Co-Op Warehouse For City Assured

Organizers Officially File Application For Charter; Farmers Join Together For Operation Of Tobacco Warehouse; May Handle Other Commodities Later

A farmers' cooperative warehouse for the Greenville tobacco market was assured this week when organizers officially filed application with the state for a charter. The new organization will operate Keel's warehouse and will handle sales for both members and non-members.

Early last fall it was announced that the Keel warehouse during 1950 would be operated by a stock company composed of farmers of this tobacco growing area. After application for the company had been received and stock had been sold to more than 75 farmers in eight counties of this section, there was a request from some growers that the organization be changed into a cooperative association.

On Monday of last week a meeting of the stockholders of the newly organized company together with other interested farmers met for the purpose of discussing the cooperative proposal. At that meeting W. P. Hedrick and W. C. Sheffield of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture explained the workings of farmers' cooperatives and the necessary steps to be taken to organize.

After long discussion of the matter, the gathering adjourned until Monday of this week when official action was taken forming the cooperative organization and application for charter was filed with the secretary of state. Officers and directors of the organization were named and James T. Keel was named as manager and Elbert Bennett as auctioneer for operation of the warehouse the coming season.

The application for charter authorizes a capital stock of $500,000 composed of 12,000 shares of 6% cumulative stock at $25.00 per share, and 40,000 shares of common stock at $5 per share. The directors decided at present to limit the preferred stock to $40,000 of which no person, firm or corporation could own more than $2,000 worth. The holding of common stock is unlimited.

Preferred stock may be bought and owned by anyone while common stock, which is the voting stock, may be owned by persons, firms or corporations who are producers of agricultural products or users of agricultural supplies handled by the association.

In the beginning the association plans to deal only in the matter of operating a tobacco warehouse but the charter provides for full activities in the handling of other farm commodities and the purchase and sale of farming implements and other materials and supplies used in agriculture. While the first venture will be the sale of leaf tobacco, operators have already indicated that the next steps will be the handling of other farm crops including corn and sweet potatoes.

While the first interest of the association will be for handling the crops of its members, non-members likewise can sell their tobacco through the cooperative-operated house and can in turn receive a share of the profits in keeping with the extent of their patronage.

There has been no effort toward the operation of a cooperative tobacco warehouse on the Greenville market for a long number of years, but such houses are now in operation on both the Wilson and Kinston markets.

Denham Seeking Court Order To End Coal Tie-Up

Complaint Against Lewis And UMW Will Be Basis For Court Action

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, said today he is applying for a court order to put coal miners back on a normal five-day work week.

Denham said a complaint charging John L. Lewis and his miners union with unfair labor practices is the basis for the court action.

Denham said his aides are going into court this afternoon to apply for a temporary injunction.

This type of application calls for a hearing to be set by the court before any order is issued.

Denham said that he is not asking for a temporary restraining order—the kind of legal proceeding which calls for immediate action by the court.

Conceptually, it might be weeks before the court would act.

Denham's complaint charges that Lewis has been failing to bargain in good faith, with the coal operators.

The Taft-Hartley law requires bargaining in good faith and also permits the NLRB counsel to seek court orders barring "unfair practices" by management or a union.

In a series of complaints to Denham last December, mine operators said the three-day mining week was an "unfair practice" intended to coerce them into signing an illegal contract with Lewis.

Denham had been studying these arguments and the complaint since then. His announcement today means, in effect, that he agreed with the operators' contention.

Denham said he would ask the court to restrain the union from: "Using any coercive methods, and especially any stoppage or reduction of normal work operation or productive employment in the mines, for the purpose of coercing the mine operators into the acceptance of any of the illegal or restrictive demands x x x."

Whatever may come of it, it is clear that Denham's move was pushing the coal situation along to some break in the present stalemate.

Oleo Tax Repeal Nearing Climax

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—A long fight to repeal federal oleomargarine taxes, some of them dating back to 1886, drew toward an apparently victorious climax today.

One of the leading opponents, Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) left the city, an aide conceding "the fight's over."

Advocates of the repeal measure said they expected it to be passed and sent to the House before nightfall in a quick sequence to defeats suffered, yesterday by dairy state senators.

Finns Reelect Pres. Paasikivi

Helsinki, Finland, Jan. 18 (AP)—President Juho Paasikivi survived Soviet and Finnish Communist party attacks to win enough electoral votes for re-election, returns from Finland's national poll disclosed today.

But sharp gains by right-wing conservatives led most observers to believe the Social Democratic government of Premier Karl-August Fagerholm would be forced to resign next March in favor of a coalition government.

Prolonged Civil Rights Fight Is Coolly Received

No Great Outpouring Of Support For Truman Prediction On Capitol Hill

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—President Truman's prediction of an all-summer fight for passage of civil rights legislation found no outpouring of support from congressional leaders today.

The House meanwhile approached a decision on a change in rules which could result in bottling up such legislation indefinitely. Mr. Truman said he was doing "everything possible" to prevent this.

The President told members of the national emergency civil rights mobilization yesterday that Senator Lucas of Illinois and Vice President Barkley had assured him that they will get a vote on anti-job discrimination, anti-lynching and anti-poll tax measures "if it takes all summer."

There was every sign, however, that neither Lucas nor any other Administration leader has any intention of keeping Congress in Washington all summer in a campaign year.

Lucas is a candidate for re-election. He is a supporter of the President's civil rights proposals and has encountered time-consuming Southern filibusters against them before.

As things now stand, the Senate probably will get around to a Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC) bill sometime in March. In the House, a crucial decision is almost at hand now.

Mr. Truman made it plain in yesterday's talk to supporters of his civil rights program that he is engaged in an all-out fight against a proposed change in the House rules which he said would be a "serious blow" to passage of civil rights bills.

Bank Had Annual Meet Yesterday

Guaranty Bank Starts 50th Year; Reelect Officers

The forty-ninth annual meeting of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company, which was established in 1901, was held in the Sheppard Memorial Library yesterday afternoon.

W. H. Woolard, president of the bank, presided, with more than 4,000 of the 5,000 shares of stock represented in person and by proxy.

Mr. Woolard, in commenting on the year's operations, stated that notwithstanding a general leveling off of business and bank deposits, he was happy to report that the bank in 1949 enjoyed an increase of more than a million dollars in deposits.

He also stated that earnings for the year 1949, contrary to predictions early in the year, were slightly in excess of 1948. Mr. Woolard told the stockholders that in 1949 loan re-payments at the home office and branches, particularly loans made to farmers, were highly satisfactory.

J. S. Ficklen, chairman of the board, made interesting comments as to the trend of our government away from isolationism, into its proper place in the affairs of the nations of the world. He stated that it was regrettable that "we had to combat both inflation and deflation with a government deficit."

Mr. Ficklen commended the bank officers and employees for their fine year's work.

J. H. Waldrop, vice-president and cashier, reported total resources at the year-end $33,849,000, with capital, surplus and undivided profits of $1,500,000. His report indicated cash and bonds $26,771,000 and loans of $7,000,000. Ten percent dividend checks were distributed to stockholders.

J. H. Mays, trust officer, reported that the Trust Department was continuing to grow in number of accounts, total assets and services rendered. At the close of business on December 31, 1949, he stated that the Trust Department had 258 accounts with assets totaling $2,337,915.67.

The entire Board of Directors was unanimously re-elected as follows: A. W. Ange, J. H. Blount, J. S. Ficklen, E. Graham Flanagan, Dr. J. H. Harper, Ralph H. Hodges, W. E. Hooker, Jas. T. Little, Wayne W. Massey, Vance L. Roberson, S. P. Smith, J. A. Stator, J. H. Waldrop, J. J. White, W. H. Woolard.

Immediately following the stockholders' meeting the Board of Directors met. J. S. Ficklen was unanimously re-elected chairman and all other officers and employees were re-elected as follows:

W. H. Woolard, president; J. H. Waldrop, vice-president and cashier; J. H. Mays, trust officer; Joe S. Mays, trust officer and assistant cashier; A. J. Moore, assistant cashier; M. L. Moore, assistant cashier; J. W. Overton, auditor and assistant cashier; R. P. Hardee, assistant trust officer; R. Harold Stator, Cashier; Dickinson Avenue Branch: A. G. Wells, assistant cashier; Dickinson Avenue Branch: J. M. Mays, cashier. West End Branch: W. H. Woolard Jr., assistant cashier; West End Branch: R. C. Tucker, teller; Miss Alice Harden, teller; C. J. Warren, teller; J. Robt. Russ, teller; Miss Margaret Register, teller; Norman Harris, teller; Mrs. Mabel G. Blow, secretary; Mrs. Dorothy O. Stallworth, secretary; Miss Marguerite Rouse, secretary.

