidemic this year.

The Governor stated that the epidemic fund has sent into National Foundation Chapter treasuries in this state $2,290,865.51 since last January. He said 51 chapters are now receiving funds for continued medical care and treatment for persons affected this year and last.

Production For August Improves

Washington, Sept. 10 (AP)—Industrial production rose during August for the first time since October 1948, the President's council of economic advisers said today.

The council said preliminary estimates place the federal reserve board's index of industrial production during August at 169, seven points above the estimated index for July and level that for June.

The index is based on the 1935-39 average as 100.

Missing Child Is Found Safe

Philadelphia, Sept. 10 (AP)—Five-year-old Janie Franz, who disappeared yesterday from a Trenton, N. J., street, was found here today alive and well. The man whom police testified admitted taking her into his car and sleeping with her last night was held without bail on charges of kidnapping and indecent assault.

He was docketed as Gerald A. Hutt, 35, of Bridgeport, Conn. A small, stout, nervous man in a gabardine sport suit, Hutt told a reporter he is a "hairbrush salesman" and has a wife and two children in the Connecticut city.

Blaze Destroys Storage Building

Fire Of Unknown Origin; Crowds Hampered Firemen

Fire of unknown origin last night destroyed a storage building owned by J. A. Pollard. The building is located in the Fleming Crossroads section of Greenville, across the river.

When the Greenville Fire Department arrived on the scene, the fire in the tin and wood structure had gained much headway, and the flames which could be seen for a good distance away had attracted a large crowd, firemen said.

Firemen reported that they had trouble in hooking up hose to the water pump because of the number of cars and trucks which were clustered around the water hydrant. This delayed the firemen in bringing water to bear on the fire, it was stated.

Army To Retire One Of Generals Named In Inquiry

Chief Of Chemical Corps To Be Retired; Feldman Returned To Duty

Washington, Sept. 10 (AP)—The Army said today that one of two generals who figured in the Senate's "five percent" investigation will be restored to active duty and the other will be retired.

Secretary of the Army Gray announced these actions:

The application of Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt, suspended chief of the Army's Chemical Corps, for retirement will be approved.

Maj. Gen. Herman Feldman will be restored to his post as quartermaster general of the Army effective today.

Gray suspended the two officers on July 16 pending outcome of a Senate subcommittee investigation of the charges of influence in government buying.

Both men subsequently testified before the committee with regard to reports linking their names with that of James V. Hunt, a key figure in the inquiry into activities of five percenters—persons who collect a fee for helping businessmen obtain government contracts.

As for Waitt, Gray said: "I have found no evidence of dishonesty or conduct justifying trial by court martial."

Gray said Feldman had committed "errors of judgment which I do not condone" but he added that Feldman has "convinced me that there will be no repetition of this lapse of judgment."

The secretary praised both officers for their long service to the Army. He said Waitt had served "honestly and faithfully" and that he made major professional contributions toward the development of the Chemical Corps.

Gray said Feldman's record of 42 years "is laudable and efficient." He said this fact and his belief that Feldman "is fully qualified to continue his assignment" led him to order the officer back to duty as quartermaster general.

As for Waitt, Gray referred to his "recent irregular actions which have been subject of congressional inquiry" and said he had decided "it would not be the best interests of the service for him (Waitt) to continue his duties as chief of the Chemical Corps."

New Weapon Can Kill All People

Mankind's Survival Threatened By His Discoveries

St. Cergue, Switzerland, Sept. 10 (AP)—The atom bomb has been rendered obsolete by new bacteriological weapons capable of wiping out mankind, says Dr. Brook Chisholm, director general of the World Health Organization.

Dr. Chisholm declared scientists have found one substance so deadly that seven ounces, properly distributed, could kill all the people in the world within six hours. He did not name the substance.

The health chief appealed for a "new maturity" to prevent future wars, adding: "The time has now come when man's ability to kill man has become so terrific that he threatens his own survival."

"Any country who has a few good bacteriologists and a few fanatic distributors," he declared, "is as potent militarily as any other country in the world. Man power is irrelevant, heavy industry has nothing to do with this type of warfare. Large armies, navies and airforces — things which were regarded as a symbol of power—are obsolete. The atom bomb is obsolete."

Would Encourage Investing In Sterling Area Countries

U. S., Britain And Canada Believe Flow Of Productive Investment Would Help Britain Overcome Economic Crisis; Three Points By Committee

Washington, Sept. 10 (AP)—The United States, Britain and Canada decided today that they should encourage World Bank and U. S. Export-Import Bank financing in sterling area countries to help Britain overcome its economic crisis.

A committee report adopted by the three-power conference on Britain's problems said it was felt that a "properly directed flow of productive investment" would help not only in meeting Britain's current dollar shortage but would also assist the attainment of a proper balance between the British-sterling area need for dollars and its ability to get them.

The committee report, which was released by U. S. treasury secretary Snyder, as spokesman for the conference, made these three main points:

1. The United States, Britain and Canada should seek through continuing study and consultation to remove obstructions to the flow of private capital abroad—meaning that efforts are to be made to create opportunities and provide incentives for American investors to put their money to work in foreign countries.

2. The conference then decided that "each of the three governments should encourage, and where feasible assist, prospective borrowers to present well conceived projects which would qualify for financing" by the world bank. It was further decided that countries which are in the sterling area—that is, which use the British pound sterling as their currency—should be encouraged to join the international fund and bank in cases where they do not already belong.

3. The group agreed that the world bank is the "prime source for international financing of basic economic development from public funds" but that the United States export bank also "assist sterling area countries in financing public works of American goods and services."

Snyder said the three-power conference is "making good progress" in its work on Britain's dollar shortage difficulties. Other informants indicated that the conferees are shooting for conclusion of their work by Monday night.

Since the three-power talks started only last Wednesday, they face the prospect of a busy week-end of meetings, although no Sunday sessions were yet scheduled.

Evidence that whatever proposals are finally agreed upon by the three governments will not offer Britain any quick and easy way out came from Sir Stafford Cripps yesterday. Asked whether he thought Britain could solve its problems—which he had described as mainly problems of an unbalanced trade—without reducing the standard of living of its people, he replied: "It is quite possible in the course of the next two years that the standard of living of a lot of people may decline."

He added that "the only possible solution" for Britain will be to so organize its affairs (obviously with assistance from the United States and Canada) that it will be able to earn enough dollars from the sales of products to become self-sufficient.

Cripps' overall definition of his government's hopes and objectives provided no specific clue as to how he and the American and British officials working with him in the conference here may be able to work toward the goal he set up.

Give Up Search

Most Of Stolen Money Is Found

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 10 (AP)—An official of the Youngsville bank which was robbed yesterday stated this morning that all but $840 of the stolen money has been recovered.

W. M. Satterwhite, manager of the Youngsville and Wake Forest branches of Durham Bank and Trust Company, stated that the lone, pistol-toting bandit yesterday made away with only $5,880.

A total of $5,040 has been recovered Satterwhite stated.

This money was found yesterday by authorities soon after they picked up a man listed as Ginnada Wheelous, 29, who later admitted staging the lone robbery. The money was found in the glove compartment of Wheelous' automobile, stated sheriff Robert Pleasant of Wake county and Deputy G. C. Massey, soon after they arrested the young man at a filling station here.

Wheelous was given a hearing yesterday afternoon before U. S. commissioner Henry A. Bland and was bound over on $25,000 bond on a charge of bank robbery.

Officers stated that Wheelous, upon questioning, admitted that shortly before his arrest he had walked into the Youngsville bank and made a woman teller hand over at pistol point money in the cash drawer.

Church Women To Guard Negro Voting Rights

Atlanta, Sept. 10 (AP)—Church women from 12 Southern states were pledged today to go to registration and voting places with their cooks and maids to safeguard the Negro's franchise.

The decision was taken at a two-day inter-racial meeting sponsored by the Southern Regional Council and attended by 150 women of all church denominations.

They agreed to preach and practice a belief that all men, white and Negro, are entitled to equal justice. They pledged themselves especially to make voting "legally and actually safe for all." They were asked to call for grand jury investigations of any vote law violations.

Kidnapped Youth Free; Wounded

Cartersville, Ga., Sept. 10 (AP)—An 18-year-old student was kidnapped, Sheriff Frank Atwood reported, but escaped in a hall of shotgun fire after a mountain farm-house warned: "You'd better run. My husband is going to kill you."

The youth, Donald Brown of Cartersville, caught $5 birdshot in his back, but was not seriously wounded.

The sheriff said the farmer—John Jordan of adjacent Paulding County—is still at large, probably armed and hiding in mountains near his home. Jordan has been charged with kidnapping.

Loneliness For Prisoner Petain

Madame Annie Petain today declared recently published reports that her 83-year-old husband — imprisoned former marshal of France—was ailing and might not live through the winter.

"He is just fine," she said in an interview, "though he suffered during the hot weather earlier in the summer."

Then she added: "Things cannot go on much longer as they are. He is eating his heart out with loneliness."

Five Are Killed In Head-On Crash

Petersburg, W. Va., Sept. 10 (AP)—Five occupants of a crowded automobile were killed today when it smashed head-on into a coal truck on a mountain road near here.

State Trooper C. H. Lewis said the driver of the truck, Dwight Kuhn of Mt. Storm, W. Va., suffered only slight injuries.

Four persons perished in the wreckage of the car, a light coupe and the fifth died while being taken to a hospital.

Tobacco Sales

Sales Supervisor Will Whed, bee reports the following sales on the Greenville tobacco market up to Friday:

21,530,876 pounds sold to date. Average price—$46.46. Friday's sales—1,848,424.

