Red Troops Reach Chungking Border

Fight Way To Outskirts Of Provisional Capital Of China; Chiang Kai-shek Said Directing Defense; Gov't Already Moved To New Site

Taipei, Formosa, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Chinese Nationalist sources here tonight said Communist troops had fought their way to the outskirts of Chungking, provisional capital of China. These sources said they got their information by long distance telephone from Chungking, where Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek was reported directing the fighting. The Red vanguards reached South Springs, 12 miles from Chungking and a suburb of the city, Nationalist sources said, South Springs is on the Yangtze river. A Nationalist counter-attack at 9:30 p. m. local time recaptured South Springs, these sources said. The Nationalist government was reported to have already moved to Chengtu, 170 miles to the northwest of Chungking.

Chungking, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Communist troops smashed Chinese Nationalist defenses and pushed within 20 miles of this domed city today. Some reports placed them even closer. Confusion amounting to chaos followed the news. The rush to get out of the city was so great that roads were glutted. Traffic moved at a snail's pace. Excitement in the city was like a wild fever. Hundreds upon hundreds realized to their fearful dismay that they were trapped. Events within the past 12 hours moved desperately for the Nationalists. First came news that the Reds striking from the east had occupied Chiehchiang, 40 miles to the south where the highways to Chungking from Hupoh and Kweichow provinces meet. Then came the news of a quick Communist stab north of here. Tachin, 25 miles away, was captured. This was followed by a quick advance of five miles which put the Reds within 20 or less miles of Chungking. The nearest Japanese got to Chungking during the war was about 200 miles to the south. Chungking has been the provisional capital of Nationalist China for a little over five weeks. Another force sped up the highway from Kweichow, capital of Kweichow province. Most people thought this far inland city of 1,000,000 inhabitants would fall tomorrow or the next day. A handful of top officials were still in Chungking at nightfall. Among them was Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. Most had plans waiting to whisk them to safety.

Rules Modified On Disciplining

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 28.—(P)—The Highway Commission today amended state prison discipline rules to cut to 24 hours the time a prisoner may be handcuffed as punishment. The new rules become effective Dec. 1 if approved by Governor Scott. Other major changes in the regulations set definite bounds on the use of floggings as punishment and prohibit possession of money by prisoners.

GIRL ACQUITTED

Berkeley, Va., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Theresa Koenig, 19, Washington art student, today was acquitted of manslaughter in the November 18 slaying of a boy friend she said threatened her with rape or death by a dynamite blast.

Trouble In Manchuria

Heart Of The 17,000-Word Chinese Charges Against Russia In United Nations Is Who Really Controls Manchuria; Serious Extent Of Allegations; The Purpose

When you've sifted those 17,000 words of charges hurled at Russia in the United Nations by Nationalist China you will, I believe, find that the nub of the controversy really is control of Manchuria. The Chinese allegations are grave. The Soviet Union is accused of violating the Sino-Russian treaty of 1945 which the Chinese Nationalists maintain committed the Soviet Union to support only the Nationalist regime as the central government of China. The indictment further maintains that Moscow agreed Manchuria was a part of China. With this as a premise the Chinese delegation at Lake Success accuses Russia of giving economic and military aid to the Chinese Communists, and of obstructing the Chinese Nationalist government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in its efforts to reestablish its authority in Manchuria. And pepper for this already hot dish is added in the allegation that Russian troops committed hundreds of atrocities in Manchuria. These are specified, having delivered such a broadside, what is it that the Chinese really want. Are they seeking the expulsion of Russia from the peace

Dies As Result Of Auto Mishap

A 35-year-old Negro man died in Pitt General Hospital Sunday as a result of injuries received in a car wreck Saturday afternoon about 1:30. The man, Frank Brown, Route 4, Greenville, was riding in a car operated by Freddie Lee Coward, 35 Route 4, Greenville, at the time that the car door on the side which Brown was riding in allegedly had come open. Coward was quoted by investigating officer Paul C. Whitley of the State Highway Patrol, as saying that he made an attempt to keep Brown from falling out of the car, and that he lost control of the car in doing so.

Crawford Emphatic In Denying Charges

Pitt County Prison Camp Superintendent Paul Crawford emphatically denied today having beaten a long term convict who says he received a broken finger when the prison camp official beat him with a pistol. Smarting under Convict Paul Hallman's allegations that he sustained a severe hand injury when the prison superintendent smashed a pistol butt on his fingers, Crawford declared today: "I never laid a finger on Hallman."

Military Chiefs Convene In Paris

Paris, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The West's top military men today start work on plans to use nearly a billion American dollars for Atlantic nation defenses against any Russian aggression. Chiefs of staff of the United States, Britain and France—the major signers of the North Atlantic Pact—will meet for two days in the French Naval Ministry building. They are to draw a unified plan to defend Western Europe. Not until the integrated plan is finished can the U. S. supply nearly one billion dollars in money and arms that congress voted to help strengthen the 11 other nations that signed the treaty.

Identify Charred Remains Of Man Who Died In Fire

A partially burned watch and pocket knife were used to identify the charred body of a 64-year-old Pitt county man who last night was burned to death in a fire which destroyed a barn on Mrs. Joseph McLawhorn's farm about two and one-half miles from Winterville. Pitt county Coroner Griffin H. Rouse identified the man as George Smith, a farm laborer who worked as a feeder on the McLawhorn farm. Rouse said the body was burned beyond recognition in the fire which destroyed a large quantity of hay and corn, but said that Smith's son told officers of the pocket knife and the watch could be found near the body he would be sure it was his father. Police Chief Jim Buck of Winterville said the knife and watch were found in the ashes. Coroner Rouse said no inquest will be held. The coroner said Smith had worked

Northwest Reels To Storm; Flood Peril Mounting

Violent Winds And Rains Leave 15 Dead; Towns Isolated

Seattle, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Battered and reeling, the Pacific Northwest fought today against the peril of flood in the wake of a violent wind and rain storm that left 15 known dead as it slugged halfway across the northern half of the nation. Damage already was in the millions of dollars. Whipping across the Rocky Mountains with hurricane force gusts, the region's first major storm of winter streaked across Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah and Wyoming. The Weather Bureau said it would reach the Central Plains states some time today. A heavy blow was predicted for the Great Lakes. Peak wind velocity was reported yesterday from Cut Bank, Mont., where gusts registered 105 m.p.h. Sheridan, Wyo., was rocked by 96 m.p.h. bursts. The storm struck on a 1,000-mile front Saturday—from British Columbia into Oregon. Hardest hit was Washington state. Hundreds of families were evacuated as the roiled waters of the Skagit river in northwest Washington isolated five towns in the Skagit valley. Four other communities were threatened as five inches of rain fell during a 24-hour period in the upper valley. The immediate threat appeared, however, to have passed. Early today the normally placid waterway hit its crest with about a foot to spare at Mount Vernon where rain-soaked sandbag crews of from 300-500 men worked frantically to keep the river within its dikes. Water lay six to eight inches deep over eight square blocks of the city which lies about six feet below the level of the river. Merchants moved their store goods to second-story levels. Approximately 250 persons were evacuated by army and coast guard crews from nearby Hamilton. The Lyman-Hamilton road was covered with six feet deep. The towns of Lyman, Concrete, Rockport and Marblemount also were isolated. Conway, Burlington, Avon and Sedro Wooley were also threatened. As anxious Skagit valley residents awaited the river's next crest, new flood dangers were reported farther north where the surging Nooksack river threatened to inundate the fishing village of Marietta, a community of about 300 persons, eight miles northwest of Bellingham. All possible aid was summoned from the coast guard and nearby Fort Casey.

