World Series

Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Big John Mize's two-run single topped a New York Yankee ninth inning explosion that barely survived a dying gasp double homer blast by Brooklyn today for a 4-3 victory in the third world series game.

Mize's blast off the screen atop the right field wall broke a 1-1 tie battle between Ralph Branca and Fireman Joe Page. Gerry Coleman's single to center, Cole to bank with Mize's blow, drove in the run that was to be the clincher on this murky day.

Taking a 4-1 lead into the last of the ninth, Fireman Joe was riding easy. But two homers by Luis Olmo and Roy Campanella suddenly erupted the calm.

Needing only one run to tie, Bruce Edwards came up to pinch hit but took a third called strike from Page.

Mrs. Hadley Hostess To Sans Souci Club

Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley, one of the charter members of the Sans Souci club, was hostess to the club on Tuesday afternoon, October 4, at the first meeting of the year.

Presided over by Mrs. H. S. Ragsdale, incoming president, the club was happy to welcome as a new member Mrs. F. L. Blount who has recently come from Bethel to make her home in Greenville. Mrs. W. F. Rhem and Mrs. Alvin Vickey were guests for the afternoon.

Under routine business reports of the standing committees were given. As the librarian distributed the new books for the year, Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, chairman of the book committee, briefly reviewed the list of books, an excellent, well-balanced selection which had the unanimous approval of the club.

The library committee reported the selection of "The Architecture of the Old South" by Henry Chandler Forman and "In Our Image," edited by Houston Harte as the two books to be given Sheppard Memorial Library in memory of Susie Cox Kilgo and Rosalind Rountree Woodward.

Mrs. Frank Wooten, chairman of the program committee, presented the programs for the year with a foreword as to their nature. With the arrival of the atomic bomb, the committee felt, she said, that a light, diversified program might tend to calm nerves, made tense by Joseph Stalin. The program met the enthusiastic approval of the club and a most enjoyable club year is anticipated.

"Vacation Travels" was the timely topic of the first program and was attractively and ably given by Mrs. W. I. Wooten who, with members of her family, made a six weeks cross country tour by automobile over the great southwest. The party traveled ten thousand miles, crossing the continent by the southern route, and visiting the mid-western states and the Pacific coast. With the assistance of her daughter, Miss Lillian Wooten, moving pictures were shown, illustrating the highlights of the trip.

At the conclusion of this most interesting program, club members and guests were invited into the dining room, where Mrs. W. I. Wooten, assisted by Miss Jane Hadley and Mrs. Rose Hadley Fambrough, served a delicious salad course with coffee.

Calls Off Speed Record Attempt

Chicago, Oct. 7—(AP)—Lt. Col. Marion Carl of the Marines today called off his plans to try to regain the world's air speed record in a flight to Cherry Point, N. C.

He said unfavorable weather conditions was the reason. He had planned to fly from the naval air station in suburban Glenview, Ill., to the one at Cherry Point in a jet P-51F Panther fighter.

He came here from San Diego Wednesday after a stop at Denver. He set a speed record of 650.8 miles an hour in 1947.

Big Navy Plane Ends Longest Carrier Flight

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 7—(AP)—A Navy Neptune bomber yesterday completed the longest flight ever made from an aircraft carrier, 4,863 miles non-stop.

The plane, a twin-engine craft capable of carrying the atomic bomb, had 250 gallons of gasoline left when it landed here. It was 25 hours and 42 minutes in the air.

It was launched Wednesday from the aircraft carrier Midway off Norfolk, Va.

The plane left the Midway with a crew of seven on what the Navy termed a training flight.

Although the Navy declined comment, the flight coincided with Congress reopening investigation into charges that the Air Force is expanding at the expense of the Navy.

Annual income per U. S. family increased from $2,900 in 1920 to $5,600 in 1948.

Purification of the Temple

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Isaiah 1:10-20; Jeremiah 7.

Isaiah told his people the Lord said that they should "do well, seek judgment, relieve the oppressed, plead for the fatherless and widow."

Word came to Jeremiah from the Lord, telling him to stand in the gate of the temple and command the people to amend their ways.

"Will ye steal, murder, and commit adultery, and swear falsely, and burn incense unto Baal, and walk after other gods that ye know not?"

Is this house, which is called by My name, become a den of robbers in your eyes? the Lord asked. MEMORY VERSE—Isaiah 1:17.

True Worship Has Moral Basis

PROPHET WARNS PEOPLE TO REPENT EVIL WAYS

Scripture—Isaiah 1:10-20; Jeremiah 7.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
ISAIAH, PROPHET OF GOD, warned his people that disaster would inevitably follow if they persisted in their evil ways. Isaiah prophesied probably about the year 740 B. C., Jeremiah around 615 B. C.
Is this world any better today, or is it still in need of these prophetic warnings uttered so many hundreds of years ago? Alas, the answer is no! as we read the day's news we know that men are still worshipping strange gods. Murder, persecution, selfishness, greed, poverty are everywhere in the globe. We must admit, the world as a whole is better in some respects, but still very far from what it should be.
Modern prophets are still calling upon the people to "Wash you, make you clean, put away the evil of your doings from before Mine eyes; cease to do evil; Learn to do well; seek judgment, relieve the oppressed, judge the fatherless, plead for the widow."
Many go to church, perform weary to bear them.

"And when ye spread forth your hands, I will hide Mine eyes from you, ye, when ye make many prayers, I will not hear; your hands are full of blood."
"Your appointed feasts" refers to the great assemblies at the Jews' famous festivals, such as the Passover, the Feast of the Tabernacles, and others. The solemn meetings were the solemnities which concluded these festivities.
Jehovah, through Moses, had ordained these meetings, but they were now abominable to Jehovah, because they meant nothing; the people's hands were "full of blood." They committed horrible crimes and sinned terribly.
Isaiah could tell the people what they should do to please the Lord, but they themselves were the only ones who could cleanse their hearts and lives of all sins and return to Him.
The Lord promised that if they did this, "though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow." He does not despair of human beings; they have the the various rites of their particular denomination, but how many think seriously of what they are doing and its meaning? How many try to live the Christlike every day? Many do, of course, but not all—far from it.

Isaiah's words about the worthlessness of religious rites which are not backed up by right living, are also pertinent today as they were before Christ's coming.
"What unto Me is the multitude of your sacrifices? saith Jehovah. I have had enough of the burnt-offering of rams, and the fat of fed beasts; and I delight not in the blood of bullocks, or of lambs, or of he-goats.
"Bring no more vain oblations; incense is an abomination unto Me; new moons and sabbaths, the calling of assemblies, I cannot away with; it is iniquity even the solemn meeting.
"Your new moons and your appointed feasts My soul hateth; they are a trouble unto Me; I am power to turn from evil and do good.

