No 'Emergency' In U.S. Strike Scene

President Says Country Not yet Hurt Enough By Coal And Steel Walkouts; Taft Agrees Time Not Right To Use Injunctive Powers

Washington, Oct. 28—(AP)—President Truman's decision not to intervene now in the big steel and coal strikes was expected today to bring redoubled efforts toward voluntary settlement of the two disputes.

Mr. Truman said the 28-day steel and 37-day coal strikes have not hurt the country enough to call the situation a national emergency. That time, he told a news conference yesterday, is still a long way off.

There must be such an emergency before strike-holding court injunctions could be sought under the Taft-Hartley Labor law.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), one of the law's authors, said last night in Ohio that he too believes the time has yet to come for using Taft-Hartley emergency powers.

"I quite agree with the labor position, that the injunctive process should never be used except in great emergency," Taft added.

Others thought the President should act now before effects of the two strikes get worse. Senator Wherry (R-Nebr.), GOP floor leader in the senate, said if Mr. Truman doesn't realize there is a national emergency now "he is about the only person in the country who doesn't."

The President's news conference statement didn't rule out the chance that he may call the strike principals to the White House for a pep talk.

In fact, Senator Humphrey (D-Minn.) urged such a White House meeting to "see what can be worked out."

But for a while, at least, the administration seemed to be leaving the entire situation in the hands of 73-year old, General Cyrus S. Ching.

As director of the federal mediation service, Ching has been busy for weeks trying to prod steel and coal labor and management men into peace moves.

For eight out of the past 11 days he has been meeting in New York with officials of the U. S. Steel Corp., the nation's biggest producer. He's been in touch with officials of Philip Murray's striking CIO steelworkers, too.

Murray himself was in New York yesterday, but Ching evidently could find no basis for bringing him and U. S. steel officials together.

Largest Vote Is Raised Against British Gov't

London, Oct. 28—(AP)—Shaken by the largest vote yet mustered against it in Parliament, Britain's Labor government pushed ahead today with its economy program to avert national bankruptcy.

The two-day Parliament debate on the government's program reached its climax last night with the Laborites defeating a conservative motion to censure the cabinet's economy plans as inadequate.

Rural Telephone Bill Is Signed

Washington, Oct. 28—(AP)—President Truman signed the rural telephone bill today. Congress already has appropriated $25,000,000 to get the program moving.

The new law starts a farm telephone lending program similar to that of the Rural Electrification Administration. It will be administered by the REA.

The Denfeld Incident

Why Did President Truman Fire His Chief Of Naval Operations? Earlier Impressions Of Harmony Disrupted; The Strange Episode Of October 4; It's A Secret

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Oct. 28—(AP)—Why—specifically—did President Truman fire Admiral Louis E. Denfeld? As chief of naval operations, the Admiral was the navy's highest officer.

Neither Mr. Truman nor navy secretary Francis B. Matthews said what Denfeld had done—specifically—to cause his firing. Matthews, as civilian head of the navy, was Denfeld's superior.

The story of the firing won't be complete until the question is plainly answered. In trying to understand the case, the key point to keep in mind is this date: Oct. 4, 1949.

In 1947 President Truman appointed Denfeld chief of naval operations. The term was for two years. After that Denfeld could be re-appointed or replaced.

In a letter to Mr. Truman yesterday, Matthews said he thought Denfeld should be ousted. But Matthews pointed out that last Aug. 2, he had thought Denfeld should be reappointed. (Mr. Truman, acting on Matthews' recommendation, reappointed Denfeld.)

Why, on Aug. 2, did Matthews think enough of Denfeld to want him reappointed? Matthews explained

No Survivors In Crash Of French Plane; 48 Dead

French Boxer Marcel Cerdan And 11 Americans Included In Death Toll

Paris, Oct. 28—(AP)—A Paris-to-New York constellated carrying 48 persons crashed in flames against a mountain peak in the Azores today. The Air France line said all aboard perished, including French boxer Marcel Cerdan and 11 Americans.

The plane apparently strayed from its course in bad weather and poor visibility and rammed into 3,500-foot Algarvia peak in the northwestern section of Sao Miguel Island. It was five minutes away from a landing at Santa Maria in the Azores when its last message was heard. Eight hours later the wreckage was sighted.

Air France here said it received word from Santa Maria by cable that rescue parties had rushed to the scene and found all 37 passengers and 11 crewmen dead.

Cerdan, former middleweight champion, was on his way to New York for a title bout scheduled Dec. 2 at Madison Square Garden with Jake La Motta, to whom he lost the title in Detroit.

The constellated was about 1,400 miles out of Paris on its way to New York when it disappeared early this morning (9:50 p. m., EST Thursday night).

Air France said it received this cable: "A telegram from Santa Maria, received at 1710 French standard time, (11:10 a. m., EST) said that the rescue party which had been sent there announced they had found the wreckage of the plane. There were no survivors."

Company officials said they had no idea what had happened to prevent the plane from landing at Santa Maria. However, weather was bad at the time, they said.

Little Gold Is Found In Recent Alaskan 'Rush'

Washington, Oct. 28—(AP)—The Alaskan "gold strike" apparently has produced less than $50 worth of actual gold, an interior department official has reported from the scene.

The only persons making money from the gold strike now are bush pilots. Fred Weller said in a telegram to the department, Weller, who heads the bureau of land management office at Fairbanks, added: "Some nuggets have been found, but the value of all gold actually taken from the ground probably would not exceed $50."

Of the 300 persons who visited the Fishwheel strike area 120 miles north of Fairbanks, Weller said, "only about 50 are staying on the ground." He said the others who staked claims have returned to Fairbanks to await developments.

Inquest Tonight In Knife Death

Jesse Lee Willis, 16-year-old Greenville Negro, was bound over to Superior Court this morning after probable cause was found in the case charging him with the fatal stabbing of John Willis, his 68 year old grandfather.

A coroner's inquest will be held in the case tonight at 7:30 in the city hall by Coroner Griffin H. Rouse. It was reported this morning.

New Training School Wings Rising Rapidly

The walls of two new wings for the Training School on the campus of East Carolina Teachers College are rapidly rising. Work on the building was begun in late summer and satisfactory progress is being made, according to F. D. Duncan, college business manager.

The completed building, says Mr. Duncan, will somewhat resemble an H shape. A west wing is being built between the present structure and the Wright building. To the east another wing, now underway also, stretches back from the building toward the athletic field.

Blue prints in Mr. Duncan's office show many improvements in store for the Training School.

Located in the west wing will be an auditorium, a kindergarten, a cafeteria, a special room for science instruction, and an industrial arts workshop.

The auditorium promises to be an attractive addition designed to fill the double need for a place of assembly and a little theatre. A main lobby, equipped with a ticket booth, will lead into the auditorium. Seats will be provided for 783 people. The stage will curve across the front of the auditorium and will be bordered with a short flight of steps extending full length under the proscenium arch. Back of the stage will be a make-up lobby, two dressing rooms, and a workshop where scenery may be made.

Also in the west wing will be new quarters for East Carolina's kindergarten, now located in the Graham building. A booth from which observers may watch the children without being seen themselves will adjoin the main room. Opening of the kindergarten will be an open-air play terrace.

The cafeteria will have "in wall" tables. These, Mr. Duncan explains, will be so built that after use at meals, they may be pushed back into the walls. The cafeteria will then become a play room. A kitchen and a pantry will open off the cafeteria.

The science room and the industrial arts workshop will provide much needed quarters for improved instruction in the subjects.

Those in attendance represent the 22 counties of Beaufort, Bertie, Camden, Carteret, Chowan, Craven, Currituck, Dare, Edgecombe, Gates, Greene, Hertford, Hyde, Lenoir, Martin, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Pitt, Tyrrell, Washington, and Wilson.

The convention program includes one general session at 2:30 this afternoon in the Austin building of the college. An evening session, previously announced, has been canceled. Divisional dinner meetings for Classroom Teachers, Higher Education, Principals, and Superintendents will be held this evening at 6 o'clock at various places in the city. Sixteen departmental meetings took place this morning.

Among speakers who appeared before the various subject matter groups this morning were James Wallace of Robersonville and E. C. Hollar of East Carolina Teachers College, both of whom addressed the Social Studies group. Dr. W. Amos Abrams, associate editor of "North Carolina Education," spoke to the district principals, using as his topic "Principles for Principals."

Richard Walser of North Carolina State College discussed "North Carolina Authors" for the teachers of English. Mrs. Dorothy W. Perkins of East Carolina appeared on the program arranged for elementary teachers, and Frank G. Fuller, also of the college, discussed "The Teaching Profession" for the Future Teachers of America.