Young Democrats Elect Delegates For State Meet

J. B. Spilman Jr. Is Reelected President; More Activity Is Urged

By CHESTER WALSH

The Young Democrats of Pitt County, at a supper meeting at Respass' place last night, elected eleven delegates to the state convention of Young Democrats to be held at New Bern September 15-17.

They unanimously reelected J. B. Spilman, Jr., of Greenville president; Ada Jones is vice-president; Mrs. Chester Walsh, secretary, and Allen Powell, treasurer. Attendance at the meeting was the largest in years.

E. Hoover Taft of Greenville, a past State president of the Young Democrats and now treasurer of the National Young Democrats spoke briefly and urged the importance of public-spirited Democrats attending the state convention at New Bern and the national convention to be held at Chattanooga, Tenn., in November.

George Fountain of Tarboro and Terry Sanford of Fayetteville, candidates for state president of the Young Democrats, made eloquent after-dinner speeches. They were brief, but to the point, and they emphasized the purposes of the Young Democrats.

Ada Jones of Greenville, First District chairman, encouraged the Young Democrats to be most active and make their influence felt in government circles.

State Senator Dr. Paul E. Jones of Farmville and Pitt County Representative in the Legislature Frank Kilpatrick of Ayden and Larry Eagles of Tarboro were recognized.

Louis W. Gaylor, Greenville attorney, "always available for community service," acted as secretary at the meeting.

President Spilman, after his reelection, thanked the Young Democrats for their support of his administration, and pledged his best efforts to provide leadership which will enhance the Young Democrats' policy of providing better government.

The president was requested to lead the delegation from Pitt county to the state convention at New Bern, to ascertain the number of delegates planning to attend and to see that they are properly registered.

Considerable time was given to discussion of plans for an extensive "pop" rally of Young Democrats in Pitt County at the spring meeting.

Had A Story To Tell

This Piece Belongs To A Policeman Who Is Going To Retire Soon, It's His History; Looking Back On Lessons He Had To Learn By Experience; Would Tell Rookies

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Sept. 10 (AP)—Sergeant Bill Leitzel always wanted to be a writer.

In nine months he'll retire after 25 years as a Detroit cop. So here today he'll have his first try at what he always wanted to do.

This piece belongs to him. I don't know him. He wrote me a letter about a story I wrote a couple of weeks ago on people growing old.

In it I mentioned all the old cops I knew when I worked a police beat and how they sat around at night, happy and chewing the fat.

And in it I remembered how it was when they retired: a little party, a few awkward words, and they were gone. And pretty soon they were dead.

Sergeant Bill Leitzel wrote me: "Some nine months hence I'll have finished my quarter-century and will, too, bow out, clumsily. Once in a while I find myself making up the little speech I'll make. Then I think:

"What the hell. It'll be forgotten before supper anyway."

"But when I look at those young kids coming in to replace us, it starts a lot of thinking."

He remembered how a cop. And he wondered how the new rookies coming up every year now can ever learn to protect a city like Detroit.

Kiwansians Enjoy Talk By Dean Leo W. Jenkins
By CHESTER WALSH
Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, academic dean of East Carolina Teachers College, guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting last night, made one of the best short speeches of the year, many of the Kiwanians said after the meeting.

He discussed "Freshman Orientation at the College," and his description of the process of "tuning up" students for most effective work in college made a fine impression on the representative Kiwanis group.

Past President Eli Bloom had charge of the program. He read numerous Kiwanians had requested that Dean Jenkins be given a longer time to discuss his interesting subject at some meeting in the near future.

Vice-President Tige Gardner "always cheerful, always interesting, always entertaining," presided with the grace of the late Chauncey M. Depew of New York. "America's most eloquent after-dinner speaker."

Arthur B. Corey and Milo Smith delegates from the Greenville club to the Carolinas Kiwanis District convention at Chapel Hill, made interesting reports.

Bill Drum and "Red" Clifford had birthdays and they contributed a nickel for each year of their age.

After the meeting the Kiwanians discussed plans for making a sell-out of the season tickets for the ECTC football games at the new stadium on the campus. The Kiwanians are cooperating with the Junior Chamber of Commerce in the ticket sales.

Eventful Farmers' Day Is Over...But Not Forgotten

This unidentified woman swings into action during the rolling pin throwing contest which attracted a large audience during the Farmers Day afternoon activities. The winner in the rolling pin contest tossed the kitchen weapon more than 100 feet.

Queen Daphne Yelverton of Fountain is shown here with the second and third place contestants in the beauty pageant. At left is Peggy McGlohon of Winterville, second place contestant, and Janice Roberson of Bethel (right) was picked for third place.

The cameraman caught a portion of the 39 pretty girls in the Farmers Day beauty pageant as they lined up on the stage of Wright gymnasium to let the judges and audience see how all the beautiful girls looked in a group. In the background is master of ceremonies Sam Bundy, and in the foreground is a portion of Dean Hudson's orchestra which played for the pageant. Each contestant in the pageant was presented a string of pearls as a gift.

The mile long parade of Farmers Day attracted thousands of people who lined the streets along which the parade passed. Shown above is the portion of the parade in which the beauty contestants were perched atop convertibles. The parade included the Marine band from Cherry Point, a detachment of troops from the Greenville High School band, the Greenville High School band, farm machinery and farm animals.

Brought Thousands Into Greenville For Program

Greenville's first annual Farmers Day is now a thing of the past, but last Saturday its parade, contests, dances and beauty pageant brought thousands of farmers to Pitt and surrounding counties to Greenville to join in the fun and entertainment.

From 10:30 Saturday morning until midnight Saturday night, the Farmers Day program ticked off like clock work, providing constant entertainment and activity for townspeople as well as visitors to Greenville on that day.

Although the program officially began at 10:30, committee chairmen responsible for the various activities of the day were up early on Saturday checking details and seeing that the proper finishing touches were put on the projects for which they were responsible. And behind the finishing touches were weeks of planning and hard work by businessmen of the city who devoted their time to the program.

A Mile Long Parade
A mile-long parade, which many spectators judged as one of the best ever staged in Greenville, formally opened the day's activities as thousands of people lined Dickinson Avenue from the Atlantic Coast Line railroad station to Five Points and Evans Street from Five Points to the Court House to watch the parade pass.

Leading the mammoth parade was the car in which Senator Frank P. Graham, General I. W. Miller and other visiting dignitaries rode. A colorful Marine band from Cherry Point with its gay red and yellow colors and martial music set the pace for the parade, and was followed by a detachment of troops from Cherry Point.

Next came almost a score of polished convertibles in which rode the many beauty contestants who later appeared in the beauty pageant. The Greenville high school band, boy and girl scouts, Legionnaires, farm machinery and farm animals rounded out the parade.

At the court house, Senator Graham reviewed the progress of North Carolina in health, education, roads and agriculture, and reviewed the federal farm programs now pending before Congress.

Hog Calling to Husband Calling
The loud and entertaining activities in which the people themselves actually took part came during the afternoon. At the court house, farm men and women entered the hog calling contest, husband calling contest, rolling pin throwing contest, guessing contest, and competed for hundreds of dollars in prize money.

The cries of the hog callers and the husband callers could be heard for blocks as the callers loosened up their vocal chords and exhibited the talent they had developed on the farm for calling men and animals from the fields. As the calling progressed, the crowd at the court house square increased, and by the time the rolling pin throwing contest was ready to begin, a tremendous crowd had to move back out of the street to allow the throwers plenty of room to toss their kitchen missiles.

No Sissy Game
And it was no sissy's game, this rolling pin throwing contest, for more than once the crowd which gathered at the far end of the street was forced to move back to avoid being hit by a flying rolling pin. The contest was open only to women, and each had her own technique for letting the rolling pin fly at an imaginary husband.

Some went through elaborate wind-up motions which would have made a baseball pitcher sit up and take notice, while others just hauled back and let the pin fly on its way. Mrs. Hazel Ward of Pactolus who won the contest, hurled the weapon more than 100 feet.

Awards were given for the largest farm family present at the Farmers Day, the oldest farmer present, the person with the most living grandchildren, and the farmer who had come the greatest distance to the Farmers Day celebration. The latter award went to C. R. Martin, a native of Durham who now farms in Yuma county, Arizona—approximately 3,100 miles from Greenville.

Youngsters Had Contests, Too
While the older people were enjoying the contests on the court house square, the youngsters moved to the high school ravine where they competed in various athletic contests for cash prizes.

There were foot races, spon and egg races, football throwing contests, baseball throwing contests, and three-legged races. The winners in the contests received prizes ranging from footballs and baseballs to cash dollars.

All during the day, there was activity at the Greenville swimming pool which was open for free swimming for all the farm children who attended the Farmers Day. And in spite of cloudy skies during much of the day, a large number of children went to the pool for a free swim.

Queen of Farmers Day
The 39 beauty contestants, who themselves were one of the largest attractions of the day's activities

Queen of Farmers Day—Miss Daphne Yelverton of Fountain was crowned queen of the occasion Saturday night. The judges picked her for Queen from the 39 girls from eight counties who entered the contest, and she was awarded $300 cash and over 20 gifts from local merchants. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie P. Yelverton of Fountain. Just for the record, she is a brunette with brown eyes, is 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 113 pounds.

Charles Whedbee (left) master of ceremonies for the afternoon activities in the court house square, presents Warren Jones of near Vanceboro the $50 prize for winning the bean guessing contest. There were 698 beans in the jar, and Jones guessed 698.

made their headquarters at Jarvis dormitory at ECTC where hostesses were on duty all day to see to the comfort of the girls from eight counties who had entered the beauty pageant.

