Predict Early Victorious End Of Steel Strike

Murray Says Nationwide Strike Will End Soon With Complete Victory

Pittsburgh, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Philip Murray says the nationwide steel strike will end soon—with complete victory for his men in their fight for free pensions and insurance.

"I assure you that before very long we will all be happy," Murray said in a fighting address at Youngstown, O. It was his first talk of a pep tour to take him to several of the nation's steel centers.

There was no reply from industry to Murray's optimism—or to his charges that industry had forced 454,000 of his men to strike.

The U. S. conciliation service went ahead setting up separate meetings with union and top industry leaders in an effort to break the strike. The first session is scheduled with Bethlehem Steel Corporation tomorrow at New York.

Iron Age, the national metal-working weekly says if real collective bargaining does not take place soon, the country can look for one of the worst slumps in its history "because it will knock recovery efforts of the economy into a cocked hat."

Iron Age said steel stocks are generally smaller than had at first been estimated. It added that close checking indicates few big fabricators will be able to operate more than 30 days without curtailing production.

The fabricators, employing a half million steelworkers, are threatened by strikes starting Saturday. Their contracts begin running out then, continuing until mid-December. Murray already has served notice he wants free pensions and insurance for the fabricator employees, just as he does for the men in basic steel, now on strike.

Even as Murray was speaking to 15,000 cheering strikers yesterday, the International Harvester Company laid off about 3,500 employees at its Chicago McCormick plant because of depleted steel supplies. This brought the total of men strike-ified in related industries to more than 50,000—including 41,000 on coal and steel hauling railroads.

Murray pulled out all the stops in his speech. Some of his remarks: "I have met more hypocrites since the start of this fight than I have ever met in all my life."

"Anybody who wants to be against me can be against me and I'll beat him in the end."

"Are old people to be thrust into the poor house or on the industrial scrap heap and left to die in poverty and misery?"

In the audience were elderly steelworkers each displaying in his lapel a sign which said: "I need a pension."

Murray left little doubt he'll go right down the line to get free pensions and insurance. Industry has offered him a 10 cent hourly package but insists the workers chip in.

Murray says no to that—he contends such a program would, in effect, be a pay slash as it would reduce his workers' take-home pay.

The fighting Scotsman reviewed the events which led to the strike. He pointed out the presidential finding board had recommended industry pick up the entire 10-cent tab for pensions and insurance. Then he declared:

"Charley White (president of Republic Steel Corporation) told the board, 'You have no business interfering in our business. A strike is preferable.'"

Murray said his strikers are not alone in going payless, declaring no union employe is being paid during the strike. He said he stopped his $25,000-a-year salary when he flashed the strike signal, adding:

"My soul, my heart and my conscience are devoted to the service of human beings. I will work until I die for the people I love. I work in the spirit of complete self sacrifice."

Byrd Says America Is On The March To Socialism

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Senator Byrd (D-Va.) said today "America is in the march to Socialism."

Byrd, a frequent and sharp critic of the administration's fiscal policies, said the pace of the march is increasing to the tempo of expanding federalized programs and increasing National debt.

Addressing the annual convention of the National Wholesale Druggists Association, he said:

"The deficit financing of federal programs in time of peace is piling up a federal debt to proportions in which the liberties of free enterprise cannot survive."

Byrd said that if the debt is allowed to grow confidence will be destroyed.

"If effort is made to check or curtail the debt without reduction in expenditures, destructive taxation would be required," he said, adding: "Neither the Democratic form of government nor a free enterprise system can exist in National insolvency."

Byrd said that in his 16 years in the Senate he had seen the beginning and growth of "this American brand of Socialism."

"Some call it welfare state," he said, "Some call it statism and some call it collectivism. Whether you call it one of these 'isms' adding: "In either event insolvency would result. Neither the Democratic form of government nor a free enterprise system can exist in National insolvency."

Byrd said that in his 16 years in the Senate he had seen the beginning and growth of "this American brand of Socialism."

"Some call it welfare state," he said, "Some call it statism and some call it collectivism. Whether you call it one of these 'isms' or whether you call it Socialism in academic."

"The important fact is that the freedoms we have cherished under Democracy complemented by the initiative inherent in free enterprise will not exist under the form of government which lies at the end of our present course."

He said that laws passed in the belief they were temporary expedients to meet emergencies have "almost invariably" opened the gate leading to "the socialist destination now looming ahead."

Byrd said that if Socialized housing, Socialized medicine and the Brannan plan for agriculture are approved by the Congress they "will irrevocably commit us to state Socialism from which there is no retreat."

He estimated that the proposed housing program would cost $20,000,000,000 in 10 years. Socialized medicine, in 10 years, $23,000,000,000 annually. He said the most accurate thing said yet about the Brannan plan is that "the cost cannot be estimated."

He said those who think they are benefitting from federal payments should ask themselves if free enterprise and state Socialism can live under the same National roof.

"The answer is graphically and tragically obvious in England today," Byrd said.

He said that in England today 70 Britons have a net income of $24,000 after taxes. In America, he said, there are 155,000.

"But the worst of the British situation as it has developed," Byrd said, "is the liquidation of the middle income group."

Only 120,000 Englishmen have incomes of from $4,000 to $8,000 after taxes, he said, and by comparison there are 4,030,000 such persons in this country.

Byrd said the United States can free itself from its present dilemma "only by retrenchment in public expenditures."

Port Terminal To Be Discussed At Joint Meeting

Aldermen And Commissioners To Talk Over Possibilities For Renewed Water Transportation

Pitt county commissioners and the Greenville board of aldermen have been called to a joint session tomorrow night to discuss the city-county port terminal which has been idle for several years.

M. Brown Hodges, chairman of the county board of commissioners, and W. S. Stafford, mayor of Greenville, called the joint meeting of the city and county officials to discuss the possibilities of future development of the port.

Mayor Stafford said this morning that a government appropriation has been established to keep the channel in the river dredged provided it is used for transportation service. "If the port is not used," Stafford explained, "the channel will not be kept open. I would like to see the port used, and our people get the maximum benefit from it."

The mayor, in an interview today, pointed out that the reopening of the port for regular freight ship schedules would give the city of Greenville and Pitt county an additional means of transportation and would aid in keeping favorable freight rates in this section of the state.

"It could be developed into a worthwhile thing for the community," he commented.

The port terminal was opened to water traffic in 1940 when the city of Greenville and Pitt county appropriated $7,500 each for its establishment. It operated for several years handling freight brought in by water transportation, but was closed soon after the beginning of World War II when the scarcity of ships forced the freight companies to cancel the scheduled runs to Greenville.

The joint meeting has been set for 8 o'clock in the aldermen's room of the Greenville city hall.

Officers Seek Actress' Body

Los Angeles, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Fearing another Black Dahlia slaying, police today launched an intensive search for Griffith Park's Fern Dell for the body of Jean Spangler, film bit player.

The 27-year-old beauty's purse, with handles ripped off one side was found in Fern Dell some 36 hours after she disappeared.

Several hundred officers are participating in the hunt, including homicide men, who entered the case yesterday.

Investigators said they had little to go on in a parallel with unsolved sex killings such as that of Elizabeth Short, called the "Black Dahlia," in January, 1947.

Renew Talks On Coal Contracts

Negotiations Resumed Under Shadow Of Gov't Action

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Oct. 12.—(AP)—John L. Lewis and soft coal operators went back to contract talks today with the tall shadow of Cyrus S. Ching, chief government mediator, over their shoulders.

Ching won't be present in person, but he advised Lewis and the operators last Friday to speed up their contract talks and end the coal strike, now in its fourth week.