County Home Study Nearing Conclusion

Commissioners Review Reports; Committee Named To Inspect Buildings; Final Action By Board Planned Nov. 7

Pitt county commissioners met in a special session at the county house this morning to review reports on the condition at the county home, and appointed a two-man committee to study the condition of the county home buildings.

Commissioners M. W. Smith and J. Vance Perkins were appointed to inspect the county home with W. E. Braxton, contractor, and recommend to the board the repairs needed at the home.

A source close to the commissioners said the board has in mind repairing the buildings repainting the interior, and providing additional furnishings for the county home.

M. Brown Hodges, chairman of the board of commissioners commented after this morning's meeting, "We intend to get it (the county home) in first class condition." The chairman said the report of the committee is expected to be ready for final action of the board at its regular meeting on November 7.

Discussions and investigations of the condition of the Pitt county home have been carried on by the commissioners for almost two months since a grand jury report late in August recommended conditions at the home be investigated.

Since the grand jury report, the commissioners have received a report from the county welfare department stating the food supply at the county home is adequate, and a report from the electrical inspector of the Greenville utilities commission stating the electrical wiring at the county home is in good condition.

Chairman Hodges said each member of the board of commissioners has visited the county home since the grand jury report, and made an inspection of the conditions there.

Cost Of Living Index Has Hike

Washington, Oct. 28—(AP)—The cost of living rose one-half of one per cent in September, the largest monthly increase in consumer prices for a year.

The bureau of labor statistics, reporting this today, said the prices of all major items contributing to city living costs went up except clothing.

LONDON AIR TRAGEDY

London, Oct. 28—(AP)—Four Americans, including two officials of the Superior Oil Co., were killed today when a twin-engine American plane crashed and burned taking off from London airport.

Geo. Allen Given Yugoslavia Post

Tar Heel Named To Fill Important Role As U.S. Ambassador

Washington, Oct. 28—(AP)—The Administration sent in George V. Allen today to fill the important Yugoslavian spot in the diplomatic war with Russia. Concurrently, it sought to nail down its choice of Rep. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) to take over the "Voice of America" and designated work.

Allen's designation as ambassador to Marshal Tito's Yugoslavia will assign a man the Russians have little cause to like (he's tangled with them before in Iran) as the U. S. envoy to a government under hot fire from Moscow.

In taking the post, the North Carolinian will give up the position of assistant secretary of state in charge of public affairs. That is the job the State Department has offered to Mansfield.

President Truman announced yesterday he was accepting the resignation of Cavendish Cannon as ambassador to Yugoslavia and was naming Allen to succeed him. Cannon, 54, is ill in health.

For Allen the assignment to Belgrade is an order to return to the diplomatic firing line of the cold war after a relatively brief interlude as assistant secretary of state here.

The 45-year-old diplomat and one-time North Carolina newspaper reporter received his first ambassadorial post in April, 1946, when President Truman sent him to Iran.

Rules Rep. Thomas Must Stand Trial November 7

Washington, Oct. 28—(AP)—Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff ruled today that Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ) must stand trial Nov. 7 on charges of defrauding the government.

Holtzoff refused a further continuance of the trial, already several times postponed, after receiving a report on Thomas' physical condition from two private physicians. The doctors were named by the court to examine him.

Defense attorneys had contended that the 54-year-old Thomas, who is suffering from a stomach disorder, was too ill to appear for trial now.

Thomas, one-time chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, was indicted a year ago on charges of conspiring to defraud the government. The indictment accused the lawmaker of office-payroll-padding and taking "kickbacks" from employees.

The report of the examining physicians was handed to the judge on the bench.

Holtzoff read the report privately and then permitted the same private reading by U. S. District Attorney George Morris Fay and Defense Attorney William H. Collins.

This Auction For Kids, Says Police Auctioneer

Detroit, Oct. 28—(AP)—About 100 Detroit youngsters were riding new bicycles today because a police auctioneer had an understanding heart.

Alex Anderson was auctioning off unclaimed property—bicycles, sports equipment, adding machines, wallets and jewelry—at the police department's annual sale.

His customers included children clutching hoarded nickels and dimes and a group of grownups. Anderson wheeled up the first bike and a man at the back shouted a bid of $10. Another called out $15.

Bridges Intends To Stay In CIO

Cleveland, Oct. 28—(AP)—Harry Bridges, leader of 85,000 longshoremen, declared today the only way his union would leave the CIO would be "if we booted out."

The West Coast leader—who takes pride in calling his union a left-wing organization—admitted he thought next week's annual convention would be "rough as all hell."

That is because right wing forces are determined to have a showdown with the 11 or 12 unions under left leaders. But Bridges said a committee of about a dozen representatives of key locals in the longshoremen's union will meet with CIO President Philip Murray.

Murray holds the answer to how tough the fight becomes.

The fact that Bridges was seeking a private conference with Murray in advance of the convention indicated the leftist forces were anxious to head off that showdown—or at least to pin the blame on Murray for what happens next week.

Murray also agreed yesterday to meet a delegation of the United Electrical Workers, biggest of the left-wing groups, on Sunday.

Sales for the season on the market have passed the 24-million pound mark, Moore reported, and the market's average is $48.37.

A general session began at 2:30 this afternoon. The meeting opened with an invocation spoken by the Rev. Leon Russell of Greenville and a welcome to the campus extended by Dean Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina Teachers College.

Speakers scheduled to make the principal addresses of the afternoon are Dr. R. E. Marston of the National Education Association and Dr. Clyde A. Erwin, state superintendent of public instruction.

Dinner meetings are scheduled for this evening by four divisions of the district NCEA. J. E. Miller of the state department of public instruction will address the Classroom Teachers on "Adventures in Teaching." C. D. Wilmington, Del., Oct. 28—(AP)—Two of eight convicts who escaped from the New Castle county workhouse were behind bars again today but their six heavily-armed companions remain at large.

John Henry Minor, 28, Bear Cleve, Fla., and Jesse W. Palmer, 23, Tusculum, Ala., both negroes, were recaptured last night after a wild highway chase which ended when their stolen yellow convertible overturned on U. S. Route 40 near North East, Md.

The governor said he would forward a petition of the Asheville City Council asking for lifting of rent ceilings there to Federal Housing Expediter Tighe K. Woods.

Asks Accounting

Washington, Oct. 28—(AP)—Ezra Van Horn, employer trustee for the coal miners' pension fund, told a federal court today that John L. Lewis and Senator Bridges (R-NH), his fellow trustees, improperly "dissipated" the welfare money.

Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, represents the miners on the board. Bridges is the neutral trustee of the funds built up by a royalty on coal.

Van Horn's accusation was made in his answer to a suit for accounting of the fund filed by a miner.

He said that his fellow board members refused to give him information on how the multi-million dollar fund was being disbursed.

The acts of dissipation, he told the court, are the acts solely of Lewis and Bridges.

Renewed Service Hearing Certain

Members Of House Committee Expect Action Next Year

Washington, Oct. 28—(AP)—The firing of Admiral Louis Denfeld as chief of naval operations makes it almost certain Congress will reopen its investigation of differences among the armed forces.

Members of the House armed services committee made this plain today in commenting on President Truman's ouster of Denfeld yesterday. Most of the house members were highly critical.

Denfeld was marked as the first victim of the bitter unification row after his testimony before the committee last week. At that time he charged a "landlocked" high command with stripping the navy of its sea and air power to the detriment of National security.

Speaking of Mr. Truman's action, Rep. Arends (R-Ill.) declared: "It is imperative our committee meet this issue right now."

At his home in Georgia Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) refused to comment.

Other committee members said they expected the investigation to be reopened at the next session.

"We'll have to do something about it when we come back in January," said Rep. Short (R-Mo.).

Misquoted Naval Commander On Atomic Missile

Pearl Harbor, Oct. 28—(AP)—Cmdr. John S. McCain, Jr., was misquoted by the Associated Press this week in a dispatch reporting submarine-launched missiles could carry an atomic bomb.

The dispatch dealt with a Navy announcement of plans to launch missiles from two submarines off Hawaii Nov. 7.

The Associated Press reporter, confronted with Commander McCain's denial, today, conceded he misquoted him. The reporter said: "When Commander McCain finished answering questions concerning the plan to launch missiles from two submarines, he was asked if they would contain an atom bomb war head. I thought McCain answered affirmatively. I must concede I misquoted him."

Religious Propaganda

Communist Russia Richly Regards Bible As One Of Greatest Promotional Books Ever Written; Oppose Distribution; Indications Of Spiritual Revival Seen

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

Russia soldiers at Helmstedt. In the Soviet occupied zone of Germany, refused to let a truckload of Bibles proceed to Berlin.