In the prophet Jeremiah's time, the Jewish people had fallen to a very low spiritual state.
"Stand in the gate of the Lord's house," Jehovah said to Jeremiah, "and proclaim there this word, and say, Fear the word of the Lord, all ye of Judah, that enter in at the gates to worship the Lord."
"Amend your ways and your doings, and I will cause you to dwell in this place."
He accused them of making His temple a den of robbers, defiling it. If they would not change their ways, He would cast them out of His sight, and He rebuked their heathen ways—gathering wood, kindling fires, kneading dough to make cakes to the queen of heaven—called Ishtar by the Babylonians; Asherah in Zidonian inscriptions—heathen deities.
Obedience to God's laws was what He wanted most of all. That is what He asks of us today.

Three Performances Of Bard's Comedy By Dramatic Club

Three performances of Shakespeare's comedy "The Taming of the Shrew" for this weekend and next week have been announced by the Teachers Playhouse of East Carolina Teachers College. With Shirley Cowburn and Claude B. West Jr. of Greenville in the leading roles of Kate and Petruchio, a forty-minute version of the play will be given an out-of-doors setting on Saturday, October 8, at 7:00 o'clock for alumni and other guests present on the campus for Homecoming Day. The open-air theater will be located on the lawn between the Flanagan building and the Infirmary.
The public is invited to see a performance Sunday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock. A special performance for students of English at the college will be given on Monday evening at 7:00 o'clock.
Dr. Lucile H. Charles, director of the play, has announced that in case of bad weather the Saturday performance will take place in the Austin auditorium. If weather conditions are unfavorable for outdoor performance, the other dates will be temporarily cancelled and further announcements of time and place will be made.

Polio Count May Reach 41,000 By End Of The Year

New York, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The 1949 toll of polio cases in this country is expected to reach 41,000 by the end of the year.
Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, made the estimate yesterday. It is 1,000 above his previous estimate.
So far, he reported, there have been 33,144 cases, the highest number ever recorded for one year in this country.
The previous record epidemic was in 1916, when about 30,000 persons were stricken.
Except for a slight depression slump, the amount of life insurance in force in the United States has increased fairly steadily from less than 15 billion in 1910 to 202 billion.
Among the United States, the amount of insurance in force per capita varies from $400 in Mississippi to $1970 in New York.

Mother Rescues Child From Bear

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Nabbed in the seat of his britches by a city park bear, 20-month-old Johnny Lango was nursing an ailing sister today.
He might have been bitten seriously instead of just painfully if his mother had not jabbed her fingernails into the bear's nostrils until the animal let go.
Susie, a 300-pound Canadian black bear, was caged. But she could poke her snout through a small opening between the end of a gate and the post of the next section of fencing.
Johnny backed up to the opening. Susie clamped down and Johnny began to scream.
Mrs. Joseph Lango, only a few feet away, rushed up and clawed at Susie's nose until the bear loosened its hold.
Johnny got his wound—three inches long an inch and a half wide—stitched up and went on home.

Ex-Police Chief Gives Self Up

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 7.—(AP)—L. W. Hall, former chief of police at Whitesville, N.C., has surrendered here on charges of embezzling public funds. Deputy Sheriff J. B. Kling reported last night.
Hall was released under $10,000 bond. He said he intended to return to North Carolina within a few days "to clear up the affair." He had been employed here as a private detective for several months.
The date palm is the sacred tree of the Arabs.

Asheville Board Asks Solicitor To Resign Post

Asheville, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The city council has asked for the resignation of Police Court Solicitor William C. Hampton.
Hampton successfully prosecuted Vaughn J. Cannon on gambling charges earlier this year, then engaged later in a night club brawl with Cannon, who was cleared of assault charges.
The council said Hampton's conduct was "unbecoming a public official." The council action yesterday followed a similar resolution by the Ministerial Association of Asheville.
Hampton is an elected officer and the council can't force his resignation. He declined to comment.

Farm Accidents Higher In West

Davis, Calif.—(AP)—Farmers in western states have a higher accident rate than those in the east, says Ralph Parks, agricultural engineer on the Davis campus of the University of California. The western farm accident rate is 40 a year for every 1,000 farm people, he estimates.
Falls cause the greatest number of accidents on farms, he says.

Newspaper Run By One Woman

Fort Myers, Fla.—(AP)—Mrs. Jane Walker, managing editor and entire staff of the Hendry County News at LaBelle, does a lot of writing but refuses to read her material in the newspapers.
She doesn't trust printers; hates typographical errors in her copy; and so she doesn't have to worry if she doesn't see mistakes, if any.
Mrs. Walker is correspondent for the Fort Myers News-Press, but doesn't read her writings in that either. Her copy is typed in blue on pink paper.
She works from 7:30 until at least 3:30 daily writing, answering the phone, soliciting ads and doing the myriad of other things to meet the weekly deadline.
Her office is a dilapidated one-room building with newspapers taped up at windows. Dismantled machinery fills the back of the room, for the News is now printed in nearby Moore Haven where the proof-reading also is done.
Biggest headache is advertising. One year ads got switched at Christmas time and came out with a LaBelle merchant offering dignified greetings while the sheriff's ad thanked customers for patronage during the year.
Mrs. Walker's father was an employee of the Louisville, Ky., Courier-Journal. She is a native of Atlanta, Ga.

Free Library Is Really Here; All Books Donated

Richmond, Va.—(AP)—The Richmond free library is all its name denoted. All of its 5,500 volumes have been donated from persons in all parts of the country, many of them celebrities.
The "famous persons shelf" contains books by such people as Mary Pickford, Jack Benny, Connie Mack and Gene Tunney. The "governors shelf" was stocked by the governors of 30 states.
As Mary Pickford, Jack Benny and more than 300 volumes were presented in memory of departed family members and friends. It was done mostly by Mrs. Ethel M. Culver. She wrote hundreds of letters asking for books and the books came. Residents of the town recently donated funds, materials and labor to remodel the library.

Strength FOR THE DAY

THE UNDERSTANDING HEART
As Solomon prepared himself to ascend the throne, God appeared to him in a dream by night and said, "Ask what I shall give thee. And Solomon said . . . Give, therefore, thy servant an understanding heart . . ."

