Bevin indicates Large Reduction Military Outlays

Touring Senators Concerned Over Britain's Role In European Defenses

London, Oct. 21—(AP)—Four U.S. senators said today Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin had given them the impression that Britain will make large cuts in military appropriations in an effort to ease her economic problems.

"We are vitally concerned, of course, because of Britain's role in overall plans for defense of Western Europe," Senator Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) told a news conference.

Ellender is chairman of an appropriations subcommittee investigating European defense and the accomplishments of American aid abroad. Committee members talked with Bevin yesterday.

Ellender's colleagues, Senators Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.), William E. Jenner (R-Ind.) and Theodore Francis Green (D-R.I.), said they also received the impression there will be substantial cuts in Britain's defense expenditures.

The senators said they were concerned about what part Spain may play in broad defense strategy. They are scheduled to see Generalissimo Franco after they reach Madrid Oct. 25.

Politics Beckons Again To James F. Byrnes

Here are recent pictures of former U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes who has announced that he is considering running for governor of South Carolina. The photos were made at his home in Spartanburg.

Boxscore

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 21—(P)—The State Motor Vehicle Department's report on highway accidents from 4 p. m. Wednesday to 10 a. m. today:

Killed—1. Injured—21. Killed to date—617. Killed to date in 1948—553. Injured to date—7,247. Injured to date in 1948—8,811.

Sec. Johnson Declares Will Continue Policies

Washington, Oct. 21—(AP)—Secretary Louis Johnson declared today he is running the defense department in the interests of the American people and world peace.

He said he intends to hew to that line despite "straw men" and "false rumors" which he attributed to the Navy.

Johnson was the climax witness before the House Armed Services Committee which has heard Navy charges that present defense policies are wrong and are hurting national security.

Johnson said all he is trying to do is see that the money of the taxpayers is put into the most modern and efficient defense equipment so that they get a hundred cents worth of defense for every dollar spent.

And, throwing his "wholehearted support" behind unification of the armed forces, the secretary said that there is "an essential and honorable role" for each of them to fulfill under present strategy plans.

Before Johnson went on the witness stand Gen. George C. Marshall told the committee that money is "the root of the present trouble in the armed forces."

Marshall, wartime Army Chief of Staff, said all commanders want more than they can be given and somebody has to find "a more economical way of doing things that have to be done."

Johnson said that in addition to money there are other factors. His view was that:

"Tradition, opposing interest, and fear of loss of identity have all played a part in the turmoil on the subject of unification, and in the operation of the unified military establishment since you first established it in 1947. The present controversy, in my opinion, is a continued adherence to the above-mentioned considerations."

Auto Accident Revealed Liqueur Being Carried

A two-car wreck early last night resulted in considerable damage to the cars and the arrest of one man for transporting bootleg liquor.

State Highway Patrolman Ernest Guthrie reported today that a car operated by Arthur B. Batts, colored, 27 Route 2, Scotland Neck, hit the left side of a bridge rail on the Stokes highway. A car which was following close behind, operated by William Edwards, colored, Route 2, Scotland Neck, rammed into the rear of the car on the bridge.

The car being operated by Arthur Batts was carrying three three-gallon pickle jars of non-tax-paid liquor. Guthrie said. At the time of the wreck the jars broke and spilled the contents all over the car. When the officers discovered the liquor in the car they could not find the jars. A search revealed that the jars had been thrown into the creek below.

Damage to the two cars was estimated to be about $800. Batts is in the Pitt County jail charged with transporting non-tax-paid liquor for the purpose of sale.

Halt Red Drive Towards Kweilin

Chungking, Oct. 21—(P)—Government troops fighting for the fate of Southwest China have halted a Communist drive towards Kweilin, the defense ministry said today.

At the same time, Nationalist sources said they had detected a movement of 100,000 Reds in preparation for an invasion of Szechwan province of this new refugee capital.

Greenville Mart Has $51 Average

Ranks High In Sept. Federal-State Marketing Report

Prices on the Greenville tobacco market during the month of September averaged $51 per hundred pounds, according to an official report of the Federal-State Marketing News Service which was released this week.

The average price of the Greenville market ranked second only to Kingston among the four leading markets in the belt. The average price for producers' sales during September on the four markets, according to the report, were: Greenville $51; Kingston $51.27; Rocky Mount $47.45; and Wilson $50.96.

The average price paid for all producers' sales on the entire eastern belt during September was $50.01. Producers' sales on the belt during September totaled 188,658,138 pounds.

Although most of the tobacco in this area already has been marketed, Supervisor W. L. Whedbee of the Greenville market said sales remain moderate on the local market, and yesterday soared to the highest peaks of the season. On yesterday's sales in Greenville, Whedbee said, prices were stronger on most grades, and a particular increase in the demand for heavy tobaccos was noted.

Abolish Ancient Court Penalties

London, Oct. 21—(P)—Modern times have caught up with justice in Scotland.

The House of Commons yesterday approved in principle a bill to abolish such penalties as being drawn and quartered and sentenced to hard labor with crank and tread-mill.

Name Township Chairmen And CROP Drive Quotas

Township chairmen and community quotas have been set for the Christian Rural Overseas Project in Pitt county. Mrs. Ruth Meeks, secretary of the group sponsoring the project here, disclosed this morning.

The quotas were set by County Agent S. C. Winchester and County CROP Chairman J. P. Harris of Bethel, at a meeting early this week.

Township chairmen were appointed last week and notified by mail. Township quotas which will comprise to make the two car loads of grain goal set for Pitt county and chairmen in each township are as follows: Ayden, 267 bushels, F. M. Kilpatrick and O. C. Stroud; Beaver Dam, 213 bushels, Mark E. Smith and P. S. Rasmberg; Belvoir, 267 bushels, Mrs. Clarence Barnhill and W. R. Tyson; Bethel, 267 bushels, John Burton Bunting and W. A. House; Carolina, 267 bushels, T. L. Perkins and J. B. Congleton; Chicod, 320 bushels, Y. E. Williams, Mrs. J. Brooks Tucker, G. S. Porter, W. E. Little, Robert E. Wilson, Newman Lewis, Mrs. Curtis Spencer, Mrs. Troy Jones; Falkland, 213 bushels, Woodrow Wooten and Mrs. R. B. Tyler; Farmville, 267 bushels, Rev. B. T. Cox and W. Jesse Moye; Fountain, Mrs. Herman Baker and S. A. Diddy; Greenville, 320 bushels, N. C. Brooks; Mrs. Leon Tyson, Mrs. R. B. Starling, J. E. Winslow, J. B. Kittrell, and F. A. McLawhorn; Pictious, 213 bushels, Noel Lee Jr., C. J. Satterthwaite, W. Charles Elks and J. R. Chaucey; Swift Creek, 267 bushels, Mrs. Willie B. Wilson, Mrs. Alton Chapman, Alton Gardner, and W. I. Bisette; Winterville, 213 bushels, Rev. E. G. Cole, Mrs. Lottie Ellis and Mrs. Obed Castelleo.

French Premier Stalled In Selecting Of Cabinet

Paris, Oct. 21—(AP)—Premier Rene Mayer today was almost hopelessly stalled in his efforts to form a new French coalition cabinet.

Hesitancy of the Socialists to enter his government was reported the stumbling block for the Radical Socialist whom the National Assembly last night approved for the premiership by a vote of 341 to 183.

The possibility loomed that the only way out of France's political crisis, now 15 days old, might be the dissolving of Parliament followed by a general election.

The Socialist group in Parliament debated all morning without agreeing whether to go into Mayer's cabinet. There was talk that the Socialists might summon a National Congress Sunday to reach a decision.

Truman Tax Hike Poorly Received On Capitol Hill

Counter Proposal Of Slashes In Gov't Spending And Tax Adjustments

Washington, Oct. 21—(P)—Capitol Hill fired back at President Truman's talk of a tax increase today with counter proposals to slash government spending instead.

Another popular suggestion on how to make the government's ends meet was:

By tax adjustments and other incentives, encourage a billowing industrial and business economy with rights set on a $300,000,000 National income. That, it is figured, would yield adequate revenue—without hikes in tax rates—to support federal, state and local governments. National income now is at the rate of about $71,000,000,000.

House Republican leader Martin, of Massachusetts, issued a statement saying the President wants more taxes to put "his Socialist schemes over on the American people."

"The American economy," he declared, "is so shaky now that an increase in the tax burden might easily lead to a depression with millions out of jobs."

Mr. Truman disclosed his 1950 tax objective at his news conference yesterday, despite (A) that Congress has ignored his call last January for a $4,000,000,000 tax increase, and (B) 1950 is election year. All house members and one-third of the Senate will be out asking votes then from tax payers.

Mr. Truman told the newsmen that if anyone could tell him any way, without tax increases, to meet an estimated $5,000,000,000 federal deficit in the current fiscal year, then he'd like to be told.

Chairman George D-Ga of the Senate Finance committee came up immediately with his counter proposal:

"I think the way to meet our deficit is: 1. To reduce spending, and 2. Readjust our tax so as to encourage greater production and inspire greater activity in all lines."

"I do not see how the National income can be increased by adding to the burden of taxes at this time."

Survey Started Of Blood Banks

Chicago, Oct. 21—(P)—The American Medical Association, in long range preparations for a possible National emergency has started a survey of blood bank stores throughout the nation.

Questionnaires have been sent to more than 1,500 blood banks and to 1,100 hospitals which have no blood banks. They seek to determine accurately how much blood can be stored and how much is normally used by the nation's hospitals.

Complains Court Calendar Light

Durham, Oct. 21—(AP)—A Superior Court judge has asked that more cases be put on the calendar so that the court "will have something to do."