"The 'propaganda material,' explained the Red officer in charge. And of course he was quite right about the 'propaganda' angle. The Bible is the greatest piece of promotion ever developed.

That is precisely why the Communists, who are battling religion as the dope of the masses, are anxious to prevent distribution of the world's most widely read volume. Hitlerian Nazism maintained the same attitude.

So the Russian officer of Helmstedt was correctly following orders, and presumably his own conscience as well, if he is a loyal Communist. Still I have a notion he was wasting his energy. I don't believe you can kill religion that way any more than old King Canute could make the tide recede at his command.

As a matter of fact religion is doing all right for itself. There are many signs of moral and spiritual revival in various parts of our war-shocked world. Indications are that a religious revival may be boiling up in England.

Enlisted Men See Admiral To Pay Final Respects; Angry Response To Firing Of Chief Of Naval Operations; Hearing May Be Reopened

Washington, Oct. 28—(AP)—Admiral Louis Denfeld told a demonstrating crowd of 250 Navy enlisted men today that although he has been ousted as chief of naval operations "no service and no individual will stop" the Navy.

The sailors—from offices and barracks near the Pentagon—began gathering at Denfeld's office early in the morning.

They keyed the angry response of at least a portion of the Navy to the decision of Secretary Matthews, backed by President Truman, to fire Denfeld for his opposition to defense policies that cut down on the Navy and put what he calls over-emphasis on big air force bombers.

Nearly a full day after the White House announcement of Denfeld's ouster, Denfeld himself still had not received official notice that he was being relieved.

Among some Navy men there was clear evidence of anger over what they regarded as this discourtesy to the admiral.

There was also no word as to who will succeed Denfeld in the top Navy post, or as to what duties may be offered to Denfeld.

Charles G. Ross, presidential secretary, told a news conference he had no information on that.

Ross also said, in reply to a question, that the White House had received no messages overnight protesting Denfeld's removal.

Denfeld's aides said that at least 1,500 telegrams had arrived by the morning for him, but that the admiral had not had a chance to read them. Telephone lines into his office were jammed with incoming calls, they said.

The admiral spoke his informal farewell at his home last night, a group of 60 fleet reservists called to pay their respects and express their support.

Denfeld told them: "For thirty odd years I've been sticking by my guns and if they want to kick me out, I'm still sticking by my guns."

"The Navy is bigger than anything else or any individual. The Navy will carry on, and I will do my part to help the Navy and the country."

"I will step down if by doing so I can help them both."

Late in the afternoon, President Truman had told a news conference that he approved Secretary Matthews' recommendation for removing Denfeld as chief of naval operations and transferring him to "other important duties."

That it pays to let your losses be known by an advertisement, was evidenced recently, when a young lady who was in this city attending Barnum and Bailey circus lost her watch in the throng that crowded the railroad station on that day. A lost notice was placed in these columns before the young lady left for her home in Greenville. Several days later it was learned that the watch had been found by an honest negro who lives near Tarboro and this office was communicated with to find out the address, which was not given in the ad. The watch was returned and the young lady, who mourned her loss is no longer sad and fifty cents worth of printers ink worked the trick.—Rocky Mount Record.

The lady referred to was Mrs. James Long, and she rejoiced at recovering her lost watch.

Mr. Wagner Speaks To Legion Auxiliary

The American Legion Auxiliary held its regular meeting on October 24 at the home of Mrs. K. T. Putrell. Mrs. G. L. Winders, president, presided. Reports were given by the committee chairmen, with special emphasis on rehabilitation.

Mrs. L. W. Cherry reported that seventy-five gifts had been mailed to the Veterans Gift Shop at Swannanoa. She asked all members who had not sent in their gifts to do so immediately in order that these can be sent to the gift shop at Fayetteville Veterans Administration hospital.

The Auxiliary voted to have a bridge tournament on November 14, at the Legion home.

Mrs. Knott Proctor sang two lovely solos, "It's Morning" and "By the Waters of Minnetonka." Her accompanist was Mrs. Dan Guffin. The music was a delightful addition to the meeting.

The guest speaker for the afternoon was Mr. T. I. Wagner, commander of the local post of the American Legion.

Mr. Wagner spoke informally on the Legion's program and outlined plans for the Armistice Day celebration, bringing out the part which the Auxiliary would take in preparation for this big event.

A delightful social hour followed at which time the hostesses served an ice course with salted nuts. Hostesses were Mesdames K. T. Putrell, W. J. Bundy, H. A. Hudson, J. H. Waldrop, C. A. Bowen, Jay Brantley, George Spearman, J. L. Winstead and Miss Grace Smith.

Nobles, of Winterville, who was the officiating minister. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate families and a few intimate friends.

The vows were spoken before an improvised altar of white gladiolas and fern interspersed with seven-branched candelabra holding lighted tapers.

The bride wore a grey gabardine suit with green accessories. Her corsage was of better times roses and white tube roses.

Prior to the speaking of the vows Miss Bessie Nobles, pianist, and Miss Ollie Jordan, soloist, gave a program of nuptial music.

 The supper hour was followed by a game period which included bingo, fishing and spin the wheel.
 Bob Reagan served as master of ceremonies and for the bingo. The adults as well as the children were delighted with a cake auction conducted by Bill Clark, in regular auction style. C. R. Shepherd was the high bidder.
 Mrs. Marie Smith Wallace graciously presented a dance group of her pupils who are also students at St. Raphael's. The second, third and fourth grades gave an interesting playlet, "Welcome to Our Hallowe'en Party."

Strength FOR THE DAY

FAILURE OFTEN LEADS TO SUCCESS

Phillips Brooks was the greatest preacher of his generation. For years he held the people of Boston spellbound. He preached in Westminster Abbey on several occasions. When he died, the whole world paid tribute to his memory, and he is looked upon to this day as one of the greatest preachers of the Christian era.

Yet Phillips Brooks was a disappointed man. The great desire of his life was not to be a preacher, but a teacher. He started out as a teacher of Latin in a boys' school near Boston, and so signal was his failure that the headmaster in dismissing him did so with the discouraging remark that it had been his observation that a man who failed in teaching failed in everything else. To the end of his life, with the praise of the whole world filling his ears, Brooks continued to look back at the classroom with longing unutterable.

Failure if often the door through which God leads us to our greatest successes. Patrick Henry and Abraham Lincoln's failures as storekeepers forced them into careers which led to fame. Blackstone's inability to get clients drove him into his study where he wrote his famous Commentaries.

MAJORITIES ALSO HAVE RIGHT OF PROTECTION
With each passing day America's vast economic and industrial strength is gradually sapped by strikes in the coal fields and the steel industry.

It is not only the workers who are on strike, nor the operators who suffer in the end; but uncounted millions of people both at home and abroad are the unwilling victims of the big squeeze.

These innocent bystanders are caught in a chain of circumstances over which they have no control. After electing a government which had the responsibility of protecting the rights and interests of minorities, they might have expected a better deal. To date, the less than one percent of the population which can say "Stop" or "Go" to the steel and coal industries has been the favored children of government.

Is there anyone in these United States who imagines a group of Wall Streeters or industrial leaders could get away with a monopoly of the power that has been permitted in the noble name of labor? Of course not. They'd be slapped down before you could say "Trust-buster."

Yet, the same government officials who would be the first to act against business or financial monopolies close their eyes to the same monopolistic actions by the big unions that would be practiced by the outlawed trusts. The trust busters are super-sensitive when eyeing business. True monopoly is no longer necessary to draw a government court action. By merely adjudging a business "too big," the Justice Department races to court.

This is not justice as we see it.
The long-suffering public

Somebody Told Me...

By I. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

Anything can happen in America, barring nothing. For example, last week Father Divine, the Negro religious leader who married a white girl several years ago, decided that he wanted to buy a hotel in Newark, New Jersey.

Father Divine's followers like to put their money at his disposal, so getting the funds for the purchase of the hotel was a simple matter. From Philadelphia, Divine and six of his followers journeyed over to Newark to the hotel in question, the Riviera, 300 rooms. With them they had seven battered old suitcases, loaded with five, ten, and twenty dollar bills. They travelled by train and when they arrived, brushed off the Red Caps. Without help they lugged the suitcases from the train station to the Federal Trust Company.

The crew turned the money over to the bank and asked for a $50,000 treasurer's check in return. The bankers were floored, but they jumped up quickly and asked why in the world they had not asked for a police escort. The answer was simply, "We trusted in the Lord, as always."

Checking the amount of money was quite a task. It took fourteen tellers three and one-half hours to verify the check and by sundown the crew had the check and by the next day the hotel had been purchased and new rules were announced: (1) no smoking, (2) no drinking, and (3) no husbands and wives allowed in the same bedroom. Yes, anything can happen in America.