More Thousands Flee Flood Area

Rain-Swollen Rivers Continue To Rise; Mass Exodus

By The Associated Press More thousands fled their homes as flood dangers appeared mounting today over some critical areas of the midwest and Southern watershed.

The mighty Mississippi, the big Ohio and other rain-swollen streams in the lower Mississippi and Ohio river valleys continued to rise at several points.

There was a mass exodus—some 8,000 farmers—in Southern Missouri as the nation's biggest river surged to its highest mark since 1947. Some 4,000 other residents in the Birds Point-New Harrod floodway region remained in the area.

Army engineers kept an eagle eye on the situation along the main danger points of the flooding rivers. They had not yet decided on whether the floodway barrier on the Mississippi would be breached to ease the pressure of rising flood waters on Cairo, Ill., and other river towns. However, Army engineers had warned the 12,000 residents that the 129,000 acre floodway may be dynamited open.

Acheson discussed the subject in circumspet language in response to questions at a news conference.

As he phrased it, he said he does not know of any prospective atomic weapons development in the United States which would cause the United States to change its policy on international control.

Acheson knows, of course—as does most everyone in Washington—that the government is hotly debating under the surface the question of whether to try to develop a hydrogen atomic bomb that might be 1,000 times more powerful than the original uranium A-bomb.

He also said he knew of no atomic developments in Russia that would make the United States want to change its policy.

There have been reports that President Truman is being urged to make a new approach to the Russians for an international atomic control agreement before deciding whether to go ahead with attempted development of hydrogen bombs.

Support French Views On Saar

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson said today the United States supports France's view that the Saar should be detached from Germany.

He told a news conference this country has backed up the French position under three secretaries of state and will continue this support at a final peace settlement with Germany.

Hainan Defender Claims Red Invasion 'Impossible'

Taipei, Formosa, Jan. 18 (AP)—The Nationalist Chinese commander of Hainan Island reported tonight that Chiang Kai-Shek's air force and navy had made the impending Red invasion of the big island impossible.

The Hainan ground commander said the two Nationalist services had sunk more than 2,000 invasion craft (mostly junks) massed by the Reds on Luchow peninsula opposite Hainan.

He claimed his own forces were mopping up the remainder of some 17,000 Communist guerrillas who have been in control of central and the western portion of the big South China island.

Strike Notice

Detroit, Jan. 18 (AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers, rejecting Chrysler's $100-a-month pension offer, handed the corporation a seven-day strike notice today.

The ultimatum was handed the company at the start of regularly scheduled negotiations. There was no immediate comment from the company.

U. S. To Continue Atomic Policies

Will Seek International Control If New Bomb Made

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson made clear today that even if the United States develops a super A-bomb it will stick with its policy of seeking tight international control of atomic energy.

Acheson discussed the subject in circumspet language in response to questions at a news conference.

As he phrased it, he said he does not know of any prospective atomic weapons development in the United States which would cause the United States to change its policy on international control.

Acheson knows, of course—as does most everyone in Washington—that the government is hotly debating under the surface the question of whether to try to develop a hydrogen atomic bomb that might be 1,000 times more powerful than the original uranium A-bomb.

Fail To Move 'Big Mo' Grounded On Mudbank

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 18 (AP)—The 45,000-ton battleship Missouri was stuck fast to a Chesapeake Bay mudbank near here today.

Waterfront speculators believed that the "Mighty Mo" America's only active battleship, would remain grounded for some time.

Boasting their belief was a Navy announcement that two very heavy tugs from New York would arrive tomorrow to assist in the efforts to float her.

Veteran watermen predicted that the battleship, on whose main deck the Japanese surrendered to end World War II, would be freed only after a sub-channel has been dredged from the main ship channel to the spot where she lies stranded.

The battleship was grounded on a mudbank near here today.

Senate Probers Sharply Critical Of Gen. Vaughan

Hoey Committee Takes Truman Aide To Task In Investigation Report

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—Major Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, President Truman's military aide, was criticized sharply today by the Senate committee which conducted last summer's spectacular five percent inquiry.

On a unanimous report on the investigation, the committee took Vaughan to task for accepting seven home freezers as gifts, and it criticized him on other counts.

The committee's report bluntly denounced John F. Maragon, Washington man-about-town who was indicted early this month by a federal grand jury which accused him of lying to the Senate group. Maragon, who once had a White House pass, pleaded innocent when he was arraigned. His trial is set for Feb. 20.

The committee's public hearings last August brought testimony that Maragon enlisted Vaughan's aid in an effort to wield influence with other government officials and in attempts to secure favors for others.

In its report the committee concluded: "There is no doubt that Maragon's friendship with Gen. Harry H. Vaughan made his (Maragon's) activities in his dealings with the federal government possible.

"In several instances the evidence showed that General Vaughan of his office personally interceded with government agencies on behalf of Maragon or those whom he represented."

The report said, too, that in some cases Maragon used Vaughan's White House telephone to transact personal business, and that a combination of these and other factors made it possible for Maragon to use the great prestige of the White House for his own advantage."

Showdown Vote In House Friday

Speaker Rayburn Announces Decision For Big Test

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—Warning groups in the House agreed today to a showdown vote Friday on a rules change that could bottle up civil rights legislation and other parts of the Truman program.

Speaker Rayburn announced the decision after a huddle with administration lieutenants. He said there will be no caucus of Democrats.

Many Democrats feel that a party caucus last year on the same subject is still binding. That meeting bound most Democrats—but not all of them stayed put—to support a change in rules stripping the rules committee of its stranglehold over legislation.

The rule was changed after that caucus. A Republican-Southern Democrat coalition now is backing repeal of the 1949 rule and return to the old procedure giving the rules committee its former power. The rules committee is dominated by the coalition forces.

Coal Rationing For Pittsburgh Ordered Today

Pittsburgh, Jan. 18 (AP)—Coal rationing was ordered by retail dealers today in this coal capital.

With the strike of more than 85,000 soft coal miners tightening its pinch on the nation's economy, the Retail Coal Merchants Association said available supplies will be rationed with first priority going to such essential users as hospitals and processors.

One of John L. Lewis' influential lieutenants, President John F. Busarelli of United Mine Worker District Five, said he was using his staff to try to get the striking miners back in the pits next Monday. Lewis has suggested they resume production.

Army's Reserve Corps Program Is Being Revised

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—The Army announced today that it is planning a new reserve corps program designed to turn out more trained fighting men—at less cost to the government.

Secretary of the Army Gray said the new program aims at a "desirable" organized reserve of 625,000 men, but the Army will accept 367,000 officers and men as the "minimum total."

It will replace a program begun in 1941 that called for 1,000,000 organized reserves, but had produced only 250,000 up to last Nov. 30, Gray said.

The Army Secretary said the new plan will cost about $153,000,000 annually compared to the $389,000,000 estimated for the organization set up at the end of the war.

Reverse General Trend In Business

Gangsters Grab Million Dollars Cash In Holdup

Widespread Hunt Underway For Seven Boston Gunmen In Big Robbery

Boston, Jan. 18 (AP)—A sweeping bandit hunt was under way today for seven grotesquely-masked gunmen who scooped one million dollars in cash and left a million behind in one of the biggest holdups in history.

Crack FBI agents and state police joined local police who were under orders to "break this thing up before a new outbreak develops."

FBI agents across the country were alerted because Federal Reserve Bank funds were included in the loot.

Ellis Hult, vice president of the Boston Federal Reserve, said that the looted money transportation firm handles the delivery of funds of a number of member banks.

In a special department order, Police Sup't Edward W. Fallon told his men: "Don't stop until you find them. I want every available detective to work on this case."

The gunmen—in a 20-minute precision raid—snatched the money from an open vault in the sprawling waterfront garage of Brink's, Inc., a money transportation firm, after gagging and trusting five employees last night.