Judge William T. Hatch reversed the complaint of numerous courts in recent months by asking for more work. Judges and lawyers in many areas recently have complained of crowded calendars.

'Not Hopeless'

New York, Oct. 21—(AP)—Government mediators, meeting with the U. S. Steel Corp. again today, will try to fan a spark of hope for ending the costly national steel strike.

Although denying any basis for optimism, Federal Mediation Chief Cyrus S. Ching said after talks yesterday that "the situation is certainly not hopeless."

It was understood that the mediators are working on a new formula to break the deadlock between labor and management on the issue of pensions and insurance financed solely by the companies.

Ching, his principal aides and officials of the company have met here since Wednesday for talks.

The company—America's largest steel producer—is expected to set industry's pace in any settlement of the three-week strike by 500,000 members of the CIO United Steelworkers.

Lucas Says Past Price Support Losses To Be Avoided

Washington, Oct. 21—(AP)—Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) predicted today the new compromise farm bill "will eliminate the scandalous losses incurred by the Department of Agriculture supporting such products as potatoes and eggs."

The Senate Democratic leader rated the price support measure awaiting President Truman's approval as an "excellent" bill, although "not all that I hoped it would be."

The compromise program received strong support in the final Senate voting—support reflected among those senators who, like Lucas, face an election fight next year. The record showed that senators whose terms are expiring lined up this way: 27 for, three against, four not recorded.

Lucas explained his position in a broadcast prepared for Illinois voters.

Under past programs, he said, the government has incurred heavy losses in supporting potato and egg prices.

The new bill, said Lucas, "will stop the process under which many millions of dollars were paid out for commodities over which the government had no production controls through quotas or marketing agreements."

Law Enforcer Of Wildlife Body Named Yesterday

Raleigh, N.C., Oct. 21—(AP)—The new chief of law enforcement for the Wildlife Resources Commission is a young Raleigh attorney.

Gilmer A. Jones, 29, was named to the post yesterday by Clyde P. Patton, the commission's director, and the commission's committee on law enforcement.

Eight applications for the post vacated in August by Warren Lupton of Beaufort County were considered. Lupton was dismissed for "disloyalty," according to Patton.

Jones is expected to assume the job about Nov. 1. A Navy fighter pilot for five years during the war, he graduated from the University of North Carolina last spring and has been practicing law here.

Left-Wing UE Signs T-H Oath

Washington, Oct. 21—(AP)—The Left-Wing United Electrical Workers, biggest CIO holdouts against Taft-Hartley Act rules, gave in today and filed non-Communist oaths from its officers.

The affidavits are required by the labor law before a union can have access to National Labor Relations Board machinery for such things as collective bargaining elections. They must state that the union officers are not communists and are not sympathetic to communism.

Denver, Oct. 21—(AP)—A modern organization of minute men to meet threats of Communist sabotage was proposed today. It was termed the key to adequate security.

The plan was offered by C. B. Lister of Washington, executive director of the National Rifle Association. Lister helped draft the first manual on home guard organization in World War II. He asked his board of directors to help establish a new internal security force of civilians in their states "while there is time."

Fire Dept. Called To Out-of-Town Blaze

The Greenville Fire Department answered an out-of-town call for aid last night about 6:15. The Fire Department was called to the Ballard's Crossroad section to a fire at the Blount heavy cotton gin, which had caught fire from some faulty electrical appliance. Damage to the building was moderate, firemen reported. The blaze was under control by the time that the department reached the scene.

Prison Sentence And Heavy Fines For Communists

Ten Draw Five Year Terms, Eleventh Three Years; Fined $10,000 Each

New York, Oct. 21—(AP)—Ten top-ranking American Communist leaders today were sentenced to prison for five years each for criminal conspiracy to teach overthrow of the U.S. government by force. An eleventh was sentenced to three years.

Federal Judge Harold R. Medina imposed the sentences and fined each defendant $10,000—the maximum—in addition.

Those sentenced to five years were: Eugene Dennis, 44, general secretary of the Communist party.

John B. Williamson, 46, labor secretary.

Jacob Stachel, 49, educational director.

Gus Hall, 39, Ohio state chairman.

John Gages, 36, editor of the Daily Worker.

Henry Winston, 35, organizational secretary.

Carl Winter, 43, Michigan state chairman.

Benjamin J. Davis, Jr., 46, New York City outflanker.

Gilbert Green, 43, Illinois chairman.

Irving Potash, 46, member of the national committee.

Winston and Davis are Negroes.

Robert Thompson, 34, New York state chairman, was sentenced to three years and a $10,000 fine. Judge Medina took into consideration Thompson's war record. The New Yorker won the Distinguished Service Cross for service in the Pacific.

Shot 8 Times, Refuses Testify Against Husband

Gardena, Calif., Oct. 21—(AP)—"They can send me to jail if they want to," says Mrs. Gloria Davis, just out of the hospital after 23 days. "I love my husband and, he loves me, and I will not speak against him."

The husband, Robert C. Davis, 38, was held yesterday for Superior Court trial on charges of assaulting with intent to murder. Police said he shot his wife eight times.

Mrs. Davis, 34, was given a suspended three-day jail term for refusing to testify against him. Peace Justice D. Clifford Higgins, holding that the law exempting a spouse from testifying did not necessarily apply in this case, cited Mrs. Davis for contempt.

"You did not have a legally justified reason for refusing to testify," the justice said.

Famed Irishman Feeling His Age

London, Oct. 21—(AP)—England's most famous Irishman, George Bernard Shaw, confessed today he's too old to dance a Scottish Reel.

Just "Let me alone," the aging playwright wrote to the Clan Chattan Association, which invited him to a Scottish dinner dance on Nov. 11.

Northern And Western Mine Operators Walk Out On Union Spokesmen; Offer To Meet Again When UMW Leaders Modify Their Demands

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Oct. 21—(AP)—Northern and western coal operators today walked out on contract talks with the United Mine Workers.

The operators issued a statement saying:

"In his mad race for power, John L. Lewis is impoverishing our employees and is willing to destroy the coal industry—therefore we are leaving this conference.

"When the union leaders show some disposition to consider our employees and the industry, on which we all depend, we will meet with them again, at a mutually satisfactory place and time."

The operators sat in today's negotiating session for about 45 minutes. Then they left the room and George Love, their spokesman, handed reporters the typewritten statement.

They had no other comment. Union negotiators, headed by UMW Vice President Thomas Kennedy in the absence of Lewis, remained in the conference room and had no comment immediately.

The union several times has turned down an offer to renew the old contract which expired June 30.

"This is the best and final offer," Love said today. Under the circumstances, remaining here longer will only make the operators a party to fooling the miners and the public."

Talks between the union and the Southern Coal Producers Association at Bluefield, W. Va., where the first hopeful signs appeared in nearly five months of negotiations, were scheduled to resume at 1 p.m. (EST).

Efforts toward an agreement to end the five-week strike of some 378,000 soft coal miners went on without UMW Leader John L. Lewis. He was at the bedside of his year-old mother seriously ill.

Federal mediators had been expected to step into the strike if negotiations showed no marked progress this week. Some observers guessed that the ray of hope from Bluefield might have warranted off federal action for a few days.

At Bluefield yesterday, SCPA President Joseph E. Moody said to southern operators would agree to continuing miner pensions under certain conditions and would no longer demand an end to the half-hour paid lunch period.

Predicts Civil War For Tito

Bucharest, Romania, Oct. 21—(AP)—Major General Petru Popovici, who fled from the Yugoslav army to Romania last year, predicted in today's Communist journal that resistance within Yugoslavia to the Tito regime will inevitably lead to civil war.

He added: "Yugoslav patriots' resistance to the traitors will inevitably grow into an armed struggle and will destroy the imperialist plans which have already been exposed."

Tornado Strikes In West Texas

Ahrens, Tex., Oct. 21—(AP)—A tornado dipped into this West Texas town today, killing a woman and injuring three members of her family.

Mrs. Ruby Lee Pearson, 37, a school teacher, was the storm's only victim.

She was suffocated, doctors said, by her daughter's body pinned across her face.

Mrs. L. E. Brown Re-elected President Of State WCTU; Temperance Movement Said Gaining New Supporters

By CHESTER WALSH

The North Carolina Women's Christian Temperance Union, in its 67th annual convention here at the Memorial Baptist Church today re-elected Mrs. L. E. Brown of Charlotte president.

Mrs. W. H. Causey of Winston-Salem is vice-president; Mrs. L. D. Scott of Winston-Salem, corresponding secretary; Mrs. T. S. Gillikin of Goldsboro, treasurer; Mrs. Harry Glenn of Goldsboro, recording secretary; G. S. Pruden of Raleigh, assistant recording secretary.

Mrs. W. B. Ramsey of Charlotte is editor of "The White Ribbon," official WCTU publication. Mrs. L. B. Romaine of Cherry Point is Young Temperance Crusaders' secretary. Mrs. F. S. Miles of Greensboro is secretary of the L.T.L.

Miss Elizabeth A. Smart of Evansville, Ill., and Cambridge, N. Y., delivered her message from the National Women's Christian Temperance Union this morning. Her talk indicated that the temperance movement in this country is gaining new supporters in considerable number.

Mrs. L. E. Brown of Charlotte, state president, in her annual message, reviewed the year's activities and outlined projects proposed for next year. Mrs. W. B. Lindsay, honorary president, sent a written message.

The Young Temperance Crusaders' banquet will be held tonight at 8 o'clock. Dean W. E. Marshall of East Carolina Teachers College will be the speaker.