A crisis is fast nearing, Ching said, and he noted that the government was keeping a close watch on their progress.

Lewis himself was showing signs of wanting to talk business with the operators from the north and west at this famous watering place, and with the southern operators who are meeting simultaneously at Charleston, W. Va.

In the background, too, is Harry M. Moses, representing U. S. Steel Corp. mines. Lewis confers separately with Moses, after each session with the northern and western commercial operators here.

The negotiations, which have been dragging on since last May 25 at White Sulphur and at Bluefield, W. Va., were interrupted last week for a conference with Ching in Washington.

Lewis is well aware of the weapon which the government holds over his head to hasten a settlement. That is the use of the Taft-Hartley Act's emergency provisions, including a study by a fact-finding board and an 80-day injunction against a strike.

He has defied such injunctions before, at a heavy cost in fines for contempt of court, but he isn't likely to go out of his way to risk his union's millions this year.

While President Truman has shown reluctance to use the Taft-Hartley Act procedures in the steel strike, he may be forced to use them to halt the coal shutdown.

Thus the pressure may be on Lewis to speed up a new contract; the old one expired June 30. The northern and western operators, led by George H. Love of the Pittsburg Consolidation Coal Co., have offered to extend the old agreement until April, 1951, but Lewis refused.

In talks with southern operators at Bluefield, W. Va., last week, Lewis indicated that he was placing his major emphasis on increasing the 20 per cent per ton royalty which financed the miners' welfare and pension fund.

But he has hinted, too, that he wants shorter working hours—without loss of pay to the miners who now get $14.05 for a 6 1/2 hour day of production. They are paid for eight hours, with the remainder of the time credited to underground travel and a lunch stop.

Predicts Era Of Great Prosperity

Philadelphia, Oct. 12.—(AP)—When the present strike situation is over the United States is in for the greatest period of prosperity it has ever known, Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder declared.

Snyder spoke here last night before the sixth annual correspondent bank meeting of the Pennsylvania Company for Banking.

The secretary said that when the official figures are released in a few weeks they will reveal that the national income of the past month was the highest on record.

He was optimistic regarding the nation's economic situation. "It is one of the finest we have ever known," Snyder said.

Snyder pointed out that in addition to more than $200,000,000 of income, people of the country have an additional $200,000,000 in liquid savings—money in the bank, cash, and savings bonds—while private business has working capital of another $65,000,000,000.

He said that since the end of World War II private industry has spent $85,000,000,000 for plant improvements, expansion, and new machinery.

The accident, the worst since train services were nationalized two years ago, occurred on the General Bartolomeo Mitre line, a half mile off of the Peron terminal.

Most of the casualties were in the second class sections of the passenger train, which took the full brunt of the collision. Many of the first class section, however, were slightly injured.

Local Contractor Awarded Job For Improvement Third Street School

At the meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Greenville City Schools yesterday the general contract for the addition to the Third Street School was let to W. G. Dunn of Greenville for $72,550.00.

The electrical contract was not awarded but will be advertised again. The plumbing contract was awarded to Pace Plumbing and Heating company of Williamston for $4,495.00. The heating contract was awarded to W. M. Wiggins and Company of Wilson for $3,790.00.

Superintendent J. H. Rose said, this addition will be erected on the east end of the present Third Street School and will match the present building in architecture exactly, using the same tapestry brick, terra cotta trim and tile roof. The addition contains a cafeteria, library, work room for the library, a modern up-to-date kitchen, art room, health room and the most modern first grade room in North Carolina. It also contains boiler room, new heating plant, and toilets.

Before awarding the contracts the Board of Trustees met with the Parent-Teachers Association of the Third Street School and after the third meeting made the awards yesterday. "The Board of Trustees were unanimous in letting these contracts and feel that they have let contracts which the people of Greenville will be very proud of when the building is erected and which will serve a great need in the lives of the children in the western part of the city," Rose said.

J. W. Griffith is the architect for the building.

The next contract to be let will be the addition to the West Greenville School, which will consist of combination auditorium-gymnasium, cafeteria and kitchen. This contract for West Greenville is to be awarded about thirty days from now, and both the Third Street addition and the West Greenville addition are expected to be ready for use when school is opened next fall.

The new elementary building in south Greenville for Negroes is progressing, and the brick work on this building will be completed this week. This modern fire-proof building of South Greenville is expected to be ready for use about January 1, 1951.

A spokesman for the school board said the board of trustees is proceeding on the grounds that high schools in America are not increasing in size but that elementary schools are, and that provisions must first be made for the elementary school program. At the present time the Greenville High School building is not crowded and is adequate for the children who are enrolled in high school.

In recent weeks the board of trustees has built two retaining walls at the C. M. Eppes school and are continuing to improve the property by grading and beautifying.

During the summer, also, part of the West Greenville school was modernized and two new classrooms were made.

NEW COAST GUARD HEAD

Washington, Oct. 12.—(AP)—President Truman today nominated Rear Adm. Merlin O'Neill to be commandant of the United States Coast Guard.

O'Neill was named for a four-year term to succeed Adm. Joseph F. Farley who is returning when his term expires Dec. 31.

Mr. Truman also asked the Senate to move O'Neill up to vice admiral.

Takes Stand After Appeals For Re-study Of Supercarrier; Navy Men Say Defense Plans Favor Air Force

Washington, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Grimed Fleet Admiral William F. (Bull) Halsey called today for a defense strategy based on readiness to wage instantaneous air attack on troop and military targets.

Halsey made clear that would require lighter, swifter planes than the B-36 "intercontinental bomber" on which the Air Force is concentrating.

He was before the House Armed Services Committee, continuing the Navy's barrage against a military policy which puts so much emphasis on the B-36.

Navy men contend the B-36 could be of use only for "mass attack" on large areas.

With a reference to that, Halsey said a successful war "cannot be fought by carrying on separate campaigns against industrial and civil populations."

He scornfully compared this concept of strategic air warfare to medieval "siege" operations.

Halsey, whose carrier-based airmen drummed the Japanese up and down the Pacific, said the lesson from World War II is the need for immediate heavy air attacks at the military body of the enemy "who would be trying to crunch his way across Europe."

For weeks now, the Navy has been pushing an unceasing attack against policies it says favor the Air Force and its B-36 bomber while weakening the Navy to the point of crippling the national defense.

It says use of the B-36 means mass bombing of whole cities and mass slaughter of civilians.

The House Armed Services Committee worked a night shift last night to hear the commander of the Atlantic Fleet, Admiral W. H. P. Blandy. If proposed cuts go through, he said, his forces will be "dangerously below" minimum needs. He said there is a "very dangerous effect" on national security.

The admiral said there is such a thing as "reducing a carrier task force to such puny proportions that it practically constitutes a suicide force."

And he told a questioner, Rep. Bates (R-Mass.), that this would be the effect of the prospective reductions.

Furthermore, he said, cancellation of the Navy's $185,000,000 supercarrier, the United States, ought to be reconsidered. He said he would be glad to see Congress pass a law, if it takes that.

Secretary of Defense Johnson ordered construction on the carrier halted last spring. And it is Johnson, the hearings have brought out, who has started an economy program that is going to trim Navy spending this year $338,000,000 beyond cuts Congress is in the process of approving.

The atomic blast in Russia is one factor making it advisable to re-examine the decision to stop work on the big carrier, Blandy said.

This decision, he said, slapped an "arbitrary limit" on the Navy's ability to carry out its major mission of keeping command of the sea.