127 Bales Of Allegedly Sold By Former Local Manager And Money Not Turned Over To Him; A. B. Fairley Named Defendant

A $19,000 civil suit was filed in Pitt Superior Court late Friday by a Pitt county farmer who is seeking reimbursement from the state for losses caused him when 127 bales of cotton he had stored in the Farmville Bonded Warehouse allegedly were sold by a former local manager in charge of the warehouse, and the money was not turned over to the owner of the cotton. Attorneys for J. H. Harris, of Farmville, prominent Pitt farmer, filed the suit with the clerk of the court Friday. The complaint named A. B. Fairley, state warehouse superintendent, as defendant in the case against the state agency. The complaint states that J. H. Harris stored 127 bales of cotton with the Farmville Bonded Warehouse during the years of 1939, 1941 and 1942, and alleged that the cotton was sold by the late George S. Williams, local manager of the warehouse, who had charge of the court. The action filed in the court states that affidavits from approximately 14 Pitt county farmers have been secured by J. B. James and W. W. Speight of Greenville, attorneys for the plaintiff, and by the State Bureau of Investigation, in which Williams growers say they allowed Williams to use their cotton contract numbers to sell bales of cotton which he said he had accumulated from sample cotton. The farmers signed affidavits in which they said they later turned the money for the cotton over to Williams or endorsed checks for the cotton for Williams. The action charges that repeated attempts were made by Harris over a period of years to secure either the 127 bales of cotton or the money for the cotton, but that Williams "always made some excuse or gave reason why said cotton could not be delivered to the plaintiff or sold for him."

Baby Is Pretty Big

The Rapid Growth Of Television Since Its First Commercial Station Started In 1941; A Tremendous Future; How Radio Has Grown, And Applications For More

Washington, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Over the weekend and the Thanksgiving holiday I got earache from radios and eyestrain from television. Remembering back to the painless, peaceful days of crystal, I began to think: The baby's pretty big now. But how big? So I got some notes together on the boom in hear-and-see. Take television—By the first of the year, manufacturers say, there'll be three million television receiving sets in the hands of the public. Modern television was introduced at the World's Fair in New York, 1939. That year, too, a baseball game was televised to experimental stations. In 1941 the first licensed commercial television station started business atop the Empire State Building in New York. Before the end of that year eight licensed stations went into business. Before it can operate, a television or radio station must get the okay of the FCC, the Federal Communications Commission, which is the federal agency controlling the air waves. Television receiving sets were on the market before the war. But the war stopped the building of new sets and new broadcasting stations although six television stations did business during the war. This wartime freeze was lifted in October, 1945. Now 90 television stations are operating. The FCC has given an okay to 22 more. In addition, FCC has 350 other applications for approval of new stations but the FCC is holding up on them. Why? FCC gave two main reasons: Lack of room for new stations until some adjustments are made about distributing the air waves; and interference between stations. Meaning: Transmitters were bothering one another because there didn't seem to be enough distance between them. No coast-to-coast relays yet. But there's a relay up and down the Atlantic coast and as far west as Chicago and St. Louis. Meanwhile, FCC wanted to see if color television was ready. It called hearings. There was a big argument over this: industry split wide open, one part claiming color television is fine now, the other saying color is still not as good as black and white. The FCC has spent weeks in hear-

Mrs. William Farrow Ward Jr.

Ward-Fountain

In a setting of white chrysanthemums, fern and lighted cathedral tapers Miss Betsy White Fountain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Fountain, Jr. of Fountain, N. C., became the bride of Lt. (j.g.) William Farrow Ward, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Ward of New Bern, N. C., Saturday evening, November 26, in the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, Greenville, N. C. The Rev. Leon Russell, pastor of the church, officiated. This ceremony was performed on the twenty-second anniversary of the bride's parents.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Paul Toll, organist, and Mr. Robert Mays of Hopewell, Va., soloist. Mr. Mays sang, "Give Me Your Hand," by Stewart and "Because" by d'Hardelot. "O Perfect Love" was used as a benediction.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white bridal satin with fitted bodice having an off shoulder neckline of marquisette dotted with clusters of seeded pearls and buttoned down the back with tiny bridal buttons. The gown featured a full skirt ending in a cathedral train. Her full length veil of imported English illusion fell from a crown of seeded pearls. She carried a bouquet of white bridal roses and stephanotis. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

The bride had as her matron-of-honor her mother, Mrs. Robert A. Fountain, Jr. Her gown was of moonstone blue velvet fashioned with off shoulder neckline and shirred berth. She wore a matching half hat with ostrich tips and matching gauntlets and carried a cascade of pink roses and pink carnations. Miss Jane Rogers of Chapel Hill, N. C. was the maid of honor. Her dress was identical to that of the matron.

The bridesmaids were Miss Dolly Brim of Greensboro, N. C., and Miss Monica Overton of Andrews, S. C., cousins of the bride, Miss Mary Ellen Reeves of Hamlet, N. C., Miss Beverly Morrison of New Bern, N. C., Mrs. Ronald E. Mintz of Rocky Mount, N. C., and Mrs. Robert Pierce of Fountain, N. C. They wore dresses of crimson velvet fashioned like those of the matron and maid of honor with matching hats and gauntlets. They carried cascades of pink roses and pink carnations.
Miss Mary Bagley Payne of Marietta, Ga., and Miss Nina Elizabeth Overton of Greenville, N. C., were junior bridesmaids. They wore Alfred D. Ward and Kennedy Ward, brothers of the groom, Robert A. Fountain, III, brother of the bride, John Fountain, Jr. of Fountain, Oliver H. Allen of Morehead City, and Dr. Graham A. Barden of Durham.

The mother of the groom wore a gown of ruby satin with matching gloves. In her hair she wore a spray of pink orchids.

Following the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Fountain, Jr. entertained at a reception at the Woman's Club in Greenville. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Overton, and Mr. and Mrs. John Fountain. Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Allen II and Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Ward received in the hall. Guests were met at the dining room door by Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Beasley and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Scott. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brim introduced the guests to the receiving line which was composed of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Ward, the bride couple, and the attendants.

The refreshment table was covered with a white satin cloth draped with white tulle attached with gardenias and was decorated with an arrangement of bridal flowers in a silver bowl flanked by burning tapers. Mrs. William Goodwyn and Miss Mary Ward poured punch and were assisted in serving by Mrs. Bill Connelly, Mrs. Paul Burnette, Mrs. Bruce Beasley, Jr., Mr. R. D. Jefferson, and Miss Alice Foley Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Trevathan and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Harris directed the guests to the register which was presided over by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Mercer and Dr. and Mrs. Graham A. Barden, Jr.