It is interesting to observe that Solomon did not ask for an understanding mind, but for an understanding heart. That is, as he considered life he wanted not just a mind to enable him to deal with facts; most of all he wanted a heart to enable him to deal with people. He knew that the most important thing in all the world is persons, and he wanted to have an understanding heart that he might serve persons.

One of the greatest needs today is the need for understanding hearts. Most of the international chaos is due to the fact that great groups of people do not have understanding hearts. Men could not act as dictators if they had the heart feeling for people. Men plan wars in the security of the War Office Building and manage troop maneuvers from shelter so far behind the front lines that they can scarcely hear the solemn booming of the guns.

Men can only be cruel when they are lacking in understanding and imagination. When they have understanding hearts to discern between good and evil, they love their fellow men too much to hurt them.

IT SHOULDN'T HAPPEN AGAIN

The school bus accident that took the lives of seven school children—yesterday and injured 18 more—is an indictment against the state. Despite the fact that funds apparently can be found for almost every purpose that meets the whims or desires of those in power, there has never been an adequate supply of school buses to transport the children that the state law says must attend school.

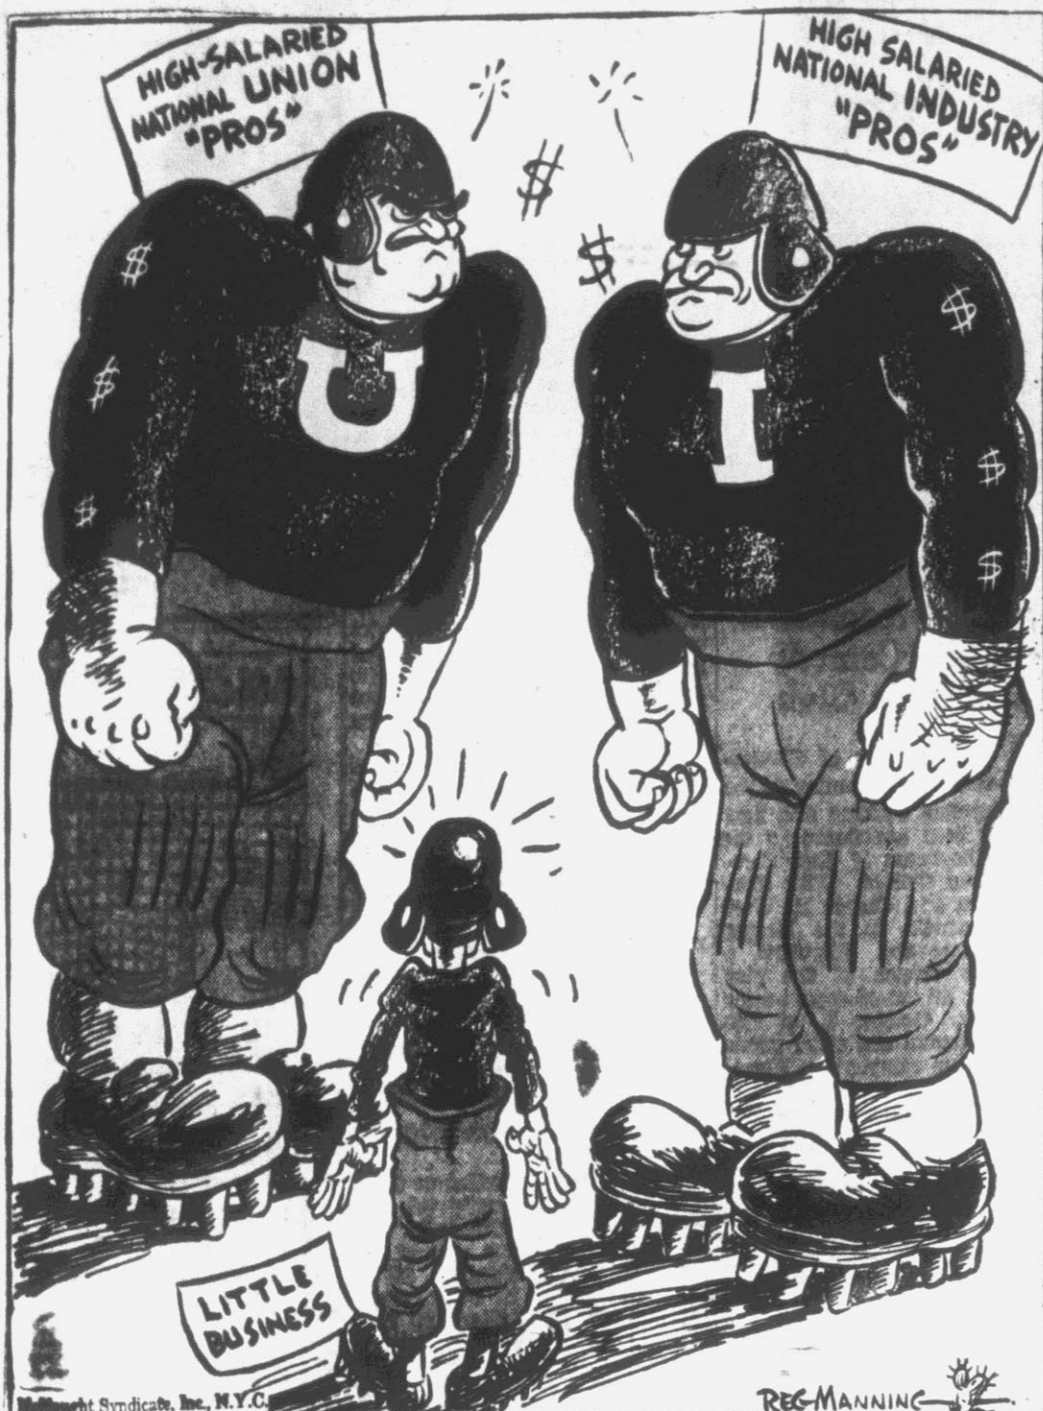

In view of the difficulties under which it has operated the school transportation system has maintained a good record, but with the overloading of buses and without proper safety precautions, sooner or later, the system was bound to come to grief. It happened yesterday when a bus with seating capacity for 42 children and carrying an estimated 70, was involved in a wreck at a blind spot on a country road where the highway department had failed to heed a request to cut the bushes in order to provide greater safety.

Nothing that can be done now can bring back those seven children whose lives were snuffed out yesterday but from this tragedy the state can learn, once and for all time, a lesson in the necessity for safety that can prevent the recurrence of such accidents.

The state law requires the children to attend school but the state has no right to endanger the lives of these children by transporting them to and from school in overcrowded and unsafe school buses.