Blandy said that it was only after protests were carried to Johnson that the Navy was told it could keep six big carriers in commission instead of four. He said it now is operating eight, so there still will be a cut of two.

As long as it doesn't gobble up more than its share of appropriations, Blandy said, each service ought to be able to decide what weapons it needs, without being "dictated to or out-voted by officers of other services."

He said harm is being done the Navy now and there is danger of more damage to defense "through unwarranted reduction of the Navy's efficiency."

Utilities Plant, Water Mains Near Completion

Four-Year Program To Be Finished By June 30; Sewerage Extension To Begin Soon

Martin Swartz, superintendent of the Greenville utilities, last night reported to the members of the utilities commission that the four-year improvement and expansion program for the local power plant will be completed by June 30, 1950, and also informed the board of considerable progress in the extension of city water and sewerage lines.

Dr. K. B. Pace, chairman of the utilities commission, presided at the meeting.

Swartz told the commissioners the turbo-generator at the plant is now on its foundation and the auxiliary parts and piping are being assembled. The turbo-generator and its sub-station will be ready for operation by the latter part of this year, Swartz said, and the new boiler which is being installed will be ready for service early next year.

He said the work now being done will complete the last phase of the plant expansion program which was begun by the local utilities commission in 1946.

In addition to the plant expansion, Swartz stated that the city water main extensions which will furnish fire protection for all the new territory taken into the city limits in the past few years is practically complete.

The extension of city sewerage lines to the new sections of the city is to begin within the next 30 days. Explaining the order in which the water mains and the sewerage lines were installed by the utilities, Swartz said, "The commission installed water mains first to give fire protection to the people because they thought it was more important. For the sewerage disposal, the people in these new areas already had septic tanks approved by the state board of health."

The superintendent said approximately 10 miles of sewerage lines will be laid by the utilities commission to serve the outlying areas already taken into the city limits.

Says Senate To Pass Farm Bill

Lucas Predicts Passage Compromise Anderson Plan

Washington, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Democratic leader Lucas (Ill) predicted the Senate will pass the "compromise" Anderson farm plan today. Lucas told reporters, however, he sees no chance for adjournment of Congress by Saturday. That had been the target date.

Lucas was questioned after a brief conference with President Truman following a trip to the White House to see Sherman Minton sworn in as a member of the Supreme court.

In view of the legislation pending Lucas said he doesn't see how Congress can adjourn by Saturday.

"We are going to pass a farm bill today," he said.

"It will be the Anderson bill." Asked if the Anderson bill was acceptable to the President, Lucas replied "I don't know."

Mr. Truman has been reported by some callers as favoring 90 per cent of parity price support for basic crops instead of the sliding scale of 75 to 90 per cent proposed by Senator Anderson (D-NM), former secretary of agriculture.

The President called Lucas and other Senators to the White House yesterday and urged them to get together on some kind of farm bill he can sign.

His reported differences with his top two Senatorial lieutenants on the farm measure may cloud the issue for the Democrats in the 1950 campaign.

Complete Survey Of Bus Routes

Dowd Reports Some Spots On School Bus Routes Are Unsafe

A check of the school bus routes in the surrounding area over which buses coming into Greenville must travel was announced by Principal Owen E. Dowd today.

Dowd said he went over the entire bus routes with his drivers yesterday in an effort to determine if any of the roads or buses were in unsafe condition. "We want the routes which the children have to travel over to be as safe as they can be," Dowd said.

"In the check yesterday, we found there were two or three places on several curves that were blocked partly by grass and trees," he said. "A letter is being sent to the Highway Maintenance, requesting that these hazards be removed as soon as possible."

The two bus routes cover some four hundred miles in a twenty day period. Also it was revealed in the check yesterday that all the buses are carrying only the number of pupils on each bus as required by law. "There is no overloading of any of the buses," Dowd commented.

Russia Seeks Arms Inventory

Austin Labels Demand "Another Attempt To Fool The Public"

Lake Success, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Russia has renewed her demand for a world wide count of atomic bombs by the United Nations. But U. S. Delegate Warren Austin calls the Soviet move "another attempt to fool the public."

The Soviet demand was made by Deputy Foreign Minister Jakob Malik late yesterday in the U. N. Security Council. It called for a tally of all weapons, from atom bombs to airplanes and artillery, from battalions to bayonets. Each nation would report on its own weapons under Malik's proposal, with no provision for checking on the truth of the statements.

Warren Austin, U. S. delegate who is this month's chairman of the council, did not answer Malik on the floor. But immediately after

Greater Corn Yield In This County Forecast

Bumper Crop Of Livestock Feed

Washington, Oct. 12.—(AP)—If livestock feed supplies now available were put to the production of meat, dairy and poultry products, Americans could really have a lot on the table next year.

This possibility—wheat, incidentally is not a probability—stood out in an agriculture department report yesterday. This report bore out previous forecasts that crop production this year would be the second largest on record.

Making up a very important part of that large volume are record supplies of feed grains, including a big corn crop of 3,477,000,000 bushels.

Taking into account feed supplies carried over from last year and this year's production of corn, oats, sorghum grains and barley, food supplies on farms for the feeding season ahead will be the largest ever available.

Scott Urges Officers To Make War On Bootleggers

Raleigh, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Governor Scott today urged law enforcement officers to "join together in a vast and mighty movement to stamp out those lawless elements which are defying our laws on liquor."

The governor, who spoke to sheriffs and chiefs of police gathered in an unprecedented meeting here, said in his prepared speech that:

"It is common knowledge that a literal flood of illegal liquor continually pours into this state and that the imported stuff is augmented by a considerable output of the homemade product."

"I want to say at the outset that I have no desire or intention to dictate to you or even attempt to tell you how to run your business," the governor said. "It is not my purpose to be critical of anyone."

But, he added: "I think the illegal liquor traffic in North Carolina has grown so big and arrogant that all of us concerned with the welfare of our state must pull together to stamp out this evil or else curb it so drastically that the profit element as weighed against the dangers involved will not be sufficient to attract criminals into the liquor traffic."

Then he concluded: "x x x it will take hard and determined work, but the job can be done. You can do it. My appeal to you is to discuss this problem frankly at this meeting, determine your course of action and go back to your respective communities with the wholehearted resolve that you will do everything humanly possible to stamp out the illegal liquor traffic x x x"

He urged the officers to go into courts with airtight cases against bootleggers and moonshiners, and he urged them to push their efforts to curb drunken driving and disorderly conduct. He pointed out that there were 1,351 accidents attributed to drunken driving last year and that 78 persons died in these accidents.

He called on state highway patrolmen to keep "an eye open for any violators of our liquor laws" as they patrol the highways.

The governor's office sent out 600 invitations to sheriffs, police chiefs and ABC officers to attend the meeting, believed to be the first of its kind in state history.

The governor presented the officers figures on the liquor traffic. He said that in recent months the Department of Revenue has filed tax liens and penalties totaling $1,398,024.49 "against known recipients of illegal liquor shipped into this state."

This figure, he added, indicates that the 65 persons against whom liens were filed imported tax-paid liquor with a retail value of $15,447,346.90 and amounting to 979,000 gallons.

Pitt County Included In FCX Purebred Pig Chain

Pitt County is one of eight counties in North Carolina included in the State Farmers Cooperation purchased pig chain, Assistant County Agent C. J. Goodman announced today.

Goodman disclosed that the FCX will finance the purchase of eight purebred pigs and one purebred boar which will be placed with 4-H boys in the county.

Under the project, 4-H'ers will be given a year in which to pay for their pigs and the money will be used to purchase more pigs and increase the chain.