Goodbyes were said by Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Overton and Mrs. Frank E. Payne.

Following the reception Lt. and Mrs. Ward left for New York on their wedding trip. For traveling the bride wore an original Etken gold suit with sport rust lizard accessories. On her fur coat she wore green and yellow orchids.

Mrs. Ward was graduated from the preparatory department of Peace College and attended Duke University for two years. She received the degree of B. S. in Commerce from the University of North Carolina this past July. While at Carolina Mrs. Ward was a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Lt. Ward attended The Citadel in Charleston, S. C., and the University of North Carolina. During the war he received his commission from the Midshipmen's School at Columbia University.

Mrs. E. B. Beasley, Sr., entertained at a tea at her home in Fountain Tuesday afternoon honoring Miss Betsy White Fountain, bride-elect, whose marriage to Lt. William Ward took place Saturday evening. The Beasley home was attractively decorated with chrysanthemums, roses and magnolia leaves.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Hardy Johnson and introduced to the receiving line by the hostess. In the receiving line were Miss Fountain, her mother, Mrs. Robert A. Fountain, Jr., Mrs. William F. Ward, Miss Beverly Morrison, Mrs. Robert Pierce, Miss Mary Ward, Mrs. Glenn Scott and Mrs. Jonathan Overton.

Mrs. J. M. Horton received at the dining room door. The dining room table was centered with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums flanked by burning tapers in silver candelabra. Mrs. John Fountain and Mrs. M. D. Yelverton presided at the table and were assisted in serving by Mrs. E. B. Beasley, Jr., Mrs. Paul Burnette and Mrs. R. D. Jefferson.

Whitney Sets Up Huge Foundation

New York, Nov. 28—(AP)—Millionaire John Hay Whitney has established fellowships for Americans hampered in opportunity for personal advancement by racial or cultural background.

The fellowships—announced yesterday—will be financed by the John Hay Whitney Foundation, which made an appropriation of $100,000 for the first year. Grants will range from $1,000 to $3,000 a year.

The Foundation said American Negroes, American Indians and Americans of Spanish-speaking ancestry are specifically eligible.

The fellowships will be awarded by competition. They will not be restricted to academic study, but may be used also for gaining experience in industry, labor leadership, the arts or other fields.

Whitney commented: "In spite of the fact that this country offers more widespread opportunities than any other nation, many Americans of great potential ability are kept from their full development. We hope these fellowships will contribute to the broadening of opportunities to all Americans."

The John Hay Whitney Foundation was known formerly as the Greenwood Foundation, which sponsored the National Planning Association Studies on Industrial Peace.

Maternity Mortality Rate Greatly Cut In 20 Years

New York, N.Y.—Two decades of progress in overcoming the hazards of pregnancy and childbirth have reduced the death toll from maternity in the United States to one seventh of its former rate, according to Dr. Louis I. Dublin, chief of statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

The maternal mortality rate of 30 years ago was 7 per 1,000 live births, one of the highest in the civilized world at that time. The rate was down to 1.3 per 1,000 by 1947, the latest year for which complete data are available, and currently it is estimated to be about 1 per 1,000 live births.

"Our country is now in the vanguard of nations with respect to safeguarding maternity," Dr. Dublin observes.

Mortality due to childbearing is lowest in regions where hospitalization of confinements is most frequent, a study by the statisticians reveals. Most favorable rates prevail in New England, where 97 percent of the births are in hospitals and in the Pacific States, where 98 percent are in hospitals. The highest mortality is shown to be in the East South Central region, where only 55 percent of the births are hospitalized.

In pointing out that rural mortality is higher than urban, Dr. Dublin foresees further reduction of the maternity death toll during the coming decade through the expansion of public health work in rural counties.

Recent legislation should have the result of increasing the number of hospitals and health centers available to people in the more sparsely populated sections," he commented. "The outlook for the near future, therefore, is bright in the field of maternal care, as it is in the whole sphere of public health."

Law Violators Get Instruction

Prague—(AP)—Czechoslovak pedestrians and drivers who disregard traffic regulations have been ordered to attend special Sunday courses in safety rules.

The order was issued after a "Traffic Safety Week" during which police, assisted by members of the youth front, taught people how to walk or drive over crossings in the cities. The first three days were devoted to warnings but the latter half of the week brought fines to traffic trespassers.

Henceforth a violator gets a ticket ordering him to school.

Camp Lejeune Quint Trips Pirates Saturday By 61-57

Locals Get Off To Slow Start But Big Comeback Nearly Turns Trick; Late 'Freeze' Wins For Marines

Camp Lejeune.—The Camp Lejeune Marines, running up a 14-point first half lead and winning a last period battle against time, defeated the East Carolina Teachers College Pirates 61-57 here Saturday night.

The Teachers, who had scored two consecutive wins prior to Saturday night's game, open their North State Conference slate Thursday night when they invade the home hardwood of the Guilford Quakers.

Camp Lejeune, led by his high-scoring captain and ace forward Nofsinger and Forward Norfolk, jumped to an early lead and stayed out in front all the way.

But the Marines' first-half lead narrowed steadily in the second half when East Carolina Forward Jack Everton and Sonny Russell, both of whom had trouble hitting the basket in the first half, found the range and began a rally which nearly won them the ball game.

Camp Lejeune was held scoreless in the last four minutes of play and resorted to an effective freeze throughout the last sixty seconds to stem the East Carolina offense.

The Teachers were playing without the services of senior guard Len Bauer.

Everton, with 16 points, was high scorer for the evening with Russell taking second high scoring laurels with 14 points.

Nofsinger scored 13 points to set the victory pace for the Marines.

Johnny Palmer Still Champ Of Carolinas PGA

Burlington, N. C., Nov. 28.—Johnny Palmer of Badin is still the champion of the Carolinas PGA but it took a couple of extra holes to prove it to Al Smith of Winston Salem.

Smith and Palmer wound up all even at 283 over the 72-hole route as the annual tourney wound up here yesterday. Palmer fired a three under par 68 to overhaul Smith, who had shared the lead with Clarence Owen of Martinsville, Va., going into the final round. Smith toured the final 18 holes in a regulation 71.

In a sudden death playoff, Palmer donned a birdie three on the second hole to retain the title he won last year, noosing out Smith by a stroke.

The victory was worth $250 to Palmer. Smith pocketed $175 second money.

Al Kircher, Michigan State's new head basketball coach, was a football, basketball and baseball standout for the Spartans as an undergraduate.

Whetner also made the most hits, 194, while Robert Johnson of Rocky Mount just nosed out Whetner in doubles, 43 to 42. John Tepefino of Greenville annexed honors in this scored with 132 and in triples with 12. Pepper Martin of Rocky Mount, was the home run king with 27 round trippers, which enabled him to gross the most total bases, 280. James Bevil of New Bern, established in all-time league record with an amazing total of 92 thefts which were accomplished in 125 games—Even regular pitchers finished the season with earned run averages under .900 with southpaw Vance Gohl of Tarboro leading the pack with a record breaking 127 mark in 226 innings of work. Gohl also added to his laurels the percentage crown as he won 21 while losing only 4. 12 of the wins being consecutive. Bob Mangum of Goldsboro pitched the most innings, 296 and struck out the most batsmen, 248, while Bill Packett of New Bern won 22 games.

