President May Soon Move Into House Struggle

Administration Leaders Mark Time Awaiting Word From Truman

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—President Truman soon may move into the thick of a fight for control of the House.

Administration leaders depended heavily on this today while they marked time in their maneuvering to thwart a bold bid by Republicans and Southern Democrats to get a firm hold on the situation.

The Truman lieutenants indicated that the President may take a public stand at his weekly news conference Thursday.

They said he is vigorously opposing a proposed change in rules which would restore to the House Rules Committee its former power to pigeonhole bills.

The committee lost this power in January, 1949, when the Democrats regained control of the House and changed the system. A coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats is seeking to restore it.

As it is now composed, the Rules Committee is dominated by four Republicans and three Southern Democrats who are unfriendly to much of the President's program.

But the committee no longer can sidetrack legislation indefinitely. The 1949 rule limits its delaying powers to 21 days.

If that rule is tossed out and the committee is given its old powers, it can hold major bills off the floor indefinitely. Only a petition signed by 218 of the 435 House members could force action.

A Rules Committee recommendation that the old rule be restored is due for a House vote late this month.

There were unconfirmed reports that administration leaders were seeking a compromise. Coalition strategists, figuring they have the votes to win, were in no mood to compromise.

Chairman Sabath (D-Ill) of the Rules Committee, who is opposing the change, told newsmen he would seek an immediate audience with the President.

Cat Agitated

Los Angeles, Jan. 17 (AP)—Sury, the cat, feels all washed today for a good reason.

She caught her tail in the whirling machine gears.

First, the cat found herself suspended from the floor. Then the agitator agitated Sury and started de-agitating Mrs. Carrie Ponder's laundry.

Frightened by her pet's squeals of pain and rage, Mrs. Ponder called the sheriff.

Two deputies arrived on the scene, turned the washer upside down, unloosed a few bolts and liberated Sury's battered tail.

Whereupon the cat flashed out of the house and vanished into the shrubbery.

She returned later to have her tail bandaged.

President's Ball To Be Held Here January 31

A "Dancing So Others Can Walk" ball will be held in East Carolina Teachers' College Wright gymnasium, January 31, as the climax of the 1950 March of Dimes campaign in Pitt County.

The local ball will be one of hundreds given throughout the country commemorating President Roosevelt's name in the Dimes campaign for funds.

Meanwhile, campaign chairman for Pitt County, Dean W. E. Marshall said that medical costs alone in 1949 totalled more than $31,000,000 and care for thousands of those victims and new cases constantly arising will cost this year approximately $50,000,000.

He reminded citizens of this county that Pitt's quota for the campaign is $12,500, half of which will remain with the local Dimes chapter, the other half going to the national chapter for financial assistance there.

Marshall explained why costs were so high last year: "First, there were many more cases than in any other year of our history. But even more significant, these cases were spread out over every section of the country. In past years there has been a series of sharp, concentrated outbreaks. But last year, 40 states had more than in 1948."

The chairman said not one call for help, which included new iron lung, more nurses and doctors and other highly-trained personnel, went unanswered last year. "If an National Foundation bought a new one. As of mid-October of last year, 2,832 nurses were recruited through the American Red Cross and sent to 38 states; in addition 160 physical therapists and 37 resident doctors were sent to critical areas—all provided at the expense of the National Foundation."

Marshall reiterated the fact that

Democrats Unite On Policy Of 'Hands-Off' On Formosa

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—Senate Democrats united today behind President Truman's "hands off" policy on Formosa.

Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, said a party caucus showed that all of the Democrats support the stand of the President and Secretary of State Acheson in refusing to give military aid to the Chinese Nationalists on the island.

"The Democrats think the State department and the President are definitely right in the actions they have taken," Lucas told reporters. "The Democrats are fearful that any intervention there ultimately will mean war."

Republicans have taken the lead in sharp criticism of the President for refusing to move to Formosa, an island 100 miles off the China coast secure against attack by Chinese Communists. The reported agreement followed a suggestion from Senator George (D-Ga.) that Moscow may be calling all the signals for the Chinese Communists' treatment of American diplomats.

And a Republican Senator, who asked that he not be identified by name, said of the previous internment of Americans and the recent seizure of the Peking consulate: "I don't think these are isolated incidents. I believe they are part of a pattern."

Another Democrat, Senator O'Connor of Maryland, denounced the Communist seizure of the American consulate as "outrageous."

O'Connor demanded that the U. S. block admission of Communist China into the United Nations. He also urged, in a statement last night, "a forthright announcement that the United States has no intention, now or in the future, of giving recognition to the (Chinese) Communist regime."

George, acting chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee told reporters he hopes Secretary of State Acheson "may be able to give us some information on what influence Moscow has in the situation in China. Acheson previously has said that Russia is taking over North China areas, including Manchuria, as a part of Communist Imperialism."

The committee had scheduled a meeting with Acheson for Thursday to receive a report on the "China developments. But it was postponed until next week at George's request."

Senator Connally (D-Tex) chairman of the committee, is visiting in Texas and George said too many Senators had conflicting engagements which forced postponement of Acheson's report.

Social Security Plans Outlined To Congress

Administration Asks Extension Of Program To Cover Practically All Employed Persons; More Benefits

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Truman administration today asked Congress to expand the Social Security program to cover practically all employed persons — a broader extension than the House voted last year.

It also asked that benefits be increased more than the House bill provides.

These desires were outlined to the Senate finance committee by Arthur J. Altmeyer, the Social Security administrator. He was the first witness at hearings expected to last 60 days.

The committee has before it a House-passed bill which would bring an additional 11,000,000 persons under the Social Security program. About 35,000,000 now are covered.

Also, the House bill would boost monthly benefits an average of about 70 per cent to approximately 2,900,000 persons who now are receiving old-age and survivors insurance payments. Eventual payments to those not yet retired would be increased an average of 80 per cent.

Those larger benefits are fairly well in line with Mr. Truman's recommendations to the House a year ago. He asked then that protection be broadened to cover another 20,000,000 people—9,000,000 more than the House decided to add to the rolls.

Under the House measure, there would be a payroll tax on the first $3,600 of income instead of the first $3,000 as at present. The assessment, currently 1 1/2 per cent against employer and employee, would rise gradually to 2 1/2 per cent against each by 1970.

Middle-Income Housing

A Bill Is Now In The Senate To Carry Out President's Idea For Housing Program For Middle-Income Families; A Basis For Anything Congress Does

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—President Truman asked Congress to set up a housing program for middle-income families.

There's a bill in the Senate now to carry out the idea, whether or not the Senate and House ever approve it.

But that bill will be the basis for anything Congress does on middle-income housing.

This story will try to explain what the bill would do if it became law, but only in outline, not in full detail.

The senators sponsoring the bill say that by middle income families, they mean people with income between $2,400 and $4,700.

This doesn't mean that anyone making more than $4,700—say $6,000—couldn't get housing under the program. For example:

A group of people, perhaps in an American Legion post, get together. Most of them make $2,400-$4,700. Some make more.

Stockholders Of State Bank Meet

Nineteenth Annual Meeting; Directors Elected

Stockholders of State Bank and Trust Co. held their 19th annual meeting in the City Hall at 10 o'clock this morning.

Present in person and those holding proxies accounted for a large proportion of the bank's outstanding capital stock of 1,000 shares. The meeting was called to order and presided over by President B. B. Sugg who in general terms outlined the bank's past year of operations and activities. The past economy of our section as well as a look into its future were also discussed by President Sugg.

Cashier John Mitchell reported that while earnings during the past year were slightly lower than for the previous year they still remained at a satisfactory level in that the year had shown earnings slightly in excess of $25,000 per share. Of this amount $8,000 or eight per cent was paid to stockholders in dividends and approximately $17,000 added to undivided profits. Stockholders' attention was also called to the fact that during the year $97,000 had been added to surplus, giving the bank at the close of the year a capital of $100,000, surplus $200,000 and undivided profits in excess of $50,000. It was further stated that while no accurate forecast of the present year's earnings could be made, present prospects indicated that operations for the year 1950 should be about in line with those of the past year.

Armaments King Of Germany Dies

Gustav Krupp, Head Of Big Arms Industry, Dead

Salzburg, Austria, Jan. 17 (AP)—Gustav Krupp, the German armaments king who built "Big Bertha" in World War I and even more deadly guns for Hitler in World War II, is dead.

The 79-year-old head of one of the world's most tremendous arms industries died at his family estate here yesterday. His full name was Gustav Krupp von Bohlen and Halbach.

The aged industrialist had been partially paralyzed since the war and escaped trial as a Nazi war criminal because he was too ailing and senile. Allied doctors, at the time the Nurnberg trials commenced in 1945, said Krupp was suffering from softening of the brain.

He died in a small cottage on the grounds of his huge estate, Schloss Bliehhahn, the rest of which is now a recreation center for American occupation troops in Austria.

Born Gustav Halbach in the Hague, Holland, he married Bertha Krupp when he was 36 and was named the right to assume the Halbach by Kaiser Wilhelm II, who attended the wedding. Bertha was then heiress to the vast Krupp interests and was one of the wealthiest women in the world.

Thus, the son of an American-born German diplomat married into and became the successful head of a network of holdings which at their peak were estimated to be worth from $200,000,000 to $1,000,000,000.

County's Potato Allotments Issued

Irish potato allotments are being mailed today to farmers of the county by the Production Marketing Association, it was announced by Wyatt Highsmith, secretary of the Association.

