British National Election Is Set For February 23

Attlee Ends Months Of Guessing; Socialism, Free Enterprise At Stake

London, Jan. 11 (AP)—Britons will decide in election Feb. 23 whether they want to keep on the road to socialism or return to Winston Churchill's brand of free enterprise.

Laborite Prime Minister Clement Attlee ended months of guessing early today by announcing the election date after a cabinet meeting.

Politicians on all sides immediately got set for one of the most crucial election campaigns in British history.

The prime issue is whether the laborites will get mandate to continue the program of state control and nationalization of industry it has carried out for nearly 5 years.

Neither party has promised that Britain's postwar austerity program will be lifted.

Churchill, the wartime Premier who doubtless would lead the nation again if the Conservatives win.

Both the labor party and the Conservatives have put up candidates for every single seat in the House.

Views Yugoslav Strife Unlikely

Paris, Jan. 11—(AP)—George Allen, new U.S. ambassador to Yugoslavia, said today that a civil war supported by outside agitation is unlikely in Yugoslavia.

Allen told a news conference "the situation in Yugoslavia is such that I believe it is not likely that trouble can start similar to that which started in Greece between the government and Communist guerrillas.

Expensive Cold War

If It Wasn't For Communism, Your Taxes Would Be Much Less; Despite Cost, It's Cheaper Than A Shooting War; No Signs Russia Will Stop Pushing; Strategy

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Jan. 11—(AP)—The cold war with Communism is costing you plenty.

If it weren't for that, this country's spending—and your taxes—to cover the spending—would be away down.

That's the one point which stands out above all others in the budget President Truman sent Congress this week.

The cost of the cold war, big as it is, is cheaper, of course, than a shooting war.

There's no certainty—only hope—that the cost of the cold war will decrease.

It's the cold war mainly that's keeping the U. S. in the red. It's spending more than its income, more than it collects in taxes.

New Generator To Go Into Operation

New 5,000 Kilowatt Turbo-Generator At Steam Plant Scheduled To Begin Power Production In Week Of Jan. 22

The new 5,000 kilowatt turbo-generator at the steam plant will go into operation the week of January 22, Mardin Swartz, superintendent of public utilities here, said today.

The turbo-generator, including a new 80,000 pound boiler, is being installed by engineers from the General Electric Company and they will be in Greenville on the 16th of this month to begin operations in starting it, Swartz reported.

He said that a week would be required for this new equipment to become permanently operative after the engineers begin work on it and that during the following week, actual service should be begun.

Meanwhile, the Utilities Commission, meeting last night in City Hall, heard a report from Larry Brown, general manager of the commission, stating that the approximate deficit of $300,000 in the funds required to expand present utilities has now been cut to $190,000.

The difference between the two figures was taken from current revenues, Brown said, and that "we are well on the way toward furnishing the additional revenue for the expansion."

Bond issues over a two-year period appropriated $2,380,000 for a new filter plant, a new 80,000 pound boiler at the steam plant, and the presently-to-be-installed boiler and generator.

The three issues were approximately $300,000 short of the required funds; thus the cut into present revenues over "a period necessary to cover the cost of the job," Brown said.

The manager reported that the filter plant, which is 90 percent completed, and the first boiler installed form the first project in the general expansion program. Project 2 is the installation of the new generator and boiler at the steam plant in addition to equipping new residential areas of Greenville with fire protection, sanitary facilities and street lights.

The fire mains and hydrants of the new residential areas—North Greenville, Hillside, and the Bama section—are 90 percent installed, Brown reported, and the sanitary facilities of the project have been installed in 30 percent of the areas.

All the street lights have been put in and are in operation now, he said.

As to rural electrification in the Greenville area, Brown said that the request is still pending in Washington but that he hoped his office would hear from it soon.

There are 2,510 prospects in this area without electrification, the manager stated, and over 50 percent of those persons have requested the electric service.

Postal Receipts Hit All-Time High

Largest Yearly Increase In History During 1949

Receipts at the Greenville post office reached an all-time high during 1949, and showed the largest yearly increase in the post office's history.

Postmaster J. Knott Proctor today released the annual report showing postal receipts in Greenville for 1949 totaled $146,230.51—an increase of more than $5,000 over the 1948 total.

During the quarter ending December 31, 1949, the post office receipts totaled $45,202.08 compared with $35,989.43 for the corresponding quarter of 1948.

Much of the quarterly increase, Proctor said, was due to the Christmas mailing in Greenville which this year broke all existing records of the local post office.

The local post office has shown an increase in revenue every year during the past decade with the exception of 1946 when the receipts dropped over $4,000 under the wartime peak of $104,706.02 which was recorded by the Greenville post office in 1945.

In 1946 receipts were $98,146.05 in 1947 they rose to $101,741.79, and in 1948 jumped to $114,068.07 to pass the war-time peak.

Since 1941 when the local post office receipts totaled $68,414.15, the annual money intake has more than doubled.

Two new clerks were added to the post office staff during the past year, and an additional clerk has been hired since the first of January.

Body Fished Out Of French Broad Asheville, N.C., Jan. 11—(AP)—A fisherman on French Broad River reeled in his time and pulled up the body of a 35-year-old white man here this morning.

Sheriff's deputies identified the man from papers found in his pocket as Kenneth Lee Hughes of Asheville, a veteran of World War II.

Harry Bailey of Enka told officers he was plug fishing when his line tightened and he reeled in the body.

Charge Politics In Criticism Of Formosa Policy

Democrats Say GOP Attempting To Make Foreign Affairs An Issue

Washington, Jan. 11—(AP)—Democrats accused Republicans of playing politics with foreign affairs today in the continuing argument over America's stake in the Communist threat to Formosa.

Still under GOP attack on foreign policy in the Far East, Secretary of State Acheson shifted his defense from the Senate to the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Key Democrats in the House committee, from the chairman on down, were saying the Republican criticism is a direct attempt to build up a foreign affairs issue for the 1950 congressional election campaign.

Rep. Lawrence H. Smith (R-Wis.), another committee member, retorted that these Democrats are unfair, that all the Republicans want is whatever policy is best for America.

Acheson said yesterday behind closed doors with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee reviewing American policy around the globe.

The emphasis was on the Far East. At the end of the day it was obvious that nobody had converted anybody.

Republican senators who have been insisting on some move to save Formosa still were insisting. Committee Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) commented that "you can't sell a stubborn fellow who doesn't want to buy."

Acheson still was standing unwaveringly behind President Truman's pronouncement that Formosa will get no American military help.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) told a reporter that "I don't think economic aid alone will do the job of stopping communism in Southeast Asia. We need an aggressive policy for our own way of life there, a policy that will convince the people they ought to be on our side."