The nation's capital was not left out of last week's excitement. A Washington National Guardsman by the name of Frank Porterfield suddenly decided that he might use portions of the bond issue and legislative appropriation for school buildings in order to meet the immediate desperate need for additional school buses. Suggestion had been made that since buildings and buses were alike items of capital outlay for the county units, available funds might be utilized for either purpose in case of emergency. And there is no doubt of the emergency nature of bus additions in many counties.

DISTINCTION—It was argued in support of this idea that if the highway commission could use part of the road construction bond fund for purchase of equipment, the school folks should be able to use part of the building bond proceeds for purchase of buses in order to get children to the school houses. Attorney General Harv McMullan, in a very informal interview (the attorney general does not give official opinions except upon formal requests of qualified and responsible officers), pointed out two distinctions between the road and school bond funds. With respect to use of road bond money for equipment, it is a matter of internal office book-keeping. The five million dollars spent for machinery is actually only a "loan" from the 10 per cent equalized fund and will be replaced by book charges against allotments to counties in which the machinery is used. If it can be called diversion at all, it is temporary and repayment is assured. Furthermore, use of the machinery is a definite part of road construction and improvement as required by the bond act. In case of the school building allocation, both out of the $25 million appropriation and from the $25 million bond issue, it is specifically for school houses and there is no implied authority for any other use.

DUALITY—The bus situation is further complicated by duality of obligation on part of the state and the several counties whereas the road problem is wholly that of the state. The counties must build and maintain the roads. The counties must build and maintain the school houses, although the state pays operating costs during the school term. The counties also must provide original and additional buses, although the state maintains and operates them and replaces them when they are worn out. Vestal title to roadways is always in the state; title to school buildings is a ways in the local administrative unit generally the county. Although the county must purchase required buses, title to them immediately vests in the state.

After much going around and around the police decided not to arrest Lt. Porterfield for trespassing. The next day, back at his job at Peoples Drug Store, Lt. Porterfield said, "It was just a routine problem. We didn't mean anything bad by it, honest!" And I thank you.

New York—(AP)—Lady, say isn't so. Please say isn't so lady. Say it isn't true—this report that female fashions are going back to the 1920's for inspiration. No, no, no! Not that! Anything else—not that. What have you done to deserve such eyeball punishment? And it isn't even ourselves we're so worried about. It's you, lady. Why should you do it to "yourself" again? Don't trade the "new look" for the "gurnysack look." I'll admit there was a lot of foolishness yammering against the "new look" a couple of seasons back just because it was novel. Every man was surprised to see it turn out better than he had feared.

But going back to the 1920's again is another thing. We can't hope for anything but the worst—because we went through that madness before. Go back to the fig leaf of Eve or the bustle of Victoria's day. Wear anything ever tried in the long forlorn history of woman's struggle for style—anything but what you clothed yourself in during the mad, bad 1920's.

They call that the period of "the lost generation" and blame it on the disillusionment of the first World War. But it wasn't the men who were lost; it was the women. It was the time when girls would be boys. No wonder the boys refused to grow up and act like men.

Remember? If you don't get out the family album and take a look I know some families that keep their album on a high shelf for fear the children will turn to the pages pasted in during the 1920's—and be frightened into fits.

Remember now? Remember how the girls drove men out of their last refuge—the barbershop—to get those close-cropped boyish bobs. Remember the short, shapeless dresses, the hats that fitted like a shield?

It was the fond notion of every fashionable lass then to look like a soda straw, but natural feminine architecture too often decreed that the result should resemble a gunnysack full of sugar on stilts—or piano legs.

Never have lovely ladies looked so awful, not even since they took up slacks. No wonder men slept in bathtubs wet with homemade gin or plunged on the stock market. They had been made desperate by the sight of what the women they loved had done to their ravenous beauty.

And now this fantastic nightmare is on the way back. A girl who should know tells me:

"The new vogue is no waistline, no bustline, no hips, no nothing—Boysish."

For if you do, then men will have to dress like the 1920's too. Recall a thing called "the cake-eater?" He was the drugstore cowboy of that vanished era, and he was driven to look as he did because he had to do something to look different from girls trying to look like boys.

The "cake-eater" wore a jaunty hat dangling sidearms, a waist-tight coat jacket and floppy, bell-bottom trousers that were the close-skirts. Over it all he wrapped a racoon coat, presumably a manly gesture because it was hairy. The result: A vertical caterpillar.

Would you like to have to go out on dates again escorted by something like that, lady? No? Well, save us from your 1920's look—and we'll keep the cake-eater under glass. It's a fair bargain.

Scott Admits Little Else He Can Do On Mill Strike

Raleigh, N.C., Oct. 28—(AP)—Governor Scott says Tarboro's Hart Cotton Mill strike has him stumped but he is planning action aimed at relieving North Carolina's coal shortage.

The governor at a news conference yesterday said he had talked with State Labor Commissioner Forrest Shuford about the prolonged mill strike.

"We don't know of anything else we could do," Scott remarked. He declined to comment on a letter he received this week from Frank Leslie of New York, the mill president. Leslie wrote that the plant could not agree to a request made by Scott at a recent New York conference that the workers return to work under a contract that existed before the strike began last May 12.

On the coal situation, the governor said he planned to act by writing President Truman to inform him of the state's mounting coal shortage.

Copies of the letter, Scott said, will be sent to Senators Frank P. Graham and Clyde R. Hoey. Hoey already has said he has wired President Truman that he believes it is time for the government to take action in the current coal strike if it can't be settled by conference agreement.

"I don't know of much we can do here," Scott said, "except let 'em know what the situation is in North Carolina."

He added he understood that state institutions "are in good shape for coal," but that an increasing number of messages are reaching his office from mayors and other officials requesting action to help relieve the shortage before cold weather arrives.

Twin Co-Op To Provide Clothes

Sun Valley, Calif. —(AP)— The parents of five sets of year-old twins put their heads together and came up with a solution to the problem of how to keep their kids in clothes. Their answer: a cooperative.

The five sets of parents formed a twin club, and agreed to pass on to other mothers and fathers of double editions any clothes their children outgrow. In turn, they want parents of older twins to join the club and hand castoffs down to them.

THANKFUL FOR A HUSBAND'S FORESIGHT

"How thankful I am that my husband was thoughtful enough to establish a Trust in His Will." Trust men hear this often from those to whom property has been left.

Many women in this community inherit property and securities through a Trust under Will — whereby the estate is supervised by our Trust Department. Women with sound business judgment do appreciate the thoughtfulness of a husband who provides in his Will for a Trust, because:

- It relieves them of burdensome detail
- It frees them for leisure and travel
- They like the security our experience assures them
- They can tactfully refer to us the requests of well-meaning friends

When you establish a Trust under Will, you leave in your place a Trustee, such as our institution, to manage business details according to the principles which you lay down.

Provisions can be made to assure your wife and children a dependable income—to meet any emergency in the way you would meet it if you were present to act. A Trust under Will makes sure that your plans and your personality will "carry on" through the years. We suggest that you consult with your attorney about the advantages it offers you and your family.

Church Guttled By Early Blaze

Burlington, N.C., Oct. 26—(AP)—Fire gutted the Front Street Methodist Church here early today. The building was valued at $235,000.

The blaze threatened several nearby houses before being brought under control. Only the church's outside walls and belfry were left standing. The initials "TV" have been introduced into the language as being synonymous with television.

(Dear Judge)

AP Newsfeatures
The more we hear about teenagers, the more we realize that they shouldn't be grouped together in one big teen-age classification. They're different city by city, state by state, country by country.

Their habits depend entirely on their own environments. In Pittsburgh, for instance, Elaine Kahn reports that the current rage among high school boys is water pistols—often concealed in hollowed out textbooks.

But, says Elaine, one student, pert and pretty Marilyn Hoffman, 16, says the girls don't like them at all. Marilyn is a junior at Langley High School, says: "Girls try to ignore the boys who carry water pistols, but that is about 50 per cent of the male student body. We'll go out on dates with the boys but we're pretty cold if they don't leave the pistols at home."

Langley imposes a two-week suspension on anyone caught firing a water gun but the toys still are very much in evidence. Girls carry them too, but "just in self defense" while the rage is on. Some non-conformists load them with perfume or turpentine instead of water.

Girls there don't believe in going steady. They like to have fun and meet people, one reason why it is silly to go steady. And once a steady breaks up, it's hard to get dates afterward, they say.

Necking is out with these girls. Marilyn says: "We limit it to a goodnight kiss. We'd rather talk and laugh and have a good time instead of all that mush. In high school, I think a kiss is as it should be."