The North State Conference turned its attention today to basketball, with football tumbled away for the season except for Western Carolina Teachers.

North States put the finishing touches to their gridiron business Thanksgiving Day—that is all but Western Carolina the conference champion which has a Pythian Bowl date at Salisbury Dec. 10th with an as yet unannounced opponent.

The outcome of Thanksgiving Day games saw Appalachian wind up second in the loop's season standings followed by Elon and Catawba. Appalachian and Western Carolina reversed their 1-2 finishes of the 1948 season while Catawba retained its same spot, fourth. Elon was a newcomer to the first division as Lenoir Rhyne slipped to the fifth slot.

Guilford, East Carolina, High Point and Atlantic Christian finished behind Lenoir Rhyne in that order.

Western Carolina and Elon knotted on the basis of all games played, winding up with a mutual 8-2 record.

John Charles of Lenoir Rhyne topped conference scoring with a total of 54 points. He replaced Herman Bryson of Appalachian, who reeled up 102 points for the 1948 title.

On the basketball front in the conference this week, McCray is at Guilford Tuesday night, Elon is at North Carolina and East Carolina Teachers are at Guilford on Thursday night, and Guilford moves to North Wilkesboro Saturday night.

Waterfowl Hunt Season To Open Noon Tomorrow

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 28.—Tide-water sportsmen were preparing today for the waterfowl hunting season which opens tomorrow at noon.

Roland O. Halstead, chief game warden of the Back Bay area, said first day hunters would have an excellent chance of getting the bag limit of two geese, four ducks and 15 blue jays.

Based on pre-season observations, Halstead said the best hunting should be in Ship's and Half Moon Bays and in the "Head" of Back Bay proper, and that section that extends into North Carolina adjacent to the Knotts Island causeway.

In these sections, he added, the largest number and mixture of species have been seen. The grass upon which the fowl feed is also at its best in these localities, he said.

Benny Friedman, Michigan All-America of 1926 and current athletic director at Brandeis University, was head football coach at City College of New York from 1934 to 1941.

Third Annual Student Congress To Convene In City Friday, Saturday

The Third Annual Student Congress, sponsored by the Greenville high school chapter of the National Forensic League, will convene here Friday and Saturday of this week.

R. B. Starling, advisor of the Greenville Forensic Club, announced today.

Some 100 students, representative of 15 schools, are expected to be in Greenville for the two-day session.

The Johnson City, Tenn. Chapter is expected to send two senators and eight congressmen to the Student Congress. They will represent the most distant school sending participants.

Starling said today that invitations have been sent to various schools in the state which might send delegates to the congress. He expects a number of Pitt and neighboring county schools to be in attendance.

Rodney Fulcher, member of the Greenville Forensic League, will preside as speaker of the House at the opening session Friday.

Miss Augusta Overton, president of the local chapter of the NFL, will preside as president of the senate.

A number of bills of nationwide interest are expected to be thrashed out on the floors of the two houses.

Among the bills which may be introduced by the Greenville congressmen are ones concerning the abolition of the electoral college, the consolidation of schools, the abolition of voting requirements, the raising of the minimum age requirement for a driver's license to 18 years, the outlawing of atomic energy and a number of others.

Starling explained today that any congressman has a chance to get his bill on the floor by putting it in the hopper from which bills for discussion will be drafted.

Special Term of Court Is Opened

Fred L. Nance, Negro, was sentenced to three to four years in State Prison in Pitt Superior Court here today by Judge John J. Burney, who is presiding over a special criminal term of court which was requested to help clear up a heavily overloaded court docket.

A backlog of more than 190 cases are on the docket for the two-week term of court.

Nance was found guilty of larceny of an automobile belonging to A. Hartwell Campbell of Greenville. Mrs. Geneva Willoughby pled guilty to assault with a deadly weapon and was ordered by Judge Burney to pay $62.50 for use of Allan Lee Porter, and to pay the court costs.

C. D. Owens pleaded guilty of driving drunk and was fined $100 and costs, and had his driver's license suspended for one year.

Webster Hardy and Grady Turpin, charged with temporary larceny of an automobile pleaded nolo contendere and each was given a 12-month suspended sentence and placed on probation for three years, and ordered to pay $125 to J. M. Brown for damage to his automobile.

Seven cases were not pressed by Judge Burney during the forenoon session of court today.

of trouble since he was first jailed. He has received various punishments while in prison for agitating and attempted breaks.

In his report which accompanied Hallman to State Prison when the convict was sent for solitary confinement, Crawford described the prisoner as a "general hell raiser."

Crawford himself is one of the highest rated prison superintendents in the state. Burney said The Pitt County official is in charge of long term convicts. He holds a top senior superintendent rating.

New Deportation Order Raises American Hopes

Washington, Nov. 28—(AP)—A new Communist deportation order for a group of Americans in China raised State Department hopes today that Consul General Angus Ward and his entire staff may soon start home from Mukden.

Ward and four of his aides were ordered deported last week after a Chinese Communist "peoples court" found them guilty of beating a Chinese employee.

A second deportation order—covering the other ten members of the consulate staff—was announced yesterday. It came at the end of a trial in which ten Asiatics were convicted on charges of being American spies.

Observers Find New Milky Ways

Mt. Hamilton, Calif., Nov. 28—(AP)—Two vast, clusters of galaxies or milky ways, larger than any hitherto known, have been found by Lick Observatory astronomers.

Aside from their size, these great collections of star systems are unusual in that the galaxies within them are highly concentrated in some areas and thinly distributed in others.

The discovery was made by Dr. C. D. Shane, observatory director, and C. A. Wirtanen, observer. It was announced today by the University of California, which Lick Observatory is a part.

The largest of the two groups was calculated to contain more than 1,000 galaxies.

By way of comparison our own galaxy or milky way, of which the solar system is a tiny part—like a fly speck in a football stadium—is one of a group of about 20 star systems. This group is about one million light years (six million million miles) wide—about one-tenth that of the largest newly found group.

In addition to the 2,800 commercial broadcasting stations, mentioned above, about 150,000 other stations are operating. They include, for example:

Within 20 minutes of their splash into the cold water, the crew members were fished out by a motor boat crew from Oregon inlet life boat station.

Cars In Accident On Farmville Highway

Two cars were involved in a wreck on the Farmville highway over the week-end, when an auto driven by Davis Jones, Route 2, Farmville, 21, rammed into the back of a car operated by Lewis Carman, Negro, 32, the highway patrol office reported today.

Patrolman Paul C. Whitley said that Jones told him he came up on the car in front of him and when he saw the car's tail light, he tried to avoid hitting him but could not. The car driven by Carman was damaged nearly beyond repair, Whitley stated.