Pacific Coast Storm Moves On

By the Associated Press An in-ense storm which hammered the Pacific Coast, leaving high waves snow-blocked and some areas isolated, moved into the northern Rockies today.

The winter season's most severe weather hit areas of Washington, Oregon, northern California and Nevada. Snow, rain and hail fell over the storm belt. Winds reached a velocity of 85 miles an hour in some sections, snapping ice-laden power and telephone lines.

Search For Two Gunmen Slowed

Boone, N.C., Jan. 11—(AP)—Search for two gunmen in this mountain area was hampered today by overnight rain and natural cover.

The hunt started yesterday when they set their car fire and fled into woods. Mer-handise believed stolen was found in the machine.

Later Highway Patrolman R. B. Parker of Boone reported he had fired at the fugitives in a farmyard, and believed he hit one or both. He said he found blood.

Pneumonia Not So Much Any More Says Ex-Slave

"Pneumonia ain't like what it used to be." Those were the words of Queenie Victoria Reeves, 102-year-old former slave, who is now recovering from pneumonia in a local clinic and who looks as though she were just waking from a sound sleep.

Aunt Queenie, as she is called by her grandchildren, has lived on the old Cottondale farm all her life and has never left this section of the county in all her 102 years—"going on 103," she says.

At an early age of her childhood she was sold to Mr. John Johnson, owner of a large plantation near what is now Falkland and was reared there by her mother and father who were owned by Johnson. The plantation raised mostly corn then and later cotton.

Aunt Queenie says of pneumonia, with which she was stricken two weeks ago, that "they used to die of it when I was living on the plantation. But now they just give you some of this new medicine and it fixes you up."

Dr. Joseph Smith, local physician, was called by the ancient Negro's family last week to have a look at her and when he got there she was walking around the farm. Smith described her condition when he first saw her as "terminal pneumonia" and in a "moribund condition." He brought her to the clinic, gave her doses of penicillin and streptomycin and in 24 hours "she had come around," Smith said.

But Aunt Queenie didn't think her "coming around" was anything miraculous. "I never was sick much in my life," she said, "and never worried much about getting sick." She was always hale and hearty, her granddaughters say, and until she was 90 she was a practicing midwife in the community.

Her husband, Alfred Reeves, lived with her until 1935 when he died at the age of 90. Aunt Queenie and Alfred had seven children, a son and a daughter; she is in doubt, and a daughter; she is in doubt, and 30 grandchildren. No great-grandchildren, yet, she says. She lives with her son whose home is still in

No More Pitt School Bond Issues Until Debts Paid Up

Members of the Pitt county board of education in their meeting Monday approved requests from the Grimesland and Griffon school districts for votes on proposed bond issues, but stipulated no more bonds are to be sold by Pitt school districts until present indebtedness is liquidated.

School superintendent D. H. Conley said the requests from the two school districts are for improvements which they wish to make in addition to the improvements which will be made by money allotted to Pitt county through the state funds appropriated last year.

After discussing the intensified study program proposed for the Pitt schools by Superintendent Conley, the board of education reviewed the daily-schedules of the schools of the county system and recommended to the teachers that a full six hour school day schedule be carried out by the students.

"The members of the board want the whole organization strengthened where there are any time lags," Conley explained, "and they want outside interferences eliminated."

"I had a meeting with the principals of the county schools Monday afternoon," he said, "and they are anxious to cooperate with the program."

Architect Jimmy Griffith submitted to the board floor plans for a new six classroom building which is to be constructed for a Negro school at Fountain, and floor plans for an eight room addition which is proposed for the Ayden Negro school. The board instructed Griffith to file the proposed plans with the state office, and to send copies to the local school boards for approval.

By action of the board, Easter Monday will be observed as a holiday in the Pitt county schools, and will be the only holiday planned for the schools between now and May 22 when summer vacations for the county school children will begin.

The petition from the Grimesland school district asks for a vote by the people on the issuance of approximately $45,000 in school bonds which will supply the money to be used in the construction of a new gymnasium and make other improvements in the school physical plant.

The Grifton petition asks for a vote on approximately $30,000 of school bonds which are to be issued to make improvements in the school system.

Conley said both school districts will be completely out of debt by 1952 if the present rate of liquidation is continued. Explaining the board's stipulation delaying the sale of the bonds, Conley said, "They want the funds on hand for the present debt to be liquidated before additional bonds are issued."

In the school construction program which is being planned for the county, the board instructed for renovating the Grimesland white school, and to make a report to the board at the February meeting.

Conley said next in order for work which is to be done with the state funds allotted to the county is the Farmville white school.

Speaking of Grimesland and Farmville, he said, "They are the ones with the most urgent needs. We are trying to get these first. The others will follow in order of need as fast as we can get to them."

More Arms For Formosa Slated

Shipments Part Of Belated Deliveries From U.S.

Washington, Jan. 11—(AP)—More shipments of American-made tanks and other arms probably will soon be on the way to the Chinese Nationalists or Formosa.

Diplomatic authorities said today that 300 tanks and armored cars being put aboard a Turkish freighter at Philadelphia represented only a part of the belated deliveries of orders the Nationalists placed in this country last year. They were paid for from the $125,000,000 Congress voted in 1948 for military aid to China.

Although President Truman has ruled out any further American military aid to keep Formosa from capture by the Communists, the government has been helping speed the completion of orders already placed from an Army ordnance depot at Lima, Ohio. Some earlier shipments went via U.S. Naval vessels.

Officials say there is no conflict between this action and Mr. Truman's lunge down and Mr. Truman have tied to the munitions now being shipped, having checked out the last of the $125,000,000 fund from the treasury months ago.

Lewis Suggests Striking Miners Return To Work

Virtual Order For 66,000 Coal Miners Resume 3-Day Work Week

Washington, Jan. 11—(AP)—John L. Lewis today ordered 66,000 striking coal miners to go back to a three-day work week Monday.

These miners had quit their jobs in seven states—refusing to work even the three days weekly permitted by Lewis in his "cold war" with mine operators.

Lewis sent the following message to presidents of the United Mine Workers' districts where miners had quit all work:

"Will you please transmit to our members who are idle this week my suggestion that they resume production next Monday."

Some 32,650 miners have been on full strike in Pennsylvania, 17,500 in West Virginia, 6,000 in Alabama, 5,000 in Kentucky, 4,000 in Ohio, 900 in Utah and 250 in Virginia.

There were 16,000 on strike in Illinois last week, but they went back to work last Monday.

Operators have taken the view that this checker-board strike pattern is part of the harassing tactics Lewis is using in his battle for higher wages and welfare benefits for the miners.

They look on the three-day work week as a piece of the same. As they see it, Lewis is trying to cause the operators all the difficulty he can without bringing things to the point where the government would be impelled to intervene.