Along with the million in cash the gangsters grabbed $500,000 in checks.

Cruiser cars raced through the city and outlying districts during the night running down a number of tips that proved worthless.

Shortly after the holdup, police chased at break-neck speed a five-passenger black Cadillac sedan thought to be the getaway car. They lost it in the city's West Broadway district.

Police believed the car, bearing stolen registration plates, headed for Providence, R.I. The plates (Mass. 156-333) were stolen in Boston last week, police said.

"It's very obvious," Fallon said, "that these men used a master key to open all those doors." The gunmen went through six locked doors before reaching the vault where they cowed five employees.

While husky patrolmen toured the city's underworld spots picking up suspects, alarms sounded descriptions of the holdup men along the eastern seaboard.

Eleven men were taken to headquarters for questioning. No charges were placed against them.

"This job was definitely pulled by somebody who knew every inch of the company's layout," Fallon told reporters.

Fire In Vault Of Bank Scatters $13,000 In Coins

Camden, N.J., Jan. 18 (AP)—Bank vault attendants were "burned out" yesterday over a fire that started in a pile of 65 canvas sacks containing $13,000 worth of nickels.

The blaze burned holes in most of the sacks in the main office of the First Camden National Bank and Trust Company, scattering the coins on the floor.

After the fire was extinguished, the vault attendants had the job of shoveling the nickels up again, running them through a counting machine and re-sacking them to be sent to their original destination, the Philadelphia Federal Reserve Bank.

Upon invitation into the dining room, the bride was presented a corsage of white carnations. The luncheon table was centered with a nest of ivy topped by a miniature bride and groom.

Following the two-course luncheon guests were invited into the adjoining living room where attention was centered on a fluffy white net umbrella which showered bows of white ribbon and was flanked on either side by white candles. Beneath the umbrella were beautifully wrapped gifts which revealed, upon being opened by the bride, an array of lovely linens.

Guests attending the luncheon were Mrs. Allan Marshburn; Miss Frances Fowkes, Mrs. M. Pope and Mrs. Gates Perry, all of Raleigh; and Mrs. M. H. Godley of Grimesland, mother of the bride.

Year's Work Outlined By The Kings Daughters

The Patient Circle of The King's Daughters held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. B. White on Fourth street, with assisting hostesses. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell, and the meeting was opened by the prayer of the order. The devotional was conducted by Mrs. C. A. Bowen, and the 12th chapter of St. Matthew was read. Minutes of last meeting were read, treasurer's report given, and several new members were added to the roll since the last meeting. A detailed report on the Christmas meeting and packing of boxes was given which included distribution to 137 people including 99 families that were well taken care of on Christmas, which brought joy and happiness into so many needy homes. A complete outline of the coming year's work was outlined and various committees appointed and many matters of vital importance discussed. All business disposed of, the meeting was then turned over to Mrs. C. A. Bowen, who gave an inspiring message on the foundation of The King's Daughters which was organized in New York City in 1896, January the 13 being the anniversary of The King's Daughters Foundation, which was very fitting. She read Meditation and Prayer by Louise Hill Leibert, president of the International Order of The King's Daughters and Sons. Her version of the order beautifully portrays a vision, being somebody and doing something for somebody, reaching out and out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh and the hand worketh. In conclusion the meeting was turned over to the hostesses for a social hour, in which a delicious chicken salad course with coffee was served.

Tomorrow's Gardens

By The Greenville Garden Club
As we begin our 1950 series of weekly reminders to gardeners old and new the enchanting and sometimes demoralizing seed catalogs are arriving. Full of wonderful pictures of perfect flowers and prolific vegetables they make us forget the limitations imposed by our garden space, our own time and strength and the effect of our climate. To avoid disappointment later in the year it is well to do our first gardening with a pencil and paper. Facts written down are so much more impressive than generalizations floating about in our minds. Many years ago a wise and lovely lady, Mrs. George Lay, rebuked me kindly but firmly for struggling with plants alien to North Carolina soil and climate when a host of beautiful and rare flowers may here be grown to perfection. It is a good thing for all of us to remember. Delphiniums, for instance, wonderful to look at in catalogs, refuse to grow and bloom in eastern North Carolina, but annual double larkspur is lovely, almost sure to bloom freely and similar in effect.

Some roses grow well here, others are difficult but we can have gorgeous camellias, azaleas and gardenias as well as countless other less known flowers and shrubs. By careful selection of seeds and perennials we may have flowers from early spring to late November an achievement possible to our particular section.

Next week we plan to offer definite suggestions for annuals, their requirements and the correct time to plant them. The Greenville Garden club hopes to make these weekly notes helpful. If there are questions you would like answered, please drop a card to "Tomorrow's Gardens," Daily Reflector.

Red Oak News

Circle No. One of Red Oak Church Has a Meeting Monday Night

On Monday night Jan. 16 the meeting of Circle No. One of Red Oak Church was held at the home of Mrs. Amos Evans. The meeting was opened by the vice-chairman, Mrs. William May. After the roll call and collection of dues the minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

A brief business period followed. A motion was made by Mrs. Travis Crawford that we accept as our responsibility fifty dollars of the Crusade Pledge made by Red Oak Church. After a short discussion it was carried. There were some suggestions made as to how we would raise the money and a very good one which we shall endeavor to try was made by Mrs. L. W. Edwards. Every member is asked to keep a "Rainy Day" box. For every day that it rains put a dime in the box to be turned into the treasury at the following meeting. We hope that all of our members who were not present will join us in following this suggestion, also any others who would care to help in this work. A motion was made and carried that we pay thirty-seven dollars and fifty cents on the new Communion set, recently purchased by Circle No. One.

Mrs. May had charge of the program. After a scripture reading which told of Christ's Command to us: Go ye therefore into all the world and preach the gospel to all nations. We were led in prayer by Mrs. H. Glenn Haney of Greenville who was our guest speaker. Mrs. May accompanied by Mrs. Haney at the piano sang a very lovely solo, "We've a Story to Tell to the Nations." Mrs. Haney then spoke to us on missions — home missions, foreign missions and religious education. Any one hearing Mrs. Haney speak on this subject can immediately tell that it is very dear to her heart and one on which she is well informed. It was most inspiring and enjoyable and we are indeed grateful to Mrs. Haney for being with us.

After the meeting adjourned Mrs. Evans served dainty sandwiches, cookies and drinks.

We were glad to have Mrs. Leslie Evans as a visitor.

Send Thanks For Red Cross Gifts

The Pitt County American Red Cross office announced today receiving a number of letters from several foreign countries to which Red Cross packages have been sent.

Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, chairman of the Junior Red Cross drive in the county, states that several letters from school children in France were received by the following schools in the county: Grimesland, Bethel, Grifton, Falkland, Greenville High School and Eppes High School.

The French students of James L. Fleming's class at East Carolina Teachers College made the translations. Many of the letters carried postcard scenes and drawings from the country.

The Red Cross sends each year many parcels to countries overseas, sent some 500 packages this year which contained items for use by school children. A typical response received in the letters said in part: "All of the children who received packages have been made very happy by them, and they have been useful to us."

Visiting 'Possums Are Killed In Night

Fountain—Two large opossums were killed Friday night at the home of Mrs. Mack E. Smith.

The opossums, regular visitors to the Smith residence for several nights, had been making themselves at home on the roof and scratching at the doors. Rev. Philip M. Cory killed one in the early part of the night, and about 10 o'clock Mrs. Smith was disturbed by the other one. Police Chief J. A. Wheeler and Rev. Cory found him in a cedar tree by the house and killed him.

Fill Needs Now

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Farmers, you'd better stock up on fertilizer while supplies are still on hand.

That is the advice of Agriculture commissioner L. T. Ballentine.

Ballentine yesterday warned farmers it likely will be hard to obtain fertilizer in the desired grades later in the spring.

"Slackened coal production," he said, "as well as the strike of potash miners in New Mexico, is causing grave concern in the fertilizer industry."

Ballentine added that if the new Mexico miners, on strike since November, return to work immediately the mine operators still believe "it will be impossible for them to make up for lost production this spring."