Calls For Strict Tax Collections

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 28—(AP)—Stricter tax collection may enable the state to meet a deficit with which it is now confronted, Governor Scott said today.

Speaking at a gathering of State Department of Revenue field forces, the governor said:

"There's no excuse for raising taxes until we are getting what we should get out of the present sources. With the $5,000,000 deficit the state faces, it is more and more important that you collect this money."

Conservatives In Colombia Win

Bogota, Nov. 28—(AP)—Colombia's conservative party won the country's Presidency for another four years yesterday in a tense but quiet election boycotted by the liberal opposition.

Nearly all the votes seemed to have gone to conservative Laureano Gomez, the only candidate. The Liberals withdrew their nominee, Dario Echandia, after conservative President Mariano Ospina Perez three weeks ago proclaimed a state of siege, a modified form of martial law, to suppress political clashes.

Liberal voters had outnumbered the conservatives in the previous three municipal and congressional elections. They held a majority in both houses of congress and were planning to impeach President Ospina when his state of siege decree suspended meetings in congress. No violence was reported on elec-

Offers To Take Gorilla's Place

Orange, N. J., Nov. 28—(AP)—Two-ton Tony Galento—the guy his friends say looks like a beer barrel with hair—is awaiting word today on his offer to quit wrestling and take the job left by the late Gargantua the great.

While pounding his hairy chest, the beer-training pugilist turned grained said he had written John Ringling North, circus head, with an offer to move into the sideshow cage vacated when the famed Gorilla died Friday.

It's all for the kiddies, Tony said, as he proffered his profile to prove that Gargantua had nothing on him. "I like the kids and I don't want to see the kids let down, see," he said.

Not so long ago Tony's offer to wrestle Gargantua was rejected. Some time back, in Seattle, he grappled with an Octopus. Three days later the Octopus died.

Tony called in photographers yesterday and posed beside pictures of the fallen giant. While making faces A-La-Gargantua he said the Gorilla had nothing on him. Tony is 38 now and weighs 265 pounds.

Willie (the beard) Gilzenberg, Tony's manager, said he liked the circus idea.

Garden Hose Is Big Help In Fire

The Greenville fire department was called to an early morning blaze in Grimesland Sunday about 4 o'clock when the home of J. H. Brooks caught fire.

Firemen reported that when they arrived on the scene, the fire was burning on the side of the house and going under the roof.

The occupants of the house were battling the blaze with a garden hose, which firemen credited with saving of the house. Using the booster hose from the fire truck, the firemen from Greenville, aided by Washington firemen, also called to the scene, brought the fire under control without too much damage being done to the house.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but it was reported to have started near a chimney on the outside of the house.

The members of the fire department pointed out the importance of people who live in the rural areas, who have a water supply should make it a point to keep a long garden hose near at hand so that it can be brought into play in the event of a fire. The small hose may not be enough to stop the fire, but it might be able to contain the fire so that by the time the fire trucks arrive the fire will not be out of control, firemen stated. Many times the trucks have to travel a long distance to a blaze and they carry only a limited supply of water.

Long List Of Political Races Up For Decision In State At An Early Date

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 26—A long list of political races, headed by expected hot campaigns for the U. S. Senate, will be up for decision by the state's voters in a few months.

Besides Senatorial nominees, North Carolinians will nominate a dozen U. S. Representatives, a state insurance commissioner, three justices of the state Supreme court, 120 state representatives and a host of county officials, including a sheriff in each county.

Primary elections will be held May 27, with run-offs set for June 24 if needed. Candidates for state-wide posts must file with the state board of election 1 March 18.

For the first time in history, the state will select both its U. S. Senators in the same year. It's a safe bet that lively competition for both nominations will mark the primary campaign.

Senator Clyde R. Hoey is expected to seek renomination and reelection for a full six-year term. Senator Frank P. Graham is expected to go after the four year remainder of the term of the state's other Senator post. Governor Scott appointed Graham last March following the death of Senator J. Melville Broughton.

Opposition for Graham possibly will come from former Senator and Congressman William B. Umstead of Durham. Umstead appointed to the Senate in 1946 by Governor Cherry at the death of Senator Josiah W. Bailey, lost to Broughton in the Democratic primary last year.

A spirited campaign is in prospect if Umstead enters the race. Governor Scott has made it clear that he will strive actively in Graham's behalf.

Manly R. Dunaway of Charlotte, who seeks office year in and year out, has announced he will be a candidate in the Democratic primary against Graham.

Political observers here see a number of possible opponents for Hoey. Among them are Major L. P. McLen-don, Greensboro attorney; Capus M. Waynick, former Democratic state chairman and now Ambassador to Nicaragua; Lamar Caudle, Wadesboro native and an assistant U. S. Attorney General; and Robert Rice Reynolds of Asheville, who stepped out of the Senate in 1945 after a dozen years.

At least one new Congressman will be chosen. He will succeed Rep. A. L. Bulwinkle of Gastonia, who has said he will not seek reelection from the 11th district. Bulwinkle has served in Congress since 1920, with the exception of two years.

Already four candidates for his seat have announced: State Rep. Woodrow W. Jones of Rutherfordton, Frank W. Howell, Superintendent of schools in Yancey county, C. Hamilton, Gastonia lawyer, and Nat Hamrick of Rutherfordton. Others who are looked on as possible candidates include Charles Z. Plack of Rutherfordton, solicitor Basil Whitener of Gastonia and Peyton McSwain of Shelby.

Opposition for Rep. Erel Carlyle of Lumberton in the Democratic primary in the seventh district may arise. Among those mentioned as possible contenders are J. E. L. Wade and Hargrove Bellamy of Wilmington and Bob Young of Dunn. Carlyle defeated Young and Bellamy in last year's primary.

The State's other Congressmen, all up for reelection, are: Herbert C. Bonner of Washington, first district; John H. Kerr of Warrenton, second; Graham A. Barden of New Bern, third; Harold D. Cooley of Nashville, fourth; Thurmond D. Chatham of Elkin, fifth; Carl T. Durham of Chapel Hill, sixth; C. B. Deane of Rockingham, eighth; R. L. Doughton of Laurel Springs, ninth; Hamilton C. Jones of Charlotte, 10th and Monroe M. Redden of Hendersonville, 12.

Waldo C. Cheek of Asheboro is expected to run for the unexpired term of State Insurance commissioner. Governor Scott appointed Cheek several months ago when William P. Hodges resigned the post.

Chief Justice Walter P. Stacy of the State Supreme court and Associate Justice E. D. Denny and Sam J. Erwin, Jr., also are expected to seek reelection.

Superior court judges seeking new terms will be: R. Hunt Parker of Roanoke Rapids, Clawson L. Williams of Sanford, W. C. Harris of Raleigh, J. H. Clement of Walkertown, I. Donald Phillips of Rockingham, Frank M. Armstrong of Troy, J. C. Rudisill of Newton, J. A. Rousseau of North Wilkesboro, J. W. Pless, Jr., of Marion, Zeb V. Nettles of Asheville, and Dan K. Moore of Sylva.