The final session will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. Delegates to the National WCTU Convention will be elected and the place and time of next year's convention will be announced.

Chang Says U. S. Support Needed

Former Diplomat Says China's Problem World Problem

By CHESTER WALSH

Dr. H. H. Chang, representative of the Chinese Institute of Foreign Affairs and former Chinese diplomat in European capitals, guest speaker at the Greenville Executives' Club meeting at the college last night, delivered an address entitled "America's Stake In Asia."

He unfolded the "story of China," the Asiatic country's tragic history.

Dr. Chang, relating his own experience and observations, said "my country is on the verge of being communistic, but China's problem is the world's problem. We Chinese are looking to the United States for understanding and sympathy," he said with emphasis.

He then paid tribute to Gandhi and Nehru of India for their path-finding philosophy.

"The speaker said China cannot recover without our assistance. He reviewed the history of China's devastation since 1937 by the invading Japanese. He hinted that many of China's leaders betrayed the people and that they had almost lost faith and are now demoralized by constant civil war.

Dr. Chang's message last night emphasized the accuracy of the press dispatches coming out of China describing conditions of chaos resulting from Communist activities.

Dr. H. Glenn Haney introduced the speaker. Dr. John D. Mesick presided. Miss Gladys Bellharts sang two songs, with Mrs. R. R. Willmann as accompanist.

That New Tax Boost

If Congress Does Accept President's Recommendation, Tax Increase Will Be On 1950 Income; Many Days Of Consideration In Congress Before Action Is Taken

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Oct. 21—(P)—President Truman said he is going to ask Congress to raise taxes when it returns in January, 1950.

But—the deadline for paying in full the tax you owe on your 1949 income doesn't arrive until March 15, 1950.

So, if Congress listens to Mr. Truman, does this mean your 1949 tax may go up before you pay it in full next March?

Hardly. The chances against that happening seem about 1,000,000 to one.

If Congress raises taxes next year at all, it almost certainly will be on your 1950 income, not on that for 1949.

40 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
October 21, 1909

Grifton, N. C.—On Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at the Episcopal church, parish of St. John's Pitt county, Miss Fred J. Tucker, daughter of Mr. Joshua Lawrence Tucker, was given in marriage to Mr. Clarence Victor Cannon, of Ayden. The church had been beautifully decorated with palms and ferns banked high against the chancel wall, the green contrasting to good advantage with the white altar hangings and the white carpet, which stretched from the altar to the vestibule. Mrs. Edward Graham Mallison, of Washington, gave Schubert's "Serenade." Her gown was white messaline satin with black hat. Miss Doretha Farmer rendered the wedding music giving Lohengrin's bridal chorus for processional and Mendelssohn's wedding march for recessional. Mrs. Walter F. Harding, the bride's sister was dame of honor. She was gowned in blue moire silk, wearing a black hat and carried carnations. Miss Blanche Cannon, sister of the groom was maid of honor. She wore white messaline satin with black hat and carried carnations. Then entered the beautiful bride on the arm of her brother, Mr. Walter F. Harding, who gave the bride away. At the altar rail they were met by the groom and his best man, Mr. John W. Coward of Ayden. They took their places four abreast and according to the old English custom, the vows were said and troth plighted. Rev. W. E. Cox of Wilmington performed the ceremony. He was a personal friend of the bride, having presented her for confirmation. The bride was attired in a going away gown of London smoke with hat and gloves to match. She carried bride's roses.

The ushers were Messrs. Allan Cannon and Elmer Gardner, both of Ayden. All gentlemen wore black suits, tie of black with grey gloves. After receiving congratulations the bridal party, together with many friends, drove to Grifton where they took the train for points north.

Grimesland Musical Program
Miss Jeanette Parker, public school music teacher of Grimesland, assisted by Mrs. Curtis Phillips and Mrs. Bruce Cosart, presented the elementary children in a musical program Friday night, in the Grimesland School auditorium. The songs and dances of Italy, Holland, Ireland, Germany, Switzerland, Sweden, Spain, Scotland, and America were performed by the children in costume.

Flags of all the nations decorated the stage in colorful display. The finale of the program brought all the children on stage to sing "The Star Spangled Banner," assisted by the audience.

The producers and the children received laud applause and many words of admiration for their unusual and enjoyable performance.

Due to the fact of the pastor's absence this week the mid-week Bible study will be discontinued until the following week.

The Rev. A. Hartwell Campbell, manager of the local radio station and at one time pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church in Greenville, will be the guest minister at the service on Sunday morning October 30.

The Christian Youth Fellowship will meet at usual at 6:30 Sunday evening. Miss Louise Morris, the counsellor, will not be present for the two Sundays, October 23 and 30, due to the fact that she will be attending the International Convention in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Sponsor at Homecoming

Miss Dot Stauffer, a student at Mary Washington college, Fredericksburg, Va., will be one of the sponsors of the Wake Forest Homecoming this week end. The sponsors and their escorts will take part in the half time program at the William and Mary-Wake Forest game in Grove stadium. Her escort will be Herbert Paschal of Washington, N. C.

Theatre Guild Elects Officers

On Tuesday night at 7 o'clock the Greenville Little Theatre Guild met at Sheppard Memorial Library with Miss Ann Askew presiding.

The following officers were elected to hold office for one year: president, Miss Ann Askew; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Dora G. Howell; business manager, A. E. Manning; and director, Miss Evelyn Beasley.

A Play Reading Committee composed of Mrs. Lindsay Savage, Mrs. C. C. Hilton, and Mrs. Ed Bloom was appointed.

Mrs. J. H. Rose, Mrs. Howard Mims and Dr. Lucille Charles will act as counselors.

There was a large attendance, and the Guild is planning to have a play ready for presentation around the last of November.

Mrs. Duncan Hostess To Round Table

Mrs. Herman Duncan was hostess to the Ladies of the Round Table Tuesday afternoon. Her home on Dickinson Avenue was attractively decorated with arrangements of pink dahlias, blue sage and yellow mums.

After transacting the usual items of business Mrs. Browning, the president, gave the meeting to Mrs. Donald Conley, program chairman.

Mrs. Conley presented Mrs. Wiley Brown whose paper on the life of Paul, the apostle of Christ, was informing and inspiring.

Mrs. J. E. Wislow and Mrs. Milton White added to the program with timely bits of current news and spice.

Mrs. Duncan was assisted in serving delightful refreshments by her guests, Mrs. Helene Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Harold Haine of Hartford, Conn.

Grand Officers Visit O. E. S.

The members of the Greenville chapter O.E.S. honored their worthy Grand Matron Mrs. Edna Moog of Greensboro, and Worthy Grand Patron Dr. J. Frank Duke of Washington and other officers at a banquet in the dining room of the Proctor Hotel, Tuesday night, October 18.

The table was beautifully decorated in the Worthy Grand Matron's chosen color—lavender. Mrs. A. C. Tadlock, district deputy Grand Patron was master of ceremonies, and a goodly number of members attended.

After the dinner the guests and members were invited to the Masonic Hall for a very special meeting. This being the official visit of the grand officers a large crowd was on hand.

Miss Ayla Ray Taylor, Worthy Matron, presided. The officers were given a welcome and were introduced and presented to the chapter in order by the conductress. The past Matrons and Patrons that were present were also introduced. Sixteen were from the Greenville chapter, others from New Bern, Farmville, Kinston, and Missouri. Mrs. Moog, Worthy Grand Matron, gave a wonderful discussion on the instructions of the chapter, and stressed the point to watch carefully and overcome all things that seek to destroy the fundamental principles thus making better Eastern Stars in building the Temple.

The meeting was concluded by a talk by Dr. Duke, Worthy Grand Patron. In a most interesting way he told how loving kindness in the homes and among neighbors was the most important way in which people could live happy lives, and should ask for spiritual guidance in living the creeds, and to remember the foundation of our forefathers was—thinking of others.

At the close of the meeting a gift was presented Mrs. Moog by Mrs. Ed Rawl in behalf of the chapter. She expressed her thanks in a very charming way.

Mr. Bing, a past Patron of Missouri, presented in behalf of the chapter a gift to Dr. Duke. He thanked the members for this expression of kindness.

Visitors from New Bern, Snow Hill, Farmville, Bethel and Kinston were included among those present.

Refreshments were served in the Temple dining room by the officers of the Greenville chapter.

U.D.C. Hear Reports On State Meeting

The George B. Singletary Chapter UDC met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. W. Harvey, with Mrs. Harvey, president, presiding. Mrs. B. McK. Johnson read the minutes of the last meeting. Mrs. J. G. Lautares, treasurer, gave the yearly report. Mrs. J. H. Randolph presented the following slate of officers which was accepted: president, Mrs. Harvey; first vice-president, Mrs. P. E. Wells; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. J. L. Fleming; secretary, Mrs. B. McK. Johnson; treasurer, Mrs. J. G. Lautares; historian, Mrs. T. T. Hollingsworth; registrar, Mrs. J. H. Boyd, Jr.; recorder of crosses, Mrs. J. H. Randolph; corres, secretary, Mrs. Ed

Moore; and reporter, Mrs. Ernest Willard. Mrs. St. Amand, state 1st vice-president, and Mrs. Fleming gave interesting reports on the UDC state convention held in Durham. The George B. Singletary chapter received a certificate for a high percentage of UDC magazine subscriptions. It was reported that another bed had been added to the Bessie Beall Reed Bed Fund, this bed being at the Sanatorium in Wilson. Three new UDC scholarships were made available, one to be at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and the second at Woman's College, Greensboro. Placing of the third has not been decided upon. Following these interesting reports delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

After Long Years Of Persecution, Ukraine Chorus Prefers U. S.