The boar will be available for breeding purposes without charge for all the other eight pigs, Goodman said.

The pigs will be entered in the county fair next year where they will compete for regular fair awards and separate awards offered by the FCX for the top three hogs.

Goodman, who will supervise the project in Pitt, said the pigs will be selected by the county agent's office and paid for by the FCX. The pigs, probably Duroc-Jerseys, will be placed with 4-H boys within the next 30 days, he said.

The county agent also announced that the FCX is furnishing enough hybrid seed corn for each 4-H member to plant one acre provided the boys show the corn at the next county fair. Special awards will be made by the FCX and the corn will also compete for regular fair premiums.

Football has been played at the University of Arizona since 1899.

Heavy Spending Of State Funds

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 12—(P)—North Carolina is spending money so fast that its computing machines in the State treasurer's office are inadequate for the job.

Treasurer Brandon Hodges said yesterday his office is spending about $22,500,000 a month in state funds, and about $16,000,000 in federal matching funds. This is a total of about $38,500,000 a month.

But that's not all Hodges office handles 20,000 checks a day as a result of handling the state's investments.

In operating the state government, the state spends about $9,000,000 a month for the public schools, about $4,000,000 a month for other general fund agencies, and about $8,000,000 a month for highway construction.

Federal matching funds go to such programs as unemployment compensation, old age assistance, aid to dependent children, and other welfare and health programs.

To offset general fund spending of about $13,000,000 a month, the state takes in about $8,000,000 a month, and highway expenditures of about $800,000 are offset by the receipts of about $5,000,000 a month.

"That doesn't mean we are going in the hole that much," Hodges said. He declared that the state is spending from surplus funds and from receipts from bond sales in addition to tax receipts. He also pointed out that tax receipts are much heavier in some months than in others.

With all these big figures drifting around, Hodges said his office needs a new computing machine. The present model can't handle sums larger than $9,999,999.99.

Junior Red Cross Drive Starts Soon

The annual Junior Red Cross drive sponsored by the American Red Cross will be underway in the county within the next two weeks, the Pitt County Red Cross office announced today.

Committees of the Junior Red Cross have been active for the past several weeks making plans for the annual Junior Red Cross drive. Each of the colored schools in the county have been visited and conferences have been held with the teachers the class sponsors, it was reported.

This week the same conferences are being held in the white schools. A final meeting of the workers will be held at the home of the chairman of the drive, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, Saturday morning, October 15.

Strength FOR THE DAY

HAVE FAITH IN YOUTH

A mother wrote me recently telling me of an interesting piece of religious work in which her daughter was engaged during the summer. With every opportunity to relax and enjoy herself, this young lady prefers to be in a hot and crowded tenement section of New York City, doing a heroic service for which she will be recompensed, probably, with little more than her experience.

In answering the mother's letter, I wrote: 'What you tell me about Margaret is thrilling. These young folks take our breath away. The wild ones take our breath away with their escapades, and the good ones with their consecration and vision, their courage, and their complete willingness to sacrifice.'

'As this letter is being written, I can see a college-bred girl hanging clothes on the line—her daily washing for two children. These young people plunge ahead, taking life as they find it. The interracial interest of this generation and the fine work which many of them are doing under the supervision of the church bodes well for the future.'

'These young people will make mistakes just as we have made them, but we must well hope and pray that they will end up with a better world in their hands than the one we have right now.'

RESPONSIBILITY—While corner and investigators are seeking to fix immediate responsibility for the tragic school bus crash in Nash County last Thursday, other less directly concerned folks are talking about ultimate responsibility, past and future, for such incidents. In that connection the term "responsibility" is used in its broader sense, including not only the cause of the accident but also such matters as medical, hospital and funeral expenses and compensation for the deaths of innocent school children.

POLICY—Traditional policy in the State is sovereign and owes its subject nothing. On that principle is based the idea that the State cannot be sued without its consent. Pursuant to that policy, tort claims must be channeled through the general assembly. Further, policy has been that the state department immediately involved would upon legislative authorization and approval of the industrial commission, pay property damages and medical and funeral expenses for victims of accidents proven to have been caused by negligence of state employees. Policy has been not to pay punitive damages or compensation for deaths.

BROADENED—The 1949 general assembly broadened the scope of this established policy. Faced with a hundred or more individual claims, ranging in amount from $10 to $6,000, the legislature enacted a general statute providing for the filing of claims and investigation by several agencies with maximum payments fixed in each instance. Not until the application of the 1949 act upon incidents occurring subsequent to its enactment is problematical. Lawyers differ in their opinion on this point.

LIMITS—The board of education is one of a dozen state agencies facing this problem. Because the school bus system intimately affects so many more people, it bears the brunt of claims. Aggregate maximum payments authorized by the last assembly amounted to $62,000 from school funds. Final settlement of the claims probably will call for a payment of some $40,000. The present maximum allowed for each case is $600. Next in number of claims is the state highway commission. Agriculture, conservation and development, wildlife resources, and other agencies operating motor vehicles have less experience with this problem. General policy is the same in all cases.

UNSATISFACTORY—The situation is and has been unsatisfactory. Members of the general assembly have no way of checking on the validity of claims filed. At the same time, most legislators recognize that the citizen who has suffered injury should receive reasonable compensation therefor. So they vote for the bills offered by representatives from counties where accidents occurred. Unless the legislator is willing to introduce a claims bill the claimant has no way to get his case presented. There is considerable sentiment for a state court of claims which could handle matters of this kind without the cumbersome process of going through the general assembly with each item.

Doesn't That Noise Upstairs Keep You Awake?

DISTINCT—It must be kept in mind that there is vital distinction between liability of the state as a self-insurer to its own employees and its liability for passengers on a state owned bus or automobile. With respect to school children injured in transportation there is further complication of joint state-county responsibility. Some county school systems carry public liability insurance covering pupils in transit, others do not. The state as a whole definitely does not.

Boyle's Column

By SAUL PETT

(For Hal Boyle)

New York, Oct. 12—(AP)—If you're having difficulty buying a house, pull up a chair and listen. I'm an authority on the subject.

I have been buying a house every Sunday for three years. I have driven 15,000 miles (in just the suburbs, of course) and I have spent $322.43 on gas and oil but I have been able to do all this with the same car, the same wife and the help of only three psychiatrists.

And so I say to you, friend, don't be afraid. You can have your home and sanity, too. House-hunting is not as confusing as you might think. Just don't buy on impulse. Don't buy on faith. Be practical. Make sure you answer all the vital questions before buying.

Will the style of architecture be outdated in five or 10 years? Is it colonial, Cape Cod, California bungalow, modern, English tudor, early American, French provincial, Dutch Colonial, Georgian, Spanish, Normandy or ranch? Be careful practically everything these days is called a ranch house. All some builders need is a small, high window in the bedroom and they think they've got a home on the range.

Who owns the lot next door and are they planning a glue factory? Is the agent over-selling you or under-selling you and does he have a thin, hard mouth or a police record?

What exactly does he mean by saying, "you can own this home if you earn $4,000 a year." Does he think you'll be able to eat, too? When he says you can heat the place for $8 a month, does he mean in the winter or summer?

Are metal cross pieces between floor joists better than wooden bridging?

How good is the commuting?

Somebody Told Me...

By I. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

The scramble is on for football tickets to the University of North Carolina games. The Wake Forest-Carolina game in Chapel Hill this weekend has been sold out.

Don't take anybody's word for it. Take a week off, ride the railroad yourself with an accurate watch. Do you sit or stand? Can the guy across the aisle play canasta?