Today's back-to-work order may have resulted from Lewis' apprehension about the growing clamor from coal operators and members of Congress that President Truman act under the Taft-Hartley law to restore full coal production.

Mr. Truman has refused to consider the three-day production week an emergency warranting his intervention. But the full strike by the 66,000 miner had further curtailed production and increased demands that the White House step in.

Presumably, the miners will jump to meet Lewis' suggestion. From him it is the equivalent of an order. And the miners have never yet failed to follow their chief's wishes.

Crippled Vessel Patched Up For New Destination

Aboard the Flying Arrow, Jan. 11—(AP)—Crewmen patched up this shell-crippled American freighter today enough to permit her to limp to the nearest port.

But Capt. David Jones of Chicago, her master, said he did not yet know where he would take her—Shanghai, her original destination, or elsewhere.

A Chinese Nationalist gunboat shot her full of holes Monday and crippled her steering gear. (Nationalist spokesmen said the shooting was to keep her out of mine fields on the approaches to Shanghai.)

The attack occurred on the high seas, at least 20 miles from shore. The gunboat has shadowed her ever since. The gunboat has remained at a distance varying from 300 yards to eight miles away.

Stowaways' Sell $7,500 In Kisses New York, Jan. 11—(AP)—Headed out to sea with 23 pretty girl stowaways-by-mistake aboard, the skipper of the liner Italia last night radioed a distress call to the Coast Guard.

Through misunderstanding, "I was called with 'Kiss Me, Kate' cast aboard. Can't put back now. Can you send craft to remove them?"

The musical show performers had gone aboard the vessel to stake a benefit for the March of Dimes, and for some unexplained reason they didn't hear the warning whistle before the ship sailed.

While waiting for rescue, the girls sold kisses to passengers for from $20 to $50 a throw. Altogether they raised about $7,500 for the infantile paralysis fund, before the Coast Guard sent a cutter to whisk them back to New York in time for last night's show on Broadway.

Grimesland Plans Improvements

Board Orders Work On Town Hall, Jail And Streets

GRIMESLAND—Members of the Grimesland town board last night discussed the town's tax listings, and ordered improvements made to the town hall and the town jail, and the town streets.

Mayor Leslie Elks, who presided at last night's meeting, said the board ordered the immediate renovation of the town jail, and the installation of waterworks in the jail. The board also authorized the installation of waterworks in the town hall.

H. D. Wright was hired last night by the board as policeman for Grimesland to succeed J. R. Anderson who resigned the position to accept another job. Anderson had been policeman in Grimesland for several months.

Mayor Elks said steps have been taken by the town officials to have repair work done on the town streets. The work, he said, already is underway and will continue for some time.

Nationalists Retain Seat

Lake Success, Jan. 11—(AP)—Nationalist China won a stay of life in the United Nations Security Council yesterday at the expense of a Russian walkout.

Jakob Malik, Soviet deputy foreign minister, marched out of the council hall after challenging the right of T. F. Tsiang, Nationalist China's chief delegate, to sit as January chairman of the 11-nation body or to stay on the council at all.

Malik said that unless Tsiang was expelled immediately the Russian delegation would take no part in council proceedings and that it would not return until Tsiang's delegation was kicked out. The Communist government, at Peking has said the Nationalist regime no longer represents the Chinese people.

Tsiang ruled the question of his expulsion should be delayed until the council could study the Soviet counter resolution. Malik, addressing the "fellow members of the council" and ignoring Tsiang's chairmanship, said he could accept no ruling from Tsiang.

The Chinese delegation head put his challenge ruling to a vote. Only Yugoslavia—a new member elected to the council last October—over Russia's bitter protest—voted with Russia.

India, another new member, abstained. Eight other nations voted to uphold Tsiang's decision. The Soviet resolution will be taken up at another meeting tomorrow.

Miss McGee Presents Club Program

On Tuesday, January 10, the Literature Department of the Greenville Woman's Club met at the Club House. The hostesses, Mrs. Robert Lee Humber, chairman, Mrs. D. L. Moore, Miss Christine Johnston, and Mrs. Maud Swartz, served dainty refreshments at a table pleasantly spring-like with its large bowl of paper narcissus and forsythia.

At the short business meeting Mrs. Humber urged all members to push for federal aid for education. Then she turned the meeting over to Miss Eunice McGee who gave an interesting talk on "Children in American Poetry." Her excellent readings of poetry for and by children added much charm and amusement. Little Miss Jane Ross Baes from Miss McGee's Third Grade, sang "Snow Flakes," a poem composed by the Third Grade and set to music composed by Jane herself. All enjoyed that very much.

Chicago—(P)—The last act soon will go on at the old Haymarket theater. The theater, on Madison

Graham Acts On Potash Shortage

(From the Reflector's Washington Bureau)

Washington, Jan. 10 — Senator Frank P. Graham said today he had urged the U. S. Conciliation Service to do its best to bring about resumption of production of potash, which is used in the manufacture of fertilizer.

Graham's action was taken in response to a telegram from L. Y. Eallantine, State Agriculture Commissioner, urging him to seek some action in having potash production resumed.

A strike at three of the leading producers of potash has been going on for several weeks, but the conciliation service told Graham that progress was made last Friday and another conference was scheduled to be held soon between the representatives of the company and the union.

Graham said he had talked with the Agriculture Department, the Conciliation Service and the National Labor Relations Board and had been assured all three are active in behalf of the resumption of the production of potash.

Strength FOR THE DAY

WHAT IS A CHRISTIAN STATESMAN?

Someone has said that there is no way out of present world conditions but the way Christ would take were he a modern statesman.

It is intriguing to think what Jesus Christ would do if he were to return to earth in the flesh and to be in the position to play the role of a modern statesman. We can be sure that he would put human welfare first. What many people do not appreciate is that he undoubtedly would be absolutely sound in all of his economic procedure, for the Bible from beginning to end sets forth sound economic as well as moral principles. Also we can be sure that Jesus, wise in the ways of mankind, would never believe that he could establish heaven on earth by means of any variety of legislation, no matter how commendable the legislation may be.

Most of all, however, we can be sure that Jesus would have no more interest in laying down rules for procedure and conduct than he had two thousand years ago. He would call our attention to principles and bid us build on these. When we asked him for a law to enable us to surmount some particular difficulty, he would give us a principle which would enable us to surmount all difficulties.

As Jesus was the despair of leaders and lawmakers in his own day, there is reason to believe that he would be the same now. Furthermore his way of life would not be any more acceptable to this generation than it was to his contemporaries.

POTENTIALLY GREAT

Two potentially rich assets were assured the people of Pitt county this week through appropriations by the county commissioners. In dollars one will cost $60,000 and the other $400, to begin with.

The assets have their real value, not in their dollars and cents cost, but in the potential which they afford the people of the county, if Pitt Countians avail themselves to the far reaching advantages which these can afford.