By EDWARD PRIZER
Detroit — (AP) — Thirsty lusty-lunged Cossack singers have brought a new kind of music to America.
They sing the songs of the wild, windblown steppes and rich grain fields of the Ukraine, their homeland. As accompaniment, they play strange-looking stringed instruments—called banduras.
This is the world's only bandura chorus. It has survived years of persecution and hardship under Russian communists and German Nazis, according to its director, Hryhory Kytasty.

"This country is the realization of freedom and equality and opportunity," Kytasty says. "Over there they told us this was not true."
Kytasty joined the chorus in 1934, shortly after the Soviet government clamped an iron hand on it. It says more than 100 of his friends in the chorus and outside were seized by political police.
One of those arrested was Danylo Kravchenko. (No relation to the author of "I Chose Freedom").
The 56-year-old Kravchenko is completely bald and his mouth is filled with false teeth replacing those he says were knocked out by Red police. This is the story Kravchenko tells:
"He was seized in 1935 for speaking against the Soviet state. They threw him in an underground dungeon where, for eight months, he was grilled and beaten nightly.
Later they sentenced him to six years in the Siberian mines. He says his labor camp was one of more than 1,000 on the bleak Kamchatka peninsula. There prisoners, fed only on a muddy mixture of raw grain and water, died in large numbers. Kravchenko survived.
In 1945 he turned up by chance at the Munich DP camp where his old friends in the chorus were living. There was a joyous reunion.
The chorus was organized in 1923 from small bandura groups and single singers in the Ukraine, a territory in the southwestern part of the USSR.
For more than 800 years, the bandura players had been the troubadours of the Ukraine, singing of great battles and heroic deeds. Their music always fired the fierce nationalistic feelings of the Ukrainians.

In trying to stamp out these feelings, the Soviet placed the chorus under strict control, Director Kytasty says. During the next few years, seven directors were arrested. At least one is reported to have died in a slave labor camp, he says.
After the Nazis invaded, the chorus was taken to a German concentration camp. Finally, Germany surrendered. The ukrainian musicians, settled at Munich, gave concerts for U. S. troops. Sponsored by the united Ukrainian-American relief committee, members of the chorus were brought to Detroit.
They have taken jobs—everything from factory work to dish-washing—while adapting themselves to a new land. Four times a week they rehearse. Their instruments are all hand made. They look like lopsided, flattened-out guitars with from 32 to 48 strings. The flick of a lever will change them from a major to a minor key.

Morning Party Honors Miss Gaylord

Mrs. George Garrett entertained informally on Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock at her home on Lewis street. The occasion was to honor Miss Virginia Gaylord, bride-elect of Saturday.

Bowls of marigolds shading from yellow to deep orange, decorated the living room to carry out a color scheme of yellow and white used in the party appointments.
The table in the dining room, covered with a cutwork cloth, also held an arrangement of marigolds.
With Coca-Colas the hostess served sandwiches, stuffed dates, mints, chocolate nut bars and salted pecans.
The honoree was presented a gift of crystal.

Hallow'e'n Carnival At Armory Tonight; Parade In Afternoon

A parade of children in Hallow'e'n costumes, on foot and on bicycles, will feature the Business and Professional Women's Hallow'e'n Carnival to be held at the armory tonight at 7 o'clock. The parade will form at the armory and start at 4:30. The line of march will be down Evans Street to Five Points and thence to the Coast Line Railroad. Miss Annie Laurie Askew is parade chairman; Miss Evelyn Latham is general chairman.
The first 50 children entering the armory tonight will each be given "yo-yos." Tickets are 25c for adults, 10c for children.
All of the features of a carnival will be there, including pony rides, contests, bingo, fortune telling, dancing, etc.
The Hallow'e'n Carnival is for the benefit of the Business and Professional Women's recreation fund.

Linen Shower Given For Bride-Elect

Gifts of linen were presented Miss Virginia Gaylord, bride-elect, by guests at the party given by Mrs. Amos Leggett last Saturday afternoon. The party was held at the home of Mrs. Leggett's mother, Mrs. J. O. Duval, on Raleigh Avenue.
Colorful dahlias, zinnias and other autumn flowers were used to decorate the rooms.
As the guests arrived Coca-Colas with closed and open faced sandwiches, cheese straws, bridal cakes and salted nuts were served.
Following the refreshment hour a white umbrella attractively decorated bearing the gifts, was presented Miss Gaylord. From the hostess, the honoree received a pair of antique frames. Mrs. Duval remembered her with crystal.

VFW Membership Drive Spirited; Many New Members

Earl D. Knouff, Jr., vice-commander, North Carolina department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, guest speaker at the Charles Gray Morgan Post supper meeting here last night, spoke about the proposed North Carolina cottage at the Veterans of Foreign Wars' Home at Eaton Rapids, Michigan. The post voted to donate $100 toward the fund. Commander Earl Alder presided.

Announcement was made about Armistice Day plans for a big celebration here on November 11. The American Legion and VFW posts are sponsoring the event. An elaborate parade is being planned to feature the celebration.
The 1950 membership campaign made considerable progress last night, when a free barbecue supper was served the 1949-50 members. Larry Averette and Walter Lewis are captains, respectively, of two teams in the contest to obtain the largest number of new members.

Altrusa Club Initiates New Members

The Altrusa Club held a special dinner meeting at the Proctor Hotel on Tuesday evening, October 4, in honor of the new members. The president, Mrs. Johnetta Spilman, welcomed the new members, and presented the program chairman, Mrs. Margaret Cone, who introduced each member, giving a resume of their occupational positions. The members received were: Mrs. Mattie Moye Gaylord, district supervisor of the Blind Commission; Dr. Lucile Turner, director of English, East Carolina Teachers College; Dr. Hazel Taylor, director of Psychological Testing, East Carolina Teachers College; Mrs. Emma Brown, homemaker, chosen from the community due to her contributions towards the beautification of the city; and Mrs. Louise McKinney, owner of a representative beauty shop.
In addition to the initiation of the new members, reports were received from the Project Committee. However, the project selected for Greenville Altrusa Club will be announced at a later date.
Mrs. Cora Powell, vice-president, will serve as acting president during the absence of Mrs. Spilman, who is traveling through several European countries during October and November.
After a delicious dinner, with a representative group of regular club members in attendance, the meeting was adjourned.

Mrs. Forbes Gives Club Program

Mrs. Helen White Hawes was hostess to the Clio Book club Tuesday afternoon, October 18, at her home on Evans street. Beautiful fall flowers decorated the rooms for the meeting.
Mrs. Hawes introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Harry Forbes, who gave a most interesting and entertaining story of New Orleans' Mardi Gras. Mrs. Forbes told of how this most famous carnival came to be, and how visitors and native Orleanians can participate. She also told of the celebrations, pageants, parades and balls which are the very essence of life to the people of New Orleans, and that on Mardi Gras comes freedom from all restraint.
After the delightful program the president, Miss Agnes Fullilove, called the meeting to order. The minutes were read and approved, the treasurer's report made and the committee chairman were heard. The year books and new club books for 1949-50 were distributed.
A delicious salad plate with hot tea sweets and nuts was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Bill Whedbee.
Mrs. Harry Forbes, Miss Marguerite Austin and Mrs. J. J. Perkins were guests for the afternoon.

Bethel News

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sterling of Los Angeles, Calif., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Whitehurst in Bethel.
Mrs. Rosa Briley, Miss Harriet Stancill and Mrs. Leonard Briley were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Whitehurst last week.
Mrs. G. M. Watson left Monday to attend the funeral of Mr. Wadell Waters in Kingston on Tuesday. Mrs. Watson is spending several days with Mrs. T. H. Cason in Kingston.
Birthday Celebrated
Tommy Whitehurst, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Whitehurst of Bethel celebrated his 9th birthday on October 11 at his home on Jefferson St. After having a wonderful time playing games Mrs. Whitehurst served Tommy and his guests ice cream and cake. The following little boys and girls attended the party: Barbara Garrenton, Jean Manning, Janet Taylor, Ann Briley, Judy Whitehurst, Billy Andrews, Vance Taylor, Ciffie Everett, Roland Cullifer and Loretta Bullock.
Heaviest player on the University of Arizona football squad is tackle Larry Howard, a 225 pounder.

WHAT IS TRUE RELIGION?
 Many people believe that religion consists of acquiring knowledge about God. This is one of the important factors in religion but it is not the only factor—or indeed the chief factor.

Important as belief is in religion, practice is more important. Above everything else, religion means practicing the presence of God. Brother Lawrence, a monk who lived centuries ago, developed the art of practicing the presence of God to such an extent that he learned how to bring the Spirit of God into the humble work of kitchen and field. This is the ideal toward which every truly religious person must strive.

If we insist on cherishing a spirit which is contrary to the loving Spirit of God, we cannot expect his presence to abide with us. If our wills are in constant conflict with the will of God, all knowledge we may have about God and his purposes fails utterly to make us religious. The mind has considerable employment in the field of religion but will power holds the chief place. If we find ourselves saying "yes" to a belief, there remains the great task of putting that belief to work in our lives and making it operate to our benefit, and to God's glory.

Religion in its last analysis consists of practicing the presence of God.

Around Capitol Square

SATISFIED?—A couple of hours spent around the farm machinery and home equipment exhibits at the state fair suggests an answer to a song that was popular just after the first world war, "How you gonna keep 'em down on the farm, after they've seen Paree?" The problem may become one of getting enough young people away from the farm to man industrial plants in the cities.