Are the rooms big enough for the furniture and the children? Which will have to go first?

Are thin metal window frames better than wood, casement better than double hung sash?

Is there a full basement and, if there isn't, will radiant heating prevent dampness and where will you store all the things you'll never use again? Also, is it true people get flat feet from walking on concrete floors?

Do you really like a picture window and what do you get a picture of and what will the neighbors get a picture of and those small little sections which open, will they be enough to carry a breeze?

How good is the insulation? Is it rock wool, glass wool, cotton blankets, mica, bubbles and, by the way, what are mica bubbles?

Is the sewage already in or will a picturesque old man come to tear up your front lawn every two years or so?

What did the agent say about condensation? Is there a vapor seal? Is the plumbing brass, copper, wrought iron, cast iron and does it make any difference?

Does the living room have a wall made all of glass brick and do you think that looks like a public comfort station?

What will happen when it rains? Will you get wet? Are the roof gutters wood, copper, sheet iron? Where will the roof water go? Do you need a dry well?

Do you want a house like 100 other houses in a development or do you want to pay more to be distinctive? And why this terrible urge to be distinctive? Are you undemocratic? Are you trying to fulfill a neurotic need to be different and what happened in your childhood to start this complex?

And what makes you think you want a house?

I don't. I just like to have some place to go Sundays.

for almost two weeks, and the games with Notre Dame in New York and Duke in Durham have been sellouts since last summer.

The UNC athletic association has a plan for distribution of tickets that cannot be contested. Members of the Education Foundation (the organization which contributes money annually for athletic scholarships) get first priority in accordance with the amount they kick in. The alumni of UNC come next, and then the general public.

As far as the Association is concerned there is no way to stop scalping. The press always announces in the summer the date that tickets go on sale to the public. Naturally they can't question a customer as to why he is buying tickets. The scalper simply has the foresight that many of us don't have. At the last minute he has tickets, when everybody else is clamoring to get them.

There is a way to meet this demand for tickets, since football has become so specialized. There was a time when it could not have been done, because a team would take the field and substitutions were infrequent. Now each team has an offensive team, a defensive team, many punters who go in only after touchdowns, many even have a special player to put in against a particular type of play.

Coach Carl Snavely of UNC has specialized the game to the extent that he has what some call the Snavely Scientific Laboratory Research Institute. He studies the movies of the previous Saturday's game and grades each player on each play. The grades range from 0 to 8. If a player carries out his primary assignment only he gets about 2.5. If he does his "must" and then goes on to do something beyond the line of duty he might get a 3, 4, or 5, depending on the nature of the extra effort.

Snavely puts out a 6-page (legal size paper) mimeographed report (single spaced) on the games, plus an eight-page scouting report before the game. The scouting report names each player, their positions, their weaknesses and strong points, and advice on how to play against them. All of these reports amount to considerable home work for the players.

Now that I have proved what you already knew, that the game is becoming more and more specialized, let me get back on the track and tell you what can be done about the ticket shortage. The offensive team of Carolina could play the defensive team of Duke at Kenan Stadium in Chapel Hill. At the same time, the offensive team of Duke could play the defensive team of Carolina at Duke Stadium. With this arrangement over twice as many people could see the game. Whichever offensive team had the biggest score could be declared the winner after both games have been completed.

Just think of all the fans that wouldn't know the difference. The women could still see all the clothes and color of the game, and those who are accompanied by Lord Calvert or Seagram's Seven Crown wouldn't care. Do you think it's better to have a ridiculous solution to a problem, or no solution at all? For today, I'll take a ridiculous solution instead of no column at all. And I thank you.

Why Fire Prevention Week?

By WESLEY MANNING
 Nearly 11,000 persons lose their lives each year due to fire, and many times this number suffer from burns and injuries caused by fire. In 1948 $715,074,000 worth of property was burned; however, the majority of the fires occurred in homes. Women can prevent many home fires as a large percentage of fires start in the homes. Women are showing a greater interest in fire safety, and it is up to the housewife to see that her closets are clean. Carelessness in the little things is the cause of most of the trouble. Here are some points for fire safety: Keep matches out of the reach of small children. Distribute enough ashtrays about the house. Have faulty wiring repaired by a qual-

fied electrician. Have furnace and chimney cleaned at least once each year. Don't allow rubbish, papers, magazines, or other combustibles to collect in alleys, closets or cellars. Put a metal screen in front of the fireplace. Never use gasoline for cleaning. Fire annually destroys enough timber and lumber to build 85,000 five-room houses. Figures like that are the answers to the question, why we should have a fire prevention week. Some people might ask why confine fire prevention to just one week. Fires occur 365 days a year and the only purpose of designating a particular week out of 52 is to emphasize the importance of this problem to every man, woman and child in this country. After seeing the percentage of lives taken a year in fires it would be advisable to put these suggestions in your book of notes: First, learn how to turn in a fire alarm. Getting firemen to your home quickly might save a life. Second, figure two ways of getting to the ground from your rooms. Escape routes can be cut off by flames especially in the early stages of a fire.

Street And Road Program Presents Many Problems

By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, Oct. 12—Most folks think of highway and street construction in terms of grading and paving. Location engineers know that the item of right of way is more important and sometimes more expensive. It becomes increasingly important with growing demand for speed and safety—an unnatural alliance—in operation of wheeled vehicles.

There is obvious relationship between slum clearance and better approaches to and clear routes through cities. This phase of the whole question is just beginning to receive attention by the long range planners. In pioneer days traffic followed lines of least resistance. Land and time were both plentiful and cheap. Savage men made foot paths which followed the trails established by wild animals. Ox carts and horse-drawn wagons used the same course, and in time these trails became the recognized lanes of travel. Villages grew up along them and developed into big cities. Their growth was fast in some instances, and by the time traffic engineers came into the picture it was already too late to prevent hazardous congestion.

Long before the internal combustion engine was dreamed up, or the hand shovel was replaced by the drag-pan and later by the giant bull-dozer, expensive property improvements had been put on the edges of winding country roads and narrow city streets. That was all right for the horse and buggy, but all wrong for the motorized methods of today. A half day's drive around North Carolina will discover instances of costly destruction of private investment to make a right of way for the public. This is equally true in country and city, though perhaps more noticeable in congested municipal areas.

Just a few examples should serve to illustrate the general condition. Not long ago the City of Raleigh spent thousands of dollars buying property to widen the right of way US-64 in the eastern edge of town. The City of Charlotte and the State of North Carolina paid out a huge sum for the cross-city boulevard right of way there. Moving car tracks and widening Franklin Street in Gastonia is another costly project. So is the new route through Asheville to the French Broad river bridge. Work on Lee Street in Greensboro is another case. The recently finished bypass around Siler City is a great improvement for travel, but it required removal of several farm buildings and utilization of highly valuable farm land. Dozens of instances can be cited of roads depreciating beauty of handsome farm yards and running through the hearts of fertile fields upon which much money had been spent for improving the soil. In the mountains and among the eastern pecosins it often happened that the only place a road can be built is on the only part of the farm suitable for productive cultivation.

On the inspection tour last week the state municipal road commission had some situations pointed out in every town visited where routing of streets for safety's sake required removal of homes, replacing light and telephone poles and otherwise making spect for vehicles bigger than any one dreamed about when the streets were first surveyed.

In a number of places some of the homes that will have to be moved are scarcely fit for human habitation. That is where the slum clearance phase comes into consideration. The problem involves more than mere highway engineering. It calls for comprehensive, long range community planning involving location of schools, playgrounds, industrial plants and all other complements of a modern city in relation to serving needs of the most people, rural and urban.