Club Sponsoring Science Contest

Members of the Science Club at East Carolina Teachers College are sponsoring a science contest for high school students in the eastern section of the state, according to an announcement by Lola P. Stephenson of Willow Springs, president of the organization. Invitations to participate have been mailed to schools in this section of North Carolina. The purpose of the contest is to promote interest in science among high school students.

Winning contestants will receive awards and certificates of honorable mention given by members of the college Science Club. A first prize of $10.00 will be given to the student whose entry is considered most outstanding; and a second prize of $5.00 will also be awarded. Other exhibits of merit will receive honorable mention. Judges will include faculty members of the science staff at East Carolina and student representatives of the Science Club.

Entries must be submitted on or before April 7 of this year. Awards will be announced on High School Day at the college here, scheduled for Friday, April 21. An exhibition of projects submitted by contestants will be on display in the science department at East Carolina at that time, when several thousand high school students from the eastern section of the state are expected to visit the college.

Entries in the contest, says Miss Stephenson, may be exhibits or projects prepared by individuals or groups of students, and may include work in either the physical or biological sciences. Suggestions made by the Science club to aid those who wish to enter the contest include collections of native plants or animals; models illustrating any phase of science; and photographs, drawings, or paintings of objects of scientific interest.

Piano Recital Is Well Received By Local Audience

Elizabeth Drake and George E. Perry of the music faculty of East Carolina Teachers College were presented last night in a recital of music for two pianos. The program, sponsored by the Greenville Music Club, brought to the Wright auditorium on the college campus a group of approximately 350 people from Greenville, Tarboro, Washington, Ayden and Kinston.

The two local artists were introduced to their audience by Charles A. White, president of the city music club. Part of the program for the evening was broadcast over the facilities of station WGTC of Greenville.

Selections for the evening were varied in type and ranged from the works of classical composers to modern numbers. Beginning with J. P. Rameau's "Gavotte and Variations in A Minor," the first group on the program included a Clementi sonata and "Sheep May Safely Graze" by J. S. Bach.

The concert, which was well received by last night's audience, will be repeated in February in Raleigh

Judge On Leave After Indictment

Plymouth, N. C., Jan. 18.—(AP)—At his request, Washington county's Recorder's court judge has been granted a leave of absence while embezzlement and other charges against him are pending.

Judge W. Ronald Gaylord was indicted by the grand jury last Friday on charges of embezzlement, malfeasance in office and modifying or changing judgements.

Bond was set at $1,000 by Judge Q. K. Nimocks of Fayetteville, presiding over the January term of Washington court.

The cases are expected to be aired at the July term if an investigation by the state bureau of investigation and solicitor George M. Fountain of Tarboro is completed.

W. D. Rodman, solicitor of the Recorder's court for several years, has been named acting recorder. Solicitor Fountain said the charges cover several cases in which Judge Gaylord allegedly accepted fines at his home or other places from defendants tried in his court.

Judge Gaylord was granted leave yesterday after making the request in a written statement in which he asserted "my complete innocence."

Strength FOR THE DAY

WHAT WE HAVE IS BEST
Oh, if we could just have silence and peace from the turmoil of the world!

All of us feel this way occasionally; yet anyone who believes this needs to be taken into a room out of which by scientific methods every bit of sound has been driven. In one of the great scientific laboratories in this country, there is a Silence Room in which by unique methods of sound absorption complete and absolute silence has been achieved.

But to enter this room is not to enter peacefulness. Many people find it terrifying. Some even feel that if they were locked in that room they might within a short time go insane. I was taken into such a room recently, and I noticed that the scientist kept apologizing for the fact that he had not entirely closed the door. "I am never entirely sure about that lock," he said; but one could see that behind those words was the feeling on his part that he might go crazy if he were locked in that silent room for a few hours or perhaps overnight.

After all the world with its noises, while it is a desperately wicked place, is nevertheless the best place for you and me. We were not made for ethereal silence. In the next world, yes; but until that time let us have life as it is and grow spiritually by making the best of it.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET
It will cost Senator Frank Graham just half as much to enter the primary for nomination to the United States senate this year as it cost Senator William Umstead two years ago. And it will cost Commissioner of Insurance Waldo Cheek just half as much as it cost Auditor Henry Bridges and Commissioner of Agriculture Siag Balentine then.

That's because of a little quirk in North Carolina election laws which might look silly on first impression, but which is grounded in good sense. It has to do with the matter of when the terms to which appointments were made expire under the statutes, and whether there is at stake both a short unexpired term and a full term of office holding.

With respect to the United States senate the federal constitution provides the governor may appoint a senator until the next general election. With respect to state offices the constitution and the statutes provide the governor may appoint until the next general election. Then the "peepul" take over and vote in whom they want.

Senator J. W. Bailey had been elected for a term ending in January, 1949. He died in December of 1946 and Governor Cherry appointed Umstead in his place, "until the next general election." So Umstead and his appointment, J. M. Broughton, had to file for two elections—one for the unexpired term between election date and end of the term and also for the full term succeeding. George Ross Pou had been elected state auditor for a term ending in January, 1949. Upon his death Henry Bridges was appointed "until the next election."

Kerr Scott had been elected commissioner of agriculture for a term ending in January, 1949. He resigned in February 1948 to run for governor and David Coltrane was appointed "until the next general election." Coltrane did not seek election, but L. Y. Balentine had to file for both the unexpired portion of the Scott term and the full four-year period following. Even for the brief time remaining of the unexpired term candidates had to pay full filing fee of one percent of the annual salary.

It happened that in 1948 the unexpired terms of posts in the United States senate and on the council of state had only about one month to run, after election returns could be certified. It happens now that the senate term has four years and the council of the state post has two years to go. Appointee incumbents and their election opponents in 1948 had to pay more for privilege of running for the offices, but they got longer tenure in return. It was necessary (?) in 1948 for Umstead, Broughton, Balentine and Bridges to file for both short (unexpired) and full terms in order to prevent some Republican or other undesirable from moving into the picture. That necessity is not involved now, because election of a

Somebody Told Me...

By L. J. (JACK) EDWARDS, JR.

Social bulletin: The Cosmos Book Club met yesterday. Wife Rachel is a member of this outfit, and yesterday was in charge of the program. She spoke on her former vocation, textiles designing. At Woman's College of UNC she majored in textiles and upon graduation was employed by Dan River Mills in Danville. Naturally, I have a story to tell about her job.

Although W.R.'s title was assistant designer, she did the same jobs as the designer and head of the department. One of her duties was to interpret the designs sent to the Danville mill by the New York office. She figured the exact number and weight of yarn to be used in a piece of cloth.

One day W.R. had a design for men's shirting for interpretation. She checked and double checked her work, and turned it over to the head of the department for his approval. He okayed the job. You can see why all the double checking is necessary. If the weaving instructions are wrong, a piece of cloth might come off the loom too closely woven, or maybe even too limp. In such a case the material couldn't be used, and the mill would lose hundreds of dollars on the deal.

A few days after W.R. had done this particular job her boss walked up to her with a piece of limp shirting. In fact, it was about to fall apart. She had made the mistake, and he had okayed it, so it was his error as well as hers.

Fortunately, the error was caught early in the weave room, so the expense to the mill was minor. The boss' boss said that everybody is allowed one mistake in designing, and passed it off as good experience for the department. The next week W.R. got a raise.

change his book. "Polygamy was all right in those days, when a large family was an asset in helping out on the farm," he says, "but, gracious alive, today such a brood would be a liability. A man would have a hard time educating his children."

Dr. Merrill was graduated from the Utah State Agricultural College and attended Cornell, the University of Chicago, Harvard and Washington University at St. Louis.

Just before she left they were talking about promoting her to the New York office. It was really hot on that summer day. And I'm glad it was.

Raleigh Acts To Ban Klan Action

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 18.—(AP)—The Raleigh City Council has reinforced its stand against the Ku Klux Klan by adopting an ordinance banning public burning of crosses.

The action, taken yesterday, followed adoption two weeks ago of an anti-mask ordinance aimed at the KKK. This came shortly after Tommy Panther of Gastonia, a Klan organizer, said a Klan unit would be organized here.

Local Man Wins Car Safety Contest Prize

Mr. D. D. Hobgood, watch repairman at Stauffer's Jewelry Store, was a winner in the Ford Motor Company's Contest which stressed safety as its theme.