The girls were guests at a banquet at the Olde Towne Inn in their honor Saturday night, where they were officially welcomed to Greenville's Farmers Day.

At Wright gymnasium Saturday night, the beauty pageant began at 7:15, and for approximately one and one-half hours the judges and more than 1,200 spectators watched the contestants in evening dresses parade by before they could pick the Queen of Farmers Day.

A 19-year-old brown-eyed brunette, Daphne Yelverton of Fountain was picked Queen of Farmers Day and crowned by Master of Ceremonies Sam Bundy. Queen Daphne received first place awards of $300 cash and more than 20 gifts from local merchants. In the runner-up position in the beauty pageant was Peggy McGlohon of Winterville who received $200 cash and numerous gifts from Greenville merchants. Janice Roberson of Bethel was the third place contestant and was awarded $100 cash, and numerous other gifts.

Following the pageant, Dean Hudson and his orchestra played for a free dance in the Wright gymnasium.

Big Street Dance
While the beauty pageant and dance were in progress on the college campus, however, people jammed Evans Street between Five Points and Fourth Street where Candy Page and his Carolina Serenaders were playing music for a street dance. The street was roped off, the pavement spread with meal to make the shoes slide more easily and hundreds of people joined in the square dancing which lasted from 8:30 almost until midnight.

For 1949 it was the first attempt at a Farmers Day celebration, but from all appearances, the day was a tremendous success, and the people who came from surrounding communities were royally entertained while in town.

Watermelon-Growing Man Says Crop Is Money-Maker

By CHESTER WALSH

Elbert W. Moyer of Greenville, watermelon specialist and operator of Moyer's Taxicab Service here, won the championship of Suwanee County, Florida, last summer, for growing the largest watermelon—weight, 76 pounds.

The contest was sponsored by the Suwanee Democrat, a newspaper published at Live Oak, Fla., and the Suwanee County farm agent's office.

The paper carried a picture of Moyer and some of his prize-winning watermelons on the front page. Nine thousand acres in that county were planted to watermelons last summer.

Moyer, who had had fine success growing watermelons in Pitt County in 1947, went to Florida last November. He looked over land in several counties and then leased 210 acres of good farm land in Suwanee County.

He sowed seed of Texas Giant watermelons last March 14-17. He started harvesting the melons June 26. He sold his crop in the field to northern and eastern buyers and made substantial profits, he stated.

Moyer recalled that before his Florida watermelons were ripe, a buyer offered him a large sum for his crop, but he turned it down.

While he made excellent profits on the crop, due to an exceptionally mild winter in the east, the Georgia watermelon crop ripened shortly after his melons were ready for market, and that kept prices down on the first harvesting.

Moyer had unusually good luck on melons on the Joseph Tripp farm, a short distance west of Greenville, in 1947. His biggest buyer that year was the U. S. Navy base at Norfolk, Va., and he received good prices. He said his father, the late William Moyer of Pitt County, was regarded as one of the best watermelon growers in Pitt County. He learned the best methods of cultivating melons from him and has profited by the experience.

"There is a right kind of soil for growing watermelons and there is a right time to plant the seed and a special method of fertilizing and cultivating them," Moyer told a Daily Reflector staff reporter yesterday. "I had never been to Florida before."

I knew that watermelons ripened there early in the summer and brought good prices on the early market. I decided to take a chance. After looking over various tracts of land I found just what I wanted in Suwanee County and got to work. It was a profitable venture, and I have numerous offers to go back to Florida again.

"That land down there, near the Okefinochee Swamp and the Suwanee River, is ideal for growing melons. The swamp wends its way around main highways, and eventually empties into the Gulf of Mexico."

Moyer contends that Pitt County farmers, using the right methods, can cultivate limited acreage of watermelons and bring in some mighty handy cash money in the middle of the summer when farmers need money. Another thing, Moyer proclaims, is that the watermelon crop leaves the land in excellent condition for the planting of other field crops after the harvest in mid-summer.

Body In Lake Is Unidentified

Wadesboro, N. C., Sept. 10—(AP)—A man's body found in a lake near Lilesville last Wednesday still has not been identified.

Relatives of several missing men viewed the body to no avail, acting coroner H. H. Leavitt said.

Clothing bore the name "Stevenson," the major clue to identification of the man, who apparently was knifed and beaten.

BEER-WINE VOTE
Morganton, N. C., Sept. 10—(AP)—Burke County voters balloted today on whether to continue the legal sale of beer and wine.

All the festivities of Farmers Day did not end at sundown, as is shown by this picture of the street dance Saturday night. The block of Evans street from Five Points to Fourth Street was roped off and hundreds of people wore out their shoes dancing to the music of Candy Page and his Carolina Serenaders. The picture shows a portion of the crowd.

Strength FOR THE DAY

MORAL INFLUENCE COUNTS
A man whose business it is to test public opinion, stated recently that ministers, priests, and rabbis exert an influence in the life of the nation far surpassing, as he put it, "all other classes combined." He went on to say that the moral influence exerted by the religious leaders of the country is something the power of which the general public does not in the least understand. The industrial, financial and political leaders seem to be the people of greatest influence. As a matter of fact, without in any way laying their hands on any public issue, the religious leaders of the nation, by their effect upon the conscience of the people, exert a greater influence than any group or combination of groups.

This is amazing for two reasons. First of all, because more than half of the people in the United States are not associated with any church. In the second place, the influence of the religious leaders is amazing because moral influence seldom appears to have any real potency. We can see the power of money and the power of politics in operation, but it is hard to see the power of moral influence changing people's lives. The situation described above should give us added confidence in the stability of our nation.

Around Capitol Square

Y.D.C.—The regular Democratic organization of the farmers, the international bankers and diplomats has nothing on the North Carolina Democrats. They are confused and mixed up too, as the annual state convention approaches. The State YDC meeting is slated for New Bern next Friday and Saturday. As usual most of the early political maneuvers will get underway Thursday night—in fact, they are going on at high speed now with most of the members knowing where they want to go but with confused ideas of how to get there. One sure thing is the meeting will be well attended, nearly every local club will have maximum voting strength on hand, and a good political fight is in prospect.

PROPHETIC—What makes the developing YDC situation so alluring is the fact it presents the first contest for political control since beginning of the Scott administration. Perfunctory acceptance by the regular state Democratic executive committee of Governor Scott's nominees for national committeeman (Jonathan Daniels) and state chairman (Everett Jordan) occasioned no show of strength. The YDC offices are important to the overall state political situation because behind the scenes veteran operators are pulling strings to gain their ends and in the open stage characters in the play are pretty well identified or they were until a few days ago.

CROSSED-UP—Now the wires are getting crossed up, adding to the confusion and enhancing public interest. Until last week there were two avowed candidates for president and one for national committeeman. Now a third presidential aspirant has moved in and there is a lot of talk about trades for support.

FACTIONAL—Factional lines are not the same in YDC and regular Democratic organization fields, but they follow related lines. The contest for president appeared to be between George Fountain of Tarboro, solicitor of the second district and Terry Sandford, a young lawyer of Fayetteville. Fountain had the backing of Tony Tolar, John Barnes, Jeff Wilson and others among cognized parts of the Scott political organization and appointive office holders in the Scott administration. Sandford had the backing of such YDC stalwarts as Mayne Albright, Max Gardner, Dave Henderson and others who could not be classed as original Scott supporters, although most of them are believed to have joined him in the second primary. The Fountain group loudly proclaimed their man was the "administration candidate." Governor Scott said all along he was taking no part in the scrap.

CONFUSION—Then the name of Gene Gordon, Burlington attorney and the governor's fellow countyman, was proposed as a presidential candidate. The governor's comment at a press conference was simply that Gordon would make a good president. Within the past few days there has been a lot of talk about Ben Roney of the governor's office staff, Dr. T. G. Johnson, parole commissioner, and other Scott stalwarts, using the telephone for support for Gordon. It has been impossible to find anybody willing to be quoted by name, but with so much gossip going around there must be some basis in fact for assumption that those close to the governor are divided in their choice for a president. That may well develop before next Thursday into a situation where the governor will have to make a more positive statement about his position in the matter, either reaffirmation of hands-off neutrality or in support of one candidate. That prospect puts the YDC scrap into big headlines. If the governor does take a positive stand for or against any candidate, result of the YDC balloting will strengthen or weaken him as a state political leader. If he doesn't be will be unfairly accused of failing to discharge his duty as recognized head of the party.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
New York —(AP)—This is the sixth anniversary of my entrance into prison.

It is a hoeseow of the mind—the business of writing a daily newspaper column. The high walls and iron bars of this mental penitentiary don't show. But they are there—in the convict's brain—growing higher and stronger with the years.

Writing a newspaper column is one of the oddest occupations in our screwball civilization. To become a lawyer, a doctor, or an undertaker you have to go to school. But there is no college for columnists anymore than there is for astrologers.

There is no test, no standard of qualification, no training for this bizarre business.

Drew Pearson started as a diplomatic reporter. Walter Winchell began in Vaudeville. DeWitt MacKenzie was a foreign correspondent. Westbrook Pegler and Bob Ruark were sports writers. Eleanor Roosevelt was a mother and magazine editor. Billy Rose a showman and song writer. Will Rogers, Bob Hope and Milton Berle turned to columnizing after successful careers as comedians. Margaret Chase Smith, a U.S. Senator from Maine, now writes a column. So do a number

Somebody Told Me...