Until this situation is remedied every county or district board of education should issue an order against overcrowding of school buses and advise the state that the children are being left at home because of lack of transportation facilities.

The provision of safe transportation of school children should be given first place in the state affairs at this time and all other public spending should be halted until this need is given proper consideration.

There seems to be money in the emergency fund for all kinds of spending, authorized and otherwise, and we see no reason why there should not be sufficient funds to take care of the school transportation needs. If it is necessary for the governor to call a special session of the legislature to take care of this urgent need, such a session should be called without delay.

DRIVE-INS—Most folks think of highway engineering and construction in terms of long stretches of roadway, with curves and bridges designed to take care of moving traffic. Actually, one of the biggest safety problems is related to access driveways and sidewalks. The problem has been tremendously complicated by establishment of out-of-door theaters in many communities and the growing popularity of night ball games, dog races and similar sporting events. The highway commission spent some time discussing these matters at its regular monthly meeting this week. Despite importance of these special events, the chief worry is still the filling station, country store, side road, home driveway, and congested traffic around industrial plants.

Somebody Told Me . . .

By L. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

They say that the more you have the more you want. Judging from the way some of the nation's big money earners are attempting to escape income taxes, the statement must be true. For the time being the tax problem worries me naught, but it's interesting to take a look at some of the "poor" folks who are lying awake nights thinking of the ways to save on taxes.

Take Ed (Archie) Gardner, for example. He's the director and star of the weekly NBC radio show, "Duffy's Tavern." Ed has moved to Puerto Rico, where he has to pay neither U. S. income tax or Puerto Rican income. His weekly show is tape-recorded and flown to the States.

According to the law, Ed can remain tax-free until 1959. He resents the implication that he's a tax dodger. "It's just a good business opportunity," he says. Ed is by no means by himself in Puerto Rico. Fifty U. S. companies (chinaware, leather goods, textiles) have moved there, and more are expected in the near future.

Movie stars have found a means of making tax-free money which doesn't involve leaving the States. They are prospecting in oil. If they strike, they can deduct 50 to 75 per cent of the drilling expenses from their incomes, and later deduct another 28 per cent as what they call "depletion." They can sell a well and pay capital gains tax on the profit. Instead of the higher income tax. And if the well goes dry, they can write the whole thing off as a loss, thus cutting down their income.

Near Wichita Falls, Tex., Gene Autry's sixth well hit last week. At 5,000 feet the drillers struck; the first day 1,200 barrels gushed, and afterwards the well settled down at 1,000 barrels a day.

Jimmy Stewart reported a steady 800 barrels a day from his No. 1 well. With his partners he had raised $75,000 on a tip from a geologist. The same geologist tipped Frank Sinatra off to a spot which is now producing steadily. The well is named "Crooner No. 1."

Just as I was worrying about the finances of Bob Hope and Bing Crosby, they struck oil in Texas. This was their second in two months, which I believe will pull them out of a financial slump. Don Ameche and Randolph Scott (of Charlotte) are also digging.

During the baseball season Greenville fans contributed heartily to the players for outstanding performances. To show what a baseball player can receive from fans, check this list of gifts received by the highest-paid man in baseball, Joe DiMaggio, on "Joe DiMaggio Day": $7,500 in money, two automobiles, a motorboat, two television sets, a radio, two watches, a $100 hat, an electric blanket, shirts, ties, a watch chain, potatoes, oranges, walnuts, lima beans, homemade lemonade, and 300 quarts of ice cream. Joe said all of the money would go to charity. After the speeches he bit his lip and let the tears run down his cheeks. "I thank the good Lord that he made me a Yankee," he said.

And I thank you.

cooperation with the federal public roads administration, is seeking standardization in this field. Admittedly the chief trouble is the idea of standardization came some thirty years too late. Plans proposed by highway engineers for driveways permitted in the future cannot relieve the menace to safety and the wasted space of established entrances. Many of these lack the

School Days Should Be Happy Days

Vacation is a good time for parents to take stock of their children's vision. If your children dislike to read; if they are not as good at games as their playmates; if their school marks last term were not what you hoped for or expected—then by all means—look to their vision . . . undoubtedly the seat of all the trouble. Do it now—so that they may enjoy their vacation, and so that they can do good work next school term—easily and without effort.

requisite vision-area for safety; many filling stations are too close to traffic lanes, and many others demand entirely too much space for their private use.

FADS—One trouble is that popular opinion runs so much ahead of governmental activity. Night ball games were not anticipated when most of the present highways were surveyed. Out-door drive-in theaters have come into popularity since the late war. Maybe by the time state agencies catch up with these things, something else will have come along to further complicate matters. Joe Graham, highway commissioner for the ninth division, said Thursday he thought the drive-in theaters were just a temporary fad. His colleagues didn't agree. After the meeting another and much younger commissioner expressed opinion that maybe the next serious problem would be landing strips for airplanes on or immediately adjacent to public road rights of way.

SAFETY—Safety is the primary objective of all agencies dealing with highway traffic. Engineers design roads with safety in mind. Laws affecting speed of automobiles, requiring license for drivers and showing of financial responsibility on part of car owners are based on public safety. None of these laws answer the question as to who has priority on safety protection. Does the industrial worker driving out from the factory where he works or the casual motorist going from There to Yonder have right of way? How about the fellow taking his family to the out-door picture show and finding traffic blocked because the car or the dozen cars in front of him cannot get by the ticket window in time to let him clear the highway for through traffic? What about the man who owns land for which he paid good money and on which he pays taxes yet is told by some state official he can't operate a filling station on it because the gasoline tank is not far enough from center of the road?

The average number of cars in U. S. freight trains has increased fairly steadily from 34.4 in 1918 to 54.5.

'Grass Roots' Banks Reported Having More Money Than Ever

By ROBERT E. GEIGER
 Washington—War time inflation funneled a lot of money into "grass roots" banks—country banks patronized by farmers. That's the conclusion of Fred L. Garlock, economist for the United States Department of Agriculture.

Garlock says the more industrialization and commercialization there was in an area, the smaller was the gain in bank deposits.

He points to the one-time dust bowl country as his top example. In that region, where farmers are the mainstay, bank deposits are five times what they were before the war.

Garlock studied U. S. bank deposits for the years 1940-'48. He found that by 1948 bank deposits in the farming communities were almost four times what they were before the war. But in the large industrial centers they were only about 2 1-3 times the prewar total. In New York City, the largest financial center, they were only 1 1-2 times the 1940 total.