MARVELS—Exhibits of livestock, poultry, field crops, culinary and other domestic arts are up to standard this year. Essentially they are the same as always, with improvements so subtle as to require expert judges to determine them. Not so with the equipment and machinery. "Marvelous" is about the only word to fit. The North Carolina farm and home is becoming mechanized at more rapid rate than many people realize.

DIVERSITY—Takes just the exhibit of just one firm, the Raleigh dealers in International Harvest products. That one exhibit has forty-seven different pieces of farm machinery and ten items of household equipment. They range from an $8,000 cotton picker down to a $300 milking machine for outside; from huge refrigerators down to small mixers for inside. Nearly all the outside machinery calls for gasoline or Diesel power. The household items require electricity. Other manufacturers add to the diversity with display of mechanized garden tools and lawn mowers, wood saws for every conceivable purpose, sewing machines and radios.

GADGETS—There are gadgets galore for utility and entertainment purposes, all designed to take a lot of the hard work out of farm and home life, as well as relieve the tedium and isolation of country living. They do the same thing for town residents, but emphasis at the fair is on rural development.

YOUTH—Old folks looked at these symbols of progress with a sort of wistful skepticism. Some of them could hardly believe what they saw. The youngsters had no such complex. This is their time, and they know it. Boys from ten to twenty years old swarmed over the tractors and plows and bull dozers, feeling for pedals and levers, checking the use of push buttons and gauges, asking questions of attendants—who were delighted to answer them—about "What does this do?" Fifty years ago the ten-year-old farm boy dreamed of the time he would leave the farm and run a railroad engine. Twenty-five years ago the ten-year-old had visions of steering a big truck along the new highways just being laid between large centers. Fifteen years ago his younger brother looked longingly at the planes soaring through the clouds, and wondered when he could fly one.

OUTLET—Some of those fellows in all these age groups are now flying their own planes from landing strips on the edge of the farm, and more of that will come. And why should the ten year old now

It's Tough To Be An Ex-Glamour Queen

Somebody Told Me...

By L. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

The other day I was taking Wife Rachel home from school and the newsman's dream came true. A fire truck, with siren wide open, came buzzing by the house. By no means do I mean to infer that newsman like to see things burn down to give them new stories, but let's agree that everybody, newsmen included, craves excitement. So Wife Rachel and I took off in hot pursuit of the fire truck.

It's not fair to build you readers up to the point and then tell you that it was a false alarm, so I'll kill the story and be fair: it was.

But you should have seen the string of cars that the fire truck picked up. You would have thought that it was President Truman, or maybe Rita Hayworth. At the time we got to Hillsdale, the scene of the false alarm, the convoy was half a mile long.

This was one of those times when my enthusiasm got the best of me. Instead of using the nonchalant approach, I ran up to the house, pencil and paper in hand, and asked a lady who probably was one of the neighbors, "Whose house is this?"

The lady noticed the pencil and paper, caught herself before she said a word about the lack of a fire, and exclaimed, "Incidentally, are you Chester Walsh?" The first word would have told me that even if she hadn't asked the question. My only objection to my friend Chester is that he has become the sole possessor of that word "incidentally." Many times I have been forced to spend a whole paragraph, much to the dismay of myself as well as your poor readers, to escape the use of that word, simply because Chester owns it. Incidentally, the 18,000 words that have appeared in this column, this is the first time I have used "incidentally." And it's the last time. Even if Chester would offer me his word for general use, I wouldn't feel right about taking it.

Back on the scene, the neighbor's face showed unaccountable disappointment when I told her that my name is Jack Edwards instead of Chester Walsh. Then I asked her where the cokes were. "What do you mean, cokes?" she asked.

"I always thought," I explained, "that the turner-inner of the alarm, in case of a false alarm, was always so glad to find out that her house isn't burning down that she served cokes to all of the people who came to the fire."

She agreed that it is a good idea, but the hostess was still too upset to entertain the crowd. That left me with three printable facts: (1) The house had a smoking stove, which was the cause of all the alarm, (2) the neighbor I talked to was so disappointed in learning that I wasn't Chester Walsh that she wouldn't tell me a thing, and (3) there were 32 people in eleven cars on hand to see the false alarm.

If somebody would ask me how I stretched 450 words out of three miserable facts like that I would tell you that I don't understand it. And I thank you.

year for a railroad engine, when he can make his own path driving a tractor that pushes obstructions out of the way and turns up the productive soil behind? He's got at his finger tips more facile power than his grandfather had in the locomotive, and finds himself the envy of his city cousin who is more fascinated by a cotton picker or combine than by a fire truck. The farm boy and girl today can find outlet for every urge right on the farm.

Right now there are probably more boys who want to be disc jockeys than lads who aspire to tenant the White House. They can make more money playing phonograph records. The uncrowned king of this new industry is Martin Block, a slender, dark-haired man of 45. He pioneered in the disc jockey field back in 1935, and hit the jackpot with his "make-believe ballroom" program.

What makes a successful disc jockey?

In Block's case it was a golden voice—the ability to get people to buy the products he plugged in commercial announcements between records.

Today he is one of the busiest men in the field and makes in the neighborhood of $400,000 a year. It's a nice neighborhood—that.

Currently Block also is emceeing a free international edition of his "make-believe ballroom," a half-hour program broadcast to foreign countries by the "voice of America." It is beamed to Europe, South America and the Far East.

The program features typical American dance band and vocal music. In the intervals Block describes American customs and traditions for his listeners. The popularity of the program, as judged by mail comments from overseas, amazed him.

"Of course, that sounds like a soft life—and maybe it is," said Block. "But you have to watch out for ulcers along the way."

Before he found out he could make more money by selling through a microphone Block wasted a few years selling vacuum cleaners on a door-to-door basis. He started his career at 13 as an office boy for Owen D. Young of the General Electric Company.

"People sometimes ask me if I wasn't happier selling vacuum cleaners," Block said, "and I ask them if they're out of their minds."

He lives quietly in Englewood, N. J., and spends his spare time tinkering with his fancy Jaguar convertible or working on his own ham radio station. It is one of the largest amateur stations in the metropolitan area.

There are no such markings on the trees as "Mary Loves John," for most of the trees are of the rough trunk variety and not inviting to the whittler. This is a big season for Frederick and his crew of some 60 men. The leaves are falling and grass must be sown and fertilized. But the leaf-raking assignment will be comparatively easy. The government has just invested in its first machine to do the job. This motor-driven contraption picks up the leaves, tosses them into a big canvas and bundles them up like a big cigar. Frederick says the machine does the work of about 15 men.

The leaves are never thrown away. They're saved for eventual use as a fertilizer. By the end of the fall there will be some 400 or 500 cubic yards of leaves. They're given two years to decay.

Frederick manages to solve a problem that is a knotty one for home-makers, the growing of grass beneath shade trees. He and his crew do the trick with domestic rye grass. Bermuda, one of the most popular of grasses, won't grow in such spots, he says. Another bugaboo is crab grass. Frederick says there's no use to try to keep it down. It's just a headache that has to be contended with. Domestic rye is an annual and must be planted every fall. Visitors to the capitol now watch the gardeners at this task.

Only light snow fell today in Wyoming and North Dakota. But there was a wide belt of rain in the middle and upper Mississippi valleys. Fair weather was reported in the rest of the country.

The mid-October snowfall left a total of 15 inches on the ground at Billings, Mont., and 4 inches at Iowa to the Atlantic Coast and throughout the Gulf Coast states. Texas had summer readings yesterday. The mercury hit 96 at Laredo, in contrast to a high of 27 at Williston, N. D.

Heaviest rains today were in Northern Missouri. Southeastern Iowa and Western Illinois. A small tornado hit about a mile south of Hoyt, Kans., yesterday, causing damage to crops and property.

Sub-freezing temperatures were reported over the snow belt today. Mild weather prevailed from Eastern

Mystery Shrouds Ghost Town And Ancient Mound In Florida

By GENE PLOWDEN
Fort Lauderdale, Fla.—(AP)—Did the ancient mound-builders of the Mississippi Valley penetrate Florida and leave a sample of their art deep in the Everglades?
Or did a separate group inhabit the state and vanish centuries before the white man reached these shores?
A mammoth mound some 30 to 40 miles west of Fort Lauderdale has given rise to such speculation. It has prompted these questions:
What hands patiently piled hundreds of tons of earth and smoothed it out into a plot of eight to ten acres?
Where did the dirt come from, in a land that is largely water rotting vegetation and coral rock?
Maurice Hale, a Lakeland business man who often hunts in the Everglades, says Seminole Indians told him about the modern ghost village on the site. It was, he believes, started after the Civil War, centered around a sugar mill.

When the sugar project failed, the village was taken over by men who smuggled Chinese into the United States. Several Indians helped by making Seminole costumes to disguise the Chinese. Trouble broke out and the Indians killed all residents. Indians still regard the place as haunted and shun it, Hale says.
Members of the expeditions to the site have found such things as bottle-capping equipment, Spanish-type bottles and jugs and modern wire nails. Indications are that moonshiners once used the site.

They also found hand-wrought nails and estimated some of the dozen tumbledown shacks on the site dated back at least 75 years. Historically, that is recent.
To explore the area fully would require many months of effort under the most trying conditions. It would cost a great deal.
The mound is six to eight feet above the surrounding terrain and many believe the real story lies at least three feet beneath the surface. It is overgrown with tangled tropical shrubbery almost impossible to penetrate. Banana plants, wild limes, mulberry trees, papayas and two huge royal poincianas trees grow there.
Historians point to other Florida mounds antedating both the early Spanish explorers and the later Seminole Indians. None is as large as the recent discovery nor as difficult to reach but all follow the same pattern.
In Hardee County, about nine miles south and west of the town of Ona, is a mound approximately 100 by 150 feet, eight to ten feet above the level of the surrounding countryside and flat on top. Huge oak and pine trees grow there.