By L. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

As long as there are people in this world who have more money than they know how to use there'll be people who'll spend their time dreaming up ways for the money to be spent.

The latest plan beats all I have ever heard. It's called pedicure, which simply means having your feet manicured. Those rich enough to afford it and crazy enough to subject themselves to it make appointments, have their toenails cut, nail-filed, and the cuticles removed. Then comes the real thrill. The operator puts cotton between the toes and—woe, woe, WOOL!—paints the toenails with a delicate light polish. Then they buff the toenails to make them shine.

Before the cutting and filing treatment starts the feet are scrubbed, cold cream is put on them, and they are massaged. To me this process seems unnecessary, because any of the characters who have pedicures certainly have good-smelling feet. Washing their feet seems like a waste of effort.

Probably the worst thing a man can do is lose faith in his fellow man. I still have a long way to go before I'll do it, but occasionally my faith slips a little. When I found out men wear girdles it was a terrific blow. Then came this business of "wearing" toilet water and dyeing hair. But the greatest disillusionment so far is this pedicure. It's the awful truth; these joints (located in New York and Hollywood) have men customers too. Even George Raft "had his feet done," but he did leave off the polish. My concluding comment: Take me out, coach; put me on the cold, cold bench. I've heard everything.

From "Coronet":
"A man boarded a train at New York and told the porter: 'Now, porter, here's $5.00. I want you to wake me tomorrow morning and get me off this train at South Bend. I sleep heavily, and I'll fight you and tell you anything to go on sleeping, but get me off this train at South Bend.'

"The porter thanked him, and promised the man he'd get him off the train at South Bend for sure. However, the next day the man woke up in Chicago, with South Bend far behind. He stormed up to the porter, who was talking to the conductor, and told him off in no uncertain terms before he went to get a train back to South Bend.

"My, that man was mad," said the conductor.

"Lucky, that's nothin'," replied the porter. "You should of heard that man I put off at South Bend."

And I thank you.

column. Some people ask for it—and it just happens to others. It just happened to me.

In 1948 the Associated Press decided it wanted a warfront column about the troops. It asked one reporter to do it, and this wise man said, "No, thanks." Someone then happened to recall I was in Sicily and a message came: "Boyle, start writing a column." I did. Although the war ended four years ago no one thought to revoke the order. So I am still at it. That is a funny thing about columns and comic strips. They go on forever—like Tarzan of the Apes.

The danger in columnizing is that it is likely to give a man the idea he is an expert on everything from entlebreeding to flagpole sitting. Its occupational hazards are chair sores and punditry. A little baby oil in the right spot will heal the chair sores, but there is no cure except death for the columnist who acquires the disease of taking himself too seriously.

Anchored to failure — by poor vision

The class "dullard" has often proved to be the most intelligent child in the class... when his defective vision was discovered and corrected.

The stubborn, unsocial child has often turned out to be an active, likeable leader of his classmates... when his defective vision was discovered and corrected.

Poor vision is an unsuspected handicap that is anchoring many fine children, today, to failure. The only way of discovering its presence is by an eyesight examination.

Washington Letter

By JANE EADS

Washington—The press galleries on Capitol Hill seem to get embroiled in more than many rows as Congress itself. More than 100 years ago Congress set aside a special section for newspaper reporters to sit and watch the legislative proceedings. There were rows in those early days, mostly between Congressmen and newsmen. Whenever one wrote a critical story about some Senator or Representative, the legislator was likely to get up and demand that he be barred from the galleries.

These special sections of seats, along the advent of the telegraph and telephone, soon became the press galleries of today. They are much more than just the seats a visitor to Congress sees reserved for the press above the heads of the Speaker of the House and the Vice President when he's presiding over the Senate.

Behind these galleries proper are extensive press rooms, where the wire services have their teletypes and special correspondents have direct telephones to their offices. Attendants keep track of "handouts" or statements from Congressmen and generally help the newsmen "cover" the Hill.

But newsmen disagree just as Congressmen do. There was a big fight in the standing committee in 1947. Negro reporters were seeking admission, and the committee voted four to one against them. The reason was that almost all Negro newspapers are weekly papers. The majority held that this didn't constitute a press association as provided for in the rules. Eventually the Staffing Committee voted to change its rules, got Congress to approve them and then admitted the newsmen under the amended rule.

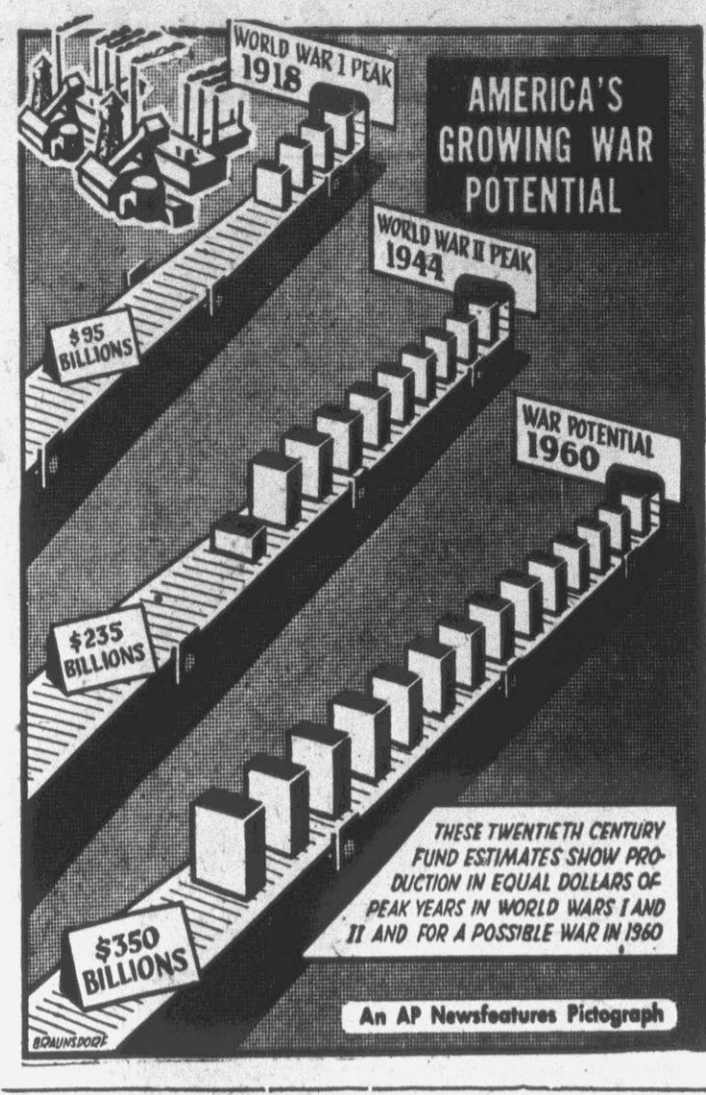

Now the committee is in a similar fight. It voted three to two against admitting a reporter for the new Labor Press Associates—a press association set up to serve labor union papers. The majority of the committee has held that this is a "special interest group" barred under the rules. But the committee has again agreed to consider changing its rules and may wind up by doing so in order to let the new labor press association be admitted.

While they're at it, the standing committee may have to make another change if it wants to overcome another break-away from the general rule. Many foreign papers and news services are members. At least two are government-owned. Tass, the Russian agency, and France Presse, the French agency. The rules say no one working for any agency of any government should be admitted, yet these reporters for agencies of foreign governments are admitted—while the committee bars representatives of the American Voice of America on the grounds they are working for a government.

There is something refreshing and wholesome in the sight of this fine boy and girl, chatting in friendly fashion as they plod their way to school.

They are typical of many thousands of boys and girls who are preparing themselves, through study and training, for the duties and responsibilities of life.

Parents are often concerned about the academic progress of their children. But to be mentally alert is not enough; to be able to judge between right and wrong is essential. Progress in the knowledge of God and the principles of right living should be a matter of deeper concern.

True education encompasses the training of the soul along with that of the mind and body. When this training is neglected, life is incomplete, because it lacks the foundation of a vital faith.

Boys and girls should turn to the teachings of the Church and to the precepts of the Holy Scriptures as the most important part of their life training.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Gavilan To Fight As Middleweight

New York, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Kid Gavilan is graduating to the middleweight class after his Chicago Stadium date with Beau Jack Sept. 30. Winner by a convincing margin last night over young Rocky Castellani, the 1948 "rookie of the year," the Cuban Keed has decided to mingle with the 160-pounders in the future.

"We'd like to fight Rocky Graziano, if he gets past Charlie Fusari," said Angel Lopez, Gavilan's co-manager. He may get the chance during the indoor season, if Graziano whips Fusari at the Polo Grounds Wednesday night.

"We'll keep Gavilan busy," said Al Weill, matchmaker of the International Boxing Club whose initial Madison Square Garden show drew an encouraging crowd of 11,243 and a gate of $31,756.

Gavilan, slower than usual at 150 pounds, chopped up the kid from Luzerne, Pa. but he couldn't make him quit. With blood running from cuts around both eyes, Castellani at 164½, actually carried the fight to Gavilan in the middle rounds after two early knockdowns.

It looked like the end in the second round when a right hand punch dumped Rocky near the ropes. He wobbled and skipped as he went down and never stirred until the count of seven. In a remarkably quick recovery he beat Referee Pete Scelzo's count. Instead of "nine," better make it "nine and three quarters" that he was down.

A flurry of punches, starting with a bolo right, draped Rocky on the canvas in the third. The bell saved him at five.

Despite Castellani's surge in the middle rounds, the verdict was unanimous.