The PMA acreage under cultivation at the present time is 462.7. Highsmith said that the farm operator who has no interest in a farm with an allotment on it can plant 2.9 acres in potatoes. However, he said, any person who doesn't plant within the allotment acreage cannot be eligible for price supports on the crop.

Full Recognition For Israel From Belgium

Brussels, Jan. 17 (AP)—Belgium has accorded full recognition to Israel, a Foreign office communique announced last night. The Belgian official representation in Israel will be raised to the rank of legation, staffed by an extraordinary envoy and a Minister Plenipotentiary. Israel will create a similar post in Brussels.

Potential Unrest Over Rich Saar Claims Growing

France Tries Lease Coal Mines; Adenauer In 'Disagreement'

Berlin, Jan. 17 (AP)—Potential German unrest over the Saar loomed larger today as both France and West Germany stubbornly claimed special rights over the coal-rich border area.

France, occupying the 738-square-mile area and holding special trade and economic privileges there, is reportedly seeking to lease the Saar's valuable coal mines for 50 years.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer told a news conference yesterday he disagreed with French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman on "many points" including French coal rights in the Saar. The Saar and its coal mines belongs to West Germany, he declared.

The question of future control of the Saar, raised during Schuman's so-called goodwill visit to Germany, has brought into the open old bitterness between France and Germany. And it fanned the propaganda war between East and West Germany.

It had repercussions in London where sources close to the British government said the proposal to lease Saar coal mines to the French might "prejudice" the German peace treaty when it is finally written.

The East-West propaganda battle for support of the German population was marked yesterday by the nicely-timed Russian announcement that the Soviets were giving up control of East zone concentration camps where an estimated 30,000 Germans are held. Gen. Vasily Chuikov, chief of the Soviet control commission, said 15,000 prisoners will be freed immediately and 14,000 others turned over to East German authorities.

But the West Germans had an effective answer to the propaganda. They pointed to the swinging gates of Sachsenhausen, Buchenwald and Bautzen camps.

The West German federal republic announced the end of all food rationing except sugar, effective March 1.

This was regarded by observers as a bitter pill for food-scarce East Germany to swallow.

U. S. Battleship Is Run Aground

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Battleship Missouri ran aground today on a mud flat known as Thimble shoals in Hampton Roads.

The big Mo, setting for the surrender of Japan, was headed out to sea on a routine run to Guantanamo, Cuba. She went aground at 8:45 a. m. (EST).

Twelve tugs failed in an attempt to pull the Missouri free. The navy said Captain W. D. Brown expected to wait until this afternoon's high tide before making another attempt to get off.

Greenville Vet Receives NSLI Dividend Check

The Veterans Administration has begun paying over two billion dollars in GI insurance dividends and awards in the first to arrive in Pitt County was mailed to Stuart C. Page, 401 East 8th Street.

Page, a veteran of three years in the army, said he knew he would be one of the first ones paid but he didn't expect it to come this early. He received a check for $203.50.

Page is married and has two children. His check came as a result of too high rates on National Service Life Insurance taken out by almost every GI during the war. The overpayment was studied by the Veterans Administration in conjunction with life insurance companies during the post-war years.

Page's serial number ended with figures 001, which on the priority basis of payments, means his was one of the first to be issued.

Marooned Autos Gingerly Driven Off Ice Sheet

Oshkosh, Wis., Jan. 17 (AP)—Hundreds of automobiles were driven gingerly off Lake Winnebago yesterday after they had been marooned overnight on a huge ice floe.

About 450 cars and 1,500 or more ice fishermen were cut off from shore Sunday when a strong wind sawed a break in the ice and created the huge floe.

The fishermen were brought to land by boat, but the automobiles remained on the floe and their drivers pondered how to retrieve them.

Then the Wisconsin Conservation department located a "bridge" of solid ice leading to shore near Chil-ton, across the lake from Oshkosh.

Car owners were notified. With a Conservation department truck leading the way. They headed their vehicles in convoys off the ice.

Big Flood Fight For Mississippi As Rivers Rise

Midwest Streams Continue To Swell; Lower Mississippi Being Readied

By the Associated Press

Impelled townsfolk sandbagged levees or fled before the rising Wabash and Ohio Rivers in southern Indiana and Illinois today. Further downstream the big Mississippi, fed by all its swollen tributaries, prepared for the biggest flood fight in 13 years.

The historic fortress city of Vincennes, Ind., expected a Wabash River crest of 28 1/2 or 29 feet Friday. But Army engineers say they may save the city from the flood waters. They say they have the manpower and equipment to hold out the river if it doesn't go above 30 feet. Volunteers helped bolster the concrete floodwall with sandbags.

But on the Illinois bank of the Ohio, and along the Wabash and Little Wabash Rivers, more families were forced from their homes.

Hundreds are homeless in Illinois, Indiana and Arkansas. About 12,000 more may become homeless on short notice in southeastern Missouri, where engineers may have to let the Mississippi River flow over the Birds Point-New Madrid floodway.

The Ohio River continued a steady rise in southern Illinois. At Rock-Isle, water covered Front Street and 40 business houses closed or moved their stocks to higher ground. About 250 of the 2,000 residents were homeless.

In the Carmi, Ill., area, the Red Cross used trucks and boats to evacuate residents of Maunie, Rising Sun, Concord and New Haven, all on the Wabash and Little Wabash. About two-thirds of the 1,450 residents of the four towns refused to leave their homes. Residents who have been evacuated are living in private homes or bus cars at Carmi.

U.S. engineers girded for the biggest fight on the lower Mississippi since 1937.

The engineers ordered personnel into an area ranging from 39 miles above Cairo, Ill., to 142 miles below. They directed the personnel to "establish headquarters, install communications and perfect organization" for a flood fight.

The river gauge at Cairo inched upward to a 55.5 foot crest expected Thursday. The river already was 14 feet above flood stage and less than five feet below the 1937 high.

The Communist budget for 1950 calls for the government to receive 41.4 per cent of its revenue from food levies. The tax scale asks peasants to surrender an average of 20 per cent of their harvest.

Even with this stiff rate a budget deficit of 18.7 percent is anticipated, by the Reds.

Inauspicious Timing

Constitution Of New Republic Of India Being Launched Under Unfavorable Conditions; Heavy Internal And External Pressures; Unwilling To Wait

By MARC PURDUE

New Delhi—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's government has rejected as superfluous the warnings of astrologers that Jan. 26, 1950 is not an auspicious date for launching the republic of India.

The government of India knows without consulting the stars that the constitution of the new republic is being launched at a most inauspicious time and under most unfavorable conditions.

The new state will come into being under heavy internal and external pressures. The problems confronting its government are complex, and solution of many of the appears impossible.

Nevertheless, India's leaders say, it's now or never. Having come this far on the freedom road, there is nothing to be gained in waiting for favorable omens.

The clouds that hang over the new nation are so heavy it is difficult to find a hopeful ray of light. Here are some of the most pressing concerns of the men who lead India.

Have No Income

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—The census bureau reported today that 3,500,000 Americans over 65 years old have no cash income at all.

This group makes up nearly one-third of the 11,000,000 persons in that age group, not counting inmates of institutions.

The bureau said the remaining 7,500,000 had a median cash income of $898—that is, half of the 7,500,000 had less than $898 income and half had more.

Acting Census Director Philip M. Hauser said the data were released today "in response to interest stimulated by the beginning of congressional hearings on legislation to extend social security benefits."

Mrs. Randolph Hostess To U.D.C.

The George B. Singletary Chapter U. D. C. met on Thursday afternoon, January 12, at the home of Mrs. J. E. Randolph, Mrs. P. E. Wells, vice president, presided. She welcomed Mrs. Irons, Dr. Irons' mother, as guest for the afternoon. A card from the Women's Confederate home thanking the chapter for the money sent at Thanksgiving and Christmas was read. A letter of thanks for the poinsettias sent to Mrs. E. W. Harvey at Christmas was read. In the absence of the secretary minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Ernest Willard. Mrs. J. G. Laurier, treasurer, and Mrs. T. Hollingsworth, historian, gave splendid reports. Mrs. R. D. Whichard, Mrs. Wells, and Mrs. Willard were appointed to get up the new year books.

This month is the anniversary of the birthdays of Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson, and Matthew Fontaine Maury. Mrs. Wells gave a most interesting program on Lee's contribution toward the reconstruction and towards education, bringing out how in his later years he turned down wealth and places of honor in service abroad to become president of Washington College, later named Washington & Lee University. Mrs. Willard gave an interesting account of the military career of Jackson. She also presented interesting facts concerning the Naval career of Maury, his scientific writings, and his geography text book. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mr. W. S. Moye was painfully burned Monday morning at his saw mill on the river at the foot of Greene street. A valve on the engine had in some way become choked and as Mr. Moye was trying to punch the obstruction out the valve suddenly cleared and a discharge of steam struck him in the face. Saturday evening the Y. W. C. A. of E. C. T. S. held a reception in their newly furnished room. A unique poetic invitation was sent to students and faculty requesting them to bring twice as many pennies as the size of their shoes. Chocolate and wafers were served. When the pennies were counted it was found the guests had no false modesty in regard to the size of their shoes.

The club members were sorry time did not permit their hearing more of Mrs. Humber's interesting trip and experiences.

Does Not Expect Conservatism To Win In Britain

By WYATT BROWN
In the face of an expected turn toward conservatism in governments throughout the world, one cannot look for it to start this election in February in Great Britain, commented Dr. Elmer Browning, chairman of the program committee, in his brief remarks to the Rotarians last night.