The John Flanagan Buggy Company Inc. announced today that considerable interest was manifested in this "nothing to buy" contest. Many of the entrants have called and asked about the results.

Mr. Hobgood's prize-winning letter stressed the reasons why people should have their automobile checked for safety's sake at regular intervals.

Mr. Hobgood won a $25.00 Defense Bond which was delivered to him on Christmas Eve.

Winterville Student At Chapel Hill Sets High Academic Mark

Academic achievement and recognition of such has come to a Pitt County boy after his first quarter at the University at Chapel Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dewey Cox of Winterville were notified recently that their son, George, had received all "A's" in his courses last fall at the University.

A copy of a letter to George from C. P. Spruill, Dean of the General College at the University, was sent to the Coxes. The letter read in part:

"Your record of 'A' in all of your academic work last fall is a distinctive achievement. It is a credit to you, to your parents and to your school. We hope that all of your activities in Chapel Hill may be sources of pride and enjoyment. Cordially yours, C. P. Spruill, Dean."

More Namesakes For Baby Prince

LONDON.—(AP)—More and more Britons are naming their sons after Prince Charles. Birth notice columns of the "London Daily Telegraph" alone showed 54 babies christened Charles in 1949—more than double the number in 1948.

It was still well down the popularity list, however. John led, as usual, with 179, followed by David, Richard, Michael and Christopher in that order. Elizabeth—the name of the prince's mother—held second place on the girls' list. First was Susan, with Jane in third place.

Air Force Continues Active In Germany; Stress Combat Drills

Wiesbaden, Germany, Jan. 18—(AP)—The end of the airlift brought no letdown in U. S. Air Force activity in Germany. The accent now is on combat training by fighter plane and troop carrier outfits.

The four-engined C-54s that carried the bulk of the load in 275,000 food and fuel flights to once-blocked Berlin have been reduced in numbers, but those that remain are busy carrying airborne troops on practice flights.

"I wouldn't have missed the lift," commented a C-54 pilot, "but it is good to be back at our regular work."

The fighters, soon to be replaced by new 600-mile-an-hour jets, whip over Bavaria for training in air-to-air and air-to-ground firing. It is the type designed to knock out aggressor planes or to smash invading troop columns.

High level Air Force officers in Germany also are engrossed with their Army and Navy counterparts in developing what they call an "all land" team to function as a smooth working unit in event of combat.

Top officers over here contend that "unification" of the armed forces is an accomplished fact in Germany. The Air Force and Army almost invariably combine their maneuvers, to the benefit of each.

The Army has asked Lt. Gen. John K. Cannon, U. S. Air Force chief in Europe, to command a joint Army Air Force maneuver in March.

The Navy is called into the maneuvers whenever the locale permits, although its strength in Germany is small.

Air Force officers are turning attention also to the preliminary phases of the American military aid program to western European countries—another coordination job.

One of the first wrinkles is how to find a terminology understood by all participating nations. It is not just a matter of language.

For instance, to the U. S. Air Force a squadron is 25 aircraft. To the British Royal Air Force a squadron is 12. An American "wing" is 75 aircraft. A British "wing" is 36. A system whereby the same word will mean the same thing to all concerned is being worked out.

The fighter training will get a shot in the arm this spring with the arrival of 180 latest model jets. They will entirely replace propeller-type and older jets now in use in Germany.

Some airmen expect the approximately 90 propeller-driven F-47 Thunderbolts based at Nuernberg will be turned over to western European allies. An equal number of F-80 shooting star jets at Furstenfeldbruck are slated to be returned to the United States.

Replacement of these aircraft by new F-84-E thunderjets is on a one-for-one basis. That fails to reflect the increased striking power the new planes will provide.

Thunderjets carry six machine guns and 32 five-inch high velocity rockets, compared with the F-47's eight machine guns and 12 rockets, have a speed of better than 600 miles an hour and can fly above 45,000 feet. They can fly 1,700 miles—or 850 miles from base to deliver an attack and return to the take-off point.

The U. S. Air Force has based heavy bombers in England. It has no bombers as such in Germany although the new jets can serve as fighter-bombers. By varying their rocket load each can carry 2,000 pounds of bombs or two 1100-pound "tiny tim" rockets.

Little Hope For Entombed Miner

Mahanoy City, Pa., Jan. 18—(AP)—Hopes that a 25-year-old miner entombed since last Friday would be found alive had all but vanished today as rescue workers neared the bottom of a 120-foot shaft.

Rescuers, hacking their way through an anthracite vein along with the debris that filled the shaft on Broad Mountain, were within only a few feet of where they expect to find the coal car of Edward Burda.

But as they inched closer there were no signs of the trapped miner, whose brother, Joseph, 30, was rescued after 40 hours of digging. Another brother, Casimir, 32, jumped clear as the cave-in started.

If Burda is not found near the coal car, it will mean that the workers will have to go back up the slope about 50 feet and start removing the debris stone by stone—a very slow process.

Even if Burda escaped death from the rock fall, rescue workers pointed out it was almost "impossible" that he could have survived for any length of time because of the lack of oxygen.

Repellant Spray To Keep Deer Out Of Crops

San Francisco, (AP)—A new repellant spray that will keep deer from eating crops is being developed by the Fish and Game Division. Game officers aren't saying yet just what it is, but it has been developed since complaints began coming in some years back about wild deer eating every thing from Brussels sprouts to fruit trees.

They aren't quite sure of it yet, but tests with the new spray show it has "deterred" deer from gobbling grape vines in the Napa Valley.

The problem is much wider than this wine-rich valley. More planted land in the green parts of the state, plus a growing, protected deer population have combine to cause thousands of dollars in damage in many places.

Tiny Dog Stands Guard Over Can Unopened Food

Wilmington, Jan. 17—(AP)—A tiny dog, shivering in a cold rain, today stood guard over an unopened can of dog food in a field near here, waiting in vain for a mistress who has not returned.

The dog was abandoned more than 24 hours ago, it was reported, by an unknown woman who pushed the creature from her sedan.

She left two cans of dog food, one unopened, with the pup.

Thus far, the dog has refused offers of food, and has also refused to be taken from the spot where his mistress left him.

Witnesses of the abandonment said they pleaded with the woman to give the pet to someone who would take care of him, but that she drove away and left him.

Ayden Hoopsters Take Over League Lead; Top Farmville

Ayden, Jan. 18—Ayden high school's basketball team knocked their Farmville rivals out of loop-leading position with themselves last night as they took the measure of the visiting boys, 35-34.

Previous to the boys' nightcap win, the Ayden girls tied the visitors at 20-20.

The boys' game saw the locals take over first place, undisputedly, as they staved off a last quarter Farmville rally and go on for the final two-point marginal victory. With 20 seconds to play, the visitors missed two gratis tosses, which would have meant the winning points since Ayden didn't score again after that.

Pack's Iron Men In Upset Victory

By the Associated Press

North Carolina State's basketball players were "iron men" heroes today on the heels of a thrilling 55-52 upset victory over Long Island University.

State played only five men in turning back Long Island in Madison Square Garden last night, handing the towering Blackbirds their second loss in 14 outings.

Leonard Bullock and Jimmy McCormick led their winning mates with 12 and 10 points apiece. Following them in the scoring column was L. J. Griffin with eight points for his night's work.

The outstanding stars of the game defensively were Troy Jackson and a newcomer, Delano Cox. The latter played his first varsity game last night and contributed to the Ayden cause for more than three quarters.

Leading Farmville's scoring cause was Carl King with 12 points, followed by Albert Cannon and Harry Albritton with eight apiece. The latter aided and abetted his own scoring chances by constantly breaking up Ayden plays for defensive honors for his team.

In the girls' opener, which was played to a final 29-point stalemate, Elaine Hatch, a center-forward, led her misses with 14 big points, almost half the rest of the team's total points. Behind her was Alice Jean Cox with nine points for the locals.

A tie between Ray Hathaway and Joyce Corbett, both of Farmville, with nine points apiece proved the big factor in the final score. Both teams are now still tied for first place in the standings of the Pitt race. Ayden having won seven and tied this one and Farmville with five wins and last night's tie.