The Caloosas, Timucans and other early Indian tribes who were members of the Hiriuhigua nation that crumbled about 400 years ago and buried their dead in mounds.
It was their custom to place the bodies in burial groves until the seventh moon (February). At this normally dry season they would be carried far inland, placed in burial mounds and covered with eight to ten feet of earth to discourage wolves and other wild animals from digging them up.
The Caloosas, who lived in southwestern Florida, might have gone as far as the recently-discovered mound to bury their dead. Or some tribe along the lower east coast may have penetrated deep into the Everglades on the same mission.
The Seminoles never were numerous enough to build such mounds. They did not appear on the scene until long after the Caloosas and Timucans had vanished.

Automatic Coal Mining Reduces Risk; New Speed

Philadelphia—(AP)—Lizard-like machines that cut and load soft coal at a rate of more than a ton a minute, electric locomotives for subterranean chambers, and automatic timber setters are among mechanical devices now aiding coal producers to increase mine safety, cut costs and accelerate mining.
"The next few years may see virtually all coal mined by machines that eliminate such time-consuming operations as drilling, blasting, and handloading," says Richard H. DeMott, vice president of SKF Industries, Inc.
Recent mechanical innovations include machines that can load up to 10 tons of loose coal per minute, packaged processing units that clean, wash and size up to 100 tons an hour, "pin-up" roofing equipment which drives strengthening rods into mine roofs.

Good Fighters At ECTC But Tough Opposition

By Eugene Price

Boxing fans of this section are in store for a pleasant surprise this year in the boxing team which is currently shaping up over at East Carolina Teachers College.

A lot of Southern Conference boxing teams which are scheduling the East Carolina team as sort of a "breather" might also be in for a little jolt.

The East Carolina team this year will be a great deal better than the squad of pugilists which fought for the purple and gold last season. And that 1946-49 team was no push-over either. It racked up four wins against two losses.

The improvement in this year's squad under Coach Johnny Long is not altogether because of considerable new material either. East Carolina boxers who were considered "pretty good" last year are looking "mighty good" now.

One of the great improvements comes in last year's co-captain Ken Stargardt. That may ring a bell of surprise in some quarters since Stargardt won five straight fights last year before losing his final bout by decision.

Stargardt's main threat last year was in his punch, the punch which brought him three knockouts. This year he still has that punch and he has a lot more. This year Stargardt is boxing. He is putting a lot of class in with his power and Coach Long says it's going to pay off.

Another boy who has come a long way is Bill Cole, the southpaw who scored two wins over East Carolina boxers last year when he fought with the Goldsboro team. Cole's improvement was evidenced in a light workout with Donald Denney yesterday.

Though Denney is far from being in shape yet, Cole looked very good against him. And Denney is a former golden gloves champion who has been tagged one of the most outstanding fighters ever to come to East Carolina. As Long put it: "Anybody who can give Donald the kind of fight Cole gave him today is bound to be good."

Charlie Edwards, one of the Pirates' best fighters last year, is another of the boys who has shown vast improvement. Edwards has shown amazing power and boxing ability in light workouts this week. Long reports.

Long says all the boys profited greatly by last year's experience. "I'd say we're going to be considerably better than we were last year," Johnny remarked. "We'll need to be too," he hastened to add.

He's probably right too. Though the official schedule has not been completed as yet and none of the matches have been announced definitely, reports are that East Carolina will be seeing action against teams including the Citadel and South Carolina, not to mention American University in Washington, D.C.

By way of comparison, American U. beat East Carolina 5-1 last year. Many of the matches were close and hotly disputed but lost nevertheless. The same American U. team did not make a showing in the Southern Conference tournament. The tournament was won by the Citadel with South Carolina second. Long believes his boys can hold their own, however, against the best of them. "Our old boys are better and we have some mighty good new fellows," Long explained.

Leading the list of newcomers is Crowell Williamson, a freshman from Whiteville who captured various Golden Gloves championships across the state last year. Then there is Cecil Phillips from Jacksonville. Phillips was for two years state champion of Florida. The 150 pound Onslow County boy scored 25 wins in 27 matches.

Fans will get their first chance to view the 1949 edition of Buccaneer boxers probably next month when the team will hold its elimination tournament. No definite date has been set for the inter-squad match.

Gamecock Hero

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 21—(AP)—An old South Carolina football hero was back in business at the old stand today.

Harold "Bo" Hagan, one of the slickest T-formation quarterbacks in the Southern Conference when he is right, really had it yesterday as he ran and passed his gamecock's mates to a rousing 27-13 upset victory over Clemson.

The Savannah, Ga., senior, kept in the shadows of comparative obscurity the past two years by a bad knee, staged one of his greatest exhibitions to give a record state fair crowd of 35,000 a thrill it will not forget in a hurry.

Athletics Drop Pair Of Coaches

Philadelphia, Oct. 21—(AP)—Release of Coaches Al Simmons and Earle Brucker by the Philadelphia Athletics' board of directors was not news to Connie Mack and had his approval, says an executive of the American League club.

Connie Mack, Jr., A's treasurer, made that plain last night in a radio interview (WCAU) as he said the board didn't consider Simmons and Brucker were doing a good job. "The confusion was caused by the fact Dad just hated to part with his two old friends," Connie, Jr., said.

"But he knew it was for the best interest of the ball club and went along."

Connie, Sr., said shortly after the Simmons-Brucker release was made public that the move had been made without his approval. He was not available for comment on his son's statement last night.

It was the original intention of the club to give Simmons and Brucker a chance to resign but a slip-up in the front office let the story out prematurely, young Connie added.

The lanky son of the 86-year-old owner-manager of the A's also said: 1. His dad may retire as active manager after another year, his 50th as pilot of the American League club, but that he is still running the club regardless of reports to the contrary. 2. Earl Mack, one of Mack's three sons, will be the A's next manager. Earl has been assistant manager for a number of years. 3. Jimmy Dykes, who was retained as a coach, is well liked by the club management and it is hoped he'll be around for many years.

Racer Is Killed As 7,000 Watch

Hollywood, Oct. 21—(AP)—Ed Haddad, 37-year-old midget auto race driver, was killed last night in a race as 7,000 spectators watched.

Haddad, of Inglewood, was one of Southern California's top race car pilots. His car squeaked into the fence by another and rolled and turned over three times. He died of a fractured skull.

Boston Is Rated One TD Better

Boston, Oct. 21—(AP)—The Boston college Eagles, who have displayed a marked improvement each week, are rated at least a touchdown better than Georgetown for tonight's Jesuit college clash at Braves Field. But the Eagles, according to Coach Denny Myers, will be called upon to edge Georgetown, which Bob Margarita has coached to three victories in four starts.

Ginger Rogers Pinch Hits For 'The Look'

Hollywood, Oct. 21—(AP)—Ginger Rogers will pinch-hit for Lauren Bacall, relegated to the dugout by the Brothers Warner.

The studio's executive producer, Jack L. Warner, last night named Miss Rogers for the role in "Storm Center" that Miss Bacall turned down.

Midgets Romp To 28-0 Win Over Washington

Entire Roster Sees Action In Last Home Game For Locals This Season

Coach Bill Kittrell's Midget football team romped to a 28-0 victory over a heavier Washington Midget ball club last night in a game played at Guy Smith Stadium.

The entire Greenville Midget roster saw action in the game last night, as Kittrell gave every member a chance to see action in the last home game for the local team this year.

Greenville kicked to Washington; the return was fumbled and Edgar Moore, Greenville, recovered the ball on Washington's 35 yard line, setting up the first tally for the locals. Bob Howell and Gene Duffin on the next two plays gained ten yards each, bringing the ball to the 15. Bob Howell then went off tackle for a touchdown. Bob Shackelford went over standing for the extra point. The score at the end of the first quarter stood at 7-0, Greenville.

Early in the second quarter a Greenville drive stalled on the five yard line and Washington took over.

Greenville gained possession of the ball and started a drive for pay dirt down to the five yard line again. George Sideris went off end for the second touchdown to move the Greenies ahead 13-0. A team which worked all during the game last night needed the extra point, as Sideris passed to Billy Bost for the extra point.

Pat Sawyer, early in the third quarter, took a kick and ran it back to the Washington 25 yard line before being brought down. On the next play Bob Howell went all the way for the third touchdown of the game. Pint-size Gene Duffin took the ball over the goal for the extra point to make the score stand at 21-0 Greenville.

The last Greenville tally came in the fourth quarter when a long 30 yard pass by George Sideris to Billy Bost netted the final touchdown.

Pat Sawyer ran the extra point to end the scoring at 28-0 Greenville. In the closing minutes of the fourth quarter, the Washington team playing nearly an entire reserve Greenville team made a determined drive for the goal, but were stopped on the ten yard line.

Outstanding in the game last night were Gene Duffin, Pat Sawyer, Howell and George Sideris in the backfield and Bost, Saleed, Moore on the line.

Sideris got off some long runs in the game with one being for forty yards. A "statue of liberty" play fooled the entire Washington team and gained considerable yardage for the locals. The Midgets pulled several double reverses which clicked.

The kicking of Quarterback Pat Sawyer kept the ball deep in Washington territory all during the game. The win last night brings the current winning streak of the Midgets to three games won and none lost, with one tie.

Greenville has won two games from Kinston and battled to a 0-0 tie with New Bern for this year.

GHS Chances In Kinston Seen As Not Yet Extinct

Kinston's Granger high school Red Devils were tagged one of the most highly favored teams in this section of North Carolina today as high school teams all over the state poised for Friday night contests.