A $150,000 nurses home and nursing school is to be constructed with the county's $60,000, supplemented by federal and state funds. The $400 is to be combined with similar amounts from Martin and Edgecombe counties to bring a sweet potato specialist to the area to work with farmers of the three counties in growing higher quality sweet potatoes.

Combined with the new hospital, the nursing school can bring the county to a medical status which may well be the envy of all other counties in North Carolina—but only if these facilities receive whole-hearted support of the people from all sections of the county. If the young women of Pitt do not take advantage of the nurses training offered here, the school will not fulfill its ultimate potential of affording them valuable training as well as assuring the county an ample supply of good medical assistants.

The sweet potato specialist can help the farmers of Pitt to strengthen their economic position and reinforce their economic stability by cultivating another money crop which could surpass tobacco as far as a money producer is concerned.

This week saw the culmination of the first steps in movements, but the fulfillment of the dreams of the leaders in the worthwhile projects will come only if they are given the continued support and cooperation they deserve from the people of the county.

Around Capitol Square

VOCAL—William B. Umstead's original statement taking himself out of the senatorial race said only withdrawal was made necessary by effects of a recent surgical operation. It developed later the operation was removal of a non-malignant tumor from his vocal chords, and he had not been able to talk above a whisper since mid-December. He recognized that a speechless candidate would have no chance. Despite the fact a lot of campaign oratory is meaningless, North Carolinians have come to expect that their governors and senators make full use of strong vocal chords, both during the campaign and after election.

DUMB—One of Umstead's staunchest advocates suggested a campaign by proxy. In other words, Umstead would write the text of his speeches, appear on the platform—but let somebody else do the actual talking. "Nothing doing," quipped another friend. "It is true a lot of mentally dumb candidates have made the grade, but I've never known a physically dumb one to get very far. Even if they don't say anything, candidates and public officials in North Carolina have got to make a lot of noise to get or hold office."

TIMING—Time was the imponderable factor in the Umstead case. He has been assured by his doctors that every indication points to complete recovery of speech and health within a short time. He has been warned not to use his voice for several weeks. The senatorial campaign will be waged and the issues determined between now and May—

Somebody Told Me...

By L. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

Not many people get closer to a person than a college roommate. Wife Rachel and I were married before I met hers. The meeting was quite an event. They looked at me as if to say, "So Rachel married you?" and I looked at them as if to say, "So Rachel roomed with you?" But in spite of all, we soon became friends.

One Mary Monroe from Warrington, married a UNC student who at the time was studying accounting. Now he's working for Texas Oil Company in the Republic of Honduras, Central America. Recently we received a letter from Mary telling of her experiences in Honduras. It began:

"Happy New Year. The Monroes' New Yeared all over Tegucigalpa for the hours of 1930. They say that the town was still going strong at five a.m., but not the just the period in which the Durham potential candidate has been forbidden to make a public speech. There are other significant elements. Former Senator Umstead had joined in the invitation to Vice President Bailey at the Jackson-Jefferson dinner early in December, before the first examination which led to the operation on his throat.

CONCLUSION—Public announcement of his pert on the dinner program, scheduled for January 28, came just a few hours before his withdrawal from the senate race, and before the facts about his physical condition had been published. That led many people to conclude there had been some kind of "deal" and he was stepping out of the way of Senator Graham for political reasons. That belief will be retained by some and it is all-ports being fostered by strong supporters of the incumbent appointed Senator Graham. Those who really know Bill Umstead and know all the facts, also know how sincerely he deplores the timing of his ailment.

PARALYSIS—Illness is no respecter of persons or of the calendar. If the Umstead affliction had come a few weeks earlier or a few weeks later, political history might have been changed. There is obvious analogy with incidents of the gubernatorial race in 1940. If the paralysis that struck Allen Maxwell a week before the primary that year had hit sooner or later by a few days, course of political history would have been different. Maxwell subsequently recovered and rendered years of valuable service to the state. His absence during the campaign during the ten days just before the primary undoubtedly influenced thousands of votes. The device of proxy speakers then didn't accomplish much.

PLACARDS—With another statewide election coming up, it may be expected that campaign signs and placards will blossom along all the highways and hedgerows of the state. That gives special significance to one paragraph in the current digest of opinions by the attorney general's office. The state's chief legal adviser says "it is unlawful in this state to place any sign or placard upon any stone, tree, fence, stump, pole, automobile, building, or other object which is the property of another, without first obtaining his written consent, or to place any sign or placard on any of these objects located within the limits of a public highway."

Boyle's Column

New York (AP)—There's a cantankerous old galoot in town who says he's Jesse James, and I wish he wouldn't say it.

Because there is always the odd doubt it might be true.

And that would be as disturbing as if Robin Hood should come alive again, and lose a bow-and-arrow fight with an unemployed Indian.

The gnat who claims he's Jesse James is a white-bearded, bedridden man named J. Frank Dalton, who certainly is old and certainly can cuss like a man out of the last century.

History says that Outlaw Jesse James, while living in St. Joseph, Mo., under the nom-de-pistol of Mr. Howard, was shot to death on April 3, 1882. He was plucked from behind by a member of his own band, Bob Ford, while hanging a picture.

But, now, after all these years, along comes Dalton and says no, "I wasn't Jesse that was killed—it was Charlie Bigelow, still another member of the band. But they buried Charlie as Jesse to fool the federals, and Jesse escaped and has lived ever since as J. Frank Dalton.

If this account is true—and there are those who believe that if you leave a horsehair in a jar of water it will turn into a snake—

Early Action On Peacetime Draft

Washington, Jan. 11—(AP)—An early hearing on President Truman's request for continuing the peacetime draft was promised today by the house armed services committee.

But chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) hinted strongly that it will get scant sympathy from members who already have voiced open opposition to keeping selective service on the books beyond the June 30 expiration date.

Certain situations in life require certain endings. Add the only way J. Frank Dalton could satisfy us if he is the real Jesse James is if he were winged and captured by the FBI as he stood, six-guns flaming and beard streaming in the wind, trying to hold up a train to pay off the mortgage on some pore widder's shack.

That was the Jesse we believed in—although he probably never really lived either. Stay in your grave, Jesse.

Has Large Appropriation For Buggs Island Program

(From The Reflectors Washington Bureau)

Washington, Jan. 10—(P)—Approval by Congress of President Truman's recommendation for a thirty million-dollar appropriation for the Buggs Island dam and reservoir on the Roanoke river would virtually assure completion of the big power and flood control project by 1952, Rep. John H. Kerr said today.

Mr. Truman recommended the expenditure of thirty million dollars for the project as he sent his annual budget message to Congress yesterday, and Kerr, ranking member of the House Appropriations Committee and chairman of the subcommittee which will handle the Buggs Island item, said he would fight for approval of the whole amount.