He gives these reasons, among others, for the gain in country bank deposits:

1. Farm income increased relatively more during the war than did national income as a whole.
2. Farmers' holdings of liquid financial assets (currency, bank deposits and United States savings bonds) increased relatively more than did the holdings of all individuals and businesses.

But now he says conditions are changing and the inflationary period appears near an end.

He adds that in years of "recession," after the first World War, deposits flowed in large volume from agricultural areas to financial centers.

Such an effect can be cushioned by moving more industries to the country communities, he says, giving smaller towns and cities a greater share of the gains from industrialization.

Garlock says the country banks appear to be in good condition and that a substantial part of their assets could be converted quickly to cash.

This means that unless a very serious emergency arises the banks won't have to call upon their borrowers to pay up loans, Garlock says. In past depressions the sudden call for payment of farm loans has increased the trouble.

Again he points to the former dust bowl as an example. He says the farmers of the Great Plains not only have built up their bank deposits to an unusually high level but also have been among the largest buyers of government savings bonds.

Ladies Divided On Handouts By Federal Govm't

By HAL BOYLE
 New York—(AP)—Do American housewives want government handouts?

Well—yes and no. The girls are as divided on this question as on any other.

A few days ago I wrote a piece pointing out that legislators have sadly overlooked the most important figure in our civilization—the housewife.

"They fret about the problems of the businessman, set limits to the stint of the laboring man, and vote cash on the barrel head to protect the farmer against rainy days. But for the woman with the mop, the lady of the house, they have voted no 40-hour week, no cash subsidies, no benefit payments, no bonuses for raising the nation's chief crop-children."

Well, should Congress and President Truman set a new cabinet post—secretary of the home? Should housewives get pensions?

Scores of ladies across the land dropped their dust cloths, sat down and wrote me how they felt. And their answer as to whether the government owed them anything boiled down to this:

1. "Yes, of course."
2. "No, naturally."

One mother wrote objecting "to the prevailing sense of values which excludes from economic consideration the work of the housewife." Her idea was that mothers hold the character of future citizens, and should be paid in some way by the state for this important function.

Mrs. Sue Persons of Mandan, N. D., thought it might be simple if women just did more to solve the problems of government and international politics—even against male objections they are "getting too big for their unmentionables."

"We have had a lot of experience cleaning up messes before," she added firmly, "and we couldn't make a worse muddle."

An Illinois wife observed: "The housewife should be considered by the government. Possibly a pension plan or a week's holiday at the government's expense to do a little traveling. Of course I would suggest a set time for the pensions to start—after 25 years of faithful devotion."

On the other hand, Mrs. Irene Plackas of Chicago Heights, Ill., said flatly: "We absolutely do not want any handouts from Washington. We'd be sure to lose not only our independence to clean house how and when we please, what to cook, when to spank, what to say to the better half, but he'd have to pay some jerk 5 per cent for telling us off."

"The woman who has children and a home never mopes or is frustrated. We're too busy. We don't want any special recognition. We reap our rewards as we go along."

And besides, said Mrs. Plackas, "we are the power behind the throne and that's where we intend to stay. So . . . Please leave the American housewife alone, or we'll start a down-with-Hal Boyle movement—and then you'll be sorry."

Yes, Ma'am!!! Who brought the subject up anyway?

LET'S INTRODUCE YOU, MEET OUR MEAT!

IT'S REALLY TOPS! IT CAN'T BE BEAT!

Bloodshot Eye Fooled Officers

Santa Monica, Calif., Oct. 7—(AP)—Scene: A courtroom. On the stand: Officer A. H. Hannum, who arrested Richard F. Mossman, 24, on a drunken driving charge. The questioner: Defense Attorney William Brown.

"You say you flashed a light into his eyes?"

"And that you examined them from a distance of six inches?"

The officer agreed.

"And you found that his eyes were bloodshot?"

"Both of them," said the officer. "That's all," said the attorney.

Next witness was the defendant who plucked his left eye from the socket. It was glass.

Final scene 20 minutes later yesterday: The Superior Court jury returns its verdict:

"Not guilty," said the foreman.

Redmen Elected Officers In Meet

Members of the Improved Order of Redmen of the Fourth North Carolina district held their semi-annual meeting in Greenville and Winterville yesterday with approximately 100 delegates attending the affair.

In a brief business session held in the Winterville high school auditorium yesterday afternoon, Joe Flake of Wilmington was elected Sachem of the fourth district for the coming year. Other district officers elected were Harold Thornburger of Wilmington, senior Sagamore; W. C. Robbins of Pinetops, junior Sagamore; J. J. Mohn of Wilmington, prophet; and R. H. Harrell of Greenville, chief of records.

Retiring Sachem J. J. Mohn of Wilmington presided at the business meeting, and Clarence Vincent of Greenville made the welcoming address to the visiting tribesmen.

Avden was selected for the site of the next district meeting which is scheduled for April.

Following the business session, the Redmen were joined by members of the Degree of Pocahontas and the group heard an address by W. J. Bundy of Greenville, solicitor for the fifth judicial district.

A barbecue dinner served at the Harris & Rogers Warehouse was attended by approximately 200 tribesmen and members of the Degree of Pocahontas and was followed by a cake walk and an old fashioned square dance.

Retired Marine General Is Now Going To School

Los Angeles—(AP)—During his 23 years in the Marine Corps, Brigadier Gen. Raymond C. Scollins received a liberal education in the school of hard knocks. But despite his rise from private to brass, he wasn't satisfied with his education.

So, recently retired, he is now student Scollins at Loyola University here. He's enrolled in the college of business administration taking a course that will lead to a degree in industrial relations.

"I joined the Marines when I was 14," the general said. "While I gained invaluable knowledge of many things through travel and experience, I always wanted a college education." Gen. Scollins saw action at Midway, Guadalcanal and Guam and earned a purple heart at Okinawa.

Miner Who Sued Lewis' Welfare Fund Has Hopes

Uniontown, Pa., Oct. 7—(AP)—That ex-coal miner who sued the United Mine Worker welfare fund and then was tossed out of the union may get his disability pension, anyway.

In fact, if the UMW fund benefits remain suspended, he may be the only coal miner to get a pension.

The miner, George H. Livengood, 54, held a press conference last night and displayed a telegram from Norfolk, Va.

The wire read: "Admire your courage. As long as you have the intestinal fortitude to stand up against John L. Lewis, I will pay the pension of which they have deprived you."

It was signed "R. Lee Page." Livengood says he does not know Page and has not yet investigated whether it is a genuine offer.