Prior to the program Rotary President Ercell Webb read a letter from a past district governor, Gene Booth, who is going to Tokyo on General MacArthur's staff. Rotarians Sherman Parks and Jimmy Keel plan to do their regular job of getting donations for the March of Dimes through the parking meters. Grayson Waldrop was the only guest of the club last night. Visiting Rotarians Dorsey Welch, Fred Arthur and W. Z. Kennedy of the Washington club and Walter Jones and Frank Dupree of the Farmville club attended the Greenville meeting last night. Ercell Webb, club president, presided.

Hurlburt Speaks To Delta Chapter Of Delta Kappa Gamma

Dr. Allan S. Hurlburt, head of the department of education of East Carolina Teachers College, spoke to the Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Saturday afternoon on "Teacher Welfare and Efficiency." This was the second of a year's series of programs on the theme of "Teacher Welfare as a Means of Professional Efficiency."

Dr. Hurlburt, after being introduced by Miss Agnes Fullilove, principal of Third Street school, began his talk by pointing out that welfare and security might well be discussed as one, and raising the question of the relation between teacher preparation and teacher "security."

Citing the seven areas of preparation necessary for a teacher listed by Dr. Dennis Cooke, former president of East Carolina Teachers College, in one of his books, Dr. Hurlburt suggested that preparation in all of those areas must take care of the question of security. The speaker then discussed in a very practical manner such means of developing efficiency as gaining security from "knowing what one is supposed to do," from increasing the ability of teachers and administrators to supplement each other in joint effort and on a basis of equality, from knowing what should be expected of one and what tasks one should ignore, and from knowing what teachers below and above in the system are doing and where one's own work fits in.

Britain's Labor Leaders Refuse Coalition Move

London, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Britain's Labor government leaders got off to a head start in their campaign for re-election last night, declaring they would never agree to a coalition with Winston Churchill's Conservatives. Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison said the Feb. 23 election brings a "straight choice between a Labor government and a Conservative government."

There has been newspaper speculation that a coalition government might be formed to bring Britain through her economic crisis if neither party rolled up a substantial majority in the election. "A two-party coalition would not work," Morrison told followers at his constituency in Lewisham, a working-class section of London, "and labor would never agree to one."

New Claims For Damages Filed On Lewis, Union

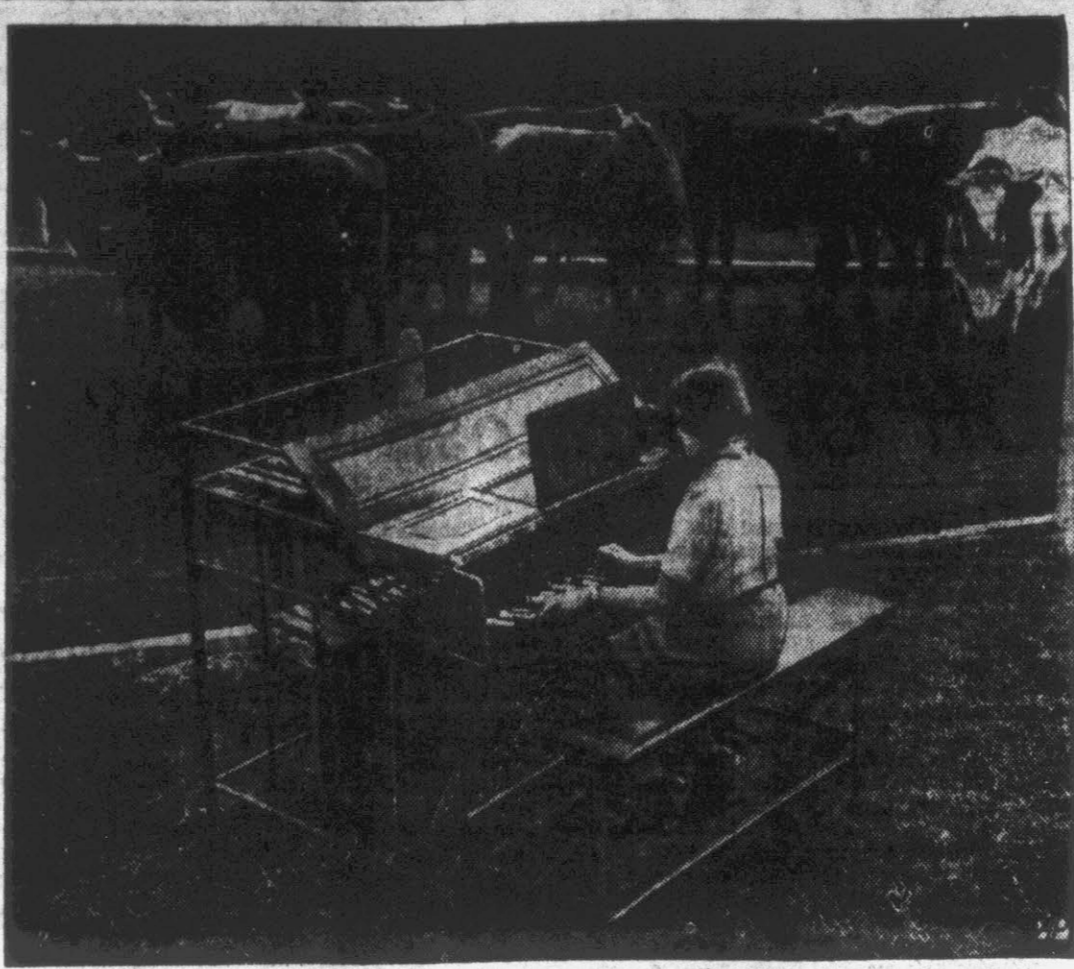

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 17.—(AP)—John L. Lewis and fellow officials of the United Mine Workers today faced new claims for damages resulting from their three-day work week in coal mines. They are charged in a federal court suit here with attempting to restrain trade and commerce "unlawfully and maliciously."

The plaintiffs, four Harlan county mine operators, seek damages totaling $177,450. Lewis and the UMW recently were sued for more than $8,000,000 in Pennsylvania along similar lines. The mine operators filing the Lexington suit were the Harlan Wallins Coal Corp., Kentucky-Jellico Coal Corp., Dixie Darby Fuel Co., and the Crech Coal Co.

Rape Hearing To Be Held Friday

A preliminary hearing of an alleged rape case involving Walter Wade Carson of the Bethel community and a Bethel girl will be held in Greenville Recorder's Court before Judge J. W. H. Youth Rally Held Here Last Night

Nearly two hundred boys and girls from all over Pitt County gathered at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church last night to take part in a youth rally sponsored by the local church youth fellowship group.

The meeting was opened by a worship service which was under the direction of Rodney Fulcher and Mary Ann Waldrop. The worship service used the theme of "Ye are the Light of the World."

Following the worship service, a business session was held, with president of the district, Rodney Fulcher, presiding.

The group discussed the matter of summer camps at Camp Don Lee and Laurinburg. Spiritual singing in which the group took part was led by Francis Sigman.

After the business session the group retired to the auditorium, where they took part in various games, and were served refreshments.

The meeting was closed by group singing in the main church auditorium and a prayer led by Rodney Fulcher.

The next meeting of the sub-district group will be held in Grimesland on the third Monday of next month. The officers of the groups are: President, Rodney Fulcher, Greenville; vice-president, Sue Jackson, Ayden; secretary, Jean Flora, Farmville; treasurer, Robert Wilson, Grimesland.

Towns which were represented last night were Ayden, Grimesland, Providence, Simpson, Wainstonburg, Wesley, Whorton and Greenville.

Farley Speaks At Lions' Meet

Members of the Greenville Lions Club last night went on record as favoring active support for the Greenville high school athletic teams during the current basketball season, baseball season, and the whole of next year.

Coach Boley Farley of Greenville high school was the main speaker of the night at the regular monthly supper meeting of the Greenville Lions Club which was held in the Greenville Woman's Club.

Farley spoke on the athletic program in Greenville and stated that the high school players are now "the only true amateurs in sports." The Greenville coach told the assembled group about the sports program at the high school, the operating cost, and the funds which have been taken in by gate receipts. No state funds are used in sports programs.

The gray haired mentor asked for support of the civic club at the games which are played by the local teams.

In citing a few facts, Farley told the men that the amount of money which could be spent to buy new equipment was determined largely by the receipts taken in on football games. Somewhere around $1,800 was taken in during the past school football season, which was what Farley termed "a poor season." Over $3,000 has been paid out this year, he said.

The one high spot of last season, Farley stated, was the fact that the local football team was the winner of the coveted sportsmanship trophy which is presented each year to the best sportsman among the Northeastern Conference teams.

"Greenville is greatly in need of a new auditorium adequate to handle the needs of the growing city," the coach stated. He pointed out that there are two basketball teams now practicing in a building where the space is limited. Farley said that the basketball teams being coached by Coach Bill Kittler are forced to practice in the Armory building where they have use of only one goal and a small practice area.

Farley struck an optimistic note when he told the Lions that he believed "that the prospects Greenville high school would have winning teams in the various fields of sports next year were better than they have been since the war." "We will have more of a nucleus to work from, as we have given many of the boys who will compose next year's teams valuable experience this year. I think that we will be on the top or near the top of the standings next year," Coach Farley said.

Farley further said that many people now have the idea that the sports program in the high school is playing too big a part in the life of the students but if we use a "little common sense" the sports can be carried on. Following the talk by the popular coach, who received a big hand from the members of the club, Principal O. E. Dowd told the Lions that the athletic program in Greenville high school in the coming years will depend largely on the number of season tickets which are sold at the start of the season.