Ayden has now won 11 games without a defeat and now rests rather comfortably in first place in the Pitt County race for basketball honors. The game was also a Coastal Conference game and marked the locals' third win.

Second-Ranking Pirates To Meet Catawba Tonight

By BILL LLOYD

East Carolina's cagers, North State Conference's second ranked team, go after their fifth league win tonight, as they play the improving Catawba Indians at Salisbury. Currently, the Pirates have a conference record of four wins against one loss.

Dropped from the conference lead over the weekend, due to the 70 to 58 shellacking suffered at the hands of Lenoir-Rhyne at Hickory, the Pirates will be seeking their second season's win over the Catawbas in tonight's clash. In the first Pirates-Indian game here, the Pirates won handily over Coach Earl Routh's quint, 52 to 43.

Leading East Carolina in tonight's contest will be "Sonny" Russell, sensational freshman forward from the Pirates' leading scorer with 135 points in ten games for a 13.6 percentage. Along with Russell at the other forward position will be tall Jack Everton, senior from Columbia. Everton also is a leading point-getter for the Bucs.

Little, up and coming Louis Collier, Coach Howard Porter's crack set shot artist, is expected to prove a thorn in the Indians' feathers with his accurate shooting from the floor. Collier racked up 17 points in the Lenoir-Rhyne game.

Fits Fennell and Len Bauer will round out the starting five for East Carolina. Bauer will be hampered somewhat with a badly bruised hip suffered in the Lenoir-Rhyne game, but is expected to play his usual fine floor game.

Coach Porter's reserve strength will come from Roger Thrift and Ed Tanner at forwards; Jim Blake at center; Doug Guthrie and Frank Maennle at guards.

Notre Dame And Oklahoma Begin Series In 1952

Norman, Okla., Jan. 18—(AP)—A football game thousands would have paid $100 for just an end zone seat last season will be played in 1952.

That's when Notre Dame and Oklahoma, the nation's best team in 1949, have agreed to inaugurate their home - and - home gridiron series.

The 1952 game will be played at Notre Dame, Nov. 8. The Irish journey here Sept. 26, 1953 to provide the Sooners with their most ambitious opening game in history.

Both teams point with pride to a long undefeated record. Notre Dame has played 38 games without a setback and Oklahoma's string has reached 21 straight victories.

Kittrell's Cagers Lead Conference

Coach Bill Kittrell's Greenville Midgets and Intermediate teams are currently leading the conference with a two victories and no-loss record.

The local teams have beaten Ayden and New Bern in conference play, which opened two weeks ago.

The standings in the conference up to date are as follows:

Midgets		Won Lost
Greenville	2	0
Ayden	1	1
New Bern	0	1
Kinston	0	1
Intermediates		Won Lost
Greenville	2	0
Kinston	1	0
New Bern	0	1
Ayden	0	2

Greenville took a 39-22 victory over New Bern's midgets team Saturday and the intermediates scored an impressive 64-34 win over the New Bern senior team to break into the conference lead.

Coach Kittrell who last week stated that his boys need more practice on passing, found that they were somewhat improved in last week's game but still weak at that point.

Kittrell pointed out that the game with Kinston will more than likely be the most important, and hardest contest which the local teams have faced so far this year. The midget team is reported to be one of the strongest in the league, while the Kinston intermediates team is known to be the power-house of the conference, having won over the Kinston junior varsity in practice games.

Against Kinston the locals will switch from a zone defense, which they have used in previous games, to a tight man-to-man tactics.

"If this does not prove successful we will change back in the game Saturday," the head mentor commented.

The Eastern Carolina Boys' League, official title of the group, is hoping to be able to play some night ball games, in the near future, in order that the local fans can be on hand to watch the games.

The local teams have always drawn big audiences when they have played in the past. The games as they are played now, all come on Saturday afternoon, when only a handful of spectators can be on hand.

Bethel Takes 2 Over Grimesland

Bethel, Jan. 18—The Bethel Indians enhanced their chances of copping second position in the boys' division of the Pitt County race by up-ending the Grimesland boys last night, 48-23.

The game was a rout all the way with the Indians, who now reside in third place in the standings, scoring first and taking matters over from there on in.

In the preliminary affair, the Bethel girls defeated the visitors in another wide-margin game, 48-23. Halftime saw the victors leave the floor with a safe 28-14 advantage.

For the boys, two Bethel teammates tied for high score. Forward Fred Keel and center John Nelson scored 18 points apiece, edging the losers' Bill Tucker who pushed in 16 points for his mates.

High scorer for the girls was Mary Ella Moore, way out in front with 27 points. No one was close to her in point-making. Peggy Batchelor was second with 12 points. For Grimesland, forward Hodges scored 11 points, followed by Daniels with eight.

Next game for the Indians is with the league-leading Ayden team Friday night in a battle played there.

Eppes Hoopsters Split Twin Bill Against Tarboro

Eppes high school basketball teams split a doubleheader with Tarboro last night, the boys beating the visitors by 40-33 and the girls losing 15-14.

High scorer for the locals was Dayton Howard for the boys with 15 points. George Merritt, who scored the first goal of the game, was runnerup with nine.

Johnnie Lee Cherry was high scorer for the girls, getting almost all of her losing team's points with 11 for the night.

Low-Scoring Games For Weekend Play

The Pitt County Interscholastic Association basketball games over the weekend provided some low-scoring encounters: Girls' games—New Bern 8, Farmville 7; Ayden 18, Winterville 13. Boys' games—Farmville 20, New Bern 16; Ayden 25, Winterville 23.

Listens To Father

East Lansing, Mich.—(P)—"The best college football prospect in the state" is what grid observers call ranga Jack Edwards, star end of the East Lansing high school team. He comes by his ability naturally, for his father, Earle Edwards, is end coach for Michigan State. Chances are he'll be showing his wares with the Spartans soon.

Rough Sailing Ahead

Hanover, N. H.—(P)—Dartmouth football coach Tuss McLaughry is having long range nightmares these days. "I shudder whenever I think about scheduling Army for that four game series that starts in 1951," he says.

TO MANAGE TEAM

Winston-Salem, Jan. 18—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals announced today that George M. Kissel had been selected to manage the Winston-Salem Cardinals in the 1950 Carolina League race.

Belvoir Bows To Grifton Rivals

Belvoir, Jan. 18—Both Belvoir basketball clubs lost last night as Grifton took the count of the boys and girls, the first game by a score of 32-26, and the finale, 31-21.

The boys went down to their seventh defeat against a lone win as they bowed to their Grifton high school rivals in what was at one time a fairly close ball game.

The visitors at halftime held an uneasy 17-13 lead but pulled away toward the end of the third period by 13 points, their largest margin of the evening. The locals narrowed it to ten points midway of the last quarter but could never get closer than that.

The girls' game saw the visitors holding a substantial 17-9 halftime lead. The local misses scored two more points in the last half than did their opponents but didn't have enough punch to put over a win.

Leading the team's scoring was Jean Jones with 13 points. For Grifton the high scorer was Nell Mumford with 10. Irma Jones for the locals and Aileen Jones of Grifton were their teams' leading defensive players.

High scorer for the boys was Leroy Morris, a forward, with six points. Rex Lewis, a guard for the visitors, was high man for the night with 10.

Next game for Belvoir is with West Edgecombe there tonight.

Paid Off $3,230 In Daily Double

Oldsmar, Fla., Jan. 18—(AP)—Fans at Sunshine Park got their racing appetites whetted yesterday with a daily double that paid off $3,230.

Only one ticket holder, a Washington, D.C., man, had the right combination. This same man, said track officials, was one of the four holders of a $728.20 daily double the preceding day.

Ike Williams To Fight On Friday

Chicago, Jan. 18—(AP)—Ike Williams, lightweight boxing champion, and Johnny Bratton of Chicago are to finish drills today for their 10 round bout in Chicago Stadium Friday night.

Bratton, with six straight knock-outs to his credit, says he is confident he can avenge two previous defeats by Williams early in his career.

The latest odds in Chicago install Williams an 8-5 favorite.

Rough Sailing Ahead

Hanover, N. H.—(P)—Dartmouth football coach Tuss McLaughry is having long range nightmares these days. "I shudder whenever I think about scheduling Army for that four game series that starts in 1951," he says.

shouts "Value!" for all to hear!