Livengood filed a federal district court suit in Washington, D. C., Sept. 22 in which he asked removal of the welfare fund's trustees and an annual audit of the fund.

A few days ago Local 6308 near Uniontown cancelled Livengood's membership on the ground that he had taken court action without first airing his grievance to the union.

Bum's Rush For Stowaway Snails

Baltimore, Oct. 7—(P)—Giant, crop-destroying snails, stowaways from the Orient, were slated to get a scientific bum's rush today.

The snails were discovered aboard the Greek freighter Aspasia Nomikos amid a cargo of scrap iron from the Pacific Island of Saipan.

Unloading operations were halted and officials of the bureau of plant quarantine and entomology ordered a fumigating job. The government scientists had to accumulate about 1,000 pounds of deadly hydrogen cyanide gas for the work.

Officials estimated the fumigation will cost from $20,000 to $25,000 but said it would be worth the price. One of the fast-multiplying creatures can devour a head of lettuce in a single night when it reaches adult size—five inches.

Authorities said the giant snails had moved from the Orient to Saipan with Japanese forces in World War II.

Tax Fraud Case In Fifth Week

Greensboro, N.C., Oct. 7—(AP)—Trial of J. D. Parker on tax evasion charges wound up its fourth week in federal court here today.

The Eagle Springs wine manufacturer is charged with evading approximately $114,000 in income taxes for 1943-44-45.

The trial slowed some yesterday as the court allowed Parker, rounding out his second day on the stand, time to refresh his memory on answers he gave in a 1946 hearing on the case.

Liquor Raids

Police Chief J. M. Whitehurst of Ayden reported today the second liquor raid the Ayden police have made in the past eight days. Last night they arrested Percy Rogers, 45-year-old Negro, at his home near Ayden, and confiscated three gallons and one pint of moonshine liquor. The booze was in half-gallon fruit jars. They charged him with possession of illegal liquor for the purpose of sale.

Rogers will be tried in Ayden Recorder's Court next Monday at 2:30 p.m.

Alleged Trespasser Shot By Watchman In Ayden Improves

Wiley Cannon, colored, who was shot by Acting Night Watchman Alton Smithwick on the Demain Pickle Company's property at Ayden several weeks ago, late at night, is recovering from his wound, Ayden Police Chief J. M. Whitehurst said today.

Police quoted the watchman as saying that Cannon suddenly rushed into an office and threatened him with a bottle and that he shot him in the performance of his duty. Smithwick said he was substituting for his father-in-law, "Doc" Cox, the regular watchman the night the shooting occurred. Cannon was released from a Greenville hospital several days ago.

Spanish Police Hold Suspects In Train Robbery

Zaragoza, Spain, Oct. 7 — (AP)—After a brief gun battle, police last night arrested two suspects in the theft of $5,000 from a party of U.S. congressmen touring Spain.

One of the suspects was seriously wounded. Police believe they are part of a five-man gang of railroad bandits.

Police said they found a large amount of dollars and foreign currency on the suspects, as well as a gold wrist watch similar in description to one stolen from Rep. Richards (D-SC).

The money, watch and Rep. Richards' trousers were stolen from a pullman compartment when the Barcelona express stopped at Casertas, near Zaragoza, Sunday.

Heavy Docket

Judge J. W. H. Roberts today was confronted by the heaviest docket in Police Court since he has been on the bench. There were more than 50 cases to be tried. They ranged from simple drunk charges to larceny, assault with deadly weapon, automobile collisions and reckless driving, driving without operator's license, motor vehicles passing on a bridge; larceny of clothing, one defendant having four charges against him, another three charges; speeding, crashing red traffic lights, assaults on females, etc.

The court was still in session this afternoon.

Police Charge Two Negroes Larceny Of Wearing Apparel

Greenville police yesterday arrested William J. E. Little, 24, 212-B Reade street, and Pettrew Grice, 27, both Negroes, on charges of larceny of wearing apparel from several persons and pawning some of the garments.

Capt. S. Bowen Dorsey and Detective M. E. Corbett worked up the cases.

There are four charges against Little, three against Grice.

Shot From Hunters' Guns Alarm People Living Near River

Connie Baker, colored, who lives at No. 8 Cotanche Street, near Tar River, reported to police yesterday that shots from hunters in low-grounds were endangering the safety and lives of residents of that neighborhood.

Investigating officers learned that the shots were being fired across the river.

Police issued a warning to hunters to keep their line of fire away from the residential section and streets and highways.

ARREST MOTORISTS CHARGED PASSING ON BRIDGE

Authorities yesterday arrested Jacob A. White, 50 and E. J. Harris, 19, for allegedly passing motor vehicles on a bridge. They were scheduled to be tried in Police Court today. An officer said a state law prohibits motor vehicles for passing vehicles (except horse or mule-drawn) on bridges and abutments.

A request from Mrs. R. G. Clark for a fire alarm box and water hydrant in the 100 block of Jarvis Street was discussed and she was advised that the project would be considered just as soon as funds are available for expansion of facilities.

A lease of city-owned sidetrack adjacent to the utilities plant was executed to the Utilities Commission. By having control of the sidetrack the utilities can get a cheaper rate from the railroad for storage tank cars and effect a saving of several hundred dollars annually, Mayor Stafford pointed out.

J. A. Taylor applied to the board for relief from paving assessments on a piece of property recently purchased, on the grounds that his attorney was advised by the city clerk that there were no outstanding assessments against the property. Clerk J. O. Duval explained to the board that when the attorney made the request for the information he gave names other than those under which the property was listed and therefore did not get the correct answer. The board disapproved Taylor's request and held that the assessment was a matter to be settled between Taylor and the parties from whom he purchased the property.

Mayor Stafford reported that J. Nat Harrison, chairman of the Tar River Port Commission, had advised him that it was hoped to resume water traffic to Greenville at an early date. The matter of action by the last legislature that created the port commission as a separate corporation with full power of control over all properties of the port facilities without regard to the wishes or action of the aldermen was discussed. Members of the board denied any previous knowledge of the action until after the legislature had adjourned and the city attorney was requested to get full information in the matter and report to a subsequent meeting of the board.

Alderman Heber Tripp reported that $250 repair work was necessary at the city-county armory and the board approved the city's payment of its half of the cost.

The board voted to lend the bleachers at Guy Smith Stadium to the college for indoor use after the football season at the stadium is over.

Mayor Stafford reported that as a result of recent requests that industries take steps to prevent unnecessary soot from their smokestacks, he had been advised by the college, several factories and the utilities that equipment to cut down on excessive soot was being installed.

The state flower of Alabama is the goldenrod.