Dowd told of the poor attendance for the school games.

The Lions Club then discussed the support of the local teams in the coming year, and it was announced that the club will take further action along these lines at the next meeting.

The meeting was presided over by President Ernulf Willis.

The Lions also were told of the Melvin Douglas Celebration which will be held in Goldsboro this week.

Coroner's Jury Finds Death Due To Carelessness

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. House reported today that a coroner's jury held last night in the Ayden City Hall found that James Henry Little, Negro, 21, who was killed in an automobile accident on January 8 near Ayden, came to his death as the result of his own carelessness and recklessness.

According to testimony given by Patrolman R. C. Holt of Ayden, the car driven by Little side-swiped a truck on a highway between Ayden and Shuffleton, and then traveled down the highway, turning over and nearly demolishing the car.

Two passengers in the car with Little at the time of the accident were injured and taken to the hospital where they were treated.

The coroner's jury agreed that the driver of the truck was in no way to blame for the accident.

Furniture Exhibits Hint At Colorful Life In Home

Chicago, Jan. 17—(AP)—Judging from exhibits at the annual home furnishings show, you're going to live a colorful life in the future.

Color—loud and lavish use of it—keynotes most of the exhibits, but particularly the modern ones. Gone are the monotonous tones in furnishings, even among the traditional type of furniture.

Magentas, reds, blues, greys, yellows in great profusion strew the exhibits.

Designers are using colors with an increasingly free hand to soften the lines of modern functional furniture, and to "create the illusion of space" in apartment living.

Dorothy Noyes, New York designer, put it this way: "Our modern living has become so complex, so slightly integrated, that we unconsciously seek space and simplicity in our homes. It's a relief, perhaps, but it's there.

"The designer is following this trend. He is conceiving of the whole house as a unit, from the floor right up the walls, including the furniture on the way.

"We're getting away from the monumental and going to the simple."

Traditional pieces such as Sheraton, Chippendale, and Hepplewhite have not dropped out of the picture, however. Far from it; the bulk of sales at this furniture market are in the more conventional piece.

But even here are exhibited fabrics in strong colors, as well as adaptations dictated by the scale of apartment and small house living. For example, one firm is showing a "clove chair" in Robin Hood green. This essentially is a compromise between a love seat and a wing-back chair of the 18th century.

But its covering is a bold floral design with somewhat startling although tasteful lines.

Prankster Ties Up Big Airport

Chicago, Jan. 17—(AP)—Plane traffic over Chicago's busy Midway (Municipal) Airport came to a standstill last night while a capering prankster ruefully learned that he could not take off in a gasoline truck.

The prankster gave his name as Charles Martin, 23. He told police he had been drinking. No charge was placed against him immediately.

Control tower officials first saw an Eastern Airlines gasoline truck crash into the wingtip of an American Airlines plane that had just landed from Washington.

They called the police and fire department. When they arrived, Martin revved up the truck and raced down a main runway. But he had 3,000 gallons of 100 octane gas aboard and no wings, so he failed to get off the ground. He doubled back on another runway and finally came to a stop with police and firemen in fast pursuit.

While the chase was on, two airliners circled the airport waiting for clearance so they could land.

Incubators Used For Baby Plants

DAVIS, Calif.—(AP)—Test-tube incubators are being used here to nurse delicate young hybrid plants through their earliest stage. Many hybrid embryos die easily in the first generation. Dr. Paul G. He keeps the embryo seedlings in warm test-tubes.

Veterans Groups Rap Va. Change

Washington, Jan. 17—(AP)—Four major veteran organizations today attacked as "unjust and ill-advised" changes in the work of the Veterans Administration recommended by a commission headed by former President Hoover.

The national commanders of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans and Amvets said that the proposed transfer of some VA functions to other government agencies would increase red tape and destroy veterans' benefits.

In a joint statement prepared for the House Veterans Affairs Committee they said: "If carried into effect these recommendations would disrupt the Veterans Administration, a one-stop service agency, and replace it with new bureaus which would mean more grief for the veteran and most cost for the taxpayer. "We believe that every legitimate savings in the veterans' program can and must be effected within the framework of the Veterans Administration."

Arrest Officials In Bribe Roundup

Tokyo, Jan. 17—(AP)—Japanese police said today they have arrested 43 government officials on suspicion of bribery.

All are members of the "closed institutions liquidating commission," charged with selling assets of government agencies that went out of business at the end of the war. Three thousand detectives were used in a two year investigation of the agency's activities. Police said commission employees were wined, dined and bribed by brokers and industrialists for preference in the sale of goods.

Properties under the commission's jurisdiction were valued at 200,000,000 yen ($363,000). The 43 arrested men were section chiefs, accused of pocketing 20,000,000 yen ($35,000). Among its 1,200 employees the commission had only 75 section chiefs.

Holdup Attempt Fatal To Writer

Los Angeles, Jan. 17—(AP)—"Wait a minute. I think I hear a hold-up going on."

Thus a former naval lieutenant interrupted a telephone conversation with his wife last night. The ex-officer, Arthur Drake, 26, reached for a gun he kept in the kitchen of his father's drive-in.

He strode to the front part of the cafe. A man held a gun pointed at his brother, Harland Drake.

Growled Arthur: "I've got a gun too. Now who shoots first." The holdup man whirled. Both guns blazed. Both men fell. The intruder was dead.

Drake, a bullet wound in his side, was taken to a hospital and later pronounced out of danger. Police identified the dead man as Franklin George Debendier, 31. Debendier's stunned wife, Marie, officers he was a successful writer.

Refraction Part Of Survey Woes

DENVER—(AP)—Measuring mountains from New Mexico to the Canadian border, plus Alaska, is part of the job of the people who work under the U.S. Geological survey's Rocky Mountain Regional Engineer Robert O. Davis. Davis admits that some of the present figures may be off a few feet.

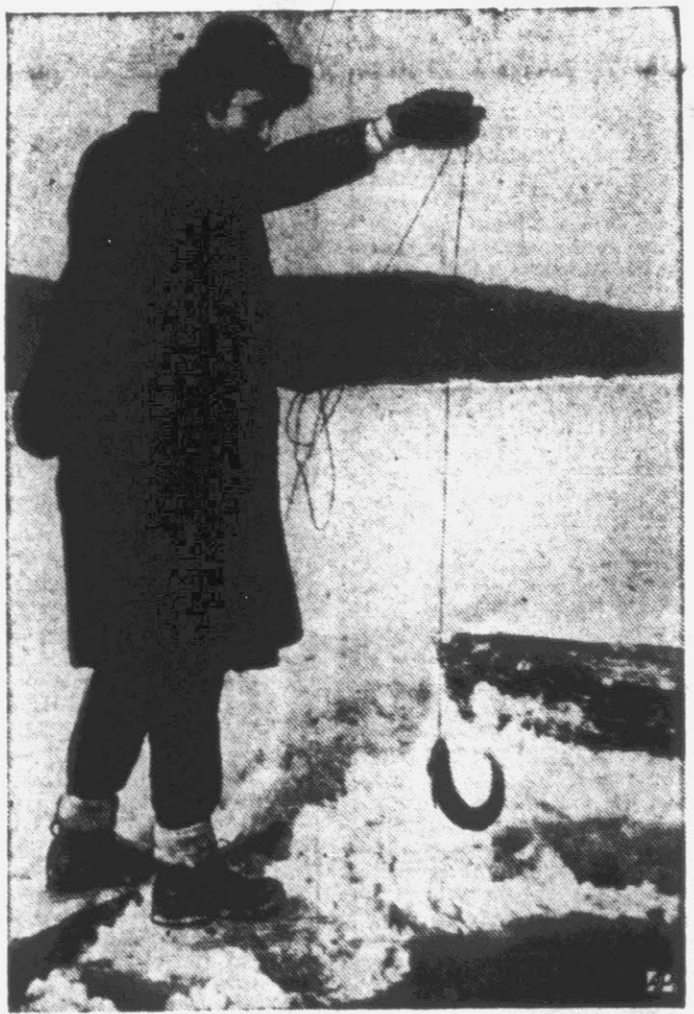

The principal reason for errors is the refraction of sight, caused by the varying densities of the atmosphere. The Denver office of the geological survey is planning an experiment to try to correct for this curvature.

One field party will work from the top of a mountain and another from the base. Using portable radios, both parties will take readings at exactly the same minute, and thus corrections can be made for refraction. It has to be done this way because changes in the atmosphere can change the degree of refraction in as little as an hour.

Father Cleared In Child's Death

Hobgood, N.C., Jan. 17—(AP)—A Halifax County father has been absolved of any blame in the death of his four-year-old daughter under the wheels of his car.

Forrestal Bust Order Is Placed

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The son of the late Kyoosi Kallio, president of Finland from 1937 to 1940, has won a commission to execute a bronze bust of the late James Forrestal, first secretary of defense.

The sculptor, Kalevo Kallio, won by submitting a plaster model in an open competition. His bust was the unanimous choice of the award committee. The Forrestal Memorial Committee, of which Defense Secretary Johnson is chairman, will pay $5,000 for the bust. It will be erected at one of the entrances to the Pentagon.

Plan Final Rites For Gen. Arnold

Sonoma, Calif., Jan. 17—(AP)—Friends and neighbors paid their respects today to Gen. H. H. (Hap) Arnold.