The expressions "it's keen" and "it's sharp" cover most situations for the teen-age group. A new one is "serious up." It means "keep quiet we want to be serious" and is used to quell disturbance and squelch wise cracks.

Favorite treat of the kids is a deluxe sundae consisting of vanilla ice cream, chocolate sauce, marshmallow, nuts, cherries and whipped cream in great quantities. If you are drooling at this point, just think of the price—65 cents, practically a whole week's allowance.

Marilyn says it isn't a regular diet with the young moderns at Langley. Usually, they have just one a month. Says she: "It's quite a dish." If you finish one, they give you a little medal that reads, "I was a pig at Pierce's (the store that sells them.) Marilyn has a few medals.

'Wonder Drug' Is Grown In Hawaii

Honolulu—A rare plant that has brought hope to 7,000,000 arthritic patients in the United States has been cultivated in Hawaii for the last 17 years.

A species of African vine called strophanthus, this plant contains ingredients for relief of arthritis and rheumatic fever. But—total production in the islands so far doesn't add up to enough to help one patient one day.

"It's still in the experimental stage," says Dr. H. L. Lyon, director emeritus of the experiment station, Hawaii Sugar Planters Association. Researchers have reported that a chemical obtained from seeds of the strophanthus is identical with one of the intermediate chemicals now involved in the laboratory process of producing cortisone.

Main obstacle to production of cortisone from the plant is the same as that presently hampering its production from yucca—your need a mountain of seeds for a few ounces of cortisone. To be exact, one ton of seeds to relieve one patient one year.

Former Mayor Is Charged With Embezzlement

Chadbourne, N.C., Oct. 28—(AP)—Sam C. Carter, former mayor of Chadbourne, was under indictment today on 16 counts of embezzlement. The Columbus county grand jury returned the true bills yesterday. The jury also returned four more true bills against L. W. "Woody" Hall, former Chadbourne chief of police. Hall was indicted on 19 counts of embezzlement during the June term of court. The grand jury action was an outgrowth of an investigation begun after last May's election in which Carter was defeated after nearly 14 years as mayor. Hall resigned after the election. Accredited Law School Expected

Raleigh, Oct. 27—(AP)—The law school at North Carolina College at Durham may soon become nationally accredited.

Attorney General Harry McMullan said yesterday the American Bar Association is expected to accredit the Negro school early next year. McMullan made that statement in commenting on a suit filed by two students of the school. They are seeking admission to the University of North Carolina's law school because, they said, they cannot get a "first class" law course at North Carolina College.

The suit was filed in Greensboro federal court Tuesday by Harold Thomas Epps, 23, of Asheville and Robert Davis Glass, 26, of Belmont.

They charged they have been denied admission at Chapel Hill solely because of their race, in violation of the 14th amendment. They also pointed out that North Carolina College's law school is unaccredited.

McMullan said the state recently acted to remove the barrier to accreditation. He said it was found by the American Bar Association on an inspection of the Durham school several years ago.

The school missed recognition, he said, only because of a lack of adequate housing for its law library. Its books were found to be adequate, he declared.

The council of state recently made an emergency allocation to outfit a building at the college to serve as a library until a new library building is completed. Contracts for the building, which will cost about $551,000, have been let.

Nurses Approve Federal Aid Plan

High Point, N. C., Oct. 28—(AP)—The North Carolina State Nurses Association was on record today favoring federal aid to improve hospital facilities and to provide scholarships for professional nursing education.

The Association took the stand in a resolution adopted at the closing session of its annual convention here yesterday. The resolution made no mention of a specific bill although both the Senate and the House have measures pending relating to federal aid to education.

Mrs. Louise P. East of Asheville was re-elected president of the Association, becoming the first head of the organization to succeed herself.

The Association left to its board of directors the selection of a 1950 convention site.

(2) Sending the suit to the victimized cleaning plant to be pressed. Capt. Blakely gave the case his personal attention.

Voice Of Masked Man Is Big Issue

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 28—(AP)—Whether the voice of Coleman A. (Brownie) Lollar, charged with flogging while masked, revealed his membership in robed and hooded bands was a major issue today at Lollar's trial.

Three state witnesses testified they recognized the former special deputy's voice, although his face was covered. All placed him at the scene of floggings by white-sheeted men.

Lollar is the first of 18 men arrested on various charges involving hooded hoodlumism to face trial. The state ended its direct testimony yesterday and the defendant told reporters: "Now it's my time at bat."

The maximum penalty for flogging while masked is 10 years in the penitentiary. The state sought to prove Lollar was one of the men who broke into the home of Mrs. Hugh McDaniel, 42-year-old grandmother, the night of June 10, struck her twice and forced her to watch a cross burning.

Mrs. McDaniel testified she lifted a hood and saw Lollar's face. Three other identifications of Lollar were in other night riding incidents, and all were by voice.

Unusual Interest Is Manifested In Candidates For Legislature

By LYNN NISBET
Raleigh, Oct. 23.—Not for many years, perhaps never before, has there been as much interest manifested in membership of the next general assembly so far in advance of the session as can be found now throughout North Carolina.

There are several reasons for this. There will be a decennial census next year, upon basis of which the 1951 general assembly may have to re-allocate congressional and state senatorial districts. Possibility is still present, though more remote than a few months ago, that North Carolina may lose a member in congress. That would certainly present legislative problems of the first order in redistricting. It becomes more certain as the days go by that fast growing central and western senatorial districts will no longer tolerate discrimination in state senatorial districting. Then there is the continuing problem of doing something about judicial and solicitorial districts in order to more equitably balance court procedure and further eliminate personal politics in appointment of special judges.

Main reason for the greater advance interest in membership of the next legislature stems from the threat (?) made near adjournment of the 1949 session that the Scott folks would attempt a purge of legislators who did not go out for the governor's "Go Forward Program." During the last session Governor Scott had a lot to say about failure of the assembly to cooperate. After the session he told a press conference he got more than 90% of his program. Although he failed to get a majority of votes in the first primary, the attitude of the governor and his all-out supporters seemed to be that the substantial majority given him in the run-off entitled them to full one hundred percent legislative support, without regard to opinions of the very large minority.

After adjournment of the 1949 session the governor at an open press conference questioned the integrity of Speaker Kerr Craig Ramsey and in subsequent letters and semi-private statements severely criticized Senator Edwin Pate and others for their efforts to block his program in the legislature. It is not of record that Governor Scott himself ever threatened a "purge" of non-supporters who might desire to return to the 1951 assembly. Indirectly, by references to having an 80th congress on his hands, and need for legislative subservience if his plans were to be effectuated, he gave encouragement to others to suggest the purge. Evidence lately has been that these supporters are more concerned about coming back themselves and holding the legislative strength they had last time, rather than purging opposition members.

Meantime, the more conservative element in state citizenship seems to be thinking in terms of stabilizing state government. The campaign for the United States Senate, having for first time in history, two senators to elect by popular vote, will probably capture headlines. Races for sheriff and clerk of court in some counties will dominate local primaries. In the background and to considerable extent influenced by and having influence upon these headline races will be the contest for control of the state legislature. Long range thinkers are planning now for that campaign, and predictions are heard on all sides that more really able men than usual will seek election to the general assembly, or will be "drafted" by popular demand.

France Political Crisis Overcome

Paris, Oct. 23.—(AP)—France's longest political crisis in 50 years ended early today with the confirmation of Georges Bidault as premier.

Bidault had formed his cabinet lineup before the National Assembly approved him 367 to 183.

For the 50-year-old leader of the MRP (Popular Republican movement), today's coming to power was a full circle of the political wheel. Head of the wartime resistance in France, Bidault was his country's provisional president and premier from June to December, 1946, and until July, 1948.

Soon after his confirmation, Bidault presented his cabinet to president Vincent Auriol. He had secured party agreement to the cabinet lineup before the assembly vote, overcoming in advance the obstacle on which two previous choices for premier foundered.

Bidault's new government was based on the same coalition of center parties which have been governing France for more than two years. His program was almost identical with that proposed by Socialist Jules Moch and radical Socialist Rene Mayer, who had failed in forming governments.

Plan Trial Run For 5-Day Week

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 23.—(AP)—A trial run on the five-day, 40-hour week for state employees in Raleigh will be launched Jan. 1.

A recommendation of the state personnel council for a Monday-through-Friday week received Governor Scott's approval yesterday.

The action will affect 4,000 to 5,000 employees here and probably some workers throughout the state. It will not affect workers at state institutions, said personnel director Henry Hilton.

The Governor issued a note of caution, however, by stressing that the state will revert to its present five-and-a-half-day week if the new plan increases state costs or reduces services to the public.