Ty Cobb scored 2,244 runs during his 22 years in the major leagues.

Though incomplete through the closing date of the Coastal Plain League, Manager Pappy Williams seems certain to be runner-up in the hitting department of the Coastal Plain League, according to statistics compiled by the Howe News Bureau. Pappy at the present is runner-up to Clyde Whitener of Goldsboro, who leads the league with a .356 average. Also hitting in the number three spot is John Tepedino, who is hitting at a .319 clip.

Manager Pappy Williams is also leading the league in runs batted in with a total of 122, while his teammate John Tepedino posted top figures in two departments, runs scored with 132 and triples with 12.

Leading the Greenies in the various departments are: Most games, John Tepedino, 138; most times at bat, Willie Mauney, 535; most runs scored, John Tepedino, 132; most hits, John Tepedino, 169; most total bases, Pappy Williams with 242 and John Tepedino with 241; most two-baggers, Pappy Williams with 31 and Willie Mauney with 12; most triples, John Tepedino with 15; home runs, Pappy Williams with 15; most sacrifice hits, Paul Strausser with 17; most stolen bases, Willie Mauney with 49 and John Tepedino with 47; most runs batted in, Pappy Williams with 122.

In team batting the Greenies are second in the league with a .259 mark, being topped only by the Rocky Mount Leafs with a .269 percentage. In the various departments we find Greenville was second in most times at bat with 4,687; was first in runs scored with 825; fifth in runs scored by opponents with 692; second in total number of hits with 1,215; second in total bases with 1,656; was tied with Goldsboro for second place in two baggers with 201; fourth in total number of triples with 30; second in the home run department with 60; second in total number of sacrifice hits with 100; led the league in total number of stolen bases with 252; second in total walks received with 669; seventh in total number of strikeouts with 634.

In team fielding the Greenies tied with Goldsboro for fifth place among the other clubs in the league with a .950 mark. They were tied with Roanoke Rapids for total number of double plays at 98; led the league in most putouts with 3,637.

New Bern Evens Play-Off Score Against Kinston

New Bern, Sept. 10.—Manager Bull Hamons took to the mound last night and pitched the New Bern Bears to a 7-1 victory over Kinston to even the semifinal series at one win each. Hamons had a shutout until two were out in the eighth inning, when Harry Soufas drove a home run over the center-field fence. A paid crowd of 2,907 attended.

The Bears took the lead when they scored a run in the fourth inning. Bill Bevil got a single and went to third when Pitcher Key made a bad throw to first on an attempted pickoff. Jim Burns, the leader in the New Bern attack, got an infield hit, and Bevil scored on a fielder's choice by Joe Wheeler.

The Bears added two runs in the fifth on a double by Joe Anthony, a single by Bob Haas, and another one-baser by Burns.

The locals clinched the decision by scoring four runs in the ninth. Hamons opened with a walk and Hess followed with a single. After Bevil forced Hess at second, Burns slammed out for two runs. Then Jake Daniel came through with a 350-foot homer to bring in Burns.

The two teams play the third game in Kinston tonight.

Keep Scrimmage Results Secret

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Naval Academy and West Virginia University football squads met today in a second under-wraps inter-day scrimmage.

The first such workout was staged here yesterday, but neither Navy Coach George Sauer nor Mountaineer Mentor Dudley DeGroot would comment on the results. Other officials were as uncommunicative.

The sustained spurt of the Boston Braves since Johnny Cooney stepped in to pinch-hit as manager for Billy Southworth isn't likely to make Cooney change his decision to return to his coaching chores at the close of the current season. The mild-mannered, self-effacing veteran wants no part of the headaches which are part of the job of managing a big league baseball club.

In some respects, Cooney has had a remarkable career in organized baseball. He had two separate careers as an active player—first as a pitcher, and later as an outfielder. Johnny's baseball career began in 1926 when pitching in a New England industrial league attracted a scout from the Boston Red Sox. It was the Braves—who eventually gave Cooney his first big league chance and it was with the

Sighs Of Relief At Chapel Hill; Choo Choo Is Rolling

By The Associated Press
Those new breezes blowing across North Carolina today probably came from the sighs of satisfaction emanating from Chapel Hill.

Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice had taken his first toddling football practice steps for 1949 for the Tar Heels since a throat infection laid him low. The first time Justice got hands on the ball he promptly toddled for a touchdown.

Yesterday's outing wasn't too rough, though. The tackling was more of the tag variety and coach Carl Snavely's staff was taking no chances with the all-American back fresh out of the infirmary. The blockers went at it strong, however, and provided a nice assist for Justice when he snagged that first pass from Billy Hayes.

Hold Big Edge

Philadelphia, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The United States women's tennis team carried what seems an insurmountable 3-0 lead over England into the second day's Wightman Cup play today at the Merion Cricket Club.

The British must win all four of the remaining matches beginning at 1 p.m. (EST) if they are to end America's 18-year hold on the cup.

Nowhere did this appear even a remote possibility, particularly after the smashing 40-minute two-set triumph of Mrs. Margaret Osborne Du Pont and Doris Hart in the two singles matches yesterday.

Britishers Greet Returning Snead

London, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Most of the U.S. Ryder Cup team are strangers to the English but Sam Snead was among friends today.

The American P.G.A. champion is making his third visit to Britain and a host of friends were on hand to welcome him back.

Will Dedicate Stadium At Cherry Point Game

The Cherry Point Marines-East Carolina Teachers College football game will mark the dedication of the school's new 2,000 seat football stadium, it was reported yesterday.

Dedication services will get underway Thursday night at 8 o'clock with Dr. Clyde Erwin, state superintendent of public instruction and chairman of the college board of trustees, tossing in the game ball to be used in the Pirates' opening encounter.

Ed Rawls, whose efforts are greatly responsible for the realization of the stadium will be master of ceremonies. He served as chairman on the stadium drive committee.

Among the special dignitaries scheduled to appear during the dedication is Mayor W. S. Stafford of Greenville. Mayor Stafford will give a short address toward the stadium for the townspeople of Greenville who responded commendably when the drive for funds opened last year.

President John D. Messick of East Carolina will make the acceptance address.

The occasion will be marked by the appearance of the sharp precision drill team and band of the Cherry Point Marines and ECTC's own college band.

Three Survive Boat's Sinking; Eight Missing

Nantucket Island, Mass., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Three persons were rescued in lifeboats from the sea about two miles off this island today after the sinking of a cabin cruiser threw 11 persons into heavy seas.

Several bodies were reported sighted by the Coast Guard.

The victims of the sinking, including a Protestant minister and his family, were dumped into the sea during a blow last night after a day cruise from Falmouth.

The three survivors were taken aboard a Coast Guard boat which was receiving radio directions from a civilian plane overhead.

Choppy pounding seas made the rescue work hazardous.

The survivors were in extremely weakened condition and Coast Guardsmen had difficulty lifting them aboard the pitching boat.

Wolfpack Quint To Play Furman

Raleigh, N.C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Addition of Furman to the N.C. State basketball schedule was announced today by Coach Everett Case.

The Wolfpack will play the South Carolinians here on Feb. 4, the 14th game on its 23-game schedule.

In 1931, Chuck Hafey won the National League batting championship with a .3489 total over Bill Terry's .3486 Jim Bottomley's .3482.

Newcomers Brighten Outlook For Buccaneer Boxing Squad

By EUGENE PRICE
Prospects of a top notch boxing team looms at East Carolina Teachers College where at least five new fighters with interesting records have enrolled since last season.

Among the newcomers is Whiteville's Crowell Williamson, winner of 27 out of 31 novice fights. The 18-year-old 145 pounder last year captured the Wilmington, Raleigh-Charlotte, Whiteville, and Fayetteville Golden Gloves championships.

He comes from a long line of fighters, having had four brothers fight on the Whiteville High School team. Williamson hails from the same neck of the woods as Coach Johnny Long who was once a powerful contender for the world welterweight crown.

And the community a little bit north of South Carolina has sent East Carolina another fighter this year too. He is Homer Thomas, a 135 pound lethal punching fighter who recorded four first minute knockouts as a high school pugilist.

He fought on the same team with East Carolina's own Redwan David, undefeated last season. Thomas has lost only four fights in 49 encounters. He has coached a high school boxing team since coming out of service last summer.

Thomas is 26 years old, and gives promise of being one of East Carolina's more outstanding fighters. His age and experience might well be needed this year too, since bouts with such boxing teams of note as the Citadel, South Carolina and others are being negotiated.

Bill Cole, the Goldsboro lad who defeated two outstanding East Carolina boxers in competition last year will go into the ring wearing the purple and gold of the fighting Buccaneers this season. The well-built 135 pounder has won six out of seven scraps to date.

Bob Bailey, a Thomasville welterweight with a 6-3 record, will also be among the new fighters to appear here. Bailey was runner-up in the Greensboro Golden Gloves in 1947.

Giving promise of being one of the greatest heavy weights ever to fight for the purple and gold is Al Averback, a 190 pound Portsmouth, Va. football tackle who has racked up 11 ring wins in 12 fights. His lone loss was to the man who went on to win the Navy heavyweight championship. Since then, Averback has defeated the same fighter by virtue of a TKO in the third.

Jack Gray, a promising boy who had to give up the ring last year because of a knee injury, will also be out this year, Coach Long announces.

All of last year's squad which lost but one match all season will be back, Long said today. Redwan David and Ken Stargard, co-captains and prominent battlers last year are expected to lead the Buccaneers attack this season.