Winterize Roses

(AP Newsfeature)
Roses, strong and hardy as they are, need winter protection in climates where there is alternate freezing and thawing. The idea is to keep the plant temperature consistently above the danger point.

In the case of hybrid tea and florabunda roses, prune the canes to 18 or 20 inches after the leaves have dropped. Soak plants and surrounding soil with a fungicide, then mound soil about eight inches high around the base of each plant. After the ground has frozen, protect the tops with a blanket of leaves, straw, evergreen boughs or similar material.

Climbing roses should be securely anchored to supports to prevent whipping by the wind if they are located in sheltered spots. Where temperatures are below zero, climbers should be

Scandinavians Fight India TB

Copenhagen — (AP) — Scandinavian doctors have vaccinated 75,000 and treated 200,000 in a fight against tuberculosis in India. But 500,000 people still die every year of T. B. and 100,000,000 need treatment. This is the report brought back here by Dr. Syvend K. Svendsen.

This work is backed by the U. N. and the Scandinavian Red Cross. It will continue until April 1, 1950 he says.

TEEN TALK

Dear Judy,

Midwestern teen-agers, reports Betty Prosser from Chicago, have fallen in love with culture. Plays or concerts now are popular objectives for dates, and Illinois moderns consider them "sexy."

Betty got the lowdown from Alice White, 15, a junior at New Trier high school in suburban Wheeling, Ill.

"Until lately, you only went to concerts or plays with your parents. Now all the kids go and they think culture is terrific."

Even classical works are listened to by the hot-rodders. This doesn't mean Bizet, Elgar or Wagner. Moderns are being neglected. The kids say they are just branching out.

Clothes are getting more conservative. No more flapping shirttails. For outdoor play, and not for school, it's shirts and slacks. For school, it's dresses or sweaters and skirts. To match worn with jeans and button-down shirts.

Archie hose, preferably knitted by the wearer, are popular. Hand-made argyle is a gift for her. It will make any girl a "queen."

One Illinois high school has a number of unofficial girls clubs. Their badges are ribbons, different colors for different clubs, tied in tiny bows and worn at odd places on members' clothes.

A new twist is that most terms of approbation are phrased negatively by the teen-agers. Practically anything is a "revolving development." If a boy says "She's so SO cute" (accent on SO), you can almost bet she's a dream. "It was non-time" means just the opposite. "It was no great dance, compliments one's partner nicely."

Lucky is the boy who doesn't have to use the family car. He can take his jalopy and "rod it up," which can mean adding plastic butterfly wings and plastering signs in the interior. Some of these boil down to "Don't bother the driver." Anything good about the car makes it "roddy." A boy who has a car "has wheels."

A determined eccentric among masculine teen-agers is a "hood," short for hoodlum, but the term doesn't denote criticism. A good student is a "Brain." Last year's fun-expression, D.D.T., drop dead, has been dropped dead. This year it's "shut your hairy mouth." To this a "big dealer," this year's term for "sharp," would reply, "What does that make me an Elk?" Friday and Saturday are the date night. Movies, bowling or parties—as well as concerts and plays—are popular. Once a year, there's the Prom, when the kids really start up late. They drive in crowds from the dance to another dance spot. It's breakfast before they go home.

The girls love to have "nag parties." Usually, the boys crash. And most of the time the girls expect them to. Usually charades or Twenty Questions is played, and Canada, the new card game, Canada, says Alice White, is T.T. "The Thing."

Be-bop is hard to dance to, so popular music still has a large following. Pop expressions—except for real gone (something good)—haven't found their way into teen-agers' lingo.

But if an Illinois teen-ager were to say to you, "It's been REAL," you'll know you're not SO good.

Boys and Girls away from Home are Interested in Health and Citizenship

Ashton E. Williams

When boys are drafted or voluntarily enlist in the armed forces to spend a year or more in military training in this country or participate in active duty overseas, they not only take unto themselves a new and strange experience but they leave behind a family, who, perhaps for the first time, becomes aware of the hazards ahead of this youngster away from the home environment. Will the boy be too lonesome; is he missing the higher education he might have had if he had remained at home; will he be thrown into the wrong sort of company in off-duty hours; what sort of young man will return to the home-community after his period of Army or Navy service is ended?

The Mothers and Fathers, Churches and Civic Groups are not concerned about the On-Duty activities of boys entering our peacetime armed forces, because it is known that primary and high school learning is augmented by classes and lectures in military school hours, which enhance rather than retard the education of these boys. What is of paramount concern to the family and community folks back home is the future outlook of these boys away-from-home as developed during their off-duty hours. What sort of citizenship outlook will these young folks have when they return to civilian life?

In almost every nearby town adjacent to military reservations, one can invariably find a USO Club—but how can the club rooms do more than provide a temporary sanctuary to the youngster finding himself in a strange town many miles away from home?

The USO of today is vastly different to the USO which veterans of World War I and II may remember, for today—USO means a direct contact between home and the boy away from home. It represents a choice of many civilian, unregimented, and non-military opportunities for spiritual, physical, recreational and educational activities during the hours and week-ends of freedom from On-Camp or On-Base duties.

Back-Home Interest

The folks back home are as yet unfamiliar with the numerous activities carried out by the Club Directors of USO installations, of which there are 176 already in operation in this country and overseas. But there is a quickly growing recognition of the results obtained from the untiring and ingenious efforts of these trained USO Directors. These men and women are always on hand to welcome the oft-times lonesome, tired, and occasionally discouraged young Soldier or Sailor, who, sometimes alone, and sometimes accompanied by his young wife and maybe an infant son or daughter, nervously takes sanctuary within the friendly confines of a USO Club.

In this Club he is quick to realize that these USO facilities are not of a temporary nature. The week's program will show that every day and every hour there has been made available to him, his wife and child, some sort of comfort or relaxation which all are privileged to take or leave.

Health and Citizenship

In the USO Club on Ray Avenue in Fayetteville, North Carolina, near Fort Bragg, where over 27,000 men are currently encamped, I sauntered in and out of the several spacious rooms, noting the many varied activities in progress, as all civilians are freely permitted to do (if and when they are sufficiently interested to do so). I came upon one room in which there were possibly three hundred young men and women apparently engaged in the platform remarks of Dr. Grace Swinburne Harris, M.D., of Fayetteville. Dr. Harris was in the midst of speaking (not lecturing) upon the subject of "Good Health for Children and Adults." Dr. Harris was holding the interest of this audience with her soft, clear voice and plain matter-of-fact phrases, which immediately stamped the hall-mark of confidence upon the speaker and in the minds of the listeners. At the conclusion of her talk she was beset with questions. Here, I knew, was the answer to Back-Home ponderings of "How can a USO Club mean more than a place of recreation and entertainment?" Here, indeed, is the right sort of education which could be taken and was being taken. Dr. Harris and other physicians are giving regular weekly talks on "Health" in this USO, designed to make our boys and girls better qualified citizens to face their civilian community responsibilities as they return from military to civilian life.

Bull Fights Bull In Oriental Sport

(AP Newsfeatures)

Okinawa—The bull's lot is not a happy one. In Spain, men fight them. On this oriental island, the bulls fight each other. This has been going on for centuries and no doubt the bulls are tired of the sport.