Hilton noted that some state agencies whose services are needed by the public will remain open on Saturday mornings with skeleton forces.

Hurlburt Speaks At HD Meeting

Dr. Allan S. Hurlburt, director of the department of education and administration at East Carolina Teachers' College, made the principal address yesterday in Tarboro at the annual meeting of the Edgecombe County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs. Speaking on "Discovering Community Needs and Resources," Dr. Hurlburt outlined an eight-point program for determining and analyzing the needs of the community.

There are few limits, Dr. Hurlburt said, to what the community can do to improve itself when it has decided upon what is necessary for progress and has taken stock of its resources. As an example, he cited the growth of enterprise and of community pride among citizens in a small southern town who recognized needs and tried to do something about them.

The people of this small community, he told his audience of Edgecombe county women, learned better methods of slaughtering and bought a community freezer plant. They terraced their land, and diversified their crops. Then they began raising chickens and canning fruits and vegetables. They wired their houses for better lighting and built a new reservoir for their own school. The town prospered, said Dr. Hurlburt, as any community will prosper when it realizes its needs and makes use of its resources. Dr. Hurlburt was introduced by E. D. Johnson, superintendent of education in Edgecombe county.

Coach Honey Johnson's Elizabeth City Yellow Jackets, driving 55 yards to a fourth period touchdown and scoring a safety on a blocked punt, squeezed past an inspired Greenville Phantom football aggregation nine to six here last night.

For the Phantoms it was heart-breaking loss number three in Northeastern conference competition while the win gave Elizabeth City a 3-1 conference record and extended their current winning streak to five games.

But it wasn't easy. Greenville, whose passing attack had been mediocre until last night, unveiled a dazzling aerial offense which netted them a touchdown in the third period and was a constant threat throughout the game.

Bobby Fye, underclassman quarterback, did most of the passing as the Phantoms completed 12 of 18 pass attempts including 11 consecutive completions. Greenville's touchdown, which broke a scoreless deadlock in the third quarter, came as a result of three consecutive pass completions, one of them good for 30 yards.

The Phantoms began the touch-down march on their own 34. Three running plays moved them up to the 45. Then Fye hit Halfback Walter Perry with a pass on the Elizabeth City 40. Perry lateraled off to Fullback Paul Conway who drove to the Jacket 28 before he was stopped.

Again the Phantoms took to the air. This time it was Fye to End Jack Neilson who lateraled to Perry on the Jacket 11 yard line. Perry then passed through the baffled Elizabeth City secondary to Fye to put the Phantoms on the Jacket four and on the next play Fye rifled one to Perry in the end zone for a touchdown.

An attempt was made for the extra point was incomplete. It was the first Greenville pass to fall in 12 tries.

Elizabeth City fought back desperately in the same period. With Fullback Bobby Sawyer leading the way the Jackets fought from their own 45 to the 25 of Greenville by the end of the third quarter.

Quarterback Clay Foreman bucked over from the three yard line after four plays in the fourth period to give Elizabeth City its touchdown. Lindsey Hewitt kicked the extra point to put the Jackets ahead 7-6.

Elizabeth City added two points to its total midway the final quarter to block a Greenville kick and Halfback Jimmy Cox fell on the ball in the Greenville end zone.

With their backs to the wall in the closing minutes of the game the Phantoms again took to the air. But their passing attack, which had kept the fans on their feet throughout the first three quarters, failed to click and they were forced to punt in the last minute of the game. Determined to win for bed-tidden

Coach Bo Farley, the Greenville squad played its best game of the year on the home gridiron. Their determination was evidenced in the opening minutes of the contest when they rolled through the heavy and favored Jackets for 47 yards only to lose on downs on the Elizabeth City 13 yard line.

Later when their ground attack no longer could make any mentionable headway, they took to the air with the passing attack which will long be remembered in high school football circles.

The punting of Jimmy Cox was one of the highlights of the game. His average of 45 yards for six punts kept the Elizabeth City team driving up from deep in its own territory most of the game.

Acting Coach Woody Wilson was high in praise of his Phantoms. "They every one did a fine job," he commented. Leading the attack for Greenville was the passing of Fye and the hard-charging running plays and defensive performance of Jimmy Cox, halfback who is making a strong bid for all-conference honors.

Elizabeth City's offense was led by Freshman Fullback Bobby Sawyer, a rugged, powerful lad of 160 pounds who did most of the ball carrying. Another underclassman, 200 pound Franklin Walls, and Center Jimmy Prescott led the Jacket forward wall.

Elizabeth City—Ends: Whitehurst, Ward, Lassiter and Hewitt; tackles, C. Gray, Butler, Walls; guards, M. Gray, Austin, Mann; centers, Prescott and Cuthrie; quarterback, Forbes, Askew and Foreman; halfbacks, Owens, R. Forbes, Pappendick, Gard; fullback, Sawyer and Sears.

Greenville: Ends, Moore, Neilson, Gardner, Tighman; tackles, Conaway, Brady; guards, Vainright, Rowland; centers, Aman and Howe; quarterback, Fye; halfbacks, Cox, Perry, Good, Higgs; fullback, Paul Conway.

Porter Says His Cagers Lucky If Finish Fourth

By Eugene Price

East Carolina has a potential 60-point basketball team in the making for the 1949-50 cage season. That much is conceded by the Buccaneers usually noncommittal Coach Howard Porter.

But Porter, whose boys were averaging around 55 points in games the latter part of last year, wouldn't advise putting your life's savings on a North State conference championship coming to East Carolina this season.

"We'll be lucky to finish up in fourth place again," is the way Porter views the coming season.

While he believes East Carolina will boast a good team, Porter predicts some mighty powerful opposition in such teams as Catawba, High Point, Appalachian, West Carolina and Guilford.

The Buccaneer cage coach is at somewhat of a loss as to what to expect from Elon, Lehigh-Rhine and Atlantic Christian. You never know how to take a team when it changes coaches," Porter explained.

"But those first teams I mentioned will give us a lot of trouble. We've seen these coaches produce in years past and can expect some strong opposition, Porter says.

Nor is Porter too sure that he will have a 60-point club. "We'll have that, good a club if the boys start taking their training more seriously," he pointed out. The coach declared that a part of the '49 was in the hands of the student body at East Carolina. "They ought to keep behind the athletes and encourage them to keep in training," Porter says.

Boistering East Carolina's cage hopes are a crop of what Porter calls "some nice free-han ball players."

The Bucs boast possession of Warren Russell, the six foot three lad who won recognition while playing for New Bern high school last year. Richard Blake of Camp Lejune, who made All State in Class B competition last year, John Postas, six foot six inch Franklin, N. J. center, Ray Everett, a relatively small but promising boy from Baltimore, Vincent Jones, Kingston high school stand-out, and Ray Guthrie, all-prep school basketball in South Carolina, are among the "nice bunch" of freshman mentioned by Porter.

Whereas they gained what should prove to be very valuable freshman candidates, the Bucs lost some talent which might prove hard to replace.

place. Charlie Bill Moye, the Bucs' All-conference forward, wore up his eligibility last season. Moye, who scored 168 points despite the fact that he missed three regular games and all the replays, Porter explained.

Ben Harrison, center and Bob Shurtard, guard, both of whom played a lot of ball last year are missing from this year's squad.

Returning will be six foot, six inch Jack Everton of Columbia, at forward. Everton led the Pirates in scoring last year with 212 points. He was named to the All-Tournament second best team for his performance at the North Carolina State Tournament at Elkin.

Fitz Fennell, the Bucs' consistently good center will lead Coach Porter's crop of sophomore candidates. Fennell who made All State while playing for Wilmington high school in 1947-48, was third high scorer for the Bucs last year with 137 points.

Len Bauer, outstanding guard, will be back to assure strength at one of the guard positions. Frank Maennle, the "Mr. Rebound" of the North State last year, will probably handle one of the guard posts but will not see action until after the season gets under way. Maennle plays fullback on the football team and Porter says he probably won't get a chance to play basketball until after the fourth game.

East Carolina's freshman sensation of the Elkin tournament last year, Louis Collier, is expected to make a powerful bid for a starting berth with the Bucs this season. Collier won All-Tournament honors last year.

Phil Brown, Eddie Tanner, and Jim Blake, all of whom saw considerable action with the Pirates last year, are back.

Others are expected, too, then the current football season closes. Roger Thrift, reputedly a good baseball player, and Sa-dy Siler, reportedly an outstanding cager in high school last year, will join the Buc basketballers when the football season ends.

The Bucs opens their season November 19 when they invade Wilson Teachers College in Washington, D. C. Their schedule begins with four consecutive out of town games. The first home game will be December 5 when the Bucs play Camp Lejune and the Junior Varsity team plays Wilmington Junior College.