Old Timers Are Predicting Cold Winter Ahead

Indian Summer with temperature here yesterday was 87 degrees. Lowest last night was 58 and at 6 a. m. today it was 68.

The highest temperature here a year ago yesterday was 72 degrees. Highest a year ago today was 77.

Incidentally, old-timers told a reporter today that the mild October weather foretells a hard winter.

Checking over Weather Bureau records, he found that this kind of weather prevailed here in October, 1945, and a severe winter followed.

October, 1946, was cool, and a mild winter followed.

October, 1947, was warm and balmy, and an unusually severe winter followed, with a 10 1/2-inch snow in February, 1948. There was much rain, sleet and snow and prolonged freezing weather.

Warm weather prevailing here now, according to Weather Bureau records, indicates that the coming winter will be cold and severe.

Miss Reichard will give a musically illustrated talk on "German Lieder of the Nineteenth Century." Music by Schubert, Schumann, Brahms, Wolf, and other composers of the period will make up the program.

Miss Reichard, a mezzo-soprano, will sing a group of lieder and will also use recordings to illustrate her talk.

A native of West Castasauqua, Pa., Miss Reichard came to Greenville and the college music faculty last fall. Since then she has given several recitals in Greenville and other towns of eastern North Carolina.

Alligators In Kitchen Sink Cause Alarm

By CHESTER WALSH
Memories of James Fenimore Cooper's "Leather Stockings Tales" were revived when three adventurous Greenville sportsmen returned from a weekend hunting and fishing trip to the seacoast. The trio bagged 15 marsh hens. They caught an abundance of big trout, sea mullet and bluefish. They brought back two baby alligators and these amphibian reptiles caused consternation at the home of Mrs. D. J. Whichard, Jr., on East Ninth Street.

Mrs. Whichard spread an alarm when she turned on the light in her kitchen and found the alligators swimming around in the sink. Fish, game birds and alligators littered the culinary premises. The three hunters and fishermen, D. J. Whichard III, managing editor of the Daily Reflector; Francis Jordan, employe of the Washington Boat Works; and Robert Powell, T. A. Lovine Contracting Company employe, who is helping to build the new college dormitory, each blamed the other for bringing the alligators.

There is an old saying in Florida that when an alligator fixes its stare on a smooth surface an imprint of its glassy eyes cannot be erased. Indirect information is that the three adventurers used up two cans of Dutch Cleanser trying to remove the imprint of the alligators' eyes from the Whichard kitchen sink. They used Sapollo today. Two pairs of alligator eyes were still on the Whichard kitchen sink today. Yesterday, Whichard, Jordan and Powell conferred at the zoological department at the college about what an alligator eats. They sought advice from a newspaperman who had lived in Florida. Today they were seeking a new home for the creeping alligators. One of the trio revealed that they stopped the car every few miles to be sure the amphibious reptiles had not chewed their way out of the cardboard box containing them on the way back home.

Negro 4-H Club News

Eighty-five enthusiastic 4-H club members and 4-H leaders at the first 4-H County Council meeting for the year made it the most exciting meeting of the year. Margie Ree Gay of Farmville 4-H club and president of the 4-H County Council presided over the meeting. For the opening song the group chose "The Four-H Firelight." The Lord's Prayer was then repeated followed by the 4-H club pledge and motto. At this point officers for the 4-H Council for the new year were elected. Margie Ree Gay was again elected to serve as president for another year. This marks her first year as president of the 4-H County Council. However, the group felt that because of the honors that Margie Ree Gay has received and recognition she has brought to the county that is having the most outstanding 4-H girls' record in the state that she should be given this honor. Also this is her senior year in high school.

Other officers elected were: Clifton Grimes, vice president; Mildred White, secretary; Lucille Taylor, assistant secretary; Dorothy D. Gay, treasurer; Ann Johnson, song leader; Mary Collins, song leader.

Program committee workers — Rhea Taylor, chairman; Mary Monk, James McGay, Frederick Leary, Miss Pauline Moore.

After the business session, the group enjoyed a report from Margie Ree Gay on her trip to national camp held at Nashville, Tenn. Because of her outstanding work Margie was chosen along with six other delegates to represent North Carolina. She gave the highlights of the trip and told them what it meant to her to be chosen to represent her state. She encouraged those present to try to do better work so that they may take advantage of opportunities offered to 4-H club members.

Mary Monk of Winterville 4-H club, another outstanding member reviewed her stay at State Short Course this summer. Mary, because of her outstanding work, was chosen a delegate to represent the county at State Short Course along with approximately 700 other 4-H boys and girls. Mary gave the highlights of the meetings. She also told that as a result of the training she received from 4-H Short Course she made many improvements in her home. The group enjoyed a square dance and the meeting was brought to a close with the group repeating the 4-H club pledge. CHARGE MOTORIST WITH CRASHING "STOP" SIGN State Highway Patrolman Dick Chadwick, who arrested George Washington Spain, colored, yesterday on the charge of falling to stop at a "stop" sign, also charged him with not having proper brakes on his car. Spain will be tried in Police Court Friday.

East Carolina Pirates Face Unbeaten West Carolina Next

By FRANK HOGG
Coach Bill Dole and his East Carolina Pirates, looking for their first North State Conference win, tangle with the mighty Catamounts of West Carolina Teachers College this coming Saturday. West Carolina, unbeaten and untied, are riding high atop the North State Conference standings. The game will be played Saturday night at Canton and approximately 6,000 people will be on hand to witness the fray. The game will be the first played in Canton, a football loving town.

Dole and his Pirates refrained from practice Monday as the boys nursed injuries received in the rugged Elon game. The Pirates face a hard week's work on blocking and tackling before meeting West Carolina.

Although freshman and sophomore mistakes were evident in the Elon game Dole was pleased with his squad and with the showing made by two freshmen. Richard Siler, quarterback, was commended for some hard driving tackles he made while playing safety man for the Pirates. Another freshman, Dwight Shoe, noted for his pass receiving ability, gave evidence he is an all round player. Three times against Elon Shoe went down the field under Pirate punts and dropped the Elon receiver in his tracks.

Pictures of the Elon game will be shown today and the Pirates are looking forward to viewing mistakes they made.

Phantoms Play Ahoskie Friday

One of the most varied arrays of football formations to be seen on a high school gridiron in this section this season may be unleashed Friday night when the Greenville Phantoms invade the home gridiron of Ahoskie's Indians.

Greenville which has emphasized a T formation most of the year, has been known to change to a single wing without a moment's notice. It did it with good results against Scotland Neck here last week.

Ahoskie, meanwhile, may jump from a single wing to a T and then to a double wing, reports say. The Ahoskie boys have been known to pull plays from nearly every known formation, reports indicate.

The Indians, winners of 23 of their last 25 games and unscored on in nine consecutive games, are equally strong on passing and running. Their backfield includes two triple threat men.

Greenville likewise brandishes an effective passing offense. And their aerial attack may have to be relied upon heavily when they tangle with the heavy and experienced forward wall of Ahoskie.

Meanwhile Coach Farley's boys are sharpening their pass defense in anticipation of a heavy aerial barrage on the part of their opponents.

Friday night's game is viewed in Ahoskie as the real test of the Indians' strength. They have bowled over Tarboro, Scotland Neck and Hertford easily this year but Friday's game will be their first appearance against Northeastern Conference teams this year.