The 63-year-old wartime head of the Army Air Force died Sunday. While his body lay in state, an Air Force honor guard standing watch, public memorial services were to be held in the chapel of the Bates and Evans Mortuary.

From President Truman on down, the nation's leaders expressed sorrow at the passing of the retired five star General.

After the noon services, the body was to be taken to nearby Hamilton Field and flown to Washington. General Arnold's body will be placed in the chapel at Fort Myer, Va. Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. (EST) Thursday at Arlington National cemetery.

President Truman, who expects to attend the services for the pioneer military aviator, sent his own plane here to take members of the Arnold family to Washington.

Honeymoon Spent Locked In Cabin As A Stowaway

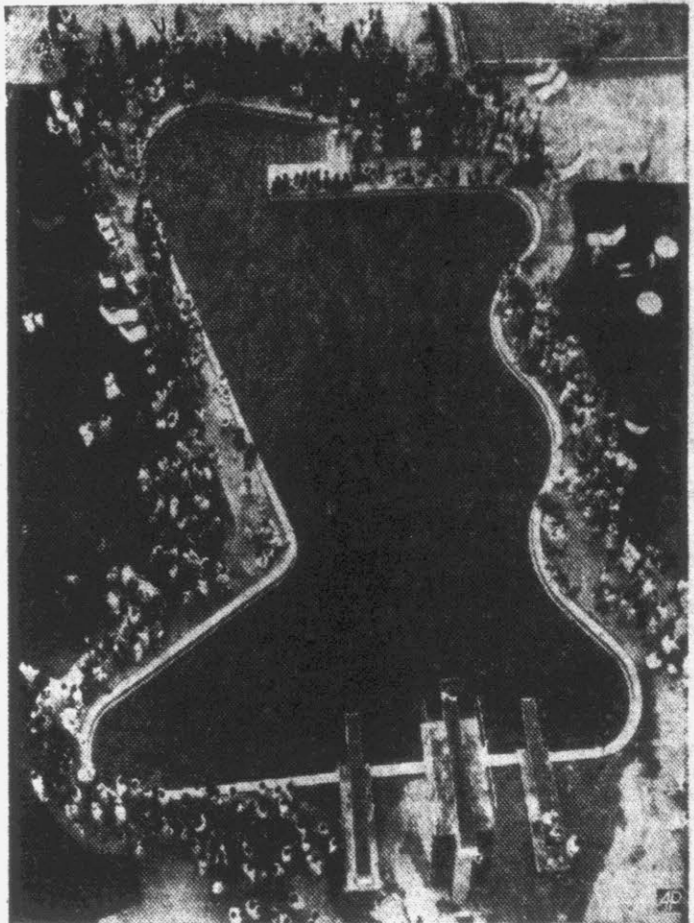

COPENHAGEN—(AP)—How would you like to spend six months of your honeymoon locked up in a cabin as a stowaway? That's how a 23-year-old Danish girl spent it. She just returned to Denmark after having visited—but not seen—the Panama Canal, Puerto Rico and Chile together with her husband, a greaser aboard a Danish freighter.

None of the officers aboard knew anything about the romance sheltered by their ship, and will never know, if the sailor and his wife can keep their identity a secret. Six months ago the newly wed woman visited her husband aboard the ship at Frederikshaven on the east coast of Jutland. She overslept and did not wake up until the ship was at sea.

Soon the whole crew knew about the stowaway. They fed her and she darned their socks.

Strength FOR THE DAY HOLD TIGHT TO YOUR CHAIR You had better, for you are about to read some alarming statements given out within the past three years by Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Here is the first one: "We are nearer to the days of gang control than we were a year after World War I." The impression conveyed some years ago was that if prohibition could be done away with, gangsterism would vanish. There must have been a slip-up somewhere. Here is Mr. Hoover's second statement: "An estimated total of 1,666,110 serious crimes were committed in the United States in 1947, or one every 18.9 seconds. With the passing of each hour, on the average twelve persons were raped, feloniously assaulted, or killed; and during the same period, 49 others were robbed or had their places burglarized, while the cars of 21 others were stolen. In addition there were 106 miscellaneous larcenies committed every average hour."

What about these unrealistic persons who tell us that education can save the world? The schools today are jammed to the doors, and never in human history has scientific knowledge risen to such heights. The trouble is that there is something the matter with men's souls, and the cure for that is not medicine but religious faith. IT MAY BE THE SHUTDOWN During the past decade the people of the nation have become accustomed to most of the country's miners staying away from the pits at a mere suggestion from their Czar John L. Lewis. But yesterday brought a new twist to the pattern as 60,000 miners failed to heed Lewis' suggestion that they return to work.

Although it may be a whim of the miners to stay out a few extra days following the one-week strike, it may on the other hand be the real beginning of a movement of the rank and file UMW members to get from under the iron hand of Lewis. Indications are the miners have had quite enough of the three day work week which Lewis ordered, and yesterday's action may mean the members themselves are seeking government intervention which will return the mines to full operation and restore the miners' deflated pay envelopes to their normal plumpness. From the miners' point of view, the three day work week has caused them to drop from their position as the highest paid American workers to the mediocre brackets as far as take home pay is concerned. As long as mines continue to operate on a three-day work week, the coal stocks will remain at a level high enough to keep President Truman holding the line for his political playmates, the union chiefs, by not restoring the mines to full operations as he may do under the powers granted by the Taft-Hartley law.

The rank and file union members have been unable to force the hand of Lewis in order to return to a full work week and earn enough money to feed their families and keep their homes comfortable. If they have in mind restoring the coal pits to full operation by creating a national emergency, they may well be able to force President Truman to invoke the back-to-work order they have failed to get from Lewis. President Truman for a long time has been holding out against the general public to promote the cause of the union leaders. If the miners have in mind the forceful return to full scale operations and a full week's pay, the president may soon be holding out against the rank and file miners as well as the general public to foster the selfish interest of the union leaders and assure himself the support of their ward heelers in the political battles to come.

AROUND CAPITOL SQUARE SURROUNDED—North Carolina is surrounded this week by important legislative doings, although interest in our own state is largely centered on what will happen during the 1951 session. Virginia's general assembly is in session and on Wednesday Governor John Battle will be inaugurated, to succeed Governor William Tucker. The Battle inaugural address is expected to chart the course of a four year administration. The South Carolina legislature convened last week, but postponed until Wednesday the message of Governor Strom Thurmond. The Tennessee legislature is also in session, struggling with common problems of meeting demands for more state services and less state taxes. Legislative sessions in Tennessee and Virginia will probably prevent Governors Battle and Browning from attending the regional Democratic conference in Raleigh on January 28. The legislature won't keep Governor Thurmond away—he wasn't invited. REORGANIZATION—The big issue in South Carolina is reorganization of state government agencies and fiscal policies. There is strong sentiment for consolidation of several agencies into one unified board of control, and there is the usual controversy over advisability of a state sales tax. Information reaching Raleigh is that North Carolina's budget system, centralized purchasing, institutional consolidation and sales tax experience is being used to considerable extent as model for the South Carolina reorganization. Experience records have been studied and many of the features which have proven good are being proposed to South Carolina, while some of those which have not worked out so well will not be considered. EXPERIENCE—North Carolina has drawn upon experience of other states in setting up new programs or revising existing policies, and South Carolina's operation of school house insurance served to some extent as a pattern when North Carolina went into that field last summer. ELECTIONS—The way elections are "staggered" in the several states, and among municipalities to within the states, lives fully up to constitutional provision that elections should be frequent. While Virginia has no statewide election this year, the governor having been elected in 1949—one of the few states with odd-year election dates—and no senatorial term expiring, there will be the usual number of congressmen to elect. Tennessee has no statewide election for similar reasons. South Carolina will elect a governor and a senator, as well as representatives in congress and many local officials. North Carolina will, for first time in history, elect by popular vote two

Somebody Told Me... By L. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

There's an Italian movie going around that has taken the American public by storm. "The Bicycle Thief" tells a simple, heartbreaking story that might have come right off the streets of Rome. An unemployed workman gets a job which requires a bicycle. He pawns the family bedsheet to get his bike out of hock, loses it to a thief, and falls in a desperate chase to get it back. Strangely enough, for the leading role a real workman, Lamberto Maggiorani, was chosen. Last week, while Americans were waiting in line to see the movie, Maggiorani was in an unheated flat near Rome, playing the role of the worker all over again. But this time it was even more realistic than the movie had made it. Maggiorani's own story began in the spring of 1948, when his wife pushed him into the movie. With a snapshot of their 10-year-old son Enrico, she answered a call at the Italian studio for a small boy. Maggiorani was in the snapshot too, and the movie people liked his looks for the role of Antonio. He didn't like the idea too well. For 16 years he had worked as a machinist and the job was good enough to support his wife and three children. "A steady job," he said, "is better than all the quick riches in the world." But his wife begged, so he put on his only good suit and joined 20 other applicants at the studio and got the role. For three months a black limousine picked him up

United States senators and an insurance commissioner, as well as several judges on statewide basis. The insurance commissioner election will be for the remaining two years of the term, and one senator will be for remaining four years of the term. CANDIDATES—Over the weekend James F. Byrnes of Spartanburg announced his candidacy for governor of South Carolina, and Senator Olin D. Johnston announced he would seek to succeed himself in the senate from the Palmetto State. The Byrnes candidacy is intriguing and has all the elements of pure politics on high plane, with significant implications of state sovereignty. Senator Frank Graham, appointed by Governor Scott upon death of Senator J. M. Broughton, has announced his candidacy for election to the term which ends in January, 1953. William F. Hodges, has announced his candidacy for election to the remainder of the term which ends in January, 1953. To date none of these candidates have avowed opposition of great importance, although it is almost certain there will be necessity for primary voting in every instance. And in both North Carolina and South Carolina the issues will probably involve about equal proportions of personal appeal and political philosophy.