Reach Terms In Hawaii Walkout

Honolulu, Oct. 7 — (AP)—Hawaii's locks, struck since May 1, may be opening again at a normal rate next week.

An agreement to settle the long and bitter dispute with a 14-cent hourly wage increase was reached orally yesterday—150th day of the strike. The dock workers immediately ratified it without a dissenting vote.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

By WILLIAM HOBSON

Chapter 24

He died there on the floor of Brad Morden's place. Jay rose. Then his hand swooped up Turk's six-shooter. He spun—and found himself staring down the muzzle of Ace's gun.

"Sorry, old-timer," the outlaw said without rancor. "I know how you feel about Turk. But no guns for you. Boss's orders. Hand it over, Jay. I wouldn't want to try shootin' it out of your hand."

Jay silently handed it over. "Take him out and bury him, boys. He was a good man. I think I'll go over to the cabin."

He went out, followed by his two silent guards, and walked through the dusk. He saw Miguel lounging in the doorway of Lucia's cabin, and there was sneering mockery in the death-dealing Mexican's eyes as he looked at Jay. Smoke was beginning to come from the kitchen pipe. Miguel's woman was cooking his supper.

Jay went inside and sat down. As for Peg Smith, he had gone straight to Morden's cabin and the two men had talked. The exterminator sat with a boot crossed over his knee, cigarette between fingers, his long shaggy locks down over his ears.

"So that's how it is, eh? Twins?" "That's how it is, Peg."

as he leaped up.

"Jay, you fool, come back here!" he bawled. "Keep your nose outa somebody else's—"

The words were lost as Jay shot in through the doorway to find Lucia in a corner, fending off the slapping blows at her face, Miguel's snarling, dark visage above her.

"You're my woman," he was snarling, and slapped her again. "I teach you to obey me—"

He half turned, and his jaw made a perfect target for Jay's looping right-hand smash. He felt pain go through his knuckles and Miguel's lithe body struck the wall and then bounced off as he thudded to the floor. Jay was on him in a flash, jerking the Remington free of its sheath. He was going to kill the Mexican as he lay. But Ace's hand had flashed down and yanked the gun from his fingers.

"I'll take that one, too," Ace Carter grinned mildly. "I never see such a feller so anxious to get hold of a gun!"

"Let me have it, Ace," snapped Jay. "I'm going to kill him."

"Shucks, now, boy," Ace grinned. "Brad is plumb fond of all of them fine hosses Mig brings up here from the border an' sell him. He'd be plumb upset at losin' a man like Mig. He just might be so upset he'd shoot you on the spot. Cool down now, boy."

Jay turned to Lucia. She stood in the corner, a flush reddening her white face. "You come with me," he ordered.

She came without a word.

"Now wait a minute, Jay," Ace protested. "You're buttin' in on something private."

"That's right, Ace," Jay answered coldly. "People shouldn't butt in on something private. Come, Lucia."

New Greenville Exchange Club Is Awarded Charter

By CHESTER WALSH

Nearly 200 persons from Eastern Carolina attended the "charter night" banquet of the Exchange Club of Greenville at the Woman's Club last night. President S. O. Worthington, Greenville attorney and member of the General Assembly, who was recently elected president, presided.

Vice-President John G. Clark, former state highway district commissioner, was master of ceremonies. The Rocky Mount Exchange Club, sponsor of the recently organized Greenville club, sent its members here in numbers in a cavalcade of motor cars, led by the county sheriff and a state highway patrolman.

The Rocky Mount Exchange Club presented a unique program that was entertaining and netted the local club more than $200 for a "nest egg."

The meeting opened with the singing of "America," led by W. W. (Bill) Lee and the invocation by Rev. Fr. Adrian M. Poletti.

Dr. Brooks D. Drain of Knoxville, Tenn., extended greetings to the new club and felicitations to the sponsoring Rocky Mount Exchange Club for the good work of organizing the Exchange Club in Greenville.

In presenting the charter, he predicted a successful career for the new club. He said the National Exchange Club, with 46,000 members organized in 1896. The first four clubs were organized in Detroit, Toledo and Cleveland, O., and Grand Rapids, Mich. Dr. Drain said the organization is non-political, non-sectarian, non-commercial and non-legislative.

"Our members are leaders in industrial, business, professional, educational, religious and financial life of the nation," he said. "The Exchange Club motto is 'Unity for Service,' and this means 'to serve in unity with those seeking better conditions, better understanding and greater opportunities for all.'"

The full text of Dr. Drain's "charter night" message will appear in Saturday's edition of the Daily Reflector.

The Exchange Club's national representative presented the charter to President Worthington. He also made an award to the Rocky Mount Exchange Club for sponsoring the Greenville club.

Toastmaster John G. Clark recognized visiting dignitaries and officials of local civic clubs and others.

George Davis of Rostoke Rapids, state representative, made an interesting short talk. District Governor Dr. Carl Peters of Rocky Mount made a hit with his interesting talk about what the National Exchange Club is doing. John D. Weaver of Rocky Mount presented an American flag to the Greenville Exchange Club.

A distinct feature of the evening's program was a series of terpsichorean numbers by dancers from Marie Smith Wallace's School of the Dance, with Christine Smith at the piano.

M. T. Whitley of Rocky Mount provided some entertainment that was enjoyed and which netted the Greenville Exchange Club more than $200.

In addition to President Worthington and Vice-President Clark the other officers and directors are J. Wilton Tetterton, secretary-treasurer; J. Howard Moye, Frank L. Little, John W. Rigans, Roy L. Tripp, J. A. Piver and Harry L. Dalrymple, members of the Board of Control.

The club starts off with 44 members.

Fire At Tobacco Plant Controlled

A fire early this morning which offered a serious threat to the Greenville Tobacco Company on Tenth Street for a time, was suppressed before it gained enough headway to get out of control.