Cleon Smith, the dynamic little lightweight who fought his way into the hearts of fans last year, will also be back.

Dole Eases Pace In Defense Drills

By FRANK HOGG
Defense was the key word in football drills at East Carolina Teachers College yesterday.

Coach Bill Dole eased the pace slightly on his injured riddled "Pirates," but there was plenty of rough work for the team. Dole ordered no contact work and concentrated his practice session on defense.

The defensive session was centered primarily on work against passes. Protection for Pirae passers and punters also came in for a sizeable share of attention.

With time running short before the opening game against Cherry Point Marines Coach Dole is expected to drive his squad hard the early part of next week. Dole is still far from satisfied with the execution of his T-formation plays. At each practice session time is devoted to checking assignments. Pirae aerial offense is also practiced daily.

Derby Promoter Under Surgery

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 10.—(AP)—A recurrent intestinal disorder sent the 88-year-old promoter of the Kentucky Derby—Col. Matt Winn—to the operating table last night.

But despite his age, doctors were not unduly alarmed, according to Winn's son-in-law, Louis J. Herrmann. He said Col. Winn underwent minor surgery. Mrs. Herrmann, the colonel's daughter, was at his bedside.

Terrapins Push Attack Strategy

College Park, Md., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Rested from yesterday's light workout, the University of Maryland football team went through a full-dress scrimmage here today.

It was a secret session with only squad members and the athletic staff allowed on the field.

Coach Jim Tatum concentrated on offensive formations, kicking and man-on-man routines in two sessions yesterday.

Sets Record In Golf Marathon

New Bern, N.C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Grant Bennett, 29-year-old New Bern golfer, holds a new marathon record.

After 19 hours of effort yesterday, Bennett had played 279 holes without a break over the New Bern Golf and Country Club course. He planned to forge ahead until midnight to lengthen his mark.

The old record—256 consecutive holes—was established by Stan Gard of New South Wales.

A six-foot, 196-pounder, Bennett started his grind in a light drizzle at midnight Wednesday. He got help from carlight and moonlight during the dark hours.

BOXER SWINGS—Lee Savold, U.S. boxer, whose match with British heavyweight champion Bruce Woodcock has been postponed, swings in a cricket match while training at Sussex, England.

CLIPPERS MEET KNOXVILLE TEAM—The Charlotte, N.C., Clippers will play Knoxville here tomorrow in an independent pro football game.

GILMER, TRIPPI HEADLINE GRID EXHIBITION TILT—Harry Gilmer and Charley Trippi will be major attractions tonight at the Washington Redskins-Chicago Cardinal exhibition game here.

The HOUSE on LILAC STREET

by FRED BAYARD

Chapter 31

How it happened, she never fully knew, but all at once, she was jerked back to reality. Haid was standing in the doorway, gun in hand!

With a snarl, Dr. Bayles made a lunge for her—the final despairing lunge of a trapped animal. Then Haid caught him and spun him around. When he had finished, the doctor had subsided in a senseless heap on the floor.

The bewildering succession of events was almost too much for Derris. She caught hold of a chair and set down. It was several seconds before the room stopped whirling around her.

Haid left the doctor and came over to her.

"Think you'll be all right now? He didn't hurt you, did he?"

"No. Just let me get my bearings. You certainly turn up at the damndest times, but no one was ever so welcome as you tonight. At that, you almost didn't get here in time. What about him?" She indicated the unconscious figure of the doctor.

"We'll wait until he comes to; then the district attorney will want to see him. Mind telling me how he talked you into coming here tonight?"

"He didn't," Derris answered in surprise. "I happened to run into him when I left my office. But how did you know that I was here?"

"Holway told me tonight, before he died."

"Holway dead?" Derris exclaimed.

"Yes. You see, Holway was the ostensible head of the gang. Bayles kept well in the background. I'm convinced that only Holway knew of Bayles' true identity."

"Will you tell me just exactly where you fit into all this?" Derris asked.

"You're certainly entitled to an explanation. After all, I brought you into it." He smiled at her. "Had I known then you'd be so persistent, I never would have." He paused for a moment. "It was the counterfeiting and kidnaping angles that first interested me. Another agent had started on a trail that seemed to lead to Holway. Unfortunately he was killed before we got anything definite. I picked up the trail from there. We investigated Holway from every possible angle, learned about the house on Lilac Street, but did not immediately suspect Bayles."

"Then the night at your house, Bayles showed his hand. After you had gone to bed, he took your car and drove me to Ed Kleeber's. One of Kleeber's men drove me to Lilac Street. Apparently Bayles arranged to get back to your house, but had them take your car out in the country a way to make it look as if I had used it to get away in. By using your car, he avoided the danger of your looking out and not seeing his own parked in the drive. As far as he knew, I was a friend of Holway's, therefore O.K. He got me away because he feared you might get too curious."

"There's one thing that bothers me, Haid. Who killed Cherry?"

"Bayles engineered that, and tried to make certain Holway wouldn't find out. Lieutenant Fletcher, whom I HAVE BEEN SERVING GREENVILLE and vicinity in clothing for the past 30 years. N. C. Farmer Is Held; 'Swindled' Eighteen Women

Chicago, Sept. 9—(AP)—A North Carolina farmer with a way with the ladies was held without charge today after police said he told of swindling 18 women through marriage proposals.

Handsome Jesse Thornton Vaughan, 30, who gave his address as Route 5, Roxboro, N. C., was arrested in a pawn shop last night on the complaint of a woman whom police declined to identify.

Sgt. George Tucker of the pawn shop detail said Vaughan told of swindling 18 women here during the last two years, and described the details of three swindles in the last six months.

Indian Drama To Open Next Year

Cherokee, N. C., Sept. 9—(AP)—The Cherokee Indian drama is scheduled to have its premiere here July 1, 1950.

The date for the opening of the as yet unnamed drama depicting the history of the Cherokee Indians was set here yesterday at a meeting of the board of directors of the Cherokee Historical Association.

The association is co-sponsor with the Western North Carolina Associated Communities, comprising 11 counties, for the drama.

Exhaust Efforts To Halt Strike

St. Louis, Sept. 9—(AP)—A strike of 5,000 operating employees of the Missouri Pacific Railroad was set for 3 p. m. (EST) today.

Even the efforts of President Truman appeared unlikely to prevent a tieup on the 7,200-mile system serving eleven states.

The President said in Washington yesterday he was doing everything he could to avert the walk-out, but added that the government had exhausted nearly all of its authority in such cases.

Postal Receipts In August Drop

Ayden—Postal receipts were off during the month of August as compared with August of last year. Postmaster W. C. Ormond said today. Receipts for August totaled $823.37.

Receipts for last month were less than for any month of 1949. February was next lowest with $910.47. January led the gross for the year with $1783.16. March was next with $1445.41. April grossed $1101.94 and June $1052.72. Other months of 1949 were less than $1000.

The total gross receipts for the year through August amount to $9,067.06. The lowest bracket of second class post offices has to have a minimum of $8000.

STUDY RETIREMENTS

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 9—(AP)—A special commission moved yesterday to start a study aimed at producing recommendations for an improved retirement plan for county and city employees.

Armageddon In State Politics Is Coming, But Date Unknown

By LYNN BISSET
 Raleigh, Sept. 9—(AP)—Governor Kerr Scott has had a lot to say about the political revolution in North Carolina which resulted in his nomination and election last year.

Some of those who do not see eye to eye with the governor regard accession of the Scott regime to power in the state as rebellion rather than revolution.

Distinction between revolution and rebellion is made on basis of success or failure. Permanency on part of the victors means it was revolution, temporary success, later repudiated, means it was rebellion.

The show-down fight to determine whether the 1948 primary results constituted revolution or rebellion is still to be waged. Whether the issue will be definitely and conclusively drawn in 1950 or in 1952 is presently undetermined. Final decision on timing may not be made until after next New Year day. The decision rests with those who would unseat the present head men in state government.

question arises about prospects for formulating one. That brings up some very interesting suggestions.

The Scott-Daniels-Graham group has been traditionally anti-organization. Scott rode the recognized organization in his campaign for commissioner of agriculture in 1936 and retained a sort of affiliated membership until he decided he could get along better on his own by bucking the older political leaders. He beat them in the 1948 primary. Then he nominated Jonathan Daniels to be National committeeman and appointed Frank Graham to the Senate after Senator J. M. Broughton died.

Previously Broughton had defeated William Umstead in a Senatorial primary in which the issues presented had complex implications of personalities, politics and policies. Senator Broughton's untimely death removed that personal element and further complicated the political aspects.

So there is now a triumvirate of "leaders" without any historic or traditionally organized following; and on the other side a great mass of voters accustomed to working with established organizations but presently without organized leadership.

The sixty-four dollar question—actually it has a lot more value than $64—is whether the unaccustomed leaders can consolidate a following before the accustomed followers accept and recognize their leadership. Most observers concede the show-down on this point will be staged either next year or in 1952. Both groups are watching closely to pick the most advantageous time. There is some evidence that the Scott-Daniels-Graham folks want the big fight to come next year, while the other side shows disposition to de-

The Kerr Scott-Jonathan Daniels-Frank Graham triumvirate is indisputably in control of state politics and state government machinery now. Their following is not very tightly organized, but having the apparent majority of popular votes at their bidding, a tight organization may not be necessary for the present.

The opposition isn't very well organized, either. It doesn't have as generally recognized leadership. The two most obvious personalities around which it can rally are Senator Clyde Hoey and former Senator William B. Umstead.

Admitting that there is presently no coherent statewide political organization in North Carolina, the fer it until the gubernatorial contest in 1952.