every day and took him to work. For the job he got $1,000. With the money he bought the new dining-room furniture that his wife had always wanted, new clothes for the entire family, and a family holiday in Florence. After that, he went back to his old job, and the factory gave him a medal. Then the factory laid off 350 employees, and the manager called in Maggiorani. "Your companions are grumbling," he said. "They claim you made millions for the movie. It's not fair to fire them and keep you." So Maggiorani was fired. His wife told him not to worry. "Just tell the movie company that you want to make another picture," she suggested. Last summer he managed to get 17 days' work in a minor movie role. Then the family lived closely on what little was left of his "millions." Last month the landlord posted an eviction notice on their 3-room flat just as Maggiorani was starting a temporary job as a bricklayer at $2 a day. Would the studio give him a regular job? No, but they would use him as a prop man in the next movie. They said they didn't think he had any future as an actor, except occasionally in a workman's role. They said he should go on with his regular job. Then news of Maggiorani's fate got to America, where we like to see a happy ending. New York's Italian-language radio station WOV cabled its Rome studio to hire Maggiorani as an apprentice recording technician, and perhaps give him work as an actor. While his wife held out for a real acting job, he seriously considered the offer. And I thank you.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE New York—(P)—Look backward 50 years—look forward 50 years—and which period would you rather live in? The right answer to that lies in what kind of a world is being made right now, from day to day and year to year. But as the century rolls into its fifth year many elderly people are doubtful that life today holds as much fun or security as it did between 1900 and 1910. My sister is one of these. "I think young people today have a much harder time of it than we did when I was a girl," she told me. This surprised me, as it is more customary for her contemporaries to complain that this is a lazy pleasure-seeking generation. I asked her why she thought as she did. And her answer surprised me even more. "Well, we didn't have all the labor-saving things around the home that young wives do now," she said. "But I think we had more real zest for living. They say they have found the subway no real improvement over the horse car. And they are even more certain that picnics and hayrides held more social enjoyment than an evening at the movies. "We used to entertain ourselves," they said. "We didn't look to others to entertain us so much." Some of this fun and feeling of security is probably just the glamor that memory usually throws over the past. But there is also undoubtedly a hard kernel of truth in these reminiscences. In the world of 1900 to 1914 America was a young self-confident giant just realizing his power, certain he could stand alone and whip all comers because he had always done so. But in the world of 1950 America is a middle-aged giant, even stronger in adulthood, but realizing now the responsibility of his power—and that he doesn't stand alone. Security in 1900 for the average American meant a home, a job with opportunity for advancement, and a chance to educate his children. He had no real fears of foreign armies ever invading his homeland and held only a vague contempt for Europe because it was always getting itself mixed up in battles. Today the age-old insecurity caused by poverty and unemployment has been reduced in the United States by a half century of social progress unknown before in history. But the new insecurity created by two world wars has increased tenfold. The shadow of the atom bomb hangs as heavily over the American home as it does over the Russian. A man can't be entirely happy merely because his children have more food and better schooling—if he fears they will live not by peace but by the sword. Germany under National socialism

Young Mother Has Come Out Of Horrible Dream

Newark, N.J., Jan. 17—(AP)—State psychiatrists say a pretty, 23-year-old mother has come out of a long, horrible dream caused by the birth of her daughter.

While still in that dream world, called a post partum (after childbirth) psychosis, Mrs. Jacqueline Marie Steinhauer was accused of killing her father by hacking him 81 times with a Boy Scout hatchet.

Yesterday Essex County Judge Joseph E. Conlon set aside a murder indictment against Mrs. Steinhauer on the advice of six psychiatrists and Assistant County Prosecutor Edward Gaultkin.

They said she now is "completely recovered" and recommended her discharge from Trenton State Hospital for the insane.

Mrs. Steinhauer has no recollection of the bloody scene in the kitchen of her home last year that ended in the death of her father, Edward A. McMahon, the state psychiatrists testified.

The doctors said her mental illness was caused by the birth of her daughter, Barbara Anne, last May. She suffered a type of amnesia from that time until she became aware of "waking up in the state hospital" after electric shock treatments, they said.

In setting aside the indictment, Judge Conlon said if Mrs. Steinhauer were entitled to acquittal on the ground that she was legally insane at the time of the slaying.

Pegged Pants In Centers 'Taboo'

Baltimore, Jan. 17—(AP)—If your pants are zoot you get the boot.

Pegged pants, it seems, are strictly taboo at some Baltimore recreation centers. And teen-agers who sport the too-tight trousers are setting up a howl—with some support from the older generation.

It's known as the ruler treatment. Show up with trousers that are less than 17 inches around at the cuffs, and out you go. No dancing for cut-down pants fanciers.

The measure (no pun intended) was brought to the attention of the City Council by Mrs. M. J. Greeley. She claims it's driving teen-agers into the streets.

She told the council in a letter that one youth was barred from a city recreation center because of "the width of his trousers and the cut of his coat."

His pants, she said, had been knocked down to less than 17 inches. Other measurements on the sootometer, according to teenagers, are "semi-drape" (16) and "really it" (14).

Harold S. Callowhill, superintendent of the Recreation Bureau, admitted that the ruler treatment was being used at some centers at the request of youngsters there. "Extreme dress is permissible in other centers where such a dress is customary in the neighborhood," he said.

Extreme dress, he said, leads to poor behavior.

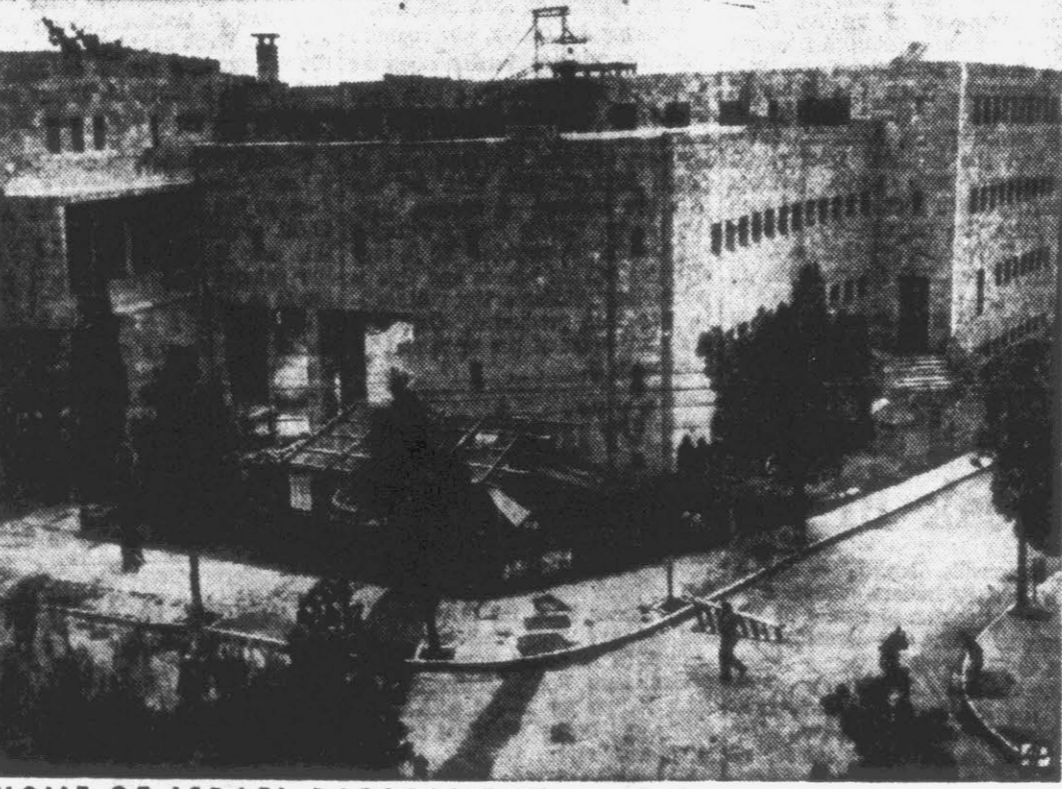

4-Point Program

Pensacola, Fla., Jan. 17—(AP)—Recent disputes among the armed services have brought about a new program of public relations for the Navy.

Assistant Secretary of Air John Floberg laid down this four point program for Navy men at a public relations conference here yesterday:

1. Don't try to deceive.
2. Be an enthusiast but be careful.
3. Don't exaggerate.
4. Don't belittle your competitors.

About 100 reservists who work in various newspaper and radio fields are attending the conference. They are here for two weeks of active duty.

Expects Drop In Corporate Taxes

Raleigh, N.C., Jan. 17—(AP)—Revenue Commissioner Eugene Shaw is expecting corporate income tax collections for this fiscal year to be off from last year by "substantially more than 30 per cent."

That is what Shaw reported to the Advisory Budget Commission yesterday.

He pointed out that the legislature expected the corporate income tax collection to be off about $9,000,000 from last year when it prepared this year's budget, but he said he expected the drop will be "far in excess of the estimate."

The decline in collections from corporations may be offset to some extent by an increase in returns from the individual income levy, Shaw said. He pointed out that the collections from this source ran about 20 per cent ahead of last year during the first six months of the fiscal year.