The annual akena village tournament was run off the other day. This is big stuff on this former Japanese island. Something like the World Series or an Army-Navy football game. Eleven pairs of bulls were selected. The east villagers had 11 and the west villagers had 11. The rivals' colors were painted on the bulls' horns.

The bulls are led into a fenced ring, two at a time. They even have organized cheering sections. These get into the ring too. They blow horns, beat drums and ring gongs. The bulls meet horn to horn and butt each other around for from 10 to 30 minutes. By that time one of the bulls has shown a decided lack of interest in the proceedings. He either hot foots it over the fence to safety, or if too tired flops down then and there. Whereupon, the rooters of the champion bull dance about the ring.

No doubt they would pull up goal posts if there were any goal posts. The prizes of the winning bulls get prizes—cloth, farm tools, money and a fancy market price for their animals.

So you see why the bull in Okinawa tires of this sport. Even when he wins, he loses. He winds up as a locker full of roasts, ribs and sirloins.

No Purrs From Kitten In Motor

Oakland, Calif., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The kind of noises Ike Sum's car was making, it took more than an automobile mechanic to fix it.

A policeman, Don Holley by name, tried his hand at it. And promptly got bitten.

The noise and the biting both came from a half-grown kitten, tightly wedged between fan and radiator. Holley rescued the unappreciative cat—somewhat worse for wear—and Sum drove off, his engine purring softly.

The Columbia River, forming the boundary between Washington and Oregon, is believed to carry more water than all other American Pacific Coast streams combined.

Street cars formerly used in New York City now operate in Vienna, Lima, Peru, and Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Flew 100 Miles Without Pilot

Mt. Olive, Ill., Nov. 28.—(AP)—A plane took off without its pilot yesterday, and flew 100 miles before it crashed.

A flock of Galesburg landed the plane at the Mt. Olive airport and went around the wing to look at the propeller. As he touched it, the motor started with a roar and the plane moved forward. Hallas scrambled aside. The plane took off, climbed rapidly in a bank to the left and sailed out of sight.

It crashed on a farm near Flora, about 100 miles from Mt. Olive.

The ant puts solid food in a pocket back of its jaws. The food is squeezed, the juice is swallowed and the rest is thrown away.

Urges Educators Study Problem Of Failures In First Year At College

Neither the high school nor the college is solely responsible for the large number of freshmen failures in college work, says Dean Lee W. Jenkins of East Carolina Teachers College in an article published in the December issue of "The Nation's Schools," a nationally circulated magazine for administrators.

The time is ripe, Dean Jenkins states, for both to take stock of themselves and to abandon explanations which are excuses.

Dean Jenkins poses in his article a set of questions which the colleges might ask themselves in a program of self-evaluation. These include among other things: "Do we ask professors to do more than teach?" "Do we give high schools an effort to give us first-hand information on the reasons for freshman failures in college?" "The college teacher should also seek to understand the social and educational changes that have resulted in mass education and revolutionary revisions of the public school curriculum in the East Carolina Dean suggests.

He particularly emphasizes that colleges establish more meaningful programs for freshmen. These, he says, will aid the freshman in making the transition from high school to college and in recognizing the philosophy of the college. He also urges freshmen to value their

'Grows' His Own Snowflakes, And Finds 'Em Useful

Los Angeles—(AP)—Dr. U. Nakaya, of Japan, "grows" artificial snowflakes. What's more, he's found a use for them—helping the weather man. A professor of meteorology at Hokkaido University, Dr. Nakaya said he was the first to create the delicate crystals. He made the first one 19 years ago, he said, by varying temperature, pressure, humidity and wind velocity in a specially built chamber.

He's been experimenting ever since. He believes that by comparing natural and artificial flakes, he will soon be able to tell the temperature and humidity of the area in which natural flakes are formed. This would help weather men understand the formation of storm centers and the structure of storm clouds.

Dr. Nakaya is on a lecture tour of the United States and Canada. His sponsor is the International Committee of Snow and Ice Flakes.

Chapter 7
Inspector Lavin bobbed his foot up and down, squinting meditatively at the toe of his shoe. Suddenly he looked up.

"You know, Mr. Scott," he said in a soothing voice, "there's one thing in this shop I'd like to own."

"Sure!" Scott now seemed eager to please him. "What is it?"

"A funny-faced vase I saw in your show window," replied the inspector, staring blankly into Scott's eyes.

"You're joking," Scott said harshly, his jutting lower lip aquiver. He stood up and rattled off, "I'll get the vase and show it to you."

Without rising Lavin intercepted him by raising his leg and protecting a formidable shoe. "I'll get it myself."

The inspector soon returned with the cobalt-blue vase in the crook of his arm.

As Scott impulsively leaned forward to look into the vase Lavin turned it upside down. "The cork mark is IKH. How much is that, Mr. Scott?"

The badgered man made no reply.

Hackett studied the scrap of paper on which Scott had written the cork-code "Eight-fifty," he smiled. "A bargain for you, Lavin."

"I'll say," Lavin drily agreed. He produced the pack of banknotes the suspect had concealed in the vase. "Can you change a hundred, Mr. Scott?"

The distraught man watched the between books indicate that at one time or another three books were removed from the safe.

Lavin went to the safe and observed that the shelving at the third space was entirely clean save for a little dust that had gathered in an elliptical curve at the edge of the shelf before the book had been removed.

"You mean, Larry, a book was taken out of here lately, maybe to-night?"

"Right. Let's check the card records of book sales and books on hand and try to account for a missing book, if any."

Hackett slowly turned over the cards he had checked representing books on hand. Here's one without my penciled check mark. See if there's a book titled 'Fainshaw' in the safe.

"No there isn't. What kind of a book is 'Fainshaw'?"

"I haven't the slightest idea. I may be—," Hackett broke off and studied the card. "Hello, this is curious—"

Hackett held the card up. "The cork mark is HH," he pointed out, "which represents double-zero."

"Unimpressed," Lavin snorted. "Naughts to you. Maybe that's all the missing book is worth."

"When he inserted HH on the card it was as if he had written, 'I paid nothing for this book.'"

Lavin took a rat-tail stick out of his breast pocket. "You sleep on the matter of books tonight, Larry, and get it out of your system," he said, and lit a match.

Hackett, sitting on his heels, let his gaze skim over the entire set of encyclopedias on the two lower shelves. "You know," he said, "my shoulder to the inspector, who snuck-thief would take a chance on swiping this cumbersome set of Americana?"

"Not worth much eh?"

"I wouldn't give you a dime a dozen for them. May I take them out of the safe?"

"Why?" Lavin wanted to know.

"To see if they're just a phony front for something in back of them."

Lavin blew a plume of smoke overhead and followed it with his blue eyes. "I wouldn't touch any more of the books now, Larry, not till the photographer and fingerprint man show up."

The newsman stood up. "I'm going to the city room and bat out the news, Lavin. If you discover anything new in this case don't let any legman scoop me."