They play Guilford December 1 to open their North State slate.

Pirates Play Edenton Flyers Tonight; Look For Win No. 3

By Eugene Price

The Purple Pirates of East Carolina Teachers College, shooting for win No. 3, entertain the Edenton Flyers here tonight in a non-conference gridiron contest in the ECTC stadium.

The Bucs, who broke back into the win column after four consecutive losses with a 26-20 win over the Newport News (Va.) Apprentices last week, will go into tonight's game at almost to strength.

Suspended Fight Officials Voice Indignation

Detroit, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Police commissioner Harry S. Toy's investigation of the Kid Cavilan-Lester fight kicked up a rumpus today.

As the police head assigned his top sleuths to his inquiry, the two suspended fight officials registered indignation.

Referee Morrie Sherman, a former fighter, and Judge Sam Pearlstein, former fight manager, each took the position that "I called it as I saw it."

Both voted for Felton in last Friday night's bout at Olympia. The split verdict—a second judge saw it for Gavilan—led to an uproar.

The State Boxing Commission, charging that Sherman and Pearlstein were "lax," suspended their licenses yesterday.

Commission secretary Leo Sourial said "we'll never use those guys again."

Phillies Admit Interested Over Lt. Glenn Davis

Philadelphia, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies are very much interested in Lt. Glenn Davis as a baseball player.

Bob Carpenter, owner of the club, said yesterday regulations prohibit discussing of contracts while men still are in the armed forces.

"But," he added, "there are indications Davis would be interested in a career with the Phillies."

The Boston Red Sox among several other major league clubs also are said to be interested in Davis. Glenn was better known as "Mr. Outside," All-America back on West Point's wartime football team. He also, however, was highly rated as an outfielder.

Davis has indicated he might be interested in playing baseball but has declined to discuss the matter until after he becomes eligible for a discharge next June 1.

Golden Meeting

Philadelphia.—(AP)—Army and Navy celebrate their 50th football meeting this fall when they renew the inter-service rivalry at Municipal Stadium here. The Soldiers currently are sporty by a seven game margin, having won 26 to the Sailors' 19. There have been four tie games, including last year's exciting 21-21 dead lock.

The V.osta Dodgers of the Class D Georgia-Florida League stole 237 bases in 142 games last season.

Snavelly Warns Tar Heel Two-Platoon Plans 'Shot'

By The Associated Press
North Carolina's Tar Heels hope to do something tomorrow no other football team has ever accomplished. No team has ever beaten a team coached by Bob Neyland of Tennessee three years in succession.

But don't get the idea it's a cinch for the Tar Heels. For only yesterday Coach Carl Snavelly, who usually doesn't have much to say, said plainly—He complained that his two platoon system "is completely shot to pieces."

"I can't remember when I have had a squad in worse physical condition for a ball game," Snavelly moaned. "Almost all of our little mer are doubling up on both defense and offense or shifting from one position to another."

Among those out of action was end Art Weiner. He was on crutches because of an infected foot. Another end, Kenny Ewell, also may miss the Tennessee battle at Chapel Hill.

North Carolina State and Virginia Tech, the wireless woublers of the league, tangle at Norfolk, Va., in the Oyster Bowl. Neither has won a game this year. In fact, Tech hasn't scored a victory since the 1947 season.

Duke's Blue Devils journey to Georgia Tech. Virginia Military Institute has a man-sized assignment against Army at West Point. South Carolina plays at Maryland and William and Mary invades the University of Richmond.

Saturday night games find Wake Forest at Clemson and Furman goes to Florida.

Athletics Willing To Pay $200,000 For Roy Sievers

Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics are willing to pay $200,000 for Roy Sievers but the St. Louis Browns say that isn't enough for their star outfielder.

Arthur Ehlers, director of the Athletics farm system, said yesterday the Browns turned thumbs down on the $200,000 offer during his recent conference with Bill and Charles Dewitt, owners of the Browns.

"We want some of their players and they want some of ours," Ehlers said, "but we didn't agree on anything."

Ehlers indicated the Browns want players rather than cash for Sievers—selected by sporting news as the American League's rookie of the year.

Vanceboro Takes 25-0 Win Against Richlands

Vanceboro.—The Vanceboro High School evaded its season football record at 3-3 here yesterday when Coach Dan Drew's gridders smashed to a 25-0 win over Richlands High School.

Scoring six points in the first and third periods, the Vanceboro eleven ripped over two more tallies in the final period to take the game easily.

Troy Laughinghouse ran two touchdowns and passed to the other two to lead the Vanceboro attack. His first tally came on a 14-yard jaunt around end. His outstanding backfield performance was high-lighted by a 45-yard end run which gave the winners their second touchdown.

Laughinghouse passed 10 yards to end Nezar Ipkok for the third score and fired a 15-yard aerial to Claude Wilson for the other touchdown.

Outstanding for Vanceboro in the line were Mac Whitford and Roy Whitford, tackle and center respectively. Laughinghouse and Joe Lewis, halfback, sparked the backfield.

For Richlands Mervin Marshburn led the offensive attack while Donald Rand, tackle, was outstanding defensively.

Three-Way Tie

Wake Forest, Oct. 27.—John (Red) Quinn, end, and Bill Gregus and Williams (Nub) Smith, halfbacks, are tied for high scoring honors on the Wake Forest team at the end of six games. Each has tallied three touchdowns for 18 points. All are expected to play important roles for the Deacons against Clemson at Clemson Saturday night.

Should a necessity carry a high federal tax?

Telephone service is generally considered to be a necessity. Yet the Federal tax on long distance and other telephone service goes as high as 25%. The tax on luxuries is only 20%. That means the necessary long distance telephone call you may have to make in an emergency will be taxed higher than luxuries.

And that is only part of the telephone tax picture. Federal tax increases your local service bill by 15%. Long distance calls of 25c or over are taxed 25%. Other forms of telephone service are taxed from 8 to 25%. This excise tax is imposed directly upon you as a telephone user. Your telephone company, at its own expense, acts as a tax collector.

These excise taxes are in addition to the corporation income taxes and other taxes which the company pays to the federal government either directly or indirectly.

We are sure your Senators and Representatives in Congress would welcome your views as a taxpayer and citizen in helping them to guide future action on this peacetime tax of a necessity.

Only Stan Peele, end who was injured in the Elon game, will not be in uniform for tonight's game, it was stated at the college this morning.

Despite Edenton's unimpressive showing this year the Bucs and Coach Bill Dole are not underrating them. Reports from Edenton say the team has been strengthened with a new coach and other unofficial reports indicate that they have added new material since their early season games.

The Flyers were handed an 80-0 drubbing by Elon in September in a game in which Elon had three touchdowns called back and missed

Gain 19-19 Tie

Greensboro, N. C., Oct. 28.—(AP)—High Point College gained a 19-19 tie decision with favored Guilford College in a North State Conference football game here last night.

The underdog Panthers struck twice in the first half for a 12-0 intermission margin. They added seven more points in the final quarter which saw Guilford come back for 13 points after chalking up its first touchdown in the third frame.

Guilford's final score came with slightly more than two minutes remaining.

East Carolina lost to the same Elon team 33-6.

Pirate followers are uncertain as to how to take the visitors tonight. Service teams are usually rather unpredictable. Consensus here, however, is that the Pirates will take tonight's contest.

It will be the first home game for the Bucs in three weeks. Week before last they were beaten by West Carolina at Canton and defeated the Apprentice School in Newport News last week.

Chapter 12
"Y're Chips," sighed the man, "chip off the old block. Come on, Sam, lift your elbow; the kid's paid good cash. I'll take the big one. No sense abustin' the secon' generation for what'll first die!"

The surly storekeeper joined the man in stowing the boxes in Arleta's car. And then he left and Arleta, after lingering a tip, thought better of it. "I appreciate your help," she said softly.

"Rheumy eyes glared at her. "Yeahn!" he answered. "Well, you 'didn't have it comin'. Anything I do for a Langtry is pure gravy." "Well—" Arleta caught the words her father would have used and drove off.

The Martins, having napped during her absence, were refreshed, eager for food and for talk. But Chips had to become Arleta before they could talk. And so she was served before the fire in the big room, in the lone chair there, while they dined in the kitchen; and then she had to remain sitting while they stood respectfully before her with their reports.

It was Miss Letta who walked up to the one fully furnished room which was to be her own. The nursery quarters were closed off, left as they had been for some reason she hadn't yet divined.

There she found a low light, her bed turned down, gown, robe and slippers in place, and such clothing as the Martins had brought with them in order.