At the same time, he said he would attempt to guide another Truman recommendation — of five million dollars for the Philpott Reservoir in Virginia, another dam in the Roanoke river development program — through to approval.

Kerr, pointing out that the recommended appropriation is nearly double any amount previously appropriated in one year for the Buggs Island project, said he was "well pleased" by the President's figures. Approval of them, he said, would bring to $63,400,000 the total amount allocated for the project since its approval, leaving only $15,000,000 to be appropriated in future years to meet the total estimated cost of the project.

Less pleased than Kerr by President Truman's budget message was Rep. Carl T. Durham of Chapel Hill, who unlike Kerr thinks some major effort to balance the budget should be made at this session.

Kerr said last week he did not see how Congress could balance the budget this year, but Durham said after hearing the budget message that "I think we ought to at least try to make a beginning toward balance, and this is not it."

Denies Reports Of Resignation

Train Held Up By Tire Trouble

Newton, Jan. 11—(AP)—Tire trouble held up Southern Railway westbound passenger train No. 11 for an hour and a half yesterday.

A steam locomotive of a freight train slipped a metal tire from a drive wheel. Along came No. 11 and couldn't get by. So there the two trains stood until a mechanic arrived with the machinery and gadgets needed for changing a tire. Then both chugged off.

Kissed Jurors After Verdict

Media, Pa., Jan. 11—(P)—A jury of 12 women—all mothers—today acquitted Nicholas D'Amore, 26, and his brother, John, 22, of the shotgun slaying of their father.

The jury deliberated two hours before it returned with the verdict that was greeted by an outburst of applause from many of the 300 spectators in the jammed court room.

After the verdict was returned, Albert Blumberg, defense attorney asked Judge William R. Toal of Delaware county court whether he could kiss the jurors.

"It's Okay with the court," the judge replied.

Blumberg then kissed the women.

Talmadge, Arnall Eligible To Run

Atlanta, Jan. 11—(P)—Attorney General Eugene Cook ruled today that both Gov. Herman Talmadge and former Gov. Ellis Arnall are eligible to run for Governor of Georgia again this year.

Thus the air was cleared, temporarily at least, for a possible slambang scrap at the polls between Arnall and Talmadge. Neither of the old feudists has announced for Governor, but both have hinted they might.

Little Variation In NSLI Rules

James D. Walters, Contact Representative in charge of the Greenville Veterans Administration Office stated today that, as previously announced, the order in which the special National Service Life Insurance dividend payments will be made starting January 16, 1950, depends, to a large extent, on the last three digits of the veteran's service or serial number.

In other words, he said, those veterans whose serial numbers end in "000" may expect to receive payment before those whose last three serial numbers are "999."

However, he stated, there are going to be, of necessity, quite a few exceptions to that last-three-digit plan because of complications arising in the records of some of the 16-million veterans eligible for payment.

Many had more than one service serial number; the same ones or others had more than one insurance policy, etc.

Walters pointed out that those things will cause a little variation from the announced plan, but they will not make enough difference to necessitate the veteran, not receiving his payment a day or two after distribution begins, like he had it "all figured out" to get in touch with the VA in person or by writing.

ing. Walters said also that everything is working smoothly in dividend headquarters and if any veteran who has an acknowledgment of his application does not receive his payment in the order he expects it, he can rest assured it will be coming through in a very short time.

As the investigation of the disaster continued, meanwhile, it was announced survivors will not be questioned by investigators.

Frosh Outscore Washington Five

The ECTC freshman basketball team won a 59-50 victory over Washington high school in a game played there last night.

Richard Blake, high scoring forward, led the Pirates to a 16-13 first quarter score. But at that point the Washington club caught up and went ahead at the half 30-26.

Garland Holmes paced Washington's first-half attack with 13 points on six field goals and one free throw. Holmes emerged the high scorer for the night with 19 points.

Midway of the third quarter found the locals leading and they took a narrow 41-40 lead going into the final period. Ray Everett led the frosh during the last half with 13 points to share scoring honors with Holmes and Blake, who collected 18 for the night.

Leon Hart Given Football Award 'Best Of 1949'

Philadelphia, Jan. 11—(AP)—Leon Hart, Notre Dame's great All-American end who is considering a career in the movies, today holds football's equivalent of an "Oscar."

Hart came to Philadelphia last night to accept the Maxwell Memorial football club's award as the best college grid player of 1949.

The 21-year-old native of Turtle Creek, Pa., accepted the honor with deep humility from club president Bert Bell, commissioner of the pro National - American Football League.

Overthrowing the pudgy, five-foot-eight Bell by nine inches, Hart said simply:

"I can think of many college players throughout the country who are more worthy of receiving this trophy, including many of my own Notre Dame teammates."

DUKE GRAPPLERS WIN

Raleigh, N.C., Jan. 11—(AP)—Duke's wrestling squad plumed back N.C. State last night, 21-11. A crowd of several hundred watched the grapplers in State's new Coliseum.

scoring position in the conference with an average of 13.3 points per game, Coach Howard Porter's quintet will rule as a slight ten-point favorite over the Christians. It will be the first cage tilt for the Pirates since before the Christmas holidays.

Expected starters for the East Carolina quint in tonight's North State clash will be Len Bauer, senior guard, who plays an outstanding floor game, and has recently come into his own in the shooting department. At the other guard position will be scrappy Louis Collier, who is among the top 20 scoring leaders in the conference.

Adding strength to the Pirate five in tonight's game will be rugged Frank Maenale who missed the first eight contests of the Pirates because of a shoulder injury received in football. Maenale, a holdover from last year's squad, is expected to improve the backboard play of the Pirates with his towering height, and aggressive play for rebounds.

Reserve strength for the Pirates will be handled by subs Roger Thrift and Eddie Tanner at forwards, Jim Blake at center, and Doug Guthrie at guard.

Forty New Grid Hopefuls Greet Dole For Tryouts

Forty new football aspirants greeted East Carolina's head football mentor, Bill Dole, yesterday as tryouts for the Pirates' 1950 gridiron machine began.

Wind sprints, tackling, and blocking were emphasized in the first day of winner drills.

The forty men who reported to Coaches Dole and Boone will be drilled in football fundamentals during the present week, with screening of the boys ending the first week of drill.

Returning members of the 1949 East Carolina football eleven are expected to report for drills next Monday.

List of the some forty grid prospects for the 1950 football campaign is as follows: Herbert Carlton, Howard Carmichael, Bill Muirgan, Bill Heath, Jack Grimes, and Joe Jacobs, ends; Elis Stevenson, Henry Geiss, Big Blard, Levine Midgett, Mickey Behrman, tackles; Darrell Bateman, Richard Nelson, Jesse Aldridge, Linwood Hudgins, Billy Johnson, Jim Brady, Jim Cushing, Don Gaylor, and John Swart, guards; George Riddick and David Tolson, centers; and Henry Fordham, Buddy Harper, Allen Bateman, Robert Cook, Tommy Bullock, Rommie Hardin, Bill Smith, Lonnie Nelms, John White, Herbert Kennic, Pete Reynolds, Jim Clark, Ted Lowry and Tom Swain, backs.