- MOST ROOM!
- BEST RIDE!
- SAFEST!
- BIGGEST DOLLAR VALUE!

YOU DON'T have to buy an under-sized car just because you're economy-minded. For the new, lower-priced Hudson is a big, powerful car... priced for average pocket-books... styled to hold its own in the finest company!

You instantly see that it's the most beautiful of them all. Free-flowing, low-built design flashes the fact that here is the lowest center of gravity in any American automobile. And you know instinctively that, as a result, the Pacemaker hugs the road more tenaciously... and is therefore America's best-riding and safest car!

You'll see, too, that this new member of the Hudson family has full road clearance, and more head room than in any other mass-produced car built today, thanks to "step-down" design with its recessed floor. And amazing head room is only one kind of interior spaciousness you'll find in the new Pacemaker. "Step-down" design gives you more space because it gives you new space that is wasted in other makes of cars. With normal outside width, this compact automobile brings you seat cushions that are up to 12 inches wider than those in cars of far greater outside dimensions!

And for dazzling get-up-and-go, there's the new high-compression Pacemaker engine—a lightning-like performer with saving ways!

Chapter 18

The others were dismounting, and the now bright moonlight showed things with pitiless clarity. Valse looked at them, startled, his hand moving toward his own gun as he saw their hostility. But he checked it, for there were guns on him already, and to make a false move was to die.

"Bushwackin'!" Rudd growled. "Shot in the back!" He reached out suddenly, jerked Valse's gun from the holster, and broke it open. The newly fired, still pungent shell was there, and Rudd flipped it out to the palm of his hand for the others to see.

"That clinches it," one of them growled, and spat. "String him up!" "Hold on, Rudd," Valse protested. "I didn't shoot him. It was an Indian who downed him, and I was shootin' at him."

He got no farther. Two of them had grabbed him from behind, by either arm. While he struggled, desperate but nearly helpless, to break loose, Rudd, bitter animosity blazing in his eyes, hit him full on the mouth—a savage blow which whipped his head back, bruising his lips, dazing him. A gun-barrel in the hands of one of the others, wielded as a club, smashed down on his skull at the same moment.

The sight of the gun-barrel gashed his skin; the crash of the barrel seemed to cause something to explode inside Valse's head. He slumped in the grip of the pair who held him, knees buckling, head a fiery ball of pain. He appeared to be out cold, and was nearly so.

Someone got a grip on his collar, dragging him like a sack across the grass toward the trees. There was one which stood out from the others, apart in the open meadow, a giant, limbless for the first twenty feet, then with a big, gnarled limb thrusting out. Two lariet ropes were being tied together, then the end slung over this limb.

Valse's own horse was brought and held in place, for it was a little skittish about the whole proceeding. But Rudd was slow now to give the order to lift Valse into the saddle. Fury had shaken him at the beginning—the anger that any man feels at such a discovery as bushwack murder, and a greater passion which he had hardly understood.

Now that the first gust of it was past, he could think again, and Rudd's mind was in turmoil. For he knew now that this man they were preparing to hang was Trib Valse. It was the certainty of that, he knew, which had roused the old hatred in him to such an extent, and he was honest enough to realize that it was chiefly that hate, and not this other thing, that made him so desperately anxious to take his revenge upon him.

To hang a man for bushwack murder was logical and right. But was he doing it for that, or to satisfy his own ancient craving to kill an enemy?

Four of his five men had stuck to the business in hand, without deviation. The fifth had taken no active part in it. Instead, he had swung back onto his horse and proceeded to make a slow circle of the meadow. Now he returned, looking down on the rest of them.

"Didn't he say that an Injun shot him?" he asked.

"You believin' any of that stuff?" Rudd asked scornfully.

"Yeah, reckon mebbe I am," the puncher nodded. "I found where somebody'd been, just inside the trees over there—where he stood to shoot, looks like."

"This hombre here, likely," one of the others interjected.

"Nope." He spat out the frayed pine needle. "The killer, he come out into the open afterward, then turned tail and run. But I found a spatter of blood along his trail. Looks to me like mebbe this feller did shoot him, like he said—winged him. He got away—the Injun, or whoever he was."

There was silence for a moment, after this dispassionate summation. Rudd's nature was in conflict. He stared, his face still flushed, but he knew that he had already made a decision. He flung out an arm angrily.

"Put him on his horse," he ordered. "Take off that rope. We'll give him a chance to talk, and see about that blood. If he did it, we can still string him up later."

"Thanks for givin' me a chance, Rudd," Trib mumbled. "As for Forrescue—he was over at the 84 for supper. Told everybody there that I was Trib Valse. You can ask any of 'em, includin' Miss Daniels. Think I'd kill a man after that?"

"That's your story, eh? Well, we'll check—and if it don't work out, there'll be plenty other hands anxious to pull on the rope that strings you up. Till that's proved, we ain't takin' no chances. We'll take you into town."

He was lifted into his own saddle, dirty and disheveled, his hands still tied behind his back.

The old animosity in Rudd was too strong to order him to be untied, despite the torment of the flies. With the others, he rode across the meadow to have a look at the spatter of blood. Rudd listened to what Valse had to say. His only response was a grunt, and then he turned and led the way toward town.

It was mid-forenoon when they came in sight of Lundeen's. Valse had not known, and Rudd, engrossed in his own not too pleasant thoughts, had completely forgotten, the hour fixed for the wedding—that it had been set for ten o'clock in the morning, here at the little church.

A considerable crowd of holiday-attired men and women had arrived, and were still coming. Since there was no regular preacher, one had just arrived from another town and dismounted, was still fumbling in his saddle-bags for his Bible.

Valse saw that, and then, looking handsome but a little apprehensive as his eyes swept over them, he saw Armin Zachary himself.

A lady looked up and saw the little cavalcade. She screamed, and others turned to look, and the face of Zachary went bloodless.

HOTTEST ENGINE NEWS of 1950

That's the word spreading about Buick's brand-new F-263 valve-in-head engine, already proving itself in the hands of new SUPER owners service easier, so upkeep diminishes as a problem. Hydraulic valve-lifters keep valves properly seated for efficient operation — and for quiet unbroken by tappet noise.

And you can have this power either with Buick's easy-shifting Synchro-Mesh transmission or the silken luxury of Dynaflow Drive.*

Either way, this SUPER is certainly something to see. To this top-notch new power it adds style and room, comfort and a wide outlook, soft easy stride and handier new over-all length.

Even the price justifies a prompt trip to your Buick dealer to learn more about Buick for 1950. You'll soon see why so many folks are already saying, "Whatever your price range—better buy Buick!"

CALL it if you will the biggest power-story of the year. Call it another triumph in Buick's long history of coming up with car performance beyond compare.

But, sir, when you step into the sleek-lined traveler pictured here — hang on to your hat.

For you'll be riding behind a power plant that is not only new but a major sensation of the 1950 season.

You'll be commanding the very latest word in valve-in-head power—the newest accomplishment of the organization with the country's longest stretch of experience in this engine design.

Here every fist-size fuel charge now delivers a huskier wallop. Shorter, lighter connecting rods mean that pistons flash with faster and livelier action.

Heavier cranks shafts, floated on bigger, more rugged bearings, take this greater load and transmit its stepped-up surge to the drive shaft and rear wheels.

And you, behind the wheel, wreath your face in smiles at the lift you find! At the trigger-quick take-off — the mile-eating cruising stride — your easy disdain for the passing gas pumps.

You and your SUPER are really stepping out — and Buick's good name as "a sweetheart on the road" gains still more lustre.

Nor is road-thrill the only blessing this new power plant brings. Simpler design makes

Bonner Speaks To Alumni Of ECTC In Washington

Washington, Jan. 18.—The United States should give assistance to the Tito government of Yugoslavia in its resistance to Russia, Rep. Herbert C. Bonner said pointing out Tito's harsh words to Stalin. "It would be well for us to help the Tito government as we are now helping the other European nations in the fight against Communism."