There is ample evidence that whether Governor Scott takes personal part in efforts to "purge" the general assembly, many of his supporters are working now to get their friends in the next legislature. If they succeed, then the Scott-Daniels-Graham faction will be much stronger. If they fail, it will be weaker after the next assembly than now.

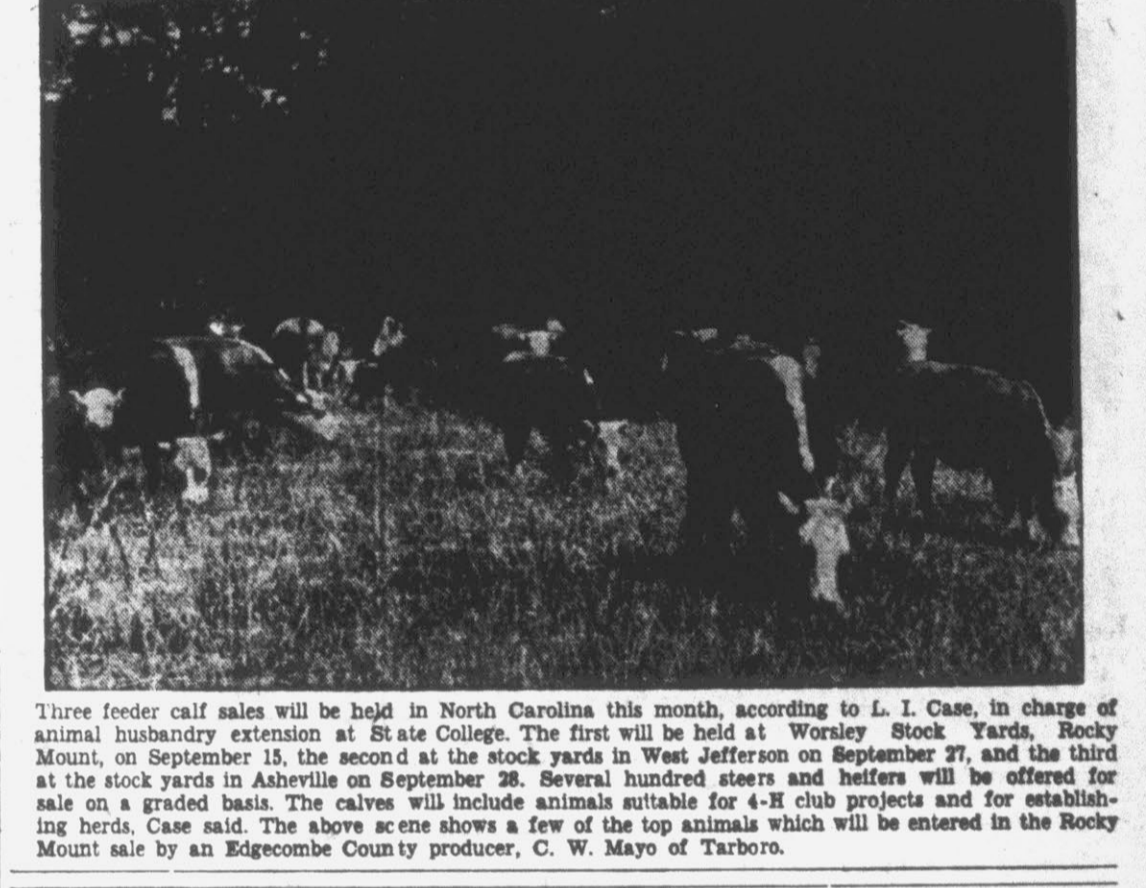

Next spring two United States Senators and one hundred sheriffs will be chosen in the primaries. In 1952 there will not be a Senatorial race, nor will the sheriffs be on the county tickets. There will be a Governor to elect. Outcome of the 1950 election will have tremendous, perhaps controlling, influence on the 1952 fight.

Candidates for sheriff traditionally lead the county tickets in interest. Most of the incumbent sheriffs did not support Scott for governor last year. If the suggested "purge" is carried into the sheriff contests, it will add spice to the legislative and senatorial races; and will almost certainly mean that the great political Armageddon in North Carolina, which will determine state leadership for a decade or more, will be fought out in 1950.

Present advantage seems to be with the triumvirate, since there will be lapse of four weeks after close of filing time for the senate before candidates for sheriff and the general assembly must qualify. By the time the opposition discovers whether a real purging effort is to be made in the counties, it will be too late to bring out a candidate against Senator Frank Graham.

Right now, everybody who is interested in North Carolina politics is watchfully waiting—with emphasis on the watching.

Feeder Calf Sales Planned In State

Three feeder calf sales will be held in North Carolina this month, according to L. I. Case, in charge of animal husbandry extension at State College. The first will be held at Worsley Stock Yards, Rocky Mount, on September 15, the second at the stock yards in West Jefferson on September 27, and the third at the stock yards in Asheville on September 28. Several hundred steers and heifers will be offered for sale on a graded basis. The calves will include animals suitable for 4-H club projects and for establishing herds. Case said. The above scene shows a few of the top animals which will be entered in the Rocky Mount sale by an Edgecombe County producer, C. W. Mayo of Tarboro.

Robeson Decides Avoid Gathering

New York, Sept. 8—(AP)—Paul Robeson, target of the two anti-communist demonstrations that played into mass violence, near Peekskill, N. Y., has decided not to attend another scheduled gathering in that area.

Word of the decision came from the left-wing Negro singer's associates yesterday as more public figures, including President Truman and Henry Wallace, denounced the widespread disorders.

Gov. Scott Pleased With Rural Road Program Job

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 10.—(AP)—The first job in his $200,000,000 rural road program—deciding where work will be done—is progressing satisfactorily, says Governor Scott.

"The counties are working it out to their own satisfaction," he said yesterday.

After conferences with county officials in their divisions, two of the state's 10 highway commissioners have announced detailed plans for work in their areas. Others are expected to follow suit soon.

"I'm mighty well pleased with the general way they are going about it," Scott commented. "The highway commission people have really been on top of the job. I believe they know what the problem is and they're going to meet it."

The Governor said he will fly to Asheville Tuesday afternoon to confer with 10th division commissioner Dale Thrash about plans for his territory. The discussion will be only general, he added.

"They're a little slower in that area, but there's far more general satisfaction there than there was 90 days ago."

Scott said that some members of North Carolina Chambers of Commerce have signified approval of his recent criticism of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

"Not a single man who's talked to me about it has taken the side of the U. S. Chamber," he declared. "Several have told me I was right."

Scott recently took the U. S. Chamber to task for opposing "every measure to help the Southern farm-

Urges Action On War Souvenirs

Camden, N. J., Sept. 10.—(AP)—As Camden buried its dead, a warning came today to guard against another street slaughter by doing something about war souvenirs.

It was a German Luger pistol that Howard Urub turned loose on men, women and children here Tuesday killing 13 and wounded three others. Francis W. Willis, chairman of the War Trophies-Safety Committee of nearby Philadelphia, where Urub bought his death dealing weapon declared:

"It's time to take drastic action in stopping this wholesale unnecessary slaughter."

Willis said there are about 100,000 explosive-type souvenirs in Philadelphia and Camden. He said that if his committee should inspect these weapons, there would be 10,000 fewer accidents and shootings.

"If we want to let us examine and return them to be kept in the home in a safe condition."

"If they are kept as souvenirs there will be less chance of somebody picking them up in stores."

Willis said tens of thousands of shells, grenades, pistols and lethal booby traps were brought into this area by war veterans. Some, he said, were shipped through the mails, although this is illegal.

"The Post Office here," Willis asserted, "even has found loaded and cocked revolvers in the mail. Only a series of minor miracles prevented those who handled the packages from being killed."

Colored News

The colored Civic League will meet at the Y. M. C. A. building Tuesday night, September 13th at 8 o'clock. All colored citizens are urged to attend. Rev. J. E. Nimmo, president. C. C. McGone, treasurer.

The Pastor's Aid club of Sycamore Hill Baptist church will meet at the church Monday night. All members are asked to please be present.

Asheville Man Is Found A Suicide

Asheville, N. C., Sept. 10.—(AP)—A missing Asheville real estate man was found hanging from a tree on Sunset Mountain last night.

His car was spotted from an airplane and a ground search later turned up the body of the missing man, Tom Rowland, Jr.

Rowland, 45, had been missing from his home here since Wednesday. He was a native of Sumter, S. C., but moved here as a child with his family.

He was last seen alive at noon Wednesday by a maid who said he had had on him when he left his home in his automobile.

The car was sighted yesterday afternoon by reporter Earl Freeman of the Asheville Citizen.

There was a small amount of blood on the front seat of the car. The vehicle was in a sheltered side road, near the Asheville city limits. The body was about 25 feet from the car. It was in a seated position but held upright by a belt strap attached to a tree limb.

Police listed the death as suicide by hanging. Members of Rowland's family said they knew of no reason he might have for suicide.

sword against Tito, but neighboring Communist countries are waging a vigorous economic blockade and war of nerves against Yugoslavia. Meantime anti-Tito elements within Yugoslavia are busy trying to stir up a revolt against him. Thus the internal and external pressures are working in concert.

So far as the Marshal is concerned, he is saying little but is saving considerable wood. His new $20,000,000 loan from America, plus the steel mill which he is purchasing in the United States, have eased his situation. He shows no signs of surrender.

Obviously the position is explosive and, as this column remarked the other day, Tito himself probably wouldn't claim to be a good insurance risk. It is the type of crisis which could produce a shooting war but, as things stand at the moment, isn't expected by most observers.