Locals Outclass Visiting Conference Foes; Rack Up One-Sided 33-5 Score In First Half

By JOHN SPINKS
The Greenville high school Phantoms took advantage of most of their scoring opportunities last night and soundly thrashed a greatly outclassed Edenton team 67-20.

The local Juniors did approximately the same thing in beating their Edenton opponents 57-11.

Playing their second Northeastern Conference game and their first at home, Coach Bo Farley's boys depended almost entirely on field goals to run up their highest score of the season. They pushed in 32 goals and made good on three free throws.

Playing without the services of regular starter Jimmy Cox at guard, the Phants teed off on the visitors and ran the score to 20-1 before Edenton got its first goal. Cox, who has been troubled all season with a football-injured right arm, sat out the game last night with his arm in a cast.

Behind high scorers Jimmy Dillingham and Joe Sawyer Farley's boys amassed 33 points during the first half to Edenton's 5. After the first four minutes it was no show for the spectators who saw the erstwhile Aces from upstate try for the basket without effect.

Dillingham collected 19 points for high scorer of the night and his total came on 9 field goals and one foul toss. Behind his was little Joe Sawyer with eight goals and 16 points.

John Aman, usually the first man off the bench when Farley's boys are in trouble, started last night in place of Cox and showed well on defense. He scored only two points but was a thorn all the way whenever the ball was in play. He and center Sid Briley were the standouts on defense, particularly under both backboards, stealing the ball and setting up their offense again.

High scorers for Edenton were Bubber Dobson and Gardner who took away eight and six apiece. Dobson was the standout on defense for the Aces.

The Junior game, which preceded the varsity, was much the same way as the latter game. With the halftime score standing at 32-3, the locals went on another scoring spree, finishing with 57 points while the visitors were collecting 8.

High scorers for the Juniors were Moore and Farley with 18 and 12 points respectively.

Almost Played Two Tie Games

Chicod, Jan. 11—Chicod and Belvoir almost played two tie games last night as the girls' teams played to a 35-35 deadlock and the local boys shaded the Belvoir team 31-30.

Both teams—boys and girls—were tied at halftime with their opponents, the boys at 15 all and the girls at 18.

High scorer for the Chicod boys were Mike Lewis with eight points. For Belvoir Roy Stencil and Dupree Barnhill had eight points for their efforts also.

For the girls, the high scorer was Claudia Pollard of Belvoir with 15 points. Right behind her was Perdie Mayo, also of the visitors with 14.

Outstanding on defense were Eason Clark, Belvoir, for the boys and William Mills, Chicod. For the girls it was Evelyn Mills of the locals and Irma Jones for Belvoir.

Has Criticism For Coach Wade

High Point, N.C., Jan. 11—(AP)—All America Footballer Charlie Justice of the University of North Carolina told the High Point American Business Club last night that Coach Wallace Wade of Duke must "change his style of play to keep pace with modern football."

The pointed criticism of the Duke football coach came in answer to a direct question from a club member as to Justice's opinion of the famous gridiron mentor.

Travis Tidwell Is Auburn Coach

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 10—(AP)—Travis Tidwell, Auburn's great backfield star, says he has accepted a job as assistant backfield coach at Auburn.

HOME RANGE

Chapter 9
Valse had remained where he was for a while, staring at the empty horizon where Saralee had vanished. Slow resolution was forming in him. Emotion was drained out of him now. Well, he'd made a threat to Armin Zachary. To kill him. The man had richly deserved that fate for long years, and it was a chore no longer to be put off; it had to be done before he could marry Saralee.

Heavily Valse swung back into the saddle again. This time he rode slowly. His horse jockeyed, his head snorting. Alart now, Valse looked about; and for a moment he could see nothing. Then he saw a man, off some distance, watching him from the shadow of a big pine.

An Indian, Valse decided. This was their old hunting grounds, and some still came here. Probably this fellow was lurking with the notion of killing a cow.

The blast of the rifle took him completely by surprise. His first sensation was the convulsive jerk of his horse. Now it was jumping clear off the trail, which had a sheer drop, as Valse saw in that instant, of at least a hundred feet, down below.

Startled as he was, Valse acted, partly by training, partly from instinct. At the first convulsive shudder of the stricken animal he kicked his feet free of the stirrups, and a thought rocketed through his mind: That was no Indian!

Then, as the horse began the downward plunge, he grabbed wildly, and his hands closed on brush which grew there, out from the broken face of the rocky ledge.

Luck was with him now, the luck to be able to get a hold, luck that there should be brush here when there was none on down below. He hung on, not moving, and looked around.

Down below, where his feet were, was only emptiness—a blank wall for another ninety feet, with no break such as the brush had found in which to thrust its roots.

His one chance was to go up. With the brush to aid him, he might be able to make it, though it would be a stiff scramble. Still, it was only ten feet to the top again. One slip, however, would be plenty.

Valse climbed a little, hand over hand, tentatively. Now he was able to grasp another shoot, and finally to find one of the broken places in the ledge for a toe-hold. He clung there a moment, and considered his next move.

It was unlikely that anyone who had gone to such lengths to get him would leave without taking a look to make certain that the job was really finished. More than likely the killer was already approaching the spot where Trib had been riding. Pretty soon, he'd be looking down over the edge of the cliff.

He climbed again, carefully, testing each move, until his head was within a foot of the crest. Then, having a fairly good foothold, and a good grip with his left hand on another bush, he lifted his revolver from its holster and held it ready. He had not long to wait. He heard the scrambling of a horse's hoofs on the rocky ground, then a hoarse whoop followed by the creak of leather as the man dismounted. The gunman was coming, certain in his own mind that the job was done, that there was nothing to worry about, not making a routine check to be sure.

He got down on to his hands and knees and craned his rather scraggly neck out for a better look, and then, for the first time, his gaze watched him scramble to his feet. "Where's your partner?" he asked roughly.

"I came alone," Marsh protested. "I drew for it."

A new look of fright came into his face as he realized what he had admitted and he clamped his jaws hard. But Valse was not surprised. He studied his captive curiously.

"Zachary hired the pair of you to get me, a long time ago, didn't he?" he deduced. "And you told him that you had, and got your pay, so now he has you in a crotcheted stick."

He could see the fresh fright in Marsh's popping eyes.

"I know you now," he added. "You didn't have those whiskers in the army, and I never paid much attention to you, but I do remember seeing you. So that part of your story is true enough; you were there, and Zachary did hire both of you to find me and kill me, didn't he?"