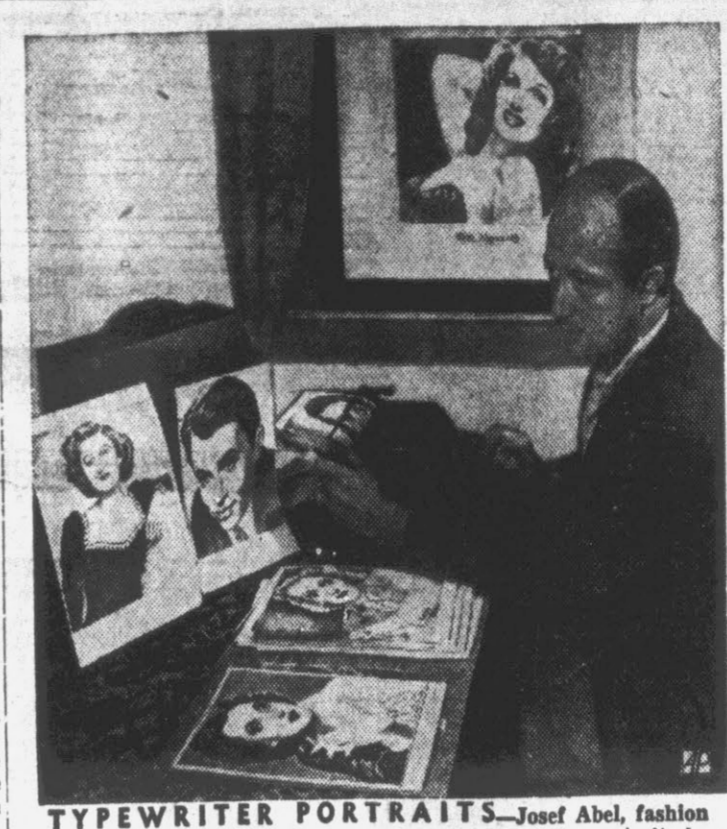

Quick thinking on the part of persons in the Greenville Tobacco Company plant at the time that the blaze was discovered kept the blaze from getting out of control and the fire was confined to a small area.

The section which caught fire was a long wooden structure in which tobacco is housed after it comes from the main plant, in preparation to be stored in hogsheads for shipment. The drying room had only one entrance and this one was in the opposite end from the source of the fire.

Persons at the plant grabbed a length of fire hose and began putting water on the blaze while the fire alarm was turned in for the Greenville Fire Department, which responded with three trucks.

Firemen said today that had the plant not been equipped with a sprinkler system and had a crew at the plant that knew something about fire-fighting there was a good chance that the fire could have become a serious one before the fire department could get on the scene.

No estimate of the damage to the tobacco was known early today, although a quantity of tobacco was known to have been damaged. The origin of the blaze is not known, but company officials told firemen that some of the machines in the plant drying room may have caused the blaze.

Naturally that created an impossible situation and he tendered his resignation, which was accepted. That left the country without a government, pending the formation of another cabinet.

Queuille had been the most successful of any post-war premier in holding together a cabinet. He had been in office for close to thirteen months—a remarkable achievement under the circumstances.

As previously indicated, this is a bad moment for political or economic crisis in Western Europe. Strength is needed to maintain the balance and prevent any reckless adventures in the Balkans.

tem argue this way. The present system is all right. Life insurance companies invest some of their reserve funds in government bonds.

Further, if the government hadn't sold bonds to the Social Security system, it would have had to sell them anyway to banks or insurance companies since it needed money to keep running.

Further, if it had borrowed from banks or other private organizations, by selling them bonds, the government would have had to pay interest on them anyway, just as it's paying interest on the bonds sold to the Social Security reserve fund.

So part of the income tax money—paid by people who also pay the Social Security tax—would have had to be used in paying off the interest on the bonds no matter who had bought those bonds.

Therefore, friends of the present system say, what is happening now cannot truly be called double taxation.

And they say further: As time goes on and more people draw pensions, a pay-as-you-go Social Security tax will mean a continually higher tax, with no reserve fund, helped out by interest payments, to draw on.

The House Ways and Means Committee recently backed up the present plan as the "proper form of investment." And it has received the blessing of a special committee of educators, businessmen, social workers and political scientists headed by Edward R. Stettinius, former secretary of state.

This committee—called the advisory council on social security—was appointed by the Senate Finance committee to study Social Security problems. In its report it said in part:

"The investment of the old-age . . . insurance funds in government securities does not mean that people have been or will be taxed twice for the same benefits, as has been charged."

precaution to prevent an accident. As for the roads in the county, Conley said, "We have noticed that the highway department has done a good job in clearing blind corners. However, there are some narrow roads which need widening. The highway officials have cooperated with us in every way, and are doing all they can." Conley said maps of the school bus routes will be filed with the highway office for another check on blind corners as soon as the drivers' reports are in.

"We have warned our drivers to maintain every precaution until a full report on the Nash accident is released," Conley stated, "and then we will work on the points which were involved in the Nash accident."

The last fatality in Pitt county, which was caused by a school bus, Conley said, was in 1924 when a school bus at Bethel backed over a child.

'Bearded' Snake Was Victim Hunter's Gun Near Grifton

By CHESTER WALSH

A five-foot chicken snake had swallowed all of a squirrel—except the furry end of its tail—when a hunter's gun killed the reptile. The incident was worth a picture. The snake's body was bulging with its "squirrel" for breakfast, and the furry end of the squirrel's tail protruding from its mouth (like Rip Van Winkle's beard) was an unusual sight in the Daily Reflector office early this morning.

Robert Lang, operator of Lang's Fish Market in Ayden, was hunting in woods on Sam McLawhorn's farm near Grifton. He shot three squirrels in a hickory tree and they dropped. It was some time before he could get across to pick them up. He found two, then looked for the other. The chicken snake, "with whiskers on its chin," stared at him with its glassy eyes. A blast from Lang's gun and the snake was dead.

The hunter said no kind of a snake would have a chance in a battle with a squirrel's sharp claws and teeth. The chicken snake swallowed this one after it was dead.

Lang has the "snake with the whiskers" at his fish market in Ayden.

Fire Prevention Week Proclaimed

National Fire Prevention Week will be observed in Greenville during the week of Oct. 9-15.

Each year the nation observes one week as Fire Prevention week, in an effort to cut down the rising number of deaths and loss of property which are caused by fires which could have been prevented.

Mayor W. S. Stafford yesterday issued a proclamation which said in part: "The Greenville Fire Department, Greenville Chamber of Commerce, City School, and other civic organizations are designed to make our citizens conscious of the major causes of preventable fires and the actions necessary to be taken to protect the lives and the property of our people, thus the week of October 9-15 has been proclaimed as Fire Prevention week in Greenville."

The mayor urged the people of Greenville to make a special ef-this is double taxation. They suggest that the old-age pension plan be placed on a pay-as-you-go basis, which means:

Instead of collecting enough Social Security taxes every year to pay out Social Security benefits for that and still have enough left over to build up a reserve that can be invested in government bonds, the government should do this:

Collect yearly from the people in old-age pension coverage enough money to pay the old-age pension expenses for that year. In other words, put it on a year-by-year expense basis.