Oysters were among the first foods to be canned in the United States.

partments of our country, the total fire losses—over a long period—go up and down according to Newton's Law of Action and Reaction. The best fire chiefs in the world can't control the human element involved in connection with fires.

During certain years people are careless and then there are an extra large number of fires. These so increase that the insurance companies—through the National Board of Fire Underwriters and its efficient leader W. E. Mallaliu—get busy and start a campaign to educate people to be careful. This, combined with other factors, bears fruit and fires decrease for a series of years. But people get careless again and fires again increase. Statistics show that fires have their cycle the same as employment, commodity prices and general business.

What About Stocks

But granted that this Truman experiment will work, and I surely hope it will, Fire Departments do not build new houses nor start new businesses. Likewise, this experiment of extinguishing a depression at the start "with a bucket of water" will not change human nature and prevent a readjustment sometime. Certainly, the Truman experiment will fail unless labor leaders have a change of attitude. They can set fires faster than any Fire Department can extinguish.

All the above means that there is no hurry to buy stocks or bonds. The Truman experiment must ultimately result in higher taxes. This leaves less money for people to invest. The real difficulty with the stock market today is not because of the dividends nor the security, but because investors have no money left to invest after paying living expenses and taxes. President Truman's experiment may help to steady the stock market; but I don't see how it could cause a bull market in stocks, commodities, real estate or anything else.

Report Building New Luftwaffe In Soviet Zone

Berlin, Sept. 10.—(AP)—A new German air force of fighters and bombers is being created in the Soviet zone, reliable informants said today.

Both British and American intelligence officers would say only "there have been some reports about that sort of thing." Neither would discuss the nature of reports they had received.

An American source said that if the reports were true it would be "only just another" Russian violation of the four-power agreement at Potsdam for disarming Germans.

"They are openly training German in small arms artillery and even in tanks," he said. "It is only just another step to an air force."

One traveler from the eastern zone said German policemen with wartime Luftwaffe (air force) experience, are being registered and trained in both Russian-made planes and captured German Focke-Wulf's and Messerschmidts.

"Pappy" Williams Host At Supper For Ball Players

By CHESTER WALSH

"Pappy" Williams, popular skipper of the Greenville baseball club and a favorite in all of the parks of the Coastal Plain League, was host to the ballplayers at a chicken and barbecue supper and all of the "trimmings" at Respass place, on the Bethel highway last night.

It was a typical fellowship meeting and all of the good humor characteristic of ballplayers on a winning team was manifested. The men had some nice things to say about the fine way the people of Greenville treat them, and there was evident an earnest purpose to go to Rocky Mount tonight and win that first game in the season's playoff.

Respass' place was crowded last night. There were three meetings being held in addition to a wedding supper at the same time. Many of the guests stopped by "Pappy" Williams' table to congratulate him and the players for playing winning baseball and getting into the playoff.

The Rev. Stuart B. Simms, pastor of the Memorial Baptist church Williamston, and district representative of the program, will be guest speaker at the meeting.

The meeting will start at eight o'clock.

CROP Meeting Here Sept. 19

Church, civic and farm leaders of Pitt County will meet in the court house here Monday night, September 19, to discuss plans for promoting a collection of produce to be shipped abroad in connection with the Christian Rural Overseas Program now in progress, County Agent S. C. Winchester disclosed today.

The Rev. Stuart B. Simms, pastor of the Memorial Baptist church Williamston, and district representative of the program, will be guest speaker at the meeting.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 10.—(AP) Miss America of 1949?

That's the $25,000 question tonight for 52 of the nation's most beautiful girls.

But the contestants, who have come through three grueling days of preliminaries, won't even know whether they've reached the finals until the curtain goes up on the huge convention hall stage at 9 p. m.

At that time the 15 sweethearts who have already been selected for the showdown will be announced.

STRICT REGULATION

The Kinston fire department rigidly enforces the state fire law in the baseball park there. Regular warnings are made over the public address system against persons blocking aisles in the grandstand.

The fire chief there said the law requires that the aisles in all public gathering places be kept open for any emergency which might occur.

Air Crash Fatal For 23 Persons

Bault Au Cochon, Quebec, Sept. 10.—(AP)—A Canadian airliner plied and crashed here yesterday killing 23 persons including an American mining millionaire and his two top aides.

Dead in the crash—third worst in Canadian history—were E. Tappan Stannard, president of the Kennecott Copper Corporation, and a director of J. P. Morgan Company, and two of his top executives—Vice President R. J. Parker and Arthur D. Storke, president-designate of the $600,000,000 Kennecott concern.

All three were from New York City.

The sixteen other passengers, including three children, and crew of four—all Canadians—died instantly.

Eyewitnesses said the plane, a DC-3, turned suddenly in the air and plummeted toward a rocky bluff which rises several hundred feet from the St. Lawrence River at this town 40 miles east of Quebec City. It was about 10:45 a. m. (EST).

Oscar Tremblay, a railway section hand, said he and four fellow workmen pushed their way four miles through the underbrush to the scene of the crash.

"They all died outright," he said. "There were arms and legs and even heads torn from bodies. There were mangled bodies of little children."

GOT ANYTHING TO EAT AROUND HERE, LADIES?

HERE'S SOME OF THE DELICIOUS TOMATO ASPIC WE HAD FOR TUESDAY'S LUNCH!

AND A COLD BOILED POTATO FROM SUNDAY'S DINNER!

AND THIS PIECE OF BUTTERED TOAST FROM YESTERDAY'S BREAKFAST!

AND SOME RIPE CHEESE THAT'S SMELLING UP THE ICEBOX!

NOW WOULD THAT MAKE A NICE SNACK?

YUM! YUM! YUM!

HERE YOU ARE, POOCH!

WHY DIDN'T YOU TELL US YOU WANTED IT FOR A STRAY DOG?

WE WOULD HAVE THROWN IT A BONE!

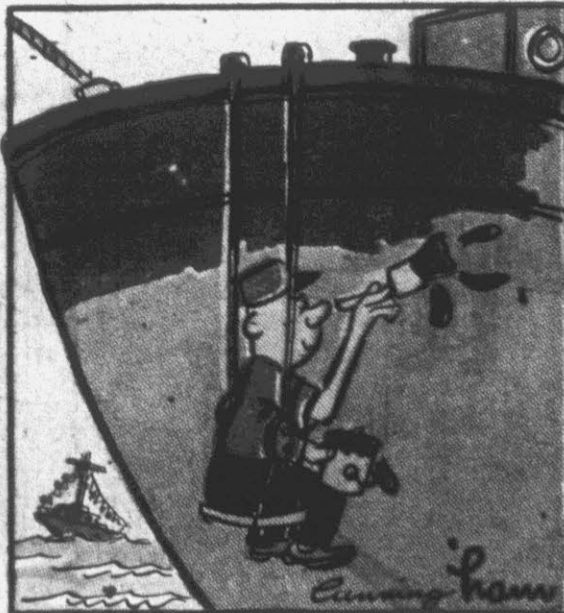

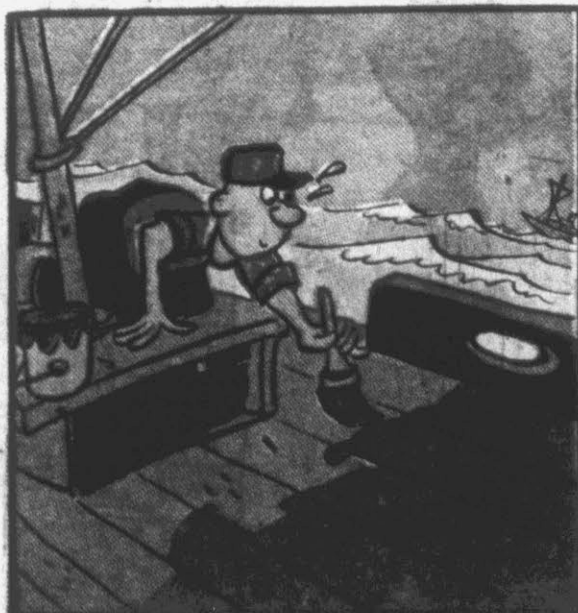

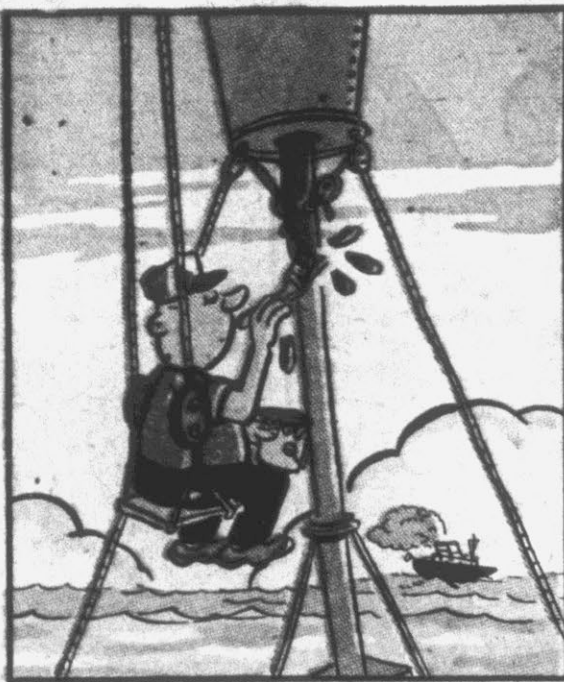

A BONE? I COULD GNAW ON THAT MYSELF!