Marsh's face had gone a little stubborn. Otherwise he made no sign, no reply.

Surprisingly enough, Valse smiled a little. It was more frightening than if he had scowled or uttered threats.

"Don't you think," Valse asked gently, "that you'd be showing a lot better sense to talk?"

"Get up," Valse ordered, and Compromise?

New York, Jan. 11 — (AP)—The World-Telegram and Sun says the Justice Department does not insist on the break up of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. but is ready to compromise its anti-trust suit.

It quotes J. Howard McGrath, U.S. attorney general, as saying: "Our only proviso is that some arrangement be made whereby the abuse of monopoly power (by the food chain) be ended forever."

The newspaper quotes McGrath as saying a consent decree would meet the department's demand because "we have no desire to attack size as such."

Plan Organize Squadron Civil Air Patrol Here

By CHESTER WALSH

A squadron of the Civil Air Patrol is being organized in Greenville and some of the inducements offered to prospective cadets are safety flight courses and two weeks' training at some Army Air Force field. Tommy Sellers, commanding officer of the squadron, stated today. Sellers will outline plans for organizing the squadron at an assembly meeting at the Greenville High School Friday morning at 8:30.

Capt. H. A. McKee of Charlotte, state commander of the Civil Air Patrol, will fly to Greenville to speak at the preliminary meeting. The Civil Air Patrol, Sellers, former Marine Corps aviator, first lieutenant in World War II for four years, said the meeting at the High School Friday is expected to interest the boys and girls in aviation and service in the Civil Air Patrol.

He reminded that the Civil Air Patrol, during World War II, did outstanding work in cooperating with the armed forces on the coast. The patrol is strictly a volunteer organization. It is semi-military. Boys and girls who enlist will receive valuable training and have some interesting experiences, Sellers said. The enlistment is voluntary, and applicants must have their parents' consent. The members may retire at any time.

The Civil Air Patrol cadets will give "familiarization flights" in a plane stationed at the Greenville airport for that purpose. Cadets also will be given a course in ground flight training, meteorology, navigation, civil air regulations, theory of flight and military organization training.

Commander Sellers has as his staff: Edgar Denton, executive officer; Darwin Waters, adjutant;

Cletus Jackson, commander of cadets, and Vernon Tyson, flight operations officer.

Applications for enlistment in the Civil Air Patrol squadron will be received at assembly at the High School Friday morning. Thereafter application may be made to Squadron Commander Sellers at the Greenville airport.

Sellers said today that the Pitt-Greenville Airport Commission has assigned to the Civil Air Patrol one of the Quonset huts at the airfield for its meetings.

L. M. Buchanan of Greenville is chairman of the commission, and G. H. Pittman of Falkland, M. Brown Hodges of Grifton, J. Edmund Waldrop and Willard T. Kyzer of Greenville are the other members. Kyzer is secretary-treasurer of the Airport Commission.

Trade Goes On Despite Curbs

Srinagar, Kashmir—(AP)—Barter trade is being conducted across the cease-fire line in Kashmir despite restrictions on the movement of people and goods.

Kashmiris living along the line are reported to be using difficult mountain passes for the unauthorized trading. People on the Pakistan side usually offer rock salt, wheat flour and snuff while residents of Indian-held Kashmir supply sugar, cloth, rice and vegetables.

Divorced Wife, Weds Daughter

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 11—(AP)—The law told Mrs. Helen Bishop today there isn't much she can do about the marriage of her divorced husband and her 16-year-old daughter.

There was nothing illegal in Victor Bishop's action last Friday when he took young Jean Lorenski to South Bend, Ind., and made her his wife. So said the Kent County prosecutor's office and Mrs. Bishop's attorney agreed.

Although the 35-year-old mother tearfully explained that Jean didn't know what she was doing, she admitted she had been advised there was "little hope" of forcing an annulment.

Bishop, 35, married dark-haired Jean just 21 days after his divorce from her mother became final.

Jean is her daughter by a previous marriage which ended in divorce.

Bowling Alleys Open Here With Warm Welcome

By CHESTER WALSH

Several hundred Greenville people—men and women; boys and girls—welcomed the opening of the Greenville Bowling Center in the Hooker building on Evans Street, opposite the courthouse, last night.

Herb Winders of Louisville, Ky., and his wife, "Miss Helen," as she is known to bowlers over the country, extended the courtesies of the bowling center to the people.

The bowling alleys were crowded from the time of the opening until closing time, and that's always by midnight. Willard T. Kyzer, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, city officials, newspapermen, and many out-of-town persons were there to welcome the bowling alleys and the Winders, who are part owners and who will manage.

W. G. Bennett of Louisville, Ky., executive officer of the Packard Bowling Association of Somerset, Ky., and his wife were there greeting the first-night visitors. They extended the courtesy of paying the first game to ladies presenting.

Buddy and Miss Vicky Winders were on the reception committee. People from the college and the high schools of the county attended the opening night of Greenville's new bowling alley, the first recreation center of its kind here since shortly after World War II started.

Many people of Greenville and Pitt County were interviewed on the radio over station WGTC, with Hartwell Campbell as master of ceremonies. Those participating in the broadcast (and they included police and other officers, school people, and others interested in recreation in Greenville), welcomed the opening of the center.

Kiwanis Active Past 35 Years

Kiwanis International will observe the 35th anniversary of its founding during the week of January 15 to 21.

Established in Detroit January 21, 1915, the community service organization has grown from a single unit to a vast network involving more than 3,000 clubs and 200,000 members throughout the United States, Canada, Alaska, Hawaii and the Yukon territory.

Tige Gardner, president of the Kiwanis Club of Greenville, said today that plans for the observance of Kiwanis Anniversary Week here would be announced shortly.

In this connection, Gardner said he had received a significant report covering Kiwanis International's accomplishments during the past year.

Nearly $18,000,000 was raised by Kiwanis clubs to support the Community Fund and polio, heart and cancer campaigns in 1949. At the same time, Kiwanians were purchasing government savings bonds valued at more than $14,000,000. They also provided recreational opportunities to 1,650,000 young people and gave vocational guidance to 265,000 others.

The report revealed that 11,000 Kiwanians held public office in 1949 and that 42,000 served on school, hospital and other public affairs boards. To strengthen the American and Canadian systems of government, Kiwanis International issued 16,000,000 patriotic pamphlets last year and won a gold medal and an award for $1,500 from Freedoms Foundation, Inc.

Plans for the Greenville Kiwanis club's participation in Kiwanis Anniversary week are under the direction of the Committee on Education and Fellowship of which Dr. John D. Messick is chairman.