Shaw reported that collections from the sales tax, which along with the income tax is the major general fund revenue source, were off about 2.8 per cent during the first six months of the fiscal year but were up about 2.3 per cent in December.

Army Moving To Non-Segregation

Washington, Jan. 17—(AP)—The Army, saying it is moving gradually toward equal treatment and opportunity in its ranks, has widened the promotion ladder for Negro soldiers.

Top commanders at home and abroad are under orders direct from the pentagon to assign trained Negroes to 40 specialties, including some combat jobs.

"This is no eyewash," the Army's personnel chief said yesterday in discussing the new order from Secretary Gray, "and any commander who does not carry out the spirit of the instructions is in for a bad time."

Lt. Gen. E. H. Brooks, personnel and administration chief, said the order means more Negroes will be assigned to hitherto all-white units, including some combat type units.

"It does point to the day when there will be no exclusively white or Negro units," he said.

Officials said the order is a further step toward carrying out President Truman's directive of July 26, 1948 equality in the armed services.

Kiwanis Plans For Anniversary

Members of the Kiwanis Club of Greenville will celebrate the 35th anniversary of Kiwanis International this week.

Tige Gardner, president of the club, said today that plans for the anniversary meeting, which will be held Friday evening, Jan. 20th, at the Rotary Building, had been virtually completed.

The program, according to Gardner, will be based on the community service organization's 1950 administrative theme, "Aggressive Citizenship—Safeguard of Freedom."

The Greenville club will join with more than 3,000 others in observing the week throughout the United States, Canada, Alaska, Hawaii and the Yukon Territory. Some 300 clubs in cities having radio stations have arranged special broadcasts, while approximately 35 other clubs will participate in television programs.

A feature of the Greenville club's observance will be the reading of a message from J. Hugh Jackson, dean of the graduate school of business at Stanford University and president of Kiwanis International.

Plans for the next week's meeting are under the direction of the Committee on Education and Fellowship of which Dr. John D. Messick is chairman.

Kiwanis was established in Detroit January 21, 1915. It now embraces more than 200,000 business and professional leaders.

Now Our Turn To Help Foundation

Raleigh, N.C., Jan. 17—(AP)—Governor Scott got the March of Dimes drive off to a start last night by asserting that "it is now our turn to help those who helped us."

During the 1948 polio epidemic when North Carolina had 2,500 cases, more than 90 per cent of those afflicted received full or partial help from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, he said.

And because of follow-up treatment last year, "North Carolina found it necessary to ask for and received more money from the National Foundation last year than any other state, except California," he added.

The state's March of Dimes goal is $1,000,000, and Governor Scott said he thought this could be attained.

Over $33 Million In N.C. Hospitals

Raleigh, N.C., Jan. 17—(AP)—A total of $33,127,945 in federal state and local funds has been obligated for North Carolina's hospital construction program.

The Medical Care Commission said yesterday it expected this to grow to $38,000,000 by June 30 and to $50,000,000 by June 30 of 1951.

Congress has pledged funds to keep the program going through 1955.

Of some 68 hospital projects under construction in the state, two have been completed, a 42-bed Roanoke-Chowan hospital and the 20-bed Pungo district hospital at Belhaven.

Still Undecided On College Head

Charlotte, N.C., Jan. 16—(AP)—The chairman of a committee charged with nominating a new president of Wake Forest College says the group is considering 25 or 30 names but has not decided on a definite choice.

Dr. C. C. Warren, pastor of the First Baptist Church here, added "We have no time limit upon us and we feel that the job is too important to attempt to rush it." He said that newspaper stories last Saturday quoting the Raleigh News and Observer as saying the presidency had in effect been offered to Dr. George Modlin, now president of the University of Richmond, were erroneous.

Dr. Thurman D. Kitchin, president of Wake Forest, has resigned effective the end of the school year. But Dr. Warren quoted him as saying he would serve until a successor is chosen.

Five Breakfasts For Prisoner

Southport, Jan. 16—(AP)—The lone prisoner in Brunswick county's wide-open jail today had four extra breakfasts served to him.

The service was more or less accidental. Thomas Field, Negro, being held in the jail in an estate wrangle, was the only prisoner left when Jailer G. D. Robinson went to the five prisoners he had left there the night before with their morning meals.

Four white men had escaped during the night, Robinson reported.

Chapter 14

Outwardly, Valse gave no indication of his intention. He sat around with the others, while the dusk deepened and stars made a pattern of thin gold dust scattered across the sky.

When they prepared for bed, and the lights went out, he did the same. When his ears assured him that they were all asleep, he slipped from his bunk, crossed to the door, and let himself out, stopping outside to pull on his boots.

Valse saddled a horse and rode away, heading for the Gun. He intended to find Zachary, even though he might have guards in the dusk. He'd waken him, if he was asleep.

treacherous and cowardly a fashion as could be imagined, and the fact that the bullet might have been intended for Trib himself made it no better.

The puzzling thing was that the killer should have been an Indian. That seemed to argue that perhaps Fortescue had really been the intended victim.

So absorbed was Valse in the puzzle, so torn by the conflicting emotions which wracked him, that he did not hear the first sound of those who approached. Then he looked up to see men all around him: men on horseback, half a dozen of them. Rudd was at their head, and they were all of the Gun crew.

"You damned cowardly killer," Rudd said, between his teeth. "You'll swing for this!"

When Rome was at the height of her power it was said that a bird could travel from one end of the Spanish peninsula to the other hopping from tree to tree, but Spain now has very little forest area.

Rage choked Valse, and his impulse was to pursue. But he knew the nature of the country beyond, and realized that it would be almost impossible to overtake the fugitive in the night. He hesitated, then swung his horse about to where Fortescue lay sprawled.

One look, once Trib was out of the saddle, and even before he had quite reached Fortescue, was enough to assure Valse that the old cow-puncher was past any help.

Valse stood, not touching him, shaken with grief and rage. Fortescue had been one of his best friends, as he had proven tonight. Now he was dead, killed in as spotted cayuse, was an Indian. A young brave, holding a revolver in his hand from which Valse fancied that he could still see a thin curl of smoke.

That had been good shooting, for an Indian; few of them were much good with a gun, more particularly a six-gun. Not that the shot had been too difficult, at that range, upon an unsuspecting target, and fired as it was from ambush. The unbelievable thing was that it should have been an Indian who had done the shooting. But the pertinent fact was that it had been done, in cold-blooded fashion. And Fortescue was his friend. Valse urged his horse ahead. It broke out of the fringe of trees, and he saw the startled look which the Indian flung his way. Then, instantly, the Indian knelt his own pony around and was heading back for the shelter of the brush.

Valse yelled at him to stop, and saw the spotted cayuse break into a run. He jerked his own gun and snapped a hasty shot, mostly in warning, and saw the brush swallow horse and rider.

Fortescue. His battered old hat, long since shapeless and colorless, was pushed far back on his head, so that the snow white thatch of his hair was clearly visible.

Evidently he had been taking it easy, traveling slowly after leaving the ranch. In his relief, Valse was about to spur to join him, and he was already opening his mouth for a hallo, when a louder sound froze the sound in his throat.

From another point, halfway around the meadow, close to the little creek, a gun blasted savagely. Even while the echoes ran down the line of hills, progressively fainter, Valse saw Fortescue lift in the saddle, as if trying to stand up. His body twisted convulsively at the shock of the heavy bullet, feet kicking.

For a moment Valse was shocked with surprise and the horror of it. Here was the danger that he had sensed, and he knew that his first instinct had not been at fault. Here was murder, cold-blooded murder, and he had a swift suspicion that it had been directed against himself; that someone had known, or had at least guessed, that he would be heading tonight for the Gun, which lay beyond in the same direction. And Fortescue had been the innocent victim of error. Someone, seeing his thatch of white hair, had probably supposed that that hair identified Valse.

Valse's eyes shifted to where the gun-shot had come from, and as he watched, he saw the brush stir. Then a man rode out from among the trees into the open meadow. Incredulity flooded Valse for a moment. For this man, bareback upon

Revenue Dept. Plans To Plug Gaping Leaks In N. C. Sales Tax

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 17.—(AP)—New regulations aimed at blocking gaping leaks in state sales tax collections will be issued soon by the department of revenue.

Revenue commissioner Eugene Shaw said yesterday the new rules would affect:

- The $15 maximum sales tax on a single article.
- The exemption of mill machinery from the sales tax, and
- Sales to retailers of electrical plumbing and building supplies who are also contractors.

One of the new rules, Shaw estimated, would result in a 50 per cent increase in collections on new automobile sales.

He pointed out that cars are sold with accessories such as radios, seat covers and heaters and the state collects only the maximum of $15.

Under the new rule, an automobile will be considered as a single item minus the accessories, and the purchaser will pay the $15 tax on the car plus three per cent on all accessories.

Shaw said the new regulations were planned because there have been "great abuses" of the $15 maximum and "many absurd interpretations of what constitutes mill machinery."

The new rule on mill machinery will allow only the exemption of mill machinery, mill machinery parts, and mill machinery accessories. Shaw said that under a liberal exemption rule adopted seven years ago, mill owners have been able to claim exemption for mill supplies, mill equipment, and other articles used in manufacturing.

Shaw said that in the past taxpayers had claimed that the $15 sales tax maximum applied to such transactions as carpets for an entire hotel and a complete radio tower. Under the new rule, he said, the tax would be paid on each carpet and on each piece of steel in the radio tower.