Greenville high school's Phantoms will assume the role of underdog against the Red Devils when the two teams clash in Kinston tonight.

Chances of a Greenville victory, though slight, were not extinct as Coach Farley's boys departed for Kinston today.

Northeastern conference followers, many of whom would like very much to see the Kinston team defeated, point to Greenville's win over Edenton's Aces here in the opening game of the season. They then point out that Edenton defeated Elizabeth City, a team which has already been classed with Kinston in power.

A win for Greenville would give the Phantoms a 2-1 record in the conference. They lost to New Bern 14-0.

Greenville's power was evidenced in the last quarter of their last game with Ahoskie. After taking a 26-0 drubbing the first half, the Phantoms came back to outplay the Indians and actually threaten twice in the final two quarters. They lost the game 26-0, the halftime score.

One of the most crucial games on the schedule for tonight is the Ayden-Farmville scrap in Farmville. The game might easily determine the Coastal Conference championship.

East Carolina Teachers College will play at Newport News tonight in one of the few Friday college games in the state.

'Moral Support' From GHS Band

Although the Greenville High Phantoms will be underdogs by several touchdowns when they play in Kinston tonight, it will be difficult for anything in the football game to overshadow the display of maneuvers the Greenville high school band has planned for the half-time entertainment.

The colorful 50-piece band under the direction of James E. Rodgers has prepared for its first out-of-town appearance of the year the most colorful and complicated maneuvers it has yet attempted.

During the six minutes of the half-time period which has been allotted to the Greenville band, the musicians will form a bicycle on the playing field and render an instrumental version of "Bicycle Bull for Two," while the wheels of the vehicle revolve. From this formation the band will renew its marching and form an automobile, also with revolving wheels, and play "My Merry Oldsmobile." If time allows, Director Rodgers said, the band will execute one or two other maneuvers.

This year, for the first time, the local high school band has placed emphasis on marching and maneuvering as well as music. And to become proficient in executing compli-

Teen-Ager Now Matching Shots With Champion

Fort Smith, Ark., Oct. 21—(AP)—A pretty teen-ager matched her golfing skill against Veteran Mrs. Mildred "Babe" Zaharias in today's semi-finals of the Hardscrabble Women's Open Golf Tournament.

Pitted against Mrs. Zaharias of Grossingers, N.Y., was 15-year-old Marlene Bauer of Los Angeles, a bright star among the nation's juvenile golfers.

The other 18-hole semi-finals match over the rugged Hardscrabble Country Club was between defending champion Patty Berg of Minneapolis and Miss Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill.

The Babe came from behind yesterday to defeat Alice Bauer, sister of the Los Angeles youngster, 2 and 1 for a spot in the semi-finals.

Frosh Clash In Stadium Tonight

Raleigh, N.C., Oct. 21—(AP)—N.C. State's freshman football team plays host tonight to the North Carolina freshmen in Riddick Stadium. Kick-off time is 8 o'clock.

Each squad will be seeking its first win of the season. North Carolina went down, 6-0, in an upset last week by Virginia's freshman and State bowed to Duke, 32-0. A crowd of about 7,000 is expected for the game.

Sammy Baugh, Dating Back To 1937, Continues To Be Rated Top Passer

Washington, Oct. 21—(AP)—It was on Sept. 9, 1937, that Sam Baugh, a gangling guy from Texas, reported for his first practice with the Washington pro football Redskins.

Just to show you how long ago that was, athletically speaking, let's look at a few sports headlines of that week:

Charley Gehringer and Bucky Meowick were the leading hitters of the American and National baseball leagues.

At Forest Hills, the tennis talk was of the new foreign sensation, Baron Gottfried Von Cramm. Max Schmeling was arguing that the reason Joe Louis hadn't signed for a return bout was because he was afraid.

A special mile race went to Glenn Cunningham.

They're all out of active circulation now—except Baugh.

And Baugh—? Well, he's back in the old groove. The National football league figures rate Baugh as the No. 1 passer since this season.

He's thrown 49 completed passes (49) gained more yards (807) and completed more throws for touchdowns than any other passer in the league.

When the band resumes its practice sessions next week, Rodgers said, it will begin work on the half-time entertainment programs which will be displayed at the Elizabeth City and Washington games which will be played in Greenville.

Chapter 6
 "You don't know anything about this, do you?" he stated. "You had no idea what you'd find, or why. Believe me, I didn't realize that. If I'd had any sense I'd have known. No one would return to such a ruin on such a day, and alone. I can't tell you how sorry I am."
 "I'm not," she returned thoughtfully. "I had to see it to realize there was some vital reason for their forcing me to remain in the East. I want to know that reason, who is responsible."
 The ugly look she had seen that afternoon returned to his eyes and his laugh was short. "Responsible? Where does responsibility start?"
 "Why did these people want to destroy?"
 "Why?" Arleta could see the shadow of indecision in the dark blues of his eyes. "Who am I to tell you why?" he answered. "You'd have only one man's opinion. Besides," his eyes cleared. "Mother ordered me to see you had food and warmth, to stand over you."

 "No you don't!" Kelly's voice was a snarl. "I still carry the scar of the quilt you struck me with. Chips. If there are any more, you wear them."
 "I struck you! Why, I never saw you before in my life!"

Arleta swept up her hair. "You're not the only one with scars. See this? This is where your rock hit me: that's why I went after you with my quilt. I remember now. You circled around while I was trying to reach home."
 "I circled—" A moment for thought and Kelly's laugh boomed out. "If that isn't the darnedest—So that's what happened, and that's why those kids took to cover. They expected your father—"
 "I didn't tell. Dad wouldn't have let me out alone again." She spoke slowly, heretofore unrelated events falling into sequence. And then she gave a tiny smile. "I rather stayed under cover myself. I was afraid I'd be whipped for hurting you. But I was so angry."
 "Angry," Kelly began, setting the tiny table he'd drawn before the fire. "You might have been killed. Intent upon what he was saying, Arleta automatically tasted the food. "Why, this is good," she exclaimed, after a few bites.
 "Darned right, I'm a good cook. Refused to be Mother's son until she'd proven her ability."
 "You're a good disher-upper," conceded Arleta, with meaning.
 He'd brought a two-gallon jar of drinking water, and now that some of it was boiling over coals he'd raked to one side, he brewed the tea, poured it, then looked around for a second cup and was rewarded with the pried out measuring cup. And then he stood up. "Better let you get some rest. Flying back tomorrow? I noticed the airline tag on your luggage."
 "Tomorrow? But isn't this tomorrow?"
 He looked at his watch. "Ten forty-five today."
 "But it seems days since I—"
 "Days? I was back within two hours after leaving you on the road. But about tomorrow—want me to pick you up? You've a watch here, haven't you?"
 She had a watch, still set to Eastern time.
 "I don't know what connections you'll need to make," he continued. "Connections?" she asked. "But I'm not going anywhere."
 "You're not? Oh, now look, you can't stay on here."
 "Go on," she said. "Go on and tell me why I can't."
 Howard Kelly stood staring down at Arleta, all of the distress he was feeling in his glance.
 "Isn't this—his hand indicated the destruction below—"enough?"
 "Enough to make me stay," she replied. "What's been done is the effect. I must know the cause."
 "The eternal Pandora," he commented somberly.
 "But don't you understand?" she asked reasonably. "Today you hated me because, when I was a small girl, I'd struck at you, you believed in arrogance. Tonight when I learned it was you I'd struck, I immediately decided it was you who had thrown the rock."
 "If I stay, bit by bit I can clear up all of the—"
 "Oh, Chips, don't. What could you do what your parents and their attorneys couldn't do?"
 He gave her time to digest this, then added, "Allene tells me you are going to be married soon. How can you clear up within a few weeks what your father failed to clear up in that same number of years?"
 "If I can't," she replied slowly: "I shall postpone my marriage until I can."
 Howard Kelly stared at the log fire. What could he say to stop this girl from poking the sharp stick of an investigation into the Langtry hornet's nest?

 "Oh, Chips, don't. What could you do what your parents and their attorneys couldn't do?"
 He gave her time to digest this, then added, "Allene tells me you are going to be married soon. How can you clear up within a few weeks what your father failed to clear up in that same number of years?"
 "If I can't," she replied slowly: "I shall postpone my marriage until I can."
 Howard Kelly stared at the log fire. What could he say to stop this girl from poking the sharp stick of an investigation into the Langtry hornet's nest?