Lions Hear Talk On Gov't Cost

The Lions Club of Greenville held its regular meeting Monday night, Jan. 9, at the Woman's Club building after introducing guests, Lion President. Ernie Willis appointed four new members to different committees and stated briefly their duties in connection with the membership on these committees. After the business of the meeting was completed, Lion George Lautares introduced the speaker of the evening, James L. White, professor of business at East Carolina Teachers College. Professor White urged that all members of the Lions Club support the Hoover Commission report, which is being publicized and sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Greenville, and requested that all members of the Lions Club write letters to our representatives in Congress and request the adoption of this report into law.

Mr. White cited a few of the glaring examples of inefficiency and lack of economy in governmental operation, and stated that the cost of operating the government has increased from $4 billions to $42 billions and threatens to go higher, while the number of employees in the Executive Branch has risen from 600,000 to 2,100,000. The number of departments, agencies, administrations, boards, bureaus, commissions and other units of the Executive Branch has increased from 350 to 1,812.

Another finding of this Commission showed that it takes more than $10 worth of paper-work to complete a governmental purchase order, yet half of the 3 million items purchased yearly by the civilian agencies are for less than $10.

After Mr. White's speech was completed, a petition was circulated among the members, which they were asked to sign, pledging themselves to support this bill and to write to their representatives in Washington.

J C Campaign Gains Momentum

The Jaycee campaign in support of the Hoover Commission report entered its third day today as leaders reported more than 250 letters already have been signed by Greenville people urging economy in the federal government.

John Lautares, chairman of the radio committee for the project, said a series of four radio programs will be presented on Tuesday and Thursday nights at 9 o'clock on WGTC. Jack Edwards spoke last night on the Hoover Commission report in the radio broadcast, and tomorrow night, Lautares said David Whichard will speak in behalf of the campaign.

Jim White, co-chairman of the Jaycee committee which is directing the campaign will speak to members of the Kiwanis Club Friday night.

Bancroft Moseley, co-chairman of the committee, said this morning the response by the people of Greenville to the project has been good. He said members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce hope to obtain letters from 1,700 Greenville citizens urging economy in the government to be forwarded to the North Carolina representatives in Congress on January 20.

duces much of the essential raw materials. One example will suffice to show what is happening: Pakistan is the world's largest producer of Jute and accounts for 73 per cent of the output for the entire peninsula. India has Jute mills producing more than 90 per cent of the globe's Jute. In short, the two nations are dependent on each other in this vital matter of Jute.

To add to this Jute imbroglio, there is a fierce quarrel over currency values. Some time ago India devalued the Rupee while Pakistan refused to follow suit. The result is that India no longer can buy Jute from Pakistan excepting at a heavy loss because of the depreciated currency. So India refuses to deal, and the important Jute industry is stagnant.

can't fight a shooting war with the U. S., you want to weaken it as much as you can.

How do you do it, short of shooting? One nice way is to keep the U. S. jittery, ever on the alert.

In this way you keep the U. S. spending billions on defense or foreign aid, running into debt year after year, sapping the solid foundations of the economy.

In this way you force—through this arms and aid spending—the U. S. to operate on a false economy. If the U. S. can't keep this up endlessly, some day it may crash, economically.

If that happens, there'll be a world depression, you figure. And the U. S. won't be able to help its allies, economically.

That will make them a softer touch for an overthrow by the Communists inside or outside those countries.

Well, how do you keep the U. S. spending those cold war billions, running up debt, living beyond its means? If you were a Russian, you might figure it this way:

Be ugly, be aggressive, push where you can, spread Communism where you can, short of shooting till you are ready.

In short, keep the U. S. spending its head off.

Ivey-Gorham
On Monday, December 26, 1949, at 5:30 in the afternoon, the living room of Mr. and Mrs. James Gorham's home on West Fifth Street in Greenville, N. C., was the setting for an informal wedding of beauty and simplicity, when their daughter, Miss Marion V. Gorham, became the bride of Joe Ivey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Josephus Ivey of Washington, D. C.

The vows were spoken before an improvised altar of fern and winter greenery, flanked on each side by tall candelabras in which burned cathedral candles, centered with a large basket of salmon pink gladioli. Rev. P. H. Mumford, pastor of the bride and also of York Memorial Methodist church, officiated, using the single-ring ceremony.

Prior to the ceremony, a program of wedding music was played by Arthur L. Norcott, organist of Sycamore Hill Baptist church. Misses Barbara Lou Barnhill and Barbara Lou Morris sang as a duet "At Dawning" by Cadman, after which Miss Evelyn Wooten sang "Because" by d'Hardelet.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore for her wedding a dress of aqua blue satin, sleeve length, fashioned with fitted coat princess style, with a round neck line from which shown white lace. Her shoulder length veil of bridal illusion fell gracefully from a tiara of seed pearls. Her flowers were a bouquet of white and pink satin roses, tied with white satin ribbon, showered with Queen Anne fern. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift from her mother.

Miss Beulah Sherrod was maid of honor and Miss Laura B. Morris acted as honorary bridesmaid. Miss Sherrod wore a street dress of tan crepe and her accessories were black. Miss Morris wore a street dress of tan crepe and her accessories were pink. Their corsages were made of white flowers tied with matching ribbon.

The bridegroom had as his best man Willis James Gorham, brother of the bride. The ushers were Carl Knight, James Haggins and George Gorham, Jr., uncle of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Gorham was attired in a street dress of brown crepe. Her corsage was of pink flowers.

Mrs. Ivey, mother of the groom, wore a navy blue dress and her corsage was of white flowers.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Gorham entertained at an informal reception for the bridal couple, the bridal party, members of the two families and out of town guests. Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Gorham were Misses Gladys Haggins, Mattie Forbes, Eleanor Cherry, Alice Grimes, Mrs. Gerald Jenkins and Herman Ennett.

The bride received her education in the city schools of Greenville and graduated from A. and T. College, Greensboro, N. C., in May 1949.

The bridegroom attended high school in Washington, D. C., and is now a student at A. and T. College, Greensboro, N. C. During World War II he served in the United States Navy for three years.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivey will make their home in Washington, D. C.

Rev. P. H. Mumford, pastor of York Memorial A. M. E. Zion church wishes to remind the members and friends of the quarterly conference Thursday night, Dr. T. S. Maulsby will preside.

A full line of matched, quick-change implements—direct-connected and forward-mounted—fits the Farmall Super-A to do a list of jobs as long as your arm—to do every power job for you whatever crops you raise. No useless wheels, levers, or excess weight on these low-cost implements—and they are easily interchanged, in minutes.

The Farmall Super-A is built to power the diversified farm of up to 80 acres, or be the second tractor on the large acreage. The Farmall Super-A pulls a one-bottom plow, cultivates one row of corn or cotton and up to four vegetable rows. You can do effective conservation farming with the Super-A and matched equipment.