Student From India To Address College Club On January 24

Mantrala L. N. Sastri, graduate student from India, now enrolled at Duke University, will speak at the International Relations Club of East Carolina Teachers College at a meeting scheduled for Tuesday, January 24, at 7:30 o'clock in the Flanagan auditorium on the campus.

Mr. Sastri, member of an orthodox Hindu-Brahmin family, lives in Pithapuram, a town on the east coast in south India. He is a graduate of Benares University, the largest in India, from which he holds the bachelor's and the master's degrees. Before coming Duke to study for the doctor's degree in physics, Mr. Sastri spent a year working as a lecturer. At present he is a graduate assistant at Duke and is specializing in spectroscopy under the guidance of the world-renowned physicist, Professor H. Spenser.

County Purchases Boar For Breeding

County Farm Agent Sam Winchester announced this morning that Pitt County has obtained one red bred boar for breeding purposes on farms in the county.

The boar was brought from Raleigh yesterday where it had been used in breeding experiments on the State College extension farm. The cost of the boar was $45 dollars, sold at stag prices.

In addition to the present pig, Winchester said he hoped the county could get five more within the next 10 days from the extension farm located at Rocky Mount.

The boar, which is now on the farm of R. L. Martin of the Bethel community, is of four-bred lineage — Duroc, Tamworth, Landrace and Minnesota No. 1, the latter a breed developed by the experiment station of Minnesota.

Traffic Cases In Recorder's Court Highlight Day

Judge J.W.H. Roberts yesterday in city recorder's court handed out stiff sentences to Jessie D. Brown, who was charged with driving drunk, careless and reckless driving and hit-and-run as the result of a five-car accident which took place near Greenville on Saturday night.

A six months suspended sentence on payment of $100 and cost was given to Brown on the driving drunk charge, eight months suspended sentence and payment of $100, costs deducted, in the hit-and-run case, and a 60-day suspended sentence, and pay $25 to court, and $48 to one of the drivers in the careless and reckless driving case. The court recommended that the driver's license of Brown be revoked. He appealed the cases to Superior Court.

Two other drivers who were involved in the five-car scramble were found guilty of careless and reckless driving charge and a driving drunk charge. John Bradley Jr., colored, paid $15 and costs, ordered to pay $40 to a driver of a car which was damaged in the accident.

James W. Wilson, colored, was convicted of driving drunk and given a six months suspended sentence, pay $100 and costs and the court recommended that his license to drive be revoked for a year. Brown appealed the conviction to Superior Court.

Nora White, colored, was adjudged guilty of illegal possession of whiskey for the purpose of sale. The judge gave her a six months sentence, suspended on payment of $300 costs deducted. She appealed to Superior Court.

ABC officers stated in city court that they found a quantity of non-tax-paid liquor buried in the ground near the house of Carlisle Smith, colored, who lives on Railroad Street. The judge gave him six months on the charges of illegal possession of non-tax-paid liquor for the purpose of sale. Smith also took an appeal.

In the third driving drunk case of the day, Judge Roberts gave Gerard J. Backard a six months suspended sentence on payment of $100 and costs. The court recommended that his license be revoked for a year. He took an appeal to Superior Court.

Three Negro men were found guilty of gambling and were fined $15. They were Robert Evans, James E. Pope and Johnny Johnson Jr.

Jack Dunn was found guilty of trespassing and fined $15 and costs and was ordered to pay $10 to the prosecuting witness.

Edward B. Garris, no operator's license, paid $25 and costs.

Rupert F. Allen, allowing dog to run at large, fined $5.

In a non-support case against Willie Nobles, the judge gave him a 90-day suspended sentence, put on probation for three years, and ordered to pay into the Pitt County Welfare office $12 per week for support of his family and pay costs, and two weeks support before he is released.

Drunk: James C. Brown, $15, and E. S. Sheppard, colored, $15.

William D. Cherry was not guilty of being drunk and disorderly.

Chilly and Wet

After taking an upward swing to a high of 78 degrees yesterday, the mercury dropped to a chilling 39 today in Greenville. Rainfall for the past twenty-four hours up to noon was 23 of an inch.

'Sick, Decadent' People In South Asserts Woman

Charleston, S. C. Jan 17.—(AP)—The wife of the Federal Judge who opened South Carolina primary elections to Negroes told a predominantly Negro audience last night the time "now or never" for the race "to make the final push" toward equality.

Mrs. J. Waties Waring said also in her address:

"The white supremacist Southerners have done everything to break your spirit. But your spirits are forced in the furnace of persecution and shame and have risen triumphant, and all the world is behind you now to establish you in the rights and equality that is already yours, but only needs enforcing."

The audience of 150, including a good many whites, heard her describe Southern whites as "a sick, confused and decadent people."

Entertainers To Offer Program On Wednesday

Three widely-known personalities of radio and stage will appear at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock to present a program in the behalf of the Veterans Hospital program.

The touring group is part of a national organization sponsored by the Protestant churches of America.

Included on the program will be the popular team of Ivy and Al Walsh, who are well known for their appearances over national radio hook-ups.

The two will sing solos and duets, accompanied by Ivy's Frontain accordion.

Ivy has thrilled many audiences, large and small, with her beautiful soprano voice, and she keeps audiences amazed at the ease with which she handles the accordion and sings simultaneously.

The Veterans hospital group is now in its fourth year of continuous operation. The organization is a non-profit group, which is devoted to taking inspirational entertainment into the veterans hospital.

Pat B. Withrow, noted speaker, humorist, and song leader, who will lead the program during its one hour show.

familiar with Hindi and opposition to the measure revealed dozens of animosities between North and South East and West and between province and province.

Reactionary movements — Independence has given a boost to the popularity of Ultra-Orthodox and near-totalitarian organizations such as the Hindu Mahasabha and the Sikh Akali Dal. Among India's British rulers were some who feared Indian freedom would bring a theocratic dictatorship, intolerant and isolationist. If their fears ever are realized, these organizations, led by power-hungry fanatics will be the instruments. Already they are meddling in politics.

Political incapacity — Although Nehru leads a number of able and talented men in the central government, provincial politics in the new India present a sordid picture. Vindictive personal rivalries, power-grabbing cliques, inexperience and inability and plain corruption have discussed the public.

Independence came to India before it had enough capable and trained administrators. Many of those who got government posts were unable to resist the spoils.

caravans, leap from fashion, routinely check various mines in the area.

Ozanich predicted the strike will spread over the entire nation. He said: "Our men will never go back till they get a contract."

As president of the Robena local UMW locals in the area, Robena, owned by H. C. Frick Coal Company, is the largest mechanized coal mine in the world.

A spokesman for U.S. Steel said the corporation was just following good business practice when it turned off the spigot and stopped the miners' credit. He explained: "Since July, bills have gone beyond what would be good business practice. We've helped the miners over the jump many times, not only during strikes. But we've reached a point where we can't go any further with it."

Dividend Paying Policies

can also send in its experts to advise the co-op.

Now comes the next step: borrowing the $1,000,000 to build. The co-op doesn't go back to the HFPA. Instead, it goes to a new agency, set up under HFPA, called the National Mortgage Corporation for Housing Cooperatives (NMCHC).

If the NMCHC is satisfied about the deal, it lets the co-op have a loan of $1,000,000. (The co-op then hires private contractors to do the building.)

The loan is a direct loan to the co-op. It's not a matter of the NMH guaranteeing a bank loan to the co-op.

Is it just so simple as that: hand over government money and the co-op doesn't have to put up a dime? No.

In the first place, the co-op would have to agree to pay back the $1,000,000 in 50 years, at the most, with about 3 per cent interest.

And the co-op would have to buy stock in the NMH equal to 7 1/2 per cent of the loan—2 1/2 percent when the loan was given and another 5 per cent over 20 years. Which means:

With 125 people in the co-op, 2 1/2 per cent of $1,000,000 (or $25,000) would call for each of the 125 to put up $200 to buy NMH stock.

In other words, each would be making a down payment of $200 on his home. Then over 20 years the co-op would buy another $50,000 worth of NMH stock, or $400 each for the 125 people.

But how come a government agency like the NMCHC would sell any stock at all? That's the idea behind the Senate bill. It's this:

While the NMCHC would start off as a government agency, with government money, in time, through sale of stock to each co-op that borrowed money, NMCHC would pass out of government hands and into the private hands of the co-ops.

When that came about at some future time, future co-ops that sprang up then would be getting their loans from co-op-owned NMCHC.

The Karpen Pil-O-Rest

A MATTRESS OF INCOMPARABLE QUALITY

MADE WITH THE SKILL OF FINE FURNITURE CRAFTSMANSHIP

We're Happy To Say... THIS UNUSUAL AND OUTSTANDING MATTRESS is featured at our store

It's exciting for us to be able to tell you about the Pil-O-Rest with its ingenious patented construction. The fluffy channeled pillow top and bottom (staple cotton filled) "cradles" the body; the completed innerspring unit to which they are attached provides healthful body-support. If you're among our many customers who have been looking for a mattress that gives the ultimate in comfort and sleep-inducing rest, you'll be as excited as we are about the Karpen Pil-O-Rest! . . .

WITH THESE EXCLUSIVE PIL-O-REST FEATURES!

- Channeled pillow is attached top and bottom to a completed innerspring mattress unit.
- Channeled pillows are 100% staple cotton filled and constructed to prevent shifting of the cotton.
- Tuftless—no buttons.
- Box Spring is a 72 coil spring construction hand-tied 8 ways and mounted on a hardwood frame. Upholstered to match the mattress.