Goodmon Gives Fans' Money To Service League

By BERT MOYE
The $43.13 raised by the Greenville Baseball fans for the purpose of paying a fine levied against Manager Fred "Pappy" Williams, following his ejection from a game here at Greenville on August 29th, has been turned over to the Service League of Greenville by Ray H. Goodmon of Williamston, President of the Coastal Plain League.

Following the raising of this money by the fans President Goodmon ruled that this action on the part of the Greenville Baseball fans was contrary to Professional Baseball Rules and Regulations, and he was required to confiscate this money and contribute it to a worthwhile charitable organization.

President Goodmon in a letter to the President of the Greenville Service League stated "It gives me a great deal of pleasure to donate this money in the amount of $43.13, to your very fine organization which is doing a great work in Greenville."

Tar Heel Horse To Run In Big Race

Inglewood, Calif., Oct. 12—(AP)—Rodney, horse-of-the-year of the harness racing sport, was bedded down at Hollywood Park today, ready to aim at a repeat victory in the $50,000 Golden West trot Nov. 19.

College Band Putting On Real Show At Grid Games

By EUGENE PRICE
The East Carolina Teachers College band, which has contributed pre-game and halftime color to local football games this season, has begun working on marches it will unveil at the East Carolina-Edenton football game here October 28.

The game will mark the first appearance of the band with its new lighted caps.

Under the direction of Herbert Carter the East Carolina band has been very impressive in its performance at athletic events this fall.

One of the highlights of its season thus far was its performance at last week's Homecoming celebration. Demonstrating its mastery of the art of marching, the band executed several different maneuvers and drills at halftime of the Elon-East Carolina game.

Prior to the game the band formed on the field and played "The Star Spangled Banner." Then two files of the band members formed a victory path and played the school fight song as the football team ran between them. In the stands at the time was Mrs. Melba Watson Woodruff of Selma, class of 1933, composer of the fight song.

At halftime the band formed in a single line across the end of the field, played a stirring fanfare, and stepped down the field playing the "Men of Ohio" march.

After countermarching they formed the word "ELON," playing the visitors' school song. Then on the home side of the gridiron the band formed a large EC and played

"Auld Lang Syne" to the capacity crowd of homecoming fans.

It was then that sponsors were presented on the field in Homecoming ceremonies. Those presented included Dr. John D. Messick, president of the college; Mrs. Ed Rawl, oldest graduate attending the game; Henry Oglesby, secretary to Congressman Herbert Bonner and first man to receive a degree from East Carolina.

Following the ceremonies, the band formed a large four-leaf clover and played "I'm Looking Over A Four Leaf Clover" while the majorities did a twirling routine. The band then sang the song, marking the first time the group has sung on a football field.

Fans were high in their praise of Director Carter and the band's performance.

Injuries Bring Shifts In Carolina Line-Up

Chapel Hill, Oct. 12—The stampede for non-existent tickets for the Wake Forest-North Carolina Big Four football game here Saturday is reminiscent of the State's biggest gridiron classics of the past.

Early last week a $4,000 sellout was announced. Since then thousands of orders that can't be filled have come in, indicating a tremendous interest in a contest which definitely could go either way. Wake Forest supporters are solidly backing their team, despite its two recent unexpected reverses, and are coming here with the expectations of seeing the Tar Heels' winning streak halted.

Meanwhile it's all seriousness in North Carolina training. End Kenney Powell's knee injury has caused considerable shuffling in the ranks as Coach Snavely has tried to patch up the once mountainous end situation. The Tar Heels are a passing team and the veteran Powell was a big figure in Carolina's pass patterns.

Halfback Dick Bunting, shifted to the flank, is apt to see a lot of action at that post on offense. Art Weiner, of course, will take care of the other side and double on defense. Louis Bledsoe and Ed Billchuck are the other top defensive ends, with Ed Washington, like Powell, also on the sidelines.

There is a faint hope that Powell may be able to play. He has laid aside his crutches and is walking under his own power. The injury definitely is not as bad as at first feared. But even if he gets in, he is not expected to be up to par. The same goes for Washington, also a possibility for action.

While the Tar Heels are deeply concerned over their offense, with the end situation what it is, they also are letting no turf sprout under their cleats in the matter of defense. Emphasis has been laid on defense this week in the long drills. The Tar Heels know Bill Gregus of old as a running man, and while Red O'Quinn apparently has not scintillated this season as in the past, they think of him as one of the nation's greatest pass receivers.

The theory here is that what Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice and Art Weiner are to the Carolina team, Gregus and O'Quinn are to the Deacons. Nobody is forgetting that there are other players on both teams, and good. Little wonder the ticket stampede!

Celebration For Veteran Coach

Selinsgrove, Pa., Oct. 12—(AP)—They're planning a rousing big celebration here Oct. 22 for the "Grand Old Man of Football," who at 87 still feels he's "too young to retire."

Invitations have been sent out to more than 100 of the nation's top grid coaches to join in playing homage to Amos Alonzo Stagg on his 60th consecutive year in college coaching.

A testimonial dinner, torch light parade, rally and the Susquehanna Upsala homecoming game are scheduled in honor of the man who is considered football's greatest inventor as well as a symbol for character and sportsmanship.

However, Stagg, who dislikes anniversaries of any kind, would rather they'd skip the entire affair. He's afraid the idea will get around that he's planning to retire.

Investigate Death Of Young Fighter

Detroit, Oct. 12—(AP)—Police and boxing officials pressed an investigation today into the death of a young fighter who suffered fatal injuries in a Detroit ring.

Talmadge Bussey, 25-year-old Negro lightweight, died of a blood clot on the brain yesterday, 11 hours after a solid head blow by Luther Rawlings of Chicago sent him sprawling into the ropes.

An emergency operation to remove the clot proved futile. Bussey was the eighth boxer to be injured fatally in the ring this year.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

DOUBLE TROUBLE

By WILLIAM HOBSON

Chapter 28
"All right, boys," called the outlaw's piercing voice. "We've got a good ten hours' start. Plenty of time for a big breakfast an' a few drinks. Then we'll haul out here for new country where the fields are greener. Brad Morden has finished his business in Texas."

They lopez across the two hundred yards of open ground separating the corrals from the collection of cabins and swung down. It was then that the first shot came, a high-pitched report that spanged out hard and clear on the morning air. One of the riders, his leg uplifted to dismount, seemed to pause for a moment. Then he crumpled and fell head first to the ground.

"An ambush!" roared Morden's bull voice above the spangling of more rifles. "Get inside back of them log walls!"
The Winchester chorus rose and grew in volume and spread out around the plain where tight-lipped cowpunchers, lying flat on their bellies, worked the levers of their repeaters and single shots and repeated more lead into the scrambling mass of men diving toward the front door of the larger building. Three men were down on the porch, one of them trying to raise himself up on his elbows. A man grabbed him and dragged him inside. Three others came running hard. They flashed past the rock cabin and dove into the one occupied by Lucia. The door slammed shut. Jay heard the sound and looked around.

Lucia was gone.
He heard her scream mingled with the sound of running footsteps as Ace and the other man sprinted for the bigger building. They reached the porch, started up, and the port-bellied figure of Ace seemed to sag. He hauled up on his tiptoes and then sank down to lie still. Near him lay two others.

"Open up, open up!" yelled the other man, pounding on the door. Dust spouts were jumping up all around on the crude porch and a splinter whizzed past. He was flat on his face, hand still clutching his gun when the door opened. Too late.