The detective-inspector nodded in agreement. "As soon as the corner's due and the technical men come and get through with this—" he pointed to the sheeted corpse—"I'm going to look up Scott's cousin, Ed Bender. You have his address, haven't you?"

"Yes," replied Hackett, standing at the partition door. "Pick me up at the city room and I'll go with you, for I'd like to hear Bender's story if he has one."

Bladen Third To Fill Crop Goal

North Carolina's contributions to the 1949 CROP Friendship Train were increased to four cars today as Bladen county finished loading a 23 ton carload of corn at Elizabethtown. Louis Parker, Bladen county CROP chairman, reported the county well over its goal in filling the car for the hungry overseas.

Bladen county becomes the third county in the state to complete its collection in the second North Carolina CROP Friendship Train campaign, according to statistics by H. W. Bacon, President of the Green county with one car and Pitt county with two.

Other counties throughout the state are continuing their preparations and collection of "Christian Carloads" to be sent overseas through the inter-faith Christian Rural Overseas Program. A major

Seeking Doctors For Sparse Area

Salt Lake City—(AP)—Physicians are being sought for some of the sparsely settled parts of Utah. The Utah State Medical association reported recently there wasn't a single doctor in Rich county and hadn't been since during the war.

A doctor at Monticello was the only one in one of San Juan county's 7,700 square miles. The association said its program covers an area of 41,000 miles to attract doctors in the 10 months before 1950. Residents of the area have formed an association to help cover certain financial needs of the physician who would take over the area.

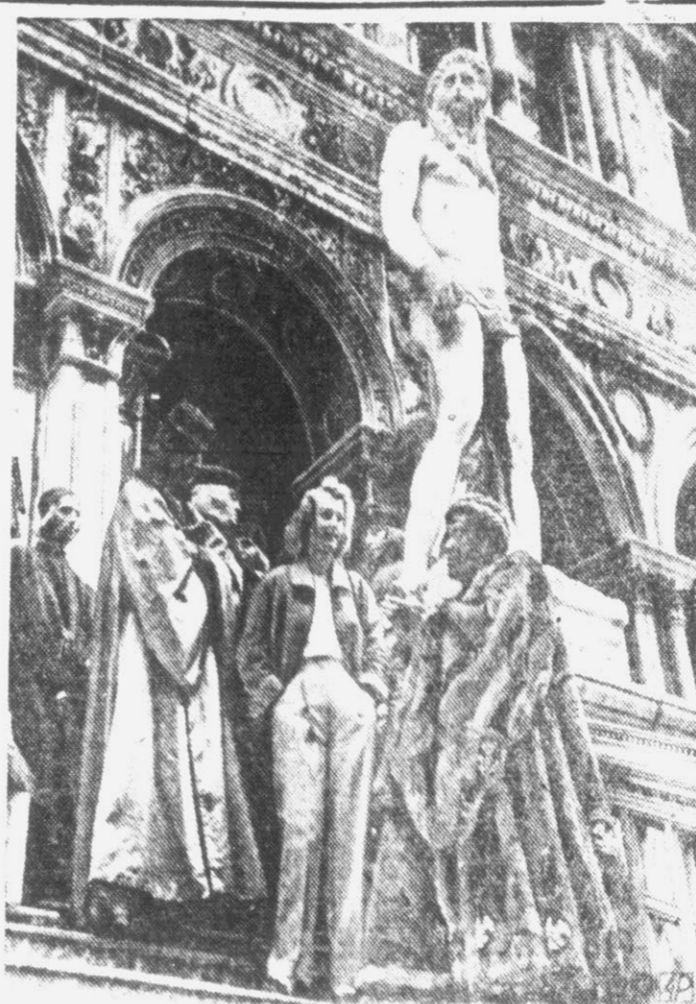

U. S. Savings Bond Sale

U. S. Savings Bond sale Series E, F and G in Pitt county from October 1 through 30 totaled $72,725. It was announced today by County Savings Bonds Chairman J. H. Waldrop. This information was contained in the monthly sales report to county chairmen from State Director Allison James in Greensboro.

Of this total $62,251.25 was in Series F Bonds, and $10,000.00 in Series G Bonds.

Total sales of the three series for the 10 counties in North Carolina for October were Series E, $2,923,792.00; Series F, $39,545.50; Series G, $997,300.00; total for state $4,420,837.50. This total for the state exceeds the previous monthly total of $4,444,440, it was stated in the report.

The county chairman stated that

Rationless Meal Now 'Available'

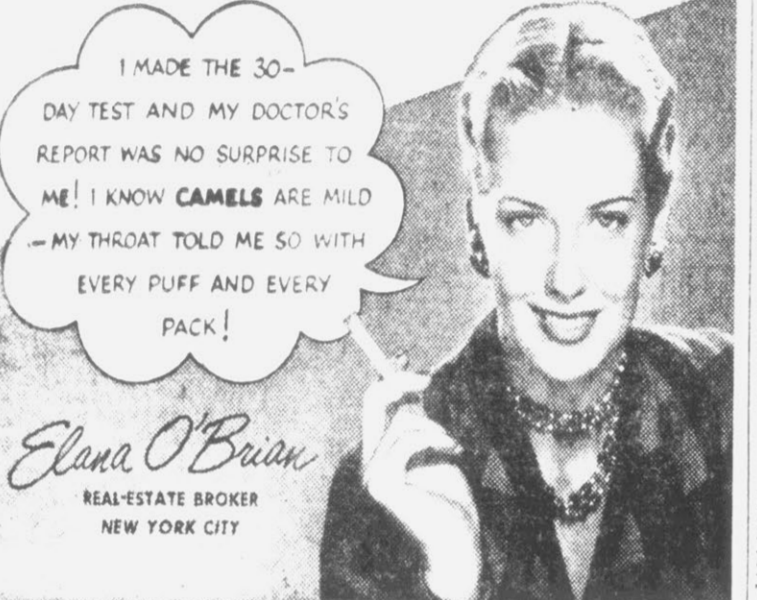

Prague—(AP)—For the first time in ten years Czechs can walk into some restaurants these days, order a steak and a bottle of Pilsner beer and walk out without plunking down ration coupons. But only a few Czechs can take advantage of this new freedom because "off ration meals" usually cost from 50 to 100 per cent more than those paid for with the little blue stamps.

The price for a rationless meal, including soup, beer, a meat course and dessert, is a minimum of 100 crowns ($2). Few Czechs can afford such prices more than once a week.

San Francisco—(AP)—Last year Americans spent nearly twice as much on fishing as they did on hunting. Figures reported by the California Division of Fish and Game show that $1,350,000,000 was spent by American anglers in 1948, while the hunters dug down to the tune of $75,000,000 for their sport.

the people of North Carolina now hold upwards of 650 million dollars cash value in U. S. Savings Bonds which is an excellent backlog of savings for the thousands of earners in every county and town in the state.

If these Bond savings were evenly spread it would amount to almost $200 for every man, woman and child in the state, he said.

Mr. Waldrop said continued purchases of Savings Bonds is a safeguard against financial uncertainties, and he reminded that E Bonds increase in value 3 1/3 percent when held to maturity.