Sometime during the night the storm, refreshed by its lull, came in to battle the big house, but Arleta slept through it, slept until a wide-eyed Tunia appeared with her morning coffee.

"Miss Letta, there's two deer at the back door and Mart's beside himself. They ate right out of his hand and they've come into the kitchen if I hadn't put my foot down."

For two days the storm held and it was a period of blissful peace. Arleta read her mail and answered it and Tunia was spicily busy in the kitchen.

The third day, red sunset fires burned on the horizon, and that night the light on the peninsula was joined by a galaxy of stars repeating themselves in the lake below.

It was noon when the occupants of the Langtry house heard the roar of a motor plough, saw it finally sweep up before the terrace and saw the driver hop out and come running up the snow-covered steps to yell, "Chips! Hey, Chips!"

Arleta hurried to the stairs, but Martin had reached the door before she was halfway down. And she laughed to see How Kelly's mouth literally freeze on a fresh "Chips" as he confronted the grave dignity of Martin.

"You wished to see—" offered Martin.

But Kelly was seeing; seeing a slim figure in cherry red flannel, curls piled high, coming down the stairway, and he was trying to find in that figure the rumpled Chips of boots and breeches.

"This is Mr. Kelly, Martin," she called. "Do bring him in to the fire. And can you find another chair, and something hot?"

He met her at the foot of the stairs. "To the rescue again?" she asked.

"When I saw lights over here I had visions of you starving to death, and then—" he smiled at her. "I heard you'd shopped for an army. But that was Chips who shopped."

Arleta nodded and frowned. "I know, I feel like a split personality myself. Or a chameleon," she added. "I'm back to dressing for dinner, though dinner last night was canned beans. As usual, gossip was snowballed."

Martin brought in a kitchen chair and literally served it to Mr. Kelly, and Tunia followed with hot coffee and spice cake, and then the Martins, with chains on their tires and a pencilled road map, departed for the resort town for supplies.

And Arleta told How Kelly about the Martins.

He left soon after that, turning back to call, "Tell Mart I've a pretty good library; he might like to borrow some books while he's snowed in."

The three were reading that certain afternoon. Mart, looking up, found the rooms were chilly.

"Must be something wrong with the furnace," he remarked to Tunia, and went to the basement.

He returned and went straight to Arleta. "Miss Letta," he said, "there's a man downstairs. I think he's been drinking. He was lying on that cot."

"A man!" cried Arleta.

"He says his name is Doakes and he works here."

Arleta stalked down the basement stairs.

A rag of a man lay on the cot that failed to remove.

"Get up and get out of here!" ordered Arleta.

"Can't," murmured the man complacently. "Here on my constitutional rights. Got a contract. Got three years to go."

"You've violated every term in the contract. Now get up and get out or I'll—"

"You'll what?" He sat up and stared at her.

Arleta thought of the revolver which had once been in the gun closet off the library. There were none there now.

"I'll give you one hour," she said. "Upstairs, she turned to Martin.

"The car, Martin. Then lock that door and, regardless of what Doakes says or does, don't quarrel with him."

Driving down a road now slick with slush, she thought she might handle a problem such as this if she only knew the background; knew what had gone before. The assurance of the man was like a threat.

Who would know?

This time How Kelly was ready for her, met her at the door. And for a moment she thought he wasn't going to invite her in. And when he did, he reached a heel halfway across the floor to kick to the swinging door leading to the living room.

"Now what?" he demanded, after one look at her.

"Doakes," she answered. "He's moved in and refuses to leave. Had there been a gun on the place—"

She stopped. The swing door had opened and Cal Sheridan stood there looking at her gravely.

Religious . . .

publishers since 1870, asked experts in the field to answer the query. The consensus was that this call for religious books indicated a large scale "return to religion" in the United States.

Springer reports that since the dropping of the first atomic bomb and the beginning of the uncertain post-war period, there hasn't been a weekly best-seller list which hasn't had books on spiritual subjects close to top place. Mr. Barbour says reports from the whole country show "a phenomenal upswing of sales in religious books."

School Bands In Big Performance

The Greenville high school band and the nationally famous band of Elizabeth City high school gave citizens of Greenville a top performance last night, parading down the business section of town and putting on a colorful exhibition at halftime of the Greenville-Elizabeth City football game.

Both bands were featured at a pep rally behind Greenville high school where the students sang the praises of their respective schools around a bonfire.

Overshadowed in size by the mammoth band from Elizabeth City, Director James Rodgers' Greenville musicians equaled them in performance.

Fans declared it was the greatest array of musical talent ever to be seen on the local football field.

Greenville's halftime performance drew a tremendous ovation from the fans, as did the marches shown by Elizabeth City.

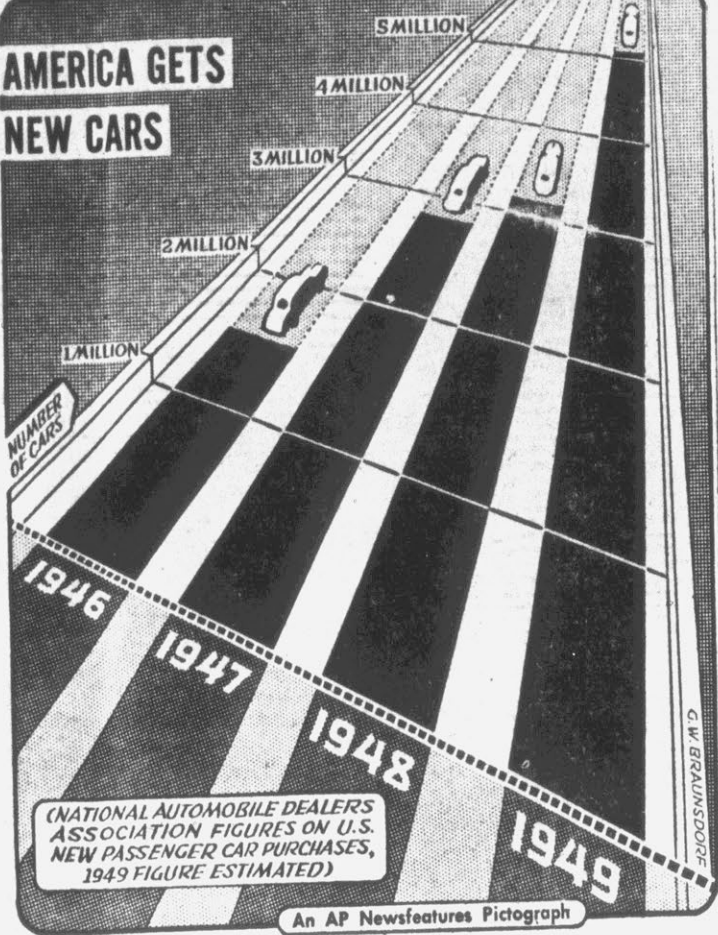

The two bands joined to play the National Anthem just prior to the game.

N. Y. Stock Market
New York, Oct. 28—(AP)—Traders operated in highly selective fashion in today's stock market. Price changes were limited mostly to fractions although there were a couple of exceptions, notably Chrysler with a rise of 2 points. The market tried hard to get ahead but good many of the initial gains were trimmed or eliminated entirely.
President Truman's statement, made after the close of the market yesterday, that a national emergency in the coal and steel strikes was a long way off, evidently gave traders something to think about.

Jaycees Induct New Members In Thursday Meet

The Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce at its regular meeting last night inducted two new members and heard a report by President Louis Gaylord on the district Jaycee meeting held Monday in Kinston.

New members inducted into the organization were Phil Goodson, Jr., of Goodson and Flanagan Insurance agency, and James White, a member of the business faculty of East Carolina Teachers College.

Guests of the club at last night's meeting were Bob Rose, manager of the R. C. Cola plant, Claude Taylor of the Guaranty Bank, John Howard of the Greenville Tobacco Company, Ray Wooten of Folger Bulk company, and C. L. Perkins, Jr., of Greenville high school.

John Lautes had charge of the program at last night's meeting and showed the colored movies of the Duke-Alabama Sugar Bowl game of 1945.

Television Thrills Rambling Reporter

A Daily Reflector reporter last night had his first experience of witnessing radio television here in Greenville at the Southern Supply Company's Firestone store, on Evans street.

It was a revelation Ed Wynne, famous in radio, and Dinah Shore, famous in songs, were on the television screen. Reception was exceptionally good.

Manager James A. Piver and his assistant, C. A. Mazingo, and C. O. Stephens, clerk in the store, unfolded to the hobnobbing reporter some of the secrets of television. Television requires a special aerial, they stated. Television reception in this part of North Carolina apparently is "on the way," and it is just a matter of time when the sets will be in general use here.