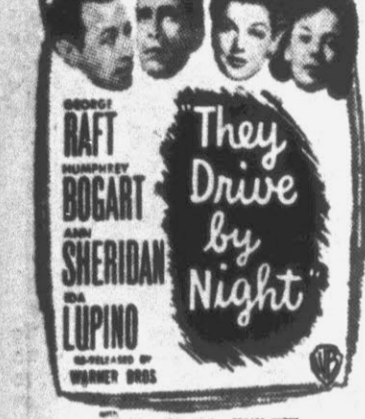

The First District congressman told some 40 ECTC alumni he had talked with Tito on his trip abroad last year. "At that time," Bonner said, "he told us he had definitely broken with Stalin and I believe him."

Bonner was the principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the Washington, D.C. chapter of the alumni association held at the Fairfax Hotel. He covered briefly the trip made by him and other members of the House Expenditures Committee in Europe in November and December.

Four Injured In Traffic Accident

Four persons narrowly escaped possible death in an accident last night around 9:30 when a car skidded out of control, went off the road and rammied into a railroad crossing sign, about a mile from Greenville on the Bethel highway.

Investigating officer, State Highway Patrolman D. E. Perry, of Bethel, said that the post of the crossing sign was half way into the side of the car. Perry described the car as being a total loss.

The car was operated by Edward Earl Bright, age 17, Route 3, Aiden, who stated to the patrolman that he was traveling at approximately 50-55 miles per hour, when the car skidded on the highway, went off the side of road and struck the crossing sign. Bright suffered lacerations of the left knee, cuts about the lips, and a fractured nose.

Three other persons in the car who were injured were: Webster Gray Bird, age 16, of Route 3, Aiden, who was admitted to the hospital with lacerations about the face, and a brain concussion; Emma Rosche, 18, of Route 2, Aiden, who was seated in the back seat of the car received a shoulder injury, and lacerations of her forehead. Sarah Jane Rosche, 16, of Aiden, suffered minor cuts and bruises.

The four occupants of the car were taken to the Pitt General Hospital by a passing motorist, who arrived on the scene soon after the wreck.

No charges will be brought against the driver of the car, it was reported.

Labor Party In Pledge Of New Nationalization

London, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Prime Minister Attlee's Labor Party today promised to keep Britain on its special course with new Nationalization of industry and continued rationing and price controls—if laborites retain power in the Feb. 23 elections.

The pledges were made in a 6,000 word manifesto containing the campaign platform of the Socialist-minded party.

Principal aim of the labor program, said the manifesto, was full employment.

The policy declaration sharply rapped Winston Churchill's conservative party, which is bigging for reinstatement on the promise of steering the country out of Socialist waters back to free enterprise.

Polish Delegate To UN Resigns Over Walkouts

Lake Success, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Alexander Rudzinski, one of the Soviet bloc delegates who walked out of a United Nations committee Monday in a general demonstration against Nationalist China, has resigned from the Polish delegation as a protest against the walkout.

The walkout was part of a Russian campaign to have the U. N. kick out Nationalist Chinese delegates.

His resignation was disclosed in a letter to Secretary of State Dean Acheson, dated Monday. A copy of the letter was obtained by the Associated Press.

In his letter to Acheson, Rudzinski asked the United States to grant asylum for himself and his wife, Marta Anna. He asked the right to remain in the United States—"A country whose devotion to the cause of freedom I learned to admire," he said.

Lodge Has Large Statue Erected

Alexandria, Va.—(AP)—A 17 foot bronze statue of George Washington has been erected in the George Washington Masonic Memorial.

It cost $90,000 and it took the sculptor, Bryant Baker of New York two years. It is the gift of the Order of DeMolay, a Masonic youth organization.

The statue depicts Washington with hat in hand preparing to open a meeting of his old Masonic lodge in Alexandria.

Negro Farm News

While the new year is still in its infancy we find that we have plenty of time to make plans for the year, even though we failed in some of our efforts last year, let us be happy that we have another chance.

Nothing can be done well without first making plans. In making your plans for the year be sure to insert in them in time to pray, a time to lay aside every thing and be happy, "a merry heart doeth good like a medicine," also a time to sing. The old hymns have furnished the inspiration which has carried legions of men and women through danger and despair. God's music never dies. Plan to do more work and talk less. Plan to raise more food and feed, grow more hogs and chickens.

A farm management school was held in the Agricultural building January 11 by Extension specialists from State College Station—N. R. Zachary, district farm agent, Greensboro, M. S. Williams and C. E. Clark, farm management specialist, State College Station, Raleigh—to get farmers in shape to do better farming in 1950. It was very gratifying to see the appreciation (of this school) on the faces of the farmers who came from the rural district to get information to take back to their respective communities.

It must be remembered that more farm machinery rusts out than wears out. A shed that keeps rain or snow from the machinery longer life. Now is a good time to repair, polish and paint up all worn out machinery and get it ready for use. Check them over and find their needs. A breakdown in a busy season is a handicap. Keep salt before the livestock winter and summer. Cattle need salt. It should be kept around hay stacks and watering places.

This month in the Pactolus community one will find a group of 4-H club boys questioning James Smith, Route 5, Greenville, how he grew 107 bushels of corn on one acre of land, and James did not work hard. They will also ask James why he is the only Negro boy from Pitt county who will go to A. and T. College March 3 to join the 100 Bushel Club. James' answer will be "It was in my 1949 plans." James will also tell them that he is to be presented $10 cash prize by the Negro County Agent at the Agricultural council meeting February 18.

Get ready to set fruit trees, plant a few rows of mustard, a row or two of onions and several rows of cabbage this month. Plan to attend

The legion came back into the news last June when an American spy Catalina aircraft was destroyed at Luperon, on the north coast of the Dominican republic, after those aboard tried to unload munition. All 15 aboard were either killed or captured, including three Americans.

Meantime two Mexican and two Guatemalan planes were reported by the state department to have landed at Yucatan, Mexico, where they disembarked some fifty armed persons. The Dominican republic charged the legion with plotting an air-drone invasion of the country to overthrow President Rafael Trujillo.

In January 1948 a plot involving citizens from four countries aimed at bombing Caracas, the capital of Venezuela, was broken up. At about the same time Costa Rica was fighting off rebels that had invaded the country from neighboring Nicaragua.

House Rules ...

Well, the majority of the men in Congress decided they'd take that kind of power away from the Rules committee, and the House established a new rule. This was it:

If the rules committee has sat on a bill for 21 days, it can be called up in the House anyway. The rules committee can't stop it. This gives 435 members a chance to decide whether they want to pass the bill. That's what happened in 1949.

But now suddenly a majority of the rules committee—Southern Democrats teaming up with Republicans—want their old power back.

They voted the other day to ask the full House to vote this year on whether the rules committee can have back its old power to sit on

Now...Just Lift a Lever and Go!

It's a New driving thrill in the 1950 Nash Ambassador!

Want to know the last word in effortless driving? Selecto-Lift Starting is here—combined with Hydra-Matic Drive, in the 1950 Nash Ambassador! Simply lift a lever and go! There isn't a clutch pedal—not even a starter button! Drive all day without shifting gears!

And here's the thrill of America's top high compression engine that uses regular gasoline—a Nash Ambassador development. You've never known such performance and gasoline mileage in a fine car before. Or such quietness—for Airflyte design cuts through the wind with 20.7% less air drag than the average of all current cars tested.

And no other fine car can match the comfort and luxury of the Nash Ambassador, with its Airliner Reclining Seat, its Weather Eye Conditioned Air System, its Twin-Bed spaciousness, and the rigidity and lasting silence of Airflyte Construction. Every way you look at it, here is the most modern of fine cars, yet the price of a Nash Ambassador, even a Custom model regally tailored to your order—is as much as a thousand dollars less than cars of comparable size and quality would cost you! See your Nash dealer, and compare!

ONLY NASH AMBASSADOR OWNERS ENJOY ALL THESE FINE-CAR FEATURES Turbo-head high-compression engine—now 7.3 to 1. The only American engine with 7-bearing, 100% counter-balanced crankshaft. Uses regular gasoline. Automatic weather eye. Fresh air ventilation and heat control. You never have dust, or know cold. Twin beds for luxurious sleeping-car comfort at night or so that one passenger may rest while his partner drives. Airflyte construction. In Nash the entire frame and body, floor and roof are welded into one super-strong unit, squeak-free, rattle-proof. Twice as rigid.