Arleta swept up her hair. "You're not the only one with scars. See this? This is where your rock hit me: that's why I went after you with my quilt. I remember now. You circled around while I was trying to reach home."
 "I circled—" A moment for thought and Kelly's laugh boomed out. "If that isn't the darnedest—So that's what happened, and that's why those kids took to cover. They expected your father—"
 "I didn't tell. Dad wouldn't have let me out alone again." She spoke slowly, heretofore unrelated events falling into sequence. And then she gave a tiny smile. "I rather stayed under cover myself. I was afraid I'd be whipped for hurting you. But I was so angry."
 "Angry," Kelly began, setting the tiny table he'd drawn before the fire. "You might have been killed. Intent upon what he was saying, Arleta automatically tasted the food. "Why, this is good," she exclaimed, after a few bites.
 "Darned right, I'm a good cook. Refused to be Mother's son until she'd proven her ability."
 "You're a good disher-upper," conceded Arleta, with meaning.
 He'd brought a two-gallon jar of drinking water, and now that some of it was boiling over coals he'd raked to one side, he brewed the tea, poured it, then looked around for a second cup and was rewarded with the pried out measuring cup. And then he stood up. "Better let you get some rest. Flying back tomorrow? I noticed the airline tag on your luggage."
 "Tomorrow? But isn't this tomorrow?"
 He looked at his watch. "Ten forty-five today."
 "But it seems days since I—"
 "Days? I was back within two hours after leaving you on the road. But about tomorrow—want me to pick you up? You've a watch here, haven't you?"
 She had a watch, still set to Eastern time.
 "I don't know what connections you'll need to make," he continued. "Connections?" she asked. "But I'm not going anywhere."
 "You're not? Oh, now look, you can't stay on here."
 "Go on," she said. "Go on and tell me why I can't."
 Howard Kelly stood staring down at Arleta, all of the distress he was feeling in his glance.
 "Isn't this—his hand indicated the destruction below—"enough?"
 "Enough to make me stay," she replied. "What's been done is the effect. I must know the cause."
 "The eternal Pandora," he commented somberly.
 "But don't you understand?" she asked reasonably. "Today you hated me because, when I was a small girl, I'd struck at you, you believed in arrogance. Tonight when I learned it was you I'd struck, I immediately decided it was you who had thrown the rock."
 "If I stay, bit by bit I can clear up all of the—"

Touchdown Club Met Wednesday

Approximately 80 members and guests attended the smoker of the Greenville Touchdown club held at the Country club Wednesday night.

Dan Hill, All-American center on the Duke football of '38, was principal speaker at the meeting, and discussed for the members of the club Duke's 1949 football team, the games it has played so far, and the prospects for the remainder of the season. Hill was introduced by Ty Wagner, who also presented Pat Harriss, member of the Duke athletic Association.

Members of the Duke-Tennessee game were shown at the meeting with Hill narrating the game play-by-play, and as a special feature, the color movie of the famous Duke Alabama Sugar Bowl game of 1945 was shown.

Erskine Duff, referee of the Touchdown club, presided at the meeting, and announced the appointment of members of the "Scrub Team", the board of directors of the organization. Named to the scrub team were:

Mrs. J. S. Cherry Funeral Tomorrow

Mrs. Jeanette Williams Cherry, 29, wife of James Samuel Cherry, of Leggett's Crossroads, died in Taylor Hospital in Washington Thursday night at 10:25 o'clock after eleven days of illness. Funeral services will be conducted at the home of her mother, Mrs. Drucilla Sutton Williams near Leggett's Crossroads Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. Dennis Warren Davis, Christian minister of Plymouth, and burial will be in Oakdale cemetery in Washington.

Mrs. Cherry, daughter of Mrs. Drucilla Sutton Williams and the late Edward Robert Williams, was born and reared in the Leggett's Crossroads community. She attended the Washington high school and was a member of the Tranter's Creek Christian Church. She was married to James Samuel Cherry in 1942.

Surviving are her husband; three sons, James Edward, Clifton Wayne and an infant son, Samuel Stewart; her mother; two brothers, Robert and Dempsey Williams of Leggett's Crossroads; and six sisters, Mrs. Ricks Allsbrook, Mrs. Lucille Stokes and Mrs. Herbert C. Wallace, all of the Leggett's Crossroads community, Miss Thelma Williams of Wilson, Mrs. Hugh B. Griffin of Williamston, and Mrs. Alfred Parrish of Richmond, Va.

Rafters Rang With Cheers

Greenville high school rang to the rafters with cheers of "Yea Greenville" and "Let's Go Phantoms" shortly before 12:30 today as the entire student body joined in a pep rally preceding the football game in Kinston tonight.

Led by Head Cheer Leader Louis Clark and his eight pretty co-ed assistants, the high school student body entered enthusiastically into the pre-game sendoff for the football team. Arrangements have been made by the Greenville Kiwanis club to transport the high school band to Kinston for tonight's game, and Clark said after the pep rally today that an attempt is being made to secure a special bus to transport other high school students to the game. He estimated 150 local high school students will attend tonight's game in Kinston.

John Dewey Day Held At College

Dr. E. J. Ashbaugh, dean of the school of education at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, was principal speaker yesterday afternoon at a program held in the Austin building at East Carolina Teachers College in observance of John Dewey Day.

Colleges and universities throughout the nation celebrated October 20 as the ninetieth birthday of the famous American educator and philosopher, whose theories of education have revolutionized the twentieth century. A series of events scheduled by the department of education at East Carolina made up part of the national tribute to Dewey.

A program in the Austin building at 3:30 brought together an audience of college students and faculty members and teachers from the Greenville City Schools. Dr. Allan H. Huriburt, director of the college department of education, acted as chairman of the meeting. President John D. Messick of East Carolina introduced Dr. Ashbaugh.

Speaking on "John Dewey's Effect Upon Educational Practice," Dr. Ashbaugh stressed the social aspects of Dewey's philosophy and warned against misinterpretations of his theories of education. "We cannot," he said, "pay too high tribute to John Dewey. His influence upon education has been profound. His philosophy properly interpreted in the classroom will continue to enrich society. The welfare, the progress of society was his highest goal. It should be ours. As teachers our greatest efforts must ever be toward a greater understanding of society, of childhood, of the learning process and our prayer should be for wisdom to translate our knowledge into action for ever greater social welfare."

Special guests on the college campus who attended the exercises in honor of Dewey Thursday were Dr. C. O. Sherrod, president emeritus of East Tennessee State College at Johnson City, and Dr. James E. Hillman, director of the Division of Professional Service, Department of Public Instruction, Raleigh.

That New Tax . . .

When that occurs the government has to borrow money—for instance from banks, by selling bonds—to make up the difference between the money it spends and the taxes it collects.

All this increases the public debt which is now about $255,000,000,000. Mr. Truman argues he's in better shape to meet our expenses now if the 80th Congress—controlled by the Republicans—hadn't cut taxes a couple of years ago.

But the present 81st Congress—controlled by his Democrats—didn't follow his request to boost taxes this year.

However, it's easy to understand Moscow's feelings at getting her knuckles rapped in the election. Obviously it would have been easier for her to accept had it involved almost any nation other than Yugoslavia whose defection from the Bolshevik line not only is a challenge to Russia's prestige and dignity but might inspire other discontented satellites to kick over the

Dr. Quiggins Attends Optometric Meeting

Zone I of the North Carolina State Optometric Society met in the office of Dr. E. F. Manius in New Bern on Wednesday, Oct. 19, at 8 o'clock.

Dr. J. O. Baxter, Jr., of Beaufort presided over the meeting. A round table discussion was held and the resolutions of the last special meeting of the North Carolina State Optometric Society in Greensboro were read. These resolutions dealt with the relationship existing between optometry and the North Carolina State Blind Commission and the State Health Department.

Among the ten optometrists present were Dr. Kenneth Quiggins of Greenville.

Mrs. Bryan I. Willis Funeral On Saturday

Mrs. Letha Simkins Willis, 55, wife of Bryan I. Willis, died at her home near Ernul at 2:50 o'clock Friday morning. She had been ill for several months. Funeral services will be conducted Saturday afternoon at the home at three o'clock by the Rev. Grant Miller, Jehovah Witness minister, and burial will be in the family cemetery near the home.

Mrs. Willis spent all her life in Craven county, and the daughter of the late T. R. and Henrietta Parson Simpkins.

Surviving are her husband five daughters: Mrs. L. E. Patterson, and Mrs. O. E. Justice, both of Cherry Point; Mrs. A. M. Slaughter of near Ernul and Misses Minnie and Dorothy Willis, both of the home; two sons, Langford Willis of Vanceboro and Herbert Willis of the home; six grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Ben-

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 21—(AP)—A flurry of demand for airline stocks put a little life in a plodding market today. Airline issues were uniformly higher but the balance of the market displayed a ragged price pattern. Fractional changes ruled, with gains and losses well divided.

Faint hints that a break in the steel strike might be shaping up were offset by news that coal operators had walked out on contract talks with the striking United Mine Workers (CIO).

Hog Market

Raleigh, Oct. 21—(AP)—(NCDA)—Hogs 26 to 50 cents weaker; tops of $17.25 at Goldsboro, Wilson, Tarboro, Greenville, Washington, Kinston, and Rocky Mount; Richmond slightly weaker at $18.25.

Credit Women's Banquet Social Event Of Season

By CHESTER WALSH

The Greenville Credit Women's Breakfast Club's annual banquet at Hotel Proctor Wednesday night was an outstanding social event. Mrs. Dorothy Copeland, president presided and was "hostess light," the program stated.

A feature of the meeting was the presence of representative groups from the Raleigh and Rocky Mount Credit Women's Breakfast Clubs.

Sam D. Bunday, principal of the Farmville School and a past governor of the Carolina Kiwanis District, guest speaker, provided half an hour of entertainment, sparked by bits of wit and humor and personal anecdotes. Charles B. Bissette, president of the Greenville Merchants' Association, presented the speaker. Rev. Fr. Adrian Poletti said the invocation.

Mrs. Mildred Oliver, past president of the Rocky Mount Credit Women's Breakfast Club, introduced the officers of the Greenville club in an impressive manner. They are Mrs. Dorothy Copeland, president, (re-elected); Mrs. Lettie Bilbro and Mrs. Peggy Laughman, vice-presidents; Mrs. Ruby Lum, recording secretary, and Marie Cox, treasurer. The directors are Allie Whitehurst, Louise Carrigan, Helen Gammon and Frances Casick.

The "Three C's" talented male trio, sang and received several encores. They are J. A. Conway, Jr., Ed Conway and Kevin Conway, with Christine Smith as accompanist.

The Rocky Mount Credit Women's Breakfast Club sponsored the organizing the Greenville club. Those from Rocky Mount here last night