Jay stuck his head out of the rock cabin, then ducked as a slug hit slantwise and droned off with

Miguel's got Lucia."
He caught the flash of resentment, saw the indecision, and snatched up a rope. Rover Boy swung to face him and whistled shrilly. Jay went toward another horse, wheeled and caught the big stud with a deft throw. Harry's rope sang out and settled over the neck of a long-legged Morgan gelding. "I'm with you, Jay," he yelled.
"Whos, now, whos, you front-jawed devil!" Jay called, and drew in closer. Out on the plain Blue Star and Lilly Belle were running. Miguel's figure hunched low over the horn. Rifles were spanging and Jay could see the dust spurts, and he hoped for Mike Randall's sake that the horses would not be hit. He got the saddle on Rover Boy and the big stallion reared, snorting, remembering his bouts with Joe Allison. Jay shot him out of the corral, aware that Harry was close behind.

Notorious Alcoholic Was Arrested 26 Times By Police

Police Monday arrested Francis Dancy, painter, on a charge of being drunk. The records show that Dancy has been arrested 26 times during the past few years for being drunk. One charge was for assaulting his aged father, the late W. C. Dancy, who served as Santa Claus at Christmas celebrations here for a few years.
When Dancy appears in Police Court Friday morning he will face three charges of being drunk recently.

Much Interest In Crop Program

Interest in Pitt's Christian Rural Overseas Program increased this week as leaders in the campaign here began a visual education campaign in an effort to enlighten the public as to the conditions in countries still suffering from wartime devastation.

Movies of overseas conditions are being shown each day and night in schools all over the county under the supervision of S. C. Winchester, county agent and CROP enthusiast.

The movies began Friday night with a showing at the Falkland Eutritan club. It was shown last night in Grimesland and is scheduled to be shown again in the Grimesland schools today.

Meanwhile, organized campaigns are getting underway in each township, officials report. A house to house solicitation to get pledges in the drive to raise two carloads (3,200 bushels) of corn will begin immediately.

The corn will be collected during the week of November 7-12 and brought to a central storage place in Greenville where it will be picked up by the Friendship train.

The schedule for the showing of the movies in connection with the campaign is as follows:

Thursday—Ayden schools in the afternoon and PTA at 7:30.
Friday—Bell Arthur school in the afternoon and PTA at 7:30.
Saturday—Church groups in Bethel.

Next week's schedules:
Monday—Bethel schools in the afternoon; Bethel Rotary at 6:30, and PTA at 7:30.
Tuesday—Pactolus school in the afternoon and PTA at 7:30.
Wednesday—Belvoir school in the afternoon and PTA at 7:30.
Thursday—Winterville school in the afternoon and PTA at 10:20 and Farmville schools at 11:30.

Farmville Man Ends Life With Rifle Tuesday

By CHESTER WALSH

Joseph Dewey Hinson, 33, of Farmville, who shot and killed himself in Farmville yesterday morning, left three notes—one to the police, one to his wife and another to his son. The messages indicated that he was despondent and did not care to live any longer. His body was taken to the Farmville Funeral Home for preparation for burial.

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said Hinson evidently went to the home of his sister, Mrs. George Steppes, in Farmville yesterday morning after the family had left for work. He was later found sitting in a chair on the front porch, with the rifle nearby. Paersby observed blood on the chest of the dead and notified police.

An inquest will be held at the court house tonight at 7:30.

The coroner said his investigation revealed that Hinson was involved in the death of a taxicab driver at Wilmington in the early part of the war, but was freed by the court. The tragedy was preying on his mind, associates said.

Coroner's Inquest Thursday In Death Of Negro Bicyclist

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse will hold an inquest at the courthouse Thursday night at 7:30, to take testimony concerning the death of Charles Ray Smith, Negro boy, when his bicycle collided with a car driven by Jasper L. Sutton on the Black Jack-Grimesland highway Monday afternoon.

State Highway Patrolman Dick Chadwick, who investigated the accident, quoted witnesses to the crash as saying that the bicyclist was swerving across the highway and collided with Sutton's car. The boy was catapulted against the windshield, breaking a glass, which severed the jugular vein in his neck. His body was projected over the top of the car and struck the rear bumper, then landing on the pavement. He died instantly. No arrest was made.

CARS COLLIDE AT EIGHTH AND EVANS STREETS TODAY

Cars driven by Dr. J. W. Hassell, 910 Cotanche street, and Mrs. C. O'H. Horne, 708 West Fourth street, collided at Eighth and Evans street. Property damage was slight. Neither of the driver's was hurt. Police said no arrest was made.

Claude D. Ward Is New President Of Pitt Wildlife Club

The Pitt County Wildlife club, at a supper meeting at Respass barbecue place on the Bethel highway last night, elected Claude D. Ward president to succeed Bill Drum. J. P. Davenport, Sr., of Pactolus, was chosen vice-president and W. H. Woolard, Jr., was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Retiring President Drum presided.

A motion picture, entitled, "Fishing and Hunting in Alaska," was shown through the courtesy of the Nash Motor Company.

The Wildlife club meets quarterly.

Mrs. Frank Purser Died Last Night

Mrs. Josephine Nelson Purser, 69, widow of Frank M. Purser, died in Fowler Memorial hospital in Washington, N.C., Tuesday night at 10:40 o'clock after having been critically ill for only a few hours. Funeral services will be conducted from the home of her son, Charlie B. Purser near Vanceboro, Thursday afternoon at three o'clock by Rev. W. R. Crowder, Methodist minister of Vanceboro, and burial will be in the Roach cemetery nearby.

Mrs. Purser was reared and spent most of her life in Craven county. She was married to Frank M. Purser in 1899, and he died in 1941. She was a member of the Episcopal church in Vanceboro.

Surviving are a son, Charlie B. Purser of near Vanceboro, and a daughter, Mrs. M. H. Elliott of High Point, 9 grandchildren, and 3 great grandchildren.

Russia Seeks . . .

The meeting he told newsmen: "A census of weapons without verification is meaningless. This is another attempt to fool the public."

"The proposal for the addition of atomic bombs to the census adds nothing new," Austin said. "It continues to reflect an unwillingness on the part of the Soviet Union to recognize the real nature of the atomic problem."

The Russian proposal was not acted on and Malik refused to go into detail on it when he spoke to newsmen after the meeting.

Malik was directly asked if Russia has atomic weapons.

He answered, "Read the Tass communication."

That Soviet press agency said on Sept. 25 that the Russians have atomic weapons at their disposal. The agency statement followed disclosure by President Truman that an atomic explosion took place recently in Russia.

Austin pointed out that the United Nations set up the Atomic Energy Commission to handle the question of the use of atomic energy. That was the place, Austin hinted, for Russia's proposals.

Six members of that commission plan to hold another in a series of secret meetings tomorrow. It is deadlocked because Russia, one of the Big Five members that sits in the commission with Canada, always has refused to accept atomic energy controls that call for international inspection and check-up.

Patrolmen Enjoy Supper Meeting

Three Districts of the State Highway Patrol Troop A met in the Proctor last night at 6 o'clock for a troop supper meeting.

About one hundred officers and their wives were present for the affair.

Col. C. R. Tolar Commander of the state Highway Patrol and Major J. R. Smith from Raleigh spoke to the members of the Patrol assembled last night.

Captain D. T. Lambert, Commander of the State Highway Patrol Troop A, with headquarters in Greenville spoke, and told the men and officers of some changes which would be made in the Troop set up. This was the first official appearance for Captain Lambert since he took over the post of Troop commander.

Charge Negro With Attacking His Wife With Big Flashlight

Police arrested Wilbur Maye, 21, colored, early today on the charge of assaulting his wife, Louise Maye, with a deadly weapon—a flashlight. Authorities also charged Maye with damaging personal property—a dress valued at $7.50.
